FRANK COLLIER ILL IN PRISON HOSPITAL

So This Is Texas

Bankers Want Cut—They Can Force It—Best For Cotton Crop—Authorities to Co-Operate.

By H. N. Fitzgerald

THE BANKERS of Texas are for a drastic reduction in cotton acreage in 1927. They are the men who can force a drastic reduction. There are thousands of tenants and small farmers who are carried by bankers.

* * *

IF THE bankers tell it to each individual grower that reduction must take place in the acreage, there will be no credit advanced, how will it be possible for the farmer who needs credit or cash to ignore the advice of the banker.

There are organizations being formed in all the cotton states to force a reduction in acreage next year as well as to do everything possible for the holding of cotton until a better price period comes.

* * *

M. C. PARRISH of Austin, Travis county, is a banker and will be a member of the 40th Legislature. He has a bill which he will introduce next winter which will, if enacted, prevent planting the same land to cotton for two years in succession.

* * *

THIS MEASURE was given publicity in these columns some days ago. It is a soil conservation proposition. It prohibits the planting of any land owned, leased or tenanted to cotton for a second year in succession.

It provides penalties for the act.

It makes it the duty of the tax assessor to note on his rolls from year to year the acreage planted in cotton which may be rendered to him, and it requires a statement from each owner of land so rendered.

It provides a penalty of $25.00 for each acre so planted.

* * *

BANKER PARRISH says the conservation of the soil is not a new principle. He has been gathering statistics. His research work shows that in 1914 the United States raised more than 16,000,000 bales of cotton on 37,000,000 acres, and now we have 44,000,000 acres in cotton and a 17,000,000 bale crop is worth less than a 13,000,000 bale crop. He volunteers the information that with the present cotton acreage a bumper crop would mean 20,000,000.

* * *

HIS ARGUMENT is that in producing cotton for many years in succession the soil is gradually robbed of its fertility, and in a comparatively few years, the people will awake to the fact that their lands are worn out. He predicts that with reduced acreage in cotton and a proper rotation of crops, soil rebuilding and better farming, in five years, the people of the cotton states will be producing as much cotton on 25 per cent less land.

* * *

THERE IS certain to be legislation of a most important character proposed at least by the Texas lawmakers at the coming session of the 40th Legislature. Advocates of more cotton on fewer acres and crop rotation are certain to be on the firing line after the organization of the 40th.

* * *

PROBE CHARGE FLATLY DENIED BY M'DONALD

Wichita Man Says He Did Not Suggest Split With Ferguson

AUSTIN, Oct. 30. (AP)—C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, Saturday vigorously denied testimony given Friday before the house investigating committee by H. F. Weldon of Wichita Falls.

Weldon testified that McDonald, after a conference with James E. Ferguson, talked of money to be made in the road contracting business and said the profits would have to be split among himself, James E. Ferguson and Weldon.

"I was astounded to read in today's press the purported testimony of Judge H. F. Weldon before the investigating committee," McDonald said. "I never knew Mr. E. S. Heyser except by and through Mr. Weldon who had a dog in Heyser's kennel or both had dogs in the same kennel in Dallas, when Weldon's dog died and he went down to its funeral.

Story of Retainer.

"He came back with a story of a big retainer in sight, but he later said it blew up and I never heard of it again until I read his testimony. I never talked to Mr. Heyser or to anyone connected with the Callahan Construction company or the American Road company about any road contract in my life. Neither of said companies or Mr. Heyser individually paid me a dollar or ever agreed to pay me a dollar on any road contract and I never discussed any such contract with Gov. James E. Ferguson at any time.

"I never agreed to pay Mr. Ferguson a fee or to split a fee with him at any time or place, and he never asked me to pay him a dollar and I never paid him a dollar.

"Mr. Weldon seems to be peeved about the dissolution of our law partnership. If there was ever a doubt as to my wisdom in terminating it, that doubt is now completely dispelled. But he officed with me from the spring of 1925 until the day he testified, and has used my library and furniture free of charge. Our letter heads have never been changed.

"If every word he said were true, he would be disclosing a confidential matter between law partners in which even this act would be more reprehensible than mine.

"Mr. Weldon says no one ever knew of this conversation except the two of us, and that we agreed never to mention it, and he never has, and he does not know how the committee found it out. Only one conclusion can be drawn and that is that I told it, and I am wondering how many people in Texas would believe that.

Where's the Fee?

"Again he says the fee was to be split three ways. Well, when he dropped out what became of it? That would have left Jim and me fifty-fifty, and certainly if I would go into such a deal for one-third I would stay in for one-half.

"His statement is without foundation in substance or fact.

NORRIS GAINED NOTICE EARLY

In 1907, Pastor, Who Faces Murder Trial, Fought Race Tracks

FORT WORTH, Oct. 30. (AP)—A Baptist preacher who came here in 1907 and started a tabernacle with 13 members is to face trial here Monday on the third of three criminal indictments naming him during his climb to a place of power in militant reform and fundamentalism.

Such brings to date the career of the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church, scheduled to face criminal court on a charge of murder for killing D. E. Chipps, lumber man, last summer.

Chipps Shot July 17.

Chipps was shot to death in the pastor's church office July 17 following words between the two concerning the preacher's utterances against city officials notably H. C. Meacham, mayor.

Dr. Norris got to be known outside of Texas during his revivals in New York a few years ago and more recently through his championship of absolute fundamentalism. His stand on this issue, including attempts at legislation against the evolution theory, drew him into contact with the late William Jennings Bryan as an adviser and confidant.

The preacher first got thoroughly into the limelight in Texas back in 1911 and 1912 when he was indicted and acquitted of charges of burning his church and perjuring himself in connection with the arson trial. At that time the prosecution charged that Norris wrote himself threatening letters and hired a private detective to shoot at him.

Fought Race Tracks.

Previous to that, however, his editorship of the Baptist Standard at Dallas from 1907 to 1909 gained him considerable publicity as a reformer. He fought race track gambling he alleged was rampant at the state fair of Texas at Dallas, took his charges before the legislature and saw the anti-race track law of 1910 signed. He was presented with the pens with which the law was signed.

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC

Oklahoma County Quarantined Against Moving

HUGO, Okla., Oct. 30. (AP)—McCurtain county, in the extreme southwestern corner of Oklahoma, has been quarantined as a result of a smallpox epidemic.

No one is allowed to leave or enter the county without a vaccination certificate issued within the last five years.

Places affected are Schultz, 10 cases; Slaco, seven; Redland, seven; Pleasant Hill, seven; Honey Grove, two and Eagleton, one.

So far Idabel, the county seat, has escaped the epidemic.

SNOW IN TEXAS

Canyon Reports Fall of Snow Saturday.

CANYON, Texas, Oct. 30.(AP)—Trees retaining their leaves were weighed so that branches bent downward today by a snow which started falling about 9 o'clock in the morning. The temperature was 32 degrees. It is the earliest snowfall recorded here for 15 years. Stock growers here reported there was no indication their stock would suffer materially, but they expressed fear some crops might be damaged.

HICKS-M'DONALD MARRIAGE.

Announcement is made of the marriage of C. A. Hicks and Miss Beulah Ethel McDonald Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at the Yale Avenue Evangelical church with the pastor, Rev. W. D. Cook, performing the ceremony. The wedding was witnessed by a few friends of the young people. Mr. and Mrs. Hicks will be at home, 2139 Yale.

DOPE BUCKETS GET BATTERING IN GRID TESTS

S. M. U. Victory Over Longhorns and Baylor Over Aggies Jolts Dopesters

By BLONDY CROSS.

Just why is an upset, shyway?

However, those critics of things gridiron have their laugh first and last. All carefully calculated pregame figures failed to turn back Southern Methodist University's Mustangs Saturday at the Memorial stadium. Trailing the Longhorns for three quarters, the Ponies came back with a spectacular attack in the final ten minutes of play and tagged a couple of touchdowns, turning back Doleful Doc's Orange and White by a 21-17 score. Defeat was snatched from the fire and converted into a victory, thereby saving the faces of the dopesters. But the seven and ten-point wagering lads who gathered in a host behind the plunging Cortemeglia and the sensational Mustangs backs were sent home now wiser but not so rich.

* * *

Baylor Bucks Dope.

Baylor's 20 to 9 victory over the Texas Aggies goes on the books as an upset. Yet, Jinx Tucker, the veteran Waco scribe who should and really does know more about Farmer and Bear athletics than all the rest of the "experts" over the conference jammed together averred shortly before the game that Baylor stood better than an even chance to kick over the dope pail.

* * *

Texas Christian university ran true to form in downing Texas Tech, but the Frogs were forced to the limit, in fact, rallied from behind to shade the Matadors, 28-16. The Frogs were expected to win more handily.

* * *

Pirates Fool Folks.

The stubborn resistence displayed by the Southwestern Pirates in Houston before the Rice onslaught truly was an upset. The Owls were fortunate to cop the top end of a 7-6 tabulation.

* * *

Turn-overs were many in eastern grid strife. Navy, for one, spanked Michigan, 10-0. In one of the greatest surprises of the year, avenging in part that 54-0 drubbing given the Midshipmen last year by the Wolverines.

* * *

Cadets Go 'Plumb Wild.'

The Yale-Army game was rated as a toss-up by most of the "experts." The Cadets fooled the world by blowing over the hitherto highly touted Bulldog, 33 to 0.

* * *

Brown ran true to form in beating Dartmouth, 10-0, and Princeton did just a wee bit better than expected in scoring four touchdowns against Swarthmore's none. LaFayette stepped a bit faster than usual to topple W. & J. 16-0. Harvard swamped the weak Tufts machine, 69-0, a score far larger than expected, but a Crimson victory was on the books. Illinois fooled the wiseacres with a 2-0 win over the powerful Pennsylvania eleven. The Quakers were picked to win by a two-touchdown margin.

* * *

No Mid-West Surprises.

The mid-west failed to show anything surprising, the popular choices rocking along in manner expected. Ohio State continued its successful drive toward the Big Ten title by defeating Stagg's Maroons, 19 to 0. Nebraska smothered Ames, 31 to 6. Notre Dame downed Georgia Tech, 12-0, a score a little lower than expected. Minnesota finally settled her controversy, which had stood in a three-year deadlock with Wisconsin, winning, 16 to 10.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Oct. 30.(AP) Kinnie Wagner, alleged slayer of five men, was found guilty of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Murdock McIntosh of Greene county today and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Parole For Former Wichita Mayor Rumored at Capitol as His Friends Notify Governor of Collier's Health

Influenza Puts Frank Collier Into Prison Hospital For Medical Care: He Ranks As Model Prisoner and Worked 16 Hours Daily Up To Illness.

AUSTIN, Oct. 30.—Frank Collier, former mayor of Wichita Falls, convicted for a term of two to three years in the state penitentiary for manslaughter, following the death of Buster Robertson, is ill in the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

Mr. Collier, who has been doing 16 hours work a day, is a victim of influenza, according to reports reaching the state capital tonight. He has been superintending the pumps in the water works department at night and handling supplies for the prison farm during the day. Mr. Collier has made a model prisoner in every respect, according to advices here.

A parole for the former mayor of the West Texas metropolis is not unlikely, according to rumors about the capitol. Mr. Collier has been seriously ill for the past two weeks and it is known that his condition warrants hospital care. It is known that attorneys for Mr. Collier have taken his case up with Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, former Governor James E. Ferguson and the pardon board. His friends were in Austin this past week in the interest of his case.

Governor Posts Haskell Reward

$300 Offered For Slayers Of Night Watchman At Haskell

AUSTIN, Oct. 30. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson Saturday offered a $300 reward for the apprehension of the slayer of J. K. Beauchamp in Haskell county, October 25. The slayer must be delivered to the sheriff of Haskell county. The reward stands for six months.

FLOODS IN BELGIUM.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 30. (AP)—Floods resulting from the heavy rains of the last few days are menacing every part of Belgium and have already caused devastation in the Charleri region, necessitating the stoppage of many industries.

MEXICO "SORE" OVER KILLINGS

Note to U. S. On Slaying Of Five in Texas to Be Delivered

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 30. (AP)—Immediate diplomatic action will be taken by the Mexican government concerning the killing of five alleged Mexicans at Raymondville, Texas, Ambassador M. C. Tellez of Mexico announced here today after a conference with A. P. Carrillo, consul general of the southern republic, in San Antonio.

Killed in Ambush

The five men, who were under arrest, were killed while officers were taking them to a lonely spot to locate arms which the men were supposed to have cached. According to the story told by officers, they were fired upon from ambush and the prisoners killed.

The Mexican government asked that an investigation be made and Governor Ferguson was asked to go into the affair and report to the state department in Washington. Her investigation, according to a recent announcement from Austin, indicated that the men were not Mexican citizens and hence that the incident had no international aspect, but Consul General Carrillo announced recently that his investigations indicated that one and probably all of the men were Mexican citizens.

Note Is Denied.

Ambassador Tellez denied that the United States had sent Mexico a note on the incident a week ago. The whole controversy, he added, is a friendly one, but it is unlikely that President Calles will change his attitude.

$12,000 ROBBERY

Bandits Intercept New Orleans Payroll Messenger.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30.(AP) Three men intercepted a payroll messenger here today and escaped with the $12,000 weekly payroll of Mente & Company, Inc., bag manufacturers, after shooting and seriously wounding James Nelson, driver of the company's car.

WALLACE DIES AT FREDERICK FRIDAY NIGHT

Farmer Succumbs to Wounds After Losing Battle Of Two Weeks

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 30.—W. H. Wallace, who was shot five times October 17 by a negro thought to be Carl Duboyes, died at the Frederick hospital Friday night after a determined but losing battle for life. The shooting was the culmination of a dispute occurring at about 2 o'clock in the morning of October 17 on the negro's farm over the payment of 60 cents for sandwiches and coffee purchased by the white man.

Wallace was making a trip on business at the time the shooting occurred.

37 Years Old.

Wallace was a well known farmer living near Frederick, about 37 years of age. He was shot through his right arm and shoulder, both lungs, and his left leg with a .45 caliber gun in the hands of the negro. For nearly two weeks he lay in the Frederick hospital with no hope of recovering. Gradually he grew weaker until the end came Friday night.

Wallace leaves a wife and six children. He was a member of the Christian church, the Shrine temple, and the Blue lodge of the Masons. His funeral will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:30, services being held at the home in charge of the Masonic order.

Negro Escapes

The negro thought to have done the shooting is still at large and no clues have been found as to his whereabouts.

BRYANT FUNERAL

Services To Be Conducted At Church Friday.

Funeral services for A. C. Bryant, 34, who died suddenly Friday evening when he suffered a stroke of apoplexy at the American Railway Express company, where he worked will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Lamar Avenue Baptist church. Rev. W. H. Townsend, pastor, will be in charge. Burial will be in Riverside.

Pall bearers are S. H. Hamm, O. C. Almon, W. M. Morris, W. C. Jones, J. J. Weaver and Roy Small.

He is survived by his wife and 11-year-old son, and his father, who lives at Hereford.

MESSENGER INJURED

Delivery Boy For Local Drug Store Hurt In Fall.

Haskell Brown, 16, delivery boy of Cassell's Drug store, is in the Clinic hospital for treatment for a broken leg received late Saturday afternoon in an accident in the 1300 block on McGregor. Details of the accident were unavailable last night. The boy was taken to the hospital in a Merkle ambulance. His home is at 405 Bluff.

He is the third one of the delivery boys of the Cassell company to be injured in motorcycle accidents within the last few weeks.

BODY SHIPPED.

The body of W. E. Cornelius, 70, who died in a local hospital at 4 o'clock Saturday morning was forwarded last night to Amarillo, his home, by the Merkle Undertaking company for burial. His two sons, Fred and R. A. Cornelius of Amarillo accompanied the body. He is survived by his wife and the two sons.

MACHINE GUN BANDITS.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30. (AP)—A machine gun was used by bandits here today when they robbed five employes of the Mente & Co. company of $12,000, the company payroll for the week and escaped after shooting one man.

Merry Game of Elephant Guessing Goes Ahead With Varied Success

The merry game of guessing condtinues unabated.

Elephants are generally supposed to be heavyweights, and so they are. Just how heavy, though, is a matter of dispute among the hunndreds of Record News readers in this section who are doing their daily arithmetic dozen and sending in the result to compete in the big elephant contest the newspaper is staging.

The contest is one in which a heavily numbered elephant design printed in the Record News and copies of which may be obtained at the office, is to be added up. It looks easy, but most any one who has tried it will testify that it's a hard proposition to be sufficiently acurate to get the same total twice.

The winner of the contest—that is the one coming nearest to the absolutely correct answer, gets $500 in cash. Twenty-four other cash prizes are also to be awarded soon after the contest closes December 1.

Goblins, Elfs, Fairies, Fools, All Parade in Hallowe'en Celebration

Ghosts and goblins, elfs and fairies, clowns and fools paraded in frosty file Saturday night as Wichita Falls turned out for its annual round of Hallowe'en pranks and stunts. The evening's merriment was something of a prelude to the actual day of festivities which is supposed to come Sunday night but which will probably be mild because of Sabbath inhibitions.

Scores of masquerade parties were on the tapis in the city, while the down town business district took on its usual carnival appearance. A sinking temperature and cold north wind worked materially to keep the crowds down, but for all that hundreds made their appearance in all manner of costumes.

Police received a few complaints of vandalism, but these were fewer than in former years and nothing serious was reported. There were no accidents of any consequence reported up to a late hour.

ALAMO P. T. A. USING BUDGET

Systematic Drive Under Way For Funds to Be Used In Financing

With the honor not only of being the first Parent-Teachers' association in the city to use the budget and systematic annual drive system of financing club expenses but also of having raised three-fourths of the required amount in the first ten days of the drive, officials of the P. T. A. of the Alamo school expressed their pleasure Saturday concerning their unusual success.

$1,000 Set As Goal.

One thousand dollars has been set as the goal for the drive, and, with the time scarcely half gone, $750 has already been turned in. The amount set was the most conservative estimate for club expenses turned in by the various committees and it is expected to cover all that is required for playground equipment, piano funds, curtains for the new auditorium, delegates' expenses, hygiene and welfare work and incidentals for the year. It is hoped that the fund will eliminate the necessity of asking for donations at each meeting and all worry on money matters. Mrs. A. J. Newby, fourth vice-president of the club, is the financial chairman, and heads the drive, with Mrs. C. E. Basham, another vice-president, who is the head of the room sponsors, and her committee of sponsors as helpers. Each of the 20 rooms in the school has one member of the club as its sponsor and each sponsor, with her helpers, conducts the drive among the parents of the pupils in her room.

Have Fine Response

In speaking of the success of the drive Saturday, Mrs. Newby said: "We are delighted with the response we are getting from all of the parents. It is our aim to make the school the center of activities for the neighborhood, and we feel that with our natural pride in the school, the rest of the money will be raised as easily as the first. Several of the rooms have already gone over the top with their quota."

CHINA WANTS AID

Chair In Jugo-Slav University Is Asked.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Oct. 30.(AP)—The Chinese government has informed the Belgrade university, through the Jugoslav government, that it would like a seminary of Chinese language and culture to be founded at Belgrade. A similar desire has been expressed by the Chinese government to the French, British, Greek and Rumanian governments, while a Chinese seminary has already been set up at Prague. The Chinese will maintain these seminaries at their own expense.

Queen Of T-O Fair to Wed

Miss Sybil Kell, queen of the Texas-Oklahoma fair in 1926, is to be a bride. The above picture shows her as she appeared as mistress of this year's exposition when she held sway over her royal court on the opening night Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Kell to Wilbur Cahoon, oil operator of this city, was made at a party Friday.

BENEFIT FOR FORUM FUND

More Than 100 Women Take Part in Games Saturday Afternoon

More than one hundred women played games at the William-Mary hotel Saturday afternoon and evening when members of the civic department of the Woman's Forum entertained with a bridge tournament for the benefit of the Woman's club house building fund.

Decorations of cut flowers were used and a receiving line included Mrs. C. C. Randle, chairman of the department and members of the executive committee. Forty tables were arranged for the games.

Punch and cake was served and Misses Catherine Weeks, Willette Jarrell, Margaret Hines and Jewel Rose Akin presided at the punch bowl.

The ball room of the hotel was used through the courtesy of the management and flowers were donated by the Wichita Florists. Chairs and tables were loaned by the North Texas, Fresears and the Riley Furniture stores, and all prizes except the high score, a pair of solid brass book-ends, which were donated by McConnell Bros., were given by Perkins-Timberlake.

Cards were donated by Mack Taylors, Lovelace Book store and Wilford-Harrison while the White House market and Noble-Little assisted with the refreshments.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage licenses were issued to the folowing persons yesterday by the county clerk:

T. J. Cossey and Mrs. Rosemary Dinser of Lawrence, Kansas.

T. L. Rosser and Mrs. Leila Carr of Quanah.

D. L. Beatty and Miss Lucy Jane Clark of Chelsa, Oklahoma.

SEEK TO FIND RADIO'S ILLS

Local Users Asked to Join In War On Growing Interference

Radio dealers of Wichita Falls are joining in a move with the Radio Digest, national publication dealing with radio affairs, in an effort to track down causes of radio interference that is becoming more grave each day. The movement is designed to clear up the air so that radio programs, which are beginning to be more or less a nuisance rather than entertainment, can be received with some degre of reliability.

Blanks will be supplied by the dealers which can be marked to designate the causes local radio users find as giving trouble. These will be sent to the Digest offices in Chicago where a study and analysis will be made and recommendations and suggestions presented to the attorney general and the secretary of commerce to the end that steps can be taken to secure protective legislation.

Grasshoppers have done such great damage in Guatemala that they are now considered to be a serious menace.

PRIMEVAL FOREST

Superior National Park Reserve Full of Wild Animals

DULUTH, Oct. 30. — Primeval forests, where moose, deer and bear roam, and eagles fly, may still be found untouched by logger's ax, in parts of the Superior National forests.

Situated along the Canadian boundary line, just west of Lake Superior, in Lake and Cooke counties, the national forest covers 1,250,000 acres. Each year some mature timber is harvested under direction of the United States Forestry Service, by private companies.

No more is cut than the annual growth, so that the forest may be perpetuated, and much of the vast district has never heard the ring of an ax.

SCOUT LEADER OF EAST HERE

New York City Man Is Speaker At Special Saturday Meeting

Stanley Harris of New York city working out from the national headquarters of Boy Scouts of America was the principal speaker at a call meeting of the Boy Scouts Council Saturday at noon at the Kemp hotel. Mr. Harris is interested in the racial work of the Boy Scouts.

"There are 885,000 Boy Scouts in the United States," Mr. Harris said, "and approximately 20 per cent of the boys in America are in the racial division," he said.

Mr. Harris explained that his work is along three aims, to help develop a program among the rural or county boys; to develop a program among the sons of working men; and to promote the work among the different racial groups, Mexicans, Japs, Slavs and others. His program is also to teach the negroes to help, to become less dangerous, and to Americanize the sons of foreign parentage.

The Speaker is the oldest man in point of service among the Boy Scouts in America, having been in the work for the last 18 years.

Rone Enters Plea Of Guilty; 1 Year

L. E. Rone, facing charges in the 89th district court for violation of the liquor laws, sprang a surprise on the court and prosecution Saturday morning by declaring that he was ready to plead guilty to the charges and throw himself on the mercy of the court.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Rone testified in court Saturday morning they had spent the entire night studying over the matter and after praying about it they felt it was best to make a clean breast of the matter and ask for clemency.

Judge P. A. Martin complimented them on their decision to come clean with the case and sentenced L. E. Rone to one year in the penitentiary.

Earnings of the government railway in Jamaica for the past six months are greater than for the year of 1925.

Wichita Falls Methodists Complete Plans For Entertaining Visitors

More than 200 pastors from the ten districts of the North Texas Methodist conference, and about 200 lay delegates are expected to gather here Wednesday morning for the sixtieth annual convention of the conference.

Southern Methodists of Wichita Falls have made great plans for the entertainment of the pastors and lay delegates, and one of the greatest meetings in the history of the church is expected.

Visitors will be entertained in the home of local members of the church, and the sessions of the conference will be at the First Methodist church. Members of the Floral Heights Methodist church are also assisting in the entertainment plans.

The last annual conference of the Methodist church was held here in November, 1910. At that time Bishop Murrah presided. There were about 500 visitors in attendance. The North Texas Methodist conference is one of the oldest in the state. It comprises the following districts: Wichita Falls, Dallas, McKinney, Sherman, Gainesville, Decatur, Paris, Greenville, Sulphur Springs and Bonham.

Noon day luncheons during the conference will be served at the Floral Heights Methodist church. The Woman's Missionary society of that church will serve the Wednesday and Thursday luncheons, the following being in charge: Mrs. T. R. Boone, president; Mrs. John Tancred, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Mrs. J. A. Curtis, Mrs. Merle Waggoner and Mrs. Lester Jones.

The following committees on entertainment will represent the Floral Heights church:

General Committee: J. M. Bland, H. M. Long, Leon Daton, W. B. Chauncey, W. B. Guthrie, Harvey McCarty, Lester Jones, C. C. Knight, Milton Gaines, Mrs. P. B. Cox, Mrs. T. R. Boone, Mrs. Merle Waggoner, Mrs. Lester Jones, Mrs. Floyd Billingsley, Mrs. J. M. Bland, Mrs. Lula B. Thompson, R. G. Percival, Mrs. Harvey McCarty, Mrs. Leon Deaton and Whitt Smith.

Reception Committee: J. M. Bland, chairman; H. M. Long, W. B. Guthrie, Leon Deaton, Whitt Smith, W. B. Chauncey and Herbert Gray.

Importance Of Fresh Air To All Ages Stressed By Red Cross Leader

(This is the second of a series of articles being written for the Record News by Mrs. T. B. Smith, executive secretary of the Wichita county Red Cross chapter, in which she deals with questions in which the Red Cross is active).

—Editor's Note.

Fresh air and correct temperature is especially important to children and fresh air is the cheapest commodity in the universe but the miserly way in which some of us use it would lead one to think it one of the most expensive products. If we were only as careless about the amount of air that we use as we are about electric lights, gas, gasoline or any other product for which we pay, we undoubtedly would be a healthier and wealthier nation.

The same people who regulate the ventilation and temperature of a home in the most haphazard way, would not think of using the same guess-work methods on an incubator filled with eggs. Eggs are too expensive and important to leave to guess work, but poor human beings must make out the best way they can.

Too Much Heat.

Doctors tell us that our consistent practice of keeping houses closed tightly day and night is one of the chief reasons for the coughs, colds and more serious complications experienced every winter. It is not the cold weather that does it; it is lack of fresh air and too much artificial heat.

Though the correct temperature at which to maintain the air of a room is, according to health experts, 68 degrees, few families follow this practice. Instead, the temperature of a room regulated by guess-work rather than by a thermometer; generally hovers well over 70, sometimes even getting up to 75 and 80. This overheating plus the staleness of the air leads to difficulties.

Lowered Vitality.

According to the New York state commission on ventilation, when the temperature of a room gets above 68 degrees it raises the temperature of a child, hurries his pulse, lowers his blood pressure, and weakens his heart action.

The commission, after careful research work, ascertained that children in school rooms where the temperature was kept at 68 degrees or lower suffered less from coughs and colds than those in rooms where the temperature was kept higher. They also found that people do 15 per cent less work in a room where the temperature is 75 degrees than in one where the temperature is 68 degrees or lower.

Every house should be aired thoroughly each day. Doors and windows open just long enough to permit fresh air to sweep through the house or office wipe out "yesterday's air"—the only air which is really harmful. This practice gives the day a good start.

PEAK OF 1919 BOOM PASSED IN DISTRICT OIL PRODUCTION

PIPELINE RUNS MAKE INCREASE OF 2,700 BBLS.

Nearly Every Field Scores Gain to Set High Record

Surpassing even the peak reached in December of 1919, during the Burk boom, the daily pipe line runs reached the highest mark in the history of the Wichita Falls district during the past week when a mark of 104,380 barrels was registered for the district.

When the boom was at its highest stage of development the district's greatest output was 102,635 barrels which is 1,745 barrels less than the figure topped last week. The lines gauged an increase of 2,765 barrels over the preceding week.

Every field in the district boosted its output of the previous week with the exception of Iowa Park, Throckmorton and Baylor county. Archer county led the way in the amount of gain with an increase of 1,538 barrels and passed the 35,000 barrel line. The recovery of wells which were temporarily lost during the Red river flood brought the Burkburnett sector a hike in production of 585 barrels. The Electra fields had the flush production from several recently completed wells turned into the lines which augmented the daily runs of that territory. Cooke county made a notable increase as well as Jack, Young, Montague, Wilbarger and Clay counties.

Production by fields, as follows:

Field	Past Week	Prev. Week
Electra	17,805	17,443
Burkburnett	11,625	11,050
Iowa Park	4,635	4,735
Archer Co.	35,440	33,905
Clay Co	765	795
Wilbarger Co.	15,105	13,275
Montague Co	9,640	8,645
Young Co.	8,440	8,875
Jack Co.	235	240
Throckmorton Co.	1,120	1,440
Baylor Co.	140	155
Cooke Co.	820	695
Totals	104,380	101,615

Foard County Catches Oil Fever As Lease Activities Start Anew; 10 Million Foot Gasser Starts It

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas Oct. 30—With the announced location here of the Humble-McAdams well No. 2, definite confirmation has been made of the long continued hopes of oil men with regard to Foard county. For a number of years Foard county has been the object of desultory drilling operations by the larger companies, but without success until the Humbls and Navarro McAdams No. 1, located 17 miles west of Crowell was brought in as a 10,000,000-foot gasser during early September. Even with this stimulus, which could not be officially confirmed, the activity in this county remained too much wildcat to be satisfactory. However, the location of the well No. 2 has given the public the needed ounce of confidence necessary to set the fever to work. An unusual activity has been manifested here today and royalty and leases are rapidly moving toward a new market figure.

Several Big Plays.

There have been several distinct oil plays in Foard county during the past few years, all of which have drawn a certain amount of interest. The first interest manifested by the larger companies after the bringing in of a dry hole by the Landreth corporation south of Crowell on the Furd Halsell ranch, was the drilling of a well in the northwest portion of the county by the Texas Company. Geologically well defined this structure was played by practically all the larger companies operating in Texas but the hole was a duster at 2,900 feet.

The next development came early in 1925, when the Central Oil Interests of Fort Worth, operating through C. T. Subble, as trustee, located five miles north of Thalia, and drilled their Burress No. 1. This well was recently completed to 3,009 feet, proving a duster, with one showing of oil. Mr. Subble, practically assured by the subsurface geology that the structure lies south of this location, has expressed confidence in the territory immediately north of the town of Thalia, and several of the holding companies in this territory are dickering for enough acreage to enable them to drill a new well.

Another Duster.

In the meantime Murchison and Fain had sunk a dry hole at a point between Crowell and Thalia, finding a small showing of oil with some indication of gas.

Shortly before the completion of the Central Oil Interests' dry hole, McElreath and Suggett of Wichita Falls blocked a large amount of acreage immediately east of the town of Thalia. The Gulf Production company is at present drilling on this block, the well being down 2,500 feet with some showing of oil at unstated depths.

Early in September G. C. Wood abandoned his T. M. Haney location as a duster, and moved a rig onto a location approximately seven miles northeast of Crowell and about four miles west of the Central Oil Interests' dry hole. This test is today down 1,500 feet and has passed through several good looking limes, with a small indication of gas.

Humble Confident.

Officials of the Humble Oil and Refining company and of the Navarro Oil company have expressed themselves as very sanguine of their block of leases on the McAdams ranch, and have outlined a thorough drilling program which will thoroughly develop this territory. The new activity in the west part of the county is also finding new expression in other parts of the county, and leases are changing hands very rapidly in other localities.

The territory around the G. C. Woods and Gulf tests while very completely leased continues to be brisk in royalty trading, and a few small tracts which are not leased are drawing big bids.

The California Company has just completed a 9,000-acre block of leases just south of the town of Thalia and about nine miles southeast of Crowell, which it is said will be drilled soon.

SEMINOLE AREA BREAKS MARKS

New Gushers Send Output To New Peaks Almost Daily

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 30.—"Records are made to be broken" can well be said of the Seminole field around which the interest of the oil industry is now centered and will likely be for some time to come, with new wells coming in daily, and in the "gusher" class.

This field produced for the 24 hours ended at 7 a. m. Thursday, 102,726 barrels, of which 93,354 barrels came from the 22 Wilcox sand producers. There is a total of 44 wells in the field, three of which did not produce the last 24 hours, and a number of the Wilcox producers are pinched in, which if permitted to produce their entire output would swell this figure considerably.

Another Expected

Another gusher is expected momentarily, as the Sinclair Oil and Gas company topped the Wilcox sand in its No. 1-B Cudjo, in the northwest corner of 35-10-6, and found it at 3,959 feet, which is 40 feet higher than in the company's No. 1-A, which topped it at 3,989 feet. No 1-A is making 365 barrels per hour and is in sand to 4,007 feet.

Superior Oil corporation's new well, No. 1 Cudjo, in the northwest corner of the southeast of the northwest of 35-9-6, has averaged 135 barrels per hour for the past 18 hours, after deepening five feet in the sand topped at 3,996. This well made 75 barrels the first hour, and 168 barrels the second hour.

Largest Producer

Gypsy Oil company's No. 1 Wolfe is the field's largest producer now, the output of this well for the last 24 hours being 10,037 barrels. This well is one-half mile due west of the discovery well of Independent-Garland, in 26-9-6.

Gypsy's No. 1 Fixico, in the southwest corner of the northwest of the northeast of 26-9-2, did 6,615 barrels. Its No. 2 Fixico, in the southeast corner of the northwest of the northeast of 26, is still at a total depth of 4,171 feet, and the hole is standing practically full of oil, and is to be swabbed and cleaned out.

RECITES MANY WOES.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Mary E. Hall recited a lengthy list of alleged wrongs in a divorce petition.

Her petition says that her husband threw dishes at her, refused to admit a doctor when her legs were broken, refused to buy her clothes and when she bought them, burned them, and, she claims, bought an automobile and wouldn't allow her to ride in it.

AMARILLO HAS DRILLING WELL

Well On City's Land May Reduce Taxes With Royalty

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 30. — At last, an oil derrick within a stone's throw of the corporate limits of Amarillo.

No longer a speculation of oil men, but a positive reality. Verne Dumas, widely known operator of California and Texas, has been given a lease on a section of ground owned by the city on North Fillmore street. The lease was granted by the city commission after assurance had been given by Dumas that the drilling would start at once.

The city will retain its one-eighth royalty in all oil and gas that the well will produce. In the event of a big strike, members of the city commission say, the royalty will amount to thousands of dollars annually. This turned over to the city treasury would go a long way toward the reduction of taxes and paying for the cost of city government.

Dumas said that he would start to erect his derrick at once so that the actual drilling can start at the earliest possible moment.

PARK SITE PICKED

Unofficial Vernon Referendum Brings Selection.

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Oct. 30.—In the unofficial referendum held Thursday for the selection of a city park site to be bought with the proceeds of a $18,500 bond issue, 269 of the 518 voters cast were for the Green tract, located east of the city, making it the city's choice for the new park. Thirteen other sites were offered. The Green tract contains 20 acres and is valued at $400 per acre. It has not been decided how much of this land will be bought for the new park.

COMPLETIONS NUMBER 117

Oklahoma Leads Kansas In Wells Completed And In Production

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 30. — There were 117 "official completions" the past week in Oklahoma and Kansas oil fields.

Oklahoma had 94 of the completions, to 23 for Kansas. The new initial production showed up similarly, Oklahoma getting the lion's share for 51,281 barrels of the grand total of 52,695 barrels for the two states.

Seminole, the sensational new oil field in Seminole county, accounted for 44,051 barrels of the Sooner state's new output. Its nearest neighbor was Osage county with 4,117 barrels.

Only Cowley county, with two wells for 199 barrels, and Greenwood with 11 wells, were in the Kansas producing lists.

Failures in Oklahoma numbered 31 to 10 for Kansas. Gassers in Oklahoma totalled nine for 82,750,000 cubic feet a day.

103 New Wells Begun

Twenty-three counties in Oklahoma the past week reported 103 "first reports" of wells starting.

