COLLISION AT CHICAGO FATAL

Californian Falls Into Residence With Companion

By the Associated Press.
In the brief space of a few hours
at least 14 persons plunged to their deaths yesterday in five geographically widely separated airplane
accidents.

Six persons perished when a passenger plane crashed and burned between Merrion and Thorold, Ont.

Four died in an air collision over Chicago.

Two were killed at Berkeley, Calif.,
when a plane took fire in the air and
crashed into a house.

A young woman tyro-parachute
jumper died at Wichita, when the apparatus failed to function.

Near Minneapolis the pilot of a
plane was killed when he lost control
of it and made an unsuccessful parachute jump.

Twelve passengers in a tri-motored
plane from Denver which took the occupants to McCook, Neb., to attend
an air meet barely escaped possible
death or injury in a forced landing in a rough field near McCook. The ship
was almost wrecked.

L. V. Rex of Portland, Ore., was seriously injured at Medford, Ore., when an airplane piloted by W. H. Muirhead crashed. The pilot was not hurt.
The crash occurred when the craft
struck a power line.

Planes Fall Together
CHICAGO, Sept. 14. (P)—Two airplanes collided at an altitude of 800
feet here tonight, carrying four persons
to their deaths.

The dead included both pilots and a passenger in each plane. They were dead before rescuers reached the wreckage.

The dead were identified as:

Pilot Walter Meyers, licensed flyer.
Mrs. Benjamin Bird, his passenger
and sister of the owner of his plane.
Pilot Charles Krone, an unlicensed
pilot.

William Johnson, Deerfield, Ill., his passenger.

As the planes neared each other,
Meyers, apparently sensing the danger, endeavored to maneuver away
from the other plane. He tried to sidestep Crone's ship, but was unsuccessful.

Crone, seen by witnesses to be working frantically to prevent the collision,
almost had his ship clear but the wing
dipped slightly just when it appeared
the pilots would be successful in their efforts to save their lives.

The tip of the lower of Crone's plane
brushed the top wing of Meyers' ship
and the two dropped.

Student Pilot Crashes
OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 14. (P)—Two men were killed late today when the airplane, in which they were flying fell
into a tail spin, took fire in the air,
and crashed into the residence of C.
E. Gillman in Berkeley.

Carson County Well Setting New Mark in Area

Deepening 6 feet to a reported
total depth of 3258 has stimulated a Carson county well to far the largest
production in its vicinity.

Osborne et al's No. 2 Percival, 330
feet N and W. in the southeast corner of the east one-half of section 199, block 3, I. & G. N. survey, Carson county, last night was said to be flowing 1,500 barrels per day.

Although not a wildcat, it was
drilled in smaller production territory, and the heavy flow created more
than ordinary interest among oil men.

BUILDING TOTAL FOR WEEK GOES UP TO $8,800

Building permits for the week totaled $8,800, indicating a slight gain over
last week, with four new residences
on the city building-inspector's books.
The total for the year now is $1,090-895.

John V. Andrews is building a new residence costing 2,000 in the Crawford addition; F. W. Byrd is erecting a $3,000 residence in the Alexander addition; C. L. Grimes is building a $2-800 home in the Brown addition; and
C. O. Seeds is erecting a residence costing $1,000.

John Lee Harris in Auto Collision

John Lee Harris and his brother
Jack were badly shaken up in a collision in California, where they were visiting, early this week. Their automobile was badly damaged.

Mr. Harris is assistant pastor of the First Baptist church of this city. He was in California on his vacation, accompanied by his mother and brother.
It was said that the party was struck
by an automobile driven by a drunken man.

According to information received
here, it will take at least seven days
to repair the Harris automobile driven by the Harris.

Rev. Harris is expected home in a few days.

MR. MERTEN VERY ILL

W. W. Merten, who underwent an operation for appendicitis a week ago,
last night was in a critical condition,
according to members of his family. He is a patient in Pampa hospital.

CLARENDON YOUTH HERE

Sam Phillips Braswell of Clarendon
is spending a few days with friends
here before returning to Austin to enter the University of Texas.

Cold Wave Brings Welfare Society Request for Children's Clothing

An urgent need for children's clothing continues at headquarters of the Pampa Welfare association, according to Mrs. M. P. Downs, welfare nurse, who issued a second appeal yesterday
for donations. In spite of some recent gifts, she said, the supply is rapidly dwindling. Meanwhile, with
the weather growing colder day by day,
the demand is becoming greater. Actual suffering from want of sufficient clothing will follow for many of the less fortunate children of the community, Mrs. Downs said, unless there is a supply to be had from the Welfare
association.

She asked that every mother in the city "take stock" of the family wardrobe and send to the association any
wearable clothing that is not in use.
Donations through the Welfare service not only would enable the very poor children to attend school in a degree of comfort, but would, in many cases, prevent suffering. There is, of course, a need for all sorts of garments for men, women, and children,
but the demand for the latter is more
pressing just now.

MEN TRAILED BY CARS WHEN LAST SIGHTED

More Violence Feared
in Textile Area Trouble

MOB ACTIVITY UNDER PROBE

Identity of Members Is Denied at Hearing

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 14. (P)—
Reports that William Dunn, secretary
of the communist party in America,
and Hugo Gehler, southern organizer
for the national textile workers' union,
were missing reached persons connected with the two organizations here tonight. The last seen of them, it was said, was when they entered a taxicab
in South Gastonia this afternoon a few minutes after Liston M. Oak was arrested.

Friends of the two men said that when Dunn and Gehler entered the
cab and drove away three cars loaded with men followed them. They feared the men may have been kidnaped.

All officials of the communist and
national textile workers' union in this section except Dunn and Gehler, it was said, had been accounted for late tonight.

Inquiry Under Way

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 14. (P)—
The inquiry here into the Gastonia
anti-communist mob by Judge Thomas J. Shaw was recessed for the weekend this afternoon after the defense
had begun its efforts to disprove statements by state witnesses as to the identity of mob members.

At the same time, the eight communists and union members arrested
here Thursday night and charged with attempting to overthrow the government by dissemination of Communist
doctrines, were released on $1,000 bond
after Judge E. MC A. Currie, city recorder, had continued the case against them until Monday.

Solicitor Appears

The feature of the day's proceedings
in Judge Shaw's inquiry was the appearance as the opening state witness of Solicitor John G. Carpenter, who with Judge Shaw is conducting the investigation in open court.

The solicitor, together with Major
A. L. Bulwinkle, former congressman, were called to the witness stand to deny the statement of C. D. Saylor,
one of the three men kidnaped from the Gastonia rooming house, that he had seen them in the crowd that gathered
outside the house Monday night.
Saylor, Ben Wells and C. M. Lell,
were taken from the house into Cabar-
rus county, more than 40 miles distant,
where Wells was beaten.

Six Persons Are Hurt in Collision Friday Evening

A head-on collision of two automobiles painfully injured six persons and demolished two cars Friday night in an accident which occurred about 11
o'clock in front of the Schaffer hotel
on West Foster avenue.

Miss Leona Robertson of Fitzgerald
court and George Gill suffered the most severe injuries. Miss Robertson,
who was riding in a car with C. E.
Lawrence and Welby Duvall, suffered
abrasions and bruises on the knees,
elbows and face. Her shoulder was wrenched. No bones were broken.

Mr. Gill was painfully lacerated on the forehead, about the nose, and on the cheeks. He also sustained body bruises. Both were taken to a local hospital immediately following the collision, but were removed today to their homes.

Lawrence and Duvall suffered scalp
and face wounds. Mr. A. Graham was also slightly injured. Mrs. Gill, who was riding in the car was the only one who escaped uninjured. Mr. Graham was in the car with Mr. and Mrs. Gill.

Dimmitt Man Is Winner of Oldtime Fiddlers' Contest

Playing "Turkey in the Straw" and
"Chicken Reel" with a flying fingers
and a bow that flashed like lightning,
Milt Trout of Dimmitt won first prize
of $20 in the Pla-Mor's second annual old fiddlers' contest last night. The auditorium was crowded with Pam-pans, Gray county people, and many
who had come from a dozen towns in the Panhandle.

Second prize of $15 was won by Pat Honaker of Amarillo. Other prizes
were won as follows: Third, Zeke Welchel, $10, Amarillo; fourth, $5, Will Wilden of Hedley; fifth, $3, Babe
Heaton, Canadian; sixth, $2, W. C.
Reeves, Lelia Lake. Will Walden won
a gold watch, prize for the best all-
around fiddler.

Entries were as follows: Pat Hoha-
ker, Amarillo; A. F. Burns, Panhandle; Will Walden, Hedley; H. D. Jones,
Pampa; T. C. Heaton, Canadian; R.
D. Alexander, California; Milt Trout,
Dimmitt; W. C. Reeves, Lelia Lake;
Babe Heaton, Canadian; B. E. Cau-dill, Sentinal, Okla.; Wm. Eckles, California, Tex.; Mel Roger, Pampa; Zeke Welchel, Amarillo.

