QUAKES CONTINUE AS ITALY COUNTS 3,660 DEAD

Murder Of Radio Announcer Sets Off Drive Against Gangsters In Detroit

STATE FORCES TO AID CITY IN WAR ON CRIME

Gerald Buckly Shot Down By Three Men as He Sits in Hotel

GOVERNOR ON HAND

'Phone Call From Woman Puts Victim 'on Spot' For Gunmen

DETROIT, July 23. (UP) — Aroused by the audacious murder of Gerald E. Buckley a few hours after the recall of the mayor of Detroit, his political arch enemy, municipal and state forces promised today to drive gangsters and racketeers from the city.

Buckley, a radio announcer and commentator on political affairs, had attacked Mayor Charles Rowles frequently and with vigor. His life had been threatened. He was sitting in the lobby of the La Salle hotel, from which he broadcasts, after announcement of the mayor's recall early this morning when three men entered and shot him dead.

Governor Fred Green flew to Detroit and conferred three hours with Thomas C. Wilcox, police commissioner, concerning today's killing and the series of 10 other murders which rocked Detroit in the last three weeks.

Jail for Gangsters

"We're going to throw every known gangster we find in jail, Wilcox said after the conference. "The time has passed to use soft words with these people. I'm instructing my inspectors to see that all known hoodlums are rounded up, and if they fail I'll get some who will.

"Law violators will get the plainest cleaning in the city's history."

Governor Green voiced the same sentiments and said he was ready to throw all the facilities of the state police force into the fight to help clean up Detroit.

Court Aid Asked

"Racketeers will be arrested and we will ask the cooperation of the courts so we may hold such men longer than a few hours while we investigate their records," Green said.

"They ought to be held 10 days in order to make a proper check of their activities."

"Put on Spot"

Police believed he had been "put on the spot," and are trying to trace a telephone call he received earlier in the hotel lobby. Motive for the killing has not been determined, but police generally believe Buckley was the victim of gamblers whom he had attacked continually in radio speeches.

One arrest has been made, and two other men are held as witnesses. The suspect is Angelo Livecchi, 29, who lived at the La Salle. Police found him undressed and in bed after the murder, but they say he was in the lobby a short time before the killing, and that just before he retired he walked to the street entrance and glanced about.

State to Let Contracts for New Bridges on Archer and Goree Roads

Concrete Structures to Guard Against Future Flood Damage; Project to Cost $44,000, Engineer Estimates

Plans have been drawn and contracts will be let at the office of the state highway engineer at Austin at 10 a. m. on July 31 for new concrete bridges to be built on state highway No. 28 north of Archer City and on No. 30 near Goree where large sections of pavements were washed out by the heavy rains of June 13 and 14.

This information was given by D. M. Puckett, engineer of the state highway department for the third division, Wednesday in announcing complete plans for the repair of damaged sections at those places at an estimated cost of $44,144.57.

The bridges to be built on the Wichita Falls-Archer City highway will replace 150 feet of the original pavement which was washed out, and will be located at a point about 1,500 feet north of the Little Wichita river. It will be 20 feet wide, and will have 17 water passes eight feet wide and eight feet high. Estimated cost of this bridge was placed at more than $14,000.

Inspection of the land on the upstream side of the highway following the June flood, Mr. Puckett said, revealed that the overflow waters of the Little Wichita turn off from the main channel of the stream several hundred feet above the highway bridge and flow in a northeasterly direction over a low, open area to the highway embankment. It was at that point that the fill beneath the concrete received the heaviest current of water, and went out. There were four separate breaks in the 1,000-foot

YOUNG CLAIMS HELP

Earle B. Mayfield Declares Sterling in Danger Of 'Ineligibility'

(By The Associated Press)

Candidates for governor crossed and recrossed one another's trail in the thickly populated sections in the vicinity of Dallas and Fort Worth Wednesday in a determined bid for additional strength before Saturday's balloting.

Three were at Dallas at one time or another during the day.

Jim Young held conferences after Barry Miller addressed the state's retail grocers at their picnic Wednesday afternoon and Earle B. Mayfield spoke at the picnic Wednesday night.

Sterling at Home

On his way to Mineral Wells from South Texas Clint Small stopped at Fort Worth, where he was scheduled to address the Tarrant county Small-for-Governor club Wednesday noon and former Governor James E. Ferguson was at Fort Worth Wednesday night. Ross S. Sterling came home to Houston Wednesday night where Small had spoken the previous night, and both Thomas B. Love and Miller are booked to speak at Greenville Thursday, Miller in the afternoon and Love at night.

Mayfield, former United States senator, spent the entire day in Dallas. He issued a statement charging that Sterling was in danger of not having his name put on the ballot for the runoff or the general election if he should win his way into those races because he had not filed in writing "the name of his state campaign manager, William Strauss of Houston."

Quotes Statute

The candidate quoted article 3169 of the revised statutes as saying that a candidate for state nomination may designate a campaign manager by "written appointment, filed with the secretary of state." He said Sterling appointed Struss July 8 but that he had a letter from

Condemned Trio Silent As Execution Nears

KANSAS CITY, July 23. (UP)—Their last hope of clemency gone, three men, condemned to die Friday morning for murdering a police officer during a daylight bank robbery, tonight sat silent in their death cells.

The radio which Tony Mangiaracina, John Messino and Carl Nasello played while they still had appeals pending was silent; magazines lay unread on their cots as the trio faced their last 36 hours of life. Gov. Henry S. Caulfield indicated at Jefferson City late today that he would not interfere with the triple execution.

G. O. P. Chiefs Reorganize Party's Affairs, Expecting Huston to Quit

WASHINGTON, July 23. (AP)—Confidently expecting the early retirement of Claudius Huston as chairman of the Republican National committee, President Hoover and party leaders today went ahead with arranging campaign plans in the absence of Huston.

The Republican campaign discussion both at the White House and at the capitol were based on the assumption that Huston is getting out. However, his continued absence from the city was beginning to receive notice.

The chairman, who has been under fire of a powerful group in the party, promised early in the month to make an announcement of his intentions as chairman as soon as the senate adjourned.

When the senate adjourned Monday, the party leaders sat back to hear his statement. None was forthcoming. Inquiries were launched but Huston was not to be found.

Out of the round of conferences today it developed that if Mr. Huston does not announce his intention of resigning shortly, steps will be taken to seek his ouster.

Meanwhile, harmony was the byword as Republican leaders bent their efforts to rearranging the national organization from the worst split it has suffered in years.

THIRD BABY ENTERS MIXUP

Dead Infant Complicates Parentage Tangle

By FREDERICK C. OTHAMN

CHICAGO, July 23. (UP)—The Watkins-Bamberger baby mixup became even more involved tonight when one of the harassed fathers said he feared a third infant, now dead, was involved in the mystery.

Scientists spent the day without success trying to identify two babies born on the same day at the same hospital as the sons of Mrs. Charles Bamberger and Mrs. William Watkins. Bamberger then complicated the case still further with the following tragic suggestion:

"There were three new born babies on the bench when nurses got the lables tangled. One of the babies died a few minutes later. Now I don't know whether the child I have at home is mine or Watkins' or someone else's child."

Bamberger, young business man of moderate means, was interviewed by the United Press while he conferred with Watkins about possible

JUDGE MARTIN RULES FRIDAY ON NEGRO PLEA

Attorneys File Petition For Court Orders To Open Primary

DEMOS PLAN FIGHT

Fischer to Uphold Party's Right to Select Own Members

A hearing was set for Friday morning at 9 o'clock in the 89th district court here on the application for a writ of mandamus to compel the Wichita county Democratic executive committee to allow negroes in the county to vote in the primary Saturday, according to Judge P. A. Martin in whose court the application was filed Wednesday.

The hearing will take place on the eve of the election and it is probable that the status of negro voters will not be established until a comparatively few hours before the polls open for the primary election Saturday morning.

Executive Committee Named

The mandamus application was filed by the local law firm of Davenport & Crane in behalf of O. C. Williams, negro property and business owner here, and several other Wichita Falls negroes. The plea for the injunction was directed against Judge Edgar Scurry, chairman of the executive committee, and each of the 45 precinct chairman. F. W. Fischer, local attorney and a member of the executive committee, will represent the respondents.

According to the terms of the petition filed Wednesday, the negroes, as relators in the plea, ask that all orders to election judges from the committee directing them to prevent negroes from voting be declared void and that the committee be restrained from issuing any such orders.

The mandamus is asked only in connection with this year's election, no mention of a permanent injunction or of future primary elections having been made in the petition. The date July 26 is named specifically.

Assert Democratic Faith

The negroes base their plea on the contention that they are native citizens of the United States, have never been convicted of felonies in this or any other state and are qualified as voters in every respect except that they are of the negro race. It was pointed out that they had paid their poll taxes in order to vote in the general election in November and therefore should be entitled to participate in the party primary.

The petition further states that the negroes are Democrats and are in harmony with the policies and purposes of the Democratic party, and would take the pledge as such to support the Democratic nominees of the primary.

Mr. Fischer, attorney for the county committee, said Wednesday that his contention at the hearing Friday would be that the Democratic party in Texas is an association of individuals which reserves the right to determine the qualifications of its members and to decide what persons shall vote in its primary. The state legislature, he said, has authorized the state Democratic executive committee to prescribe the qualifications of those who shall vote in the party primary and the state committee in turn decided against permitting negroes to take part. This action, he added, is binding on the county committees over the state.

Ancient Turk Declares Napoleon Wasn't Considered 'Hot'

NEW YORK, July 23. (US)—Agha Zaro, the pre-war, turk, looking reflectively back some 135 years, revealed today when he had never got a look at Napoleon, whom he fought, in his youth, from time to time, he says.

Harry Hershfield, cartoonist, a student of Napoleonic lore, was pressing the Turk, who avers he is 156 years old, when Zaro was a guest in Hershfield's office. Said Zaro:

"If I had seen him, it is most probable I would only have seen the back of his head. Napoleon was retreating at the time. We had him on the run in the Egyptian campaign. However, I didn't stop to look around for him. At the time, we didn't think Napoleon would ever amount to much. He was not, as you say, so hot."

DEATH CLAIMS GLENN CURTISS

Aviation Pioneer Dies In Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 23. (AP)—Glenn Hammond Curtiss, pioneer aviator and guiding genius of the aeronautical world, died suddenly today in the General hospital here. He had been operated on for appendicitis July 11, and had been reported out of danger and well on the way to complete recovery.

The cause of death was pulmonary embolus, a blood clot in a main artery close to the heart.

News of the death of the man to whom aviation owed much of its achievement in the past quarter century came with a shocking suddenness but brought quick tributes from fliers and aeronautical leaders in all parts of the country.

Mr. Curtiss was said to have been suffering from appendicitis, with recurring acute attacks, for some time. He was involved in a suit brought against him by the Herring-Curtiss company in a Rochester court to recover nearly a million dollars. The complaint charged violation of patent rights and misappropriation of funds. Curtiss failed to appear in court.

He is survived by his widow; a son, Glenn, of Hammondsport and Miami, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Ruthe Hesley of Miami; his mother, Mrs. Lulu Curtiss of Hammondsport, and a half-brother, Carl G. Adams of Miami.

Rail Lines Disrupted By Worst Shocks Since 1908 Disaster

(Copyright, 1930, by United Press)

BENEVENTO, Italy, July 24. (Thursday) — (UP) — The earthquake which struck southern Italy early Wednesday morning has proved one of the great tragedies of recent years.

A compilation of official and unofficial estimates of the dead early this morning reached the figures of 3,880.

There is no doubt that this list will be revised, but the probability seemed that it would be revised upward.

NAPLES, July 23. (AP)—Southeastern Italy tonight had counted its dead to the number of 679 in half a score of towns tumbled to ruins by a series of terrific earthquakes which began an hour after midnight and had not ceased to vibrate this evening.

Government estimates placed the injured at more than a thousand and the homeless at ten times that figure. Melfi, picturesque mountain city, perched perilously upon the crater of the extinct Monte Volutre, was an area of ghastly debris. Even the ancient cathedral dating back to the ninth century, was wrecked.

