Tennis Wilson brought in a small limb off a wild plum tree Friday which had a cluster of 24 plums on it. The tree is loaded with fruit of the small red variety of wild plum, fine for making jelly.

The drive for scrap aluminum being made in Loraine this week should meet the approval and ready response of every citizen. Here in town the Boy Scouts will make a house to house canvass and will pick up and take it to a central location. If they fail to see you bring your contribution and turn it over to the Scoutmaster, Rutsie Hall, or his assistant Paul Stewart. In the rural area the mail carriers will pick up the aluminum pieces left at mail boxes and bring them into town.

The drive for scrap aluminum is being made to supplement the national stock of the metal now being used so extensively in making planes with which to defend America.

The V campaign under way in the conquered countries of Europe may give the Nazis the jitters and cause their downfall yet. To say the least it is probably nerve racking to the German masters. More power to the V campaign.

Joe Judkins, manager of the Lorex Theatre, has been making pictures of various people and scenes in this part of the country recently and has had them made into a moving picture which he will show at the local theatre Friday and Saturday of this week.

The talk of extensive flea hopper damage to cotton in this section so far has not materialized. We hope it don't. The main thing to fear now is damage by leaf worms, boll worms and boll weevils. Maybe they won't do much damage either.

Loraine is to have its annual Dairy Show the latter part of August. Officials of the show expect to have experts here to classify the animals and word is being awaited from them before setting the dates for the show.

Things would get a little stale sometimes if we didn't kinda kid folks along once in a while. Last week we chided the chamber of commerce a little but the fact is that the chamber of commerce has done some good work during the past few years and if the work is continued good results are bound to come from it. Lets don't get stale by inactivity.

If you have not renewed your subscription or if you are not a subscriber you now have an opportunity to get your home paper by trading us something.

We appreciate our friends who call us each week and tell us the news they know. Those friends are interested in their home paper and their home community more than they are in giving a "scoop" to other papers. After all you know we ALL have to work together to keep the bigger towns from grabbing all the gravy so we doubly appreciate those who want to help rather than knock us in our efforts to gather the news. We can't be everywhere at once so unless you tell us we may not find out about the news you know. Thanks a lot.

Thirty-two thousand rural mail carriers are now acting as agents in the sale of Defense Savings Stamps, postal officials have informed the Treasury Department. Demand for the stamps in sparsely settled districts caused the Post Office Department to authorize the carriers to act as salesmen.

The stamps range in value from ten cents to five dollars. Purchasers are given albums in which they can be mounted. When filled, the albums may be exchanged for Defense Savings Bonds.

Post Office Officials recalled that rural mail carriers acted in similar capacities in 1917 and 1918 selling War Savings Stamps.

Watt Collier of Colorado City spent Sunday in the D. L. Collier home.

Two Loraine Boys Now In Marine Corp

Charles Harris Hamilton and B. A. Parker, Jr. of Loraine, have been accepted for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps, and along with 4 other West Texas youths, transferred to the Marine Corps Base, San Diego, California, for training. It was announced today by Sergeant Hugh C. Lindsey, of the Recruiting office in the Post office building, Abilene, Texas.

These young men attended High School in Loraine, and stated that they intended to continue their education while in the Marine Corps by taking advantage of the many educational opportunities offered men in the Marine Corps.

After these young men receive their training at San Diego, they will be assigned duty either aboard one of the larger ships of the U. S. Navy, a foreign station, or one of the numerous stations along the coast of North America.

FUNERAL HELD FOR WILLA FAE LEE

Funeral services for Willa Fae Lee, 11 were held Friday afternoon, July 11, at 3:30 at the Baptist church with Rev. A. C. Hardin of Post officiating. She had been critically ill for several days.

Willa Fae was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lee. She was born July 13, 1929, in Colorado City. Besides her parents she is survived by four sisters, Mary Bell, Betty Jo, Nelda Jean and Barbara Sue, and a brother, Curtis.

Out of town relatives attending the funeral were the parents of Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Brown and daughters of Tucumcari, New Mexico, and Mr. and Mrs. Mongar and daughter of Littlefield.

Burial was in the Loraine cemetery in charge of G. W. Hendrick.

We join with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lee and family in expressing sympathy.

FLEA HOPPERS FOUND TO BE PLENTIFUL IN AREA

Mr. Bramblett, representative of the Sweetwater Cotton Oil Company, reported Wednesday that the cotton flea hopper infestation is extensive enough in all cotton fields to justify poisoning. In some fields he reports the boll weevil infestation is considered serious. A very few leaf worms were found in cotton south of Loraine. Numerous squares are being bored out by the cotton square borer but this insect rarely becomes numerous enough to do much damage.

Mrs. J. N. Smith left Wednesday for Sweetwater after visiting with Mrs. J. H. Neil for a few days.

The revival meeting at Pleasant Valley Baptist Church will begin August 3, with Rev. Clyde Campbell of Calvary Baptist Church of Abilene doing the preaching. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. D. L. Cranfill and Miss Adine Howell went to Dallas Wednesday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Green and daughter Ethel Mae and son James of Houston spent the week end at the D. L. Collier home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hallmark, and Louise, are visiting in Corpus Christi this week.

Mrs. W. E. Best of Douglasville, Texas, left Friday for her home after a ten-day visit with Mrs. J. T. Draper.

Winfred Simmons, of Bakersfield, California, is here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Lige Snaders of Lorenzo were Loraine visitors Monday.

Rena Louise Taylor returned home this week from Big Spring where she has been working this summer. She plans to spend the rest of the summer in Loraine, before entering Hardin University this fall.

SINGING AT PLEASANT VALLEY SUNDAY

We are requested to announce that there will be a singing at Pleasant Valley Church north of Loraine Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30. According to Moody Richardson plenty of new books will be on hand. Everybody is invited to attend.

ALUMINUM DRIVE IS UNDER WAY THIS WEEK

The drive for old aluminum pots and pans is under way in Loraine this week. The boy Scouts are to make a canvass of the town and will pick up any old aluminum you may have about the place you do not need to keep. When the boys call at your place give them what you have.

The drive to collect old aluminum is being made all over the nation as a measure to help in the defense of America. Aluminum and lots of it is being used in the manufacture of planes and there is a shortage of the metal for domestic use.

In the rural area those who do not care to bring their old aluminum to town may deposit it at their mail box and the carriers will pick it up and bring it into town. If you do bring it to town leave it with Paul Stewart or any place he may designate.

REV. J. E. SHEWBERT BEGINS MEETING AT BIG SPRING FRIDAY

Rev. J. E. Shewbert, the local Methodist Pastor, will open a ten day meeting at the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church in Big Spring Friday night. Rev. John English is the pastor. He will close the meeting there on Sunday August 3.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

We are certainly grateful for those who feel it their duty to attend Sunday School every Sunday. We had 150 present Sunday. Sunday evening was spent in song service with approximately 100 present.

Don't forget Friday night the revival begins with a capable messenger, in charge, Rev. A. C. Hardin of Post. Be found in your place at every service and on time.

We want to especially thank the kind Methodist people for the invitations to use the tabernacle, but arrangements had already been made for the services. We are thankful for the fellowship and love that exist between our fellowmen. Again we "thank you" and extend a cordial invitation to everyone to attend the revival services.

Hail Destroys Crops In China Grove Area

Hail last Thursday night severely damaged crops in the China Grove, Buford and Dunn areas, according to reports. Cotton in some parts of the area will be a complete loss and other crops are damaged. A small strip in the Westbrook area also suffered from hail.

The rain here was very light though in some parts of the territory measured a half inch or more. The rain was accompanied by a brilliant electrical display.

According to the government gauge on the Wiley Walker farm 1.2 inches of rain fell Wednesday night. The fall was heavier in other parts of the territory it is said. The shower last Thursday measured .2 of an inch.

Wanda Martin of Roscoe is spending this week with her grandmother, Mrs. Mae Martin and Mrs. F. P. Gibson.

Texans Give Oil To Great Britain

JOHN F. CAMP, San Antonio oil operator, heads the "Oil for Britain" movement by Texas producers to lift the shutdown to permit an extra day's allowance from their wells to be given to the President of the United States with the request that it be released to the people of Great Britain. The plan sponsored by Camp, when perfected and given final approval by the Texas Railroad Commission, should make available to Great Britain a million barrels or more of Texas crude. The Texas gift is to be made direct to the President who in turn will pass it on under the terms of the Lend-Lease Act.

The San Antonio man has already donated 5,000 barrels of regular production from his wells. He acknowledges the gift, President Roosevelt said: "This gift demonstrates that democracy in action is not a bare and meaningless phrase it symbolizes the spirit of patriotism and unselfishness which exists throughout the country today."

Oil Field Cash for USO

Roustabouts, drillers, producers, farmers and town people chipped in their change and put Hutchinson County more than $500 over its quota for the United Service Organizations. Here J. C. Phillips (left), editor and manager of the Burger Daily Times director of the USO drive for Hutchinson County, is handing E. P. Gorman, Dallas, Southwestern regional chairman, a check for $2,000. Gorman flew to the Panhandle city to receive the check and to thank the Hutchinson County committee.

Baptist Revival To Start Here Friday Night

The revival meeting for the Baptist church will start Friday night of this week and continue for a week or ten days. Rev. A. C. Hardin of Post, former pastor here, will do the preaching. T. J. Riden will lead the singing.

