US Mediation In Tunisia Dispute Ok'd By France

Refuses To Withdraw Action In United Nations Council

PARIS (UP)—France agreed Saturday to let the United States mediate its dispute with Tunisia. But it declined to withdraw its U. N. Security Council action against the North African country.

Tunisia, in turn, relaxed the pressure on the 16,000 French soldiers garrisoned on Tunisian soil and permitted civilian trucks to supply them with food.

Emile Claparede, secretary of state for information, announced after a cabinet meeting that "the good offices of the United States are accepted."

He made it clear that France was agreeing to mediation, not arbitration.

In Washington, U.S. officials quickly welcomed the announcement. They said the United States had no wish to act as arbitrator, but merely as a go-between.

Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba previously had indicated he would accept U.S. mediation. It appeared that American diplomats would start working on the dispute over the weekend. They already have been working behind the scenes to prevent a major conflict.

Bourguiba said Thursday he would drop his U.N. Security Council action against France for the bombing last Saturday of Sakiet Sidi Youssef if France agreed to American mediation.

But France filed its own charge Friday night, asking the Security Council to condemn Tunisia for aiding Algerian rebels, and Claparede said it appeared that a council debate Tuesday could not be avoided.

Claparede said that "generally there has been a relaxation" of the tension in Tunisia compared with two days ago, although the Tunis government in two military communiques today said France had massed troops in Algeria near the bombed Tunisian border village.

Claparede said the French Red Cross is contacting the Tunisian Red Cross (Red Crescent) to determine the number of casualties in the Sakiet bombing. The Tunisians claim 79 were killed and 130 injured.

Air Force Plans Manned Rocket

WASHINGTON (UP) — A Senator's attack on what he called Air Force "lack of decision" led Saturday to disclosure of plans for an 18,000-mile-an-hour manned rocket ship.

Air Force sources said they hope the craft, called the X15B, will put the first man into orbit around the earth and bring him back safely.

It would be an advanced version of the X15 rocket ship which the Air Force and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA) plan to fly 100 miles above the earth at about 4,000 miles an hour early next year.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) chairman of the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee, revealed in a statement Saturday that he was briefed last October by the Air Force on plans for an X15B "manned recoverable space vehicle." Four months later, he said, Air Force chiefs still have not given the go-ahead to the project.

Chavez cited this as an example of "lack of decision" on space projects. "Each day these decisions are delayed gives our Communist adversaries more time to advance beyond our state of art," Chavez said.

"The American people will not stand for this," he said.

The people, he said, agree with Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson that the nation that leads in space exploration may be able to gain control of the earth.

Air Force officials who could be reached for comment would not say whether there has been a delay in getting a high-level decision on the project, as Chavez charged.

They said study is going ahead on several phases of the X15 project. One of these is to attach Navajo rocket boosters to the X15 in an attempt to lift it well above 100 miles high and accelerate it to several times the speed of sound.

Sources declined to disclose the target date for flying this most advanced version of the X15 or how they expect to solve the problem of slowing it down enough to return the pilot and his stubby-winged craft through the earth's atmosphere.

Ike Accepts Resignation Of Stassen

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (UP) — President Eisenhower Saturday enthusiastically accepted the resignation of his disarmament sylvania on the Republican tickplans to run for governor of Pennadviser, Harold E. Stassen who et.

The President did not fire Stassen, but the chief executive certainly bade the former governor of Minnesota a definitive farewell.

Stassen has been on the political firing line for some months. He has been building his political fences in Pennsylvania, trying to line up support for the forthcoming Pennsylvania primary.

Stassen telephoned the President here Friday, reaching Eisenhower at the Piney Woods Plantation of former Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey.

Full of Praise

The President and Stassen agreed that Stassen should leave the White House staff if the balding former governor is to pursue his political ambitions.

The President, in accepting Stassen's resignation effective immediately, was full of praise for Stassen. The President, however, stopped short of endorsing him for governor.

Stassen bucked the Eisenhower "team" in 1956 by vocally advocating the nomination of Christian A. Herter, now the undersecretary of state, for vice president over Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The former Minnesota governor, now transplated to Pennsylvania, withstood some of the chopping techniques of the administration and lasted out a relatively long career as an Eisenhower adviser.

The President today, in accepting Stassen's resignation "effective today," placed high value on Stassen's "loyal friendship."

"Since the reasons you give for your decision are of a political nature and involve an intent to participate in a primary contest in Pennsylvania, I deem it inappropriate for me to comment here on them," the President wrote Stassen.

Local GOP Opposition

Before the President's exchange of correspondence with Stassen was exposed to public view, the former Minnesota governor telephoned newspapers and press associations in Philadelphia to tell them of his upcoming announcement.

No sooner had Stassen's large hat hit the political ring than the professional politicians of the GOP organization in Pennsylvania began to disclaim any

Sixth Atlas Attempt Fails

By CHARLES TAYLOR
United Press Staff Correspondent

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) —The Air Force failed in an attempt to launch its sixth intercontinental Atlas Saturday because of last-second "technical difficulties."

The trouble may have been failure of one of the big bird's engines to ignite properly. From distant beaches fire appeared to belch from only one side of the Atlas when the firing button was pushed.

The 100-ton missile apparently was undamaged. It still sat on its launching pad, gleaming impressively in the sun, after the smoke and steam from the aborted launching attempt drifted away.

There was no official word on what had gone wrong. In a statement, the Air Force said only that the flight test was postponed "after encountering technical difficulties immediately prior to launch."

"The test conductor cut off the engines when instrumentation indicated a possible malfunction. There was no apparent damage to the missile, which was rescheduled for firing in the near future."

Just when the next launching attempt will be made probably will not be announced.

Bad weather may have held up for a time Saturday's test of the 5,500-mile range Atlas, which has flown twice successfully and run into trouble on its other three flights.

Thick, low-hanging clouds swept over the cape while the Atlas was being readied and blotted the missile from view most of the morning. But skies cleared early in the afternoon.

For an hour before launch time, the 90-foot missile was fuming on its launching pad. Vapor from liquid oxygen billowed from beneath it and in a thin white banner from the nose of the towering giant of the skies.

When the firing button was pushed, a huge cloud of steam and smoke rose up around the Atlas, which is normal in any launching. But this time the missile failed to lift off the ground.

Indonesian Rebels Form Government

By ROBERT UDICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

PADANG, Sumatra (UP)—Anti-Communist Indonesia rebels Saturday night proclaimed a revolutionary government exercising "full sovereignty" over Indonesia. But they promised to step aside if President Sukarno named a new government free of Reds.

The rebel proclamation which risked plunging the island republic into bloody civil war, also demanded that Sukarno repudiate his concept of "guided democracy" admitting Communists to the government.

The rebels announced the swearing in of Sjafruddin Prawiranegara, a former president of the Bank of Indonesia, as premier and named Bukittinggi in central Sumatra as the new seat of government.

Sukarno, whose Jakarta regime rejected a five-day rebel ultimatum on Monday to rid itself of Communists, was flying home from a "health" vacation in Japan.

The rebel forces said they would step aside if and when assured Sukarno will return to a constitutional position and name a new Djakarta government under anti-Communist former Vice President Mohammed Hatta.

40,000 Witness Ceremony

Forty thousand persons witnessed the swearing in of Sjafriddin and his cabinet outside the broad-columned porch of the government mansion in Padang. The crowd cheered when the financier said:

"We are confident we will win. "We have talked, talked, now we must act."

Sjafruddin told the crowd that he was not leading a separatist movement and added:

"Our present struggle is not a struggle between the outer region and the central government, not a separatist movement to disrupt the integrity of the republic of Innesia, but on the contrary, it is a struggle to establish a just and prosperous Indonesian state based on the belief in God Almighty."

In Singapore, a spokesman for the revolutionary forces, charged that Abdul Haris Nasution, chief of staff for the Jakarta regime, wants war and warned that the revolutionaries "will meet force with force."

He said Nasution had played a role of "divide and rule" in hopes of splitting the revolutionaries but that he was "indulging in wishful, thinking and the sooner he realizes the foolishness and danger of his policy the better for the country."

The cabinet ministers, most of them non-party members and residents of oil and rubber-rich Sumatra, were sworn in according to their faiths.

Crowd Roars Approval

The crowd roared approval as Lt. Col. Ahmad Hussein read the proclamation of a new government. Sjafruddin was greeted with loud applause as he appeared on the verandah.

Sjafruddin said most of Indonesia's foreign assets are in a U.S. Federal Reserve bank.

Three communiques by the regime promised protection to foreigners and their investments. It proclaimed the foreign assets of the government were frozen. And it said it would not be responsible for contracts made by the Sukarno government under Premier Djuanda after Feb. 15. No arms bought by Jakarta will be paid for, the rebels said.

The Bukittinggi government said it would "exert full internal and external sovereignty" over the entire country comprised of 3,000 islands.

'Spaceman' To Finish 'Trip' Today

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP) — "Spaceman" Donald G. Farrell shook off part of his fatigue and boredom Saturday while the final hours of a week's simulated trip to the moon in a sealed, depressurized and blacked-out space cabin crept by.

Farrell, 23, an airman first class from New York, was cheered, the Air Force's top space physician said, by the knowledge that he will emerge from the three-by-five-foot cabin at 9:35 a.m. Sunday.

Since 9:35 a.m. last Sunday, he has lived in what space scientists call the "artificial environment" of the space cabin. His food and water and the air he breathed were hermatically sealed into the cabin with him.

He hasn't heard another human's voice, he doesn't know what has happened outside of the cabin. He hasn't been able to see beyond the instrument-faced walls of the cabin since he went in.

The Air Force wanted to see whether a man's mind can stand the strain of a trip to outer space. As far as can be determined on earth, it can.

Perked Up Saturday

"We had previously anticipated that the third day of boredom might be critical," Dr. George H. Steinkamp, the Air Force's top space physician, said.

"Throughout yesterday, his responses were a little slower," Steinkamp said Saturday at a briefing. "However, there were noticeable improvements and he had perked up over the slump of the day before.

"It may be because the time of exit is drawing near."

Scientists began to notice pronounced fatigue Thursday and let him rest longer. For breakfast Saturday, he had soup, "cracker-type" toast and fruit juice.

To heighten Farrell's feeling of complete isolation in space, scientists told him before he went in that his voice transmissions were taped and they would be played back hours after he made them. Actually, the scientists hear him directly.

Makes "Landing" Sunday

The closed circuit television through which the scientists had watched him constantly broke down. They had to use a porthole with one-way glass in it.

Farrell will begin preparations for his exit at 8 a.m. Sunday, when he will remove the electrodes that have conveyed the changes in his physical reactions to recording machines outside.

At 9 a.m., scientists will "break radio silence" and start giving him "landing instructions." Mainly, this consists of getting the air

Kiwanis Sponsor Boys Civic Club

A Key Club, Kiwanis-sponsored service club on the high school level, was formed at Friday's meeting of the Pampa Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanians brought guests from Pampa High School to the meeting, held in the First Methodist Church at noon.

H. O. Darby was in charge of the project for the Kiwanians. He introduced Jon Jones, minister of the Harvester and Mary Ellen Church of Christ, who told of his experiences as a member of Circle K, Kiwanis-sponsored service organization on the college level, and what the young men present could expect from a Key Club in Pampa.

Jones was charter president of the Circle K organization at Abilene Christian College.

After Jones' address, Alvin Organbright, Key Club district Lt. Governor from Wheeler, gave a history of Key Club and told of some of the work the organization does.

Following the talks, the students voted to form such a club and elected officers.

Charter officers in the club are Paul Brown, president; Charles Minor, vice president; Johnny Ayers, secretary; and Jere Teed, treasurer.

In the near future, a charter banquet will be held, directors elected and the club will start functioning. It is a club with the purpose of being of service to the school and other students.

At the termination of Friday's meet, the students present signed the charter roll as the first members of the Pampa Key Club. Some 75 students were present.

'Kidnaped' Boy Found With Father

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—A "kidnaped" four-year-old boy, subject of anonymous offers of information for a $18,250 "detective fee," has been found safe with his missing father in Spokane, Wash. the FBI announced Saturday.

The FBI said the boy's father, Walter Keith Hurtt Sr., of Gretna, La., was arrested in Spokane Friday night and was to be arraigned before a U. S. commissioner on a charge of violating the white slave traffic act.

Agents found the boy, missing with his father since last Dec. 5, living with an unidentified woman whom the elder Hurtt was accused of transporting to Tampa, Fla., and then to Spokane for immoral purposes.

No charge was placed against the woman and her name was withheld.

The man's father - in - law, George Rayner, last Jan. 23 received an anonymous letter postmarked Tampa offering to find the father and son in return for payment of a $50-a-day detective fee for a year, totalling $18,250.

The boy's mother told authorities that Hurtt disappeared in the family car with the boy and with the child's playthings and clothes and left no clue to his destination.

Rayner was instructed to place an acknowledgement in the personal column of a New Orleans newspaper on Feb. 1, if interested in the offer. Rayner notified the FBI and complied with instructions, the FBI said.

Rayner received three additional letters, one containing the boy's identification bracelet, the FBI said. FBI agents traced the boy to Spokane and also, the FBI said in New Orleans, established that the woman had written the letters.

Two Nations May Join Arab Union

AMMAN, Jordan (UP)—The oil-rich Persian Gulf sheikdoms of Kuwait and Bahrein may join the new Iraqi-Jordanian Arab Federal Union, informed sources said Saturday.

The two small countries would add greatly to the oil supply controlled by the new union. Saudi Arabia, although standing aloof from actual membership, has given the federation its blessing.

Kuwait is nestled at the southeast corner of Iraq. Bahrein is an island about 200 miles further southeast in the gulf.

Both have tremendous oil resources but their membership in the federation still would not break the supply line monopoly exercised by the Egyptian-Syrian United Arab Republic.

Most of the present oil pipe lines lie across Syria. Egypt controls the cheapest tanker shipping route—The Suez Canal.

Plans to break this supply line grip call for pipelines through Israel and Turkey.

Copies of the federation signed into being by King Hussein of Jordan and King Fesial of Iraq were distributed to all foreign diplomatic missions here Saturday.

A stream of diplomats visited the palace to offer congratulations.

Saturday and Sunday were declared national holidays in Jordan to celebrate the federation and the streets of Amman were jammed with crowds dressed in their Sunday best.

Jordanian and Iraqi flags hung side by side throughout the city.

Ousted Counsel To Report On 'White House Clique'

By TOM NELSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Chairman Oren Harris said Saturday his House subcommittee would give its ousted counsel a chance Monday to explain his charge that a "White House clique" influenced decisions of some independent federal regularoty agencies.

The Arkansas Democrat told reporters that hearings by his subcommittee next week would be devoted mainly to the charges by the ex-counsel, Bernard Schwartz, dealing with the award of television Channel 10 at Miami, Fla. But he also indicated that the question of "improper White House influences" raised by Schwartz, may be aired when the 34-year-old law professor returns to the witness stand Monday.

Schwartz testified Thursday that Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack accepted $2,650 from a lawyer connected with the firm which got Channel 10. Mack denied anything improper.

Harris said that when Schwartz is recalled, he will be asked a few "clean-up questions" about the Miami case and then the subcommittee will delve into other matters.

Schwartz to Testify

Harris was asked whether Schwartz would have a chance to present any evidence he may have to back up a charge of White House influence, which he made in an angry press statement Tuesday after the subcommittee fired him.

"He'll have an opportunity to present that," Harris declared.

Schwartz said he had planned to "bring to light the machinations of the White House clique in controlling decisions" of the agencies, which are supposed to be quasi-judicial.

As alleged members of this "clique" he named presidential assistant Sherman Adams, White House aide Gerald Morgan, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and Col. George Gordon Moore, brother-in-law of Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower.

Harris said Schwartz also would get a chance to testify Monday on the effect of "fraternization" between agency officials and the industries they regulate, and the propriety of drawing government expense money while allowing someone else to pay your hotel bills.

The chairman said no arrangements had been made yet to play back a wire recording which Schwartz said would back up his charges against Commissioner Mack. This recording purports to cover an interview between Mack

US To Give Poland Aid

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States Saturday signed an agreement providing 98 million dollars worth of new American aid for Poland in a move to help that country maintain its semi-independence from Russia.

It was the second time this country has extended aid since Poland rose up in October 1956 to throw off some degree of Russian control. The first agreement, negotiated last year, amounted to 95 million dollars and is now being carried out.

Under the new agreement, the United States will sell Poland 73 million dollars worth of surplus farm products and accept Polish currency as payment.

It also will loan Poland 25 million dollars in American currency for the purchase in this country of such items as medical equipment, plastics, wire cable, citrus fruit, rayon yarn and machinery for processing food, leather, textiles and metals.

The loan, to be administered by the Export-Import Bank, will be repayable at 4½ per cent interest over 20 years beginning in 1962.

Family Is Overcome By Gas

A Fort Worth man, visiting in Pampa, was taken to Worley Hospital last night and his wife and two daughters received emergency treatment at Highland General Hospital after being overcome by gas at 8:30 last night.

In the hospital is W. H. Brunel, who was reported in good condition late last night and was expected to be released today.

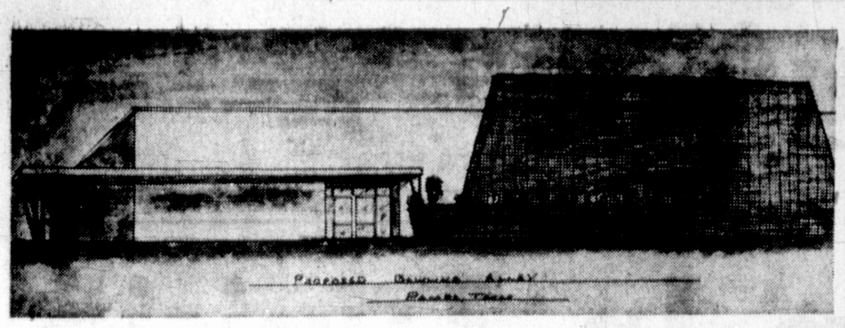

Following treatment Mrs. Grace Brunel, Sharon, age 13, and Pam, 10, were taken to a local motel to spend the night.

The Brunels were spending the night in the home of his sister, Mrs. James L. Bain, 436 Hughes. The Bains were out of town, according to Mrs. Brunel, who said they were spending the night in Pampa before returning to Fort Worth after bringing Brunel's mother to Pampa.

Mrs. Brunel said that the family had started to bed when she and Pam became sick from the gas. When local officers and an ambulance arrived, Brunel has also become overcome by the gas.

New Bowling Center Is Being Constructed Here

Construction work started yesterday on a new modern 20-lane bowling building for Pampa.

The Harvester Bowl, to be located on the east side of the 1400 block of S. Hobart, is being constructed by Plains Bowl, Inc., of Plainview.

John Sands, president of the company, told The News yesterday that the new bowling center will have automatic pin setting machines on each of the 20 alleys and will also include a "League Room" where bowling groups can hold meetings.

The building will be of masonry construction and will include a Snack Bar, modern rest rooms and locker rooms.

Construction of the modern bowling center is expected to be completed in from 60 to 80 days, Sands said.

The Harvester Bowl will be managed by Jack Dyer, a partner in the firm, who will move to Pampa from Plainview in the near future.

The site for the building is approximately one full city block and paved parking facalities will be provided for approximately 200 cars, Sands stated.

Sands concluded by stating, "We are constructing one of the most modern bowling centers in the United States in Pampa."

State Chairman George I. Bloom apparently speaking for the Pennsylvania organization, said party voters and county leaders did not want Stassen as a gubernatorial standard bearer.

Stassen, former president of the University of Pennsylvania, is known in party circles as a political plugger. The so-called Pennsylvania GOP machine is against him, but recent reports by White House political experts have been to the effect that Stassen might fuse together the independents and young Republicans into a winning ticket.

Stassen, who has the political hide of an overage elephant, told reporters in Pennsylvania Saturday morning that at this stage of politics, it was "perfectly natural" for the state organization to oppose his gubernatorial candidacy.

Police Arrest Gun-Toter On Grounds Of Truman Library

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UP) — A man who was carrying a loaded automatic pistol and who had appeared repeatedly at the Truman Library and at the home of the former President was taken into police custody today on the library grounds.

He identified himself as Richard Paul Goff, 33, Altoona, Pa., and said he wanted to talk with Truman in an effort to enlist his help in obtaining a job.

Goff, well-dressed and poised, said he resigned two weeks ago as personnel director at Fote State Hospital in Pennsylvania. A card in his possession indicated he was a member of the professional fraternity of the National Association of Social Workers.

Police said the man stopped Truman briefly late Friday as the former President was leaving the library.

Today the man appeared first at the Truman home here and rang the door bell insistently police said. Mrs. Bess Truman did not go to the door. Instead she telephoned her husband, and police were alerted. Shortly afterward, the man arrived at the library, by taxi.

Police said he had $622, plus some change. They said a gun in his hip pocket was fuly loaded, including a bullet in the chamber.

Asked whether he bid not think it "unusual" to approach a man's home or office with a loaded gun, Goff said he did not think so at the time but "now I realize it was."