Towns Isolated

The almost inaccessible nature of some of the areas devastated made difficult the work of succor and enumeration of casualties. Most of the towns hit the hardest are off the beaten paths of tourists and transportation is poor.

Several supply trains have been sent to points on the railroads in the interior from Naples and hu-

Baby Granddaughter of Famous Scientist Chokes Under Screen

SAN MARINO, Calif., July 23. (UP)—Marcia Millikan, 1-year-old granddaughter of Dr. Robert A. Millikan, internationally known scientist, accidentally choked to death today when she was left alone for 10 minutes in her grandfather's home here.

Dr. Millikan is chairman of the executive council of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

strip of highway which must be replaced, but the principal damage was done at the point where the new 150-foot concrete bridge is to be installed.

Following completion of the bridge, which is to be finished within 90 days from date of letting the contract, back-filling of the damaged stretches will begin, it was said. Preparation of the dirt base and construction of the new pavement will cost about $13,500, according to estimates made in the local offices of the highway department. That work will be done by contract as soon as possible after the bridge is built, Mr. Puckett said, stating that it is hoped to finish the entire project before the end of this year. Filling in of washed portions of the embankment is now under way.

The new bridge to be built over Lake creek, east of Goree, will be an extension of the relief bridge originally constructed there. The length of the first bridge will be doubled, giving the new structure a total reach of 66 feet, with a roadway width of 42 feet, and with three 10x10 foot openings for flood waters. As in the case north of Archer City where the Little Wichita river flows under the highway—except in extreme flood conditions—the washout near Goree did not occur at the main channel of Lake creek. A small relief water course which winds from the main stream south of the highway became a raging torrent to wash out sections of the Wichita Valley railway and several sections of pavement at either end of the concrete highway bridges. The Lake creek bridge is estimated to cost about $6,200, the dirt work and pavement about $8,000, it was said. This bridge is to be finished by Sept. 30.

Replacement work amounting to several thousand dollars already has been done on the highway north of Archer City, on that between Olney and Seymour, and on highway No. 23 between Throckmorton and Seymour for the purpose of replacing roadway fills, it was stated. Latest estimates of damage to highways in division 3 as a result of the June flood place the amount at about $75,000.

Five-acre crop production contests in Arkansas this year have an enrollment of 354 farmers from 60 counties.

Young Gains Help

Supporting claims that former Small supporters were drifting to Young, Dallas headquarters for Young named four former "West Texas leaders for Small," who, it was said, had gone over to the Kaufman man's camp.

They were District Attorney L. B. Welch of Breckenridge, E. V. Hardwick, Stamford attorney, L. D. Ratliff of Haskell and Sam Russell, district judge at Stephenville.

J. Barjey Davis, president of the Texas anti-road bond association, said it was his opinion that Senator Small was the only man in the race who could beat "the Fergusons" and "Ross Sterling with his $350,000,000 bond issue." He said Small as governor would save the people $183,000,000, "the interest on the bonds if issued under the Sterling plan."

Small was booked at Mineral Wells Wednesday afternoon and at Cisco at night. Ray Johnson of Amarillo, former county attorney of Potter county, was announced as the principal speaker at a Small-for-governor rally at Quanah Thursday night.

Love's Camp Cheerful

Alvin Moody, Love's campaign manager, said he was filled with confidence as he came to Dallas, Love's home city, from Houston. Moody predicted that Love would lead the ticket with Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Sterling and Mayfield following in that order.

Love was scheduled at Longview Wednesday afternoon and at Texarkana Wednesday night.

James E. Ferguson spoke at Granbury Wednesday afternoon and at Fort Worth at night, the latter speech being broadcast.

Miller headquarters at Dallas announced dates for Millers' speakers.

Murphy Townsend, campaign manager for Sterling in North Texas, sent a telegram to the highway commission chairman at his homecoming celebration at Houston stating that "we are still rolling up the votes for you in North Texas."

RESTRAINED

Woman Enjoined From Interfering of Wedding At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, July 23. (AP)—A temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Emma Schlueter, from appearing at or interfering in any manner with the wedding of F. J. Burket, city fireman, to Anna Zotz, scheduled to be celebrated on Aug. 4, was granted by District Judge Anderson today.

The injunction also restrained Mrs. Schlueter from appearing at the fire station where Burket is employed, or at his residence, or accosting or interfering with him in any manner wherever he might be.

The court order further restrained Mrs. Schlueter from accosting or molesting Burket's fiancee and especially set forth that she was not to appear or create any disturbance at the wedding of Burket and Miss Zotz.

QUAKE'S TOLL PASSES 3,000

Large Portion of Italy Left In Ruins

dreds of relief workers tonight were penetrating the recesses of the agricultural area offering relief to the still terror-stricken victims.

The quake stunned all Italy. It was the worst earthshock since Messina was all but obliterated in 1908. The first temblor came an hour after midnight. Its own awful nature was supplemented by a tremendous electrical storm over virtually the whole affected area.

Countess Claimed

Naples experienced several hours of panic with many houses wrecked and scores of casualties. Among this city's victims was the Countess de Rossi Vargus.

Tonight the work of rescue proceeded as rapidly as the means available would permit, wrecked bridges, snapped communication wires and many other obstacles had been tossed in the path of the relief workers by the upheaval of nature. The highways of the area are notoriously undeveloped and rail lines passed through many gorges into which the quake had tumbled avalanches.

Tunnels Ruined

Several tunnels on the road to Melfi, where 180 persons perished, according to official figures, fell in and blocked service beyond restoration for many days.

The quake tonight visited its first after-effect on this city when authorities closed scores of manufacturing plants whose wall were cracked and in perilous condition. Thousands of workers thus were thrown out of employment.

Four provinces of the sunny, smiling peninsular were converted into "no man's land," in the several larger towns.

Gasoline tax receipts for the first half of 1930 amounts to $3,404,824 in Mississippi.

Wife Supports Alibi Of Baker Murder Suspect

WASHINGTON, July 23. (AP)—The wife of Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate operator charged with the murder of Mary Baker, again came to his aid tonight, corroborating in detail his altered alibi.

Investigators who for 14 weeks have sought the man who assaulted and killed the young government clerk, quoted Mrs. Campbell as saying she would stake her life on the belief that her husband had not committed the murder.

Devol Keeps First Class Rating In Spite of Population Drop

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 23. (UP)—Although the 1930 census gave Devol a population of only 326, the town may continue to operate as a city of the first class under its present charter, Atty. Gen. J. Berry King said today in an opinion to J. C. Nance, Walters, member of the legislature from Cotton county.

Nance had been requested to obtain the opinion by Porter McCollum, Devol justice of the peace.

Records show that Devol became a first class city in a proclamation issued Dec. 1, 1919, by Gov. J. B. A. Robertson. The proclamation was made on the 1910 census which the paper said was "over 2,000."

McCollum told Nance he believed Robertson had been misinformed because the 1910 census showed that Devol had a population of about 200 while the 1920 census gave the town a population of 1,946.

The attorney general told Nance he had been orally informed that a special census was taken in Devol in 1929 for the purpose of determining whether the town had become a first class city. That census showed that the town had more than 2,000.

Devol's present rating as a city should remain in effect under the findings in the records until a court of competent jurisdiction declares otherwise.

The law provides that a city must have a population of 2,000 before it can become a first class city.

Equipment for making safety matches is to be added to a toothpick factory at Cloquet, Minn., first in the U. S. since 1922.

FOARD COUNTY TEST HAS SAND

Owens Wildcat May Open New Field

Special to The Record News

VERNON, July 23.—Promising to bring in a new oil field in Foard county, the A. W. Phillips No. 1 J. S. Owens wildcat test picked up a sand at 1563 feet early today. The test has merely topped the sand and is showing for a production estimated at 100 barrels daily. It is located in section 327, block A, H. & T. C. survey, a mile and a half east of Margaret.

The well is located more than five miles from the nearest production, the Thalia field which was developed in June of last year, and operators here are showing much interest in the test. It has been closed down for several days while operators were busy with a fishing job, and drilling was resumed Tuesday night. The sand was encountered within three feet after resumption of drilling and operations were shut down again, while tubing was run to make a thorough test.

It promises to be the first important extension in this area in several months.

Menard County Well Promises New Field

SAN ANGELO, July 23. (AP)—Making an estimated 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 cubic feet of sweet wet gas daily from a sand topped at 2,945 feet and barely entered, Carl C. Cromwell, James L. Duffy, R. A. Conkling and others No. 2 Eckardt today offered possibilities of becoming the first oil producer in Menard county. A six-inch casing had been set and a test planned.

The well is 15 miles northwest of Menard and 41 miles southwest of San Angelo.

LIST REVEALS OIL RANKINGS

Socony-Vacuum Would Be Sixth in Size

NEW YORK, July 23. (AP)—A list purporting to show that the proposed merger of Standard of New York and Vacuum Oil would make the merged company only sixth in production and fourth in refining capacity in the world was introduced today at the final session of the government's suit to restrain the merger.

Harold F. Sheets, a director of Vacuum, introduced the list, which was attacked by John H. Amen, special assistant attorney general, as of doubtful value. He said it failed to consider the financial resources of the several companies.

Mr. Sheets listed the companies for crude oil production for 1929 as follows (by barrels): Royal Dutch Shell (British company) 175,992,000; Standard of New Jersey 101,100,000; Gulf Oil Corporation (estimated) 100,000,000; Standard of Indiana 89,425,000; Standard of California 51,435,000; Standard of New York-Vacuum 57,986,392; Texas Oil company 50,675,300.

The figures as given for domestic companies have a variable element in that some refer to gross production and some to net production, Mr. Sheets said. The figure given for Standard-Vacuum was gross, he said, and the net figure would be lower than that of Standard Oil of California, placing Socony-Vacuum in sixth place.

On the basis of daily refinery capacity, he listed them as: Standard of New Jersey 718,000; Shell 704,200; Standard of Indiana 404,500; Standard of New York-Vacuum 263,000; Standard of California 244,700; Texas 232,800 and Gulf 177,000.

E. R. Brown of Dallas, president of the Magnolia Petroleum company, a Socony subsidiary, testified about over-production of crude oil during the last few years. He said efforts were being made to curb production through voluntary curtailment by big companies.

The hearings, before Special Master Fred L. Williams, were completed today, but may be reopened for the taking of additional testimony.

Mr. Williams has until Sept. 10 to submit a printed digest of the record to the United States circuit court of the eighth district, which will function as statutory court as provided in the Sherman anti-trust act. Final arguments will be heard in Omaha on Oct. 6 and 7.

Jurisdiction is in the eighth district because the original suit against the Standard Oil company, of which the present action is a revival, was begun in St. Louis in 1906.

The well will be drilled approximately 3250 feet with a rotary rig and will be set with 11¾-inch casing.

Special to The Record News

TULSA, Okla., July 23. — Continued improvement was noted in the wholesale refinery markets of the Mid-Continent area, not only in the runs from the gas productions, and stocks.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N CASON

Since reading Alexander Woolcott in a late issue of Collier's, we have decided we are glad we did not go to Oberammergau this year. (Not that we ever had an idea of going.)

Mr. Woolcott's first visit was to Anton Lang, a man so absorbed in the original Oberammergau legend he still believes his home town to be a quiet Bavarian village.

The noise, the writer stated, was startling. "From beyond the garden wall came the steady roar of tourists arriving by thousands, the grinding of omnibus brakes, the shouted orders of the traffic policeman, the squawk and rasp of motorcycles." And Lang, addressing his visitor (one among many) said, "It must be a pleasant change for you, after all the noise of New York, to come to this quiet Bavarian village."

So many come, Mr. Woolcott wrote, with a ticket entitling them to a room in the humble cottage of Alois Lang, the Christus of 1930. To find that humble cottage a very considerable four-story villa and then to find that Frau Lang, in the excitement of the great migration, has allotted the same rooms several times over, takes tourists a little aback.

