Civilian West Berlin Traffic Assured

Fugate Girl Is Convicted

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A jury today found Caril Ann Fugate guilty of first degree murder for helping Charles Starkweather on a killing rampage last January.

Life imprisonment was prescribed.

Starkweather, 19, was convicted on identical charges last May and drew a death sentence, still to be executed.

The jury verdict against Starkweather's 15 - year - old ex-sweetheart was delivered at 11:10 a.m. to climax a trial that began nearly four weeks ago.

Caril Ann broke into sobs when the verdict was announced. She buried her face against the shoulder of Defense Lawyer Merril Reller, seated beside her and crying racked her 91-pound 5 foot one inch frame. Her sobbing could be heard throughout the courtroom.

A trim and pretty brunette, Caril was charged with aiding and abetting Starkweather in one of 11 killings attributed to him.

By its verdict, the jury of seven men and five women tabbed Caril a helpful companion to Starkweather on a killing spree that shocked the nation.

Rejected was Caril's plea she was forced into her role by fears for her own life and threats of harm to her family.

She was convicted of first degree on the second count, which is murder in the perpetration of a robbery.

It was Starkweather himself who pointed the most accusing finger at the girl.

Hauled into court from his death cell at the Nebraska Penitentiary, the bandy - legged redhead described Caril as his willing and aggressive helpmate in the slayings.

He labeled as a "bunch of hogwash" his earlier statements to the contrary, and insisted he and Caril made up the story about her role as hostage before ever setting out on the killing flight.

Starkweather also buried the last remains of the teen-age romance.

Asked if he cares whether Caril lives or dies, Starkweather said: "It don't make no difference to me."

Trial testimony covered what prosecutors referred to as the entire series of "atrocious, shocking events."

Last Jan. 21, Starkweather killed Caril's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bartlett, and Caril's half-sister, Betty Jean Bartlett, 2, at the Bartlett home in Lincoln.

Whether Caril was present at the time became a disputed issue. Starkweather said she was a witness and casually watched television while he disposed of the bodies. Caril said she came home from school to find her parents gone and Starkweather pointing a gun in her face.

Caril said Starkweather gave her a story that family members were being held prisoner at some other Lincoln home and harm would come to them if Caril didn't obey Starkweather's commands.

Not until she was taken into custody more than a week later did she learn that her parents already had been killed, she said.

This became a key issue in the case, the state contending Caril knew all along her family had been slain.

TWO PERSONS INJURED—The 1957 Chevrolet car pictured above overturned injuring Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brewer of Haskell about 10:35 o'clock this morning a mile north of Ira on the Big Spring highway. The car hit a wheel which had come off a truck driven by Elmer Roy Cawthorn of Big Spring. A Bell Funeral Home ambulance wrecked en route to the first accident. The injuries were not believed serious. (Lee Watson photograph)

3 Persons Injured In Area Mishaps

Two accidents here this morning injured three persons, but none were believed seriously injured.

One of the accidents involved an overturned car, the other an ambulance which was going to the scene of the first wreck.

The first accident occured at about 10:35 a.m. about seven miles southwest of here on State Highway 350 when a car struck a wheel which had come off a truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brewer of Haskell were headed southwest, on their way to Odessa, in their 1957 Chevrolet sedan. Elmer Roy Cawthron, 38, of Big Spring, was headed toward Snyder in the 1953 Autocar truck when the spindle bolt broke on the left front wheel of the truck. The wheel crossed the road into the path of the Brewer car.

Brewer attempted to dodge the truck wheel but ran over it as it lay flat on the pavement, lost control of his car, and overturned one and one-half times.

The truck dropped to the axle, which scratched the pavement until Cawthron could get it stopped and off the pavement.

Ambulances from both Bolger and Bell funeral homes were dispatched to the scene, and the Brewers were brought to Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Bolger ambulances. Brewer, 53, was being X-rayed just before lunch for possible injuries. Mrs. Brewer, 50, had a cut on her head. Neither were believed seriously injured.

A Bell ambulance, a late model Buick, which had started to the wreck was being driven by Jackie Lee Head, 25, who operates a Texaco service station near Bell Funeral Home.

Head swerved to miss a car on east Twenty-fifth Street, in front of Strayhorn Courts, and struck a utility pole. He was only slightly injured. Damage to the ambulance was estimated at $300 to $400.

The wreck on the highway was investigated by highway patrolmen, aided by sheriff's officers, while that in the city was investigated by city police.

East, West Sign Pact

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany signed an agreement today assuring West German civilian traffic freedom of movement in and out of West Berlin, authoritative sources said.

The reported agreement, at the height of a new crisis over the isolated old German capital has no effect, however, on the explosive question of control of Western Allies supply lines to the divided city.

Rather, it appeared to be an assurance to the 2,200,000 West Berliners that they will not be affected when and if the Soviet Union pulls out of the four-power occupation agreement and turns control of Allied supply lines over to Communist East Germany.

In the 1948-49 blockade, the Soviet Union not only stopped military traffic but civilian as well. This created the need for the airlift.

Under present circumstances, an airlift would be designed to support only the 10,000 Allied fighting men plus Western civilian officials and their families.

A Western Berlin informant said the free traffic clause was added to a new trade agreement for 1959. No such clause was contained in previous interzonal trade agreements, extending back to 1950.

A West Berlin official said the agreement "is a positive sign of relief of tension."

The bulk of West Berlin's supplies moves from West Germany over a 110-mile highway-rail link and a network of canals.

Western military traffic uses these same lifelines. However, it is checked through Soviet controls as agreed under postwar four-power agreements.

The United States, France and Britain do not recognize East Germany and refuse to have any dealings with its regime.

Sources said the East-West German agreement also provided for an exchange of West German steel for East German soft coal, mainly for the supply of Berlin.

The West Germans have always felt they hold a trump card with the East Germans in the Berlin dispute because of the interzonal trade issue. East Germany is anxious to continue interzonal trade in order to help fulfill its ambitious economic plans.

Trade talks between East and West Germany were carried on a semiofficial basis in Berlin. As before, they were regarded as being of a technical nature, which did not involve Bonn recognition of East Germany.

The agreement on access to Berlin would not interfere, however, with any Communist plan to close the border between East and West Berlin. West Berlin officials freely predicted this will be the next East German move.

By this action the East Germans could cut off free travel without passports between the two sectors of the city to close an escape hatch through which more than a million East Germans have fled to the West.

Stopping this refugee flow appears to be one of the major objectives of Nikita Khrushchev's efforts to drive the Western Allies from Berlin. The Soviet premier demanded Nov. 10 that the United States, Britain and France withdraw their occupation troops.

Andrei Smirnov, Soviet ambassador to West Germany, told Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn Thursday that Moscow had decided to pull out of the four-power occupation under which Berlin operates.

The Allies refuse to abandon West Berlin to the Communists surrounding it.

U. S. Plans To Maintain Occupation

AUGUSTA, Ga. AP — President Eisenhower's headquarters today asserted the United States' "firm intentions" to maintain four-power occupation of Berlin in the face of Russia's move to drive out the Western Allies.

At the President's vacation retreat, press secretary James C. Hagerty stated the U.S. determination after Eisenhower had received latest reports on the Berlin situation from Washington.

"Our firm intentions in West Berlin remain unchanged," Hagerty told a news conference.

He was referring to the Berlin sector occupied by the U.S., Britain and France.

Russia, which also has occupation forces in Berlin, has moved to turn over the city of Communist East Germany and to put air and land transportation routes under control of that Red government.

"The President and our government are keeping in close touch with the situation in Berlin, and also are keeping in close touch with the governments of the United Kingdom and the republic of France.

"This is not a unilateral problem with the United States alone. It is a problem which concerns our two allies as well."

Asked whether he was speaking for Britain and France as well as the U.S., Hagerty replied he could speak only for this country. But he stressed again that the Western powers are in close consultation.

As for defining just what he meant in saying U.S. firm intentions remain unchanged, Hagerty put it this way:

East, West Maneuver To Form Space Panel

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The East and West maneuvered today over the compsotion of a U.N. committee to make recommendations for international cooperation in outer space exploration.

