Hornets Sting Mules 34-3

It was a long cold windy night for the Muleshoe Mules as they tangled with the Tulia Hornets Friday night on the Hornets home field. The Hornets defeated the Mules 34-3.

The Mules received the opening kick off and put the ball into play on their own 28 yard line only to lose it on downs after four plays. On their first possession of the ball both teams ran into trouble moving the ball.

In the first quarter Muleshoe picked up four first downs. Tulia didn't pick up any. Early in the second quarter, Padro Nunez kicked a 30 yard field goal, giving the Mules a 3-0 lead over the Hornets.

On the Hornets next possession of the ball, they picked up two first downs before making it into the endzone with 7:28 left in the half. The point after kick was good and the Tulia Hornets led 7-3 over the Mules.

The Mules were unable to move the ball on their next possession and were forced to punt it to Tulia.

Tulia picked up two more first downs before hitting pay dirt once again with 2:48 left in the half.

The point after kick was no good and the Tulia Hornets led on the scoreboard 13-3 over the Mules.

The Mules continued to have trouble moving the ball and were forced to punt it back to Tulia.

Tulia picked up four more first downs before time ran out on the clock. At half time the score stood Tulia 13-Mules 3.

Muleshoe received the opening kickoff in the second half, only to punt it back to Tulia. Three plays later a Hornet made it into the endzone only to have it called back due to a penalty down field. The Hornets were forced to punt the ball back to the Mules.

With 6:30 left in the quarter, the Hornets made it into the endzone again. The point after kick was good and the Hornets led 20-3 on the scoreboard.

On their next possession of the ball, the Mules put the ball into play on their own eight yard line and were forced to punt back the Hornets -four plays later.

With 4:02 left in the quarter, Tulia hit pay dirt again. The point after kick was good and Tulia led 27-3 on the score-board.

The Hornets kicked the ball back to the Mules and once again the Mules were unable to move the ball. They were forced to punt the ball away four plays later.

Tulia picked up a first down before making it into the endzone with 1:49 left in the quarter. The point after kick was good and Tulia led on the scoreboard 34-3.

The Mules fumbled the ball, on their next possession, and Tulia came up with it on the Mules 18 yard line. This time the Mules were able to hold the Hornets and as the third quarter drew to a close the Mules took over on downs.

The ball see-sawed back and forth neither team being able to move the ball until the clock showed

CHAPTER 255. REGULATING POLITICAL ADVERTISING AND CAMPAIGN COMMUNICATIONS

Sec. 255.001. Required disclosure on political advertising. (a) A person may not knowingly enter into a contract or other agreement to print, publish, or broadcast political advertising that does not indicate in the advertising:

- (1) that it is political advertising;
- (2) the full name of either the individual who personally entered into the contract or agreement with the printer, publisher, or broadcaster or the person that individual represents; and
- (3) in the case of advertising that is printed or published, the address of either the individual who personally entered into the agreement with the printer or publisher or the person that individual represents.

(b) This section does not apply to tickets or invitations to political fund-raising events or to campaign buttons, pins, hats, or similar campaign materials.

(c) A person who violates this section commits an offense. An offense under this section is a Class A misdemeanor.

Heart Disease Program Presented At Rotary

At the noon meeting of the Muleshoe Rotary Club, after the enticing meal prepared by Jackie Denham, assisted by Lori Hall, the meeting was opened by President David Tipps. Curtis Shelburne gave the prayer, and George Nieman led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag. Acting as song leader, in the absence of Terry Hutto, was Curtis Shelburne leading the singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Smile-Sing a Song".

Cindy Purdy was welcomed as the only visitor.

Business was discussed, and Bill Moore brought forth the business of the school employee garage sale to be held the High School cafeteria on Friday, November 5. The proceeds will go to a fund to meet the needs for some children that have needs such as winter clothing (coats, etc.). The Rotary Club was asked to distribute the items to the needy children, and approved.

The Christmas parade was discussed, which will curtail a night time parade, and floats with lights. The Rotary club voted to make a float to enter in the parade.

Randy Field held the program for the meeting, introducing the American Heart Association as the program. Leaflets were passed out, with valuable information pertaining to heart disease, and a film was shown on cholesterol, better known as the "partner to a silent killer". To reduce your risk factors for heart attack, the American Heart Association sug-

16 Amendments To Be On Ballot Tuesday

Texans for Prop. 16 launched a statewide campaign to pass Proposition 16 on the November ballot.

Proposition 16, the last amendment appearing on the November ballot, adds $75 million in funding to the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority (TAF). TAF is a highly successful "jobs creation" program originally approved by voters in 1989 with an initial fund of $25 million.

"Expanding the TAF guaranteed loan program could create as many as 14,000 new jobs for Texans and pump billions of dollars into our economy--dollars which now go to other states and foreign countries," said Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

Although Texas leads the nation in production of many agricultural products, we lag behind other states in processing these raw products. Historically, leading institutions have been hesitant to grant loans to individuals and companies with "good ideas" but little capital to finance their vision. Through private-public partnerships, TAF works with leading institutions throughout Texas to help agricultural processing and production businesses receive financing--providing guaranties of up to 90 percent to qualified businesses.

"I support this program because it's for the common man," said Earl Campbell, former Houston Oilers. Campbell's food products company purchases many of their products from TAF guaranteed loan recipient J&B Sausage Co. in Waukegan.

TAF's financing is developed through the use of commercial paper. Commercial paper funding is unique because it allows money to be accessed on an "as needed" basis, eliminating a negative arbitrage for the program. TAF is a self-sufficient financing program, which generates revenue for the fund as the loans are repaid.

TAF is not a give-away program, it is an economic development/jobs program. By guarantying 34 loans since 1991, the program has created (or saved) more than 1,400 direct jobs and

Local School District To Host Garage Sale

The employees of Muleshoe I.S.D. are joining forces to host a garage sale at the high school cafeteria on Saturday, November 6, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. All proceeds from the sale will be used to help students with assistance in getting warm clothing in order to come to school. The funds raised will be overseen by a committee of representatives from each campus.

All funds will be spent with local merchants, many of whom have offered discounts to support the project. Also assisting in the project will be the Muleshoe Rotary Club. The Rotary Club will help set up by transporting goods from the campuses to the cafeteria on the day before the sale. All items in the sale are going to be priced to sell, and there will be many great buys. Cash contributions will also be accepted! Also included in the sale will be some surplus items from the school warehouse such as twelve electric typewriters ($20 each) and a Canon copier ($75). Proceeds from the sale of these items will go to the district. Everyone is encouraged to go early and get the best buys. See you on November 6.

Election to decide 16 amendments

Amendments cover topics from state income taxes to bond issues

Amendment No. 1

Authorizes the Legislature to issue up to $50 million in bonds to aid in the start-up costs of a "historically underutilized" business, such as those owned by women and minorities.

Pros: By encouraging women and minority-owned businesses, passage of the amendment could provide a source of start-up capital to help eliminate economic disparities between businesses.

Cons: The amendment may be unnecessary because efforts are already under way to aid disadvantaged businesses. The state already administers the federally-funded Small and Minority Business Program, and state agencies are asked to award at least 30 percent of their contracts to underutilized businesses.

Amendment No. 2

Permits the Legislature to exempt businesses from property taxation on property used for pollution control.

Pros: The amendment might promote voluntary compliance with environmental regulations. The property exemptions could help preserve jobs and encourage businesses to stay in Texas.

