TENT-MAKERS

Recent Rains Mean Normal Wheat Crop

Rains throughout the Pampa - Canadian - Wheeler-Lipscomb area have maintained prospects for a normal wheat crop, the Wheat Harvest Control Office at Amarillo reported today.

Conditions range from excellent in the Lipscomb area to fair around Wheeler, and the harvest should begin in this area about June 18. No labor or equipment shortages are expected outside the normal migration pattern.

Recent rains have also "practically assured" an average yield of 8 to 10 bushels per acre from dry-land acreage in the Amarillo - Vega-Canyon - Claude - Panhandle area. Irrigated acreage is expected to yield an average of 30 bushels per acre. The harvest should begin June 18.

In the important upper Panhandle, north of the Canadian River, the late freeze, green bugs and drouths have caused abandonment of approximately 125,000 acres of wheat which has occurred mostly in northern Hansford county and southeastern Ochiltree.

The remaining 857,000 acres to be harvested should produce a fair yield. Harvest is expected to begin June 20.

Legislators Face Long, Hot Summer

By LLOYD LARRABEE
United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI)—Legislators who cooled their heels during the regular session of the 56th legislature return to their desks today in special session, faced with the possibility of a long, hot summer of lawmaking.

Gov. Price Daniel called the 30-day overtime session to enable lawmakers to accomplish what they failed to do during the regular session. Both chambers were expected to be brought to order at 11 a.m.

The task: Pass appropriations and tax bills and retire the state's mounting deficit.

Daniel said he felt legislators can accomplish the task in 30 days. If not, another special session would be inevitable.

Wants Property Bill

The governor blamed the "donothingness" of the regular session on the efforts of gas lobbyists to block passage of his tax program in favor of a general sales tax.

Along with spending and taxing bills, Daniel told lawmakers he wanted them to pass his "bookkeeping" bill and a bill to allow the state to claim abandoned bank accounts and property. Both are deficit retirement plans and both died during the regular session.

His tax and appropriation recommendations will be the same ones he handed lawmakers at the start of the regular session.

Daniel called for appropriations from the general revenue fund totaling some 329 million dollars in new money. He said the money could be raised by levying a severance beneficiary tax on natural gas, increasing motor vehicle sales taxes and the levy on liquor, and adding new taxes to cigars and tobacco, plus eliminating the tax exemption on beer and cigarets sold to service men.

Lawmakers refused his plan during the regular session. The House finally passed a skeleton tax bill that would raise some 20 million dollars and sent it to the Senate where it died in committee.

Second Session Likely

Both chambers wrote appropriations bills, but neither side would agree on spending. The bill died.

The "bookkeeping" bill and a measure increasing corporation franchise taxes for one year cleared the House as a means of solving the deficit, but died in the Senate. The House killed the abandoned property bill.

A second special session to handle the Hale-Aikin program, featuring an $800-a-year raise for teachers, looms as a possibility. The Senate killed the program during the regular session on grounds they wouldn't spend any more money until they took care of present needs.

Daniel denied he would call a special session for the Hale-Aikin plan, but added cryptically "I hope we can pass Hale-Aikin before I leave office." This would mean either a special session or a bid for a third term in office.

Reds Hope For Allied Break

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States today formally denied any willingness to "sell out Berlin" in a separate deal at the Geneva East-West conference. The statement was made to combat a new Soviet drive to split up the Western package peace plan.

U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding, in a declaration made in the name of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany, said "Berlin cannot be settled in isolation."

The statement was issued to combat the shock and dismay brought by the statement of an American official Sunday night that the United States would consider an "interim arrangement" on West Berlin if Russia firmly refuses to accept the peace plan as a package.

The unexpected disclosure indicated a split was developing among the Allies with France and West Germany especially upset by the American statement. Britain was believed more or less to follow the American viewpoint.

Soviet-British Talk

The Allies had insisted all last week that the package was an "inseparable whole." It called for settlement of Germany's future and European security as well as Berlin.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko moved fast to take advantage of the Allied difficulties. He asked for and got a one-hour secret conference with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd at the time Geneva was swept with reports of a Western crackup.

The American chief spokesman replied at midday to the talk of a crack. Shortly after Western deputies met to discuss the situation, Berding issued this reaffirmation of Allied solidarity:

"Reports that the Western delegations have decided to break off the Western peace plan and concentrate on a settlement of Berlin are incorrect.

"The Western foreign ministers expect to explain in greater detail the significance of the Western peace plan and to demonstrate to the Soviet government that the Western proposals have gone far toward meeting its views."

The American diplomatic slip already had touched off a furor of conference comment. The French were described by a delegation source as "shocked and dismayed" that the Russians were tipped off in advance to Western tactics.

Observers said Gromyko now would press harder than ever for negotiations on isolated issues of the Western package plan.

The "unbreakable" Western plan was unveiled Thursday by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. American officials emphasized today the West's objective remained the same—an "unbreakable" package wrapping up Berlin elections, German reunification, European security and global arms cuts.

But the American officials admitted the West ultimately may have to settle for an "interim"

ACTIVITIES SET AS SCHOOL YEAR ENDS

Awards assemblies Friday will be the main end-of-school activities for students in Pampa's two junior high schools. High school activities will get underway Sunday with baccalaureate services.

Carver High School will hold its commencement May 27, one day before the PHS graduation.

A high - ranking boy and girl will be named at each junior high school awards assembly. The Robert E. Lee ceremony is slated for 1 p.m. and the Pampa Junior High program for 1:15. After such activities as the reading of the class prophecy and the class will, good citizens and all-around girls and boys will be named.

An outstanding boy will receive the Fred A. Hobart award and a girl will receive the Business and Professional Women's citizenship prize. At Pampa Junior High School, Phyllis Dalsing will be recognized as the winner of the Gray County spelling bee.

Rev. E. Felton Nelson, pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church, Pampa, will speak at the Carver baccalaureate service at 3 p.m. Sunday. The PHS baccalaureate will take place at 5 p.m. The speaker will be Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of Pampa's First Baptist Church.

The Harvester Band and A Capella Choir will again join in their hair-raising version of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," according to L. J. Edmondson, PHS principal. The band, led by W. E. Tregoe, will also play the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" as a processional march and Wagner's "Tannhauser March" as a recessional. These numbers will be repeated at the graduation May 28.

Some 240 seniors will receive their diplomas at the Pampa High School commencement, set for 8 p.m. in the field house. Speakers will be Miss Virginia Vaughn, head of the foreign language department; Miss Helen Schafer, head speech teacher; Bob Jernigan, valedictorian; Kay Waggoner, salutatorian; and Paul Brown, senior class president.

Bill Byars, winner of the Sousa band award, will present an oboe solo.

Carver students will hear Rev. Walter Bingham, pastor of the Pine Street Christian Church, Tulsa, Okla. Citizenship awards will be presented to high school, junior high and elementary students. In addition, the Twentieth Century Club will present a scholarship award to a deserving high school senior.

Both graduations are set for 8 p.m.

J. C. Randall, Carver principal, has announced two other end-of-school events. Tonight at 8 the elementary department will present a three - act play, "Calling All Girls," directed by Marie Lois White.

The high school department will present a full-length play, "Hobgoblin House," at 8 p.m. Friday. The sponsors are Mrs. Alvis Felder Sanders and C. E. Petty.

Scouts Ready For Round-up

Eight Pampa area Girl Scouts and their trainer, Mrs. Marion Osborne, are set to attend the National Girl Scout Round - up July 2 in Colorado Springs, Colo. The Round-up annually is the high point in scouting.

The eight girls making the trip are Linda Belmont, Martha Kelley, Ann Duncan, Shirley Keach, Sylvia Grider, Kay Layne, Joan Thompson, Nora Wells. If an alternate is needed the patrol will invite Linda Barber.

Mrs. Osborne said the patrol will pitch tents with three other patrols, from Massachusetts, New York and Ohio. The 11-day round-up will begin July 2 and end July 12.

Man Survives 4 Days On Desert

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — A 46-year-old man, painfully injured in a small plane crash, described from his hospital bed today how he crawled for four days through the desert, living on cactus juice.

"I'm lucky to be alive, I guess," said Lonnie Davison. He crawled eight miles across the desert while suffering from a cracked verterbra and a broken ankle.

"I didn't have anything to eat and I'm sure dehydrated," he said. "It's no fun to be maimed out in the desert, crawling for your life."

Davison was injured Wednesday in the crash of a two-seater plane piloted by his friend, R. V. Powell 33, on a flight from Ray, Ariz., to here, a distance of about 70 miles. Both men are construction workers who commuted from Ray to their Tucson homes in Powell's plane.

Powell, critically injured, was brought from the wreckage of the craft to St. Mary's Hospital here Sunday after Davison crawled to a highway and was spotted by sheriff's deputies.

Powell, suffering from multiple fractures, a lacerated tongue and dehydration, was reported in poor condition.

Davison, a crane operator, said they were circling to gain altitude to fly over a mountain just after taking off when the plane went into a nose dive and crashed near Kearney, several miles from Ray.

At first he used his pocket knife to slash into the cactus plants so he could suck out some life-sustaining juices. The blade on his knife broke off in one cactus and he later had to use his hands to claw through the cactus' prickly exterior to get at the juice.

Deputies said temperatures in the desert varied from a night low of about 50 degrees to a daytime high near 100 degrees.

Two men participating in the air search were killed when their craft smashed into a power line near Ray on Thursday. They were William C. Rogers and George Shuler.

FBI Questioning Leads To Stroke

By CLIFF SESSIONS
United Press International

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—A white farmer was in serious condition today from a stroke suffered after FBI questioning in the M. C. Parker lynch case.

Arthur Smith, about 32, was grilled at length Saturday by FBI agents probing the kidnaping and murder of an accused Negro rapist. He suffered a stroke following the interrogation.

His doctor said, "It's very possible this (the stroke) was the result of intensive questioning by the FBI."

Parker, a 23-year - old Negro, was kidnaped from his jail cell here April 25. His body was found punctured by two bullet holes May 4.

A break in the case appeared imminent. An authoritative source close to the investigation said seven Mississippians would be arrested "pretty soon."

Smith's physician, who asked to remain unnamed, said Smith was hospitalized Saturday after being interrogated by the FBI about the lynching.

Smith has been in serious condition since the stroke. The doctor said, "The cerebral hemorrhage was brought on by extremely high blood pressure, and it's very possible this was the result of intensive questioning by the FBI."

The physician said Smith would probably reach a crisis today when his condition would either improve or worsen.

The doctor said Smith had lost all power of speech and only muttered and made poises. He said Smith recognized only his wife.

Smith's brother, Cecil, said: "Arthur was a husky, healthy man who's never been hospitalized. It looks like to me they've got to leave Arthur alone now."

Cecil said his brother had been questioned "several times" by the FBI and one time was kept all night and brought home at dawn.

C-C Committee Meetings Slated

Two Chamber of Commerce committees will meet this week to consider sales promotions and highway association membership.

Lucian Young has called a meeting of his Merchants Activities Committee to discuss the next promotion on the year's schedule. This will take the form of July 4 Value Days. Promotions are also scheduled for Rodeo week and the Christmas season.

The committee will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Chamber office.