It was Moscow's next move. Negotiations were held up while Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin awaited the Kremlin's reactions to concessions offered Thursday by the United States and 19 nations associated with it in an outer space proposal before the U.N. Assembly.

The U.S. group agreed in principle for the first time to a Soviet proposal to create a permanent U.N. committee for international cooperation in exploration of outer space for peaceful purposes.

But the 20 nations did not go along with the Soviet suggestion on the makeup of a preparatory group that would study and recommend means of using outer space peacefully.

The West felt the list of 11 nations the Soviet Union suggested would give her at least six possible votes on some disputed questions.

The Soviet list included the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union as major powers, India, the United Arab Republic and Sweden as neutrals, Argentina for Latin America, and Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia for the Communist bloc.

Delegates said they expected there would be several private east-west exchanges, particularly on the committee lineup, before any agreement is reached.

The United States had suggested a 9-nation body, but would be willing to boost the number to 18.

The United States contends two yardsticks should be applied in choosing members for the group: (1) a nation's capacity to contribute something to the study of outer space; (2) the group be geographically representative of the 81-nation General Assembly.

Zorin discussed the Western offer with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and expressed hope to a reporter that agreement would be reached. He said the discussion with Lodge had been of "a preliminary nature."

The Soviet Union previously had agreed to drop from its outer space proposal demands that the United States give up its foreign military bases and that military space missiles be banned.

'Wilderness' Plan Viewed As Threat

By W. JOYNES MACFARLAN

HOUSTON (AP) — Glenn Saunders, a Denver water law expert, said today that proposed federal legislation to create wilderness areas threatens full development of the West.

Saunders spoke at the convention of the National Reclamation Assn. a few hours before delegates considered a resolution opposing the legislative proposal.

Delegates also were urged by J. W. Grimes of Pierre, S.D., president of the Association of State Engineers, to fight harder to preserve state water laws.

"The proposed wilderness legislation is simply the latest in a continuing series of steps to lay the dead hand of bureaucracy on the public lands of the United States," Saunders said.

"In Western states the shock of unreasonable restraints placed upon the public lands will be felt by the whole nation, because more than one-half of the total area of the 11 Western states is under control of the federal government.

"A great deal of the hope of continued prosperity and continued national strength lies in the full development of the West."

Saunders cited statistics showing less than one-half per cent of all the people in this country ever enter on or use a wilderness area.

"Some of the greatest values of life are to be derived from the use of the national domain for recreational purposes," he said. "It was estimated that about 55 million tourists visited the national forests in 1956. . . .

"It is literally impossible for families with small children or older members who enjoy vacationing together to visit wilderness areas by hiking or horseback riding."

Grimes reported there are no indications favorable to maintenance of state water rights in the federal-state fight in the past year.

He said his organization is exploring the possibility of a nationwide equivalent to the Association of Western State Engineers to strengthen forces seeking federal recognition of state rights.

Directors reelected all officers yesterday. Guy Jackson Jr., Anahuac, Tex., is president.

Jail Sermons Ire Prisoner

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) — "Religion can be torture when one doesn't want to listen," says a prisoner who asserts he is a captive audience for Tuesday night sermons.

"I am submitted to the intolerable and fanatical rantings and ravings of a fanatical religious group," Donald Smith, 23, protested in petitions for relief sent to the U.S. attorney general and the California attorney general.

Smith, unable to raise $1,000 bail, has been in jail four months awaiting trial on bad check charges.

Jailer Glen Arbuckle said that for 20 years half a dozen "well-meaning and religious citizens" of Oroville have been preaching and singing hymns in the jail on Tuesday nights.

Hitchhike Slaying Victim Identified

RATON, N.M. (AP)— A hitchhike slaying victim whose body was found near a lonely country road in Northeast New Mexico was identified today as Peter DeSalle, 50, of Blairsville, Pa.

Sheriff Dick Josey said the identification was based on physical characteristics including scars, papers and other items.

Two men held in Payette, Idaho, on federal car theft charges have told officers they caught a ride with DeSalle at Indianapolis. Officers said they told of beating DeSalle on the head with a rock the night of Nov. 8, dumping him at a roadside, and then driving off in DeSalle's car with $50 they took from him.

Held in Idaho are David R. Peterson, 26, Spokane, Wash., and Woodrow Hines, 32, Bowling Green, Ky. At first they told officers they left DeSalle between Amarillo, Tex., and Tucumcari. Officers searched that area and then for 20 miles south along the Texas-New Mexico line.

After questioning Peterson and Hines further, officers shifted their search Wednesday to the area south of Raton on U.S. 85.

Yesterday, FBI agents, state police and local officers found the body partly covered with snow in a patch of weeds three miles north of Springer and one-half mile west of U.S. 85.

On the road shoulder they found a heavy triangular-shaped rock. Josey said it was blood-stained and strands of hair stuck to it.

Dr. Carl Halford of Springer said there were numerous deep cuts on the head, three on the forehead just above the eyes, any of which could have caused death.

Sheriff Josey said "We feel sure" the body was that of DeSalle. He said the FBI supplied a description, and "from the scars on the body, I would say it is."

DeSalle's name was written in indelible ink on the lining of a pocket of the trousers on the dead man, and officers found a blank check in a pocket from a bank in Blairsville, Pa.

The sheriff said fingerprints were being sent to the FBI laboratory in Washington, D.C., for further checking.

In Boise, U.S. Atty. Ben Peterson said if charges based on discovery of the body are filed by authorities in New Mexico, it is likely the two prisoners in Payette would be turned over to New Mexico officers.

GOC Plans To Disband

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radar soon will replace the 280,000 civilian volunteers who spent many hours in the past nine years watching for enemy planes in American skies.

The Air Force announced Thursday the Ground Observer Corps will disband Jan. 31. The reason: The human eye cannot keep up with requirements of the jet and missile age.

Several radar networks—across the arctic, Canada and the U.S. northern border, and along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts—now protect the United States. The Air Force believes these networks would spot jets and missiles along before they flew over the GOC's 16,000 observation posts.

In addition, the Air Force said new automatic equipment can collect and interpret observation data faster than the GOC's 50 filter centers.

Leo A. Hoegh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, has invited members of the GOC to take part in civil defense work after the corps is disbanded.

Faubus Foe Sees Trouble In Schools

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Little Rock school problem won't be solved until "those in the middle get a belly full," says Chris E. Finkbeiner, who lost to Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the Arkansas gubernatorial election.

Finkbeiner, a meat packer turned politician, predicted in an interview: "Our Little Rock school situation is going to get a lot worse before it's going to get better. People will be hurt—people will be killed.

"I hate to say it, but there is no shortcut solution because the people will not listen to compromise."

Finkbeiner was here to attend the National Independent Meat Packers Assn. meeting.

The private high school system, he said, "won't work because it takes a tremendous amount of money—more than private enterprise can command."

About a fourth of the white high school pupils attend the private school.

"There is a growing feeling of uneasiness among the students who are missing their education. I hate to say it, but with tempers the way they are on both sides, it will get worse—a lot worse," Finkbeiner said.

Demand Rises At Hospital

Cogdell Memorial Hospital averaged 83 per cent occupancy during the month of October, Bill Newsom, hospital superintendent, reported to the county hospital board in its monthly meeting last night.

That is the largest monthly average since the hospital opened. There were 284 admissions to the hospital during the month, or an average of more than nine daily.

There were nine days during the month when the 50-bed hospital had 50 or more patients. The most at one time was 53.

The hospital had 36 newborns during the month, which was low for this time of year, Newsom said.

Three representatives of Lone Star Gas Co., C. L. Calloway, manager, and Gerald Sheid, both of the Snyder office, and Johnny Johnson, engineer from Abilene, met with the board and discussed the possibility of use of gas absorbtion for air conditioning in the wing to be added to the hospital.

Board members at the meeting were Lester Moore, Hugh Taylor, M. L. Wilson, and Sam Chorn. Moore, vice-chairman, presided in the absence of Pat Falls, chairman.

Probers May Check Report Of Try To Influence Jury

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets investigators indicated today they may look into disputed allegations of a possible effort to influence a jury that acquitted Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa of bribery charges.

The Rackets Committee, now beginning a 10-day Thanksgiving recess, also indicated it may check further into charges of cash payments to Hoffa by trucking industry advisers.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy developed both allegations Thursday in questioning John Bridge, a Chicago labor relations consultant to truck lines.