Cons: The exemption could shift the tax burden away from businesses to other taxpayers. It might eventually lead to a loss of huge revenue for counties. Whether or not the exemption is given, businesses are still required by law to comply.

Amendment No. 3

Relinquishes the state's claim to part of Mexican land-grant property in Fort Bend and Austin Counties.

Pros: The amendment would resolve a current conflict and would save the state an expensive court fight.

Cons: This amendment would result in future lost revenue, although small, for the Permanent School Fund.

Amendment No. 4

Requires voter approval for a statewide personal income tax; if such a tax is created, it would provide for property-tax relief and benefit education.

Pros: The amendment allows the people of Texas to have a direct say on state income tax; it allows them to vote for or against a state income tax if one is passed in the future. The mandatory dedication of income-tax revenue to property-tax relief and education attempts to ensure that the use of income tax proceeds would be tightly controlled.

Cons: Approval of this amendment could create the false impression that a state income tax has been constitutionally prohibited. In reality, the amendment allows a simple majority of the Legislature and two-thirds of the voters to enact a state income tax. It would allow lawmakers who pass a state income tax to say they are voting for a referendum rather than the tax itself.

Amendment No. 5

Allows the Legislature to prescribe the qualifications of sheriffs.

Pros: Texas law currently sets no minimum qualifications for a sheriff, whereas constables and deputy sheriffs are both required by state law to be licensed as peace officers. This amendment would require the highest law enforcement officer in a county to be subject to requirements determined by the Legislature.

Cons: A county's voters decide in the elections for sheriff whether a candidate is qualified. If the Legislature determines qualifications, it could limit the number of candidates qualified to serve.

Amendment No. 6

Abolishes the elected office of county surveyor in Jackson County.

Pros: The position of county surveyor in Jackson County is archaic and has not been filled since 1988.

Cons: The trend toward abolishing county office could erode the foundation of independent county government.

Amendment No. 7

Repeals constitutional requirements of corporations for issuing stocks and bonds.

Pros: Current limitations on corporations selling stocks and bonds are archaic; they were created in response to a stock selling scandal in 1868. The abuses this law was trying to prevent are now thoroughly regulated by state and federal securities legislation. Passage of this amendment would make it easier for Texas corporations to raise capital.

Cons: The constitutional requirements prevent shady business practices. Opponents of the proposition say their repeal would add little to the ability of corporations to raise capital.

Amendment No. 8

Abolishes the elected office of county surveyor in McLennan County.

Pros: McLennan County has not had a county surveyor in four years and the office is archaic.

Cons: The trend toward abolishing county office could erode the foundation of independent county government.

Amendment No. 9

Limits the time to redeem property sold at a tax sale from two years to six months.

Pros: This amendment would possibly promote the sale of abandoned and vacant property offered for sale to settle tax debts. Purchasers would only have to wait six months for the previous owner to redeem the property.

Cons: Passage of this proposition would make it difficult for people who fall behind on their property taxes because of financial difficulties to redeem their property if they only have six months.

Amendment No. 10

Authorizes the Veterans' Land Board to issue $750 million in bonds.

Pros: This amendment would put a large amount of money into the veterans' housing and land programs, satisfying projected demand without costing taxpayers additional money.

Cons: This amendment authorizes the large amount of money for one special group, and adds to the state debt. Veterans already receive generous benefits from the state and federal governments.

Amendment No. 11

Specifies responsibilities and requirements for the local public pension systems that do not belong to the state's two major retirement systems.

Pros: This amendment gives blanket constitutional protection to all public pension funds that have not affiliated with a statewide system and averts future questions or misunderstandings.

Cons: This amendment might tip the balance in favor of the pension systems by giving the boards of trustees too much autonomy.

Amendment No. 12

Authorizes a judge to deny bail to a person accused of certain violent or sexual offenses committed while on parole or probation.

Pros: This proposition would keep repeat offenders locked up until trial for the protection of the public.

Cons: This amendment creates an exception to the tenet that a person is innocent until proven guilty.

Amendment No. 13

Adds the Texas State Technical College to the list of institutions that are eligible for the Higher Education Assistance Fund.

Pros: Texas State Technical College has no tax base and receives no help from a constitutional fund. Funds from HEAF would provide it with a steady source of needed income.

Cons: The college could continue to receive expenditures through the appropriations process on an as-needed basis rather than divert HEAF funds.

Amendment No. 14

Authorizes $1 billion in bonds for prisons and mental-health facilities.

Pros: This proposition would help meet future construction needs of the corrections and mental health and mental retardation facilities.

Cons: This amendment is an attempt to lessen the prison capacity crisis, but it will create another state debt for future generations.

Amendment No. 15

Allows local rather than statewide elections to abolish the elected office of county surveyor.

Pros: This proposition would allow each county to decide individually whether to retain the elected office of county surveyor. This would reduce the cost of statewide elections on this issue.

Cons: This amendment encourages the trend toward abolishing the county surveyor's office and threatens independent county government.

Amendment No. 16

Authorizes $75 million in bonds for agricultural business loans. Increases — from $25 million to $100 million — the amount of state general obligation bonds authorized for the Texas agricultural loan program and allows the agricultural loan program and rural micro-enterprise development program to issue notes as well as bonds.

Pros: This proposition would provide a needed injection of capital to help the state preserve its agricultural economy. It would increase the value to Texas' raw products and help preserve Texas farms and ranches.

Cons: This proposition would just add to the state debt. If borrowers default on the loans, taxpayers could be the ones with the burden of repayment.

If you're thinking that crack is something to try, then you're really not thinking at all. It's an inexpensive form of cocaine that's unpredictable, highly addictive and very deadly. In fact, you could die from just one time's use, and if you do live through the experience, you'll more than likely be addicted. That's the nature of it. Make the mistake of trying crack just once, and you'd be making the mistake of your life. Maybe it's time to realize that drugs are not what they're cracked up to be. Only a clown would fall for crack.

What Can Your Child Learn From Other Children?

Their Teachings May Be Habit Forming

Social life can be a difficult part of growing up for kids today. They feel they have to do what everybody else is doing just to fit in.

That's often how drug use begins. Your kid does something because "everybody's doing it."

Many drug users teach others to do what they do so they have social contacts, "drinking buddies."

It's a good possibility someone has offered your child drugs, even in elementary school.

Ask your children if they know of anybody who uses drugs and they're likely to say yes. While you're at it, ask them if they've ever been offered drugs or used them themselves.

Don't be shocked by their answers. Talk with them honestly and tell them how you feel about drugs. Learn more about what they do with other kids. Try not to lecture.

Effective communication is the only way to counteract the influence of "everybody else." Drugs may be a hard subject to bring up, but the future of your children makes it well worth the effort.

Sales Rep Receives Honors At National Convention In Houston

Louvenia Garlington was honored recently at the National BeautyControl Conference in Houston, TX. She was recognized as a charter Unit Manager (a new management level in the BeautyControl career plan) and also as a Director with BeautyControl Cosmetics.

BeautyControl has been recognized by BUSINESS WEEK, FORBES AND INC. magazines as one of the best and fastest growing companies in North America. Chairman of the Board, Jinger Heath, was recently named one of "America's Top 50 Women Business Owners", by WORKING WOMAN magazine. BeautyControl has approximately 35,000 Skin Care & Image Consultants in the U.S. & Canada and reported sales in excess of $60 million at the end of fiscal 1992.

