School hiring sends unemployment down

Rate drops to 2.6 percent; Midland labor force again tops 100,000

By Mella McEwen
mmcewen@mrt.com

School is back in session, and that gave a seasonal boost to Midland's employment figures in September.

The Texas Workforce Commission reported that September unemployment in the Midland metropolitan statistical area fell to 2.6 percent from 2.8 percent in August. Midland continues to report the state's lowest unemployment, while Odessa continues to report the second lowest, 3.1 percent in September.

At the same time, Midland's civilian labor force crossed the 100,000 mark for the second time, coming in at 100,133, up from 98,741 in August.

"As we see housing continue to be built, we will see Midland's workforce continue to climb," said Willie Taylor, chief executive officer of the commission's Workforce Solutions Permian Basin office.

He said the September figures illustrate how Midland's labor market has been stable all year.

The decline in continuous unemployment claims also highlights how healthy the market is. He said he will watch to see how the recent drop in oil prices affects employment over the next few months.

Midland and Odessa's healthy job market has spread to surrounding counties, giving the 19-county Permian Basin region that Taylor's office oversees an average unemployment rate of 3.1 percent.

"If we're going to recruit new workers, they have to be ready for this area."

New utilities director joins city hall

■ Director Wilson brings more than 30 years of civil engineering experience

By Joseph Basco
jbasco@mrt.com

The city of Midland has hired a new utilities director, a post that has been vacant since August 2013.

Laura Wilson began the job in September and oversees the utilities department's Environmental Compliance Division, Water Purification Plant, Water Pollution Control Plant, water distribution and wastewater collection systems, Spraberry Farm and groundwater well fields, including Paul Davis, T-Bar and Midland International Airport.

One issue Wilson said she will focus on is water loss. Wilson hopes to find the "cracks in the system" that cause water to be lost before it reaches customers.

"When you're trying to find new water sources, the best sources are within your own system," Wilson said.

Wilson's annual salary is $110,000.

She has more than 30 years of civil engineering experience, is a registered professional engineer and has the highest possible license from the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality.

"I like working with water and sewer systems because I feel like it's the most basic of human needs," Wilson said.

Alternating between the public and private sectors, Wilson worked for Entropec/Hibbs & Todd as a project manager, overseeing wastewater, paving and solid waste projects for the city of Midland on a consulting basis. Before that, Wilson held positions with the cities of

City receives violation for water system

■ High levels of contaminant found, is byproduct of chlorination

By Joseph Basco
jbasco@mrt.com

The city of Midland's water system was once again flagged for elevated levels of contaminants known to cause cancer, leading the city to adjust its chlorine disinfecting process.

For the first three quarters of 2014, the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality notified the city that it has excess amounts of trihalomethanes, or THMs, in its water system. The city's water continues to have a THM level of between 80 to 100 parts per billion, which is more than the 80 ppb limit mandated by the Environmental Protection Agency. One part per billion is akin to one silver dollar in a roll that stretches from Detroit to Salt Lake City, according to a West Virginia University ppb fact sheet.

THMs — chloroform, bromodichloromethane, dribromochloromethane and bromoform — are a byproduct of chlorine disinfections. THMs form when chlorine reacts with organic material — such as algae and decaying leaves — in water, according to the EPA.

Municipalities, water suppliers and swimming pool owners chlorinate water to kill water-borne diseases like cholera, typhoid fever and dysentery.

But overchlorination resulted in the THMs in the city water to exceed the 80 ppb limit. In its 2013 annual water report, the city also attributed excess THMs to

STATEBRIEFS

FROM WIRE REPORTS

EL PASO

Man gets 30 years in child pornography case

A West Texas sex offender has been sentenced to 30 years in federal prison after using a public library computer to share child pornography.

A federal prosecutor said 30-year-old Berry Miller received the punishment on Thursday. He was also sentenced to a lifetime of supervised release following his prison time.

Miller pleaded guilty to the child pornography distribution charge in August. He was arrested after using computers at the El Paso Public Library in February to exchange pictures of children with other people, including an undercover agent.

Miller was previously convicted in El Paso County.

SAN ANTONIO

Houston-area gang member gets 14 years in slaying

A former gang captain has been sentenced to 14 years in prison over the 2008 drug-related slaying of a prospective member in South Texas.

Frank Lavelle Urbish Jr. of Pasadena was sentenced Thursday in San Antonio in a case involving the white supremacist Aryan Brotherhood of Texas.

Urbish pleaded guilty to committing a violent crime in aid of racketeering in a plea deal over the death of Mark Davis Byrd Sr. of Pleasanton.

Investigators said Byrd was tortured and slain for stealing drugs that he was supposed to deliver. His body was dumped in Atascosa County.

FORT WORTH

Man sentenced to 45 years for killing girlfriend

North Texas prosecutors say a 20-year-old man has been sentenced to 45 years in prison for fatally stabbing his teenage girlfriend after she told him she no longer wanted to date him.

Luis Erasmo Torres was sentenced Friday in a Fort Worth court. He must serve at least half his sentence before he's eligible for parole.

In July, he pleaded guilty to murder in the death of 17-year-old Jocelyn Saucedo.

Prosecutors said after learning Saucedo wanted to end their relationship, Torres purchased a hunting knife before picking up Saucedo after school.

They said he stabbed the teen in the abdomen before calling 911 and admitting the attack.

An investigator testified that he believed Torres sat outside his vehicle after the stabbing as Saucedo bled to death.

CORPUS CHRISTI

Prosecutors to retry woman in foster child's death

Prosecutors say they'll retry a South Texas woman whose capital murder conviction in the 2006 salt poisoning death of her 4-year-old foster son was overturned.

Nueces County District Attorney Mark Skurka said Friday that he has ordered a new trial for Hannah Overton of Corpus Christi, who had served seven years of a prison sentence of life without parole.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals overturned Overton's conviction in September, citing ineffective trial counsel at her 2007 trial for the death of Andrew Burd. Her present attorney seeks a bench warrant to return Overton from state prison to Nueces County Jail.

Overton contended Andrew had emotional and medical problems, including an eating disorder in which he'd consume odd food items. An autopsy showed elevated sodium levels in his body.

CRYSTAL CITY

Officials arrest 24 in drug ring

Officials say 24 people have been arrested in connection with a drug ring operating in several south Texas cities.

The U.S. Department of Justice announced the arrests Friday. It said the 24 people are charged with conspiracy to distribute cocaine in the cities of Crystal City, La Pryor, Carrizo Springs and San Antonio.

If convicted, some defendants face a minimum sentence of five years in prison and a maximum sentence of 40 years. Others face up to 20 years in prison.

Federal officials said that from February to September, those in custody participated in the drug ring. Authorities said that during their investigation, they seized about one kilogram of cocaine, 660 pounds of marijuana, 15 firearms and about $33,000.

Eagle Materials drills into energy

Associated Press

DALLAS — Eagle Materials is moving further into the energy sector by buying a company that sells an ingredient crucial to the hydraulic fracturing techniques now widely used to extract oil and natural gas.

The building materials company announced the a $225 million acquisition of CRS Proppants LLC and its subsidiaries, which it said Friday will roughly double its fracturing sand production and expand its reserves of the material.

Demand for the sand has skyrocketed over the past decade with the rapid expansion of hydraulic fracturing in places like the Permian Basin.

"This acquisition will enable us to immediately serve the Permian Basin, in particular, with increased production, while creating synergies with our other operations in Texas that are currently serving the Eagle Ford with sand from our Illinois mine," said CEO Steven Rowley.

UNEMPLOYMENT

said Taylor. That is why the area needs to invest in infrastructure upgrades — especially roads — he said.

The number of jobs created in Midland from August to September soared by 1,100 — to 91,700 from 90,600 — for a job-creation rate of 1.2 percent, the fifth highest in the state. Odessa had a similar 1,100-job gain for a 1.3 percent growth rate, the third highest statewide.

Midland's largest industrial sector — mining, logging and construction — which includes oil and gas, added 600 jobs during the month for a 2.2 percent growth rate.

The second largest sector — trade, transportation and utilities — was unchanged from August to September but added 800 jobs from September 2013 to September 2014.

Gus Ortega, area manager for Oncor, the electric transmission and distribution services provider that serves the Permian Basin, said the company has been "working very hard" to meet the demand of a booming region, installing and upgrading infrastructure as quickly as it can while also recruiting workers.

He said that, while working to serve Oncor customers, the company also encourages its employees to stay in the area and provides incentives to retain workers.

"We also have a recruiting process, we have a committee that goes to various colleges to recruit engineers and we also have openings that are open to the public," he said.

Openings include positions like lineworkers, electricians, right-of-way specialists, accountants and engineers. A list is available at www.oncor.com.

The government sector added 500 jobs from August to September, followed by the education and health services sector, which added 200 jobs as school got underway.

For the 12 months between September 2013 and September 2014, Midland added 5,500 jobs for a job growth rate of 6.4 percent, the highest in the state and ahead of Odessa's 5.5 percent growth rate. Mining, logging and construction added 3,700 jobs for a growth rate of 15.1 percent.

Following trade, transportation and utilities' 800-job gain was business and professional services with a 300-job gain over the past year.

Statewide, the unemployment rate dipped to 5.2 percent from 5.3 percent in August. The commission reported that the state's seasonally adjusted labor force topped 13 million for the first time as 36,400 seasonally adjusted total nonfarm jobs were added during the month.

Census figures Friday listed the estimated 2013 Texas population at nearly 26.5 million.

While Midland had the lowest unemployment in September, the McAllen-Edinburg-Mission area had the state's highest at 8.5 percent.

Sears murals discovered after lost for decades

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — While clearing junk out of a San Antonio municipal building, a city worker recently discovered large tubes that contained artwork depicting different eras of Texas history.