Mr. Woolcott has no word of criticism for the marvelous performance given by the Oberammergau actors. It is the commercialization of the village life against which he rebels. He states that 80 per cent of the reservations in July and August were made by Americans. And he believes that long ago, what began "as an uncomplicated Bavarian piety has become, by insensible degrees within recent years, a most elaobrate American folkway."

Yet who could blame one who had the opportunity, going to see that marvelous play these simple Bavarians began as thanks for the Lord's answer to their prayers to stop the plague?

Given in an open amphitheater, seating a little less than 6,000, tourists may go through the scene of the crucifixion in sun or cloud, they may see it as it is described on that day when the skies turned black, and thunder crashed over Golgotha.

The Passion play as given in America has caused no great enthusiasm, even when great actors took part. The one and only Passion play seems to be that of Oberammergau, and it seems there must be some underlying reason for it.

Another Bavarian village, Frieberg, has a Passion play, just as pious and with a pious beginning. But America does not go there.

What we would like best, would be to live a quiet season in Oberammergau between the ten-year dates of the Passion play and note the daily lives of the people. We remember how Alois Lang, who fought in the late war, said that if a man had time to speak after a fatal injury, he always called on God.

John Singleton Honored on Birthday

Mrs. John Singleton entertained three tables at 42 at her home on Woodrow Tuesday evening, honoring her husband on his birthday. The house was filled with summer flowers and a motif of pink was observed in tallies, table covers and the refreshment plate.

Mr. Singleton was winner of high score among men and received a carton of cigarets, while Mrs. W. C. Martin, who won high among the ladies, was presented with a pretty linen bridge luncheon set.

A delicious refreshment plate was served to Messrs. and Mesdames Raymond Howe, George White, W. C. Martin, T. J. White, Cecil Singleton and the host and hostess.

Pretty Bridge Honors Girls Leaving Town

Honoring Misses Dorothy Cline and Jonnie Green Hawkins, who are leaving Wichita Falls on their summer vacations, Miss Phoebe Jane Filgo entertained with a pretty summer bridge at her home on Garfield Tuesday afternoon.

Midsummer flowers in golden shades were used in decorations; zinnias, marigolds and other blossoms emphasized the colors that were used also in the pretty tallies and score cards.

Pretty book vanities with golden backs, were given each honoree by the hostess and Miss Dorothy Webb, who is Miss Filgo's house guest, was also remembered with a pretty gift.

In the games, high score was won by Miss Wilma Brown who received a handsome green and gold box of vacation stationery and second went to Miss Mildred Johnson, who was presented with small Dresden pieces of bric-a-brac. Miss Lucile Harper received a golden backed compact for low.

An ice course was served to Misses Ruth Preston, Mary C. Fisherman Spanks Playful Whale To Halt Frolic

BOSTON, July 23. (AP)—And now there's the one about the fisherman who had to spank the fish to make it go away from his lines.

Jerry Gardner, member of the crew of the Gloucester fishing schooner Louise B. Marshall, which arrived at fish pier today, was hauling trawls in a dory yesterday in the south channel. According to Jerry, a 60-foot whale, one of a school sighted off the fishing grounds, approached the dory and playfully began to splash water on him with its tail. This Jerry took good naturedly enough, but the frolicsome leviathan decided to have some real sport, so it took a dive and came up under the boat. Jerry barely escaped drowning, and the trawls became tangled. The fisherman seized an oar and belabored the swimming mammal so soundly that it swam off, chastened.

Blackheads, Pores —how Awful!

Now don't worry over large pores, unsightly blackheads, wrinkles and perspiration that makes the skin shiny and oily. Out in Hollywood they have the recipe for an amazing lotion that quickly corrects these flaws and makes the skin beautiful. It succeeds even when the finest soaps and creams have failed.

The very minute you pat it on the face and neck it gets down deep into the skin and cleans out the dirt that solidifies in the pores and causes blackheads. Gently it tightens up the skin, erases wrinkles and closes the pores.

Soon, very soon, this lotion makes the skin smooth, good-looking and thereafter keeps it youthfully fresh. You'll notice, too, that oiliness has disappeared and perspiration does not bother you any more.

Get 3 ounces of Orchard White from any druggist, mix it with the juice of 2 lemons. This gives you a full quarter-pint of the finest preparation you have ever used. Try it.

Note: In the summer this lotion keeps the skin soft, free from freckles and guards against that leathery look caused by wind and sun.—Adv.

Storey Tells Bobbitt Some Things He Wouldn't Do as Attorney General

Official Prosecuting Enemies in Bexar Ring, and Accepting Support of South Texas Groups, Says Statement

Cecil Storey of Vernon, candidate for attorney general, in a statement issued Wednesday told Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt some of the things he wouldn't do if he were attorney general.

Mr. Storey's statement was issued in reply to a challenge from the attorney general, in which Mr. Bobbitt asked Mr. Storey what action he (Mr. Storey) would have taken in filing ouster suits against alleged members of a political ring in Bexar county. Mr. Storey has severely criticised the action of Attorney General Bobbitt in filing the ouster suits, declaring that Bobbitt used his office to fight his political enemies, while political rings in other sections of Texas which favor Bobbitt have been allowed to go without investigation.

"I would not have singled out for prosecution, my political enemies, and left unmolested, my political friends," the Storey statement declared. The statement in full follows:

"I have several times pointedly criticized the conduct of my opponent, Mr. R. L. Bobbitt, in his handling of the ouster suits at San Antonio. He has now, through the public press of this state, asked me to say what I would have done with reference to this situation in Bexar county, had I been the attorney general.

Answers Promptly

"I am glad to comply promptly with the request of Mr. Bobbitt, as follows:

"I am unalterably opposed to using the power of a public office for personal political advancement; such misuse of official authority is contrary to the principles of free government. I have always believed in local self-government and have never favored interference by the state in local affairs unless such interference was absolutely necessary and imperative to the public welfare.

"Had I been attorney general and had facts with reference to official misconduct been brought to my attention, I would have instituted a prompt, vigorous investigation and satisfied my own mind promptly as to whether it was necessary for the public welfare for the attorney general of Texas to intervene and if the facts had justified intervention, I would have intervened promptly and vigorously and filed suit immediately and pressed the litigation to a speedy conclusion.

"I would have treated all similar situations over the state in the same way and would not have singled out for prosecution, my political enemies and left unmolested, my political friends.

"My information is that the facts in the San Antonio situation were laid before Mr. Bobbittt either the last of last year or the first of this year. Having been for many years at Laredo and having been active in the political affairs of Webb county, it is certain that Mr. Bobbitt has known ever since he has been attorney general of the high-handed political corruption in that county. He has also had every opportunity to be familiar with, and I understand has for many months been familiar with, the political corcuption in Hidalgo county. I know that Mr. Bobbitt has been called on by citizens of Hidalgo county and besought by the Hidalgo County Good Government league to investigate political corruption there.

"The so-called 'ring' in Bexar county are not political friends of Mr. Bobbitt; the so-called 'ring' in Webb county is supporting him and have publicly endorsed him for re-election; the so-called 'ring' in Hidalgo county is supporting Mr. Bobbitt.

With all of this information before him, Mr. Bobbitt held up the filing of ouster litigation in Bexar county for many months, until the filing of it would best serve his personal political fortunes and then filed it at such a late date, and in one of the several district courts of Bexar county, where the litigation could not be tried until after the primaries, although there were several other district courts open in Bexar county where I am advised a trial could have been had.

"It is a significant fact that Mr. Bobbitt has refrained from filing any ouster suits in Webb county or Hidalgo county where his friends are involved.

University Contract

"Further replying to Mr. Bobbitt's question, I definitely state that had I been attorney general, I would have promptly and vigorously investigated conditions in all three of these counties, as well as in any other counties where conditions had been called to my attention and if the facts warranted it, I would have taken action promptly and vigorously in all three counties without fear or favor and would have undertaken to discharge the duties of my office without reference to the effect upon political friend or political foe. I would not have gone into any of these counties unless I was convinced that the local authorities would not, or could not cope with the situation. But if I had decided to take part in prosecutions in these counties, I would have done so promptly without reference to personal political fortunes.

"It is a matter of record that the Regents of the University have made a contract with a San Antonio law firm (who are now supporting Mr. Bobbitt), to pay that firm an enormous fee to assist the attorney general in some proposed litigation, subject to the approval of the contract by the atorney general. Mr. Bobbitt has had the contract of employment before him for several months and the attorneys have already begun work under such contract, but Mr. Bobbitt has withheld his action on it until after the primaries. I want Mr. Bobbitt to state to the people of Texas why it is necessary to spend $50,000.00 to hire outside attorneys to assist him if he is qualified and competent to discharge the duties of the office. I want him to tell the people of Texas whether he will approve or disapprove this contract of employment for outside help for him and if so, when will he act upon the matter?"

299 ABSENTEE BALLOTS CAST

Voting Here About Half As Heavy as in 1928

The deadline for absentee voting in Wichita county passed at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with a total of 299 such ballots having been marked, according to information given by Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk.

Wednesday's total was by far the largest since the absentee voting opened last week, 66 voters having marked their ballots in the county clerk's office and six marked ballots having been received through the mail from voters now out of the county. The total of votes cast here by persons expecting to be away Saturday was 260, while the number received through the mail was 39. Clerks in the office Wednesday were kept busy throughout the day instructing voters how to cast their absentee votes. This year's total, Miss Hall said, is about half as large as the total absentee vote here two years ago.

Woman Asks $25,000 In Suit Filed Here

Alleging she was struck on the head by a 50-pound sack of cotton samples which either fell or was thrown from the window of D. W. Wiley's cotton brokerage office at Seventh street and Indiana avenue last March 24, Mrs. F. M. Sadler Wednesday filed suit for $25,000 damages against Mr. Wiley on the claim that she was severely injured by the heavy sack.

Mrs. Sadler's petition states she was walking along the street at that point when the sack suddenly came out of the window of Mr. Wiley's office 18 feet above, striking her on the head and causing injuries to her head, shoulders and spine which will prevent her from earning as much in the future due to the fact that she will be unable to work in her injured condition.

Another lonesome vacation

...was 'B.O.' (Body Odor) to blame?

PEOPLE had been friendly enough at first—invited him to go on picnics, walks and rides. But not any more! Even his own invitations were politely turned down now. That's what always happened—every year. He couldn't understand it.

Then, returning to the city on a crowded train, he overheard something. His own name and then—"B.O." And all at once—he knew! Realized why others left him out of things, kept away from him. For "B.O." is the polite term for a condition people dislike even to mention—body odor . . . Now he has adopted a simple safeguard against this fault that kept him unpopular. Next year won't see another vacation ruined by "B.O."

"B. O." weather—beware!

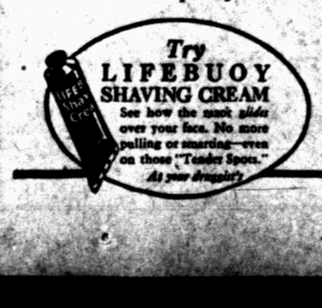

Hot sultry days like these make us perspire more freely—increase the danger of "B.O." We quickly become used to this ever-present odor, seldom notice it in ourselves—only in others.

Because it is so easy to offend and not know it, take this simple precaution. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Then you're safe. For Lifebuoy, even in hardest water, gives an abundance of rich, creamy, antiseptic lather that penetrates pores—removes all odor—leaves you gloriously clean and fresh. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies.

Keeps complexions at their loveliest

What a friend Lifebuoy is to the complexion! Millions of women know this. Its bland, searching lather deep-cleanses pores—gently frees them of clogged impurities. Then watch dull skins freshen—healthy, radiant beauty return. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

Director Protests Thomas' Attitude

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., July 23.—W. L. Hutcheson, director of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers association has sent a telegram to Senator J. Elmer Thomas expressing his disapproval at the action of Thomas in opposing the action of the federal farm board in the wheat situation.

The message follows: "The press reports show you are in an unfriendly attitude toward the federal farm board. We deeply regret this for we have been your sincere friend and realize you wield wonderful influence over our people. Our proud boast is that you came to your constituents and asked them what they wanted and then strove masterfully to carry out their wishes.

