

Injunction Suit Dropped With Conditions Met

Judge Luther Gribble in a 100th District Court hearing Thursday March 3, issued an order dissolving the temporary injunction against members of the Commissioners court and ordered the dismissal of the suit at cost to the defendants.

The case was styled Dr. Chas. B. Jones and others vs. C. C. Bishop and others. The co-defendants with Judge Bishop were the members of the Commissioners court.

Judge Gribble said in his order that it appeared to the court that since the temporary injunction was issued February 5, the commissioners have rescinded or amended all orders mentioned in the court's order granting the temporary injunction, and have in all things complied with the temporary injunction, all matters involved in the case having therefore become moot.

The motion to dismiss the suit was made by attorneys for the defense.

The temporary injunction was issued on six points enjoining the commissioners from: issuing county warrants to mature at a date subsequent to issuance to buy a road grader; from issuing county warrants to mature monthly to buy another grader; from paying $150 to have the 1961 county budget prepared; from paying $580 to Southwest Company from the miscellaneous fund but not from the proper fund; from transferring $2289.64 from the $6600 provided in the budget for the road administrator's salary; and from giving orders to and cancelling orders of employees of the road department without approval of the county road administrator.

Red Cross Work Now Under Way

Workers in the Red Cross Roll Call Drive were named this week by Mrs. John Coleman, drive chairman, and work is to begin immediately in all communities.

The campaign to raise approximately $1600 as this year's quota will continue through March, which is designated as Red Cross Month, although Mrs. Coleman expressed hope it could be closed out earlier.

Weather conditions and illness have held up concentrated work on the drive, but Mrs. Coleman urged that each community be covered thoroughly.

Workers who have been asked by Mrs. Coleman to serve in their communities are:

PART OF WEEK'S HUNT

Here is only part of the coyotes killed by Oran Starkey and Doc Barjenbruch during the last week, along with two bobcats. The cat second from right is one of the largest killed in the area this winter. The men are using a new long-distance coyote call Starkey has developed. Many county men are finding sport in coyote hunting during the winter months.

New Call Developed

Coyote Hunting Becomes Sport for Grownup Number in Area

Coyote hunting is coming into its own for many Collingsworth sportsmen, and one of these, Oran Starkey, is adding some refinements that put it in a class to itself.

And for him, coyote hunting resulted in an interesting commercial sideline—making coyote calls.

Starkey has several hunting companions, with Doc Barjenbruch hunting with him most frequently. Altogether, he has been in on the kill of approximately 150 coyotes and several bobcats during the winter.

At first, Starkey, like most other coyote hunters, used a commercial call, a whistle-like device that imitates the sound of a wounded rabbit or chicken and tells the coyote to within range of a gun.

Not satisfied with the results he was getting, Starkey began to make his own calls. Friends asked to buy them, then strange-ers, and now he is putting them on the market.

He makes the calls of cattle horns—or did until the supply began to run short. Now he is making a plastic call.

"I went up to a ranch at Canadian the other day and picked up horns where the steers were dehorned. Not all of them can be used, but I bring them home and sort them," he said.

The distinctive feature about Starkey's calls is the distance they can be heard.

"I have watched through binoculars using roads or other points as markers and I have called in coyotes from as far as two miles," Starkey said.

Sometimes the results aren't what he expects.

"I was sitting on a bank one day giving the wounded chicken call when a hawk dived at me," he said. "It came so close I could feel the air from his wings on my neck when he went by."

Starkey and Barjenbruch have twice called in four coyotes at one time.

Bobcats answer the call, too, expecting a rabbit dinner, and the two men last week brought in a 42-pounder, one of the largest bobcats caught here this winter. Those who have seen it agree they would not care to come face to face with the animal alive.

Careful hunters themselves, Starkey and Barjenbruch discount the danger to cattle from coyote hunters. There is no need, they point out, to confuse a coyote with a registered white face cow.

County Spelling Bee Set Thursday at 10

The annual county spelling bee will be held Thursday, March 10, at 10 a. m. in the county court house, B. W. Beaird, county superintendent and director of the bee announced this week.

Winners from the four schools of the county are due to participate.

As in the past, there will be two divisions, the junior and senior, with winners declared in each. Junior winners do not go above the county level, but the winner of the senior spelling bee will participate in the regional contest in Amarillo later this spring, and the winner of that event goes to the national spelling bee in Washington, D. C., Mr. Beaird said.