At the close of the contest, the fiddlers played selections requested by the audience. Only native American tunes
were played in the contest and these were played "by ear."

Dr. W. Y. Pond to Preach Tonight

Dr. W. Y. Pond, Baptist evangelist,
will speak tonight at the First Baptist church. Rev. Pond will arrive in Pampa this afternoon.

He has been conducting a meeting
in Stinnett. Dr. Pond held a meeting
here last winter.

Presbytery to Meet

The Amarillo Presbytery, Presbyterian church, U. S. A., will convene next Wednesday evening at the Central Presbyterian church of Amarillo, for
a series of programs and conferences
which will continue through Thursday.

Dr. J. H. Burns, president of Trinity university, Waco, Tex., will deliver an address at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. The Rev. A. A. Hyde, pastor
of the Pampa church, will attend the meeting.

Canyon Visitor Here

Miss Jettie Mae Barber of Canyon
was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harrah yesterday. She was a teacher last year in the Pampa schools.

OIL PRODUCTION UNDER DECLINE IN GRAY AREA

Daily Total of Last Week Is 2,413
Barrels

SOME WELLS IN PAY TOO LATE

Wildcat Near LeFors Is Promising Field
Extension

Caught in a natural decline from
initial production, Gray county's crude oil total dropped sharply during the last week and brought the area below
the major field point. The total daily production for the week was 2,413
barrels, or a loss of 7,618 barrels compared with the previous week.

New production came too late to show up much in this week's compilation. The Texas company's No. 3 Shaw, section 5, block 1, had an initial production at 2,700 feet of 1,314 barrels,
but settled to 900 barrels.

McMann Oil and Gas company's No.
4 Palmer, section 31, block B-2, flowed
350 barrels, initial, while the No. 5 Palmer of the same company was swab-
bing 100 barrels daily at 2,937 feet.

Adams No. 1 Morse in section 3, block 26, produced 300 barrels daily after being drilled 14 feet deeper.

Wilcox-Pampa's No. 9 Coombs-Wor- ley, section 35, block 3, is spraying 300 barrels daily at 2,915 feet.

An important wildcat test, P. A.
Tharp No. 1 Finley in the B. E. Chaney survey about 2 miles north of LeFors, was shut Friday with 140 quarts. After being swabbed a few hours it was reported to have made 60 barrels in a two-hour period. No report was available yesterday.

Delaney and associates' No. 8 Jackson
in section 88, block B-2, struck 25,000-000 cubic feet of gas at 2,980 feet and
was preparing to drill ahead into pay.
McCollom et al's No. 1 J. F. Meers
was flowing oil after he bit, sending a
spray high into the derrick, as the well
was being drilled ahead. First pay was encountered at 3,110 feet, and is estimated good for 150 barrels or more,
although the major strata is at about 3,315 feet.

Half a dozen or more wells now on top of pay are expected "in" during the coming week.

Wells and production by counties:
Carson—185 wells producing 9,370
barrels, a loss of 306 barrels.

Gray—447 wells producing 92,413 barrels, a loss of 7,618 barrels.

Hutchinson—985 wells producing 24-
614 barrels, a loss of 815 barrels.

Moore—18 wells producing 996 barrels
a gain of 154 barrels.

Potter—off.

Wheeler—38 wells producing 670 bar-
rels, a loss of 197 barrels.

Total—1,674 wells producing 128,063
barrels, a loss of 8,634 barrels.

Supt. Hessey Will Visit His Schools

Beginning Monday, Supt. J. B. Hes-sey will make an inspection tour of the schools of Gray county, which will require a week. Mr. Hessey says that the enrollment in Gray county schools
will grow 1,000 that of any other
year during the 1929-30 session.

The number of books issued up to date indicates a large enrollment, and Mr. Hessey expects the actual count
to show an even greater total.

Miss Irma Beth Hinkle of Canyon is visiting her brother, Olin E. Hinkle.

Hansford District Votes $240,000 Paving on No. 117

SPEARMAN, Hansford county,
Sept. 14. (Special)—Road district
No. 1 today voted, 426 to 17, to issue $240,000 in bonds to pave highway No. 117. There was no organized opposition to the proposal.

The bonds will enable Spearman
to connect with the paving that runs through Stinnett, Borger, Panhandle, and Canyon. Ochiltree
county last week voted to issue $700,000 in road bonds, a part of which will be used in paving on this highway. Hutchinson county will vote on Sept. 27 to decide whether
she will complete the paving on this highway to her county limit.

The special road district here is the same as the commissioner's pre-sinct.

PLACING FREE MAIL DELIVERY BOXES IS RAPID

Distinctly optimistic yesterday were postal officials and others interested
in having mail boxes erected for free delivery.

It was estimated that 300 boxes were bought by citizens Friday, and a considerable number Saturday. Excellent cooperation was reported by committees which had been appointed to make a survey of the delivery zones.

The rainy weather postponed work for several days, but now citizens are reported to be making up for lost time.
C. O. Busby, chairman of a Lions club committee appointed to assist in the campaign to get boxes erected, has prepared a map of the free delivery
zones approved by the postal department, and these may be seen at his office in the city hall by citizens who are not sure that they will receive the service.

Free delivery is scheduled to begin October 1 if arrangements can be completed by that time. The postal de- partment has asked that 85 per cent of the mail boxes be erected by tomorrow night. Boxes may be purchased at vari- ety and hardware stores.

Sunday School to Be Begun Today

A Sunday school newly organized by members of the Episcopal church and their pastor, the Rev. J. Hodge Alves,
will be opened at 10 o'clock this morning in the music cottage on Central high school campus, where the organization meets each first and third Sunday for services.

Saturday night a Chevrolet coupe
belonging to M. L. White was stolen from in front of the circus tent. The stolen car is a '29 model, and of a dark blue color. The theft was reported to the city police department, and the sheriff's department.

Sinclair Application for Pardon Disapproved by Attorney General

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14. (P)—The Washington Star will say tomorrow
that Harry Sinclair, oil magnate and his assistant, H. Mason Day, have had their petitions for pardons disapproved
by Attorney General Mitchell and must finish their sentences in the district jail.

Sinclair was not incapacitated from
his duty as jail pharmacist by reason of ill health, the Star will say, adding
that in addition to this plea, Sinclair's
petition asserted that the affairs of stockholders of his companies were likely to suffer if he was forced longer
to remain from active direction.

The story adds "while United States Attorney Leo S. Rorer and district attorney judges Gordon and Siddons, to whom the petition was referred by the department of justice, have declined to comment on their recommendations,
it is understood that two of them were
favorably inclined toward the pardon."

RANGERS SENT TO OIL TOWN BY GOVERNOR

Citizens Raise Cash Fund to Aid in Solution

FUNERAL TO BE AT PANHANDLE

Many Pampans Are to Take Part in Service

BORGER, Sept. 14. (Special)— Aroused as by no other crime in the history of this Panhandle oil
town, Borger business men Saturday were raising a large fund to offer for the arrest and conviction
of the slayer of District Attorney John A. Holmes, who was shot from ambush Friday night. The fund was being taken in cash,
which amounted to $1185 tonight.
Solicitors are to continue their work Monday. The $5,000 expected to be raised will be augmented by $500 offered by Governor Dan Moody and by $800 offered by Hutchinson county.
The slaying of the prosecutor caused an intense feeling of regret, both for the death of the man and because of the attack upon law enforcement.

Mr. Holmes is survived by his widow,
his mother-in-law, Mrs. Donna B.
Greene of Borger; a sister, Mrs. H. P.
Love of Aberdeen, Miss.; and three brothers, T. W. Holmes, Calus, Miss.; Earl Holmes, Indianola, Miss.; and Claude Holmes, somewhere in Mississippi.

Scores of officers from nearby counties today joined local authorities in the search for clues in the slaying. Arrival of Texas Rangers tonight was expected to cause a general conference
of investigators.

Pampa Men Chosen

The funeral for Mr. Holmes will be held at 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon
in Panhandle. The Rev. E. G. Pennington, Plainview; Rev. James Todd, Pamper; Rev. D. H. Truhitt, Pampa; and Rev. J. I. Brimberry, Canadian, will take part. Brief services will be held
then the Masonic order will have charge
of burial.

Active pallbearers: Sheriff E. S.
Graves, Pampa District Attorney Clifford Braly, Pampa; Sheriff Oscar Thorp
Panhandle; Constable Allen Johnson,
Amarillo; Judge H. M. Hood, Stinnett,
Judge W. R. Ewing, Miami.