Everyone is invited to attend the services which are to be held at the church.

CHURCH OF CHRIST REVIVAL TO START AUGUST FIRST

The revival meeting for the Church of Christ will begin on August 1 and continue for ten days, according to an announcement made this week. Trine Starnes will conduct the Services and everyone is invited to hear him.

TEXAS DAIRY INDUSTRY HAS GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

Fort Worth, July 21—Those groups in Texas who for the past five years have been working earnestly to promote and improve dairying in the State are highly pleased at the Government's request for a six to ten per cent increase in milk production nationally.

In Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's request they see a demand for more and better cows and processing plants operating to capacity. Not only will dairymen be vitally affected but feed and all other allied industries will profit as well.

The demand for increased milk production has come about through America's decision to furnish Great Britain 250,000,000 pounds of cheese and 15,000,000 cases of evaporated milk, plus enormous quantities of powdered milk. These figures represent approximately one-third of the national production of cheese in America and one-fourth of the production of evaporated milk, which must be replaced by increased milk production if our nation is to have its regular requirements of these commodities.

That the call for increased milk production is in effect an order is evidenced by the fact that the U. S. Department of Agriculture has in no uncertain terms advised their agencies—the Extension Service, Farm Security Administration and other agricultural setups—that the increase must be accomplished and that the American farmer who milks cows is now a vital part of National Defense.

Commenting on the advantages that will come to Texas Dairymen, M. E. McMurray, Manager of the Texas Dairy Products Association, says, "It is a golden opportunity for the Texas Dairy Industry. For a number of years we have been hammering along trying to improve conditions—sometimes against odds. Now out of a clear sky, so to speak, comes Texas' opportunity to step up with the National leaders in furnishing their portion of the national production. Here's what it means nationally," continues McMurray: "250,000,000 pounds of cheese means 8,930 minimum carloads and 15,000,000 cases represents 18,750 carloads of evaporated milk. Surely, Texas with her unsurpassed dairying possibilities will not fail to improve her position and provide some of the long trainloads of dairy products that will move to the ports during the coming year."

Advice to County Agents and other agricultural workers as to how the increase may be affected are being received now from the Department of Agriculture. Among these are feeding heavier on concentrates, especially the good cows; doing a better job of milking cows, faster and cleaner; feeding concentrates to dry cows so they will be ready to go to work when they freshen; reduce culling and the utilization of all cows whether of dairy stock or not which may have milking possibilities; improve water supplies; study of feeding practices and increased use of Trench Silos.

Mr. H. B. Barrier and young son Billy are spending a few days here with relatives. Mr. Barrier has employment in Wichita Falls.

Reynold Faulkenberry is spending a few days with his sister Mrs. Fredom Taylor of Loraine.

Mrs. Mae Martin and Mrs. Wiley Bullard and daughter Maxine, visited Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Martin of Roscoe Sunday.

Mrs. E. M. Shultz has returned from a week's visit with Ben Shultz at Alarado, a sister of Mr. Shultz in Houston and Leo at Camp Wallace near Houston.

Party Announces Coming Marriage Of Faye Johnson

FORMER RESIDENT BURIED HERE TUESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Zellner, 81, were held at the Loraine Church of Christ Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 with Elder J. D. Harvey of Paducah, Kentucky, officiating. Burial was in the Loraine cemetery by the grave of her husband who died in 1916.

Mrs. Zellner succumbed at 7:20 P. M. Monday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. F. A. Grant, 3241 South First street, in Abilene. She had been in failing health a number of years.

Mrs. Zellner was born Jan. 10, 1860, in Giles county, Tenn., and came to Texas as a child, settling in Milam county with her parents. She was married 66 years ago at Cameron, Texas to M. Zellner, where the couple lived for a number of years.

For several years Mr. and Mrs. Zellner lived on their farm northeast of Loraine. After her husband's death she remained here most of the time until six years ago when she went to Abilene to live with her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Zellner were considered among the builders of Abilene Christian College. Mr. Zellner was elected a trustee of the college in 1908. He was chosen to head the board in 1911 and served in that capacity until his death in 1916.

Besides Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Zellner is survived by five other daughters, Mrs. Jerry Wheeler of Abilene, Mrs. Remy Reddell of Tuscola, Mrs. Eugene Brown of Brownfield, Mrs. Lora Segar of Loco Hills, N. M., and Mrs. F. Johnigan of Bowie; two sons, F. Zellner of Roscoe and Henry Zellner of Carlsbad, California; a brother, D. C. Edwards of Sonotta, Ariz.; 26 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

METHODIST CHURCH

J. E. Shewbert Pastor. We had a fine group out for both services last Sunday with many visitors. We were glad to see each person out.

Your Pastor will be away the next two Sundays in a revival at Big Spring. We will have S. S. as usual next Sunday. Let everyone be present and on time. We will have no preaching. We have decided to let you visit the Baptist revival for both services and I urge that you attend both their services, next Sunday.

So be on time at our S. S. and then go over following the dismissal of S. S.

Remember our revival will open August 8 and close Aug. 17th. Lets pray for a gracious revival in our church and cooperate with the others that will be held before then. I know they will visit us and we want them to plan to do so. The whole religious forces of Loraine working together for the Kingdom of God will put new life into our churches and into our hearts.

Pray for your pastor.

Mrs. Fredom Taylor, Mrs. Joe Richburg, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Richburg and son, Gene, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Barrier and sons of Wichita Falls, Texas, Mrs. Norman Smith of Petrolia, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Richburg and daughter Lavelle of Sweetwater, Mrs. Edgar Herm of Colorado City and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richburg were visitors in the home of Mrs. Lillie Faulkenberry Sunday.

Mrs. H. B. Barrier and young son Billy are spending a few days here with relatives. Mr. Barrier has employment in Wichita Falls.

Reynold Faulkenberry is spending a few days with his sister Mrs. Fredom Taylor of Loraine.

Mrs. Mae Martin and Mrs. Wiley Bullard and daughter Maxine, visited Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Martin of Roscoe Sunday.

Mrs. E. M. Shultz has returned from a week's visit with Ben Shultz at Alarado, a sister of Mr. Shultz in Houston and Leo at Camp Wallace near Houston.

The home of Mrs. J. C. Hall presented a gay patriotic picture Tuesday morning when Mrs. J. C. Hall, Jr., assisted by Frances Riden, entertained a small group of friends with a breakfast and kitchen shower announcing the approaching marriage of Faye Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Johnson of Loraine, to Bill Cates of Santa Monica, California, where he is employed by Douglas Aircraft Corporation.

An original sketch of the history of Faye Johnson was delivered by Mrs. Fred Ison, a former teacher, and an autographed copy was presented to the honoree.

Decorations carried out the patriotic theme in red, white and blue with white flowers in red vases centering each of the four foursome tables. A miniature plane at each place bore a tiny scroll on which was inscribed, "Bill—Faye, August 31, Santa Monica, Calif."

LONG TERM LOANS TO BUY FARMS TO BE MADE BY FSA

Loans with which worthy tenant farmers may buy family size farms are again to be made in Mitchell County, according to an announcement received today from William H. Tinney, Farm Security Administration supervisor.

For the 1942 year, Mitchell County has been designated by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard as one in which this program will operate. Loans which bear three percent interest and are repayable over a 40-year period are to be made to worthy tenants, sharecroppers, and farm laborers to establish themselves on their own land.

"This program is very important now that we are engaged in this defense work," Mr. Tinney said. "Ownership of land by people who farm it is a good defense against foreign 'isms' as well as possible invading armies."

Loan applications may be had from the Farm Security office located second floor court house, Colorado City.

Both white and negro farmers are eligible for these loans.

EX SERVICE MENS CLUB OF RURAL LETTER CARRIERS MEET AT TEMPLE

Ex Service Men's Club of the Rural Letter Carriers, of which Homer Derryberry of Loraine is vice president met during the convention of the State Rural Letter Carriers convention in Temple last week. George Harris of San Antonio was elected president. 439 carriers in the state are ex-service men.

Mr. Derryberry was accompanied to Temple by Leroy Gressett of Westbrook, C. E. Smith and John Williams of Colorado City. They returned home Saturday night.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. What happens if I suddenly need the money I put into a Defense Savings Bond?

A. You can cash your Bond at any time, after 60 days, for the full amount paid, plus any interest due you.

Q. Do many Bond owners cash their Bonds?

A. No. People want to help arm America against all attacks. In many cases, people are putting every cent they can spare into Defense Bonds and Stamps. Some are doing this by asking employers or banks to withhold part of their salaries in order to buy these Bonds or Stamps for them.

Note—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

The Twentieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Groom was choosing by Nina for her marriage to Bob Pierson of Abilene on July 3th.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Russian Army Plan for Slowing Blitz Follows China's Retreating Technique; Churchill Hails Soviet as 'Real Ally'; Extension of Draft Service Sought

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Deeper into Russia than their companions—but unarmed—these invading Nazi soldiers are marched off to a Red prison camp after capture "Somewhere on the eastern front." That bald-headed, shirt-clad panzer trooper, fourth from left, in the front line, looks out of place among his companions, who seem to be shock-headed boys.

