OIL BOOMS IN RELATION TO BANKS RECITED

Hollingsworth of Mexia Tells State's Financiers Of City's Struggles

3,500 TO 25,000

Houston Gathering Hears Tribute Paid to Texas Legislature of 1925

HOUSTON, May 19.—Mexia grew from a peaceful, well ordered, good average Texas town of 3,500 within 60 days to a turbulent, speculative mad city of 35,000. N. Hollingsworth, Mexia banker told the fifty-first annual convention of Texas Bankers' association at its meeting here today. It all but ruined the farming industry, he said, lowered the morale of many persons and brought unusual problems to the country banks, which had to be met quickly and sanely.

Mr. Hollingsworth was discussing "some problems of the oil town banks." He was one of the principal speakers and told in conversational fashion the rise and decline of the Mexia oil boom, the effect it had on the farmers and on the residents; the temptations to which oil boom town bankers are subjected, how to handle the millions in money which flow over the counters.

Tribute to Legislature.

In his general address, R. L. Thornton, Dallas banker, paid a tribute to the memories of the last legislature as "men who were seeking honest information from clean hands;" termed amendment of the state bank guarantee fund law "a courageous start to right and economic banking; advocated the institution of county examiners and closer co-operation by county banks in the more densely poulated counties; urged that banks assist farmers in orderly markeing and drew a picture of Texas when the "factory smoke stack followed in the wake of development of its natural resources."

Then, he said, the banker will be confronted with another responsibility—to lend encouragement, to assist in the proper financing, "to assist in

Texon Oil Co. Says It Is on a Paying Basis, Before Court

WILLINGTON, Del., May 19. — Clarence Wharton, El Paso, Texas, representing stockholders opposing a receivership for the Texon Oil & Land company, told the federal district court today that the company was solvent and doing a profitable business.

Last week the court appointed a receiver for a block of 2,400,000 shares of stock alleged to have been illegally used. Subsequently application was made for a receiver for the entire company and an order was asked to restrain the holding of the annual meeting May 13 which, however, was held.

Wharton said no chanze was made in the company's officiery and there was no intention of contempt of court in holding the meeting.

Judge Morris ordered a recess to consider the explanation offered by the witness.

TUESDAY MISSES A RAIN.

First Time in Over Week That City Escapes Daily Bath.

For the first time in more than a week, Wichita Falls went through an entire day Tuesday without a soaking at the hands of the weather man. From midnight to midnight skies were clear and not even a hint of a storm appeared.

When that is said, however, it is all said, for the day was a hot and sultry one that caused considerable discomfort. It came on the heels of a relatively cool spell that made the contrast all the more noticable.

An extended period of warm, fair weather is now in store for this vicinity, according to weather bureau predictions.

Mystery Surrounds Death of Drowned Man Near Quanah

QUANAH, May 19.—Mystery surrounds the death of Jimmie Spell of Ardmore, Okla., who was found drowned in a foot of water at Lake Pauline, seven miles from Quanah, this afternoon about 3 o'clock. The body was severely bruised in several places and police are investigating the possibility of foul play.

An inquest was held over the body by a justice of peace at Quanah who stated he was unable to arrive at a verdict. The hearings over the body will be held open for several days, until officers finish their inquiries.

Spell, who was connected with a carnival now showing in Childress, came to the lake this morning with his wife and several friends. Shortly after noon his absence became known and a search revealed his body lying in shallow water. There were several bad bruises on his head that Mrs. Spell said were not there when he came to the lake. Otherwise there were no signs of a struggle.

The body is being held at a Quanah undertaking establishment pending word from relatives in Ardmore.

ADOPT CHILDREN FOR WORK

Charge Made of Farmers Forcing Children to Work.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Assertions that children from eastern foundling homes are taken in "wholesale lots" to southern and western states and legally adopted by farmers for heavy work, were made today by women delegates to the Child Welfare Conference of America. Mrs. Bennett Smith of Temple, Texas, who said she was a lifelong friend of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson of Texas, asserted that many trainloads of children over six years of age are brought to Texas, adopted and made to do heavy work on the farms.

'Snow Baby' of U. S. Admiral to Christen Arctic Flight Plane

NEW YORK, May 19.—Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford, daughter of the late Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, the "snow baby," who was born nearer the North Pole than any other white child, will christen the Peary, mother ship for United States navy Arctic planes, tomorrow afternoon at Brooklyn.

Mrs. Stafford will break on the prow of the ship a bottle of water from Eagle Island, Maine, her father's home. Navy planes will circle over the Peary during the christening ceremonies.

The Peary will carry the navy planes for the MacMillan Arctic expedition under the auspices of the National Geographic Society. Commander onald MacMillan named the ship the Peary in tribute to his former commander and also as an appropriate recognition of the fact that the navy department, the National Geographic Society and himself all had a part in the expedition which resulted in Admiral Peary's discovery of the North Pole on April 6, 1909.

Red Headed Women Best Auto Drivers, And Teachers Worst

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 19.—Here is another mere man who thinks he has analyzed the fair sex. He is Samuel Long, driving instructor for a local motor company. He can "tell at a glance," he says, whether a woman will "make" a good driver. Here is the way he has catalogued the women: Fat women—good, fine, great. Tall women—not so good. Red headed women—the best. School teachers—terrible. The school teachers, Long says, through association with stubborn pupils, become stubborn themselves and can't be taught.

IRELAND GETS 20 YEARS FOR BANK ROBBERY

Last of Four Youths Given Sentence of Long Terms

ARCHER CITY, May 19.—After being out only long enough to take three ballots, a jury in the 30th district court here this afternoon returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Alvin Ireland, charged with complicity in the Dundee bank robbery last November, and assessed his punishment at 20 years in the state penitentiary. The case was started Monday morning before Judge H. R. Wilson and required less than two days to complete.

Last of Youths.

Ireland's sentence sends to prison the last of the four Wichita Falls youths implicated in the holdup of the First State bank of Dundee and the First State bank of Loving. Terms aggregating 94 years were imposed on the four, although in two cases, double terms with the sentences to run concurrently were assessed.

Lew Tillman, credited with being the leader of the bandit gang, was sent up for 10 years on one case and 12 on another; Billy Keys was given 12 years each in two cases; Johnny Reed got 28 years in one case and now Ireland has been sentenced for 20 years in one.

Longest in Archer County.

Veteran court attaches here remarked Tuesday night that Ireland's sentence was the longest term ever imposed in an Archer county district court. The other three youths were prosecuted in other counties. All were handled by District Attorney James V. Allred, who has worked vigorously and tirelessly for the prosecution since the holdups were first staged.

Capture of the bandit gang was due principally to the efforts of Warren Belcher, at that time a state ranger, who uncovered evidence that led to suspicion being first fastened on the four and who aided materially in running them down.

Brother of Alleged Imposter Testifies Man Is His Relative

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 19.—Three men, one of them a brother of Arthur Frazier, Sioux Indian, offically declared dead, corroborated in federal court today the claim of the man who is suing the government for disability compensation that he is Arthur Frazier.

Earl Frazier, Arthur's brother, declared under cross examination that he had "no doubt that the plaintiff is my brother." The government contends the plaintiff is Arthur Lopez, a Mexican.

Frazier was questioned as to Arthur's ability to speak the Sioux and Ponca Indian tongue. He admitted after he had stated that Arthur had learned the Ponca language at 7 or 8 years of age that it "took some from 10 to 15 years to learn it."

William Henry Janis, a ditch contractor, and James Belmont, a laborer both of Winner, S. D., testified they believed the plaintiff was Arthur Frazier.

Dempsey Seasick But Paris Cheers Champion Anyway

PARIS, May 19.—(AP)—A pitched battle between admirers of Jack Dempsey and Paris police greeted the American heavyweight fighter today when he arrived in Paris with his bride. This disturbance followed a rough passage of the English channel that resulted in seasickness for the champion.

A salvo of broken window panes at the railway station was the salute the Dempseys received when the police, anxious to keep a passage clear, closed two of the three exit doors from the platform, against a crowd attempting to force its way in. Several were injured and more manhandled by the police, but thanks to Georges Carpentier's elbow work and swift, deft interpreting, the Dempseys managed to escape unscathed to a waiting automobile.

A crowd of 3,000, mainly railway employes and young adepts of the fistic art cheered "vive le champion du monde."

VERNON MUST BUILD UP HER C. C.--HARRISON

Wichitan Delivers Address To Business Men At Meeting

VERNON, May 19.—"A new chamber of commerce, backed by the combined ideas and the cooperation of all of Vernon's citizens, that's what Vernon wants and by virtue of this campaign, will have," Hubert Harrison, manager of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce told a mass meeting of Vernon business men at a greaier Vernon dinner and rally at the First Presbyterian church at Vernon last night.

About 250 business men of Vernon attended the meeting and heard the Harrison address, and heard in so many plain hard words just what Vernon needed and just how to go about getting that need.

"Make Vernon a comfortable and wholesome place to live in—make Vernon home. Make your youth satisfied here. Send them away to college but be sure to get them back to Vernon for their life work.

"Cities are built by men for women. Tie this new chamber of commerce to the home rather than to the shop. Where you have a contented people business will follow.

"You are laboring to make conditions better for your women and children, not merely to increase your income. If you are thinking only of getting yours, of making money, you'll never know the joys that come to the citizen who loves his home town. Go to work, work for Vernon, it is your chance to make this city a real home for your family."

The Honorable E. H. Gibson, formerly of Wichita Falls, opened the program with a talk knocking the knocker, and flaying the citizen who held his own interests above those of the common good. "We don't need get-rich-quicks in Vernon," he said flatly. "They are the biggest knockers and we don't need knockers in Vernon.

Man Carries off Girl At Point of Pistol, Marries Her, and the Bride Smiles

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 19.—(AP)—"We're married." With this laconic statement, William Rumsey, 35, a bookkeeper sought since Monday afternoon as the "kidnaper" of Miss Corinne Walter, 20, greeted police and reporters who found them today in a newly furnished bungalow.

Rumsey adopted cave man tactics to win his bride, he said, because of opposition. He did not say whose opposition. Appearing yesterday at the office where Miss Walter was employed as a stenographer, he produced a revolver and summarily commanded her to accompany him and be married.

She refused, whereupon the modern Lochinvar picked her up without further ado, carried her to a waiting automobile and departed in "high" with other employes of the office sounding a hurry call for the police.

Today anxious searchers found the pair. Mrs. Rumsey wore a pink gingham apron as her bridal gown. Both wore broad smiles.

"She doesn't look like she's been kidnaped, does she?" the groom demanded.

Widow of Reilley Sues Slayer For $130,000 Damage

Herb Griffin Named As Defendant in Big Suit Tuesday

GRIFFIN IN JAIL

Suit Is Filed One Year To Day From Fatal Shooting

A suit asking damages of $130,000 has been filed in the 30th district court at Archer City with Mrs. Hugh Reilley as plaintiff and Herbert Griffin, Dundee rancher, as defendant. It was filed last Saturday, May 16, exactly a year to a day from the time the plaintiff's husband was shot and fatally wounded at an isolated spot on his ranch not far from the diversion dam. Griffin, the defendant, is now in jail in Wichita Falls awaiting an appelate court ruling on a 25 year sentence imposed for murder by a Young county jury. The case was tried at Graham on a change of venue from Archer county and later Griffin was brought to this city.

In her petition Mrs. Reilley asks $50,000 for actual damages as a result of her husband's death; $50,000 as exemplary damages and $30,000 for the benefit of her minor daughter.

Hugh Reilley Jr., was killed by a rifle shot through the head following an altercation with Griffin near a boundary line of their ranches in the Dundee vicinity. Griffin immediately surrendered after the shooting, was indicted, tried and convicted. The tragedy culminated a long period of ill-feeling between the two, it was said.

The damage suit is believed to be one of the largest ever filed in this section of the state.

1830 1925

Nelson A. Miles.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)—With the full splendor of military honors due his rank and valor, Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, veteran among veterans, was laid to his rest today amid the comrades of many brave days who keep their last watch together in Arlington National cemetery.