Bridge, final witness in five days of committee hearings on labor union boycotting and violence, rigorously denied both charges.

The alleged jury influence scheme came up when Bridge acknowledged he had written a letter to John L. Keeshin of Eagle River, Wis., a truck line operator, that "our friend will go on trial in Washington on June 17 with conditions somewhat more favorable for him."

Hoffa, international president of the giant Teamsters Union, was acquitted by a federal court jury here in July of last year of charges he conspired to bribe a Rackets Committee staff aide. The committee then was investigating Hoffa.

The Bridge letter also said, "the various contacts suggested at the Bismarck Hotel have been concluded with favorable results."

Bridge said this referred to a meeting he called of truck line operators at which plans were made for some operators to try through their local press to obtain publicity that would put Hoffa in a better light.

Kennedy said this explanation "seems unbelievable to me." But he said that it is correct the letter mentioning favorable results would make it seem to be an effort to influence the jury.

Bridge emphatically denied that was the intention.

Truck line operators Bridge mentioned in connection with the effort to get better publicity for Hoffa were William Wilson of Sioux Falls, S.D.; Stanley Wassie of Minneapolis-St. Paul; and Mickey Krupinsky of Omaha. Kennedy said the committee was checking for more facts from these men.

He also told Bridge he was far from satisfied with his story and indicated he may be called back for more testimony.

Kennedy also drew a vigorous denial when he asked Bridge whether he or any of his aides had "made payments to Hoffa."

"No," the stocky, grey-haired witness snapped. Kennedy retorted this was "contrary to the information we have."

In recessing the hearings, Acting Chairman Sam J. Ervin (D-NC) accused the Teamsters Union of attempting to impose a super law over the federal government.

Ex-Prisoner Now Facing Brighter Days

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Once condemned to death and saved from the state's electric chair by a last-minute court action, Anastacio Vargas, 65, although broken in health, today faced brighter days.

A district court jury yesterday decided that the state should pay Vargas $26,500 for four years he served in prison after his death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

The "humiliation, disgrace and deprivation of his family," the jury said, was worth the money. But Asst. Atty. Gen. C. K. Richards said he would ask for another trial to keep the state's money from the half-blind man.

Vargas, the jury heard yesterday, lived in shame and poverty after his eventual release from prison 28 years ago. Now, if the money the jury awarded him is finally forthcoming, he plans to build homes for himself and his three sons.

The man whose head was once shaved in preparation for the electric chair has been living in a tar-paper shack here.

Vargas was convicted in 1926 of the murder of Mrs. Louise Garcia, who was killed the night of Aug. 21, 1925, by a burglar whom she and her husband, Gabriel, caught in their home. Garcia swore that Vargas was his wife's killer.

First sentenced to 99 years in prison, Vargas won a new trial only to be sentenced to death.

Then Dist. Judge W. W. McCrory, who felt Vargas was innocent, began an investigation which resulted in the arrest of a man who confessed to the slaying. He bore a marked resemblance to the condemned Vargas.

McCrory issued a bench warrant for Vargas which was served minutes before he was to be executed. He was returned to San Antonio for the hearing and his commutation to life imprisonment followed. Four years later he gained a pardon.

"Senor," Vargas said to a reporter yesterday, "Cuidado con los perros—be careful of the police." And then he added:

"If they get you, you're in bad trouble. Bad trouble."

Cotton Bale Is Damaged By Fire

Firemen went to the Planter's Gin on the Roby highway east of Snyder at 4:40 o'clock this morning and put out a fire in a bale of cotton.

Only the single bale was damaged, firemen said.

About 12:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon a run was made to 3002 Thirty-seventh Street to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Rasberry to check for what was believed to have been a gas leak in a water heater. No leak was found, however.

Russians May Win Race On Atomic Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is given an even chance of beating the United States into the sky with an atomic powered airplane —possibly before the end of the year.

However, the director of the Pentagon's program for development of nuclear powered aircraft says this country is on the threshhold of success in building an atomic plane.

Air Force Maj. Gen. Donald J. Keirn says if the Russians do win the race, the airplane they use might not be "too sophisticated" —that is, relatively crude.

Keirn expressed these views Thursday in talks to reporters and an ordnance group meeting.

He indicated that by using an atomic power plant in a conventional plane, the Russians might manage a nuclear flight before the end of the year or early next year.

But he made it clear the U.S. Air Force wants an airplane specifically designed for atomic power and capable of virtually unlimited range at supersonic speed.

Keirn added that the Air Force "will soon be ready to embark" on a flight testing program of an atomic plane.

Demo In N. M. Is Certified

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—Democrat John Burroughs has been certified the winner over Gov. Edwin Mechem in the Nov. 4 governor's election.

The two Democrats on the three-member State Canvassing Board overrode the opposition of Mechem and approved the certification yesterday.

Supreme Court Chief Justice Eugene Lujan and Secy. of State Natalie Buck voted to accept county canvass figures which gave Burroughs a 1,914-vote margin.

But even after certificates of election were issued, Mechem said he was not conceding.

"I think it's perfectly obvious on its face, what the situation is," he said. "Politics is paramount; partisanship reigns supreme."

Mechem declined to sign Burroughs' certificate of election.

Felony Suspect Gets Citizens Citation

DETROIT (AP) — Charles Collins will face Pennsylvania parole authorities with a citizens citation from Detroit police.

Collins, 38, helped police capture two bandits last summer. When the award was to be presented, Collins was in jail awaiting trial on larceny charges. He was sentenced to 30 days and failed to get the honor.

Pennsylvania police requested Collins' return for parole violation on his release Wednesday.

City Firemen Hold Annual Banquet Here

Snyder firemen held their largest banquet in history last night in the Central Elementary School cafeteria.

A highlight of the program was presentation of the top fireman of the year award to Bennie Benitez. The presentation of the award a $100 savings bond, was made by Roy Meador, in behalf of Radio Station KSNY, which gives the award annually.

Durward Porter, fire chief, cited one of the busiest seasons in the department's history in his annual report. From Oct. 1, 1957 to Oct. 1, 1958, the department answered 271 alarms, compared to a total of 135 alarms the previous year, Porter said. Insured losses within the city during the same period the past year amounted to about $211,000.

The fire chief called on continued cooperation of townspeople and firemen in eliminating fire hazards in the city and in providing adequate equipment for fire-fighting. Many citizens are not aware that needed equipment often can be provided at costs less than the difference in insurance rates which would apply after the improvements are made, he said.

Harold Bennett, mayor, spoke briefly, praising the work of the department, and officers of the department were introduced. Special entertainment was provided by pupils of Bob Clinton, director of choral music for the schools.

Dr. Robert H. Hargrove was master of ceremonies for the banquet.

David Beck Could Get It Wholesale

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — David Daniel Beck Sr. was one of some 400 persons who could get it wholesale from Nathan Shefferman, Chicago labor relations consultant, testimony in Beck's income tax evasion trial showed Thursday.

Miss Florence Ouska, tall, bespectacled bookkeeper for Shefferman, said her employer handled thousands of dollars of purchases at wholesale prices for his business and labor union friends, including Beck, former head of the Teamsters' Union.

Miss Ouska produced five large envelopes which contained check stubs and other papers having a bearing on Beck-Shefferman transactions.

The government which acuses Beck of evading $240,000 in income taxes during 1950-53, is expected to attempt to place each document into the trial record.

Miss Ouska said Shefferman "wanted everybody to be happy."

She said he would order an item for a friend, get billed for it at wholesale cost and then later collect from the friend.

Shefferman's name has cropped up repeatedly in the trial, which started Nov. 10.

The Senate Rackets Committee, in its investigation of Beck linked Beck and Shefferman in numerous transactions.

Various scents in pressure-type containers are now in the market. Of the cologne variety, a little "whoosh" goes a long way.

Twentieth Century Club Has Interesting Program At Thanksgiving Luncheon

The Twentieth Century Club met in the home of Mrs. G. W. Hicks for their Thanksgiving luncheon November 18th. The house was decorated with fall arrangements. Each table was centered with a miniature Thanksgiving arrangement made by Mrs. John Reaves.