BEAR: On Defense

The Russian Bear, no matter what the communiques might say, was obviously putting up a hard fight before the advancing German mechanized forces, and the British, who had taken the quick defeat of Russia as a foregone conclusion were beginning to cheer.

Churchill, who had been through three previous milder stages of hailing Russia as a companion in arms, finally and very bluntly told the house of commons "of course Russia is an ally of Britain."

One of the signs that the Reds' defense of their homeland was vigorous and not without military merit came from an official admission on the part of Germany's high command that the Nazi armies had hurled back a considerable counter-attack.

Communique "solvers" naturally saw in this admission proof that the Russian armies were actually fighting, and battling to some purpose in their gradual withdrawal to the Stalin line and perhaps further to the interior.

Washington observers cautioned against too much faith in an eventual Russian victory, however, unless the defenders would be able to withdraw their armies with much of their equipment intact, into that hinterland broadly described as "the Urals."

As in the Battle of France, it was conceded that the French would have had a chance of immobilizing the war only if they were willing to give up Paris and other cherished cities, and move backward with the assault, harassing the advancing Nazis and softening their blows, "riding with the punches" as the boxing phrase has it.

This was the technique which enabled to make a four-year-old war of position out of the Japanese blitz of 1937 in China. It was the same technique which observers in this country were recommending for Russia.

There was nothing in dispatches to show that the Reds were not doing just that, save that no city of vital importance like Leningrad, Moscow or Kiev had yet fallen, though Germans claimed they had passed the latter.

It was impossible, in view of conflicting claims, to determine with even probable accuracy and allowing for a wide margin of error to figure the price being paid by either side in the Russo-German war.

If German claims were to be believed, Russia had left only a fragmentary part of her motorized equipment and her air force. If Russia were to be believed Germany was reduced to using "canvases" tanks and mere boys to operate them.

But even the German communiques admitted Russia still had hundreds of tanks in action, and hundreds of planes, and the Reds' bombing activities were reported from neutral points to be hitting targets far within Rumania and far within Finland.

The actual facts of the war, however, remained continually clouded in mystery, despite the fact that correspondents finally were admitted to Moscow, which also in all a short-wave radio to give out war news to the United States and other countries.

HOPKINS: To London

Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's "trouble shooter" and confidant, was being sent to London again.

While there was little definite information readily available as to the reason for Hopkins' second trip to England, it was recalled that only the other day in the house of commons there had been some bitter statement over the handling of American plane purchases.

MARSHALL: His Plan

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the U. S. army, urged two major points before congress' senate military affairs committee, and apparently the President was willing to go along with one, but not with the other.

Point No. 1 was that the selectees should be kept in uniform longer than a calendar year from the time of their induction. He wanted this restriction removed by congress from the selective service law.

Point No. 2 was that he wanted the restrictions removed ordering that selectees could serve only in the Western hemisphere. The President apparently was willing to exempt some White House pressure on congress to get the second provision passed.

However, early polls of senatorial reactions to both points were unfavorable, though a majority of those questioned reported themselves "undecided" and "preferring to hear the debate."

The question had broadly resolved itself into how large an army the U. S. should have, and how long it takes to train a soldier.

General Marshall also made the point that the selectees had been poured into all army units, with the result that if they were sent home after a year, these units would suffer dismemberment.

JAPAN: On the Verge

The sudden resignation of the Japanese cabinet, together with many dispatches quoting the indefinite diplomatic sources, seemed to indicate that Japan might be on the verge of some important step in world affairs.

What this might be remained hidden, though British statements seemed to hint that Japan might be contemplating a move into Indo-China.

A secondary guess was that Japan might be planning a "token" assault on Russia's east coast—Siberia, perhaps to attempt to close the port of Vladivostok—name famous in the Japanese-Russian war at the turn of the century.

The quitting cabinet is the one which put Soviet Russia into the Rome-Berlin axis, and also, strangely enough, into a neutrality accord with Russia.

The government was almost exactly a year in office, so it could not be charged with the stalemate in China, in fact it was not organized to do anything about the Chinese war.

There was little that could be said surely about the situation, some holding that the cabinet resignation meant that Japan's whole foreign policy would be reoriented in view of the German-Russian war.

Whether this would mean that the next government would be more pro-German, or whether Japan was getting ready to withdraw from all European commitments could hardly be told.

ROOSEVELT: Nazi Names

The German press, in its previous references to this country, had been relatively mild. On the contrary, the papers were now vying with each other to use strong language about President Roosevelt.

The President, said one paper, "is circling like a vulture over the Azores and the Cape Verde Islands."

Another said: "Roosevelt has raised gangsterism to be a symbol in politics."

That 'Goldfish' Bowl Again

Staff Sergeant Robert W. Shackleton of New York, who was drafted last fall and has already earned his sergeant's stripes, picks the first capsule, No. 196, in the second peacetime national lottery at Washington, D. C. Lieut. Col. R. Morris, who also officiated at 1917 lottery, is at right.

Spanish 'Crusade' Against Reds?

With banners and bands, enthusiasm is whipped up in Spain for crusade against the Reds—this was part of the Nazi campaign for a Spanish legion to fight against Russia on the eastern front. A drive which ended in "fiasco," according to London. Spaniards, says London, have had war enough.

Strategic Outposts for U. S. Defense

Placing U. S. troops in Iceland in occupation of strategic Atlantic outposts were taken "in order to forestall any pincer movement undertaken by Germany against the Western hemisphere," according to a statement by President Roosevelt. Above map indicates how this works. (1) Iceland occupation nullifies any Nazi threat from the north and the occupation of Trinidad, and British Guiana (2 and 3) take care of the southern jaw of the pincer hinged on Vichy-French Dakar in Africa. Some sources contend taking over of Azores and Cape Verde Islands (shown in large type) would further greatly strengthen hemisphere defense.

'Good Neighbors'—Junior Style

End of a Record

Joe DiMaggio's batting streak of hitting safely in 56 consecutive games was ended as he banged out the blow shown above. Next game he failed to get a hit and his record stands for the baseball world to shoo at.

Strike Warning

Harry Bridges (arrow), West coast maritime union leader, is shown as he is warned of "a big strike" since he is not satisfied with longshoremen's wages.

Exit Lawes

For 21 years Lewis E. Lawes was boss of Sing Sing and now he is leaving to be a writer and lecturer. He is shown taking a last look at his old domain, where as warden he became internationally famous as penologist. In background are buildings of the well-known prison.

Washington Digest U. S. Is Now a Reservoir For European Livestock

Fine Breeds of Cattle and Horses Are Shipped Here to Protect Them From Results of War.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

The tall hostess with the spiked head-dress who gets the first look at America's new arrivals (I mean Miss Liberty, of Bedloe's Island, New York harbor) has seen some strange sights lately.

Some of the anxious shiploads that pause at her doorstep hurrying westward have brought a tear, some a worried frown, some a hopeful smile.

There was one group of refugees, proud yet humble servants of man, huddled below decks. Miss Liberty could not see them. Had she been able to, she would have dipped her torch in welcome.

For the war has brought to America some of the finest bloodstains of horses and cattle from the bomb-riddled fields and pastures of Europe.

Today, this nation holds no greater treasure, in the deep vaults where the gold bullion is stored, than is sheltered in barn and stable. Some of the great breeds of livestock, which have been all but wiped out in Europe, are preserved here.

Best Reservoir.
"The United States now has the best reservoir of blooded livestock in the world," said a department of agriculture official to me the other day.

The two tiny segments of English soil which the Nazis have taken from the British—and the only two, so far—held some of the finest dairy stock in the world: the islands of Jersey and Guernsey, in the English channel. When the British withdrew they gave the islanders a chance to get out—to go to England. Some of the herdsmen preferred to stay with their herds. What has happened to those herds now we cannot learn. We do know that many have been slaughtered for food or because they could not be fed.

But just before that happened 100 head of the best Jersey breeding stock were sent over to the United States.

And before the bombs began to rain too thickly on England the British did what they had never done before—they exported to this country a number of thoroughbred horses, some of their finest racing stock which has never before been permitted to leave the islands, at any price. This stock, stallions and mares both, has been sold and delivered to wealthy American owners.

Great Draft Horses.
What happened to the great draft horses of France and Belgium, whose strains are already well established in America, is not known. Many, it is reported, were slaughtered because of lack of fodder to support them. Many were used for food, for even in the piping days of peace the continental has no prejudice against "steak equine."

Now, America can boast all the pure-blood strains—horses, sheep, cattle, hogs, and poultry. From now on, instead of being chiefly an importer, as we have been from the days when the first Spaniard brought that strange animal that terrified the Aztecs, the horse, the Western hemisphere will be an exporter of blooded stock.

When the American farmer stands among his herds or flocks, or his wife admires her chicken yard, they often forget that the only livestock which lives and breathes on this continent whose ancestors were not immigrants is the turkey. No wonder Benjamin Franklin thought it ought to be our national bird, instead of the eagle, borrowed from the imperial Caesars.

Today, there are more Holstein cows in the United States than fleck with black and white the fields of the province from which that prize milk-giver gets its name. As a matter of fact, we have the world's record Holstein producer of milk and butter.

Other Bovine Breeds.
And we have all the other bovine breeds here, too. Ayreshires have long been familiar figures on American farms—even the red Danish cattle and the brown Swiss are as much at home here as some of their better known sisters.