Creek county, one of the oldest producing counties of the state, again was in first place with 21 new wells, and Osage county, was second with 20; Tulsa had 9; Seminole, 8; Grady and Okmulgee, 6; each; Stephens, 5; Carter, 4; Kay and Payne, 3 each; Cleveland, Garfield, Hughes, Lincoln and Muskogee each 2; Caddo, Cotton, Jefferson, Noble, Okfuskee, Pawnee, Pontontoc and Pottawatomie, one each.

The Kansas oil fields reported 26 new wells starting the past week.

Greenwood continues to lead with 19 new wells; Cowley had four and Lyon, Russel and Sumner each reported one new test.

CHANGE REFUSED

Quanah Council Votes Down Amendment.

QUANAH, Oct. 30.—A proposed changed in the city charted requiring an election for each installation of city officers or employes was voted down as too cumbersome by the city council in regular meeting Tuesday night.

Plans for a new city street lighting system were discussed. Harve H. Edward's appointment as city marshal was confirmed.

TOOL IS LOST

Work On Sanger Company Well Delayed.

ABILENE, Oct. 30.—A bit lost in the hole has caused a temporary cessation of drilling in the Sanger Oil and Refining company's Anderson No. 2, five miles southeast of Abilene, at a depth of 2,290 feet. Intention of Charles W. Sanger, president, is to fish out the tool and drill deeper. A showing of oil was struck in this well at 1,970 feet. Drilling thereafter has proceeded cautiously in the face of continual cavings.

QUIET WEEK IN DISTRICT

One Semi-Wildcat and Big Well in Throckmorton Are Features

An uneventful week has just passed in the fields of the Wichita Falls district. There is activity aplenty in all sections, however, and the week just passed may turn out to have been the lull before a storm, for there are a number of important operations which are nearing the interesting stage. There was only one outstanding feature during the week.

A northward extension of approximately a quarter of a mile was given the Texhoma-Maer pool in block 63, K. W. V. L. subdivision in north Archer county. The Humble Oil and Refining company drilled the extensioner which is that company's No. 1 Kemp and Kempner in block 54, and across the line in Wichita county. It is showing for a 40 to 50 barrel producer in the sand at 1798 to 1799 feet.

Turbeville Pool

Three notable producers were finished in the Turbeville sector of Archer county, Petroleum Producers and United Producers having completed their Nos. 4, 5 and 6 in block 171 of the Carson survey. No. 4 made 1,000 barrels initial and No. 5 was estimated at 100 barrels. Two days later No. 5 was drilled in and swabbed 350 barrels in the first 24 hours.

The Continental Oil company made oil wells of four tests in the Nocona field of Montague county. Their production is as follows: No. B-2 Rowland, 35 barrels; No. C-1 Rowland, 200 barrels; No. B-3 Rowland, 60 barrels; No. A-5 Maddox, 65 barrels. Montague county is no win the midst of a brisk wildcat activity that may be the means of thrilling the fraternity when some of the wells get down to the expected day.

Throckmorton County

Throckmorton county came to the fore in mid-week when Red Bank Oil company brought in its No. 2 Parrot, located in the Prelnium survey, section 971. The well made 500 barrels initial from 18 feet of the sand topped at 3,967 feet and later increased to 700 barrels. It is near the Red Bank's No. 1 which came in last spring and is still making 295 barrels.

There were several nice completions made in the proven areas of all the fields, but an unusually large number of dry holes offset the good news. Dusters were not confined to any one vicinity but were reported in all parts of the district.

Pipeline runs passed the peak of the great Burkburnett boom, most of the new production coming from wells completed the previous week.

Oil Locations

The Following Locations For New Tests Have Been Reported From the Wichita Falls Area Last Week.

Throckmorton County.

Continental Oil Co., and Rogers No. 1, Rogers, 1,000 feet from north line and 800 feet from west line of section 1376, T. E. L. survey.

Madden et al, No. 14, Benson, 900 feet south of No. 13, T. E. L. survey.

Bridwell and Mayfield No. 1 Hamilton, 440 feet from south and west lines of north 43 of west 86 acres of section 1488, T. E. L. survey.

Panhandle Refining company No. 1 Self, 1,050 feet from north line and 150 feet from west line of Self tract, A. Rohus survey.

Goldsmith and Craig, No. 1, T. J. Bowins, 150 feet from north and east lines of southwest quarter of section 628, T. E. L. survey.

Archer County.

Bridwell and Heydrick No. 9-A Abercrombie and Taylor, 200 feet north of No. 2-A, section 2, S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 1281.

Magnolia Petroleum Co., No. 8, L. L. Hudson, 300 feet south and 150 feet east of No. 2, block 50, Harris Sub. Club Ranch.

Muse, et al, No 1 Selman, 150 feet each way from northeast corner of Selman tract, C. Lydings survey, abstract 354.

Wright and Owens No. 1 Otto Stehlik, 150 feet south and west of northeast corner of block 6, league 2, D. C. & L. L.

Marland Oil and Bass and Dillard, No. 3 Perkins 156 feet from south line and 700 feet from west line of block 143, Robt. Carson survey.

Wichita County.

Apple and Brandeberry No. 4 Ancell, 2170 feet from west line and 150 feet from north line of section 10, block 7, H. & T. C. survey.

Petroleum Production Co., and United Production Co., No. 1 Love, 1200 feet southwest of W. C. Parker No. 1, W. S. Kennard survey, abstract 171.

Jno. Hoover No. 1, Mrs. Mitchell, 150 feet from north line and 760 feet from east line of block 9, P. Castleman survey.

OKLA. PANHANDLE

The Garber and Pulse wildcat north of Texhoma, in southern Texas county of the Oklahoma Panhandle, and located in the northwest corner of the southeast of the southeast of 4-1n-12e, has topped an oil sand at 2,705 feet. It passed through 300 feet of lime formation, and was forced to underream and carry the eight-inch casing down to the oil sand. The eight-inch was previously set at 2,240 feet.

This test, No. 1 Allison, is one-half mile east and south of the J. F. Allison No. 1, that came in as a 15,000,000 foot gasser some years ago, and regarded as a distinct marker in Texas county.

Two oil showings were found previously by Garber and Pulse, one at 1,950 feet that was a heavy oil and was sufficient to drop from the crown pulley line and mess up the derrick floor. Another lighter oil was found at 2,240 feet. A test will be made as soon as the pipe is landed.

The Garber and Pulse strike is located near Texhoma on the Oklahoma and Texas state line, and 35 miles north of the Hutchinson county area of the Texas Panhandle field.

C. survey, is being placed on the pump making 70 barrels from a depth of 1,661-64 feet. Phillips No. HH-4 Waggoner in section 42, is pumping 340 barrels daily from sand at 2,301-05 feet.

Noodle Creek's Next Well Due

Oil Men Looking for Gusher As Drills Pierce Earth's Depths

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, Texas, Oct. 30.—Another huge gusher similar to the Joe Winter well of the Phillips Petroleum company, in the Noodle Creek pool is expected in the next few days as the drill of the Midwest's Thornton No. 1 nears the pay. The drill reached a depth of 2,150 feet today, or 365 feet above the pay sand of the Winter well. Water is standing in the hole that was struck at the same level as the water in the Winter well.

The Phillips Tessie No. 1 is 2,075 feet deep, also full of water. The Thornton is a southwest offset an dthe Tessie a south offset to the Winter well.

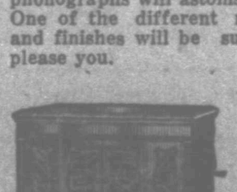

Three miles east of the discovery well the Hurley company's No. 1, at 1,900 feet, is shut down with boiler trouble.

Howell No. 1, Atlantic Oil and Producing company, three-fourths mile south of the Joe Winter well, is drilling at 200 feet.

Preparations are being made to spud the Phillips Joe Winter No. 2 and Marland Mason Nos. 1 and 2, all near the Winter well.

FOUR TESTS IN ABILENE FIELD

All Wells to Be Drilled Are Located on Tracts Near City

ABILENE, Oct. 30.—Within 90 days the Hunter and Grisham corporation and the Wildman Petroleum company, both of Abilene, will begin the drilling of four wells in the neighborhood of Abilene, two being southwest and two northwest.

The Grisham and Hunter corporation will spud soon on lot 26, league 146, Grimes county school lands, five miles south of Merkel, this county, where it has a 4,500-acre block of acreage. The contract depth is 2,700 feet.

Grisham and Hunter will join in with the Wildman Petroleum corporation in drilling two wells in Jones county, about 30 miles northwest of Abilene and seven miles west of Anson. One of these will be on league 333, Harrison county school lands, with a maximum contract depth of 2,750 feet. The other well will be on league 334, Harrison county school lands, with a maximum depth of 3,000 feet. The two companies have an 8,000-acre block surrounding the two Jones county locations.

NEW YORK.—An iron girder falling from the fourth story of a West Side building missed three pedestrians by less than a foot.

COOKE COUNTY

Wildcats Dot Area Around Recent Discoveries.

Cooke county is now enjoying probably the greatest wildcat play in its history. Six wildcat locations were made during the past week and there are at least that many others already drilling.

Following are some of the important locations recently made:

Scientific Oil company No. 1 A. M. Ludeman is rigging up in section 1, B. B. B. and C. Ry. survey, being northwest of Gainesville.

Schubert, Scott and Holmes No. 1 Scofield and Lieber in the L. H. Smith survey, abstract 918, three miles northwest of Marysville.

Skinner's No. 1 F. B. Houston has the derrick up in the B. A. Foreman survey, abstract 302.

Gist and Geddy No. 1 W. A. Harris in the Jas. Harris survey, abstract 302, has the derrick up.

Handerry's No. 1 Fette is a location three miles south of Muenster in the Chas. Cartir survey, abstract 1,190.

Lynch, Stahl and Burress are building the rig for No. 1 Bueller in block 8, Geo. Ivy survey, being one and one-half miles northwest of their production in block 17.

"GREAT OAKS," ETC.

Early Investment Reaps Great Reward Now.

Special to The Record News.

SHELBY, Mont., Oct. 30.—An interesting story is being told here, indicative of the fortune to be made in oil by the man who gets in "on the ground floor." In the early days of the Kevin field, so runs the tale, twelve men put up $50 each to form the Kalispell Kevin syndicate. At present time these men are realizing a monthly income of $4,000 each from oil produced on the acreage which is now subleased to the Fulton Oil company and the Homestake Exploration company.

N. TEXAS GAS SHIPPED EAST

Atlantic Refining Co. Buys 10,000,000 Gallons For Eastern Refineries

Exporters have been inquiring of Atlantic Coast and Gulf Coast refiners for gasoline, but sales have been lacking. This condition was responsible for the Standard Oil company of New Jersey cutting export gasoline in cases one cent a gallon.

Atlantic Refining company has purchased 1,000,000 gallons of 64-66, 374 endpoint, gasoline in north Texas, paying an average of 10 1-2 cents a gallon for the material. It will be sent to the east to augment its own production.

Mid-Continent refiners are reducing their runs to the stills and spot prices are steady. The wholesale market in Chicago is also steady.

500 METHODIST VISITORS HERE THIS WEEK FOR CONFERENCE

CITY TO BE HOST AFTER 15-YEAR WAIT

Bishop Hay of Houston To Preside Over Sessions At First M. E.

For the first time in 15 years Wichita Falls is to entertain the conference of the North Texas district of the M. E. church which will hold its 60th annual session at the First Methodist church, south, this week. Congregations of the First and the Floral Heights Methodist churches are planning to entertain 500 men and women of the district during the conference, which opens Wednesday morning and continues through Sunday night. Bishop Sam R. Hay of Houston, D. D. L. L. D., will preside over the sessions.

Among the speakers who are to be in attendance at the conference are some of the best known in the south who will bring messages while in the city. Arrangements have been made by pastors in a number of churches of the city to have the visitors occupy their pulpits.

Visitors expected to be in Wichita Falls during the week include Dr. H. H. Sherman of Nashville, Tenn., assistant secretary of the general Sunday school board of the M. E. church, south; Dr. T. D. Ellis, general secretary of the church extension board, Louisville, Ky., Dr. A. Franklin Smith, Nashville, editor of the Christian Advocate, general organ of the church; Dr. E. B. Chappell, general secretary and editor of the Sunday school literature, Nashville; Dr. A. J. Lamar, Nashville, senior book agent for the M. E. church, south; Dr. E. P. Riley, former editor of the Texas Christian Advocate; the present editor, Rev. E. V. Cole of Electra.

Selecman Coming

Dr. C. C. Selecman, Dallas, president of Southern Methodist University; Dr. W. D. Bradfield, professor of S. M. U.; Dr. George F. Gibson, pastor of Monger Place church, Dallas; Dr. Humphrey Lee, University church, Dallas; Dr. Carl C. Gregory, pastor of the First Methodist church, Dallas; Dr. H. D. Knickerbocker, presiding elder of the Dallas district and former pastor of the First church of Wichita Falls; Dr. J. Sam Barcus, president of Southwestern University, Georgetown; Dr. H. E. Stout, president of Texas Woman's college, Fort Worth; Rev. D. P. Fuller of Grand Prairie, editor; and Dr. John R. Allen, former professor of philosophy of Southwestern University, but now of Dallas.

Aged Pastor Coming

Rev. W. E. Edwards, 93, who has been a Methodist minister for more than sixty years will be in attendance at the conference. He is the father of Mrs. J. L. Wilson of 1657 Elisabeth street.

Another minister in the nineties, is Rev. Seaborn Crutchfield, formerly of this conference, but now of Phoenix, Ariz., will be here. He is being accompanied by his son, Rev. James Crutchfied, 71. The elder Rev. Crutchfield has the record of being the first and only chaplain of the state legislature of Arizona.

Word has been received from Rev. Johnnie Reynolds, also in the nineties, that he is unable to be in Wichita Falls this year because of failing health. "Uncle Johnnie" as he is affectionately called by his friends, has been attending annual conferences for many years, and he has expressed regret at not being well enough to come to the sixtieth annual session of the north west district conference.

REPORT INCORRECT

Ben Hoskins Not Charged With Theft As Reported

In reporting the sentence of Ben Hoskins in district court Friday, The Record News was in error in stating that Hoskins had plead guilty to theft. He was under charges of disposing of mortgaged property and plead guilty to that offense, and was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

The error was made in copying excerpts of the trial from the court record, and was made with no intention of misrepresentation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brooks are visiting relatives over Sunday in Snyder, Okla.

Tips By Prisoner Keep Him From Going To Penitentiary.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—S. Brotman's value as an informer keeps him out of prison. Although Brotman has pleaded guilty to a $75,000 theft, his sentence has been delayed at the request of Assistant District Attorney Garrison. "Through Brotman we expect to clear up many unsolved robberies," Garrison said.

BOOZE CASES CLEARED AWAY

Allred and Martin Set Record In Desposal of Charges In Court

Following out his avowed intention to clean out the criminal docket during the past week, and especially liquor cases, District Attorney Ben F. Allred has had his side of the cases ready to go at the completion of each individual case and consequently Judge P. A. Martin's 89th district court has made quite a record for the week in the disposal of cases.

Seventeen cases in all were handled and convictions were secured in all but three. A total of 38 years in penitentiary sentences was imposed.

Of the 17 cases tried 14 were convicted, one received a suspended sentence, two were acquitted and one resulted in a hung jury. The entire docket was composed of liquor and forgery cases for the week.

Monday all cases not tried last week will be called ahead of the regular settings for the week, Judge Martin announced yesterday.

CENTENARIAN

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Oct. 30.—Observing his 100th birthday, George Purdy of this city said today abstention from liquor for the last 50 years enabled him to attain long life. He said:

"Young fellows of today ought to stay away from whiskey if they want to live to an old age."

BRIDGE RE-OPENED

Burnett Street Structure Gets New Paving

The Burnett street bridge over the Wichita river is now open again after being closed several days for repair. The old road surface had become very badly worn and bumpy, causing water to stand on it following rains.

A new four and one-half inch Warrenite bitulethic coating has been put on, presenting a much smoother road surface and the center concrete rib on the roadway has been removed.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

UP TO DOBSON AND HIS LINE

Coyote Chances in Scrap With Vernon Depend On Forwards

In football a line is useless without a backfield to carry the ball. The converse is just as much a truism. Your backfield is helpless unless it has a line to pave the way for its plunges or hold while it punts or passes.

And in the Vernon game Saturday, the crucial contest of the early season for Wichita Falls, Coach Bud McCallum is pinning most of his hopes on the stalwart Wichita Falls forward wall led by Captain Wilkes Dobson at guard.

Dobson, one of the greatest guards ever a member of a Wichita Falls eleven, combines his efforts with what is believed to be the most powerful front intrenchment from tackle to tackle in north Texas.

Neither the Vernon backfield nor the Wichita Falls backfield is rated better than the other. Victory or defeat for Wichita Falls rests on the performance of Dobson and his fiercely-charging cohorts of the Coyote vanguard.

COMPARATIVE DOPE

Childress Plays Wellington This Week Then Memphis Nov. 19.

The Childress Bobcats plan to buckle down in earnest Monday to prepare for the invasion of Wellington Friday. The Skyrockets were defeated last week by Memphis who scored almost at will, but Coach Mitchell and his men are taking no chances of being slipped up on by a supposedly weaker eleven.

Captain Spert, 200-pound fullback and one of the fastest men in the district, will be primed especially for the Wellington game. Memphis beat Wellington, 41 to 0. The Cyclone swings against Childress November 13, so this week's tilt between the Bobcats and Skyrockets should afford the fans a fair chance to compare the strength of the Bobcats and Memphis team.

Coyotes Defeat Quanah Tribesmen But Find Them Stubborn Braves

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Oct. 30.—Wichita Falls high school's Coyotes found the Quanah Indians a much more efficient lot than they had expected to meet in their Saturday trek up the Denver. The Red and Black line plunging offensive finding itself frequently smothered at vital moments, ending the game with a score of 24-0, when it should have been twice that figure. The Coyote power yesterday lay in a different direction from that displayed in the Electra contest, the line smashing Francis being himself at Tigertown for only occasional flashes. But out of the Coyote backfield, numbers set loose on the Indians, stood out ont brilliant luminary who answere to the name of Mitchell, this lad having the punch to put it over in little more than one-quarter four touchdowns (one of which nullified by a Wichita Falls offside).

Pack Gets Busy

After receiving Quanah's kickoff the Pack started like the proverbial house afire Francis, Mitchell and Allred smashing through for four successive first downs and seemed to be headed for a certain score, when Fox, fighting little Indian fullback, was found on top of a free fumble, to stop the Coyote onslaught.

Near the end of the first quarter Mitchell executed a beautiful 30-yard run around Quanah's right end for the first touchdown. Ray's kick bounced off the bar for no point.

Pass Intercepted

Opening the second period, Mitchell intercepted a pass from Cox after a series of plunges by Francis and an eight-yard pass, Allred to Francis, Mitchell got loose again, outdistancing all tacklers for another 25-yard run around the Indian right end to score. Ray's kick was blocked.

Mitchell late in the second quarter dashed half the bredth out of the field and then fought his way over the goal, stiff-arming two Quanah tacklers and one of his men out of the way to get through. The half ended with Wichita Falls earning 16 first downs to two for Quanah. The score being 18-0, with two other scores lost in bad breaks.

Seconds Get Chance

In the second half Coach McCallum started a team of second stringers with a sprinkling of regulars to steady them, led by Perk Ray and Jimmie Rayzor, in the backfield, and Captain Dodson in the line. Ray broke loose with a 25-yard broken field run.

The third quarter, however, remained scoreless, all Coyote attacks lacking the punch to get anywhere. Early in the fourth quarter Ray uncorked a sensational 22-yard pass to Rayzor and followed it with an 11- yard run through a broken field for the final touchdown. Rayzor's kick was wide, leaving the score 24-0.

NORTHWESTERN COPS 21-0.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 30. (AP)—Taking advantage of Indiana's mis-plays, Northwestern scored enough points in the first five minutes of today's football game to win decisively 21 to 0. The contest was played on a rain-soaked gridiron. A steady drizzle throughout handicapped the players. It was the Purple's second victory over Indiana this season.

HARVARD RUNS WILD.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 30. (AP)—Harvard's new football machine had a field day today, running ragged over Tufts for a final score of 69 to 6. The visitors' single scoring opportunity came in the first period when three forward passes carried the ball to the Crimson nine-yard line and Ellis drove over for a touchdown.

DRAKE HUMBLES KANSAS.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 30.(AP) Playing before a home-coming crowd today, Drake university humbled Kansas university 13 to 0 in a Missouri valley conference game. The Bulldogs ripped into the Jayhawks in the first period of all their scores and therefore after the game was on nearly even terms.

Bruins Upset Dope to Win From Texas Aggies On Waco Grid

WACO, Texas, Oct. 30. (AP)—With a charging line and a pluunging and shifty backfield, Coach Jenning's Baylor Bruins crashed over the Aggies from A. and M. college to the tune of 26 to 9 on the Cotton Palace Gridiron here this afternoon. The outcome was a complete upset of dope. Baylor outplayed the Farmers at every stage of the game.

Our Willie Cuts Up Quite Merrily At Pigskin Game

This little story is one of those believe-it-or-not sort of things.

It's about Our Willie Gelhausen, Vernon's rip-'em and-ruin-'em full back and team captain.

Our Willie has been showing the boys a few on the gridiron these days. What with his startling defensive performance, long end runs and off-tackle plunges, he's become just about the idol of Vernon grid fans.

But back to what we started to tell you, to wit, et cetera:—

Our Willie in a game Friday, a week ago, playing defensive full, which means that he was in the secondary defense and not on the line of scrimmage, mind you, broke through on two occasions, blocked punts, then grabbed up the shoatskin, and ran for a touchdown.

In the past week's game Willie pulled another unique one. He punted deep into opposition territory and then scampered down in time to retrieve his own kick when the safety fumbled, and ran for a touchdown.

Now you tell one, but make it just as truthful.

ARMY WINS IN 33 TO 0 SCORE

West Point Cadets Run Over Yale Opposition in Easy Fashion

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 30. (AP)—Army profited by Yale's mistakes Saturday and put the Elis to route, 33 to 0, before a colorful throng of 75,000 that filled the bowl to capacity.

The powerful cadet eleven kept its unbeaten record intact with the greatest victory ever scored over Yale and the first registered since 1911.

Army, exhibiting a scoring punch when opportunity beckoned, rushed over five touchdowns in a game marred by fumbling and penalties. Wilson, Murrell and Hewitt led a cadet attack that outclassed the Blue.

Cochran Shows Kirkwood How

Wichita Falls Amateur King Wages Great Game Against Joe

Playing a sensational game, that included four birdies on the first nine holes, and exactly par golf on the last nine, Tom Cochran, paired with Dud Golding, defeated Joe Kirkwood, world famous trick shot expert, and Bill Strachan, in a foursome exhibition at the Wichita Falls Country club Saturday afternoon, before a large and enthusiastic gallery. The score was 2 and 1.

The phenomenal shooting Cochran, almostly totally eclipsed the headliner of the day—Kirkwood, and at the end of the 18 holes he was five up on the celebrated Australian. Golding, after playing an erratic game for the first 16, spurted on the 17th to clinch the match with a birdie three and repeated the performance on the last green. Strachan played a steady game throughout, and turned in some remarkable putting, to earn a 74 for the round. Cochran's total was 68—33 out and 35 in, while Golding took 74 strokes and Kirkwood one less.

In an exhibition and lecture following the match play, Kirkwood demonstrated his full "bag of trick," including shooting out of a bad lie in a bunker backward over his head squarely into the green, driving a ball off the face of a valuable watch 300 yards straight down the fairway, driving 200 yards with a mashie on a ball driven into the ground, the correct and incorrect way to "slice" and "hook," how to get distance, direction, and, in fact a complete course in golfing.

Prison Ills Aired By Townsend

Local Attorney Discusses Needs of Penitentiary In Talk Here

"For the past 25 years the prison commission of Texas has been in trouble, and the trouble with the commission is that you cannot fix liability," W. J. Townsend, local attorney, said Saturday at the University club when he explained two of the four constitutional amendments to come before the voters of Texas Tuesday. Of these four, one is to abolish the present system of having the commission composed of three persons appointed by the governor.

"The objection to the present plan is that it is political," Mr. Townsend said. "Anything that builds up a machine is a bad policy. The appointment of the commission has been an asset to the governors," he pointed out, and showed how the executive had appointed friends to the office and how chainlike, other friends had been chosen until it became a veritable machine.

One Man Needed.

"It is my opinion that a one-man manager of state prisons would be a success. A man controled by the legislature or by the people and responsible to them."

"The prisons of Texas are profitable, but they have been operated at a great loss. Abuses come and go, and I believe we are struggling under one of the greatest abuses at the present time. I believe the amendment should be adopted to abolish the appointment by the governor of the prison commission."

Dr. Cantwell discussed the proposed amendments, one to make taxable school lands owned by counties in Texas, and the other that the legislature cease to establish school districts as it does under the present system.

"In the days of the Republic of Texas provisions were made for public education," Dr. Cantwell said, and he explained how one of the objections to a union with Mexico was that that country had no provision for public education. Going into history, he told how Mirabeau B. Lamar layed a foundation for public schools and followed the constitutional provision that gave all counties liberal land donation for public schools. Not all the land for these counties was owned in that particular county, and since the school land is not taxable, some counties were at a disadvantage in that they could not tax these lands to carry on the improvements possible by taxation. The amendment seeks to make these lands taxable or to have the counties dispose of them or else tax them in the hands of commissioners.

Establish Districts.

"The other amendment relates to the establishment of school districts in Texas. Wichita Falls has an independent district created by a special act. The legislature may create special districts and as a result we have hundreds of independent districts each different from the other. The object of the amendment is to stop this sort of thing and have a general uniformity in the districts created," he said. "If this is an evil, it is a growing one."

The speakers were introduced by Burl Bryant, president of the club.

Special music was a feature of the meeting. Baldwin Montgomery sang "The Night Wind" and "Indian Dawn," with Miss Minnie T. Baker at the piano. Miss Vivian Railey played two violin solos, Kreisler's "Paradise," and "Mighty Lak A Rose," by Nevin. Mrs. Carrie E. Wilcox played the piano accompaniment.

A program committee for November was appointed with the following members, E. E. Fischer, Mrs. J. S. Pitman and Sam Holliday.

NAVY MIDDIES FLOP MICHIGAN

Sweet Revenge Taken From Midwest For Defeat Last Season

BALTIMORE STADIUM, BALTIMORE Md., Oct. 30. (AP)—An inspired Navy atoning for a humiliating 1925 defeat at Ann Arbor, beat Michigan 10 to 0 before 60,000 people today. The Navy blotted out the vaunted Wolverine air attack, converted it to its own use, mixed a smart defense with it and scored the first touchdown made against Michigan in two years. Hamilton drop kicked a field goal from the 27-yard line after touchdown.

FIGHTS SATURDAY

Wanton Duke Tramel, the potent punching Cowtowner walloper, has been begging, more or less, for a bout with Miami Joe Rivers, the Mexican phantom, according to Fight Promoter Wofford, so Duke is to be matched with Rivers next Saturday night in the American legion boxing feature bout at the Majestic theatre. That is, if Rivers is not upset in the meantime, said Wofford.

Johnny Hilliard, the Burkburnett welter flash, has been lined up for a six-round semi-final with Buckshot Peoples of Wichita Falls, said Wofford. The two never have met.

Efforts are being taken to match up Tabby Levine and Battling Kosse, two local featherweight favorites, said Wofford.

LEARN ARCHERY.

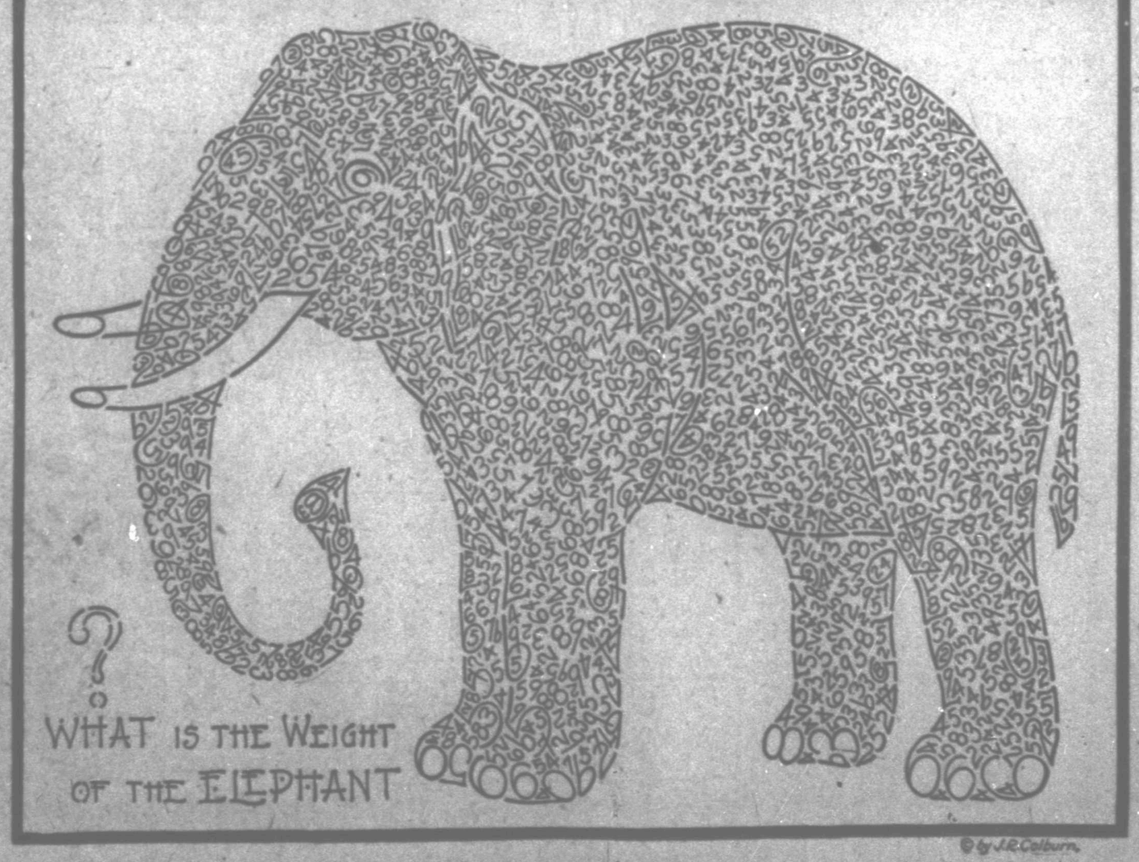

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—Training in the use of the bow and arrow will be offered women students of the University of Pennsylvania next winter as one of the sports open under the system of compulsory physical education.

Subscription Information

Payment for not less than three months or not more than twelve months subscription to The Record News must be sent with each solution. The payment can apply on your own subscription, or can be made by or apply on another person's subscription.

Subscriptions can be new or renewals, both count the same. A new subscription is an order from a person who is not now taking The Record News. A renewal is a payment made by a person who is now taking The Record News from a carrier, an agent or direct from the Record News office by mail.

Two six-months subscriptions or four three-months subscriptions will count the same as one twelve-month subscription.

A person who is now taking The Record News and paying agent or carrier by the month can send in a three-, six- or twelve-months subscription to the puzzle manager with a solution. Carrier or agent will be notified of payment by The Record News and your subscription account will be credited accordingly.

Closing Date

The Great Elephant Puzzle Contest Will Close at Nine P. M. Wednesday, December 1, 1926.

The earlier you send in your solution the longer time you will have to go over your figures, AND SEND IN ANOTHER SOLUTION, if you find you can do better. Additional charts may be secured at any time by calling at the address below or sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope for mailing them. NO SOLUTION CAN BE CHANGED AFTER IT HAS BEEN ONCE REGISTERED.

Important Facts to Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive, should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winners pay. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts. .... Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one person

General Rules of the Contest

This competition is open to all residents of the states of Texas and Oklahoma, except employes of The Record News and members of their families.

Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION UN-ACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

The Record News offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When in the judgment of the contest manager more than one member of the same family, or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together send in a solution of the puzzle, he reserves the right to refund subscriptions and return the solutions he believes have been submitted contrary to the foregoing rule. The Record News reserves the right to reject any solutions it believes have not been submitted under proper conditions. The Record News also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions or points which may arise and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them, and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize; the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

PONIES RALLY TO PUT SKIDS UNDER STEERS

Longhorns Had Been Leading 17 to 7 From Early In Contest

AUSTIN, Oct. 30 (AP)—Beaten the first three-quarters at their own specialty, the forward pass, the SMU Mustangs in the last ten minutes of play here Saturday scored two touchdowns and defeated the Texas University Longhorns, 21 to 17.

Coach Ray Morrison's blue and gold gridsters showed plainly they believed in the saying every coach believes in his chances—"A team that won't be beaten can't be beaten."

Into the conflict, played before a colorful crowd of 15,000 was packed every conceivable thrill. The first play from scrimmage was prophetic of the football drama to come.

The Mustangs kicked off to Capt. Saxon of Texas who brought the ball to his own 30-yard line. Stallter then passed to Wild Bill Ford for 20 yards, and Ford ran 50 yards for a touchdown, without a foe laying a finger on him. The play completely fooled the Mustreak who dealt devastating blows expecting a line plunge.

Seven thousand Mustang supporters tonight are chanting praise to M. Traidman, a blue jerseyed streak who dealt devastating blows to the Longhorns.

Too Much Mann.

'Twas Mann who plunged through the center of the line for 16 yards on a delayed buck to score the first touchdown of the Mustangs; 'twas Mann who passed to Love in the last quarter for a 42-yard gain and a touchdown; and 'twas Mann who in the last six minutes of play scooped up a fumble by Rufus King, Longhorn fullback, and ran 35 yards for the touchdown that won the game and defeated a Texas team that fought an inspired battle throughout.

Line up:

TEXAS	POSITION	SMU
Glover	Left End	Key
Wray	Left Guard	Tatum
McCollough	Center	L. Ford
Cowley	Right Guard	Daniel
Moore	Right Tackle	Roach
Higgins	Right End	Dawson
Saxon	Quarterback	Mann
B. Ford	Left Half	Cortemeiglia
Stallter	Right Half	Hume
R. King	Fullback	Wade

Score by periods:

Texas	7	7	3	4	—17
S. M. U.	7	0	0	14	—21

Summary: Texas scoring touchdowns, Ford, Rhoades (substituting for Higgins) field goal, R. King; goals after touchdowns R. King 1.

S. M. U. scoring touchdowns Mann 2; Love (substituting for Wade;) goals after touchdowns, Mann 3.

RABBIT RACES

Kansas Jacks and Greyhounds Put on Show at Fair Grounds.

A 25-dog stake, ten rabbit races black tail jacks from Crisfield, Kan., is scheduled for the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds this afternoon starting at 2 o'clock under direction of R. L. Mullins, it was announced Saturday.

The races are to be run off in quick order, it was said, featuring a number of the best greyhounds in the southwest.

This is the first time rabbit races ever have been scheduled in this city.

Once the sportsmen get educated to the contests it is difficult to keep them away.

It is planned to stage the races semi-monthly.

MISSOURI WINS

Tigers Slough West Virginia, 27 to 0, On Mountaineer Grid.

MOUNTAINEER FIELD, MORGANTON, W. Va., Oct. 30.(AP)—The University of Missouri defeated West Virginia 27 to 0 today, mainly by breaking up the Mountaineers' overhead play. The Westerners shattered the record of Mountaineer field in which West Virginia had been undefeated since it was first used in 1924. It was the Mountaineers' first defeat in a home game since 1919.

ILLINOIS WINS

Red Grange's Playmates Stop Pennsylvania

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct 30. (AP) Illinois defeated Pennsylvania 3 to 0 in a thrilling game played before 45,000 spectators today. Frosty Peters, taking Red Grange's place as the star on the 1926 eleven, scored the victory in the last three or four minutes by a drop kick from the 15-yard line.

DRAKE WINS, 13-2

Bull Dogs Show Strength to Route Jayhawkers.

DES MOINES, Oct. 30,(AP) Drake's Bull Dogs displayed sparkling strength today in defeating the Kansas Jayhawkers 13 to 0 at the Drake home coming.

Brilliant end run of Chuck Everall featured the game.