Honorary pallbearers: Forest Strad-
ley, Borger; E. C. Carver, Borger; Carl McCaslin, Borger; C. L. Upham, Pam-handle; J. T. Buckley, Borger; N. B.
Feinberg, Borger; Judge J. Sid O'Keefe,
Panhandle; J. P. Williams, Wheeler
county; E. R. Tipps, Shamrock; County
Attorney Raymond Allred, Wheeler;

BORGER HAS BROKEN INTO THE HEADLINES again with as dastardly a crime as the Panhandle ever saw. It is strangely foreign to the traditions of the Plains, this gangster method of shooting from ambush.

Johnny Holmes, paid the price for giving the type of vigilance and fearless prosecution that his office demanded. In the parlance of the underworld, he "took the rap" rather than obey demands that he either give up his office or prostitute his position by winking at violations of the law.

The death of a prosecutor should arouse the people of the Plains as no other crime save that of slaying a judge. It is no weakling's job—this task of bringing the criminal to justice. Gangster methods have come to Texas in recent months. In some cases it has seemed that representatives of law and order have quailed before the onslaught of violence, but not men like Johnny Holmes. Dallas juries rose to the occasion and sent half a dozen "bad men" down the trail to Huntsville and the electric chair. Hutchinson county must not do less, and the whole Panhandle should turn the sharpest scrutiny upon its legal system.

As this is written it is not apparent what motive was behind the shooting of the 84th district attorney. Rumors are numerous as Panhandle zephyrs. There is grief and righteous wrath in the hearts of law-abiding citizens. There is gloating in the evil minds of criminals of whatever degree they may be.

Crime has ridden into the Panhandle on the prosperity wave of oil, augmented by the lucrative profession of bootlegging. Not even the smaller cities are exempt, and citizens will tell you that the increase in crime is more on the increase. It behooves none of us to point the finger of accusation at Borger. Who knows but that a similar fiend may stalk into our midst? And who knows but that the sinister influences which prompted the Borger slaying may not have ramifications in other cities, including ours?

It sometimes requires a martyred prosecutor to arouse a populace to the degree of interest and firmness necessary to defeat the schemings of the criminal. Borger has been an outraged host to some of the Southwest's worst criminals. She has opened her jail doors by force of necessity. It will be necessary to extend this sort of hospitality to a great many other "guests". The death of the people's representative at the bar of justice should be a mighty motivating force in Panhandle law enforcement.

THIS PAPER AND THIS COLUMN have been very friendly to aviators and aviation, seeking to show the public that the new industry is achieving a large amount of dependability. This confidence has not been lessened by the several very regrettable accidents which lately have occurred.

It is deemed advisable at this time, however, to suggest that stunting and zooming over the City of Pampa has been carried too far, and should be stopped at once. The writer has noted several examples of the complaints which are growing more frequent here. In many instances planes have been seen to dive within a few feet of chimneys, radio aerials, and telegraph and telephone poles.

The airport is conveniently near the city, and at times it is necessary for a flier to take off over the edge of the residential section. We are not referring to this practice. We mean the deliberate flying within 100 feet or so—or as little as twenty feet—of residences. The identity of the offenders is being investigated by the plane's numbers. Not even the ships of the regular services are exempt. It is to be hoped that it will not be necessary to report any numbers to the U. S. bureau of aeronautics, as a number of persons have threatened to do.

Zooming near residences is sometimes to be prohibited, for several reasons. It is dangerous to the flier. It is a source of danger to residents and property. It is destructive of the peace of mind of those annoyed by both the danger and the noise. It is contrary to good flying practice. It is illegal.

Several farmers have made similar complaints and tell of what seemed to them attempts to determine how close a plane might be flown to a windmill without hitting it. A few persons have avowedly loaded their guns with the intention of using them on the human-birds who trespass in such fashion. But we wish no tragedies.

It may become necessary to commission a local air policeman if conditions do not change. The first move should come from the aviators themselves, however, for they are most interested in preserving good will, and public confidence. The bad boys of aviation do the profession and the business more harm than months of safe flying can remedy.

The weather must be in league with the clothing merchants. Straw hats appeared so unsuitable a few days ago that many persons rushed into fells. But now it is summer again, at least at this writing. We oldtimers were not fooled, however, by Panhandle rains. heroism appears to have been

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—More than 100 war veterans have been awarded medals for heroism in action or distinguished service in the last 16 months which they had given up all hope of ever receiving.

For these medals, it appears, they can thank Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland. And the story, as gathered by your correspondent, runs somewhat as follows:

The War Department, which awards all such medals, closed the awards for World War service in April, 1928. The American Legion began a legislative campaign to reopen them, contending that the Spanish-American and Philippine war veterans in control of the War Department were continuing to load themselves down with distinguished service crosses for actions performed in 1898 or 1900 while World War veterans were allowed to go undecorated. Congress did not create the distinguished service cross until after the World War.

Then, Blease Got Busy
The War Department steadfastly opposed the Legion's efforts and was successful for several years. Then it ran into Senator Cole Blease of South Carolina.

Senator Tydings had received a distinguished service medal for his war heroism and his friends thought he was entitled to a cross, which is a higher award. Tydings had pointed out the unfairness of the War Department general policy on the floor, but was reluctant to do anything that would indicate self-interest on his own part. But Blease decided that Tydings and other veterans were entitled to further recognition and he told Tydings he would get through the reopening legislation.

He did this in the typically Blease manner. A bill came along from the House authorizing hundreds of army, navy and marine officers to accept decorations awarded them by foreign governments. Blease tacked on an amendment providing that all medal recommendations pending before the War Department be considered and the awards made according to merit. Then he announced that he wouldn't let the bill pass without the amendment and that he would block any further medals to foreigners unless "our boys" got theirs. After this typical Blease threat the War Department policy was forgotten by other members as they let the amendment go through.

Tydings was promptly awarded a distinguished service cross in place of his previously awarded medal. His heroism appears to have been real enough. He entered the A. E. F. as a sergeant and left it a lieutenant-colonel, with citations from Pershing and two other generals. In October, 1918, according to the official records, he made two personal reconnaissances of the enemy line with "utter disregard" for his own safety, one of which made possible an important military operation. Tydings also assisted in the capture of three prisoners, a machine gun and a trench mortar.

In the meantime, the War Department has awarded two Congressional medals of honor, 62 distinguished service crosses, 17 distinguished service medals and 53 silver stars. The medal of honor is given for gallantry in action at risk of life above and beyond the call of duty, the cross for extraordinary heroism in action, the medal for exceptionally meritorious duty of great responsibility—not necessarily in action—and the silver star for gallantry in action.

TWINKLES

Twelve hundred and fifty-three people recently went through Carlsbad cavern in one day. Twink secretly believes he may have sent a few persons through New Mexico this season. At least he did or he is a poor publicist.

More criticism for the younger generation: An observer says the young ladies of this period do not walk, but writhe. Well, we'd like to see one do anything else and get through some of our sidewalk jams. And maybe the lassies learned the habit from the ladies—Coaches, Mitchell and Fox are teaching the Harvesters to writhe through opposing linesmen.

"Gentlemen of the Press" didn't add much to the reputation of local newspaper men. Films which pick out sordid spots or isolated examples and present them as typical of a profession are merely lies transmitted to the screen. There is a vast gulf, however, between the southwestern press and that of the densely populated East. We thank heavens for it.

People never grow up. Not many more than half of the voices which called The News to learn about the circus were boyish and girlish, but the eagerness was youthful.

News cameras were smashed by T. A. T. officials at the site of the City of San Francisco. Soon thereafter all T. A. T. publicity sent out by its big press bureau was returned by a Texas daily, unpublished. Many of the rest of us didn't send such matter back, but our wastebaskets are rather jammed by T. A. T. "puffs".

GROWNUPS AND CHILDREN ON STREETS FOR PARADE

Yesterday at noon Pampa grown-ups along with the children lined the streets to witness the parade staged by Robbins Bros.' circus.

Traffic was halted to make room for the colorful procession as it passed down the streets.

There were cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Arabs and bands. Then there was the elephant claimed to be one of the largest in all circuses, followed by more of lesser size. Two lions reclined lastly but watchfully in their wagon-cage, seemingly bored with the whole procedure.

Hope Peddlers Arrested

Two more alleged dope peddlers were arrested here Friday by City Officers Turpin and Collier. The apprehension of these brought to five the number of such cases in the city. The last pair, a man and a woman, were taken to Amarillo Saturday by a U. S. marshal.

Hollywood Bridge Is Pleasant Event of the Week End

Among the delightful parties which marked the week-end was a "Hollywood bridge" given by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McNamara. Progression was by individuals, rather than by partners, and partners were chosen in the order indicated on the tally cards.

