HEAT WAVE IS BROKEN WITH COOL RAINS

GENERAL RELIEF FOR SEARED SECTION OF COUNTRY LOOMS

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 14—Pelting rain in three northwest states brought hope of general relief today from the lethal heat wave which gripped the nation for 11 days, causing upward of 1,878 deaths.

Cool air masses moving eastward from the rainy area in the Dakotas and Minnesota bore promise of showers and cooler temperatures in the hard-hit north central and upper Great Lakes region.

Cheer As Rain Falls

Delegates to the North Dakota state American Legion convention cheered last night as a 15-minute rain struck Jamestown. Showers fell in Grand Forks, Williston, Bismarck, Fullerton, Minot and Fargo.

The cold air mass swept into western Minnesota at Fergus Falls, bringing with it a 45-minute shower which knocked the temperature down from 106 to 77.

Relief was promised by forecasters tomorrow in Illinois, contributor of almost 300 to the nationwide heat death total, and Michigan, where more than 400 had died.

Heat Wall Crumbles

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd at Chicago saw the break in the northwest as positive evidence that the cool front was breaking its way through what he described as a virtual wall of hot air, piled up in the great central farm belt.

He predicted thundershowers in most west and north central sections of the north central states today, and in the lower Missouri valley, upper Mississippi valley and the upper Great Lakes region tomorrow, accompanied by lower temperatures.

Temperatures slumped an average of 30 degrees as the rains struck the northwest where the outlook was for continued thundershowers.

Picture Brightened

At the same time thunderstorms brought cooling temperatures to south central Manitoba, Canada, and the Carolinas. A forecast of cooler and showers brightened the picture in eastern Nebraska.

Scattered thundershowers and slightly warmer was the outlook in New York.

At Colorado Springs, Colo., Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace announced the government was "prepared to take care of the drouth in 1934 — and it is prepared this year," and asserted "thousands of farmers will need all the help we can give regardless of the weather in days to come."

Losses Are Heavy

Grain pit experts at Chicago calculated the drouth losses at more than one billion dollars. B. M. Snow, noted crop statistician, accounted

STORM LASHES TEXAS AREA

ONE PERSON IS DEAD AND FIVE INJURED IN DISTURBANCE

(By The Associated Press)

One person was dead today and five nursed minor injuries in the wake of strong winds and rainstorms which lashed the Texas coast overnight.

The rains, accompanied by a sharp break in temperatures, ranged deep into East Texas.

Dies Of Shock

Miss Bula Mae Fish, 18, was dead of shock after lightning struck a small structure on her father's farm south of Newton, in southeast Texas.

Four members of a tent theater and a fifth victim were knocked down and injured slightly by lightning on Pleasure pier at Port Arthur. The strong winds damaged the tent theater and stage settings.

Rains Over Valley

An offshoot of the dwindling gulf disturbance brought general rains over the lower Rio Grande valley. The gulf disturbance appeared to be about 150 miles east of Tampico but was of minor intensity.

Two inches of rain fell in a squall which whipped in from the gulf over southeast Texas, causing damage at Sabine, Goose Creek, Baytown, Pelly, La Porte and other gulf points. Houston, Galveston, Beaumont and Laredo reported rains.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS: Fair tonight and Wednesday.
EAST TEXAS: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, probably showers in southeast portion. Light to moderate northerly to easterly winds on the coast.

FORMER OFFICER IN U. S. NAVY IS HELD FOR SELLING OF SECRETS TO JAP GOVERNMENT

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 14—J. Edgar Hoover, chief of justice department agents, said today that John S. Farnsworth, formerly a lieutenant commander in the United States navy, had been arrested on a charge of selling naval secrets to the Japanese.

The arrest, which followed months of undercover activity, was made here last night with the utmost secrecy, but the news leaked out and was confirmed also by Captain William D. Puleston, chief of naval intelligence.

Discharged From Navy

Naval officials said that Farnsworth had been discharged from the navy nine years ago on charges of conduct prejudicial to the naval service.

Agents of the navy and Hoover's "G-men," who were said to have shadowed Farnsworth on journeys into several parts of the country, made the arrest shortly before midnight.

All officials steadfastly declined to reveal the nature of the secrets the prisoner was accused of selling. They said merely that he would be arraigned later in the day before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage here.

Up Most Of Night

The arraignment was preceded by an extensive questioning at the department of justice headquarters. It was learned. Hoover, who usually retires early except when an important case is about to break, was up most of last night.

The seizure followed by only ten days the unprecedented case of another former navy man, who was sentenced to serve 15 years on July 3 after conviction in Los Angeles of selling confidential fleet data to a Japanese secret agent.

This man, Harry Thomas Thompson, admitted boarding battleships and supplying "clippings" for a Japanese who paid him "about $700" in salaries. The specific charge against him was conspiracy to commit espionage.

Indicted with him was a man named Toshio Miyazaki, lieutenant commander of the Imperial Japanese navy. Though Japanese authori-

SHORTAGE NOT THREATENED

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM SEEN EVEN THOUGH DROUTH IS FELT

(By The Associated Press)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 14—Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture sees "no likelihood now of anything approaching a national food shortage," despite the drouth which he described as a "matter for national concern."

"I would like to say by way of reassurance that there is no likelihood now of anything approaching a national food shortage," the secretary said in a radio address here last night.

Better Supplied

"We are much better supplied with feed for livestock than we were in 1934. There is an ample supply of vegetables and other foods. Then too, there is no panicky feeling like that which appeared two years ago as the great drouth settled down.

"There was talk of food shortages then. Such talk proved unfounded. Furthermore, we discovered that we had the resources and the ability to carry out necessary and adequate relief and salvage operations.

JEAN BELL STICKS TO HER STORY OF BEING A TORTURE VICTIM

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 14—Angrily stamping her foot, 23-year-old Jean Bell sat in a circle of skeptical detectives today and denied after hours of questioning that her story of being branded by a vice ring "killer" was a hoax.

"Isn't it all a hoax?" one of the shirt-sleeved policemen shot at her.

"No, it most certainly is not," she answered.

Try To Break Story

Although still checking all the leads she gave them, New York and Washington detectives were concentrating on trying to break down her tale that the killer bound her, carved initials and numerals on her thigh and abdomen and turned on the gas in her apartment.

The man, she insisted, had been sent to kill her because she welshed on a bargain to sign her name to a newspaper article designed to get Charles (Lucky) Luciano, convicted czar of New York's disorderly houses, out of a New York prison.

ESTIMATES ON DROUTH COST ANNOUNCED

FIGURES BEING BASED ON AVERAGE PRICES PAID AT MARKETS

BY FRANKLIN K. MULLIN

Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 14—The nation's losses by reason of crop destruction in the 1936 drouth were conservatively figured today at more than one billion dollars, of which total more than half was incurred by damage to growing grain in middle and northwest America—the nation's bread basket—since July 1.

In addition, losses sustained by hay and forage crops, by livestock and by garden produce, incalculable at present, were figured in the millions.

Higher Prices Seen

Sharply higher prices for the grains made some restitution to agriculture—at least to producers who had grain to sell—but vast quantities of animal and human food were wiped out.

Calculation of the monetary loss to United States farmers was based on the average prices their destroyed grain should have been worth at market.

B. W. Snow, nationally recognized crop authority, made round number estimates of the drouth reduction of the bushel volume of grain in June.

Shrinkage Is Heavy

Official and private sources, Snow said, would indicate that between June 1 and July 1, heat and lack of moisture were responsible for a shrinkage in the corn crop prospect of at least 300 million bushels.

"It should be borne in mind," he

Mary Astor Charges Her Former Mate Threatened To Ruin Picture Career

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, July 14 — Two legal actions in which Mary Astor, film actress, seeks full custody of her four-year-old daughter Marilyn and $4,250 worth of securities from her ex-husband, Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, surgeon, were on file today in superior court.

Miss Astor charged that Dr. Thorpe threatened to ruin her reputation unless she acceded to his demand that he have custody of their child and assigned her right in the securities to him.

Divorced Last Year

Dr. Thorpe and Miss Astor were divorced on April 20, 1935. Dr. Thorpe obtained an uncontested decree. She was "mentally and physically sick" at the time, the actress declared. Dr. Thorpe was given custody of the child and she did not contest the order.