HASKELL DEFEATS BUCKNELL

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 30.(AP) The Haskell Indians today defeated Bucknell 26 to 0, winning their great triumph in the new stadium which Secretary Work of the interior had helped dedicate just before the kick off. The Braves battered the Bison line to pieces and marched steadily goalward in every period of the game, but failed to score in the fourth.

SPEAKING OF COACHES

Little Geneva's rise in the football world, it seems, has been tinctured with suspicion. After holding Cornell to a close 6 to 0 victory the Beaver Falls grid gladiators trimmed Harvard in the Crimson's opening game. Both Cornell and Harvard, by inference, at least, charged that Geneva's line-up consisted of several "ringers." The authorities at Geneva have protested against such a charge as being manifestly unfair in view of the fact that the team is coached my one of the most gifted quarterbacks that ever called a signal. His name is Bo McMillan, of "Praying Colonels" fame.

'Tis often said that it takes a thief to catch a thief. And by the same token it might be hinted that it takes a coach to expose a coach. Although heretofore Geneva had never seriously worried any of the big teams, the Beaver Falls outfit was being scouted by Dobie early this fall. Gloomy Gill wasn't fretting about what even Bo McMillan could do with raw material. He figured that McMillan hadn't been there long enough to effect any great menace with grid candidates from the legitimate student body. Dobie was anxious about the possibility of dangerous "finished products" in the Geneva football fabric. Moreover, several players were protested by the Ithacan football mentor, and they were not played. They may, or may not have been "ringers," but the fact remains that Cornell had its way.

It still seems to be an unwritten law among most coaches that proselyting is a football crime only when the culprit has been "caught with the goods." When a college or university pays a big salary to a new coach it expects satisfactory results. And it will be satisfied with nothing else. It is a fairly well established fact that even coaches cannot furnish genuinely top-notch performances with poor or mediocre material.

Anent Obtaining Material.

Officials seeking a betterment of football conditions at most institutions of learning require a diversity of talents of the new coach. Not the least of these is the knowledge of where skilful players may be enlisted if they are not already on the college campus. The coach is expected to dig them up somewhere, and not infrequently his bosses are not fanatically particular where they come from. Sometimes there are howls—but not often.

A competent coach, particularly one who has made a big reputation, generally fulfils this questionable requirement. Football is a sport to many, but to the coach at least three-quarters business. Unlike the carpenter, he usually knows where to find his tools.

To paraphrase a familiar "ad"—Four out of every five have it—and the fifth knows where to lay his hands on it. Meaning, of course, coaches and first class football material.

The French and Dempsey

The French idea of the Dempsey-Tunney films is interesting. It breeds argument on a salient phase of ring tistic..ffing. That is in respect to the element of aggressiveness and its importance as attaching to decisions.

Most French critics, oddly enough, believe that Dempsey should not have been deprived of his title. The concensus seemed to favor a draw for the now ex-champion of the world. The Parisian appraisors of glove artistry hold that Dempsey's aggressiveness should have spared him the humiliation of losing the verdict. They noted that Dempsey did practically all of the forcing, and that Jack was the aggressor even in the last round of the combat.

"Well, what of it?" this writer asks. Is pure aggressiveness, all, or even the greater part of any ring battle? What benefits it a fighter to be aggressive if the course merely catapults him into a storm of punches—severe punishment? Aggressiveness, to count at all in a fighter's favor, should be of the scientific or somehow practical sort. With it he should outscore his foe, not be mutilated by it. Otherwise the fine art of counter-ing may be entirely discounted and tossed from the order of things tactic. Is it not as commendable to counter sharply and accurately as it is to exhibit the boldness that and exchange of blows?

Both the American and the French ring make practically a fetish of unpolished aggressiveness. Many a boxer conceals his real lack of boxing enlightenment by displays of crude, though often spectacular moments of aggressiveness. And frequently he "gets by" with it and earns the favor of impressionable judges.

Aggressiveness should count for much only when a boxer uses it as a vehicle with which to damage his man.

Difference In Aggressiveness.

Dempsey's aggressiveness formerly was of a most potent and practical brand. It laid him open to hard punches now and then, 'tis true. But it was Dempsey's tiger-like bravado that enabled him to "get to" Jess Willard, Georges Carpentier and Firpo, to carve fatal openings for his deadly, soul-searing wallops. It was this same type of aggressiveness, a bit diluted, that permitted him to make a punching bag of Tom Gibbons for eleven out of their fifteen rounds in the Montana desert.

There is a vast difference between that and the kind of employed by Dempsey at the sesquicentennial. Against the sharp-shooting countering of Tunney, Dempsey's rushes represented but a series of minature suicides.

In the ring a man is supposed to inflict punishment, not to commit suicide.

BREAKS GO AGAINST ELECTRA ELEVEN BUT REESE'S OUTFIT BATTLES GAMELY IN DEFEAT

Fortune Leers at Captain Avens and His Tiger Mates When They Struggle To Overcome Odds

BY BLONDY CROSS

Electra's Tigers are a dejected outfit today as they wearily look forward to the grind which starts Monday in preparation for the game at Quanah next Saturday, the final tilt of the year for Electra in conference play.

Avens

And why shouldn't Captain Dudley Avens, his mates and Coach Jim Reese feel a bit dejected? Fortune has smiled on them bitterly.

The defeat received at Vernon Friday statistically eliminated all ideas of going anywhere this season in the Texas high school football race.

But the sourest note is the fact the Vernon setback and the Wichita Falls beating registered the week before both came more or less on the breaks of the game, of which there were many but few favorable to the Tigers.

Captain Avens and his fighting forwards faltered in defeat before the powerful onslaughts of Francis and Mitchell Saturday a week ago, but if fortune had favored Electra to any appreciable extent Avens and his brother gridders, at least, would have made it exceedingly more than interesting for Coach McCallum's sturdy lads.

But hope still was held out for the Electra cause prior to the Vernon melee Friday. Had not the Tigers gone down to 14-0 defeat before Coach Baggett's warriors the season could have been called partially a success. Anyhow, there would have remained an opportunity to advance in the championship drive pending outcome of the Vernon-Wichita Falls battle next Saturday at Vernon.

A fighting Tiger team faltered twice in the Vernon game and thereby hinges the story of the Lion victory. Vernon could not score from scrimmage. A bad pass from center put the Tigers back on their own goal line and then a blocked punt which was recovered by Fats Parker, Lion center, three yards from the last white marker made it possible for the initial Vernon touchdown. The mighty Gelhausen tore at the left side of the light Tiger line but was dropped without an inch advance by Captain Avens himself. Once before and thrice afterward the sturdy Tiger forwards came up fighting under the very shadows of their goal to balk a smashing Vernon drive, but fortune could not favor always. On the next play, Castleberry slipped through center for the coveted touchdown and point was kicked by Gethausen.

Later in the game there came another break, a break that went to Vernon and produced the second score. It was a slip of a finger, perhaps a drop of the elbow by Johnny LeBus who had received a punt to his goal and in his anxiety to get away quickly for a run up field did not clutch the oval tight enough. Koontz, Vernon lineman, tackled the Tiger safety and the shoestakin bounced from his grasp. Gelhausen recovered with a scant 15 yards to go and an open field before him. The stalwart Vernon fullback, ever on the alert, sprinted across into the end zone and with him went Electra's hopes for a victory.

Never Gave Up.

However, Avens and his men continued to fight with the ferocity of the jungle beast whose name has been taken by Electra high school as a moniker for its athletic teams.

Time and again they forced the victory-drunk Lion forwards back and smashed through to halt Vernon's powerful backfield in its tracks. Time and again the plucky Tiger forwards tore great holes in the Vernon defense barricades for their lightweight backs to carry the ball through merely to be foiled by some quip or other of fickle fate with a touchdown all but within their grasp. Truly, it was a noble fight Electra's team, outweighed at every position, waged even in defeat.

They say Vernon advanced 118 yards from scrimmage to Electra's 31. Perhaps so. They say first downs were at a stand-off, each team making seven. Perhaps so, but Jim Reese's fighting midgets held Vernon to a lone down through the final two quarters of the game. Perhaps the statisticians in figuring their yardage from scrimmage, took in Shorty Key's 60-yard dash in the last minute or so of the melee when in a final desperate effort to score Electra launched a forward passing attack when it really was too dark for one player to see whether he was tackling friend or foe. Key intercepted and came very near getting away for a touchdown. Perhaps they figured Gelhausen's 15-yard run after scooping the Electra safety's fumble, too. Electra was outscored but NOT outplayed. Electra was outscored but NOT outfought.

Lucky Some Day.

Some day the Tigers are going to produce a fighting team that happens to be lucky, too. Then the storm warning is out to north Texas opposition.

Going right down the line you can engrave all their names on the gridiron scroll of honor. There was George (his buddies call him Mike) Brown, Mike at Electra's left end played a game that any high school wingman can long be proud of. His uncanny ability to sift through Vernon's mass interference time and again spilled the speeding Vernon backs for losses. His ferocity on offense long will be recalled by the Vernon lads who battled opposite his position.

Captain Avens was a fit running mate. Rarely did the fierce-charging Vernon backfield, a backfield that has no peer in north Texas, dent the left side of that sturdy line proctected by Avens and Brown.

Then there was Foster at guard; Coolidge, Davis, Sargent, Crass, then Marshall. Put 'em all on your honor list as the fighting Electra line that held to the last ditch and thwarted all efforts of Vernon's tearing, plunging backs to score through it or around it. Just remember, both touchdowns came on breaks, one on a blocked punt, the other a fumbled punt.

And Those Light Backs.

And when you look back at that game, don't forget that midget secondary defense. Don't forget Gerald Gillum who ploughed through for many a ground-eating advance. Don't overlook little Johnny LeBus, quarterback, who performed nobly although hampered by an injury received in the Wichita Falls game a short six days before. Don't forget Linden Smith who came away with a wrenched ankle, but who sparkled both offensively and defensively during his tenure in the lineup. You can't afford to overlook the sterling work of Cleinhger and Kent, one of whom was on the launching end, the other on the receiving end of an aerial rally that came to the very brink of upsetting Vernon's fondest hopes. And White, reserve halfback, just a mite of a lad can ever recall that Friday in Vernon he played the greatest game of his youthful career. Surely, not weighing more than 110 pounds, the atom with a frenzied courage stacked up the thundering advance of men almost twice his weight, dived into the mass and took them down in a heap.

That 14-6 score said Electra was defeated, but never the battling spirits of those sturdy lads.

Pass Rule Not To Be Revised

Such Move Merely Would Favor One Individual In Game

BY GEORGE CHADWICK.

Copyright 1926, by The Consolidated Press Ass'n.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Some silly talk has been heard about changing the intentional pass rule and the resin bag rule, but there has been no demand at major league headquarters for any revision of the baseball rules in 1927 and there is not likely to be any.

Much criticism is directed at the intentional pass rule. Changing it will be inverse value to baseball.

It is simply advocating a preference for Babe Ruth to make records for if it were not for Ruth and the home run records he has made there would be no demand for a change.

The silly notion that Babe Ruth should be established as bigger than the game itself will cause many a person to wonder why this agitation exists for an individual when it is not likely there will be another home run batter of his prowess in the next century.

Not Square Deal.

No game has any right to give an umpire jurisdiction over the intent of a player whether pitcher or otherwise and it has no right to give a player any result except that which he earns in actual competition. If the number of runs should be increased because added bases could be given on called balls, there would come times when the scoring would be farcical. Pitchers of the type that gives bases on balls freely and yet are clever enough to keep the score down would be ruined completely. The art of working the corners would soon be forgotten and the science of pitching would be knocked for a row of double-distilled curves.

There are changes in the rules that might be made to make them less mystifying to some persons, and yet it is not possible to make them much clearer unless they are completely rewritten.

Task Too Big.

The task of reverting the rules is prodigious. The only person who is known to have re-written the baseball rules is John B. Foster, who did it to formulate what the "Baseball Guide" called the "simplified rules of baseball."

That was a long time ago. The "Guide" carried the simplified rules for many years and then gave them up when the amendments were made to the playing rules in 1929, and explanations of the rules were added to their general publication in the "Guide" by Mr. Foster.

Resin Didn't Hamper Ruth.

Careful phrasing of rules has been their bugaboo. The code was badly handled in 1920 and the faults were quickly in evidence when the rules were about to go to print, but it was then too late to get the rules committee to act.

Most arguments in 1926 were over the resin bag. The resin bag went through the 1926 campaign and the world series without bringing out any heart burnings, much to the satisfaction of the National league club owners, who made so much fuss about it. No home run much fuss about it. No home run batter of his prowess in the next century. was spoiled by the resin bag so far as known. Babe Ruth didn't hit against resin bag pitching except in the world series, and as he made four home runs in those seven games the American should certainly favor the resin bag when National league pitchers oppose its batters.

CABBY OPTIMISTIC

Panhandle Expects to Send Strong Club to Amarillo.

The Panhandle Refining company Longhorn baseball team, greatly improved, will enter the 1927 Amarillo baseball tournament.

H. E. Cabiness, business manager of the team, declares his team will be in the scrap a year from now.

"I know that our team was handicapped during the first tournament by a lack of veteran material but since we know that the tourney is a meet wherein the fittest survive, we will send a team next summer which will make all look to their laurels," said Cabiness.

Jess Winters who managed the Refiners is now living in Abilene.

Ohio State and Michigan Loom In Western Conference Race

The late world series was waged by New York and Missouri. It now appears as though the western conference football championship is going to be decided by Michigan and Ohio.

For Ohio State's impressive victory over Iowa's 25 to 6, coupled with Michigan's glorious triumph over Illinois makes the two teams first mentioned the outstanding possibilities for the Big Ten honors.

Michigan was conceded a good chance to retain the title before the season started. Ohio State was given credit for having a formidable eleven but the Buckeye's schedule seemed a bit too tough. Iowa for one team, loomed as a stumbling block.

But thanks to Freddie Grim, Toledo boy, the Ohio team romped through and around the corn boys. Grim's wonderful running proved to a few doubtful sceptics that his work against Columbia the week before was not a flash. He now challenges Capt. Karow and Elmer Marek for popularity honors at the Ohio institution. Marek is handicapped by his "brittleness," being unusually susceptible to injury.

Michigan's feat in halting the Illinois team in its tracks was a surprise to even the most enthusiastic Wolverine supporters. There was "Frosty" Peters, the fireman, to halt, for one thing, and Michigan's line had been weak on defense in the preceding game. And there was Frosty's trained toe, too. But Michigan not only held but Benny Friedman, Cleveland boy, out-booted Red Grange's successor.

And now the beautiful part of it can be unfolded. The jolly rivals meet at Columbus, Nov. 13, in a game which may decide the championship.

Who's Hero of Vernon Victory? Can't Answer That Because There Was Not One, But Regular Crowd

Who were the outstanding performers in the 14-0 Vernon victory over Electra at Vernon Friday, do you ask?

Well, now that's a question difficult to answer.

There is Fats Parker, for instance, who played a heads up game at center and recovered the blocked punt that led to Vernon's first touchdown. Fats, also, fell on another fumble and it looked for a moment as if Vernon was going to score again.

Then you might say that Castleberry became the hero when after Gelhausen had failed in one attempt at the line following Parker's recovery, Jake plunged through left center for the score, all that was needed to win the game.

Then again you might consider the all-around performance of Gelhausen who toted the oval for a number of goodly gains, served near-sensationally at defensive fullback, kept punting Vernon out of danger and during the third period grabbed one of his own kicks, which had been fumbled by Electra, and flitted across for the final score. Willis placekicked both points after touchdown, too.

Shortey Key turned out to be a worthy running mate to Gelhausen, possibly jerking off just as many advances as did Our Willie if not more. Shorty played a whale of a defensive game at half. He furnished the third most-exciting feature of the battle when in the twilight stages of the embroglio he intercepted a pass and galloped 60-yards down the field before being overhauled. The other two features, of course, were the Vernon touchdowns.

Johnson at tackle proved a defense and offense power. He was tied in performance by only one other man on the field, Captain Avens of Electra.

Koontz at Vernon's other tackle popped into the public eye, throwing back Electra's most desperate assaults at his side of the line. It was Koontz, by the way, who made it possible for Gelhausen to score. He tackled Le Bus so hard, Johnny dropped the ball.

Newtown Plays Healdton Today

Independent Elevens Hook Up on Burkburnett Gridiron

The Newton Bulldogs, independent football eleven, lock with Healdton this afternoon at 3:30 in Burkburnett, it was announced yesterday.

The Newton gridders have been working away diligently i npreparation for the game and expect to give the invading Oklahomans a stiff reception.

The Texas team scrimmaged Burk high school last week and displayed pretty good early season form.

Among those players who have been training are J. Farquhar, V. Farquhar, Lil Stoner, F. Stoner, Hainey, Williams, Word, H. Lyons, G. Lyons, Pace and Nelson. Safn Cox, husky linemen, is expected out for practice this week.

Grip Mixes With Two Same Night

Greek Grappler Challenges Baltimore Explosive Package

Charley Grip, phenomenal Baltimore 150-pounder, will wrestle two men Monday night preliminary to the Jack Gorman-Yaqui Joe bout, said Matchmaker Ross yesterday.

Grip originally was billed with Eddie Pope, but, according to Ross, a local man declared he has a wrestler who can beat Grip or, at least, outwrestle him just so long as he retains his wind. The challenger is said to be a Greek 150-pounder who has quit the professional ranks the past couple of years or so. He has announced himself under the nom de plume, Walt Williams, said Ross.

The matchmaker declared he will give "Williams" a shot at Grip Monday night before Grip meets his scheduled opponent, Eddie Pope, and added that if Grip doesn't beat "Williams" within ten minutes wrestling, he Ross, will give the day nursery benefit fund $25 from his own pocket. But if "Williams" manages to "stay" with Grip the full ten minutes the $25 is to go to him.

Gorman and the Indian are said to have completed training for their finish match, expecting to taper off today.

The card is to be staged at the Majestic theatre Monday instead of Tuesday, the usual wrestling night.

JIM GUTHRIE BURIED.

CHARLIE, Oct. 30.—Funeral services for Jim Guthrie were held at the cemetery here Monday afternoon. Rev. T. H. Browning and C. M. Hunley, pastors of the Methodist and Baptist churches at Byers conducted the services. Guthrie was a farmer living near Byers.

Junior College Fought Bravely

Tribe Outplays Aggies But Loses When Captain Is Hurt

Returning vanguards of the Junior College Indians who matched strength with the Junior Aggies of Arlington on Friday's gridiron program and lost, 19-0, report a hard-fought battle for the vantage point in the conference title race, on which the game had important bearing.

The Maroon and Gold of Junior College out-played the heavier and more experienced Aggies throughout the first half, keeping the ball in Aggie territory most of the time. The second quarter found the Aggies battling with their backs against the wall, a score for the Wichita Falls team being barely avoided when the march to the goal was stopped on the Aggie three-yard line, with Wichita Falls in possession of the ball, as the whistle blew for the half.

In the third quarter the Indians looked like possible winners until Captain Stephenson, ace of the Indian defensive and offensive, was injured. The Aggies scored twice on passes and once more on a blocked punt after this calamity. The Wichita Falls team made five first downs to four for the Aggies.

Indian players starting the game were Harvey, quarter; Stephenson and McConnell, halves; McAninch, fullback; Thompson and Ford, ends; Burks and Gilchrist, tackles; Bland and Boyd, guards; Patterson, center. Substitutions in the backfield included Coffee, Keller; in the line, Scoggin, Williams, Ricks and Trovatham.

DENNIS REAL STAR

Memphis Fullback Ranks As First Class Triple Threat.

Judging by reports of various games in which he has participated Dennis, fullback, is one of the most versatile players to ever step on a gridiron in this section. The Memphis star is a wonderful broken field runner, accurate passer and excellent punter.

Dennis led the Memphis attack that defeated Wellington, 41-0, Friday in the initial conference game of the season for the Cyclone.

May, Henderson and Hammond are worthy running mates for Dennis. These backs were excelled in performance Friday only by Dennis.

Memphis preps this week for the Miami game scheduled on the Cyclone's gridiron Friday.

VERNON BACKFIELD APPEARS TO BE ON PAR WITH COYOTE QUARTET AS CONTEST NEARS

Wichita Falls Has Edge in Forward Line, Shade in Punting and Possibly At Overhead Game

BY BLONDY CROSS

Wichita Falls' Coyotes meet the supreme early season test Saturday afternoon when they storm the Vernon fortress in quest of the class A grid championship of the district four southern half.

Both teams have registered victories over Quanah and Electra, their only other sectional rivals.

Comaprative scores amassed against the lightweight Quanah eleven mean nothing toward calculating the relative strength of the two teams. If one is given to doping the outcome of moleskin encounters by making deductions from touchdowns manufactured through the defense of a common rival it is more than likely he would consider Vernon's and Wichita Falls' performances against Electra. Yet, in summing up the possibilities he is liable to err.

Wichita Falls turned back the Tigers by an 18-0 score. Vernon defeated Jim Reese's eleven, 14 to 0. The happy faculty of being able to take advantage of the breaks of the game figured in both victories. For Electra, apparently a jinxed outfit the current season, staged sterling defensive battles against both Wichita Falls and Vernon merely to fall victim to fumbles or other unkind twists of fate both on defense and after having launched offensive drives that seemed sure to bring home the goods.

"On comparative performance against Electra, Wichita Falls has a slight edge over the Wilbarger championship entry. The Wichita Falls line waged a stronger fight against the gritty Tiger forwards than did Vernon's advance guard. Wichita Falls' backfield, abetted by a superior set of forwards gained more territory than did Vernon's driving backs.

Taking it from comparative play, the Crimson and black forwards appear stronger and better drilled than the Gray-jersied line of Vernon.

Backfields Balance.

It is difficult to draw a backfield comparison. More than likely, Coach Baggett of Vernon can match Coach McCallum back for back in running and plunging strength. It is possible, but not necessarily a probability, Wichita Falls can produce a more effective overhead game. Doping it game by game, the Coyote aerial attack, what there is of it, is better than Vernon's. However, little effort to show with the forward pass was made by Vernon against Electra, whereas the Coyotes opened up several times in the Tiger tilt.

Incidently, Vernon's pass defense does not appear any too strong. Opportunity rings the door bell there for the Coyotes.

One man, possibly three, loom as the bulwark of the Vernon first defense. In Johnson at tackle, Vernon has an athlete Wichita Falls will do well to detour. Flanked by Lewis at guard and Ted Key or Nabers at end, the right side of the Vernon line is almost impregnable. Unless a shift is made, Tarkenton at tackle and Powell at guard, both powerful lads, will be pitted against Vernon's starboard barrier. Johnson appears a bit stronger than Tarkenton who will have Neal at end to aid him on many offensive plays, but Powell has an edge on Lewis.

Koontz at left tackle begins to loom as Baggett's next best line bet. Red Black at left guard is a powerful man, a willing mixer but comparatively green. These men will be faced by Captain Dobson and Hunkie Ray with a shade in favor going to the Wichita Falls players.

Newth or Hollar at the port wing have nothing on the scrappy Ewing, Wichita Falls terminal.

Battle at Center.

At center, both Hobbs and Holstein stack up as more effective than Parker of Vernon. However, Parker has developed a habit of tossing a crimp into the situation when least expected. Should Holstein face Parker at the middle of the line it will be a battle of fat boys with the advantage in beef going to the Coyote. At any stage of the game, Downing can be thrown in to flank the Coyote center position as a bulwark it will be difficult to break through.

In Coyal Francis, who many are touting as another Leo Baldwin, Wichita Falls will match Vernon's captain and brilliant plunging and running back, Willie Gelhausen. Francis is the more consistent of the two, but Gelhausen practically evens the count with sensational spurts. Francis can kick and pass with Gelhausen. But, considering the punting angle, Hunkie Ray and his valuable toe give Wichita Falls a decided advantage in this department.

Clois (Shorty) Key is expected to match the fleet Mitchell in the running attack and possibly outdo him on the defense. Key stepped high and handsome in the Electra conquest. But it is doubtful he is as fast as the Coyote athlete or as dangerous after passing the line of scrimmage. In off-tackle thrusts Key possibly rates an edge. But once Mitchell gets clear he's a hard one to stop.

Don't Be Too Sure.

Castleberry, Vernon half, will balance the scales with Perk Ray or Allred in effectiveness. Trammell can be figured in at a Vernon half just as strong. Luttrell, at quarterback for the Lions, squares accounts with Rayzor of the Coyotes.

If these comparisons are anywhere near correct, then Wichita Falls, barring an overconfidence inroad, with a slightly stronger line, a more effective passing attack, an advantage in punting but matched in backfield power should defeat Vernon by one, perhaps two touchdowns.

WANT MEDFORD AS PILOT.

Lawrence Medford is being sought by two different backers of amateur baseball organizations to manage a team in the twilight league next summer, it is understood. Medford formerly piloted the American Eagles. When asked his plans, Medford said he has not considered whether or not he will play ball or in any way be connected with a club in 1927.

COTTON MARKET SHOWS NEW PRICE GAIN IN DAY'S TRADING

HOLIDAY RUSH BY TRADE ON BUYING SHOWN

Close Shows Net Gains For Day of 16 to 19 Points

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30. (AP) The cotton market was fairly active for today's short session and the price trend was upward although traders near the end were disposed to liquidate and even up commitments for over the week-end and the holiday here on Monday, All Saints day. The start was the most active experienced in some time and initial trades showed gains of 20 to 21 points and the market soon advanced to levels of 21 to 23 points above yesterday's close. The stimulating influences included better Liverpool cables than due, a report from London that there was a good prospect for the settlement of the coal strike, heavy and general rains in the western part and parts of the central sections of the belt and a reported good demand for spots. The announcement that Egypt will cut acreage next season a full third was also a constructive influence. Prices eased off later 19 to 11 points on profit taking before the holiday but soon rallied again to new highs, 23 to 26 points above the previous close on shorts covering but lost six to seven points near the end on realizing. The close showed net gains for the day of 16 to 19 points.

Following the strong opening December soon traded up to 12.75, January to 12.79 and March to 12.92, or 21 to 24 points above yesterday's close. The reaction on profit taking at the end of the first hour carried December down to 12.62, January to 12.68 and March to 12.83, or 10 to 11 points below the highs. The later rally, which made new highs advanced December to 12.75, January to 12.80 and March to 12.95. Exports for the day totalled 69,448 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.(AP)—Extensive selling out of wheat holdings on the part of houses with eastern connections tumbled prices today. Big receipts both of wheat and corn were a factor. Wheat closed weak, 2¼ to 2½c net lower, corn ¾ to 1¼c off, oats at ¼ to ⅝c decline, and provisions varying from 40c drop to 4-cent advance.

Clark Finds Pecan Possibilities Greater After Denison Inspection

The commercial possibilities of pecan growth in the Wichita irrigated valley appear all the more promising to Mora C. Clark, developer of the Pecan-Fruit Orchards here, after a recent visit to the pecan orchard of Mr. and Mrs. John Kemper, 12 miles east of Denison. Mr. Clark and his wife have been active in pecan development locally.

Some of his findings on the Kempner place have been set out in a letter to the Record News as follows:

Editor Record News:

A few days since I visited the pecan orchard of Mr. and Mrs. John Kemper, located twelve miles east of Denison, Texas. Mr. Kemper is noted among the pecan growers of the United States as a great and painstaking experimenter.

Upon passing through the gate into this wonderful grove, my first thought was: "Oh! if the Wichita people could only see this, how quickly would they convert the Wichita valley into a vast pecan forest."

Mr. Kemper is the owner of a tract of land on which native pecans, as well as various other kinds of trees grew in great profusion. About twelve years ago he began budding a few of these native trees each year with buds from bearing paper shell varieties—top-working them. At the same time he would cut away other trees and the undergrowth, thus giving his buded trees an opportunity to do their best. Each year, as he heard of new varieties, he would bud a few more of his natives. Mrs. Kemper often doing the work at which she had become highly skilled.

For several years this work proceeded slowly, for Mr. Kemper not realizing how wisely he was building; otherwise he would have top-worked his grove promptly and thus have had ten big paper shell pecans where he now has one. He remarked that he visited my 120-acre orchard a few weeks since and that if he had done likewise in the beginning instead of experimenting for several years, he would now "be sitting on top of the world."

Still Experiments.

The desire to experiment is still a dominant trait of his mind. When introduced to him, about the third sentence was a question, shot at me in a cry insistent tone: "Can I get some Mahan trees?" I replied that I was doing my best to get a few and would assist him if I could. The Mahan nut took the first prize at College Station, Texas, in December, 1925, as to quality, in The World-Wide Pecan Contest, which is held about each four years. The original parent tree sold for $5,000 for budding purposes and the supply of trees is yet very limited.

When Mahan of Monticello, Fla., took the first prize in this contest in 1921, with the Schley, Mr. Kemper immediately ordered buds from the tree that bore the prize nuts, and finds that this particular strain (so-called "Eastern Schley," by some) is one of the most highly prized varieties in his orchard. He finds that it excells the western strain in merit by 50 per cent.

Of course Mr. Kemper had the monster Nelson, the largest nut, with the possible exception of the Mahan, that grows. I took twigs from a number of his trees, bearing clusters of green nuts. The Nelson attracted much comment on my return journey. One young man asked what they were. When I told him, he replied: "I thought they were watermelons."

After seeing this orchard, I think much more highly of the commercial possibilities of the pecan than ever before. The wisdom of my selection of such as the Schley and Success as the chief varieties for my orchard has been most happily confirmed. These big, fine specimens appeal to the eye and the taste, command top market prices and produce abundantly. There is little need to resort to the smaller, drought resisting varieties so frequently recommended for the dry lands of west Texas. Backed up, as we are, by our inexhaustible water supply, we can, and should, produce nuts as large and fine as can be grown in the world—fancy prize winners that sell for $1.00 per pound.

(Signed) MORA C. CLARK.

ASK DAMAGES

$2,500 Suit Is Filed Saturday By Iowa Park Man

W. H. Wilder, of Iowa Park, filed suit in district court yesterday against Walter Golden and the Park-Kemp Telephone company for damages alleged to have occurred to him while in the employ of that company.

Wilder claims in his petition that he severely hurt his foot while "fanning wire" for the company during the time it was constructing a telephone line from Iowa Park to the K. M. A. oil field, and alleges negligence on the part of the company in not having a sufficient force to help handle the wire.

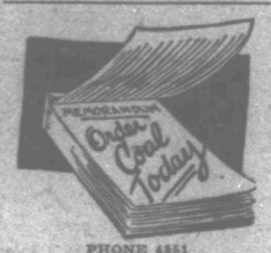

"Fanning wire," it was explained in the petition, is the process of keeping the wires from tangling when more than one strand is being strung at one time.

The plaintiff asks for $2,500 and costs of the suit.

OFFICER PLEADS GUILTY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.(AP)—Reactionary price tendencies predominated in today's brief session of the stock market, which witnessed the usual pre-election readjustment and lightening of speculative accounts. There were occasional flurries of strength in various groups, but invariably the higher prices attracted increased offerings, leading to the abandonment of operations for the rise.

The most interesting development of the day was the publication of an unofficial report that the Erie railroad was to be dropped fro mthe new "Nickel Plate" consolidation. This caused rather active selling of the Erie issues, which registered extreme declines of a point or two despite the fact that banking interests identified with the Van Sweringens later denied the report. Chesapeake and Ohio, stockholders of which are expected to receive a generous special dividend in the near future, was bid up 4 points at one time, but later sold down to 149¾, up 1¾ net.

A drop of 2 per cent in bank clearings in the principal cities of the country this week compared with the week before, was used as at pretext for a renewal of selling pressure by bear traders. U. S. Steel common and Chrysler Motors each yielded about a point at 138¾ and 148¾, respectively. Fox Film, which was run up sharply yesterday on the private showing of the new talking picture of the company, fell from 75 to 72 on realising and then made partial recovery.

Fears that the widespread agitation to restrict cotton acreage in the south next year would hurt the fertilizer business brought about further liquidatin in some of the chemical shares. American Agricultural Chemical preferred and International Agricultural Chemical common and prior preferred sank to new low levels for the year. Otis Steel prior preferred also touched a new low.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was of the usual dull, half holiday character, quotations displaying an easier undertone. Demand sterling was again down to 4.84¾, but French francs held firm around 3.15 cents. Italian lire were again heavy, yielding over 10 points to around 4.00 cents. Other changes were nominal.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. AP—The cotton market showed a generally steady tone again today although an opening advance was not fully maintained. January sold up to 12.75 at the start, the highest price since the government report last Monday and reacted to 12.62, closing at 12.68 compared with 12.49 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 18 to 21 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 20 to 33 points, active positions showed net gains of 24 to 27 points in early trading in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables, reports of better demand for cotton goods in both Manchester and domestic markets and talk of better prospects for an early settlement of the British coal strike.

December sold up to 12.84 and March to 12.99, recoveries of 46 to 65 points from the low level touched at the beginning of the week but at these figures offerings became heavier.

They appeared to include a little more southern hedge selling as well as realizing for over the week-end, while demand tapered off after initial buying orders had been executed.

Prices then eased off 13 to 13 points from the best, December selling down to 12.53 and March to 12.85 or within 13 to 14 points of Friday's closing quotations. No southern selling pressure of importance developed and closing prices were six to eight points up from the lowest on renewed covering.

Private cables reported an absence of selling pressure in Liverpool and that prices had advanced on end-month trade calling and covering together with local and continental buying.

Settlement of the British coal strike would be expected to mean increased activity in Lancashire and a gradual release of ocean steamships from the coal trade to carry cotton from this country to Europe. This idea may have helped the tone of the market here but trade factors were considered the continuance of trade buying on the dips and the comparatively small volume of southern selling.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 30.(AP)— Cotton spot quiet; prices steady. American middling fair 8.43; strict good middling 7.98; good middling 7.88; strict middling 7.33; middling 6.98; strict low middling 6.58; low middling 6.03; strict good ordinary 5.68; good ordinary 5.08; sales 6,000 bales, including 2,400 American; receipts 15,000 bales, American 11,200. Futures closed very steady: November (1926) 6.80; December 6.84; January 6.90; March 6.96; May 7.05; July 7.15; October (1927) 7.21. Official noon closing value October (1926) 6.78.

CHICAGO FUTURES.

OUSLEY HERE FOR BANQUET

Farm Expert to Make Principle Address At C-C Meet

Clarence Ousley, prominent agricultural expert, will be the principal speaker at the annual membership dinner of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce which is to be given Friday evening, November 12, at the Junior college cafeteria, according to announcement made yesterday.

Covers will be laid for 1,000 guests and it is expected fully that many will attend. An elaborate program has been arranged, in addition to some excellent addresses.

Mr. Ousley is an interesting speaker, and will give some new information on the agricultural situation. His subject will be, "Commerce and Agriculture." Other speakers will be Frank Kell of this city, a director of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Greetings will be extended by Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Joseph Leonard, manager of the southern central division of the United States Chamber of Commerce. President J. C. Mytinger of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce will preside.

Admission to the banquet all will be by ticket. These may be procured at the chamber of commerce within the next few days. From inquiries which have been made regarding the plans for the dinner this annual affair this year is expected to be the biggest ever held here.

The full program for the evening follows:

THE DEMAND FOR LOANS

Has been unusually large in the past 60 days, so much so in fact, that this company will offer to investors some of its pre-paid and full paid investment shares in order to take care of these requests for home loans beyond the usual large monthly income of the company.

You may therefore at this time obtain our 10% pre-paid shares or our 7% full paid shares. These provide the investor with a maximum of safety and convenience and profit. If you have a few hundred dollars or a few thousand you may invest in these shares while the demand for loans is such that we can take your money as offered. It happens a great many times that investors offer us money that we can not use and we must regretfully decline, but for the present demand for loans we can take care of prospective investor's requirements. We suggest that you call at our office for full information concerning these shares in the largest institution of its kind in West Texas.

'LET KING COTTON BE SANTA CLAUS', SLOGAN TO AID CROP PRICE

HOLIDAY GIFTS USING COTTON, WOMAN'S IDEA

Mrs. Fred W. Taylor, Grandfield, Oklahoma, Proposed Plan for South

(Editor's Note: The following article was prepared by a Grandfield, Okla., woman whose interest in the cotton situation has led her to devise a method whereby the price of the staple can be aided through the use of cotton materials as Christmas presents. It follows, she infers, that use of cotton gifts will in itself help the cotton, provided her idea meets with general observance.)