Dulles Cuts Short Southern Vacation

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will cut short his Atlantic City vacation Monday and take personal charge of American efforts to avert an embarrassing U. N. Security Council showdown on the French-Tunisian dispute.

He informed the State Department of his decision Saturday, despite signs that France and Tunisia are controlling their tempers.

President Eisenhower, who also is on a vacation, is being kept fully informed of developments, officials said. The possibility of presidential messages to both sides in the dispute was not ruled out.

Officials were encouraged by press reports from Paris that the French government has decided to accept "the good offices of the United States" to mediate in the crisis set off by last Saturday's French air raid against a Tunisian border village.

The U. S. objective is to avoid a head-on, name-calling debate and vote in which the United States would have to take sides between two allies, to the profit of the Communists.

Officials noted that the U. N. charter calls on all parties to disputes to find ways to settle them outside the U.N., using the world organization's machinery only as a last resort.

Dulles is not expected to go to New York to take part in any Security Council debate on the dispute.

Lourdes Is Shrine For World Catholics

(Religious News)
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

One hundred years ago this week, a 14-year-old peasant girl named Bernadette Soubirous set out from the village of Lourdes, France, to gather firewood along the banks of a stream in the Pyrenees Mountains.

She came home with a story that baffled and disturbed her parents—a story that many people are still unable to believe.

Bernadette said she saw a vision of the Virgin Mary in a stone grotto. Her experience was repeated 17 times in the next few weeks. During one of these visits to the grotto, Bernadette dug with her hands in the rock—at the instructions of the vision, she said—and uncovered a spring.

Becomes A Shrine

Today this spring, still flowing at a rate of 8,000 gallons a day, is second only to Rome as a pilgrimage place for Roman Catholics throughout the world. It also draws many Protestants and non-Christians—a total of some two million visitors a year.

Lourdes has become a shrine because thousands of desperately sick people have become well after plunging into the icy waters of Bernadette's spring.

Fifty-four of these cures have been formally accepted by the Catholic Church as miracles.

The church's standards for proclamation of a miracle are very strict. They require, among other things, that the patient must have been suffering from a clearly organic ailment, such as cancer or a bone deformity rather than any condition like paralysis that might have a psychosomatic cause.

Requires Medical Proof

There also must be detailed medical documentation, including laboratory tests, of the patient's physical condition before and after bathing in the spring. Follow-up medical examinations are conducted for at least three years after the alleged cure to ascertain that it is permanent.

A medical bureau at Lourdes examines all pilgrims who claim to have undergone miraculous cures.

Since this bureau was set up 22 years ago, it has recorded more than 3,000 recoveries from disease or deformity which doctors held to be beyond explanation by medical science.

The Catholic Church has taken pains to emphasize to centennial year pilgrims that, for at least 999 out of each thousand who go there, Lourdes has only spiritual benefits to offer.

But how do you account for the thousandth person who goes into the baths an invalid and comes out whole? For those who do not believe in miracles, Lourdes remains a great unanswered question.

Area Highway Accident Totals

A total of 90 persons were in in 187 accidents investigated during January by the Texas Highway Patrol in the 31 counties of district 5B, according to J. W. Blackwell, captain in charge of the district.

In the report, Blackwell said the main cause of accidents in January was speeding and next was driving while drinking.

The total amount of property damage in the 187 accidents was estimated at $135,474. A total of 139 of these accidents occurred on state and federal highways.

Court Appoints Attorney For Caril Fugate

DES MOINES (UP)— Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace proposed Saturday night that the United States ask Russia to cosponsor an "international meeting" to study food and population problems.

Wallace said the "horrible armaments race" has made it "mandatory" for the United States and Russia "to adopt sensible economic instead of violent, hate-breeding political and eventually military solutions."

He said the "dominant issue of our time" is the "sudden population explosion" in Asia, an "explosion" which threatens the security of both this country and the Soviet Union.

"Real peace demands that they join us to operate through the U.N. a genuinely serious program for enabling the 'have-not' nations to double their income without using violence or interfering with any freedoms," Wallace said.

"I would suggest that the U.S. sound out the Russians quietly on the idea of working out an agenda for an international meeting on world population, resources and technology," he said.

Wallace, a native of Iowa and former Des Moines farm magazine editor, spoke at a banquet meeting of the 20th annual National Farm Institute.

Jan. 1 was not in general use as the first day of the year until 1752.

Jack Benny Affair Tops Big Month In Birthdays

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YOR K(UP) —"My name is Jack Benny. There will now be a short pause while everyone says, So What?"

The date was March 29, 1932. The place a Manhattan radio show emceed by a fellow named Ed Sullivan. The occasion was the radio debut of Benny, a 38-year-old comic from Waukegan, Ill.

For the above information I am indebted to the historical division of CBS-TV, the network that helped Benny celebrate his 40th birthday Thursday night in loose, but fairly pleasing style, on "Shower of Stars."

If you're not up on your Benny history, you may be unaware that Jack marked his 36th official birthday back on a 1944 radio show. Working under a time theory considerably more complicated than Einstein's, Benny then progressed in this fashion on his shows:

1945—Birthday number 37.
1947—Birthday number 38.
1950—Birthday number 39.
At that point, time stopped.

Marks Milestone

At least it did until Thursday night when Benny and a group of his friends celebrated Benny's 40th birthday,' a milestone somewhat comparable to the first four-minute mile, although considerably slower in execution.

I guess I should mention right here that birthdays seem to be very big on TV this month. Eddie Cantor observed his 68th on the NBC-TV Eddie Fisher Show last week and Victor Moore ticks off his 82nd on CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan hour on Feb. 23. I understand George Washington is looking for a show on the 22nd.

Anyway, almost everyone in the Benny family album turned up for Thursday's occasion except Rochester (Eddie Anderson) who collapsed during a rehearsal Wednesday.

Mary Livingstone was on hand and so was Andy Devine, Don Wilson, Paul Douglas, Van Johnson, Jo Stafford, Mel Blanc and Sam Hearn ("Mr. Schlepperman"). There were tenors past like Frank Parker and Dennis Day and bandleaders past like Phil Harris, Don Bestor, Ted Weems, Johnny Green and Bob Crosby. Also Robert Sabonjian, the mayor of Waukegan.

Crowded Like Subway

In fact, there were so many guests around, it was a little like holding a party in the subway. The hour was so crowded that most of the guests didn't have much to do. Neither did Benny which is a bit of a shame because Benny is a terribly funny man. And, I might add, a terribly young looking man for 40.

By my calculations, Benny should be ready to celebrate his next natal extravaganza around 1964. He'll be 41 then and I hope TV tries to do a little better by him. After all, he's been doing right by the rest of us for 64, uh, 40 years.

The Channel Swim: Ten West Coast NBC-TV stations will carry "Kraft Theatre" via video magnetic tape on Feb. 19—the first time a color show has received this treatment. The show, which stars Milton Berle, is called "Material Witness."

Jim Symington, 24, son of Missouri's Sen. Stuart Symington, will sing on ABC-TV's "Country Music Jubilee" Feb. 22. . .Mike Wallace settled on Rudy Vallee for his ABC - TV interview show from Hollywood on Feb. 22. Wallace also has Tennessee Williams coming up.

Right now, CBS-TV is talking about May 16 as the final date for Garry Moore's morning show . . .CBS-TV is trying to coax Jackie Gleason into next season's schedule—Right now, Gleason is drawing $5000 a week for doing nothing and he's in no hurry.

Shirley Temple will make her TV dramatic debut on March 5 in NBC-TV's "Legend of Sleepy Hollow"—It'll be live. . .Newlyweds Bob Wagner and Natalie Wood have been lined up as special guest stars for the March 2 NBC-TV Bob Hope Show.

This Week Will Determine Depression Story In Texas

AUSTIN (UP)— This week may tell whether Texas is pulling out or heading deeper into a depression, the Texas Employment Commission said today.

marks the time when rising post

Historically, mid - February Christmas-New Year unemployment starts down. Simultaneously, unemployment benefit claims begin to taper off.

However, S. Perry Brown, chairman of the TEC declined to predict what course Texas' 1958 depression might take.

He hod this to say:

Based on present reserves, the commission could absorb for six months a major depression packing about twice the economic wallop of the depression of the 1930's.

The TEC estimates that in that depression, unemployment in Texas hit a high of 14 per cent of the entire labor force. This compares with a January, 1958, figure of 5.7 per cent, or about 180,000, out of the total 3,420,000 labor force.

Job Placements Down

During January, the TEC filled 32,116 jobs. This wos down about 2,000 from the placements in December, and off 5,000 from the placements in January, 1957.

Figures for the first full week in February showed 72,160 Texans received unemployment benefits. This compared with 45,424 for the same week last year.

During the first week of February this year, the 72,160 unemployed received $1,386,000 in benefits.

This money came from a $302,901,653 fund built up by payments from 68,200 participating employers.

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Treasury used up 100 million dollars of its free gold supply this week to increase its deposits in federal reserve banks. Effect of the transfer was to make available to the government 100 million dollars more for current spending. It did not, however, increase the Treasury's total cash assets, officials said.

First Science Fair Is Scheduled Here

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

Friday and Saturday of next week, Feb. 28 and March 1, will be important days in Pampa.

These two days will see the first City-Wide Science Fair taking place in the Girls Gym at the Senior High School.

At the present time, national attention is focused on scientific achievement and the local fair is being sponsored to encourage the young people of Pampa to consider scientific careers.

The Science Fair is being held in cooperation with the National Science Fair.

All students in Pampa schools, both public and private, were eligible to enter the fair with the registration closing at 3:30 last Friday afternoon.

Approximately 85 students of the High School entered the fair but the total number of entries of the other schools was not known. Mrs. W. M. Ledbetter, high school chemistry teacher who is general chairman of the fair, indicated that approximately 300 students, from the first through the 12th grades, were expected to enter projects.

Local engineers, chemists, doctors and other persons familiar with the various types of scientific projects will judge the exhibits prior to 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 28. A total of 63 awards will be presented to individual and group winners in the four divisions. General Chairmen of Awards and Judging is Sam Begert.

Judging of the winners of the local fair will be based on five classifications. These and the maximum points allowed for each classification are: scientific thought, 30 points; creative ability, 30 points; thoroughness, 10 points; technical skill, 10 points; and clarity and dramatic value, 20 points.

The fair is divided into the following sections: grades one through three, group one; grades four through six, group two; grades seven through nine, group three; and grades 10 through 12, group 4.

First, second and third place individual and group winners will be entered in the Panhandle Science Fair, to take place in Amarillo on March 21 and 22. The top two exhibits at that fair will be entered in the National Science Fair.

Following the completion of the judging at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, the exhibits will be open to the public until 10 p.m. and on Saturday until 4 p.m. Students will be present and explain their projects.

Arrangements for the fair are under the direction of Jack Edmondson. Chairman of publicity is Wendell Altmiller.

Many projects for the Science Fair are being constructed by High School students. The projects are varied and include a model gasoline plant, the making of sulphuric acid, making fire fighting materials, making paint pigments, the extraction of caffeine from tea, a cloud chamber, electrolis, making plastics, making soap, etching glass, growing plants without soil, coloring glass.

Also included in the projects are: a series of experiments on blood sugars; making electrical condensors, stain removal; a model planitarium and an exhibit on photography.

CHOICE NEAR

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)— Democratic Party sources said selection of a candidate to run for the Senate seat of retiring Sen. Harry F. Byrd will be made within a few days. The choice was believed narrowed down to two members of the House, Reps. Watkins Abbitt and William Tuck, both staunch segregationists.

Car Of The Future Lets Driver Sleep

DETROIT (UP)— General Motors Corp. has opened up visions of cars and trucks speeding from coast-to-coast non-stop while drivers sleep, play cards with the possengers or watch television.

All this was still a long way off, but foreseeable as GM demonstrated — with a few hitches— the first full-size, self-guided car at the company technical center Friday.

Newsmen rode around the one-mile test track in a 1958 Chevrolet which followed an electric wire buried in a crack in the concrete. The car, with its human driver idle, went around the banked curves at the end of the track, although on some runs the driver took over because he was afraid the car was going a bit too fast to sense the sharp degree of turn ahead.

After a half-dozen demonstrations, the electronic marvel got temperamental, would turn only to the right and had to be driven manually back to the starting point for adjustments.

Dr. Lawrence Hafstad, GM research director, and Joseph B. Bidwell, engineering mechanics research chief, explained that the 40-watt, low-frequency wire set up a magnetic field just above the highway.

Two "pickup" coils mounted on the bumper record magnetic variations if the car goes off-center. These variations are fed into an electronic computer. This 'brain' sends orders to a device which converts the electric signals to tons then turn the front wheels to hydraulic power. Hydraulic pistons then turn the front wheels to center the car over the wire.

NEW YORK (UP)—The muchly disputed question of whether mentally disturbed people are more or less intelligent than mentally stable people, has had a new answer which is that they're less intelligest.

This is counter to a widely held opinion amng psychiatrists that, generally speaking, neurotics particularly and even many psychotics are superior in simple intelligence to the population as a whole. It also is counter to the opinion that the degree of intelligence has no relation to mental disturbance.

The new answer comes from a statistical comparison of the intelligence test scores of a number of men who were discharged from the Army during World War II for psychiatric reasons, with the scores of men who had no recorded emotional difficulties with Army authority.

The comparisons were made by John B. Miner and James E. Anderson, psychologists, for the conservation of human resources project of Columbia University.

Some of the support for psychological theories that the mentally disturbed often are superior in intelligence, comes from historical examples. For instance, Napoleon hardly was a paragon of mental stability, and there are notable examples among scientists and other intellectuals, some of whom had mental breakdowns.

But the new statistics showed that before there was any question of future mental breakdown, some World War II inductees who were generally lower in intelligence than those who wouldn't break down. By extending their studies to records of the veterans bureau, the scientists already were able to show that the pre-breakdown intelligence of men who later became severely and chronically disturbed was below that of individuals who recovered from severe disturbances.

Recalls Efforts

Miner and Anderson recalled previous statistical efforts to answer the question. Some of these gave a yes answer, some gave a no. They felt this contradiction was due to the distracting elements which enter into neurotic and psychotic thinking and prevent a really accurate measurement by psychological tests of simple intelligence.

South Texan Killed

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UP)—Walter A. Jordan, 23, of Port Acres, Tex., was killed Friday in an automobile accident on the Port Arthur Road six miles west of here. A passenger in Jordan's car, Winston Hotchkiss of Beaumont, was injured.

Abilene Man Killed

CHILDRESS, Tex. (UP) — W. W. Perkins, 57, of Abilene, was killed Friday when his car skidded on an icy highway north of here and hit another car. Tyrus Wilkins Jr., Amarillo policeman, his wife and two-year-old daughter, who were riding in the other car, were hospitalized.

Kilimanjaro, highest mountain in Africa, rises 19,340 feet above sea level.

In reporting to the American Psychological Association, they said that "strictly speaking" the results could apply only to the men studied—those who were inducted into the Army during the last four months of 1942. But the results can be applied "with some degree of confidence" to all who served in the Army, and "similar results" probably would be obtained if you made the same study of the whole U.S. population, they said.

GRAY COUNTY
Soil Conservation District News

By JIM SMATHERS
Work Unit Conservationist

The time of year for ordering fish to stock farm ponds is here again. A number of farm ponds within the Gray County Soil Conservation District have not been stocked.

For good fish production, a farm pond needs to be at least four acres in surface area if the pond is to be fertilized and at least one-half acre if the pond is not going to be fertilized.

A pond should be at least ten feet in depth. Ponds that do not hold water the year round should not be stocked.

If you want pan fish, large mouth black bass and bluegills make the best combination. They must be stocked together because neither species is satisfactory alone. Bluegills, stocked alone, quickly overpopulate the pond with stunted fish. Bass stocked alone, turn caunibalistic and produce a low yield. They must feed on other fish for mixiumum production.

Fifty bass fingerlings and 500 bluegill fingerlings per acre are stocked in unfertilized ponds. In fertilized ponds, the stocking rate may be increased to 100 bass and 1000 bluegill per surface acre. Channel catfish may be substituted for bass. Channel catfish seldom spawn in farm ponds, so have to be replaced occasionally. Fish such as crappies and bullheads are generally unsatisfactory.

Bass, bluegill and channel catfish fingerlings can be secured from hatchers of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Commercial hatcheries. Applications have to be made by May of each year for delivery during the year.

Most farm ponds are not fished heavily enough. Fishing for bluegills should begin the first summer after stocking. Bass may be taken the second summer.

It is not good management to fish selectively for bass. A good rule of thumb would be to harvest 3 to 4 pounds of bluegills for every pound of bass. Good bass fishing is a reward for heavy bluegill fishing.

For maximum fish production a farm pond may be fertilized. An unfertile pond will support less than 100 pounds of fish per acre while lightly fertle ponds will support 400 pounds. An average pond supports 150 pounds.

If you have a farm pond that needs to be stocked with fish see you local SCS technican.

Teenagers Mob Policeman

SAN ANTONIO (UP)— Some 20 teen-agers attacked a policeman at a Valentine's Day dance Friday night and stripped him of his belt, gun and cap before reinforcements arrived.

Officer Robert Tuller was working extra duty at a dance attended by about 500 youths when he saw a boy writing on a wall. Tuller was trying to evict him when the gang of boys descended on him.

Tuller managed to extricate himself, minus pistol, Sam Browne belt and cap, and called for help. Six officers arrived and broke up the party. They arrested eight boys and recovered Tuller's equipment.

The proof is in the tests!
"Buick brakes 100% better than Industry standard"
THE BEST WAY to find out who has the best brakes is to see how long they can stand up under tests like these:
Test #1 California: Driver: Griff Borgeson, an editor of SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED Magazine. Buick CENTURY results: 22 emergency-stops from 60 mph and brakes still fully effective. Buick proved 2 times better than the closest American car tested.
Test #2 Florida: Driver: NASCAR President Bill France. Buick CENTURY results: 176 crisis-stops at 60 mph and brakes still going strong. Buick proved up to 8 times better than other cars tested.
How could Buick be so far ahead of other cars? Buick's brakes get rid of heat fast because they're aluminum. And only Buick has air-cooled aluminum brakes — standard on every CENTURY, SUPER, ROADMASTER 75 and LIMITED, optional at extra cost on every SPECIAL.
So for stopping-power that matches go-power — you'd better buy Buick.

MIXED EMOTIONS — There seems to be a difference of opinion among the Collins youngsters of Oceanside, N.Y., about how best to blow out the candles as they celebrate their joint birthday party. The children were all born on the same day in different years. For 4-year-old Paul, left, blowing out the candles seems to be a matter of indifference, while Michael, 7, gives it all he's got, and Susan, 2, wants no part of it. They're the children of Lt. and Mrs. William L. Collins.

Look For FDR-Type Federal Spending

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Look for more pump - priming by the government in the inflationary tradition of Franklin D. Roosevelt and look for it soon if President Eisenhower is disappointed in his hope for a business upturn next month.

The hard political fact confronting the administration today is this:

The Republican Party probably could not survive serious depression and unemployment in the term of office of the first Republican president elected since 1928.

If inflationary government spending, pump priming, is necessary to avoid such a situation, the younger elements of the Republican Party most likely will be in favor of priming the pump. Such younger elements of the party as Vice President Richard M. Nixon reasonably may believe that their political futures still lie before them, to be realized only if the Republican Party continues as a going concern.

Nixon Would Invest

Count Nixon among the top level of administration men who would invest right now considerably more in recovery than the two - billion - dollar program already announced. Something around five billion dollars would be more in line with the vice president's thinking and there are urgent demands from Congress for even bigger outlays.

Eisenhower's chin's up review this week of administration shot-in-the-arm actions had a built-in trigger for bold additional measures in a matter of six to eight weeks. The unemployment figures for March will prove the President right or wrong in his belief that a business upturn will overtake the recession in that month. If proved wrong, Eisenhower will have no alternative to quick further action.

Pump priming on the scale discussed by some responsible persons in Washington would bounce the public debt well above the new limit at which the administration desires Congress to fix it. That new limit would be 280 billion dollars.

FDR's New Deal conceived pump priming as a depression cure. It did not work very well in the depths of business calamity during which Roosevelt applied it but it might do better in the less urgent circumstances in which it is being used today.

Votes Large Sums

Roosevelt spent between 15 and 20 billion dollars on emergency relief and recovery during his first eight years in office. Congress still was voting large relief sums, however, as late as the summer of 1939. The appropriation for the fiscal year 1940 was $1,700,000,000.

Government recovery loans of nearly one billion dollars for fiscal 1940 were authorized for such projects as water works, sewage disposal, bridges, hospitals, toll roads, bypasses, purchase of equipment to be sold or leased to railways, rural electrification, promotion of American exports.

Depression and unemployment resisted FDR's free spending political magic although the voters fell wholly under its spell. The disaster of war finally pulled the United States out of economic trouble and onto the boomtime plateau of full employment which continued until almost now.