Long ago, before his active army life had ended, the gallant soldier stood upon the bold promontory that juts out beneath ramparts of grass at old Fort Meyer in the Virginia hills, and looked down across the river to the tree-sheltered city beyond. He willed it then that his last sleep should be upon that quiet slope, and tonight his wish had been realized.

Aside from the high military honors befitting his place in the service he loved, the funeral rites were brief and simple. It remained for the army, navy and marine corps, trooping in escort with the columns filled by trudging, sun-browned lads, to testify to the tradition of sturdy loyalty to the flag he had handed on to them.

The president and high officials of the government had gathered in St. Johns church near the White House, before the clattering cavalry heralded the coming of the gun carriage that bore the flag draped casket on this last journey. Gathered with them were a few old friends of the veteran, many bent with age and a few clad in the uniforms of another day. There, too, were army officers now heading the military councils of the nation over which General Miles once presided, who seemed strangely youthful beside the more than four score toll of his years, spent almost from boyhood in service under the flag that draped his casket.

Eight general officers of the army, only one of whom is on the active list and who was the official representative of the active army, one rear admiral, long ago retired, and a civilian friend were the honorary pallbearers for the dead leader. Sturdy young non-commissioned men of the army of today, trim in olive drab and tan trappings, bore the heavy casket.

The service of committal at the door of the tomb was very brief, and at its completion, a squad of riflemen stepped out, the triple volley of the soldiers' requiem crashed, and the soft, slow bugle notes of "taps" called a last goodnight to General Miles.

Humble Will Lay Four-Inch Pipeline Into Throckmorton County

COUNTY WILL AT LAST GET CRUDE OUTLET

Line Will Terminate at Stubblefield Pool, Black 991

COST $60,000

Announcement Regarded As Of Major Importance To Field

By A. HALLMAN.

Humble Pipeline company is to begin this week the actual laying of a seventeen-mile four-inch pipeline to take the oil from the Stubblefield area southeast of Throckmorton, Throckmorton county, giving that county its first oil line, and insuring its entrance into the production column for Texas counties.

The line will run from the Eliasville terminus of the company to the Humble's well in block 991, Premium survey, north of Woodson and southeast of Throckmorton. Reiter and Foster also have a well here making about 85 barrels a day in the same block from a slightly shallower sand. The cost is expected to be contained in $60,000.

Five or Six Wells.

Throckmorton county shows five or six wells, all small producers with the exception of the Humble and Reiter and Foster wells, together making about 125 barrels. The first well in the county, in block 21, Comanche Indian reserve is reported still making about eight barrels a day, from sand at 839-842 feet.

Reiter and Foster are known to be contemplating further drilling in the vicinity of their single well in an area already proven for two pay horizons and with Humble's entrance with a pipeline other drilling can be expected.

Thought of Once Before.

Once before Humble seriously considered bringing a line into Throckmorton county, that when they first completed the well, the initial showing leading many to believe it would make a 200-barrel or better producer. This plan was abandoned, however, when the well started off at about 45 barrels.

The entrance of a pipeline into a wildcat area is always of major importance in its development as a market for production is the first real prerequisite of the wildcatter. The entrance of the Humble's line into Throckmorton county may be recokned especially as the biggest thing in the history of the country's oil development outside the actual finds that have been made.

Oil Gossip

J. G. Terry of Moran, Shackleford county operator, was a Wichita Falls visitor yesterday. Mr. Terry is much impressed with the new activity heading toward Shackleford county. Three portions of the county, he says, are getting an extraordinary play, one northwest of Albany near the old Hope-Jeter stuff, lately revived by the Hope extension completion and now showing about 20 running rigs.

Another point about 15 miles northwest of Albany is attracing attention and shows five wells drilling, one by Adams and Moody, three by Amos G. Carter and one by Gillam and Logan. These are all cable tool tests.

It is the area just southwest of the old Ibex pool that is attracting the major attenion, though. Phillips Petroleum company's No. 2 Parrish here, after being drilled into the shallow pay at 2,084-91 feet from which a few wells in the Ibex area are producing, showed 1,350 barrels one day recently, and is reported to be making several hundred a day now.

The No. 1 on the same lease has been cleaned out and drilling three feet deeper after producing several years with an original initial of 200 barrels at 2,080-81 1-2 feet and is back now with about 800 barrels a day production. Bottom of the hole is now 2,084 1-2 feet.

Edwin M. Jones, for a while one of the most active operators in North Texas with nine or ten rigs going in the Wichita Falls counties alone, is a little quieter here now, with all but one or two rigs shipped to Arkansas for use at Smackover.

The Atlantic No. 5, Zipperle, section 80, South Vernon, is the sole activity here now of the Arkansas operator, outside of Gray and Carson county work. This well reported yesterday down at about 500 feet.

The Prairie Pipeline company dispayed a number of visitors to the unsuspecting pubic yesterday, numbering among them Daniel Phelps of Weatherford, line foreman; Daniels Leary, foreman at Eastland; Charles Earle, purchasing agent from Tulsa; Harold Leonard, superintendent of telegraph from Independence, Kan.; O. C. Calloway; H. E. Brown, superintendent of the electrical department, Independence, Kan.

G. A. Terral of Newcastle was a Wichita visitor yesterday. Newcastle, he reports, is in quite a flurry over the lime well of Whitehead and Maxwell on the Perkins land, just east of the townsite. There is quite a bit of trading and a general expectation of other drilling.

Shamrock Sells "55" Full of Oil

The Shamrock Oil company has sold its "55" at Swastika with some 55,000 barrels of oil in storage to the Wichita Pipeline company for a consideration of slightly more than $307,000. The oil is understood to have secured the posted price.

Simms, Collins

Simms Oil company was carrying down its ten-inch in its No. 1, Collins, northeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 7, block 10, H&TCRRCO survey, two and one-half miles south of Odell, north Wilbarger county, total depth about 1,140 feet.

Bryan Ends Tour In East After Second Hissing by Hearers

NEW YORK, May 19.—After a tour of the east during which controversies involving modernists, fundamentalists and evolution burst forth with renewed vigor, William Jennings Bryan today is on his way to Columbus, Ohio, to attend the general assembly of the Presbyterian church and become, it is reported, a candidate for moderator on a strictly fundamentalist platform.

The commoner, whose speech at the Brown university, Providence, R. I., was followed by hissing and booing, was accorded a somewhat similar reception at one of three addresses on evolution that wound up the eastern campaign here yesterday.

He was twice interrupted by the Rev. James M. Williamson, who denied Mr. Bryan's assertion that "modernists send missionaries to Africa when they have no message to send."

Mr. Bryan touched upon his assistance in the prosecution of J. T. Scopes, Dayton, Tenn., science teacher, on charges of violating the law against teaching of evolution. "The disgrace is not to Tennessee," he said. "It is that teachers paid out of taxes of a community which stamps its dollars 'In God We Trust' should betray the trust reposed in them by the taxpayers."

Dudley Field Malone, lawyer of New York and Paris, has received from Judge John Randolph Neal of Knoxville, Tenn., an acceptance of offers by Mr. Malone and Clarence Darrow to assist in the defense of Scopes.

Mr. Malone telegraphed Judge Neal it was "un-American and unconstitutional for legislative or ecclesiastical authority to attempt to limit the human mind in its search after truth."

While Mr. Bryan was busy denouncing evolution yesterday the Rev. John Roach Stratton, New York fundamentalist, was defeated in three attempts to have a Baptist ministerial conference go on record as reaffirming its belief in the church's tenet of baptism by immersion only.

Dr. Stratton's thrusts were aimed at the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, modernist, who has been called to Park Avenue Baptist church and has stipulated that the church shall not insist upon immersion.

University Club Plans for Next Year at Meeting

University club members listened to discussion of plans for club activity next year at luncheon meeting Tuesday noon at the Kemp. C. A. Rogers, chairman of the progress committee, and other speakers addressed the club with suggestions and ideas, and several letters of suggestion were read. The committee will submit a written report of their action at the next meeting, it was stated.

The Wichia Falls Junior college was the keynote of many of the suggestions, and plans were discussed whereby rural students might be encouraged to complete their school work as far as possible in their own community, and then come to Wichita Falls to continue their higher education at the Junior college. Means for securing part time employment for the students were suggested as an aid, and the idea of sending speakers and entertainers to rural schools when needed was introduced, as a duty of the club.

Alva E. Willgus, director of religious education at the First Presbyterian church, delighted the club with two baritone solos, accompanied by J. S. Pitman at the piano.

33 Years Experience in Ladies' Wear

INDIANA AT TENTH MILLER FERGUSON CO. INCORPORATED FINE LADIES WEAR

REGENTS SEEK PATHS AROUND VETOES OF MA

Various And Sundry Juggling May Save Wreck Of Jouralism at "U"

GALVESTON, May 19.—Assurances that journalism students now attending the University of Texas will be given an opportunity to continue their course and obtain their degrees was given by the board of regents in session here today when they created the office of associate professor of business administration, naming P. J. Thompson, a member of the faculty of the school of journalism, so as to combine this work with that of journalism for advanced students.

The board of regents in discussing budget matters, considered the schools of journalism, music and library science. It was hoped that some means may later be developed to continue the school of journalism, but provisions were made at this time only to take care of those students already in the school, no new journalism students to be accepted.

Eliminate Music.

The regents definitely decided to eliminate the school of music for the next term. An appropriation of $10,000 was vetoed by the governor, although $30,000 had been asked for the conduct of the school. It was decided that $10,000 would be insufficient to properly conduct the school.

The regents propose to rearrange the school of library science and offer it under a new plan. The proposed plan provides for a change of name from the school of library science to library economy to be given at the graduate school of the university. The teaching staff is to be drawn from the library staff. A master in science degree will be offered to students having B. A. degrees, or students working in libraries who are twenty-one years old.

The summer session at the university will be conducted this year funds having been appropriated by the legislature two years ago. Dr. Walter Splawn, resident of the university, expressed the belief that funds would be obtainable for the next two years for continuance of this school, although no definite plan was worked out by the regents in today's session.

Dr. Splawn Heard.

Dr. Splawn also expressed gratification with the appointment of Miss Ruby Tirrill of Commerce as dean of women to succeed the resignation of Miss Lucy Newton. The appointment was made on the recommendation of Dr. Splawn and women of the faculty.

The oil royalty situation was discussed at length, following legal opinions given by Judge Padelford and Judge Mart H. Royston, the latter of Galveston. Based on the ruling of the attorney general, that the royalties must revert to the general fund, it was decided to place the matter in court and let the state supreme court decide upon the matter.

Dr. E. B. Patton was appointed professor of economics at the main university and Dr. Alonzo Coz, professor of business administration. All bids for the repair of the medical department building at Galveston, approximating $50,000, were rejected, it being declared that they did not meet the specifications.

The resignation of Dr. M. L. Graves as professor of medicine was accepted. Dr. Graves is to move to Houston to reside. The resignation of Dr William Keiller, dean of the State Medical college, was received but no action was taken by the regents. The meeting ended here today, the regents finishing sooner than had been anticipated.

What's Doing — Here and There In West Texas

At Haskell.

SUPERINTENDENT RE-ELECTED

Superintendent H. D. Neff who has served so efficiently as the head of the city schools of Haskell for the past year has been re-elected to the same position for the 1925-26 term. Mr. Neff came to Haskell with the recommendation of being recognized as one of the leading educators of West Texas and one who did not confine his interests entirely to his line of work, but one who always shouldered his part of civic obligations. The citizenry of Haskell has found this to be true and are glad to learn that he will be in their midst for another year. Mr. Neff has purchased a lot across the street from the Haskell high school and a modern six-room bungalow is being erected. Haskell welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Neff as permanent residents. Mrs. Neff is an accomplished musician and has been quite an addition to the school, clubs and musical circles.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Thirty-one Haskell boys and girls are in the graduating class of the Haskell high school this year, and on Sunday morning took their accustomed places in front of the chancel rail of the First Christian church and were honor guests as the Harmony club sang four beautiful choruses, and Rev. M. L. Baker led in prayer, previous to the splendid baccalaureate sermon preached by Rev. G. B. Forrester, pastor of the church. Mrs. John W. Pace played the processional.