BY MRS. FRED W. TAYOR

I AM NOT a southern woman, having lived in the north all of my life, except the past year which I have spent in the south, but my sympathies are with the south, particularly the cotton farmer.

As the fact is that we have an over abundance of cotton this season, I would suggest that the entire south adopt the slogan, "Cotton for Christmas" and stand firmly behind it.

In my own individual case I have decided the Christmas gifts given by me this year are all going to be made strictly of cotton.

Articles made of cotton make such practical gifts, gifts useful the whole year around and I for one believe in being practical.

They can be made beautiful with a little work as well.

Gift Suggestions

There are bed spreads with scarfs for pillows to match made of a rather heavy cotton material, such as Indian Head, with designs stamped on them and embroidered in simple outlines which are easy to make and are beautiful and very acceptable. Then there are the dresser scarfs, little cushions and curtains that go with such a bed spread, making a wonderful bed room set, all done in the same design. These pieces do not have to be given all at one time however.

There are sets consisting of pillow slips and sheets that can be made up very attractively without too much work or just pillow slips packed in Christmas boxes.

Why Not Cotton Towels?

There is the whole family for towels. Who wouldn't like a nice set of bath towels with wash cloths to match or even a nice set of tea towels with a little touch of embroidery on them. There's a luncheon set with napkins to match, cotton handkerchiefs galore. Pretty underwear all made up out of fine cotton material, also the endless array of aprons.

Cotton blankets are very useful gifts. We are at the present time using cotton blankets which are nice, heavy soft blankets, and have found they are warmer in the winter than wool ones, are so nice looking and easy to launder.

Cotton For Mere Males

For the men, there are cotton shirts, socks, handkerchiefs, bath robes, etc.

Also cotton material make nice night gowns and pajamas for the whole family.

I could go on enumerating articles, but these are sufficient to illustrate the possibilities of a cotton Christmas.

People charitably inclined and societies giving to the needy, might give them clothing and artitcles made of cotton this Christmas.

The articles can either be purchased ready made or made up at home. If they are made up in the home, now is the time to buy the materials so the gifts will be completed in time.

Why not the newspapers adopt the slogan, "Cotton for Christmas" and keep it before the people all the time, as the newspapers has a powerful influence in a community.

Let old king cotton be Santa Claus this year.

Ruins Of University Chemistry Building

This picture shows all that's left of the chemical school building of the University of Texas, destroyed several days ago with a loss of over $100,000 and priceless laboratory records. Approximately $90,000 insurance was carried on the building which was one of the oldest structures on the university campus. The structure will be replaced out of university oil royalty funds.

Bridge Party at Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hooker entertained at bridge on Wednesday evening at their home. Joe Benson held high score for the men and received a deck of cards. Miss Dene McCracken was presented with two handpainted handkerchiefs as high score for women.

Refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, potato chips, waldorf salad and caramel-nut pie were served to Misses Mae Counsil, Dugan Groves, Louise McCreary, Mmes. Joe Benson, Tony Dees and Paul Smith.

W. M. U. Holds no Meeting.

The W. M. U. of the Methodist church did not meet Monday afternoon on account of the district convention at Mineral Wells. About [illegible] from here attended the all-day session there and gave their report on the local work. The Olney society was the only organization in the district [illegible] conference in the work of the year.

MOODY MAKES BIG VOTE PLEA

Writes De Montel Sending Statement From State Committee Head

A plea from governor elect, Dan Moody, urging that as large a vote as possible be turned out in behalf of the democratic party Tuesday, has been received by E. C. DeMontel, democratic executive committee chairman for Wichita county. The letter from Moody contains a statement from D. W. Wilcox of Georgetown, chairman of the state democratic committee, who sets forth a number of reasons for the need of a large democratic vote.

Among other things the Wilcox statement says:

Assails G. O. P.

"The claim of the republican party that it has a good chance of electing its state ticket, I feel sure is not made seriously, but that it is a claim made in the hope ot catch a few votes. But this claim and the fact that the republican party is making a vigorous campaign, will doubtless cause every republican to vote. Certainly the republican party can never hope for success in Texas. Our loyalty to the democratic party is not purely sectional, but the interests, industries and activities of the people of Texas are best secured by the principles of our party. The people of Texas realize that the policies of the republican party enacted into law mean economic distress in Texas, while the principles of the democratic party insure prosperity to industries of this state. By reason of the matters above mentioned, every democrat should go to the polls on November 2, and vote the straight democratic ticket. Eight hundred thousand democrats voted in the primaries, and all of them should vote in the general election.

Two Conventions.

"In 1928 we will have two state conventions, one to select delegates to the national convention, and the other the regular state convention. The vote of each county in these conventions will be determined by and in proportion to the vote cast on November 2 for the democratic nominee for governor. The larger the vote in any county is for Dan Moody, the larger will be the vote of the county conventions.

"It appears now that we will have a democratic majority in the next congress, and we will also gain some seats in the United States Senate. If the democrats get control of the house, congressmen from Texas will be chairmen of ten of the most important committees. Under these circumstances, Texas will be in a position to wield a mighty influence in the national councils of the party. A large vote for the ticket in the general election will strengthen this influence and a small vote will weaken it. Every loyal democrat should go to the polls and vote the democratic ticket from top to bottom. We urge them do doso and believe they will, and thereby demonstrate again that Texas is the banner democratic state."

SEYMOUR SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Oct. 30.—Mrs. John B. McKinley entertained the U. D. club at the home of Mrs. Morris Randal on Wednesday afternoon. The short story, "Splendid With Swords," by Mythe Williams was studied with Mrs. Mont Lankford as leader. Mrs. Frank Nugent presided during the business hour in the absence of the president, Mrs. Jas. A. Britain.

A lovely refreshment plate carrying out the Hallowe'en colors and with pumpkins as favors was passed by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Randal. Both wore caps and aprons of Hallowe'en decoration. Guests enjoying the afternoon were: Mesdames F. E. Culver, C. F. Johnson, W. F. Kirkland, Alva Hill, J. G. Rollins, H. K. Jackson, Mont Lankford, Frank Nugent, E. A. Rogers, R. D. Mugg, J. T. Lively, C. N. Jarrell, J. R. McKinley, C. M. Randal, W. T. McWilliams, C. E. Cogswell, Claude Daugherty, Raleigh Fancher, A. J. McNeil, B. C. Johnson and Miss Lucille Rupe.

Harmony Club.

The Harmony club had a very delightful study with Miss Lucille Rupe as hostess on Tuesday afternoon and Mrs. R. R. St. Clair as leader in their study of the opera, Martha. Roll call was answered by naming a German composer of opera. Mrs. Chas. Martin gave a sketch of Flotow, followed by the story of the opera, Martha, given by Mrs. R. R. Kellum. Miss Lucille Rupe sang as a vocal number, "Last Rose of Summer" and Mrs. C. E. Rupe played "Martha" as a piano selection. Mrs. Vay Blocker an accomplished musician having completed her study in Germany, was an appreciated guest of the club.

A dainty salad plate was served at the close of the study. Members present were: Mesdames Geo. Planta, G. A. Bule, W. A. Baker, T. H. Pumkley, J. J. Cockrell, Lee Coy, N. B. Craddock, R. R. Kellum, Chas. Martin, Morris Randal, C. E. Rupe, Jas. Siddens, J. A. Wheat, R. R. St. Clair, Misses Gladys England and Lucille Rupe. Others to enjoy the program were Mesdames Vay Blocker, S. W. Pistole, J. C. Gowin, A. J. Cooper and Mrs. C. B. Rupe.

Sew-Sew Club.

Miss Jo Lee Dickson was hostess to members of the Sew-Sew club at her home on Thursday afternoon, when the time was spent most pleasantly in fancy work and lively chatter. A delightful salad course chicken salad, olives, cheese ball sandwiches, cherry pie topped with whipped cream and coffee was served by the hostess to Misses Gladys England, Georgia Britton, Pauline Knox, Christine Caldwell, Gene Taylor, Jo Lee Dickson, Mrs. Dulton J. Bailes and J. Donnell Dickson.

ALTUS TO VOTE ON 'BLUE' LAW

Closing of Sunday Movies To Be Decided On At Nov. 2 Ballot

Special to the Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 30.—Mayor S. E. Hickman has called an election to submit the Sunday picture show law to the vote of the people of Altus, November 2.

Several months ago the council passed an ordinance closing theatres and places of amusement on Sunday. The mayor and council decided that a law governing the liberty of the citizens of the entire town, should be left up to the voters to decide for themselves.

TO HOLD MEETING

Second Quarterly Conference Sheduled for Sunday

The second quarterly district meeting of the Junior and Intermediate Epworth League of the Wichita Falls district will be held at the First eMthodist church, Tenth and Lamar, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A representative from all the Junior and Intermediate Leagues of the district is expected, and an instructive program is promised.

KIWANIANS CLASSIFIED

Unique classification queries will be featured on the program of Kiwanis Monday at the regular meeting at the Kemp at noon. It was announced yesterday. President J. L. Jackson, Jr., will announce the committees on nominations.

COLD GONE! HEAD AND NOSE CLEAR

First dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" relieves all grippe misery

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body, or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air-passages; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only thirty-five cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Don't accept a substitute.—Adv.

The City Council desires name for the new auditorium. They contemplate naming same some kind of memorial to the soldier boys.

We are giving $15.00 as first prize and $10.00 as second prize for the best name submitted and accepted by the City Council.

All suggestions must be in our office by Monday morning, November 1st. Address suggestions in care of the Memorial Department, our office.

Man, 80, Says His Son, 60, Gets Away With Securities.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Richard D. Pollard, 80, swore out a warrant a week ago. He told the police his boy had taken two securities valued at $2,000 to "buy gay clothes and have a good time."

Today he telephoned his son had returned.

"Where's the boy?" they inquired "There he is!" shouted the elder Pollard, pointing to a well-preserved man of 60.

"I'm William F. Pollard," volunteered the "boy." "Pop's mistaken. I didn't take his securities. He's probably hidden them somewhere and forgotten the place."

Step in Line With Movement To Aid Farmers On Low Cotton

Special to the Record News.

PADUCAH, Oct. 30.—As a concession to the demoralized state of the cotton market and a help to their customers, the gin men here have reduced the price of ginning to 20 cents per 100 pounds for picked cotton, and 40 cents for "bollies."

If sufficient number of pickers could be procured, the seven, 5-80 saw gin plants here would be running day and night.

Cotton is bringing 10 to 11 1-2 cents, and seed $18.

SAVES FAMILY

Barking of Canines Arouses People In Burning House.

WINTHROP, Mass., Oct. 30.—Barking of two dogs saved a family of five from suffocation.

Nathan Byorsky and his family were sleeping when the two dogs were aroused by the odor of smoke. They ran through the house barking loudly and awakened Byorsky, who led the others of the family to safety.

TRAILS IN SUSSEX

Society To Preserve Story of Historic Footp hs.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The society of Sussex Wealdman has been formed to discover the record all the legitimate footpaths in the county, an example that may well be followed by other countries.

With the everlasting numbers of motor cars on the roads, the pedestrian is happier away from them and on the footpaths, where he can at least walk in peace, even if not quite so easily. The Wealdmen have recognised the fact that once a path falls into disuse and gets overgrown it may be difficult to reinstate it.

Miss. Sibyl Kell To Wed Wilbur Cohoon On Nov. 8

Of interest to a large circle of friends is the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sibyl Kell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kell to Wilbur Cahoon, to take place on Monday, November 8.

The announcement was made at a lovely party given at the home of the sister of the bride-elect, Mrs. John O'Donohoe, Friday afternoon when a group of friends of the honoree were invited to play bridge and later, older matrons came in for tea.

Five tables were arranged for the games in which the high score favor was awarded to Mrs. Harry White and Mrs. Anderson Kemp was consoled for low. Miss Kell was also remembered with a dainty gift.

The house was elaborately decorated for the occasion in cut flowers and the dining table was especially pretty with the bride's cake trimmed in rose leaves, forming the centerpiece. Bride's slippers held fancy candies.

Master Billy Bullington, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bullington, and nephew of the bride-elect, announced the approaching nuptials in a unique manner when dressed as a bride he appeared at the head of the stairway carrying a basket of nosegays and threw them among the guests. These dainty messages contained the words, "Sibyl Kell-Wilbur Cahoon, November 8."

About 40 guests enjoyed the afternoon.

Mrs. Bleakley Hostess To Coterie Club

Complimenting Mrs. Thomas T. Holloway, prominent club woman of Dallas and house guest of Mrs. J. C. Berney, Mrs. A. R. Bleakley entertained members of the Coterie club at luncheon at her home Friday.

The table was centered with lovely plume chrysanthemums and following the menu served at 12:30 o'clock both Mrs. Holloway and Mrs. Berney gave interesting talks. The regular club lesson was then held on "Art Appreciation." American artists were especially studied and Mrs. C. D. Shamburger read a paper on American artists, illustrating it with pictures she brought from New York city this fall.

Besides the honorees, covers were laid for Mesdames E. H. Bailey, C. W. Boller, C. P. Burton, Arch Collins, S. M. Goss, Sr., A. G. Holmes, Lester Jones, J. H. Martin, J. H. Massie, Horace Robbins, C. D. Shamburger, John L. Waggoner and Hubert Harrison.

Mrs. Hopkins Gives Lovely Bridge Party

Mrs. J. Brown Hopkins was hostess at a prettily appointed bridge party at her home on Monroe Friday afternoon when Hallowe'en colors and motifs were used in the decorations. Four tables were arranged for the games and late in the afternoon a salad plate was served to Mesdames L. M. Hayes, Clyde Tittle, Stanley Granger, Clyde Heath, J. C. Brown, Jimmie Collins, Loran Taylor, J. Lewis Jackson, R. O. White, Charles F. Green, Reed, Barry May, Paul Pearson, Adrian Busby.

In the games Mrs. Clyde Heath won the high score favor, a hand-made dresser scarf, and Mrs. Frank Humphrey won the second high, a serving tray and half dozen glasses. Mrs. Loran Taylor was warded a picture in the cut.

Young People Have Hallowe'en Dance

A Hallowe'en party and dance was given at the parish house of the Episcopal church Thursday evening when 75 couples of the Young Peoples fellowship and their friends were entertained. Masks were worn and judging of costumes featured a part of the program. Miss Joline Woods as Pierrette was awarded the prize for having the most charming costume, while Clinton Holt in tango dress won the prize among the boys.

The parish house was decorated beautifully for the occasion with spotlights and suggestions of Halloween carried throughout the scheme.

Chaperones included Mrs. Molly McElroy, Mrs. Herbert Terrell, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Bell and Mrs. C. H. Rugeley.

Mesdames Strief And Kell Entertain At Tea

Proving one of the largest and most elaborate affairs of the autumn season, Mrs. H. J. Strief and Mrs. F. M. Kell entertained 200 guests at a Halloween tea at the Wichita club Thursday afternoon, between the hours from 3 to 5.

A color scheme of gold and black was carried out in the lovely floral decorations of huge plume chrysanthemums and other fall flowers arranged in tall baskets, the handles tied with fluffy bows of gold and black tulle.

The guests were greeted at the first entrance to the club lounge by Mrs. Minnie Gaffney and Mrs. Luther Thompson and escorted to a miniature gate where they were met by Mrs. Leonard Grayson, the hostesses and the house party as follows: Mesdames W. D. Hyer, J. M. Bradshaw, Deane J. Wolff, E. Garonzik, Charles Pogenphol, C. N. Cameron, Martin Smith, Charles Rountree, S. A. Covington, John Kilgore, Alva Willgus, Joe Jones, Stanley McGregor F. E. Phillips, A. H. Hollister, Dick Carpenter, Alva Conner and Misses Fred Hyer, Willie Mae Kell and Lucille Rountree.

Music was furnished throughout the afternoon by the Blue Moon orchestra and the refreshments carried out the Halloween suggestion.

Burkburnett Woman Hostess At Party

On Tuesday afternoon the home of Mrs. C. W. Gilmore was the center of a happy gathering of friends who formed a surprise party for Miss Beatrice Kaley, bride-elect of the day, and presented her with a collection of household and personal gifts.

The honoree had been taken from the house and during her absence early in the afternoon Mrs. N. G. Goodlet and Mrs. R. L. Jones, sister of the groom-to-be, E. Gilmore, decorated the rooms in gay Hollowe'en colors and symbols, and these ladies were the hostesses of the occasion.

A "bride's register" was daintily prepared and all the guests were entered together with a good wish and a household recipe. A contest on cooking utensils was enjoyed and the merriment. A treat of cream and cake was served, each plate bearing a Hallowe'en favor.

Those enjoying this pre-nupital party were Mesdames Jean Buckner, H. L. White, A. L. Gregg, Roy Compton, R. L. Jones, C. W. Gilmore, N. G. Goodlet; Mrs. Kaley, mother of the bride; Leslie Gilmore and Lillie Jones.

Mrs. Anderson Hostess To Bridge Club

Unity Club Meets With Mrs. Woods

With Mrs. J. C. Hunt, leader of the lesson on "Kate Douglas Wiggins," the Unity club met with Mrs. C. B. Woods Friday afternoon, who also talked "On What Does Mrs. Wiggins' Popularity Rest." "In the Garden of My Memory" was discussed by Mrs. Hunt, who was assisted by Mrs. O. E. Maer.

During the social half hour refreshments were served to Mesdames H. C. Young, Eugene Sherrod, W. N. Maer, O. E. Maer, P. P. Langford, J. A. Kemp, Carrie Joline, J. C. Hunt, E. B. Goseline, G. D. Anderson, J. C. Berney, Holloway of Fort Worth and Miss Minnie Young.

State Medical Auxiliary

Mrs. Glover and Mrs. Hargraves of Wichita Falls were visitors in the city Wednesday afternoon in the interest of the woman's auxiliary of the State medical association.

Miss Stephenson Is Hostess

Gladys, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Stevenson was hostess to 30 small girls at the home of her parents Saturday afternoon when she entertained with a gay Hallowe'en party. Hallowe'en colors and motifs were used in the decorations and the mystic atmosphere was further enhanced by a story and a piano solo, "The Elf Story," told by the hostess, while Ellen Newby gave a realistic ghost story.

The guests were then blindfolded in groups and taken to a darkened room where they were to tell the various ingredients in the stew which was presided over by the witch who rescued uncanny objects and dropped them into her spooky kettle.

Fortunes were told after which the guests passed into another room where sports were engaged in, also the ringing of the belle and telling the tale of a huge black cat mounted on orange card boards. Hallowe'en tamborees were given the lucky ones.

In the dining room where ice cream in pumpkin moulds and individual chocolate cake, was served, a carnival setting prevailed, serpentines were used profusely. The table was centered with a huge grinning pumpkin and on each side were orange candle sticks in black holders. Miniature witches and black cats completed the attractive picture.

Favors of tiny Hallowe'en dolls in orange costume with bells on their caps were given each guest including, Janet Sims, Helen Sylvia Lebenson, Jane Reppy, Georgianna Davidson, Ellen Newby, Anna Katherine Howard, Josephine Bell, Margaret Morris, Phoebe Jane Chenault, Jane Clayton, Helen Clayton, Mavis Clymer, Marie Dollard, Beatrice Hathorn, Juanita Harrison, Ellen Frances Howell, Charlotte Maer, Margaret Louise Boller, Adrienne Brown, Olive Daugherty, Christine Burton, Ona Belle Brittain, Maxine Brandberry, Pauline Jane Art, Maurine Boardman, Mignon Sanderford, Phoebe Lou Schmann, Patsy McGregor and Ruth Johnson.

Birthday Suprise Party At Burk

Among the recent family parties none were more enjoyable than the gathering of relatives in the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Adams in honor of Mrs. Adam's mother, Mrs. A. Mansfield, celebrating the latter's seventy-fourth birthday.

Refreshments were served to the following guests, all relatives of the honoree: Mrs. W. B. Jackson of Waxahachie; Mr. and Mrs. J. [illegible] Mansfield; Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Anderson and daughter, Miss [illegible] Winn and children; Mrs. Lillian Armstrong and Thelma Jackson and Mrs. Robert Cloyd and daughter; Mr. Charles Hudgins and [illegible] entertaining family, Dr. and Mrs. Adams and son.

"Peggy Piedmont"

Tells You This Week What the Society Folk Are Finding Interesting in Plays; Local Weddings, Parties and Hallowe'en

MY mind is divided 'twixt weddings, the theatre, concerts and Hallowe'en parties. You know we are having such an avalanche of brides this fall and winter, and there is no news more interesting, Kitty, and then again—we are also having an avalanche of parties—sometimes three in a single day—and then folks down here are "show" hungry, for at every turn I make (whether walking on the streets or talking over the telephone), they say, "Do Peggy, tell us something of the big shows you hear about running in New York this season." So it keeps me wavering and weighing in the balance as to what to write first, when I pick up my pen.

Some of our people are in New York now attending the shows and will be ready for grand opera when it opens soon. The last one to leave for this purpose was Mrs. J. K. FauntleRoy who left Friday and will also stop in Kansas City and Chicago on her way.

* * * *

THOSE who have been to New York this fall, and returned home are enthusiastic about "Craig's Wife," the Pulitzer prize play of the year. It was written by George Kellar (author of "The Torch-Bearers" and also of "The Show-Off") with Chrystal Herne as the wife. It is said to be a play that every housekeeper—be she wife, widow or spinster — should surely see, as there are hundreds of such women in the world today, who would rather have a house than a home. Women who are so busy cleaning and cracks made by their husbands or brothers as they enter the hall; so busy picking up the rose petals from the carpet as they shower down from a vase; setting the chairs straight and forbidding smoking for fear of the curtains, that all idea of comfort is lost just as every unimportant trace of what Craig's wife considered dirt removed. The play is especially enjoyable because it is such a good clean production and so well acted. Crystal Herne is splendid in the role of Craig's wife and so studied the part that her voice is even decisive and raspy, a very unlovely part but well played, those who saw the show report.

BUT talking a little bit about those who accomplish things closer home, I am reminded of a friend of yours and mine whom I am sure you will be glad to know is winning laurels for herself along the lines of art. She is Mrs. T. E. Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Thomas, who will be remembered by her schoolmates and old friends here as Mary Lou Thomas. Since her marriage she has made her home in Abilene but is a frequent visitor in the home of her parents here. For several years, Wichita Falls' lovers of art have been interested in clay moulding models done by this young artist that have been on exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, but this fall she has stepped out in another direction and has met with unusual success. A portrait painting from life done by her won first prize at both the Dallas fair and also at Abilene and with this sort of encouragement from her first attempt it is difficult to prophesy to what heights this young artist will reach.

AND the parties, was there ever a week so completely filled with truly elaborate affairs. With the Hallowe'en season furnishing such interesting colors and motifs, it would seem that it is the ideal time for entertaining, and hostesses are taking advantage of it. Probably the largest party of the week was given by Mrs. H. J. Strief and Mrs. F. M. Kell at the Wichita club Thursday afternoon in the nature of a Hallowe'en tea. Several hundred called during the hours from 3 to 5. The Kiwanis club annual Hallowe'en affair, "Ladies Night," at the Country club Thursday was another memorable social event of the week as was the social affair given by three of the largest Sunday school classes of the First Baptist church, the Alathean, the Homemakers and the Bethany, at the Wichita club Friday afternoon.

Speaking of Sunday school classes I am sure you have never heard of one that has had such rapid growth as the Alatheans of the First Baptist church. Composed of young matrons, in the four and one half years of its existence it has grown from one in membership to nearly 200 at the present time. The first year of the class, the officers worked to build it up and at the close of the first year they were having an attendance of between 50 and 60. It was soon decided that another class was needed to take care of the younger women and in the second year, enough members were acquired to furnish nucleus of another class. The third year was spent in rebuilding the class and another division then took place and at the present time the Alatheans are striving to reach a point where it can foster the organization of another class. The Alatheans have at all times kept the superintendent of the Sunday school busy hunting quarters large enough for their meetings and are now occupying the prayer meeting room at the church which is next in size to the main auditorium.

* * * *

ALONG with regular lessons, the Alathean class has also been one of the notable charity organizations of the city. It has at all times contributed to the sick and needy, maintaining a personal service committee that at all times supervises the class groups, seeing that each has had a needy family to help. Buckner's Orphans' home and other denominational institutions have also come in for a share on the Alathean charity program and in the past four years something like $6,000 has been made by the class and divided between the various calls it has had for help.

With one class doing so much work and accomplishing so much in the past four years, and which after all is just an example of what several are doing, do you wonder with the air charity organizations in Wichita Falls are receiving, that there is so little real want down here?

* * * *

AND while the big folks have been an unusually busy lot, the smaller society buds have not been altogether idle. One of the most delightful affairs among the younger set, was the Fellowship dance at the Episcopal parish house on Thursday evening and this followed by an elaborate dance and Hallowe'en party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Graham at their home, "Wilde Acres," with the daughter of the house, Lilly and two friends, Mary Virginia Barron and Lucile Elkins, hostesses.

And then a still younger hostess of the week was Gladys Stevenson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Stevenson, who was hostess to 30 friends at one of the most elaborate children's parties ever given here.

Of course intermingled with all these affairs have been several weddings of more than passing interest, and rumors of more to come, but if I don't write finis to this you'll write me back post haste: "I don't expect you to tell me everything in one or two letters, so save something for the next." I will now end this by saying adieu until next week.

She Teaches Snakes to Drill

Miss Dora Wilkins, of Powell county, Ky., is a snake catcher by vocation and she makes a good living out of the job. She is only 23 years old, and she has caught and sold some rare specimens to circuses, zoological gardens and private collectors. She has, at her home, six snakes which she has taught to crawl in drill formation.

4,000 DANCE AT ONE TIME

At Blackpool, one of the popular English beach resorts, there is a dancing hall which this last season held as many as 4,000 persons dancing at one time. It has 18,000 square feet of floor space. It is not really crowded when 4,000 are Charlestoning, it is said.

SILK WORMS OUTDONE

An artificial silk made from wool is being produced in greater quantity now than that of the silk worms over a given period. In one year 150,000,000 pounds of this artificial silk made from wood alone exceeded the production of real silk by all the silk worms.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Peanut Cookies—One level cup ground, freshly roasted peanuts, one level cup sugar, one-fourth cup peanut oil, two eggs, one and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder. Cream sugar and peanut oil, add beaten eggs and flour sifted twice with baking powder and salt. Mix in half the ground peanuts and sprinkle balance on cookies before putting them in a moderate oven. Bake about 15 minutes. This recipe makes sufficient for 30 cookies.

Marcaroni—Cut up eight slices of bacon in small pieces, add two onions cut fine, and fry brown. Then add one can of tomatoes and let cook one-half hour. Cook spaghetti or macaroni in salted water until soft, then mix all together and put in baking dish and grate cheese on top. Put in oven and bake 15 minutes.

Apricot in Orange Jelly — Soak two tablespoons granulated gelatine in one-half cup cold water 20 minutes, dissolve in one and one-half cups boiling water, strain, add one cup sugar, one and one-half cups orange juice and three tablespoons lemon juice. Drain peeled canned apricots from the syrup in the can; pour orange mixture into individual molds (first wetting the inside of the mold with cold water) to the depth of one-half inch. Place a blanched almond in the pit cavity of each apricot, and when jelly is set arrange prepared apricots over gelatine, cut side down. Pour over enough of the orange mixture to hold fruit in place when jelly is set and fill molds to top. Chill. Unmold and serve with whipped cream.

SUGGESTIONS.

The newest way of stringing crystal beads is to separate each bead with a colored rondel. Green onyx, sapphire or amethyst rondels are those most used and they may be purchased at the bead department of shops.

Having little room for the family rubbers one woman evolved the idea of having a tinner make a box out of galvanized iron, 26 inches long, six inches wide and six and one-half inches high. This was divided into six compartments, four of which were four inches long and the other two five inches long. Even the smaller compartments held a pair of lady's rubbers very nicely. The name of each person was written either on the outside or inside of each compartment. It could be placed on the porch, in the hall—anywhere—for it takes up so little room, can be washed when dirty, will not wear out or rust.

MAID WINS BALM

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (AP)—A jury thought Mrs. Lottie Lash, former actress, entitled to $75,700 for breach of promise by "a good looking devil." That was a verdict against Dr. J. A. McHenry, nerve specialist. The court cut it to $30,000. The doctor in testimony explained the meaning of "G. L. D." signed to his letters.

WILLIAMSBURG, Vt., Oct. 29. (AP)—Co-eds at William and Mary must be 80 per cent perfect in order to keep dates off campus.

ACCORDION TO BE HONORED

Paris is soon to observe the anniversary of the invention of the accordion which, as a popular musical instrument in its present form, was invented about 1826. Charles Buffet, a musical instrument dealer in Paris, was the inventor. A centennary program of considerable proportions has been worked out.

DIVIDED HOUSE A FAILURE

Joseph and Andrew Juzenfek of Acushnet, Mass., inherited jointly the property of their father. It included house, barn and woodshed. They endeavored to live in the house jointly, but quarreled with the result that in order to share the estate in its existing form, they actually divided the house, building a wall from the cellar to the roof through the middle of the house. Now, it is said this plan is not satisfactory and one of the brothers is tearing down his half of the house, barn and shed.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL, AT THE AGE OF 88

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or white "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

WAFFLE PLAID?! Doesn't that sound interesting? Miller-Ferguson is showing a clever sport coat in this novel plaid which is as attractive on the streets in cool weather as a waffle itself is on the breakfast table. Do drop by and take a peep if you haven't seen this latest proof of the resources of designers.

Miller-Ferguson is also featuring a wonderful dress sale. Satin, crepe-romaine, faille, velvet, and metal-cloth gowns with such advanced notes as leg-o-mutton sleeves, cape backs and the blouse style which is so favorable to any figure, are among the dresses originally priced as high as $78.75 now reduced to $40.00.

COPPER and gold make the color "sherri" of the new Sherri patent leather, and of course they are to be found at Harry's Shoe Store, 616 Eighth Street, where the latest footwear styles await you at the price of $6.00 and the worth of $10.00.

A stunning short-vamped pump with suede inlay and clever diamond trim is shown at this shop in Sherri patent as well as black satin. Another feature in Sherri is the high-heeled oxford trimmed in three harmonizing shades, also with suede inlay. Both patterns have the Spanish spiked heels which are the joy of every modern woman's heart, and perhaps from this exact description you will realize that something new and different may be had for $6.00.

CHINESE sing the merits of their wares and I was tempted to become an Oriental in praise of the vivid yellow and red pottery which has been sent from far-away Czecho-Slovakia to Bailey-Malone's China Shop. A conventional scroll design in black and white lends effective contrast to the bright colors of the card trays and odd little square or pitcher-like vases in this distinctive modern ware.

Wall vases in Roosevelt Pottery are charming articles of the China Shop, too. In soft green with clusters of daisies or pale nude silhouettes, they are as decorative as the most artistic could wish.

AFTER the theatre or dance the very place for sandwiches and hot chocolate is Kemp Kort Drug Store, 1001 Tenth Street. And here is the secret of Kemp Kort's superior chocolate—this is one of the very few places in town where hot chocolate is made with milk! Discerning patrons are selecting this drug store more and more frequently for the tempting little suppers of the evening.

THE Cinderella Beauty Shop, which opened only last week, is going to become the rendezvous of fashionable women in search of anything upon what is considered beauty today — for the "idea of beauty" has as many modes as our "fig leaf" and it is necessary to be well posted.

Permanent waves, marcels, manicures, scalp treatments, shampoos, facials—every means to pulchritude may be pursued in this daintily appointed shop.

AT concert and opera there is a new "intermission music"—It is that of fashion, made by the tinkling of one slave link bracelet upon another. Fascinating specimens of the slave link may be seen at Dave Paul's Jewelry Shop and the large colorful sets will make you wish to wear as many as permissible—etc!

Exquisite flaconettes in French enamel (again at Dave Paul's) await your favorite perfume. It is very wise to carry a few drops of scent when handsome young actors like Ramon Novarro declare that "men must admit the seductive sway of perfume combined with the beauty of women."

THAT most subtle of creations—the marcel, is given at Floral Heights Beauty Shop, 1020 Tenth street, with a superlative of service.

At this salon, where the cost of a luxurious marcel is only the usual dollar, you will find coziness, quick sure operators and a discriminating clientele. This makes the time you spend there in a busy day one to look forward to as pleasant relaxation.

Besides the marcel supreme, this shop offers all other aids to beauty, and employs only the most approved methods. It would be most wise to purchase one of the hand lotions in their stock for home use now that winter has begun its chapping ravages.

Alexander Dumas said, "Beautiful hands are idle hands" and beautiful hands are still an accomplishment, but modern creams have made it possible to substitute "protected" for "idle."

YOU may always be assured of finding something different from the togs for tiny tots in the average shop at the Lilliputian Shoppe, 813 Indiana.

Beautiful imported sweaters, exactly like those being shown at the Lilliputian Bazaar of Best & Company, Fifth Avenue, New York City, are displayed here in lovely shades of brushed wool or silk and wool, with cunning scarfs, mittens and caps to match.

IN Noble-Little's window are just the things to make your Thanksgiving dinner a success—turkey roasters in three sizes of Wear-Ever Aluminum, reasonably priced at $3.95, $4.95 and $5.95.

The long trays that are such a delight to use in making biscuits, cookies and toast are among other articles in Wear-Ever Aluminum which are especially priced at Noble-Little's. The saucepans equipped with detachable French fry baskets are only ninety-five cents—a small price for extra convenience, is it not?

Every housewife knows the practicality of those shining articles and that dinner, which is at all times a matter of concern, is never so important as on Thanksgiving Day. To think that it is only three Thursdays away and that a Wear-Ever roaster can relieve you of all "turkey worries!"

THE beautiful Hallowe'en window of the Wichita Falls Electric Company calls deserved attention to the attractive electric appliances which add so much to the comfort of the home.

The cosy electric heaters which are especially seasonable now, waffle irons, toasters, curling irons and lift-irons nestle among the corn shocks and pumpkins, while beautiful percolators sit in sovereign splendor.

A witch on her broomstick over the moon seems quite at home where there are so many magical conveniences.

THE Montgomery Company is showing the bright imported handkerchiefs which supply the fashionable note of color in the costume of the well-dressed man. Heavy silk crepe, they are a ready answer to the wish for something new in masculine gifts. Cambric and linen handkerchiefs made in France and with still the touch of color in their striped borders, are also quite attractive.

But the air of cosmopolitan poise which a gorgeous paisley scarf showing from under a top coat can give, will make these newest of mufflers unrivalled in their appeal to women as well as to its wearer.

These are a few of the things very suitable for Christmas gifts you will find at Montgomery Company—haberdashery who may always be relied upon for perfect taste and distinction.

WITH the advent of bracing autumn weather, hunters and hunting parties have become even more enjoyable. The Army and Navy Store, 809 Indiana, is showing tweed, whipcord and gaberdine riding habits, cut on the latest lines, which will add the pleasure of appropriate grooming to your horseback ride. Riding boots or laced boots, as well as comfortable and attractive hiking outfits, may be found here at moderate prices.

NOWHERE will you find a store more thoroughly prepared to supply you with beautiful lounge and "undie" suits than J. W. Ferguson's.

There are lovely Rayon pajamas, cunning silk Jersey "Dance Sets" of bandeau and step-ins, and tots in tailored or elaborately trimmed models with gowns to match. Advancing to negligee — English adjectives alone are not expressive enough, only a little shiver of delight can explain the silken feel of the beautiful quilted robes, frilly lace-trimmed negligees (from $8.95 up—so reasonable) and Pullman robes that J. W. Ferguson is showing.

ALL countries are represented in the carefully selected collection of gifts at the new shop—Judith Lee's Gifts, located in the Frances Shop, 1401½ Tenth street. The romance of Latin, Teuton, Slav and Oriental is felt in the atmosphere of this shop so crowded with rarities, each of which betrays the individual thought and attention given to its selection. How nice to linger here with your car conveniently parked as long as you wish, choosing your purchases unhurriedly and with sympathetic advice.

COLVERT'S ice cream is the loveliest possible dessert for children's parties. It is not only the thing children most enjoy, but a real food which any hostess may serve with confidence that her little guests cannot have "too much party."

The cream in fancy flower and animal molds and those appropriate for the various holidays are also greeted with enthusiasm by children. Make-believe in any form is dear to the juvenile heart and to most adults as well! Who could keep from being interested in eating an ice cream donkey head and gradually divesting the little beast of ears?