"The records show Tillman county to be the most loyal cooperative county of the state, our civic as well as all farm organizations are squarely behind the federal farm board.

"For several years Tillman county has sent the first car of wheat to the association. Four consecutive years we have delivered the highest percentage of cotton to the Cotton Growers association, the past season about 70 per cent.

"In the recent unprecedented loan of about $2,500,000 made to the cooperative cotton farmers of the southland on a part of their cotton held in cooperative associations, Oklahoma received about $1,000,000 and Tillman county over $350,000. This was truly a blessing and could not have been secured except through the federal farm board.

"We trust these press reports are erroneous as we look to the combined wisdom of our southern legislators and the federal farm board to lead agriculture from its depressed condition." W. L. Hutcheson.

Search Continues For Negro Slayer

SHREVEPORT, La., July 23. (AP)—Sheriff T. R. Hughes announced at noon today that no trace had been found of the negro who yesterday shot and killed C. J. Mason, Greenwood, La., merchant. He said the search was continuing and expressed doubt that mob violence would follow capture of the slayers as the excitement of last night has subsided.

The family of the slain main said that the funeral would be held tomorrow afternoon at Longstreet. Mason is survived by his widow and two children. He was born at Fort Wayne, Ind., and for several years was a merchant at Longstreet, La. He worked for seven years in Panama with engineers on the Panama canal.

Rejuvenated Patients Defend Accused Goat-Gland Specialist

TOPEKA, Kan., July 23. (UP)—A Kansas boilermaker came to the defense today of Dr. J. R Brinkley, Kansas "rejuvenation specialist," threatened with revocation of his medical license. The boilermaker testified a Brinkley goat gland transplantation had given him new vigor.

The boiler shop worker, L. F. Duvall of Parsons, Kan., said that before he submitted to the Brinkley operation he was so tired he could hardly arise in the morning, but that since he obtained goat glands he was completely rejuvenated.

Duvall was the first defense witness in a hearing before the state medical board which will determine whether or not Brinkley will be allowed to continue his practice at Milford, Kan. Brinkley maintains a hospital and radio station there through which he prescribed treatment to patients in many states.

S. P. Brooks of Salina, Okla., 69, was the next defense witness.

He testified he had been afflicted for several years before going to Brinkley, who gave him relief.

A neighbor who had heard Brinkley over the radio told him about the "goat gland specialist," Brooks said.

"Have you received any benefits from the operation?" he was asked.

"Well, I'm on the go now and am feeling fine," the witness said.

The witness said the doctor told him not to do any work for about six months but that he has felt so good he has kept on looking after his farm on Grand river.

On cross examination the witness was asked what the goat glands were like.

"I don't know, I didn't pay any attention."

It's a Funny World

PARIS—Traffic conditions and laws here are just a little different than anywhere else in the world, as M. Perrot, pianist, found. Recently he was knocked down by an automobile and escaped, luckily, with minor injuries. After recovery he was given a summons in court on the charge of having gotten in the way of an automobile. He got out of paying a fine by proving that the driver of the automobile didn't sound his horn.

Eating Whale Meat

TOKIO—Japanese poor, unable to buy beef or pork on the markets, are living on a diet of fish. Most of this is canned whale meat packed this summer at several Alaska canneries. These people eat hearts, liver and tongue of whales as well as the tails. These portions are heavily salted and stored in casks.

Jim Young and Clint Small

STATE SENATOR CLINT SMALL is now being paraded before the voters by the promoters of his candidacy as the only sure bet to stop the menace of Fergusonism.

The voters are told, and perhaps correctly so, that Mrs. Ferguson will be in the runoff. Mr. Small is then presented as the only candidate to cut down the Fergusons.

Small, in our estimate, has been over-promoted. Superlative statements about his ability and his achievements hardly can stand the test.

A candidate can't be high pressured into greatness in the short space of a single campaign. Clint Small has some admirable qualities. He's well known and respected in his own district—not so well known outside of it.

There's nothing in his political career, however, to dub him as an outstanding personality of Texas and when his promoters place him upon a pedestal of high accomplishments and point to him as the lone hope to save Texas politically, the situation takes on the aspect of the ridiculous.

Small's candidacy was launched with a sectionalized appeal. No doubt a great many West Texans will resent that. Small was ushered into the race as the favorite son of all West Texas. That's taking in much territory—a territory with its interests as diversified and different as say Galveston and Amarillo.

The Small strategy is to claim at least 100,000 votes in West Texas with only a sprinkling more needed from over the state to go over. He's presented as the only candidate with any large sectional block of votes—sort of a club with which to round up the needed votes in other sections.

As the campaign progressed the purely sectional label was found to be a handicap. The error was caught. Then there started the big drive to de-sectionalize his candidacy and present him outside of his own bailiwick as the chief hope to deliver the state from political ruin.

We have no animosity against Mr. Small. We prefer him to at least three of the seven candidates given a chance for the runoff. But we believe that that part of his candidacy in which he is termed the "biggest and best" hope to turn back the Fergusons should be debunked.

Lynch Davidson, former lieutenant governor, who withdrew from the governor's race to center on Small and Young and who now throws all of his influence to Small because "he has the best chance," describes Small as "honest and of average ability." That portrayal coming from one who now urges the election of Small is about the correct size-up of the man. Had his other sponsors followed that line of dignified support instead of engaging in all the superlatives of greatness the Small campaign today might have possessed more momentum.

Before Davidson withdrew from the race we looked upon his candidacy with considerable favor. But as to his preference now for Small over Young we must disagree.

If West Texas is looking for a candidate on a narrow and sectional basis (and we don't believe it is) we refer the voters to Jim Young. Ten years ago the West Texas cattlemen were confronted with a terrible situation of both drouth and depressed prices. They protested against the packers' monopoly that threatened to bankrupt them.

Jim Young, then in Congress, stepped into the battle. Five big packeries not only monopolized the meat business, but sought to secure control of other food products. Texas stockmen demanded federal legislation that would check the monopoly. Young played the chief role in presenting the facts to Congress. He helped write a bill that established federal control over the packing industry. He made a long-remembered and dramatic fight in that session of Congress (his last) for the measure. A powerful lobby blocked a vote. But the U. S. attorney general, basing a suit on facts gathered by Young, got an agreed judgment in which the packers dropped all effort to effect a food monopoly.

And at the next session of Congress the packers and the stockyards act became a law. West Texas can thank Jim Young for that.

Young did more. He fought for and prevented wartime prices on West Texas farms and ranch products from being set below a reasonable level. He blocked a proposed quarantine against Texas cotton. He secured appropriations to fight Texas farm and ranch pests.

Compare these services for West Texas with those of Clint Small. Give Small all the credit he is due on his land bill—the bill which he exploits so much. His bill gave a comparatively few ranchmen title to creek bed lands. Most of the oil lands involved are now controlled by the major oil companies.

Compare the experience of the men and their knowledge of government. Young had long and honorable service in Congress. He is a student of government. He is particularly qualified to pass on matters affecting agriculture.

IF THE VOTER FOR ANY REASON HAS NARROWED HIS CHOICE DOWN TO YOUNG OR SMALL, THE CALL SHOULD GO TO JIM YOUNG.

A Maker of Judges Learned in Sing Sing An Affable Magistrate Mr. Carroll Charms Him

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Investigation of the activities of Magistrate Ewald, whose resignation from the bench is the only point in his favor during his career as a New York judge, will interest optimistic taxpayers who still hope for clean government. It develops that an active gentleman who served two and a half years in Sing Sing for bribery was sufficiently influential when he came out of prison to put Mr. Ewald on the bench! A fine spectacle for those who expect the cold neutrality of an impartial judge in the people's court.

Magistrate Gotlieb, denouncing in court Mr. Carroll's "Vanities" as lewd and obscene, steps from the bench after delivering his attack, shakes hands cordially and chats affably with the producer for several minutes. In explanation, the judge says: "I have met Mr. Carroll socially and found him a charming fellow." Mr. Gotlieb should introduce the producer to the judges in special sessions. Such a charming personality should not be confined to the lower courts.

Editors and printers will mourn the passing of James M. Lynch, for years president of the International Typographical union. Old timers will say he was in the business when editors were real and actually wrote what they thought. But few editors, writing "thirty," could look back on as useful a life as Jim Lynch's. Working himself up from "printer's devil," he led a nation-wide fight for a 48-hour week for the men of his craft. Editors, who work much longer, will doff their hats to him. In his death labor loses a great crusader.

Interesting prohibition note. Mr. Cassidy, known as "the man in the green hat," is convicted in Washington of possessing and transporting liquor. He was taking liquor to the senate office building, where hypocritical gentlemen drink before they go to the senate chamber to vote dry. That is where he was caught. But the court had nothing to say about that.

Former President Coolidge, listening to Mayor Curley's address at the tercentenary exercises in Boston, hears the following:

"Honored president that has been and, if he so desires, may again be."

Mr. Coolidge makes no comment, unmoved amid a ripple of amusement. He is in the same position as the famous Greek hero who, when asked why his statue was not in the market place, replied:

"I would prefer to have the people ask why it isn't there, than why it is."

Appearing for a Mr. Bailey in Savannah, Lawyer Ryer of Brooklyn, trying to save him from a fine of $20,000 and a penitentiary sentence for a prohibition violation, argues that everybody violates the prohibition law and that a million bottles of liquor are consumed in New York. Some will say that the lawyer's estimate is conservative in a population of 7,000,000.

"I put some more to it an' had a windshield wiper put on my car," said Farmer Jake Bentley, when Lafe Bud asked him what he did with all the money he made in 1929. Well, anyhow, there's no excuse fer marryin' a weak-kneed girl.

Once upon a time there was a clairvoyant who never once declared she had received a message from the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

As one sun-burned bather might greet another: "And how are you peeling today?"

Space has no limits they say, but did you ever see a woman trying to park a car in a six-foot opening?

Criticism by the Blind

ONE OF THE peculiar things about modern America is that so many intelligent and thoughtful people do not in the least seem able to understand it.

Pick up any magazine that is devoted to something higher than stereotyped fiction and cut-from-a-pattern success stories, and you find that the prevailing note, in any article that tries to assay the current area, is one of dark foreboding or downright despair.

That is not entirely surprising. There are tendencies in modern American life that are ominous enough, in all truth. But in many cases the gloomy prophets seem to have a complete misconception of our entire industrial civilization.

A writer in a recent issue of The New Republic, for example, remarks that we owe to Henry Ford "the discovery that our national welfare depends upon attaining the maximum rate of destruction of our national resources." Then, after asserting that Ford's theory calls on us to waste things we possess as fast as possible, he comes to the question of world peace and makes this amazing statement:

"For long we have worried about war, driven by a pre-industrial feeling that war is the enemy of mankind. But by the theory of the economic value of waste we find that war is the basis of culture. War is our great economic safety valve. For if waste lets up, if people simply won't throw out things fast enough to create new needs in keeping with the increased output under improved methods of manufacture, we always have recourse to the still more thoroughgoing waste of war. An intelligently managed war can leave whole nations to be rebuilt, thus providing work at peak productivity for millions of the surviving population."

This sample of the reaction of our intellectuals to the new trend in human society fills one with a sort of stupefied despair. For we have here not only a complete misunderstanding of the doctrine of modern industry, as exemplified by Henry Ford; we have also a ludierous misconception of industry's attitude toward the tragedy of war.

We have a right to expect something better than this. The critics of this age of industrialism ought, at least, to set themselves straight on its fundamentals. The facile optimism of the success magazines is not born of any more shoddy thinking than the equally facile pessimism of some of our intellectuals.

A tremendous change is coming upon society these days. It is coming whether we like it or not. No amount of disturbed wailing will halt it. From our intellectual classes we should be getting—not blind outbursts of peevish alarm, but a genuine attempt to understand what is happening and how we can get the most out of it. Weird remarks like the ones quoted above do no one any good.