BeautyControl, a direct seller is based in Carrollton, TX. It was founded by husband-wife team of Dick and Jinger Heath. The company has part time and full-time consultants. In the management area there are 400 Sales Directors who have the responsibility for about 60 reps each.

Louvenia is very proud to be one of these Sales Directors. At this time she has about 45 consultants in her personal unit. She has consultants in Muleshoe, Sudan, Earth, Friona, Clovis, Portales and Lubbock as well as in Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Georgia, South Carolina and other parts of Texas.

Louvenia says she has one of the most rewarding careers ever and thoroughly enjoys her consultants and clients. "They are all the greatest! We are truly a people helping business. In fact, the theme adopted by BeautyControl this year has been WHO-Women Helping Others."

Basically what we do is teach women head-to-toe Image Enhancement. We help build confidence by individualizing a woman's image and enhancing her best assets. We offer complimentary color analysis, body type and facial shape analysis. We carry fashions, accessories, fragrance, color-coded cosmetics, skin care and nail care. We have an exclusive patent on the skin sensors to accurately pinpoint a person's skin type. Consultants in other companies work with a woman from the neck up. We start at the top of her head and work all the way down. We believe all women are beautiful and that beauty is what you do with what you have. That is where our role comes in--teaching them about the beauty they have and finding their best assets. Every woman needs to feel beautiful! We have also added a gift basket service customized for that special or hard-to-buy-for person. We will deliver these. Louvenia was awarded a company car--a 1993 Oldsmobile Achieva--in July for achieving the level of Sales Director with the company. She has been in business now for 8 years. She is married to Loyd Garlington and they have two sons, Chad, a student at Texas Tech, and Chase, a student at South Plains College in Levelland. They both reside in Lubbock, TX.

Kenneth Don Price

Jason and Carrol Price of Muleshoe wish to announce the birth of their newborn son, Kenneth Don, born October 21, 1993 in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Kenneth weighed 8 pounds and 21 1/4 inches long at birth.

He has one sister, Jessica. Maternal grandparents are Jimmy and Myra Copley of Muleshoe.

Paternal grandparents are Kenneth Price of Muleshoe and David and Paula Stevenson of Roswell, NM.

Great-grandparents are J.R. and Ella Copley of Muleshoe; Cliff and Ellen Adair of Balco, OK; Ruben Price of Muleshoe; and Irene Jones of Roswell, NM.

Senior Citizens Meet

Senior Citizens met in the Old Depot on Oct. 25th for their covered dish lunch. Mr. Buster Kittrell offered the blessing. Everyone enjoyed a very good lunch and fellowship.

Margaret Collins introduced "Pappy" Old Time Band from Clovis, N.M. We all enjoyed their music and singing. Pappy let his puppet animals dance some for us. Old Henry was quite a bad looking something with his red toe nails. Pappy made him dance for us.

Sang happy birthday to Maud Sowder and Lester Howard.

We will meet next time on Nov. 15th for our Thanksgiving dinner. Wanda Kittrell will cook the turkey for us.

Lou Knowles read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report. (approved)

We had 5 visitors: Rod Mullins, Pappy Thorton, Harold Fletcher, Helen Davis and Ava Mullins and all members of the band. We had 28 present.

Dismissed by Clara Coffman.

by Ina Wilemon

This Tuesday evening, October 26, 1993 so many members brought food, which was enjoyed by all.

N.G. Mary Ann Ramirez opened lodge. Our secretary, June Green read the reading of the last meeting and roll call of fifteen members present. June also had a few letters to read.

Mary Ann said her mother might be a little better. Betty Vansandt reported on her dad. He had, surgery on both knees. One knee was doing very well, but looks like the other one would have to have more surgery. Doris and Les Lambert were back with us. Les still not feeling too well. They reported his mother, Faye, after having two surgeries would take several days in the hospital. Other members in the hospital were home and doing fairly well. May each and everyone of you be much better.

We are getting ready for our "Annual Thanksgiving Dinner" at the Lodge Hall, 308 W. 2nd. on November 4, at 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Watch for the children and have a happy and safe Halloween.

November birthdays are Frances Stevens, Doris Lambert, Bernice Holdeman, Imogene Cole, Mildred Meeks, Mildred Kendricks.

SCAC Meets

SCAC held its monthly meeting on October 25, 1993 at Jeanne Cox's home. The meeting was called to order by Stephanie Quintana and Mason Conklin gave the prayer. Emily Harris read the minutes from the last meeting. Mrs. Milburn gave the treasurer's report. Currently, the club has collected $53.00 in dues and a $60.00 foam mattress was purchased for the little girl's room at the Jane's Ranch House. Guests at the meeting were Starla Ellis, Pat Watson, and W.T. Watson. Starla proposed an opportunity for the club to participate in the Muleshoe Toy Project. The club would help wrap and gather toys to distribute to unfortunate families in our community for Christmas. Pat Watson was named citizens of the month for October. She is honored as being Regional Teacher of the Year. She spoke about three important qualities in a leader: honesty, humility, and humanity.

The fund raiser committee discussed a few different ideas to raise money for the club. Among these thoughts were window washing, bake sales, a car wash, or a miniature golf tournament after the basketball season is over. Many members volunteered to attend the next Heritage meeting. On December 4, 1993, SCAC will assist the Heritage Foundation in hosting an Old Fashioned Christmas at the Depot. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. The next SCAC meeting will be held on November 15, 1993, at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Crystal Howe.

Entries Taken For Pageants In Lubbock

Entries are now being accepted for the Little Baby Lubbock, Little Miss Lubbock, and Miss Teen Lubbock Pageants to be held Saturday, December 4, 1993 at the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Little Baby Lubbock is open to boys and girls between the ages of 0 months and 35 months. They will be judged in three different age categories and compete in photogenic and on-stage presentation. The entry fee is $30.

Little Miss Lubbock is for girls age 3-12 and will be split into four different age categories consisting of 3-4, 5-7, 8-10, and 11-12. They will be judged in interview, modeling, and talent. The entry fee is $30 for ages 3-4 and $40 for ages 5-12. Miss Photogenic can be entered for $15 and there will be one winner selected from ages 3-12.

Miss Teen Lubbock will be selected from young ladies between the ages of 13 and 17 and no more than a junior in high school. Contestants will compete in interview, swimsuit, evening gown and talent. The entry fee is $60. Miss Teen Lubbock will go to Ft. Worth in July to compete in the Miss Teen Texas Pageant.

Proceeds from the entry fees and ticket sales will go to benefit the Miss Lubbock Scholarship Pageant and Women's Protective Services.

Orientation and registration for all three pageants will be held Sunday, November 14, 1993 at 4:30 p.m. at Briercroft Academy of Dance and Gymnastics, 1901 D 50th Street, Lubbock. For more information, call 747-5850.

Voters Asked To Correct Oversight

A Fort Bend County state representative is asking the voters of Texas to correct a technical oversight and return the ownership of their land to 140 families, two churches and a school district in Fort Bend and Austin counties.

State Rep. Huey McCoulskey,

D-Rosenberg, says that when Texas voters go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 2 to consider a number of Constitutional Amendments, one of the proposed amendments, Proposition 3, will deal with state ownership in 4,428 acres in Fort Bend and Austin counties.

The land in question was part of a Mexican land grant, McCoulskey said, which was partially void under Mexican law prior to Texas becoming a republic. After Texas won its independence from Mexico, he said, all land not in private ownership reverted to the new republic.