The refreshment problem for children's parties is solved by Colvert's ice cream with its double merit of nourishment and delicious flavor. This cream is made of rich milk rendered absolutely pure by the government standard pasteurization.

THERE is an exhilaration in lunching or dining to music and when it accompanies excellent service, well prepared food and attractive setting, the meal must approach perfection.

These are the things which characterize the Coffee Shop of the Holt Hotel, and have placed it in the highest rank of cafes.

If you have not already lingered to order at the shiny black tables of the Coffee Shop, which harmonize so well with the orange and black motifs decorating cream walls, do drop by soon. You will be well repaid by an enjoyable hour.

If you are in haste, there is a convenient lunch counter in this same large room with the music or if you wish to wait to join a friend, the lobby of the Holt is at your disposal.

Most convenient and most enjoyable is the bright Coffee Shop of the Holt Hotel with it charming music from twelve to one at noon and six to nine in the evening.

The Beauty of My Teeth

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

I am always smiling, so countless women consider my glistening teeth the chief item in my beauty.

I have consulted on teeth, as on everything else, the greatest experts I could find. They advised me to brush my teeth with Quindent twice a day.

Quindent is a recent development. Some 50 able experts collaborated on it. It has 16 ingredients, and is made to combine all the major helps in one.

It contains cleansers and polishers of the highest order. Then antacids, antiseptics, iodides and carbonate. They have aimed to combine in Quindent all the best parts known a science.

Quindent is not an Edna Wallace Hopper product. It is made by Lehn & Fink Laboratories, and sold at druggists everywhere. But the makers supply me with samples, and I shall mail a ten-day tube to anyone who asks.

Send the coupon for it. It will bring to you the best tooth paste my years have developed. And the joy it will bring you the pleasure you will always be glad it came.

Wigs and Curls Returning

MLLE. GINETTE MADDIE

The wig will be popular again throughout the winter season, according to the latest fashion reports from Paris. Fashion decrees that the artificial hirsute adornment shall be curled and silvered. The fad is designed, of course, only for formal occasions, the object being to make mademoiselle's "crown" conform and harmonize with her filmy formal costumes. Photo shows Mlle. Ginette Maddie, famous French beauty, wearing one of the new wigs.

ALTUS SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 30.—Roses and dahlias were tastefully arranged in the rooms of the Whiteside home, 1013 Lee street, Friday evening, when Mrs. Stansell Whiteside and Mrs. R. W. Blevins were co-hostesses to the Evening Bridge club.

High score at cards was made by Mrs. G. E. Thorp and Clyde Chambers.

Mrs. Braddock Hostess.

Mrs. Bruce Braddock was hostess to the Joi de Vie club, Friday afternoon, at her home, 218 West Broadway, when Mrs. Jess Cumbee, Mrs. Ray Cunningham, Mrs. Curtis J. Holt, Mrs. Bert C. Holt, Mrs. Earl Belt, Mrs. Bernice Ford and Miss Joan Johnson of Mangum, were additional guests.

High score at cards was made by Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Hubert Vineyard.

Brilliant parrots decorated the tally and score pads, and the black and red color note was carried through the appointments of the delicious plate lunch.

Club members who enjoyed Mrs. Braddock's hospitality were Mrs. Monty Bretherton, Mrs. A. B. Gosselin, Mrs. Ben Gable, Mrs. Virgie Hensley, Mrs. Lonnie McCord, Mrs. Gene George McCord, Mrs. Granville McElroy, Mrs. Ralph Morgan, Mrs. Carl Nesbitt, Mrs. Carl Reid, Mrs. Senter Stuart, Mrs. George Thorp and Mrs. Hubert Vinyard.

Mrs. J. A. McCord of 420 East Cypress street, entertained the Mothers' club Thursday afternoon, when additional guests were Mrs. T. A. Smith, Mrs. Raymond H. Fox and Mrs. Lonnie McCord.

Mrs. Jasper Pendleton was leader of the lesson which included the following papers: "Value of Nature Study and Uses of Geography," Mrs. C. L. Johnson; "At Home in Figi," Mrs. W. G. Wyman; "Jungle Life in Burmah," Mrs. Bruce Braddock.

A round table discussion on "Power of Observation," completed this interesting study of child life.

Mrs. L. A. Pelley sang "Goodbye Summer," and two readings, "My Ma Knows," and "Your Mother Is Your Best Friend," by Miss Teresa Jones were appreciated features of the program.

Entertainment For Friends.

The rooms were elaborately decorated with Hallowe'en motifs Friday evening, when Mrs. Lutie Thetfort, Mrs. Ruth DeWitt, Miss Mattye Wilson and Miss Alma Burba entertained a group of friends at the home of Mrs. E. M. Lowe, 603 North Main street.

The guests were met at the door by masked hostesses and ushered into the living room where a ghostly, white shrouded figure, presided in the center of the room, and grinning skeletons and jolly pumpkin men helped in the decorations.

The dining room was hung with festoons of black and yellow, and an attractive chandelier decoration was used.

Gabbert-Stevenson Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gabbett, 420 North Grady street, was the scene of a prettily appointed wedding Tuesday evening, October 19, when their daughter, Miss Mary Gabbert, became the bride of Howard Stevenson of Terrill, Texas.

Abilene Girl To Play Big Part In Christening Boat

Society to Have Its Fling As Steamer "West Texas" Takes Water

Miss Frances Long of Abilene will break the bottle over the Southern Steamship company's latest craft, "West Texas" at the christening ceremonies to be held under the auspices of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Houston, November 6.

Miss Long is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Long, pioneer residents of Abilene, and her designation for this honor was sponsored by President Arthur P. Duggan of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Plans Are Made.

Elaborate plans for the christening service of the steamship named in honor of the world's largest regional chamber of commerce organization have been perfected. The Stamford fireman's band, official band of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will furnish music for the occasion. The address of welcome will be extended by Mayor Holcomb of Houston, with President Arthur P. Duggan of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce making the principal speech of the occasion. Introduction of Harvey C. Miller, president of the Southern Steamship company, and of George C. DeLanoy, traffic manager of the company, will be made before the christening ceremony proper. Other short talks will be made by various officials.

Miss Long, attended by a lady-in-waiting of her own choice, will break the bottle of mineral water over the prow of the new vessel which will make it "West Texas," floating monument to the great regional organization of the West and to the territory served by it.

To Take Boat Ride.

Following the christening, there will be a boat ride down the ship channel to the San Jacinto battle grounds, with luncheon served at the San Jacinto Inn when attending West Texans will be guests of the Houston Chamber of Commerce.

A large and representative crowd of West Texans is expected to attend the big celebration. The Houston Chamber of Commerce is planning many courtesies and entertainment in expectation of the western bunch. A special fare and one-third rate has been offered by railroads to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce so the christening ceremony may be well attend.

MEXICO TO FRATERNIZE

In order to promote a friendly feeling among the Indian boys of the various tribes in Mexico an assembly of representatives of the various tribes is being held frequently by the federal department of education. They will be given special training adapted to their needs and ability during the assemblies but the main idea is to make one tribe acquainted with the other.

MOTOR BAG-SNATCHER.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 25.—As Miss Vera Blunt was walking on the street, an automobile drew up near her and one of the two men in it snatched her purse. Then the car sped away.

Clothe Yourself

BY MME. LISBETH.

If you would be right up to the minute in your costume have part of it made of metal cloth. It matters not whether the costume is to be worn for street or home, formal or informal wear, to be truely stylish it must be partly made, or at least trimmed, with metal cloth.

The costume shown in which Jocelyn Lee demonstrates her belief in less severity for street costumes, vari-colored metal cloth is used to fashion the tight fitting bodice. The yoke and the slip under the jacket-like bodice are black crepe and so is the two tiered pleated skirt.

Narrow ties of the metal cloth finish the high collar and fasten the bodice at the waist. A tiny black silk hat with metal ball and braid trimming is worn with this suit and a handsome double rose-beige fox scarf completes it.

Sleeve pockets to tailored suits is an innovation which is attracting the smart English women. These are made to hold the tiny, brightly colored novelty handkerchiefs which women have been accustomed to place in the thumb straps of their flat leather envelope purses.

GRAFTERS MOB DOCTORS.

DURHAM, Eng., Oct. 25.—A mob of young men at Hetton attacked two doctors who refused to grant disability benefits to applicants in good health.

Men of London have revived the fashion of wearing buttonhole bouquets.

Dorothy Dix Tells How to Hold Husband

Dear Miss Dix—What you write telling women about how to hold their husbands makes me tired. A man that you have to work to hold isnot worth having, is the way I feel about it. BLONDIE.

Answer—And the way I feel about it, Blondie, is that a man who was worth marrying is worth keeping. You take precious good care to protect all your other valuables so that they will not be mislaid or stolen. Why not take the same trouble to safeguard your husband?

If you have a diamond brooch worth a thousand dollars you don't leave it lying around loose where any covetous stray female who comes along can pick it up.

If you have a fine car you see that it is well-housed in a nice, clean place and keep it well greased, so as to minimize all friction, and you don't subject it to annecessary bumps and strains.

Certainly a husband is a woman's most precious possession, so why should she resent having to take the same precautions in taking care of him that she would in caring for her other treasures?

As for the work of making yourself attractive to your husband, don't you have to do that to every other human being with whom you come in contact?

Why do you doll yourself up in your best clothes and put on your peaches-and-cream complexion when you go abroad except that you want to look as well as possible and win a glance of admiration from every passerby?

Have you a single friend that you do not have to handle with tact? Do you know even one woman that you could criticize to her face and say mean things to because you happened to feel cross yourself and ever expect her to speak to you again.

Don't you work like a dray horse talking to bores and listening to egotists who spend their time telling about how great and wonderful they are and what infant phenomena their children are? Because if you don't, you know very well that you will never be invited to join the bridge clubs and go to the teas and parties to which you wish to be asked.

So if it is worth while to make sacrifices to get along with casual acquaintances, why isn't it worth while to make them to get along with your husband? If you have to handle other people with gloves, why not handle him that way? If it pays to soft-soap other people, why not use a little emolument on the domestic situation?

Of course, there are a lot of other wives who feel just as you do: that it is too much trouble to take care of a mere husband. That is why so many women lose their husbands.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young woman of 20 and have been married for two years to a man who is 50. Of course, he can't dance or flirt or play cards and he won't take me out in the evening. He sits around in his bedroom slippers and smokes his pipe. This man is very wealthy, and I have all the money I want. But he is an old grandpa, and I simply hate him.

I won't get a divorce because I don't know how to do a thing to earn my living, and yet I can't stand this life a day longer. What shall I do? MILLIE.

Answer:

Why, it seems to me, Millie, that the thing for you to do is to play fair. If you sold yourself for money, deliver the goods without welching on your bargain.

You still think that the wife job is easier than a job behind a counter or a typewriter; and you are right about one thing, at least: it does pay bigger wages. You wouldn't be able to live in a fine house and have Paris clothes and keep a limousine if you were supporting yourself.

So you are in honor bound to make a fair return for all your husband gives you by making him a happy, cheerful home and hiding your distaste for him. Certainly you have little to complain of in him if all the fault you can find with him is that he doesn't dance and flirt or want to run around in the evening. Believe me, there are many women who would like to change shoes with you.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative" and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babe, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, sold by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

"Wuxtry."

No matter what the occasion, Dave Hughes, is equal to it. Presidents may die, heavyweight champions bloom and fade, Florida hurricanes rage in fury, but this diminutive youngster whose span of two years gives him the distinction of being the youngest newsie in the city is ready to grab his handful of Record News editions and hit for the populous corners.

Despite his not overly impressive size, Dave is hustling and all business when he's on the job. The look of expectancy on his face attests to that. And, notwithstanding his tender years as a salesman in competition with much older youngsters with greater lung power but less persistence.

THRIFT SOCIETY

THRIFT, Oct. 30.—The Woman's Missionary union of the Thrift Baptist church met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Luther Bailey.

Mrs. E. E. Gibson, the president, had charge of the devotional opening and was followed by Mrs. F. M. McMurty, who had the mission study in the book, "All the World in All the World."

A social hour was enjoyed during which a treat of hot chocolate and cake was served.

Those present were Mesdames E. R. Gibson, M. M. King, C. J. Jackson, F. M. McMurty, J. T. Dickson, A. J. Moore, P. E. Wilson, Luther B. Bailey, O. C. Johnson.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. L. Pearce.

"Day Sleepers" on Planes

Due to the ceaseless drone of the motors and the fact that at such height the landscape moves slowly, passengers on airplanes in Europe find they are easily lulled to sleep. This condition has made it necessary for the plane aperators to install sloping, easy chairs with high backs for the comfort of their passengers especially on the longer trips.

VERNON SOCIETY

VERNON, Oct. 30.—Members of the Tuesday Bridge club and other guests were entertained by Mrs. Clint Swartwood at her home on Wilbarger street.

Mrs. George Hardin won high club prize and Mrs. Dee Norwood won high guest prize. Mrs. J. T. Miller of Wichita Falls for low score received cup towels. Winners for high each received card table covers.

The Hallowe'en motif was used in the place cards and was carried out in the very delicious salad course.

Those present were Mrs. Erwin McCarter, Mrs. E. O. Youngblood, Mrs. Keith Berry, Mrs. George Hardin, Mrs. Guy Petit, Mrs. W. B. McCaleb, Miss Mary Myatt Shive, Mrs. H. R. Soffee, Mrs. Joe Parker, Mrs. Dee Norwood, Mrs. J. T. Miller, Miss Esther Swartwood, Miss Adele Sumner, Mrs. Joe Sumner, Mrs. Aubrey McCurdy, Mrs. A. D. Skinner and Mrs. Frank Byrd.

Mrs. Lutzo Entertains

Mrs. J. E. Lutz of Yamparika street entertained members of the past matrons association of Eastern Star at her home Tuesday afternoon. Black cats and witches and spooks were used for decoration and the Hallowe'en colors were carried out in the delicious refreshments.

Mrs. Rena A. Watts presided and the afternoon was spent in reading articles of interest to members of the Eastern Star. The following past matrons were present: Mrs. H. W. Norwood, Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Mont King, Mrs. W. A. Blanton, Mrs. Lutz and Mrs. Bertha A. Ross.

SHIPS FOR THE SEVEN SEAS

IN WAR TIME, to bridge the Atlantic ocean the American people invested three billion dollars in ships, steel or otherwise, and mostly otherwise. Rear Admiral Luke McNamee, considered one of the most distinguished officers of the United States navy, visited the Lone Star state, and at a luncheon given in his honor, he made some remarkable reservations. "We are now dependent upon foreign ships to carry 70 per cent of our trade," he said. "It is like running a huge business and allowing one's competitor to operate the delivery wagons. The problem of an adequate merchant marine and protective force is vital to Texas, because Texas exports more cotton and more petroleum than any other state. Texas is the only state whose agricultural products exceed one billion dollars in value."

He said something to the point. "At the next session of congress the shipping board will report a plan for a greater merchant marine. What comes from that plan will be of tremendous interest to every producer in the country." Texas has the longest coast line of any American state. Texas has many important seaports. Texas has many manufacturing industries in or near these seaports and the Gulf of Mexico is the water lane to the Panama Canal. Ocean freight rates are said to be very high.

This admiral of the American navy says that 70 per cent of the trade of America is carried in foreign bottoms and he rang the bell when he said, "it is like running a huge business and allowing one's competitor to operate the delivery wagons." A greater merchant marine is needed by the American people. It is needed by the growers and the shippers of the vast southwest.

Texas has two senators and 18 congressmen. These servants of the people of the commonwealth should read the remarks of the rear admiral concerning the greatness of Texas and the importance of a merchant marine that will carry the products of a vast section to the bargain counters which dot the shores of the seven seas of the world.

BELGIAN BONDS GOBBLED UP

AMERICANS are said to be shylocks. Americans are said to be gold grabbers. Americans are said to be without soul, in a money sense. Americans are said to be doing all in their power to prevent Europe from coming back. Well, the $50,000,000 American portion of the Belgian stabalization loan was over subscribed within a half hour after the opening of subscription books in the city of New York, and the failure of many applications to get their full allotments led to brisk bidding for the new issue.

Now Marie of Rumania or rather Rumania will be given an inning later along in the year. Rumania would like to float a bond issue of $25,000,000 in this country. It will be floated. Rumania has very rich petroleum fields, fields awaiting development. It was the regret of the queen that she could not visit Texas in order that she might be able to compare the Texas oil fields with the rich oil fields of her own country.

Her telegram of regret to the governor of Texas was a clever bit of advertising of the Rumanian petroleum wealth. This European queen has horse sense. She knows why she is here, and she knows how to conduct herself while she is under the flag. Rumania has a king, but he is not the boss when the queen is near the throne in her own country. American correspondents said that the king wired the queen to come home. She laughed and continued on her journey inland to the great raw wealth producing sections of the United States. What did the king do? His tongue never wagged. He went into seclusion.

If the automobile drivers didn't pay any more attention to the highway markers than they do to the safety signs the money spent for them would be wasted.

BILLION-DOLLAR INDUSTRY

REPRESENTATIVES of six American billion-dollar industries have expressed confidence in the business outlook for 1927. They say there are few disquieting symptoms on the industrial horizon and throughout business generally, there appears to be a determination by all factors to keep trade on an even keel. Cotton is a billion-dollar industry. Wheat growing is a billion-dollar industry. Corn growing is a billion-dollar industry. Representatives of these three industries did not attend the Chicago meeting of the six leading industries of America. Why not?

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas is invited to submit his tariff bill which will protect all alike, the grower of farm products as well as the manufacturer of steel. Steel manufacturers of America have a gentleman's agreement. They know the value as well as the importance of organizations. And recently the steel manufacturers of continental Europe formed an alliance for offensive and defensive purposes. Judge Gary of the Unite States Steel corporation has applauded this European union of steel makers and is of the opinion that a working agreement of the two great organizations may be consummated in the future.

American steel is protected by a high tariff. This shuts out foreign steel. If the two combinations join hands, what will happen to the American tariff or what will happen to the consumers of steel the world over? Business is business. If you do not believe it ask the steel makers. They know how to curtail production. They know just how much steel the world will take. They know in advance; they keep close to the shore. They established uniform prices. They never become panic stricken. They never gorge the selling market with their product.

Steel is the barometer of trade conditions. There is a reason for it.

SPEAKING OF BRIDGES

A TAXPAYER'S petition to prevent the use of state and local funds for the construction of a bridge across the Red river above Wichita Falls so as to make a continuous highway to Oklahoma, came to naught when the third court of civil appeals upheld the right to spend state and local funds for the construction of bridges across streams which form the boundaries between Texas and adjoining states.

Incidentally the Travis county district court had enjoined th euse of the funds, state and local, for the construction of the bridge which will make the continuous highway from Texas to Oklahoma. A special act of the legislature providing for the project was held to be legal, and it was held that the contract for constructing the bridge was legal, notwithstanding Texas might have to pay a larger share of the cost.

Where bridges are needed they should be built. This is not the oxcart period of civilization. People haven't the time to ford rivers at low tide or to swim rivers when they are up.

CHEMICAL OIL NEXT

IT IS announced from New York that the most thorough experiments ever conducted to produce petroleum chemically will be made shortly under an endowment established by John D. Rockefeller and now amounting to $500,000. These experiments will consist of reproducing as nearly as possible the geological conditions believed responsible for the production of petroleum.

John D. Rockefeller made his billion dollar fortune in the petroleum industry. Now if his scientists or chemists are able to produce chemical petroleum, there will be a new departure in the industrial world. But what will happen to the wildcatters of America and the wildcatters of all countries where petroleum has been discovered below the crust of the surface of the earth.

MISSIONARY WORK NEEDED

Wichita Falls, if you believe some brethern of the cloth east, is still a wild and wooly back-woods sink of iniquity where oil is all and law is a designation on the statute books.

To the over-cultivated intellects of these good misinformed folks, this city has not yet emerged from the state of semi-civilization that recognizes the importance of wealth but which has a crude conception of the manner in which the wealth ought to be acquired. More specifically, many throughout the length and breadth of the land imagine Wichita Falls to be a roaring, hell-roaring mass of spouting derricks, reeking dens and limitless cash that is pouring from the mystic flow of petroleum.

Now, it was in 1918 and 1919 when Burkburnett and Electra were going in the throes of a boom as was this entire section, that Wichita Falls was given some world-wide publicity. It was of a type not particularly complimentary, consequently the pick civic reformers, who had then come, the bitterest admitted; but we also had a rough and ready code of living that was punctuated with the bark of a .45. Life and property were an uncertain thing.

It wasn't anybody's fault that this publicity was spread abroad in the land. Such reports as were then circulated have accompanied every boom of any kind, and, it must be admitted, there has been an element of exaggerated truth in them.

The result has been more than satisfactory. Wichita Falls has attracted and held thousands of persons from other sections of the country, person who are profiting themselves and in so doing contributing substantially to the welfare and advancement of the city. This has been tremendously beneficial, but there is more of such evangelising to do. The advantages of the city from a residential and civic standpoint cannot be stressed too greatly. There are still many who ought to come here and live, to work and to play; and there are many who would come here if they were educated a little more to what they could find in the way of real civic opportunities.

"I AND GEORGE"

—By—

Nina Wilcox Putnam

As Henry Clay, who the famous pipe is named after, once said, "Boys will be boys, but some of them get over it."

And how true that is some up to me in a incident which I went through recent with our Junior. I don't know are there any other boys got the same peculiarity as him, but I expect not, as he is far different to anybody's else child that I have ever seen. I mean he ain't got any of the faults I notice so plain in the neighbors' children. But he has got unusual ways with him, and one of them is that when he gets a notion he wants something he will keep after me or George, that's my husband, until he eventually nags us into it someway or another. And the last thing he had been hollering for was a B. B. gun.

He would tag me all around the house from the sink to the porch to the telephone. I didn't get no more privacy then the fox at a hunt. And all the time he would be saying, aw Ma! Why can't I have it, Ma? I wouldn't hurt nothin', Ma. I can shoot one good, honest I can, Ma, please get me one, Ma, it's only sixteen dollars, Ma, lemme show you the catalogue, Ma! Hot Bozo! He had me run ragged on it.

Laying Down The Law.

Finally I set down, after about six mons, of the above mentioned hounding, and I says for the one millionth time, no, Junior, Mamma ain't gonner get you any gun, no matter what's its initials. I says. And for the million and first time he says why not, Ma? And for the —Xth time I says because I don't want you to have it, you might aim at your father and hit somebody's hen by mistake, and I hate guns, and it ain't nice nor kind for little boys to want to shoot things and besides, it's too expensive! And Junior says why is it too expensive, Ma? And I says because I need the sixteen dollars to send you to dancing school this winter!

Junior Prefers Gunmen.

Junior says I'd rather be a gunman, I think you're mean to make me go to dancing-school! And I says mean? Say, child, you don't know the half of it, why, if you was to have been born twenty years sooner you would not alone been made to go to dancing-school, but you would of had to wear a black velvet suit to it with a white lace collar and white ribbon tie, you don't know what a lucky young feller you are!

Well, them few remarks didn't seem to comfort Junior greatly and he went away sore as a hammered thumb. But as I often say to my friend Mabel Bush when talking over the behavior of our young, unreasonable hopefuls, there is no use in giving in to them, they know the minute you weaken, you have got to keep the upper hand, or good night, if you know what I mean.

So I took the sixteen dollars and fixed things up with Miss Step, the dancing teacher. I could of saved money by sending Junior to the Royal Palace Academy, but I wanted him to not alone learn to dance, but to do so in a refined atmosphere.

Well anyways, in order to show Miss Step that I could not only pay her price, but that I was as refined as any of her other clients, no matter what she might of heard, I went in person to make all arrangements, and the first thing I asked her was if she taught refined dances? I needn't really of asked it, on account one look at her was enough to show me she wouldn't know anything rougher than the schottische. She had been young when the skirt-dance was only mentioned in whispers, and if she had ever tried the Bunny Hug, the man would of had to of been blindfolded.

Miss Step, however, was perfectly willing to admit her refinement in so many wbrds. She was one of those old girls who have never had the chance to be anything but refined and so she was anxious to explain to me that it was of her own free will.

The Height of Refinement.

No indeed, she says, I teach nothing vulgar, only the waltz, the polka, the two-step and the one-step. Would you like your son to be equipped with a highland fling, or a sailor's hornpipe? They are only two dollars extra, each? But I says no, no thanks, I guess not, he's got all the fling to him right now that I can stand, and as for any sailor's hornpipes, I can't abide noisy toys around the house, in fact I have just refused to buy him a B. B. gun.

How about the minuet? she wanted to know. It makes the children graceful and it's thrown in free. Fine! I says, leave him take that, by all means, I am so pleased to of met you, Miss Step, and so glad you don't teach these ultra modern dances. My dear Mrs. Jules! she says, I not only don't teach them, I don't even know them! So then we says good afternoon with mutual refinement, and I went away feeling perfectly satisfied with my work.

Well, pretty soon the day of the first lesson dawned and I was up bright and early on account of realizing that I had better lasso Junior before he got off some place on the range, because he knew what day it was and he did not intend having his Saturdays cut into if he could hide out on me. So I corralled him and left him in a box stall on the back porch until I got my work done.

Well, we was on time all right, and it certainly was a pretty sight to see all them dear little boys being led in like lambs to the butcher and all them darling little girls rushing in of their own free wills. It was all I had hoped for in the way of being thoroughly high-hat, too, and I had the pleasure of being bumped into by no less a lady then Mrs. Van Astorpelt, our social leader, and to exchange seats with the Countess Bunko, who married in Bulgasoon, or one of them foreign countries, which accounts for her now being back home with her people, who was the John H. Smiths, the big sausage people of our town.

Well anyways, it was all very sweet and lovely with Miss Step in pink organdie and a pin-nes showing the little ones how to watch their step. I stood it for the full period, the first time, and then after that for some reason or another I felt that I could fully trust Junior to her care, and besides I could think of so many other things to do. So when the next lesson come around, I didn't go. Neither did I for the next five nor six, and the funny part of it was, I not alone was no longer obliged to drag Junior to the sacrifice, he was even willing to attend. What was even more peculiar, he took to staying there until the last possible moment, and come home late every time he went over there.

And this surprise and pleasure of mine kept up until pretty near the end of the term, when one Saturday afternoon, real late, Junior come home from dancing school very, very happy and with, of all things, a brand new B. B. gun! Why Junior Jules! I says in horror, where and the world did you get that thing? And he says, Miss Step! And I says do you mean to tell me that she gave it to you? And he says she did not, I earned the money for it, my ownself, after clibs by teaching her the Charleston!

Texas Soldier, Who Turned Writer After War, Depicts Thrills Of Fighting Way Out of Belleau Wood

BY JOHN THOMASON, JR.

CHAPTER 5.

The Bois De Belleau; Coming Out.

They tried new tactics to get the bayonets into the Bois de Belleau. Platoons—very lean plattons now—formed in small combat groups, deployed in the wheat, and set out toward the gloomy wood. Fifty batteries were working on it, all the field pieces of the second division, and what the French would lend. The shells ripped overhead, and the wood was full of leaping flame, and the smoke of H. E. and shrapnel. The fire from its edge died down. It was late in the afternoon; the sun was low enough to shine under the edge of your helmet. The men went forward at a walk, their shoulders hunched over, their bodies inclined, their eyes on the edge of the wood, where shrapnel was raising a hell of a dust. Some of them had been this way before; their faces were set bleakly. Others were replacements, a month or so from Quantico; they were terribly anxious to do the right thing, and they watched zealously the sergeants and the corporals and the lieutenants who led the way with canes.

One such group, over to the left, followed a big young officer, a replacement, too, but a man who had spent a week in Bouresches and was to be considered a veteran, as such things went in those days, when so many chaps were not with the brigade very long. He had not liked Bouresches, which he entered at night, and where he lived obscenely in cellars with the dead, and saw men die in the orange flash of minenwerfer shells, terribly and without the consolation of glory. Here, at last, was attack. . . . He thought, absently watching his flank to see that it guided true—guide centre was the word—of the old man who had brought him up to tales of Lee's army of northern Virginia, in the war of the southern Confederacy. Great battles, glamorous attacks, full of the color and the high-hearted élan of chivalry; Jackson at Chancellorsville; Pickett at Gettysburg—that was a charge for you — the red southern battle-flags, leading like fierce bright-winged birds the locked ranks of fifteen gray brigades, and the screeching rebel yell, and the field-mouse, fife and drum, rattling out "The Girl I Left Behind Me":

"Oh, if ever I get through this war,
And the Lincoln boys don't find me,
I'm goin' to go right back again
To the girl I left behind me—"

No music here, on flags, no bright swords, no lines of battle charging with a yell. Combat groups of weary men, in drab and dirty uniforms, dressed apparently in a line, spaced "so that one shrapnel-burst cannot include more than one group," laden like mules with gas-masks, bandoleers, grenades, chaut-chut clips, trudging forward without haste and without excitement, they moved on an untidy wood where shells were breaking, a wood that did not answer back, or show an enemy. In its silence and anonymity it was far more sinister than any flag-crowned rampart, or stone walls topped with crashing volleys from honest old black-powder muskets—he considered these things and noted that the wood was very near, and that the German shells were passing high and breaking in the rear, where the support companies were waiting. His own artillery appeared to have lifted its range; you heard the shells farther in, in the depths of the wood.

The air snapped and crackled all around. The sergeant beside the lieutenant stopped, looked at him with a frozen, foolish smile, and crumpled into a heap of old clothes. Something took the kneecap off the lieutenant's right knee and his leg buckled under him. He noticed, as he fell sideways, that all his men were tumbling over like duck-pins; there was one fellow that spun around twice, and went over backward with his arms up. Then the wheat shut him in, and he heard cries and a moaning. He observed curiously that he was making some of the noise himself. How could anything hurt so? He sat up to look at his knee—it was bleeding like the deuce!—and as he felt for his first-aid packet, a bullet seared his shoulder, knocking him on his back again. For a while he lay quiet and listened to odd, thrashing noises around him, and off to the left a man began to call, very pitifully. At once he heard more machine gun fire—he hadn't seemed to hear it before—and now the bullets were striking the ground and ricocheting with peculiar whines in every direction. One ripped into the dirt by his cheek and filled his eyes and his mouth with dust. The lamentable crying stopped; most of the crawling, thrashing noises stopped. He himself was hit again and again, up and down his legs, and he lay very still.

Where he lay he could just see a tree-top—he was that near the wood. A few leaves clung to it; he tried to calculate, from the light on them, how low the sun was, and how long it would be until dark. Stretcher-bearers would be along at dark, surely. He heard voices, so close that he could distinguish words:

"'Caput?"

"Nein-nicht alles—"

Later, forgetting those voices, he tried to wriggle backward into a shell-hole that he remembered passing. He was hit again, but somehow he got into a little shell-hole, or got his body into it, head first. He reflected that he had bled so much that a head-downward position wouldn't matter, and he didn't want to be hit again. Men all dead, he supposed. He couldn't hear any of them. He seemed to pass out, and then to have dreamy periods of consciousness. In one of these periods he saw the sky over him was dark, metallic blue; it would be nearly night. He heard somebody coming on heavy feet, and cunningly shut his eyes to a slit . . . playing dead. . . . A German officer, astiff, immaculate fellow, stood over him, looking at him. He lay very still, trying not to breathe. The Boche had out his pistol, a short-barreled Luger, rested it on his left forearm, and fired deliberately. He felt the bullet range upward through the sole of his foot, and something excruciating happened in his ankle. Then one called, and the German passed from his field of vision, returning his pistol as he went. . . .

Later, trying to piece things together, he was in an anibulance, being jolted most infernally. And later he asked a nurse by his bed: "I say, nurse, tell me—did we get the Bois de Belleau?"—"Why last June!" she said. "It's time you were coming out of it! This is August. . . ."

THE STORY SO FAR

In the first chapter the author told how the First Battalion of the 5th Marine were quartered near Marigny during the first part of June, 1918, when they were suddenly sent up north to relieve the First Division, bearing the brunt of a tidal wave of Germans just breaking through for a great offensive. On the sixth of June, the Fifth ran into bitter fighting in the vicinity of Champillon . . . for hours they tried to oust the Boche from his stronghold in the wods and succeeded commendably but at great cost. Part of the Fifth wrested Hill 142 from the enemy and waited there for the German counter offensive they could see forming. While they lay peppering the Boche a detachment of Second engineers came to their assistance.

A terrific German attack soon developed, wreaking fearful havoc among the marines, but not dislodging them. In the immediate vicinity other fierce encounters were reducing the American troops and forcing the necessity of replacements which arrived presently.

The battalion lay in unclean holes on the far face of Bois de Belleau, which was "now U. S. Marine Corps entirely." The sun was low over Torcy, and all the battalion, except certain designated individuals, slept. The artillery through trampled wheat to his right, away from the shelling. This was really No Man's Land, for the line surved back from the wood and thrust out again along the line of another crest, also wooded.

Such intervals were watched by day and patrolled by night, and ration parties, carrying details, and other wretches who had to traverse the malways sweated mightily and anticipated exciting incidents. It was full of smells and mysterious horrors in the starlight, that wheat. Once the platoon came upon a pig, feeding unspeakably. . . . The woods ahead grew plain; the men walked gingerly, straining their eyes at the shadows. . . . "Eighth machine-gun in there—take it easy, you—risky business, this—wish to God I'd—" The platoon stopped, frozen, as they heard the charging hand of a Hotchkiss snick back. A small, sharp voice barked: "Halt—who' there?"—"Platoon of the 49th—can we get through here?"; "My God, I dam' near gave you a clip! What the hell, comin' up here—don't you know you ain't supposed to come bustin' around a machine-gun position you—" "All right, all right!—shellin' the road down there"—and the platoon scuttled past the Hotchkiss gun, while its crew deviled them. Machine-gunners are a touchy lot, prone to shoot and inquire afterward; the platoon gave thanks for a man who didn't scare.

They turned left now and finally reached La Voie du Chatelle, where Regimental was, and there the old Boche always shelled. It was a little farm, pretty well knocked to pieces now, but Regimental was reported to prefer it to a change; they had the Boche's system down so that they could count on him. His shelling always fell into method when he had long enough, and the superior man could, by watching him a few days, avoid unpleasantness. a Voie du Chatelle, as the world knew, received his attention from 11:45 to 12:10 every night. Then he laid off until 3 when his day-shift came on. You could set your watch by it. The platoon went cheerfully past.

A full kilometre farther they hiked, at a furious pace. Then the lieutenant considered that they might catch a rest; they had come a long way and were in a safe spot. Ten minutes' rest out of every hour was the rule when possible. He passed the word: "Fall out to the right of the road," and sat down himself, a little way off, feeling for his chewing tobacco. You didn't smoke on the front at night—lights were not safe. And chewin' was next best. Then he observed that the platoon was not falling out. They stood in groups on the road, and an angry mutter reached him. "What th'ell?—Goin' out, an' then he wants to rest!" "Yeh, fell out on the right of the road," he says, the fool—The lieutenant knew his men, as you know men you live in hell with. He got up, chuckling—"Well, if that's the way you feel about it—come on, you birds!" and he set them a killing step, at which no man complained.

The dawn was coming when they rendezvoused with the batallion in Bois Gros-Jean—beans for breakfast, and hot coffee, and tins of jam! That afternoon they had off their clothes for the first time in three weeks or so, and swam in the Marne at a place called Croutte. And at formation they heard their order published:

VI Armee
Tiat—Major
6930-2

Au QGA le 30 Juin, 1918.

In view of the brilliant conduct of the fourth brigade of the second U. S. division, which in spirited fight took Bouresches and the important strong point of Bois de Belleau, stubbornly defended by a large enemy force, the general commanding the VIth army orders that, henceforth, in all official papers, the Bois de Belleau shall be named "Bois de la Brigade de Marine."

The General of Division Degoutte
Commanding VIth Army.
(Signed) DEGOUTTE.

"Yeh," said the battalion. "Now, about this liberty in Paris—" But they didn't go to Paris. They took a road that led through Soissons, and St. Mihiel, and Blanc Mont, and the Argonne-Meuse, to Nieuwied, on the far side of the Rhine.

We can now consider some marines singing one of the Marine songs, "Bang AWay, Lulu."