HASKELL BAKERY

The new Haskell bakery which is being installed by Oscar Harcrow of Rochester, is nearing completion and will be ready in a very short time to open its doors for business. The new business is in the old postoffice building in the F. G. Alexander and Sons block and will be in charge of A. D. Odell of Haskell.

WOLF HUNT IN HASKELL

What is reported to be one of the greatest gatherings of wolf hunters and their dogs ever assembled in this section of the west, is now in camp on the Baldwin ranch near Old Glory. Hunters from different sections of the state and other states are on the ground and are taking active part in the hunt.

PRESS INSTALLS MACHINE

The Haskell Free Press, one of the best papers in West Texas, edited by Sam A. Roberts has just installed a new model 14 linotype machine in the press room. This addition is in keeping with other fixtures of the plant as Editor Roberts is an up-to-date newspaper man, having been editor of the Haskell Free Press for about 10 years and is also co-partner of the Chulicothe Valley News.

HASKELL WOMAN BURIED

Mrs. Jack Baldwin, who has been confined to her bed with a lingering sickness for several months, died Saturday and was buried Sunday afternoon in Willow cemetery. She was the wife of Jack L. Baldwin, one of the oldest and most highly respected pioneer cattle and stock ranchmen in this section of the state. She is survived by her husband and six children, Frank Baldwin, an attorney of Houstin, Miss., Miss Fannie Jack Baldwin, Elizabeth Baldwin and Fress Baldwin, Haskell, and Miss Mabel Baldwin, teacher in Dallas high school, and Mrs. Mode Collins, Olney, Texas.

HARDWARE MEET.

Under the auspices f the State Hardware and Implement Dealers association, district meetings are held throughout the state, embracing 15 or more counties. Dan Socrates, secretary of the state association, has notified W. R. Goldue, local hardware and implement dealer that the meeting will be held in Iowa Park on August 4 and 5. A large representation of hardware and implement dealers from various parts of the state will be in attendance.

Iowa Park being at the gateway to the irrigation project, is thought to be a logical place for such a meeting. It is thought that some real advertising of the Wichita Valley irrigation section can be given and done among the 200 to 300 visitors who will be here for the meeting.

HOPPER WAR ON.

A delegation of Iowa Park people met with the farmers of the Valley View community one night last week and planned to make a real war on the Hopper pest. At this meeting the farmers all agreed to use the bran mash poison, making it up according to the standard formula. The farmers believe they can make the task easier by all uniting and fighting in a body. Bran can be bought for $1.60 per hundred pounds while the mollasses, as cost in Iowa Park for the above purpose. Those who attended the meeting from Iowa Park are: R. F. Auglin, C. E. Birks, A. C. Golden, W. R. Golden, J. M. Morrison and N. L. Chrisman.

SURRENDER OF DALLAS COMES AT U. C. V. CALL

160 Carloads of Veterans In a Single Day Pour Into The City

DALLAS, May 19.—(AP)—Youthful Dallas tonight lay captive at the feet of silver haired aged as the columns of Confederate veterans moved in on the city for their thirty-fifth annual reunion opening formally tomorrow. The committee in charge officially announced that a record for attendance apparently had been broken estimating that more than 4,000 veterans had arrived. There was no attempt to count the thousands of sons and daughters of veterans.

The organization devised to care for the old visitors was put to such a severe test that George Waverly Briggs, vice-chairman of the reunion committee, in large advertisements in Dallas newspapers appealed to the people of the city to throw open their homes to all veterans who had not been cared for by previous arrangements.

160 Carloads in Day.

About 160 carloads of the men in gray were brought in by the railroads today. About 3,000 veterans are encamped at state fair park, where 3,500 sat down to dinner this noon. The camp is a city in itself. Besides its row on row of cots, its long tables, its immense kitchen, it has a completely equipped hospital, with many nurses and doctors on duty every hour of the day and night.

In the center of the park is a great reception tent, and here the heart of the Confederacy poured out its invincible spirit in tales of how it might have been. Two old time fiddlers sawed away on "Billy In the Low Grounds," "Arkansas Traveler" and "Turkey In the Straw," while many of the old men limbered up for a jig and a roundelay.

A number of erstwhile negro slaves were in the crowd. William Slaughter of Culpepper, Va., a negro minister, preached an intermittent sermon to a group of white soldiers, some of whom he had served in the war.

G. A. R. In Greeting.

In the midst of the run, a message was received from the Texas division, Grand Army of the Republic, which also is holding its annual reunion here today. The message expressed felicitation over the passing of wartime hatreds and sent greetings from the boys in blue to the former foe in gray.

A number of the old men were overcome by heat or other indispositions in the first part of the day, but they were quickly revived by the doctors and nurses, and no serious cases were reported.

Three meetings today constituted the preliminaries. The Texas division United Confederate Veterans, at a meeting this morning, attended by veterans from almost all Southern states, made an appeal for the entire south to join in the proposed $20,000,000 memorial college to honor the womanhood of the south. On a rising vote a majority of those present expressed themselves in favor of the veterans' considering the plan.

This afternoon the Southern Confederated Memorial association held a welcoming meeting at which United States Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas was the principal speaker. Mrs. A. Med Wilson of Atlanta, Ga., president of the organization, presided. Welcoming addresses were delivered by Gen. James A. Thomas, commander-in-chief of the veterans and D. S. Etheridge, commander-in-chief of the Sons of the Confederate Veterans.

Holland N. Randolph of Atlanta, Ga., presented new Stone Mountain memorial half dollars recently struck off by the United States mint to aid the memorial carved on the face of the Stone Mountain. Mr. Randolph speaking for the memorial, referred to the "unity of fellowship which has gained full sway under the American flag, no wthe emblem of unity." The new coins, he declared, were symbolic of "unity and perpetuity." A combined meeting of the three organizations was held tonight.

$330,000 Permit For New Perkins-Snider Building Is Issued

Another record—or at least a near record, in the building permit line was assured for May when a $330,000 permit was issued Tuesday afternoon for erection of the Perkins-Snider office building at Ninth and Indiana. This, added to permits for the other smaller structures to be started during the month is expected to bring the total for May to well over the half million dollar mark.

Although no exceptionally large permits have been issued before this month, a number of important construction projects are just starting and it is believed a few more in the $50,000 class or above will come in before June 1.

Seven permits in all were taken out Tuesday, their total value reaching $347,550.

The permit for the Perkins-Snider building stipulated that it was to be of fireproof construction throughout, 150 by 100 feet in dimensions and six stories in height. Work will be completed within eight months.

"Is Old Type New?" Asks Rail Commish

AUSTIN, May 19.—Metal type that has seen its best days and stands discarded in the field of journalism is to come before the bar of the Texas railroad commission July 14, with its appellation at stake. This was the order of the commission today.

The issue, to be settled by the commission, is whether worn out type shall retain the title given it when it emerged shiney and new from the foundry, or henceworth shall be classed with other derelicts in the mechanical world as ordinary junk.

Texas railroads are instigators of the hearing.

THE WAY TO CHANGE HABITS.

Two maxims have been laid down for those who are endeavoring to acquire a new habit, or leave off an old one.

The first is—Launch yourself with as strong and decided an initiative as possible. Accumulate all the possible circumstances which shall re-enforce the right motives; put yourself in conditions that encourage the new way; remove yourself from the environment of the old; take a public pledge if the case allows; in short, envelop your resolution with every aid you know.

The second maxim is—Never allow an exception to occur until the new habit is securely rooted in your daily life. Each lapse is like the letting fall of a ball of string which one is carefully winding up; a single slip undoes more than a great many turns will wind again. Continuity of training is the great means of making the nervous system act infallibly right, it nas been established over and over.

William James adds a third maxim to the preceding pair; Seize the very first possible opportunity to act on every resolution you make, and on every emotional prompting you may experience in the direction of the habits you aspire to gain.

No matter how full a reservoir of maxims one may possess, and no matter how good ones sentiments may be, if one has not taken advantage of every concrete opportunity to act, one's character may remain entirely unaffected for the better. With mere good intentions, hell is proverbially paved.

"A character," as John Stuart Mills says, "is a completely fashioned will," and a will, in the sense in which he means it, is an aggregate of tendencies to act in a firm and prompt and definite way upon all the emergencies of life.

William James observes that a tendency to act only becomes effectively ingrained in us in proportion to the uninterrupted frequency with which the actions actually occur, and the brain "grows" to their use.

"When a resolve or a fine flow of feeling is allowed to evaporate without bearing practical fruit it is worse than a chance lost; it works so as positively to hinder the future resolutions and emotions from taking the normal path of discharge.

"There is a no more contemptible type of human character than that of the nerveless sentimentalist and dreamer, who spends his life in a weltering sea of sensibility and emotion, but who never does a manly concrete deed."

ON OBEYING THAT IMPULSE.

There is a trite saying to the effect that we are often more foolish than we think. Too frequently this is true.

On the other hand, we are often wiser than we believe. For it is true that our brains are not the wisest part of us.

You may have observed that in the great moments of life, when a man decides upon an important step, his action is directed not so much by clear knowledge of the right thing to do, as by an inner impulse or instinct, proceeding from the deepest foundations of his being.

If later on he attempts to criticise his action by the light of hard and fast ideas of what is right in the abstract—those unprofitable ideas which are learned by rote, or, it may be, borrowed from other people; if he begins to apply general rules, the principles which have guided others, to his own case, without sufficiently weighing the maxim that one man's meat is another's poison, then he will run risk of doing himself an injustice. The result will show where the right course lay.

All this the philosopher had in mind when he opined that it is only when a man has reached the happy "age of wisdom" that he is capable of just judgment in regard either to his own actions or to those of others.

It may be that this impulse is the unconscious effect of a kind of prophetic dream which is forgotten when we awake—lending our life a uniformity of tone, a dramatic unity, such as could never result from moments of consciousness, when we are easily led into error, so liable to strike a false note.

In one of his essays Schopenhauer suggests that it is in virtue of some such prophetic dream that a man feels himself called to great achievements in a special sphere, and works in that direction from his youth up out of an inner and secret feeling that that is his true path, just as by a similar instinct the bee is led to build up its cells in the comb.

This is the impulse which Balthazar Gracian calls the great power of moral discernment: it is something that man instinctively feels to be his salvation, without which he would be lost.

RELIGION OF JESUS CHRIST.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr. is a churchman. He has been a churchman from early boyhood. His father set him the example. He spread before his son high ideals. Now the son is spreading before his children high ideals. John D., Jr., is a Sunday school teacher. He teaches large classes.

He says that the things taught in the Sunday school must be real, they must be practical, for the reason that young people do not like things that are not real. Furthermore, he is unwilling to teach dogma or doctrine.

This is his argument, "the world is coming back to the religion of Christ. The world is coming to lay aside the man made religion of the theologians."

All the Rockefellers are members of the Baptist church. Is John D., Jr., a fundamentalist or a modernist?

WEST TEXAS.

West Texas believes in going forward. Its business men are never asleep at the switch. They should advertise West Texas abroad as they advertise it at home. This is the latest from the pen of an enthusiastic boomer of the west:

"West Texas is an empire which has the ability to furnish enough cotton and wool to cloth the world, and enough beef, mutton and poultry to supply the needs of the people of the entire United States. We want railroads in Texas and as many as possible to come to our doors."

By Dr. Frank Crane

GOOD AND EVIL.

"Few people speak of humility, humbly," says Pascal in his "Thoughts," "few chastely of chastity and few doubtfully of doubt."

No truer word has been penned than this. Those who speak the most of chastity are of questionable repute in their virtue. Indeed the most chaste are those who are the most unconscious of it. As for those who doubt, there is quite as much of a dogmatical nature among them as among those who believe. Attention has often been called to the cocksureness of doubters.

It is certainly to be expected that those who give themselves up to doubt should doubt their own doubts, but, as Pascal says, we are so composed of duplicity, contrariness and untruth that, in our very attack against beliefs we use a belief that is quite as dogmatical and intolerant.

It is a question whether those who have any virtue at all are not those who are unconscious of it and that those who attack us are not themselves guilty of the very things which they attack.

Take it in the matter of egotism. Our very railing against it often displays an egotism greater than that which we oppose and those who compose discourses against pride are as proud of their discourses and their readers are as proud of reading them as the people whom they condemn.