Dr. Thorpe, Miss Astor's affidavit said, threatened and abused her and repeatedly stated that unless she permitted him to have the divorce and order of sole custody he would publicly scandalize her and ruin her career as an actress.

TWO BANDITS GET $4,500 IN STORE HOLDUP AT FT. WORTH EARLY TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, July 14—Two daylight robbers, one armed, held up A. L. Seyster, cashier, in the lobby of Monnig's department store at 9 a. m. today and escaped in an automobile.

They took a bag of money containing $1,500 cash and $3,000 in checks.

Seyster was going to the bank with Monday's receipts from the store and was accompanied by Lawrence Barnes, 20, a clerk.

As they started to leave the Fifth street entrance, two men walked into the lobby. One had a gun. To Seyster he ordered: "Give me that bag."

Seyster handed over the money and the two men fled, jumping into an automobile that had been parked at the curb with motor running. The car speeded westward.

PAYMENTS FOR NEEDY ARE ORDERED

DEADLOCK ON RELIEF IS BROKEN TODAY; FUNDS VOTED

(By The Associated Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 14—Republican and Democratic senators, in the presence of a booing crowd of jobless, broke a deadlock that shut off unemployment relief last week and agreed today to appropriate $45,000,000 for payments until the end of January.

Before the agreement was reached in midnight caucuses, the "hunger marchers" for four hours held demonstrations in the state capitol plaza and shouted derisively from crowded galleries.

Police On Hand

Uniformed state police with nightsticks patrolled the throng.

The jobless demanded $100,000,000 for relief while Governor George H. Earle, Democrat, had asked $55,000,000. Organization Republicans, who control the senate, insisted only $35,000,000 was needed.

The deadlock had blocked the governor's $60,000,000 tax program and stopped relief more than a week ago.

To Accept Decision

"In order to prevent starvation of our 600,000 unemployed, needy men, women and children, I will accept the $45,000,000 relief appropriation offered by the Republican majority in the senate," said the governor.

Shouting their demands for cash, clothing and food, waving fiery banners and insisting "we'll stay here until we get what we want," the "marchers" came into Harrisburg yesterday.

RFC HOPES TO BREAK EVEN

OPERATION PLAN FOR BIG ORGANIZATION BEING OUTLINED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 14—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which has been pumping billions of dollars into the nation's economic arteries today outlined procedure by which it hopes to break exactly even before its books are closed.

Officials said the giant lending agency is carefully balancing interest rates against the cost of money to it in order to leave just enough margin to pay its own expense and create a reserve to meet losses.

Reserve Rolled Up

They said it already has rolled up a noperating reserve of more than $100,000,000, which the directors believe will cover all losses since creation of the corporation on Jan. 22, 1932.

MILLIONS ARE TO BE SPENT FOR RELIEF

LONG RANGE PROGRAM FOR DROUTH ZONE BEING MAPPED

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 14—Heading into the drouth-withered crop lands of the west, relief officials today charted plans for a long term program in the arid states as well as for emergency relief.

New moves considered as federal agencies announced plans for lining up their forces behind afflicted cattlemen included a livestock purchasing program along the lines of the $111,000,000 outlay two years ago.

To Assume Charge

Resettlement Administrator Rexford G. Tugwell made ready to set out tonight for Bismarck, N. D., where he will assume personal charge of the administration's drouth relief activities.

With Tugwell will go Aubrey Williams, assistant WPA administrator, and Joseph L. Dailey, assistant to Tugwell, who returned only yesterday from the drouth area.

Dailey and W. W. Alexander, another assistant to Tugwell, said a large part of western North and South Dakota should be taken out of intensive crop cultivation and returned to grass for grazing.

Cost To Be Heavy

Now that grain crops in the drouth areas have been ruined, Dailey said the administration's chief problem is helping farmers preserve their cattle herds. Officials estimated that $15,000,000 in federal funds would be needed now to help feed cattle until next spring, and that if rains do not fall soon, the cost of saving the cattle will be about $30,000,000.

Word that the inter-departmental drouth committee devoted almost an entire session to discussion of immediate moves to assist distressed cattlemen followed an announcement that 49 counties had been giv-

ADVENTURE TRAIL ENDS FOR YOUTH

SAN DIEGO, July 14 (AP)—A trail of youthful adventure over eight states "because my dad couldn't support me," came to an end here tonight for Joe Reyse, 13, of El Paso, Tex.

For more than 45 days the boy "followed the trail of the twitching thum," he told Detective Mike Donnelly.

When he was taken into custody, Donnelly said, the boy had bathed and washed his clothes in the surf near here.

The boy said he was the oldest of 12 sons of a family residing at El Paso. He was taken into custody after a woman here told police he had asked her for a pair of shoes. He is held pending word from his family.

Was Skeptical Of All Medicine Until She Tried Gly-Cas

Mrs. Ainsworth Can Now Enjoy Her Meals First In Six Years: Lumbago Relieved, Entire System Toned: Gly-Cas A Real Blessing

"Never have I seen a medicine do its work as well as this new Gly-Cas", said Mrs. J. W. Ainsworth, 2107 East Barrague Ave., Pine Bluff, Ark., "For nine years I had been in a miserable condition. My head ached continually, often had bilious attacks and my body was filled with poisons. My stomach became disordered and I was badly constipated. Attacks of indigestion made me so nervous, but try as I might I could find nothing to help me. I was growing worse each day until finally neuritis settled in my shoulders which added to my already miserable condition and I did not know where to turn next—I was actually skeptical of all medicines until I began Gly-Cas—it soon proved its merit in my stubborn case."

MRS. J. W. AINSWORTH

"I am feeling like a new person since I have been taking this new Gly-Cas," she continued, "My stomach and bowels are fine, eat and enjoy my meals without any distress afterwards, gas, indigestion and heartburn are all at an end. My nerves have been quieted, headaches never bother me and even that dreadful neuritis has been driven from my body. It is wonderful that suffering people can get such a remarkable remedy—Gly-Cas is a REAL BLESSING."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Gly-Cas $1.00 per box—6 boxes $5.00. Add 2c postage for each box ordered. Send money orders made payable Mark Halsey Drug Store. Don't send cash. Checks not accepted—No C. O. D. Mail Orders.—Adv.

SHOWGIRLS AND BOYS LOYAL TO THEIR FRIEND

FORT WORTH, July 14 (AP)—A little blond showgirl they called "Brownie" was carried from her hospital bed on a stretcher today to be placed on a train for El Paso.

She was going west. Going west to enter a sanitorium that may be her home for a year or more. Recurrence of an old illness had taken her out of the Casa Manana revue at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial. Perhaps out of the show business forever.

The whole cast of showgirls and principals in the Casa Manana show were down at the station to wave "goodbye" to the girl, Helaine Brown.

Loyal to their friend, the New York showgirls and boys, have made up a fund among them to equal her salary each week.

LOANS ON COTTON ARE NOT RENEWED

The loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance corporation at Dallas is notifying cotton producers that loans made by the Commodity Credit corporation on cotton from the 1935-36 crop, due July 31, will not be renewed.

The statement said: "Commodity Credit corporation announced that the ten-cent and nine-cent loans on 1935-36 CCC cotton, form A which mature July 31, 1936, will not be renewed and payment will be expected promptly at maturity.

Should Have Equities

"At the present prices for spot cotton producers should have substantial equities in the cotton pledged to secure these loans and should be in position to repay the amount of the loans, plus interest and proper charges. Under the 1935-36 cotton loan program, only a small number of loans were made and at the present time the corporation holds a total of 90,221 bales as security to these loans."

Cotton men Monday said there was probably more loans made on 12-cent cotton than under the nine and ten-cent loans, in the South Plains area. Recently, some 10,000 bales of the approximate 65,000 bales held in this area, were ordered sold as the quality was not up to that the government required. Much of this already has been disposed of.

No one was able to state the approximate number of CCC bales held in this area, but it was indicated it was less than 25,000 bales.

TROUBLES ARE LOOMING FOR THE YANKS

BIG BILL LEE SHOWS HIS STUFF AS HIS MATES MOVE UP

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

While it doesn't show in the standings—especially if you're busy watching that furious battle the Cards and Cubs are staging in the National leagues—trouble seems to be lurking just around the corner for those bludgeoning New York Yankees.

Since their stride was broken a week ago by the three-day layoff for the all-star game, the Yanks have had trouble regaining the form that put them far out in front of the American league. They wound up yesterday with a short count against the White Sox when "Silent" John Whitehead held them to five hits for a 6 to 3 triumph.