There is also a very noble song: the Marine Corps Hymn. It is taught, along with close order drill and things like that, to recruits at Paris Island and on the west coast. It begins:

"From the Halls of Montezuma
To the shores of Tripoli,
We have fought our country's battles
On the land and on the sea . . ."

And it closes, gloriously:

"If the Army and the Navy
Ever look on heaven's scenes,
They will find the streets are guarded
By United States Marines. . . ."

This platoon, however, as you can see by the picture, led by a brazen-throated gunnery sergeant, is roaring out:

"Bang Away, Lulu . . ."

And The Marine Gets Busy

Boche and American, was engaged in counter-battery work, and the persecuted infantry enjoyed repose. The senior lieutenant of the 49th company, bedded down under a big rock with his orderly, came up from infinite depths of slumber with his pistol out, all in one swift motion. You awoke like that in the Bois de Belleau. . . . Jennings, company runner, showed two buck-teeth at him and said: "Sir, the cap'n wants to see you——"

They crawled delicately away from the edge of the wood, to a trail that took you back under cover, and found the captain frying potatoes in bacon grease. "Going out tonight, by platoons. Start as soon as it's dark, with the 17th. We are next. Sixth regiment outfit makin' the 96th company for us. They've been here before, so you needn't leave anybody to show them the ground. Soon as they get to you, beat it. Got a sketch of the map? Have your platoon at Bois Gros-Jean—you know, beyond Brigade, on the big road—at daylight. Battalion has show there. Got it? Good ——"

The lieutenant went happily back to his men. The word had already gotten around, by the grape-vine route, and grinning heads stuck out of every hole. "Well, sergeant, pass the word to get set-goin, out tonight—" "Yes, sir! Ready right now! Is the division bein' relieved?" — "No, 4th regiment comin' in—" "Well, sir, I hope to God they ain't late. Did you hear, sir, anything about us goin' back to St. Denis, and gettin' liberty in Paris, an' a month's rest—" That unaccountable delusion persisted in the Marine Brigage through all of June and into July. It never happened. "No, I didn't hear any such thing. But it's enough to get out of here. This place is like the wrath of God!"

It was nearly midnight when the relieving troops came in. The lieutenant's opposite number reported, chap he hadn't seen since Quantico, back in another lifetime. —"Well, here we are! Out you go—" "I say, is it you, Bob? Heard you were killed—" "Oh, not at all—heard the same thing about you—not strange; lot of serious accidents have happened around here—" "Well, good luck—" "Sure-bon chance, eh?—so-long ——"

The platoon left the wood and angled down to the Torcy road. A string of shells howled overhead, to the by the sound of them, and broke on the road. The lieutenant halted and watched: "Dann! unusual, shellin' here this time of night—must know it's a relief—" It was the conviction of all that the Boche knew everything, down to the movements of the lowest corporal. "I think we'll cut a corner, and take a chance of gettin' through the line over yonder—" He led away from the road,

IT'S AN EASY LIFE FOR THE ARCHITECT? WELL, NOT ALWAYS

PREPARING A PLAN SIMPLY LAUNCHES IT

Local Architect Tells a Lot On Some of His Tribulations

What do architects do all day?

It's an easy job, apparently, this thing of sketching a house or store building, putting in some funny little lines and figures, turning it all over to the contractor or builder and sending in a note of "please remit."

Sitting at a big desk or standing behind a drawing board making endless sketches isn't so exacting, perhaps. But that, be it known, is just a start. The luckless architect, once a design is completed and accepted, has only opened his business with respect to a customer. Herbert Voelcker, local architect, let out some of the secrets this past week with a recital of a few of the things one of his craft must undertake.

He does make sketches of buildings—lots of them—but not only that. There are numerous conferences with owners when he assists them to plan a building, gives advice as to the kind of house to erect on a certain location, and even assists owners of homes in choosing the right kind of furniture for the building. There is still another important duty, too, and that is the supervision of actual construction, to see that plans and specifications are carried out.

And then you ask, "Is the architect a luxury?"

Mr. Voelcker answered the question by saying there is a necessity for an architect, and he then explained his stand.

Have a Building.

"It won't take a long explanation to define the function of a builder," he said. "A tangible something, the building itself is before them. It is the work of the builder, but when the layman tries to fit an architect into the picture, the plan begins to be complicated. And it seems more so when he is told the architect received nearly as much for his fee as the builder received for his services in constructing the building."

Solutions of the questions that the owner may bring up and the machinery for carrying them into execution is a part of the duties of the architect. "Many times it would make a great difference to an owner were he to consult an architect before he purchases the lot on which the building is to be erected," Mr. Voelcker said. "This is equally true of a business building as well as a residence. The architect can assist the men in determining the possible revenue to be obtained from a business building on a certain location and prevent mistakes in hasty buying that are not so easily rectified after the purchase of the property is made.

"Then come the sketches to determine the proper sizes and style of the building which involve all preliminary problems. The next steps are the actual working drawings and specifications which translate the approved sketches into a form where actual quantities, sizes and kinds of materials, and the methods to be followed in executing the work are accurately indicated.

"After the working drawings are entirely completed, including the structural plans as well as the plumbing, heating and wiring, these plans are then given out to a number of contractors who have the opportunity of figuring on the identical thing according to a set plan of specifications. These contractors are able to obtain figures from material men based on this certain plan and then their figures are completed, they represent their best bid based on the best fixtures obtainable on the market from many sources.

Selects the Low One.

"And when the different contractors' bids are finally presented to the owner who has the privilege of selecting a bid which is the lowest and best of a number of bids, all of which are based exactly on the identical basis of building which the owner knows in advance will be as outlined in these plans.

"This give sthe owner assurance of knowing what his building will cost in advance and the further advantages of buying on a competitive basis resulting in a saving which usually amounts to more than the architect's fees alone.

"The architect then draws the proper form of contract and bond between the owner and the successful bidder and protects the interest of the owner in the negotiation of this important document.

"The next step in duties of an architect is the supervision of actual construction of the building and all its parts, so that the plans may be followed and the owner secures what he has contracted for. This requires a knowledge of different materials and different types of construction, as well as the knowledge of functions of plumbing, heating and wiring installation and the proper sequence with which this work should be arranged in order that there be no delay.

Settles All Disputes.

"The architect is arbiter of all disputes that may arise on the work between the owner and the builder and between any persons connected with the work. Although the architect is employed by the owner, he is bound by tradition to see that no violence is done to the rights of the other party to the contract.

"Further evidence of the success of this service is shown by the fact that the better contractors will not figure on work of any consequence unless suitable plans and architect's services are provided.

"The architect further assists the owner in the purchase of equipment, furniture and decorations. In the case of a rental building, he can serve the owner well by providing the proper space arrangements for the tenants, together with the location of windows, doors, lights, plumbing suitable to the needs of the tenant.

Ring Spends Hallowe'en, 1896 In Hospital, Tattooed In Three Places, But Helps Play Pranks—By Ring Lardner

Chapter 13 of Ring Lardner's Autobiography.

Arrangements were made by the proprietors of "The Rubies" to have me examined by two of the most eminent diagnosticians then in New York, Dr. Pine and Dr. Gasp had 104 degrees, while his partner's temperature was normal. Dr. Pine explained that Dr. Gasp had been drinking heavenly.

(Editor's note: The author evidently means "heavily.")

(Author's note: The editor is evidently a f—l.)

The two doctors made me strip to my nightgown and went all over me with a horoscope. Their diagnosis was chronic alfalfa and they said I must be rushed to a hospital and tattooed.

On the third day of October, 1896, I was ridden on a rail to the Polyandry Hospital and taken in charge by Dr. Barnacle, who immediately put me under the ether. The janitor found me there two days later and lifted me onto a bed. That night I was removed to the operating room and tattooed in three places. On my right knee they did a picture of whiteman's band playing before the Chesapeake and Ohio station agent at Clifton Forge; on my chest, the first Battle of the Marne, and on my (at that time) rather high forehead, the piano score of Parsifal.

Operations in those days were quite painful as the annesthetics employed were not nearly so effective as those now in use. In my case, and all other major surgical operations such as appendicitis, internal ulsters, etc., the patient was allowed to suck a lemon; it was not until 1899 that they gave you an aspirin tablet in cases of the removal of a leg or an arm (Illinois: 491; Shields v. Shields).

Telegrams Sent in Separate Envelopes.

I recovered so wonderfully that after the third day Dr. Barnacle ceased his daily visits to me and left me in the care of the internes (so called because every time you wanted one of them, he had just turned in). My room, which I shared with the Marx brothers, the Dolly sisters and the Fairbanks twins, was a veritable paunch of flowers and I received so many telegrams that the company sent them in separate envelopes. I have preserved these telegrams and will print a few of the more important:

There were also a great many notes from people like Geraldine Farrar, Houdini and the Long Island Lighting company.

Nurses Indulge in Harmless Pranks.

On the thirtieth of the month I was pronounced cured and told I could go home, but the nurses, who had taken quite a fancy to me, persuaded me to remain and participate in the Hallowe'e pranks which were th nea feature of hospital life.

(Editor's note: And still are.)

(Author's note: I didn't know that.)

Well, the things we didn't do would be easier to tell than the things we did.

(Editor's note: Then why not tell the things you did'nt do?)

(Author's note: Why not shut up?)

Among the pranks I recall particularly are the following:

1. The patient in Room 18 had been almost fatally burned in an apartment house fire. A crowd of 20 other patients and nurses gathered outside his door and yelled "Fire!" till he jumped out the window. As Room 18 was on the fifth floor, you can imagine his surprise.

2. In Room 4 was a man who had fallen out of a rug and broken three ribs. We sent his spare ribs for his supper.

3. Room 6 was occupied by a ball player with Charley horse. We sent him some oats.

4. I have forgotten what ailed the woman in Room 1 and what we did to her.

These are just a few of the pranks we played in Polyandry Hospital on Halowe'en, 1896.

Roaming The Air

A Boston radio fan who specializes in "whopper" sets has just completed one of 28 tubes. The receiver will cover five distinct bands of wavelengths ranging from 40 meters to 20,000 meters. It really is five complete sets in one, giving any combination from a two-tube to a multi-tube superhetrodyne. It contains but one audio amplifying unit, which can be switched at will from one set to another.

Russia is adapting radio to an unusually useful purpose through the installation of community receiving sets. These receivers are being placed in every city, village and hamlet in the country so that everyone can enjoy their benefits. It isn't explained, however, what happens when one group of listeners wants to hear a distant station and another wants to specialize on one close at home.

In one of the greatest laboratories of the world scientists of a large American electric company delve into the mysteries of radio trying to bring out more of its secrets in order to improve reception and transmission. In order to carry on the tests necessary there are 15 licensed stations operated by this company under the "wing" of WGY at Schenectady, N. Y. There are rarely more than six transmitters working at the same time, and these are on so widely separated wav.lengths that interference is said to be negligible.

One of the most ambitious programs ever attempted by one municipality will be heard Nov. 20, when 13 hours of continuous broadcast will celebrate the first anniversary of the Spokane, Wash., station, KHQ. A special tie-up with other stations in the country has been arranged in order that listeners everywhere will be able to tune in. Eight stations, KFOA, KGW, KSL, KLZ, KFKX, WHO, WBBM and KOWW, will be in the chain.

Did you know that radio stations have a personality? The director of WMAQ thinks so and bases her program selections on her belief. The director, Miss Judith Waller, says that the individuality is becoming more marked as time goes on. She says that the comparison of the well balanced programs of the major stations with those of four years ago is like comparing modern movies with the films that used to be popular in the old-time nickelodeons.

The Home Owners' Service Institute, which is supervising the construction of 36 model homes throughout the United States, has specified that a radio set be installed in each of the new homes. They will be especially wired for radio, the wiring being concealed in the wall partitions. Outlet receptacles for aerial and ground will be provided at convenient points in the house. The belief that radio now is a necessity in home life led to the installation of the special equipment.

Broadcasting of election returns will be carried on by the majority of the large stations on Nov. 2. Many of these will endeavor to give listeners a comprehensive view of the trend of the ballots in the entire nation, while others will confine their activities to local or state elections.

Listeners who join in the usual belief that a kind of glamour surrounds the life of a newspaper man are now able to get the real story of the lives of these people who are located on the outposts of the world. Foreign correspondents provide the material that is broadcast each Tuesday night at 9 o'clock by WMAQ. This information is relayed to the fans through the chief of the foreign staff of the newspapers which the correspondents represent.

Jimmy DeForest, idol of oldtimers and also a youngsters who follow sport world happenings, broadcasts a weekly sport talk at 5 o'clock every Thursday night at WMSG.

The United States Army band, one of the country's outstanding musical organization, again will be on the air at 6:30 o'clock, Nov. 3. A half-hour concert given at Washington will be broadcast through WEAF, WJAR, WTAG and WRC.

Detailed information concerning interference in all sections of the country will be forwarded to the department of commerce every two weeks by radio supervisors, often known as "either cops," who are stationed in the various districts. Complaints from the middle west and from the state of Tennessee have focused the attention of the department on the fact that all is not well with the broadcasters. It is asserted that much interference is caused by stations of small power shifting their wavelength so that they heterodyne other stations. This sometimes occurs even when the low power station is so far distant from the received as to be inaudible.

Station WGBS, which was the first to broadcast a performance of "The Miracle," recently celebrated its second anniversary by broadcasting the production again from the Metropolitan opera house in Philadelphia. Station WIP was linked up for the occasion. The producer, who at first was skeptical that the radio presentation could do "The Miracle" justice, listened in himself and was highly delighted, it is reported.

Belated reports from those who listened to the world's series broadcast show that in many places radio served in unusual manner in disseminating the progressive steps of the games. A large coke company in Pennsylvania placed a speaker in front of one of its private telephones and carried the broadcasts not only to every part of the plant but also to some of the mines for underground. In one hospital 51 headsets were connected to a receiver in order that the bedridden patients might "attend" the games.

$3,103 FOR QUIZ

Cost of Two Weeks' State Probe Announced.

AUSTIN, Oct. 30.(AP)—Excluding telephone and telegraph tolls, cost of conducting for the first fortnight, the inquiry of state departments by the house committee was $3,103.82. Representative John Wallace of Freestone county, committee secretary, said Friday.

This cost includes $1,000 paid to Richard Critz and Harry Graves, attorneys; $750 to court reporters; the per diem and living expenses of the members.

HONESTY FAILS

Man Returns $7,000 He Found But Gets No Reward.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Theodore Noller, news agent at Bensenville, is an honest man.

While walking down a road near his place of business he stepped aside to let a high-powered automobile pass. The driver of the car was reaching for his handkerchief. As he did so a wallet fell from his machine. Holler picked it up and yelled. The machine stopped and backed up to where Noller was standing.

The stranger made a grab at the purse, and started counting. He stopped exactly at $7,234. Noller gasped.

"You are an honest man, sir. I want to thank you from the bottom of my purse, I mean my heart," said the driver, and drove away, giving Noller a clear "So long boy."

SENATE SEAT LURES WOMEN INTO POLITICS

Shining Inducement Now Held Out to Leaders Of Texas Femininity

(This is the second of three articles dealing with the future of Texas women in relation to public office. The third will be devoted to the prospects of a "woman's party" for the support of woman candidates.)

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS
Special Correspondent

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 30. — The United States senatorship is now the shining goal of Texas women in politics, and already the names of at least three well-known Texas women are being mentioned in connection with the race of 1928 for the highest office which the people of Texas can offer.

A woman is holding the office of governor, and the glamor of winning that office is dimmed by the fact that the winner would not be the "first woman governor."

It is said the conflicting elements in the broad political situation likely to be brought into relief in the 1928 senatorial race will strongly influence the entry of one or more women into the contest.

The Three Prophets.

The three women whose names have been mentioned as possible aspirants to the senate are Miss Florence Sterling, noted woman publisher and philanthropist, of Houston; Mrs. H. H. Sevier, of Austin, distinguished daughter of Texas, honored throughout the state as the "Savior of the Alamo;" and Miss Margie Neal, of Carthage, first woman state senator, and brilliant diplomat in the field of politics.

It has been argued heretofore, and the reasons have been quoted, that the election of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, through not an advancement of the cause of woman's share in holding public office, will not prove a set-back to the cause, but will rather furnish an inspiration for women to lead forth in militant fashion to name those of their own sex "in their own right."

Some of the more obvious factors which are expected to prompt one or more women candidates into the 1928 senatorial race are:

James E. Ferguson, whose success and failures have been the making or defeating of public offices in Texas for 12 years, was runner-up to Earle B. Mayfield in 1922, and threw his support to an independent in the general election, giving to George E. B. Peddy a large part of the sizeable vote counted for the independent.

Senator Mayfield is a candidate for re-election. James E. Ferguson has been "running for" the senate, according to the only reasonable explanation of the hectic and mystifying conduct of the Fergusons in relation to the storms of the governor's office in recent months. Alvin M. Owsley, youthful world war veteran and former national commander of the American legion, is an avowed candidate.

Klan to be Active.

The ku klux klan organization, many of whose members are credited with having supported Senator Mayfield when he was nominated and elected, has served notice its highest offices will invade Texas in 1928 to fight for the election of a senator who will vote to take the United States out of the world court and to keep it out of the league of nations. Senator Mayfield voted for entry in the world court, so that, unless he should reverse himself, he is apparently assured the opposition of this vote, however small, or large it may be.

Unless new campaign lines are shaped to meet new issues, the entry of some of the several possible candidates would create a distinctly "woman's party," nor would it limit a woman candidate wholly to the votes of other women. The feminine voters easily hold the balance of power in any three-sided race if the alchemy of some formula or the magic of some leader unite them behind one candidate.

Women political workers demonstrated their ability to organize to defeat a woman candidate in the 1926 governor's election; and the men who scan the horizon before setting sail upon the adventure of seeking high office, are convinced they know how to organize the candidate of their general office, be the candidate a woman or a man.

SCIENTIFIC HUNT

Iowa Nimrods Use Airplane To Reach Reserve

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 30.—The ancient and honorable pastime of hunting took on a modern and scientific aspect when two Iowa nimrods resorted to airplane and staged a hunting expedition in record time.

Wilford Gerbracht and C. E. Daubert, sportsmen of Ames, celebrated the opening of the pheasant season by leaving Ames in the former's plane and flying eighty miles to Goldfield, Iowa.

There they shot three pheasants each, the number permitted under the state law, gave an airplane ride to the farmer on whose premises they had hunted and to his wife and winged their way home, arriving about three hours after they had departed on their hunting trip.

SHE REFUSES KISS

So He Kills His Wife and Then Hangs Himself.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Oct. 31.—George Hart Bowden, slayer of his wife Estelle, because she refused to kiss him on Thursday, committed suicide by hanging himself in his cell in the county jail here today.

Human Happiness Guaged Itself In Varying Degree In This Drama Of A Wichita Falls Department Store

Human happiness, when measured by direct contrasts or by a study of positive opposites, presents more than one hypothesis that will puzzle the most ardent student of human nature. A few days ago two women entered a big department store in Wichita Falls, both intent on making a purchase of unusual import to themselves. Each had a definite idea as what she wanted, and each expected to drive as dear a bargain with the clerk as possible.

"I want to see your finest winter coats—those with the latest checked or zig-zag patterns and I expect to get the nicest you have if you can suit me," one of them told the clerk. She had just alighted from a high-powered automobile and there reposed in her purse a check book that would withstand considerable punishment.

Fine Coats

The clerk brought out coat after coat. They were fine coats. There was fur and finely woven goods and nifty designs. Surely here one could find a coat that would satisfy the most discriminating taste. The woman looked them over. She didn't see the beauty of the designs. She didn't see the vast amount of time and effort and sacrifice required to furnish such a garment. She was wondering—wondering if her associates would sneer at her if she were to wear one of these coats out in public. She was accustomed to buying her coats in New York and paying big sums for them, but she wanted a coat now and had come to the Wichita Falls store with the expectation of buying the best coat they had and maybe she could get along with it.

After much contemplation she purchased a garment and ordered it delivered to the house. She felt miserable. She knew that dozens of other women of the city would be wearing just as nice coats and many of them would look even better than she. It was terrible—this thing being forced to wear clothing so common that many other persons were wearing the same thing.

The other woman came in rather timidly. She was not accustomed to these big stores, and had purchased very little at this place she asked for gingham and was shown to the piece goods counter. The clerk showed her several patterns. Beautiful patterns and checked designs. It was a wonderful display of beauty; prettier than calico and such bright shades. She was sold. This was what she wanted. She knew what she wanted when she went in there. There was little bickering.

Promised a Good One

This woman had promised herself a new gingham dress early in the spring when cotton was being planted, and the old man had agreed that she should have it. True there was little cash with which to buy anything in the way of luxuries but they had high hopes of a good cotton crop and the dress had been promised. When fall came and cotton dropped to rock-bottom-priced the woman reluctantly admitted that they could not get the dress this year, but the old man had seen the disappointment and had insisted. Thus when she entered the store to buy a gingham dress there was even more of the taste of luxury to it than ever. It seemed like a sin to buy it when maybe some of the debts would not be met in full.

This woman left the store with the goods for a new gingham dress tucked under her arm, and if there was a happier woman in Wichita Falls, let her speak up.

There is the contrast. There is the problem. Can you evolve it into a simple hypothesis that happiness is equivalent in like proportion to the sum of the amount of expectation plus the degree of the accomplishment attained—or what?

Do the Women Always Pay? Well, Not When It Comes to Tipping At Depot; Redcaps Here Find Men Much Better

Do the women always pay?

The Red Cap boys at the union station believe they don't. They have found the greater part of their tips come from the men and not from the women, according to their views of the traveling public.

Red Cap No. 1, efficient and polite, took the nice lady's bags—there were only six—and led the way with both arms stacked full to the lighted Pullman standing a block down from the station.

"I have a folded baby carriage in the parcel room, won't you bring it, please," she asked of him politely, and she and her little daughter sat comfortably in the waiting chair. The folded carriage was brought and she dug deep into the handsome purse for some change. There was brought out a nickle and a penny.

"That's all I have," she said as she pressed the six cents into the Red Cap's hands. "I have a bill, but I haven't any change," she added.

"I can change it," the boy said politely. "The train waits 10 minutes."

"It might leave," the woman said, and she closed her purse.

That is given as the chief reason why Red Caps don't wish to carry the baggage in Wichita Falls for the out-of-town passengers who happen to be waiting here. No criticism was offered to the local women by the Red Caps, but that in brief was their views of the traveling public.

WINS $250 PRIZE

Kentucky Woman Honored For Public Achievement

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. — Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, director of the Kentucky committee for Mothers and Babies, has won a prize of $250 for public achievement offered through Survey associates of the Harmon foundation. The contest was for a statement of some experiment or achievement in the field of public health. Mrs. Breckinridge organized a committee of representative Kentucky mountaineers and established a nursing service for maternity cases and babies and mothers suffering from diseases, with the result that 511 persons were treated. An appeal has been issued from the office of the Security Trust company, Lexington Ky., for funds to extend the service. C. N. Manning is treasurer.

MAHOMET'S TOMB

Wahabi Tribesmen Respect Bier of Prophet

JERUSALEM, Oct. 30. (AP)—Although the Wahabi tribesmen usually oppose the construction of tombs of modern architecture, ordering that they should not be raised more than two feet above the ground, the authorities of the kingdom of Hedjaz officially contradict reports that the Wahabi king, Ibn Saud, intends to pull down the tomb of the Prophet Mahomet in Medina.

When Ibn Saud occupied the Hedjaz the Wahabis actually destroyed several tombs of saints, and rumor since then has been rife that they might even demolish the phophet's tomb. Strict measures have been taken by Ibn Saud to protect such memorial structures in the Hedjaz, according to reports from his representatives in Egypt.

DIGS VICTIM'S GRAVE

He Then Waylays Him In Forest, Kills And Robs

GENEVA, Oct. 30. —, A young workman named Buhler of Berne was sentenced today by the Zurich tribunal to life imprisonment for the murder of a comrade named Schonmann, overseer at the same factory. Buhler on pay day met his victim in a forest near Zurich, knowing that Schonmann would carry the money for the payroll, and shot him dead with a revolver. The murderer, who was wearing a mask when he committed the crime, robbed his victim of about $3,500 and buried him in a grave which he had previously dug in the forest.

YAQUI CAMPAIGN

Only Vague Reports On Strife In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 30.—Reports from the state of Sonora on the Yaqui campaign are vague. Although there have been repeated statements by officials here that the campaign will soon start and that the government has 16,000 soldiers fully equipped with the latest war implements for the drive on the rebellious Indians, Mexico City is filled with rumors of disaster to the federal forces.

NOTE TO MEXICO?

Diplomats in Mexico Say Kellogg Complains of Seizure of Foam

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 30. — Although the American embassy here has not been advised of any protest to Mexico by the American government on the treatment received by American sailors aboard the American ship Foam, which was chartered for Mexican ports but which was later taken over by Nicaraguan revolutionists in Mexican waters, it is said in diplomatic circles that such a protest has been made.

The revolutionists raised the Nicaraguan flag and forced the sailors to remain aboard and work the ship to their destination on the Nicaraguan coast, where the Foam entered active service. The Foam was fired on by government troops. The sailors were then abandoned. They returned to New York a few days ago.

COMMANDS AGAIN

Hero of Lake Denmark Explosion Returns to Post.

LAKE DENMARK, N. J., Oct. 30.—Captain Otto C. Downing, United States navy, who received the Distinguished Service Medal from President Coolidge for bravery at the naval ammunition depot disaster last July, has returned to take command at the depot. Buildings are being repaired rapidly at the arsenal in order to be prepared for the winter storms.

Captain R. R. Adams, United States navy, who has been in charge of the depot since the week after the disaster, will remain for a few days before returning to his post as ordinance inspector for the New York naval district.

GOLD IN TEETH

Precious Fillings Would Save Austrian Debt.

VIENNA, Oct. 30.—A serious proposal that Austria should accumulate a reserve by saving gold and silver fillings of the teeth of deceased persons is made in a letter to newspapers by commercial Councillor Alfred Roubitschek, ex-president of the Austrian Association of Dental Outfitters.

The writer points out that 2,000 Viennese dentists annually use 3,200 pounds of gold, valued at $600 000. If each of the 30,000 persons dying yearly in Vienna carry only ten grams of gold to the grave, he says, it amounts to a waste of $200,000 a year.

AUSTRIAN WOMEN WIN

High Court Affirms Their Right to Serve as Taxi Chauffeurs

VIENNA, Oct. 30. — Austrian women have won the right to act as chauffeurs for taxicabs. In a test case brought by Felicitas Fischer, the supreme court of administrative affairs nullified yesterday the police order forbidding her such an occupation, because of her sex.

The court based its decision on the clause in the Constitution providing for absolute equality of sexes.

The decision is likely to become a precedent for extending women's rights to other fields.

WICHITA BIRD EASILY SPEAKS KING'S ENGLISH

Local Woman Owns Magpie That Rattles Away With Ease

A bird that can talk in French, German and English as well as whistle, sing the lines of several songs and mock a cat or a dog lives in Wichita Falls. No, it is not a yellow-headed parrot. Jack, this talking bird, is a magpie. He belongs to Mrs. S. E. Dempsey at 906 Baylor avenue, and it is an interesting story she has to tell about Jack and how she has trained him the last four years.

She has had fabulous offers for the bird from managers of nationally known shows, circuses and carnivals, but no inducement has yet been made to Mrs. Dempsey to get her to part with her beloved pet.

"Hello, hello, hello," Jack will cry to the visitors, but he says no more unless he likes them, except "goodbye," and if he thinks the party is beyond his hearing he will say, "come back again."

Likes The Cats.

Jack likes cats and especially does he adore some Angora kittens at the Dempsey household. He talks and croons to the little woolly kittens and cries in the sweetest tones imaginable, "Kitty, kitty, kitty."

Shortly over four years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey lived at the corner of Eighth and Lamar where the new Medical Arts building is being erected. They had a tree in their yard where one morning Mrs. Dempsey found a small blackbird.

She took a strong fancy to him and talked to him. He whistled back and much to her surprise said a few words in Spanish. When he became better acquainted with her he talked still more in Spanish and some German.

With that start, intensive training began, and the black magpie with his popular white trimmings has reached the place where he can do wonders with his voice.

Mrs. Dempsey believes the bird was lost from a carnival which played in Wichita Falls shortly before she found him in her yard and that the early training began with the company. He was a young bird when she found him, and she told of his appearance and how he has grown and developed.

Other Pets, Too.

Jack is not the only pet in the Dempsey household, for there are two mocking birds that have learned to talk, and instances said to have happened a number of times, but these two mockers can really speak and sing. In place of trilling the usual mocking bird notes, they can imitate tunes and make music worth hearing. They delight to "answer" the telephone for when it rings they call, "Hello, central, How'dy do," and "goodbye." It is necessary to keep the door closed when the telephone rings in order to hear above the sounds of the mockers.

These birds were hatched in a nest near the city. A college boy was hunting in the pasture and he saw a snake making for the nest, and the mother bird flew away. To save the little ones for the time, the boy took the bird babies to Mrs. Dempsey whom he knew loved birds, and she has trained them for two years, giving them much of her time and they are now unusual for ordinary mockers. She is proud of them and delights to show them to visitors and those who are interested in them.

SULTAN'S WIDOWS

Three of Former Ruler's Wives Return to Turkey

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 30. (AP)—Three widows of Sultan Mohammed VI have returned from exile to make their home in a small house in the old quarter overlooking the magnificient Yildiz Palace, of which they were once the mistresses.

The fourth widow, daughter of a former palace gardener, and said to be the youngest and prettiest of the group did not accompany the others on their return, preferring to enjoy European freedom.

The widows fled from Turkey three years ago after the Sultan's dethronement, but hardships and penury drove them to petition the new Turkish government for permission to return, which recently was granted.

They are remaining in close seclusion behind drawn shutters, and are refusing to receive newspaper men.

LUCKY INVESTMENT

British Government Makes Big Haul In Oil.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The British government, which admits it needs the money, has just received a windfall as the result of a lucky investment. The Anglo-Persian Oil company, in which the government holds 5,000,000 ordinary $5 shares, has declared a bonus of one new share for each two shares held.

The present market price of each $5 share is $25, so that it will be a very substantial melon which the company is cutting and government will receive its slice.

In addition to these bonus shares the dividend of 17 1-2 per cent instead of 12 1-2 as in the previous years.

IMPOSING ARRAY OF ROAD SHOWS SCHEDULED FOR APPEARANCE

MUSIC, COMEDY TO BE OFFERED LOCAL PATRONS

"Abie's Irish Rose," "Rose Marie" and Others to Be Staged

One of the greatest line-ups of legitimate road shows Wichita Falls has ever seen in a single season is to be offered this year, according to an announcement this past week by T. B. Noble Jr., manager of the Dent theatres here. The full list to be brought here has not yet been completed, but sufficient engagements have definitely been hooked to make it apparent the community is in for some royal entertainment.

"Rose Marie" To Come.

Included in the list already engaged by Mr. Noble are "Rose Marie," one of the reigning favorites in the musical comedy line; "Abie's Irish Rose," Anne Nichols great stage success which has established record runs in the New York and Chicago theatres; "The Student Prince," the lavish Shubert production which was a tremendous hit at the Dallas state fair last year; "No, No Nanette," another of the great musical comedy sensations, and others.

The first offering of the year comes here November 8, when George White's "Scandals" appears. It is a musical and dancing revue of the first magnitude. On November 29 "Rose Marie" appears and on December 6 and 7 "Abie's Irish Rose" is the big attraction.

"No, No Nanette."

"No, No Nanette" is here December 14, while the "Music Box Revue" is scheduled for a two-day showing January 11 and 12. "The Green Hat" comes January 18. Earl Carrol's "Vanities," minus the bathtub, show February 5, and on February 9 "The Student Prince" is here. "Is Zat So," a comedy packed with laughs, is here February 15 and Lasses White's famous minstrels are back on Feb. 21 and 22. The "Greenwich Village Follies" are here March 2, and March 22 Mrs. Fiske will appear.

Student Caught By Canine Police

Dog Set On Fleeing Youth's Trail Brings End to His Flight

ORONO, Maine, Oct. 30.—Captured after a police dog had been set on his trail, Lester Gould, a student was remanded to the Penobscot county jail in Bangor in default of $2,000 bail when he pleaded not guilty to an assault charge lodged against him by Lucy Martin of Orono, in court here.

Police witnesses testified that they approached an automobile parked near the town hall, where a dance was in progress, they heard a girl scream and say a young man, alleged to be Gould, jump from the car and run up the street.

The police started in pursuit and Patrolman Mitchell testified that he fired his revolver into the air when the man failed to halt at his command.

Jail No Warning To Girl's Lover

Middle-Aged Lothario Continues to Annoy When He Serves Term

YPSILANTI, Mich., Oct. 30.—A petition has been filed in the county probate court for the appointment of a sanitary commission to examine Henry Trombley, 42, of Detroit, who was arrested recently on a charge of annoying one of the co-eds at the State Normal college here.

He pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of disorderly conduct and was sentenced to 65 days in the Detroit house of correction, sentence being suspended on condition he leave the county and never return.

A few days later he was picked up here by officers and was committed to the house of correction. Later he was released. He immediately returned here and again sought to press his attention upon the co-ed, Miss Helen McCalla.

EXCHANGE FISH

Texas and Kansas Swap Perch To Stock Lakes.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 29. (AP) Texas and Kansas are exchanging fish. The Lone Star state will furnish white perch, while the Sunflower state gives ring perch.

Mark Riley, superintendent of the Texas hatcheries, left today with 400 ring perch which will be placed in hatcheries located 150 miles west of Austin.

HE SWEEPS ROAD

ASHBURY PARK, N. J., Oct. 30.—Dressed in white flannels and white sport shoes, J. Russell Draper of East Orange was forced by Police Chief Harry Beatty of Interlaken, an exclusive suburb of Ashbury Park, to go over a mile of muddy road and remove every scrap of litter on it. Draper had thrown some newspapers from his car as he passed through the village and the action aroused the chief's anger.

LONDON WATER PLANT

LONDON, Oct. 30.—London now has the largest plant in Europe for the pumping and purification of water.

Before a crowd of 50,000, racing clubs of Siena, Italy, recently held a horseback race, the course being three times around the market square in keeping with a medieval custom of the city.

'You Never Know Women' At Strand

Florence Vidor and Lowell Sherman in the Paramount picture, "You Never Know Women."

Lovers of thrills! Give heed and attention! Listen!

Our scene is the deserted darkened stage of a theatre. The characters—a pretty Russian performer and a wealthy worldling who is enamored with her. Considering this the logical moment for a bit of wooing, he speaks of his love and devotion.

She, who has just that afternoon witnessed the seeming death of her real sweetheart, rebukes him. Repulsed, he becomes a madman. In desperation, she jumps into the large magic cabinet, formerly used by her true lover.

As the villian rushes toward the girl, a tall, powerful figure glides from the folds of the curtain. In his hands are a dozen gleaming knives. Dexterously flying, they pin the pursuer to the wall. The last blade, aimed for his heart, is poised in midair.

What happens? Who is the rescuer? This may be taking advantage of the reader's good nature, but if you want to know what happens in that tense moment, go to the Strand today. "You Never Know Women," starring Florence Vidor and featuring Lowell Sherman and Clive Brook, is the attraction. William Wellman directed for Paramount.

A "Scandals" Stage Star

Lillian Norwood, the charming comedienne with the new George White Scnadals, coming to the Majestic theatre, for matinee and night, November 8, for the first time, is the daughter of the famous song and dance favorite of yore, Daisy Norwood, who with Maggie Cline, Lillian Russell, Weber and Fields, and others of those days, entertained our fathers at Tony Pastor's, Koster & Bials and Hammersteins in New York. Young Lillian has inherited her mother's gifts for comedy, but has a peculiar and dainty charm of her own. Off stage, Miss Norwood is much interested in sports; she has taken numerous cups for her feats in high diving; she drives her own high-powered foreign car on Long Island and in Westchester during the summer and takes much delight in sailing in her boat about the sound. She attributes much of her perfect physical health to her keen enjoyment of outdoor sports.

In the general movement in India to abandon the centuries-old custom of hoarding gold, an Arab recently converted his back-yard savings into $250,000 worth of government securities.