The one-third state ownership in the 4,428 acres was discovered in 1991 during a routine title search for mineral rights. In that search, McCoulskey said, it was discovered that one of the Mexican grantees had not fulfilled ownership requirements and his rights to the land were void.

Since all state land which was not designated for other purposes was made part of the Texas Permanent School Fund in 1900, McCoulskey says that in the eyes of the state, one-third of the Austin and Fort Bend acreage has been a part of the fund for 93 years.

In March, 1992, McCoulskey said the Texas General Land Office informed the disputed land-owners of the possibility of a state claim for a one-third undivided interest in their land.

McCoulskey pointed out that Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro has not as yet officially laid claim to the land, but that he would have no option if Proposition 3 fails.

McCoulskey pointed out that the state has not claimed the land since 1824. He said the May 1993 issue of Texas Monthly asserts the state impacted more than 4,700 jobs across the state. It has created an economic benefit of almost half a billion dollars in the Texas' gross state product.

TAFSA loan guaranties have been granted to a variety emerging businesses across the state—ranging from a fish farm in Corpus Christi to a Mexican food canning operation in San Antonio to an environmentally-sensitive cotton insulation manufacturer in Post.

"To secure a sound economic future for all Texans, I encourage Texas voters to vote FOR Proposition 16 on November 2. A vote FOR Proposition 16 is a vote FOR jobs" said Perry.

even "technically purchased land from itself" for highway right-of-ways.

McCoulskey said Proposition 3 passed both houses of the legislature unanimously and approval by a simple majority of Texas voters would "instantly cure the legal deficiencies" in the land ownership.

"If Proposition 3 is rejected, it will mean complete devastation to 140 families and two church congregations and could mean a large tax increase for the patrons of the Wallis-Orchard Independent School District, which has its high school and stadium facilities on the disputed land," McCoulskey said.

"I urge all voters in the state to vote for Proposition 3," McCoulskey said.

News From the Baylor College of Medicine

A new weight control and behavioral modification program specifically designed for African-American women is being tested at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

The Black American Lifestyle Intervention (BALI) study, funded by the National Institutes of Health, is one of the first major attempts to work with blacks on long-term weight control.

"Nationally, 44 percent of African-American women age 20 and older are clinically obese. Yet, none of the weight control programs currently available has been tested for their effectiveness in minority populations," said Dr. John Foreyt, director of Baylor's Nutrition Research Clinic and principal investigator for the study.

Using a program developed from pilot studies conducted in 1992 at Baylor's DeBakey Heart Center and three other sites, the BALI study will follow 150 women for two years.

Women in the study's intervention group will follow a diet regimen that includes a twice-daily liquid meal replacement. An African-American nutritionist will provide diet and behavioral modification counseling specific to participants' ethnic needs. A series of group meetings will also provide emotional support.

Women in the control group will receive written material about eating a healthy diet and will not receive counseling or group support.

"Our earlier study showed African-American women benefited from having peers to talk to about weight control and from having a peer to help them learn how to make their lifestyles healthier without giving up important aspects of their culture," Foreyt said.

The study will begin with a 16-week program designed to achieve weight loss using a meal replacement for breakfast and lunch and a low-fat, high-fiber dinner. Participants will meet weekly for nutrition education, behavioral counseling, group support and group exercise sessions.

Following the 16 weeks, the dieting program will end and the group meetings will continue once or twice a month until the study ends.

"Our primary goal is not weight loss," Foreyt said. "We want these women to learn how to take control of their lives and of their weight, to avoid 'yo-yo' dieting and to establish life-long healthy eating and exercise habits."

Surprise Bridal Shower Held

A surprise wedding shower was held at the Catholic Center in Muleshoe on Saturday, October 24, 1993 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in honor of Anita Vasquez, bride elect of Lupe Rejino, Jr.

Refreshments of a white sheet cake with maroon embellishments, along with thumbprint cookies, mints and nuts were served from a table covered with a white lace tablecloth, adorned with an arrangement of Calli Lilies.

Special guest was mother of the bride, Abby Vasquez.

Hostesses for the occasion were Amanda Madrigal, Lola Pacheco, and Lupita Pollard.

People Can Now Eat Out "By The Book."

The book, in this case, is "The Living Heart Guide to Eating Out," a pocket-size guide to help you make healthy choices in restaurants. Its authors are Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, Dr. Antonio Gotto and Lynne Scott, R.D., of Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

The book lists the calories, fat, saturated fat and cholesterol in foods typically offered for breakfast, lunch, dinner, and snacks in American and 10 ethnic restaurants and in 22 fast-food chains.

Ethnic cuisines included are Cajun, Chinese, French, Greek and Middle Eastern, Indian, Italian, Japanese, Mexican, Thai, and Vietnamese. Fast-foods include those from Baskin-Robbins to Dairy Queen and from McDonald's to Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Also included are 160 tips on choosing foods lower in fat and sodium when eating in each type of restaurant.

"This guide is what our patients have been asking for," said Scott, director of the Diet Modification Clinic of Baylor College of Medicine and The Methodist Hospital.

The growing number of people eating out has increased public interest in selecting lower-fat restaurant foods, but we find many people have no idea what to order," Scott said.

The 155-page guide provides that information and also offers practical planning-ahead advice to restaurant diners.

* Plan ahead for fat consumption. Choose lower-fat foods for other meals and snacks on days when dining out.

* Do not skip meals in anticipation of eating out. "You will be hungrier and more likely to overeat," Scott said.

* Choose a restaurant that offers a variety of foods since more choices increase the likelihood of finding lower-fat items to order.

* Learn the food vocabulary. For example, know that "au gratin" means "with cheese" and therefore a higher-fat dish than one that is offered without a sauce.

For travelers, the guide also lists the special meals available on each airline, provides tips on how to maintain heart-healthy eating habits on a cruise ship and includes DeBakey's "Tips on Traveling".

A frequent world-traveler, DeBakey shares his strategies for decreasing jet lag. Among his suggestions are: "Sleep as much as possible on the airplane;" and "Assume the local schedule of eating and sleeping as soon as you reach your destination."

The DeBakey Heart Center is a joint program of Baylor College of Medicine and The Methodist Hospital supporting cardiovascular research, treatment, and education.

"The Living Heart Guide to Eating Out" is published by MasterMedia Limited, New York, and will be available in bookstores in late October. Retail price is $9.95.

It is also available from the Diet Modification Clinic, 6565 Fannin, Houston, TX 77030, for $9.95 plus $2 shipping and handling.

The guide's authors also collaborated on "The Living Heart Diet" and "The Living Heart Brand Name Shopper's Guide."

Owners View Home Features As Investments For Buyers

The recession may be officially over, but Americans remain guarded when it comes to purchasing big-ticket products, namely homes, state National Association of Home Builders officials at a recent convention.

Olsen offered this insight into the specific "wish list" items of key buying segments: first-time buyers watch for high ceilings, fireplaces and bay windows; move-up buyers value symbols of self-expression like circular windows; luxury buyers look for signs of value like sunrooms and French doors; singles and couples value features over space including skylights.

News From Congressman Larry Combest

U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas) today highlighted his insistence that Congress stop passing the buck and pick up the check when it dictates costly laws and regulations on local taxpayers. Combest has consistently opposed the costly impact of Washington policies on state and local governments and their taxpayers. Most recently, Combest has cosponsored "The Mandate Relief Act of 1993" (H.R. 894), which requires the federal government pay the costs for all new legislation. Under this bill supported by Combest, state and local governments would not be required to comply if the national government failed to cover the costs of the new mandates.