The Tourist Development Committee, under Howard Buckingham, will meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Poole's Steak House. Final details of a recent membership campaign will be checked and a report heard on a Highway 60 National Convention held recently in Pawhuska, Okla.

WARD THREE GOES TO POLLS

Voters in Ward Three go to the polls again Tuesday for the runnoff election between Incumbent City Commissioner R. K. Parsley and his chief opponent in the April 7 election, Leon Holmes. No write - in votes have been cast to date.

In the April 7 City Election Holmes won 55 votes to Parsley's 51, and H. C. Hall's 19. Neither Holmes nor Parsley was able to muster a majority of votes.

The polling place in Ward Three will again be Ward's Cabinet Shop. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Somebody Had A Party In Mind

Eight cases of beer, valued at $64.65, were taken from an unlocked beer delivery truck at the Falstaff Distributing Co., 213 E. Tyng, sometime Saturday, police reported today.

The loss was reported to police Sunday morning by deliveryman Melvin Brewer. Brewer phoned police again Sunday night to report that at about 8:20 p.m. Sunday he "scared off" a gang of teenagers who were again attempting to burglarize the truck.

Brewer said he gave chase and the boys dropped several cases of beer and ran. Losses from the first burglary were set at three cases of bottled beer, two cases of canned beer and three double cases of bottled beer.

SMOKELESS PLANT ISN'T

HOLMEWOOD, England (UPI) —Local councillor Wilfred Clements protested today that the air is being polluted by smoke from a factory that makes smokeless fuel.

1ST NUCLEAR-POWERED AIRCRAFT

This 4.5 million cubic foot non-rigid airship, shown in artist's sketch, could be the first operational U.S. nuclear-powered aircraft. The 539-foot ship would operate at 10,000 feet with practically unlimited range. A reactor, placed amid ships would supply power to engines pushing the huge (three times the size of current models) blimp at 70-80 knots.

Mrs. Harry Truman Undergoes Knife Today

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Mrs. Harry S. Truman, wife of the former President, underwent major surgery today at Research Hospital for an undisclosed ailment.

The operation actually began at 9 a. m. cst after the former First Lady was wheeled into surgery.

The surgery was performed by Drs. Wallace Graham, the former White House physician and Truman's family doctor, and Philip Reister, Graham's office partner.

There was no indication as to the nature of the operation or the length of time it would require.

The former President was waiting outside the surgery room on the sixth floor. He asked that news and camera men be barred from that floor.

Mrs. Truman, 74, entered the hospital last Thursday for tests and a "routine checkup." The troublesome condition was discovered during the diagnostic tests.

Although the nature of the surgery was not revealed, Dr. Wallace Graham, the family doctor and White House physician when Truman was president, earlier said that Mrs. Truman would be in the hospital "quite a while."

4 Grand Jury Indictments

Indicted for the March 11 burglary of the Jake Osborne home, Pampa, were Stanley F. Garbuth and Lloyd Melvin Laslovich. A second burglary indictment was returned against James Ralph Clark of Amarillo, who allegedly broke into the Pampa High School April 18.

The jury also pressed charges against Charles Brooks, James Edd Patterson and Wilfred W. Hollin for the April 21 burglary of the Jim Storms home. The fourth indictment was against D. W. Joiner for the May 5 breakin at the Panhandle Lumber Co.

Rodeo Stands Fall; Over 250 Injured

By ED CHINNOCK
United Press International

MAYETTA, Kan. (UPI) — The top section of a newly-built bleacher caved in Sunday at the close of the Mayetta Rodeo, injuring more than 250 persons, 23 of them critically.

The critically hurt, some of whom suffered broken backs, limbs and head injuries, were hospitalized at nearby Topeka and Holton. Another 130 persons received emergency treatment at hospitals. About 100 suffered cuts and bruises but did not go to hospitals.

The accident occurred as a crowd of about 4,000 persons was getting set to leave the annual Mayetta Rodeo and Indian Fair in this northeast Kansas community of 247 persons.

A steel girder cracked and the top section of the C-shaped bleacher collapsed, sending some occupants tumbling 15 feet to the ground. A tin-roofed concession stand beneath the bleachers helped break the fall of others.

Concessionaire Frank Hess, of Topeka, said he was cooking hot dogs over gas stoves when he heard a sharp crack that sounded as though "someone had thrown a pop bottle on the roof."

"Then I heard wood breaking and steel cracking and saw a body fall," Hess said. "Then I ran."

His helper, Tom McBride, 18, said he was getting change for a customer, turned around "and there it came."

"People were falling through the air and hanging by the railings," the youth said. "If we

COMMIES HURL 444 SHELLS

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — A Chinese Communist bombardment of Matsu Island in the Formosa Straits Sunday apparently was designed to strengthen the Soviets' hand at the Geneva foreign ministers conference, informed sources said today.

The Communists, making their first large scale bombardment of Matsu, killed three persons and wounded eight as they hurled 444 shells in 90 minutes.

Matsu, one of the offshore islands in the American-patrolled Formosa Straits, is 150 miles north of the frequently shelled Quemoy Islands. It is far enough off shore to have been relatively untouched in past bombardments but the Communists have been bringing in bigger guns.

Chinese Nationalist sources have predicted stepped-up Communist activity in the Formosa Straits to coincide with the Geneva East - West meeting and said there might be new assaults against the Quemoy Islands hit by more than 600,000 shells last summer.

Paper plates stay put, despite a stiff breeze. The secret: plates are equipped with tabs of self-adhesive tape. Firm push anchors them: gentle tug releases plates. Portable grill, background, and king-size picnic jug are among new equipment items for growing families.

Enlist Kitchen Aids When Planning Outdoor Summertime Patio Party

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

The agitation to move the dining room outdoors grows louder each balmy day. The call is especially strident from the youngsters, who've had their fill of the indoors. Few things symbolize the beginning of summer living as much as a picnic, and the market is full of aids for the homemaker.

We may not be able to discourage the ants and flies from joining the party, but another pesky picnic problem has been solved.

The paper plates won't have to be weighted with rocks to keep them from flying off the table.

New plates with a small piece of double - coated masking tape on their undersides can be anchored to the table or cloth and, manufacturers say, a 35 - mile-an-hour wind won't dislodge them. A slight, direct tug will, when the meal is finished and it's time to clear the table.

The plates will stay put without marring the table's surface, too.

Beside plain white, these plates come in attractive children's designs. They're fine, too, for indoor birthday parties when gay celebrants are liable to knock plates off the table.

If size of the family and its members' appetites have outgrown the small portable grill, new ones which offer larger cooking surfaces will speed food to hungry picnickers.

One neat-looking new grill is oval in shape; it's 19 inches long and 14 inches wide. It has legs which can be snapped on or off and features a carrying handle.

The lightweight, porcelainized firepot is removvable for easier cleaning.

Larger capacities in insulated jugs are also available.

Five quarts instead of four will serve more thirsty people and the aluminum jug has a cup-high spigot for easier pouring.

Insulated bags for carrying prepared foods come in many different sizes and shapes; most of them boast thicker insulation and waterproof linings. Into generous picnic baskets are tucked many important items, but the experienced picnicker-homemaker will also include small paper bags and aluminum foil.

A paper bag of lunch box size can be handed to each guest so he can clean up his refuse in a jiffy, to leave the picnic site tidy.

The foil can be crimped and folded to double for pans to warm chicken or heat vegetables. This eliminates a stack of soiled dishes. Foil is useful, too, for wrapping leftovers.

Collect the soiled flatware on a sheet of foil to check for missing pieces, and then use it for a clean wrap-around in which to carry flatware home.

Vitamin Pills Illustrate PTA Officer Installation For Sam Houston School

New officers for Sam Houston PTA, installed at the Thursday meeting in the school auditorium, are Mmes. J. T. Cornutt, president; Joe Fischer, vice president; W. D. Benton, secretary; Chris Walsh, treasurer; Rex Rose, parliamentarian; Don George, historian; Julian Key and Murray Sealey, PTA City Council representatives.

Mrs. R. A. Mack, outgoing PTA City Council president, conducted the installation service with a clever talk on vitamins, ending with these words, "If you remember to take these pills, your organization will have no ills."

Mrs. Cornutt introduced the Sam Houston Band under the direction of Joe DiCosimo, who presented five musical numbers.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Kirk Duncan, outgoing PTA president, a resolution concerning juvenile laws was read and adopted and will be presented to Judge Bill Craig and Mayor Ed Myatt. The resolution grew out of a study course led by Mrs. Ronald Hubbard and sponsored by the PTA.

A monetary gift was voted to be sent to Mrs. Vivian Pearce, long-time cafeteria worker, who recently fractured her hip.

Mrs. Cornutt introduced Mrs. Evanelle Palmer, first grade teacher, who spoke on "Getting Your Child Ready For First Grade."

She pointed out the necessity of thorough physical check-ups and making the child desire to learn by presenting him with new opportunities and surroundings. "Teachers agree that it would be well for the child to recognize the letters of the alphabet, but a state of "readiness" is more important than knowledge at this time," she said.

During the executive board meeting held prior to the general meeting, out-going officers and committee chairmen gave instructions and duties to incoming officers and chairmen.

Girl Scout Activities

Senior Girl Scout Troop 17 made a trip to Amarillo Saturday to deliver several thousand pounds of old newspapers to a paper and rag company there. Scouts toured the plant where they observed how old newspapers were compressed into bales and sent to a paper pulp plant in Kansas, where they are made into egg cartons. They learned, also, that bales of compressed cardboard are sent to an asbestos roofing plant in New Mexico.

Sack lunches were enjoyed by the troop in Thompson Park after which they went ice-skating.

Mothers furnishing transportation were Mmes. L. J. Barker, Ruth Abbott, Dewey Belmont and the leaders, Mmes. Joe Wells and Betty Swain. Scouts attending were Linda Barker, Sue Abbott, Linda Belmont, Anita Buske, Micky Biard, Martha Lou Kelley, Anna Jo and Susan Watson, Beverly White, Nora Wells, Suzanne and Salley Paden, and Mrs. Swain's two children.

Girl Scout Troop 77 with its leader, Mrs. Frank Conner met Friday afternoon in Rotary Scout House for a Mother's Day program.

Mother's Day gifts were displayed on a table centered with an arrangement of red roses. Each scout presented her mother with a gift and a red rose.

Refreshments of Kool Ajd and cookies were served Mmes. Bill Lambright, Aufil, Silman, Patricia Lambright, Donna Conner, Twillo Pruess, Jowannah McDowell, Linda Peacock, Linda Henning, Winifred Reams, Mattie Kay Aufils, Becky Silman.

Troop 40 of Baker-Wilson Neighborhood held its Fly-Up Ceremony on Friday evening in Girl Scout Little House.

Receiving Brownie wings and pins were Luana Bird, Linda Higginbotham, Phyllis Atwood, Sharon Tisdale, Rebecca Lassiter, Cathy Wilkie, Debbie Forsythe, Mary Nell Graham, Celia Swinney, Tonie Wheeler and Wendy Dunbar. Unable to attend the ceremony were Brenda Taylor and Lois Pruitt.

Parents attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Wheeler, Forsythe, Graham, Wilkie, Higginbotham, Skidmore, Mmes. Lassiter, Dunbar, Atwood and Tisdale.