In fact, the criticism of any vice demands a virtue the most rigid as the first question asked by everyone is, "What right has one to criticize and oppose unless his own hands are clean?"

We are so frail, and our virtues are so questionable, that the business of judging others should be left to those who are perfect, and of these there are at least very few.

Those who set themselves up to criticize the frailties of mankind should either be above them or below them, at least he should be removed from the argument tu quoque. Solomon and Job, again says Pascal, knew best the misery of man and have spoken the best of it; the one the happiest of men and the other the most unhappy; one knowing the vanity of pleasures by experience and the other the reality of evil by experiencing evil.

In both cases the judgment of these men was true because they were removed from participation in pleasure, the one by overfeeding and the other by a knowledge of evil.

WANTON WASTE OF MONEY.

Texans are spending millions of dollars annually for highways, and Texans will continue to spend millions of dollars annually, until the vast empire is lifted out of the mud in the rainy seasons and the dust in the dry seasons.

A. R. Losh, is a United States district highway engineer. In a recent interview he declared hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost on road building by failure to plan highways propperly. He further declared that in his 20 years of road building experience he had seen very little actual graft, but that he had seen many thousands of dollars wasted through ignorance and selfishness.

This comes of putting or attempting to put square pegs in round holes. Highway building is a science. Why should practical politicians be placed in charge of construction work? Why should they be clothed with power when they lack the knowledge of the experience to plan highways properly? There are many highway problems to be settled in this state, and lastly those who use the highways should pay for their upkeep after they have been built.

PUBLIC UTILITY INVESTMENTS.

George McQuaide says the public utilities, not including railroads and telephone and telegraph companies, have invested all told around $16,000,000,000, represented more strictly by the eletric light and power, gas and electric railway utilities. With the railroads and other public utilities, he says the total investment is upward of $35,000,000,000 or about 10 per cent of the national wealth. Now how would it be possible for the federal government to take over the public utilities and pay for them?

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

A Sample Day.

I once asked the most efficient business man I know how he was able to despatch so much business in a short time.

He never had the appearance of being very busy.

He never seemed to be in a hurry.

His desk was always clear. And visitors, who had any real business with him, never had any trouble in seeing him.

In answer to my question he said:

"I began life as a salesman. After I had 'learned the line' I was sent on the road, carrying samples with me.

"On these samples I sold bills of goods.

"I got to thinking about salesmanship, and about samples.

"As the goods were always up to the samples I sold the same customers again and again.

"I also got to thinking about the best ways to make use of my time so as to get the most results out of it.

"I found I was doing many things without much system, and was often short of the time I needed for my work.

"One time it occurred to me to sit down and work out a sample day, in which everything would be done on a system, every job despatched in its proper order, and the same time of the day allotted as far as possible to a separate duty.

"The working out of this sample day was not easy. It was hard to arrange it so as to allow for necessary but unforseen interruptions without interfering with the regular flow of the work.

"But at last I did it.

"I put that day into operation immediately.

"And I made every working day like it, as soon as I had modified it in practice so that it satisfied me.

"Now my duties are entirely different, for I own the business I am running. But the sample day is the same in system, and I still adhere to it.

"I manage to get twice as much work done in seven hours as any other man in the office who has not taken my advice and adopted a sample day of his own.

"There is nothing particularly original about the scheme. I suppose other men do it too. But it is well worth doing. It has saved me time, and made the time that I have worth more money to me than it would be if I did my work haphazard.

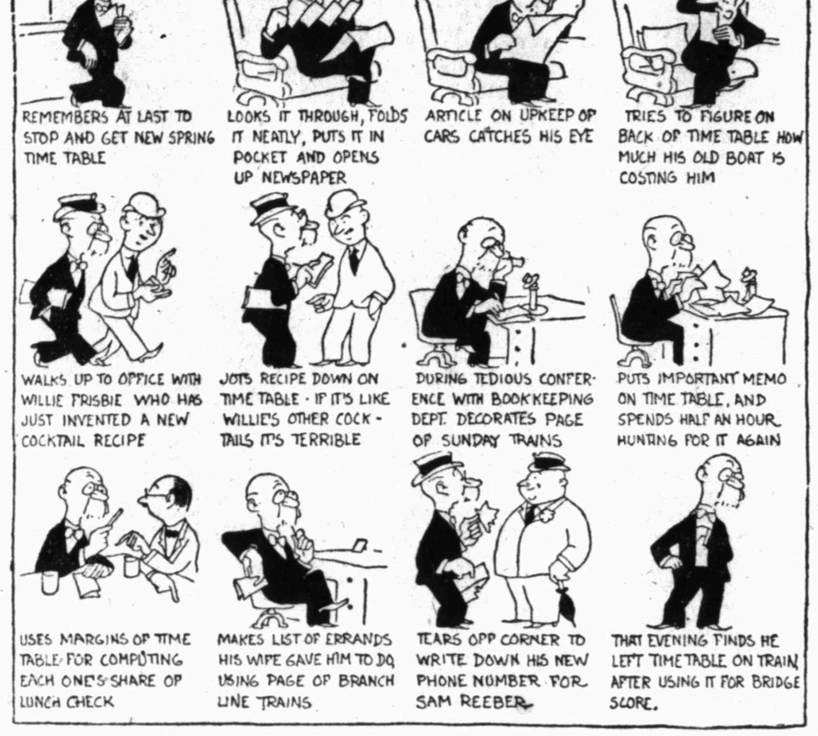

"If your readers are interested in the plan, I will let them use it without any royalty. I couldn't collect one anyway. I think they will find it well worth their while, and I know that it will make their work more interesting to them.

"Some day when I have time I will make up a list of the order in which I discharge my various duties, and let you write it down for them, if you want to."

Irrigation

The Bond Issue of District No. 1.

Yesterday's article showed why it was impossible to get the money to build this project in the way that money had been secured for irrigation in the past.

But the money was secured by Mr. Kemp, and it was done in a rather unique way. We do not know of any irrigation project which has been financed in the same manner.

The citizens of Wichita Falls formed a district under the state law. This district was known as a water improvement district and was formed ostensibly for the purpose of improving the water supply of this city, which it certainly did.

The people then voted to bond the district for $4,500,000. The bonds were to be paid off in small amounts over a period of over 30 years. All the property in Wichita Falls and within the legal boundadaries of district No. 1 is security for this bond issue. It lies as a mortgage on everything until finally paid off.

City bonds issued to provide a better and more adequate water supply are far more readily sold than are irrigation bonds of any kind. What was offered to the bond buyers was a bond secured by the assets of the fastest growing and wealthiest city in the state of Texas. They had a market.

Only a part of the bonds were sold at first. A St. Louis bond house bought $3,500,000 of them but at a discount. Sufficient money was secured, however, to permit the district to go ahead and let the contract for the construction of the two reservoirs and the main canal.

HOW IT STARTED

Signaling With Flags.

Flag language of our present system of marine signaling is something that most of have witnessed. If we have seen in the movies the bluejackets of one ship conversing with a vessel perhaps half a mile away by means of flags which they waved in the air according to a certain code.

The code now in use si universal, so a vessel using a signal book printed in English can communicate with a vessel using a signal book printed in Italian or the language of any other maratime nation. It is of British origin and dates from 1856.

The use of flags as signals, however, is of ancient origin. The Venetians are known to have made wide use of them in this way and there is evidence that simple signals of htis kind were employed in still earlier times. It was not until 1856, however, that Great Britain initiated the detailed system that is used throughout the world today.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

TAURUS.

There is nothing very exhilarating or stimulating in the planetary aspects of today, and prudence indicates that great care and watchfulness is needed, and no risks of any character should be taken. A conscientious compliance with your customary duties and obligations is about all that should be attempted, and there is tendency to accident, and the probability of a great disappointment. No agreements involving financial responsibilities, should be executed, and much deliberation should, if untoward results are to be avoided, be given to both speech and action.

All the signs denote a long life and a happy one for the child born today: the auspices under which it will make its appearance are exceptionally favorable, and augur well not only for its spiritual but for its physical, well-being. Its disposition will, although serious, be attractive, and its natural kindness of heart and charm of manner will endear it to all those with whom it becomes associated. It will be rather slow to make friends, owing to an innate reserve, which will not detract in any way from its charm. It will be at once studious and painstaking; not quick to learn, but retentive.

If today is wour birthday, you possess a great amount of ability and are, unfortunately, never forgetful of the fact. No one could ever accuse you of hiding your light under a bushel, nor do you need the assistance of others to sound your praises: you may be self-made, but ff so, you never fail to worship your creator. This is most unfortunate, as this habit makes you at times, obnoxious to others, whereas, if you were a little less blatant and a trifle more modest, you would always be welcome.

You are very industrious, and your judgment rarely errs: you make every effort to be kind to and considerate of others, but are always disposed to talk so much about these acts of good impulse, that your benefactors lose their charm, and are, by many, avoided rather than welcomed.

You are often at a loss to understand the frigidity that awaits you: a little self-examination will, however, convince you that intelligence and goodness advertise themselves, and do not require that the attention of others should be directed to them by methods that are open to criticism.

Successful people born on this date are: William G. Fargo, expressman; John Swinburne, physician; George W. Tryon, conchologist; Gustav Cramer, photographer; Col. Albert A. Pope, manufacturer; Emil Berliner, inventor.

POEMS THAT LIVE

THE NUN

If you become a nun, dear,
A friar I will be;
In any cell you run, dear,
Pray look behind for me.
The roses all turn pale, too;
The doves all take the veil, too;
The blind will see the show.
What! you become a nun, my dear?
I'll not believe it, no!

If you become a nun, dear,
The bishop Love will be;
The cupids every one, dear,
Will chant 'We Trust in Thee.'
The incense will go sighing,
The candles fall a-dying,
The water turn to wine;
What! you go to take the vows, my dear?
You may—but they'll be mine!

More Truth Than Poetry

BE CONSIDERATE

A writer begs people to spare the rattlesnake because of the pleasure afforded to some people by watching his engaging ways.

If you should meet a rattlesnake,
Don't seize a club and scotch him,
But treat him kindly for the sake
Of those who love to watch him.
Although indeed no charms are his
Of manner, mind or feature,
Yet certain parties think he is
A most engaging creature.

He is not bound by any laws
That you and I can measure,
He bites his enemies because
It gives him simple pleasure.
And there are people, we are told,
Who gain much satisfaction
What time the repitle they behold
In fierce and deadly action.

If you should meet a rattlesnake
Upon the rolling prairie
Or by the margin of a lake
It's wiser to be wary,
But do not crush him 'neath your heel—
Have some consideration
For those, who when they see him, feel
A thrill of fascination.

Suppose he sinks his fangs in you
In a vindictive fashion,
As rattlesnakes will sometimes do
When in the heat of passion;
Bear with him, for the sake of those
To whom this fell employment
Will plunge in the delightful throes
Of genuine enjoyment.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP YOUR WIFE IN LOVE WITH YOU, PLAY FAIR WITH HER ON MONEY MATTERS, GIVE HER A BIG DOSE OF AFFECTION AND TAKE HER OUT AT LEAST ONCE A WEEK

A young man said to me the other day:

"I am going to be married, and I earnestly and honestly desire to make my wife happy, but beyond a vague and rudimentary impression that I must not beat or starve her, I haven't an idea of how to go about the good-husband job. What should a man do to keep a woman blessing her lucky stars that she married him, instead of wondering what on earth the fool-killer was doing that she survived her wedding day?"

"Well, son," I replied, "your theoretical ground work for being a good husband is a sound foundation on which to build, though refraining from beating your wife is not the matter of course thing that you seem to think it is. There will be plenty of times when you will want to do so, and bitterly regret that no perfect gentleman can lay his hands upon a woman save in the way of kindness, no matter how much she needs a thrashing or he yearns to give her one.

"While as for giving a wife sustenance and raiment, believe me, that to be a good provider is one of the brgihtest jewels in the crown of a good husband. No matter what other charms and virtues a man may have, he is a poor makeshift of a husband if he cannot give his wife a comfortable living. And, on the other hand, no man is a total failure as a husband if he laps his wife in luxuries. Jewels, and motorcars and fine houses, and fine clothes are a consolation prize that takes the curse of many a woman's disappointment in marriage.