"Unfunded federal mandates include silly regulations that once classified West Texas dust storms as air pollution as well as costly stormwater runoff and landfill regulations," said Combest. "First, Congress Passes legislation, then passes the buck to local and state governments who must find some way to comply with the costs. Often, the local taxpayer gets stuck with the bill from Washington."

"No doubt that the biggest unfunded federal mandate was formally introduced today--it is the Clinton health care plan that requires states to set up regional health alliance to oversee health insurance that the government insists employers and their workers pay for," said Combest. "There is a much better way--give small businesses the incentive to bargain in their own groups for the best insurance coverage, rather than create an unworkable bureaucracy with expenses weighing heavily on the shoulders of state and local taxpayers."

"Often, we cannot get a common sense, workable regulation out of Washington bureaucrats, so I have worked with officials on the local level to divert or at least slow down the snowball effect of federal mandates," said Combest. "When it comes to federal regulation, the message is all too clear, enough has been more than enough."

Combest cited the costs associated with federal landfill regulations, the Clean Air Act, and the Clean Water Act's stormwater runoff regulations, to name just a few. Although Combest has urged the Environmental Protection Agency to continue exempting small communities from certain landfill monitoring regulations, local officials have often opted to close landfills rather than deal with the prohibitive costs.

It surprising how much work our friends think we can, and should do.

TAKE DRUGS AND TURN A PARTY FOR SIX INTO A TABLE FOR ONE

Alcohol is the most abused drug among teenagers today. Reports indicate nearly 100,000 ten and eleven year-olds get drunk at least once a week. It is currently estimated that 4.6 million adolescents age 14 to 17 either have a serious drinking problem now or will in the future.

The numbers are staggering. To some people the numbers don't matter until their own number is up. Some teenagers are paying attention to the statistics. But the facts remain: Licensed drivers age 16 to 24 account for 42% of all fatal automobile accidents involving alcohol.

Obviously, it's smarter—and healthier—to say no to drugs.

What Did Your Child Learn Today?

School May Be More Confusing Than You Think

Times have changed since the days of "Reading, 'Riting and 'Rithmetic." Kids today learn about everything from space to square dancing.

As early as elementary school, children also learn about drugs. The problem with this subject is that not all of the teaching comes from the right instructors. While teachers are busy pointing out the negatives of drug abuse, other students offer the message that it's O.K. to use drugs.

All these mixed signals can be confusing. One way to help your children sort out the messages is to establish good lines of communication.