Mrs. Ola Leath gave the federation report from the Texas Clubwoman magazine.

Mrs. Fred Beaty gave the thought for the day which stressed thankfulness.

The program was centered around the personal lives of three of our White House Hostesses, and was presented in authentic costumes. Ideas for the costumes came from the book, "The White House and It's Thirty-two Families' by Amy La Falette Jensen. Other references used for the program were "Our First Ladies" by Jane and Burt McConnell and "The Presidents Lady" by Rachel Jackson.

Mrs. Beaty gave a short history of the White House and its' occupants which began with Pres. John Adams and his wife Abigail.

"Thirty-two families, from John and Abigail Adams to Dwight and Mamie Eisenhower have called the White House home. Through this 150 years of history we have had rare glimpses of our Presidents and have learned the difference between their Public and private personalities. We have met their first ladies, often more controversial than their husbands."

Mrs. Beaty, who was dressed as the wife of Andrew Jackson said, "If the wife of Andrew Jackson ever read Shakespear, she must have passed long over those words: 'Done to death by slanderous tongues'. For against her was waged the fiercest personal attack in our history.

"As a child, Rachel Donelson was a true daughter of the frontier, as merry and spirited a girl as ever danced on the deck of a flatboat or seized the steering oar while her father shot at the Indians.

"Rachel married Captain Lewis Robards when she was only 17. This was an unhappy marriage because he was moddy, possessive and quick tempered. When Rachel was 22, her husband introduced a bill of divorcement into the Virginia legislature, and the body voted favorably upon it. Shortly after, an ardent and happy Rachel and an equally happy Jackson were married.

"The couple settled down in Nashville and time passed blissfully. Before they realized it, two years had gone by, then came the crushing blow that was to hound Andrew Jackson and Rachel for the rest of their lives. The report that the Virginia Legislature had granted Rachel a divorce was found to be untrue. Rachel was branded an adultress. As soon as possible the marriage ceremony was performed again, yet in all the years to come, Rachel Jackson, cherished by her husband far beyond the lot of most women, was haunted by the knowledge that the story of her disgrace was written on the records of Kentucky courts.

Mrs. S. M. Pliler dressed as Dolly Madison said, "James Madison was elected president in 1808. Thousands popured into Washington to see Madison inaugurated.

"As the new President party entered the hall, all eyes were turned not on the little President dressed in black, but to the stunning Mrs. Madison, queenly and full blown dressed in buff velvet with a long train and on her head a buff velvet turban from Paris, trimmed in plumes and white satin. Just as Dolly Madison drew the public gaze on this occasion, so would she for the next eight years be the center of attention in the White House.

"President Madison, overworked, waisted none of his precious time analyzing his wifes great attraction for all ages, sexes and stations of human beings. He accepted gladly the great boon of her exuberant personality and happily turned over to Mrs. Madison the management of White House affairs.

"In her own way, Dolly used the social scene to further the interests of the President.

"Dolly was known as the most popular first lady and will always be remembered for saving the Declaration of Independence from distruction when the British burned Washington."

Mrs. C. O. Holder, who was dressed as Lucy Hayes said, "Lucy Webb Hayes smiled as she read the morning paper. Everything she and President Hayes did, or failed to do, would be the subject of discussion in the news. Now they were calling her 'Lemonade Lucy'.

"Her highly developed sense of humor and her quick intelligence told her that the good-natured lampooning by the newspapers of the day contained no real bitterness. Since neither she nor her husband ever drank alcoholic beverages or served them in their home, she saw no reason to change her convictions or customs during their four years in the White House.

"One of the most popular of our First Ladies, she frankly admitted her pleasure at presiding over the White House. She represented, as several historians have pointed out, the 'new woman' era and the beginning of the third period of the history of America's First Ladies. In this third era, while still in the background politicially, the women of the last half of the 19th century were demanding a voice in government and asking for changes in various laws, which they had to obey, but which they had no part in forming.

"Lucy Webb was active in this period of reform. She was also hailed by the press as a reformer in dress."

Each of the 18 members present brought homemade cookies to be sent to the Veterans Hospital in Big Spring and gifts were brought for the State Hospital in Big Spring.

CHRISTMAS BELLE—Her frothy organdy party dress is easy to make at home, does duty for gala dates all year.

Wish For A Party Dress Can Be Fulfilled Easily

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Every little girl wants a new party dress for Christmas. And this is a wish easily fulfilled, if you are handy with the sewing machine.

The classic party dress is a froth of white organdy ruffles, a frosting of lace and an embroidered ribbon sash — guaranteed to make the most confirmed tomboy look like a glamor girl.

Economical and easy to make, such a dress may change moods with a change of sash. For Christmas parties, a red or green sash is prescribed — with holly-leaf embroidery done on the sewing machine in gold thread. You may vary the colors of the sashes and the embroidery motif to suit other occasions, such as Valentine, Easter or birthday parties.

The party dress may be made with a standard pattern. Local sewing center experts suggest you select one with a small Peter Pan collar and diminutive puffed sleeves, back-button closing and a skirt cut straight and gathered at the waist.

For size 3 you will need 2 ½ yards of 44-inch fabric, 15 yards of inexpensive lace, a spool of gold metallic thread, a small package of bright sequins or beads and two yards of taffeta ribbon about 3 ½ inches wide.

If the pattern does not include ruffles, make these by cutting 13 crosswise strips four inches wide. Seam these into one continuous strip. Use the foot hemmer attachment to finish one edge and finish the other by applying lace over hem, again using the foot hemmer. Now gather the ruffles on the plain edge to half the original length. Sew the ruffles to skirt, row after row, three inches apart.

To embroider the sash, draw five motifs of holly leaves on typewriter paper. Baste a motif on each end of the sash and three around the waistline. Machine stitch through paper and tear off paper when complete. Sew sequins or beads at each motif.

New England Pumpkin Custard

Ingredients: 3 eggs, ¾ cup canned pumpkin, ½ cup maple syrup, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 cups milk (scalded).

Method: Beat eggs enough to blend yolks and whites. Add pumpkin, maple syrup, brown sugar, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; stir well. Add scalded milk, beating in gently as you do so. Pour into custard cups. Place in shallow baking pan of hot water; have water come up nearly to tops of custard cups. Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven 45 to 50 minutes or until a silver knife inserted near center comes out clean. Remove from water; cool. Makes 6 servings.

Ruby Applesauce

Ingredients: ½ cup water, ½ cup cranberries, 3 medium-sized McIntosh apples, salt, ¼ cup sugar.

Method: Put the water and cranberries in a 1-quart saucepan. Quarter apples and core; slice thin without peeling; arrange over cranberries. Add a dash of salt. Boil over moderate heat until cranberries all pop—about 5 minutes. Continue to cook fairly rapidly, stirring a few times, until apples are soft; watch so as not to scorch because mixture will be thick. Stir in sugar over low heat.

Mrs. Harold Brown Speaks To Central Elem. P-TA

American Education — Why? was the title of the speech Mrs. Harold Brown gave to the Central Elementary Parent-Teachers Association when they met recently.

"Each year the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers choose a program theme which suggests as a course of study for local units during that particular year. This year that theme is 'Education in the Making'.

"This month's program suggestion is 'American Education — Why?' "Education — a process which draws upon each contact and each experience of an individual can be both preparation and participation.

"Life — an everchanging condition can be both individual and group.

"Making — a development or construction with materials at hand, can be both to meet present needs and to provide a basis for meeting future needs.

"Education has been, is, and will be the touchstone upon which the character of America is dependent. Even a mediocre student can trace the close relationship between American education at a given time and the social and economic character of the American public of that time.

"America was founded upon individual liberties, even so American educators are dedicated to the teaching of students as individuals, and not as a mass.

"In America we like to think of education for the purpose of developing individuals who are educable, rather than to produce individuals who are educated. Educated implies a finished product, while educable means as long as life shall last.

"In recent months the American way of education has been under much criticism. Some of this is just, but very much is overdone. Perhaps it has helped us to realize our responsibility as parents to encourage our boys and girls to take advantage of their opportunities. We could helpp them to create an intellectual curiosity, a desire to learn, then they will learn discipline of mind and character through study.