It is not that America lacked noble blood among its herds or flocks before the war—it simply means that the animal aristocracy has escaped the firing squad of the totalitarian. We have now become the greatest

Call for Meat
From now on you may expect to hear—until or unless it is silenced by a White House tip to Prime Minister Churchill—many British voices calling on America for men. Why will our higher-ups try to silence these voices?

1. It reminds the non-interventionists too much of the last war.
2. The United States army needs the men itself.
3. A lot of high army officers believe charity begins at home.

treasurehouse of the world's blooded stock.
As a matter of fact, the 700,000 cows and bulls which have long made up America's card-catalogued nobility need but one foreign bovine. These 700,000 whose record is kept, with the co-operation of their owners, by the department of agriculture, now produce 325 pounds of butter fat per cow per year, against a figure of 109 pounds, which is the average for the rest of the world.

Action on Iceland Started Washington

Washington was startled when on 20 minutes' notice the President announced that marines had landed in Iceland. It should not have been. Secretary of the Navy Knox had said it was time for more aid to Britain. The President would not comment on that statement. He just acted. So I won't be surprised to hear that familiar phrase "the marines have landed" anywhere from Cape Town to Singapore.

The next step will not be war either, in administration eyes. There may be shooting. But shooting won't mean a declared war for some time. Not while Germany is tied up in Russia, anyhow.

General Marshall's request for permission to send troops outside the Western hemisphere does not mean he is grooming an expeditionary force for Europe. There are several reasons.

There is no place to land troops in Europe. An expeditionary force without armored divisions is N. G. An armored division is N. G. without repair, replacement and supply bases. To make an expeditionary force against Hitler it would be necessary to move Pittsburgh to France.

U. S. Surplus Agency Gathers Food Supplies

Reports to the department of agriculture indicate that if all of the food available in the British Isles were divided up, the British people would be on about one-third of their normal ration.

In the last three months the Surplus marketing administration of the department of agriculture has bought more than $300,000,000 worth of foodstuffs. A part of this is destined for Britain. How much has actually reached there even officials of the department do not know but they do know that more ships are being made available for this purpose than when the lend-lease bill became law.

What is not sent to Britain, Milo Perkins, Surplus Marketing administrator, explains, is being used by needy families and hungry children, here. Thanks to scientific advances it is now possible to produce enough food "to go round."

"Up until the last few years, man has always lived in civilizations in which there was not enough to go round," said Mr. Perkins. "Today, with our capacity to produce, it's physically possible to provide a decent living standard for all of our people. That's the most important material thing that's happened to the human race since the discovery of fire and the invention of the wheel."

Memories of an Old 'Opera House'

Washington's "Opera House" is going. It is a long time since actors trod its boards, since its "Ambassador's tier" glittered with the jeweled ladies of the diplomatic set. For years it was known as the "Belasco theater," one of the most attractive playhouses in the country. Of late it has been a movie house.

On my way back across Lafayette park the other day I glanced up at its sad facade—doors closed, windows blank. And it was then, for the first time in all the 27 years that I have passed it or entered its portals that I noticed the words "Opera House" engraved above them. I walked over and looked at the plaque on the wall, which I had never read before. It said:

On this site Commander John Rogers built an elegant house in 1831. In it on April 14, 1865, an attempt was made to assassinate W. H. Seward, secretary of state, by one of the conspirators who murdered Abraham Lincoln on the same night.

The "opera house" will be soon torn down along with its two neighbors on the east side of the park. One is the beautiful Tayloe mansion with its graceful doorway and wistaria-clad grill work. It was built in 1828. Later, in the McKinley regime, it was called the "little white house" because Sen. Mark Hanna, the power behind the throne in those days, lived there.

The Tayloe house, with the Dolly Madison home next door, for years have formed the Cosmos club, recently sold to the government and awaiting demolition.

INSTALLMENT ELEVEN—The Story So Far

Laura Maguire, wife of Mike Maguire, happy-go-lucky editor and mayor of Covington, is mother to four children, not too well treated by the depression: Tom, whose real estate job in the big city became profligate and who proposed moving to Covington rather than depend on the earnings of Mary Etta, his wife, secretary to a big shot; Alec, who, unable to get a job, runs around with flashy divorcee older than he and on a bet dates up Lou Knight, the town drunk's daughter; Shirley, engaged to Jaid Newsum, also out of work since his father closed up the factory to stop losses and whose marriage is thus delayed; Kathleen, in whom a stranger, Ritchie Graham, also a newspaperman, is interested. Ma Newsum wants Jaid to marry Connie Mays, the banker's daughter. Tom and Mary Etta separate when she refused to give up her job. Banker Mays threatens to break Maguire for criticizing his banking methods. Maguire and Ritchie joyously laugh at him. Kathleen is critical of their recklessness. "Hot Shot" Mays, the banker's son, invites her to a swimming party. Ritchie grins when she accepts.

led up to the diving platform. Only he was there first, daring her to set foot on a rung. She was beginning to wish that he'd go off somewhere and die for a week or two. Her pointed face took on a slightly haggard look. She did not beg for quarter. Somehow one didn't with Gene Mays. But there was still that catch in her side, only more of it.

A little grimly Kathleen made for the big buoy at the upper end of the lake. It was quite a distance, but ordinarily she swam for her. Nevertheless, strangely it seemed to come no nearer however many strokes she took, and her limbs felt weighted. Lethargy attacked her arms. She glanced over her shoulder. She was quite far away from everybody. Even Gene had paused to flinch a pair of water wings from a small girl who was doing her utmost to hang onto them. Kathleen measured the distance between going back and struggling on, and decided the buoy was nearer. Even then it did not occur to her she might not make it.

Again she risked a glance over her shoulder. Hope clanged a brazen bell in her heart. Gene had draped the water wings about his neck and was again swimming after her. Kathleen sobbed once. She knew by the exquisiteness of her relief how nearly she had lost her nerve. She had only to stay afloat till Gene reached her. She turned over on her back. But the cramp in her side doubled her up. She went under, gasped and almost lacked the energy to come up.

"You would run off and make me wear myself out chasing you!" shouted Gene.

He was only a few feet away, flailing water like a porpoise, and laughing uproariously. If he ducked her again—Kathleen was suddenly frantic. She tried to call out, to tell him she was exhausted. But the muscles in her throat locked with panic and fatigue.

"All that goes down is bound to come up!" bawled Gene and made a dive for her feet.

He meant to drag her under. With a terrible bitterness Kathleen realized that he would probably repeat the process with appropriate brays of laughter until finally she did not come up at all. And then he would feel dreadful of course. But she wouldn't be there to witness his remorse. She tried again to call out, failed, and saw Gene gathering his huge muscles for the lunge.

"You damned fool, can't you see she's in trouble!" cried a sharp voice.

But Gene didn't see. He leaped. Only a fist caught him on the jaw and dropped him back in his tracks.

"Put your hand on my shoulder," Ritchie Graham commanded Kathleen.

But she was past doing even that. White as death, she slid down into the water. Down. Down. Down. She thought listlessly that it was perilously easy to die. Only Ritchie's hand closed on her shoulder. He had dived after her. They rose to the surface. Keeping one arm about her waist he towed her to the buoy, picked her up in his long strong arms and laid out her full length on her face like a wet paper doll.

After a while Kathleen's shuddering breaths subsided to something approaching normal. She sat up dizzily. "Thanks," she said in an unsteady voice.

"Don't mention it."

He did not look at her. Apparently he was a little bored at having dragged her from a watery grave. Or did he realize that it had been as bad as that?

She flushed, and sudden tears burned her eyes. "Maybe you'd better throw me back in it if that's the way you feel about it," she said bitterly.

He turned with one of those quick movements that always surprised her. He was very white. And his gray eyes blazed at her. "I don't trifle, Kathleen," he said in a rough uneven voice. "I told you once before I'm no ladies' man. I wouldn't flirt with you or anyone else."

"I don't know what you mean."

"You know exactly what I mean. Ever since the first time I saw you, your eyes have dared me to do this—and this—and this."

His arms were about her. Gripping her in a fierce embrace that hurt. His lips hurt too. Because his kisses were more antagonistic than tender. And they pushed Kathleen across the border of everything she had ever known into a region of strange pain and a heartbreaking ecstasy.

"I hate you!" she blazed.

"Do you?"

"Yes!"

He made her a little mocking bow. "Probably we were meant to hate each other like hell or else—" his voice shook—"to love each other that way."

"I don't love you," she cried.

But Ritchie had slid off the float and was swimming to shore.

THE HOLY SPIRIT INSPIRES NEW TESTAMENT LETTERS

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 1:11, 12; I Thessalonians 2:13; II Timothy 3:14-17; II Peter 3:14-16; Jude 3.

GOLDEN TEXT—All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness.—II Timothy 3:16.

Letters are usually interesting, frequently very important, and always revealing as to the character and interests of the writer. That is generally true of ordinary daily mail, but how very true it is of the letters of Scripture, the epistles of Peter, Paul, Jude, and John. For in them "holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (II Pet. 1:21).