Participants in the senior bee must not have passed beyond the eighth grade or reach their 16th birthday before the national finals.

The spelling bee is conducted on the old-fashioned speller basis, the director said, with contestants dropping out of the contest as they miss words.

The public is invited to attend.

Two Contests in In Trustee Elections

Trustee elections at both Samnorwood and Quail are contested, but those of Wellington and DodsOn, seeking re-election in both school districts, are without opposition. The election will be Saturday, April 2, in all districts.

Five candidates are seeking to fill two places in the Norwood district, B. W. Beaird, county superintendent, has announced. Filing for re-election were A. M. Oldham and E. J. Schaub. Other candidates are J. D. Throckmorton, Jimmy F. Ray and B. A. Purkey.

There are four candidates for the three places at Quail, J. C. Emmert is asking re-election, and the other candidates are Lonnie Neely, V. M. Patton, and Ted Wheeler. Chester White, the other out-going member, is not asking re-election and there is one vacancy, brought about when Z. J. Neely resigned recently to become a county school board member.

Floyd Teutsch and Ed Crowder, both asking re-election, were the only candidates to file at DodsOn.

In Wellington, Frank Campbell and Velman Warrick, who filed for re-election, are without opposition.

None of the candidates for county trustee have opposition. Of the three places to be filled, the three incumbents have filed for re-election: W. S. White, in precinct 1; Z. J. Neely in precinct 3; and L. D. McMinn, trustee at large.

Airman Dies in Icy Road Crash

A/2c Hershel A. Ketchum, Wellington airman stationed at Amarillo AFB, died Wednesday morning, March 2 in a car-truck collision on icy pavement six miles east of Amarillo.

Airman Ketchum, 26, was the son of Mrs. Pearl Ketchum. He lived at Lutie from 1949 until 1952, when the family moved to Wellington. He entered the Air Force a few months later, at the age of 17. He was a member of the 3320th Maintenance and Supply Group and lived at Army Tech Village.

According to Texas Highway Patrolman John Lowry, the accident occurred when the car Ketchum was driving collided with a Lee Way Motor Freight truck that apparently jackknifed on the snow-covered road and skidded into the path of Ketchum's car.

Ketchum was in the process of passing another car. The driver of the truck was uninjured. Ketchum was dead when his body was removed from the car, according to Patrolman Lowry.

Core Drill Locations Made at Dam Sites

Location of the core drillings at two sites for the proposed Salt Fork Dam were announced this week by John Thompson, assistant regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation, Amarillo.

In a letter to Clyde Drake, vice chairman of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, Thompson said he expected to issue specifications next week and the contract will be awarded early in April.

Three holes will be drilled at the OM damsite, and these will be on the Mill Iron Ranch. Four will be drilled at the proposed Samnorwood site, two on the Oran Starkey farm across the river south on land owned by Mrs. Henry Wischkaemper, and the fourth on land belonging to her son, Carl Wischkaemper.

Drake and John Coleman, chairman of the water board, are securing permission from the landowners for the core drilling crews to enter the property for the purpose of locating and drilling the holes. Thompson requested this permission before the contract is let.

The purpose of the core drilling is to determine the foundation conditions at the damsites.

This action came shortly after the proposed Salt Fork dam was transferred from the district office of the Bureau of Reclamation in Oklahoma City to the regional office in Amarillo.

These objectives he outlined as:

1. To encourage marketing expansion;
2. To reduce production incentives;
3. To minimize the economic hardship of shifting growers;
4. To avoid shifting the burden of the adjustment to producers of other farm commodities.

"We want to encourage all wheat growers of the four-

Bureaucracy Vs A Home

There is something about holding a non-elective office that seems to cause many bureaucrats to believe they are omniscient. Witness the case in New Jersey where the state says Mr. and Mrs. Richard Combs may lose their foster child because the state board of child welfare has decided she is too bright for them.

In custody papers filed recently the board said the Combs were not financially or intellectually capable of developing the very superior abilities of the girl.

The director of the board said that he was interested in having the child adopted by families "offering greater possibilities for the intellectual and cultural development of this outstanding youngster."

Just who are these families that are offering greater possibilities and are they offering it to the director of child welfare or to the child? Are these people who want to exploit the talents of a child prodigy on TV or the motion pictures?