"It is good for a board of education to have a statement of the educational philosophy, purposes and goals available to the public. We as parent-teacher members have the responsibility of interpreting the school program to the community. In Texas 27 regional workshops were held during September to study curriculum problems. A commission has been set up by the State Board of Education and recommendations or suggestions of interested citizens are welcomed by the agency.

"For two centuries this nation has stood out as a shining example of a democratic society in action. The schools, as other of our democratic institutions are run by the wishes of the people. If the public is lax, uninformed, and negligent of its duties, then our schools along with other segments of our culture will suffer.

"The current tendency to conformity causes concern relating to the problem of training for decision making.

"According to the technical assistance director of UNESCO, Byron Hollingshead, our American system of education is still superior to that of Europe. We have seven times as many students in our secondary schools than England and France, according to population and we have five times as many students in college.

"In spite of criticism leveled at American schools, they have turned out a product for which we can be proud."

The 'Wet' Office Party

The National Safety Council is turning on the heat in its campaign to eliminate what it considers one of the foremost traffic hazards during the winter holiday season, to wit, the "wet" office Christmas party.

"Dry them up, or cut them out," the council urges.

The campaign material includes many clever phrases and slogans, which, despite the fact that they may appear flippant, contain some timely advice.

For example: "One for the road often means two or more for the hospital."

On the truly sober side, the council warns that if history repeats, the approaching Christmas holidays might well be the deadliest of 1958 on our streets and highways. The combination of alcohol, poor weather, long hours of darkness and the universal spirit of holiday celebration can pile up serious odds against safe travel.

The council says its surveys show that a sizeable percentage of Christmas traffic accidents occur early in the holiday period, and that many of these can be traced to "highball hilarity."

Too many people think alcohol is a problem only for those obviously intoxicated. The National Safety Council challenges that assumption. The majority of holiday celebrants—the social drinkers who have only a "couple"—hamper their driving ability, and at a time when other driving conditions are bad, the council asserts.

The National Safety Council shows wisdom in starting its campaign well in advance of the holiday season itself. Perhaps the message will begin to soak in by the time the party season arrives.

Calm Appearance Of World Deceives

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Outwardly the world seems not too turbulent — but it's bubbling.

Washington can't be sure where or when it will bubble over.

For instance, the Eisenhower administration appears to be taking a calm view of the Russian effort to force the Western Allies out of Berlin. This hasn't reached a crisis stage yet. Maybe it never will. But it could happen suddenly.

Iran, with which this country is trying to negotiate a defense agreement, lies along the Soviet Union's southern border. Premier Khrushchev has warned Iran against signing. Trouble may pop there.

Iraq had been linked in a defense alliance with Iran — with U.S. backing but without any formal military agreement. Then a revolt by Iraqi army officers slew the Iraqi king.

This month administration officials expressed alarm over what they regard as a marked increase in Communist influence among backers of the new revolutionary regime in Iraq. Something similar could happen in Iran.

While the excitement over the Red Chinese bombardment of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops on the offshore island of Quemoy has quieted down a bit, the shooting is not ended. No one in Washington is in a position to predict what comes next.

Meanwhile, one government after another has come under the thumb of military men in recent months.

This has happened — besides Iraq — in the Sudan, in Pakistan, in Burma, in Thailand. Earlier the military threw out King Farouk of Egypt which is now under an army man, President Nasser.

The military leaders may at the moment be giving their countries an appearance of calm or even stability. But what the Eisenhower administration doesn't know, and can't even guess about, is what comes after the military men, or what turn they'll take.

It's possible the military will hold power in these various places for years. But if not, who succeeds them: Communists, Communist sympathizers, anti-Western forces, or men anxious to play friendly with Russia and cold to the West?

Military men are in control in several Latin American countries, too.

This week Secretary of State Dulles made a speech about the desire of the United States to see more and more independence for countries once held as colonies.

But independence doesn't necessarily mean establishment of democracy or, if democracy is the starting-off point, that democracy will survive.

Blue Book Drops Some

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1959 edition of the New York Social Register is minus the names of such personages as Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, novelist John P. Marquand and Georgia Rockefeller.

The latest edition of society's blue book, out Thursday, also dropped socialite Timothy Fales, who last week married entertainer Josephine Premice, a Negro. Fales' elimination, however, stemmed from his earlier divorce from Ellen Wood, former model.

Whitney was eliminated for divorcing his second wife, Eleanor Searle, to marry Hollywood actress Mary Hosford. Eleanor remains listed.

Marquand lost his listing as a result of his divorce from his second wife.

Miss Rockefeller, formerly of Greenwich, Conn., was dropped for marrying unlisted J. Harden Rose of Lockport, Ill.

Lillian Bostwick, heiress to a sugar refining fortune, was also eliminated. She married a physician, Elmer W. Davis.

Ellis Regime Is Praised By Daniel

By The Associated Press

HUNTSVILLE (AP)—The Texas Correctional System has made more progress in 11 years under the administration of O. B. Ellis "than was made during the previous 100 years of its existence."

That was the tribute paid here last night by Gov. Price Daniel at a testimonial dinner for Ellis, general manager of the Department of Corrections since 1947.

Ellis was brought to Texas from Tennessee when the late Beauford H. Jester of Corsicana was governor of Texas. "Tennessee has furnished Texas many distinguished men, but none in this century has contributed more than O. B. Ellis," Daniel said.

The governor added that the Texas Prison System now ranks "among the best in the world."

Daniel said Ellis not only was to be commended for his efficiency in keeping down costs but said he deserves even more praise for his rehabilitation of prisoners.

There is still danger, he said, "in jampacked prison conditions."

Daniel said the prison system probably will have 13,800 inmates by 1961. It now has about 10,500.

H. H. Coffield, corrections board chairman and oil man from Rockdale, described Ellis as an administrator and recalled that when Ellis came to Huntsville that the prison system was known as the "shame of Texas."

Two years ago, Coffield said, the same people who called the system "the shame of Texas" pronounced it one of the finest, ranking next to California and New York.

Earlier in the day, the Board of Corrections recognized Ellis' election to the presidency of the American Correctional Assn. They voted him all the time necessary to attend to the responsibilities of the office.

In afternoon ceremonies, 66 graduates of the prison high school were presented diplomas by the governor.

Ellis, responding to the speeches in his praise, said he had received full cooperation from Gos. Jester, Allan Shivers, and Daniel and also from six sessions of the Texas Legislature.

"There has never been any political interference," Ellis said, adding that it "has hampered so many state penal institutions." He also noted that 19 outstanding Texas business and professional men have served on the Board of Corrections since he became general manager.

Methodist Bishop A. Frank Smith of Houston described Ellis' work as a churchman. Ernest C. Hall, former superintendent of Memphis, Tenn., schools, told of Ellis' career before he came to Texas.

The day's program was marred about two hours before the banquet began by the escape of two prisoners from a work gang on a construction job at the Goree Farm south of Huntsville. Some of the prison officials joined in the manhunt.

'Kiss Me Kate' Is Gay Romp On TV

By CHARLES MERCER
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Kiss Me Kate," as presented by "Hallmark Hall of Fame" on NBC-TV Thursday night, was a gay romp, a delight.

Given an oustanding cast thoroughly experienced in the leading roles, the basic question was this: could the 2½-hour Broadway hit musical by Samuel and Bella Spewack, with music by Cole Porter, be reduced to 90 minutes of television without suffering in the process?

Thanks chiefly to the direction of George Schaefer, the translation to television was totally successful. It played beautifully and swiftly.

The fact that the production was taped in advance because of a strike threat by the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, did not tarnish its glow as live, spontaneous television.

Alfred Drake and Patricia Morison, offered the delightful voice and verve they displayed on Broadway as they romped the sets and sang such numbers as "Wunderbar" and "O In Love."

Julie Wilson, who played Bianca on the road and in London, had gratifying gusto as the happy yoyden. When she belted "Always True to You in My Fashion," you wondered why she isn't seen and heard more often on the home screen.

As a couple of underworld collection agents, Harvey Lembeck and Jack Klugman were fine.

Contrary to some published reports "Too Darn Hot" was not dropped because it was too darn hot for TV. It and "Were Thine That Special Face," having no part in advancing the plot, were minor casualties in reducing the playing time.