Jesse James and Paul Revere

THE grandson of Jesse James is arrested in Chicago for trying to get a blank checkbook from a bank where he did not have an account, and a descendant of Paul Revere is arrested for driving his automobile too rapidly along the road where his illustrious ancestor made his famous break-neck ride; and the conjunction of these two incidents is bound to set one to musing momentarily on the changes that time has brought.

Jesse James went out boldly, gun in hand, to take what he wanted. He at least risked his life to perform his robberies. His modern prototype, however, is more likely to do the job without risk, by forgery. And the lonely country road that Paul Revere galloped over is now a metropolitan highway so thickly traveled that riders must keep their speed down or endanger the lives of others.

What does it all prove? Oh, nothing, probably—except that neither Paul Revere nor Jesse James would recognize things if they came back to take a look around.

A Dangerous Attitude

THE CITY of Detroit has had ten gang murders in nine days. All of them were of the regular Chicago pattern. But Detroit's police commissioner is not only unworried; he remarks that since all of the people being killed are highly undesirable citizens the police will not take any especial steps to interfere.

If Detroit wants to follow Chicago's example, no one can find any fault with this attitude; but if it does not, it ought to take its police commissioner aside and explain to him that he is making a terrible mistake.

Gang killings thrive on just such an attitude. The gangsters do not wipe each other out—unfortunately. Instead, their private wars simply entrench one faction or another more deeply in a city's life. Finally, when their boldness has become unbearable, Detroit may find itself in Chicago's position—utterly unable to regain the control over the underworld which it placidly gave up a few years before.

Canada Buys Less

EXPORTS from the United States to Canada during May dropped $24,000,000 as compared with the figures for May of last year, according to figures made public at Ottawa. In May of 1929 the exports were $89,000,000; in May of 1930 they were $65,000,000.

This slump, according to a dispatch from Ottawa, is chiefly due to the tariff increases which Canada instituted this spring in reprisal for the new American tariff law.

Of course, we are a prosperous country, and $24,000,000 doesn't mean very much to us. Still, one cannot help wondering just how this drop in the export trade is going to help American industry out of its present depression.

You might remember, too, that Canada hitherto has been America's best customer.

At 16...How she used to tease Jessel, Price and the rest of us...Then Kirkwood—motherhood, stardom, divorce, "sweetheart trouble," and now the Arizona climate...Poor kid ...No big bean or any of the typical up-stage stuff when success crowned her...There was the time at 44th Street near the Astor...She walked along so proudly and my nerve stranded me—for fear she would hand out "the chill"...And, anyway, a whole decade had passed since we met...As she approached, I looked at her sheepishly...She paused..."Walter?" she said hesitatingly..."Golly, Cuddles, I never dreamed you'd remember me!"... "Of course, I do!" etc, etc...Now, just as her ambitions are realized, she is knocked down...Where Renee Adoree is, they say...Gussie Apfel of Union Hill, rechristened Lila Lee—after Lillian Lee, maiden name of Mrs. Edwards...It wasn't overwork in the films, at all...One of those "deals" handed out by a guy she "went for"...If love doesn't make you bugs, it crowds your lungs with 'em...Poor Cuddles.

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Desperate to learn her true identity, Kay Smith learns from a stranger that he posttively believes she is Kitty Banning, confidence woman. Going to the town of Langly, she finds Kitty's parents dead, but discovers that they were "trash" and that their children had been ungrateful and heartless. Not wanting to believe she is Kitty Blanning, Kay confides in Dr. Raleigh, who assures her it is a mistake.

CHAPTER XIII

Flora Bramley and Kay slid into their usual seats at the tea room they always patronized for lunch. Kay liked Flora, liked the twinkle in her blue eyes, the happy look on her face, her rippling laugh that was so mirthful. Already they were fast friends.

Today Flora was more excited than ever. She turned to Kay with the breathless countenance she usually had when she had some tale to tell.

"I went to Madame Marcia last night!" she announced in a hushed voice.

"Who's Madame Marcia?"

"She's a fortune teller, silly—a super fortune teller. You have to make appointments 'way ahead, only someone had failed her yesterday, so she gave me a few minutes last night. Everybody's talking about her. She told me—lots of things." Remembrance of the "things" sent a rapt expression to Flora's face.

Kay was suddenly interested in Madame Marcia. She paid more attention to what Flora was saying.

"Yes, she told me lots of things. When you go in to see her you write on a little paper in the waiting room what you want to know, future events, or past events. Some servant takes the paper in to her. You don't have to write anything else, no name or anything, just one word, past or future. When you see Madame Marcia, she starts right in telling you things. I wrote 'future' so that's what she told me."

"You mean she'll tell you things that happened in your past life?" Kay was incredulous.

"She's awfully good. A lot of people swear by her. Why, she even tells some people their names, where they were born, everything. I only wanted the future, so that's all I got. Paid her five dollars—" Flora made a wry face—"half the price of the permanent wave I was wanting, but I don't care. She told me a lot that—might come true."

"What for instance?" Kay wanted to know more about this seeress. If she could tell the past—oh, but she couldn't. No one could. Doctor Raleigh, and Dane would laugh at her if she went to a fortune teller. . .

"About George and me." He was Flora's current sweetheart. "We're not going to be married as soon as I thought. That was disappointing of course, but maybe it's for the best." She spoke as if Madame Marcia had told her the absolute truth. "She doesn't give you much time, so you have to listen closely, or you'll miss something."

Would it be foolish to go? Kay was half ashamed of herself for even thinking of consulting Madame Marcia. Psychic, Flora said she was. What would Edith say?

Flora was rummaging through her purse. Finally she pulled out a small engraved card, and passed it over to Kay. "Madame Marcia Consultations on Past and Future." In the corner were the address and telephone number.

Kay took it gravely and transferred it to her own bag.

A Hint or Clew

Back at the office, she tried to forget Madame Marica, but found the seeress was occupying a good share of her thoughts anyway.

Psychic. Madame Marica might give her some hint, a clew . . . Flora, of course, had only wanted to know, about her affair with George, whether he loved her as much as she loved him. Whether they would be happy. Girl stuff. But if she, Kay, went to Madame Marcia's and wrote on the slip, "past," what would she learn?

Exasperated with herself, she took the phone and called Madam Marcia's number.

Exasperated with herself, she took hold of the phone, and called Madame Marcia's number. A pleasant voice answered, and when Kay asked for an appointment, announced that she could have one the following evening, at 8. Fifteen minutes for $5.

Well, that was done. Five dollars was a lot of money, as Flora had said, but maybe she would learn something of value. At any rate, the visit would do her no harm.

"You called Madame Marcia?" Flora asked, when Kay had hung down the receiver. The girl nodded.

"What are you going to ask her about? Past or future?"

"Past."

"Oh, don't, ask her about the future. You know the past," Flora protested.

Flora knew the past, but she didn't. That's why she was going. "I'm just going to test her," Kay lied.

Gordon Drew approached Kay's desk, and asked her to dine with him the following night. She was glad to have an excuse to refuse him. Not that she didn't like Gordon. She did, in a way, but she didn't want to see him outside the office, go out with him. She didn't want to go out with anyone but Dane, and that was impossible.

She told Edith about Madame Marcia that evening, and the nurse insisted on going with her, and waiting for her. She was surprised that Edith did not remonstrate with her about going and said so.

A Warning

"Why, it's all right. Only I don't want you to feel that this woman is going to tell you the real truth, Kay. You see that?"

"Surely. I'm going more than anything out of curiosity." Kay hadn't told Edith the exact truth. There was a certain amount of curiosity connected with her visit, but there was hope, too. More hope than she even admitted to herself.

Sunday night, she had vowed, promised herself there would be no more seeking into the past. It was dead as far as she was concerned. The resolution had not lasted long, however. She was still filled with the insatiable longing to know something about herself. Anything.

Kitty Banning? She shuddered when she thought of the name. When it came to her as it did often she tried to brush it from her mind, unsuccessfully.

Doctor Raleigh had said she couldn't be Kitty Banning, but she felt he was being untruhtful to her. Dane, too, had laughed at her.

Q.—What German dialect is considered the standard pronunciation?—B. G.

A.—In Germany there is no standard of pronunciation that is acknowledged and absolutely followed by the mass of intelligent people. The so-called standard of some people is the pronunciation of the stage, which again, is divided into the pronunciation of tragedy and comedy. In the latter, of course, is heard the more natural pronunciation of everyday life. The sectional differences are very marked but in general there is a North German and a South German pronunciation.

Q.—What is the maximum weight the average steel, clincher rim bicycle wheel will hold?—G. R. W.

A.—There are quite a few different factors which enter into the strength of a built-up wheel as well as the road conditions and the conditions of the tires. As far as we have been able to ascertain there have never been any definite tests made to determine this. An authority says he has known a bicycle to carry a weight of approximately 300 pounds on two wheels, but he does not know how long the bicycle could stand this weight nor whether it would have been possible over a rough, stony road surface. The condition of the tightness of the spokes, as well as the angle of the lacing and the strength of the spokes, also contributes to the serviceability and strength of the wheel.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on Ice Creams

Heavy cream is the most satisfactory base for desserts frozen without stirring, according to the government expert who prepared the booklet now available to readers of The Record News for a postage and handling charge of 10 cents. Such cream is used in making mousses and in combination with egg whites in parfaits. These are frozen by packing in ice and salt or placing in a mechanical refrigerator, provided the temperature of the unit is sufficiently low, from 21 to 27 degrees Fahrenheit.

Heavy cream is expensive, however, and if used alone is too rich to be palatable; so recipes have been prepared in which the rich cream is diluted by the addition of evaporated milk and thin cream, or by rich milk thickened with gelatin, eggs or flour.

Send today for booklet that tells all about this.

"STEP-CHILD" BY ROB EDEN

She hadn't reported her visit to Langly to him, although he had asked her about it. She felt she couldn't tell the story again. Once, to Doctor Raleigh had been enough.

The next evening, she and Edith started out to Madame Marcia's. The house was an old brownstone in the West Fifties, the seeress occupying the parlor suite.

A neat, colored servant answered their ring, and they followed her into a small, well furnished reception room. Another woman was waiting, leaning back, completely relaxed, her eyes closed, in a large arm chair. She was well dressed, and intelligent looking. A mink wrap lay on a chair beside her.

Kay was glad of Edith's presence. Without her she would have been nervous.

Good Taste

Edith was surprised at the good taste of the room. A few good etchings on the walls, plainly covered furniture, a fine oriental rug on the floor. In a copper bowl on a low table, a riot of zinnias, shading from a dull purple to a bright orange. If Madame Marcia was a fake, she was at least a good fake. None of the usual atmosphere stuff—darkened rooms, queer crystals around.

Presently the maid returned, and handed Kay a small pad, telling her to write only one word on it, "past," or "future." With a hand that was trembling slightly, she complied, and returned the pad to the negress, who beckoned the other woman.

Kay and Edith were left alone. The nurse was watching Kay anxiously. The visit meant so much to her—she could see that. So much more than it did to Madame Marcia's other clients.

Foolish to think that the woman could solve the riddle of Kay's past though. Foolish. Kay knew that, too, but she was hoping.

Although Kay had told her nothing of her trip over the week-end, Edith knew all about it. Doctor Raleigh had told her in confidence, feeling that she should know. He didn't want Kay out alone at night, didn't want her by any chance to meet this man "Jim" again. Miss Nason was to see to that. And Edith had agreed to watch her charge carefully, without, of course, making Kay feel she was being watched.

Fifteen minutes passed slowly. A clock was ticking somewhere softly. Kay was fidgety. She walked to the carved marble fireplace, and looked for a time into the glowing, hot coals resting there. The heat was good. She spread her palms to the fire. She was still there, stooping over the grate, when the maid returned and beckoned her.

"I'll wait here," Edith offered. Kay was grateful for that. She wanted to see Madame Marcia alone.

The room to which the maid conducted her was a large one, furnished as a library, the walls lined with books, a great world globe standing in one corner.

A woman was sitting at a small desk before a fireplace, the replica of which was in the reception room. The coals in it glowed dully.