One of the paintings shows the defeat of a Mexican general in 1836. Another illustrated a scene of Spanish priests interacting with Native Americans. Thinking he stumbled upon something significant, the worker notified the Institute of Texan Cultures.

Sarah Gould, a researcher with the organization, said the worker was told to dispose of the murals. Instead, he took a few photos on his cellphone of the artwork to show the institute.

"He said, 'I was just wondering if you would take them because I was going to throw them away,'" Gould said. "And we said, 'Yes, thank you.'"

The group's staff began researching and found that the late Chicago-based artist Eugene Montgomery, who died in 2001, was behind the artwork. The paintings, finished in 1954, are pieces of one 175-foot-long mural that once spanned the inside of the former Sears Roebuck and Co. store. The murals were removed after the store was remodeled in 1984.

"I wouldn't call them super high art," Gould said, "but they're great popular art."

HOUSTON — Houston city attorneys are no longer seeking through subpoenas sermons from five pastors who publicly opposed an ordinance banning discrimination against gay and transgender residents.

Mayor Annise Parker said Friday that the city was backing off the sermon request but would not withdraw the subpoenas, which seek other information from the pastors as part of a lawsuit over a petition drive to repeal the equal rights ordinance.

"They were too broad," Parker said at a news conference. "They were typical attorney language in a discovery motion. They were asking for everything but the kitchen sink."

While the word "sermons" was being deleted from the subpoenas, the revised request for other speeches or presentations was appropriate, Parker said.

"This is not about what anyone is preaching; this is not about their religion; it's not about the free exercise of religion," she said. "It is our right to defend the city and asking legitimate questions about the petition process."

In May, the City Council passed the equal rights ordinance, which consolidates city bans on discrimination based on sex, race, age, religion and other categories and increases protections for gay and transgender residents. Parker, who is gay, and other supporters said the measure is about offering protections at the local level against all forms of discrimination in housing, employment and services provided by private businesses such as hotels and restaurants.

Religious institutions are exempt, but city attorneys recently subpoenaed the pastors, seeking all speeches, presentations or sermons related to the repeal petition.

Christian activists sued after city officials ruled they didn't collect enough signatures to get the question on the ballot. The city secretary initially counted enough signatures, but then city attorney David Feldman ruled that more than half of the pages of the petition were invalid.

Odessa man killed in motorcycle wreck

From staff reports

An Odessa man died Friday morning in a single-vehicle motorcycle wreck in west Midland County, according to a press release from DPS spokeswoman Elena Viramontes.

Trevor Kane Gilbert, 23, was traveling southbound on South County Road 1286 — near where Farm-to-Market Road 1788 meets Interstate 20 and Business 20.

When Gilbert reached the intersection of West County Road 127, he continued southbound, veering off the roadway and striking a fence, according to the release.

A justice of the peace declared Gilbert dead at the scene of the crash, which ocurred about 4 a.m. At this time, it does not appear any other vehicle was involved.

water that remains in the system for longer than usual because of decreased customer demand in post-drought conditions.

People who drink water containing excess THMs over many years could experience liver, kidney or central nervous system problems and have an increased risk of cancer, according to the EPA. It is estimated that drinking two liters of water containing 100 ppb of THMs daily for 70 years could result in three extra cases of cancer for every 10,000 people, according to the Oklahoma Department of Environmental Quality THM fact sheet that references the EPA.

The city's utilities department has dealt with elevated THMs for years, according to Laura Wilson, the city's utilities director. In 2013, the city's water supply THM level ranged from 47.6 ppb to 107 ppb, according to that year's annual water quality report. The city of Odessa had a maximum THM level of 43 ppb in 2013, according to its own 2013 water quality report.

To decrease the THM level, the city plans to adjust where it injects chlorine in its system and the amounts injected at each location. Wilson said the utilities department takes samples from different sections throughout the treatment process to determine where the chlorine should be injected.

"What we're doing now is that instead of placing all the chlorine at the beginning of the plant (treatment process), we're putting some of it at the end," Wilson said.

She hopes for an ideal THM level of 20 to 30 ppb after the adjustments are made, but 40 ppb is the target. She said nearby cities can achieve that level, so she sees no reason why Midland can't do the same.

But Wilson ruled out stopping chlorine disinfections.

"Water-borne diseases are a whole lot more of a risk than these THMs," she said.

Wilson added that, despite the TCEQ violation, the water is safe, but the city is working on a permanent fix for the THM levels so the issue does not occur again.

"I personally don't think it's acceptable," Wilson said.

The city will be mailing customers notices about the elevated THM levels in 2014 by the end of the year.

WILSON

From 1A

Fort Worth and Breckenridge and the Brazos River Authority. Troubleshooting water systems is a skill Wilson emphasized.

Wilson's consulting work for the city in the past year is what got her "foot in the door" and made her enjoy working with city staff.

"In Midland, anyone can work for any oil company, but (city staff are) still here (in city hall), and there are some that have been here 20 or 25 years," Wilson. "It's gratifying to be with the city because I live here and I drink the water, too, so I want to make sure it's as good as it can be."

Holly McGrath-Rosas, assistant water utility director, served as interim director before Wilson's appointment in mid-September. Before the interim period, Stuart Purvis was utilities director until August 2013.

Gov. Perry calls for travel ban due to Ebola

By Will Weissert
Associated Press

AUSTIN — Republican Gov. Rick Perry reversed course and joined other top conservatives in calling for an air travel ban from countries hardest-hit by Ebola, saying Friday that he'd pushed the idea with President Barack Obama and even suggested creating a "no-fly list" for Americans potentially exposed to the virus.

Texas has been the epicenter of Ebola in the United States, with a Liberian man who was the first confirmed case on American soil, Thomas Eric Duncan, dying at a Dallas hospital last week, and two health workers who treated him since falling ill. Both have been transferred to federal facilities for treatment and, amid criticism of Texas Health Presbyterian hospital, Perry also said he'd asked Obama to "fast-track" Ebola cases to better-equipped Centers for Disease Control facilities.

"We must admit, along the way we have seen ample opportunity for improvement from the CDC all the way to the hospital," Perry said at a news conference.

Eyeing a possible 2016 presidential run, Perry had previously stopped short of joining leading national Republican voices in urging a travel ban from Ebola-stricken parts of West Africa. But he said Friday that "recent and ongoing events" had changed his mind.

The governor also said it was "indefensible" that one of the health care workers who had treated Duncan was allowed to fly from Ohio to Texas "with a low-grade fever" before being diagnosed with Ebola.

Associated Press

Gov. Rick Perry speaks during a news conference to discuss Texas' Ebola prevention efforts Friday in Austin.

Perry said he asked Obama to consider creating "a no-fly list that the airlines then respect" of people in the U.S. who had been potentially exposed to Ebola.

"And that is an option that I asked him to consider to clearly send a message," Perry said. "It defies common sense, from my perspective, that someone who has been in close proximity, or has treated these patients, that they would go out and expose other people possibly to this — that they would travel out of state, that they would go on a cruise."

That was a reference to a Dallas health care worker who handled a lab specimen of Duncan's, then boarded a cruise ship and is now in self-quarantine.

Perry said Texas' health commissioner can restrict people's travel and movement amid risks of spreading infectious diseases, but that there aren't legal consequences until someone actually violates such orders — prompting him to broach the subject with the president.

The governor had been leading an economic development mission in Europe but returned home early after word that the two Dallas nurses had Ebola. Perry also has created a special infectious diseases task force.

On Friday, that panel issued preliminary recommendations, including establishing special Ebola treatment centers around Texas, expanding virus-related training for health care workers and creating more labs equipped to test for Ebola than the single Austin facility currently doing so.

The task force also wants the Legislature, which doesn't convene until January, to let the state health commissioner impose travel and freedom of movement restrictions on Texans with infectious diseases to limit exposure to the general public.

N.D. well leaking oil, gas and water

By Josh Wood
Associated Press

WILLISTON, N.D. — Workers are attempting to contain an out-of-control oil well in North Dakota, authorities said Friday.

North Dakota regulators said a well near Watford City in the western part of the state has been leaking oil, gas and water since Thursday.

The Oil and Gas Division said 300 barrels of oil and water have been contained and recovered at the well location. They described the incident as a mechanical failure at a wellhead.

An unknown amount of mist also moved off of the well location. Regulators said they are trying to figure out where the mist settled.

But they also said there is no immediate health risk.

The well is about 4 miles northwest of Watford City and is operated by ExxonMobil subsidiary XTO Energy Inc.

In a statement issued late Thursday, Fort Worth, Texas-based XTO said it confirmed that its well was releasing "an oily water mixture and natural gas" at 10 a.m. on Thursday. The company did not provide any further updates on the situation Friday.

The Oil and Gas Division said the incident was first reported to them at 2 p.m. Thursday.

GOP turns to Ebola fears in campaign drive

By Charles Babington
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Republicans are tapping into Americans' fears about Ebola in their latest attacks on the competence of the Obama administration, adding a darker and more emotional edge to their main argument of the 2014 elections.

Friday's appointment of an "Ebola czar" did nothing to slow the criticism. GOP candidates see more opportunities in public alarm over the disease than in continuing to bash President Barack Obama's signature health care law in the campaign's final two weeks.

A chief question for Obama is whether to restrict travel from three West Africa countries bearing Ebola's brunt. Scores of GOP candidates are demanding such restrictions. Several Democrats — citing polls showing wide public support — are joining them.

Obama isn't going along. He says that travel bans would encourage people from affected areas to circumvent the efforts and then hide their recent whereabouts rather than submit to monitoring on U.S. soil. A few prominent Republicans, such as surgeon and former Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist and former Health and Human Services Secretary Mike Leavitt, agree with Obama.

But other Republicans predict the pressure for action will become too great.

"Travel restrictions are coming," Rep. Billy Long of Missouri declared at a congressional hearing on Ebola this week.