"Playhouse 90—on CBS-TV presented a superb adaptation of William Faulkner's "Old Man," an ironic tale of duty and human endurance.

Beautifully written by Horton Foote and imaginatively directed by John Frankenheimer, the Fred Coe production demonstrated that a superior television drama can adhere faithfully to an original story.

Sterling Hayden gave a great performance as a proud, inarticulate heroic convict in the 1927 Mississippi flood who endured an inferno of nature and man in his single-minded effort to attain personal integrity.

Integrity to him meant returning to the state prison farm after he'd been sent out to rescue from the flood a pregnant, sunbonneted Susan, eloquently portrayed by Geraldine Page.

This was a tremendous drama, one of the finest of the season, notable in cast, direction and production.

Mall Experiment Not Exactly A Success

PAMPA, Tex. (AP)—This west Texas city's first experiment with the downtown mall—streets from which autos are barred—was not a complete success.

A teen-aged driver, whom police did not identify, crashed through a barrier Thursday, struck a displayed 1959 car, and rammed it into four other automobiles on display.

A spectator, Clyde Jonas, suffered a broken leg when he was pinned between two of the scrambled autos.

Tigers End Season Tonight

SPORTS

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

ANOTHER FOOTBALL SEASON, locally spepaking, will come to an end tonight when the Tigers take on the Lake View Chiefs at Tiger Stadium.

Although only second place is at stake in the game, tonight's game should be packed with lotsa action. The Tigers, of course, who have never finished lower than second in District 3-AAA, would like to preserve that record by winning tonight's game.

A loss tonight would drop the Tigers into a two-way tie for third place with Lamesa who has already finished its season with a 1-3 record. Colorado City, however, could move into sole possession of third if she should upset Sweetwater and Lake View downs the Tigers.

And should these two things come about, Lake View would share the title with Sweetwater. The Mustangs, though, would still represent the district in the playoffs since the Ponies defeated Lake View, the only team that stands a chance of sharing the crown with them.

24 Tigers To Return

Twenty-four of the 34 Tigers who'll be in uniform tonight will be back next year and the fans tonight should get some idea of what to expect next season.

The Tigers had some other seniors who started the season but were sidelined because of injuries.

It would be a great moral booster to the Tigers to win tonight's game and a little help from the fans wouldn't hurt. A true and loyal fan is one that backs his or her team all the way win, lose or draw.

The Old Crystal Ball, after coming through week before last, faded again last week. Those college upsets are driving the grid "experts" crazy these days.

Without a doubt this season tops them all for number of upsets. We're not speaking of the mild upsets, either. There have been any number of games that seemed impossible for a team to beat another this season but it's been happening all season.

It's got to where it takes "guts" to attempt predicting games. But we'll try once more to get our heads "above water" with another set of forecasts.

Pick Tigers, TCU, Bonham

Here goes:

Snyder 28, Lake View 20 — the Bengals finish strong.

Sweetwater 34, Colorado City 6- but they had better not take the Wolves lightly.

TCU 14, Rice 8 — The Frogs take home title and Cotton Bowl berth.

SMU 20, Baylor 8 — Mustangs keep title hopes alive in case Rice beats TCU.

Arkansas 27, Texas Tech 7 — Porkers have come a long way.

Gail 28, Mertzon 14 — Coyotes make it 22 straight.

Abilene 26, San Angelo 12 — Eagles clinch another district title.

Odessa 21, Midland 8 — Broncs finish as Abilene's bridesmaid.

Levelland 21, Littlefield 6 —Lobos wrap up 1-AAA title.

Our "blue plate" special:

Bonham 22, Terrell 20 — Purple Warriors end Tiger win streak at 24.

Hermleigh Lands Pair On All-6B

Two Hermleigh Cardinals have been chosen on the 1958 All-District 6-B football team released today.

Harold Robbins, 200-pound Hermleigh senior, was named at tackle on both the offensive and defensive teams.

The other Cardinal winning all-district honors was halfback Jimmy Roemisch on defense.

Following are the all-district selections:

OFFENSIVE

Ends — Charles Reed, Loraine; Bobby Weldon, Eldorado.

Tackles — Billy Long, Loraine; and Robbins, Hermleigh.

Guards — Gerald Grantham, Trent; Bob Wrinkle, Bronte.

Center — Weldon Claxton, Loraine.

Quarterback — Farris Nixon, Eldorado.

Halfbacks — Dan Mittel, Eldorado; Freddie McDonald, Robert Lee.

Fullback — Jerry Williams, Trent.

DEFENSIVE

Ends — Jim Mackey, Eldorado; Bob Rankin, Loraine; and Grantham.

Tackles — Darrell Owens, Loraine; and Robbins.

Middle guard — Melvin Duncan Robert Lee.

Linebackers — Dwain Sauer, Eldorado; Sam Shipworth, Robert Lee; Robert Galvan, Loraine; Reed and Williams.

Halfbacks — Roemisch, Hermleigh and Nixon.

Runnerup Spot Is At Stake

With a second place finish at stake, the Tiger footballers close out their 1958 season here tonight against the surprising Lake View Chiefs.

Kickoff time at Tiger Stadium will be 7:30 p.m.

The Tigers need a victory tonight to share second place with the Chiefs. The Bengals have two ties and a loss in three district outings.

Lake View, with a 2-1 district record, can nail down undisputed possession of the runnerup spot with a victory or tie tonight.

The Chiefs have beaten the two teams that tied the Tigers, Colorado City and Lamesa. Lake View dumped C-City 22-0 after edging Lamesa, 12-7. The Tigers battled C-City to a 12-12 draw and Lamesa to a 20-20 stalemate.

In the other district game for the two teams, against Sweetwater, the Tigers made the better showing. Sweetwater came from behind in the last two minutes of play to nip the Tigers, 27-20, while the Mustangs overpowered the Chiefs, 53-12.

Both teams will be hobbled by injuries for tonight's final. Three Tiger regulars are on the injury list and won't start tonight. They are halfbacks Dick Hayes and Jimmy Allen and fullback Paul Stanley.

Hayes and Allen may see limited action but it's doubtful Stanley will be able to play. Stanley has a badly sprained ankle. The Tiger fullback hasn't played an offensive down since the Colorado City game a month ago. Despite his inactivity, Stanley is still the No. 2 rusher for the Tigers with 420 yards.

Hayes is the top Tiger ground gainer with 781 yards. Hayes has been ill since Tuesday night but he may see limited offensive action tonight. Allen is still bothered with a leg injury.

John Weaver, although slowed by a sprained ankle, will start at Hayes' halfback slot tonight with Marcus Strickland due to open at Allen's HB position.

Eddie Watson, a bulwark on defense, will start at fullback tonight. Mickey McGrew who has filled in for Stanley at FB the last two games, will return to his guard position tonight.

The starting line will read about the same for the Tigers with Kenny Drake and Bill Dubose at the ends, Terry Lee and Ronnie Giles at tackles, Tommy Minton and McGrew at guards and Bill Rinehart at center.

On defense the Tigers will start Bo Brown and Bill Dubose at ends, Mickey McGrew and Giles at tackles, Ronnie McGrew and Reg Scarborough at guards, James Fitzgerald, Watson and Kenny Drake or Strickland at linebackers, and Mahan and Allen at halfbacks.

On the injured list for the Chiefs are halfback Martin Mosley, who is definitely out, and halfback Mickey Mixson and quarterback Shorty McCall.

Mixson has a bruised knee and McCall a bruised shoulder.

Tonight's game will end the high school football careers for 10 Tigers and nine Chiefs.

Playing their last game for the Tigers will be Kenny Drake, Bo Brown, Bill Dubose, Ronnie Giles, Terry Lee, Mickey McGrew, Bill Rinehart, Richard Mahan, Jimmy Allen and Paul Stanley.

The Lake View seniors are halfback Charlie Preas, fullback Gary Waren, ends William Keel and Billy Winans, tackles Roland Perry and Ronnie Cole, guards Burt and Burl Terrill and center Jerald Martin.

All 10 of the Tiger seniors have been named co-captains for their farewell tilt tonight.

Six players will be suiting up with the Tigers tonight for the first time. The six were brought up from the "B" squad who finished its season last week.