Four tables were in the game, with the following playing: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kashishke, Mr. and Mrs. Finis Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Revere Schmelzer, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. McDonald, Mrs. Floyd Smith, Mrs. E. B. Emerson, Miss Ruth Anne Mitchell, and P. F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kashishke, and Mr. Kennedy held the high scores of the evening, and Mrs. McDonald, the low. Each received an attractive favor. Yellow was predominant in the bouquets of late garden flowers which decorated the rooms, and tone of yellow were repeated in the refreshments served at the close of the game.

Three Central High Graduates Leaving for College Monday

Miss Claudine Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pope; Miss Melba Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham; and Miss Virginia Faulkner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Siler Faulkner, are to leave tomorrow for Columbia Mo., where the three will enter Stephen college. Miss Pope was valedictorian of the 1929 class of Central high school; Miss Graham was winner of the American Legion award for the most valuable student in the same class; and Miss Faulkner also was among the ten highest ranking students in the senior class.

Birthday Party Friday Honors Dorothy Jo Moore

A delightful party for twenty little girls and boys on Friday afternoon celebrated the ninth birthday of little Miss Dorothy Jo Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Moore. Various lawn games were enjoyed. Brightly colored balloons were given all the guests, and in addition there were candy cigars for the boys and lolly-pops for the girls. Cream cones were served with cake in the late afternoon.

The following were present: Virginia and Eleanor Gieber, June and Joseph Hodge, Frances Clark, Sarah and Charles Pafford, Flora Dean Finley, Marjorie and Frances Coffey, Jess and Ralph Hamilton, Norma Lee and Christine Dickinson, Clarine Faulks, Hilda Mae and Ben Sublett, Jr., Dorothy Burton, Louise and Dale Commer, the honoree, and her brother, Jerry.

Miss O'Keefe Arrives
One of the important events to relate hereafter in proof that Friday the thirteenth is a lucky day, is the arrival of Miss Kitty O'Keefe the family of Mr. and Mrs. R. ## Freshmen Will Be Given Extensive Consideration at Teachers College

CANYON, Sept. 14. (Special)—College days will begin again at West Texas State Teachers college on Tuesday, Sept. 17, when all students who are to take entrance examinations will begin their two-day trial. It is expected that there will be 200 students who will come to Canyon early for this purpose.

September 18 and 19 will be given over to freshman registration and orientation. Registrar D. A. Shirley has worked out the program for these two days; it is the purpose of old students who will be on the grounds and of the faculty of the college, to make the opening days of their college experience just as pleasant as possible for the 400 or more freshmen who will be away from their homes for the first time.

All enrollments will be completed by Saturday, September 21, and classes will be held on that day.

President J. A. Hill will have a number of new faces before him when he meets with his faculty for the first time on September 18. Six new men and women have joined the ranks, each of them holding a higher degree than the persons he succeeds.

President Hill states that he is much pleased with the constantly higher standard of preparation and experience which he has been able to get for his faculty.

Anticipating a large enrollment, many small improvements are being made on the campus of the college. Repairs are being made to the administration building, and about $3,000 worth of new equipment is being added to the education building which was completed last year but not entirely equipped. Many other improvements, such as paving on the campus and minor improvements inside the buildings, are in progress.

Families are moving to Canyon from all parts of Northwest Texas. Real estate men report that there are few desirable houses in Canyon that are not rented for the school year, and a large number of places have recently been sold to people moving to the city to send their children to college for a number of years.

Drive America's finest medium-priced automobile and learn what a difference there is

Nowhere is the impressive superiority of today's Oakland All-American Six more clearly revealed than in its remarkable performance.

Oakland's engine has, among other features, the large piston displacement necessary in developing high power at the moderate engine speed essential to long life—the Harmonic Balancer to neutralize torsional vibration in the crankshaft—rubber "biscuit" mountings to insulate it from the frame and make it incomparably smooth and free from vibration.

Drive this car—and learn what a difference these features make. We will prove to your complete satisfaction that today's Oakland is America's finest medium-priced automobile.

Why Oakland is unrivaled in performance at its price

RUBBER ENGINE MOUNTING
Only Oakland in the entire field employs rubber "biscuit" insulators. While others claim rubber mountings, none offers such resistance and permanent freedom from vibration as Oakland.

HARMONIC BALANCER
Only Oakland and one other car in the field have the Harmonic Balancer. Of 11 cars using some other device, all are higher priced than Oakland. Oakland's crankshaft is fully counterweighted. The crankshafts in nine higher-priced cars are not counterweighted at all.

CRANKCASE VENTILATION
While most cars in the field have crankcase ventilation, only Oakland and one other, according to available information, have any method for cleaning the air. We have not, although three of the 10 are more expensive to buy than Oakland.

PISTON DISPLACEMENT
Oakland's 228-cubic-inch piston displacement is greater than 12 of the 26 cars in its price field. Of the 5 remaining cars, 7 are each higher-priced than Oakland.

G-M-R CYLINDER HEAD
Only Oakland and one other car in the field use the G-M-R cylinder head. Sixteen have some type of non-detonating cylinder head substitute, although 11 of the 16 are more expensive to buy than Oakland.

Marquette DELIVERS PERFORMANCE THAT ONLY BUICK BUILDS

Into the Marquette, Buick has built an extra margin of every quality that makes an outstanding leader. On the road the brilliant performance of this swift, smart new six is unmatched by that of any other car of comparable price. Nowhere in the thousand-dollar field can you find such thrilling response, such effortless speed, such big reserves of power.

Only Marquette with its priceless background of Buick craftsmanship can offer such superlative performance at moderate cost. Only Marquette in the thousand-dollar class has an engine of 212.8 cubic inch piston displacement. Marquette alone provides the extra endurance and extraordinary economy of operation that Buick alone knows how to build.

And this handsome new 'six has even more to offer than supreme performance and economy! In its class, Marquette is the only car with the remarkable new waterproof, dustproof, wearproof upholstery and the wonderful new non-glare windshield. A host of other exceptional features contributes to its completeness: Dustproof, tilt-ray headlights. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers. Big, smooth, fully-enclosed brakes. Airplane-type stepped-size bearings. A completely sealed engine. Beautiful, harmonizing finish, inside and out. Perfect fittings and appointments.

Harvesters Defeat Estelline, 26-6, Here Friday

ESTELLINE IS OUTCLASSSED BY CENTRAL TEAM

Big Crowd Sees What 1929 Machine Is Like

(BY TWINK)

Doubts as to the 1929 Harvester football machine were largely dispelled here Friday afternoon when Estelline's eleven fell under Central high blades, 26-6, in the opening game of the season.

Opening with a dash that carried the visitors back across their goal line twice in less than 10 minutes, the locals overwhelmed the opposition in the first half and came out on even terms in the last, when a stream of substitutes was fed into the line-up by coaches Mitchell and Fox.

Just how powerful was the Harvester offensive in the Friday game is shown by the fact that Pampa's yardage was 466, contrasted with 148 yards for Estelline. The first down totals were 18 to 8. The visitors found themselves in the second half, opening up with a passing attack that netted 91 yards in five heaves out of twelve attempted. The air offensive gave the sharpshooters 8 first downs to Central's four. However, largely due to a sensational run of 70 yards by McFarland with an intercepted pass, Pampa's yardage in the final session was 185 to 136 yards for Estelline.

A Fast Backfield

The current Harvesting Crew is scrappy and fast in the backfield and seemingly powerful in the line offensively. The defense did not receive much of a test, however, and what there was pertained to the rather successful Estelline air raids. Effective work was done by nearly every man used against the visitors, who are famous basketballers but are playing only their second season of football. It is idle, at this point of the season, to start picking stars. The names of Saulsbury, Largin, Barnard, Monroe, H. Ayres, and McFarland were often heard in the shouts from the sidelines, but so were others in the line-up.

Friday's showing does not qualify the prediction that a district championship is in sight. There were weak spots to be detected by the coaches and, perchance, by scouts. Fumbles were frequent. The defense was insecure. But this was the first game after a short practice period. The fans saw a much better exhibition than they expected, which is rather unusual this early in any season.

Start Is Spectacular

Harvesting for 1929 began with well-oiled machinery and eager "hands." When the spectacular half-period of play was ended, the Pampa eleven had driven down the field for a total yardage gain of 255, compared with Estelline's scant dozen, and had scored 13 points to the visitors' none.

The starting backfield combination of Saulsbury, Lard, Chastain, and Largin galloped through the holes opened by the line, reeling off nine first downs in the initial quarter and five in the second period. For the half, the record of play showed 14 first downs for Central high and no entry in the Estelline ledger.

Pampa's brilliant captain, Don Saulsbury, demonstrated that he is better cut out for a line-plunger than for end, where he was used last year. Here is his yardage record for the first half: 8, 12, 9, 12, 14, 6, 2, 2, 4, 8, 6, 14, 2, 7, 6, 9-121. Chastain came second with 69 yards, Largin third with 39, and Lard a good fourth with 26.