Following the ceremony, Brownies remained for a slumber party in the Scout House. On May 16, the troop plans its final outing this Spring, which will be a cook-out at Lake McClelland.

COOKING TIME

Tongue is always predared by cooking in liquid. Always allow 1 hour per pound for the tongue to become tender. Most beef tongues will average 3 to 4 pounds in weight.

Mrs. Satterwhite Feted At Shower

WHITE DEER (Spl) — Mrs. Glenn Satterwhite was recently honored with a pink and blue shower in the home of Mrs. Grady Milton. Hostesses for the occasion were Mmes. Charlie Trantham, Sammy Denney, J. W. Stamps, and Milton.

A humorous version of "Laverne Satterwhite, This Is Your Life" was presented by Mrs. Milton, assisted by Mrs. Gene Stamps.

Refreshments were served to Mmes. M. G. Satterwhite, Lefors; A. L. Stovall Jr., Panhandle; Jimmy Davis, Skellytown; Mmes. Carl McAdams, Jay Mashburn, Lonnie Lewis, Wallace Glasscock, Douglas Coffee, Sonny Freeman, Marvin Milliken, Gene Stamps, Milton, and the honoree.

Missionary Meet Held In Church

Women's Missionary Council of Bethel Assembly of God met on Thursday in the church with Mrs. P. F. Bryant opening with prayer.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. G. Walker, it was announced that Mrs. A. E. Kahler had been appointed sponsor of the newly-formed "Missionette," an auxiliary of the WMC.

Mrs. Ray Graham gave the devotional entitled, "Faith."

Slides of "Dominican Republic" will be shown at the regular Missionary Day on May 21 at 9:45 a.m. in the Bethel Assembly of God.

Members present were Mmes. G. Walker, W. Wells, W. Kelley, D. Everson, R. Graham, D. Sharum, A. Brewer and P. F. Bryant. um, A. Brewer, and P. F. Bryant.

Spring Recital Planned By Pupils Of Mrs. Brown

Mrs. Wayne E. Brown will present students of piano in recital tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Highland Baptist Church. The public is invited to attend.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR CHILDREN!

Polio isn't licked yet! In fact, among children not vaccinated, paralytic polio cases actually increased in 1958 over 1957. More one-year-olds were stricken than any other age group.

If your youngsters are still not protected against this feared disease, insist that they start and complete the full series of polio shots NOW.

The 1959 polio season is almost here. The sooner your children are polio-protected, the safer their futures will be. And since polio strikes all ages—be sure to get your shots too. See your doctor or health department NOW.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE— TAKE YOUR POLIO SHOTS!

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: At my church some of the young people meet on the outside and pair off and go in for the services only a petting party it seems. "Some hold hands, write notes, and one couple had their feet so tangled up you could hardly tell which they belonged to and, Abby, if the church had caught on fire they would probably have burned up before they could have got untangled. I have been raised that a Church is God's house, and young people should go there to worship the Lord in a respectful manner and keep their hands off each other. Has respect for the Lord's house gone out of style? Please, Abby, set me straight.

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD - FASHIONED: Respect for the Lord's house has NOT gone out of style. All the world loves a lover—but not in church.

DEAR ABBY: Our eight-year-old son came home from school sobbing his little heart out. His teacher told him that they were going to sing in assembly (the whole class) and then she said, "Will Billy and Donald please not sing — just move your lips?" We know that our Donald cannot hold a tune, but we think it is terrible for a teacher to hurt a child by announcing it before the class. Should I go to school and say something to her or should I forget about it?

DONALD'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: IF Donald "sobbed his little heart out" perhaps you'd better go to school and have a talk with his teacher. Humiliation is hard for 8-year-olds to bear.

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago you printed a letter from "A Mother" asking when a girl could be her own boss. I clipped it and carried it with me. I lost my purse, and the article with it. Would you please do me a favor and reprint that letter again? It might help a lot of people who missed it the first time.

MRS. G. S.

DEAR MRS. G. S.: With pleasure. Here it is: DEAR ABBY: We have two daughters, 15 and 17, and all we hear from them is that when they reach the age of 18 they will be their own boss. I think a girl is not her own boss until she reaches the age of 21. I would be grateful to you, Abby, if you would settle this matter of when a girl is her own "boss".

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In order to be one's own boss (in my opinion) a girl has to be able to leave her parents' home, pay her own bed-and-board, buy her own clothes, pay for her own entertainment, insurance and medical care, and pay for the continuance of her own education. THEN, she has the privilege of choosing her own company, making her own decisions and being her own "boss".

DEAR ABBY: There is a rather attractive (and not old) unmarried lady in town who never takes off her coat. When she goes to a party she will sit in her coat all evening, no matter how warm it is. When she eats in a restaurant, she keeps her coat on. I am a good friend of hers, and I asked her why she did this and she says she thinks it is immodest" to remove her coat. She wears dresses just like everybody else and she has a nice figure. Is there any way we can convince her to give up this childish habit?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Tell her that clothes are like a barbed wire property without obstructing the fence. They should protect the property without obstructing the view.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TELEPHONE SWEETHEART: He sounds like he would make a perfect stranger. Keep it that way!

For your copy of WHAT EVERY TEENAGER WANTS TO KNOW, send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY care of this newspaper.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self - addressed, stamped envelope.

PICKLE STICKS: Slice large, whole pickles into narrow sticks or use the commercial pickle sticks. Insert two narrow strips of the pickle through a large pitted Spanish green olive. Surround a platter of cold cuts with several of these.

Gromyko Proves Himself Apt Student Of Stalling Tactics

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

The man-of-the-week: Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Quote-of-the-week: "From the moment of its creation, the Soviet state is a principled and consistent follower of peaceful coexistence with all states irrespective of differences in social systems or political organization that may exist between them."

The place: Geneva.

Soviet Russia's Andrei Gromyko took the honors at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference this week on two counts.

On one, he followed the footsteps of such distinguished predecessors as V. M. Molotov and Andrei Vishinsky. In most of the 15 foreign ministers' conferences held since VE Day, the Soviets have been experts at stalling tactics. Gromyko this week proved himself an apt pupil.

Emerges As Champion

On the other, he emerged as a champion in a field in which heretofore he has not been distinguished. He has been sporting a homburg hat, which among the other hatless foreign ministers, automatically has qualified him as the clothes horse of the conference.

Gromyko, now nearing 50 years of age, bulbous nosed but darkly handsome, was a boy wonder of the Soviet foreign office.

At the age of 34 he was Soviet ambassador to Washington.

As were his predecessors, he has been able to turn the charm off and on, depending on the will of the Kremlin.

This week in Geneva he was playing well a familiar role.

First he demanded that East Germany be seated at the foreign ministers' conference as an equal. Failing in that, he switched to similar demands for Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Expected To Fail

That he expected to fail in his demands is certain. But that he also had an objective in mind also is certain.

The objectives had their ironies but they also had a place in the Soviet scheme.

It long has been accepted that among all the Soviet satellites, not one can be considered wholly reliable. Therefore, a primary objective in Gromyko's campaign was to stir in satellite minds the belief that Soviet Russia acted in their behalf. Headlines in satellite newspapers would be an aid.

A second objective would be to set up, on the basis of minor concessions to the Western powers, a groundwork for demands for major concessions from the West later on.

Oldest Cantor Daughter Dies From Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Eddie Cantor's eldest daughter, Marjorie, 44, died Sunday of cancer.

The famed comedian, who has been ailing for several years, was placed under sedation.

Miss Cantor and her four sisters had provided a running gag for Cantor during his radio-television days when he would lament that he had no sons. But his affection for his five daughters was well-known.

Miss Cantor had suffered from the disease the past two years and entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital last March 26 for the second time within a year.

She and her sisters kept the news of her affliction from Cantor and his wife, Ida, until March when her condition became grave.

Both Cantor and his wife suffer from heart ailments.

Only the sisters, Mrs. Natalie Metzger of Los Angeles, Mrs. Edna McHugh of Malibu, Calif., Marilyn Cantor of New York and Mrs. Janet Gari also of New York were at Marjorie's bedside when death came.

Marjorie served for years as her father's secretary and was a writer. She contributed articles to many magazines and traveled extensively with her parents.

agreement on Berlin while the package plan remained a long-term objective.

Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville called a noon strategy conference today with West German Foreign Minister Henrich von Brentano to chart their course for the coming week.

The foreign ministers' deputies met earlier today in a similar session but observers said this appeared to be closing the barn door after the horses were stolen—that Russia now knows the West was not making an "all or nothing" stand on its package plan.

Seek Restricted Talks

The Western ministers hoped to get Gromyko into more "restricted" and intimate talks by Wednesday after two more days of plenary sessions attended by full advisory staffs and East and West German consultants.

Disclosure of Western willingness to consider an agreement to rub the rough edges off the Berlin crisis in the absence of any real progress on basic European problems came little more than two weeks after the Allies at Paris wrapped up their package plan and said the ingredients were inseparable.

It had been an open secret for some days that the West was considering some interim settlement with the Kremlin on Berlin, either in the closing sessions of this conference or at the summit. What caused the shock was that the fact slipped out in the way it did and at this time.

Lighter Moments Reported In 56th Session Of Legislature

By PAT CONWAY
United Press International

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)— Lighter moments during the weighty 56th session of the Texas Legislature:

Opening day there was a hassle over placement of spittoons. Lawmakers closed the session by agreeing their efforts were worthy of a pay raise.

In between they championed such causes as alligator protection, hot meals for hogs and clothing nudists.

Others urged protection of college parachute jumpers.

A bill was passed to govern the sex-life of mosquitos.

There was even a man who begged the legislature to abolish his job.

Rep. Jerry Sadler of Palestine—a dedicated tobacco chewer and snuff dipper—started the spittoon issue. Whe he arrived at his desk on Jan. 13 the polished brass receptacle was missing.

Off to the phone he rushed. Newspapers were alerted to the situation—editorial help was requested. Sadler won his battle. His spittoon was returned.

Protection of alligators in Jefferson County was championed by Rep. W. T. Oliver of Port Neches. His bill noted there was a shortage of alligators in that part of the state. Lawmakers agreed to 'gator preservation and it's now against the law to kill one—in Jefferson County.

Oliver had other days of glory. To push his archery hunting bill, he showed up with a split arrow fastened to the sides of his head to give the impression he was a victim of a roving war party. From his neck dangled a sign reading, "whodunnit?"

Bitter in-fighting resulted over the hot meals for hogs issue. One lawmaker said the legislature ought to take the porkers to a swank private club in downtown Austin and let them select goodies from the menu. The bill was aimed at eliminating a swine disease by cooking raw garbage.

The bill to outlaw nudists was branded as a "move to strip nudists of their rights." One supporter of the measure said, in the same breath, that Texas would be on the right track if it outlawed nudism and boosted Sen. Lyndon Johnson for President.

George Corse of Graham, a county school superintendent, told lawmakers that county superintendents were an unworthy lot. He urged them to abolish the jobs of some 100 county superintendents.

The legislature thought awhile about the potential saving of $500,000 a year in salaries, then abolished a superintendent's job—the one held by George Corse.

College parachute jumpers should be under the jurisdiction of the Civil Aeronautics Commission, the legislature said.