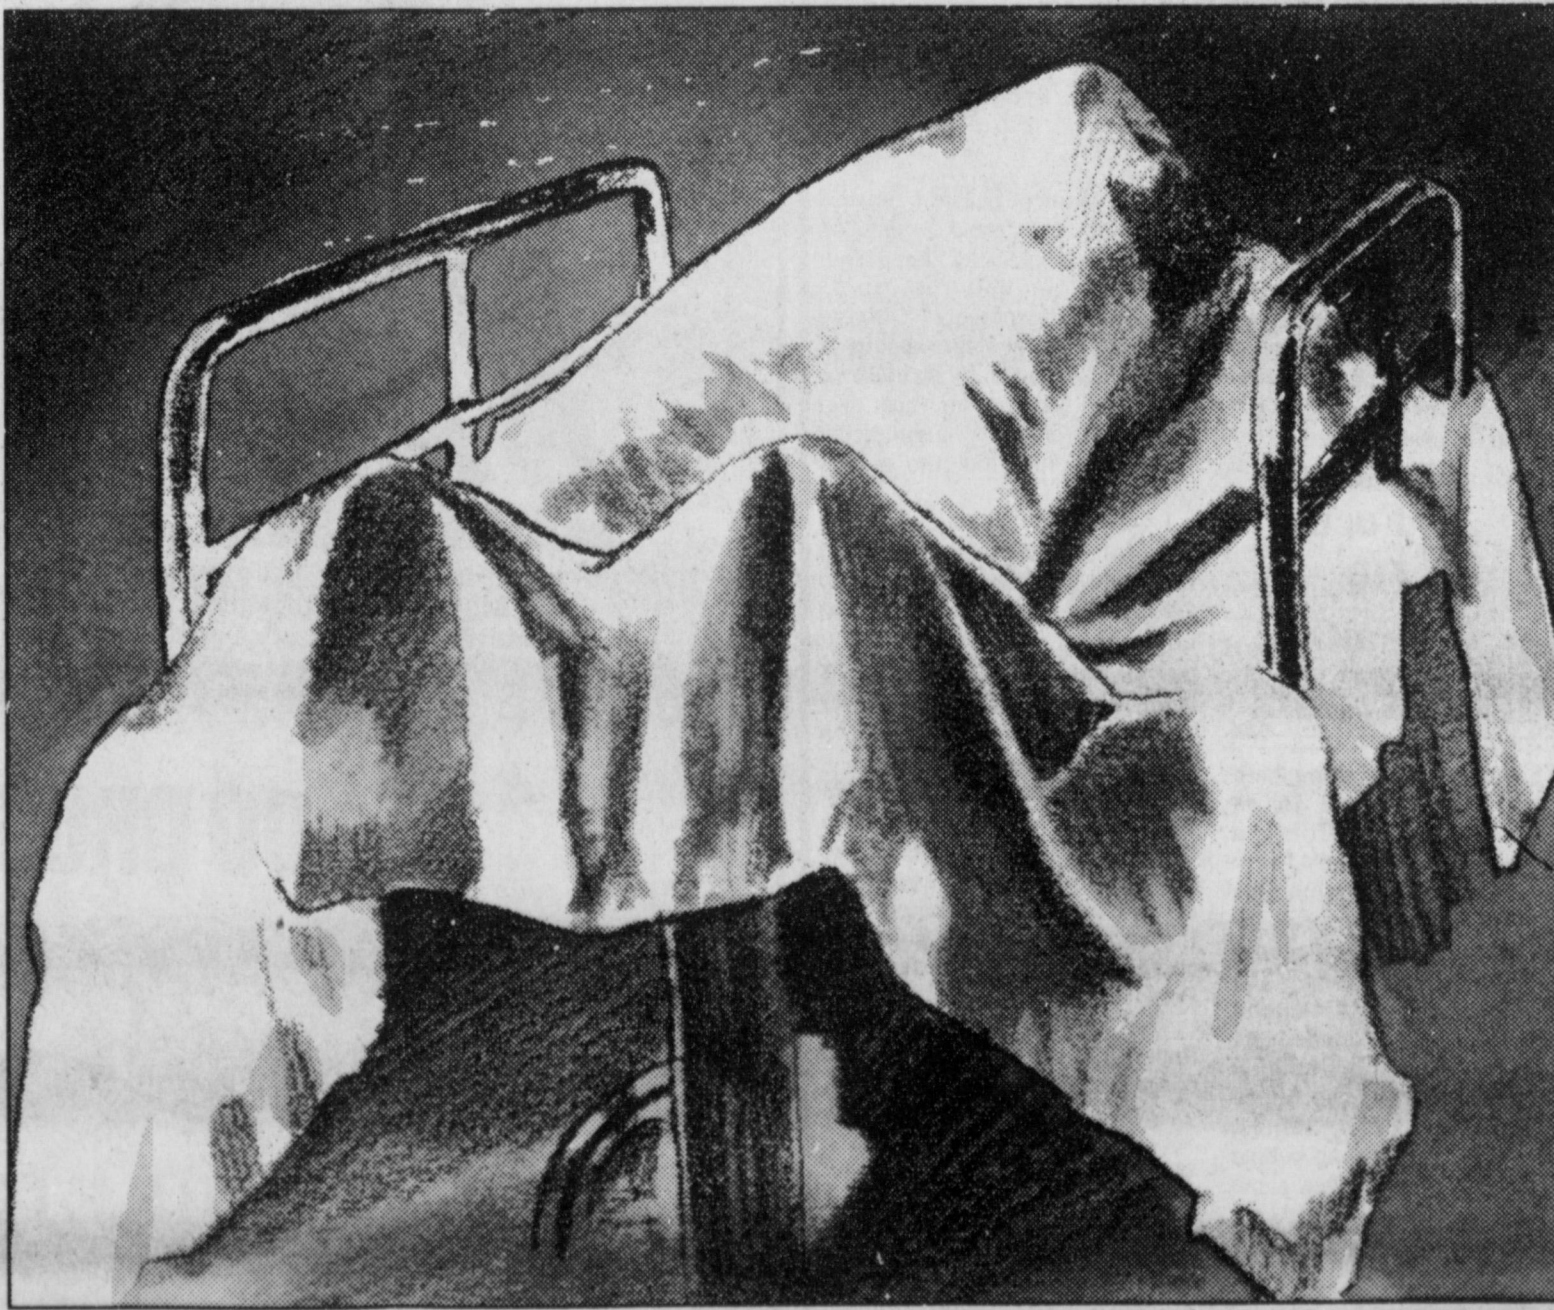

Let them know how you feel about drug abuse and find out how they feel. Try to ease their confusion and listen to their point of view.

By talking to your children in a calm, rational manner, and really listening to them as well, you may be able to teach them something about drug abuse and about relating to other people.

It may be the most important lesson of their lives. You may learn something, too.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

On Nov. 2, Texas voters will once again be asked to decide on a slew of constitutional amendments that address issues ranging from building more prisons to abolishing county surveyors. When voters are plowing through this long list, I hope they will not overlook the last amendment, Proposition 16, which has the potential to boost ag processing in Texas and create directly and indirectly more than 15,000 new jobs in our rural and urban areas.

Proposition 16 proposes to increase funding for the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority, or TAFE, from its current $25 million level to $100 million. With its existing $25 million, approved by voters in 1989, TAFE has helped 34 businesses obtain loans from lending institutions. These 34 ag processing and diversification businesses helped by TAFE have directly and indirectly created or saved more than 4,600 jobs and added $463 million to the state's economy.

Companies helped by TAFE are not traditional farms and ranches. However, these companies do keep our farmers and ranchers in business by making it a priority to buy Texas-grown products. For instance, east of San Antonio in Waelder, J&B Sausage uses Texas beef, pork, turkey and chicken to provide supermarket chains with a line of sausages and smoked meat products. In West Texas, a Graham sportswear manufacturer, Falcon Industries, uses Texas cotton in its T-shirts, sweats, jogging suits and other athletic wear. And in San Antonio, En Casa Foods uses Winter Garden vegetables for its Northern Mexico and South Texas canned cuisine.

These companies are not Saturn car plants or microchip consortiums, but they are providing jobs by relying on this state's most basic source of renewable wealth--agriculture. TAFE-assisted companies help revitalize our rural and urban areas as well as strengthen Texas agriculture by increasing in-state agricultural processing.

Texas is the nation's second largest ag producing state, but we have a poor record for turning our raw agricultural wealth into more valuable consumer-ready goods. Our state never was a British colony, but we tend to act like one by sending most of our agricultural products away to be processed and then by paying premium prices to buy these goods back in a finished form. Of all the agricultural goods we produce, only 8 percent remain in Texas to be made into valuable goods like clothing and convenience foods. The rest we ship out of state for someone else to get rich on.

Adding just 1 percent to our 8 percent ag processing rate would contribute $2.2 billion in economic activity to Texas each year. And increasing our ag processing rate from 8 percent up to the national average of 20 percent would add more than $26 billion annually to the state's economic output.

But ag processing businesses are expensive to start up, keep going and expand, and that's where the TAFE program fits in. Banks these days are reluctant to take risks, especially with new businesses, so TAFE acts to guaranty loans for approved companies from banks. There are many agricultural-related enterprises out there--probably several in your very own community--that have the potential to create new jobs, but these enterprises need a nudge in the right direction. TAFE provides that nudge with absolutely minimal expense to the taxpayer.

TAFE is an investment in Texas that will pay tremendous dividends for years to come. So on Nov. 2, please vote. And please don't forget to check the bottom of the ballot--Proposition 16 to provide jobs for Texans through agriculture.

Commissioner Rick Perry

Letter To The Editor

Dear Evelyn,

Texas produces more than 30 percent of the nation's cotton, but has only 2 percent of the nation's textile mills. What's wrong with this picture?

Attached you will find information on an important constitutional amendment, that if passed on the November 2 ballot, will help keep Texas agricultural products here in the Lone Star State and create as many as 14,000 new jobs.

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry and Texans for Proposition 16 are spearheading the Proposition 16 campaign which increase funding for the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority (TAFE) "Loan Guaranty Program." If passed by Texas voters on November 2, Proposition 16 will add $75 million in funding to TAFE, a program originally approved by voters in 1989 with an initial fund of $25 million.

The TAFE program was designed to help secure financing for new and expanding Texas businesses that process Texas-grown agricultural products. More than 30 businesses across the state have already benefited from TAFE. With these loan guarantees, businesses have been able to hire additional employees and expand existing operations.

Former Governors Bill Clements, Mark White, Dolph Briscoe and Preston Smith have signed on with Rick Perry and numerous other state officials as co-chairs for "Texas for Proposition 16." They realize that Texas has a good thing going with TAFE, and that an increase in funds can only help keep Texas agricultural products and jobs here at home.

If we can provide additional information or set up interviews for you, please contact me at 214/969-1800.

Sincerely,
Martha Craddock

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

The largest and most diverse coalition ever to back a Texas constitutional amendment was announced in support of Proposition 2, the pollution abatement amendment on the November 2 ballot.

Cathy Bonner, Executive Director of the Texas Department of Commerce, said that state and local officials, business and labor groups environmental and agricultural leaders, and pollution regulatory authorities have joined the Clean Texas Coalition to educate voters on the importance of Proposition 2.

"By bringing Texas into line with at least 33 other states and many countries which offer incentives for pollution control, Proposition 2 keeps jobs and capital investment in Texas and leads to greater economic opportunity for everyone," Bonner said.

"I am confident that no constitutional amendment has had such diverse organized support. That is because Proposition 2 is so vital to the future of Texas. The coalition demonstrates that all Texans can unite behind a plan that preserves jobs while cleaning up the environment and without raising taxes."

Proposition 2 authorizes a property tax exemption for pollution control property mandated by federal and state laws and installed on or after January 1, 1994.

It was submitted to the people by a unanimous vote of the Texas Senate and with only three dissenting votes in the Texas House of Representatives.

"The Texas Air Control Board

earlier this year estimated that more than 30,000 small businesses in the four non-attainment areas of the state are faced with pollution control expenditures of more than half a billion dollars," Bonner said. "It is impossible to estimate what large industries will have to spend in future years on equipment that does nothing to increase productivity or profitability. Proposition 2 gives all these businesses, which provide most of our jobs, some limited but needed help in carrying out the federal mandates."