Candidates in two of the nation's tightest Senate races left their states to attend the heavily covered hearing, a sign of Ebola's political importance.

Rep. Bruce Braley, Iowa's Democratic Senate nominee, touted an Iowa company that's working on an Ebola vaccine.

GOP Rep. Cory Gardner of Colorado rejected the contention by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention that banning air travelers from West Africa would encourage people to enter the United States by methods harder to track. "That's like saying all children with chicken pox should stay in school so we know where they are," Gardner said.

His race against Democratic Sen. Mark Udall crystalizes the partisan divide on Ebola. In a recent debate, Udall said doctors and other health experts should decide whether to "close borders. ..Senators and congressmen shouldn't be making those decisions."

Obama names Ebola 'czar' as precautions expand

By Jim Kuhnhenn
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Barack Obama turned to a trusted adviser to lead the nation's Ebola response on Friday as efforts to clamp down on any possible route of infection from three Texas cases expanded, reaching a cruise ship at sea and multiple airline flights.

Facing renewed criticism of his handling of the Ebola risk, Obama will make Ron Klain, a former chief of staff to Vice President Joe Biden, his point man on the U.S. fight against Ebola at home and in West Africa. Klain will report to national security adviser Susan Rice and to homeland security adviser Lisa Monaco, the White House said.

Meanwhile, the World Health Organization admitted to mistakes of its own in failing to contain the outbreak still spreading out of control in Liberia, Sierra Leone and Guinea.

"Nearly everyone involved in the outbreak response failed to see some fairly plain writing on the wall," the U.N. health agency said in a draft internal document obtained by The Associated Press. The response was marred by incompetency and ineffective bureaucracy, the document says, and experts should have realized that traditional containment methods wouldn't work in an African region with porous borders and broken health systems.

Under pressure from Republican lawmakers, Obama on Thursday said that he was not "philosophically opposed" to considering restricting travel to the U.S. from the three Ebola-stricken West African nations. But he said health and security experts continue to tell him that the screening measures already in place for travelers are more effective.

White House spokesman Josh Earnest on Friday reaffirmed the White House's current opposition to such restrictions.

"At this point, if our core priority is protecting the American public, then we're not going to put in place a travel ban," he said.

Government officials said early Friday that they had been seeking to remove from a Caribbean cruise ship a Dallas health care worker who handled an Ebola lab specimen, although she has shown no signs of infection for 19 days. But the ship did not get clearance to dock in Cozumel, Mexico, on Friday, a day after officials in Belize would not allow the woman or her spouse to leave, a Carnival Cruise Lines spokeswoman said.

The cruise line said the ship was now on the way to its home port of Galveston, Texas, for its originally scheduled return of Sunday morning. The cruise company said that the woman, a lab supervisor traveling with her spouse, remained in isolation "and is not deemed to be a risk to any guests or crew."

Still, under new tighter travel rules placed on the staff of a Dallas hospital where two nurses caught Ebola from a Liberian patient, the woman would not have been permitted to be on the ship.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says Ebola isn't contagious until symptoms appear. Ebola isn't spread through the air like the flu; people catch it by direct contact with a sick person's bodily fluids, such as blood or vomit.

Doctors at the National Institutes of Health in Maryland said that a Dallas nurse, Nina Pham, brought there for Ebola treatment was very tired but resting comfortably Friday in "fair" condition.

The second nurse to contract Ebola, Amber Vinson, was being treated at Emory University Hospital in Atlanta, as precautions related to her personal travel spiraled wider.

Bronchos send reeling Rebels to 0-2 in district play

By Len Hayward
lhayward@mrt.com

Bronchos	21
Rebels	10

ODESSA — Odessa High didn't break off any big plays for scores against Lee on Friday.

But the Bronchos broke out to an early lead and then held it the rest of the game as Lee's offense couldn't come up with the needed touchdowns and the defense never made the stop it needed in a 21-10 OHS victory at Ratliff Stadium. In simple terms it was how much of Lee's season has gone.

The Rebels had their chances throughout the night, including recovering an onside kick in the second half. But Lee didn't take advantage and was never able to close the gap on OHS for much of the game.

It was Lee's sixth straight loss, but more importantly the Rebels (1-6 overall) are in an 0-2 hole in District 3-6A and wondering what they have to do to get a win.

"It's key moments," Lee coach James Morton said. "Right before the half we have a chance to go in with some momentum, and then to start the second half on special teams, and we don't convert."

The Bronchos (3-4, 1-1) held a 14-7 lead at halftime but Lee found some momentum early in the third quarter. The Rebels put together a solid drive and cut the lead to 14-10 after a 20-yard Brady Roper field goal. And then Morton gambled with an onside kick and it worked as Dedrick Strambler grabbed the ball out of the air, setting Lee up at the OHS 49-yard line early in the fourth quarter.

But Lee couldn't convert on the opportunity as Wesley Hall was intercepted by Isaiah Garcia three plays later.

The Bronchos then took advantage of the turnover, marching 52 yards in 11 plays and ended when Dwayne Amayow snatched a 13-yard TD pass with 3:19 remaining in the third.

OHS had 234 yards of total offense as Sebastian Galindo rushed for 160 yards on 34 carries and had a pair of 1-yard touchdown runs. Quarterback Nick Adams was 10-of-13 yards for

Bobcats rally in 2nd half to top MHS

When the wheels fall off the wagon it often causes a big spill, and Midland High's crash Friday night in the third quarter against San Angelo Central was no exception.

Up 21-14 at halftime, the Bulldogs surrendered 21 unanswered points in the third quarter, skidding to a 35-21 loss to the Bobcat at Grande Communications Stadium.

San Angelo Central (6-1, 2-0 in 3-6A) dictated the pace of the third quarter on the first offensive play from scrimmage. Quarterback Braden Hucks scampered for a 57-yard run, slithering around multiple Midland High defenders along the way. A few plays later on third-and-goal, Hucks, despite being blasted on the throw, delivered a 12-yard screen pass to back Landon Sawyer, who rumbled for a score.

Midland High (4-3, 1-1 in 3-6A) received the ball with an opportunity to respond, but instead went three-and-out, which was something that proved thematic for Midland High the remainder of the half.

The Bobcats got the ball back and quickly scored again, eating up 65 yards in a tick over 2 minutes.

After another three-and-out on the next drive, the Bulldogs' defense recovered to force a Bobcat punt.

With the ball back and down only seven, Midland High seemed to be in solid position to mount a comeback. The only problem was, it didn't get the ball back.

Punter Davis Martin hit a high punt, and it bounded sharply into sophomore MHS punt returner Noah Marquez. Before any Bulldogs reacted, several Bobcats jumped on the ball to secure possession.

The pot hole that finally crashed the cart came on the next play, when Hucks tossed a 10-yard touchdown pass to Kaczarick Ware.

Midland High might not have been out of the game at that point, because the defense held strong and did not allow anymore points. But the Midland High offense could never sputter out of first gear, gaining only one first down the entire second half.

Throwing was the only way the Bulldogs could climb back in the game, but quarterback Ryan Goodrum, who played well in the first half, could not get anything going. He did not complete his first pass of the second half until there were less than six minutes remaining in the fourth quarter.

Mistakes plagued the Bulldogs for the fourth straight game. Goodrum threw a pick, and the special teams unit muffed a punt and a kick, both of which led directly to Central scores.

With the win, the Bobcats leap into solo first place in District 3-6A, while the Bulldogs fall into a four-way tie for second.

MCS (4-3 overall and 2-2 in district play) took a 28-27 lead into the half, but Prestonwood took over from there with a 43-yard score from Collin Whitaker with seven minutes left in the third. Less than two minutes later, Jonathan Heasley hit Hayden Clark for 51 yards and a 40-28 lead.

Quarterback Ryan Cash finished off the scoring with a 67-yard strike to Heasley with 3:24 to go in the fourth quarter.

Greenwood knew that it would have to match Sweetwater's offensive firepower if it was to have a chance on Friday night.

The Mustangs proved they were too much to handle, while Greenwood's offense sputtered in a 41-13 blowout by Sweetwater at J.M. King Memorial Stadium.

Greenwood coach Shad Hanna said he would have to watch film before he could be critical of his team but also tipped his hat to Sweetwater and the way it played.

"Sweetwater played really good tonight, they really did," Hanna said. "They executed well offensively and defensively, that's the best we've seen them play. I don't think we rose to the occasion tonight. We really got to do a good job of putting this behind us, because in the scheme of things this loss really doesn't matter in the district race. We got three good ones in a row to worry about as far as getting into the playoffs."

Before Greenwood (3-4, 1-1 in District 2-4A Division II) even had a first down, Sweetwater (7-0, 2-0) had already jumped out to a 29-0 lead in the first quarter that included an 80-yard touchdown pass from Kaegan Jeffrey to Michael Lawrence two plays into the Mustangs' first possession.

Banister home as Rangers manager

By Stephen Hawkins
Associated Press

ARLINGTON, Texas — Jeff Banister is a baseball lifer who calls Texas home. It's where he grew up and played his entire amateur career there before getting drafted.

Now the former catcher who got a pinch-hit single in his only major league at-bat, who was temporarily paralyzed from the neck down after a home-plate collision in junior college and who overcame bone cancer with multiple surgeries in high school is a big-league manager in the Lone Star State.

Banister was introduced Friday as the new manager of the Texas Rangers after 29 years in the Pittsburgh Pirates' organization as a player, coach and instructor at all levels.

"The best opportunities to come along are the ones you're not looking for," Banister said. "Have I prepared myself for this opportunity? Yeah, from the day that I stopped playing until now, I've truly dreamed and wanted to and tried to. I got to a point in my life that I told myself that I wasn't going to chase it. If it happened, it happened."