The amors of mosquitos are in jeopardy. Lawmakers passed a law to force property owners to oil stagnant waters to keep the "skeeters" from breeding.

Lawmakers couldn't decide how to raise money, but when they do they felt some of it ought to go toward tripling their salaries. They okayed a proposed constitutional amendment which if approved by voters in 1960 would pad their pay checks.

Star To Leave 'My Fair Lady' Company Soon

Hollywood
By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Newly-wed Julie Andrews, honeymooning in Movietown, will make her first TV appearance in more than a year Saturday night playing foil for Jack Benny.

The willowy star of "My Fair Lady," frankly admitted she agreed to appear with the comedian to facilitate her wedding plans.

"Tony (Walton) and I had planned to be married next fall," she explained. "But when I was given a two weeks leave of absence from the London run of 'My Fair Lady' for the Benny show, we took the opportunity to get married."

Blonde, blue-eyed and beautiful, Julie has made a career of playing the cockney-turned-lady in the record-breaking musical.

Mixed Feelings

"But not for much longer," Julie said. "Rex Harrison already has left the company, and I will be going in the autumn. I've played Eliza Doolittle for more than three years now, and that is quite enough.

"Peculiary, though, I've never seen the show all the way through. I'll have a chance to see it when I leave."

Julie who began in the musical when she was 19, will depart the company with mixed fellings.

"I sort of grew up playing the role," she went on wistfully. "And I'll miss Eliza Doolittle. We have become a part of one another. Sometimes I'm not certain which of us I am—Julie or Eliza.

Exhausting Role

"Occasicnally I hear myself speaking with her cockney accent.

"London audiences are just as enthusiastic about the play as New Yorkers are, but it is getting more and more difficult for me to keep up the standard of the role. It's not dull working in a long-run show, but I must admit it is exhausting."

When the English beauty completes her contract she plans to return to New York for another musical comedy.

"I'll probably spend another year in the states," she said. "But Tony and I hope to make our permanent home in England. We have a rather lovely flat in London now.

"We leave next Monday for London," Julie concluded, "and I'll be back at work playing Eliza again. It will be something of a reunion for us."

No Major Change Reported In Dulles Fight With Cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—No major change has been reported in the condition of John Foster Dulles in his fight against cancer.

The last word on the former secretary of state came from friends who said Saturday he was growing weaker with each passing day.

The State Department said there was nothing to report Sunday and that no announcement would be made unless there were "a major change" in Dulles' condition.

The 71-year-old diplomat, who is at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, was said to be receiving pain-killing drugs.

The State Department announced Friday that complications caused by pneumonia had persisted and that there had been "some further decline in his general condition."

Dulles' family has been here the past week.

"Lets talk dry cleaning"

By FRED MALONE

SHRINKAGE is one of the most frequent problems that occur in cleaning clothes, regardless of the cleaning method. Although dry cleaning results in the least degree of shrinkage of any method, there are still cases when shrinkage will occur.

Sometimes such shrinkage is a gradual thing, occurring a little bit at a time with each cleaning—and without your noticing it. All of a sudden the garment is too tight, and it's only natural to blame the latest cleaning. But in some fabrics even the most careful treatment can't completely avoid shrinkage.

There are various reasons for this. One is the practice of stretching fabrics by either the fabric or the clothing manufactur, Bleaching, mercerizing and dyeing can add to this stretching. When such a stretched fabric is cleaned, by whatever method, it will relax to its normal state. This is called relaxation shrinkage.

The best way to avoid shrinkage is to check labels carefully before you buy to make sure the garment is pre-shrunk. We make every effort to minimize any possible shrinkage in dry cleaning. You can bring us your fine clothes with the confidence that if it can be cleaned safely, we can clean it!

FHA Celebrating 25th Anniversary

EDITOR'S NOTE: The federal Housing Administration is celebrating its 25th anniversary. In this dispatch, written expressly for United Press International, FHA Commissioner Julian H. Zimmerman reviews his agency's record and takes a look at its future.

By JULIAN H. ZIMMERMAN
Federal Housing Commissioner

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fresh, imaginative thinking has of necessity been at the core of FHA's way of doing business since 1934.

Nothing less than this type of approach could have been possible if FHA was to exercise leadership in the housing industry through its programs of mortgage insurance. Nothing less than this approach will do in its next 25 years if FHA is to continue to serve the American public.

When we recall the conditions of the housing industry and the circumstances of the home buying public in 1934, it is easy to appreciate the reasons for this dynamic method of operation.

In 1934, more than 230,000 mortgages had been foreclosed; approximately 16 million homes were badly in need of repair. High downpayment, short-term mortgages were all that were available. In addition, building standards were provincial and un-coordinated. Home building activity was at a very low ebb.

Compare these circumstances and conditions of 1934 with those that exist today. Last year, for instances, only 42,000 mortgages were foreclosed. Millions of homes have been modernized. Today, 25 to 30 year, low down payment mortgages are avilable to most American families. Building standards are becoming more uniform throughout the country while building starts are approaching new records.

Has Played Lively Part

FHA has played a lively and imaginative role in bringing this about. Though FHA insures only about a fifth of all home mortgages, its programs have stimulated wider opportunity for home ownership, better construction standards, sound home financing systems, scientific appraisal and credit ratings, and a healthy housing industry.

But even with these accomplishments to its credit, FHA continues to look forward to new fresh ways in which it can serve the public. Legislation now pending could help ease the way for simpler trade-in housing procedures. This is important to the prospective home buyer because he will be able to trade in his present house when he has found a new one. This is important to the housing industry because it provides greater flexibility in dealing with trade-ins.

Another new concept as we look to the future is FHA's certified agency program. This will make it possible for the housing industry to be better served in smaller communities through certified and qualified authorized agents. These agents act as FHA's representatives and have full authority to issue FHA commitments on individual and small multi-family homes.

Working With Vigor

In addition, FHA is working with full vigor with the Eisenhower administration, Congress, and other interested organizations to see that urban renewal and like projects receive proper insurance backing. Mortgage insurance issued under FHA's urban renewal program requires the broadest and most imaginative thinking.

There are other problems which have been identified, such as: transferring raw land into improved stages of development for home building; cutting lead time between new ideas in construction and their actual application; encouraging more and better quality housing. FHA is preparing to move forward on a broad front in all of these fields.

India And Pakistan Concerned About Defense Of Himalayas

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

One result of the Tibetan incident has been a growing feeling in both Pakistan and India that those two nations should patch up their differences in the interests of a common defense of the Himalayas.

Since 1947, when both gained their independence from Great Britain, the two have occupied the great Indian sub-continent as suspicious and unfriendly neighbors, divided by religion, by the dispute over Kashmir and by the battle for water rights desperately needed by both nations to feed their poverty-stricken peoples.

But lately both have seen the dangers from expanding Communism on both their borders to the north.

Violations Listed

Pakistan's rugged Gilgit Agency borders Sinkiang in Red China and is divided from Soviet Russia only by a narrow strip of Afghanistan.

India also borders China and ever since the Dalai Lama's flight from Tibet in March and the subsequent friendly reception India accorded him, has been the target of increasing Red Chinese abuse.

In Karachi, Pakistan, Air Marshal M. Asghar Khan showed UPI Correspondent Patrick J. Killen a six-page list of recent violations of Pakistan air space.

Some of these came from India, according to the air marshal, but, significantly, in the last month there also had been recorded violations by unidentified planes over the Gilgit Agency to the north.

The air marsnal left the presumption open that those planes were Russian jet bombers on reconnaissance flights.

Asghar Khan, who at 38 is the world's youngest air marshal, commanded the Pakistani planes which recently shot down an Indian Canberra plane accused of being on a photographic mission 40 miles inside Pakistan.

Wants Closer Relations

Despite this, he said he hoped for closer relations between India and Pakistan as result of the Tibetan incident.

"Air defense of the Indian subcontinent certainly would be easier if Pakistan and India worked together," he said.

He described an "Himalayan Pact" as a sound idea.

Earlier, the influential Times of India had called for a "summit" conference between Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan.

It said a reconciliation between the two "is something that must be explored at the highest level."

Other voices urged that as a friend of both, the United States should take an active hand in promoting better relations between the two.

One Million Killed

Should those relations be improved, there is much to overcome.

Pakistan is Moslem and India primarily Hindu.

When they achieved their independence and the subcontinent was divided, a vast migration took place between the two. Seventeen million persons migrated between the two as Moslem and Hindu separated and took refuge behind political borders. Violence was widespread and estimates at the time placed the number of killed at more than one million.

Conflicting claims between Pakistan and India over Kashmir still are unsettled, and water rights continue to be a steady source of friction.

Nehru has shown no signs of abandoning his traditional hatred for military pacts of any kind.

But he has made clear his determination to fight any attempt to encroach upon Indian territory and circumstances eventually could change his mind about military agreements.

Culberson's Truck Shop Opens Soon

The Culberson Chevrolet Truck Center, the only exclusive truck building in town, will open in three weeks, according to Frank Culberson, president of Culberson Chevrolet, Inc. The new truck shop, an 80 by 60 feet, pre-fabricated building is being erected on Browning, across the street from the Culberson Chevrolet Company.

Big trailer trucks will be able to drive into the shop for speedy repairs. The modern shop will be loaded with up-to-date equipment and staffed by experienced personnel.

The foundations were laid three weeks ago and the shop is rapidly nearing completion by the Milliron Engineering Co., Inc.

With the opening of its truck shop, Culberson's service department will have the latest facilities for all vehicles, from passenger cars to trailer trucks.

Snead In Greatest Victory Of Career

By FRED FERRIS
United Press International

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., (UPI) — Slamming Sam Snead, who turned in the most spectacular triumph of his fabled career just nine days before his 47th birthday, disclosed today he wants to achieve two goals before he quits the golf circuit:

1. A U. S. Open championship.

2. The all-time 72-hole competitive record.

Snead said he felt like "a spring chicken" after posting superb rounds of 59 and 63 in succession to easily win his own Sam Snead Festival tournament Sunday. They are believed to be the best 36 holes ever put back-to-back in competitive golf.

That finish gave the Slammer a 21-under-par total of 259 for the 12th annual tourney over his home courses at this Mountain resort. Eleven strokes back at 270 was Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N. Y., while E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of St. Louis, the 54-hole leader, finished third with 273.

Snead eanred $4,500 in prize money — $2,300 as leading pro among 54 entries and another $2,200 for sweeping the first three places with his amateur partners in a concurrent pro-am over the second 36 holes of the event.

"My chief ambition before calling it quits was to break 60," Snead said as he grabbed the prize money. "That felt so good that now I'm going after that 257 for 72 holes that Mr. Mike Souchak holds.

"But in the immediate future, there's that other thing."

The Slammer, who has won 103 tournaments but never has captured the U. S. Open, woudn't even say the name of the tournament. "Just say I'll be ready for that unmentionable," he grinned.

The Open, at Mamaroneck, N.Y. June 11-13, will be Snead's next action. And he plans four other tournaments the remainder of the year.

When Souchak set the 72-hole record of 257 strokes in the Texas Open at San Antonio in 1955, he shot a 60 in the first round and added subsequent rounds of 68, 64 and 65. Snead's 259 tied Ben Hogan's record set here in 1950—but those final two rounds, after openers of 68 and 69, were far better than anything Souchak or Hogan had.