Lou Keeps Going

Counting out their 18-0 rout of Cleveland, the Yanks have scored only 14 runs in five contests and four of them were homers by Lou Gehrig, who apparently won't be stopped by anything. Their opponents tallied 36 times in those same games.

Gehrig smacked his 24th homer of the season yesterday with Red Rolfe on base to account for two of the Yanks runs as he pulled ahead of Jimmie Foxx to take the major league lead.

Just to make the prospect look darker the Yanks starting tomorrow, have to take on the Tigers, who are beginning to look like the team that won last year's World series.

Detroit, which has climbed from fifth place to second inside of three weeks, hung up its 12th victory in 15 starts by routing the Athletics 5 to 2 yesterday.

Cleveland's Indians moved to tie Boston for fourth place by routing the Red Sox 11 to 3 while Washington tightened its hold on third with a 9-3 decision over the Browns.

In the senior circuit the woes which have been besetting the Cardinals since Dizzy Dean got his head in the way of a line drive Saturday, kept right on coming even though they had no game scheduled and Old Liz continued to improve.

Cubs Take Lead

Winning a pitching duel, the Cubs defeated the Giants 1 to 0 and moved into the lead a few percentage points ahead of St. Louis. Big Bill Lee set the Giants down with four hits while Carl Hubbell gave Chicago only half that number.

Tiny Jim Chaplin of the Bees celebrated his 29th birthday by giving Boston a six-hit pitching job and a 4 to 1 victory over Pittsburgh's Pirates while a heavy hitting barrage in the fifth and sixth innings drove Bucky Walter to cover and enabled the Reds to defeat the Phillies 6-4 in other National league games.

WILD WRESTLING PARTY IS SLATED

Things are going to hum at Sled Allen's wrestling arena tomorrow night, and the fans, judging from their rush for tickets, are all wised up to the prospects of the wildest party ever staged in the Auditorium.

It will be an unusual wrestling card—for Lubbock—and something different, to say the least. To all purposes, Sled Allen is set on seeing just who is the toughest in this circuit, for he's putting six of them in the ring at the same time. It will be a survival of the fittest, unless the fittest happens to be "ganged" early in the game. At any rate, the two toughies who stay in there the longest will come back to fight it out just between themselves in the evening's main event.

The "wrestle royal" probably will be the main event so far as color and action go, although it is not expected to last very long.

Eight Men On Card

A total of five events are scheduled, and the price scale has been moved up only as regards general admission for women and children. This goes up to a quarter. Ringsides and men's general admission prices remain the same, but there won't be any ringsides left by gong time at the rate they're going now.

The show starts at 8:30 with Ernie Arthur meeting a newcomer, one Buck O'Neal. Then comes the six-man fight, with Dutch Mantell refereeing.

First two to come out will go back in for another preliminary. The second pair will scrap it out in the semi-final, and the survivors in the two out of three falls main go. The preliminaries will be limited to 15 minutes each, and the semi-windup to 20.

DISSENSION IS SEEN IN OKLAHOMA CAMP OF TEXAS LOOP

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, July 14—Dissension, plus the apathetic attitude of some of the players, has upset the Oklahoma City Indians, last year's Texas league champions and Dixie titlists, informed sources said today—Release of Fred Stiely, pudgy left-hander, as a free agent and his subsequent signing with Fort Worth, was the first step in the house cleaning—Those in the "know" say Eddie Marleau, another flinger, is due to go, as are other players — Skipper Bert Niehoff is said to be dissatisfied with the second division play of the Indians and blames part of the poor showing on unwillingness of some players to exert best efforts.

DAY FOR GRANDSTAND COACH IS NOW AT HAND IN VOTING

The day of the grandstand coach and Monday morning quarterback has arrived. Ordinary Mister Fan can take a hand in it, too. For a change they may dictate to the football rulers and be assured their orders will be carried out.

Football fans of the entire country are voting this and next week for their favorite grid stars. When the votes are counted, the winners comprise the All-Star college team which meets the Detroit Lions, national pro champions, in the annual charity game at Soldier Field Chicago, September 1.

After the Chicago game, the All-Stars, or some of them, come to Dallas to meet the Chicago Bears, 1934 pro champs, as a Centennial feature September 7.

The charity game, originated and sponsored by the Chicago Tribune, will be the third in which fans have participated as grandstand coaches. This year they not only select the squad, but the starting lineup for the All-Stars side. Later they will vote for the head coach and his assistants.

To make it easier for fans to remembers, herewith are submitted a ballot, authorized for the Avalanche and Journal and for 175 other papers cooperating with the Tribune, and a list of some of the outstanding seniors of last year who are eligible.

EYSTON SENDS SPEEDY CAR TO RECORD

SEVERAL MARKS FALL AS LONG GRIND ON TRACK IS ENDED

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, July 14 (AP)—With the "Speed Of The Winds," Capt. George Eyston of England raced into the dawn today, shattering all endurance land speed records from one to 48 hours.

The 48-hour period ended at 7:29 a. m., but long before that—before midnight—Eyston had the record "sewed up." However, he had to complete the run to make it "official."

The nerveless driver pushed his 12-cylinder, streamlined "thunderbolt" across the 5,000-mile mark [illegible] last night for a new record of [illegible] miles per hour. The old mark of 109.89 was held by Montlhery, Pe[illegible] Dhome and Girod of France.

The same Frenchmen set the 48-hour mark of 109.54 an hour. The [illegible] France traveled 5,257.92 miles [illegible]. Eyston passed that mileage [illegible] hours before the run ended.

When he turned the two-ton "Speed Of The Winds" over to his relief driver, Bert Denly, the fearless [illegible] was restless. He wanted to get back in harness. He paced the flats and kept his eyes on the [illegible]-nosed car as it flashed across the glistening, sun-washed salt, [illegible] out the flares that dotted the phantom-white circular course [illegible] night.

American marks set by Eyston were:

5,000 miles—142.61, old record 109.9 [illegible] French.

24 [illegible] 149.16; old record 140.52 held by Eyston.

4,000 miles—144.81; old record 110.4 held by French.

3,000 miles—149.054; old record 140.7 held by Eyston.

2,000 miles—149.054; old record 142.7 held by Eyston.

1,000 miles—152.138; old record 144.9 held by John Cobb of London.

500 miles—152.343, old record 147.66 held by Cobb.

SPORTOMETER

by COLLIER PARRIS

WHILE THERE JUST isn't a lot of interest in the thing, it is hoped that football fans within the range of this typewriter will get a little fun out of filling in the ballots and voting for their favorite All-Americans, in connection with the nation-wide poll to select a collegiate team for the annual charity blow-out at Chicago.

Voting for players continues through next week, then fans may vote for their favorite coach. Doesn't mean much right here, and Lubbock's part in the poll will cut little enough ice, but as a matter of personal pride we'd like to turn in to the Chicago Tribune a big bunch of votes from this territory. This is one of 176 associated newspapers in the vote-getting business, and since the officials were gracious enough to recognize us, no doubt because this is a college town, it would be nice to report a big vote.

So fill in the ballot printed this morning and this afternoon, put it in a one-and-a-half-cent envelope or paste it on a post card and let 'er come. We'll wire the results to the Trib.

The vote isn't just for the benefit of the fans in Chicago. The All-Stars [illegible] selected are to play in Dallas against the Chicago Bears on Sept. 7 and several of us may get to see that game.

SELF-MADE MAN

Alton Terry, [illegible] javelin thrower of Hardin-Simmons university, is what you might call a self-made hero. Well, Berl Huffman helped some.

Terry, in case you didn't hear a short wave radio Sunday afternoon or read subsequent papers, qualified Sunday for the right to represent Uncle Sam in the Olympic games next month in Berlin. He is one of three javelin chunkers who board the Manhattan tomorrow with the rest of the U. S. squad and sail for Hitlerland.

You didn't hear much of Terry until this spring. He came out for the Hardin-Simmons track team. Hardin-Simmons doesn't go in very strong for track and field. Terry discovered this when nobody showed up to show him how to heave the spear. So he learned how himself. He donned a pair of football shoes and little else, and started heaving that stick.

His first major victory of the year was at Austin when he tossed the javelin 206 feet to win the event. Nobody was there to cheer for him, nobody to show him how, but he did it.