I. The Gospel (Gal. 1:11, 12; I Thess. 2:13).

The good news (for that is the meaning of "gospel") of salvation by grace through faith in Jesus Christ as Saviour has from the very beginning of its proclamation been subject to attack. Men are not content to receive God's way of salvation, but want to add something to it, adjust its requirements to meet new situations, to tinker and twist.

1. A Divine Revelation (Gal. 1:11, 12).

Paul was not presenting something which he or some other man had "worked up," but a message that he had "prayed down." Paul was only delivering that which he had received from God (see I Cor. 15:1-4). He was careful that it should not be confused with or by the teachings of men, so he "conferred not with flesh and blood" (see Gal. 1:15, 16).

We too are privileged to proclaim a divine revelation which has come to us in the inspired Word of God. How delightfully sweet and tremendously powerful is the message which we may thus bring forth. It has no human frailty and weakness, no human error, and no misleading philosophies. It does not need to be revised every year or two. It is God's eternal message of redemption.

2. A Message of Salvation (I Thess. 2:13).

It works in those who believe. Yes, it does—blessed be the name of God! God's Book says so, and the experience of hundreds of thousands of men and women over a period of almost 2,000 years agrees.

Note, however, that to work, the message must not only be "received," but also "accepted" as the Word of God. The message of the Bible may be received as a matter of fact, but for salvation it must be accepted and believed as a matter of faith.

II. The Bible (II Tim. 3:14-17; II Pet. 3:14-16).

Near the end of a life given in utter sacrifice to God's cause, Paul is ready to be used of the Holy Spirit to speak concerning the written Word.

1. It Is God-Inspired (II Tim. 3:14-17).

Be sure to read this passage in the Authorized Version. The Revised has taken liberties with this verse which the finest scholarship does not countenance. It properly reads, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine (teaching), for reproof, for correction, for instruction," etc. Other books may claim some kind or measure of human inspiration—this Book is inspired of God. If there were space, proof of the truth of that statement could easily be given. It is available for all who want to believe it.

2. It Is Not to Be Wrested (II Pet. 3:14-16).

If permitted to do so, God's Word will bring peace of heart, make a man spotless and blameless (v. 14). But its salvation (v. 15) is not for those who ignorantly, or because of their ignorance, or because they are not steadfast in their lives, wrest its truth. Let us receive the Word with gladness, not twist it or distort its meaning to our own destruction.

III. The Faith (Jude 3).

1. It Was "Delivered Once for All."

It is a final revelation from God. There is no other gospel, and there never will be another. What assurance that gives us both in believing it and proclaiming it! But the world hates this gospel, and attacks on it are to be expected. Therefore

2. It Is to Be Earnestly Contended For.

No matter how peaceable we may be, how loving and tender-hearted, "if and when attack is made upon the Lordship of Christ, when men make light of sin, and so seem to minimize the vital importance of holiness of life—then, however unpleasant contention and controversy may be to us, it is time we cast our self-regard aside and contend earnestly for the faith once for all delivered to the saints." (J. D. Jones).

All Out for Defense

Engaged in the most gigantic armament program in world history, the U. S. expects to spend approximately $28,480,000,000 on ships, tanks, planes, munitions, training camps and other defense needs during the next two years. While factories, ammunition plants and shipyards hum, the nation's inventive genius works behind locked doors to develop new types of mechanized equipment.

Mistakes to Be Avoided In Summer Care of Dogs

Baths, Clipping Can Be Harmful.

"DOG DAYS" are coming, but they needn't bother your dog. With simple, right summer care he'll be healthy and cool as a cucumber! Do not clip him, for he sheds his undercoat, leaving his outer coat to protect him against the hot sun, flies and mosquitoes. Comb and brush him regularly—but do not give him too many baths, as this removes the oil he needs to keep his coat healthy.

Our 32-page booklet gives the simple all year-round care that keeps a dog healthy. Tells how to choose your pet, feed, house-break and groom him; how to train him to do clever tricks. Advises on dog sicknesses; has information on rabies. For your copy send order to:

A young naval officer whose marks in navigation had not been all that might have been desired, was set to "shoot the sun" to determine the ship's position. The vessel was somewhere west of Penzance. After a while the junior delivered the result of his calculations.

Shortly afterwards, the captain sent for him. "Young man," he said, seriously, "remove your cap. We are now on a hallowed spot." "Beg your pardon, sir?" "Yes, sir," said the captain. "If you have calculated accurately, we are now right smack in the middle of Westminster Abbey."

suit over her shoulder, "how's for getting dressed? And don't be all day about it, Tarzan."

When she emerged in her brief one-piece white suit, a scarlet bandana about her head, Hot Shot was waiting for her at the diving platform, but Jaid and Connie were already in the water.

"You sort of make a feller pin his ears back in that outfit," said Hot Shot Mays as his hard blue eyes traveled over Kathleen's lithe young body. "Listen, baby, if I was staging beauty contests you could be Miss Universe."

"But you aren't," Kathleen made a beautiful flip-flop in the air for a perfect landing.

He dived after her, hitting the water a split second later. But he failed to overtake her before she crawled up on the raft between Jaid and Connie. The latter looked distinctly annoyed at the intrusion, which did not afflict Kathleen. She even enjoyed it and thought she might stay where she was till Shirley joined them. But Gene Mays had other ideas. He dragged Kathleen off her perch although she fought him like a tigress and sent her to the bottom, clawing and scratching. He howled with mirth when she came up choked and breathless. He managed to pinch her thigh, for which she boxed his ears. But there was no peace from him except to keep swimming just out of his reach. And that was a little wearying.

"The big stiff," she thought angrily, aware of a catch in her side as she dodged one of his sideswipes.

Jaid swam in to shore to meet Shirley while Connie glowered. It looked as if Ruth was going to get into the water at last. Ritchie was already in his suit and lounging on the end of the pier waiting for her, a cigarette in his mouth. Kathleen paused long enough in her hectic flight from Gene Mays' cavernous tactics to observe that Ritchie looked provokingly handsome in his black jersey. She felt she could bear him better if just once he showed to a disadvantage. Hot Shot Mays seized upon her momentary preoccupation with another man to push her head under water until her lungs caught fire. The catch in her side was more pronounced when she again took to flight.

She began to feel a little like a heavy bellows. She tried to edge up to the raft, but Gene yanked her off. She made for the ladder which

There were sixty acres of wooded grounds, a huge outdoor lake fed by springs, a number of rustic dressing huts and the usual diving boards, floats and soft drink stands. Consumers Should Know The Benefits of Free Competition

Copyright 1941, Advertising Federation of America

This is the second in a series of six articles prepared by the Bureau of Research and Education of the Advertising Federation of America, in response to the increasing interest of consumers in questions affecting advertising and business.

In this country we have what is known as a free competitive economy. This means that you or any other individual may choose to produce goods if you wish, and you are free to sell them at any price you think others may be willing to pay for them. Only you must not cheat and you must not form a monopoly.

We don't like monopolies in America. Many years ago, we passed laws prohibiting any commercial combinations which destroy competition. The interests of consumers would inevitably suffer if monopolies were permitted to control production and prices.

Not all countries have free competitive economies now. In some lands there is almost no freedom of competition. Americans think such a condition intolerable, for we believe that liberty would disappear if each of us did not have the right to engage in any kind of competitive enterprise he might choose. We abhor the thought of having a dictator suppress our personal initiative.

Competition is a harder task master than a dictator, but under it we are free to make our own decisions and we work for much better rewards than any dictator has to offer. Individually, every one of us accomplishes more when he has to compete with others. It is the combination of individual competitive efforts which brings about social improvement and progress.

Fundamentally, the urge to compete is one of the most natural of human traits. We want to get ahead simply because we were made that way. Records made on the athletic field, at the bridge table, and in Sunday school attendance are all higher because of competition. Similarly, the desire to excel has sharpened the skill of craftsmen raised the level of professional attainments, and inspired the achievements of industry. Competition is the natural way of life, the way of human progress.

When there is lively competition, each manufacturer and dealer strives continually and earnestly to provide better goods lower prices, and better service to the consumer. The result is that we all get better things and more of them. Regardless of other complicating problems, we can never get away from the eternal fact that competition and personal incentive together form the most powerful of all forces working for material progress.

In modern business, competition comes to a head in the selling of merchandise. With the development of advertising, merchants and manufacturers have come to use this method for displaying their wares to the public. The efforts to make better products and to sell them more cheaply have their final expression in advertising. The very desire to have a good article to advertise has often been responsible for improvement in a product.

It is truly said that advertising is the life and the symbol of competition in business. Firms which compete honestly also advertise honestly. Fair competition is the only condition under which industry can continue its progress. In anything that may be done to regulate business practices, there must be no restraint upon constructive competition.

History shows us some cases where competition was abolished through the establishment of monopolies. In a very few special types of industry, this may be desirable, but in most other cases this has been bad for the public. When the incentive for improvement is removed, there can be no further progress. Control of production and prices is almost always disastrous, for this means the stoppage of competition.

Sometimes we find business men who would like to have restraints placed upon competition. They have so many troubles trying to keep their enterprises going, meeting payrolls and fighting competition, that they are tired of the effort. They find the hard way to be hard and they think it would be better if conditions were made a little easier by cutting down or controlling the competition.