The 50-year-old Banister, who lives in the Houston area, was the bench coach the past four seasons for Pirates manager Clint Hurdle, whose only season as the Rangers' hitting coach was when they went to their first World Series in 2010. Banister's introduction came six weeks after manager Ron Washington's resignation for personal reasons.

Texas gave Banister a three-year contract with an option for a fourth season. The injury-ravaged Rangers are coming off a 67-95 season, their worst since 1985, after reaching the World Series in 2010-2011 and becoming a trendy postseason pick each year.

Banister got the job ahead of two other finalists, interim manager Tim Bogar and Cleveland Indians bullpen coach Kevin Cash.

Another of the eight candidates interviewed for the job was Rangers pitching coach Mike Maddux, who Banister met with Friday morning. He has also spoken with Bogar, the Rangers first-year bench coach who went 14-8 as interim manager, and hitting coach Dave Magadan. He didn't get into specifics on plans for his staff.

153 yards.

"This being a crucial game and not wanting to get into a 0-2 situation, we had our backs against the wall and I like how they responded," OHS coach Ron King said. "They ought to have some confidence going forward but they also need to continue to improve if they want to get into the playoffs."

Lee drove into OHS territory in the fourth quarter still with a chance to cut the leadb but were stopped on fourth down. Lee had 269 total yards as quarterback Wesley Hall rushed for 146 yards, including a 47-yard touchdown run, on 20 carries. Lee running back Aron Dobbins, meanwhile, was held to 26 yards on 14 carries.

"The key to the whole game was up front on offense, they controlled us and didn't ever allow us to get in sync with our run game," Morton said. "We were in search of that. Defensively in the first half, it was third downs. We had our chances to make plays, it was not complicated routes or schemes, but they just executed and did a better job than we did."

Odessa High broke out of the gate with two 75-yard scoring drives in the first half that put Lee on its heels early.

The first drive took just under five minutes and Galindo completed it with a 1-yard run with 7:41 left in the first quarter. Five minutes later, the Bronchos again put together a 75-yard drive, which was again capped by a 1-yard Galindo run with 2:18 remaining in the game.

In between, the Bronchos had a muffed punt that Lee took advantage of, as Lee quarterback Wesley Hall broke off a 47-yard run one play after the change of possession with 5:30 left in the first quarter.

Neither team, though, scored in the second quarter as OHS had a field goal go short with just over five minutes left, and then Lee had a field goal blocked at the end of the half to keep the score at 14-7.

BULLDOGS

chunks by the Bulldogs, but a poor 21-second stretch squandered what would otherwise have been a big lead and instead gave MHS only a 21-14 cushion at halftime.

Up 7-0 with 50 seconds left in the first quarter, the Bulldogs surrendered a 35-yard touchdown pass to Will Grindstaff, who made a catch with the Midland High cornerback nearly inside his shirt.

Then on the ensuing kickoff, Midland High muffed the catch and Central leaped on top of the ball. That's when the Bobcats took another shot over the top, resulting in a 22-yard Hucks pass to Landon Sawyer for a touchdown and a 14-7 lead.

Outside of that play, the Bulldogs largely controlled momentum. Goodrum threw an interception early, but he offset that with two touchdown passes of 40 and 18 yards to sophomore Courtney McMaryion. Goodrum also added a 23-yard touchdown run on a 3rd-and-22.

McMaryion exploded in the frame for 86 yards on four receptions. His second touchdown was of the spectacular variety, leaping to make a 18-yard TD catch on a fade pass next to the front-left pylon.

But the sophomore was blanketed in the second half, and he finished the game with the same number of yards and touchdowns.

That stat was a microcosm of the entire night for Midland High. Things were running smoothly, but when the team started to skid off the road, it could not swerve its way back.

ning I think that would have helped our confidence immensely," Hanna said. "I think that (long touchdown) shook us up a little bit."

Jeffrey and his wide receivers sliced and diced past Greenwood defenders as Sweetwater's aerial show could have rivaled any put on by the Commemorative Air Force at the airport.

"Our offense just executed," Sweetwater coach Shane Mobley said. "Kaegan Jeffrey threw the ball outstanding tonight. (Greenwood) did a good job of slowing our run game down, but tonight we opened up our passing game."

Jeffrey was almost masterful with his passes, while his receivers had enough speed and ran good enough routes that all the quarterback had to do was throw it in their direction and let them do the rest.

Jeffrey finished the game completing 19 of 26 passes for 358 yards, four touchdowns and one interception to go with one rushing touchdown in three quarters of work. Bray Amos was Jeffrey's go-to receiver with 10 catches and two touchdowns for 125 yards. Lawrence added three catches and one TD for 147 yards.

"(The receivers) find a way to get open," Mobley said. "Kaegan read the defense well and knew when to throw the ball."

Sweetwater's defense, which came in giving up 33.5 points per game, did its part as well as the Mustangs forced Greenwood into four three-and-outs in the first half on the way to a commanding 41-0 lead. The first three-and-out came after Greenwood perfectly executed an onside kick to open the game at midfield.

Greenwood was also forced to punt the ball away eight times.

"After last week, our defense felt like they had a little more to prove," Mobley said. "We wanted to stop the option game and wanted to stop their quarterback, for sure."

Greenwood avoided the shutout when it opened the second half with a 61-yard drive that culminated with a 13-yard touchdown pass from Zach Redwine to Fabian Madrid.

Redwine added a 1-yard TD run late in the fourth quarter.

Redwine finished with 157 yards on 15-of-28 passing to go with 48 yards rushing on 16 carries.

Greenwood hopes to shake this one off before heading to Fort Stockton next week.

Texas A&M wide receiver Ricky Seals-Jones, left, celebrates with teammate Kenny Hill after scoring a touchdown against South Carolina on Aug. 28 in Columbia, S.C. Seals-Jones and the Aggies travel to Tuscaloosa, Ala., today to face SEC foe Alabama.

A&M aims to recapture 2012 magic at Alabama

By Brent Zwerneman
Houston Chronicle

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — Receiver Ricky Seals-Jones saw a whole lot of tears in the crowd two years ago when Texas A&M played at Alabama — both from the home crowd and the visiting fans.

"It was a hostile crowd, but it took the breath out of that stadium when we won," Seals-Jones recalled.

As for then-sophomore receiver Malcome Kennedy's breathtaking, game-winning catch against the Crimson Tide?

"I was jumping up and down," Seals-Jones said, smiling.

All from his living room couch back home in Sealy, as a touted high school senior enamored with the Aggies.

"We're going to try and do that again this year," Seals-Jones promised of A&M trying to pull off a double-digit upset at Bryant-Denny Stadium.

The redshirt freshman Seals-Jones, like the rest of his underclassmen teammates, is making his first trip to storied Alabama, with the No. 21 Aggies and No. 7 Crimson Tide colliding starting 2:30 p.m. today on CBS.

"We're going to be ready for them," Alabama defensive end Jonathan Allen vowed.

The Crimson Tide (5-1, 2-1 SEC) certainly weren't two years ago, when surprising A&M and freshman quarterback Johnny Manziel roared to a 20-0 lead in the first quarter. No. 1 Alabama outscored the No. 15 Aggies 24-9 the rest of the way, but the damage had been done with both fan bases in tears afterward — tears of joy and tears of pain.

"I don't know that I have one particular memory that stands out," said A&M coach Kevin Sumlin, primarily because the Aggies made so many memories that clear day. "Other than being able to leave there with a smile on my face."

Manziel, who won the 2012 Heisman Trophy a month later based in big part on that indelible Nov. 10 day, connected with Kennedy for a 24-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter, an etched-in-Aggie-annals play that proved the difference against a program that still went on to win the national title that season.

"It's a touchdown catch that set me up for big things," said Kennedy, the team's unequivocal leader this season. "It's one of those catches that made me sure about myself."

Manziel, now a rookie with the Cleveland Browns, told Browns beat writers on Friday, "It's the day that changed my life forever."

Now, the Aggies are aiming to recapture some of that magic, after coming off two of the three worst losses of the three-season Sumlin era, 48-31 at Mississippi State two weeks ago and 35-20 a week ago against Mississippi at Kyle Field.

"That's something we talk about as team, whether you're winning or losing, the ability to trust the (talk) within the building," Sumlin said of trying to keep the team's confidence up during a rugged stretch. "You've got to be honest about where you are and have expectations within your program, no matter what outside expectations are."

The Aggies (5-2, 2-2) were ranked as high as sixth only two weeks ago before the two serious stumbles against SEC West foes. The division currently has four teams in the nation's top seven: No. 1 MSU, No. 3 Ole Miss, No. 6 Auburn and No. 7 Auburn.

A&M and Alabama also played a knock down battle a year ago at Kyle Field, with the Crimson Tide prevailing 49-42. While A&M has had its fair share of troubles moving the ball in the past two weeks, Alabama coach Nick Saban said he's still wary of what's been the SEC's top offense the past two seasons.

"We're going to certainly have to be at our best to try and get them stopped, and also control the ball on offense so they don't have it all the time," Saban said. "Those things are really critical in a game like this."

Speaking of critical, the Aggies will enter their first week off this season either on a three-game losing streak, or fresh off an upset victory at Alabama — just like two years ago.

"We're ready to go down there and shock them again," Seals-Jones said.

Texas Tech head coach Kliff Kingsbury claps during game against West Virginia in Lubbock on Oct. 11. The Red Raiders face Kansas today.

Struggling Tech takes on struggling Kansas; is a Red Raider win in sight?

OSCAR LEROY
oleroy@mrt.com

It's now or never for the Texas Tech football team.

With Kansas (2-4, 0-3) visiting Jones AT&T Stadium at 2:30 p.m. today, the Red Raiders (2-4, 0-3) will have an opportunity to snap not only a four-game losing streak but an eight-game losing streak in the Big 12 dating back to last season.