Don Wins Toss

A strong north wind was blowing lengthwise of the automobile encircled field when Captain Saulsbury of the Harvesters and acting-Captain Ferrell of Estelline were brought together for the toss. The visiting boy guessed "tails," but "heads" it was and the Central high leader elected to take the wind advantage. The visitors kicked to Chastain, who fumbled but the ball was recovered with a slight gain. Then Saulsbury, chiefly, with Largin pinch hitting, started a relentless drive down the grid. Five consecutive first downs carried the ball over with Saulsbury doing the final lugging. Lard's try for the extra point was low.

Chastain again had trouble with the leather on the kick-off, and House, Estelline guard, grabbed the ball. E. McCollum ran into rough going when he tried to go through Mullen. Largin stopped Curtis drive at right end. A desperate pass, McCollum to Bruce, netted 8 yards, but not a first down. Chastain Schiltlaster.

After the ball went over, Saulsbury repeated some of his ground grabbing then Chastain took charge of things. He wiggled through the line for 27 yards and soon thereafter penetrated left tackle for 11 more and a touchdown. This time Lard found his range and added the extra point to make the score 18-0.

Estelline took the kick-off drive and returned 4 yards. J. McCollum, of the guile capable Brothers McCollum, essayed a march through Pampa's young Mr. Barnard, but it ended shortly after it began. Another drive at the same end of the line ended similarly and the quarter ended soon after a pass was knocked down by Pampa's not very corpulent Mr. "Pat" Seitz.

SECOND QUARTER

An attempt to repeat the scoring drives of the first period fell short in the second when an off-side penalty set the locals so far back that their offensive died on the 3-yard line. The see-saw affair that ensued broke in the Harvester's favor, and they were on the 17-yard line going for a goal when the half ended.

SECOND HALF

By Harry E. Hoare

Estelline came back in the second half and palyed the smartest football of the day. Their passing was more accurate and their line plunging improved considerably, especially when Captain Bacuss entered the game. J. McCollum was taken out of the line to make the plunges that netted the Green-shirts touchdown.

Coach Mitchell threw practically a new team into the fray and it was soon apparent that his reserve strength was practically as strong as the first string. Moore went to one end. Reno took up a tackle position. Barnett went to tackle, and Poe went to center. Pafford went to the other guard position. Weedman took up a tackle position and H. Ayres remained on end. In the backfield Buckingham went to fullback, D. Benton and McFarland to halves, and Don Saulsbury remained at quarter. Jim Ayres also was used in the backfield during the half, and Tom Braly in the line.

Captain Saulsbury was injured in the third quarter and Lard went back into the game at quarter, where he was most of the game.

Buckingham Starts

The Harvesters gained 185 yards through the line and by an intercepted pass during the half. Of that total Buckingham accounted for 62 yards. McFarland went through the line for 14 yards and intercepted a pass to race 70 yards through a broken field for a touchdown. Saulsbury had gained 14 yards before he was injured. Lard accounted for 17 yards and Jim Ayres made 8 yards.

Pass, McFarland to Henry Ayres, netted 26 yards and a touchdown which Lard converted.

The Estelline eleven made 45 yards through the line compared to their 12 in the first half. Their passing game in the last period netted 91 yards and was instrumental in scoring the lone touchdown. Through the line, Bacuss went for 14 yards. J. McCollum accounted for 19 yards. Curtis gained 3 yards and E. McCollum netted 9 yards in the last half.

E. McCollum did the passing for the visitors. He succeeded in completing five for 91 yards out of twelve attempted. Bruce was on the receiving end of three passes, which netted 65 yards.

How They Compared

The boys in green had the advantage of first downs in the second half, due chiefly to successful passing. Three were recorded in the third quarter and five last, giving Estelline a total of eight for the game. The Harvesters made three first downs in the third quarter and a lone one in the last quarter to bring their total to eighteen.

Estelline started out with a passing game and had completed three for a gain of 44 yards when McFarland speared a pass out of the air on his 30-yard line and raced through a broken field for a touchdown. His interference was working nicely. The ball passed back and forth rapidly during the rest of the third quarter. The Harvesters made gains on criss-cross plays, but they were offset by fumbles and off-side penalties. Estelline passed and bucked repeatedly but the Harvester line held in the pinches.

Score and Convert

On the first play in the last quarter, McFarland threw a pass from the 26 yard line which Henry Ayres speared and fell over the line for a touchdown. Lard dropped the ball over the goal line for the extra point.

YANKEE LOSS AS PHILADELPHIA WINS GIVES ATHLETICS MAJOR LEAGUE PENNANT ON SATURDAY

ROOKIES FROM WICHITA FALLS ALSO CAPABLE

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14. (AP)—The tall actician of Philadelphia marched into the promised land at exactly 4:24 o'clock this afternoon, ending a journey marked by fourteen seasons of disappointment. When George Earnshaw turned back the White Sox 5 to 0 after the Browns had chastised the Yankees by 12 to 3 in the first half of a double header at New York, Cornelius McGillicuddy made his seventh American league pennant safe beyond the last mathematical doubt.

The grand old man of Shibe park now could lose every one of his fifteen remaining games and still finish half a contest ahead of the Yankees, even if the fallen champions should sweep seven engagements. The Yanks took the second half of their bargain bill with the Browns today. If the Macks should lose all the Yankees win all, the final standing would be:

W. L. Pct.
Philadelphia ..... 86 57 .627
New York ..... 66 58 .623

Urban Faber yielded only grudgingly to the new champions today. One run was manufactured in the fourth on Haas' safe bunt, a pass to Simmons and Miller's drive to center for a base. All Simmons' thirty-first home run added another to the total in the sixth, but still the fight remained close.

About this time news of the Yankees' defeat sent the crowd into a frenzy of delight, and a few moments later the Macks fell upon Faber for the final thrust—in the eighth. A single by Cochran, a pass to Simmons, a double by Burns, scoring two, and a single by Miller gave the A's three runs and removed the last doubt regarding the outcome.

The ninth soon was over, and the Athletics had hit the trail in quest of world series gold for the first time since the ancient days of Bender and Coombs and Plank and the infield rated at $100,000 pre-war value.

The victory was George Earnshaw's twenty-first. He won it with a substitute infield at his back, but this second line met every emergency.

Paradox Worries Man Who Cannot Reach His Machine

It's a sad day when a man can't get what he owns. At any rate that's what a Mr. Warren, who owns and operates a string of automatic phonographs, thought yesterday when he could not get to a phonograph installed in a local cafe.

It seems that the cafe had closed, and the proprietor gone to another state. The phonograph, a nickel-in-the-slot kind, had been installed in the cafe, and at certain times Mr. Warren collected. But this time he could neither collect from nor remove his machine, as the door was locked. So he went to the landlord to press his claim. The landlord, assured him that he didn't care for his taking the machine, but that he, the landlord, would not let him in for fear that the cafe owner might object and hold him responsible for damages. Mr. Warren argued, but the landlord was firm.

"It seems that nobody cares if I take the thing, but they won't let me in to get it"—and with that sad comment he gave up.

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY © 1929 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS WAS THE FIRST time that your show wasn't fit for them to see? It was none of their business, the sort of show folks went to. Everybody's mind everybody else's business in this blooming country. But you're going to mind your own—see, Sweetness. You haven't any more right, to take Rita away from Bob, than you have to John D. Rockefeller of his money, his power, his position.

"But Bob drinks so!" she cried. "Does that give you any license to steal from him?"

"The courts have a right to determine whether or not a parent is fit to have the custody of his child," I found myself saying.

"You go messing around in that sort of thing," he threatened angrily. "And I'm through with you, Molly. For heaven's sake, be consistent. You despise people who sit in judgment on the morals of others. Now, because it could serve your own interests, you'd run to a judge and tell tales on Bob. You'd ask that Bob be punished for getting drunk, and you be rewarded for telling on him. And you'd put Rita up for the prize. I'm ashamed of you, Molly!"

"But I could get Rita that way," she moaned. "You don't know how much I want her, Red."

"You mind your own business," he cautioned. "If Bob was abusing his child, or neglecting her, then I would be another story. Do you know what you'd be doing if you went after Rita through the courts? You'd be putting yourself on a par with that girl you told me about who was going to sue Bob for breach of promise. You thought she was a better, didn't you? For the love of Pete, don't be a black malle!"

Molly picked up the tray Red had left on the floor.

"Here," she said, "plug in the percolator. Let's eat, and stop fighting."

"I wasn't fighting," he objected. "I was only telling you things. Women are funny. As a sex, Molly, you're no principle at all."