After all the child welfare board did select the Combs as desirable foster parents in the first place, and they admit the child appears happy and well adjusted. Combs is accused of watching TV too much marked development has been made while leading a normal life in their home.

Most educators agree that a talented child should be given enough work to keep them interested and develop their capacities to the fullest. But many educators also point out the grave dangers of pushing a child too fast and making a prodigy out of a normal child with outstanding intellect. Too many of these child prodigies have wound up as neurotics, nonentities or in psychiatric wards.

Why not leave the child where she has been happy and developed so marvelously? And again we ask who are these families offering greater potentials and what is their motive and what is the motive of the director of child welfare of the State of New Jersey?

March Is the Month to Remember Red Cross Services

With the annual Red Cross Drive now on us, it is well to consider just what it means to us. Some of us have never had the need to know the personal — the individual — side of this organization.

It is not in the big things it does, such as work in flood or storm, that comes close to us, although we could receive help in that way, too.

Most of the Red Cross assistance to Collingsworth families comes to an individual, or an individual family.

The bulk of the work here concerns men in the armed forces, for Red Cross is the contact between the service man and his family, or the service man and his military unit, in case of emergency.

Requests for emergency leave in case of serious illness or death in the man's family are handled through the Red Cross, and a service man who because of circumstances beyond his control cannot get back to his base on time from a leave takes his request for an extension of time to his Red Cross Home Service Chairman.

We have known these things through the years, but it is well to remember them again before we write our check for this year's Red Cross donation.

To others, usually the aged or the ill, the Red Cross may furnish medicine or food in an emergency. There are other services available to us from Red Cross—first aid courses, swimming safety and life-saving, as well as others, if we want to take advantage of them.

Our gift to Red Cross is a two-fold gift—one part helps those at home who need its services or help, through the other we help mankind's needs wherever there is suffering or want.

Let us ponder these things before the Red Cross worker knocks on our door sometime this month.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where some meddling Congressmen are making it tougher for the Air Force enlisted man.

It seems these busybody lawmakers have raised such a fuss about it that the brass has quit putting out the instruction book on how to please Generals.

And a man's military career could easily be ruined if he got the duty and mixed a General's drink wrong, or used the wrong color rinse when washing his dog some time when he was already dissatisfied with Mr. Eisenhower.

I see where every once in a while the matter of a 30-hour work week is brought up again, and some folks even advocate shorter work breaks.

My leisure-lousy neighbor says this may go on and on and then get worse, until work gets to be classified as a sin.

Which would likely start people to bootlegging the stuff, indulging in labor on the sly, and maybe becoming downright addicts to work, same as happens lots of times with other forms of transgression.

vice president of the First National Bank.

40 Years Ago—1920

Lost—Small suitcase between Wellington and Lufkin, containing baby clothes. W. M. Tucker.

The money necessary to continue Wellington school has been raised by workers this week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ford lost two of their children to the flu this week. A small son died Friday, Saturday morning their small daughter died.

Jim Peggram, J. W. McIntosh and Clarence Blevins are shelling their corn crop this week, getting ready to market same.

Grover Young has announced his candidacy for the office of county tax assessor.

Willard Riggs was here from DeVal this week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Riggs.

J. F. Humphrey has arrived to be the new depot agent.

J. R. Benson and H. D. Creath left Sunday for Wichita Falls to attend the Bankers association.

I see where the TV chiefs aim to rig their programs to include a shot of culture every day or so, to see if they can put a little better polish on the people.

And my new hope neighbor says this move will be a big help if it spreads culture around enough to make it common.

On account of when everybody gets culturized and starts to liking doodle art, tune-shy music and bawdy literature, the folks who want to stand out from the crowd will have to go in for being natural.

I see where some Public Spirited citizens have organized the American Moon Campaign to help save the moon for the United States.

My comforted neighbor says he knew this would happen, on account of whenever the country is in a real jam, and defeat stalks us, Providence has always raised up a man or two to take care of the situation.

Says it has never failed, what ever kind of mess we get into, there is somebody ready to come to our rescue by taking up a collection.

I see where some operators down in Florida have got a system for retraining old beat-up people's faces and making them look like fugitives from a play pen.

My time-tuckered neighbor says he is not interested in this deal, on account of his old face is still serviceable, even if there is now more of it to wash every morning.