Berl Huffman, the Tech track coach, was there with four of his boys. He saw Terry, commended him upon his natural ability, invited him to join the Tech squad and attend the Drake Relays. Terry did—and won first place with a heave of 223 feet, 7 inches. And Terry came home with Huffman and the Tech boys, and thanked Huffman for "helping him out." It was a great heave, and it got lots of attention.

Next was the national collegiate meet at Chicago, winners in which qualified for the U. S. Olympic finals at New York. Coach Huffman of Texas Tech and Alton Terry of Hardin-Simmons university were there. They got together and Terry went out and won first place with an official heave of 226 feet, 7 inches—considerably farther than any American had ever tossed the javelin. His feat was acclaimed rather broadly and he was "in" so far as the Olympic committee was concerned.

So he went to New York and out to Randall's Island last Saturday, qualified in the preliminaries, and came back in the finals Sunday to win third place with a heave of 213 feet plus, which wasn't so good, but plenty good considering.

Berl Huffman came home Sunday after a vacation, etc. He didn't make the Olympic finals at New York, but he was there in spirit with Terry. He was a happy fellow when the announcement came through that Terry had qualified.

"Terry," Huffman said, as though Terry "belonged" to Texas Tech, "didn't throw the javelin 226 feet at the Chicago meet. He threw it 234 feet, 7 inches."

How's that? Terry, in his football shoes, rather nervous in such fast company as the I. C. A. A. A. A. meet provided, without benefit of fundamental coaching, neglected to take his full strides before heaving the stick in the final.

He was every inch of eight feet back of the restraining plate when he made that toss," Huffman said. "So you merely add eight feet to the official count of 226 feet, 7 inches—and there you are. Measurements are counted from the toe-plate or restraining line, not from where you throw."

The well coached javelin thrower takes advantage of everything behind the restraining line, but Huffman evidently didn't have time to teach him everything. Huffman doesn't take any credit for it, but he knows a thing or two about the racket. The guess is that had Terry been under his wing all season, that natural athlete would have made a bigger impression at the Randall's Island party over the week-end. He's on his way to Berlin, to be sure; it's a pity Huffman isn't going along with him.

Of course, it's up to the gentle reader to reconcile this sudden flow of the milk of human kindness from anyone connected with Texas Tech to anyone connected with Hardin-Simmons, but there it is.

The state population department at Rio de Janeiro released figures showing that of 274,749 rural properties in Sao Paulo state, 33,590 are owned by Italians, 14,810 by Spaniards and 13,945 by Japanese.

That Girl on Broadway says the only thing nicer than meeting a millionaire with a big heart is marrying one with a weak heart.

WHAT may Americans logically expect to happen should Alfred Mossman Landon be elected President of the United States in November?

Immediately upon his inauguration in January will our government execute an about-face dropping all New Deal measures like they were not potatoes?

> NOTE TO READERS
> This is the fifth and last article of a series based upon the political situation as regards the presidential campaign.
> Material for the series was gathered in a personal survey in 16 states, the District of Columbia and at the Democratic National convention in Philadelphia.

Will the country be dominated by the same "Old-Guard" which failed so miserably in stemming the onrush of the economic debacle in 1929?

Will we go back to what some people insist upon calling the "good, old days" simply because the party which favors business over human needs is back in power?

The answer to each of those questions is the same—"No."

While a Republican administration will undoubtedly drift slowly rightward as time rolls along there will be very little immediate change. We will hear a lot of talk—but we'll see very little action.

IN the first place upon assuming office Mr Landon will have a Democratic Senate to contend with.

It is possible if he is elected, that the House will be Republican, but that is doubtful. The best guess is that the House will be so nearly equally divided that party lines will frequently be crossed and recrossed; that blocs will crop up to play a major role in legislation.

Hence even if he is elected Mr Landon will have a Congress capable of tying his hands—and to a great extent it will tie them.

In the second place, the defeat of Mr Roosevelt will not change the complexion of the state of the nation.

Unemployment will still dog the steps of the Man in the White House.

Relief must be carried on in some form or another.

How to pay the bill we've already run up and how to keep from running it higher will continue to press for solution.

So don't expect much, if any changes in the first two years of the Landon administration.

AS for the "Old Guard", it is not as thoroughly "washed up" as John D M Hamilton, the GOP national chairman, would like to have the public believe, but it is not nearly so potent as it was prior to 1932.

Messrs. Mellon, du Pont, Ogden Mills and those like them, will always play a part in right wing politics in this country because it takes money to run a political party and they have the money.

But the days of the money ring's direct dictatorship, as portended during the term of Herbert Hoover, are over — at least for awhile. Public opinion won't stand for any repetition of 1929-32 and the Republicans will be smart enough to take no chances. Not even will "behind the scenes" shenanigans be permitted because of the danger of getting caught.

But you can mark this down in your book.

If Landon is elected and the Republicans hold the fort two terms, the nation will remain much closer to its present system than it will to the "Old Deal."

Landon, Hamilton and the other new GOP bosses know we can never go back to the "Old Deal" and that if the New Deal isn't successful another "Newer Deal" must be worked up and set into operation.

Public works in some degree are with us for a long, long time — no matter which party is in power.

Unemployment problems must be solved or our present form of government cannot endure;

The CCC will be kept in almost intact form for the benefit of young men who cannot get employment — and as a preparation for possible army service;

Some sort of agricultural control must be worked out and whether it is similar to the late, lamented AAA or not, "a rose by any other name is just as sweet."

So come what may in November and after inauguration in January, we're not going back to the "Old Deal"—at least very far!

That Man on Avenue Q says the modern girl wants the kind of a husband who will bring home the bacon and then go into the kitchen and cook it.

DR. WILLIAM CURRY HOLDEN, director of Tech's department of archaeological research, stopped by Lubbock t'other day from Mexico City to catch a little wind before leaving for Europe.

Doctor Holden has been to Mexico City many times but his return trip last week, first since the new highway completion, put him to thinking.

He says you can drive from Laredo to Mexico City now in a day and a half—or in two days of easy driving. And that already the tourists are so thick that it's hard to tell when you cross the border.

The Plainsman always has been afraid that completion of the highway would turn all Mexico East of the mountains into one great American country club.

Monterrey, 140 miles or so south of Laredo, has been such an American Mecca for the past five years that it has more hot dog stands than San Antonio.

Curry says Mexico City is building hand over fist and that modernistic architecture has caught on to such an extent that the old Mexico City will soon be a thing of the past.

That's too bad — but Lubbock and South Plains people can still see the real Mexico, but a three day trip away. Go to Hermosillo, capital of Sonora, by way of Nogales.

It's always had Mexico City and Monterrey beat in this column's opinion.

Many Nations Laugh At World's Best-Known Team Of Comics; Used To Repeat Antics In Five Languages

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 14 — There have been 10 years of Laurel and Hardy. Ten years, and something like 80 pictures, and uncounted millions of laughs for slapstick fans from here to Baluchistan and back.

The wild-haired little Britisher with the silly grin and the fat man with the bangs and Whitmanesque mustache comprise the best-known comedy team on earth. During a period of two years they made each picture five times — in English, Spanish, French, German and Italian.

Knowing no foreign languages at all, they read lines written phonetically on blackboards outside the range of the cameras.

"And our atrocious accents made us all the funnier," chortled Laurel. "Oliver was a Georgia Spaniard—"

"And Stan was a British Frenchman!" whooped Hardy. The boys are like that—exuberant.

Too Costly To Repeat

These days the pair make pictures only in English, but their films remain tremendously popular in all foreign countries. The foreign dialog recited by interpreters, is dubbed into the films exhibited abroad. Reason for the change was economics.

Laurel and Hardy now make features instead of shorts, and their latest effort, "Our Relations," cost a cool $400,000. Slapstick comedy, 1936 style, has got itself into top hat and tails, a plus environment and the middle brackets of Hollywood profligacy.

Mr. S. L. Jefferson

Stanley Laurel Jefferson, born in England of theatrical parents in 1895, never had the slightest doubt that he'd be an actor. But he had a slight lisp. None of the great tragedians, he knew, ever lisped. So he turned to comedy.

His professional debut was made in his father's best suit after it had been trimmed with shears to give it just the right touch of comic nonchalance. The hand he got from the customers was nothing to the one that awaited him at home that night.