While Kansas has struggled for the past few seasons, and even got rid of head coach Charlie Weis earlier this year, Texas Tech is not in the best of shape either after losing a 37-34 heartbreaker to West Virginia last week on a last-second field goal.

Other than losing a game in the last second and watching a 14-point fourth-quarter lead slip away, probably the worst part for the Red Raiders is that they played one of their best overall games of the season and still found a way to lose.

"There were a couple of moments, especially in the first half, where the defense would step up and the offense would step up at the same time," Tech coach Kliff Kingsbury said. "So, we've got to continue to build off it, and hopefully that carries on throughout the season."

But as we have seen so many times this season, penalties, mistakes and the offense stalling at critical times contributed to the gut-wrenching defeat.

"I would rather lose by a 100 than one," sophomore quarterback Davis Webb said. "Just knowing that we left points on the board, especially when we had a chance to win that game and get our first win in the Big 12 Conference play, it was just not good."

Another ranked opponent in store for TCU

By Stephen Hawkins
Associated Press

FORT WORTH — No. 12 TCU is playing its third consecutive game against a ranked Big 12 opponent in what coach Gary Patterson has termed a "fun-packed October."

These are the kind of stretches the Horned Frogs (4-1, 1-1) expected after moving to the Big 12, and they are better prepared to keep up in their third season with a new up-tempo, spread offense.

"Well, it's exciting and demanding," Patterson said. "Before the season, I knew what October was about. ... We had talked about, you had to find a way to be 3-0 going into this, and you try to find a way, you're being realistic, try to be 2-2 (in October), hopefully be 4-0."

Or now 3-1.

The Frogs host No. 15 Oklahoma State (5-1, 3-0) today, giving them three consecutive top-15 opponents for the first time in school history. They have an October split so far after scoring 95 points and giving up 94, beating then-No. 4 Oklahoma 37-33 in their last home game before that wild 61-58 loss at now-No. 4 Baylor last weekend.

Oklahoma State coach Mike Gundy this week described his offense as "just very average" even though his Cowboys (5-1, 3-0) have averaged nearly 38 1/2 points in a five-game winning streak and join Baylor as the only teams 3-0 in league play.

Then again, since a season-opening 37-31 loss to defending national champion Florida State, the Cowboys have beaten FCS team Missouri State, Texas-San Antonio and the Big 12 trio at the bottom of the standings. Texas Tech, Iowa State and Kansas are all 2-4 overall with 0-3 league marks, and Oklahoma State needed Tyreek Hill's tiebreaking 99-yard kickoff return in the fourth quarter to beat the Jayhawks last Saturday.

Up-tempo era redefines which stats matter

By Steve Megargee
Associated Press

When Baylor's Bryce Petty threw for 510 yards last week to rally the Bears to a 61-58 victory over TCU, it marked the 12th time this season a quarterback has passed for at least 500 yards. That represents the most 500-yard passing performances in one season since at least 1996, the earliest year STATS has on record for that particular statistic. Nine different quarterbacks have produced those dozen 500-yard efforts.

Petty's big night came one week after Washington State's Connor Halliday threw for a Bowl Subdivision-record 734 yards in a 60-59 loss to California and four weeks after Bowling Green attempted 113 offensive plays — two shy of the FBS record — in a 45-42 victory over Indiana.

For some coaches, all these staggering numbers are redefining which stats matter and which aren't as relevant anymore.

"We don't even worry about yards," Arizona State coach Todd Graham said. "I don't think total yards really matter that much anymore with these fast-paced no-huddle offenses. In our offense, we're concerned with snaps. We'd like to have 90-plus snaps — definitely want to have 85-plus — and we want to score points. That's it. That's our whole deal."

This new era also has changed what scores are acceptable for a defense nowadays. For instance, Southern California ran 95 offensive plays in a 38-34 loss to Arizona State on Oct. 4. Graham didn't mind allowing 34 points under those circumstances, particularly since one of USC's touchdowns came on a punt return.

"If they run 85 snaps and you hold them to 35 points, you probably played pretty well," Graham said. "That's a lot of snaps and a lot of opportunities. That's what we're shooting for. We're trying to extend and create a fifth quarter. That's what you're seeing, is a fifth quarter being created by all these teams."

There already have been 15 instances this season of a team attempting at least 100 offensive plays in a game, according to STATS. Last year, there were only 16 all season. Since 1996, the record for that statistic is 20 in 2012.

Extending the game has made come backs much more common.

Baylor's rally from a 21-point, fourth-quarter deficit against TCU marked the fifth time this season a team had won a game after trailing by at least 20 points. There have been 33 comebacks of that magnitude since the start of the 2011 season, according to STATS. There were only 25 during the four-year stretch from 2007-10.

Arizona coach Rich Rodriguez, whose team rallied from 22 points down in a 49-45 victory over California, said the quality of the skill players has improved.

"Quarterbacks and receivers are coming out of high school so much more prepared in the passing game than ever before," he said. "A lot of it is because so many high school programs are doing such a great job of that and kids are playing 7-on-7 in the summer so they have a little bit of a concept of throwing the ball and catching the ball moreso coming into college than they've ever had."

Bowling Green coach Dino Babers uses a chess reference to discuss the impact of an up-tempo offense. Babers' teams have run more than 100 offensive plays in two games this season. Two years ago, Babers was coaching Eastern Illinois when his team and Murray State set a Championship Series single-game record by combining for 210 offensive plays in EIU's 50-49 overtime victory.

"You get unlimited time to make a move when you're playing a sit-down chess game between friends," Babers said. "But when you play tournament chess... whether your clock is on 30 seconds, 10 seconds, one minute, two minute or three minutes, every time you move, you hit a button that resets that clock. If your opponent doesn't move by the time that thing hops up, you get two moves in a row.

"That's what I like to (compare to) up-tempo offenses. The offense can do whatever they want and the defense can do whatever they want, but we're going to do it fast and we're going to make you make decisions fast. And if you don't make the right decision fast, we may move twice before you get the opportunity to do something with your defense."

How high will the Baylor-WVU score go?

By John Raby
Associated Press

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — Records do indeed get tossed into the scrap heap whenever Baylor and West Virginia get together. They just keep adding new ones.

The winner has reached 70 points and 800 yards of offense each time in their only two meetings, and another big offensive show could be in store today when No. 4 Baylor meets the Mountaineers. The teams are averaging a combined 1,175 yards of offense.

West Virginia quarterback Clint Trickett just hopes to have a chance to make a difference this time.

A year ago, Baylor had bolted to a 35-point lead in Waco before fans had gotten soda refills. The Bears ended up setting a Big 12 record with 864 total yards, breaking the mark of 807 that West Virginia had set against the Bears the year before.

And all Trickett could do was desperately try to keep up with Bryce Petty and the potent Baylor offense. Imagine scoring 42 points — and losing by 31.

"Not a fun one," Trickett said.

This time, Baylor and West Virginia are coming off last-second wins decided by field goals. Both had to come from far back — Baylor was down 21 against TCU with 11 minutes to go, and West Virginia trailed Texas Tech by 14 with seven minutes left.

It left both teams confident that any double-digit deficit can be erased — and no lead is safe.

"Especially with all the high-power offenses in the Big 12 conference," said West Virginia wide receiver Jordan Thompson. "People will generally quit when you get behind a certain amount of points, but this team didn't quit. We believed that we were going to win the game."

And West Virginia (4-2, 2-1 Big 12) believes it is has a chance this time against Baylor. The Mountaineers have produced a school-record five straight games with at least 500 yards of offense. Problem is, the defense has given up 500 yards in three of those games.

Baylor (6-0, 3-0) is trying to keep its perch atop the Big 12 standings — it's tied with Oklahoma State — and maintain a track toward the College Football Playoff.

After winning their first four games by an average of 43 points, the Bears haven't been as convincing of late. They didn't score on offense until the third quarter in an Oct. 4 win over Texas. Last week, TCU reeled off the first 10 points.

"I don't really know what to expect, but I just know we have to come out and start faster than what we have these past two weeks," said Baylor wide receiver Jay Lee.

FROM WIRE REPORTS

NO. 4 BAYLOR (6-0, 3-0 BIG 12) AT WEST VIRGINIA (4-2, 2-1) 11 A.M. (FS1)
Line: Baylor by 8 1/2.
Series Record: Tied 1-1
WHAT'S AT STAKE
The winner of the teams' two previous meetings scored at least 70 points, and another high-scoring game could be in store. Baylor is tied with Oklahoma State atop the Big 12 standings and cannot afford a letdown after a last-second win against TCU. The Bears earned blowout wins in their two other conference road games. West Virginia is looking to surpass its 2013 win total and faces its third top-five opponent this season.
KEY MATCHUP
Baylor's pass rush vs. the Mountaineers' offensive line. Give West Virginia QB Clint Trickett time to throw, and he's made defenses pay for it. Trickett is third nationally with 2,203 passing yards and has thrown for at least 300 yards in every game. Baylor is averaging 3.5 sacks while West Virginia is allowing two per game.
PLAYERS TO WATCH
Baylor: QB Bryce Petty. After throwing an interception that was returned for a touchdown with 11:38 left against TCU, Petty brought the Bears back from a 21-point deficit. He finished with a career-best 510 passing yards and six TDs.
West Virginia: WR Kevin White leads the nation with 888 receiving yards and is second with 62 receptions. He's had at least 100 yards in every game. The Mountaineers would like to find him in the end zone more. He has five of the team's 12 TD catches.
FACTS & FIGURES
The last time Baylor came to Morgantown in 2012, West Virginia won 70-63 in the highest-scoring game in Big 12 history. A year ago in Waco, Texas, Baylor had a conference-record 864 yards in a 73-42 win over the Mountaineers.
Baylor has the nation's most prolific offense at 623 yards per game and is averaging nearly 252 yards on the ground, led by Shock Linwood's 105 yards per game. West Virginia's offense has sputtered at times inside the opponent's 20-yard line. The Mountaineers have 11 TDs on 26 red-zone trips. ... West Virginia's two losses were to No. 11 Oklahoma and No. 7 Alabama.