"I know," she agreed. "We're ruthless. We'll do anything to attain our ends. I know you think I'm utterly without character, so I might as well admit that I propose to keep Rita by fair means or foul. I'm a bad woman, Red. And the child means more to me than honor. Do you know what I'd do? I'd frame Bob. If I knew how."

Red laughed.

"Look out," he cautioned, "that he doesn't frame you. As for you, young woman, you be a square shooter. Give the egg a break."

It was late when Red said good night. Molly slipped her arms about his neck, and drew his face to her lips. As a sex, Molly, you're no principle at all.

"Do me a favor," she coaxed. "If you hear anything more about Jack, will you let me know, Red?"

"Why sure," he promised. "They sent over from the office for a story. If they get anything, I'll get in touch with you."

After Red had gone, Molly buried her face in his arms, and began to cry. He wouldn't marry her. But that did not mean he didn't love her. The more she thought about it, the surer she became that it was a terrible misunderstanding. He said he couldn't be Master Molly Burnham. Didn't that simply prove it was all a matter of his pride?

There was a woman in Snodgrass whose husband was a contractor. One year he was laid up with rheumatism, and she took over his work. People liked her, and were glad to do business with her. In six months she made more money than her husband cleared in a year.

Her husband got well, and took things over again. Immediately business began to fall off. The wife was an energetic person, and anxious to carry on. But her husband retorted that he was going to wear the pants in his house, and that settled it. Well, Jack was exactly like that stupid old contractor. Men were all alike. Foolish masculine vanity!

Molly smiled at herself. Her darling wanted to wear the pants. That was what it really amounted to. Of course he wouldn't talk like that. Jack was never crude. But that was it, just the same. Sex pride.

"You're so proud, Sweetheart," she whispered. "Now I shall be humble, to prove how deeply I love you."

Molly had a little pink typewriter, in a little pink box. A tiny, noiseless thing, that matched the colors in her bedroom. When she worked at night, she used it, because the smallest noise sometimes woke Rita. She slipped on a negligee of rosy chiffon, and lit the pink-shaded lamp, smiling as she completed the picture. Molly loved doing things like a girl in a book. Now the room was softly pink. Everything harmonized with her mood.

She would write Jack a letter that should breathe of her love and devotion. A gay, friendly letter that would bring him happiness and assuage his silly fears. Sweet and womanly, to prove that she was not the kind of a girl who wanted to wear pants! To show that he need never be afraid of being Master Molly Burnham!

She laughed aloud, like a girl planning delicious mischief. She would win her darling, with all the wiles she knew, burying her foolish pride. For what had pride to do with love?

She slipped a sheet of paper in her typewriter, and began, swiftly, to type. The words, in her mad haste, fell over one another. "I, in the old days, I was full of pride in myself. Now you are all that I care about in the world." She paused a moment, thinking of Rita. But no, Jack counted more than Rita. Bob might take Rita away. Then what would she do? She must have someone there to turn to. Someone to fill the dreadful loneliness.

"You are necessary to me," she went on, and still the words came tumbling, flying off the keys like magic. "I need you for my life. . . . I need you for my life. . . ."

"Once, my darling, you held me in your arms as though you could never let me go. You were sweet to me, and tender. You were afraid I was cold. I was tired, afraid I worked too hard. And I would stop trying you. And I was worried about something. You were always afraid, darling. . . . But now it is I who am afraid. I am alone, and frightened, and afraid and you are leaving me."

Then she threw discretion to the winds.

"I have heard that you are going to Italy. Would you go away, my darling, without telling me good-bye? Would you leave me, wretched and longing? But my darling, I am selfish. I want you to be happy. If you are happy, nothing else matters. And you will love Italy, my Jack. . . ."

Page after page Molly typed in a sort of frenzy. There was so much to be said. So much about Italy and that she must tell him. And then she must tell again of her love—her lovely, steadfast love.

"If I knew you had taken Rita," she wrote, "I would try to get her back. But forgetfulness would not be the end of your love. Not of yours, nor of mine. That is true, Jack. It is true. Tell me, my darling, is it true?"

Exhausted, she dropped her head on her typewriter. It was beating like a drum. The lights, and raised her curtains. There was only one star left. The little, reluctant morning star. The world was gray and cold. But now the sun—the great day-star—would touch the east, and make it glow with fire.

She leaned from the window, and looked down the street. There was a gray cat ambulating along. Not another living thing in sight. Molly was sad and she was going to see, to dawn. Lots of respectable people probably never had seen it. And it was lovelier even than a sunset. There was a poem Jack had once read. They used to read together. It was very beautiful, and was largely about the sunrise. Molly remembered these exquisite lines, and said them softly to herself.

"Then down the long and silent street, The dawn, on silver-sanded feet, Creeps like a frightened girl."

She leaned over the sill, and looked down the quiet street. And it pleased her fancy to see a slight figure, swathed in gray like a nun, stealing swiftly from the arm of night. A frightened girl with silver sandals on her feet, white feet.

"That's what I get for writing love letters," she laughed. "I get poetry."

She glanced at herself in the looking glass of her bathroom door. "And I look," she said, "like the worst of God—which is just what I get for writing love letters."

Molly was tired, but she was a little sleepless, and she felt like a nun. She decided to make coffee and commune with her tired lovers, until Rita woke. It was long while she sat, and Rita had broken through at last.

She put the coffee on to boil, and curled up on her couch, she was tired, but she was a little sleepless, and she felt like a nun. She decided to make coffee and commune with her tired lovers, until Rita woke. It was long while she sat, and Rita had broken through at last.

Coffee, Miami; Judge A. A. Callaghan, Panhandle; District Attorney E. W. Thomerson, Amarillo; C. L. Broadus, Miami; Dr. J. H. Kelley, Pampa.

BORGER, Sept. 14. (AP)—Personal and business files of John A. Holmes, district attorney for Hutchinson county, were scrutinized by officers today in an effort to read between the lines the name of the person who last night shot him to death at his home here.

The 37-year-old prosecutor had been persistent in carrying on his duties, and was to have represented the state in several murder trials. Officials studied these conditions closely, hoping to find a clue as to the cause and perpetrator of the crime.

As a result of this investigation, it was found that a death bed statement by Roy Harmon, wounded when he was alleged to have attempted to hold up a bank in Wildorado, Texas, last year, was missing from Holmes' files. The document, obtained by the slain prosecutor's predecessor, was alleged to have implicated William J. (Whitey) Walker with the slaying of two deputy sheriffs here in 1927. Walker, recently apprehended in Colorado, was in jail at Stinnett, awaiting trial in connection with that shooting.

John T. Buckley, law partner of Holmes, said he had learned that Holmes was seen with the Harmon statement several days ago, and that he would examine the prosecutor's papers kept at his home to see if it might be among them.

Discovery that the document was missing was the only development uncovered since the attorney emerged from the garage at his home after driving in his automobile and fell fatally wounded from three pistol bullets.

Neighbors, awakened by the firing of five shots, rushed to their windows and doors in time to see a shadow vanish down the alley. Five empty pistol cartridges and an unfired bullet were found near the garage. Investigators traced footprints to the end of the passageway, but there the trail ended, the murderer apparently fleeing in an automobile.

The state executive also let it be known he would declare martial law should conditions warrant such action.

Holmes' widow was prostrated and under the care of a physician. She and her mother, Mrs. Donna B. Greene, apparently were saved from possible danger when the attorney let them out at a front door before driving his automobile into the garage where he fell a few seconds later.

Governor Moody was deeply stirred by the shooting of Holmes, whom he appointed a year ago. In addition to sending rangers to the town, offering a reward, and threatening martial law, he announced he would see to it that the best prosecutors available appear against the assassin, when caught, and demand the death penalty. At the same time he ordered district attorneys from two nearby districts, Fred Thomerson of Amarillo and Clifford Braly of Pampa to Borger to help in the investigation.

Borger has caused Governor Moody considerable trouble since he took office. The town originally was an oil boom village and at one time was known as a "wide open place." Undesirables who remained in the town have caused trouble several times and this is not the first time the governor has been forced to send rangers to handle the situation.

Holmes, Moody said today, had filled his difficult position fearlessly and had been unrelenting in his efforts to clear the district of lawlessness.

The coroner's investigation developed little that was not already known and Justice of the Peace Walter Broomhall returned a verdict tonight of death from gunshot wounds inflicted by persons unknown.

Rangers Captains Frank Hamer and Tom Hickman whose skill in catching criminals and whose fearlessness in facing them have gained them national prominence are expected here late today and it is thought that they will take over the investigation immediately. Both are thoroughly familiar with the situation here.

The funeral will be held Monday at Panhandle, Texas, under the auspices of the Masonic order. Holmes was a thirty-second degree Mason.