A similar triumph was scored soon afterward, when he was given the task of igniting some gunpowder under the stage for a scene in which a safe was supposed to be blasted open. He put in plenty of powder and delighted the audience by blowing both safe and villain into the orchestra pit.

With Charles And Sidney

He was a trouper at 12, billed thus: "Stanley Jefferson — Quaint Comedian — He of the Funny Ways." At 15 he had a minor place in a stock company in which Charles and Sidney Chaplin were principals. They came to America on tour, and Stanley was Charlie's understudy.

But the star's health remained discouragingly good. While they were playing in Los Angeles the boy succumbed to twinges of homesickness, deserted the troupe, and made his way back to England.

A few years later, with Chaplin in a hoary-jested item called "Mumming Birds," they again reached the United States. The company disbanded when Mack Sennett hired Chaplin. So Laurel went into vaudeville and soon had a fling or two at the flickers.

Now For Mr. Hardy

Meanwhile Hardy, of the Harlem, Ga., Hardys, had been having a lean time of it. A lean time, though he was one of five fat sons of fat parents whose forebears likewise were overstuffed. Oliver weighed 173 when he was 13, at which age he had become a boy soprano.

His voice changed while he was warbling in Florida one winter, so he went to work for a fly-by-night movie company. He played comedy-heavies, carpentered sets, toted cameras, made up the principals, and helped write the scenarios. They counted that day lost when a picture wasn't started and finished in 10 or 12 hours.

Wartime, and Hardy sang patriotic songs in accompaniment of newsreels. Then to New York with the Edison Film Company, and finally to California with Larry Semon. There were pastures along Hollywood Boulevard in those days.

They Met In 1919

Laurel and Hardy appeared together in a picture in 1919 — a Broncho Billy quickie. But their first team billing was in "Hats Off," in 1926. Each recognized in the other a perfect comedy foil and they have been together ever since. Indeed, they vow they've never had a quarrel.

Hardy weighs 270 pounds and spends most of his leisure time smacking a golf ball. Laurel weighs 135 and wrestles 200-pound swordfish for fun. He has a 46-foot cruiser, a pretty wife, and a mynah bird named Yogi.

When you say, "Stan Laurel," Yogi responds with "Oh-boy-oh-boy-oh-boy! Ha-ha-ha!" When you mention Oliver Hardy, Yogi says, "Ah, nuts!"

After it is too dark to play golf, Hardy usually goes over to the Laurels to see what Ruth has in the ice box. There's always something tasty. Then they play pool. Most of the team's pictures have been thought up over that pool table.

And now they're planning a round-the-world personal appearance tour.

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

SOMETHING ELSE MISSING, TOO!

Lubbock police, engaged in a continued traffic educational campaign, have met many peculiar situations, but none exactly like that reported from Des Moines.

William Benjamin's automobile figured in an investigation. Police found the following items missing: brakes, headlight bulbs, horn, windshield wiper, and rear warning light.

Rather bad, thought police, who asked Brother Benjamin for a squint at his driver's license. Not strangely, in light of the condition of his car, Brother Benjamin announced that he hadn't one!

What Des Moines officialdom did about Brother Benjamin, The Journal doesn't know, since the magazine News Week, from which the information was gleaned, didn't say. But one thing is certain. Something else was missing besides Brother Benjamin's brakes, lights, horn, windshield wiper, rear warning light and driver's license—that being his think-tank.

And while most motorists in Lubbock and elsewhere have their cars well equipped and their license receipts handy, quite a few of them make a habit of driving around without think-tanks.

If you don't believe that, just look around the next time you're out for a spin in the old liz!

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

(Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 14—Decades ago, a railroad magnate, one Vanderbilt, stirred up much resentment when he coined a slogan—"The public be damned!"

In case you were thinking that long strides of enlightened progress have been made since, your attention is called to the reason there is no longer any federal co-ordinator of transportation whose job was to point out methods by which railroads could save lots of money by modernization and elimination of waste.

Incredible or not, railroad executives, railroad labor, and even federal officials charged with regulating the railroads ganged up to block continuation of the office of Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman. They didn't say the public could be damned, but that was the effect.

Congress and Roosevelt created the office of co-ordinator three years ago because it appeared that the Interstate Commerce Commission, which includes willing workers for the railroads, was too unwieldy or inept to do much about the railroad problem.

Stirs Railway Opposition

Eastman was empowered to order railroads to consolidate facilities and otherwise cut out waste. Rather than be dictatorial he gave the industry a chance to effect these ends by itself.

But he kept urging methods of modernization, standardization, and cheaper buying, and suggested solutions for the problem of facilities made obsolete through buses and trucks.

His idea was that the public shouldn't indefinitely carry the cost of outworn branch lines and expensive duplicate facilities. He was quite honest and blunt about it and didn't even mind criticizing huge salaries paid officials of insolvent roads.

Railroad executives under leadership of J. J. Pelley decided they were "being told how to run their business." They didn't like to have their mistakes pointed out to stockholders.

Behind them were New York bankers who, acting as railroad fiscal agents, foresaw reduced profits. Railroad labor unions, their memberships hard hit by unemployment, made an agreement with operators to oppose continuance of the co-ordinator.

And finally there were members of the I. C. C. itself, jealous of Eastman's exalted prominence, who joined in the fight.

Some time ago it became obvious that it would be impossible in face of this opposition to extend Eastman's term, even with his powers shorn. At the end of the session Senator Burton Wheeler of Montana tried to obtain a 90-day stay in which Eastman might liquidate his office.

Pelley and Chairman George Harrison of the railway department of the A. F. of L. blocked even that. It appeared that Eastman had some reports on possible economies to make which no one wanted the public to see.

S'prise For Van Sweringen

The recent meeting between Senator Wheeler, who is chairman of the Senate committee investigating railroad financing, and Oris P. Van Sweringen, who made something of a record as a wizard of railroad financing, was in the nature of a surprise party.

The committee had been trying to dig into the intricacies of the so-called three-billion-dollar Van Sweringen railroad empire and had met with what it considered obstructive tactics when it asked for information.

Hearings were called to put the heat on Mr. Van Sweringen. He pleaded that he was a very busy man; he would send his lawyers on a Monday, but couldn't get to Washington himself until Tuesday. The committee agreed.

The lawyers asked for a private session with Wheeler, which was granted. Wheeler was tough and demanded that they sign an agreement to produce promptly what the committee asked for. They said they would have to take time out to decide.

Meanwhile, Wheeler held the hearing room open, all ready to start.

A couple of hours later the lawyers returned to report:

"Mr. Van Sweringen happens to be in town and would like to talk to you privately."

It developed later that Mr. Van Sweringen had motored to Washington on Sunday.

At first he emphatically refused to sign any agreement. Wheeler then announced that Van Sweringen would be called to the stand the next day, with a veiled threat of contempt proceedings.

The railroad man repented overnight, the agreement was signed, and the hearing was canceled.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CLAIRE FOSDICK sets out alone on a summer evening to drive to the mountain house inherited from her eccentric uncle, LYMAN FOSDICK.

Claire's parents are dead and she has learned that most of the fortune she thought was secure is gone. She owes money to her father's friend, NICK BAUM. Nick wants to marry her, but Claire cannot quite bring herself to say "yes".

The trip to the mountains is for two purposes: (1) to think out her problems, and (2) to search for a mysterious jewel belonging to her uncle and supposed to be hidden in the house.

Off the main highway Claire's car crashes into a log across the road.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

When Claire regained her senses she was lying on the ground with a coat for a pillow. A young man was bending over her, an anxious frown on his face. For a minute she stared confusedly, then a smile of recognition touched her lips.

"Pat Magan."

He grinned. "Sure, the very same. And what do you think you're trying to do to yourself anyway?" With one arm he lifted her to a sitting position, while he held a flask to her lips. "Just a swig of this, and you'll feel finer than frog's hair."

Obediently the girl swallowed the fiery liquor. Presently she straightened up and looked about her as another young man came out of the darkness.

"How is she, Pat?" he asked.

"Guess she was just knocked out for a minute," Pat told him. Then, with a wave of his hand at the newcomer, "Claire, this is my side-kick, Bob Steele, a mining engineer, with a good job—believe it or not. He's spending his vacation in the Rockies. Miss Claire Fosdick, Bob. I used to aim valentines and spitballs at her when we were in grammar school."

Claire smiled and held out her hand rather shakily. "How about my car, Mr. Steele?"