"Having, then, accorded your wife considerate treatment and given her a good home, the next step in being a good husband is to play fair with her on the money question. Get off on the right foot there and you will save yourself endless bickerings and prevent her from feeling a bitterness toward you that will grow and grow until it will kill out all of her affection for you.

"The first disillusion that many a bride gets is when she finds out that the prince of her dreams is a tightwad, who haggles with her over the market money and who is so stingy that he never gives her a penny of her own. There isn't a woman in the world who is enough of a worm of the dust not to resent having to ask her husband for the money she knows she earns as housewife. So go fifty-fifty with your wife on the money proposition. Give her as big an allowance as you can afford and be decent enough not to ask her what she does with it.

"The next item in being a good husband is to be affectionate to your wife. Don't expect her to take it for granted that you still love her because you haven't applied for a divorce from her. You handed her a fine and convincing line of love talk while you were courting, her and there is no excuse for your cutting it off and becoming as dumb and clammy as an oyster just as soon as you've got her.

"No normal woman can live without love and be happy. It is just as necessary to her well-being as food and drink are, and if she is deprived of it she suffers all the agonies of soul starvation, which are worse than those of the body. When you marry a woman you isolate her from the love making of other men, and so you are in honor bound to provide her with an ample supply of soft talk yourself.

"Therefore, make it a rule of your life to give your wife at least one kiss every day that has in it some thrill of love and passion, and that isn't flavored with ham and eggs like the perfunctory peck on the cheek or the back of the ear as they are starting for work; that is all that most men ever hand their wives in the osculation line.

"And for heaven's sake, don't neglect to pay your wife compliments. When she has on a new dress tell her how pretty she looks and how be coming it is, instead of grunting or demanding to know how much it costs. If you have eyes enough to see other women's pretty clothes and intelligence enough to say the right things about them, why not about your wife's, when it would please her to death and make her think what a wonderful man she had married?

"The next point in being a good husband consists in doing something actively to make your wife happy and showing a human interest in her. Many men think they have done their whole duty as husbands when they furnish their wives with food and shelter and plenty of money.

"I have heard men excuse themselves for never remembering an anniversary or giving their wives a little present by saying that they didn't know what Mary or Sally wanted, and that they had charge accounts at the best jewelers and department stores and could buy themselves whatever they wanted.

"That kind of thing doesn't make a woman happy. There isn't a wife in the world who wouldn't get more thrill out of a dollar string of blue beads that her husband bonught because they matched her eyes than she would out of a pearl necklace that she bought herself on her wedding anniversary because her husband had forgotten they were ever married.

"It is the personal touch that counts with women. The sentiment The knowledge that her husband is concerned about her, that he notices when she is tired, that he appreciates all that she does, that he tries to make her happy and wants to give her every pleasure that he can.

"If you want to be a good husband, son, remember to do the little things, and the bing things will do themselves. Be affectionate, be kind, be appreciative, jolly her instead of finding fault with her. Be liberal in the use of flattery and take her to some place of amusement at least once a week, and she will thank God on her knees in having given you to her for a husband."

AID SOCIETY SEEKS HOMES FOR 2 GIRLS

Two Children Need Parents Badly, Says Society Matron

Two girls, one 12 years of age and the other 14, are in care of Miss Katherine Henricle, local representative of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society who is anxious to find a suitable home for each.

It doesn't matter where they come from. Miss Henricle, to whose hands 18 orphaned youngsters are now entrusted, has their full record and enough on their ancestry to satisfy her own conscience as to their fitness for adoption. As she does in every case brought to her attention, she has exhaustively investigated all circumstances surrounding the placing of the pair as wards of society.

"These are two unusual girls," Miss Henricle declared yesterday. "It isn't often I find a pair with the family background they have. Both are well-bred and with the benefit of an early home environment of such nature as to give them a touch of refinement and culture."

The elder girl, Miss Henricle said, now has a frail and delicate constitution that will not permit her to do much heavy work. Lack of proper care for several years past has undermined her health, although thorough medical examinations have revealed nothing inherently wrong. "She needs a mother more than anything else," Miss Henricle says.

The younger girl is a happy, healthy, wholesome kid of unusual brightness.

Homes preferably out of Wichita Falls are wanted and Miss Henricle asks that any one in any way interested in the case phone her at 7756.

The public is cordially invited to attend the recial.

The pupils showed signs of ability and training in the manner in which they gave their selections.

JAIL NEARING COMPLETION.

Building operations in the improvement program at the county jail are beginning to approach the enud. The new addition which will double the jail capacity of the structure has been completed in skeleton form, steel work has been set and the walls and roof completed. There still remains considerable finishing work inside, however.

Workmen are now busy erecting ornamental pillars on the east side of the old part in order to make it conform structurally with the balance of the building.

SOCIETY

SIMPLE but impressive was the ceremony performed by Rev. Milo Atkinson of the First Christian church when Miss Billye Harper plighted her troth to John Wood Harris, Jr., at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Oakes, at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Only relatives and a few of the closest friends heard the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony Mayor R. E. Shepherd sang "Until" and "At Dawning." The bridal pair were unattended and approached an altar of gladiolas and peonies, with a background of ferns, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mrs. R. E. Strange. During the ceremony Mrs. Strange played softly "Call Me Thine Own."

The bride was beautiful in an orchid crepe gown, embroidered in silver. She wore a hat to match and carried a shower boquet of roses.

Mrs. Harris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leroy Harper of Nashville, Tenn., and Orlando, Fla., and a graduate of Ward-Belmont school. She is a popular visitor here, having visited several times before with her aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. Oakes and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Duke. Mr. Haris is of this city but formally of Kansas City. He is a graduate of Missouri university and is with Staley and Wynne in the oil business at this time.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Harris left for a week or ten days visit in Galveston. After their arrival home they will be at home to their many friends at the Kemp hotel for the time being.

The only out of town guest at the wedding was an aunt of the bride, Mrs. G. W. Davidson of Dixon, Tenn.

DO YOU LIKE TO ARGUE?

Are you the sort of person who enjoys an argument for its own sake? Do you perhaps spend an entire evening upholding a cause, getting quite heated over its justice and righteousness—and then the next evening, on hearing someone else uphold exactly the same cause, do you face about, and argue against it?

Sometimes this simply shows an active brain, anxious to work out both sides of a problem.

On the other hand the love of argument is sometimes just the sign of a contrary nature which hates to be found agreeing with anybody or anything.

And this particular kind of disposition earns a host of enemies.

For the person who loves to argue finds herself growing much too earnest and red-faced and excited over some trifling question which was just brought up casully.

The chronic arguer will sometimes start in a quiet reasonable way by saying: "Well, now I don't agree with you there. It seems to me that—"

All very well—her opponent waits until she has finished and then proceeds with his side of the case.

But the argument-lover interrupts him before he is half through and exclaims excitedly, "Oh, you're crazy—why, you don't know what you're talking about—" and she proceeds to discourse another five minutes.

Again her opponent takes up the cudgels, and again he's shouted down by the lady who loves to argue.

Which is rather bad taste, and usually embarrasses all the other people present.

It shows a lack of restraint and good breeding in the girl, herself, and if she persists in this habit of arguing just for the sake of argument, she gets to be known as a rather unreliable person.

For you can't place much faith on the word of a girl who argues heatedly all one afternoon that the modern flapper is no worse than her grandmother, and who is heard the very next day denouncing the present-day girl as the wildest species of female that ever lived.

The permanent arguefier finds after a while that her opinions carry little weight—that people are rather apt to smile wearily when she voices her views on different subjects.

Also her unpleasant habit of growing excited over the most trifling sort of discussion eventually wears on her friends' nerves.

Have all the nice friendly arguments you want—but don't let the habit get the best of you.

Floral Heights Methodists Entertain

NEW MEMBERS GUESTS AT EVENING RECEPTION

HONOR GUESTS

NEW members of the church, those who have joined since November, were the honor guests at a reception and party Tuesday evening at Floral Heights Methodist church. The parlors of the church were decorated in floor baskets of flowers and vases filled with flowers. Guests were met at the door by the heads of departments which included Messrs and Mesdames S. A. Barnes, Frank Richardson, W. B. Chauncey, W. B. Gutherie, Milton Johnson, W. S. Curlee, George Windburn and Mr. W. P. Ferguson.

Rev. Barnes Leads.

Rev. S. A. Barnes led in the fun-making. One of the amusing numbers, planned by Mrs. R. E. Schoolfield, was when S. M. Gose Sr., and R. E. Schoolfield were competitors in a contest. Both could play a "mouth harp" and both could play it well and that made it hard to find out who could play better. Every time one would finish a number the crowd would applaud until they would play another. Finally it was decided a tie.

Other numbers on the program were vocal solos, "Absent," by Metcalfe and "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" by Mrs. Merle Waggoner. Miss Evelyn Frances Cowden gave several readings. P. G. Evans sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "When You and I Were Young Maggie"; Miss Mary C. Boone played a group of piano selections; Dan Boone gave a reading; R. E. Schoolfield read and Mrs. W. B. Chauncey gave several negro dialect numbers.

Following the program came a grand march with Mrs. Louella B. Thompson and Rev. Barnes leading, and Mrs. Bernard Miner at the piano. After which refreshments were served.

The honor guests included Messrs. and Mesdames O. M. Pierce Parks, J. W. Thomas, G. W. Ray, Joseph Stephens; Mesdames E. S. Carey, T. W. Barnes, J. W. Chambers, E. E. McNeill, Anna Price, F. E. Armstrong, Ross Corlett, J. L. Huffines, B. M. Burt, Geneiva Skidmore, M. S. Innes, Paul H. Davis, Louella B. Thompson, Bruce Brooks, R. L. Elrod, R. A. Finley, L. C. Laws, J. W. Turner, E. R. Archambeau; Misses Agnes Blackman, Mildred Bauchman, Fegy Laws, Martha Lou Davis, Wilma Thomas, Dolores Riley, Belva Lee Chambers, Leta Chambers, Eva Chambers, Marjorie Ketner, Vera B. Richardson, Leroy Richardson, Francis Alice Jones, Elizabeth Ann Bishop, Nancy Favor, Dorothy Price, Mary Huffines, Mary Marie Dillard, Virginia and Mary Joe Lawrence, Katherine Kiersey, Cathleen Gason, Catherine Kay, Sarah Creath, Donnehey Huffines, Gladys Mundt, Fay Weaver, Maurine Murrell, Phoebe Lou Sehmann, Chrystine Gordon, Ivo Wilson, Margaret Connelley, Annie and Dorothy Brice, Hazel Champion, Helen Green; James V. Wright, Leon B. Davis, Robert Kelm, Dayton Curlee, Edward Bishop, Edward Carey, Harold Reeves, John A. James, Billye Ducker, J. C. Daniel, Julian Dew, Jerome Jenkins, Robert Faver, Joe Witherspono, James and William Lawrence, Leon Huffines, C. R. Higginbothan, J. G. Harvey, John Mundt, B. W. Miner, Charles Price, Harry Billingsly, Noble Green, L. C. Laws, Billie McMillan, Woodrow McCracken, Earl O'Dell, J. W. Turner, Harry Brassell, Daryl Daniel, V. A. Huff, Leman Taylor, Tom Reed, Charles Brice; E. R. Archambeau, V. C. Campbell, Charles Price.

De Molays of Wichita Falls enjoyed a banquet and dance Monday night at the parish house, under the chaperonage of Messrs J. D. Bright and Bentley Bacon and Mrs. J. W. Rugely. The banquet was presided over by Emmet Bauknight, head of the patrol, in the role of toastmaster. De Molays heard the announcement from Lawrence Rolins, former patrol captain that he would award $10 to the best drilled member of the patrol at next Tuesday night's meeting at Masonic temple.

BLACK-DRAUGHT HELPED COUPLE

South Carolinians Find Relief From Distressing Disorders by Taking Well Known Vegetable Medicine

HARTSVILLE, S. C.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry James, of this town, both report the great help Thedford's Black-Draught has been to them in the treatment of several common ailments.