He Gets An Eagle

Snead, a notoriously poor putter, belied that reputation here. He had only 51 putts over the final 36 holes. "And I still missed four of 10 feet or under on that last round," he said.

Snead had one eagle in his 59 round and almost got another Sunday. A 50-foot chip shot on the long 17th hole settled six inches from the cup. And to prove his putting ability he knocked a 30-footer right up to the lip of the cup as a gallery of some 3,000 watched at the 18th.

As to whether he is now playing the best golf of his life, Snead wouldn't go that far in spite of the evidence of a 122 for 14-under-par on his last 36 holes.

"I can't say I'm playing better than I ever have—but it ain't bad," the drawling hillbilly cracked.

But he admitted he would give up a couple of those "tomato cans" for an open win. The standing joke is that Snead buries his golf winnings in tin cans.

Besselink Hits 65

Souchak, who finished with a brilliant 66 and a 65, was very happy with the $1,300 second prize and was eager to get to the U.S. Open. He shed 20 pounds from last year and, down to a trim 200, he figures that's why he's playing better now than ever before.

Al Besselink of Merchantville, N.J., came in with a nifty 64 on the final round to take fourth place with 275 while there was a four-way tie for fifth at 276 among Dave Douglas, Kirkwood, Mo.; Dave Marr, Cedarhurst, N.Y., and the young first-day leaders—Doug Sanders, Cedartown, Ga., and Bruce Crampton, Sydney, Australia.

After the first two rounds which saw cold, windy weather send scores zooming, there was some brilliant firing over the last 36 holes and as a result, it was even par 280—to get into the 16 money places.

Nelson Tosses Myaki, Then Ref, From Ring

There was more confusion at the Top o' Texas Sportsman Club Saturday night than at the annual Gandy Dancer's Ball.

It was all pretty peaceful up until the final round of the main event. Then things really got hopping. Art Nelson used a stomping hammer lock to win a first fall from Sonny Myers who promptly turned right around to sweep the second fall to square the match away Even-Steven. Myers used a neatly executed atomic drop to level the main event at a fall apiece.

Then along came a Mr. Buttinsky in the person of Taro Myaki during the third round. Before anybody could stop him, and who wanted to try, Myaki leaped into the ring with street clothes on simply to issue a stiff warning he had in mind challenging the winner of the match.

Seems the Japanese import, who won the semi-final match, thinks more of his grappling talents than to be stuck in a pre-lim match. It's the big bout or nothing with Myaki and he wanted both Nelson and Myers and anybody else who cared to listen to know it.

Nelson didn't exactly cotton to Myaki's interfering with his main event match, especially since he had just lost the second fall. Myaki didn't care if Nelson liked his challenge or not, and just to prove his point, the Slanted Eyed one came down with a wicked judo chop, splitting a gash on Nelson's head. Nelson thought he was being given a raw deal not only by Myaki but by the referee Billy Widener for allowing an "outsider" in street clothes to hit him, he upped and tossed Myaki out of the ring bodily and then in a fit of rage clobbered the ref, Widener.

Still beserk with anger, Nelson turned on his original opponent with inhuman strength, belted him from the ring not once, not twice, but three times. By the third pitch, Widener had recovered from his pounding sufficiently enough to see what was taking place, and with a summon of his little remaining strength, sprang into the ring to declare Myers the winner over Nelson on a disqualification based on Art's outrageous outbreak of violence.

Thus, Myers, grabbed all of the purse, with Nelson getting nothing for his anger - fit but disgrace, and several head lumps.

However, all was not lost. To make the sad story come out with a Hollywood ending, local promoter granted Nelson a chance to scrape up his hurt feelings with a no-holds-barred revenge match this Saturday night against Myaki, the Nip who started all of the big blond's headaches in the first place.

"There'll be no time limit, no falls will count and only a referee to keep 'em from fighting outside of the ring with chairs for lethal weapons," Miller said of the main attraction for this week.

In slightly calmer matches Saturday night, Myaki sandwiched a couple of his famous claw holds in the first and third rounds around a second round pin on a leg split by Gory Guerrero to decision the Latin American. That was the semi-final match.

In the opener Silent Joe Hamilton countinued to use Tommy Phelps for a door mat by using a rolling cradle hold to lengthen the former referee's losing streak.

Besides the Art Nelson - Taro Myaki fight to the finish, Miller has two colored girls lined up to slug it out with Babs Wingo slated to meet an opponent not yet named.

Littler Captures Hot Springs Meet

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UPI) — Gene Littler fired a two-under-par 70 Sunday to win first money in the $22,000 Arlington Hotel Open golf tournament with a record-tying score of 270, but young Jim Ferree almost forced him into a playoff.

Littler's top money brought his total to $20,641 for the year, fourth among all the pros.

Ferree's 20-foot putt on the 18th green, that would have tied the score if it had dropped, lipped the cup and stayed up and Littler held a one-stroke margin.

Littler's score, 18-under-par, equalled the 72-hole score of Bo Wininger in 1955, the first year the Arlington was held.

The victory, worth $2,800 to Littler, of Singing Hills, Calif., was his third of the year. His previous wins were at Tucson and Phoenix.

Ferree, of Crystal River, Fla., won $1,900 for second and Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla. grabbed third money with a 273 total, good for $1,400.

Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, Okla. and Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., tied for fourth with 276 and each won $1,150. Wall had a record-tying 63 the first round but faded badly and had to shoot a 69 Sunday to add the $1,150 to his record money winnings for 1959.

Wes Elijs Jr., of Aldercress, N.J., and Don January, of Denver Colo., had 277s to tie for sixth and each won $950.

BANKS RECEIVES AWARD

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, who led the National League in home runs (47) and runs batted in (129) last year, was presented the senior league's most valuable player award Sunday between games of the Cubs-Pirates doubleheader.

14 Qualify; One Fatality

United Press International

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Half the field still was to be filled for the coming Memorial Day 500-mile auto race but the toll today already read one driver dead and two cars demolished.

Of the 33 open spots, 19 had yet to be taken. So far, only 14 drivers had qualified.

Jerry Unser, 26, Long Beach, Calif., who drove only three-fourths of a lap in actual Speedway competition, became the 49th fatality in 50 years of racing at the famous "brickyard" when he died Sunday of burns sustained in a fiery crash May 2.

Unser, in a coma for several days, also crashed over the wall last year in the spectacular first lap wreckage which killed Pat O'Connor.

Little Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa., was the fastest weekend qualifier, averaging 145.908 m.p.h. Saturday for the four-lap test to win the pole position.

Thomson, a driver-farmer also roared to a one-lap qualifying record of 146.532 m.p.h., shattering the mark of 146.509 hung up by Ed Elisian last year.

Twelve cars were qualified Saturday on a cool and windy day, but only two made it Sunday as winds, then rain, cut into the six-hour time trial period.

Veterans Tony Bettenhausen and Johnnie Tolan figured in week-end crashes, which demolished their cars. Both escaped injury.

NAMED TO ALL-STARS

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Halfback Dick Haley and guard John Guzik of the University of Pittsburgh will play on the College All-Star team against the National Football League champion Baltimore Colts Aug. 14 in Chicago. Both players have been drafted by NFL teams—Guzik by Los Angeles and Haley by Washington.

WINS IN EXHIBITION

KREFELD, Germany (UPI) — The New York Rangers, scoring four times in the middle period, buried the Boston Bruins, 7-2, Sunday before a crowd of 4,500. The victory gave the Rangers a 10-7 edge over the Bruins in their European hockey series.

Giambra, Jones to Fight in Dallas

DALLAS (UPI)—Joey Giambra, on the comeback trail, and Ralph (Tiger) Jones, tireless trial horse of the middleweights, meet tonight in a 10-round bout that becomes the initial promotion of a new Dallas boxing group.

Giambra, formerly of Buffalo, N. Y., but who now boxes out of Dallas, will be looking for his third victory in as many starts since a seven-months layoff enforced by an elbow injury. He decisioned veteran Al Andrews in his last start here in April.

Jones will be making his first appearance in Texas. Known as a crowd pleaser and the fighter who has been most seen on television, Jones holds victories over some of the top-notchers, including a non-title decision over middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson.

Tonight's bout is being promoted by the Dallas Sports Enterprises, a group of local men who have become so carried away with visions of success that they have talked of offering Robinson a $500,000 guarantee to defend his title here. If taxes are bothering him, the group has suggested giving the champion a producing oil well as part of his pay.

Pampa Bowlers Place Fourth

CLOVIS — McCathern - King of Pampa placed fourth in the Traveling Queens bowling league, as the league completed its season here Sunday. The McCathern - King team won 58 games and lost 50 through the season.

Coors Beer of Borger won the league title with 66½ wins and 41½ losses. Next were Carter and Co. of Amarillo, 62-46, Cedar Lands of Borger, 61½-46½, McCathern-King, Grand Grill of Borger, 53-55, La-Vista Motel of Clovis, 52-56, Holiday Inn of Amarillo, 40-68, and Pitman Grain of Hereford, 39-69.

McCathern-King won 4 and lost 8 games Sunday.

MITE-Y SWING — Stevie Gorman, 5 fouls this pitch while seemingly losing his pants in taking a man-sized swing, at Mill Valley California. Little League will be opening soon througout the Country. Pampa's Little and Pony League play starts Tuesday.

Aaron Hits In 21st Straight

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Hank Aaron's bat is the hottest thing in baseball today unless you're talking about Joe Gordon's ears.

Aaron stretched his hitting streak to 21 games and kept his batting average at .484 Sunday when the Milwaukee Braves beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 8-3. Hammerin Hank broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run homer in the fifth inning and also contributed a single to Milwaukee's 14-hit attack.

Such devastating clutch hitting has the Braves 2½ games in front in the National League race—by far their best position at this stage of a pennant race in three years. They trailed after 29 games by 2½ in 1958 and by two games in 1957.

But you coud light a couple of matches on Gordon's ears because of the job the second-guessers are doing on him in the aftermath of the Cleveland Indians' Sunday doubleheader split with the Baltimore Orioles. Gordon came under fire for sticking with rookie reliever Jim Perry in an 8-7, 11-inning opening-game loss even though the Indians rebounded to take the nightcap, 8-3, and retain their half-game lead in the American League.

Gordon stuck with Perry, recent hero of a Cleveland victory over the New York Yankees, even though he served up a three-run ninth inning homer to Gus Triandos that tied the score. Then, with relief ace Dick Brodowski ready in the bullpen, he stuck with Perry again as he filled the bases with two hits and a walk and then walked Bill Klaus to force in the winning run.

Chisox Streak Ends

The San Francisco Giants took over second place by beating the Cincinnati Reds, 9-1, and the Pittsburgh Pirates split with the Chicago Cubs in the other National League games. The Pirates won the first game, 5-4, but the Cubs came back to take the nightcap, 7-6.

The Chicago White Sox beat the Washington Senators, 10-7, after their eight-game winning streak was ended, 4-2, in the opener; the Yankees won their opener, 3-2, but were humiliated, 10-0 by the Kansas City Athletics in the second game and the Boston Red Sox beat the Detroit Tigers, 10-1, in other American League activity.