Says getting a junior wolf face like this would be rank fraud anyhow, and would likely land him in the same column of the Book as some crook selling a hot-rodded car with a shot motor.

I see where Congress is figuring on setting up a law whereby a man can't work for less than $1.25 an hour, even if that is more than he is worth.

My laboring neighbor says this is good news, on account of nobody can afford to pay a man of his calibre that much money, and he has been sort of wanting to retire on welfare anyhow.

Says he has looked into this and feels like it would suit him as a career, especially if the welfare drawing business can be modernized a little, so he would get proper fringe benefits, such as coffee breaks and paid vacations.

Many Vehicles Still Need Safety Check

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that more than two million motor vehicles remain to be inspected before the April 15 deadline. He urged all Texas motorists to obtain their new inspection stickers at an early date.

Garrison reported that more than 4,900,000 will be inspected in Texas this year. To date only about half that number have gone through inspection lines at some 4,400 inspection stations located throughout the state.

The DPS director pointed out that inspection stations cannot inspect vehicles during wet, rainy weather, a condition normally prevailing during the late winter and early spring. To make sure every vehicle owner is able to obtain his 1960 inspection sticker in time, Garrison suggested that plans be made now to visit an inspection station, before inspection lines grow long.

Burrous' Moved to Philippines

T/Sgt. and Mrs. Marion E. Burrous are now living in the Philippine Islands, it was learned here recently. LETTERS from the People

I am wondering how many people who read The Wellington Leader or who live in Collingsworth county know just how much they are indebted to the El Paso Natural Gas Co.

In the northern part of the county where I live are a vast number of cattle guards, all made of good material and installed in the best way. On my own particular plot of ground are ten, put in by this company, which add greatly to the convenience of cross-pasture travel.

Wherever the El Paso folk have put in fencing, theirs is neat and of good material, usually making the original fence look sad in comparison.

They have installed tin horns in creeks that had always before been mud traps. Of course these things are done for their benefit as well as that of the landowner. Furthermore their personnel are both courteous and kind. If you treat them right, they dead sure will treat you the same way.

Do the taxpayers know how much the El Paso Gas Company has helped the county in road dragging and furnishing materials? I have been told that in the north central part of the county alone they have given thousands of dollars worth of tin horns for use on county roads.

Let's all say a great big "thank you" to these folks who have come into our community and who have shown a real Christian spirit.

Changes in Store For Farming and Rural Living

COLLEGE STATION.—The old distinctions between farm and city are rapidly disappearing, said Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist. Rural nonfarm people now outnumber farm people by a ratio of 5 to 3 and it appears certain that more nonfarm people will live in rural areas.

More than a third of farm operators work off their farms 100 days or more per year. In 1957, about 40 per cent of net farm families income was from nonfarm sources, he said.

Family operated farms will increase in size since technological improvements are by no means complete. Agriculture, said Brown, appears to be only in the middle of revolutionary changes both in size and capital structure. Larger farms mean larger investments, not only for land and buildings but for all the machinery and non-agricultural supplies needed in modern farm production. Based on present trends, investment per commercial farm by 1975 may amount to over $80,000 in 1958 dollars compared to a little less than $40,000 now, he said.

Various new financial devices may be worked out to meet the need, some based upon methods now common in industry. One development already underway is the use of land-purchase contracts under which the title of the land remains with the seller until all or a specific percentage of payments have been made.

Commercial family farms will probably continue to be the dominant form of organization in American agriculture. Labor requirements have not increased with the size of farms except in some limited areas. For the bulk of farmers, efficient operation seems likely to require no greater labor force than has been needed in the past, he added.

Plan Before Construction

Farm or ranch buildings or structures to be used as production facilities should be planned carefully before construction begins, says W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer. Careful planning, he adds, will insure the best possible return on the investment and the maximum in labor saving, both important factors in the ever-increasing cost-price situation faced by agriculture producers.

New Study on Pink Boll Worm

A method of screwworm eradication which has proven highly effective in the Southeastern states is now being quietly studied for its possible application to pink boll worm control.

The method is based on the release of billions of screw-worm flies which have been rendered sterile for reproduction by exposure to radioactive cobalt. Since July 1958 more than two and three-quarter billion sterile flies have been turned loose over nearly 85,000 square miles in Florida and parts of Alabama and Georgia. It has been amply demonstrated that sterile male flies mating with native female flies produce eggs which do not hatch, thus eventually obliterating the species.