The new faces on the squad are Keith Lloyd, David James, David Wiman, Jack McDonald, Jan Lindsey and Gerald Reeves, all linemen.

Cards Drop Houston From Farm System

HOUSTON (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals are abandoning the club that started the farm system in baseball.

They are doing it because Houston wasn't able to advance to Class AAA and also because they feel they can't operate in a city that has major league ambitions.

Severing of relations with Houston was announced yesterday by Art Routzong, business manager of the Cardinals. It brought to an end a union that started back in 1921 when Branch Rickey bought an interest in the Texas League club and started the farm system in baseball. The Cardinals took over full ownership in 1926.

Routzong said the franchise would be offered for sale for $100,000 and that this would include 18 players now on the Houston roster. The Cardinals also will negotiate a lease on the stadium for a limited time and sell the property should a good offer be received.

Baylor Cubs Down Rice Owlets, 28-19

HOUSTON (AP)—Bobby Ply's passing and Ronnie Bull's running brought the Baylor freshmen a 28-19 victory over the Rice freshmen yesterday.

Ply scored one touchdown, his passes set up another made by Bull and sparked an 82-yard march which saw Bull run 15 for a third. Jack Gravitt made the other Baylor touchdown with a 1-yard smash.

Air Force Definite Cotton Bowl Choice

DALLAS (AP) — Unless Air Force Academy has serious trouble in its next two games it will be the visiting team in the Cotton Bowl, the Dallas News said today.

Cotton Bowl officials made no announcement but the News said the formal offer to the Academy would be delayed until the Air Force team finishes the season against Colorado Nov. 29.

The Academy plays New Mexico Saturday and is expected to win that one.

"It is possible that even if Colorado upsets the Air Force the alcons still would get the Cotton Bowl bid, provided the game is close," said the News.

A TCU Win Tomorrow Would Write Early Finish To SWC

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas Christian and Rice meet Saturday at Houston in the game that can bring the Southwest Conference race to its earliest close in years.

If Texas Christian wins, the championship and the Cotton Bowl belong to the Horned Frogs. A Rice triumph would throw the race into a tie that would require the final week to unravel.

Two other games are on the short schedule, neither meaning anything unless Rice should win. That would supply a glimmer of hope to Southern Methodist, the only team left that might share the title with TCU and Rice.

Southern Methodist will be battling Baylor at Dallas while out on the plains Arkansas will be making its first sashay into Lubbock for a joust with downtrodden Texas Tech.

Texas Christian started the week favored by a point and a half to beat Rice but game time Saturday will find the Horned Frogs with a 3-point bulge.

A crowd of 60,000 will watch Rice try to climb out of the hole dug for it by Texas A&M in a jarring 28-21 upset last week. The Frogs have a better offensive and defensive record than Rice, have more veteran strength, greater manpower and an Owl triumph would rate at least a mild upset.

Southern Methodist is a handy favorite to beat a Baylor team that has managed only one conference victory and is resting on the bottom of the league after three straight losses.

Arkansas is an even more pronounced favorite over Texas Tech than SMU is over Baylor. The Razorbacks are driving for a clean sweep in November after dropping their first six games. Tech has won three games this season the same as Arkansas but only one out of the last six.

Texas and Texas A&M are idle this week.

Crowds totaling 109,000 are due to see the three games Saturday afternoon with 28,000 at Dallas and 21,000 at Lubbock.

Two out of four was the record last week. Ought to have a better percentage this week since there aren't as many games:

Texas Christian-Rice: Rice will have to be mighty high to win this one; TCU by a touchdown.

Southern Methodist-Baylor: SMU is the most unpredictable team in the league but a weak vote for it anyway.

Arkansas-Texas Tech: Arkansas by two touchdowns.

Eldorado 11 Meets Wink

Eldorado's Eagles, champions of District 6-B, will go against the Wink Wildcats, the 5-B king, in a bi-district clash tonight at Rankin.

Both Eldorado and Wink actually shared their respective district titles. Eldorado and Loraine tied for the 6-B title with 4-1 records but Eldorado got the playoff nod because it defeated Loraine.

Wink finished in a 3-way tie for the 5-B crown with Rankin and Van Horn but gained the playoffs on a coin toss.

Hermleigh's Cards, after winning their first district game, dropped their next four and wound up with a 1-4 record for a share of fourth place with Bronte.

For the season the Cards won four and lost six.

The final 6-B standings:

The upper brackets of Texas schoolboy football round out the state playoff field except for one team Friday night. That one is expected to be Abilene, which must beat San Angelo Saturday to gain the playoffs.

Defending state Class AAAA champion Highland Park is among the teams seeking district titles Friday night and the Scots are heavy favorites to make it by beating Garland.

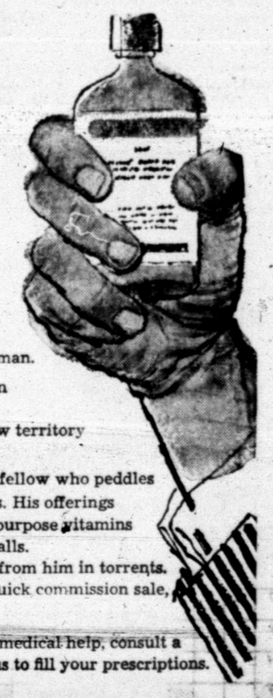

Nederland, Class AAA defending state king, has to beat Beaumont French to gain the playoffs.

Class AAA has eight champions ready and will decide eight more Friday night and two Saturday night to finish the opening round.

TYRONE POWER WIDOW IN TEARS—Mrs. Debbie Ann Power, widow of actor Tyrone Power, is in tears as she was driven from the Hollywood, Calif., airport after arriving for the actor's funeral. With her is Power's business manager, A. Morgan Maree. The widow lost her composure as she faced waiting newsmen at the airport. (AP Wirephoto)

Many Pay Tribute To Tyrone Power

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stars, near-stars and just plain fans by the hundreds pay final respects today to Tyrone Power at a military funeral.

Two hundred elite among the mourners—his friends and fellow screen celebrities, invited by his widow — will crowd a chapel in Hollywood Memorial Park Cemetery at noon.

A thousand others on folding chairs on the lawn outside will hear the rites over loudspeakers.

Cmdr. Thomas M. Gibson, USNR, Presbyterian minister, will officiate. Cesar Romero will read the uelogy. The flag-draped mahogany casket will remain closed.

Then a Medal of Honor winner and five other Marine officers, three of them World War II acquaintances of Power's, will carry the casket to a grave near a lake opposite the cemetery's mausoleum.

Power, 44, died in Madrid, Spain last Saturday after a heart attack on a movie set.

The traditional firing squad and bugler were omitted at the request of the widow, Deborah Ann, 26, the actor's third wife. "She doesn't feel that Tyrone was a military man," a friend explained.

Earlier, tentative plans for entombment in the mausoleum, near the body of silent screen lover Rudolph Valentino were dropped.

Actress Linda Christian, Power's second wife, announced in advance she would not attend the funeral. She and their daughters, Romina, 8, and Taryn, 6, planned to go to a mass for Power at a Catholic church.

Linda said she received a delayed telegram Thursday in which the widow said: "It is my express wish that you do not come to California with the children to attend the funeral."

Linda flew here from Paris and her children were brought from Mexico City, but she agreed not to attend.

"I always loved Ty, and I never wanted a divorce," she told a reporter. "I did everything I could to prevent it. I didn't know he planned to be married. Only a week before his marriage he assured me he never would marry again."

Among the pallbearers is Lt. Col. Kenneth Walsh, who won the Medal of Honor in the Solomons. He met Power when the actor was in Marine training at Corpus Christi, Tex., and recalls him as "a real wonderful guy."

Maj. Clarence Borchering knew Power at Quantico, Va., where both were commissioned the same day. Both were born in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Maj. Leslie R. Hail recalled that Power, piloting a transport, led a flight of 12 planes from Okinawa to Japan immediately after V-J day.

Lt. Col. Harlin E. (Tex) Hood knew Power on Saipan in 1945. The other pallbearers, Maj. Lynn Griffitts and Maj. Lionel D. Hastings, had not met the actor. All are attached to the 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station 50 miles southeast of here.