"If Marriage Fails" to Be Featured On Screen This Week

What to do "If Marriage Fails?" A bold answer to this absorbing question, never more vital than at the present day, will be shown on the screen at the Gem theatre Monday when the second C. Gardner Sullivan production appears for the first time in this locality. "If Marriage Fails?", is a daring and unconventional appeal to common sense in the matter of divorce, and it is beyond all that entertainment of the highest degree. A large and excellent cast, including Jackqueline Logan, Cissie Fitzgerald, Belle Bennett, Jean Hersholt, Donald MacDonald and Clive Brook make a convincing and powerful story stand out in relief. John Ince, who directed the production, deserves great credit and proves again as he did in "Cheap Kisses" that he is a master of his craft.

FATAL TO BOY

ATTALLA, Ala., Oct. 30.—While playing cowboy and Indian, 15-year-old Ed McDaniel was killed when he fell from a porch and a butcher knife he had in his hand was thrust through his right thigh. He died from loss of blood while enroute to a hospital.

"Born To West" Comes To Olympic

Jack Holt as a reception committee of one in a scene from Zane Grey's "Born to the West," a Paramount picture.

A motion picture that moves with the celerity of a machine gun. That—is Zane Grey's story of a great family feud—and how it affected a girl. John Waters has brought it to the screen as a Paramount production. "Born to the West" is the tale of two boys, who as school lads, fought over a girl. On reaching manhood, their paths cross again. Then—but you'd better see the film when it arrives at the Olympic today.

It is fast moving, colorful and full of action every moment. There are wild rides, stirring adventure, gun fights and an exciting rescue of Margaret Morris by Jack Holt. Through it all runs the mystery and romance always connected with Zane Grey. Jack Holt, with quick braid and iron nerve, escapes from many tight places, but never from the heart of the girl.

"Born to the West" includes in its cast, besides Miss Morris and Holt — Raymond Hatton, Arlette Marchal and George Seigman.

Will Rogers, With All His Fame, Finds Chile His Great Inspiration

Will Rogers will appear at the Junior college auditorium November 9, under the Musician's club auspices has three hobbies, chile, hot tamales and taxis. While Mr. Rogers is perhaps the most "dined" man in the country, he is constantly sought after to speak at all the big banquets yet he prefers little restaurants that he finds himself in out of the way places. In New York for instance, he discovered a two by four chop house where he could get chile. Hidden away in a side street, unpretentious in appearance, it is one of the few places that makes a specialty of Mexican dishes. There are no tables, but ten white stools in front of a wooden bar and all around in the shelves and cupboards are bottles and jars filled with mixtures that make the tongue smart.

Loved Chile.

"Always loved chile," Mr. Rogers admitted the other afternoon, "I've always said nobody could make a decent banquet speech unless he has a good dish of chile, the real Mexican kind."

Another hobby of Mr. Rogers is taxis. He has a car of his own and a chauffeur for his family, but up to the present he prefers a taxi. Likes to pick one up himself too; he seldom telephones for one, but chooses his own from the middle of the road. He also likes taxi drivers and most of them recognize him. Personal experience, the close experience of one who has been in constant and active contact with people has given him a knowledge of human nature not to be found in most profound books.

Still the Same.

Will Rogers has developed into an international celebrity, yet he is still the Will Rogers of years ago. Fame has come to him but it is as though he was completely unconscious of it. His platform presence is no pose. Off the platform "he is just the same ungrammatical child-like entertainer, hesitating in his speech, grinning at his own words and utterly straightforword. Rogers says he always was a prairie-born sage brush refuse to change under the artificial heat of the larger cities.

STEEL BODIES FOR SAFE CARS

Public Demands Automobiles Be Built to Safeguard Occupants

Safety in automobiles—a higher degree of safety—is one of the public's chief demands in motor cars. Traffic conditions have brought this about, and will carry the movement still further, according to Frank Queisser, Hudson-Essex dealer.

"We felt this sentiment," said Mr. Queisser, "as soon as Hudson-Essex placed on the market their new cars of steel construction. Men have been highly interested to see what remarkable strength and ruggedness the cars have, while women enjoy a car which so easily absorbs all the jolts and jars of present day traffic.

"The strength of the Essex and Hudson coaches is almost unbelievable. Weights of three and a half tons have been placed on the roofs with no effect whatsoever, so far as can be seen. If the strain from such a burden were to take any effect, one of the first results would be around the windows and doors. But as a matter of fact there is no binding or distorted effect whatsoever.

"While this safety is important, the construction is desirable too because it does away with body noises, which so often have proved annoying in cars of less' modern design. Other safety features are the remarkably clear vision, due to the windshield construction, and the general reliability and ruggedness of Essex and Hudson construction.

"Both Hudson and Essex are far in advance of the times in general design. Both have the practical and dependable gasoline strainer built into the vacuum tank, incoming air is both cleaned and heated before it enters the carburetor, oil is kept clean and free from dilution by the action of the motor.

"These results are obtained in the basic construction of the cars, rathers than by the complication and expense of added accessories."

Buick Factory In New Record

1,554 Models Shipped Out In One Day in High Record Total

All previous daily records of the Buick Motor company were broken on the last day of September when 1,554 of the 1927 models were shipped from the factory.

This is the second time since introducing its new model that a new daily shipment record has been set. On the last day of August, just one month after the new models were placed on the market, 1,493 cars were shipped.

It required 455 freight cars to handle the huge volume of September 30th. A few of the cars were driven from the factory under their own power but exclusive of drivaways the day set a new record for freight movement from the plant.

Shipments from the Buick plant have been consistently heavy for several months because of the large volume of orders on hand for the new models.

NEW RUBBER DECK

DuPont Company Announces New Product for Trade

The prefection of a new rubber deck material, known as "Everbright Pontop," has recently been announced by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company. The new material has been placed on the market after years of experimenting in order to develop a fabric that would embody all the requirements of body builders. It is waterproof and has a permanency of finish heretofore unknown in rubber deck material. The makers claim for it unusual durability and lasting beauty. Due to the fact that it has a rubber base, it is unaffected by climatic changes.

PARTY TO EUROPE

General Motors Officials Go To Look After Business.

The rising importance of the export market for Buick and General Motors automobiles is the reason for the departure last week of a group of General Motors officials for a five weeks' business trip to Europe.

The party was made up of H. H. Bassett, president of Buick, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, and two other officials of the corporation.

POWER PLANTING IN 40 B. C.

It has been discovered that Julius Caesar, as a portion of his campaign against Pompey, constructed a canal from Lake Avernus to the Tiber river, there to connect with the Cloaca Maxima, which was one of the principal sewers of Rome. The construction of this canal was one of the greatest engineering feats of its time.

LANDLORD WHIPPED

Denver Woman Tenant Uses Fists To Subdue Man.

DENVER, Oct. 30.—A desire to eject two tenants from his house landed Albert Philpott, 35, in police court, nursing numerous bruises. The two he desired to eject Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Wyatt, also were present.

"My wife does all my fighting," Wyatt, who is crippled, is said to have told his landlord.

The wife, boxom and of rugged appearance, apparently was drawn into the conflict by this chance observation, and made the best of the situation, police said. Philpott was given a beating by the spouse of the crippled man, and when the dust cleared away all were hauled to the police station.

HASKELL SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Oct. 30.—Dan Cupid has been quite busy in Haskell as evidenced by the announcements of the week of the approaching nuptials of two of Haskell's most charming young women and the current rumor that November will chronicle the advent of at least one more.

Mrs. W. H. Murchison announced the marriage of Miss Mary Long, daughter of Mrs. C. D. Long of Haskell to Jack Cunningham of San Antonio, on November 10 at the First Methodist church, Haskell. The occasion was a buffet luncheon. Bridge was played in the afternoon and high score won by Mrs. R. R. English. Low score was counted to Miss Helen Harbison. The guests included the honoree, Miss Mary Long and Misses Lois Earnest, Eunice Huckabee, Lucile Taylor, Helen Harbison, Nettie McCollum, and Mesdames C. R. Long of Wichita Falls, Marlin Wilson of Rule, and John and Hill Oates, Clairborne and J. F. Payne, Wiley Reid, Roy Shook, R. R. English, Tom French, Wayne Koonce, John W. Pace, Marion Shook and the birde-to-be's mother, Mrs. C. D. Long.

Another Wedding Soon.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. L. F. Taylor and Mrs. Tom French of Paulding, Ohio, entertained a host of friends with an informal party at the Magazine club library, announcing the approaching marriage of their daughter and sister, Miss Lucile Taylor, to Richard Shirrell on November 5 at the First Baptist church, Haskell. The guests were met at the door by Miss Lois Earnest and Mrs. Tom French who introduced them to the receiving line: Mrs. L. F. Taylor, Mrs. R. E. Sherrill, Miss Lucile Taylor, Mrs. W. H. Carothers of Rochester, Mrs. Tom Davis and Mrs. Doyle Middleton of Stamford. The club rooms were lovely with cut flowers and ferns. A short program was rendered consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. H. D. Neff, two readings by Mrs. Middleton, a vocal solo, Mrs. Wayne Koonce, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hardy Grissom, a pianologue by Miss Perry Lee Smith with Mrs. John W. Pace at the piano. A delicious salad plate carrying a dainty announcement card of the date of the marriage, was served each guest by Misses Lela Welch, Bernice Mask and Maye Bell Taylor. Out ow town guests were: Mrs. Joe Davis of Munday, Mrs. Doyle Middleton of Stamford, Mrs. Oswold Cole, Dave Earnest, Jesse Campbell and Marlin Wilson of Rule and W. H. Carothers of Rochester.

Harmony Club Honors.

The Harmony club entertained on Wednesday afternoon at the Magazine club library, honoring one of their members, Miss Lucile Taylor, whose coming marriage has been announced. Mrs. O. E. Patterson greeted the guests as they entered and Mrs. C. L. Lewis introduced them to the members of the receiving line: Mrs. D. L. Cummins, the honoree, Miss Lucile Taylor, Mrs. D. Scott, Mrs. F. L. Taylor, Mrs. J. U. Fields, Mrs. Lee Southern, Mrs. R. E. Sherrill, Mrs. W. H. Murchison, Mrs. Wayne Koonce, Mrs. Tom French, Mrs. John W. Pace, Mrs. Tom Davis, Mrs. M. L. Barker, Mrs. W. H. Carothers, Miss Maybell Taylor, Mrs. H. D. Neff, Miss Lois Earnest, Miss Eunice Huckabee and Miss Mary Long. The house party consisted of Mrs. T. A. Pinkerton, Mrs. W. D. Williams, Mrs. G. M. Morrison, Mrs. B. M. Whiteker, Mrs. M. H. Post, Mrs. R. J. Reynolds, Mrs. Stalkup, Mrs. Jack Sills, Mrs. A. J. Bailey, and Mrs. Courtney Hunt and the junior members, Misses Clairne Brannon, Mary Couch, Louis Kaigler, Katheryne Ilke, Majorie Rogers, Perry Lee Smith, and Aura Llee Tucker.

Golf Widows Club.

One of the prettiest club parties of the season was Tuesday afternoon of the past week when Mrs. John Couch entertained the "golf widows" in her beautiful home. While the Hallowe'en theme predominated in decoration and menu, baskets of lovely lavender chrysanthemums added their charm. Five tables of "42" were played by members and special guests, Misses Katheryne Ilke and Mary Couch served a salad course and Mrs. C. D. Grissom poured tea for the following guests: Special guests, Mesdames F. T. Sanders, Charlie Connor, C. D. Grissom, D. L. Cummins, R. J. Reynolds, Marshall Pierson, Courtney Hunt, Carter Rogers, Elmer Irwin, B. M. Whiteker and club members Mesdames R. R. Couch Alfred Pierson, Lee Southern A. R. Wair, S. A. Roberts, John W. Pace, R. C. Montgomery, O. E. Patterson, Hardy Grissom and the hostess, Mrs. J. A. Couch.

Wives Honor Husbands.

Honoring their husbands birthday jointly, Mesdames Dennie Ratliff and Leo Southern entertained in the home of the former last Saturday evening with a dinner, using the season's motifs in place cards and favors. After dinner "42" was played. Those sharing this hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Meadows and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Lewis.

Thursday Luncheon Club.

The Thursday Luncheon club abandoned the high noon hour, their usual assembling time, and met with Mrs. O. E. Patterson in the evening. Husbands of members were the honor guests. After the dinner the guests found their places at the "42" tables and the score cards were miniture pumpkins. Substitute guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Hunt Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Connor, and Mesdames Ethel Irby, Marshall Pierson and Emory Menefee, members present: Mr. and Mrs. John A. Couch, Sam A. Roberts, Wiley Reid, T. L. Daugherty, M. R. Lebe, R. J. Reynolds, Alfred Pierson, Elmer Irwin and Mesdames B. M. Whiteker, H. S. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Patterson.

Said to be the only living person that was actively interested in the execution of 1345, John Hood recently celebrated his one hundred and second birthday anniversary at Jedburgh, Scotland.

Sir Hurdle, of London, Offers To Save County Its Bond Issue

Special to The Record News.

RANKIN, Texas, Oct. 30.—Upton county may not be called upon to use its $30,000 bond issue if it will accept the offer of Sir Frederick Hurdle of London to build a courthouse at his own expense at Hurdle, 12 miles west of here, providing the town be made the county seat. The British noble when out here with a geologist, R. S. Blatchsly, last year, said if oil were ever struck near Hurdle that he would build a courthouse and pay for it with his own money.

That has happened, as three miles north of Hurdle there is now an oil well on the side of a hill with another derrick only a few hundred feet away. The Englishman said he would not only build a courthouse but would build a first class one. The sessions of the court here during the last few days were at the school house here.

BILL CAN'T DO IT

BERLIN, Oct. 25(AP)—The former kaiser's reported issuance of invitations to a "royal hunt" at Monnisten, East Prussia, can not be true, the official Prussian press service says, "for technical reasons alone."

NASH ERECTS BIGGER PLANT

Increased Sales of Car Brings About Investment In Bigger Factory

In line with the production expansion program of the Nash Motors company, made necessary by the greatest demand for Nash cars in the history of the company, a large addition to the plant of the Seaman Body corporation of Milwaukee, has just been completed. The Seaman business, owned in half by Nash Motors, is devoted entirely to the building of enclosed bodies for the Nash Advanced Six, Special Six, and Light Six, and Six series.

The addition to the Seamon plant is a five-story building of steel and concrete construction, 172x100 feet. It is identical in construction and design to the other Seaman buildings of which it has been made an integral part. Installation of equipment to be used in the various departments in the new building is well under way and when this has been completed the plant will rank as one of the most modern and finest equipped automobile body factories in the world.

Immediately adjoining the new building is a side track and long, covered platform for the unloading of steel.

U. S. Has Over 21 Million Cars Of Total of 24 Million In Existence

At a luncheon given this week at the Savoy hotel, London, by the Motor Car Monufacturers' association, it was stated that at the forthcoming motor show at Olympia, London, the sale of automobiles in England would be found to have increased by 20 per cent since November last year.

During last year $260,000,000 worth of automobiles were sold in Great Britain—nearly 50 per cent of which were American—and that from next November to October, 1927, the sales would have exceeded $300,000,000. Since 1919 the auto sales in England have leaped from $75,000,000 dollars a year—the amount is small compared to the annual United States turnover, but no other country has offered such spectacular increase in so short a time.

Women Buy Cars

"Thirty per cent of present automobile purchasers in Great Britain are women," said H. K. Preston, continenal sales manager of Britain's leading firm of auto manufacturers.

"Manufacturers with an eye to the British market should bear this in mind, and that 20 per cent of women purchasers intend to drive the auto themselves. Today, one Englishman in 30 possesses an auto, but this will be increased by 50 per cent shortly.

"Not excepting America, there is not another country where the leap in sales has been so sharp as in Great Britain. This has been accelerated by the last year's road building, in which 2,200 miles of new arterial roads have been built at a cost of $121,500,000. It is also largely due to the interest on the part of women in England since the war.

"Remembering this distinct feminine demand, manufacturers should bear in mind that the average woman driver does not want a car that needs too much polishing or unnecessary cleaning, and she wants linings of the most practical and dust-resisting kind.

"There is bound to be an even higher demand for American autos next year, when the annual tax on rated horse-power is removed, and a simple gasoline tax imposed in its place. Ehgland then will be the ideal market for United States manufacturers to place their surplus production."

24,000,000 Autos

Mr. Preston added that at the end of last year there were 24,644,574 automobiles in the world, and of this total there were 21,094,934 in the United States.

"Europe's share at present is only 2,675,891" says Preston, "which shows the amount of field to be covered.

"Australia is another 'auto-eating' country, for with its population of 6,000,000 it already has 416,586 autos."

KING AGAINST PROFANITY

In Italy King Victor Emanuel was placed at the head of the anti-profanity drive that was started last year and has been made national in scope. The school authorities throughout Italy were requested to have lectures for all the students on the subject.

BIRD'S BONES CARRY AIR

The bones of all flying birds are said to be hollow and filled with air, thus showing that nature knew what it was about when it designed them for the air. This plan, as any physician will confirm makes not only for lightness but for the greater strength. A solid bone besides being heavier, would be less strong against strain such as flying fowl is put to.

DODGE GIVES IMPROVEMENT

'Now Drive the Car' Slogan Comes as Feature Of Publicity

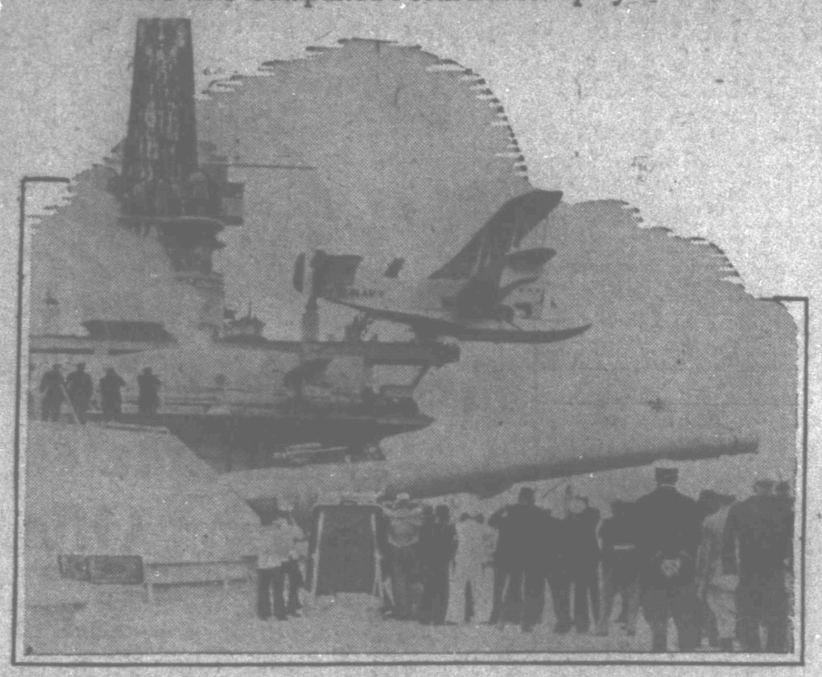

"Now Drive the Car." These words which have just made their appearance on the well known blue and white bulletin boards and in the most prominent magazines and newspapers are arousing widespread interest in the results secured from recently announced improvements in Dodge Brothers Motor cars, according to Julian McFall of McFall Brothers.

"The simple invitation to try the car and note the results," he declares, "is typical of the advertising policy of a manufacturer whose statements have always enjoyed implicit public confidence, thanks to a twelve year old reputation for avoiding extravagant or spectacular advertising claims.

"It is an inflexible policy at the factory that the reputation of Dodge Brothers motor car for dependability long-life and endurance must be upheld. Everyone of these changes, in fact, means increased manufacturing cost — they were adopted for the sole purpose of giving the owner a quieter, smoother running car.

"Although I have watched a succession of refinements for the last twelve years, I confess that I had no conception of the surprising change that these major advances could make in the operation of what was before a quiet, easy-riding, thoroughly satisfactory car.

First Plane Catapulted From Battleship by Powder

"History in the Making" may be the term applied to the shooting of a 5,100-pound amphibian plane from the top of the turret of the U. S. S. "West Virginia" in Los Angeles harbor. It never had been done before. A charge of powder equivalent to that used in an eight-inch shell was exploded. Lieut. D. S. Fahrney piloted the plane in the experimental take-off.

Use of Horses Will Come Back

This Is Prediction of Speaker At National Banquet Of Blacksmiths

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—Business jealousy and a desire to "keep up" with competitors are contributing causes that are aiding a certain comeback for the horse, C. M. Ticus, president of the Tacony Bank and Trust company, told five hundred delegates of the Master horseshoers and Blacksmiths' National Protective association.

"The horses will come back," he asserted. "Many business men are operating trucks at a loss. Such trucks were bought because a competitor bought a truck. Eventually the problem will be worked out on a basis of dollars and cents and truck owners will find that in many cases the cost of operating a truck is twice as much as owning and keeping a team of horses."

General Gives Commandments to His Troops For Their Conduct

PEKING, Oct. 30.—Playing the role of a modern Moses, General Chang Tsung-Chang, Tupan of Shantung, has proclaimed 10 commandments for the brawny coolies who comprise his army.

"Thou shalt not," the General has decreed to his troops, "insult people, commandeer vehicles or impress coolies, enter private residences, raid houses or search passersby for contraband without permission, interfere with the majesty of the law, occupy Confucian temples or schools, inflict harm on the people or conduct thyself otherwise than a good soldier."

22,000,000 Flies Caught

The fidelity to detail which is a characteristic of the Japanese, was never better illustrated than in the recent fly campaign. The government of Tokio having offered a bounty of flies, found it necessary to count them when the fly swatters began producing, with the result that the municipal clerks turned in a count of 22,900,000 before the campaign was over.

Chinese Strife Helps Out Trade

Records Actually Show Increase in Business During 3-Year Revolt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The Chinese revolutions of the last three years have helped Chinese trade in one way. Reports to the commerce department disclose that the military and other disturbances cause the wealthy Chinese merchants to move to the seaports, where they get in more direct contact with foreign buyers, stimulating foreign trade.

H. J. Smiley, assistant trade commissioner for the department at Shanghai, today said he viewed the continuance of trade and business as reassuring.

Fleas Transfer Love To Nobility

Dukes and Nobobs Not Free From Affliction of Body Pests

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Fleas from the East End slums are marching on Mayfair. The entymologist of the London zoo, besieged with inquiries from the frantically scratching aristocracy of the West End, reports there is a real migration under way.

The Grosvenor and Berkeley Square districts of Mayfair, inhabited solely by dukes and nabobs, have been penetrated by the fleas. When the leading woman of a smart comedy in a West End theatre was observed furtively scratching during rehearsals, she confessed shamelessly, "Fleas."

ROAD BURNED UP

Fire From Asphalt Pot Puts Damage to Pavement.

BATH, Oct. 30.—Fire which caught from an asphalt pot, employed in road construction in the town of Pressburg, communicated with the newly spread tar of the highway, and burned up the road more than half a mile.

To save the large tank of tar workmen with a team started to haul the tank from the scene and, in doing so, opened the valves, which released the tar.

The fire caught this stream and followed the workmen, who had difficulty escaping the flames.

Victoria Added To Hupp Models

Newest Addition to Line Proves to Be Popular Number

The new Victoria on the distinguished Hupmobile eight cylinder chassis announced this week nicely combines the close-coupled seating arrangement particular to this type of body with an unusual amount of seat room for five passengers. This model, which lists at $2345, at factory, is now on display at the Hupmobile Motor Sales company, Hupmobile dealers here.

The Victoria has ever been a favorite among those who demand exclusive and individual body types and the Hupmobile interpretation of it will surely extend that vogue as a result of its unusual and distinctive beauty, says officials of the company who are quite enthusiastic over the sales possibilities of this latest addition to the line.

Body colors have been selected to accentuate the original pleasing lines of this model.

Sales Leaders Get Free Trips

Chrysler Concern Gives Award for Best Trio Of Agents

Three star salesmen, winners in a special sales contest conducted by the R. P. Rice Motor company, Kansas City distributors for Chrysler cars, were in Detroit the week of October 4 as guests of their employer in a prize trip award to Chrysler factories.

The salesmen were Charles Cartella, Jack Klein and George Converse who ranked above the remaining 15 members of the Rice Motor company's sales force in the contest.

Converse, one of the three winners of the Chrysler factories trip, was fifth among the entrants at 10:30 p. m. on the last day of the contest. With the prizes awarded on the basis of deliveries only, he disappeared from the salesroom and at five minutes to midnight, appeared with his final delivery slip which placed him in the winning group.

During October the R. P. Rice Motor company is conducting additional sales contest, one to determine which of the three first prize winners is the star salesman of the organization, and the other as a consolation contest for the three next highest contestants.

Jap Air Navy's Increase Denied

Big Cut in Appropriation To Air Development Announced

TOKYO, Oct. 30.—Japan's proposed naval air force must give way in order to allow the auxiliary warship construction program to proceed, according to decision of Admiral Takeshi Takarabe, minister of the navy.

It has been expected that the air force would be increased to two corps and a half, instead of which it is to be left at one corps and a half, thus affording a saving of about $900,000.

Diamonds Used To Build Cars

Chevrolet Has Hardest Stone In World as Part Of Drilling Tool

The hardest diamond in the world is the property of the Chevrolet Motor company which has used the big diamond continuously during the last 10 years in the dressing of abrasive wheels for precision grinding necessary to meet the Chevrolet standards of accuracy.

Due to its extreme hardness, "C-66" as the gem is prosaically designated in the Chevrolet records, has outlived probably $200,000 worth of diamonds used by the company.

Stone Called 'Freak'

F. W. Smith, grinding engineer of the General Motors corporation, and inventor of a patented method for setting grinding diamonds, contends that "Old C-66" is a freak.

"It is a South African black ballas diamond originally weighing about 30 carats," he said. "Today, after 10 years of continuous service in truing the grinding wheels used on piston jobs, it still weighs 25 carats. An ordinary grinding diamond would have worn out years ago. 'Old C-66' is so hard that it requires resetting only about three times a year. Only diamond truing will give the absolute accuracy essential on a wheel used in sizing such important parts as engine bearings and pistons."

In his patented method of setting diamonds he first electroplates the exterior with copper which forms a union so close as to be invisible even under 1,000 magnifications. A circular recess in a steel slug used to hold the diamond in the wheel-truing machine is then filled with molten fuse metal. The copperplated diamond is so immersed in the metal which hardens, leaving exposed about one-third of the gem's surface.

Diamond Guarded

This core of fuse metal gives the diamond complete protection against damaging high temperatures which might result should the grinding mechanic fail to play water upon the diamond while it is truing a wheel. The fuse metal will melt and release the diamond at 670 F or 250 degrees below a temperature that might injure its surface.

CHIMPANZEE LIKES FIRES

In Berlin a postmas has a pet chimpanzee that delights in turning in fire alarms. He has learned the trick of breaking the glass in the alarm boxes. It then sits by and in glee watches the fire engines come tearing to the scene. The owner has protested when the authorities threatened to shoot the champanzee, pleading its saving sense of humor.

All prices f. o. b. Detroit, plus revenue tax.

The exterior grace, rich finish and roomy comfort of the Hupmobile Six are the surface indications of its greater value.

For Hupmobile Six is heir to those fine traditions which have made every Hupmobile built for 18 years, a better and a longer-lived car.

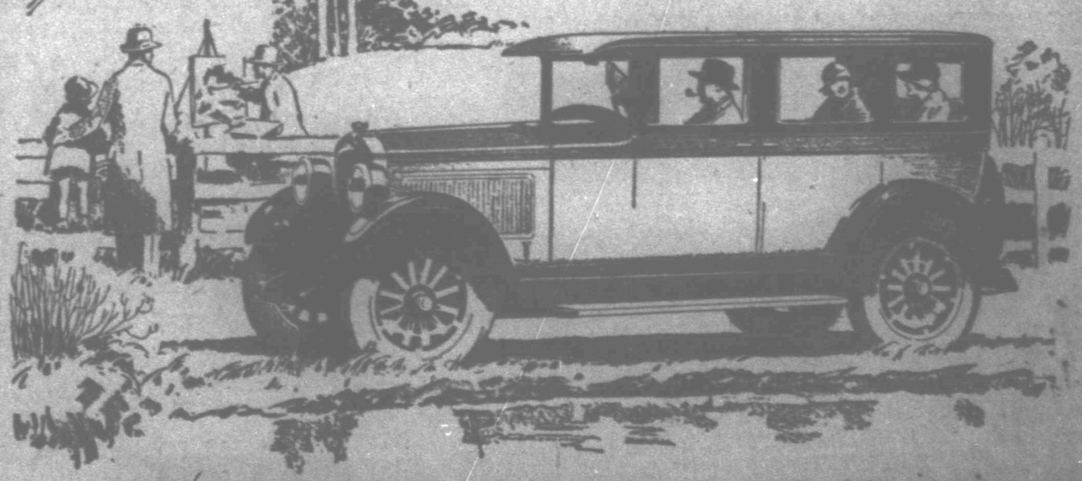

In building surpassing performance, economy and durability into its Six, Hupmobile goes straight to the source of such qualities.

Now, as for years past, Hupmobile pays 10 per cent more for the better materials, more thorough inspection and more exacting measurements that surround and safeguard the manufacture of the Hupmobile Six.

Some of the results of this policy you will note in your first few minutes at the wheel—astonishing ease of control, greater smoothness, effortless acceleration and power.

But only after continuous enjoyment of these features over a period of years can you fully appreciate the faultless operation and low costs of Hupmobile Six.

There is no obligation attached to a trial of the new Hupmobile Six. Prove to yourself its basic superiorities in performance and economy, and in beauty and safety as well.

Celebrate Piano's Invention

Many musical organizations are celebrating this year the two hundredth anniversary of the invention of the piano. Bartolommeo Cristofori is credited with having perfected the prototype of the modern piano in 1726. He conceived the idea of having the hammers strike the strings and rebound so as not to stifle the vibration by remaining in contact. On the harpsichord, the predecessor of the piano, the player could only make the music faster or slower. Cristofori made it possible to get expression with soft and loud notes, hence the original name, "pianoforte" from the Italian "piano," meaning soft and "forte" meaning strong.

STORMS HARD ON GOLDFISH

Owing to earthquakes, typhoons and heat storms, the goldfish production in China and Japan has been seriously impaired recently. These fish are grown in specially constructed lakes which were flooded during the storms, with the result that many of the fish swam about in the streets and died from the hard life or lack of the proper food. These goldfish were shipped in consignment of 30,000 to 50,000 at a time and the loss to one dealer alone was placed at $50,000 this year.

for this new, finer Chrysler "70" Brougham, an unusual, beautiful distinctive and smart new body type, combining the advantages of the sedan and brougham models.

HUNDREDS of thousands the country over paid tribute to the new, finer Chrysler "70" during the past week.

They acclaimed it as intensifying and surpassing the Chrysler thrill of three record-breaking years with fresh standards of appearance and performance—at prices as significant as its brilliant new beauty.

Newer, more exquisitely graceful bodies—newer, more distinctive silhouette, set off with an exclusive style of military front with cadet sun visor—newer luxury of riding comfort—newer, greater riding and handling ease—newer richness of upholstery—newer, finer hardware and fittings—newer refinements in controls and lighting—newer, more attractive color blendings far in advance of current harmonies.

And with this newer appearance, joined to proved and unmatched superiority of Chrysler performance, dependability, economy and long life, it is inevitable that the new, finer Chrysler "70" will exert, in more marked degree, the influence which for the first three years has meant nothing but Chrysler.

Come in today. See this new Chrysler beauty. Experience this new Chrysler comfort, which not only creates a distinct departure in design that forecasts the new vogue in motor car engineering and practice, but whose prices also set a new measure of value for an entire industry to follow.

EPISCOPAL FAITH IN CITY DATES BACK TO FIRST FAMILIES

Original Town Lot Sale In 1882 Found Episcopalians Here; First Meeting Held In Borrowed Church

Rev. F. T. Datson Plays Important Part In Development of Congregation Into One Of Leaders of the City

BY WINNIE WEST.

From the time Fort Worth and Denver trains didn't run through Wichita Falls because the rails didn't go any farther, this community has had one or more Episcopal families. On September 27, 1882, when the city officially came into being with the sale of town lots at public auction a couple of families of this faith resided here and the little congregation, although it was not so designated at that time, gradually grew.

At their request and not long after the town lot sale, Bishop Garrett, then missionary bishop of north Texas, visited here and held the first Episcopal service ever given in Wichita Falls. It was staged in the little Presbyterian church which was loaned for the occasion.

No immediate steps were taken toward organization on this visit, but shortly after, the Rev. Henry C. Shaw of the Diocese of Nebraska, in search of health, visited this locality. To his devotion and self-sacrificing labors, the organization of the mission is mainly due, with his assistance the few families were gathered together on December 8, 1884, in Word and Stanley's hall, where divine services were held by him for the first time.

After this service, it was decided by the church people present to take the proper initiative step toward the organization of a mission—to be called the "Mission of the Good Shepherd."

The signers of the petition to the diocese were J. S. Mayfield, John G. James, C. J. Green, S. K. Fitz, W. Bullen, Ruble Bullen, Gertrude Mayfield, Clara B. James, B. E. Boswell, G. G. Calmes, John A. Porter, Ashby James, Betty James, N. Henderson and W. G. Lewis.

Petition Granted.

Their petition was granted and the mission duly organized. The first building was erected on the corner of Eighth and Lamar in 1886, the present site of the new Medical Arts building now under construction. It was a small wooden structure which did duty for some 30 years.

For many years the church had a hard struggle for existence. The records for many years seem to have been lost, but the new era for the church started with the coming of the Rev. Chester Wood of Lansing, Mich., who came at the instigation of the Woman's Guild, the only active organization of the congregation at that time.

Mr. Wood succeeded during his brief stay in organizing the mission into a parish on February 15, 1913. Mr. Woods resigned on April 15 of that same year. The vestry called the Rev. Fred T. Datson, the present rector, then president at Menominee, Mich., in the Diocese of Marquette.

On February 8, 1914, the present rector held his first services in Wichita Falls. Steps were soon taken for a new church and rectory. Ground was broken for the new church located at Tenth and Burnett on March 17, 1915. The corner stone was laid April 13, 1915, the Masonic lodge officiating. On Sunday, October 3, 1915, the present church was solemnly dedicated with Bishop Garrett present. This was the last visit of the venerable prelate to this parish.

Church Is Moved.

The old church building was moved to the rear of the new church and later additions were made and the building used as a parish house.

History of the church continued and on Sunday, June 11, 1923, the church was consecrated, all indebtedness having been met and the parish entirely out of debt. This year the vestry authorized the building of a new parish house which is now in process of construction and which is complete in all details.

A new rectory at 1326 Huff avenue was also purchased and on completion of the new building, the old frame structure will be removed.

The church, while not large in membership, has taken a prominent part in all movements for civic betterment and social welfare and its contributions to the community are generous. It never stands aside from any good movement requiring its aid.

Rev. Datson has been in charge since 1914 with the exception of a year and a half during the war when he was called to Trinity church, Fort Worth and ministered to the Canadian Flying corps at Everman Field. After the armistice, the local congregation called him back, and it has been his good fortune to witness the consecration of the church built during his rectorship and the beginning of the new building program which will add much to the efficiency of the church's work.

The work of the church is carried out in the different departments which are as follows:

The Departments.

THREE GENERATIONS

By Central Press

WISHEK, N. D., Oct. 22.—Celebrating her fiftieth anniversary as a teacher in this community, Mrs. Hattie M. P. Wilson, 70, declares she would not change her teacher's life for any other kind.

Coming to North Dakota before it was a state, Mrs. Wilson has instructed three generations of citizens—often having been the only teacher a family ever has known.

"I have acted as nurse to former pupils who were dying and have heard their last word—'Teacher.'" Mrs. Wilson relates. "I have played wedding marches for my students grown up. I have, in some instances, been called to dress their first-born. And I have seen these first-born becomes pupils and be graduated under my charge. Many of them I have attended at cradle, altar and grave."

Mrs. Wilson's first school was a shack of boards with only two windows near the banks of the Missouri river. Her present school is a modern brick building.

Facing the possibility of not completing its lines before the snow flew because of a British firm's failure to deliver the rails in time, officials of a railroad in Ethopia kept their promise to the public by making a duplicate rush rail contract with a German firm.