"I had a bad spell with my stomach," says Mr. James. "After I would eat, if I ate anything with grease in it, I would pit it up and it would be right sour. I would feel tight in my chest and a slimy bitter taste in my mouth, until I got where I didn't want to eat.

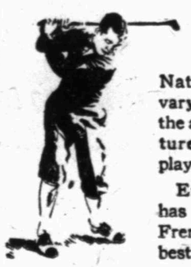

"My druggist told me Black-Draught was good, so I began using it. I took small doses after meals and it did help me. I quit spitting up; my food seemed to digest. I keep Black-Draught and use it all the time, when I have the least trouble, and it cleanses the liver and does me a lot of good."

"I saw that Black-Draught was doing my husband lots of good," Mrs. James continues the story, "so I thought I would use it too. I had a tight feeling in my chest after meals, a lot of gas, too, and my skin was yellow and muddy-looking. I felt tired all the time, just played out, but after taking Black-Draught I was no longer constipated, my skin cleared up and I felt much better in every way."

A million packages of Thedford's Black-Draught are now old a month.

PETE ROGERS IN SLEUTH'S ROLE SPIKES A PLOT

V-P-G-M of Wichita Falls Electric Company Nabs Radio Interference

Verily, the way of the transgressor is hard—especially when the transgressor is one of Pete Rogers' electric lights and Pete happens to be cruising around looking for trouble.

Pete, it might be explained for the benefit of a few, is v-p-g-m of the Wichita Falls Electric company—a genial soul (Pete, not the electric company) who finds in his humming generators, taut strung wires and gleaming lights that perfection of creativness every master craftsman demands of his product. To keep them atuned and properly in service is a task amounting to obsession with him, and in the fulfillment of that task lies the germ of this yarn.

It seems that Monday night radio appliances in Wichita Falls were an ill-behaved lot of bawling, screeching mechanism, none of which could be relied on to bring in an orchestration, vocalization or even a speech of the tariff in approved fashion. Evidently, outside interference was playing havoc with the ether. Such trouble had been encountered before.

Everybody Was Static.

This interference at one time was all but disrupting radio receiving in Wichita Falls, and it was finally eliminated, or rather minimized, through the efforts of some legitimate radio fans who contrived to run down the offender and pop him plenty. Wireless broadcasting is what did it and Pete helped out in solving the difficulty.

When Monday night's radio wardance started Pete got busy. He fed his Studebaker some more hay, cast off the anchor chains and taxied out of the landing shed. Behind him on a specially contrived shelf was a fair-sized radio outfit. Woven under and around the top were myriad copper wires.

As he drove, Pete manipulated the jiggers on the control board of his set and listened with an expert ear. He sailed west for a time, and the screeching from the sensitive set at his rear grew less raucous. Then he turned north and drew further away from the business district. The further he got the less audible was the screech.

But when he started toward town the blaant howls grew in volume and eeriness.

"Ah ha," thanks Pete.

He came on and coasted down the hill. Te racket increased.

Then Down Indiana.

"I wonder now," mused Pete, "where all the fight could be."

He took a swing down Indiana, ambled over to Ohio and ran around on it for awhile. Then he moved back to Indiana, on over the Scott, on to Lamar, then back and forth, up and down, here and there, out and in, what have you? At times his radio roared with the power of a Titan; again it dropped to the gentle whisper of a spring-time zephyr laced with moonbeams and nectared with a love's kiss. (The reporter who wrote this admits he's good.)

It varied, brother; but Pete observed that it attained its fullest estate as he neared or reached Ninth and Indiana avenue. Just to make sure he experimented. He plunged in with a rush; he edged in sideways; he slid ahead slowly and smoothly—sort of sneaking up unawares so the corner couldn't prepare. He made a flank attack and then hammered at the center. Net result—the same.

By a process of reasoning peculiar to the scientific gentry, Pete deduced the seat of the trouble was near at hand.

"I wonder?" thought Pete. "Joe Perkins or Frank Timberlake wouldn't be raising the devil this time of night. Louis Pink's joint seems quiet enough. All the lights are out at Burgesses and those concrete mixers Charlie Snider's got strung up over there don't look very troublesome. I wonder?"

Pre-occupied; Perplexed.

Pete pondered patiently, perplexed preoccupied — but prepared. His trusty motor purred with a musical intonation. His alert eye scanned the corner's horizon. He was ready at an instant's notice to light astraddle any radio transgressor that might pop its head within range. And a transgressor was near at hand. No doubt of that. Pete had an abiding faith in the efficiacy of his radio.

But he WAS puzzled. It wasn't on the books that any wireless sets were down town; he knew the electric wires of his own system weren't on a technical drunk; and he thought Charley Kirby's telephone wires and L. L. Allbritton's trolley lines knew how to behave themselves. It was a conundrum besides which the status of the Spudders was as easy as a baby's cross-word puzzle for an English professor.

Peter, as aforementioned, pondered patiently. But try as he might he could only flounder in a sea of speculation and theory.

He was on the verge of giving it up for the night when he took a chance shot that, like many fired at random in the air, strike home.

"I don't s'pose Henry Ford could be to blame, but it's worth looking at," he opined.

Accordingly he dismounted and footed it down toward the Olympic, where flishing lights proclaimed to all and sundry that Alice and Mary had a knock out act in something a smack of Parisian feminity.

The Secret's Out.

It wasn't Henry's fault, but Pete's persistence was rewarded—or rather, Pete's persistence was rewarded but what he found was none of Mr. Ford's doings.

Out in front was a big lamp standard that had developed chronic indigestion, or whatever it is electric lights ail with. Ever and anon it sputtered and flashed; it did kliowat acrobatics, ampherical tail spins and voltaic nose dives. Peter watched in amazement and slowly it filtered through that here was the evil he had spent an hour hunting.

The rest of the story is short.

Repairs were quickly made—and the radio interference promptly disappeared.

Technically, it should be explained that the electrical disturbance set up by the misbehavior of the light was, in many respects, like that caused by wireless broadcasting. It was so similar, in fact, it fooled even an astute judge as the electric company manager whose ingenuity finally ran down the whole thing.

Verily, the way of the transgressor IS hard—and, as the poet once observed, "ain't nature grand."

Now, as Witwer might remark—"you tell one."

First Presbyterians Romp On First Baptist Nine In Rioto us Tilt

PRESBYS GRAB PLAY-OFF BY 12-3 FIGURE

Lefty Marvin Roberson Is Hard For Baptists To Solve

FRANCIS TOPS HITTERS

Fritz Taylor Cuts up Afield And Snares Almost Everything

The First Presbyterian club of the Sunday School loop took the long end of a 12 to 3 count from the First Baptist nine in a seven-inning postponed game on the Junior college diamond Tuesday afternoon. Lefty Roberson heaved some mighty fine ball until the seventh inning when pulled to give Skipper Hartt a chance to see what Shipley could do on the hill.

Coyal Francis led the hitters with two singles and a double in five times at bat. Fritz Taylor starred afield. Taylor snared everything that came his way.

Action In Second

The first inning came to a speedy close with the score column still blank, but the Presbyterians got to Lefty Lesley in the second for six counters. Coyal Francis opened the inning with a crashing double to center. Burks was hit by a pitched ball and Marvin Roberson walked, filling the bases. Larry Roberson's single to left scored Francis and Burks. Hartt hit to Lesley who attempted to force Marvin Roberson at third, but threw wild. Marvin Roberson scored, Larry Roberson took third and Hartt held first. Riley popped to short. Taylor swung for the third one, Beck dropped the throw and Moore dropped his peg to first. Larry Roberson scored and Hartt took third. Harvey forced Taylor at second, Ellis to Morgan. Hartt was held at third. Harvey stole second. Hartt and Taylor scored on Shipley's single to center. Francis collected his second hit of the inning, a single to left. Burks walked, filling the bases. Marvin hit a hot one to Sprangler who make a neat stop, and tagged Francis on the line.

Two singles, three stolen bases, and a walk netted the Presbyterian nine another tally in the third.

Two singles, two errors, two stolen bases, and a wild pitch let over three more Presbyterian counters.

Hits were bunched off Marvin Roberson in the fourth and fifth.

Morgan Triples.

Morgan opened the fourth with a walk. Ellis moved him up with an infield out. Morgan took third on Shell's single to short. Daniels hit to Marvin Roberson who trapped Morgan between home and third. Shell took second and Daniels first. Beck singled to center scoring Shell, and Daniels scored when Riley heaved the ball wild over the third baseman's head.

A single by Lesley and a triple by Morgan netted the third score for the Baptist.

A nice double killing saved trouble in the sixth for young Marvin Roberson. Daniels walked and stole second. Beck hit to Marvin Roberson who threw wild to first. Taylor fell down in recovering the ball and with a leap at the bag, the ball in hand, he beat Beck, straightened up and nipped Daniels trying to score.

Bam Poles One Into Bleachers

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, pushing aside his ills and grasping a baseball bat for practice, knocked a ball into the bleachers at the Yankee stadium today.

The home run king motored to the Yankee park just before noon and immediately donned a portion of an old uniform.

For a quarter of an hour he kept newspapermen dashing to all parts of the lot to recover his drives.

"Just tell the fans," Ruth said in parting, "that you saw me and that I'm rearing to get into the game."

The American league champion hitter has been confined to St. Vincent's hospital since returning from the training trip a victim of influenza.

During his stay here an operation for abscess brought on by fever was found necessary.

Carlyle Sustains Wrenched Shoulder

ST. LOUIS, May 19.—Left Fielder Carlyle of the Boston Red Sox wrenched his shoulder and forced to retire when he ran into a pavilion in endeavoring to field George Sisler's triple in the third inning of today's game with the St. Louis Browns. It was the thirty-fourth consecutive game in which Sisler had hit safely.

Fighters Put On Benefit Card At Lake for Denton

Iowa Park Legion Plans To Stage Weekly Bouts

A benefit boxing bout for Joe Denton, Amarillo boxer who was knocked out last Thursday in a bout with Clyde Hull, will be staged next Tuesday night at Lake Wichita under the auspices of the Bruce Cobb post of the American Legion. Hull himself will be one of the featured scrappers.

Denton was thought for a time to have been seriously hurt in his bout with Hull. He was knocked unconscious in a fall from the ring and was in the hospital for two days. As it was, he will be unable to box again for at least six months and possibly longer.

When the idea of a benefit was suggested, Hull was the first to offer his services without charge. A number of other local boxers have also agreed to go into the ring gratis. All funds realized from the exhibition will be turned over to Denton.

In Tuesday morning's Record News it was announced that a series of athletic exhibitions would be staged this week under the auspices of the Elks club here. This was erroneous, in that all contests there will be under the auspices of the Bruce Cobb post of the American, Legion, Iowa Park.

Glenna Starts Slow But Winds Up With Rush

American Golf Queen Nips Welsh Champion, 5 And 3

TROON, Scotland, May 19.—(AP)—Miss Glenna Collett, former American champion, made a mediocre start in the British women's open golf championship today, but after ten holes of nervousness and hard struggling to hold the little lead of one up over the Welsh chompion, Miss M. R. Cox, she snapped into a superb stretch of shot making with a birdie at three at the Eleventh and then piled up par after par until she had obtained victory by five holes up and three to play.

Tomorrow in the third round of the championship Miss Collett meets her supreme test with Miss Joyce Wethered, the title holder, as an opponent.

Cats Claw Out Win Over Bears As Sears Shines

Seven Homers Are Batted Out, Three Are By Sears

SAN ANTONIO, May 19.—Seven home runs, three by Sears, who drove in 11 runs contributed to the Fort Worth Panthers in their victory over the San Antonio Bears in the opening game of the series Tuesday, the final score of which was 19 to 8. Nearly 4,000 witnessed the slugging game in which the Panthers got a first inning start that the Bears were never able to overcome. Three home runs in the opening round off Jim Lindsey with two bases on balls and a single netted six runs and a base on balls in the second followed by Sears with his second home run boosted the Panther score to eight before the Bears got started. The Bears opened an attack in the fifth on Kemner, which caused Jakey Atz to spend Ralph Head to the strip but before he finished the round Joe Pate was rushed in and Bear scoring ceased. The score:

BUFFS NOSE ONE OUT

SHREVEPORT, May 19.—After holding the Spots in check for eight innings, the Buffs blew up and allowed the Sports to score seven tallies in the ninth, but the early lead of a dozen runs was just enough to stave off defeat for the Buffs. The total for Shreveport was but 11. Robert Burns pitched well until the eighth stanza, when the Sports batted him for two runs. After Ostergard doubled with three on in the ninth Diviney took charge, Bonowitz hit a homer in the ninth with a man on to add to the combination. your foods need ICE!