Kay sank into the chair the woman indicated, and looked across the table. Lying before Madame Marcia on the polished surface of the table was the slip of paper in her own handwriting. The seeress was frowning.

Lubbock Prepares For Kiwanis Meet

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 23.—Kiwanis clubs in the Plains division are making plans to come here to help welcome the Kiwanians from other sections, Sept. 1-2, when the annual Texas-Oklahoma district convention of Kiwanis International meets here. Members of the Lubbock Kiwanis club are engaged in getting ready for the event.

Word from Frank Gillette of Amarillo recently indicates that the entire membership of 120 at Amarillo will be here to assist Lubbock Kiwanians in welcoming the visitors to this section.

Childress will likewise send its entire club here for the convention.

Two Texas Radio Stations Under Fire

WASHINGTON, July 23. (INS)—Thirty-one radio broadcasting stations were played on probation by the Federal Radio commission today, and hearings will be held to determine whether they should be continued after Oct. 31.

Indicating a decision to "clean house," the commission announced that these stations were given 90-day renewals of licenses from Aug. 1 with an express reservation that the grant shall not be construed as a finding that the stations are "operated in the public interests."

Unless they can show they are filling a need, the licenses will expire after the probationary period, it was stated.

The stations included:

KFUL, Galveston, Texas; KGFG, (Faith Tabernacle Association, Inc.), Oklahoma City, Okla.; MGMP, Elk City, Okla., and KTRH, Houston, Texas.

Amtorg Head Doubts So-Called 'Whalen' Papers

NEW YORK, July 23. (AP)—Peter A. Bogdanov, president of the Amtorg Trading corporation, Soviet business representative in the United States, acknowledged today he had no actual proof that the so-called Whalen documents were forgeries, although it was his firm conviction they were not genuine.

Bonds of $2,000 Set for 21 Erick Men Held in Racial Disorders

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 23. (AP)—Arraignment of 21 Erick, Okla., citizens, on federal charges of conspiracy to violate constitutional rights in connection with an alleged attempt to depopulate their community of negroes, was competed here today before a United States commissioner. Two more are sought on the charges.

Bonds for each of the 21, including M. Y. Baker, under sheriff of Beckham county, and C. T. Calvert, Erick marshal, were seat at $2,000. All but Baker waived preliminary hearing. His hearing probably will be July 30. All 21 pleaded not guilty.

Citizens Urge Probe

The men were brought here by train and motor car following their arrest at Erick. The charges were brought against them because of the alleged circulation of petitions to rid Erick of its negroes following the slaying of a former Erick woman at Shamrock, Texas, by a negro. A delegation of Erick citizens urged Roy St. Lewis, District Attorney, to bring the charges, alleging local officials would not prosecute.

At the same time the government moved to bring into court at Chickasha 23 men charged in connection with the burning of a national guard truck during riots of last May 31 which resulted in the slaying of Henry Argo, also a negro. Their hearings were set for Aug. 18. The Chickasha men also are charged in state court with rioting.

"Political Maneuver"

Following his arraignment today Under Sheriff Baker characterized his arrest as a "political maneuver." He said he accompanied mobsmen only to enforce the law and to protect property. Through his influence, he asserted, property damage and personal injury were avoided.

One of the ousted negroes, Sanford Brown, was here today to confer with Lewis. He said that the crops on his farm near Erick would be ruined unless he could return.

Two hundred negroes, he said, were driven from their homes, many of them in destitute condition. Only a few could obtain legal aid.

"None of us know what to do," the negro said.

Most of the defendants denied the negroes had been "driven out," declaring they "were asked in a nice way to leave." No property was destroyed, they said.

Tribunal to Decide Princess' Marriage

PARIS, July 23. (AP)—Whether the Princess Amedee de Brogile, aged 73, can legally marry Don Louis de Bourbon, 42-year-old son of the Infanta Eulalia of Spain, will be decided by the tribuna of the Seine Friday.

Don Luis, who is a cousin of the Spanish monarch and once was reported engaged to Mrs. W. E. Corey of Pittsburgh, was last reported to have gone to his villa at San Remo.

The Duke de Brissac, nephew of Princess Amedee, has formally filed objections to the match on account of the age of the princess. He also complained of prodigalities by the princess, alleging she has squandered huge sums in the past few years. He asked that a judicial council be named to administer her property.

Dandruff is inexcusable!

A swift, pleasant way to get rid of it

Annoying, unsightly, unhealthy — dandruff! How it repels others. How quickly it betrays you as a careless person.

Why put up with loose dandruff when full strength Listerine will rid you of it? Thousands of women are enthusiastic about Listerine used this way.

Simply douse Listerine on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously. Within a day or two, you ought to see marked improvement. Of course, if you have a stubborn case, it will be necessary to keep the treatment up several days. If your hair and scalp are excessively dry, use a little olive oil in conjunction with the shampoo.

Listerine first removes and dissolves loose dandruff. Then it cools and heals the scalp. And since it kills to 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds, Listerine automatically checks any infection that may be present. This is important in connection with dandruff since many dermatologists declare dandruff to be of germ origin.

Get a bottle of Listerine today and use it. See how much better your hair looks, how much better your scalp feels tomorrow. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Missouri, U. S. A.

Health and Diet Advice

The Cure of Piles

In the cure of piles or any form of rectal trouble, the first thing to do is to adopt the enema habit. The rectum should be thoroughly cleansed at least once or twice a day with a warm enema. This may be taken while sitting on the toilet and permitting the water to run in and out so that all the membranes in the lower bowel are thoroughly washed. This keeps the rectal membranes free and clean of bacterial and food irritations and at the same time is soothing to the nervous system.

It also is advisable at the beginning of the treatment to use a liquid diet so that there will be less bulky material in the lower colon. The orange, grapefruit or grape juice fast seems to be especially beneficial. Following the enema, the patient should use some exercises while lying on the back with the hips elevated so that the internal organs will be carried by gravity away from the lower pelvic region.

Following the exercises, a good local treatment is to apply ice to the piles. A good way is to break off a small piece of ice, whittle it into a cone-like shape, and carefully insert the small end into the rectum, holding it there with a thick towel. This should be done with the hips elevated so that the piles are drawn internally.

The ice cone then should be carefully forced farther in until it melts. This treatment should last only four or five minutes while the ice is melting. The cold of the ice causes the blood vessels to contract and the circulation is improved after each treatment. This will stop the progress of the hemorrhoids and materially reduce their size and finally, through the contraction, will develop the muscles inside the walls of the veins.

After the ice treatment, it is a good plan to place a small piece of cocoa-butter into the rectum. Permit this to remain in all night. This will assist in soothing the inflamed surfaces.

Following the fasting regime the diet must be of a kind to procure a relief from the constipation which practically always exists.

This regime of exercising and the application of ice and cocoa-butter should be continued until all the symptoms disappear. Then if the patient will take care to live on a non-constipating diet there need not be any return of the local trouble.

When there is a liver congestion, one should always take care to reduce the heavy foods such as the proteins and carbohydrates so as to give the liver a chance to catch up with its work and normal functioning.

Permanent results in the cure of piles may be expected from the use of these local treatments if at the same time the other causes I have mentioned are removed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Apoplexy

Question—X. Y. Z. writes: "Kindly explain what apoplexy is and if there is a cure for it."

Answer: Apoplexy is a sudden paralysis and coma from effusion of blood or serum into the brain or spinal cord. Most cases recover from the first attack at least, and no more attacks need occur if the affected one will learn the cause and live so as to prevent a recurrence of the attack.

Mosaic Dietary Laws

Question—S. E. asks: "Is there a healthful reason why the Mosaic dietary laws prohibit the eating of dairy and meat products during a meal. Also, is it for a healthful reason that these laws require a lapse of six hours between a meat meal and a dairy food meal?"

Answer: The Mosaic laws have many fine suggestions about the regulation of the dietary. One especially good rule is against the use of milk with a meat meal. My experience with patients has taught me that milk with other protein foods makes such a meal difficult of digestion. As it takes about six hours to digest an ordinary meal, it is always well to wait this long between meals.

Age and Arteriosclerosis

Question—Y. M. asks: "Is there an age limit for arteriosclerosis? Is it possible for a person 55 years old to be free from that ailment?"

Answer: Arteriosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, may occur at any age, but is more frequently found with those after 40. This ailment can be at least partly corrected through various hygienic measures with special attention to correct diet.

Green or Over-ripe Fruit

Question—M. O. writes: "I would like to ask which is the more harmful to eat, fruit partly green or over-ripe?"

Answer: Fruits should not be used in either condition. Green fruit may sometimes be cooked and made edible, but over-ripe fruit always should be discarded.

Blackstrap Syrup Rates Are Argued

HOUSTON, July 23. (AP)—Freight rates on blackstrap molasses shipments from points in Louisiana to Oklahoma and Kansas were being considered today at a hearing of the Interstate Commerce commission before Examiner Snyder here today.

The case is one in which certain Texas interests have protested against the quoting, by Louisiana carriers, of rates from New Orleans to points in Oklahoma and Kansas, the rates being the same as those quoted by the Santa Fe from Texas ports.

A hearing of the state railroad commission to determine proper rates on shipments of sand from Texas producing points to Houston also was begun.

Pittsburgh Takes Both Ends of Double-Header

PHILADELPHIA, July 23. (AP)—Pittsburgh took both ends of a double-header from the Phillies today and gained an even split on the local series. The Pirates took the first game, 2 to 1, and won the last, a long drawn battle that lasted 3 hours and 41 minutes by 16 to 15 in 13 innings.

Home runs by Traynor decided both. He hit one off Roy Hansen that won a pitching duel for Meine in the ninth of the opener, the ball bounding into the bleachers. His homer in the final came with two on base. Scores:

Cubs Sink Deeper As Giants Take Series Final

NEW YORK, July 23. (AP)—The Giants took advantage of the wildness of Chicago's pitchers today to win the series final from the Cubs, 8 to 6, and send the Chicagoans a game deeper into second place. The Cubs took an early lead but Sheriff Blake weakened in the fifth and his successors had trouble finding the plate. The Giants scored four runs in the fifth on only two hits, two of the tallies being walked across the plate. Score:

Luque's Hurling Adds Game To Brooklyn's Place

BROOKLYN, July 23. Complaint to Test New Oil Purchasing Law

AUSTIN, July 23. (AP)—First of the complaints charging inequitable purchase of oil under the new common purchaser act was received by the state railroad commission today from an operator in the salt flats field near Luling.

Other complaints had been filed that pipe line companies were not purchasing enough oil, but the commission had no jurisdiction over the amount purchased, its authority being limited to requiring pipe line companies to purchase in pro rata amounts from oil producers.

R. D. Parker, in charge of the oil and gas division of the commission, said he hoped to adjust the matter without the necessity of a formal hearing. The law has been in effect since June 19.

Scientist Takes Radium Ray Photo

CHICAGO—When the national metal congress convenes here the week of Sept. 22 for its twelfth annual meeting, R. F. Mehl will explain the photographs he has taken with radium rays through a 10-inch steel block. X-rays can penetrate only four inches of solid steel, but the radium rays have detected flaws in steel more than twice that depth. Mehl is superintendent of the division of physical metallurgy at the naval research laboratories in Washington. Over 15,000 executives and metallurgists are expected to attend the congress.

Deserves Prize

LEBANON, Pa.—Henry T. Leese deserves a prize. While motoring through Elizabeth, N. J., recently, he ran into a traffic beacon and smashed it. He called the ploice, told them about it, and said that because of his hurry, he could not appear at the police station but would do so on his way back. Police, arriving at the scene, found he had not only set the beacon back in place, but had brushed up the broken glass.

Fans Ponder Tennis Singles Lineup

PARIS, July 23. (AP)—The debate over the chances of the United States to lift the Davis cup from the dominion of the French waged loud and long today as the tennis natives waited formal announcement of the lineup for the opening singles battles of the challenge round Friday.