He shook his head. "Pretty badly damaged. Front axle busted and a lot of minor casulties. Someone had closed the road with that log. We'll have to take you in our bus wherever you were going, Miss Fosdick. We heard the smash and came back."

Claire turned startled eyes on Pat. "Closed the road? You mean the log was put there?"

"Sure. Probably repairing or something. But Bob and I are on the loose, and we'll be tickled to death to trundle you any place you want to go. Feel able to make it over to our car?" He helped her to her feet. After a minute she

READER GOES DOC TOWNSEND ONE BETTER

Dear Plainsman: Since Doc Townsend and his lads and lassies are opening their five day convention in Cleveland tomorrow it seems a good time to let you and your readers know what is afoot. Here's the big scoop:

It ain't generally known yet, but the Townsend plan is a big flop, on account of all the big bankers got sore. They said if you didn't have a plan that would let people save something for a rainy day, how would the bankers reap any benefit from it? If a bank goes busted the bankers would be in a pretty fix, with nothing left to go to Bermuda on. Besides, making people spend every cent of the $200 a month would not teach them to be thrifty.

So the Senate and House put their heads together and have got what they call the "New plan." They figure what is the use of letting Doc Townsend grab all the glory. If anybody is going to get the credit for such a wonderful thing, why not take it themselves?

Instead of having everybody over 60 draw a measly little pension of only $200, they are going to make it $500 a month and pass a law that everybody except Senators and Representatives have to retire from public office at 60. This is to get rid of the whole Supreme court. Then they can get a bunch in that will listen to reason.

Under the "New plan" everybody would be compelled to save something. A lot of people would save as much as $300 a month, and in this way their children and eventually their grandchildren wouldn't have to work at all, when they inherited the fortune the old folks would be able to save up. In that way a lot of new fortunes will spring up all over the country, and pretty soon things will be back to normal, like they was in 1927 and '28, B. H. (Before Hoover). And in the end less people will have to work and that will make more for them that will be unfortunate enough to still have to. Eventually of course nobody will be working, unless they absolutely force it upon themselves. Then we will have a thing called Utopia.

Who the "New plan" is going to be named after is still up in the air. Some think it will be Zioncheck of Seattle, on account of the people back home not holding him responsible for everything he does.

There is some chance that the "New plan" will go on the rocks, because of the Wall Street millionaires and the snooty 400 not wanting just anybody and everybody getting to be millionaires. If everybody got to be millionaires sooner or later, that is nearly everybody, the regular millionaires would have a hard time of it. They wouldn't be able to get their pictures in the paper every time they shot somebody or got a Reno divorce. A millionaire getting into trouble then would be just as common as a deacon having a regular Saturday night brawl. It would be bad on the hired help, too, having them quit on you every time a relative kicked off and left them a fortune. A week or two later you might meet your butler in your club, or at an exclusive party, and have to kowtow to him just like he was your equal. Imagine having to say, "Well, Jeeves, old boy, how's the new yacht coming along?"

Under the Townsend plan you wouldn't gett rich. You would just get potted every night on account of having to spend so much money. Imagine being on a constant spree and not having to be worried how you are going to get to work the next morning.

One thing, you wouldn't mind getting old so quick. Instead of wishing to be 20 again you would be wishing to be 60. No matter which plan goes through, you will see a lot of ads in the swanky magazines reading, "Get that 60 Look, Be Your Age in Our New Tweeds." Or they might read, "Life Begins at 60" instead of 40.

Another thing, too, it would do away with the Old Maid problem. With $500 a month, some of the younger men would be willing to take a chance. And the older men could marry young women.

There is some talk of making the pensions $700 a month, so the government can collect $200 taxes. But the guy who thought up this plan is in the Asylum. He went nuts trying to figure out how the government was going to raise all the money in the first plice.

Maybe Mr. Farley could raise it by selling ads on his new stamps. Think how much Mr. Morgan would pay to get his picture on any kind of a piece of paper too small to print anything else on. And Mr. Ford would go for quite a sum to get his flivver on a stamp. And the movie stars!

Now there is an idea. They could get out one of Clark Gable for the women, and one of Mae West for the men. Instead of printing "Mail Early" on the cancellation mark, they could print, "Come Up and See Me Sometime." This ought to go over big.

Yrs. truly,
Seth Bailey

P. S. Here is another idea for Mr. Farley. He could mix a good brand of aspirin with the glue he puts on the stamps and in that way do his part to ease the National Headache.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—The stock market hesitated momentarily in a profit taking area today, then resumed its jaunt toward the upper spaces.

Specialties attained popularity with gains of 1 to 3 or more points at the start. The steels came back briskly and were later joined by the aircrafts, utilities and rails. Trading, though selective, became fairly active near the fourth hour.

Signs of further rainfall in the drouth districts, together with a general favorable run of business and industrial news, brought in fresh buying of selected issues.

A number of tops for the past five years or longer were recorded. Among the principal gainers were Philip Morris, Columbian Carbon, Simmons Co., Allied Chemical, National Cash Register, General Electric, Westinghouse, Briggs Mfg., Caterpillar Tractor, Deere, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, U. S. Pipe & Foundry, Midland Steel Products, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Sperry, Boeing, Curtiss-Wright "A", Cerro De Pasco, American Smelting, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, North American, Western Union, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Texas Corp., Kennecott and Anaconda.

General Motors and Chrysler were about even.

Norfolk & Western got up 15 points on a single transfer. Talk of a "split-up" in this issue was being heard in the boardrooms.

MARY ASTOR

Marilyn six months of the year. Miss Astor set forth her health now permits her to care for her daughter adequately, which Dr. Thorpe, because of the demands of his surgical practice, is unable to do.

In her suit for recovery of the stocks, Miss Astor charged that her former husband threatened to deprive her of Marilyn and "scandalize" her unless she transferred the securities to him. This happened shortly before the divorce, she said.

Superior Judge Dudley Valentine yesterday set July 28 as the date for a hearing in the custody matter and issued a temporary order granting Miss Astor care and control of Marilyn until the hearing.

Dr. Thorpe declined to comment.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 14 (AP)—Opening prices were sharply higher in cotton today.

Gains ranged from 50 to 70 cents a bale at the first call. All options shared in the advance.

Before the end of the first half hour the market had recovered the losses of yesterday's dealings.

The better tone was attributed to improved cables from foreign markets, a return to the buying side by speculative interests and a less bearish outlook on recent rains in the southeast.

July transferred at 13.41 at the opening, Oct. was 13 points higher at 12.65, Jan. was up 12 at 12.62 and March at 12.61 was 14 points above the previous final.

The major portion of the gain was cancelled during the morning when the weather map showed how heavily recent rains had blanketed the belt.

From the Atlantic coast westward as far as the Texas line, heavy moisture fell on the growing cotton yesterday. Many weather stations in Georgia reported more than an inch of rain and Alabama had showers in nearly every section.

This development more than offset the bullish potentialities of an excellent consumers' report. The census bureau reported 556,323 bales of cotton were consumed in June. Last June the total was 383,902.

The October position was back at 12.57. December closed at 12.55 and January at 12.63 at the halfway mark of today's trading.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 14. (AP)—Cotton futures opened firm, 13 to 16 points advance on higher Liverpool cables, trade and foreign buying with offers light. July 13.56; Oct. 12.69; Dec. 12.70; Jan. 12.68; March 12.65; May 12.66.

Initial demand carried prices 15 to 17 points net higher shortly after the call. Oct. advanced to 12.74, or within 4 points from the best price touched last week.

The bulge met renewed realizing, however. There also was scattered selling on reports of showers in eastern and central belt sections. This supplied the demand and prices reacted a few points from the best at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables attributed the advance in that market to light offerings and buying encouraged by firmer markets at Alexandria and Bombay.

The decline from the early advance under realizing and selling on reports of beneficial showers in some of the eastern belt sections carried Oct. off from 12.74 to 12.63, or within 6 points of yesterday's closing quotation. Offerings were not heavy, however and the market was quiet later in the morning. Active months ruled about 4 to 10 points net higher at mid-day.

The report of the census bureau placing domestic consumption for June at 556,323 bales against 383,982 last year, was about in line with forecasts.

Friends Of State Candidate Gather In Local Meeting

A gathering of more than 100 West Texans in the interest of the campaign for A. A. Pat Bullock, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, was held Monday afternoon in Hilton hotel to map final plans.