The Clean Texas coalition includes the Texas AFL-CIO, National Federation of Independent Business, Texas Association of Business, Texas Chamber of Commerce, Texas Chemical Council, Texas Farm Bureau, local government leaders, and environmental organizations led by Texas Campaign for the Environment and Texas Citizen Action.

There is no organized opposition to Proposition 2.

A Church For The Dead ?

Like most churches, we receive at our post office box each day one or two worthwhile pieces of mail and a world of junk! This necessitates my spending a part of each trip to the post office standing at the trash can separating the few grains of wheat from the box-car load of chaff!

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

As I was busily trashing bulk mail one day, I came to an interesting letter from a congregation in a distant state.

After a polite salutation, the letter, obviously an appeal for funds, began, "We have begun a renovation of our building." The writer then detailed his church's plans to replace an inadequate heating system and to build a fellowship hall which he hoped would, among other things, provide the group's young people with a place to meet. Then came the line that stopped me cold.

"The building here is also used for the deceased..."

In the moment before I finished that sentence my mind conjured up images of a black-clad preacher droning on and on to a congregation sparsely scattered over several pews, worshipers leaning this way and that, all stone cold dead! (Has any preacher ever been sued for throwing a member of his congregation into a fatal coma?)

I was somewhat relieved when the next line explained that their building served also as a mortuary for their very small rural community. For a moment, though, I thought I was reading a letter from the first church I'd ever heard actually admitting to being a church for the dead!

It is a sad fact that there are some. But seven little words from the pen of the Apostle Peter are the best safeguard I've ever heard against filling up a church with the spiritually dead: "Love one another deeply from the heart" (1 Peter 1:22)

No church practicing that imperative will ever become a congregation for the deceased!

Texas Commission On Alcohol and Drug Abuse Releases Adolescent Gambling Survey

Seventy-nine percent of Texas teenagers have gambled for money at some point in their lives, with 5 percent identified as being problem gamblers and another 12 percent at risk of developing problems, according to a survey released by the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse.

Based on an adolescent population of slightly more than 1 million in Texas, this means between 36,000 and 65,000 teens in Texas already have problems with gambling, and another 97,000 to 139,000 teens are at risk of developing gambling problems.

The "1992 Texas Survey of Adolescent Gambling Behavior" reveals that the three most common types of gambling among Texas teens are betting on card, dice or board games with friends and family; betting on sports or other events with friends; and betting on games of skill such as bowling or pool.

The survey, which was conducted in spring 1992, during the few months preceding the start of the Texas Lottery, was intended to describe the gambling behavior of adolescents prior to the initiation of the lottery. It serves as a baseline

Letter To The Editor

We are writing to voice our support for Proposition 2, the pollution control amendment to the Texas Constitution.

Proposition 2 authorizes the legislature to grant a limited exemption from local property taxes for pollution control property that is mandated by federal and state environmental laws. It was supported in the legislature by a broad coalition of businesses, organized labor, local officials and environmental interests. Consequently, legislative approval of Proposition 2 was nearly unanimous in the Texas House of Representatives and without dissent in the Texas Senate.

The diversity of support for Proposition 2 reflects the importance of this issue to all Texans. To business and labor, Proposition 2 means jobs—saving the jobs we already have and attracting new jobs to Texas in a climate of increasing global competition. To local officials, Proposition 2 means protecting local economies and improving the health and safety of our communities. To environmental interests, Proposition 2 means a cleaner environment.

Simply put, Proposition 2 is sound public policy for the state. It promotes both economic development and environmental protection. It also demonstrates that government, business, labor and environmental groups can work together for the benefit of everyone.

We hope that you will consider encouraging the people in your community to vote for Proposition 2 on November 2. It's important to all Texans.

for future assessments of gambling behavior among adolescents in Texas after a state lottery has begun, and it also serves as a resource for addressing the needs of adolescents who currently have gambling problems. A survey that described gambling behavior among Texas adults was released in the spring.

During the telephone survey, 924 adolescents aged 14 to 17 were interviewed. A total of 819 were interviewed before the lottery began, and 105 were interviewed during the first week of the lottery. Among adolescents who had ever gambled, the average age at which they started to gamble was 12. Most teens (69 percent) said they spent less than $50 total on all gambling activities during the past year. Twenty-six percent spent less than $10; 21 percent spent between $10 and $19; and 22 percent spent between $20 and $49. Eleven percent spent between $50 and $99, and 15 percent spent more than $100 gambling in the past year.

Washington and Minnesota are the only other states that have conducted statewide representative surveys of adolescent teen gambling. Texas has a higher percentage of problem gamblers than Washington (5 percent compared to 0.9 percent) and a slightly higher percentage of at-risk teens (11.7 percent compared to 9 percent). Although a different methodology was used in the Minnesota survey and rates of problem gambling cannot be strictly compared, they appear to be higher in Minnesota (6 percent problem and 20 percent at-risk) than in Texas.

The teens were also asked questions about the Texas Lottery. Sixty-nine percent of the teens felt lotteries serve a useful purpose. One-quarter said they were a bad idea, and 6 percent were undecided. Although all of the respondents were under the age of 18, 26 percent said they would try to buy lottery tickets.

Teens were also asked about their use of alcohol and other drugs. Few studies have been conducted on rates of gambling and substance use among teens. Among teens who had ever gambled, the more recently and frequently they gambled, the more likely they were to have also used tobacco, alcohol and other drugs and to have had problems related to their substance use.

Fifty percent of problem gamblers had used drugs in their lifetimes, as compared to 26 percent of at-risk gamblers and 15 percent of non-problem gamblers. Similarly, 24 percent of problem gamblers, as compared to less than 10 percent of other gamblers, had experienced problems related to their drug use.

Questions about problems due to gambling were asked, as well as about the frequency of gambling and amount of money spent. These data were used to assess problem and at-risk gambling behavior in teens. Gamblers who reported no or few problem indicators were classified as non-problem gamblers, those who gambled weekly with no problems or less intensively but with some problems were classified as at-risk gamblers, and those who had several problems and who either gambled weekly or spent more than $10 per month on gambling were classified as problem gamblers.

According to the survey:

*66 percent of Texas teens bet money within the past year, and 14 percent gambled weekly in the past year.

*Teens who gamble frequently are more likely to be male, Hispanic, to receive a weekly income of $50 or more and to come from the border or Corpus Christi regions.

*79 percent of teens, 78 percent of adults under 30 and 75 percent of adults 30 and over have ever gambled.

*25 percent of teens interviewed before the Texas Lottery began said they intended to buy tickets, compared to 40 percent of teens interviewed after the lottery began.

The legislation that established the Texas Lottery also included an appropriation of funds for public education, research and training regarding problem or compulsive gambling and for the treatment and prevention of problem or compulsive gambling. The Texas commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse was named as the agency to oversee and carry out this program.

The commission funds the Texas Council on Problem and Compulsive Gambling which provides prevention education and training services as well as operates a help line-- (800) 742-0443. In addition, the Commission provides funding to a total of 26 community-based facilities throughout the state that treat compulsive gamblers.

Jim Cooper, Congressman (D-Tenn):

"Our proposed health care plan is in the middle, where it should be," describing alternative health care system backed by bi-partisan coalition.

The amazing thing about man's intelligence is his failure to use what he has.

Too Strident?

Those who are regaled by Rush Limbaugh and others who constantly castigate the administration and liberals in general might be laughing too soon.