NO. 15 OKLAHOMA ST. (5-1, 3-0 BIG 12) AT NO. 12 TCU (4-1, 1-1) 3 P.M. (FS1)
Line: TCU by 9.
Series Record: Oklahoma St. leads 13-9-2
WHAT'S AT STAKE
Oklahoma State, with No. 4 Baylor the only teams 3-0 in Big 12, has a five-game winning streak. But Cowboys' conference wins are against Texas Tech, Iowa State and Kansas — all 2-4, overall, 0-3 in league. TCU looks to bounce back from wild 61-58 loss at Baylor when the Horned Frogs blew a 21-point lead in final 11 minutes, after winning over then-No. 4 Oklahoma their last home game.
KEY MATCHUP
Oklahoma State WRs vs. TCU secondary. The Cowboys have five receivers with 13-18 catches, and another with three TDs among nine catches. The Frogs have more interceptions (nine) than touchdowns allowed (eight), and were giving up only 173 yards passing a game before Baylor's 510.
PLAYERS TO WATCH
Oklahoma State: Tyreek Hill has returned a kickoff for touchdown in each of the last two games, the first player in OSU history to do so in consecutive game. The junior has also rushed 38 times for 196 yards (5.2 yards per carry), caught 18 passes for 183 yards (10.2 yards per catch), averaged 8.7 yards on 17 punt returns and 28.1 yards on 16 kickoff returns.
TCU: LB Paul Dawson leads the Big 12 with 11 tackles per game, including 18 stops and two sacks last week against Baylor. His 41-yard interception return for a touchdown was the winning score vs. Oklahoma.
FACTS & FIGURES
TCU plays its first home game matching two top-15 teams since 1984, when the No. 12 Frogs lost 44-23 to No. 10 Texas. ... Oklahoma State plays in Fort Worth for the first time since 1992. TCU went to Stillwater its first two years as Big 12 member, losing both games. ... First-year TCU co-offensive coordinator Doug Meacham played at Oklahoma State, where he was a teammate of Cowboys coach Mike Gundy, from 1986-87. Meacham was an assistant on Gundy's coaching staff from 2005-12.

NO. 21 TEXAS A&M (5-2, 2-2 SEC) AT NO. 7 ALABAMA (5-1, 2-1) 2:30 P.M. (CBS)
Line: Alabama by 11 1/2.
Series Record: Alabama leads 4-2.
WHAT'S AT STAKE
Alabama needs a win to keep its hopes of a Southeastern Conference title and College Football Playoff berth intact. Texas A&M is trying to stop a two-game losing streak, with the losses coming to No. 1 Mississippi State and No. 3 Mississippi.
KEY MATCHUP
Alabama's running game against Texas A&M's defense. RBs T.J. Yeldon and Derrick Henry were held in check against Arkansas but are still a formidable duo. If they can power their way to first downs, the Tide can try to play keep-away from Texas A&M's potent offense. The Aggies rank 11th in the SEC in rush defense and have given up 200-plus yards on the ground three times.
PLAYERS TO WATCH
Texas A&M: QB Kenny Hill leads the nation's No. 3 passing offense but has five interceptions and a fumble in the last two games. Hill needs just 322 yards to reach 3,000 in total offense. Alabama's secondary is inexperienced and was burned by Johnny Manziel for 464 yards and five touchdowns last season.
Alabama: WR Amari Cooper cooled off from a torrid start with just two catches against Arkansas, but has 38 more receptions than any other Tide player. He faces a Texas A&M defense that ranks 50th nationally against the pass.
FACTS AND FIGURES
Texas A&M leads the SEC in scoring and total offense, averaging 43.9 points and 564.9 yards per game. Alabama has one of the league's stingiest defenses, giving up 15.3 points and 277.2 yards on average. ... Alabama's 66 rushing yards against Arkansas matched the Tide's fewest since 2010 against South Carolina. ... Tide center Ryan Kelly is doubtful with a knee injury. ... The Aggies are 6-2 in road games against Top 25 teams under coach Kevin Sumlin, including a 2012 win at Bryant-Denny Stadium. Alabama is 26-10 against ranked opponents since the start of the 2008 season. ... Texas A&M DE Myles Garrett needs one sack to break Jadeveon Clowney's SEC freshman record of eight.

KANSAS (2-4, 0-3 BIG 12) AT TEXAS TECH (2-4, 0-3) 2:30 P.M. (FSSW)
Line: Texas Tech by 14
Series Record: Texas Tech leads 14-1
WHAT'S AT STAKE
Texas Tech is trying to avoid a ninth straight Big 12 loss going back to last season. The Red Raiders last lost nine straight conference games 30 years ago. Kansas is also looking for its first conference win this season and the first for interim coach Clint Bowen.
KEY MATCHUP
Texas Tech offense vs. Kansas defense. The Red Raiders, with the nation's 10th-best passing offense and third best in the Big 12 (337.5 yards per game), are looking to build on a consistent rhythm they had in the first half last week against West Virginia behind QB Davis Webb and WRs Jakeem Grant and Bradley Marquez. The Jayhawks have intercepted six passes and allowed nine passing touchdowns to tie for 53rd nationally in pass defense at 222.7 yards per game.
PLAYERS TO WATCH
Texas Tech: Webb is nursing a left ankle he sprained two weeks ago and reinjured in the 37-34 loss to West Virginia. He says he'll be fine for the Kansas game. He's thrown for 1,951 yards and 19 touchdowns but with 11 interceptions.
Kansas: RB Tony Pierson got more work out of the backfield last week against the Cowboys as Bowen attempts to find ways to get his biggest playmaker the ball. Pierson began his career as a running back but had been working as a wide receiver the past couple seasons.

IOWA STATE (2-4, 0-3 BIG 12) AT TEXAS (2-4, 1-2) 7 P.M. (LONGHORN NETWORK)
Line: Texas by 12 1/2
Series Record: Texas leads 10-1
WHAT'S AT STAKE
Loser of two straight, Texas is now facing a desperate bid for bowl eligibility in coach Charlie Strong's first season. The Longhorns need four wins over their final six games to get there, but home hasn't been particularly friendly in recent years. Since 2010, Texas is just 7-10 at home in the Big 12.
KEY MATCHUP
Texas defensive line vs. Iowa State QB Sam Richardson. The Longhorns have mostly made life miserable for opposing quarterbacks, with 21 sacks this season. Get Richardson on the run and the Cyclones are likely in trouble.
PLAYERS TO WATCH
Iowa State: Kickoff and punt returner Jarvis West is a scoring threat. He returned a punt for a TD against Kansas State. Texas special teams have been bad and surrendered a first-quarter kickoff return touchdown last week against Oklahoma. Special teams touchdowns could spark an Iowa State upset.
Texas: Just when Longhorns fans were calling for backup Jerrod Heard, starting quarterback Tyrone Swoopes played his best game of the season in the loss to Oklahoma. But he has to be convincing in a win to really change the minds of Texas fans.

NO. 14 KANSAS STATE (4-1, 2-0 BIG 12) AT NO. 11 OKLAHOMA (5-1, 2-1) 11 A.M. (ESPN)
Line: Oklahoma by 8.
Series Record: Oklahoma leads 72-18-4
WHAT'S AT STAKE
It's essentially an elimination game for playoff contention. Neither team can afford a second loss. Neither has defeated a ranked team this season, so they both seek a quality win to boost their resumes. Both have lost to ranked teams — Oklahoma lost 37-33 at TCU; Kansas State lost 20-14 at home to Auburn.
KEY MATCHUP
Oklahoma rushing offense vs. Kansas State run defense. Oklahoma freshman Samaje Perine is the Big 12's No. 2 rusher with 94.7 yards per game, but Kansas State allows just 81.4 yards rushing per game, lowest in the conference. Oklahoma is better at hitting the deep ball to Sterling Shepard when its running game works.
FACTS & FIGURES
Oklahoma has a 12-7 record against Kansas State coach Bill Snyder. ... Shepard ranks second in the Big 12 with 119 yards receiving per game. ... Oklahoma has scored on 23 of its 24 trips to the red zone. ... Kansas State leads the Big 12 in time of possession. ... Kansas State has the fewest average penalty yards in the conference. ... The Sooners are 7-0 the past two years when DB Zack Sanchez intercepts a pass.

SOUTHERN MISS. (2-4, 0-2 C-USA) AT NORTH TEXAS (2-4, 0-2) 6 P.M. (AMERICAN SPORTS NETWORK)
Line: North Texas by 11
Series Record: Tied 4-4
WHAT'S AT STAKE
North Texas, playing its only home game out of four in October, tries to avoid its first three-game conference losing streak under fourth-year coach Dan McCarney. Southern Miss comes off a bye week and makes its first trip to Denton since 1961, and first of three games in Texas the rest of this season.
FACTS & FIGURES
The Mean Green are averaging 32.2 points per game, on pace for the highest average in school history. They averaged 31.8 points per game last season, and have never averaged more than 30 points a game in consecutive seasons. ... Despite losing at Middle Tennessee in its last game Oct. 4, Southern Miss had season highs with 31 points and 537 total yards. ... North Texas had its streak of 21 consecutive games forcing a turnover snapped at UAB last week. That was the fourth-longest such streak nationally. ... The Golden Eagles defense has six interceptions this season, already matching last year's total.