"Tired, Achy Pains"

HOW a Kentucky lady was benefited by taking Cardui is interestingly told in the following statement by Mrs. Mary Parker, who lives in South Vanceburg, Ky.

"I was weak and nervous and felt tired and achy all the time," says Mrs. Parker. "My back and limbs ached so bad, I could hardly stay on my feet to cook a meal.

"I spent most of my time resting, and trying to get sufficient strength to do my household tasks. Everything dragged and I was worried all the time. I was afraid I would lose my health altogether, and this constant dread kept me uneasy.

"I heard of Cardui and decided to try it. After I had taken it a few weeks I felt much better. I continued until I felt well and strong.

"I am now doing all my housework. I no longer feel those tired, achy pains."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui helpful.

Increased Activity Is Seen Over Colorado Sector Past Week

COLORADO, Oct. 30.—Increased activities in the various oil pools in this section of west Texas are attested by the fact nine new locations were spudded in this week and four new wells were brought in Tuesday. The Westbrook pool had one new well and one new location and the Iatan pool had two new locations in the Mitchell county field. Chalk field with three new wells and six new locations claimed the most interest.

Magnolia Petroleum company brought in two new wells in the Chalk oil field Tuesday. Their C. C. Chalk No. 3, southwest quarter section 114, block 29, W. & NW. survey, Howard county came in for an estimated production of 70 barrels. Their Mary Chalk No. 1, northeast quarter section 124, block, 29, same survey, also came in for a good commercial producer.

Owen-Sloan Chalk No. 4, of the same company in section 113, block 29, in the heart of the Chalk producing area, is also on top of the sand and will be drilled in tomorrow.

Marland Oil company's Chalk No. 4, southeast quarter of section 114, block 29, Howard county in Chalk field, also came in Wednesday for a commercial well with a production of about seventy barrels. The well is preparing to shoot.

Magnolia Petroleum company's G. W. Womack No. 1 in the Westbrook field, Mitchell county was drilled in Tuesday for a small producer. This well is in south half of northeast quarter of section 3, block 28, T. 1 north, T. & P.

103 Producers.

Counting the new wells brought in this week, Mitchell county oil field has 203 producing oil wells. Scurry county has five just over the north line of Mitchell county and Howard county has ten producers just across the line of Mitchell county in the southeast corner of that county.

Pipe line runs for this week show production of approximately 30,000 barrels of crude. The Col-Tex refinery at Colorado is using about 5,000 barrels of crude per day, most of which comes from the Westbrook sector of the Mitchell county field.

RAINBOW BEND

Operators Seeking New Production Found In 1925.

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 30.—Since the Rainbow Bend pool of western Cowley county, in southern Kansas, came in at the close of 1924, and attained its greatest development in 1925, contributing to the success and wonderful sale that Waite Phillips was able to make, oil men have been seeking acreage near similar looking spots.

Pawnee county has had a small Rainbow Bend play, and so has other counties in the state, and H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company hopes of finding a rich pool near McLoud, in northwestern Pottawatomie county, in its new wildcat, located in the southwest corner of 22-11-2e, where a rig is going up.

The Wilcox company has taken up virtually 75 per cent of the acreage in the surrounding sections and should it make a strike there, it will be "sitting pretty," using some of the slang remarks that oil men are wont to express.

Santa Claus will be effected by the drouth in Columbia next Christmas, the Magdalena river having again become so dry that boats cannot be counted on to convey holiday goods to the interior.

A dog and a cat are reported from St. Luke's, England, to have started each day, recently, to swim across the English channel together, but after getting out from shore a considerable distance, would give up and return home wet and discouraged.

Working Is All Right

By BRUCE BARTON

A MAN who had made a large fortune by selling perfumes was telling me his troubles some years ago.

"You know I get my raw materials from France," he said, "and that's my big worry. I can't make the Frenchmen enlarge their plants fast enough."

"No?" I said. "Why not?"

"Oh, they just won't be hurried," he answered. "They say: 'We're making enough money; we're satisfied. Why should we rush ourselves to death just to add a few more thousands to our income?' It's very discouraging," he finished pathetically.

He kept pounding away at the Frenchmen, and pounded himself into an early grave. I never think of him without recalling that epitaph in an English churchyard:

"Here lies Adrian Spicer,
Born a man and died a grocer."

My friend was born a man and died a toilet-goods man; but he built one of those businesses which we take so much pleasure in describing as the "largest in the world."

One of my favorite passages in all literature is this from the Chinese:

"Chuang Tzu was fishing in the P'u when the Prince of Ch'u sent two high officials to ask him to take charge of the administration of the Ch'u state.

"Chuang Tzu went on fishing, and without turning his head, said: 'I have heard that in Ch'u there is a sacred tortoise which has been dead now some three thousand years, and that the Prince keeps this tortoise carefully inclosed in a chest on the altar of his ancestral temple. Now, would this tortoise rather be dead, and have its remains venerated, or be alive and wagging its tail in the mud?'

"'It would rather be alive,' replied the two officials, 'and wagging its tail in the mud.'

"'Begone!' cried Chuang Tzu. 'I, too, will wag my tail in the mud.'"

We send many missionaries to the Chinese; it would be a good thing if they sent us some in return. If our restless energy could be leavened by their calm assurance that nothing makes very much difference after all, the result would be a race of folks who would get more out of living than either they or we do now.

Working is all right, and I have said not a few kind words for it on this page. But as I get older, I begin to think that Chuang Tzu was also right—that being embalmed in the "greatest business in the world" is poor recompense for never having had the fun of wagging your tail in the mud.

FRANCE OPTIMISTIC

France Has No Worry About Her Future for Oil.

PARIS, Oct. 30—France is one of the few countries that is not worrying about the future of her petroleum supply.

Spit Quick or Suffer For It Not An Axiom of the True Artist In The Halls of County Court House

Tobacco chewing cannot be listed as one of the lost arts—and an art it really is.

We all remembers the story of the Arkansawyer who committed suicide because he had missed a cat's eye no less than three times within the week and became despondent because he feared the coming of old age and uncertainty of life. There may not be so many crack-shots in Wichita Falls, but there are plenty of real red-blooded men who toy with the weed and gather great comfort from its succulent potency. They revel in the sweet essence of its flavor and bother not when chance drippings stray to coat lapel or cravat; but may it be said in favor of the tobacco chewer that seldom does his finesse become so crude that such drippings occur—there is where the art comes in.

One must ever be on the alert for a convenient cuspidor or a stray corner in which to deposit the over flow or residue. Indeed it is a poor tobacco chewer who cannot hold a thirty minute conversation or dictate an ordinary business letter while chewing without recourse to the can. This, of course, is speaking strictly of the profesisonal and not the rank amateur whose mouth appears to be a perpetual volcano of amber tinted eruptions. As an art it ranks well with horseback riding or playing chess—there are lots of them at it, but only a few attain extreme succes.

The Temple of The Weed.

At no other place in the universe can tobacco chewing be found in its most virulent stages as at the average county court house, and Wichita county's seat of government is no exception. There can be found bright shiny cuspidors by the score, and the porter will confide the secret that they are always comfortably filled. True there is a dark brown stain about the floor where these receptacles are wont to sit, but that is nothing. How would the porter know where to put them if it were not for this selfsame brown spot? And the saleslady at the cigar stand will tell you she enjoys a good sale on chewing. Tinsley's red tag seems to be the prime favorite, but there are those who insist on Star Navy, Brown Mule, Drummonds or Granger Twist. They all have their following and the chewer who can recall the various stages of his rise in the art form, new Star Navy—up to the present time when he buys real tobacco and chews it, is one of the noblest of his clan.

Brands Mean Something.

Brands in chewing tobacco mean a great deal more than they do in canned goods and cotton outing. For instance, a beginner in the chewing art had best start with some mild brand such as Star Navy (spit quick or drown), Peachy Plug, New Hope, or Horseshoe. The old timer derides these brands as not worthy of the name of tobacco, but to the beginner they are plenty strong enough, alright; in fact no tobacco could be too mild for a beginner. The chance swallowing of a small fraction of amber saliva creates that uneasy sensation in the upper abdomen peculiar to seasickness and extreme billousness. Only the old timer, with years of experience, can swallow safely, and he rarely does so from mere choice.

When court gets grinding smoothly it is not uncommon to see judge, lawyer, clerk and jury turn to the favorite weed for inspiration or recreation. Within the power of its mild stimulus there seems to be strength to orate, to write, or to judge, as the case may be, and, as some great anonymous author once said, "what would justice do without chewing tobacco."

True it is that no societies have been organized for the suppression of chewing, nor has any legal action ever been taken against it.

HAPPY HOMES

Happiest Families in America Where Hubby Dries Cups

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 30.(AP) The happiest homes in America are manned by husbands who occasionally wipe dishes, said Mrs. Cecil G. Harvey, home service director for the Westchester Lighting company, Yonkers, N. Y., in an address today before the American Gas association.

"I make this statement in refutation of the accusation that dish-wiping now and then tends to degrade or cultivates an inferiority complex in married men," she explained. "The most companionable and efficiently-equipped homes in the land have been made so by men who know home-living conditions by personal experience, and who insist that their homes be as efficiently operated as their offices."

A Persian cat owned by Mrs. Albert Thompson, of Ashfordly, England, swallowed a darning needle which was to be seen protruding through the roof of its mouth and was removed with the aid of pinchers.

And--All Is Not Oil That's at Burkburnett

Cotton, Grain, Corn, Fine Cattle, Fat Hogs and Turkeys Also Give City Wealth

Oil Made Burk As City But Diverse Activities Aided

Burkburnett Has Large Trade Territory Just Across Red River In Oklahoma Section

BY A. W. VON STRUVE.
Managing Editor, The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Oct. 30.—Where once the longhorn steer and pie-faced pinto roamed the rolling prairie, and mud-tanks filled with gypsum water gave the only break in the smooth surface of the untilled soil, there stands today a bustling city and dotted over the landscape in lieu of windmills are a thousand derricks, the most of them markers of the source of "flowing gold."

This is introducing Burkburnett, a thriving city in the northeast corner of Wichita county where the wheels of progress are well oiled and the energy that turns those wheels comes from oil wells.

Over 6,000 people now reside in Burkburnett where on June 6, 1907, less than 20 years ago, the first lots were sold. There was a time when Burkburnett had an even greater population, once estimated as high as 20,000 during the peak of the big oil boom that reached its climax in 1918 with the expenditure of more than $20,000,000 by 300 different oil companies in the frantic race for oil wealth. Tents, wooden shacks or only the great outdoors with the sky for a roof housed this herd of fortune-seekers in that period of the city's boom. But as it always has happened, the boom passed, the solid citizens remained, and there sprang from the ashes a new and substantial city, the Burkburnett of today.

Indian Raids In Burk's Early Days

THE city of Burkburnett was founded by two Wichita Falls men, J. A. Kemp and Frank Kell who bought from Burk Burnett, pioneer ranchman for whom the town was named, the site of the future "Oil City of Texas." They, with the assistance of M. Lasker of Galveston, and others, built the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroad from Wichita Falls to Burkburnett. This road, now a branch of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas system, extends into Oklahoma as far as Forgan.

The early history of the Burkburnett section so far as local records show, starts about 1861 and at that time was made up mostly of Kiowa and Comanche raids on the scattered white settlements. The Indians, coming in from Oklahoma, ran off the horses and cattle, killed and scalped the white men and carried off the women and children for ransom, returning to what was then Indian territory, across the Red river which runs by three miles north of the present site of Burkburnett.

Among the oldest settlers of the section were H. C. Akers, D. P. McCracken, J. G. Hardin and S. P. Hawkins. In 1882, Burk Burnett and Dan Waggoner were the big landowners in Wichita county, Burnett having acquired 17,000 acres of land, including the site of the town later to bear his name, while Waggoner owned more than 100,000 acres of land around Electra and beyond. Shortly before 1907, Kemp and Kell bought out Burk Burnett and immediately began development of the Burkburnett townsite and the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroad.

First Burkburnett Lots Sold June 6, 1907

JUNE 6, 1907 was the first big day for Burkburnett. That was the beginning of the town. January 1, 1912 was the next big day. It was on this date that the Magnolia Petroleum company began drilling for oil on the Chris Schmoker farm, three and one-half miles southwest of Burkburnett. The Schmoker No. 1 as the well was called came in as a producer on June 24, 1912 at a depth of 1838 feet. Numerous other small producers were found during the next few years but the big smash came on July 26, 1918, when the Fowler well on the S. L. Fowler farm, just north of Burkburnett, came in as a 7,500-barrel gusher.

This was the signal for the big oil boom, the greatest Texas had known since the coming in of the Spindle Top field at Beaumont, and now being re-enacted in the great Borger field above Amarillo.

So much for the Burkburnett of another day.

Burkburnett Today A Thriving City

BURKBURNETT today, a city of 6,000, has a population of more than 15,000 in its immediate trade territory. Property values in the city are set at $3,000,000, bank deposits amount to $1,500,000, while the monthly payroll for industrial and oil field employes totals $150,000, or more than $1,750,000 per year.

Burkburnett, which operates under the commission-manager form of government has three banks, six churches and a total of 125 business institutions. There are three ward schools and one high school with a scholastic census of 1,800. There are seven operating refineries here in Burkburnett and fourteen casing head gasoline plants. Three gins handle the cotton crop, this year estimated at 4,000 bales, and in 1925 amounting to 5,000 bales. Two oil field machinery factories are located here, operating on full shifts. Two grain elevators here handled about 100 cars of wheat this year.

Another index to the prosperity of Burkburnett is the total of carload freight shipments during the last year. This total during the last twelve months amounted to 16,000 cars, of which 10,000 cars were oil and oil products. According to officials of the Katy railroad, Burkburnett handles more freight than any other city in Texas of its size.

The modern Burkburnett is a city of paved streets, of substantial business buildings, handsome dwellings and prosperous business establishments. Two things strike the casual visitor to Burkburnett immediately. One of these is the splendid physical plant of the Burkburnett school system. Substantial buildings have been erected by bond issues based on a valuation of $6,000,000 for the Burkburnett independent school system.

The other striking fact about Burkburnett is the presence of oil derricks in the backyards of many homes of the city. One is tempted to paraphrase a commonly known soap advertising slogan and pause to remark to the passing Burkburnettian (if that's what he's called) and ask:

"Have you a little oil well in your home?"

And for many of those in Burkburnett these little backyard oil wells have proven the fairy with the golden wand that brought wealth and independence.

Giant Free Bridge Across Red River To Bring Progress

BUT all is not oil that's at Burkburnett. There is no denying the chief income of the community comes from the great pool of petroleum first tapped in 1912.

However, for miles around Burkburnett there lie scores of fertile farms producing cotton, wheat, maize, fine-blooded stock, turkeys and chickens, and fat hogs. Burkburnett folks still have oil in their eyes, they can't help it with a producing field in their backyards, but the business men are looking too to the development of the farming territory. Much of Burkburnett's business, estimates place it as high as 35 per cent, comes from the farming territory just across the Red river in Oklahoma. And therein lies the boon for Burkburnett of the great interstate free bridge across the Red river on which construction work was started last August and which is to be completed some time in 1927, according to present plans.

On the completion of this free bridge which is to cost $229,000 to complete, Burkburnett business leaders are pinning their hope for the next gain for their city. It is their estimate that this bridge, when opened to service, will bring an increase of at least 25 per cent in the business of the city.

Texas-Oklahoma Free Bridge Is Next

THE Texas-Oklahoma free bridge which is now under construction at Burkburnett is to be a structure three thousand feet in length. Seventy-three bents, each measuring forty feet and six inches, will compose the main portion of the bridge. In addition the approaches on each end will add several hundred more feet to the great man-made structure which will span the Red river where once the Indian and the traveling white emigrant was forced to ford through dangerous water and quicksand.

The bridge is being built by the Austin Bridge company with W. C. Lasater as superintendent in charge of the work. Of the total structure 310 feet is being built with funds of the Texas state highway department. Fifty per cent of the balance is being paid for out of federal aid for the states of Texas and Oklahoma while the other 50 per cent is being paid for by Wichita county.

Norris and State Gird For Finish Fight

J. Frank Norris, His Wife and "Man Friday"

Mrs. J. Frank Norris, left, wife of the defendant fundamentalist pastor of the Fort Worth First Baptist church, who is standing by her husband through the thick and thin of his approaching trial on charge of murder in connection with the slaying of D. E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman. At the right is Rev. Dr. Norris, in the doorway of the First Baptist church, and at his right is J. J. Mickle, Norris' publicity agent, called Norris' "Good Man Friday." Mickle is the one who makes it possible or impossible to get interviews with Norris and edits his Search Light. He will be one of the important witnesses for the defense in the murder trial starting Monday.

Mystery Witness

CARL GLAZE, AGED 12

What does he know? Carl is said to have seen the killing of D. E. Chipps by Rev. J. Frank Norris. Yet he is a mystery witness. He has been closely guarded by the state and it is anticipated he will be the important witness for the prosecution at the trial of Norris for murder starting in Fort Worth Monday.

The Center Of Controversy

Mayor Meacham (left) of Fort Worth, over whom the controversy which ended in the killing of D. E. Chipps is said to have centered; and (right) City Manager O. E. Ft. Worth Pastor Must Answer For Slaying of D. E. Chipps In Church

FORT WORTH, Oct. 30.—"I'm sorry I had to do it—I thought my life was in danger and I shot him."

This is Rev. J. Frank Norris' excuse, in substance, for shooting to death D. E. Chipps, wealthy Fort Worth lumberman, in the pastor's study last July. The pastor must face a jury of his peers Monday in criminal district court. There he must give an account of why he took the life of his fellow man.

Norris is confident that he did not violate the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," when he pulled the trigger that sent the leaden bullet into the heart of D. E. Chipps, rendering his wife a widow and his son an orphan.

Claims He is Justified

"Justified," is the pastor's plea.

"I've the same right of any other man," he declares. "The fact that I'm pastor does not mean that I don't have the right of any other man. If a bootlegger had shot down a person in his establishment under like or similar circumstances he would not have been indicted. But I'm a pastor. I must face trial. But I'll be able to establish my innocence on the charge of murder."

Norris contends that he did all he could do to avoid killing Chipps. A statement issued recently by his church gave Biblical quotations in an attempt to show that the pastor was justified in defending himself providing that is what he did.

"I had a telephone call," Dr. Norris said, soon after killing, "from a man who said he was D. E. Chipps. I did not know him personally. As far as I know I had never seen him before. I certainly had never mentioned him in any of my sermons. He told me that he resented certain remarks, which I had made about Mayor Meacham and other friends of his. He said that he was coming up to my study to kill me. I asked him not to come. I told him I did not want to have any trouble. He cursed me and again threatened to kill me.

He Tells His Story

"I hung up the receiver and picked up my sermon notes. I was preparing my sermon for the next Sunday. Soon Mr. Chipps arrived. He was angry.

"He told me he had just telephoned me and that he had come up to my office to kill me as he said he was going to.

"'I don't want to have any trouble out of you,' I told him. I took him by the arm and led him to the door of the office and told him to leave. I started back to my desk. He followed. He stood before me and declared: 'I repeat everything I have called you; all that I have said about you and I'm going to kill you.' I thought he meant it. He made a move toward his hip pocket. I did not want to be shot down like a dog. I reached into the drawer of my desk, got a pistol which had been left there by the night watchman and fired.

"I'm sorry I had to do it. I was defending myself. "I thought he was going to kill me."

"I had to do it, chief," said Norris when arrested by Chief of Police Lee. "A man has to defend himself."

Mayor Meacham, the man who said he was going to. Chipps defended in his visit to the pastor said recently that Chipps had spoken to him about the way Norris had attacked him in his sermons.

'Poor Old Chipps.'

"Poor old Chipps," said Meacham. "He was a good friend of mine but I did not know he was taking things so seriously."

The mayor will be one of the main witnesses. He has been subpoenaed by state and defense. The defense will attempt to prove by him that Chipps had hatred in his heart for Norris. The state is counting on the mayor to prove that he did not ever think Chipps would harm Norris and that he had not heard Chipps threaten to harm the pastor.

The Washtub Song.

An old washtub has been worked overtime at First Baptist church of Fort Worth, where Rev. J. Frank Norris is pastor.

Norris goes to trial Monday for killing D. E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman. The old washtub will help defend him. It held a part of the fish that will pay defense attorneys.

When the tub was placed near the entrance to the church auditorium a crowd that filled the building was asked to make gifts to help defray the pastor. Children, some of them no more than 3 years of age, rushed to the washtub and deposited their pennies. Grayhaired women, too, passed their nickels to give what they could afford the pastor. Some of the workers, plain as $100. At the end of the collection the total given was $11,400. The following Sunday $2,000 was given in cash.

"I'm not afraid to let the world know who donates to the fund to defend me. I just wonder if the other side will tell who donated to the fund that employed the special prosecutor,' said the pastor. "I'll be here long after those on the other side have left the city."

Services as Usual.

The filing of the murder charge against Rev. J. Frank Norris, slayer of D. E. Chipps, has not interferred with his services at the church. The killing was on a Saturday. The following day Norris occupied the pulpit at the service. He preached old-fashioned sermons based on the Bible. They were free of sensationalism which often characterized the pastor's words. No reference was made to the slaying of the lumberman. Packed houses were present. The sermons were broadcast over the First Baptist church radio.

The public anxiously waited to see if Norris would continue to serve the church pending trial. He decided to go right ahead. He announced a county-wide revival which took him into nearly every rural district in the county. Large crowds heard him.

"I'm elated with the results," Norris said recently. "I've preached to the multitudes. Many who never before were for me heard my messages and have personally come to me and said, 'Norris, I'm for you. I used to be against you but I didn't have any reason nor right to be.'"

Next came the announcement that Norris' church would conduct daily prayer services; for 30 days before the trial. Persons who had loved ones, who were in distress were permitted to be asked to be remembered in the prayers.

Norris has filled his pulpit every Sunday since the killing last July. He had made no direct reference to Chipps but often his words were such as could make the audience believe he was thinking of the difficulty that brought the murder charge to him.

Norris, his friends say, believes that he will be cleared without any delay. He once said that he had the same right to defend himself; that his case was one of clear self-denfense. But the prosecution will attack his claims.

He Was Not Armed.

"Chipps was not armed—why did he go to the pastor's study to kill him when he had no weapon?" is the question echoed back from the prosecution.

On the other hand, Norris' attorneys will attempt to present evidence that will show that Norris had a right to fear his life was in danger.

Norris will occupy the pulpit on the Sunday following the opening of the trial, as those who are connected with the case forecast that it will last at least two weeks and probably three. Norris, since the killing, has been at liberty on $10,000 bonds.

The Rev. J. Frank Norris' murder trial will probably last as long as two weeks. It is scheduled to open Monday at Fort Worth.

Those connected with the case believe that it will take at least a week to secure a jury. It will require from five to 10 days to present the evidence, judging from the large number of witnesses called. Two or three days will be taken up in preparation of the charge to the jury and arguments.

500 Men Summoned.

Five hundred men have been summoned as a special venire. Many of these are expected to disqualify because of prejudice in favor of or against the pastor. This is even admitted by the defense.

During his pastorate in Fort Worth, Norris has been the storm center of many a verbal attack. He knows this. And he admits that during these attacks he has gained many friends and has annexed many enemies.

This will make it difficult for the jury to be chosen. But, despite this, defense and prosecuting attorneys say that no attempt will be made to obtain a change of venue.

Norris is known state wide. His connections with the Baptist church and his fundamentalism drive has gained national as well as state wide attention. The killing of Chipps by a pastor has been widely read in Texas. That would make it difficult to obtain a jury in any Texas county. Therefore, the state and defense attorneys agree that it will be as easy to try the case here as most any other place. And because of the length of the trial they want the hearing at home.

To Admit Prior Events.

Possibility that the case may be cut short is decreasing. The report that only actual events prior to the killing will be admitted have been denied. There are many events in connection with the life of Norris and Chipps that the jury will hear about.

What was the cause of the killing of D. E. Chipps by Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist pastor?

In this story an attempt will be made to present interesting and intimate details that led up to the fatal shooting. Whether or not some of them had an actual bearing on the killing will of course be left up to the jury.

Norris is a stanch fighter of Catholicism. He in a sermon against the city administration including certain members of the city council and City Manager O. E. Carr made certain charges. He questioned the advisability of Mayor Meacham as head of the city council paying a large sum of money to the Catholic church for right-of-way so that a street could be widened and straightened. This street, Norris pointed out, led to the mayor's department store.

Charges Against Meacham

Later in a sermon Norris charged that Meacham had called eight of his salesladies before him and gave this demand:

"Resign as an employe of mine or give up your membership in the First Baptist church of which Frank Norris is pastor."

Two of the girls gave up the church membership. The other six left the store and reported to Norris, who found for them other position. This gave Norris more material for a sermon, and incidentally, an attack on Mayor Meacham. He preached this sermon before thousands of people at an open air meeting. The account of the sermon was carried in full in Norris' weekly paper the Searchlight.

Chipps did not attend the church services. But he did buy a copy of the Searchlight. He read what the pastor had said about his friend, Mayor Meacham. Chipps went to the pastor's study to protest. He first telephoned to see that Norris was in. Norris contends that Chipps threatened to kill him, and believing his life was in danger, he shot him. Norris was preparing a sermon when Chipps entered, he stated.

Hosey but 38 Years

Judge George E. Hosey, who will sit on the bench in the Rev. J. Frank Norris trial, is a veteran on the Texas bench, although only about 38 years of age. He was first appointed district judge by former Governor James E. Ferguson. He has since been elected three times for terms of four years each.

While on the bench Hosey has passed sentences upon hundreds of persons for practically every felony on the Texas statute. He has sentenced several men to die — some of whom never paid the supreme price because of gubernatorial intervention.

Incidentally, Judge Hosey was assistant county attorney when the pastor was indicted several years ago for ransom. Hosey as prosecutor led the grand jury investigation that resulted with the indictment. His connection with the arson case in which the pastor was acquitted, however, will not likely enter into the murder case. There will be no step taken to disqualify him. Those connected with the case, both state and defense, admit that Hosey probably knows as much law as any Texas district judge and that he attempts to administer it as fairly as any of them.

Crowds No Small Problem

Handling the crowds at the Rev. J. Frank Norris murder trial will be no small problem. The criminal district courtroom can only seat about 500, including the seats in the balcony. Probably as many as 100 can stand.

Attempts will be made to have the isles kept clear because of the large staff of attorneys on each side and the many witnesses summoned.

Judge Hosey will forbid lunches being brought into the courtroom which has been done in some Tarrant county courts by spectators during sensational cases. At noon each day he will order the courtroom cleared. The doors will be locked. When court reconvenes for the afternoon the spectators will be permitted to re-enter.

A large corridor which adjoins the main entrance to the courtroom probably will permit as many as 50 to 100 persons to hear a part of the trial.

The courtroom has often been filled to capacity when cases were tried that did not demand half the attention that the Norris case has demanded. This means that the Norris case will be heard by capacity crowds at every moment and that thousands of persons will be turned away.

Hard to Gain Entrance

During one murder trial here the crowd was so large that Judge Hosey could not conveniently gain entrance to his courtroom. The result was that a ladder was placed up to the window of the courtroom and he climbed in, followed by the court reporter and attorneys. The ladder may be brought out again in the Norris trial.

For years, Rev. J. Frank Norris has been the storm center of numerous attacks in this and adjoining counties. Several Baptist county conventions have opposed seating his delegates. But usually the pastor was victorious in his fight.

Several addresses made by the pastor aroused attention before the Tarrant County Pastors' association. He criticized severely those who about six years ago opposed Evangelist Billy Sunday conducting a six-week campaign in Fort Worth. Norris fought for the evangelist to come here. Finally it was decided that Billy could preach here and his six-week campaign in Fort Worth resulted.

His national fight for fundamentalism gained for him recognition in some of the leading newspapers and magazines of the country. Norris often held conferences with the late William Jennings Bryan on the fundamentalist movement.

He Always Capitalizes.

Norris usually made capital out of his difficulties. A word battle before a bunch of pastors was enough to "fill my church the next Sunday," he once stated. At one meeting held several years ago several other pastors were rather severe in their criticism of a stand taken by Norris.

At the conclusion of the meeting Norris called a newspaper reporter off to one side. The reporter was expecting to hear Norris ask that no mention be made of the criticism aimed at him. But not so. "Publish it all," was Norris' request. "Quote what they said about me. It will fill my church next Sunday."

One of the most recent controversies in which Rev. Mr. Norris engaged—and he has engaged in many during his pastorate in Fort Worth—was when he declared he would speak on the steps of the central high school despite the ruling of the board of education that he could not use the school for this purpose.

"They use my auditorium for commencements," said Norris. "I let them hold school conventions there. They are welcome to my building. They ought to let me preach the Bible from the public school house steps. I won't say anything that will hurt education. I'll just preach the work of God."

"But not so," was the echo of the school board.

The board even transferred the next commencement exercises from Norris' church to the First Methodist church. But the latter building was not large enough to accommodate the crowd and the audience, as well as those who were waiting outside, were directed to go to the larger auditorium and at the Norris church.

He Begins Meetings.

Three days later was the date Norris had set for holding the meeting on central high steps. The day after the commencement exercises he received a letter from a woman living across the street from the school. It stated that her mother was seriously ill and that the defense states, that she heard Chipps tell Norris that:

"This is D. E. Chipps—I resent what you said in your sermon about my friend, Mayor Meacham, and I'm coming down there to kill you."

If such took place, Norris was placed on guard for the visitor, whom he had never before seen. He will attempt to plead to the jury that he received the threats—that he believed Chipps was angry enough to shoot him and that he therefore shot in self defense.

Ku Klux No Issue

There is not much possibility that any issue regarding the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan will enter into the trial of Rev. J. Frank Norris, charged with killing D. E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman.

This is true despite certain events that occurred soon after the killing. Soon after Chipps was slain a statement was issued by Lloyd P. Bloodworth, grand dragon of the klan in Texas.

"Rev. Mr. Norris is my personal friend and I intend to do all I can for him," Bloodworth said.

Some took his statement to believe that Bloodworth might call on the klan to help the pastor. A close friend of the pastor's later declared that Bloodworth made the statement from a personal standpoint and that it had no refence to the klan as an organization.

Attorneys on each side of the case represent klan membership.

Mrs. Bess Williams, women's klan organizer, was mentioned prominently in Norris' stories recently, but again friends of Norris said the klan issue would not in any way enter the case. She was present when the "mystery witness," a 12-year-old boy, made his second statement, which was said to be favorable to the pastor. The grand jury summoned Mrs. Williams to determine if any duress or persuasion had anything to do with the statement. However, she did not testify, though she volunteered to do so.

Calls Off His Trip

Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of First Baptist church, called off his proposed New York revival soon after he shot and killed D. E. Chipps.

"I'm going to conduct a Tarrant county revival and stay at home," he said at the time. This was the only engagement the pastor cancelled after the shooting. He attended to all his regular services as well as his special revival services.

Dispatches from the First Baptist church at New York which was to sponsor the revival in the metropolis, said that Norris would be asked to cancel his engagement there if certain reports regarding the killing were true. Norris' cancellation soon followed.

The grand jury that indicted Rev. J. Frank Norris probed the killing of D. E. Chipps for one week before it voted a true bill.

During the investigation church officials supporting Norris issued a statement that an indictment was inevitable; that the majority of the members of the grand jury were Catholics and opposed to Norris' attack on Catholicism; that the grand jury went into session determined to indict.

A statement by the prosecution pointed out that the grand jury was chosen before the killing and that at the time it was chosen no thought had been given to any kind of a probe that would involve Rev. Mr. Norris.

Prayers to be Uttered

While Rev. J. Frank Norris is on trial for murder thousands of prayers will be said for him. Appeal for prayer in his behalf has been given his church membership and repeated over the First Baptist church radio.

The so-called "mystery witness" may and may not have an important bearing on the Rev. J. Frank Norris murder trial, which opens Monday at Fort Worth.

The witness is 12-year-old Carl Glaze. J. R. Nutt, national bank auditor and close friend and trustee of the pastor, was thought at first to be the only eye witness to the slaying of D. E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman.

Reports leaked out that a "mystery witness" was yet to be found; that he saw the killing and that he might give a different and new version of facts that lead up to the shooting.

Finally Carl let it be known that it was he who was said to be present.

"I had gone to Dr. Norris study to deliver a letter and that's how come me to be there when the shooting occurred," said Carl, "but I'm willing to tell my story."

Carl gave a signed statement in the presence of his mother and prosecuting attorneys.

Later Mrs. Bess Williams called at Carl's home. She employed Carl to help her at her store after school hours. Soon after that Carl was called into Mrs. Williams' home where he met five representatives of Rev. Mr. Norris' church. He was asked to again tell of what he knew concerning the trial. He gave a statement which Rev. Mr. Norris declared to be "favorable to the defense." The first statement was said to be "favorable to the state."

Grand Jury Probed.

Grand jury investigation of the second statement was planned. Mrs. Williams was summoned to determine if any person had persuaded the youth to make the second statement. However, she was never used although she was willing to testify. The matter was dropped.

And as the case now stands two statements were issued by the "mystery witness."

"I don't know what Carl said in his second statement but I believe his first statement was true. That's the story he told me and I know he will stick to it when the case comes to trial."

But if the state uses its statement, the defense will come back with the second statement. This situation may result in the "mystery witness" remaining a "mystery witness" as far as the case is concerned. He may never even be called. Each side is afraid of the other in this respect. Neither has seen the other's statement. All they have done is what the youth said. And this may not be sufficient to justify him being placed on the stand.

The youth claimed to have been near Rev. Mr. Norris a the time the shots were fired.

Auditor Nutt in his version of the killing gave a statement similar to the one issued by his friend, the pastor. He told how he said that Chipps had cursed the pastor; threatened to kill him for attacking his friends in his sermons; that Norris had lead him from his study in an attempt to avoid trouble, and that Chipps returned cursing, and threatening and that the pastor then shot in defense of self.

Carl, since giving out his second statement, has remained silent.

"No more statements," is the word from his mother. And Carl is obeying.

Both Sides Are Ready.

"Ready!"

This word is expected to come from the state and defense when the Rev. J. Frank Norris murder trial is called Monday morning at 9 o'clock at Fort Worth.

Both sides admit that this is as good as any time to try the case. District Attorney Hanger for various reasons does not want to go out of office with this case—the most sensational during his administration—still on the docket.

Special prosecutors have been employed. They are paid to prosecute. They want the case to be heard immediately—the sooner the better.

Defense attorneys realize that the public demands the eventual trial of a pastor charged with murder. Even friends of the pastor say that he should be tried—cleared if innocent of murder and convicted if guilty.

With this state of affairs existing and with all witnesses now at hand, this appears to be the logical time for the trial to open. And unless the unforseen occurs, the selection of a jury will begin with all its tediousness Monday morning.

During his trial for the killing of D. E. Chipps, Rev. J. Frank Norris will be at liberty. He has never seen the prison bars since the killing. Immediately after Chipps was slain he was given liberty. Many persons volunteered to go his bail.

Millions on His Bond.

Those who actually signed the bond have holdings with a total value of several million dollars. Several attorneys volunteered to serve the pastor without pay. Their offers were rejected. The attorneys in the case were chosen by the pastor and are being paid for their services. Mrs. D. E. Chipps, widow of the slain man, is helping pay McLean, Scott and Sayers, special prosecutors.

National interest centers on the Rev. J. Frank Norris murder trial, which is scheduled to open Monday morning at Fort Worth. Norris' nationwide fight for fundamentalism, his trial for arson in which he was acquitted, and other sensational events connected with his pastorate are responsible for this.

News associations already have made reservations for correspondents, as it is expected that space in the criminal district courtroom will be at a premium.

At least 30 newspaper men from other points will be here, out-of-town witnesses will number no less than 20 and other visitors will, conservatively, number 100, including magazine writers ministers, fundamentalist leaders, scientists, trial fans and many other classes. If each visitor spends $10 a day, this will mean $1,500 a day; a 30-day trial will mean $45,000.

In addition to the expense of transcients, there will be the cost to the state, estimated at from $100 to $200 a day during the trial. Telegraph toll charges will cost newspapers a minimum of $300 a day. The total expense to newspapers for handling the Norris trial story in all its details is estimated at a minimum of $1,000 a day.