Another busted boom probably would put Democrats in the White House again for more than the many Roosevelt - Truman years.

Tigress Has Troubles With Family

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—A Siberian tigress named Sheba who muffed all her previous chances to raise a family had a new chance today.

All she has to do is deliver two more Siberian tiger cubs, to make a total litter of six.

The first four cubs, three males and a female, were taken away from Sheba, shortly after they were born Friday. Previous litters, ranging from one to five, perished from their mother's neglect.

Como Park Zoo Director John Fletcher said he wasn't sure if Sheba would have any more in this litter, but "if she has six this time, I might just be inclined to let her raise a couple of them herself.

"She should have something to show for all the work," Fletcher said.

First Science Fair Is Scheduled Here

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

Friday and Saturday of next week, Feb. 28 and March 1, will be important days in Pampa.

These two days will see the first City-Wide Science Fair taking place in the Girls Gym at the Senior High School.

At the present time, national attention is focused on scientific achievement and the local fair is being sponsored to encourage the young people of Pampa to consider scientific careers.

The Science Fair is being held in cooperation with the National Science Fair.

All students in Pampa schools, both public and private, were eligible to enter the fair with the registration closing at 3:30 last Friday afternoon.

Approximately 85 students of the High School entered the fair but the total number of entries of the other schools was not known. Mrs. W. M. Ledbetter, high school chemistry teacher who is general chairman of the fair, indicated that approximately 300 students, from the first through the 12th grades, were expected to enter projects.

Local engineers, chemists, doctors and other persons familiar with the various types of scientific projects will judge the exhibits prior to 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 28. A total of 68 awards will be presented to individual and group winners in the four divisions. General Chairmen of Awards and Judging is Sam Begert.

Judging of the winners of the local fair will be based on five classifications. These and the maximum points allowed for each classification are: scientific thought, 30 points; creative ability, 30 points; thoroughness, 10 points; technical skill, 10 points; and clarity and dramatic value, 20 points.

The fair is divided into the following sections: grades one through three, group one; grades four through six, group two; grades seven through nine, group three; and grades 10 through 12, group 4.

First, second and third place individual and group winners will be entered in the Panhandle Science Fair, to take place in Amarillo on March 21 and 22. The top two exhibits at that fair will be entered in the National Science Fair.

Following the completion of the judging at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, the exhibits will be open to the public until 10 p.m. and on Saturday until 4 p.m. Students will be present and explain their projects.

Arrangements for the fair are under the direction of Jack Edmondson. Chairman of publicity is Wendell Altmiller.

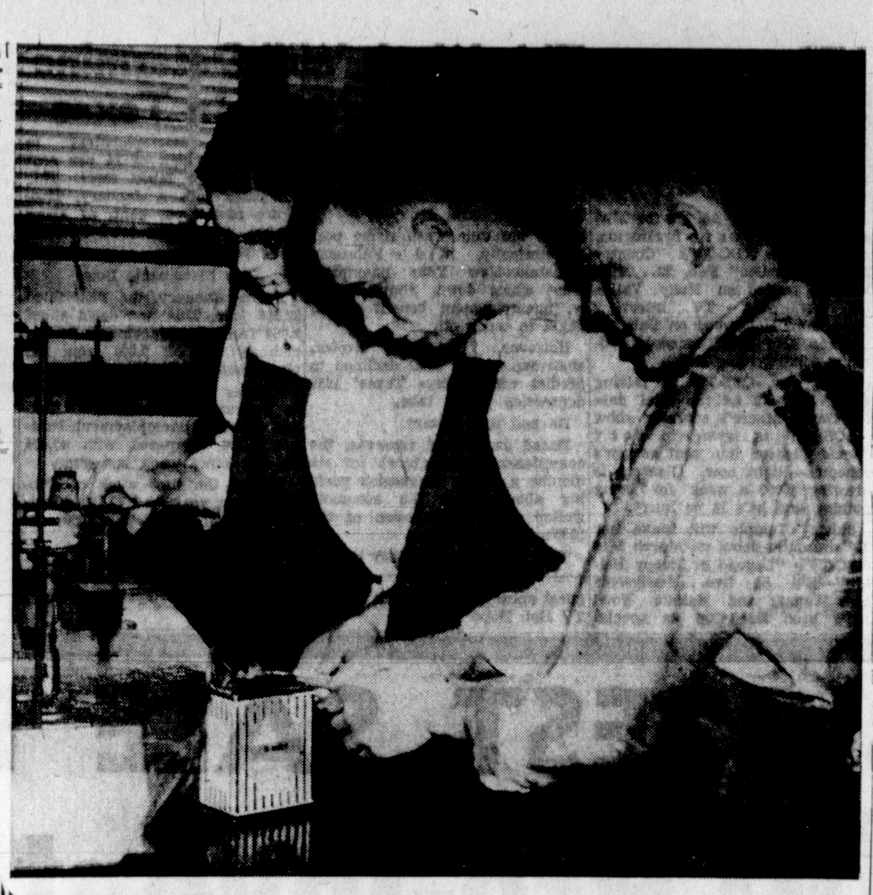

Many projects for the Science Fair are being constructed by High School students. The projects are varied and include a model gasoline plant, the making of sulphuric acid, making fire fighting materials, making paint pigments, the extraction of caffeine from tea, a cloud chamber, electrolis, making plastics, making soap, etching glass, growing plants without soil, coloring glass.

Also included in the projects are: a series of experiments on blood sugars; making electrical condensors, stain removal; a model planitarium and an exhibit on photography.

CHOICE NEAR

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)— Democratic Party sources said selection of a candidate to run for the Senate seat of retiring Sen. Harry F. Byrd will be made within a few days. The choice was believed narrowed down to two members of the House, Reps. Watkins Abbitt and William Tuck, both staunch segregationists.

New Answer To A Popular Mental Health Question

Science Today
By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—The muchly disputed question of whether mentally disturbed people are more or less intelligent than mentally stable people, has had a new answer which is that they're less intelligest.

This is counter to a widely held opinion amng psychiatrists that, generally speaking, neurotics particularly and even many psychotics are superior in simple intelligence to the population as a whole. It also is counter to the opinion that the degree of intelligence has no relation to mental disturbance.

The new answer comes from a statistical comparison of the intelligence test scores of a number of men who were discharged from the Army during World War II for psychiatric reasons, with the scores of men who had no recorded emotional difficulties with Army authority.

The comparisons were made by John B. Miner and James E. Anderson, psychologists, for the conservation of human resources project of Columbia University.

Some of the support for psychological theories that the mentally disturbed often are superior in intelligence, comes from historical examples. For instance, Napoleon hardly was a paragon of mental stability, and there are notable examples among scientists and other intellectuals, some of whom had mental breakdowns.

But the new statistics showed that before there was any question of future mental breakdown, some World War II inductees who were generally lower in intelligence than those who wouldn't break down. By extending their studies to records of the veterans bureau, the scientists already were able to show that the pre-breakdown intelligence of men who later became severely and chronically disturbed was below that of individuals who recovered from severe disturbances.

Recalls Efforts

Miner and Anderson recalled previous statistical efforts to answer the question. Some of these gave a yes answer, some gave a no. They felt this contradiction was due to the distracting elements which enter into neurotic and psychotic thinking and prevent a really accurate measurement by psychological tests of simple intelligence.

South Texan Killed

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UP)—Walter A. Jordan, 28, of Port Acres, Tex., was killed Friday in an automobile accident on the Port Arthur Road six miles west of here. A passenger in Jordan's car, Winston Hotchkiss of Beaumont, was injured.

Abilene Man Killed

CHILDRESS, Tex. (UP) — W. W. Perkins, 57, of Abilene, was killed Friday when his car skidded on an icy highway north of here and hit another car. Tyrus Wilkins Jr., Amarillo policeman, his wife and two-year-old daughter, who were riding in the other car, were hospitalized.

In reporting to the American Psychological Association, they said that "strictly speaking"—the results could apply only to the men studied—those who were inducted into the Army during the last four months of 1942. But the results can be applied "with some degree of confidence" to all who served in the Army, and "similar results" probably would be obtained if you made the same study of the whole U.S. population, they said.

GRAY COUNTY
Soil Conservation District News

By JIM SMATHERS
Work Unit Conservationist

The time of year for ordering fish to stock farm ponds is here again. A number of farm ponds within the Gray County Soil Conservation District have not been stocked.

For good fish production, a farm pond needs to be at least four acres in surface area if the pond is to be fertilized and at least one-half acre if the pond is not going to be fertilized.

A pond should be at least ten feet in depth. Ponds that do not hold water the year round should not be stocked.

If you want pan fish, large mouth black bass and bluegills make the best combination. They must be stocked together because neither species is satisfactory alone. Bluegills, stocked alone, quickly overpopulate the pond with stunted fish. Bass stocked alone, turn caunibalistic and produce a low yield. They must feed on other fish for mixiumum production.

Fifty bass fingerlings and 500 bluegill fingerlings per acre are stocked in unfertilized ponds. In fertilized ponds, the stocking rate may be increased to 100 bass and 1000 bluegill per surface acre. Channel catfish may be substituted for bass. Channel catfish seldom spawn in farm ponds, so have to be replaced occasionally. Fish such as crappies and bullheads are generally unsatisfactory.

Bass, bluegill and channel catfish fingerlings can be secured from hatchers of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Commercial hatcheries. Applications have to be made by May of each year for delivery during the year.

Most farm ponds are not fished heavily enough. Fishing for bluegills should begin the first summer after stocking. Bass may be taken the second summer.

It is not good management to fish selectively for bass. A good rule of thumb would be to harvest 3 to 4 pounds of bluegills for every pound of bass. Good bass fishing is a reward for heavy bluegill fishing.

For maximum fish production a farm pond may be fertilized. An unfertile pond will support less than 100 pounds of fish per acre while lightly fertle ponds will support 400 pounds. An average pond supports 150 pounds.

If you have a farm pond that needs to be stocked with fish see you local SCS technican.

Teenagers Mob Policeman

SAN ANTONIO (UP)— Some 20 teen-agers attacked a policeman at a Valentine's Day dance Friday night and stripped him of his belt, gun and cap before reinforcements arrived.

Officer Robert Tuller was working extra duty at a dance attended by about 500 youths when he saw a boy writing on a wall. Tuller was trying to evict him when the gang of boys descended on him.

Tuller managed to extricate himself, minus pistol, Sam Browne belt and cap, and called for help. Six officers arrived and broke up the party. They arrested eight boys and recovered Tuller's equipment.

Car Of The Future Lets Driver Sleep

DETROIT (UP)— General Motors Corp. has opened up visions of cars and trucks speeding from coast-to-coast non-stop while drivers sleep, play cards with the possengers or watch television.

All this was still a long way off, but foreseeable as GM demonstrated — with a few hitches — the first full-size, self-guided car at the company technical center Friday.

Newsmen rode around the one-mile test track in a 1958 Chevrolet which followed an electric wire buried in a crack in the concrete. The car, with its human driver idle, went around the banked curves at the end of the track, although on some runs the driver took over because he was afraid the car was going a bit too fast to sense the sharp degree of turn ahead.

After a half-dozen demonstrations, the electronic marvel got temperamental, would turn only to the right and had to be driven manually back to the starting point for adjustments.

Dr. Lawrence Hafstad, GM research director, and Joseph B. Bidwell, engineering mechanics research chief, explained that the 40-watt, low-frequency wire set up a magnetic field just above the highway.

Two "pickup" coils mounted on the bumper record magnetic variations if the car goes off-center. These variations are fed into an electronic computer. This 'brain" sends orders to a device which converts the electric signals to tons then turn the front wheels to hydraulic power. Hydraulic pistons then turn the front wheels to center the car over the wire.

The proof is in the tests!
"Buick brakes 100% better than Industry standard"

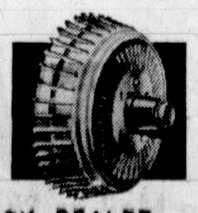

THE BEST WAY to find out who has the best brakes is to see how long they can stand up under tests like these:

Test #1 California: Driver: Griff Borgeson, an editor of SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED Magazine. Buick CENTURY results: 22 emergency-stops from 60 mph and brakes still fully effective. Buick proved 2 times better than the closest American car tested.

Test #2 Florida: Driver: NASCAR President Bill France. Buick CENTURY results: 176 crisis-stops at 60 mph and brakes still going strong. Buick proved up to 8 times better than other cars tested.

How could Buick be so far ahead of other cars? Buick's brakes get rid of heat fast because they're aluminum. And only Buick has air-cooled aluminum brakes — standard on every CENTURY, SUPER, ROADMASTER 75 and LIMITED, optional at extra cost on every SPECIAL.

So for stopping-power that matches go-power — you'd better buy Buick.

MIXED EMOTIONS — There seems to be a difference of opinion among the Collins youngsters of Oceanside, N.Y., about how best to blow out the candles as they celebrate their joint birthday party. The children were all born on the same day in different years. For 4-year-old Paul, left, blowing out the candles seems to be a matter of indifference, while Michael, 7, gives it all he's got, and Susan, 2, wants no part of it. They're the children of Lt. and Mrs. William L. Collins.

Look For FDR-Type Federal Spending

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Look for more pump - priming by the government in the inflationary tradition of Franklin D. Roosevelt and look for it soon if President Eisenhower is disappointed in his hope for a business upturn next month.

The hard political fact confronting the administration today is this:

The Republican Party probably could not survive serious depression and unemployment in the term of office of the first Republican president elected since 1928.

If inflationary government spending, pump priming, is necessary to avoid such a situation, the younger elements of the Republican Party most likely will be in favor of priming the pump. Such younger elements of the party as Vice President Richard M. Nixon reasonably may believe that their political futures still lie before them, to be realized only if the Republican Party continues as a going concern.

Nixon Would Invest

Count Nixon among the top level of administration men who would invest right now considerably more in recovery than the two - billion - dollar program already announced. Something around five billion dollars would be more in line with the vice president's thinking and there are urgent demands from Congress for even bigger outlays.

Eisenhower's chin's up review this week of administration shot-in-the-arm actions had a built-in trigger for bold additional measures in a matter of six to eight weeks. The unemployment figures for March will prove the President right or wrong in his belief that a business upturn will overtake the recession in that month. If proved wrong, Eisenhower will have no alternative to quick further action.

Pump priming on the scale discussed by some responsible persons in Washington would bounce the public debt well above the new limit at which the administration desires Congress to fix it. That new limit would be 280 billion dollars.

FDR's New Deal conceived pump priming as a depression cure. It did not work very well in the depths of business calamity during which Roosevelt applied it but it might do better in the less urgent circumstances in which it is being used today.

Votes Large Sums

Roosevelt spent between 15 and 20 billion dollars on emergency relief and recovery during his first eight years in office. Congress still was voting large relief sums, however, as late as the summer of 1939. The appropriation for the fiscal year 1940 was $1,700,000,000.

Government recovery loans of nearly one billion dollars for fiscal 1940 were authorized for such projects as water works, sewage disposal, bridges, hospitals, toll roads, bypasses, purchase of equipment to be sold or leased to railways, rural electrification, promotion of American exports.

Depression and unemployment resisted FDR's free spending political magic although the voters fell wholly under its spell. The disaster of war finally pulled the United States out of economic trouble and onto the boomtime plateau of full employment which continued until almost now.

Another busted boom probably would put Democrats in the White House again for more than the many Roosevelt - Truman years.

Tigress Has Troubles With Family

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—A Siberian tigress named Sheba who muffed all her previous chances to raise a family had a new chance today.

All she has to do is deliver two more Siberian tiger cubs, to make a total litter of six.

The first four cubs, three males and a female, were taken away from Sheba, shortly after they were born Friday. Previous litters, ranging from one to five, perished from their mother's neglect.

Como Park Zoo Director John Fletcher said he wasn't sure if Sheba would have any more in this litter, but "if she has six this time, I might just be inclined to let her raise a couple of them herself.

"She should have something to show for all the work," Fletcher said.

CAUSE FOR ENCOURAGEMENT—With a saving of 1,128 lives over the previous year and the lowest death rate in history (5.9 per 100,000 vehicle miles), the 1957 traffic record was definitely encouraging, says the National Safety Council. Thirty states registered declines (see Newsmap above), while the national average was 3 per cent below 1956—this in the face of a 4 per cent rise in motor vehicle travel. On the sobering side, however, are the facts that 1,350,000 Americans were maimed in traffic accidents in 1957, and that the loss to the nation in money alone—for medical expenses, wage losses, insurance and property damage—totaled 5.3 billion dollars

Problems Seen In Cut In Oil Production, Prices

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Leaders in southwestern states voiced concern Saturday over possible economic setbacks from cutbacks in both production and prices of crude oil.

While the first price reductions were limited to 10 cents a barrel on sour crude in certain fields, there were fears the price drops might become general.

The economies of Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma, and to a lesser degree those of other south western states, are tied closely to oil.

Oklahoma, for example, depends heavily on the gross production tax on oil for revenue. A statewide price drop of 10 cents would cost the state nearly $3,000 a day or more than one million a year in lost revenue.

The tax is 5 per cent of the total value of the crude.

Loss in Income

The loss in income to state producers would run even more on a 10-cent cut, $60,000 a day, or nearly one million dollars every 16 days.

The loss in Texas, the nation's largest producer, would be several times as great.

Texas Gov. Price Daniel warned this week, "nothing could destroy the economy of this state quicker than price cuts on top of excessive imports."

Daniel, who has appointed a 11-member special commission to study effect of oil imports on the Texas economy, was sharply critical of "foreign oil importers who are taking advantage of the present situation to threaten and in some instances cut prices of oil produced in Texas."

Drops Cause Concern

In Oklahoma, Gov. Raymond Gary, who like Daniel, has fought to limit imports, said, "naturally, the price drops cause concern."

"However, if there are no further cuts," he said, "it will not be seriously crippling. But it will reduce the revenue and hurt the economy to some extent.

"So long as it doesn't start a trend . . . if it is limited to 10 cents a barrel, it will hurt some, but not to the point of being severe."

The cutbacks prompted Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) to call President Eisenhower to use his power to "end excessive foreign oil imports."

Signs of softening of the crude market became more pronounced last week when Eastern States Petroleum and Chemical Corp. announced a 50 - cent cut on West Texas crude.

Auto Workers May Swap On Contract

DETROIT (UP) — The United Auto Workers General Motors Council has given a broad hint the union may trade its profit sharing demand for better health insurance, shorter hours and higher pay.

UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock also said the union "would listen" to General Motors Corp. arguments that the annual wage increase should be less than 10 cents an hour.

The 350-member council Friday concluded a three - day meeting held to draw up specific 1958 contract proposals to the company. Woodcock announced the results at a news conference.

The council unanimously adopted the profit sharing plan drawn up by President Walter P. Reuther and other union leaders, and approved last month at the UAW bargaining convention.

But its two main resolutions indicated the workers' share of profits should be used first for a company-paid, full-coverage health insurance program, and second for a full-pay, shorter work week.

The council asked that "elimination of worker contributions to hospital - medical and insurance coverages be accomplished by allocation from the workers' share of the profits."

Japan Rushes Scientists From Base In Antarctic

TOKYO (UP) — Japan pulled out of its base in the Antarctic today, leaving behind 15 sledge dogs.

A ski - equipped light plane brought out three scientists stationed at Showa Base, on Ongul Island, together with three of 18 sled dogs.

The U.S. Navy ice breaker Burton Island began leading the Japanese Antarctic Expedition ship Soya Maru through fast-closing ice in a desperate race to escape into the open sea before they are frozen fast into the ice.

What was done for the 15 remaining dogs before the expedition members made their reluctant decision to withdraw was not known at the expedition headquarters here in Tokyo.

"We are confident that the last three men took proper measures for them before they left," a spokesman said. "However, we have had no word."

A flood of protests was anticipated from Japanese dog-lovers who petitioned government officials to be sure to see that the dogs' lives were spared.

Newspapers and radio commentators were already caustically critical of the handling of the Antarctic project. They charged Japanese scientists with lack of planning and over-ambitiousness.

Officials emphasized that the evacuation of Showa Base did not yet mean abandonment of Japan's International Geophysical Year observations through the coming Antarctic winter.

The original project had been to keep an 11-man team at Showa to carry on the observations conducted by the Japanese during the past year.

The Japanese planned a new attempt to land a winter team at Showa by plane after the Soya reached the open sea. But feeling among Japanese was pessimistic.

Old West To Be At State Fair

DALLAS (UP)—Visitors to the state fair grounds this fall will be subject to gunfights with howling Indians and masked bandits.

Blanks will be used, however, in the battles, one of the attractions scheduled to be included in a six and a-half acre reproduction of frontier Texas, Peter Wolf Associates of Dallas announced Saturday.

The layout will have a complete town of the 1870s, mountains, rivers, a steamboat, a ghost town, an Indian encampment, an old opera house seating 1,000 persons, buffalo, cattle, a fort and restaurants.

The firm said the project will cost four to five million dollars.

A full time staff of frontier characters will be on hand to extend such courtesies to visitors as mock attacks by Indians and bandits, which will be thwarted by a "typical western marshal and his deputies."