BORGER, Sept. 14. (AP)—Practically every one of the 26 counties of the Texas Panhandle was represented here tonight by officials eager to aid in the search for the slayer of District Attorney John A. Holmes, ambushed last night. The rewards offered for the killer's arrest and conviction would total more than $3,000, it was believed.

Mayor Glenn A. Pate declared that no efforts would be spared to track down the assassin and deplored the murder which he said cast odium on the name of Borger, which for two years had been trying to live down an early evil reputation attained during the height of the oil boom.

BORGER, Sept. 14. (AP)—Texas Ranger Captains Tom Hickman and Frank Hamer, with three subordinates, arrived here at midnight and immediately began an investigation of the assassination of District Attorney John A. Holmes, shot to death from ambush last night. They would make no statement.

Meanwhile, District Attorneys Edward W. Thomerson of Amarillo and Clifford Braly of Pampa decided to meet with District Judge E. J. Pickens tomorrow and determine where a special court of inquiry should be called.

Masons at Miami, Texas, were in charge of funeral arrangements for Mr. Holmes, which will be held Monday.

FASHION FIGURES ON new silhouettes FOR FALL 1929

we went fall fashion scouting the, we went fall fashion scouting the, other day was the importance of the new silhouettes for fall. Relegated to fashions of a bygone day is the straight, box-like silhouette that the feminine world welcomed with open arms not very many seasons ago and now seems just as eager to give it up and toss it aside with the same easy nonchalance she does anything she has grown tired of.

The new fall collections are without any question of a doubt designed for the sophisticated woman. There is nothing especially youthful about them. Rather, they are mature. And yet, they have about them a certain something that appealed to us and we are sure, will to you too. And that is a feeling of being cut on the lines of the human figure. They are molded as to waistline and then spread out to give greater flare in the skirt.

We enjoyed our trip through the stores and shops very much and are sure you will too. For there is a decidedly new trend in the fashions for Fall, 1929, that is very pleasing. There are the most complicated themes you could imagine and yet they are worked into the body of the costume in such a manner that they are delightfully informal and free.

If you are in the market for a new coat this winter you will have all sorts of fun making your selection. For the coat departments in the city are fairly bulging with grand merchandise that is decidedly new, decidedly Parisian, and in our opinion for the materials and furs and the beautiful workmanship are not high priced.

Feminine Flares Appear

We are sure that you will like these flatteringly feminine flares, if for no other reason than that they are so smartly new and so flattering to the feminine figure. We saw one adorable coat of a black material that was very soft to the touch and fashioned along the peplum idea and with a long subtly flared section dropped to the back to within 6 or 7 inches of the hemline. The coat was perfectly straight beneath. It seemed to us a perfect coat for afternoon functions and semi-formal evening affairs.

Straight Line Broken

When the coats are straight lined, fashion has devised various ways and means of making this type of coat especially interesting by breaking up the straight line. In some cases by shoulder or yoke treatments that give a loose feeling about the shoulder, and in others in tiered effects. Belts are placed at a high waistline too, in some of the more youthful coats and often finish at the left side with a ring buckle of silver or some composition in color to match the coat.

The uneven hemline so long a dark horse in the daytime coat fashions, has come to the fore in no uncertain manner. We saw so many coats with this uneven hemline treatment.

In some cases the coat would be straight all around except for a different left side and in other cases the coat would dip gradually to the center back. One of the very smartest coats we saw had a scalloped hemline and even in this coat we noticed it had a downward trend movement toward the back hemline.

Clever Sleeves

You will adore the sleeves on the new coats. Mostly because of the way in which fur is used on them. We saw flaring lapels, close fitting cuffs, pointed styles and plain bands set just below the elbow. One fur coat had fur that reached from the wrist to the elbow. In the formal coat range Lida cloth, is the outstanding fabric for fall with plenty of broadcloth and lots of novelty wool shown, especially a loosely woven basket fabric seems to have become a classic among fashionable women. Black, as usual, is the leading coat color, brown running a close second—beige and green next in line. We had an awful time tearing ourselves away from the sport coat section because there is something so gloriously practical about them that in our estimation every woman feels much the same as we do. The most important feature about the new sport coats is the flaring movement. These flares do not appear in a bold and brazen manner but rather by deftly handled material evidently cut on the bias. Tweed, the old standby, still remains a favorite in the sports coat realm and is combined with all sorts of furs shown in various colors. The sales people in the shops place the importance on beige and brown, altho they are of the opinion that green, red and blue will also be much favored by smart women. Throughout the entire dress collections on exhibit in the shops, we noticed a decided tendency toward the fitted silhouette. Skirts a little longer, skirts in a new way, dipping side and back movement. We noticed panels and draperies put on women with a slender waistline and

NEW FROCKS

Emphasize Subtle Changes for the Autumn Season

The daytime silhouette for fall is long and moulded with fullness placed low in the skirt. Frocks for sportwear show a new femininity with the introduction of flares, godets and gores. The waistline is raised a bit higher. Lingerie touches are a fresh note.

very much in luck this season for there is a very definite trend toward the higher waistline which is often achieved in the new frocks by placing the is a very definite trend toward the belts are used only in sections across the front or the back of the frock. We tried on several frocks just so that we could get a better idea of what you and so many of them noticed the higher necklines.

Models are arriving daily—they are last minute styles from Paris showing slender and much more shallow necks than we have seen for many seasons. Even in the case of square and round necks we notice that fashion does not intend to leave much of the neck revealed this fall.

We did not, however, thank heavens, see any high collars like our grandmothers used to wear, but we did see neat buttoned up effects that reached just to the base of the neck. It is interesting to note too in dresses of this type that fashionable women are omitting jewelry and pearl chokers, that is, if they have necks they are not ashamed of.

News of Sleeves
The sleeves we saw for the most part were closely fitted to the wrist and were often finished with lace or geometric and were embroidered in nail-heads of silver and gold. Nail-heads seem to be very popular trimming for dark silk dresses and bows and buttons are very much used also. As in the coats the skirts of the dresses show no end to the irregular hemline and it is our guess that women all over the land are going to find a fresh relief in the slightly lengthened skirt line. We don't know what brought this new length in dresses about but Paris has been pounding away for a long time and trying to make American women believe the longer skirt is the more becoming skirt and at last we seem to be agreeing.

Slender Evening Silhouette
You will simply adore the new evening frocks. Fashion is doing much with sheer velvet and if there is anything that we women love to wear, it is sheer velvet in any of the luscious

Activities Program Is Outlined and Adopted Saturday at A. A. U. W. and College Club's First Fall Luncheon

The Pampa branch of the American Association of University Women and College Club yesterday launched upon a year of important activity, when the membership, in session at the first of the club luncheon's of the season, adopted in its entirety the ambitious program proposed by the projects committee.

Setting the suggested $500 as the goal for a scholarship which the organization will award at the close of the year, the members voted to give three benefit affairs to raise the fund. A bridge tournament will be held during the Thanksgiving holidays, and two costume dances will be given, one shades that the stores are showing for fall.

In general, the silhouette for fall evenings is a slender one with a sharply dipping back. We noticed many tube-like short frocks in the evening collection have extremely long panels attached by cartridge pleating at a point below the hips and back end panels are likewise set on the side of the skirt.

Some very smart details of evening frocks are large self-fabric bows, flared tiers, and flounces frequently adopted in a winding treatment, thus giving the much desired length. After an absence of many seasons panels seem to be welcomed back into the evening mode and are used mostly to give length and color contrast.

BODY IS REMOVED TO LOUISIANA FOR BURIAL

The body of Mrs. Bertha Mae Purcell was disinterred Friday by the Malone funeral home, and the body sent to Monroe, Louisiana, for burial.

Mrs. Purcell was buried Jan. 17, 1929. She was survived by her husband, who was with the Cabot Carbon Co. at Rockana. Mrs. Purcell was 46 years old.

The fellowship and scholarship committee, of which Miss Fannie Florence Sims is chairman, will be in charge of these benefits and possibly will conduct others.

The club is to sponsor a series of addresses to high school students and will furnish the speaker from its membership. Miss VeLora Reed, who is faculty advisor to the club, will arrange dates for the lectures and choose subjects, conferring with the high school faculty.

Seventy-five members attended the luncheon-meeting, which was held at the Schneider hotel. Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, president, outlined the objectives of the club and invited all women of the city eligible for either the A. A. U. W. or the College club to become members of the organization. She introduced the new officers, each of whom explained the plans of her department for the year.

The program for the meeting included two vocal numbers by Miss Audrey Noel. She sang first, "Song of Old," and as an encore, "To You." Mrs. F. Lee Hill, head of the expression department of the public schools, told the club of her plans for organizing a little theatre in Pampa. She would be assisted, she said, by Miss Rogers, who lately was associated with the Walter Hampden players of New York City.

cut in the fall air, sharply defined as to angles, lights and shadows. A faint breath of burning leaves will stay with you, as you recall the doorway with its detail of knocker and latch, the rough stone steps, the overhang of the eaves, the spout of the gutter.