Economists say that May is one of the worst months in the year, viewed from the standpoint of food spoilage and waste. This, they point out, is because many people unwisely delay taking ice regularly until "hot weather".

In the meantime, May's balmy temperatures permit germs to destroy the health-giving value of millions of dollars worth of food. Ice is a health safeguard and a real economy every month in the year. Especially in May.

successful guidance to the end that those who come may succeed in their various enterprises; to assist in choosing those best fitted for a particular purpose and locality in order that we may register the minimum of failures."

James L. Scherhorn of Detroit, a former newspaper publisher, called the bankers "the trustees of the toilful people of Texas." He said there was considerable opportunity for statesmanship at Austin as compared with statesmanship in some other states and noted in passing that Michigan has a bachelor governor, "a bootlegger in love," he said. "I salute Texas," he added, "as having the better of the situation."

Don't Drive Too Hard.

He urged the gathering to stand by the constitution, referring to the contest between "rum-row" and the government forces off the coast of New York, and with it restoration of the church and the home to "its old fashioned supremacy." He urged bankers to heed the red isgnals on the thoroughfares of life, adding that he had seen a dozen Detroit bank presidents die because they drove themselves too hard.

Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, widely known as an exponent of the intercoastal canal from New Orleans and along the coast of Texas urged the project as an economic necessity. "The time will come," he said, "when we must do something to supplement railroad transportation. Transportation as a whole, is not keeping step with the progress of the state. The future of Texas depends upon increased transportation."

F. M. Law, Houston banker, welcomed the delegates at the meeting which he said, was the first of the association in Houston in nine years. The audience applauded vigorously his statement that he "knew of nothing more important to the country than tax reduction. Inheritance taxes, he said, should be reduced and finally wiped out."

Tucker Royall, president of a Palestine bank, responded. He urged formation of a Texas bankers' commission to study the industrial opportunities of thhe state. "And when the day arrives," he said, "when Texas becomes a manufacturing as well as agricultural state, there will have been produced the wealthiest and the most wonderful commonwealth in the world."

Message From McFadden

A message from Louis T. McFadden, chairman of the house banking and currency committee, Washington, who was on the program for an address, expressed his inability to be present. The afternoon session was given over to the trust company section with a number of Houston bankers present. Guy Price of Fort Worth, outlined present day legislative problems.

After a dance and a lawn party in the afternoon, delegates were entertained tonight with a program and dance at the city auditorium.

Back Achy—All Worn Out?

ARE you lame and stiff; tired, nervous and depressed; miserable with backache and sharp twinges of pain? Then look to your kidneys! Good health depends upon good elimination. But sluggish kidneys allow impurities to accumulate and upset the whole system. Backache is apt to follow; stabbing pains, depressing headaches and dizziness, getting up at night and other annoying kidney irregularities.

Why experiment? If your kidneys are sluggish, why not use Doan's Pills? Doan's is a harmless stimulant diuretic. Used the world over. Ask your neighbor!

Here Is Wichita Falls Proof:

J. T. Woodhouse, 1103 Travis street, says: "My kidneys acted too freely and this bothered me a great deal both night and day. Backache came on me with a continuous dull ache. If I stooped to pick up anything, I got a sharp, cutting pain in my kidneys and I could hardly straighten again. I used Doan's Pills and they sure fixed me up in good shape."

"REFLECTIONS ON HIS HOME" CAUSE PARDON

Ma Says Prison Board Inquiry Caused Insults To Wife

AUSTIN, May 19.—(AP)—Because of "reflections cast upon his family by officials in the recent prison investigation, a conditional pardon for Jim Cade, Haskell county, given five years for a conviction of manslaughter was granted today by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

Cade's wife, one of the most important witnesses examined by the joint prison investigation committee of the thirty-ninth legislature claimed alleged intimacy with former Commissioner H. L. McKnight on the promise of his assistance in obtaining a pardon for her husband. McKnight, on the stand denied the charge.

Mrs. Cade was examined in Austin and while she was before the committee, she was accompanied by her husband who had been given a furlough for the occasion. Mrs. Cade was the first witness examined by the joint committee. "He (Cade) is given a conditional pardon because he has suffered more than a 20 year sentence already" a statement from the governor's office says. "He has a reflection cast upon the honor of his family by officers of the government, that has out balanced any wrong that he may have done society."

The governor also granted a conditional pardon to Mark Parsons of Titus county given one year for manufacturing liquor, on the recommendation of the district judge and county attorney. W. G. Russell of El Paso county who served a sentence of five to ten years for murder was granted a restoration of citizenship.

Ford Denies He Has Entered Wall Street After Backing House

NEW YORK, May 19.—The connection of associates of Henry Ford with new York bond house was generally hailed in financial circles today as meaning the manufacturer's entrance into Wall Street. Yet, from Detroit came a denial that it had any such significance.

The newly organized company opened for business yesterday in the Equitable building on Broadway near Wall Street. One of the directors is Ernest Kanzler, vice-president of the Ford Motor company. The Guardian Detroit company is announced as an investment branch of the Guardian Trust company of Detroit, of which Edsel Ford, Henry's son, is a director.

The Guardian Detroit company has taken over the municipal bond business of Kean, Higbie and company of Detroit and New York who will continue in business as underwriters.

New York headlines describe the development as follows:

"Fords open a bank in Wall Street," and "Fords in Wall Street with trust company."

Says the New York Tribune:

"Henry has hung out his shingle in Wall Street. The man who denounced, defied and dispensed with America's most important financiers has opened up an office in their stronghold."

In denial that the Ford interests are entering Wall Street, Stewart L. Pittman, vice-president of the Guardian Detroit company, said in Detroit:

"There is no truth in the statement that Ford interests are backing this move. Both men (Edsel Ford and Kanzler) held similar positions with the Kean, Higbie company before its change to the new company."

VERNON

Falls, was the next speaker, detailed the possibilities of Wilbarger county. "Hospitality, a wonderful spirit among your people, agricultural resources matched by none, and an excellent road system that may prove the artery of all improvement—those things make Wilbarger county's destiny great, and insure, with a little work, the future of the city of Vernon," Judge Sartin told the meeting.

Sixteen committees with the burden of securing 400 citizens of Vernon as members of the new and revivified chamber of commerce will leave the library building at Vernon this morning at 8:30, and hope to return by evening with the bulk of their work done and the future of Vernon assured. The program was definitely outlined by Leon H. Brown, secretary of the South Vernon Oil company, and toastmaster for the occasion.

The first meeting of the new body will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock. A temporary chairman will be elected then, 30 citizens nominated from the floor and from 15 elected from these thirty the governing board of the Vernon chamber will be formed.

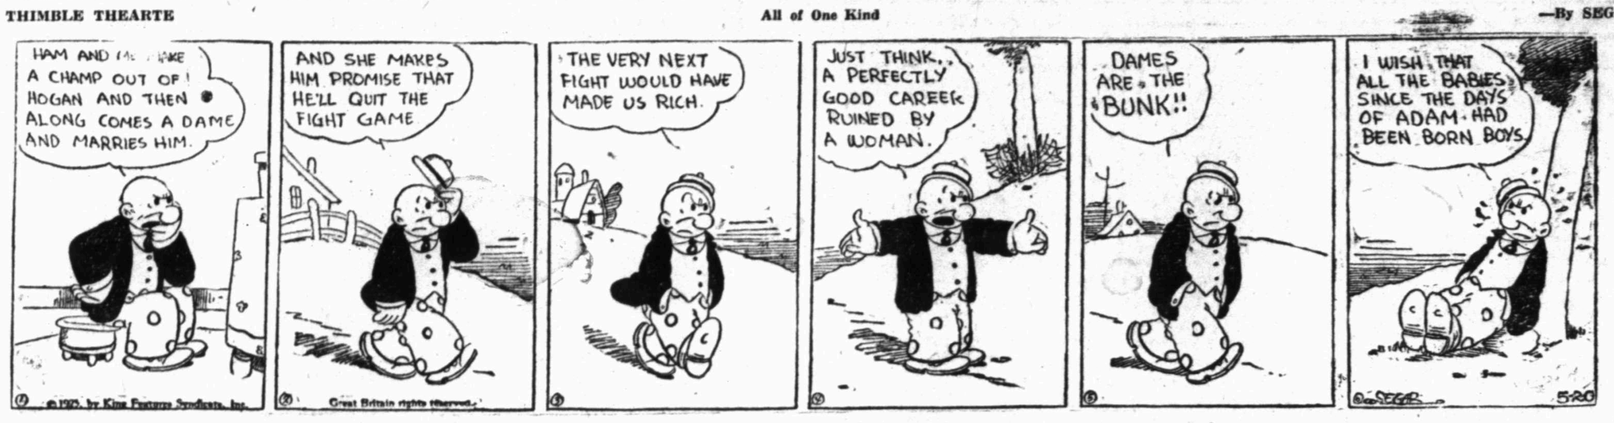

Last night's dinner and meeting came as the culmintaion of several weeks preparation and as the prelude to what is intended to be the greatest single event in Vernon's history, that is in the words of Hon. E. H. Gibson, "the transition of Vernon from a prairie dog town to the most beautiful city in North Texas."

Dinner was served by the women of the First Presbyterian church under the leadership of Mrs. W. G. McDonald. Entertainment features included a violin trio by Mesdames John Brown, Roy McConbe, and Miss Vera Lucky accompanied by Miss Enid McCarrel at the piano. A vocal solo by Miss Georgia Castlebury, feature singing of the Fisk sisters of Wichita Falls and a sing-song led by Alva Willgus of Wichita Falls.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 19.—Cotton developed fairly active trading today and the trend of prices was upward from the start and although there were some fair reactions, the market always rallied quickly giving evidence of more sustained support than for some time. Prices opened 9 to 11 points higher and July soon traded up to 22.81 and October to 22.05, or 23 and 19 points respectively above the close of yesterday. While July reacted to 22.69 and October to 21.87 later in the morning the market turned quite firm during the noon hour, shorts were run in and in the late trading July was forced up to 23.12 and October 22.21. The close was not much below the highs at net gains for the day of 23 to 49 points, July showing the greatest gain.

The initial advance was due largely to the strength of Liverpool cables, but the subsequent advance was attributed to good trade buying, particularly of July and undisguised efforts to run in the shorts, an operation which appeared entirely successful. The fair reaction of the morning which made the lows on the new crop months was due to expectations that the weekly weather and crop report tomorrow would be favorable.

The market was strongest in the final hour and all active months made new highs for the day under the stimulus of active trade buying of July by trade interests and active covering in new crop positions. The advance was helped by some less favorable crop accounts and fears of some traders that the first condition report of the season to be issued June 2, would not prove as high as most people were disposed to expect up to a day or two ago. Gross receipts for the season to date at New Orleans crossed the 2,000,000 line today to 2,002,254 bales. Exports today, 31,579 bales.

The New Orleans exchange will be closed Saturday, May 30, Decoration Day.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP) — High-priced industrial specialties reported to be under pool control, led another vigorous advance in today's stock market. Trading showed a marked expansion in volme, today's sales running over one and one-half million shares, while demand for stocks showed a broadening tendency the motors and public utilities continued to give the best demonstrations of group strength. Tobacco and steel shares also attracted a large figure.

Financial interest was divided by the buoyancy of the stock market and strength of sterling exchange which advanced to within one cent of parity and the highest price in nearly 11 years. Buying of sterling bills was stimulated by South Africa's return to gold standard on the theory that this would lead to an expansion of gold shipments to England.