A crowd of 49,347 at Los Angeles saw Lew Burdette pitch his seventh complete game and win his sixth decision with an eight-hitter. Batterymate Del Crandall, playing before Fullerton, Calif., townfolk, homered and had three singles for the Braves.

Commit Seven Errors

Perry's sloppy pitching was the climax of a real "married men vs single men" sandlot game in which the Indians made three errors, the Orioles made four and only seven of 15 runs were earned. Vic Power drove in three runs with a single and triple in the nightcap.

Andre Rodgers hit two homers and Willie Mays had a homer and a double to lead a 10-hit San Francisco attack that enabled Stu Miller to breeze to his second victory.

Bill Mazeroski drove in three runs with two homers to help Pittsburgh's Vern Law to his third victory and Ernie Banks hit his ninth as Chicago's Glen Hobbie picked up his fifth triumph.

Killebrew Homers Twice

Pedro Ramos ended the White Sox' streak with a five-hitter with the aid of homers by Jim Lemon and Reno Bertoia but Washington couldn't manage a sweep in the nightcap although Harmon Killebrew belted his 13th and 14th homers.

Bob Grim pitched a two-hitter and Dick Williams slammed a three-run homer for the Athletics after the Yankees pulled out the opener with a three-run ninth-inning rally.

Dick Gernert hit a homer and three singles and Marty Keough also homered as the Red Sox snapped a five-game losing streak.

Texas, Mexico Teams Split

United Press International

Mexican teams capitalized on brilliant pitching to sweep three Pan - American league games played in Mexico Sunday. But in three other games played north of the border, Texas teams evened things up.

One of the season's best pitching duels developed at Vera Cruz where Rodolfo Alvarado held Amarillo to one hit as the Eagles won a 1-0 thriller. Vera Cruz pulled off a double steal in the first inning to get its lone run across and nullify the fine pitching of Amarillo hurler Symeon.

The Eagles' winning run came when Canitas Moreno doubled, went to third on a sacrifice and then stole home as Oscar Rodriguez raced to second behind him.

At Mexico City, pitcher Pancho Ramirez pitched three-hit ball to lead the Red Devils to a 5-0 win over Tulsa. The Red Devils hammered out 10 hits off losing pitcher Mel Nelson.

Five errors marred play at Pozo Rica where the Oilers choked off a ninth-inning rally by the San Antonio Missions to win 6-3.

In games played in Texas, league leading Austin beat the Mexico City Tigers, 3-1, while runner-up Victoria kept within striking distance by edging Nuevo Laredo, 9-8, in a free-hitting game marked by six homers.

Corpus Christi pulled up a notch in the standings by edging Monterrey, 8-7, in the only other game played in Texas.

Yankee Slump Stumps Casey

NEW YORK (UPI) — Casey Stengel is stumped.

For the first time since he took over the Yankees in 1949, he dosen't know what to do.

He admitted as much Sunday when his Yankees were crushed, 10-0, in the night-cap of a double-header with the Athletics after his team was forced to rally for three runs in the ninth inning to salvage the opener, 3-2.

"I thought our troubles were behind us after we pulled that first game out with three runs in the ninth," he said wearily. "But then, after what they did to us in the second game, I'll be darned if I know what to do.

"This is the poorest I've ever seen us play — the hitting, any way—since I've been here. It sure beats me. I'm playing my best men—the same team that won the World Series—but nothing seems to do any good."

Stengel made his remarks after Bob Grim, a former member of the Yankees, struck out seven of his former teammates and beat them with a two-hit effort in the nightcap.

"That isn't only the best I've ever done against the Yankees," Grim said. "That's the best I've ever done in the big leagues period. I pitched a no-hitter in sandlot ball, but who counts that?"

Truth of the matter is that the seventh-place Yankees have been hitting like a bunch of sand-lotters lately.

"Know how many shutouts that makes against us this year?" Stengel asked. "Four—and this is the club that went a year-and-a-half before it was shutout."

Casey charitably didn't add that it was the world champions' second shutout in three days. Billy Pierce of the White Sox blanked the Yanks, 6-0, Friday.

Casey sighed and said, "No matter how you slice it, we ain't hitting."

BREAKS OWN RECORD

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Officials of the Southwest Pacific AAU are going to survey the field where Hal Connolly broke his own world hammer throw record Saturday with a heave of 226 feet, 1½ inches. The field in question is at Balboa Stadium and the officials said after they survey it they will submit Connolly's new mark for recognition.

HEADS OLYMPIC SKATERS

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Al Zirkel, former president of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States, Sunday was named manager of the 1960 U.S. Olympic speed skating team at the ASU's annual convention.

Khrushchev Sends U.S. And Britain Letters On Test Ban

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI)— Nikita S. Khrushchev made one of his most conciliatory speeches of the cold war Saturday in admitting that parts of the Western peace package for Germany were "worthy of examination."

He attacked the Western plan as it was presented at the foreign ministers meeting in Geneva and he again warned that Russia could not accept it as is. But he did not reject it out of hand and he did not slam the door on negotiations.

The Premier, speaking in the Kremlin on the occasion of his award of a Lenin peace prize for "strengthening of peace among the peoples," held firm on this point: Russia wants to take up the question of German peace treaties and Berlin separately, in that order. The West wants both wrapped into one package.

The package plan, Khrushchev indicated, was a trap.

He said the West knew Russia would not accept the idea of packaging together all the issues involved and sought to "provoke" Russia into "sharp criticism" for propaganda purposes.

Then, he said, "the West would blame the Soviet Union for the failure of the foreign ministers conference at Geneva."

He said the only thing new about the plan was "the peace plan" title affixed to it.

"For in the past as well," Khrushchev said, "The Western powers have put forward virtually the same proposals, which actually were nothing but the plan of the cold war, the plan for the conduct of policy from positions of strength."

However, he said, "the proposal of the Western powers contains some matters which are worthy of examination, and which we shall not oppose."

Here Khrushchev came to the crux of the situation.

"But questions must be taken separately and not tied together," he said. "He described the Western package plan as "one big knot which cannot be untied."

"It is primarily necessary to separate the questions of the conclusion of a peace treaty with the two German states, and on this basis solve the Berlin question by turning West Berlin into a free city."

Mrs. Mangold Awarded Grant For OU Study

NORMAN, Okla. (Spl) — Mrs. Willie Mae Mangold, 404 Louisiana, has been awarded a grant for the University of Oklahoma Science Teachers Institute this summer.

Mrs. Mangold, teacher at Pampa Junior High School, has accepted a place in the cosmogony-evolition course, June 9-Aug. 1.

One hundred and nine secondary school mathematics and science teachers have accepted grants for three institute courses. Offerings for the summer are Metabolism in Nutrition, June 9-July 18; Cosmogony-Evolution, June 9-Aug. 1, and Mathematics, June 9-Aug. 1.

Institute courses, offered under a National Science Foundation grant, are under the direction of Dr. Horace H. Bliss, director, Oklahoma Science Service. Courses will be taught by OU faculty members.

Seventy eight of the 109 institute students are from 49 Oklahoma school systems. Seventeen other states represented are Arizona (1), Arkansas (1), California (1), Georgia (1), Indiana (1), Kansas (6), Kentucky (1), Louisiana (3), Minnesota (2), Missouri (2), Nebraska (1), New Jersey (1), Pennsylvania (1), Tennessee (1), Texas (6), Washington (1) and Wisconsin (1).

Military Muscles Flexed For Armed Forces Day In U.S.

By LEON BURNETT
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation flexed its military muscles Saturday and Sunday in observance of Armed Forces Day. The theme was "power for peace."

Top officials of the Army, Navy and Air Force addressed special celebrations in New York, Kansas City and Savannah, Ga. All three branches staged demonstrations and displays of their pet weapons.

In a speech prepared for delivery in Savannah Saturday night, Lt. Gen. B. A. Schriever, head of the Air Force's Air Research and Development Command, came to the defense of "eggheads," whom he described as the nation's salvation.

"It is a national disgrace that the term 'egghead,' as a synonym for intellectual excellence, has become a derogatory expression," Schriever said. "Let me tell you that it is the 'eggheads' who are saving us — just as it was the 'eggheads' who wrote the Constitution of the United States."

Schriever also reported on the Air Force's "urgent, all-out effort to develop and to operationally deploy our own long range ballistic missiles." One of these, "the Atlas, will become operational this year, he said.

What the nation needs today and in the future, Schriever said, is "optimum deterrent power — the power to knock out not only the enemy's economic and governmental organizations and facilities, but also his military installations."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, said in a speech prepared for delivery at Kansas City that submarines carrying Polaris missiles will be capable of "retaliation so certain, so inevitable, that any attack upon us becomes national suicide for the aggressor."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, in a speech prepared for delivery to the New York chapter of the Military Order of World Wars, outlined a five-point program for deterrence of war.

All the armed services must participate in such a program, he said, and "we must overcome any impression that we are a country which can respond with a big bomb and little else."

To deter all-out war, the nation must have nuclear retaliatory force, a tight air defense system, strategic deployment of armed units overseas, and effective anti-submarine forces, Taylor said.

The fifth factor, he said, is a well-coordinated means of coping with limited war, with all services participating.

ASTRONOMICAL—People are still on the move, in case anyone doubted it. Passenger-miles in all kinds of transportation registered a slight overall gain of 1 per cent in 1958 over 1957, according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Chart above lists the records of the major carriers. The figure for automobiles alone is equal to about 2,700,000 round trips to the moon.

Congress May Act To Cut Amount Of Industrial Strife

By GEORGE J. MARDER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress may act this year to abolish the "no-man's land" in labor-management relations and reduce the amount of industrial warfare.

President Eisenhower and other government leaders, however, are disturbed about the way the Senate - approved union reform bill deals with the problem.

Under the Taft - Hartley Law, the federal government takes jurisdiction of labor disputes which affect interstate commerce.

But the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), federal referee of union-management bouts, does not accept all cases in which it has the power to act. NLRB officials say they lack money and manpower to handle such a load.

Courts Rule Out States

State agencies and state courts, however, cannot move in just because the federal government declines to act. The states do not have jurisdiction, courts have ruled.

This is what creates the "no-man's land."

Employers and unions in this doubtful territory thus can violate Taft-Hartley without fear of punishment. Their "unfair labor practices" are never prosecuted if the NLRB takes a hands-off attitude.

Generally, labor and management can tell whether the NLRB will step in. The board issues detailed standards, usually based on the gross annual business of the employer, as a yardstick for acceptance.

For years the federal agency would not take a case involving hotels, no matter how large.

Can't Neglect Whole Industry

The Supreme Court ruled, however, that the board cannot rule out an industry as a whole and the NLRB is now considering standards for hotel cases.

The Taft-Hartley Act contained a remedy for the no-man's land but it hasn't worked in practice. It provided that where states had labor laws similar to the federal act, the NLRB could turn over jurisdiction to them.

But too few states have adopted "little Taft-Hartley" laws.

The President and several senators have proposed amending the law so the NLRB would indicate the cases it would handle and the states would have full jurisdiction over the remainder.

A group of northern liberal senators, backed by the AFL - CIO, opposed this solution. They argued that this would mean some firms and unions would be bound by the federal law while others in states not having proper legal machinery—would not.

The Senate-passed bill contains a compromise solution. It would allow state agencies to take jurisdiction in the no - man's land but only by enforcing federal law in the federal courts. This would make labor law uniform, its backers say.