Social Disease Rate Climbing In Texas

By PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS (UP) — The venereal disease rate in Texas is increasing again and the reason may be the wonder drugs that were supposed to wipe it out.

After World War II, penicillin particularly got a lot of publicity as the drug that was going to make syphilis and gonorrhea as rare as yellow fever.

Now, according to a spokesman for the David Graham Hall Foundation, a non-profit research and educational agency, the public and civic leaders think venereal diseases are wiped out.

about the problem, so the di-

Few persons are concerned seases spread without hindrance, cases that were diagnosed, but and "forgotten t housands" of not adequately treated prior to penicillin days, still exist.

Little Being Done

Dr. Allan R. Doane, director of the division of venereal disease control of the State Health Department, suggests that in areas where a decline of venereal disease is noted, it generally means that little is being done to control it.

"...We contend that there exists much infectious syphilis which a carefully directed program could reveal," he said.

"It is remarkable that without exception wherever in the state we have intensified case-finding techniques, the morbidity (incidence) of infectious syphilis has risen.

"In those areas where a decline has been noted, we find that very little is being done in active case finding. In both situations, and especially in the past year, there has been a remarkable decline in morbidity reporting from private physicians.

Reluctant to Report

"We have no way to develop a complete statistical evaluation of VD incidence because patients and physicians are reluctant to report cases."

Dr. Doane commended Houston and El Paso for good examples of Venereal disease finding programs.

The David Graham Hall Foundation's spokesman also criticized the lack of reporting by physicians on cases of venereal diseases.

He said the foundation for 16 years has checked reports from states and localities where venereal diseases are a problem.

"Texas is one of those in which prevalence and incidence figures were found to be grossly deficient," he said.

Suspect Areas

"In a recent six-month period, according to the weekly published Texas morbidity reports, only 95 of 254 Texas counties are shown to have reported any cases of veneral disease to the State Department of Health.

"Many of the counties not reporting were recognized to be definite suspect areas."

He said that many counties do not even have health departments. One thing the Foundation would like to know is whether there is a teen-aged VD problem.

The foundation thinks that earl symptoms of syphilis are conceal ed by inadequate doses of ant biotics, such as penicillin, boug at drugstores without prescri tion.

The disease later breaks out f full fury, when it is too late t do anything about it.

Stocks Climb After Six-Day Decline

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks turned up after a six-day decline when President Eisenhower spotted a beginning of the end of the business recession by next month.

The market had lost ground steadily the first three days of the week. When the President spoke on Thursday prices turned up but dipped from their highs. On Friday a substantial recovery left the list only moderately lower on the week.

At Friday's close the industrial average was at 444.44 off 4.32 points from the previous week; railroad 107.70 off 1.00; utility 72.05 off 0.48, and the 65 stocks in these three averages 151.92 off 1.37.

Trading for the week totaled 10,002,565 shares or a daily average of only 2,000,513 shares. This compared with a daily average turnover of 2,474,247 shares in the previous week.

Soft Goods Gain

At the low point of the week, the market showed a decline of 18.41 points in the industrials and 5.78 points in the rails from the year's highs set on Feb. 4.

A total of 1,378 issues appeared on the tape. Of these 496 managed to show gains while 724 declined and 158 held steady. There were 63 new 13-month highs set and 22 new lows.

The groups that managed to gain were mostly in the consumer or soft goods groups. These included the tobaccos where Lorillard and Reynolds B rose more than 3 points each; the foods where Sunshine Biscuit gained 4; the insurance issues with Continental up more than 5 and Fidelity-Phenix up more than 4; the drugs where Parke Davis gained 5¼; and the shoes where Brown Shoe managed to rise nearly 4 points.

Airlines responded to a change in accounting methods which would increase their earnings totals and Eastern rose more than 2 points. Magic Chef was up nearly 4 in the store group. Commercial Credit rose nearly 2 in the finance companies.

Motors held steady to firm. Chemicals lost sharply with Du Pont

Steels were narrowly irregular, down 4¼ and Eastman off 5⅞. Oils showed moderate losses. Specials had losses running to 7 points each in Addressograph-Multigraph and American Hawaiian Steamship.

Chrysler Reports Record

Aircrafts sagged but General Dynamics, which also is a big factor in shipbuilding, came back to close unchanged on receipt of a Navy order to build two atom-powered submarines equipped with the Polaris missile.

Railroad issues were sustained by a selective freight rate increase. The firmness in motors came after Chrysler issued its report for 1957 showing record sales and the third best earnings report in its history.

Weakness in oils early in the week reflected some cutbacks in production together with a statement by the president of Jersey Standard urging further reduction in processing of crude oil to bring inventories into better relationship with demand.

Steels got a lift late in the week on evidence of a coming turnabout in that industry which dipped slightly this past week. The Iron Age looked for some signs of an upturn in March. Steel scrap showed a firmer tone and one company scheduled a return of operations in one of its banked blast furnaces.

The black jewfish sometimes weighs as much as 500 pounds.

APPLE DUMPLING — If an apple a day keeps the doctor away, pretty Sandra Elswick, Pennsylvania's 1958 Apple Queen, is all set for a healthy life. The 17-year-old high school senior, from Stewartstown, Pa., was picked at the State Horticultural Association meeting in York, Pa.

Rock Hudson, Kim Novak Are Voted Box Office Champs

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Moviemakers, suffering the worst financial doldrums in film history, learned from theater owners today they could be back in the chips by co-starring Rock Hudson and Kim Novak in all their pictures.

Hudson and Kim were voted boxoffice champs in a nationwide poll of exhibitors by Box Office magazine, a movie trade journal.

Neither star has drawn rave reviews for acting ability, nor have they ever appeared together in a film. Chances are slim they ever will, as long as Kim is under contract to Columbia, and Hudson is with Universal-International.

In the box-office poll popularity, magazine covers and talent weren't considered. The stars were judged on their ability to bring in loot.

Award May Be Gold

No loving cups are passed out to the winners. But a suitable award might be a sackful of gold nuggetts. To heck with artistic triumphs, say theater owners, they lose money. The pretty people are the ones who pay off in cash.

In almost every case screen heroes outdrew glamour girls by a wide margin—and there wasn't a homely winner in the lot.

Following Hudson among the top dozen money-makers were William Holden, Cary Grant, Frank Sinatra, Gary Cooper, Marlon Brando, James Stewart, Burt Lancaster, Glenn Ford, Yul Brynner, Clark Gable, John Wayne.

Runners-up to Kim, who was unplaced two years ago, were Doris Day, Deborah Kerr, Elizabeth Taylor, Audrey Hepburn, Debbie Reynolds, June Allyston, Ingrid Bergman, Ava Gardner, Susan Hayward, Marilyn Monroe and Dorothy Malone.

An odd note: La Monroe didn't have a picture in release last year.

Hudson Replaces Holden

Hudson, tenth last year, lifted a crown from Bill Holden. Kim, on the other hand, also topped last year's standings.

Back on the list after an absence of nine years was Ingrid Bergman, thanks to her role in "Anastasia" — which won her an Academy Award Oscar.

Newcomers to the poll were Brynner and Dorothy Malone. Grace Kelly, sixth in 1956, made no pictures and disappeared from the list. Humphrey Bogart, who died a year ago, was 12th in the 1956 poll.

Brando, number 2 last year, dropped back to the 6th spot, and John Wayne, a regular for the past eight years, skidded from 4th to 12th.

All-time champ is Gary Cooper, a consistent winner since 1936. Gable is another long-standing boxoffice king.

Both were on the 1936 poll, which included Shirley Temple (Number 1), William Powell, Myrna Loy, Paul Muni, Spencer Tracy, Jeanette MacDonald, Claudette Colbert, Robert Tayloy, Ronald Coleman and Sonja Henie.

World Day Of Prayer Observance Friday

The prayers of chanting aborines in the wilds of central Australia will be voiced in many ngues circling the globe when e 1958 World Day of Prayer wns.

A committee of church women Melbourne carefully collected ur of these prayers from nomadtribeswomen, who have no writn language but have been taught e Christian gospel. Around em was written the service for e annual international observces on the first Friday in Lent, February 21.

The women of Melbourne noted at the supplications of these mple aborigines to their Maker e in tune with the hopes and pirations of the United Nations d of the concept of One World. r they ask God's love for "peoe of all places in the earth."

One credited to Mondalni of ulborn River — a Maung woan, entreats:

"May the people of all nations arn to know Your great truths d goodness through Jesus rist, and so be able to teach eir children that only through m can the peoples of the world ave true happiness and lasting eace."

Another, composed by Malanana and Migamajawui of Milingnbi, poetically declares:

"You know, oh God, that a very mall leaf on the ground can mean hat big roots are underneath, so e pray that even a little light rom You touching the heart will nean that men and women will now of a very great love coming rom You for them. We pray that his light and love will grow everyhere until everyone will have eard the story of Your way."

Each year the service that will e said in some sixty languages nd in more than 1,000 dialects, rom the tropical Tonga Islands to he bleak Aleutians, comes from a different country. Last year's hoice of a writer by United Church Women, a general deartment of the National Council f Churches and sponsors of World Day of Prayer in the United Statns, was prophetic. They chose an Hungarian emigre, who incorporated into lines, written a year before the uprising in her unhappy land, supplications for world unity that took on poignant meaning when the Hungarian crisis flared.

World Day of Prayer, when millions of women around the world join in a twenty-four hour prayer vigil, is set aside to unite all Christians in the bond of prayer and to make an offering for Christian missions at home and abroad.

When dawn breaks in the Tongas, west of the International Date Line, the first invocations rise from the people of Queen Salote's island kingdom, led by that popular Christian monarch.

As the sun in its course wheels across the heavens, the cadenced phrases pour forth in ever-widening arcs, carrying the spirit of faith, brotherhood, and love across Asia, Africa, Europe, the Americas, and the intervening island groups.

The voices of those men and women dedicated to peace and universal good will cross 144 countries on six continents around the sphere. By nightfall they die to a whisper in the Land of the Midnight Sun — on that speck in the Bering Sea that is St. Lawrence Island.

At no time in the twenty-four hour passage of the sun around the earth will the chain of prayer be broken. The theme for the day is The Bread of Life. So, in Tamil, in Swahili, in Chinese, as well as in English, French, German, Spanish, and other tongues, men and women will ask for bread for the physically hungering and for The Bread of Life for those who hunger and thirst spiritually — "bread for the souls of men in the form of mercy, grace, and divine fellowship . . . for those who are starved for love and understanding . . . for the lonely ones, the strangers, the refugees."

In the United States where World Day of Prayer came into being in 1887 — the idea of a small group of dedicated Christian women — more than 25,000 communities will take part in the 1958 observance. In great cathedrals and in tiny roadside chapels the special service will be heard, as well as in shops, schools, colleges, hospitals, factories and fields.

Mayors and governors in many states and cities will issue special proclamations. In some places traffic will come to a dead halt for one minute of silent prayer and the joyful bells of many denominations will ring in unison, calling the faithful to worship.

Sheridan, Wyo., is such a town — chimes and bells ring during several fifteen - minute periods, as services are held in the Veterans Hospital, in a large school, and in the churches. Wyoming is a state that lends itself to colorful ceremonial by Indians, its first Americans. So special homage is paid them here with a Miss Indian-American chosen for the day and the Lord's prayer said in Indian sign language.

Oak Park, Ill., celebrates by taking the service to hundreds of shut - ins and by observances around the clock for various ages and employment groups. Twelve churches provide an interdenominational choir — a practice carried out in many towns.

Yankton, South Dakota, stresses unity and brotherhood by bringing together local representatives of many nationalities for its services.

Out where the West begins — in Dallas, Tex., nearly fifty business firms hold devotional periods and "Sweet Hour of Prayer" is played from the top of the tallest building. The City Council of Burbank, Calif., authorizes, the singing of hymns over the city's loud speaker system at City Hall, and the Mayor of Collinsville, Okla., has religious music broadcast in the business district. In at least one church in New York, an all - day prayer vigil is maintained around the clock in the little chapel.

Overseas interest in World Day of Prayer is extensive. Special posters written in the Shona language are placed in government schools in Southern Rhodesia, Africa, and the wife of the African pastor conducts the service in Shona, while the clear soprano and deep, rich alto voices of African women singing a capella give special inspiration to the day.

A committee of Korean church women translated the service into their language last year and printed 30,000 copies — used in twenty-five churches — an indication of the important place World Day of Prayer holds in the life of the Korean Christian church.

The first time the day was observed by the churches in Madras, India, was last year, when services were held in Tamil and English in St. Christopher's College, high school and nursery training school and in various churches.

Servicemen from the many military bases in Hawaii crowded ten churches celebrating in Oahu.

Through World Day of Prayer offerings poured out spontaneously with love and a desire to help, hard-pressed agricultural workers and our Indian - American brothers trying to adjust to city life are among those aided in America.

As Christians everywhere ask God for the gifts of world peace and unity, the growing contributions help to develop Christian leadership in newly awakened Africa and Asia. Reading materials for new literates are provided on several continents; the Mau Mau resettlement camps received new light and life through the mobile unit that repeatedly visits them; pilot projects for village children are set up; Christian broadcasting is increased in lands where this is all-important at this crucial moment in world history and other self-help and educational services are carried out — thanks to World Day of Prayer funds.

Underground Quarters Sought At Carswell

FORT WORTH (UP)— The Air Force has announced it is seeking funds to build underground living quarters and airplane parking ramps at each end of the main runway at Carswell Air Force Base.

The installments would be used for crews on alert duty, Maj. F. R. Spies, assistant operations officer, said. This would save time in getting crews on alert duty to their planes in the event of an emergency.

Spies said Carswell is getting B-52s to replace its B-36s and the object of the underground quarters is to be able to get a third of the bomber force off the ground in 15 minutes.

KINGSPORT, Tenn.—Lt. Percy Wilkins of Sewart Air Force Base, Tenn., on the wreckage of a plane found Friday with the bodies of two officers aboard:

"If the plane had been 150 feet higher it would have cleared the mountains."

HOLIDAY REVIVED

MOSCOW (UP)—A modern version of the old Russian Orthodox holiday "Maslennitsa" was in full swing in Moscow today. The Soviet winter carnival opened Friday night in Lenin Stadium for a 10-day period. Thousands of Muscovites are expected to attend the carnival to visit the booths and eat the traditional Russian pancakes known as "blini" which were once features of the Maslennitsa.

Unlike the Old World tree whose juices killed Socrates, the misnamed American hemlock is poisonous to neither man no beast.

FITS LIKE A FIDDLE—Could be that the orchestra was playing Brahms' "Lullaby," and it was just too much for a tired stagehand. In any event this bass violin case was just the right size for stagehand Joel King to use for a cat nap during a symphony concert in Ft. Meyer, Va.

Bobby Wilhelm Wins; Five Fighters Remain In State Gloves Meet

Sports Roundup

By CHARLES CULLIN

Pampa News Sports Editor

Although the finals are yet to come in the state Golden Gloves Tournament in Fort Worth, the Amarillo regional team, including three Pampa boxers, set an outstanding mark in the opening rounds.

The brothers, Bobby and Gary Wilhelm, both won through TKO's in the opening bouts Thursday. Bobby tagged his in 58 seconds of the first round and Gary in 1:15 of the second.

Bobby's over-all record during his fighting career stands at 114-11. His victories include wins over three New Mexico State champions and one All-Army semi-finalist. While on boxing scholarship at the University of Wisconsin he set an unprecedented mark by earning the "Outstanding Competitor" award two years in a row. However, Bobby doesn't plan to give the pro circuit a try.

Gary ranked as the runner-up to the state champion in last year's state gloves gathering. His lifetime record is 45-5 at 17 years of age. Among his laurels are victories over two New Mexico state title holders.

Ollie Wilhelm, the father of the two boys, is serving this year as head coach for the regional team.

Recently Ring Magazine carried a picture of the Fort Riley Kans. boxing team along with a story of their wins during the past season. The team ranked fourth nationally among inter-service boxing teams and yet the Pampa club, along with others now on the Amarillo regional team, won the matches here, 8-2.

Pampa's Harvesters need only one game for a cinch tie and two games for an undisputed championship in the district 3-AAAA basketball race. With only Lubbock and Plainview remaining it should be an easy walk on in to the title role.

Although two members of the Harvester team, Mack Layne and Larry Cruise, were ailing with flu Friday, the Pampa cagers will have little trouble with Lubbock. Friday night the Monterey Plainsmen edged the Westerners, 61-60, and the previous Tuesday Pampa easily dumped Monterey, 81-62, while using boys from the Shocker team throughout the game.

The Thursday night battle with Plainview will be the real decider but the Bulldogs also should be an easy mark for the Pampans. Although Plainview stood second in the district until it lost to Borger Friday, 72-60, the team was overrated throughout the season. The key contest during the entire season was the victory of Plainview over Borger.

Although Coach Tex Hanna had the finest ball club in the district other than Pampa, it was the slip-up with Plainview that cost him a chance for a playoff with Pampa. This was proven in the fact that Plainview was beaten by Amarillo and edged Palo Duro by only one point, 70-69. The Harvesters spilled the Sandies, 76-61 and 56-52, and defeated Palo Duro, 75-63 and 102-60.

Borger now stands 8-2 and Plainview has 7-3.

The Harvesters remain in the lead of district teams in offense, having upheld a 73.7 point-per-game average. Plainview stands third with 68.4. Pampa ranks third in defense, having allowed 57.1 per game and Plainview stands fourth with 57.2.

Harvesters Battle Lubbock Tomorrow

PAMPA'S HARVESTERS go for one of the two games needed for a district championship title tomorrow as they travel to Lubbock to engage the Tom S. Westerners in Chapman Field House at 8.

Standing with an undisputed lead role in the District 3-AAAA race, the Pampa cagers have recorded eight victories against a single loss in loop action.

IN DISTRICT games the Harvesters have downed Amarillo, 76-61 and 56-52; Palo Duro, 75-63 and 102-60; Borger, 60-58; Monterey, 89-46 and 81-52; Lubbock 80-58; and Plainview, 64-57. Pampa's single loss for the season came at the hands of Borger, 69-63, in the first meeting of the two teams. For the season the Harvesters stand at 22-2.

The Tom S. cagers now rank sixth among 3-4A teams, having compiled a 2-9 mark in district action. Friday night they were edged by the Plainsmen of Monterey, 61-60. Last Tuesday Pampa defeated the Plainsmen by a 29-point margin. For the season Lubbock has 18 wins against 18 losses.

IN OFFENSE Pampa ranks at the top of the district, having averaged 73.7 points per game on a total of 1,768 points. The Westerners rank sixth offensively with 59.8 per game on 1,547 points.

Defensively Coach Clifton McNeely's cagers have allowed a total of 1,371 points for 57.1 per game while the Lubbock quintet has allowed 1,505 points for 57.9 per game.

INDIVIDUALLY, guard Bill Brown remains in the lead of the Pampa scoring, having netted 374 points at an average clip of 15.5 per game. Brown has hit 137 field goals and 100 free throws for the leading mark. Running a close second is center Mack Layne, who has tossed 334 points for a 13.9 per game average.

For Lubbock guard Duane Key has ranked through the season as the top scorer. In the first clash with Pampa Key tossed 21 points for the Westerners. Other leaders are center Bill Spitzer and forward Jerry Cowan.

AMONG DISTRICT teams, Borger now stands second with eight wins and two losses following its its victory over Plainview Friday night, 72-60. Plainview now ranks third with 7-3; Amarillo fourth with 5-5; Palo Duro fifth with 4-7; Lubbock sixth with 2-8 and Monterey seventh with 1-9.

Following tomorrow night's game the Harvesters have only to down Plainview to gain the championship in District 3-AAAA. The two teams will meet in Plainview Thursday night at 8.

Tech's Raiders Blast Arkansas

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UP)— Texas Tech, playing its finest defensive game of the season, crushed Arkansas here Saturday night, 69-48, to climb into a tie for second place in the Southwest Conference.

The game was played before a screaming sellout crowd of 10,275 fans, believed the largest crowd ever to see a basketball game in the Southwest.

Although defeated, Arkansas retained first place when Baylor beat Rice and TCU whipped SMU.

The Raiders, hitting 41 per cent of their shots, were behind only once in the game and there were only two ties. The Razorbacks, hitting only 27.9 per cent, grabbed a 4-2 lead early in the game and then fell steadily behind. Tech led at the half, 30-22.

Charlie Lynch, who took scoring honors with 24 points, held Freddy Grim, key to the Porker attack, to 8 points. Not a single Hog was in double figures, Harry Thompson leading the Porkers with 9 points.

To Mark Elbe Linkup

MOSCOW (UP) — Alexi Maresev, chairman of the Soviet War Veterans Committee, said Saturday a group of Soviet war veterans probably would accept an invitation to go to Washington to celebrate the 13th anniversary of the linkup of Soviet and American troops at the Elbe River.