Presidents are elected by the great middle stream of American voters. Far right critics, or far left critics, please their constituencies and the concurrent opposition. But elections are won by candidates who per-sue the moderates within the electorate they are less extreme, less dangerous, than their opponent!

Thus talk of breaking away from the G.O.P. by various "true-blue" conservatives, and others, is political suicide in the making.

Legal

The chief trouble with this country is too darned many legal ways to steal.

WHAT THE CASUAL DRUG USER WILL BE WEARING THIS SEASON.

A tough new anti-drug task force is now on the streets of Muleshoe and throughout Bailey County enforcing our already tough drug laws. And if they catch you with drugs, they're taking you to jail. You then face felony charges, a prison sentence and stiff financial penalties. All of which means drugs are no longer the fashionable thing to do.

Headache: What's That Mind-Numbing Pain?

Mind-numbing headaches can leave you feeling like a zombie, but fortunately the condition usually responds rapidly to treatment and disappears within a few hours.

However, for 45 million chronic headache sufferers, the pain can be more serious. Headache sufferers spend over $4 billion on remedies and make 80 million visits to doctors each year. They lose 64 million workdays annually.

The two major categories of headaches are muscle contraction (tension) and vascular (cluster and migraine) though the distinction is not always clear-cut.

The common tension headache occurs when neck and scalp muscles tense up creating the sensation of a tight band around the head. The headache may be related to stress, anxiety or depression.

Vascular headaches occur when blood vessels in the brain alternately shrink and swell, creating an intense, and often debilitating pain.

Cluster headaches are extremely painful. They occur as a series of one-sided headaches, each following the other over a span of days and even weeks. An attack can last 15

S.W. "Happy" Grimes Services Held Sat.

Service for S.W. "Happy" Grimes, 71, of Morton were held Saturday, October 30, 1993 at First United Methodist Church in Morton, with Rev. Ken Peterson, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Morton Memorial Cemetery, under direction of Ellis Funeral Home, Morton.

Mr. Grimes died October 26, 1993 at Cochran Memorial Hospital.

He was born August 19, 1922 in Weatherford, TX. He married Opal Montague on February 16, 1963 in Brownfield, TX.

Grimes was a lease operator for Texaco for 20 years before retiring in 1990. He was a member of the Rock Creek Methodist Church in Weatherford.

Survivors include his wife, Opal Grimes of Morton; three sons, Billy Dwaine Hyatt of Las Vegas, NV, Marshall Grimes of Albuquerque, NM, and Ellis Grimes of Waller, TX; one daughter, Cheryl Kennington of Cleburne, TX; one brother, Jack Grimes of Atlanta, GA; one sister, Barte Peoples of Weatherford, TX; eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Grimes was preceded in death by one son, James Hyatt in 1992.

The family suggests memorials to the American Heart Association.

Charlotte Redwine Services Held

Service for Charlotte Redwine, 46, of Lazbuddie were held Friday, October 29, 1993 at 11:00 a.m. at Lazbuddie United Methodist Church, with Rev. Scott Richards and Andy Rogers officiating.

Burial was in Lazbuddie Cemetery, under direction of Ellis Funeral Home, Muleshoe.

Mrs. Redwine died October 27, 1993 at Muleshoe Area Healthcare Center.

She was born July 19, 1947 in Muleshoe, TX and married Harol Redwine on August 18, 1968 in Lazbuddie, TX.

Mrs. Redwine was a lifelong resident of the Lazbuddie area. She was a homemaker and a Methodist, belonging to the Lazbuddie United Methodist Church. She was preceded in death by a son, Russell Redwine, December 11, 1987.

Survivors include her husband, Harol Redwine of Lazbuddie; one daughter, Susan Cage of Muleshoe; her parents, Jimmie and Dorothy Lee Seaton of Lazbuddie; two brothers, Jimmie Dale Seaton and Rick Seaton, both of Lazbuddie; one sister, Theresa O'Donald of Amarillo, TX.

The family suggests memorials to Russell Redwine Scholarship at Lazbuddie ISD or Panhandle Multiple Sclerosis Society (MS) at 715 South Lamar, Amarillo, TX 79106.

"Foods containing chemicals such as tyramine, monosodium glutamate, nitrates and nitrites that expand or constrict blood vessels, may also contribute to migraines," he said.

Doctors use a variety of nondrug approaches to treating headaches, including biofeedback relaxation techniques, exercise and avoidance of fatigue. There are also a number of drugs to prevent headaches, to stop them or lessen their severity.

If you experience a sudden increase in frequency, duration and severity of headaches, and their related symptoms, be sure to see your doctor.

Hallowe'en is a very old holiday, dating back hundreds of years. It began in the Church and to the Church it really belongs, for it is properly All Saints' Evening; hallow meaning holy or sainted in old English. This ancient Holy Day was appointed as a special time to remember relatives, friends and Church leaders who had died. The ghostly ghostly part came in when the day was separated from its Church context and became only a day for Jack-O'Lanterns, Hobgoblins and Ghost stories. The truth of this day remains even though we have forgotten what the day means. What a comfort it is to be able on this day and every day to think of one's departed loved ones as being safe in the presence of a loving God. The teaching of the Bible, taught lovingly by the Church, is that nothing either present or to come, either visible or invisible, even death itself, can separate us from God our Father.

the better is indicated in health or career matters.
The time is right for changing to a vocation
you enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS—
Nov. 23 to Dec. 22—Obstacles may be expected,
but you hurdled them with ease. You are made of stern stuff with a stronger than average character.
Stand up for what you believe.

CAPRICORN—Dec.
22 to Jan. 19—Art, music,
poetry give you an uplift
this week. Enjoy the enchantment with a close friend. The joys of the beautiful fall season also lift your spirits.

AQUARIUS—Jan. 20 to Feb. 18—Protect your interests with a realistic approach. Dreaming won't make it so. You are too prone to exaggerate.

PISCES—Feb. 19 to March 20—Competition is keen, but you must not let it sway you. You succeed
because you do a better job.

ARIES—March 21 to April 20—Those around you admire your spunk.
You continue to achieve the impossible. A gifted person makes a prediction of success for you.

TAURUS—April 21 to May 20—Avoid those with whom you share a mutual dislike. Your time will be better spent with those you enjoy. You are most at ease with busy people like yourself.

GEMINI—May 21 to June 20—Be understanding with youngsters. The most effective method at this time is to explain
rather than scold.

CANCER—June 21 to July 22—Take a humorous approach to disappointment if at all possible. Try to realize that things never are as bad as they seem. The days ahead should be much brighter.

LEO—July 23 to Aug.
22—Be certain you are not too demanding with those you love. Let up a little and show more love.

VIRGO—Aug. 23 to Sept. 22—A perfect time to work out your problems satisfactorily. Your thinking is clearer than it has ever been.

LIBRA—Sept. 23 to Oct. 22—Start saving for the special vacation you want to take next summer. Plan now to go where you've always dreamed of going.

Using Annuities To Save For Retirement With Safety In Mind

(NAPS)—Many Americans concerned with funding their retirement are taking a closer look at annuities. Written by life insurance companies, annuity contracts are designed to help people save safely for their retirement years.

Annuities are a good way to save for retirement.

An annuity contract is often described as the opposite of life insurance. It pays while you live; life insurance pays when you die.

How much you pay for an annuity depends on how much monthly income you want, your age when you buy it, the contract and the time you want to start receiving income. It also depends on how you wish to pay into it—in a single sum or in a series of payments.