STRICTLY FOR KICKS

Football was strictly a game for kicks until 1823. A player at Rugby, England, disgusted with his ineffective kicks at the ball, finally picked it up and ran with it. Carrying the ball became an accepted practice—except for those purists who refused to use their hands. They called their game "association football" to distinguish it from the other, which became known as rugby. Association football was later abbreviated to soccer—and then changed to soccer.

Set Price of Commodity Credit Cotton

Minimum sales prices for Commodity Credit Corporation stocks of upland cotton have been determined for the 1960-61 marketing year, according to J. A. Coleman, chairman, Collingsworth County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The new sales prices are intended to emphasize farmers' marketings. The announcement at this time will provide farm operators with information on CCC's sales prices before the March 16 deadline for electing Choice B allotments and price support for the 1960 crop.

For 1959 and prior crops of upland cotton in CCC inventory the new minimum sale price will be the higher of (1) the market price as determined by CCC, or (2) 115 per cent of the 1960 Choice B loan rate. (This compares with the current 110 per cent of loan rate.)

For 1960 crop cotton, the minimum sale price is as follows: When the cotton is sold by local sales agencies, the minimum sales price will be 110 per cent of the Choice B loan rate; when the cotton is sold by the New Orleans CSS Commodity office, the minimum sale price will be the higher of (1) the market price as determined by CCC, or (2) 110 per cent of the Choice B loan rate.

Mr. Coleman pointed out that carrying charges will be added to the sales price, beginning with 10 points in October 1960, and increasing 20 points per month thereafter to a maximum of 190 points in July 1961. The current monthly increase for carrying charges is 15 points per month for each month after October 1959.

Time to Put Top Dressing on Wheat

Farmers planning to apply fertilizer as a top dressing on wheat should do so immediately, County Agent Bob Lynch reminded.

Nitrogen may be had in three forms, as ammonium nitrate, ammonium sulphate and anhydrous ammonia.

"Thirty pounds of nitrogen should mean an increase of 8 to 10 bushels per acre, and the usual cost of such an application would amount to not more than two bushels," Lynch said. "On the Jim Wood farm year before last, we found that 40 pounds of nitrogen increased the wheat yield 16 bushels per acre, and we have more moisture this year than we did then."

Lynch reminded farmers that anhydrous ammonia can be put on running across the drill rows without hurting the wheat stand.

City State Bank

50 Years of Courteous Dependable Banking Service

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

The prolonged wet cold winter has caused severe hardship for people who work by the day such as farm laborers, carpenters, painters, concrete workers, etc. There have been very few days since the first week in December that would allow outdoor work. If you can put up with the discomfort this might be a good time to get that inside room redone that you have been thinking about. You can practically write your own ticket as far as the time element is concerned.

The weather seems to be the main topic of conversation and not the Senate filibuster, Castro's mouthings and the presidential primaries. So I will write about it. People keep asking me if I have ever seen one like it. No, not in the 50 years I can remember.

We have not had any cattle killing blizzards this year but it has been the longest wet spell anybody can remember and I have talked to many who have been here for years.

In 1914 we had a tremendous blizzard that hit suddenly about noon and continued through the night and many cattle were frozen. It had been sleeting before noon but the terrific winds hit shortly before 12:00 o'clock. About 2:00 the fathers started coming to the old white school building north of the Katy tracks to take their children home mainly on foot. The drifts were already four feet high in places by that time of the day. The next morning they were six and eight feet high on the north side of the houses and barns. We were feeding out 100 head of four year old steers that winter and while they came through unscathed being fat and full of corn and alfalfa hay. We did lose about ten head of hogs that were quarantined with them in the sheds. And as I remember there were big snows again in 1915.

The winter of 1918-19 was another bad one with the snow staying on the ground for weeks. This was the winter during which so many people died from the Spanish flu. Some snowbound families were found with every member in bed and some of them dead. The first Dr. Cross, who had been going night and day along with the rest of the doctors, died as a result of the flu and pneumonia.

Again in the winter of 1923-24 was severe on livestock and some cattlemen were wiped out as a result of their losses. Snow was on the ground when I came home from Austin and was still there when I returned to the University of Texas. That holiday season I rode the train to Amarillo to attend a dance and a series of parties and the countryside was most beautiful under its heavy blanket of snow.