Final Rounds Slated Tomorrow Night

Bobby Wilhelm remained the lone Pampan in competition at the state Golden Gloves Tournament in Fort Worth last night as he slugged his way to a victory over Manuel Anchondo in the welterweight division.

Bobby's victory was one of five fights won by boxers on the Amarillo team to rank them as the leading group through the second night of gloves action. Anchondo ranks as an All-Navy champion.

Gary Wilhelm, the other Pampa boy in the running, lost through a close decision as he fell to Johnny Cloud of Corpus Christi. Battling in the lightweight bracket, Gary won the first night through a TKO but was outpointed in last night's action by the older and more experienced Cloud.

Among other victories gained by the Amarillo team was Scooter Darden of Borger, who scored a KO over Glen Smith of Fort Worth in the Featherweight class. Darden's KO came in the second round and was the second gained by him in the state meet. The other Borger boy in contention also came through with a victory as Jerry Argovitz nailed Robert Rios in the middleweight division.

In the Flyweight bracket Eddie Gonzales of Plainview gained a decision over W. R. Baxter of Corpus Christi.

Rounding out the heavyweight portion of the evening, Carl McClure of Dumas scored a third-round KO over Don Cooke of Sherman.

Baylor May Set Scoring Record

NEW YORK (UP) — At the rate he is going, Elgin Baylor of Seattle could wind up being one of the most prolific scorers in major college basketball history.

Baylor, a 6-8 junior, is cruising along at a 34.4 points per game average through 19 games, according to figures released Saturday by the NCAA Service Bureau. Only Furman's Frank Selvy (1954) and Darrell Floyd (1955) reached this stage of the season with higher averages in all the years figures have been kept.

Selvy, currently a pro with the St. Louis Hawks and the all-time single season record holder with a 41.7 average, was traveling at a 37.7 clip in his top year, while Floyd was averaging 35.5 at this time in 1955.

Baylor, who has averaged 47.6 points in his last five games, is followed by Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson and Kansas' Wilt Chamberlain in this season's scoring derby. Robertson has a 33.3 average through 19 games, while Chamberlain has a 31.1 mark through 15 games.

Ralph Crosthwaite of Western Kentucky is the nation's field goal percentage leader at .825, with Arlen Clark of Oklahoma State second at .590 and Hal Greer of Marshall third at .570.

Gerald Myers of Texas Tech is the free throw leader with an .886 percentage, followed by Joe Hobbs of Florida at .869, and Clark at .865.

Bears Upset Rice, 63-62

WACO, Tex. (UP) — The Baylor Bears, losers of nine straight conference games, knocked the Rice Owls off their lofty perch in an upset 63-62 victory before a partisan crowd Saturday night.

It was the first conference victory in 10 starts for the Bears as well as their first win after 12 consecutive losses.

The Bears led nearly all the way, losing the lead for less than two minutes midway through the second half.

Baylor broke in front and moved out to a quick 9-2 lead and held its largest margin of 12 points at 39-27 just two minutes before the half.

The Bears were 41-32 ahead at the intermission before Rice started its first big rally of the night to go ahead finally at 45-44 just seven minutes deep in the second half.

Less than two minutes later, sophomore David Pierce shot the Bears back in front at 47-46 and Baylor was 61-54 in front with a minute and 18 seconds left. Then, Dale Ball hit on two long shots to lead the last gasp Rice bid with the Owls closing the gap to 63-62 with 12 seconds left.

Stephen Austin, Sam Houston Win Kiwanis Cage Tourney

Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston were the two winning teams in yesterday's Kiwanis sponsored boy's basketball program, conducted in the local gymnasiums.

In the fourth grade bracket, the Stephen F. cagers downed Baker, 21-11, in the first game, with Crossland tagging seven points to pace the winning offense. In the final tilt the Stephen F. team dropped Sam Houston, 17-14, with Wise nabbing the top mark for the winners with seven points.

Semi-final contests went to Sam Houston over Lamar, 26-10, and Baker over Lamar, 8-4.

In semi-final tilts Woodrow Wilson downed Stephen Austin, 17-16, and Lamar dropped Woodrow Wilson, 26-12.

Final standings were as follows:

The Kelton cagers came through with an undisputed victory in the 11-B race last night as they downed Briscoe in the finals of the district tournament held in Wheeler.

Paced by Jimmy Harris, who netted 17 points during the game, the Kelton quintet came through with a 67-46 win. Jack Hilton led the losers with 27.

In the girl's division Allison took the district title as they downed Mobeetie, 58-55. Dolly Donaldson scored 28 points for the winners while Marcella Patterson netted 28 for the losing Mobeetie cagers.

The only playoff remaining will be between Mobeetie and Briscoe for the second place in the girl's division.

Results of the early rounds of the tourney appear on the next page under Area Basketball Roundup.

Monckton Has Swimming Records

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)— Johnny Monckton, a 19-year-old carpenter, broke two world backstroke records Saturday night in the Australian swimming championships and swam the first leg for a relay team which smashed another world record.

Monckton won the 110-yard back stroke in 1 minute, 1.8 seconds, a record for that distance and also for 110 meters, which is about nine inches shroter.

Later in the evening, a capacity crowd of 5,500 at the 55-yard Olympic Pool watched the New South Wales team of Monckton, Terry Gathercole, Brian Wilkinson and John Devitt set a world record of 4:19.4 for the 440-yard medley relay.

In the backstroke final, Monckton swam the first of the two laps in the fresh water pool in 29.5 seconds. He was an easy winner over John Hayres, second in 1:04.6, and Julian Carroll, third in 1:07.7.

Dave Theile of Australia, who edged Monckton in the 1956 Olympic 100-meter final, held the world record of 1:02.2 for that distance.

Rookies Begin Big League Trials

CINCINNATI (UP) — At least 37 top drawer rookie pitchers will be at work in National League camps by March 1—each striving to prove he is another Jack Sanford, Von McDaniel or Dick Drott.

Hopes are high everywhere because lightning struck the league last season in the form of a spectacular array of rookie pitchers. Sanford, McDaniel and Drott were the super-sensational ones. Others — each "Rookie of the Year" stuff in a normal season—included Dick Farrell, Danny McDevitt and Curt Barclay.

And even this list leaves out the rookie most N.L. experts believe has the highest potential of all — the Milwaukee Braves' Juan Pizarro. Pizarro saw only brief service with the Braves last season but has been burning up the Cuban Winter League.

But that's last year's story. This year's is whether they'll be another crop of new stars to keep the old ones hustling and turnstiles whirring.

Dave Grote, manager of the N.L. Service Bureau here, points out that an assortment of 15 rookie outfielders now on N.L. rosters hit a total of 375 homers in minor league competition last season.

The world champion Braves have three of them—Ray Shearer, who hit 29 homers at Wichita, Earl Hersh with 26 for the same club, and Le Maye, who hit 23 at Jacksonville. Others, who hit at least 20, include Don Lissetter, Jim King and Gene Green of the Cardinals, Johnny Powers of the Pirates and Don Demeter of the Dodgers.

Michigan State Takes First In Big Ten Basketball Loop

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UP)— Michigan State, which raced to a phenomenal 21-2 lead early in the game, easily clipped last-place Illinois, 89-56, Saturday to take over sole possession of first place in the Big Ten basketball race.

With Johnny Green, the conference's top rebounder, and Larry Hedden hitting on nearly every shot they took in the first 10 minutes of the first half, the Spartans had their big lead before the Illini managed their first basket, a jump shot by Don Ohl with 9:18 left in the half.

Coach Fordy Anderson used substitutes liberally in the second half as MSU held a 39-18 halftime lead and quickly increased it to 65-30 after 12:06 had been played in the final half.

The victory broke Michigan State's tie with Indiana for first. The Hoosiers were idle Saturday.

Illinois chopped the Spartan 35-point margin with 15 straight points but they were too far out of contention to seriously threaten.

Green, who had 17 rebounds, 10 in the first half, tipped in the Spartans' first two baskets and added three more points while Hedden connected on four shots, mostly long jumpers, to build up the early lead which Illinois could never overcome.

Going into the game Illinois had been the conference's highest scoring team, averaging 77 points a game, although they were tied for last with Wisconsin.

Green had six stitches taken in his head late in the first half when he was hit in a scramble for a rebound under the Illini basket. He played only briefly the rest of the way.

Bob Anderegg had 12 and Hedden 10 for the Spartans while Govoner Vaughn's 16 were tops for Illinois. Ohl, second leading scorer in the Big Ten to Indiana's Archie Dees, had only 10 points.

Weaver Has Confidence Vote From Tech Director's Board

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UP)—DeWitt Weaver, Texas Tech athletic director and head coach who has been the target of an ouster campaign sparked by students, Saturday was given a vote of confidence by Tech's directors, who granted him a two-year extension of his contract.

The extension, approved unanimously according to an announcement by the board, gives Weaver a pact until Feb. 1, 1961 through the school's first season of football competition in the Southwest Conference.

His present contract was to expire Feb. 1, 1959. He has been at Tech since 1951 and his teams had a 38-32-4 record during that span during which they won four Border Conference titles and finished second once. His 1956 and 1957 teams each won only two of 10 games, however.

The board extended Weaver's contract in the face of a campaign by a self-styled "Suitcase Club," which had plastered the campus with anti-Weaver signs since Thursday on the eve of a Tech athletic council session.

Circulars also were distributed prior to the meeting demanding to know, "what has Weaver done to deserve this confidence."

Signs appearing on the campus said: "Have Coach, He'll Travel" and "No New 2-year Contract."

Two student representatives met with the three - man board subcommittee Friday night. They were David Thompson of Borger, president of the student body, and Dan Howard of Littlefield, student representative on the faculty athletic council.

The two said they told the subcommittee that to their knowledge "the vast majority of the Tech student body is not in favor of extending Dee Weaver's contract." They said they requested that Weaver's contract be allowed to expire in 1959.

Lopez Clips Mantle In Golf Meet

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — Mickey Mantle's long drives got caught in the 40-mile-an-hour winds Saturday and the Yankee slugger lost to Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox, 4 and 3, in a quarter-final match of the national baseball players' golf championship.

Lopez, who played a more cautious game especially after a noon downpour made the greens very slow, meets John Gray of the Phillies in the semifinals Sunday.

Gray, in a duel of pitchers, outlasted Don Newcombe of the Los Angeles Dodgers, 1 up, in the quarter-finals.

In the other two matches, tournament favorite Alvin Dark of the St. Louis Cardinals beat Clem Labine of the Dodgers, 2 up, and Albie Pearson of the Washington Senators defeated Darrell Johnson of the Yankees, 6 and 4.

Dark, defending champion, plays Pearson, the dark horse the tournament playing his first year here, in the other semifinal match. The finals will be played Sunday afternoon.

Jorgenson To Battle Cadilli

HOUSTON (UP)— Paul Jorgenson, fourth-ranked featherweight, will fight Gil Cadilli of Los Angeles in a rematch in Houston Feb. 25.

Jorgenson and Cadilli battled to a draw in a bout at Port Arthur last July. Jorgenson has a record of 59 victories, five defeats and three draws and has knocked out six of his last seven opponents.

Port Arthur, Austin Of El Paso Loom As Top Cage Powers In State

By UNITED PRESS

Defending champions Port Arthur and Smiley are among 23 Class AAAA and AAA schoolboy basketball teams already having district titles in the bag and looking forward to the playoffs that lead to the state tournament in Austin next month.

Port Arthur, which defeated Pampa 67-51 for the AAAA crown last year, has sewed up its district flag, but Pampa still has two games to go prior to the Feb. 22 deadline before it can lay claim to another playoff berth.

Smiley, featuring seven - foot Lewis Qualls, also has grabbed its district bunting and will be favored to again gain the state meet where it defeated Pecos 52 to 35 in the 1957 finals.

Only one bi-district playoff has been set, that pitting Beaumont French against Bay City at Galena Park Feb. 25.

District Winners

In Class AAAA, El Paso Austin has clinched a tie for the district 1 title, Big Spring has sewed up things in 2, Dallas Wilson in 5, Dallas Tech in 6, Lufkin in 8, Houston Milby in 9, Houston Bellaire in 10, Port Arthur in 11, Pasadena in 12, Austin High in 13, San Antonio Jefferson in 15 and San Antonio Burbank in 16.

Pampa is the leader in district 3 with a 9-1 record and can clinch a tie Monday night by defeating Lubbock High, but also plays Plainview (7-3) at Plainview next Thursday. Borger (8-2) still has a chance.

In 4, Fort Worth Paschal won the first half flag, but Fort Worth Poly is leading Arlington Heights in the second half and the latter can tie next week, necessitating a playoff for the second half with the winner to meet Paschal for the crown.

Wichita Falls and Denton share the lead in district 7 and both play weaker foes Tuesday, posing a potential playoff between them.

Miller Heads District

Corpus Christi Miller, with a 27-1 season record, stands head and shoulders above the field in district 14, but must wade through a district tournament involving the top four teams to get into the playoffs. The others are Corpus Christi Ray, McAllen and Harlingen.

In Class AAA, Hereford has sewed it up in district 1, Kermit in 2, Snyder has a tie clinched in 3, Graham has won 4, Sulphur Springs 6, Gladewater 7, Killeen 9, Smile 10, Beaumont French 11, Bay City 12, San Antonio Edison in 13, South San Antonio in 14 and Weslaco in 16.

Garland and Birdville are in the midst of a best-of-three playoff for the district 5 crown with Garland ahead 1-0; Palestine and Waxahachie deadlocked for the district 8 flag, as did Kingsville and Robstown in district 15, necessitating playoffs next week.

Waxahachie and Palestine meet at Palestine Tuesday, at Waxahachie Thursday and at Corsicana Saturday, if a third game is needed. Robstown and Kingsville play at Kingsville Tuesday, at Robstown Thursday and at Bishop Saturday if necessary.

Fearless Fraley's Facts And Figures

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Don Larsen, the no-hit World Series pitching hero of the New York Yankees who had a poor season in 1957, looks forward to a fine season on a theme song of "those wedding bells have broken up that old gang of mine."

Larsen was married in December and his wife, Corrine, a former airline hostess, has been supervising his training. Don has been throwing for four weeks and will report to the Yankee training comp in the best shape ever.

Nor will there be any episodes such as the early morning in the spring when he drove a sports car up a telephone pole. Mrs. Larsen, who massages Larsen's grocery arm and supervises heat treatment, will be in Florida, too . . .The Yankees should give her a bonus. . .

Aging Ray In Training

It was just seven years ago that Sugar Ray Robinson first won the middleweight title by knocking out Jake LaMotta in Chicago. And the Harlem dynamiter looks in fine shape today as he prepares to try to win the crown for the fifth time against Carmen Basilio at Chicago on March 25.

Working at Greenwood Lake, N.Y., Robinson is only five pounds over the 160-pound limit and says "I won't have any trouble making the weight."...Basilio opened an 8 to 5 favorite and how has gone up to 2 to 1...

Perry O'Brien, the California colossus who has enough muscles to be the only man ever to toss the shot more than 63 feet, says he is "lifting weights to strengthen myself." The Olympic champion, who now weighs 245 pounds, is managing a bank branch in Beverly Hills, Calif. . .which provokes the thought that, while Parry may not consider himself strong enough, you can pity the bank robber who tries his place. .

Court Looks Too Big

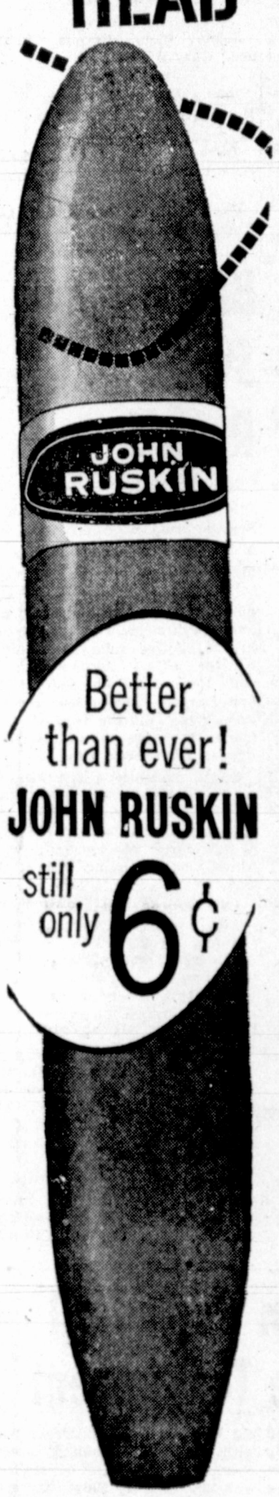

Bobby Riggs, the former Davis Cup star and pro tennis ace, has opened a Long Island camera shop. A bit gray upstairs, Bobby still plays "a bit of tennis" but only in the doubles department.

"I can't get around enough for a good singles workout," he admits. "Man, that court looks five miles wide and 10 miles long."...

Lev Richards, one of the nation's top tennis umpries, can be classed as a man who really loves the game. Lev estimates that in 30 years he has officiated in 2,000 matches in the nationals at Forest Hills alone without being paid a penny for his services.

"The only time I ever was paid," he grins, "was $25 to officiate a pro match for Bill Tilden. Big Bill screamed, yelling that 'you guys never get paid.' But I even made him pay in advance, more as a gag than anything else."...

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN

Getting a bag limit every time a person or party goes hunting isn't the only objective that a true outdoorsman is looking for, if my observations in the field with hunters are correct.

A few years back a group from Borger, including Barney Andress, Doctors M. M. and W. G. Stephens, John Thurman, Cliff Haggard, Charles Ballman and others, at different hunts on the same ranch participated in the elite sport of hunting quail behind trained dogs. One of the highlights of hunt number one was evidenced by the remarks the group made about flushing wild turkeys in every direction. This group of sportsmen enjoyed observing turkeys in their true, wild state almost as much as they did in shooting quail. Just to be out with nature and observe wildlife was a treat to these men.

It seemed to me that Dr. M. M. Stephens derived more genuine pleasure from seeing a fox squirrel scoot up a willow tree than he did from the whole day's hunt. All day long the doctor commented about this squirrel. It was just a plain, ordinary squirrel but probably it brought back memories of when the doctor was a youngster and hunted the squirrel back around Gilmer, Texas.

Another highlight to the hunt was the time that me and the doctor had started back to the station wagon and were almost cut off, almost but not quite, by a large herd of slowly moving Brahma cattle that were being piloted by a particularly mean bull. We needed only a few hundred feet to be at an advantage, but at the time we were determining whether we could make it or not. Doctor M. M., talking rather loudly to himself (I could hear his words from some fifty yards away and still remember them), said, "Listen here, Bull! If you don't want to see a fat doctor run you had better slow down."

Little things such as these don't mean a great lot to the strictly objective hunter, but a fellow who enjoys the hunt for the sport it is presents a different picture. If I could have been safely at the station wagon it would have been quite a sport to see the "fat doctor" stretching his legs outrunning a particularly mean Brahma bull. However, we were both in the same shaky boat. No doubt Dr. M. M. could have told the boys around the barber shop about a companion who was quite swift of foot, if the picture was in reverse.

Not many years back I had the pleasure to take a friend on a deer hunt. Such treats as these are very rare. My guest was Guy Hazlett, an attorney from Borger, and he didn't have any place else he could hunt for deer or turkey. Naturally, same as you, I wanted my guest to kill the biggest buck and two of the biggest gobblers on the ranch. Mr. Hazlett had to be back at home by 3:00 p.m. to spearhead a United Fund drive which was tied in with the Red Cross, Boy and Girl Scouts, plus other civic needs, so our time was short, considering visiting with our hosts, travel time back and forth, etc.

I knew of one certain location, on a small sandhill that overlooked a large grove, that would be to the advantage of any hunter if he had someone to walk through the grove and let the deer run out past him. Sometimes wild game will do as you expect but usually they will do the opposite. Nevertheless, we drove within a few hundred yards of the grove and Mr. Hazlett took a 270-calibre rifle, loaded with five hollow-point bullets, crossed the creek and walked to the top of the hill.

After about ten minutes I walked directly through the grove and about the time I was halfway through I heard a solitary shot. Anyone who has hunted much knows that one shot usually spells game, and I was sure that Mr. Hazlett had bagged a buck, especially since I had seen one present himself on my side of the grove as he was walking to his "stand." Bang, rang out the first shot and then after what seemed like two minutes, there was a bang, bang, and still another bang. I began to grin because, as anyone knows, he must have missed.

Sure enough, in a few minutes he crossed the creek, was back in the car and headed back to his home to make his appointment on schedule. We were in a hurry but the smiling attorney had to tell me about the shooting. "He must have had at least fifteen points," he said as he held his hands up to illustrate. "I was shooting about this far behind him," he said, spreading out his hands to show.

Mr. Hazlett didn't get a buck but he did get a shot at a nice one and never have I seen a hunter more delighted to return home without game as was Guy. He enjoyed every minute in the field, away from the office, even though he didn't hit a running buck that passed within fifty yards of him.

Getting a bag limit is fine when you can — I like to — but enjoying the outdoors and the memories of it is something that will long be cherished even more than filling the game bag.