Perhaps we shouldn't blame them too much, especially those who might have to go out of business unless something is done to lighten their burden. It is always bad to have even a few bankruptcies and abandoned enterprises. But it is worse to interfere with the vital forces that make business go, and to change the rules so that there will be no further progress. By eliminating competition we might save temporarily a few crippled business enterprises, but the general public would eventually have to pay for it in higher prices or poorer goods, or both.

Almost every proposal to reduce competition is short-sighted. Brought forth to solve a pressing difficulty of the moment, it does harm in the long run—harm to consumers and harm to business as a whole. Nevertheless, devices for this purpose are constantly being proposed and some of them are in actual operation now, at the present moment.

One large group of such measures for cutting down a certain kind of competition is the surprising collection of State laws setting up barriers against interstate trade. Many of our citizens probably do not even know that this sort of thing exists. It is an amazing thing, that in this great country which is supposed to be a single economic unit with goods moving freely from points in Maine to California and from Florida to the State of Washington, more than half the States have passed laws restricting, in one way or another, the competition of outside businesses with firms located within the State.

While it is unconstitutional for States to set up actual tariff barriers, some of them have done almost the same thing in the guise of measures supposed to protect health, public safety, or natural resources, and through ingenious use of taxing powers. In addition, the purchasing departments of some States are required by law to buy from firms within the State wherever possible, even if their prices are higher than quotations from outside concerns.

Many States have inspection laws and labeling laws which make it next to impossible for certain products from outside their boundaries to compete with those produced inside the State. Another device for reducing out-of-State competition is the assessment of prohibitive fees and licenses on trucks coming into the State.

Fortunately, this matter of interstate trade barriers is now being studied by representatives of the Federal and State governments, and it is to be hoped that remedies will be undertaken. It is a most promising sign that various State authorities are themselves beginning to see that something must be done to remove these barriers.

Another set of laws aimed at destroying a particular form of competition is the series of chain-store tax measures. The numerous State taxes on chains, and especially the proposals for a Federal law of this type, are designed to hamper and even to eliminate this particular kind of store, solely because other stores want less competition. Chain stores have forced others to be more efficient, to make their own stores more attractive, and to sell on a smaller margin; and with these improvements, wide-awake independent merchants have been able to compete very successfully. However, many of them prefer to have the chain-store competition eliminated through punitive taxes.

Then there are a great many State laws called "fair trade acts," some of which are not fair at all. Parts of these laws are constructive in intent, but the general effect of most of them is to lessen the free competition of manufacturers and merchants and to relieve them somewhat from the stern struggle for better goods, lower prices and more efficient distribution. From time to time, there have been attempts at price-fixing. This is one of the worst forms of competition-killing. It is almost always unsuccessful in the long run, and much damage is done while it lasts.

There has been much discussion about the various kinds and degrees of price-fixing and some of the arguments given by proponents of these measures sound very plausible indeed. But invariably the central idea is to reduce competition in a manner that is basically unsound because it violates the fundamental principle that competition must be free. In the end, nothing but harm can come from big or little price-fixing devices, regardless of apparent temporary benefits.

Competition is a hard task master. There is no denying that. Yet it is a blessing, for almost everything worth while has come through competitive effort.

Now and then we hear criticism of the waste caused by competition in business. We must admit that there is some wasted effort when many firms in the same line of business all try to sell us their products. It is in selling and advertising that competition finds vocal expression and that is where we are impressed by the great amount of competition that exists.

While we hear some complaints that there is too much competition in selling, we seldom find anyone protesting against the competitive efforts going on all the time in laboratories and engineering departments, where manufacturers spend huge sums of money in the constant effort to develop something better, something new, so that more customers will buy. Nor do we hear complaints about money being spent for improved service, one of the most expensive forms of competition.

Probably the greatest item of cost to be charged against competition is to be counted in the graveyard of business failures. The pressure of competition forces a tremendous number of firms out of the race, and these failures represent a considerable money loss. But we do not hear much complaint about this serious waste being caused by business competition.

The total cost of competition is very large indeed. Yet it is worth many times its cost. Free competition gives vitality to the business system, and there is no doubt that it increases national production much more than enough to offset any incidental waste due to competitive effort.

Selling and advertising represent only one aspect of competition but this is the most important aspect, for it is through selling and advertising that other competitive efforts are made effectual. Advertising especially is indispensable in bringing the benefits of competition to all of us as consumers.

Freedom of competition is as essential to the American way of life as the democratic form of government.

THE PASSING OF THE Boomtown

Oil boomtowns exist today only in the movies. The old-time "gusher" wells are gone forever.

In the early days, as long as oil flowed, the boomtowns flourished. But soon the wells failed and the booms collapsed, carrying with them the income and security of those who had depended on them.

Today, through a sound program of conserving oil and gas, hundreds of Texas communities are enjoying a permanent type of petroleum development. Furthermore, because of conservation, we have the largest oil reserves in the world, one of our greatest assets for National Defense.

Oil now builds stable communities. It provides assured tax revenues and greater ultimate tax returns than were ever possible in boomtown days. And every citizen benefits from the income oil creates.

Conservation not only protects Texas oil resources. It also assures for many years the prosperity which oil brings to every community where it is found.

J. C. MEEK

Jim LeVare pitched a big chicken fry at his place the other night. Neighbors flocked in from all around to mutilate necks and wings, drumsticks, and breasts, and to make sure that Jim's new hound dog Prissy got the bones.

For it was Prissy and not Jim who was really responsible for that feed.

It happened like this: Jim woke up in the dark hours of the night before, certain that he'd heard a commotion among his chickens. "An owl!" thought Jim, jumping out of bed.

He grabbed a lantern and his old corn-sheller shotgun, and rushed out to the roost, with only the darkness and a brief pair of shorts hiding his nakedness. At the roost, he lifted his lantern high and swung up his shotgun for action.

It was at that moment that Prissy shoved a cold and inquiring muzzle against Jim's bare shank. Jim squalled and jumped straight up, pulling off both barrels of his shotgun in the same movement. Chickens and feathers rained out of the roost for the next two minutes.

And Jim called in the neighbors to eat up his kill.

Cicero Ever's kid Ike was pretty bug-eyed at the feed. He came over to me with a drumstick in each hand and rapturously confided that this was the first time he ever new there were any parts of chicken besides the neck.

Charley Wiley claimed this chicken fry reminded him of the time he was dodging the law in the Ozarks.

Charley said he rode up to a hillside cabin one day at noon and asked for a meal. The man and woman were friendly and invited him in. They fed him fried chicken for dinner. The meal was good and Charley hung around till supper. They fed him fried chicken for supper.

When they fed him fried chicken for breakfast, decided it was time to move on. Before he could get his horse saddled, however the woman rushed out with a lunch tied up in a flour sack.

"Just a little fried chicken, in case you get hungry," the woman said.

Charley had had enough fried chicken for once. "You folks oughten to kill off all your chickens for a stranger this way," he protested.

"Aw, don't pay it no mind," put in the husband generously. "Them chickens have been dying faster'n me and the woman can eat 'em up, nohow!"

With chicken gravy smeared from ear to ear, Pecos Turner came through with a yarn about a West Texas Cowman he rode for back in the old days.

This old gent went by the name of Pearl Jackson. Pearl was a cowman to the last red corpse. What he knew about cows was a gift, but beyond cattle his knowledge stopped.

Pearl had one great longing. He wanted to raise chickens. All his life he'd wanted to raise chickens; but he didn't figure a chicken would have a chinaman's chance out in these western hills where bobcats and hawks and owls and other varmints were thicker than cattle ticks.

But one day a friend gave Pearl a setting hen and a bunch of eggs. Pearl set his hen as per instructions and guarded them carefully. One morning he came rushing into the bunkhouse calling for Pecos.

"Come look, Pecos," he shouted. "That old hen's done calved!" Pecos went to see. The nest was full of chickens. Pearl stood back in awe of them marveling at their softness and littleness. Finally, his face clouded.

"Pecos," he asked in a troubled voice, "how on earth is them little old bitts things ever going to stand up tall enough to suck?"

SCOUTS TO HAVE 6-DAY OUTING AT CAMP FARR

Arrangements have been made to have a record attendance at the Scout Camp Louis Farr near Mertzon, Texas, on Spring Creek, August 11th through 16th. This camp has been enthusiastically requested by the Scoutmasters of the Buffalo Trail Council who visited the camp earlier this year to inspect the facilities available for the convenience and comfort of their boys who wish to attend.

Camp Louis Farr has been the scene of many happy Scout outings thru the past several years, and annually has added buildings and camping equipment and improvements which now affords accommodations for 200 boys. The site is west of Mertzon, Texas, in a thickly wooded area along the clear waters of Spring Creek.

Swimming is a very popular phase of the 6-day program and is enjoyed by the Scouts under expertly trained instructors holding Red Cross Life Saving certificates. Courses for beginners and advanced swimmers as well as Life Saving will be offered by authorized examiners as a part of the water program at the camp.

Woodcraft, metalcraft, leather craft, archery, hiking thru the pines and oak groves, and camping under the stars have always held a particular fascination for the Scouts who attend Camp Louis Farr.

Scouts from the 15 county Buffalo Trail Council are all eligible to attend this camp. Local committees in each county are now making arrangements for transporting boys to this easily accessible camp. Many Scouts are earning their $6.00 camp fee which covers their complete program including meals, tentage, leadership, and expert instruction under perfect camping conditions.