While no one doubts that Big Bill Tilden, ace of the invaders, and the youthful George Lott will carry the singles burden for the United States while Henry Cochet and Jean Borotra do the same for France, just who will play whom is the moot question. And to French tennis minds the answer to this question will have great bearing on the ultimate home of the classic trophy for the coming year.

Upsets Stand Out In West's Tourney

CHICAGO, July 23. (AP)—Two hustling sharpshooters with no regard for golfing reputations daubed the western amateur golf championship with an upset tinge today by spilling two of the highest ranking favorites in the field, Cyril Tolley of England and Charles (Chick) Evans Jr., of Chicago, out of the championship picture.

The "giant killers" were Bob McCrary, fighting Scot from Des Moines, Iowa, who dropped Tolley one up after a thrilling, up-hill fight, and Charlie Fish of Rockford, Ill., who sank a 35-foot putt on the 19th green for a sparkling birdie three and a big victory over Evans.

Don Moe of Portland, Oregon, the defending champion, and T. Phillip Perkins, England's second and last hope in the championship fight, romped through with ease in their first pair of 18-hole round battles. Perkins trounced Freddy Lyons of Chicago, western junior champion, 6 and 5, and staggering Earle Berryhill of Colorado Springs, Colo, by the decisive margin of 8 and 7.

Moe wasn't extended although his margins were close. He eliminated Vincent Huntington of Chicago, 4 and 2, in the first round and Johnny Howard, Kalamazoo, Mich., youth, 2 and 1 in the afternoon.

Johnny Lehman of Chicago, comedalist with Evans, reached the quarter-final round with two victories over worthy foemen. He defeated Lloyd Nordstrom of Davenport, Iowa, 4 and 3 and followed through in the afternoon with a 3 and 1 triumph over George Dawson, Chicago.

ST. LOUIS, July 23. (AP)—After losing three games in a row to the Browns, Washington defeated St. Louis, here today, in the series final 10 to 9 in 11 innings. A home run by Cronin, his second of the day, tied the score in the ninth and the Senators put over the winning run in the 11th.

Each team used three pitchers, Hadley getting credit for the victory and Kimsey being charged with the defeat. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 23. (AP)—Declines followed slight early advances in cotton here today, owing to the failure of bullish features in the weather and crop news to stimulate much additional buying, and scattered liquidation which appeared to be coupled with some local or Wall street selling.

The new October contracts after selling up to 13.03 during the morning broke to 17.72 and closed at 12.74 with the general market closing easy at net declines of 22 to 27 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 7 points with the more active new crop positions selling about 5 to 8 points net lower during the first few minutes in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables.

Old October sold down to 12.99 and new December to 12.86, making net losses of 24 to 27 points on the active new crop months which closed within 2 or 3 points of the lowest. Trading in July was relatively quiet, but there was some liquidation occasioned, no doubt, by the circulation of a few additional notices and that delivery sold off to 12.69, or 25 points net lower and closed at that figure.

Liverpool said that trade calling and covering had been supplied by scattering liquidation in that market. Port receipts, 1,762. U. S. Port stocks, 1,559,322. Exports, 6,583, making 6,808,039 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 23. (AP)—Cotton developed a slightly downward trend in today's very moderate trading. Cables were lower than due but apparently were ignored as the market here opened unchanged to 4 points down on new crop months while July declined 30 points owing to the circulation of additional notices for 1,000 bales. New crop months after dropping 5 points in early trading rallied 7 to 8 points on insufficient rains in the belt and unfavorable weekly weather report. Around mid-session prices eased off 13 to 14 points on reported rains, the market was decidedly easier in the afternoon owing to reports on rapidly opening cotton in the Southern portions of the belt causing fears of early selling hedges. Prices made new lows 31 to 32 points below the highs of the morning. The close was slightly above the lowest, the close showing net losses for the day of 20 to 22 points.

Liverpool came in 5 points worse than due. First trades here 29 points down on July and unchanged to 2 down on new crop months. July declined an additional point to 12.60 or 30 points under the previous close. October eased off to 12.95 down 5 points and then rallied 12 points to 13.07 while December rallied from 13.12 to 13.24.

Later the market eased off on reports of rains dropping to 12.94 and December to 12.10 down 13 to 14 points from the highs. The market was easy after mid-session owing to fears of an early crop movement and hedge selling. Prices made new lows at 12.76 for December and 12.92 for December or 31 to 32 points below the highs. October closed at 12.79 and December at 12.95 or 20 to 22 points net lower close was called steady.

Port receipts 1,916 for week, 6,803 for season 8,664,736, last season 9,517,164. Exports 6,564, for week 32,293, for season 6,625,957, last season 7,839,529. Port stock 1,567,889, last year 588,922. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 22,005, last year 66,458. Spot sales at Southern markets 1,964 bales, last year 3,903.

Prices Advance Substantially Under Aggressive Sponsorship

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 23. (US)—Aggressive sponsorship again featured today's stock market, and a substantial further advance was scored, despite a late reaction which closed most stocks below their highs of the day. The "Meehan" stocks maintained leadership, from the standpoint both of activity and strength, but the entire list continued under influence of their movements. Many prominent stocks reached or exceeded their highest prices of last week, from which level the sharp setback of Monday occurred. Desire to take profits, coupled with renewed short selling and some liquidation, brought about the reaction in the final trading. The setback, however, was only moderate compared with the previous gain. Steel common, for example, closed at 167⅛, for a net gain of 2⅜ points. The day's high point was 168½. The general list was inclined to ignore news developments during the day, such as announcement the Ford plant "vacation" had been extended another week, and that railroad earnings in June were down substantially. Commodity price fluctuations were rather limited, and money was plentiful at 2 per cent.

Broadening out of market activity, even if the greater part of it continued chiefly professional, was indicated in the 2,500,000-share volume, an increase of about half a million shares over the previous day. The market, too, witnessed some increase in underlying demand, as evidenced by the experience of one bearish factor who found bids furnished for sizeable blocks of stocks which he desired to sell. For several days previously only nominal amounts of the stocks were bid for. Radio dominated speculative interest, as on maintained huge volume, the stock was advanced through 46, to close up over a point at 45¼. Radio-Keith, under the same sponsorship, gained less than a point net. This group, however, continued highly active and their influence was noticeable throughout the list. Standard of New Jersey after attaining a high of 75 reacted only a point. This stock is the favorite not only of the Meehan group, but also of other speculative interests prominent on the constructive side of the present market.

Encouraged by the success thus far attained by the most active sponsors of the market, numerous additional operations have commenced, all of which tend to stimulate market activity. The Vanadium pool marked their pet up a few points. It is reported that Durant has been the chief sponsor for this stock of late, following its sharp recovery from the year's low, when substantial amounts were taken out of the market for long-pull holding. Recent activity of the stock, however, is entirely professional. Interest in the market was stimulated by additional bullish advices sent out by various exchange houses. Case Threshing recovered to above 200 and closed up over three points as buying continued for interests close to the company. The stock met offerings, however, as soon as it crossed 200. Eastman Kodak was in demand and gained 5¼ points. This issue is particularly well-sponsored.

Motor stocks generally were in demand, led by General Motors, which gained over a point, in anticipation of its six-months' report, issued after the close. This disclosed a net of $2.32 per share for the half-year, inclusive however of 17 cents per share resulting from non-recurring income, supposedly the proceeds of the sale of stock to the Managers Securities corporation. Without this special income, the second quarter net equalled $1.17, compared with $2.01 in the same period of 1929. The first quarter of 1930 netted 94 cents a share. In the first half of 1929 the earnings equalled $3.38. Friends of General Motors, however, were cheered by Yellow Truck's report for the first half of 1930. Yellow reached a new high under the influence of continued buying by interests who believe its improvement will be further extended in coming months. The company's net in the half-year equalled 43 cents a share on its combined class "B" and common stocks, against 16 cents in the same 1929 period.

Canada Dry Ginger Ale, in which renewed interest by insiders was noticed, gained over a point, while Columbian Carbon, which has also been bought lately by interests close to its affairs, closed up over six points. Buying of Columbian is reported to be high-grade. Railroad stocks generally held firm, despite the continued unpleasant June reports. Bearish efforts to unsettle the Utilities again proved futile, Consolidated Gas gaining almost two points, Electric Power a point, and other leading utilities in proportion. National Power & Light, probably the best bought of the lower-priced utilities, reached a new high as interests identified with the stock declared important developments will shortly be disclosed.

It is quite obvious from the character of the market's leaders that sponsorship is in the hands of different banking interests from those who virtually dominated the market up to last year's panic. The market's former sponsors, according to most indications, are more or less inactive.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 23. (AP)—After an almost straightaway upturn of about 12c a bushel from recent low prices, corn today hesitated, and lost poise. Forecast of showers indicating a halt in widespread crop damage from heat and drought had much to do with bringing about a selling movement that was also inspired by strenuous efforts which many traders made to grab profits while the grabbing was good. Tending to stiffen prices, however, at the last was an official estimate that the corn crop of Iowa, the largest corn producing state of the union, has been curtailed 45,000,000 bushels by drought and excessive heat of the last two weeks.

Closing quotations on corn were irregular, ranging from ⅝c setback to ⅜c gain, compared with yesterday's finish, and about 1½c under today's top figures. Wheat closed nervous ¼@¾c net lower, with oats ⅜c off to ⅜c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

Provisions were responsive to firmness of the hog market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Sept., 89½@⅝c, 92¼c; Dec., 95⅜@½c, 97⅜@⅜c; March (offers), $1.02⅛. Corn—July (offers), 85½c; Sept., 80c, 83⅜c; Dec., 74⅞@75c, 78½@⅜c; March (offers), 81⅜c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, July 23. (US)—New York advices indicate that between 40 and 50 million bushels of wheat have been sold since July 1, for export. Of this total 20,00,000 bushels are estimated to be domestic hard winters and the balance Durums and Manitobas, largely the latter. It was learned that one important house sold nearly 20,000,000 bushels while it is thought a leading French house must have sold nearly that quantity also. These estimates do not include wheat sold by the Canadian pool.

A wire to Thomson & McKinnon from Memphis asserts that the corn crop in that section is more near failure than has ever been known, the result of 68 days without rain. The drought is described as the most disastrous in the history of the Southwest. Loss of the Southern crop means a tremendous extra demand on the surplus states throughout the season and loss of summer forage crops means that considerable old corn will have to be bought in the meantime.

Wheat movements from the Denver territory, state, district, are the heaviest on record, according to E. F. Flynn, Western lines manager of the Burlington railroad. Present conditions of other crops are the best in history, he said, with corn, rye and barley showing excellent prospects.

As a result of the last heat wave unofficial estimates from Regina indicate a cut from 400,000,000 to 350,000,000 bushels of wheat for Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta. The latter figure may be substantially reduced if the wave continues for many more days, it is said.

HIDALGO LAND ROW SETTLED

32-Year-Old Dispute Is Ended

EDINBURG, Texas, July 23. (AP)—Titles to practically all the land in northern Hidalgo county, including the sites of several towns, have been cleared up by the settlement of two suits pending for 32 years.

Judge A. M. Kent of Brownsville entered the decree, Judge J. E. Leslie having been disqualified.

Some 300,000 acres and at least 5,000 persons were involved.

The vast tract is the San Salvador Del Tule grant, originally made by the king of Spain. The status of owners of thousands of farms and ranches was fixed in the decree. One suit, involving some 10,000 acres northwest of Mission, still must be settled.

F. L. Seabury and J. L. Kleiberg of Brownsville worked to clear up the two big suits, after the death of James B. Well, who had given the matter much of his attention.

Thousands of persons had been willing to go ahead and develop land, taking a chance on the titles, but there had been much litigation over title claims which now may be dispensed with.

CANDIDATES IN FINAL RALLY

1,000 Hear Speeches By Political Aspirants

An example of politics without a bite and of races for office without a single reference to opponents except in a friendly light was given here Wednesday night when all candidates for offices ranging from state senate to precinct offices in Wichita county addressed a crowd of about 1,000 persons in their last official appearance before the voters before the primary Saturday.