STEELERS IN OPENER

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The San Francisco Forty - Niners will open their 1958 regular season home schedule on Sept. 28 against the Pittsburgh Steelers. Other home games include Los Angeles, Oct. 5; Bears, Oct. 26; Detroit, Nov. 2; Green Bay, Dec. 7, and Baltimore, Dec. 14.

IRISHMAN ENTERS

NEW YORK (UP)— Irishman John Lawlor, a 220-pound weight thrower, today joined fellow countrymen Ron Delany, John Dougan and Peter McCardle among those who have been entered for the National AAU Indoor Track championships at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 22.

Mathews Inks Brave Contract

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—General Manager John Quinn of the Milwaukee Braves wished today that a number of stars on his world champion team would be as easy to sign for 1958 as slugging third baseman Eddie Mathews.

The 27-year-old infielder, who won one extra-inning World Series game with a home run and made the final putout in the Braves triumph over the New York Yankees last fall, dropped by the stadium office late Friday and agreed to new terms in short order.

Mathews signed a "very pleasing" contract, but his new salary terms weren't disclosed. Quinn, however, is having a time of it reaching "very pleasing" terms with 15 of the 40 Braves on the roster for spring training at the Bradenton, Fla., camp.

Hard-hitting outfielder Hank Aaron has made no bones about wanting a substantial raise and World Series pitching hero Lew Burdette may prove even harder to sign this season than he was in 1957. Another key player in the still unsigned 15 is the "Little General" infielder Red Schoendienst who isn't too far from agreement.

AREA BASKETBALL ROUNDUP:

Bucks' Loss Ties 1-A Cage Race

Downed By Gruver, 58-57 In Crucial District Tilt

The district 1-A basketball race was thrown into a turmoil Thursday night as the loop leading White Deer Bucks suffered their first loss of the season as they tangled with the Gruver Greyhounds.

Plagued with a case of late-season illness that cost them the services of Don Essary, the Bucks were edged by the Greyhounds, 58-57. The loss left the two teams tied for first place in district as the Bucks had won the first meeting earlier in the season to give Gruver their only loss in loop action. A. J. Alford tagged high point honors for the evening as he led the White Deer offense with 20 points. Lesley Barkley paced Gruver with 18.

In Friday's encounter the Bucks had little trouble returning to their winning ways as they axed the Stinnett Rattlers, 84-67. Again Alford led for the night, scoring 24 points. Boyd Patterson was high for the losers with 23.

The Does continued their winning streak in the girl's division as they moved to two more victories to hang on to their undisputed lead in the district race. Thursday night they marched past Gruver, 62-36, paced by Nancy McConnell, who netted 32 points during the evening. Jolinda Elliison led the Gruver team with 12.

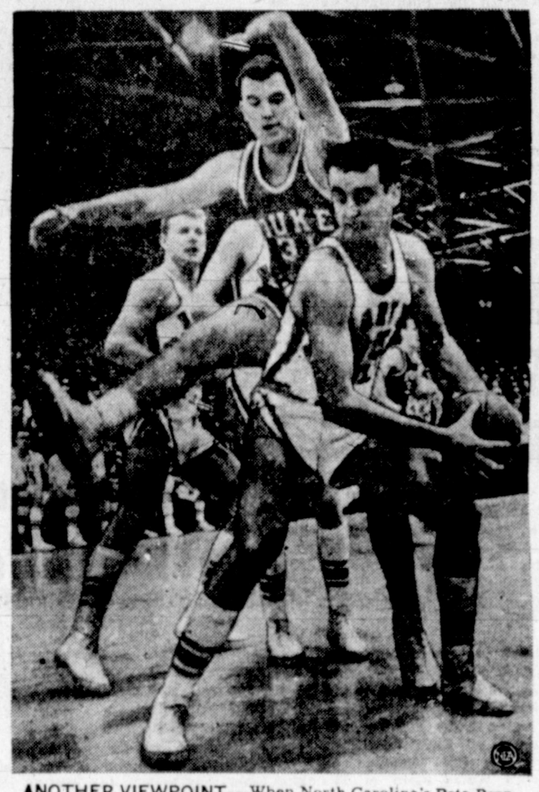

Friday night the Does took another wide-margin victory as they felled the Stinnett girls, 78 - 36. Mary Ann Freeman nabbed the honors for the evening with 35 points, folowed by Nancy McConnell with 33. Karen Kirk paced the Stinnett offense with 19.

Tuesday night the White Deer teams wil meet Sunray in a crucial game in the district running. The Bucks need a victory to hold to a tie for the lead and the Does must win to hold to the top spot in the district running.

SETS RECORD

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UP) —A Jaguar 3.4, driven by Ed Crawford of Chicago, set a new U.S. record for European sedons over 1,500 cc in the Florida International safety and performance trials Friday. The car was clocked in 122.699 miles per hour for the south run and 104.530 for the north run on the "flying mile" for an average speed of 12.888.

One species of whale is only 4½ feet long when fully grown.

ANOTHER VIEWPOINT—When North Carolina's Pete Brennan covered after taking a rebound, Duke's Carl McLemore (No. 31) high-kicked into the air to get a better look at what was going on.

Return Bout May Be Slated Between Kerwin And Redl

NEW YORK (UP) —The International Boxing Club hopes to stage a return bout because of the dispute over welterweight Gale Kerwin's "Chinese" knockdown and his split-decision victory over previously unbeaten Stefan Redl.

Canadian Kerwin, now living at Valley Stream, N.Y., was awarded the split verdict Friday night after his 10-round TV fight with German Redl, now residing at Passaic, N.J., before 3,500 at Madison Square Garden.

Kerwin, weighing 142¾ pounds to Redl's 145½, snapped Stefan's victory string at 17 straight; but he received an assist from referee Larry Napp, who credited Kerwin with a knockdown in the sixth round.

Without that knockdown ruling, which influenced all three ring officials in awarding the sixth session to Kerwin, Redl might have won the fight.

The debatable knockdown resulted when Kerwin landed a right to Redl's head and sent him spinning sideways so that Redl brushed the canvas with his gloves. Napp, an American League umpire during the baseball season, said, "I had to call it a knockdown because the rule book states specifically that a boxer is down if any part of his body other than his feet touches the ring floor." Many less-technical referees would have called the brushing a "slip."

Stocky Redl took the mandatory eight-count on his feet while the fans booed lustily at the ruling that gave Kerwin a cheaper knockdown even than any of the cheap "Chinese" home runs Napp may have seen on the diamond.

Pirates Down Canadian

At Lefors the Pirates downed the Canadian Wildcats, 63-53, in a District 2-A contest. Leroy Miller tagged 30 points for the Pirates while Roy Sessions hit 23 for the Wildcats.

Canadian won the girls game, 39-35, with Barbara Shaeff hitting 20 points to pace the winners. Rebecca Rice tossed 18 for the Lefors team.

Panthers Half Double-Header

The Panhandle Panthers dropped a district tilt Friday night as they fell to the Gruver Greyhounds, 60-43. Gruver defeated White Deer earlier in the week and presently stand in a tie for the lead in the district 1-A tussle.

In the girl's tilt the Panhandle team downed Gruver, 42-39.

Giants List Home Grid Schedule

NE WYORK (UP)— The New York Giants today announced a 1958 home football schedule which will feature appearances of the Cleveland Browns and Baltimore Colts.

Cleveland, biggest drawing card in New York's professional football history, will invade Yankee Stadium next Dec. 14 to help the Giants end their regular campaign. Scheduling the Browns-Giants on that date indicates the National Football League belief that the game will decide the Eastern Division championship.

Baltimore, in the Western Division race last season until the final day of the regular season, will appear at Yankee Stadium Nov. 9. Barring injuries, this game will give New Yorkers their first look at John Unitas, Baltimore quarterback who led the league in touchdown passes in 1957 with 24.

Arizona Downs WT Buffaloes

CANYON, Tex. (UP)—Arizona State stayed on top of the Border Conference basketball race Friday night, scoring a lop-sided 101-71 win over West Texas State.

The win gave Arizona State a 5-2 league record and eliminated West Texas from a chance at the crown. West Texas now has a 2-5 record.

Jim Newman hit 11 of 14 field goal attempts and paced scoring for the Sun Devils with 23 points. Allen Simpson was high for the losers with 14.

HEMSLEY SIGNS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rollie Hemsley, a former major league catcher who saw service with four different teams, has been signed as a scout by the Washington Senators. He will scout the Indiana, southern Ohio and northern Kentucky area.

HUTCHINS OUT

NEW YOR K(UP) — The New York Knickerbockers, battling for a playoff spot in the National Boskebal] Association, have decided against reinstating injured center Mel Hutchins, and instead will sign some one else for the playoff drive. Hutchins has a bad left knee which has not responded to treatment.

Friday's girl's action saw Allison marching over Wheeler, 40-22, with Diane Donaldson ranking high with 18 points. Darcie Hall led the losers with 11.

MATURE PARENT

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

This Christmas a wealthy, childless aunt sent 13-year-old Mary a nutria fur coat. The child teased for permission to wear it to school — and got it.

Her classmates oh'd and ah'd over the coat. But when Mary displayed her beautifully embroidered name on its lining, they suddenly lost interest in it. Later in the cafeteria, nobody offered to help Mary clear a place for her tray.

The other girls' coldness made Mary miserable; but instead of realizing she had created it by her boastful behavior, she experienced the snubbing as a queer, uncontrollable mystery.

Mary is a child who has never been taught what psychiatrists call "social reality."

In his book, "Children Who Hate," social worker Dr. Fritz Redl writes: "We have known many children who were stuck on a naive level of early childhood enjoying reciting a poem or song without the slightest awareness of the infantile quality of behavior which might have brought applause from auntie but which was poison to an audience of their contemporaries."

It is cruel to permit children to make boastful displays before other ones.

Always the boastful child senses the resentment he arouses. His problem is the helplessness it makes him feel. For like Mary, he's not been made conscious of his part in attracting it. As he experiences with it multiply, he becomes frantic—and begins to make yet more aggressive demands on others' admiration. Thus, his boast-show-off coat to school because we

We permit Mary to wear her coldness of others' response to him. fhiness increases and with it, the ourselves have not registered the hurtful resentment we arouse by our own need to lord it over other people.

We have to get on to it, however, if we are to help Mary see what her boastfulness costs her. We'll just encourage her to go on inviting hurt instead of being able to say, "No, you can't wear your fur coat to school. It will make the other girls hate you. If we are stung by too many wasps, we can get sick. If we invite too much hate, we can get sick, too. You have to learn how to protect yourself against a lot of hate just as you have to learn to avoid wasps' nests."

We won't be able to give Mary eucation in "social relity." aa education in "social reality."

RUTH MILLETT

"Are any of your sons planning on going into law?" someone asked a highly successful lawyer, who is the father of three young boys.

"I don't know," said the lawyer. "I'm certainly not going to put any pressure on them to be anything just to fulfill my ambitions for them.

"I've been so shocked by the number of boys from so-called good homes who are getting into trouble that it has made me ask myself a few questions.

"Are we parents who are fairly successful giving our kids a wrong sense of values, bringing them up to think that nothing counts but success, that money and things are all - important and that 'amounting to something' is simply a matter of figuring out a way to make enough money to have a fine home, big cars, etc?

"I'm afraid that is the idea a lot of young people are getting right at home — from their own parents. So I've made up my mind that if I can just make my boys see that the important thing in life is to do right, act in a way you don't have to be ashamed of, and to take pride in any job they do, how they decide to earn a living will be all right with me."

That's the way parents used to figure. They felt their duty to a child was to teach him right from wrong, try to instill in him good habits and straight thinking — and then leave the rest up to him.

But now most of the emphasis and the pressure seems to be on success, with success meaning money. How often today's adults refer to a man as "successful," simply because he has money, without bothering about how he got the money, whether or not he has done anything worthwhile with it, whether or not it has brought him any happiness, whether or not he is a man of honor and integrity whose word, as our own parents used to say, " is as good as his bond."

And how often, in their ambitions for their children, do today's parents try to push them into careers fro which they have no real talent simply because the parents think that a certain career will bring them money ond social position?

My hat is off to the lawyer whose main concern for his sons is that they become men — in the finest sense of the word.

Never mind how your children choose to earn a living, just so that it is honorable and it is work they want to do.

As they were introduced, the sweethearts and their escorts walked forward and took their places in front of each chapter's heart. Mr. Hilbun presented each escort with a bouquet of carnations, which the escorts in turn presented to the sweethearts.

After each honoree was presented, the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Approximately 175 couples attended.

Following the dance, guests attended a breakfast held in the Colonial Inn.

TUNA FONDUE

A recipe for impromptu Lenten meals, Tuna Fondue, can be prepared from items on the emergency shelf. In a buttered (1 ½-quart) casserole, alternate layers of 1 pint of toasted enriched bread cubes, a 7-ounce can of tuna (flaked) and ¾ cup of grated American cheese. Combine 1 cup of milk and 3 beaten eggs and add ½ teaspoon chopped onion, ¾ teaspoon salt, and a dash of paprika. Pour mixture over the layers and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes.

Manners Make Friends

Even if your escort is your husband, if you are eating in a restaurant, don't discuss the price of the food, or glance at the check when it is presented.

A woman can avoid ordering the most expensive things on a menu without making any point of it or seeming to be concerned about the cost.

SCALED TO THE MODERN MANOR

In modern there is a greater variation in size than in any other style of furniture. This is due to the fact that Modern is designed and planned to follow function and need. As there is a wide variation in the size of today's living quarters—from tiny one-room apartments to large rambling mansions—it naturally follows that there is a need for furnishings scaled to fit these homes of varying sizes. Modern meets this need—intelligently and beautifully.

Scale is one of the most important elements in successful decorating. Furniture should be in scale with the size of the room, and pieces used in close relation should be similar in size.

In the past, there has been a tendency to confuse elegance with size. Today we're wiser. We have developed a better sense of fitnss and balance.

Note how all the furnishings in the Modern room sketched above "go together"—how no one piece dwarfs all the others. Also, see how space has been left free for easy movement . . . no obstructions in traffic lanes.

A symphony of browns and yellows gives a warm, spicy feeling to the entire setting.

We have all the Modern furnishings that will enable you to design and organize your home so that it will efficiently serve all the activities that take place there. We cordially invite you to come in, browse around and let us help you make leisurely selections.

MATURE PARENT

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

In the park John was squatting on his favorite sand pile when he saw the inspiring stick. Thrusting it into his red pail, he started to heap sand around it.

He was expressing his vision of one of the towering skyscrapers across the street from the park. The labor took time. For John was still awkward with his hands.

Finally his slightly cockeyed skyscraper was firmly rooted. At once he had to share his glowing pride with his mother. Picking up his pail, he ran toward her as fast as his little legs would go.

Because his mind was on her praise instead of on where he was going, he fell over a stone—and his spilled skyscraper returned to its separate elements of pail, sand and stick.

Picking him up, his mother hugged him, saying, "Next time watch out for stones. Now let's see if you can make the stick stand up in the sand again."

She did not say, "Nasty old stone to make John fall!"

I'm glad. For we must not lie even to very young children. The truth is they are upset, not by stones and other obstacles to their progress but by their own failure to register the obstacles as hazardds.

Our persistent suggestion that the "nasty" obstacles are solely responsible for thier tumbles gives them a view of the world quite as cockeyed as John's skyscraper. It teaches them to think of themselves as abused victims of the obstacles when what they need is confidence in their power to negotiate them.

We begin to develop our attitude toward disappointment very, very young in life.

We all know adults who bring to disappointments in jobs, marriage and parenthood a great sense of indignation. They feel toward them exactly as they felt toward the "nasty" stones they stumbled over in infancy.

Because sentimental parents made a habit of blaming stones, "bad companions" and other external agencies for every tumble they took, these people are never able to accept their own contributions to their disappointments. It never occurs to them to think, "What did I do to help make this disappointing experience? Where did I fail to look where I was going?"

Squaw Dress Fashion Show Presented For Twentieth Century Club Members

"Made in Texas by Texans" was the title of the program presented to members and guests of Twentieth Century Club held in the home of Mrs. Frank Culberson, 2005 Charles on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Richard Stowers introduced Mrs. Roy Scrivner of Shamrock, who presented her custom-made "squaw dresses" in a style review.

Mrs. Scrivner gave her background as being Texas-born and reared. She described her family as a unit, who worked hard and long hours. "Back before the resources of oil and gas were discovered, many talents and skills were necessarily performed to keep the family provided with necessities," she said. Her mother made hundreds of beautiful quilts; the girls of the family did their share of selecting and cutting of the quilt meterials. So, that, early in life, she said she learned materials, an appreciation of beautiful colors; and, also, she loved to sew.

Mrs. Scrivner went on to say that in 1951 she took a vacation trip to Gallup, N.M. to view the Indian ceremonials, and it was there that she first learned to "love squaw dresses, their beauty of color and versatility of design."

"The history of the squaw dress, of course," she said, "had its origin with the Indians, while they tended their sheep. There was less danger of getting lost in their bright-colored clothing. They selected their colors from nature; the many hues of the mountains; the sunsets; and the soft desert haze.

Mrs. Scrivern said she held her first style show in Shamrock and that she keeps "trade secrets" in the family. As she has as her helpers, her sister, Mrs. M. Sullivan; her daughter, Miss Ann Scrivner, who is a senior in Shamrock High School and who models the dresses her mother makes; also, her niece, Mrs. M. O'Neal, who lives in Pampa.

Others, who modelled during the afternoon, were Mmes. M. Sloan, Kirk Duncan, Frank Culberson, Richard Stowers, M. Windham of McLean, M. McCarty with Mrs. Sullivan as keeper of the wardrobe.

The array of color in the squaw dresses shown were red, black, lime green, taffy, blue, turquoise, avacado, white, teel blue, beige, bandana red, navajo, desert sunset, baby blue, red fiesta, peacock blue, copper, navy, buckskin, yellow, gold, brown, and tangerine. All of these dresses were trimmed with unusual and lovely braids. Materials used were of georgette, twistalene, maricopa cloth, juni cloth and one kitten's ear peacock blue corduroy with wide silver braid, which was recommended as an evening dress, and modeled by Miss Scrivner.

The finale for the fashion show was a wedding dress of white georgette with silver braid, modeled, also, by Miss Scrivner. The yoke was of tulle with a mandarin collar with this was worn a small silver braided hat with finger-tip veil.

Mrs. Scrivner said "not to put away your squaw dress, as we do our wedding dress to save for the next generation, as squaw dresses are here to stay and there is one for every occasion, every age, and every figure."

Jewelry from Behrman's and shoes from Smith's complemented the dresses worn by the models.

Guests present were Mmes. H. A. Watson, H. E. Stanfield, Royal Cantrell, M. C. Overton, Tom Price, Welma Grantham, Charles Brauchle, George Scott, H. B. Howse, Bruce Pratt, Don Cain, Luther Pierson, Charles Wade, W. W. Adcock, Bill Nichols, A. W. Brown, Robert Moore, John Hardy, Jake Garmon of Phoenix, Ariz., Richard Dickey of Lubbock, and Miss Evelyn Milam.

A short business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. Jack P. Foster. It was voted to cooperate with the Council of Clubs Canasta - Bridge Benefit to be held on Feb. 21 by the purchase of eight tickets. Also to support the Youth Center project by placing an entry in the Beauty Contest to be held at a later date. Mrs. Foster appointed a committee to select the contestant.

The next meeting will be held on Feb. 25 in the home of Mrs. Bob Andis, 1710 Mary Ellen.

If Last Permanent Was Disappointing Trace Sad Hairdo To Bad Hair Care

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

If you riast permanent was disappointing to you, there's probably a very good reason why. Maybe more than one reason. Most women complain of frizz.

Frizz can be caused by an inexpert operator but it can also be caused by wearing a hat immediately upon leaving the beauty shop or by running a damp comb through the hair. And there IS something you can do about it.

The first time you shampoo your hair, add a cream rinse to the second or third rinse water. This will work wonders in removing frizz. A good stiff brush will help, too.

If your problem was a weak, limp permanent, it may be that you brushed your hair while it was still damp after a shampoo. This is great for removing the curl. Wait until your hair is thoroughly dry before you brush it.

And be sure that your hair is properly cut and shapped before you have your next permanent. Every trace of the old wave should be banished.

Someone once said that ti would be a great boon to humanity if the though process could be switched at night, just like an electric light. This is only too true since our worry, are usually what keep us awake at night.

But since we can't switch them off, we must learn to do the next best thing if we're to get a full night's sleep with health and good looks as the result. And the next best thing is absolutely refusing to turn over in your mind the problem that's bothering you.

This doesn't sound easy and it isn't, but practice does help. Tell yourself that there's nothing you can do about it at the moment and that you'll tackle it again in the morning when you're fresh. You'd be surprised how that helps. When you get this trick nearly perfected, you won't be troubled by insomnia.

Care of hands and face is no sometime thing. It requires constant attention.

How, then, can a busy mother find time to "keep after" her complexion and skin care while chasing a passel of youngsters and pets in addition to her home-making duties?