CINCINNATI (2-3, 0-1 AMERICAN ATHLETIC) AT SMU (0-5, 0-1) 2:30 P.M. (CBSSN)
Line: Cincinnati by 14
Series Record: Cincinnati leads 1-0
WHAT'S AT STAKE
In the second American Athletic Conference game for both teams, one will break a losing streak. Cincinnati has lost three in a row since opening the season with consecutive victories, while SMU is still looking for its first win — and to end a seven-game skid that goes back to last year.
FACTS & FIGURES
In its 45-24 loss at East Carolina, SMU doubled its total scoring output from the first four games, when the Mustangs had only one touchdown and two field goals. ... SMU opponents have scored at least 43 points in every game this season. ... Both Cincinnati and SMU were both in Conference USA in the past, but not at the same time. Cincinnati was in C-USA from 1995 through the 2004-05 school year, the year before SMU joined through 2012-13 school year.

things against the Mountaineers, their biggest enemy right now seems to be themselves.

With so much youth at key positions — especially on defense — Kingsbury and the Red Raiders have admitted that this team has a lot of growing up to do. They better do it quick because this season is slipping away.

The Red Raiders said learning how to finish strong would be a start toward turning things around.

"I think you've got to finish a game to have that success and feel good about yourself," Kingsbury said. "We didn't get that done last week."

"That's something we've got to figure out, because we obviously haven't done it this year," the coach added. "But, I think starting fast is key in any game. So, hopefully we can continue to do that and put together everything at the end."

But in order for the Red Raiders to get the finish they want, they know they must have more than just a handful of players step up.

While Webb and future Texas Tech quarterbacks will be criticized until the end of time, he needs other offensive players around him to give him help so he won't have to feel the pressure of doing it all himself. It's easy to see that the loss of the 6-foot-5, 265-pound Jace Amaro — a security blanket for any quarterback — was huge along with the veteran presence of Eric Ward.

Both Kingsbury and offensive coordinator Eric Morris thought that they could offset that loss with speed at all four receiver positions. While they do have speed, most of them have been inconsistent as a constant shuffling of players can attest. Speed is only an asset if you can block, tackle or catch the football.

The most consistent receiver that everybody can agree on is Odessa High grad and senior Bradley Marquez.

"Really impressed with how Brad played," Kingsbury said. "He's the one constant that each and every week you know what you're going to get blocking, catching the ball, running great routes, playing 80, 90 snaps a game."

Defensively, they desperately need more players to step up. Against West Virginia, defensive coordinator Mike Smith said that eight defensive players were in on more than 100 plays between defense and special teams.

While players say they are well conditioned and made no excuses to giving up 17 points in the final 5:55, it was obvious that playing that many snaps took its toll.

"To me that's a will. You've got to have the will to finish," senior linebacker V.J. Fehoko said. "Football is four quarters four over time, but the team that wants it the most will probably win the game. Crucial, crucial penalties and guys sometimes not playing their assignment, it ended up costing us big yardage and first downs and even led to a touchdown. So once we eliminate those things, I think we'll become a great defense."

The Red Raiders also know they need to start piling up the wins or preparing for next year might come sooner than they had planned.

"I feel that if there's a time to pick it up and to be become that complete team on all three sides of the ball, it's going to be now," Fehoko said. "We need to get better in a short period of time, and we need to win ballgames, that's the bottom line."

Power rankings

Even with some exciting games last weekend, including the six-man-like 61-58 win by Baylor over TCU, there wasn't much movement in the latest Big 12 power rankings: 1. Baylor; 2. Kansas State; 3. TCU; 4. Oklahoma; 5. Oklahoma State; 6. West Virginia; 7. Texas; 8. Texas Tech; 9. Iowa State; 10. Kansas.

Woman objects to the accusation that she's a "status digger"

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I have been seeing "Tony" for a few weeks. He is kind, caring and will make a great boyfriend, husband and father someday. My problem with him is he thinks I'm a "status digger." (It's similar to a gold digger, but he means I care only about someone's standing in the community.) His rationale is based on my friendships.

I come from a privileged background. While some acquaintances in my circle are spoiled and superficial, my close friends and I are not. Because I grew up here, it was only natural I'd date guys from a similar background. While I was not opposed to dating outside my social circle, the opportunity never presented itself.

Abby, I have never measured a guy because of his position in society. The thought never occurred to me. I admit I would probably be more inclined to date someone from a similar background because that's what I'm familiar with, but I don't think this makes me a social climber, status digger or elitist.

How should I address this with Tony? I'm afraid our relationship will end if he can't see me for who I really am. — JUST ME IN HOUSTON

DEAR JUST ME: Tony may come from a blue-collar background. Because he perceives you and your friends as having had so much given to you, he may feel inadequate, so he's putting you on the defensive by accusing you of being solely interested in social status. Of course, that's stereotyping, and it isn't fair to you. Because someone comes from inherited status/wealth there is no guarantee that it won't disappear. That's the reason some women prefer self-made men to those from a privileged background.

You and Tony should have a frank talk. When you do, suggest that before he assumes any more preconceptions about you are true, he should get to know you — because if he doesn't, he will miss out on someone who is not only very nice, but who thinks HE has a lot to offer.

DEAR ABBY: When I was in my 20s, I was involved in a long-term relationship with a married man. I became pregnant, we ended the relationship and I gave birth to an amazing, intelligent and well-adjusted son, "Kyle." There has been no contact with my former lover, and we have no mutual acquaintances.

Now that Kyle is an adult, he has expressed an interest in contacting his father. He is curious, but doesn't want to disrupt his father's life. Kyle doesn't feel he missed out by not meeting his father; he simply wonders what he is like. The man is easy to locate on social media because he has an unusual last name.

I don't want to see my son hurt by rejection or lack of interest from this man. Should I make the initial contact? If so, what would be the best way to do it? — PROTECTIVE MOM IN TENNESSEE

DEAR PROTECTIVE MOM: Your impulse may be to protect your son, but Kyle should make the contact. When he does, he should tell the man that you are his mother, and that he would like to meet him for no other reason.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have: 5-dynamic; 4-positive; 3-average; 2-so-so; 1-difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Oct. 18, 2014:

This year you will be able to better understand the people in your immediate environment. You also can see situations with greater perspective and knowledge. You become even more valued as a friend, business associate and loved one because of this newfound depth. If you are single, you will meet several potential suitors just in your local travels. Be open to different personalities. If you are attached, you might want to try to create a more stringent budget for the two of you. See how you and your sweetie feel about saving more. Aim to fulfill more of your mutual lifetime goals. VIRGO can be fussy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ You are likely to tell it as it is, but be careful — a child easily could claim to have his or her feelings hurt. You might note a distance or coolness from friends you don't see often. Give into impulsiveness, and it probably will benefit you. Tonight: Let your hair down.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★ Make it OK to take it slow today. When the right invitation heads your way, you won't want to say "no." You recognize the importance of the people in your day-to-day life. Tonight: Be spontaneous, yet remain respectful of someone else's feelings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★ You often don't know when or how to censor yourself. Whether it is regarding someone's reaction or simply your awareness, you'll opt to be in a less dominant position in a conversation. You know others will ask you what you think. Tonight: Happiest at home.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★ Be aware of an active need to splurge. Today you'll want to take a gander at the budget and the bills before you bounce out the door. Your creativity emerges when trying to maximize your funds and tame your spending. You can do it! Tonight: Let someone else treat.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ You'll smile from ear to ear at the thought of having even a lazy few hours. You could be surprised by what someone at a distance shares with you. Without pushing for it, you are likely to get the confirmation you were hoping to receive. Tonight: Out and about.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ You'll want to rethink a decision that surrounds a personal matter. You won't want to discuss it, as you might not feel comfortable with everything you hear. Honor what you want, and you will see everything fall into place. Tonight: On a roll.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★ Make the most of the daylight hours, when everyone seems more friendly and outgoing. Pressure could build at home until you deal with a family issue; be willing to state how you feel about someone else's attitude. Tonight: Where you want to be.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★ Zero in on what is important to you. Your nerves could be making you feel much more irritated by someone's intrusive call than you usually would be. Take some time to think through your reactions; you might choose to respond differently. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You might want to rethink a personal matter that could affect you in the long run. Everyone has opinions, and you are likely to hear them whether you want to or not. Make good choices, and don't feel like you have to explain anything. Tonight: Find your friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★ You could spend a good part of the day dealing with someone who has very strong opinions. You will never see eye to eye, but you might want to respect each other's positions. An older friend could dominate the scene. Tonight: Be willing to take off at the drop of a hat.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ You could be a lot tenser than you realize. The answers might not appear as easily as you would like them to. Let others express their thoughts. You have explained yours already, but it seems as though they were not heard. Tonight: Spend some quality time with a special friend.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ You'll want to defer to someone else, but you still might need to take the lead in handling some details of another facet of your life. You could lose your sense of timing if you don't pace yourself. A loved one will make it clear how he or she feels. Tonight: Opt for togetherness.