The speaking was held on the auditorium grounds, with County Judge John P. Marrs, candidate for reelection without opposition, presiding.

Senate Candidates

Rube Loftin, first speaker and a candidate for state senate from the 23rd district, said he favored an amendment to allow cities and counties to maintain and operate junior colleges, with the state contributing to their maintenance. He also said he was against relocation of the prison, which would cost "between 10 and 15 million dollars to move."

Roy J. Daniel, also candidate for state senate, added his favor to state aid for junior colleges and said "if the voters elect a man for governor who favors the state road bond issue, I shall vote in the senate to submit the issue to the people, but if you elect a man for governor who is against the bond issue, I shall vote against it."

George W. Backus, third candidate for state senate, said he presented his candidacy as a business man and that he had never before sought public office. He said he stood "for a better educational system than we now have" and added that Texas should raise its rank among the states in educational standing from its present 34th place.

Ben G. Oneal, fourth candidate for state senate, said he was an attorney "but also a business man." He pointed out that his experiences as referee in bankruptcy here had brought him in contact with numerous businesses. He also voiced Mr. Daniel's sentiments on the state road bond election and declared he was against relocation of the penitentiary system.

Joe P. Hatchitt, candidate for representative from 111th district, place 2, presented his platform and said he favored abolition of the second primary and substitution of the convention system. Albert G. Walker of Vernon and Early Van Deventer, both candidates for representative, 112th district, presented their qualifications for the office.

Opponents Joke

Allan D. Montgomery and J. W. Akin continued the spirit of good-natured wise-cracking which they had displayed in previous speakings in announcing their qualifications as candidates for judge of the 30th district court.

E. E. Fischer, candidate for judge of the county court-at-law, said he was running solely on "his qualifications as a man of education, experience and executive ability."

Irvin J. Vogel, candidate for reelection to judge of the county court-at-law, pointed out that 378 pleas of guilty and 158 contested cases had appeared before him while in office and that only about four per cent of the cases tried were ever reversed.

L. V. Abernathy, candidate for county attorney, told of his experience, in the office of the county attorney while serving as assistant for the past two and a half years.

E. F. Fruechte, also candidate for county attorney, said his qualifications as a prosecutor were known to the voters and that his experience as assistant district attorney here gave him the right to ask for election to county attorney.

For Tax Collector

Three candidates for county tax collector laid their platforms before the crowd. Arthur C. Howard said: "I can fill the office because I know what to do." Roy A. Jones, present chief deputy collector, said, "I am running purely on my record, experience and qualifications of the past six years as a deputy." Jim Robinson said, "I've had the seven-year itch three times and can do my own scratching, so leave my name unscratched Saturday."

George H. Hodgins, for sheriff, stated his strongest plank was co-operation among law enforcement bodies and recounted his wide experience as a peace officer. W. G. Bralley, candidate for reelection to sheriff, pointed out he had saved the taxpayers $13,000 in collections which had been turned over to the treasurer in addition to the $3,000 usually paid the sheriff as ex-officio and had given an excellent program of law enforcement. Perry Browning, also for sheriff, recounted his 22 years of experience as a business man and assured the voters of a business and law enforcement administration.

Burl Bryant, Mrs. A. J. Newby and J. A. Hood presented their platforms as candidates for county school superintendent. J. H. Patton, M. H. Pearce and M. A. Bundy promised business administrations and gave points in their race for commissioner, precinct 1. The speaking was concluded with talks by A. E. Brown and O. L. Gibbs, both for justice of the peace, precinct 1, place 2; and by Fred K. Smith, Luke Rowell and Frank Morgan, all for constable, precinct 1.

Bandits Play Trump Cards in Four Oklahoma Bridge Games

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 23. (UP)—Three suspects were held by police today in the robbery of 19 persons engaged in bridge games in four homes here.

The bandits, led by a masked man, described by the victims as intoxicated, obtained $100 in the four holdups. They escaped in a car after completing the last robbery early today.

Homes of J. R. Eldridge, L. R. Gardner, E. E. Holland and C. E. King were entered by the bandits. In each instance the card players were forced to submit to search by a man armed with a pistol.

The three suspects were arrested near their wrecked auto 13 miles south of the city by Caddo county officers. They gave the names of Bill Cox, A. O. Stanley and Otis Trott.

Arizona May Lose New Representative

WASHINGTON, July 23. (AP)—Another change in the tentative reapportionment of the house of representatives on the basis of the 1930 census was indicated today when computations were concluded on Arizona's preliminary population figures.

Present indications are Arizona will not gain an additional member of the house, as had been figured, on the basis of her estimated population as of January 1. As a result, Massachusetts may retain her present membership of 16.

Arizona's population, announced as 421,641 an increase of 80,793, falls about 77,000 below the estimate upon which her increase of one member was predicted. The apportionment must exclude from consideration Indians not taxed. That will reduce Arizona's figure for apportionment purposes, since 21,134 Indians were included in the total.

LOUISIANA PASSES 2,000,000 MARK

NEW ORLEANS, July 23. (AP)—The population of the state of Louisiana passed the two million mark on an unofficial compilation of the Associated Press from reports of the district census supervisors.

Oneal to Give Second Radio Talk

Ben G. Oneal, candidate for the state senate, will deliver his second radio address in two days over station KGKO Thursday from 12:30 to 12:45 o'clock. Mr. Oneal spoke over the radio Wednesday during the noon hour, presenting issues of the senatorial campaign.

Opposition to the proposed state road bond issue of $350,000,000 was expressed in the radio talk Wednesday, Mr. Oneal declaring that he believed present funds of the highway commission being sufficient for state needs. Opposition to an effort to increase taxes was also voiced by the speaker.

Other issues of the senatorial campaign will be discussed by Mr. Oneal in his address Thursday.

Arthurian Congress

LONDON—Those who believe that stories of King Arthur and his round table are legends will probably change their minds if they attend the Arthurian congress to be held in Cornwall this summer. Scholars from all over the world are expected to attend this congress which will endeavor to associate facts about the king with fiction.

M'FARLANE TO SPEAK TONIGHT

Band Concert and Movies Also on Program

State Senator W. D. McFarlane, candidate for congress from the 13th district, will address voters of Wichita Falls in a political rally Thursday night between 8:45 and 9:45 o'clock.

Senator McFarlane's address will be delivered on the lawn at the west side of the Memorial auditorium, and will immediately follow the regular weekly free vaudeville program. A band concert will also be given in connection with the address of the Graham candidate.

The free vaudeville program will start at 7:30 o'clock and will end shortly before 8:45, when Senator McFarlane will open his address. A free program of motion pictures will follow the talk by Senator McFarlane, which is to end at 9:45 o'clock.

Another Baby Enters Mixup

action against the hospital. Watkins, youthful mechanic, was somewhat more optimistic.

"I saw my baby just a couple of minutes after he was born," he said. "There was not much possibility of him dying because the doctor said he was a perfect specimen."

The eight scientists have spent the last several days examining the two babies.

Bamberger, bleary-eyed after sleepless nights of worry, could not be satisfied with denials and explanations.

"So many things have happened," he said, "that I can't be sure of anything. I hope that there is nothing to the chance of that other baby being in the mixup. I am worried and I'm afraid to tell my wife anything about it. The whole thing already has been a terrible blow to her."

The scientists struck an impasse when some of them said they felt sure the two babies were in the right homes. The others were just as certain that they had been mixed.

The parents will meet tomorrow in the office of Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel for another conference and a final report from the corps of modern Solomons who have been making the babies' lives miserable for the past several days with blood, skin and eye tests.

Watkins and Bamberger agreed, however, they would not exchange babies unless something unexpectedly develops.

Cold Wave Halts Dress Reform Meet

LONDON, July 23. (AP)—The English climate won the first round of a contest with a men's dress reform party last evening.

The party advertised a "great demonstration" in Hyde park, at which hundreds of their "rationally dressed" supporters were to convince their convention ridden brethren of the unsuitability of man's present garb in the summer months at least.

However, it was the coldest evening for some months. The chairman and honorary secretary, along with the hundreds of supporters failed to appear. Only 10 Spartans arrived, duly marched across the park with icy blasts playing around their knees and down their open necks, while rain soaked their uncovered locks.

John and Wesley Davenport, Mercer, Mo., youths, have a portable house which they move with them when they go to college.

MAJESTIC: Helen Kane and Stuart Erwin in "Dangerous Nan McGrew." Cartoon sound novelty, comedy skit and Paramount sound news.

STATE: "Alias French Gertie" with Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon. Talking comedy and sound news.

STRAND: Mitzi Green, Skeets Gallagher, Stuart Erwin and Clara Bow in "Love Among the Millionaires." Charley Chase comedy, "Leaping Love"; screen song, "Dixie"; Paramount sound news.

GEM: "His First Command" with William Boyd. Talking comedy and short subjects.

"Dangerous Nan McGrew" is a great aid to the Majestic cooling system—the audience shivers as the picture shows a Christmas celebration in northwest Canada and forgets whether the cooler is working or not. The fact that there are no scorching love scenes is another hot-weather help.

In spite of the fact that it is a little difficult to remember that the picture is a burlesque, there are plenty of good gags and the action is swift enough to keep the interest up.

Stuart Erwin steals the show. His dumbest role is his funniest, and there could hardly be anything so excruciating as his spasmodic efforts to be articulate while Helen Kane boop-oop-a-doops around his neck.

For a picture without a single kiss, "Dangerous Nan McGrew" comes about as near filling the bill for the average plebeian fan as anything shown here in the past few months. This week, incidentally, has been the best yet in the matter of hot-weather entertainment. Light comedy should be booked for the next six weeks.

Stuart Erwin, incidentally, comes back in one of his best roles for the regular Friday night "comeback," playing in "Sweetie" with Nancy Carroll. That's the show with the good crack about "preposition." If you can't remember it any other way . . . and the song "Sweeter Than Sweet" that has gone the way of all songs for the past six months.

Three shows in one week in a town the size of Wichita Falls is a pretty good record, and Stuart Erwin is probably the only star to make so many different appearances. It is hard to tell which shows him at his best (i. e., dumbest)—"Love Among the Millionaires," "Dangerous Nan McGrew" or "Sweetie."

Lions Hear Talk On Use of City Directories

City directories as valuable sources of reliable information for a great variety of uses were extolled Wednesday before members of the Lions club by H. Gordon Cross.

Greater appreciation of the value of a city directory, the speaker said, should be shown because of its provision of names, addresses and occupations of individuals, names and telephone numbers of state, county and city officials, mailing lists and commercial information.

K. C. Spell, convicted at the preceding meeting of deliberately "throwing" an inter-club ball game, passed cigars to those present Wednesday in payment of the assessed fine.

PAT M. NEFF

FOR

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

There is no public office in the state of Texas of more importance to all the people than that of Railroad Commissioner. The reason for this is that the Railroad Commission now has the administration of the law covering five divisions of our state governmental activities:

1. Administration of laws pertaining to regulation of railroad and express companies, including all matters relating to freight rates and passenger traffic.
2. Administration of the laws in regard to conservation of oil and gas fields of the state.
3. Administration of the Gas Utility Law, as it pertains to receiving and distributing of gas sold to the public, by public utilities and by municipalities.
4. Administration of the Pipe Line law, that has for its purpose the pro-rating of the oil between the large and small producers, in the various oil fields of the state.
5. Administration of the law in reference to the operation of all the truck and bus lines.

When Pat M. Neff was appointed a member of the Railroad Commission the other two members, in recognition of his ability and special training in railroad matters, elected him as their chairman and broke a custom of forty years standing. Ever since the existence of the Railroad Commission it has been the practice to elect as chairman the member who has served for the greatest length of time.

The service of Pat M. Neff in connection with the affairs of Texas during his four years as Governor; his year or more of work as a member of United States Railroad Mediation Board, handling railroad questions throughout the nation amply qualifies him by special training for efficient service as a member of the railroad commission.

Something About Pat Neff

Served two terms as Governor of Texas (1921-1925). Elected President of University of Texas, 1924. (Declined to serve).