January of 1930 brought a heavy snow that stayed on the ground for over three weeks. This was the winter the water mains froze and people melted snow for cooking and drinking. The Leader had on a circulation campaign and was giving away a car, radio and other prizes. The campaign was brought to a halt by the snow and cold and turned out to be a colossal flop financially. Well that brings you up to 30 years ago and most of you should remember the winters since that time.

Here is more weather news from A. B. Bounds of Ontario, California. He writes: We have been away from Wellington a good many years and many of the old timers have passed on. Still we like to hear about what is going on in and around Wellington. I was back there two years ago and intended to get around to see you relative to what you said about California when you visited out here three or four years ago. So you visited Los Angeles and San Diego and thought you saw Southern California. Ha! Don't you wish you were out here in good old sunny California now, out of all that cold weather you are having now?

Well, friend Bounds, I did visit more than Los Angeles and San Diego—Bakersfield, Oceanside, Tijuana, Yosemite, San Bernardino, etc. And it was most interesting and beautiful but year in and year out you can keep it Mr. Bounds and I will take the beautiful, exciting, invigorating Panhandle of Texas with its sandstorms, snowstorms, and all.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of Wellington being incorporated as a city and its 70th as a county seat. Doesn't this call for some sort of celebration? It is also the 50th anniversary of the founding of the City State Bank. The 50th year of The Wellington Leader will not end until August of 1960. Are there any others?

John Trew stopped me the other day to tell me that he found a quail nest full of eggs and they were warm from the mother bird sitting on them. Now John, I said, you know that is not true. I know it is not, he replied, but it is just as plausible as your story about the mockingbird sitting on a snow covered limb singing as if it were April. O.K. I thought it was unusual too, but I have two other witnesses and besides the same bird was still in my yard eating bread crumbs on a cold March 1. Roberta Coffee said that he was singing on March 2 when the snow was on the ground again, and he is still here.

And in addition to that Mr. Trew there were two Yellow-Shafted Flickers in my back yard playing in the snow and pecking on the trees on March 2. These birds are of the woodpecker family. They are about a third longer and twice as big around as the old familiar red headed woodpecker, which is about the size of a mockingbird. They have a dark V on the breast, and are yellow underneath with black dots and have alternate rows of black and gray dots on the back and show a patch of white at the nub of the tail when they fly.

82-Year-Old Survives Wreck

G. D. Atkinson, 82, of Wellington, was the oldest man aboard the Santa Fe Chief wrecked March 1 at Bakersfield, Calif., The Bakersfield Californian revealed.

Copies of the newspaper carrying Mr. Atkinson's picture as a patient in Mercy Hospital in that city were received this week by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stevenson. They were sent by a niece of Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Don Barnes, who lives only a few blocks from Mercy Hospital. Her husband was returning home at the time of the train-gasoline transport crash and was one of the first men to reach the scene. He remained to help with rescue work.

Atkinson, a one-time Oregon logger and in his younger days a soldier who survived combat in the Spanish American War, was seated in a chair car two coaches ahead of the observation car. He had boarded at Richmond en route to Amarillo after visiting relatives in California," The Californian said. "The crash impact hurled him into the aisle and his head struck the wash room door, as he recalled. He was carried from the listing car later by rescuers."

The newspaper listed his injuries as lacerations and head injuries, and his condition as good. Additional information is not available here.

Johnny Cooper New Manager of Theatres

Mrs. Cooper accompanied her husband here. A native of Hugo, Okla., Cooper grew up in Clinton, Okla., graduated from high school there and started his career with Video Theatres in that town.

None Hurt in Rural Crash

No injuries resulted from a car-pickup collision that occurred on a dirt road in the Lillie community about 7 p.m. Friday, March 4.

According to Sheriff John Rainey, Wellington Superintendent Bennett Goodloe was driving north near the farm he owns in that community, when his 1951 Ford pickup was struck by the 1955 Plymouth 2-door driven by Jerry Morris of the Lillie area.

Sheriff Rainey said that Morris, going east, applied the brakes when he saw Goodloe's vehicle, but due to icy conditions of the road, his car skidded into the side of the pickup.

Morris was alone and Goodloe was accompanied by C. W. Munson, who is visiting here from Wayland, Iowa.