They concede, however, that not all states would agree to backstop the NLRB in labor matters.

It appears that some gap between federal and state jurisdiction would remain if the Senate bill goes through the House in its present form.

Modified Man

Jean Rostand is one of France's leading biologists. As a scientist he has received the Prix de l' Academie des Sciences. He is also a literary man, the son of the famed playwrite Edmond Rostand, whose ever - popular "Cyrano de Bergerac" brought him unending recognition. In this latter capacity. Rostand fils has received the Grand Prix Litteraire de la Ville de Paris.

The Saturday Evening Post has caused an excerpt from his new book, "Can Man Be Modified?" to appear in its May 2 issue after a translation from the French accomplished by Jonathan Griffin. This is number 26 in the Adventures of the Mind series.

We rather fancy that in the end, we could be in harmony with Monsieur Jean.

But what he has to say is so shocking that we are withholding judgment until we learn more. We do not read French and Jean Rostand does not write in English.

'Can Man Be Modified?" Rostand asks the question and answers it without equivocation. He can. But he does not leave it there. He asks a second question. Should man be modified? And his answer to this question, as we interpret his meaning, is that man should be. But we will continue to wonder.

What does biologist Rostand mean by "modify?" He means not so much the process of scientific breeding of the species so that man may become taller, shorter, more handsome or more robust. "No; what interests, what fascinates us is the question of whether he (man) can hope to make himself more intelligent, more clever, more sensitive, more disposed to solidarity and altruism — in a word, more human."

It is Rostand's position that by scientific insemination, by the application of chemicals, perhaps even by lobotomy, man can make himself over as a sort of "superman." He proclaims that for the last 100,000 years man has evinced little if any true development.

Contrary to popular belief, man has long since ceased to evolve... So much so that if, by some miracle, it were possible to fetch a newborn child of that past age (100,000 years ago) into our own time and to bring him up and educate him as one of ours, he would become a man exactly like us: a man whom nothing, either in his appearance or in his conduct or in his private thoughts, would single out as a stranger among us, as a ghost from the past."

This apparent static condition, Rostand proposes to change. He wants man to continue to evolve. And he wishes the evolution to be in a direction of greatness as we presently construe the meaning of greatness. The wish is father to the theory. He says, without turning a hair, that the conditions outlined in Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World," in which infants are mass produced in a factory is only removed from us by slight gasps in our knowledge. However, it is removed from us by enormous questions in the field of morals and ethics.

When Plato wrote on the same subject in "The Republic," the idea of eugenic or scientific breeding was introduced sans morality. The aim of an ideal city in Plato's view was to make the people of the city as advantageous to the state as possible. Nor does Rostand, in this limited translation, find fault with Plato's socialist absolute.

To his credit, Rostand does pose the moral problem. But having posed it, he does not solve it except to suggest that a merger of science and morals might be possible with emphasis upon scientific experimentation with the human race.

He cites the dreadful responsibility of science in presuming to lay hands on the human species in order to alter it, even for its own betterment. Then he adds: "But will it be any less a responsibility if, by resolutely taking the side of inaction, of nonintervention, we deprive man of the improvements in his nature which he could gain from a judicious application of science?"

Since we cannot find a satisfactory answer to this question in the article, we must interpolate our own. We, too, are in favor of man's betterment. We are also in favor of a betterment in the field of morality. And we cannot conceive how we can expect to produce a more moral man by the immoral process of taking hold of him and experimenting with him IF any force is used.

If any man or any number of men wish to volunteer for this kind of scientific fooling around, we would not gainsay them their right of choice. But, by the unfortunate reference to Plato we are inclined to wonder if the great French thinker is not thinking of wholesale experimentation under governmental control and supervision. The door is open for this conclusion. And in light of the present emphasis upon such things thru our own enormously immoral government "mental health" programs, Rostand's article does not allay our fears. On the contrary, it terrifies us.

Governments have already demonstrated their immoral willingness to tamper with human life "for our own good." Rostand is apparently equally willing. Unless Rostand has explained this point in other parts of his book, or until he does, we will most assuredly decry this concept.

To rebuild the human personality by means of a forceful or compulsive program in the hand of our politicians, would, to our mind, be the epitome of evil. The timing of this article, in the midst of our "mental health" enthusiasm, can do incalculable harm. As the article stands, it will serve as aid and comfort to the whole socialist entente which has been endeavoring from the beginning to make man over in the image of Plato.

We might suggest that the editors of the Post offer themselves for biological mutations, VOLUNTARILY of course, in an effort to improve their own moral literary judgment.

Air Force Academy Spending Extravagant

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

Congressman Lee Metcalf of Montana calls attention to another example of shocking waste in government. The cost of the Air Force Academy in Colorado as now being planned could amount to more than $300 million or triple the original estimate.

Some of the luxury items are: $300,000 for reflecting pools "following the spirit of the Spanish Garden in Granada," desks for cadet rooms costing $85 each, compared with $16 for those at the Naval Academy, 44 homes for military professors costing $43,690 each and a proposed home for the Air Force General costing $97,000.

The top soil not being adequate for the Commanding General's mountainside home, it is proposed that trainloads of excellent soil be hauled in, from California.

These are small examples of the excessive cost of government. We all like luxury and, when officials have power to use the people's money to purchase extravagant luxuries for themselves and their friends, few have the courage to resist.

No organizational or accounting methods that men can devise are adequate to keep proper watch over the expenditure of $80 to $100 billion per year that the Federal Government is now costing us. The only way the people can protect themselves against such extravagance is to limit the functions and activities of government to the scope of their understanding.

Divorce government from intervention and control of the economic activities of the people and they will then be able to follow its action in the field of foreign affairs, common defense, protection of life and property and restraint of predation. Once let government expand beyond those simple functions and it is out of control. Enormous waste then becomes inevitable.

Another step that would help control expenditures would be to adopt a hard money or gold standard policy. When government is required to redeem its currency in gold, its spending is definitely limited. On the other hand, when governments have power to issue unlimited quantities of irredeemable paper money, there is no brake upon their spending and the wild orgies of recent years grow worse and worse until poverty and bankruptcy become inevitable.

Is Loss Of Gold A Warning?

The Wall Street Journal of May 6 said the United States lost $101 million in gold in the last two weeks; that this was the largest loss of gold in many weeks. Those people who have not made a study of unemployment, money, banking, credit and prosperity might think this means nothing. It seems to b a warning that we are losing our trade. It is also a warning that foreigners are having less confidence in our paper dollars.

I have been quoting from Dr. Medford Evans on the national debt. So far in his article he showed that we had a debt of $730 billion. Then he goes into contingent liabilities. He points out that we have $30 billion worth of Federal Reserve notes that are redeemable in gold to foreigners — not to Americans. He puts it this way:

"Our Federal Reserve notes can pass into the possession of a foreign government through the commercial transactions of its citizens; through the American cash spent or converted in that country by American tourists; through an avalanche of bills being mailed by immigrants back to relatives in Europe; and in many other ways. And that is without even considering any such bizarre idiocy as giving another government our plates and ink and paper to print for themselves as much of our currency as they wish, which has already happened once and hence could happen again. Just let the value of the American dollar keep on sinking, in relation to the goods which must be traded for them, through the monetization of our debts, and other inflationary pressures. Then this particular aspect of the resulting 'flight from the dollar' could become serious indeed.

Federal Reserve Notes

"Now we know that the U. S. Treasury does not redeem Federal Reserve notes out of its own funds, but only as an agent of the Federal Reserve system, out of a 5 per cent redemption fund posted with the Treasury by the Reserve Banks for that purpose. We are told that the sentence in the Federal Reserve Act making these notes a Treasury liability was written into the Act when it was passed, solely to please William Jennings Bryan and his followers, without changing any parts of the law setting forth the methods of issuing or redeeming the notes. And that the direct promise of the United States to redeem these notes, which we quoted above, is printed on these bills solely because of that 'superfluous' sentence. Also that, for this reason, the names of U. S. Treasury officials are 'improperly' placed on these notes, which should bear the signatures of the Federal Reserve Bank presidents.

"But a foreign government, especially in a time of great stringency, or if and when there is a deliberate plot afoot to make all of the trouble possible for the United States, is not going to show the least concern as to what the arrangement is between our government and the privately owned Federal Reserve System. Actually that arrangement suggests this analogy. If I give a man with whom I do business a power of attorney to sign my name to promissory notes, which I must redeem if presented to me, the fact that he has or is supposed to have the resources to redeem them, and to save me from loss on any I redeem, may make them technically only contingent liabilities of a remote degree for my broad-minded bookkeeping department. But any smart outside auditor is certainly going to add the total amount of these notes outstanding to what I owe, no matter how many footnotes he puts at the bottom of his audit. This decision is all the more justified if the resources which my friend, who issued these notes, has with which to redeem them, consist primarily of slightly more decorative promissory notes of mine, called bonds, which I signed myself. And the decision becomes imperative if the most hard-boiled creditors who are likely to present these notes can demand redemption in a medium — gold — of which my friend and I together have enough to meet only 25 per cent of the notes outstanding, and for the whole further supply of which particular medium I alone am responsible.

"In view of these considerations, of the dishonesty on the part of governments with regard to their national currencies which is rampant all over the world today, and of the whole foreboding international outlook, we think it would be folly not to consider these 30 billion dollars of outstanding Federal Reserve currency as a very serious contingent liability of our federal government. And it should be so weighted in any estimate of the total risk to be faced, in connection with the government's total contingent liabilities of all kinds."

New Scientific Marvel

Robert Allen Reports:

'Kilroy Was There' At Committee Meet

WASHINGTON — Kilroy has popped up in a new and most unusual sanctum — the secret proceedings of the mighty House Appropriations Committee.

In this latest materialization, the famed World War II phantom used the occasion to take an implied poke at President Eisenhower's controversial economizing in the defense budget.

Baffled committeemen are still trying to figure out how Kilroy got among 'em. But however he did, it paid off big for the Air Force.

Following is what happened in this backstage mystery:

At a private Committee session, Lieutenant General Clarence Irvine, chief of Air Force material, was explaining why an additional $500 million is urgently needed for more intercontinental ballistic missiles, particularly the ATLAS, which is still undergoing tests, and the more advanced MINUTE MAN, that hasn't even reached the testing stage as yet.

"Several thousand ICBMs will be required to knock out all of Russia's numerous and widely dispersed missile sites," contended Irvine.

Representative William Minshall (R., O.) was much disturbed by this testimony.

After exchanging such massive barrages of thermonuclear-armed ICBMs," he demanded, "what's going to happen to the civilian populations? And who is going to pay for all this after the shooting is over and everyone and everything has been knocked out?"

Neither General Irvine nor anyone else answered this $64 question. For a few moments, no one said anything and then another committeeman changed the subject. Minshall's question was left hanging in the air.

But a clear and terse answer showed up in the transcript several days later.

When committeemen received page-proof copies of the proceedings, they found printed in bold type immediately after Minshall's question the following:

"Kilroy: Why worry about it? If that happens, it won't matter."

In an effort to get at the bottom of this mysterious pronouncement, Representative Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.), veteran Committee chairman, had a careful check made of everyone present at the meeting. No one named Kilroy had attended.