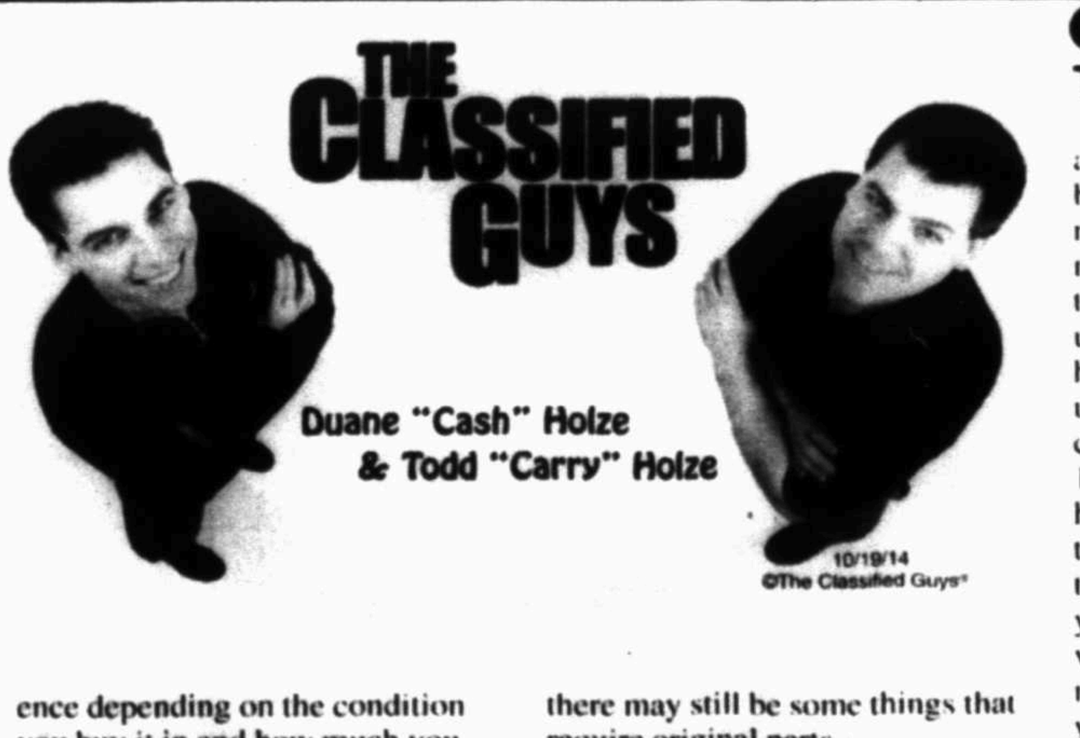
Ask the Guys



Dear Classified Guys,
Ever since my wife and I went to a classic car show, she's been obsessed with wanting a 1950's classic truck. She thinks it's the perfect vehicle to put our two Labs in the back and go for a Sunday drive. Since I'm the guy who has to fix the cars, I'm thinking the dogs look just fine riding around in our new mini-van. At least I can easily get the car repaired or buy the parts when I need them. For the past few weeks she's been circling ads for old trucks and pushing me to buy one. I think she's even convinced the dogs that it's a good idea. Before I give in to all of them, can you tell me how hard it is to get an older/antique truck repaired? I can do the work myself, but can you really find parts for these things?

Cash: If your wife has already convinced the dogs, it sounds like the decision is pretty much made.

Carry: And we can see why. Antique trucks do have a great look to them. However, you probably don't need more people pressuring you to get one.

Cash: Owning an antique truck can be a very enjoyable experience depending on the condition you buy it in and how much you enjoy car repair or restoration. If you find one that has been completely restored and kept it in great condition, then the repairs should be minimal and fairly simple.

Carry: With many classic cars, original parts are limited. Fortunately, the Internet has made finding them a lot easier. It's simply a matter of time, energy and cost.

Cash: The model truck you're looking to buy and how it was restored will play a large role in the availability of parts. Some items can be retrofited with more readily available relacements, but there may still be some things that require original parts.

Carry: Although your local auto parts store may not stock specialty parts, there are stores throughout the country that deal in nothing but antique cars. However, you should be prepared to pay the added expense.

Cash: In the end, you and your wife are the only ones who can decide if it's worth owning a 1950's truck. However, if you choose to buy one, be sure to bring your two Labs along to pick it out!

Fast Facts

Towed You

The sight of a tow truck can be a welcomed relief when you're broken down on the side of the road. For those of us who have needed one, we owe our thanks to Ernest Holmes Sr. He came up with idea in 1916 when he helped a friend retrieve his car using three poles, a pulley and a chain hooked to the frame of a 1913 Cadillac. After patenting his invention, he began selling tow trucks to garages that needed to tow disabled vehicles. Today you can find over 5,800 motor vehicle towing companies nationwide to help you when you're stranded.

It's a Classic

When it comes to antique vehicles, personal preference plays a major role in choosing the right car for you. However, it turns out that some classic cars draw more attention than others. According to an analysis performed by BuyClassicCars.com, the top three most popular domestic classic cars are the 1967-69 Chevy Camaro, the 1965-66 Ford Mustang and the 1962-65 Chevy Impala. For foreign cars, it was the VW beetle, Triumph TR3 and the Austin Mini. It seems many of us have similar tastes after all.

Name Game

I believe that nothing makes a woman feel more pampered than a good pedicure. So I started my own business to give pedicures in people's homes.

My husband helped me start it up and even bought me a small truck to house all of my supplies for traveling. Before we had the truck custom painted, we stayed up for days trying to come up with the perfect name for the business.

At first my husband suggested "Pedicure To-Go", but it wasn't snazzy enough. Then he thought of "Salon on Wheels", but again it just didn't seem right. Finally, just before bed one night he found the perfect name. Jumping from his chair, he yelled, "I got it! Let's call it the 'Toe-Truck'!"

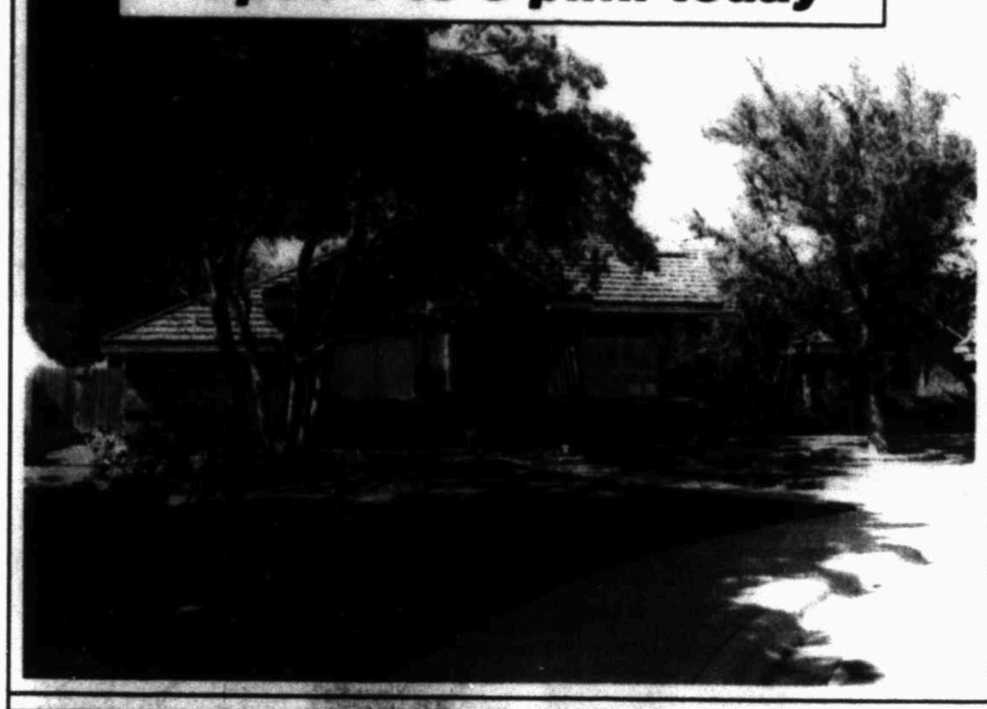
5312 Chesley Court - $719,000

Open 1 to 3 p.m. today



Sandy Hanson of Legacy Real Estate will be on hand to answer questions and show you the great features of this home built for sheltering your family, entertaining your friends and enjoying the good life.

To schedule a visit, telephone Sandy Hanson at (432) 618-0613 or (432) 638-3819. You may also email her at sandy@sandyjhanson.com.

If location, style and amenities matter to you, 5312 Chesley Court in Green Tree North, might be your top choice.

This home, built in 1992, is a family-size wonder with sequestered bedrooms and plenty of bathrooms, a well-arranged updated kitchen and a yard to enjoy every day.

Located in Green Tree North on a sheltered cul-de-sac, Midland Drive and Holiday Hill Road are a few turn signals away and provide straight shots to commercial hubs and shopping. That said, open spaces and West Texas views are just a peek over the fence for the best of both worlds.

Chesley Court is a treed street and 5312 Chesley is home to oak, pecan, magnolia and pine trees. Sage, oleander and ornamental grasses are Texas friendly.

The living room is both serene and comfortable with space to entertain and space to relax. Paired with a formal dining room, the grand room construction means visiting and dining in style with the kitchen a few steps away.

The kitchen is a cook's delight with abundant cabinetry in a hand rubbed finish, granite counter tops, a coffee bar, work desk and Kenmore Elite appliances. The breakfast area adjoins the family room, which is blessed by a wood burning fireplace and bookshelves. Dignified crown molding completes the style.

A pocket door opens onto a short hallway leading to a carpeted guest bedroom and tiled bathroom.

Also adjacent to the family room is game room with wet bar, fridge and hearty stone fireplace. Doors open to the patio and pool and access a half bath for swimmers.

The carpeted master bedroom adjoins a tiled master bath that is filled with wow factors. Recently redone with teal glaze on the walls, granite counter tops, dropped shelving for air-cleaning plants, an oversize glass shower and skylight, the closets will surprise you. The U-shaped construction allows access directly to the outside hot tub, while providing access to 16 oversize built-in drawers and eight cabinet doors to store hot tub and pool accessories.

Children's bedrooms are joined by a Jack-and-Jill bath and if you have a princess, so much the better. Think pink on one side of the bath and think young prince on the other side with coffee, ecru and blue paint.

Outside, the pool with slide is surrounded by stamped Kool Deck to deflect strong summer sun. An oversize patio and pergola cooled by a pair of ceiling fans await.

Thinking practically, this home boasts a 40-year Decra roof, plantation shutters for interior cool, a dog run and extra space for offices, play or pets.

New homeowners may check with Green Tree Country Club for membership opportunities.

The new owner's bonus: Iconic West Texas views of blazing sunsets and distant pump jacks.

Bedrooms: 4, including sequestered master and guest bedrooms; Baths: 3 full, 1 half bath; Living areas: 3; Size: 4,421 square feet; Garage: 3 stalls.