The large mess hall could easily accommodate 300 at tables comfortably. A cook for the occasion has been employed and supplies are ready to be moved to the camp at the word "go."

IN MEMORY OF A FRIEND

By L. W. Banta
I cannot be satisfied without saying a few words in memory of my friend, Dr. Wm. Shook, who recently died in Sweetwater and was buried here at Loraine.

While my acquaintance with him in his latter years was slight I had the pleasure of knowing him in his early days when he and his brother Sam were young teachers, both young men of exemplary habits, both aspiring, and with almost countless friends.

Our associations at that time are a pleasure to remember as I considered it an honor to have such young men on my list of close friends. While I do not like to wait till one cannot enjoy the fragrance of the flowers I offer, yet in memory of him I wish to lay this wreath upon his grave.

what a whale of a difference a few months make

W-H-E-W-W but it's hot! And each week-end seems hotter than the last one. It's hard to realize now that only a few short months ago cold winter winds were sweeping this section. Soon they will be back again and the heat of summer will be forgotten.

Heating your home is important, especially so since many winter illnesses are directly traceable to catching cold due to inadequate heating facilities in the home during the winter season. It is not too early to be doing something about winter comfort now. Already thousands in this section are heading for an easy, healthful winter by bringing their heating facilities up to date ahead of the fall rush. Besides giving a widespread, healthful warmth, modern gas heating appliances look better and serve you more efficiently.

YOU BUY INOCULATION ON FAITH

Field tests have shown a big difference in the quality of inoculator brands on the market. You cannot see the legume bacteria you purchase. Immediate demonstration is impossible. What is the reputation and experience behind the inoculation you buy?

NITRAGIN is the ORIGINAL LEGUME INOCULATOR, having served the farmers for over forty years. It won a GOLD MEDAL at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904. NITRAGIN is made in the most complete and modern laboratory of its kind in the world. NITRAGIN is the leader in its field by a big margin. NITRAGIN demand in the South has rapidly increased year after year. During the fall of 1940, the Southern shipments of NITRAGIN were for more than 45 million pounds of VERTIC and WINTER PEAS. This large demand is due to many field tests carried on year after year. We prove by these tests that NITRAGIN is a good product. Send for our booklet "Plant Legumes to Prosper," showing pictures of field tests and how NITRAGIN is made. The booklet also gives you valuable information regarding the inoculation of legumes. If your dealer does not have NITRAGIN in stock, have him get it for you. Insist on NITRAGIN inoculation.

Small pieces of soap can be placed in a bag and used for washing clothing.

Dipping fish in boiling water will aid scaling.

Moist table salt will remove egg tarnish from silver.

Screw tops or stoppers are apt to stick fast in the glass bottles which hold scent and lotions. To get the stopper out, tap sharply all round the neck of the bottle with a knife or spoon handle. It will then come out quite easily.

After a number of dustings, Venetian blinds usually need a good soap-and-water bath. Go over them with a soft sponge frequently dipped in warm, mildly sudsy water. Rinse thoroughly with warm water applied on a soft cloth or sponge. Wipe dry with soft cloth.

It makes a big difference if you serve hot foods on hot dishes and cold foods on chilled dishes.

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN it was decided that the new Garbo picture would get under way on Friday the thirteenth, the assistant director called the cast together to see if anybody's superstitions would get in the way. Melvyn Douglas said that Friday was a lucky day for him, and the fact that it was the thirteenth would make it so much the better. Ruth Gordon, who gave up a number of summer stock engagements to take this one in pictures, declared that she deliberately walks under ladders, and loves black cats. Roland Young said that he'd bring along one of his china penguins, to break the evil spell of the jinx. As for Miss Garbo, she said nothing—just showed up on time.

Greta Garbo

Janet Blair used to be the featured vocalist with the late Hal Kemp's orchestra; now she has a Columbia contract and one of the top feminine roles in "Three Girls About Town." She'll play the younger sister of Joan Blondell.

David Niven not only went back to England to serve his country, but he's been made a major. Bing Crosby had a letter from him in which he mentioned the promotion. He heads a squadron of defense troops which is stationed on the English coast opposite France. In his letter he said that not less than 20 invading Nazi bombing planes had been knocked down above his sector the previous night.

David Niven

The March of Time's newest release, "New England's Eight Million Yankees," shows how the six northeastern states are making themselves invasion-proof. It is the first of a series of regional films, and will be followed by releases on the Midwest, Texas, and other sections of the country.

Fanny Singleton, who's been "Blondie" on the screen and on the air for so long, is hard at work now in her first film musical. It's called "Cowboy Joe" temporarily, and Glenn Ford plays opposite her. She'd made a name for herself as a singer and dancer on the Broadway stage before she went to Hollywood, and her nine "Blondie" comedies have made one for her in Hollywood.

The office of Heinrich Himmler, chief of Nazi SS men, is as authentic a reproduction in Warner Bros. "Underground" as following actual photographs could make it. Himmler does not permit photos of his office to be released; however, Kurt Schmidt, technical adviser on "Underground," made some when he was in favor with the SS head, and smuggled them out of the country when he escaped two years ago. The film shows Himmler's dreaded office for the first time.

Bob Hope, who soared to film popularity with the song "Thanks for the Memory," will have another opportunity to warble an outstanding number, when he sings "You Can't Brush Me Off" in "Louisiana Purchase," which Paramount will produce. Lately he's been content merely to be one of the funniest men on the screen. His "Caught in the Draft" is hilarious, though the script writers dug up some of the oldest jokes in existence for it. Eddie Bracken hangs up a few laurels for himself in this one too.

With the exception of a few minor weekly, cast additions, all the regular roles on the new "Hop Hazard" radio series, this summer replacement for "Fibber McGee and Molly," have been assigned. It stars Ransom Sherman, and features the singing of Edna O'Dell and Billy Mills' orchestra. Nowadays people in radio have begun to take these summer replacement shows seriously. The "Blondie" program started, as one, three years ago—now it tops all CBS half-hour shows in popularity, according to the latest Croasley report.

ODDS AND ENDS—One Munson sound up work in "Wild Geese Calling" at 20th Century-Fox, got a vacation from radio when Edward G. Robinson's "Big Town" show left the air for the summer, and headed for Santa Barbara and a rest. . . . Ruth Hussey and Robert Young will be teamed in "Married Bachelors," a comedy of a young married couple who are always just two jumps ahead of the sheriff. . . . Jane Foyt has the feminine lead opposite Dennis O'Keefe in RKO's "If Ash End for Three." . . . Myrna Loy and William Powell will be at it again before long, in "The Shadow of the Thin Man."

SANDWICHES THAT REALLY TEMPT (See Recipes Below)

BUFFET SUPPERS

If there's one season of the year when you like to feel really free from the heat of the kitchen, then summer's that season. You can do it easily, too, if you'll plan and prepare C-O-O-L meals in the early hours of the day before the heat becomes sweltering. Then stay strictly out of the kitchen until supper-time.

Make mealtime during these months as simple as possible. Not only will you be the more charming for doing less work, but your family will enjoy the simplicity as a change. One of the answers to this is buffet service. An attractive arranged table on the summer porch is a tonic for hazy summer appetites.

Sandwich Loaf.
For Chicken Filling use:
1 cup ground, cooked chicken
1/2 cup ground almonds
2 to 4 tablespoons chopped celery
Salt to taste
Lemon juice to flavor
Salad dressing to moisten
Mix chicken, celery and almonds. Season with salt and lemon juice and add enough dressing to give spreading consistency.
For Egg Filling use:
4 hard cooked eggs
1/2 cup chopped cooked bacon or 1/2 cup stuffed olives, chopped
Salt to taste
Few drops Worcestershire sauce
Salad dressing or cream to moisten.
Chop eggs, add bacon and Worcestershire sauce. Moistened with salad dressing to give spreading consistency.

Remove the crusts from an uncut loaf of day-old white sandwich bread. Slice lengthwise to make three or four slices about 3/4 inch thick. It's a good idea to have the bottom slice thicker than the other three since it helps in placing the loaf when served. Spread slices, except top and bottom, with creamed butter, mayonnaise, using filling between two slices; egg filling for the next and chopped vegetables moistened with mayonnaise for the third or tomato slices.
Stack and cover top and sides with soft cream cheese piled like frosting. Garnish with thin radish slices and dust with chopped chives. Chill in the refrigerator for several hours before serving. It's better not to use lettuce because it offers slicing difficulties after the loaf is served.

For the cream cheese frosting use 3/4 to 1 pound of cream cheese. Add rich milk or cream to make a thick paste. Beat cheese and cream until evenly mixed and of good consistency for spreading. Spread over loaf to give a fluffy effect, as though you were swirling icing.

Tomato-Cheese Salad.
(Serves 8-10)
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 1/2 tablespoons gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
6 to 8 ounces cottage cheese
1/4 cup mayonnaise
Salt to taste
1 cup chopped cucumber
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup sliced radishes

LYNN SAYS:

When you think the thermometer's going to burst, then think cool, eat cool, eat cool, and you'll be cool. Drink plenty of water and cooling beverages.