Representative Daniel Flood (D., Pa.) suggested that possibly someone in the Government Printing Office had inserted the comment.

"It's one of the oddest things that has ever happened in all the years I've been head of this Committee," chuckled Cannon. "Kilroy certainly was there, and his advice was good, too."

At the Appropriations Committee's next session, it voted the money sought by the Air Force for more intercontinental ballistic missiles.

JUICY DEALS — Two big corporations are virtually certain to make more than $36 million in profits in the construction of the Air Forces' new ballistic missile early warning system.

Radio Corporation of America will net an estimated $30.8 million on a total of $440 million in contracts; Western Electric Company, $5.9 million on $85.7 million in contracts.

These striking figures are in an Air Force report to the House Appropriations Subcommittee headed by Representative George Mahon (D., Tex.). The group is making a detailed study of the steadily increasing costs of armaments, and sought the facts regarding the new ballistic early warning system.

This network is for the purpose of detecting and tracking ICBMs at ranges up to 3,500 miles. It will not destroy such missiles.

This system will be in addition to the SAGE network to spot enemy bombers.

In the unpublished report to the Mahon Committee the Air Force disclosed that Radio Corporation will be the prime contractor for electronics for the ballistic warning system, and Western Electric will supply communications equipment.

States the Air Force report:

"It is estimated that a total of $440 million will be placed on the RCA contract . . . and a total of $85.7 million on the Western Electric contract . . . Both are cost-plus fixed-fee contracts . . . and it is anticipated the fee will be 7 percent."

ALL HER OWN — Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce is firmly telling friends that she alone made the decision to quit as Ambassador to Brazil even though the Senate had confirmed her.

The author - playwright-former member of Congress is saying that her husband, head of the TIME - LIFE - FORTUNE empire, did not prevail on her to resign. She determined that all by herself.

"Harry and I make up our own minds without consulting one another," explained Mrs. Luce. "It so happened that in this instance we arrived at the same conclusion. But we did so separately. Harry didn't tell me what I should do, and I didn't ask him. We never do on matters of public policy."

The Doctor Says:

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Among the diseases caused by vitamin deficiency, beriberi is one of the most interesting.

This is the result of insufficient quantities of vitamin B-1 — a vitamin which is found in particularly large amounts in the outer layer of rice and other grains. It is largely or totally lost when these grains are "polished" before being used for food.

Beriberi has been a recognized disease for a long time, even though its cause was at first unknown. It is particularly common among Malayans, Chinese, and Japanese, and is fairly frequent in the Philippine Islands and to some extent in India.

Cases of beriberi have occurred in North America, but it is relatively uncommon here.

Vitamin B-1 is known as the antineuritic vitamin. It is present on the surface of several cereal grains and in different quantities in beans, peas, carrots, potatoes, milk, eggs, certain meats and in yeast.

The reason that rice is so important in connection with beriberi is that in rice eating countries this cereal is the principal source of vitamin B-1. When the rice is polished, the outer layer containing vitamin B-1 is practically entirely removed from the diet.

The disease occurs in various forms. At the beginning there are likely to be symptoms of ordinary catarrh with pains and weakness in the limbs. Slight accumulations of fluid or edema (dropsy) appear, especially in the limbs. In advanced forms this accumulation of fluid can become serious.

Pains are felt in various parts of the body, and heart symptoms such as pounding sensations are felt. In the more serious cases failure of the heart may develop.

Prevention is important. It can be accomplished by making sure that the diet contains enough vitamin B-1.

In our part of the world symptoms of vitamin B-1 deficiency are most common among chronic alcoholics who frequently go for long periods without eating satisfactorily.

Once the disease is well developed it may be difficult to treat with complete success. Very large amounts of the lacking vitamin must be included with an otherwise nutritious diet.

Rest in bed and sometimes drugs to aid in the elimination of the excess fluid are often necessary. Stimulants for the heart and other measures for treatment of the neuritis which is usually present may have to be employed.

Fortunately, residents of North America can easily avoid beriberi by including with their diets the cereals and vegetables which contain adequate amounts of vitamin B-1.

Only ignorance or extreme poverty offers any reason for developing the disease. Hence the alcoholic is likely to remain the principal victim of beriberi here.

The Nation's Press

THE NEW ROBBER BARONS
(The Wall Street Journal)

The news that James Hoffa is rapidly succeeding in building his nation-wide empire of transport workers makes a depressing commentary on the current Congressional debate over union reform legislation.

Last year Mr. Hoffa announced plans for a 50-union amalgam to be called the "Conference on Transportation Unity," but then, in the face of widespread criticism and signs of opposition, seemed to drop the whole scheme. Actually, as this newspaper reported the other day, Mr. Hoffa has been quietly but busily putting the colossus together.

His Teamsters union (truck-drivers as well as many others) already has firm links with dock unions on both coasts and the Great Lakes and with one air trasnport union. There are even hopes of dragooning some of the railroad brotherhoods as the mammoth continues to distend.

In short, the threat is materializing before our eyes — the threat of one man controlling a monopoly able to halt all the transport in the nation and thus, if he chose, play hob with the whole United States economy. Even if Mr. Hoffa and his Teamster associates were upstanding citizens, which is hardly the case, it is plainly a power which no man or single group should be allowed to have.

Yet from the goings - on in Washington, you might think no one was aware of this threat (and the type of power symbolized by Mr. Hoffa's transport combine is also enjoyed by other unions). Neither the Administration's proposed reforms nor other bills submitted in Congress attempt to deal with the basic issue of union monopoly power by making the principle of the antitrust laws applicable to unions.

There is in fact some awareness of the threat in Washington; it is other qualities that seem to be lacking. The Administration omitted antitrust provisions because it considered them unrealistic in the present climate of Congressional opinion. That may have been the correct assessment, but is itself a dismal reflection on the make-up of Congress.

The Administration did, however, attempt to touch at least some aspects of union power in its proposals, notably in urging the tightening of the restrictions on secondary boycotts and the banning of blackmail picketing. These are devices by which unions put pressure on innocent bystanders in order to enforce their demands or propel their expansion. They are crimes against the community at large; clamping down on them would both help protect the public and to some extent curb union power. Since they are devices much favored by the Teamsters, they would specifically make somewhat more difficult the realization of Mr. Hoffa's overweening ambitions.

The Senate blithely junked these recommendations; it seems to want a comparatively much weaker labor bill. But there is still time for Congress to make amends, and the narrow Senate passage of the McClellan "bill of rights" for union members suggests at least the possibility that Congress might yet clamp down on secondary boycotts and blackmail picketing. But Congress will be well advised not only to approve these particular curbs on union power but also to abandon its myths about unions and wake up to the facts.

It is no myth that unions can and do close whole industries. The Steelworkers did it even at the height of the Korean War and may do it again this possibly peaceful summer. Other unions have the same paralyzing power over their industries. It is no myth that Mr. Hoffa is putting himself in a position to run — or strangle —all transport in the nation. It is fact, and only the blind can fail to see the import of the fact.

Surely Congress, despite the indebtedness of many of its members to organized labor, is not so deficient in vision and courage that it is prepared to abdicate to the robber barons of labor.

Fair Enough

Butler Advocated Breaking 'Dry' Law

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — In 1930, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, wrote a spirited exhortation to his fellow-Americans to commit crimes against the constitution and against many subsidiary laws erected by Congress and the states to enforce prohibition.

Idealistic New York men and women of patrician Republican mien provided much of the leadership which finally put down prohibition. Franklin D. Roosevelt presided over the fulfillment of their efforts but he never had raised a chirp against the scourge until after his first nomination in 1932 with an Al Smith plank for repeal imbedded in the platform.

Smith was a frank New York wet who took his beer in public at speakeasies in Saratoga during the racing and gambling season. But the Democratic machines in the big cities were gangs rather than parties and Smith's brave zeal lost some genuine virtue in the public esteem for that reason.

Be it remembered also on this point that Harding took Bourbon and had a florid reputation, possibly exaggerated, in common with many of the elders of both parties in both houses of Congress. He certainly was not a dry. Coolidge and Hoover, coming after him, were non-committal but personally abstemious. They found no personal problem in observing the 18th in private and in public.

That Butler, an eminent fellow notwithstanding Henry Mencken's mischievous japes, could have advocated the commission of serious crimes as a worthy way of destroying a mesh of bad laws, may seem unconscionable, but actually Congress had inflicted prohibition on the country just as Congress a few years earlier had contrived to make it seem that the states had put over the 16th amendment providing the income tax. In both cases, Congress was testing its powers. Its privileged thievery, observed in the graft by nepotism, congressional perquisites and pensions and cash allowances to individual members, is a further experiment in regal authority over the people. In both cases, Congress has ducked its due responsibility. Repeal was won by the very defiance of law which Doctor Butler with intellectual and political audacity flung into the teeth of the congressional majority at the time of his venture.

Repeal of the income tax amendment or constitutional limitation of the congressional taxing power under that amendment thus far has had no leadership with Butler's prestige. Moreover, in this crisis the press has weaseled in the face of a constitutional enormity much more dangerous than the prohibition farce.

Butler wrote in his annual report to the Columbia Trustees that persons who demanded equal enforcement of all laws were fanatics. Free men, said he, always had obeyed laws with selective discrimination and used the same process to select laws which they would frankly and defiantly violate. At that time the general public violation of prohibition was the most flagrant challenge to the authority of government in the nation's history except, of course, during the war for secession.

"There is no ground whatever," Butler said, "for the statement that violation of one law leads to the disregard of all law. Lawlessness is selective. A man may hold one law in utter contempt and yet have high respect for the great body of law of the land. If enforcement meant the enforcement of all law then the social order in the United States would be quickly paralyzed partly because of the absurdity of many of these laws and partly because of their open conflict with one another. Free men always have followed the contrary course and they always will do so. Jefferson, Emerson, and Abraham Lincoln were all of this mind and surely theirs are names to conjure with. No progress will be made in dealing with crime until discrimination is made between that lawlessness which is law-abiding and that which is law-breaking."

As with prohibition, so too, with the 16th amendment. The federal government and, in fewer cases, the several states, have used prison to intimidate the victims. Yet the very amendment itself nullifies all the rest of the constitution by authorizing Congress to seize by taxation every last cent of every individual's income. That has not yet been done, but the tendency has been upward. New York, taxing as income the money which the victim already has paid as presents the classical outrage of the whole system.

Doctor Butler did not recommend specific violations of the 18th and the Volstead Act, but he had no need to. The obvious thing was to buy and drink illicit booze as defiantly as possible. Perhaps today the Department of Justice would try to throw a Butler into prison for advocating crimes as he certainly did by defiant implication.

But whoever should advise the whole public to cripple the internal revenue by filing erroneous returns with faulty addition and naive dislocations of certain data undoubtedly courts prosecution. Yet it were almost impossible for U.S. attorneys to prove that mistakes of arithmetic or interpretation were sly tricks to jam the apparatus with millions of cases for personal review and adjustment.

The victims could say that they were honestly mistaken. And enough millions of cases could render the amendment and the revenue act simply unworkable.

To be sure, a sworn return prepared with such a menial reservation would be a perjured document. But millions of perjuries were committed lightly, with noble purpose and triumphant moral results, in the case of the 18th.