Scavenger Cells Turn In Leukemia

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—Scavenger cells that usually defend against disease turn against normal red blood cells and destroy them in cases of leukemia in mice it was reported today.

There was no sign of this traitor-like behavior on the part of scavenger cells until leukemia appeared, however, said Eric and Ruth Ponder, a husband-wife research team at Nassau Hospital.

Scavenger cells normally move through the body devouring foreign bodies like dust in the lungs and disease-causing bacteria.

The American Cancer Society which supported the research reported the phenomenom of scavenger cells, or phagocytes, gone awry.

Leukemia is a cancer of the blood-making parts of the body, the lymph organs and bone marrow.

The body of a leukemia patient is filled with immature and useless white blood cells—and there is a deficiency of red blood cells.

When leukemia appears in mice the Ponders found, the scavenger cells run wild and gorge themselves on red cells in the spleens of the diseased animals.

Whether there is a relationship between this type of behavior in mice and in humans is not known.

Baby's Cry Stills Conductor's Baton

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—A baby's cry last night stilled the baton of conductor Paul Kletski as he directed the Dallas Symphony Orchestra in the overture by Carl Maria Von Weber.

"When the baby cried I did not know what would develop. I just waited."

THE RAINIEST SPOT

QUESTION: What is the rainiest spot on earth?

* * *

ANSWER: People say that a little village called Cherrapunji in the foothills of the Himalaya Mountains in India is the rainiest spot on earth. Different measuring stations there have recorded average rainfalls of 424 to 499 inches a year.

Nearly all the rain falls on Cherrapunji during the six months between April and September when the warm moist monsoon winds blow out of the Indian Ocean and drop their moisture as they are forced to rise into the cool mountain air.

But some people say the wettest spot on earth is Mt. Waialeale on the Hawaiian Island of Kauai. The average rainfall there has been recorded as between 460 and 472 inches. If all this rain did not evaporate or run off it would form a lake nearly 40 feet deep!

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: This little Hawaiian girl has been caught in a sudden rainstorm and is protecting herself with a palm leaf. Color the drawing, making her grass skirt a deep yellow, the palm leaf green and her garland of flowers pink and red.

SNYDER AREA CHURCH NOTES

Japanese Educator Will Speak At Churches Here

Dr. Takuo Matsumoto, dean of the School of Religious Studies at Aoyama Gakuin, Tokyo, Japan, will speak at two churches here Sunday.

He will be speaker at the Sunday 10:55 a.m. service at the First Methodist Church and will speak at 4:30 p.m. at the Trinity Methodist Church.

A graduate of two American universities, Dr. Matsumoto was president of a Hiroshima girls school in August, 1945, when the first atomic bomb fell there. He is now on a six-month speaking tour and will tell the story of five noted Christian schools in Japan supported by Methodists.

In the Hiroshima bombing, his wife and more than 300 students of his school were killed. After the war, he was one of three Japanese scholars appointed to make a new translation of the New Testament.

Bethel Baptist

The Bethel Baptist Church will be observing its first anniversary Sunday. At the 11 a.m. service, the Rev. W. L. Cass, pastor, will speak on "The Greatest Text in the Bible."

Guest speaker at the 7:30 p.m. service will be the Rev. Bill Arnett, district mission secretary. The church, meeting temporarily at the Northeast Elementary School, will have groundbreaking services for its new building at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

25th Street CC

"Marks of a Great Church" will be the subject of Glen Pace, minister at the Twenty-fifth Street Church of Christ, at the Sunday 8:45 and 10:55 a.m. services.

At the 7 p.m. service he will speak on "People Around the Cross."

Dunn Baptist

At the Dunn Baptist Church, the Rev. Don Laing, pastor, will speak on "Nominal Christianity" at the Sunday 11 a.m. service.

His subject for the 7:30 p.m. service will be "The Sin We Are Afraid to Mention." Sunday school is at 9:45 a.m., training union at 6:30 p.m.

NEW PASTOR of the Dunn Baptist Church is the Rev. Don Laing, former pastor of the Wilmeth Baptist Church near Winters. A native of Hobbs, N. M., and 1956 ministerial graduate of Hardin-Simmons University, he has been in the ministry seven years. He, his wife, and children, Nedra Jan, 3, and Lee Paul, 8 months, live at Dunn. He is also employed at the Daily News as a printer.

Green Hill Baptist

The Green Hill Baptist Church will vote on a proposed $25,910 budget in its Forward Program of Church Finance at the Sunday 11 a.m. service. There will be a brief discussion entertained, since there was not time for full discussion at the Wednesday evening service, according to the Rev. Bill McCrary, pastor.

The church is planning a loyalty dinner for Dec. 3, tithing testimonies at all services, and pledge Sunday Dec. 7. At the Wednesday 7 a.m. teachers meeting special stewardship lessons will be studied and a stewardship film will be shown at the 8 p.m. prayer service.

At the Sunday services, Rev. McCrary's sermon subjects will be "Money, Money, Money" at the 11 a.m. service and "A Christian's Life" at the 7:30 p.m. service.

Groundbreaking Is Set By Bethel

The Bethel Baptist Church will observe its first anniversary Sunday, and on the same day it will have groundbreaking services for a new building which will be under construction within the next few days.

Regular services will be held at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Northeast Elementary School, where the church has been meeting temporarily since its organization.

The groundbreaking will be at the site of the church's future home at Avenue E and Eighteenth Street at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Guest speaker at the groundbreaking will be the Rev. A. J. Martin, pastor of the Avenue D Baptist Church.

Participating in the groundbreaking will be members of the building committee, deacon body, and other members, according to the Rev. W. L. Cass, pastor. A. C. Weaver is chairman of the building committee and deacon body.

The church building committee will serve as general contractor on the building and will have a number of separate contracts for various phases of construction. It will be on the east side of Avenue E and face that avenue.

The plant will have an auditorium which will seat about 225 persons and an education building with assembly rooms and classrooms for eight departments, including nursery.

The tile and brick building will be on property purchased about three months ago by the church. The property is a full city block.

Members of the church are now in the process of selling bonds on the Broadway Plan. The bonds, which total $23,000, are now about one-third sold. They are in denominations of $500, $250, $100, and $50.

The church was organized with 57 members a year ago. Since that time there have been 47 additions by baptism and 58 by letter. Church membership now stands at 137. Sunday school enrollment is about 140, training union enrollment about 100.

BEGINNING duties as new pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church is the Rev. Raymond W. Dunn, former pastor of the Central Baptist Church at Decatur. The Dunn family is living at 2806 Forty-second Street.

THE TRUTH OF GOD

(Question) "Is it possible to turn from the truth and be lost?" (Answer) If one does not believe the truth he is damned (2 Thess. 2:12) If one does not obey the truth Paul says that "God will render to every man according to his deeds... unto them that are contentious and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath." (Rom. 2:6-8) The bible tells us of those who were wont to "turn again to the weak and beggarly elements... desire again to be in bondage?" (Gal. 4:9) Too, we learn of those who had "run well; who did hinder you that ye should not obey the truth." (Gal. 5:7) God knew that man could and would turn from the truth and Paul prophesied of the time when this unholy condition would prevail. "For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine but after their own lust shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears. And they shall turn away their ears from the truth and shall be turned unto fables." (2 Tim. 4:3-4) Again in Titus 1:14 "This witness is true. Wherefore rebuke them sharply that they may be sound in the faith; Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth." These passages not only teach that men can turn from the truth, but also shows what will turn them... Fables.

The Public Spirited Firms and Individuals On This Page Bring You This Weekly Message In The Hope That It Will Point To A Better Way Of Life And Be An Inspiration To Everyone.

What a Morning

Surely this is the day of the Lord. His sun is shining, His birds are singing... all's right with the world. But how is it with you? Are you enjoying God's surpluses? Can you speak as David spoke in Psalms 23:5?... my cup runneth over. Do you attend Sunday school and the regular worship hour in the church of your choice? Could it be that you are in the midst of plenty and letting your soul starve to death? If so you have recourse in God. The way of the Lord is straight and poverty does not exist with Him. Why not wake up with this mother and son, look out the window and accept the challenge He offers you. Go to Sunday school and worship services this very day.