The visitors came from an area bounded by Comanche, Nocona, Rochelle, Wink, Childress, and several far northern Panhandle points.

Optimism Expressed

The group brought optimistic messages from all parts of West Texas and from key points in East and Central Texas looking toward the election of the native West Texan.

Emphasis is being placed during the last ten days of the campaign not only on Bullock's qualifications for the state office but also on the fact that he received practically all of his school experience, until he left Snyder four years ago, as a West Texas school man. He was superintendent of Scurry County schools for eight years.

Makes Good Report

J. C. Smyth of Snyder, newspaper publisher who is secretary of the West Texas forces, said reports from every attendant are that Bullock will carry at least nineteen out of twenty counties in the western half of the state and that the others are rapidly going under the West Texan's banner.

Among visitors to the meeting from nearby counties were L. E. Huff, Wink chairman; Ercell Brooks, Amarillo; Dean Robinson, Post; C. W. Crosslin, Childress; J. B. Jordan, Monahans; O. B. King, Knox City; W. T. Hanes, Hermleigh; Frank Farmer, Snyder; H. V. Williams, Lamesa; Cleo W. Tarter, Dunn.

them in the traffic.

Chester Weaver, first floor manager, was talking to a customer near the lobby when a woman ran to him crying "that's a holdup."

Weaver wheeled in time to see the robbers running out of the lobby.

Mrs. G. V. Miller, 2321 Dalvert street, said that a few minutes before the holdup a man "almost stared a hole through" her as she loitered near the Fifth street entrance.

Ironically enough, the robbers had put a nickel in the parking meter.

DROUTH COST

said that the serious part of the drouth damage has occurred since July 1, but any attempt to measure that part of the damage would be open to criticism because of lack of factual knowledge.

"The loss in spring wheat June 1 to July 1 is at least 140,000,000 bushels, with, of course, further heavy shrinkage between July 1 and the present.

Oats Hard Hit

"In the case of winter wheat there is a loss of about 7,000,000 bushels when the June prospect and July prospect are figured.

"The grain crop which has suffered most severely has been oats, the heat and drouth being concentrated upon the states that are important producers of this cereal. A loss of at least 350,000,000 bushels occurred during the 30-day period.

"In the case of rye, there was a shrinkage of at least 7,000,000 bushels.

"Perhaps the most serious loss outside of the spring wheat crop has been the destruction of cultivated hay crop and the burning of pasture. In the case of tame hay, figures indicate a loss of 11,000,000 tons, or 1-6 of the crop during June, while the crop of wild hay, which represents the winter forage of enormous numbers of animals, particularly in the northwest and in the range territory, has been almost divided in half. On June 1, there was a prospect for 14,000,000 tons and on July 1 it was reduced to something like 8,000,000."

Cash Figures Given

Using Snow's figures as a basis and estimating the "median" price of wheat in Chicago during June, based on the July contracts quotation the first of the month and the last of the month, the indicated loss in wheat was $132,300,000 the price at Chicago, or the "median" was 90 cents a bushel.

On the same basis, the loss in corn was $192,000,000, in oats $98,000,000, in rye $4,200,000 and in barley $8,400,000.

Total for these five crops, an aggregate loss of 824,000,000 bushels, represented a market value of $434,900,000. Grain pit experts agreed the loss since July 1 more than equalled that total.

An additional $150,000,000 of crop damage was estimated to have occurred in the south.

Sims Funeral Will Be Held Wednesday

Mr. Sims died in Wichita Falls Monday after a long illness. He and Mrs. Sims, who at the time of his death was living with a daughter, Mrs. W. D. Mayfield of Abilene, had lived in Lubbock for about 13 years until he moved to Wichita Falls in December, 1934.

His daughter here, Mrs. Garrison, is now in Florida and will be unable to attend the services. Other survivors are W. I. Sims of Grady, N. M., and E. W. Sims of Dallas, sons.

ALLRED FLAYS HIS CRITICS

SPEAKS IN ANSWER TO CHARGES HE FAILED TO CALL SESSION

ABILENE, July 14. (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred said here last night that the next time he calls the legislature into special session, it would be for constructive work, and not for politics.

He said he spoke in answer to critics of his failure to call a third special session to raise funds for old age assistance.

Started No Sooner

Even if a third special session had been called immediately after the end of the second session, old age assistance payments would not have been started any sooner, Allred said, "because one of the men who is opposing me for governor now voted against the act when his single vote for it would have given it the two-thirds needed to make it effective immediately instead of three months later."

"Had I called another special session, I would have been lambasted for doing it," Allred said. "Having refused to call an extra session before the facts justify it, I am still being lambasted. I am being criticized now by the same men who would have criticized me for calling another session.

"I have the satisfaction of knowing, however, that I haven't wasted $150,000 or $200,000 of your money on another futile session. When I call the legislature again it will be for constructive work, not politics."

CONSERVATION OF REVENUES URGED

BRENHAM, July 14. (AP)—Roy Sanderford said here last night that revenues from natural resources should be conserved to carry on normal functions of government and provide additional funds for a steady improvement of our public health.

"You will hear much talk during this campaign from certain factions who advocate placing a 15 per cent tax on oil and other natural resources," said Sanderford, campaigning for governor.

"But I warn you and especially the old folks of Texas not to be misled by such proposals. Such an extortionate tax could never and should never pass the Texas legislature.

Destroy Industry

"I doubt seriously if those proposing it would make such a levy if they had the power, because they know it would destroy Texas' greatest industry and result not only in failure to provide pensions to many, but would also substantially cripple our educational system which depends largely upon natural resources for its advancement.

"I favor taxing natural resources all the traffic will bear but I find aside from pension needs and the necessity for property tax relief, our normal state budget is $15,000,000 in the red as a result of spending x x x."

ALLRED CLAIMS ARE SAID INCONSISTENT

AMARILLO, July 14. (AP)—Tom Hunter said in a political speech prepared for delivery here last night that Gov. James V. Allred's claim of keeping the highway department out of politics had been proven inconsistent.

"To every Texan who knows the facts, the record of the state highway commission for the past ten years is one upon which it would be difficult to heap too much praise," Hunter said. "Under its constructive program paved roads stretch now from the thickly-populated centers to almost every county in the state.

Make Political Football

"And yet, Allred recently told the people of Corpus Christi that he would appoint, were he re-elected governor, a highway commissioner who would cooperate with Harry Hines, the Allred appointee. This statement can mean but one thing. Allred would make a political football out of the state highway department."

Hunter announced the following speakers would stump in behalf of his gubernatorial candidacy this week: Judge John Lee Smith, in West Texas; Hollis Frazier, East Texas; Judge R. E. Taylor, North Texas; Sid Hardin, Central Texas; C. K. Walsh, North Central Texas; Larry Mills, Southeast Texas; Caso March, East and Central Texas; A. J. Schuhsler, Houston and vicinity; and Frank Haines, San Antonio and vicinity.

TAX ON BUSINESS INTERESTS URGED

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 14. (AP)—Pierce Brooks brought his gubernatorial campaign to South Texas last night, advocating his businessman's administration platform.

The Dallas man advocated a gross receipts tax "that will fall on the larger business interests that are able to bear it."

"Many business properties are undertaxed, while others are tremendously overtaxed," Brooks said. "My plan would equalize the tax burdens, especially bringing relief to the small car owners who are paying a thirty per cent rate on the valuation of their only means of transportation to markets and to jobs.

Hope Of Reforms

"If we can once take the government of Texas out of the hands of lawyers for special interests there will be some hope of inaugurating tax reforms in this state."

Brooks said he was paying little attention, in his campaign, to his four opponents for the governorship. He declared some of them are "millionaire oil attorneys while the others are just oil attorneys."

EXCEPTION TAKEN TO ALLRED CLAIMS

GREENVILLE, July 14. (AP)—F. W. Fischer, Tyler candidate for governor, took exception last night to what he said was Gov. Allred's assumption of credit for a reduction in the ad valorem tax for school purposes and an increase in the per capita apportionments.

"In reality, he had nothing whatsoever to do with the school funds," Fischer said. "The reason for the recent decrease in the ad valorem tax for schools is because of the immense amount of occupation taxes levied, one-fourth of which goes to the school fund, thereby relieving real estate of school fund purposes.

"The governor, who claims to be a prohibitionist, is claiming credit now for this per capita increase and ad valorem for schools reduction, when the increase in occupational taxes, including liquor taxation, etc., has made this possible."