Although public participation in the stock market was still relatively small, there was a better demand for the recognized industrial leaders. United States Steel common was bid up 2¾ points to 118¼, a new high on the current movement and Baldwin closed fractionally higher at 114½. American Can continued its steady advance by touching a new peak price at 193 and then slipping back to 192⅝, where it was up 3¼ on the day.

Nash Motors more than doubled its year's low by jumping 9 points to a new top price of 406. Dupont, which owns a large interest in General Motors is reported to be negotiating for Mack Trucks, soared nearly 11 points to 165.

Other outstanding individual strong spots included Associated Dry Goods, Electric Power and Light certificates, General Electric, Foundation company, International Business Machine, May Department stores, Sloss-Sheffield Steel, Union Tank Car and Virginia Railway and Power, all of which closed from 3 to 8½ points higher.

Oil shares were steady, accumulation on the announcement of an increase in Smackover heavy crude prices. Houston Oil stood out with a gain of more than 4 points at 70.

Sporadic strength developed in the railroad group which was featured by the heavy buying of the Wabash issues, all of which broke through to new maximum prices for the year on net gains of 2 to 3 points. Another advance in the price of lead brought fresh buying into American Smelting which closed 2⅝ points higher at 99⅝.

Call money held steady at 3½ per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged with business quiet.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Most of the continental currencies lost ground. French francs dropped about 3½ points to 5.15 cents and Italian lire slumped 6 points to 4.01 cents.

"Treasure Locating" Device Sold Through Mails Causes Arrest

ST. LOUIS, May 19.—Using the mails for selling a device which he called the "wonder locator" and which he claimed would detect buried treasure, yesterday caused the arrest of Tracy J. Burchard, 23, on a federal warrant charging fraud. He was released on $500 bond.

Burchard, who is an electrician, admitted that he tried several times to find treasure with the instrument, but failed. He still believes the device will locate hidden trasure as he advertised, he said, but promised government authorities to stop its sale through the mails.

Burchard said he had sold 40 of the devices at prices of $48 and $64.50 each in various parts of the country.

PRO "ARMY" TO START DRIVE ON SMUGGLERS

Land Agents Prepare To Follow up Advantage Gained by Fleet

WASHINGTON, May 19 — The prohibition "army" is preparing to follow up the advantages made by the dry navy in its initial offensive to drive the liquor smugglers from American shores.

With the reduction by the coast guard of smuggling operations on the Atlantic coast, long a stumbling block in efforts to bottle up the chief source of palatable wet goods, officers of the land forces are leaving no stone unturned in their plans to prevent a reappearance of poisonous concoctions in the bootleg market.

These officers foresee, it was said today at prohibition headquarters, that with the scattering of the rum runners the supply of smuggled wet goods will soon fall below the demand in centers which have been getting regular shipments, and therefore a return to old practices of manufacturing bad liquor is to be expected.

Consisting of five good big rooms, and a nice cozy breakfast room. It has all the conveniences of built-in features. In this kitchen a bum cook becomes a real chef. Everything in it conveniently arranged. Closet room galore.

The dining room is nicely furnished and the wall paper is so blended with the rest of the finish that it puts you in such a fine mood that a fellow could eat hardtack with a relish.

French doors lead from the dining room into the living room, which has as the finishing touch a fireplace, with the accustomed mantel above. This gives it that good old feeling of comfort.

Yes, there is a garage for the old "Flivver" too, and it's on the pavement.

This house is so arranged that two families can us it. It has two front and back entrances.

The other fellow asked me to write this ad, and just as a matter of personal opinion, and giving you a little inside tip, this place is a real buy. He intimated to me that it could be handled with $600 cash, and mighty good terms on the balance. And the whole price is only $4,600. It's your best chance. VERNON MAYOR MADE OFFICER IN CITY ASS'N.

Harry Mason Elected As Vice-President At Waco Meeting

WACO, May 19.—A resolution commending motion picture censorship in Texas cities, and another resolution favoring home rule for Texas cities under 5,000 population as well as those over that figure as at present provided, passed unanimously in the Texas League of Municipalities just before adjournment Tuesday afternoon. Corpus Christi was selected as the meeting place in May, 1926; a temporary organization of Texas city managers was formed and temporary officers chosen with City Manager E. E. McAdams of Waco as president; J. A. Barnes of Beaumont, was elected president of the Texas League of Municipalities and a number of reports were submitted before adjournment. F. W. Hayden of Pilot Point presided at the afternoon session, President F. T. Holcomb of Houston leaving upon receipt of a telegram. The nominating committee submitted the following for offices and these were elected: President J. A. Barnes, Beaumont; vice president, Harry Mason, Vernon; Tom Justiss, Paris; R. C. Johnston, Waxahachie. These will select their own secretary.

The report of Secretary R. D. Jackson showed that there are 70 cities represented in the league, with 57 of these fully paid up as to dues. There was a good deal of discussion of plans for keeping up the finances of the league, and incoming President J. A. Barnes declared the organization must be maintained on an effective basis.

T. F. Justiss of Paris, sumitted resolutions recommending censors for moving pictures and other closses of amusements, also one favoring home rule for cities under 5,000 inhabitants, both of these passing. He said that there seemed to be some misapprehension of the attitude of the league, as shown in Texas newspapers of Thursday, and that he believed the mayors were decidedly in favor of proper censorship of amusements, to the end that the people of the cities have only the best and cleanest.

In a short talk V. M. Eihlers of Austin, state sanitary engineer, of the Texas League of Municipalities, offered, if it becomes necesary, to aid in keeping up the magazine of the organization by making the secretary an office engineer of the state health department.

The executive committee presented the names of several Texas cities asking for the 1926 meeting of the league, as follows; Sherman, Jefferson, Houston, Galveston and Corpus Christi, the last named being selected by a large majority which afterwards was made unanimous.

One or two members suggested that at the next meeting one of the subjects discussed should be the collection of delinquent city taxes.

Presiding Officer F. W. Hayden said that the Waco meeting was by all odds the best gathering of the league yet held, with the most constructive program yet offered.

Just before adjournment the executive committee announced that a temporary organization of the Texas City Managers association had been formed, the first regular meeting to be in Corpus Christi in 1926, as an auxiliary to the Texas League of Municipalities. Officers of the City Managers were: E. E. McAdams, Waco, president; H. J. Grazier, Temple, vice president; U. W. Prater, Tyler, secretary. City managers present at the meeting for temporary organization were: E. E. McAdams, Waco; H. J. Grazer, Temple; S. S. Bothwell, Lonview; E. B. St. Clair, Teague; J. B. Miller, Bryan; J. C. Wells, Kerens; R. L. Brambalow, Burkburnett; E. I. Jackson, San Angelo; J. H. Cheatham, Eastland; E. V Hyde, Taylor, and U. W. Praeter, Tyler.

Ovation for Holcombe.

The meetings adjourned with a few words of felicitation and good fellowship from Tom Beauchamp, city attorney of Paris.

At the morning session of the league, Mayor Osar Holombe of Houston, president, was given a boost for governor when introduced by Harry Mason, mayor of Vernon. Mayor Holcombe was introduced as "Governor Holcombe of Texas," and the convention gave him an ovation.

Total of 94 Years in Penitentiary

Alvin Ireland, Billy Keys, Lou Tilghman.

On Nov. 2, 1924 the First State bank of Dundee was entered by four heavily armed bandits and robbed of several thousand dollars in cash. Officers, employes and patrons of the institution were ordered on pain of death to "hands-up" while the robbers swept all the cash insight into a sack and escaped in a high-powered car. A man-hunt was started, and although the automobile, stolen from the streets of Wichita Falls the night before the robbery was found two days later, no trace of the thieves came to light.

Three weeks later the First State bank of Loving was held up under conditions almost exactly similar to that surrounding the Dundee theft. Officers who took up the trail followed the robbers closely, and two days later they were captured in Jack county. A gun fight was averted only because the sheriff's posse got the drop on the bandits. Three were caught at that time—Lewis Tilghman, Billy Keys and Johnny Reed. Alvin Ireland was arrested in Wichita Falls the same night.

All were subsequently indicted. Tilghman, Keys and Reed were tried several weeks ago on charges of robbery with firearms in connection with the Loving thefts. Tilghman was given ten years on one count and 12 years on another; Keys was given 12 years on each of cases and Reed was given 28 years on one case. Ireland was tried Monday and Tuesday for the robbery of the First State bank of Dundee and the jury, after being out 15 minutes, returned a verdict of guilty and assessed his punishment at 20 years in the penitentiary.

John Harris "Arrested" On Wedding Day But Released When Friends Intervene

JOHN HARRIS, prominent young business man of this city, associated with the Staley and Wynne Oil company, was arrested Monday evening at the Porter Oakes home on Hays, for disturbance of the peace. He was taken to the jail. His friends were immediately told of his misfortune and Captain W. S. Langford, in company with Miss Billye Harper, Harris' fiance, went to the city hall and got him out on $500 bond.

For a few minutes it was pathetic. The young couple were worried over the predicament in which Mr. Harris became enmeshed. Later, however, the "prisoner" was recompensed by a group of friends who entertained him with a stag party at the Oakes home.

The past of the groom, who was married Tuesday evening to Miss Harper was discussed from beginning to the end and his history detailed by members of the party who knew more about his affairs than he himself.

Those present were Messrs Dickey of Henrietta, Shipley, W. R. Duke, W. S. Langford, J. Chester Wynne, Jerome Stone, Porter Oakes, Joe Carrigan, Jouette Bonner, N. H. Coleman, J. E. Hall, Lee Flowers, Allen Montgomery, L. W. Fritz and John Harris.

ELECTRICITY KING OF THE WAVES--IVERS

Technical Club Told Of Greatness Achieved By Electricity

"Speaking of evolution, look at this," and W. F. Ivers of the Wichita Falls Electric company, speaking before the Technical club at the club's weekly dinner Tuesday evening, flashed on the screen a picture of a man astraddle a log, laboriously paddling along. "Now look at this," he said, and threw on the screen a picture of a huge ocean liner, a floating hotel, equal to a ten-story building.

Electricity Is King.

"There is little to compare with the rapidity of progress in ships, and this progress can be attributed to but one thing—electricity, literally "King of the Waves" Though it took years for man to progress from the floating log to the canoe, thence to the small sailaling rig, on to the bigger sailing vessel, on to the steamboat," (as he spoke, Mr. Ives threw on the screen special pictures of each type of ship, all of them tending to illustrate the evolution of ocean travel.) "thence to the fastest and most improved steamers, in past years the progress has been equal to the results of centuries before the use of electritcy became known."

Mr. Ives explained that so recent had electricity been utilized in ships that it was only in the past few years that the electric turban had been invented. He gave a brief account of the installing of the first electric turban in the battleship New Mexico in the General Electric plant where he was working at the time.

In his talk, the speaker gave a brief history of ships from their invention to the present time. He illustrated an explanation of each new vessel by a picture thrown on the screen and explained that it was only through the power of electricity that vessels had attained the power and size they now had. He offered as proof, several examples where electricity had supplanted steam or handpower.

An Electrical Boat.

The modern steamship, he said, is little more than an electrical boat, with everything aboard her operated by electricity, the power that drives the ship, the lights, the modern conveniences, the wireless, and all operated by electrical power.

Following Mr. Ives, J. D. Bright of the Wichita Falls safety council made a short talk on the recent investigation being conducted by the council in regard to the new traffic rules. Mr. Bright said that while some of the merchants complained the lights and parking rules hurt their business, others claimed the lights had a good effect on theirs.

The safety council is working out a plan which it hopes to present to the city council in the near future whereby motorists in wrecks, however slight the collision might be, and whether anyone is injured or not, will be brought to the police station and made to give an account of the affair. This it is hoped will tend to decrease accidents over the city.

DESERTION JURY STILL OUT.

Jurors Will Return This Morning to Continue Deliberations.

A jury in the county court at law which heard evidence Tuesday in the case of the State vs. J. A. Bell, charged with wife desertion, will return at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning to resume its deliberations. Evidence was introduced Tuesday and argument of counsel heard. A short deliberation was held late in the afternoon but no verdict was reached.

It is charged that the defendant left his wife in July, 1924.