The secret: establish a beauty care center in the kitchen and laundry.

All you need in each place is a shelf out of reach of small fry and these basic ingredients: a good soap, lotion and hand cream.

Their use will help to keep your beauty routine from getting out of hand.

Mrs. H. H. Hahn, Guest Speaker For Sam Houston School's PTA Meeting

Sam Houston PTA met Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. in school auditorium with Mrs. Ivan Noblitt president, presiding.

The program opened with a Valentine dance given by Miss Patsy Lou Hollway and Miss Jane Hiatt.

Mrs. H. H. Hahn spoke on "Responsibility, Little Today, Bigger Tomorrow."

In her opening remarks, Mrs. Hahn used a quotation from Winston Churchill in which he stated, "It is always wise to look ahead but difficult to look farther than you can see."

"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread, you know, but I do not believe, we're looking farther than we can see when we consider our long-range goal for our children," she stated. "Is it not that we want to create a patriotic responsible American citizen, an industrious, self-reliant and independent person equipped with the knowledge and skills essential to making his own way in the world at whatever level of activity his talents permit, and with a character imbued with the Christian virtues?"

"Dr. Spock tells us that the critical time for character formation is the first few years of life and that the most essential requirement is that a child feel that he belongs to his parents (or parent substitutes) and is loved by them in a very special way. But being loved means more than being protected, provided for and kissed. Good parents, in addition, will care how a child behaves and require that he be considerate of them and of the rest of society," she continued.

"Parents and teachers are confronted by a curious paradox. To teach a child we must get him to accept authority. Yet the very thing we want to teach him later on is not to accept authority unquestioningly. We want him to be self-reliant, capable of defending his own interpretations."

"Our children are confronted with responsibilities greater and graver than any age hos ever known. Do we know what our own ideals are for mankind's tomorrow? What practical steps toward their fulfillment are we prepared to support?"

Mrs. Hahn concluded with the remarks, "Let us think of the growth of our spirit as our first responsibility. Let us set ourselves to the task of achieving spiritual maturity. Let us accept the fact that the effort to become a great soul is a lifelong responsibility; that it is a battle in which there can be no truce, and in the course of which there can be no armistice."

Room count was won by first grades. A Valentine cake was baked by Mrs. T. C. Lively Jr. and won by Mrs. Ed Griffin.

The executive board met in the cafeteria prior to the general meeting.

The first aid course to be taught by Mrs. Libby Shotwell was discussed and voted upon. It was announced that those interested in taking this course should call Billy Don Watkins, 9-9991.

Mrs. Charles Brouchle announced that there is a need for more mothers and fathers to work with Sam Houston cub scouts.

RUTH MILLETT

"Judging from some of the letters you print from husbands, there are still a lot of married men in the world who have never given the partnership idea of marriage a try," writes one of my women readers.

"For their information, I'll tell them how a partnership in the home works. There are some rules to the game, of course.

"The first and most important rule is that both partners assume that the other is a mature person and act accordingly.

"If one says he is too tired to do something, whether to get the dinner or mow the lawn, the other assumes it's probably so.

"It doesn't matter whether one got tired playing bridge, playing golf, working, or just sitting thinking. The point is, you're tired. So let's get rested.

"If Mama wants reducing exercises or Pampa wants a new fishing rod you don't throw a scene or take the plunge and then try to justify it. You both sit down and see if there's a spot for it in the budget. When and if you can find it, you're both pleased. If not, you work and finagle or wait until the budget will stand the strain.

"The job of each partner is important to the other. If his job means she has extra work entertaining, or if he wants to talk over an office problem or get some hlep doping out a letter — well, she's proud of her part in helping him up the ladder.

"He remembers that when she's snowed under with housework, and gets out the vacuum cleaner without being asked.

"They add labor-saving devices to their home as they can afford them, not because she is whining for them, but because they enjoy the additional free time together.

"Any man who has never tried partnership in marriage ought to give it a go. Man, it's lots more fun than the Battle of the Sexes some of you are still fighting."

Sinful And Tyrannical

Thomas Jefferson once said: "To compel a man to furnish contributions of money for the propagation of opinions which he disbelieves. is sinful and tyrannical."

No truer statement was ever uttered.

Yet, if we are to take the words of the great sage of Monticello literally, we must conclude that we are living in a land filled with sin and tyranny.

In the main, our government schools, which are paid for by forced contributions, teach doctrines with which sizable portions of the poulation are at variance. Yet, when it comes to the forceful collection of money, the Internal Revenue Service and the various state tax collection agencies never inquire as to whether the tax-payer is in favor of the teachings propounded in government schools. Instead, all of us alike are forced to provide the wherewithal, however our opinions may differ from those of the government doctrinaries.

Let us take one of the major areas in which a wide variance in private opinion exists, that of religion. We are a nation predominantly Protestant, sizably Catholic and among the minorities, Jewish, Christian Scientist, Mormon, Adventist, and a hundred other things.

To some of us, the very core of all education must begin with God and with an understanding of God's principles. To others, atheists and agnostics primarily, education has little if anything to do with God.

But what is God? Is there a unified opinion in this area of thought? Obviously there is not. There are, in the world, more than 2,000 separate beliefs respecting the nature of the Almighty, and many of these beliefs are held by people in the United States.

A number of religious schools have been established because those who adhere to such beliefs are convinced that such education cannot be divorced from a divine interpretation.

Yet, Catholics and all others are compelled to pay for government schools, even tho they may well believe that such schools are injurious and entirely lacking in the important areas of human life. This, whether we like it or not, is sinful and tyrannical according to Thomas Jefferson. Those who believe contrary to the teachings in government schools cannot in justice and morality be compelled to support those teachings financially.

This is also true in the area of politics. There are, for example, certain groups who believe that government is the supreme achievement of the human race, and like the socialists and communists, seek to turn as much of personal freedom and intiative over to government as possible. There are other groups who hold to the opposite view, feeling that government is best that governs least, that at best it is a necessary evil and that it should be minimized and even avoided wherever possible.

Both theories cannot be taught with conviction in a government school And since our schools are principally government schools, those doctrines favorable viding a case of tyranny when those who hold oppoto government invariably receive the emphasis, proby certain of these groups, notably the Catholic group, site views are compelled to support such schools financially.

These two illustrations could be expanded almost endlessly. There are bound to be various ways of look- at practically anything. The evil is not in the divergence of our private opinions, but in the practice of compelling all to support a particular viewpoint. This is the original injustice and the crime cannot be cured by seeking to doctor the effect.

Individual people must be free to hold any opinion they choose. There is no freedom at all, if we are free to choose. Yet, how can anyone be free to choose, when he is compelled to support financially an institution which is bound to present ideas at variance with his own?

You cannot make over the institution so that it can conform in all cases. This is impossible. The only thing than can be done is to remove the coercion when it comes to raising money. Then, those persons who feel that religion, let us say, is of primary importance, will be free to put their money into schools which satisfy them in that regard. Other persons who feel that government is of prime concern will be free to invest their funds in insitutions which support their views in their instruction.

Government force has no place in the school room. Education is far too important to all of us to permit it to continue indefinitely as a tool of particular viewpoints to which we are opposed, to which we are compelled to give of our substance. The compulsion must be removed.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Power Acquired By Aggressive Force Bound To Corrupt Leaders

Here is the last installment of Sylvester Petro's article "Can Labor Clean Its Own House?" as published in the February issue of "The Freeman" magazine. Under the heading "Power Corrupts Leaders," he writes:

"If the house of labor needs acclaiming now, it will continue to need cleaning until these failures of government are corrected and until the formal and informal special privileges of unions are eradicated. No human agency can be trusted with the kinds of power which the errors in government have given trade-union leadership. Establish an environment permeated with coercion and compulsion and you are bound to attract men who excel in those modes of conduct. Those who do not excel will either have to learn or make way for men with richer natural endowments.

"Workers who have become accustomed to being pushed around, who, owing to the failures of governments to do their basic job, are used to the rigorous controls of compulsory union methods, are in a position to do very little about cleaning up things. They can do nothing but bear the oppression and exploitation of their leadership. Moreover, it would be ill-advised to expect any real forward-looking action from the leadership.

'LET THE MARKET DECIDE'

"If union leaders are to be kept in line, they must remain exposed, like everyone else in a free market, to the loss of their 'business' when they do not perform satisfactorily. Instead of making a union the exclusive bargaining representative for all employees in a firm when it has been selected by only some, the law should see that those who object to the union retain their basic right, as free men, to fend for themselves. When men are forced in the first place to join unions, forced in the second place to go along with all plans and programs conceived by their leaders, and forced in the third place to keep their peace if they wish to keep their jobs (and maybe their health) — it is not at all surprising to find a good many trade-union leaders less than responsive to or honest with their membership.

"No one should be at all surprised either that the Ethical Practices Committee of the AFL-CIO, for all its concern with 'trade-union morality,' has failed utterly to deal with the violence, the coercion, and the other matters discussed here. If it had dealt with such matters, there might have been a great many more suspensions and expulsions than there have been.

"Power acquired by force and subject to no continuing functional check is bound to corrupt. Corporate managements are kept in line by the right of stockholders to move their equities when they are dissatisified and by the right of consumers and other purchasers to take their patronage elsewhere without let or hindrance when price or quality are poor. If the house of labor is to be clean, the same general principles must be applied there, with the workingmen of the nation in the position of stockholders and consumers. It is as absurd to expect good clean unionism in conditions of extensive compulsory unionism, as it would be to expect good government in a society where the divine right of kings or the dictatorship of the proletariat was the central political principle."

SENATOR LAUSCHE ON CLOSED SHOP

The fact that a politician publicly expresses his opinion against coercive unionism and it does not seem to hurt him is evidenced by the experience of U. S. Senator Frank Lausche who was elected as Governor of Ohio five times. He said:

"I think the right to work in our country is just as sacred as the right to a jury trial I don't believe any organization in our country should be vested with the right and power to say to ar American: 'You shall not work unless you join my organization.'"

A REAL SERMON

Mallory Cross Johnson was formerly associated with The Foundation for Economic Education She is now living with her husband in Malaga, Spain. This is what she wrote, as published in "The Freeman" magazine:

"What is war but death and taxes?
How will killing make men free?
Good will never come from evil;
As the seed, so grows the tree.

Taxes sap the life away from
Every source of future wealth,
Thrift and honesty discourage—
How can sickness bring us health?

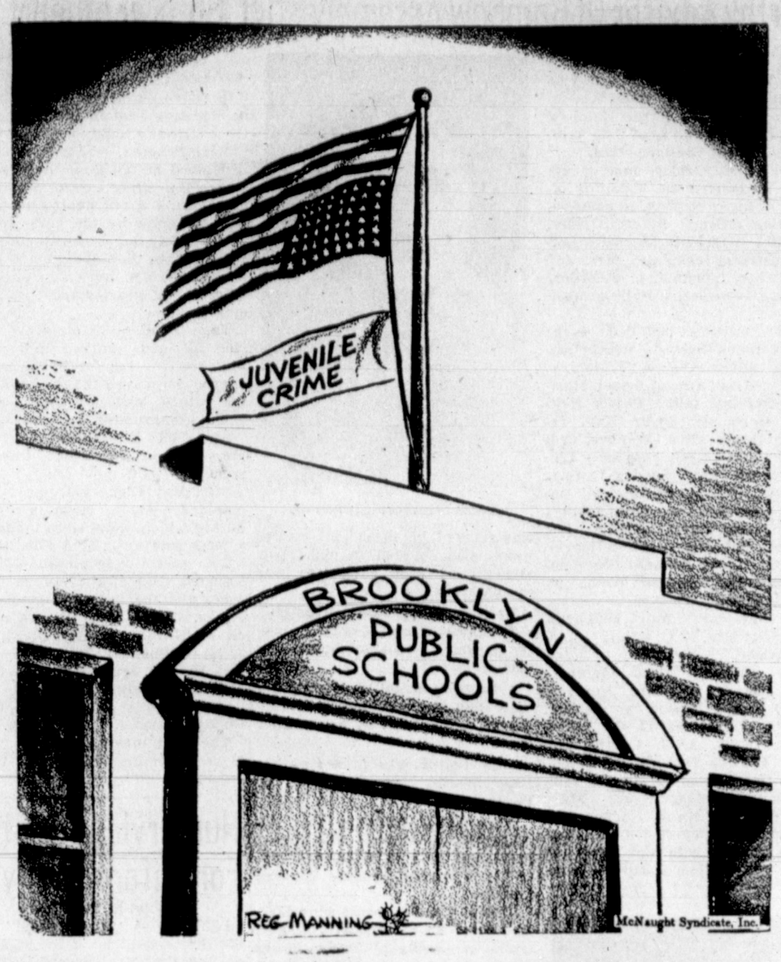

Nor can bombing draw together
Men in friendship in the way
Voluntary operations
Draw men closer every day.

If you burn to fight for freedom
Know the source wherein it lies:
By respecting every person
Each will help the other rise."

DETROIT — United Auto Workers Vice President Leonard Woodcock, on the possibility that, under certain circumstances, the union might give up its demand for a shorter work week:

"If we find when we start bargaining that the industry can promise us a full 40 hours of work at full pay, the demand for a shorter work week will disappear."

US-Educated Individuals Inspired Revolutions

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Washington's diplomatic, political and economic policies in South America have frequently been blamed for the rise and reign of so many dictators in that country. The cry was raised only recently when Jimenez was driven from Venezuela by a revolt of students and a military junta.

The basis for the indictment is that American business interests — oil, mining, fruit, shipping, aviation — prefer a totalitarian rule because, as it was said of Mussolini, "it keeps the trains running on time.' There may be some truth to this allegation, although it is not the full story.

It is true that a strong ruler and regime have a certain attraction for foreign investors, and more than $6 billion of U.S. capital has been spent to develop South America's vast natural resources. Without that investment, the 20 thriving Republics would be as backward and as undeveloped as Egypt and India.

DICTATORS HAVE TO WATCH THEIR STEPS — A dictator does not dare to impose excessive taxes, punitive legislation or confiscatory programs for fear that he might discourage foreign investment. He maintains internal order and keeps the unions under control. If only for selfish and piratical reasons, he tries to provide a friendly and fertile soil for Americans and their interests.

It is, too, a matter of record that a few American diplomats, chiefly those who obtained their posts for their political services and campaign contributions, hobnobbed with the dictators. They were flattered to receive invitations for dinner and receptions at the Presidential palace. Their assignment imposed no burden on their talents, if any, when a Peron or Jimenez, a Batista or Trujillo kept the country under control.

Two Presidents did not improve relations. Woodrow Wilson refused to recognize Huerta because he rose to power in Mexico through the murder of his rivals. Wilson sent Pershing across the border to capture bandit Villa after he had shot up Columbus, N.M. Although justified by these provocations, the high-minded Wilson antagonized every South American country more than 40 years ago.

Calvin Coolidge and his Secretary of State, Frank B. Kellogg, dispatched U.S. Marines to Central American countries whenever a fiesta firecracker exploded, fearing that is was an anti-American uprising that would jeopardize Wall Street investments. They saw a "Bolshevist" behind every demand and movement for economic or political independence. With them, however, the regretable era of "dollar diplomacy" came to an end — in 1929.

PROBLEMS SETTLED — Herbert Hoover, who once operated mines in Mexico, sent Dwight Morrow as Ambassador to Mexico City, and the banker-humanitarian settled the difficult Church and petroleum "confiscation" problems satisfactorily. Cordell Hull originated the "Good Neighbor" policy and both Truman and Eisenhower implemented and strengthened this new relationship. Thus, as a Democratic friend rather than an imperialistic guardian, the United States has contributed to South American progress for more than a quarter of a century.

Political and economic realities have forced us to remain on diplomatic terms with the several dictators who have arisen during that period. But this policy was simply recognition of conditions which we could not control. To have opposed them actively would have meant military intervention, or boycotts that would have antatonized the temporarily supine populace. Save for a few inept individual Ambassadors and Ministers, there was no warm official attitude toward them.

U.S. PATIENCE — Now, it appears that Washington's policy of patience toward certain wayward republics, as well as our devotion to democratic processes inside and outside the United Nations, in contrast to Communist and South American dictators, may pay dividends.

Peron and Jimenez have been toppled, and next to go may be Batista of Cuba and Trumillo of the Dominican Republic. Guatemala, which almost became a Russian satellite a few years ago, held its most peaceful and democratic election a few weeks ago.

Finally, it is a matter of great satisfaction at Washington that these revolutions have been inspired and led by professors, editors, students and Army officers who have been taught or trained in the United States. Moscow agents will find no propaganda fuel, although they have parodied ancient cries of "Yankee imperialism" and "Dollar diplomacy" south of the border, in our 1928-58 relations with South America.

The Nation's Press

PRESCRIPTION FOR DEPRESSION

(The Wall Street Journal)

It is natural for the Democrats to use the recession as a club to belabor the Republicans. Apart from politics, though, the views of the Democratic Advisory Council are doubtless sincerely held by some leading lights in the party, and for that reason are perhaps worth noting.

The Council, recalling the Thirties, warns that a real depression may be in prospect if the Republican Administration doesn't change its "do-nothing" ways. What, in this Democratic view, should the Administration be doing? The answer is the soul of simplicity: Spend. To be sure, the Administration is spending heavily as part of its "anti-recession" activity — too much, some people think, but not nearly enough to satisfy the Democratic Advisory Council.

The group argues that "there never was a time when there were so many urgent tasks. Defense needs, aid to our allies and friends abroad, research, health facilities, highways and other civilian requirements, are all urgent. And beyond these are housing, the renewal and rebuilding of our urban areas, the replanning of metropolitan transportation and a score of other urgent tasks."

Now it has never been proved that Government spending cures a recession or depression, as the Thirties these Democrats are resurrecting itself shows. But let us assume for the moment that the Federal Government can spend the country into a big new boom, and see what happens.

One thing that happens is inflation to finance the spending. Some people, though not all people, may feel good for a while under the inflationary stimulant, but the price is high, for the result of a thorough-going inflation is a thorough-going crash.

Though that may sound like a doctrinaire contention, it is fairly firmly grounded in economic experience. To see how, we must ask why we have the so - called business cycle of ups and downs anyway.

In oversimplified terms, a recession is a reaction to some prior excess in the economy. The speculative orgy of the late Twenties led to financial collapse. The inflation of the Thirties and war years, plus accumulating demand during the war, fed a boom to which the reaction was the downturn of 1948-49. More boom brought the mild adjustment of 1953-54. Certain excesses — in adding to capacity, for example — in the boom of 1955-56 account for the current recession.

It is just not in human nature to regulate these matters perfectly, though people have learned a lot since 1929. Thus the boom of 1955-56 was by no means carried to idiotic extremes; some restraint was exercised both by business and the Government. Those who believe the present recession will not be serious base their optimism largely on that restraint.

What the Democratic Advisory Council proposes, however, is perpetual boom with never a breather.

Farm Price Support Monumental Folly

By Thurman Sensing

THE GREAT FARM FOLLY

Our farm price support program, which might have been justified for a time as an experiment, can no longer be viewed in any other light than as monumental folly. It is a reflection upon our form of government that a program which can in no way be supported by common sense should be continued — and with no end in sight.

Right now when various reports, published and unpublished, indicate that we are in mortal danger as a r and wh we are searching desperately for ways to cut the budget where possible in order that more funds may be available for defense, is when we should take a long, steady, serious look at our farm program. Of all the nondefense items in the national budget, spending on agriculture should be listed as the number one area for cuts.

Farm outlays are the third largest item in the federal budget, exceeded only by defense spending and interest on the public debt. The cost of the agricultural program in the current budget is now estimated at $5 billion. It has amounted to a total of $27 billion over the past ten years. But the farm problem is no nearer being solved now than when this program was started.

The farm program, as now administered and as it has been administered ever since the federal government started meddling in it, has completely failed to cure the farm ills which caused it to be begun. Instead of that, it has served to perpetuate the problem of mountainous farm surpluses, it has contributed to inflationary pressures in our economy, and it has created ill will abroad.

The most recent example of the farm program failure is the Soil Bank plan—an operation launched in 1956 which pays farmers to leave land idle. The actual result has been that crop production continues at record levels, despite estimated outlays of some $763 million for this purpose in the current fiscal year. Intensive cultivation of the land used and the planting of unrestricted crops on otherwise fallowed land or pasture land have actually pushed agricultural production to new highs.

This $5 billion cost of our agricultural program is a lot of money. It amounts to more than $1,000 per farm. It takes all the revenue the Treasury gets from personal income tax rates beyond 22 per cent to pay for it. It is half again as much as was spent last year to build schools in this country. It is more than ten times total national expenditures—government, industry and universities —for basic scientific research.

Perhaps the most illogical and foolish aspect of this whole farm program is that the taxpayers must pay for it twice. First, they pay the annual cost in billions of dollars to support farm prices at a high level. Second, as a result they pay higher prices for the food they buy in the grocery store. Without price supports for butter, cheese, milk, rice, wheat, etc., etc., the consumer's food dollar would go further and his standard of living would be higher.