Be gay and have your meals casually out on the shady porch on a bright table cloth. Serve things buffet style for it'll make it easier all the way around: less table setting, less dishes, and less to do.
No one may feel much like eating, and people, generally eat less during summer months, but they must still have the proper diet. So bring out your crisp garden salads, chilled main dishes, and assorted fruits. Be Cool!

GRASSROOTS

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WE THINK TOO LOCALLY, NOT ENOUGH NATIONALLY.

THERE IS in America too much local and not enough national political thinking. We fail to realize that the foundation on which the Republic is built is national in scope, that the national government can, and does, dominate our entire system.

National legislation can take from the states, and through them, from the counties and municipalities, many of the rights and privileges we have felt belonged to us locally.

In our two-party system, those of each party are interested in controlling the state, county and municipal patronage and the election machinery of these political subdivisions.

We pick candidates for representatives and senators on the basis of local service to the party, rather than on their ability as statesmen. We continue them in office so long as they produce national funds for local use, or support such minority legislation in which we have a selfish interest.

The result of it all is a wild orgy of spending and government by and for minorities. If we do not learn to think nationally along political lines, we will some day awaken to the fact that Washington controls us locally.

A MIGHTY FACTOR IN COMMUNITY SERVICE

THERE IS no institution or business enterprise that does so much for the community in which it operates as the newspaper. Directly and indirectly, it promotes the interests of the community. It produces acquaintance, friendship and good will between people of the town and the surrounding farm homes. It works week by week, year after year, for the interests of all. It keeps each individual informed of the joys and sorrows, the comings and goings, the activities of his neighbors. That is a service which promotes the welfare of the community as a whole. It makes of the community, the people of the town and surrounding farms, a homogenous whole.

PARITY PRICES FOR THE FARMER

IN 1941 THE GOVERNMENT is to see that the farmer gets the 1904 to 1914 parity price for what he raises. That means, they tell me, that what he may raise this year is to pay proportionately for as much and as many things bought per year during the years from 1904 to 1914.

Just how they figure it out, I do not know, and it is a safe bet that the average farmer will take the government's word as to the answer. It is estimated that it will take close to half a billion of government dollars to make the difference between what the public will pay for the 1941 crop and what the farmer is to receive.

BOTH PARTIES NOW SUBSCRIBE TO DEMOCRACY

OUR FOUNDING FATHERS organized and wrote a Constitution for a republic, not a democracy. The term "democracy" does not appear anywhere in the Constitution. Washington and Hamilton believed in a republic, with a ruling class. Jefferson insisted upon a democracy, with the power of government in the hands of all the people. Today both major political parties subscribe to a democracy. Despite all the complexities of government, America can survive as a democracy if the people—all the Toms, Dicks and Harries, as well as the Oswalds, Percivals and Warrens, are given accurately all the facts about the operation of government. The American people can be trusted, but American leadership refuses to take the people into its confidence, and that lack of information will in time do for us just what it has done for Europe.

PROSPERITY

REGARDLESS of how the war may end, or how long it may last, William A. Irwin, educational director of the American Institute of Banking, says America is in for a long period of prosperity. He sees this country as the one great creditor nation that will be in a position to rehabilitate the world. It sounds plausible and may it prove true for us and for the rest of the world.

EXECUTIVE 'CRIMES'

THERE ARE several thousand federal laws not enacted by congress, the violation of any one of which can send you to jail or subject you to a fine. These are executive orders issued by more than 150 different departments, bureaus or commissions. Many American citizens have served jail terms or paid fines, or both, because of a violation of these executive order laws. Lawrence Sullivan, in "The Dead Hand of Bureaucracy," tells us new ones are being issued one each day.

Queer Marriages

People have been married in submarines, on mountain peaks, with handcuffs on, in jail, and one man even married his housekeeper in his first wife's tomb.

An invitation to "stew in your own juice" was contained in an advertisement that appeared recently in a Chicago newspaper. It read: "Wanted: couple to get married in 26,000 gallons of diluted cherry juice at Cherry Festival. Marriage license, ring, and wedding present." There were scores of applicants. Two years ago a couple tried to get married while jumping by parachute, but the difficulty was to keep them and the clergyman together so that the responses could be heard. After many attempts it was reluctantly abandoned.

Merit and Luck
Our merit wins the esteem of honest men, and our lucky star that of the public.—La Rochefoucauld.

Daily Beard
The average man's cheek, chin and upper lip produce a crop of some 12,500 beard bristles, each of which grows about half a millimeter every 24 hours. Thirty feet of beard is thus the average man's total production in a day.

YOU ARE AN INFLUENTIAL PERSON

The merchant who advertises must treat you better than the merchant who does not. He must treat you as though you were the most influential person in town.

As a matter of cold fact you are. You hold the destiny of his business in your hands. He knows it. He shows it. And you benefit by good service, by courteous treatment, by good value—and by lower prices.

Children Learn ABC's of Broadcasting

"Mike fright" will never inhibit these third grade pupils of Texas State College for Women's demonstration school. All Denton children, Bobby Schmitz, Betty Ray Peters, John Edward Tabor, and Elizabeth McPherson have set up a complete radio broadcasting unit this summer and are now thoroughly familiar with the broadcasting process from the writing of program scripts to the actual transmission of sound.

Tip From Tierney

It's a lovely and unusual cotton play suit that Gene Tierney, film starlet, wears for a seaside vacation. The suit has a long-sleeved blouse and pleated shorts, fashioned from cotton that has been printed in brown and white after the pattern of a South Sea tapa cloth.

JUST A STUDYING
By Joe Judkins

One spring morning about the time the first bird decided to chirp and just as the first plows begin to scar the winter settled fields—pop called me out to the barn—now son he says—here you are going on 22 years old and you will finish the 4th grade, come the end of this term, so if you will work real hard this year and make a good crop, this fall I will give you $10.00 and let you make your first trip to town some Saturday—of course I was delighted—the summer went by too slow for me—but at last harvest time came and my trip to town was near at hand.

I didn't sleep well that night and was up early the next morning trying to force shoes on my feet—I finally had to go bare footed.

I caught a ride into town with a sewing machine salesman and after about 3 hours of riding found myself in the city, being from the sticks and having a 4th grade education to my credit—I decided that I was a "smart Alec"—I stopped in front of a theatre and after looking over the posters I decided to go in—I walked up to the door and started in—a fellow says TICKET PLEASE—well he being a "Smart Alec" I says—Butch my face is my ticket—Well, he sure did punch my ticket. Then I decided to ride a street car. The conductor come by and he says—boy, you will have to get that suit case out of the isle—well I still thought I was a Smart Alec and I says—"I won't do it". The conductor says—well boy I will be back in a minute and if that suit case is still there I am going to throw it out the window—Well when the conductor came back the suit case was still there—He didn't say a word he just picked it up and out through the window it went—he turned around and says—see, I told you I'd throw it out. I don't care says I, it twent mine—well every thing went well—till a man came up to me and says, hello son you look like a smart young man—do you want to have some fun?—Of course did so he says let me have $10.00 I want to go around the corner and fool a fellow. I didn't have but $9.40 and I wanted in on the fun so I gave it to him to go fool the man with—I wonder who he fooled if I ever see that guy again I am going to find out—I'll bet it was funny.

Speaking of fooling folks reminds me of a Model-T Ford on a cold morning they freeze up—bust up and get so stubborn you just finally have to walk to work after all—that puts me to studying again do you remember the kiddies clean up show we were going to have a while back every Saturday morning?

And the Lorex photo contest we are trying to have—? There see his too much of that model-T stuff around for anything like that to be a success.

I sure hope the Dairy Show will be a success, I will help by painting cross street banner helping get dairy show ground ready—if some one else will help—I can't do it by myself—if some one will furnish the paper I will make the poster—lets get a spark of life started.

H. E. Thomas of the Red & White Grocery and Glen Coon of the Red & White meat market are both fine fellows and both play a swell game of marbles. The meat on display at the store is choice and healthful—the line of groceries Mr. Thomas handles is TOPS—He appreciates your trade small or large.

JULY 27-28-29
LOREX THEATRE

Speaking of getting a spark of life started—everybody is doing swell—Did you read the Editorial last week "ON THE BEAM"? We have no right to get sore about that for as the old saying goes the truth hurts.

"Lorraine In The Movies" which will be presented at the Lorex Theatre next Friday night, July 25th and Saturday (night only) July 26th, seems to be getting along fine—we have photographed lots of folks and lots of places in the last two weeks and want you to see yourself on the screen—So come on down and see how you look.

The Chamber of Commerce says they need money—if there is anyone in Loraine that has talent in the acting line come down to the Theatre any time and give me your name, we are going to try to stage an amateur show per benefit chamber of commerce—let's don't have too much model T stuff on this.

Kenneth Martin underwent major surgery in an Abilene hospital Friday. He is doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Parker and son are on a vacation for a week or ten days. They have closed their cafe while they are away.

Pvt. Edwin Hallmark of Camp Bowie was at home on a furlough this week before going on maneuvers to Louisiana next month.

Dinner guests in the J. W. Richburg home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Richburg and LaVelle of Sweetwater, Ruth and Beth Mahoney, Winston Wilson of Camp Bowie, and Cecil Flemming of Camp Barkeley.

Royce Mahon and Piez Beatty left Tuesday with Harvey Mays for Detroit, Michigan. They will bring back two new school buses.