In the hall you receive another cleanly etched impression, as though your mind responded as an engraver's plate. Then as you live in the house, for hours or days or longer, you receive a fused impression. Mingled with your experience of pleasure there are the combined effects of colors and textures, wood tones, softly waxed, firelight, smells of good meals, with a relaxed sensation of great comfort.

Toward the Rural Type

Perhaps in his own clear analysis of his impressions, a man (or a woman), has come to know quite definitely, what kind of an effect he wishes his home to present. And for this reason the trend of that expression has moved toward the rural or provincial type.

Simplicity can express his sincerity, but he will not have his home austere. Even if he build a glorified log cabin (with all the latest plumbing, to be sure) it must not be bare or plain, or ugly.

For these reasons, the French provincial home as a type finds favor about equally with the English farm house, and the American Colonial dwelling.

More Cheerful Demeanor

A delightfully informal intimacy pervades all these types, with a greater friendliness of demeanor, than the somewhat stern interiors of Spanish and Italian origin.

Maple furniture continues in vogue, and will fit in with any of these homes. In one living room a cozy and inviting effect combined a terra cotta red in the coverings on the furniture with maple wood. The red on a deep chair matched the ruddy tone of the wide bricks in the fireplace.

Corner cabinets of excellent design stood either side of the hearth. Dishes of antique pattern and books filled their shelves.

At one end of the room a refectory table suggested care for the inner man.

Pewter lamps, and full sized rag rug helped to complete the cottage impression. A handsome bookcase with drawers below suggesting a desk, was a distinctive addition to the effect.

Carvings in Tudor Manner

Another living room panelled its walls in the good old English fashion and set tiny escutcheons in its leaded windows. Drapes of crell work softened their lines. Bookcases with Tudor carvings enriched the walls.

A deep soft "love seat" faced the fireplace with a comfortable overstuffed chair opposite. Straight chairs covered with leather and studded with round nail heads were ready for bridge or desk service, while a secretary desk stood open, with a convenient lamp alongside, and a handsome portfolio on its writing shelf.

A coffee table and lamp thereon was placed next to the love seat. In this way may our comforts be arranged and our esthetic sense be satisfied.

Utility Couch for Bedroom

The idea of old carving was well presented in one bedroom. On the head board of the bed and on its footboard were careful copies of the linen-fold panelling found on old English walls. A study lowboy, a chest and a dresser repeated the theme. A plain, general utility couch with a cover resembling hand woven fabric assisted in giving a restful atmosphere.

With a terrestrial globe, a radio, a set of book shelves what more could a man or boy want?

A very charming room for the daughters of the family has twin beds with their heads placed in a niche. As part of a color scheme of gentle blue and yellow, the interior of the niche was painted blue. Across the ceiling to outline the niche hung pleated drapes of flowered chintz. In one corner stood a set of book shelves, while between the beds a small night table held a lamp and the latest favorite book. The beds had low headboards and no footboards. Spreads of quilted taffeta covered them with deep flounces at the sides.

Flower Patterns in Walls

Rag rugs, square and oval in shape were used on the floors while the walls were patterned with tiny sprays of flowers in blue on a yellow ground.

Two of the smaller rooms of the house are receiving a more spirited treatment than in the past. Each is trying to express a definite idea. The hall breathes the first hospitality at the same time, that it repels the unwelcome intruder.

The bath room has laid aside its usual antiseptic garb and has become quite fantastic.

To return to the hall. A small hallway became a useful room when it decided to lodge the telephone, its desk and chair in the narrow environs. Pots of ivy on the window ledges added to the living quality, while a small table with a mirror over it stood on one side. A mirror in the hall is of great use to arriving guests—to the ladies, at least. Removing these close fitting hats does ruffle one's hair so!

Decorations of Hallway

A large hallway needed a more emphatic treatment to avoid austerity. It used hooked rugs and Colonial pieces of maple for its decoration. On one wall a divan with fat cushions suggested resting a moment. Nearer the door a Colonial mirror hung over a fine low-boy. Across at the opposite wall stood a drop leaf table with clipper ship to remind one of old sea-faring days. The walls were patterned with a large design of green on a gray background.

As to bath room treatment one may let any wild imagination determine the color and decoration; flowers or fish or what have you? Above the usual band of wood work in one bath were painted baskets of ivy with floating butterflies scattered here and there. Marbleized paper covered the lower walls in another bathroom.

Fish glide through the seaweed on the walls of another lavatory. Floor coverings are selected to harmonize in color and if possible in design. One very unusual decoration was painted in gray on pale pink, a landscape effect, in grisaille, that is, shown with lights and shadows to resemble bas relief.

Selection in Wall Paper

Each fall finds a more careful consideration given to wall paper. From the great landscape designs to the smallest flower figure, there is a wide range of selection.

Totile de Jouy, the French type of design, usually shown on fabrics is one of these wall papers. All over designs of floral figures may resemble a closely patterned chintz or one of the widely spaced modern art effects. A diamond pattern in a French design has pastoral scenes in each design. These bear titles of the seasons.

Old scenic papers are copied faithfully. Subjects from mythology are of great decorative value. As a contrast, there are the tiny floral sprays suggesting all the delicacy and charm of the illusive meadow wild flower. The selection of the correct paper for the room involves both study and taste.

A CLOSE-UP on Fall Clothes

Attempts to give every man athletic lines through the style of his clothes have been made by the leading manufacturers in the presentation of models for the autumn and winter season. This particular style features a decided waisted effect with broad shoulders set a bit higher than usually, sleeve head raised, with arm scye also cut a bit higher.

Other innovations will be to show the greater use of the rope shoulder. Heretofore this shoulder was used only meagerly, now and then appearing in custom tailored clothes, but now the wholesaler comes forth with this idea in greater numbers even carrying out the custom tailor's suggestion of putting four buttons on each sleeve.

Peak Lapel Style Popular

As for the lapels the peak style promises to carry with it the greater number of followers, although the notch idea, with its new modified form of semi-rounded effect will win many wearers. In some instances there will be a slight taper to the sleeve—again the custom tailor's idea.

Among other styles will be a one-button model, peak lapel and extreme shoulders. These will show welt pockets just as some of the other styles will. But this one-buttoner probably will be only a passing fad, according to dopsters.

The man who has a complete wardrobe will include a double-breasted and there is a selection of models from which to choose. The most popular style of course, will be the three-button model with two buttons used. One other style is a single-button model, with extreme shoulders and snug hips, but the number of converts to this idea no doubt will be limited.

Regulation Vest Favored

As for vests the better grade of suits will revert to the regulation style, most of them showing six buttons with five used. There also will be some five-button vests. In the lower priced lines the Tattersall vest, which was so well liked last spring and fall, will continue the vogue, but the double-breasted vest has passed its best days. In some instances vests will show pleats.

There will be a slightly wider bottom on trousers this season, the opening being from 20 to 22 inches, while conservative styles will be cut to 18-inch measurements. In most cases the trousers will be straight hanging, with cuff bottoms. Some of them will show pleats.

No fabric changes are scheduled in the particulars to be presented. Among those to be worn in greater or lesser extent are worsteds, twists, tweeds, Shetlands, covets, chevots and cassimeres.

Tobacco Shades in Brown

Brown, always regarded as the foremost color idea for fall, again will lead the parade. But most of the browns will be of tobacco shades such as claret, Colorado claret, Colorado maduro and Corono rust. Other tones will include wines, mulberries, Burgundies, blue grays, grayish green, silver gray, plum and royal blue.

There's an interesting selection of patterns from which to make choice wide enough to satisfy almost every critical preference. These show shark-skins diamonds, indistinct self patterns checked effects, stripes, pebble weaves, diagonal and basket designs.

Among the high schoolers and collegians the two-button, notch or peak lapel style is the leader. There is a gradually weaning away from the three-button mode which has been popular for several years. This coat will be body tracing with high square shoulders, with fairly wide button spacing. In most cases the younger fellows will wear the six-button vest, with one button left free.

What's What in Topcoats

Sufficient styles are presented in topcoats to satisfy most of us. But the three-button, box coat will continue to get the best play. This is a single-breasted model, about 46 inches long.

Other models will be the raglan style also single-breasted; a box coat, single-breasted, button-through, and for dress wear a double-breasted Chesterfield with self or velvet collar. A style that may win some followers will be a double-breasted, box back, belt all around, semi-peak lapel coat.

Among the favored fabrics are tweeds fleeces, covets (llamas and west of England materials. The finest topcoats will be offered in vicunas. There, too, will be a nice showing of gabardines, herringbones and Glen Urquharts.

For constipation, use Tate-Lax. Richards Drug—Adv.