One of the costs borne by the taxpayers in connection with the farm program is the sale of agricultural commodities abroad at bargain prices, at less than the government (the taxpayers) pays for them. This may seem like a charitable gesture and a good way to get rid of surplus goods — but it is far from it. In the first place, charity might well begin at home, and in the second place it actually creates ill will in many nations abroad by disrupting world trade patterns, depriving friendly foreign countries of their normal markets, and opening ourselves to accusations of "dumping."

Finally, the most damnable cost of the farm program is its impairment of the farmer's freedom and independence. For being allowed to step under the subsidy umbrella, the farmer is told what he can grow, where he can grow it, and how much he can grow. He is no longer the most traditionally free of all Americans, but is a ward of Uncle Sam. The crop farmers should look at the cattlemen of this country, who refused to be bound by government controls and who are prospering without them.

Mac Doesn't Care For Paris Fashion Shows

By HENRY McLEMORE

PARIS — There is only one freedom of the press I'd vote to have curtailed, if not downright abolished.

That is the freedom to attend Parish fashion showings.

As a journalist I have always been able to get a couple of tickets to the "name" houses, and if you think that a man with a couple of tickets isn't going to take his wife to see what is doing in the sack business, then you have another thought coming.

We have just come from one — Lanvin, I believe — and I was as out of place as a fireman in an asbestos factory.

To start with, I don't look like a man who is about to buy his wife a $500 original. I get the first skeptical glance from the outer doorman, the second from the inner doorman, and then more of the same from the la-de-da busybodies inside the establishment.

As soon as a couturier, or anyone connected with a couturier, takes a good look at me he or she immediately connects me with Lost-Our-Lease, Prices - Slashed Sales, Bargain Basements, and dresses cut from patterns spread out on the dining-room table. I come from a long line of Butterick pattern folk, and it still shows.

I do my best to fake. Every now and then, after a model has sashayed past in a dress, I look up the number of it in my catalogue and motion to the lady in charge.

"Let me see No. 82 a bit more closely," I say.

Those in charge always oblige, just as if I were Aly Kahn, but I know for sure that what they feel like saying is, "What for?"

If one of them should ever come out and ask me "What for?" I have an answer prepared, I am going to answer: "For my favorite broom handle."

I have looked at hundreds of Parisian dresses at a dozen or more showings over the years, and have yet to see more than six or seven that would fit anything stouter than a broom handle. There isn't anything quite as skinny as a Paris model. You can count her ribs through a fur coat. And most of them are sawed-off little jobs, too. Paris models must live on nothing more substantial than calorie-free air, dehydrated water, and now and then a nibble at a spool of thread.

Ninety-nine per cent of the ladies looking at the models wearing the dresses would make four of them. How a woman who weighs a good 160 pounds can visualize herself in a dress displayed on a wisp of a wisp is beyond me. And no one can tell me that the lines of, say, a size 10 dress can be retained when it is enlarged to size 40 or 44.

That's like stretching a dachshund skin to fit a zebra. Something's gotta be lost.

Another thing about these fashion showings is that they are bound to put ideas in a wife's head. A few hours in such a rarefied atmosphere and a wife is not going to be as satisfied with a nice, simple basic blue outfit as she was. She'll wind up wanting an even more simple basic blue or black that costs fifty times as much.

I am all for having wives shop in stores where clothes hang on racks and each rack has a price sign over it ending, as a rule, in .98.

Message For Five Million U. S. Alcoholics

Husband-Wife Team Know Alcoholism Can Be Beaten With Self-Discipline

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA) — "You drunken bum!"

How many women spit out this epithet of anger and frustration and watch a husband, brother or boy friend cringe, then turn on his heel and run to the nearest bar?

There are now an estimated five million chronic alcoholics in the U.S. New York City alone paid 40 million dollars in a year to feed and shelter 10,000 families whose alcoholic fathers drank themselves into prison, mental institutions or premature graves.

But does it do any good to break into their glow from booze with the crushing, "Bum!"?

"No," says Heddi Tracy, Quiet, brown-eyed Mrs. Vincent Tracy knows something of an alcoholic's vagaries. She watched a talented, energetic Irishman go from a promising Fifth Avenue department store executive to a Bowery bum.

However, Vincent Tracy came back, although not through Alcoholics Anonymous, psychoanalysis or regular hospitalization. He has his own theory. Now the two help others who seek escape through drink, pills or even gambling.

"For me it was no guts, an inability to cope with situation," Tracy explains. "And at our Tracy Farms in upstate New York my method is to help these people, from 18 to 78, cope with each day's problems — office politics, for example."

Heddi Tracy was a successful buyer in New York when she faced the problem of many women who wonder if the boy friend isn't drinking too much. In her case, she discovered the bottle had no bottom and the story is told in the recently published, "No Hiding Place," by Beth Day.

"If a woman is truly interested in marrying such a man, then she has a right to talk with him, quietly, about the problem and try to help him. If he is willing to accept help, then there is no reason why she shouldn't stick with him," Mrs. Tracy advises.

"But if he shows no desire to quit heavy drinking, get rid of him," she advises.

"Of course, you've got to know your man. If you believe he has ability to become something once he licks his problem, help him. I felt anything Vincent wanted to do, he could do."

She suggests wives of men who make the effort to stop drinking help them in this way:

"Don't take him on a round of cocktail parties or have them in your home as soon as he returns home from a cure. Let him get his full strength back. At first, find other interests — reading, movies, music or the theater — and see people who don't drink.

"A wife who questions even a trip to a drugstore for cigarettes may trigger another binge," she adds. "You've got to show confidence."

"But don't become a doormat. "You've got to keep your self-respect, too."

Now with two children, six and three, romping around the home at Coeyman's Hollow, Heddi minds the family while Vincent runs Tracy Farms. When they started in their New York apartment, however, she helped in the 24-hour job of aiding alcoholics.

The goat at Tracy Farms now is to help those he calls the "backbone of America." This backbone is a man making $60 to $90 a week with two or three children. He can't afford to drink.

Through Tracy Foudation these persons will stay at the Farms with no charge and the Foundation will support the family while returning the parent to a productive life.

"Alcoholism is a mental weakness, I feel. Perhaps it is a conformity of habit just as I was conforming when I drank during Prohibition," Tracy says. "Man creates the habit, supports the habit and eliminates the habit."

"And for our children," Heddi interjects, "I plan to point out the dangers of drinking as they grow older.

"Now, I encourage moderation in everything . . . I discourage too much TV or too many hamburgers.

"After all, Vincent and I feel it basically is a matter of self-discipline."

Husband and wife team, Heddi and Vincent Tracy, run a farm in upstate New York to help victims of alcoholism.

Manners Makes Friends

If you accept an invitation to a party you should try to go in a "party frame of mind." The guest who sits back tiredly waiting to be entertained, the one who is annoyed with his wife and shows it or the one who just happens to feel argumentative is no asset to any party.

So put on a good party mood when you put on your party clothes.

It's Up To Mom To Help Daughter Make Most Of Her Natural Beauty

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Beauty might be only skin deep, but it's a mighty important commodity for a girl. And it's up to Mom to help her achieve it.

If your little girl has protuding ears, take the trouble to dress her hair in such a way that they will be hidden. You'll save her the humiliation of being teased by her friends and, at the same time, teach her one step toward making the most of her looks.

If your child's teeth protrude, she should be given proper dental care. Buck teeth are ugly, and a child who senses she is unattractive will develop a lack of confidence that will cause her much unhappiness.

So watch your child. Study her figure and features as she grows. Help her to be attractive. For beauty, as well as a good mind and well-adjusted emotions, is a very important objective.

If you plan to color your hair, remember that the majority of successful hair tintings don't vary more than three shades from the natural color. And if you don't change the shade of your hair too drastically, you'll be able to go a lot longer between touch-ups.

It's wise, if you've changed the color of your hair, to wear a hair style that avoids a clear part or a tightly drawn-back hairline. This will make less obvious the different-colored roots of the newly growing hair.

A permanent will change the color of tinted hair to some degree. So get you wave first, and allow at least a day or two before you use any hair coloring.

Hair tinting is a simple project these days, but it's wise to remember that it requires more thought and attention than natural coloring. Don't do it unless you plan to make the necessary effort to keep it looking lovely.

Teen-agers who arrive in class on a rainy day with their hair in pin curls and wearing their oldest clothes certainly can't feel poised and attractive.

Since everyone knows it's going to rain sooner or later, why not plan your rainy day wardrobe on a clear day?

An attractive raincoat, a gay umbrella and pretty plastic boots will protect any clothing you choose to wear beneath them.

If you have the kind of hair that wilts at the first raindrop, plan a rainy-day hairdo. You might try wearing it straight back, disregarding waves, and holding it in place with a wide band of ribbon. Or you could arrange it in an upswept fashion, held together at the top with a little ornament or bow. It will be pretty, and you'll avoid the use of pin curls or curlers in public.

Spirits are low enough on a dreary, damp day. No need to make yourself feel any lower by knowledge that you look awful.

HAND FOR THE HANDICAPPED — How a man-made "muscle" substitutes for human muscle atrophied by infantile paralysis is demonstrated in New York City by Dr. Kenneth S. Landaur, director of respiratory and rehabilitation centers for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Gas cartridge, at left, activates a nylon "muscle" strapped to arm, right. Gas pressure causes device on hand to move, permitting user to grasp things with first two fingers of the hand. It is an invention of Dr. Joseph Laws McKibben, physicist, who made the prototype for his 14-year-old polio-stricken daughter, Karen.

Th membership drive is headed by three area chairman: Martin F. Ludeman, West Pampa Repressuring Assn., Pampa; Ralph O'Neill, Phillips Petroleum Co., Borger; and Frank J. Storm Jr., Amarillo. Persons desiring membership or dance tickets should contact one of the above three area chairman.

Pampan To Speak To Kansas Group

E. M. McGuire, district engineer for Cities Service Oil Co., Pampa, will speak to the Great Bend Section of the American Institute of Mechanical Engineers Thursday. The title of his talk will be "Lease Automatic Custody Transfer Unit Pays Off in Texas Panhandle."

McGuire will discuss, using a model and color slides, the operation and benefits of an automatic tank battery recently installed by Cities Service in the Pampa area. This installation has been featured in the trade journals and represents one of the latest approaches to automation in the oil industry.

It utilizes meters to automatically measure the oil sold to the pipeline and elminates the need for the large number of storage tanks presently used. The operation also conserves oil by minimizing vapor losses and frees the pumper for closer supervision of his wells.

The meeting will be held in the Kansas Room of the Hotel Parrish Thursday at 7:30.

MADE TO LAST — Cotton stockings that have stood the test of time are proudly displayed by 7-year-old Kathey Gwynne at her home in Smyrna, Tenn. The stockings are 118 years old and have been worn by five generations of brides in the family, beginning in 1839 when Frances Burichett Traylor (picture) made the stockings herself for her marriage. They are still in excellent condition and probably will be so when Kathey is ready to wed.

What A Week

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — What a week this has been.

Sometime Sunday, a troubled sun grimaced in its diurnal round, loosing streams of particles, and a strange and wonderful earthly parade unfolded. First, the northern lights winked on.

That was Monday night. A neon sky glowed from Barstow, Calif., to Vero Beach, Fla. Colors reported included streamers of cherry red, pink, green, yellow, purple and white. In Boston, some TV sets got channels other than the ones they were tuned to.

Winter ran an icy finger down the national spine, and preternatural forces walked abroad. In the Seaford, N. Y., home of James Hermann, an airline executive, bottles, jars, and jugs skipped, popped, sizzled, hopped, and took off like things possessed.

Sees Bottle Hop

Mrs. Hermann said she even saw a medicine bottle "hop six inches across the bathroom vanity and land smack in the basin." A policeman sent ot Hermann's behest reported he saw and heard bottles "popping all over the place."

The spirit of the week dropped in on South Africa, too. In Johannesburg, Mrs. E. R. Prinsloo called for police guard against a ghost that she said twice tried to strangle her, bruising her neck and arms. It also picked up her child, moved a bookcase, and tossed a flowerpot across the room.

In Lynchburg, Tenn., Russell Wood, a whisky taster for a distillery, said he mouths the stuff al ay bt never swaows it,ul all day but never swallows it, even when off work—a teetotaler except for an occasional hot toddy when he feels a cold coming on.

Dog Rattles

A rattling dog turned up in Ilford, England, and a surgical inquiry into why he rattled produced the following evidence from his stomach: two pennies, a bone, a blue crayon, a pair of cuff links, a stone, a large button, and three beer bottle caps.

In Butetown, Wales, detectives grew suspicious of Hassan Abdulla Burro, 64, a seaman who constantly bought lengths of new hemp rope. At his home, they found him smoking the stuff in his hookah, or waterpipe, and asked, aghast, if that's what had happened to all that new rope. "Of course," he explained. "Old rope bad for chest."

The birthday of Honest Abe arrived in Woshington amid an inrived in Washington amid an inproper money payments around town, and the Valentine season floated into New York while a local newspaper reprinted an anonymous Southern opinion about New York City:

"The whole damned place ought to be plowed up and planted in turnip greens."

1 Card of Thanks 1

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Psalms 46-1.

When you come to the end of a perfect day
And you sit alone with your thought,
While the chimes ring out with a carol gay
O'er the joy, that the day has brought,
Do you think what the end of a perfect day
Can mean to a tired heart,
When the sun goes down with a flaming ray
And dear friends have to part?
Well, this is the end of a perfect day,
And the end of a journey too;
But it leaves a thought that is big and strong,
With a wish that is kind and true.
For mem'ry has painted this perfect day
With colors that never fade,
And we find at the end of a perfect day
The souls of the friends we've made.

Mrs. Marian Chandler

We ake this means to express our most humble thanks to our many friends and neighbors who were so thoughtful of us at the time of our sorrow in the loss of our dear mother, grandmother and sister, Mrs. Marian Chandler who passed to her reward on Feb. 7.

To the physicians and nurses of Highland General Hospital for their loving care, to Rev. Thurman O. Upshaw, Central Baptist Church and Rev. Hal Upchurch of Amarillo for their comforting services, also to Mr. Harry Crawford, Mrs. Lois Skidmore, Mrs. Jimmie Baxter, Mrs. Esther the message in music. To the Eastern Star, Royal Neighbors, also the T. E. L. Class, Bethany Class and the W.M.U. of Central Baptist Church and our dear neighbors and friends who prepared and served food in our home, we are indeed grateful.

The lovely floral arrangements and cards were deeply appreciated.

We extend our thanks to those who served as Pall Bearers and to Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home for the impressive last rites. May God bless each of you.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Warren Jr., and family,
Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Say and family
Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Brown
Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Chandler
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Poarch and family

There's an open gate at the end of the road
Through which each must go alone
And there is a light we cannot see
Our Father claims His Own;
Beyond the gate our loved one
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought
That a Loving God knows best.

Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God. Believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: If it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. I will come again and receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.
—John 14:2:3

C. R. Nelson

We take this means to express our most grateful appreciation to our many friends in Pampa and Miami for their thoughtfulness to us at the time of our sorrow in the loss of our loved one, Clarence R. Nelson, whose remains were returned to Pampa for interement, from Fredericksburg, Virginia where he passed away on Feb. 3.

We wish to thank the Humble employees and personnel for their kindnesses to us. To those who served as pallbearers and honorary palibearers, to the ladies who prepared and served food in our home. For the lovely flowers and messages. We especially wish to thank Rev. W. Adcock for his comforting services and Mr. Tom Adkins and the quartett for the music. We extend our appreciation to Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home for the impressive last rites. God bless each of you.

Major and Mrs. W. Wayne Fade and children, Debbie, Patricia, and Cynthia
Mr. and Mrs. Jobe P. Crank and children, Helen, David and Ivan and the S. R. Nelson Family

Pleas Of Wage Hike For Air Traffic Controlers Rejected

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Department of Commerce has rejected pleas of the men who control the nation's air traffic for higher wage standards, it was learned Saturday.

The action coincided with mounting congressional concern over air traffic congestion. Two weeks ago a Navy transport collided with a Navy bomber near Los Angeles and 47 persons were killed. Saturday the Civil Aeronautics Board tightened air traffic rules for military fliers.

The controllers asked the Civil Service Commission, through the Commerce Department, to upgrade salary classifications for both beginners and trained personnel. They want the starting pay for trainees set at $5,500 instead of the present $4,080 to attract higher - calibre applicants with aviation background.

A high-ranking Commerce Department official told the United Press the plea was turned down after a survey showed the Civil Aeronautics Administration has an ample supply of traffic control applicants. He also said ATC centers throughout the nation appeared to be fully staffed and adequately manned.

Veteran controllers bitterly criticized the decision.

"Many control centers may be fully staffed from the standpoint of numbers," one controller said, "but some are manned largely by trainees, with only a handful of well-trained and experienced controllers."

Paper Seeks State Vice Cleanup

LAREDO, Tex. (UP)—The Laredo Times has asked editorially that the Ministerial Association of Texas meet with the governor and other state officials at Austin to map plans for a state vice cleanup.

The editorial suggested that the attorney general and the Rangers, among others, attend the meeting.

It added that a plan could be drawn "to clean up beer joints catering to teen-agers throughout the state, along with all types of corruption." The editorial asked that the meeting be held within 10 days.

• JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Lee Downer of Tucson writes, "Here is a hand that cries out for play by South at either three or six no-trump, yet in our duplicate game most people wound up at some heart contract. The queen of clubs was opened and the defense would gather in the first two tricks, whereupon declarer would make the balance.

"I was playing with a beginner and leaped to three no - trump after his heart response. He passed and West opened the five of spades. I won with the jack and played the king of hearts. Both opponents followed, so I cashed the ace and king of spades and ran dummy's hearts.

"My first two discards on the hearts were the nine and jack of diamonds and my next three were the five of clubs, nine of spades and king of clubs. West let three diamonds go somewhere along the line and East discarded two of them. I led the deuce of diamonds from dummy and when East played the seven I decided that West could not be holding the blank king. I took the diamond finesse and made a grand slam. Since no one had bid the no-trump slam or made all 13 tricks, I had a nice top."

The play was excellent. The bidding when partnered by a beginner was normal.

The correct bidding should have been one diamond, one heart, two spades, three hearts, three no-trump, pass.

North does hold a seven - card suit but he should not insist on it. If a slam is bid South should put it in no-trump in any event, since he is looking at that king-small of clubs and should realize the danger of a club lead at hearts.

HOUSTON (UP) — Police Saturday searched for two men who held up a beer distributor's office wearing Hallowe'en masks and took almost $16,000 in cash and checks.

NORTHERN BANANAS—Ronald F. Lauer, of North Olmstead, Ohio, examines the fruits of his home-grown banana tree. Lauer, an amateur grower of orchids, picked up a banana bulb while in Florida several years ago and now the tree has just about crowded everything else out of his greenhouse. Once each year the tree bears a stalk of bananas like the one above. This year Lauer, his family and friends will enjoy 156 northern-variety banana splits.

GOP Will Not Take Funds Raised At Texas Dinner

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said Saturday he believed that none of the national GOP organizations should or would accept the controversial campaign funds raised at a Texas dinner this week.

He was referring specifically to the Republican senatorial and congressional campaign committees which will direct the GOP drive to regain control of the House and Senate in the elections next Nov. 4.

Knowland told reporters, however, that he was not suggesting that the party reject future contributions from Texas Republicans.

With the backing of President Eisenhower, the Republican National Committee announced it would refuse funds collected at a Houston dinner in honor of House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin. The action was taken after publication of a letter from H. J. Porteer, Republican national committeeman from Texas, implying that the election of a GOP Congress would help Martin pass the Texas-backed natural gas decontrol bill.

Thereafter, Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.), chairman of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee, said he would acept contributions from Texas and its Republican finance committee. Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-Kan.), chairman of the corresponding Senate Committee, said he would accept contributions from the Texas GOP finance committee but that he was not talking about "proceeds from the Houston dinner as such."

Democratic leaders have had a field day denouncing the way the money was raised and the implications behind it. Most Republican leaders also deplored it.

Pennsylvania GOP Against Stassen

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom said today GOP county leaders and party voters in Pennsylvania are against the candidacy of Harold E. Stassen for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Bloom made the statement in a telephone call to Republican state committee headquarters here from Pittsburgh while attending another in a series of meetings with county leaders as part of his "grass roots" sampling for the makeup of the statewide ticket.

"Mr. Stassen's name has been presented at each meeting," Bloom said. "Views of Republican voters were reported. In no case was sentiment expressed for Stassen. It was against Stassen. The resolutions against recommending his candidacy reflect the feelings of Republican voters.'

Bloom's comments came after President Eisenhower announced the resignation of Stassen as his disarmament adviser, to enter the race for the Pennsylvania governorship.

Oil Drops Fall On English Island

ST. MARTIN JERSEY (UP)—Charles Plomer complained Saturday that he and his fellow residents of this English Channel island are pelted repeatedly by large drops of oil from the sky.

Some islanders blame U.S. Air Force planes which practice refueling in flight over the channel, he said.