Fischer said it recently had been charged that he was formerly a Republican. He said this was "more propaganda launched by the big corporations" and predicted he would lead all the other candidates in the first primary balloting.

EXPENSE REPORTS ARE BEING FILED

Seventeen additional second statements of expenditures by candidates during the first primary campaigns had been filed yesterday afternoon and today at the office of county clerk for a total of 29. The statements must be filed by July 17.

en emergency rating and that an additional $3,000,000 had been earmarked for direct subsistence grants to drouth-stricken farmers.

To Be Small At First

Official announcement of the cattle purchase program was expected during the week, authoritative sources said. Initial buying, they predicted, would be small and scattered with operations chiefly in the parched areas of the northwest.

In 1934 the government bought 8,280,146 head of cattle and calves at a total cost of $111,546,104, but in that year there was a peak of 1,187 counties designated as primary drouth counties whereas the 1936 total to date stands at 385 in 12 states compared with 405 on the same date in 1934.

Funds available for cattle purchases were estimated at from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000, and would come from the 30 per cent of customs receipts authorized by congress to be used for expansion of domestic and foreign markets.

this because of increased prices, "an economic loss shared by the whole country instead of a financial loss to the producers."

AAA officials in Washington discussed an emergency program of cattle buying. Resettlement Administrator Rexford G. Tugwell planned a plane flight to Bismarck, N. D., to supervise organization of drouth relief.

In St. Louis milk distributors agreed to pay a price increase of 15 cents per hundredweight on class 1 milk after a conference with producers in which it was shown that drouth and heat had decreased St. Louis milk shed production 10 to 25 per cent.

have dropped, it has reduced rates to the RFC, which, in turn, has cut charges to its borrowers.

This week Chairman Jesse Jones made public a new series of interest reductions, ranging up to 1 per cent on some loans. He announced the cuts "with the hope and expectation that RFC borrowers would pass them along to their debtors."

Exclusive of advances to other government agencies and for relief, the corporation had disbursed $6,230,000,000, of which $3,873,000,000 has been repaid. Unless extended by congress, RFC lending operations will expire February 1, 1937, after which officials expect about 10 years will be required for liquidation.

BUS TERMINAL PLANS MADE

FURTHER CHANGES IN DOWNTOWN LUBBOCK ARE OUTLINED

Further change to the appearance of Lubbock's downtown business district was underway today through two construction activities—enlargement and alterations at the Union Bus terminal and remodeling of a 50-foot front in 900-block Broadway for the Stephens Dry Goods company's new home.

Improvements at the bus terminal, for which W. G. McMillan is contractor, are to cost approximately $15,000. A permit is expected to be issued by the city today.

To Be Extended

The present building at 1210 Broadway will be extended eight feet to the sidewalk, its waiting room size will be tripled and a covering will be placed over the alley on the west side. Apartments will be arranged on the second floor.

The work is being undertaken by owners, the National Hotel company which operates Hotel Lubbock. The location is under long time lease by Joe W. Bowman, manager of South Plains Coaches and other bus operators. Office spaces are also to be enlarged with baggage space increased.

Second floor of the building will be completely changed into seven efficiency or kitchenette apartments, said H. W. Stabler, manager of the hotel. They will be available with "hotel service" he added. There will be bedroom space additional.

Work on the attractive new home of Stephens Dry Goods company at 907 Broadway was begun full-swing Monday. Building improvements in the amount of $7,000 are expected to be finished by mid-August when a formal store opening will be conducted, J. A. Stephens, owner, said. The remodeling permit was issued Monday.

Approximately 6,000 feet of floor space will be provided in the new location, double space at the present store site, 811 Broadway. Remodeling, for which a contract has been let to J. B. Maxey, will include placing a completely new front of structural glass along the 50-foot space and extending the present space and extending the side walls 55 feet to the alley.

The completed building will house new, modern fixtures and store equipment and a balcony at the rear will be devoted to offices and storage, Stephens said.

Because of the intense heat, virtually all the men and women called as prospective jurors, counsel for the government and defense, and federal attaches were in shirt sleeves as the trial opened.

dle west should be cut severely, the effect would not be felt immediately. In time it would be translated into higher prices for pork. . . But there is no excuse for substantial increases in food prices now. The persons who are using the drouth as an excuse to increase their profits are taking advantage of human suffering."

Outlining the drouth situation, Wallace said "It is a matter for national concern . . . thousands of farmers will need all the help we can give regardless of the weather in the days to come."

The government, he said, "was prepared to take care of the drouth in 1934—and it is prepared this year."

Petitions Offered In Local Hearing

Petitions of six persons for permits for special commodity transportation were heard in a railroad commission hearing this morning and case submitted. One case was continued on petition of council. Hearings were before John G. Ross, representative of the commission.

Testimony on approval of sale of Pecos Quickway Transfer lines to Sunset Truck Lines, Inc., was heard and case was continued until the afternoon session. Cases also to be heard this afternoon include Dalby, Fadell and Sanders, authority to increase schedule between Lubbock, Dickens, and Spur, and Dalby Motor Freight lines, certificate to operate between Post and Stamford as a common carrier.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

was able to walk unaided, and got into their car to wait until they could move the wreck but of the road.

When finally they came back she had decided to tell them why she was going to the house in the mountains, omitting only her personal reasons.

Although she had not seen much of Pat Magan the last few years, she had always had a warm spot in her heart for the jolly Irish boy with whom she had gone to school. The blond young engineer was a stranger, of course, but she liked his clean-cut appearance and, besides, he was Pat's friend.

For some reason she could not explain Claire felt she was going to need help. "Hannah must have talked me into it," she told herself. The fact that the road to the House of Long Shadows had been deliberately closed to her disturbed her more than she was willing to admit.

"Let's get going, Pat," she urged.

"Sure," agreed Pat with enthusiasm. "We'll show you how Depression can eat up the miles. Depression's the car, you know, in case you're wondering."

Claire pointed out the road and then told them about her quest, even to the part about the mysterious hidden jewel.

For a minute neither of the young men answered. Then Bob Steele said slowly, "We had planned to spend most of our vacation in the city, Miss Fosdick, but if Pat's willing I'd like to help you look over the house in the mountains. Maybe some of my technical knowledge would come in handy. Things underground are my meat, you know — not to mention bread and butter."

"Count me in, too, Claire," Pat agreed. "I can't think of anything I'd rather do than chase an elusive what-have-you. Maybe we can start tonight."

The rest of the trip was spent in making plans. Claire told them about her eccentric Uncle Lyman, his fondness for jewels and how he had given the fantastic name to his house in the mountains.

"And you mean to tell me that no dame ever waltzed him up the church aisle and snatched his name and fortune?" asked Pat incredulously. "A bachelor with money enough to drift around the world buying jewels!"

"Susie Spratt was his housekeeper for years and she never spoke of any woman. No. He never married," Claire answered. "Uncle Lyman made acquaintance all over the world but no close friends. He built the House of Long Shadows so he could be alone. You'll see what I mean when we get there."

When they came to the end of the trip both young men agreed that Lyman Fosdick had indeed named his house well.

In the uncertain light of a half moon the building loomed gloomily against the dark background of the mountain. Of imposing height, it was a perfect example of the flamboyant mansions of an earlier period — narrow railed porches, and many bulging bay windows. At the right side of the second story rose a round cupola which seemed to melt into the shadow of a huge pine tree with twin tops that grew close to that side of the house. In fact the gloomy aspect of the place was largely due to this mighty giant of the forest.

"It's really two trees grown together, and a marvelous specimen, as you will see by daylight," Claire said, pointing toward the tree.

"But it must cut off lots of light from the house," remarked Bob Steele.

Claire nodded. "Yes. It's the house of long shadows, you know."

In spite of the sound of the wheels on the graveled driveway no light showed in the darkened front windows. In the distance a dog bayed.

"Queer old place", muttered Pat.

"Drive up to the porch and let me out," Claire said. "I'll get the Spratts up while you take the car around to the barn."

But Bob got out and went up the steps with her. "Sure you'll be all right till we get back, Miss Fosdick?" he asked.

"Why not?" asked the girl in surprise. "I've come here all my life."

She twisted the iron knob of the doorbell. The faint sound of the bell ringing could be heard in the stillness, then footsteps. Presently the door opened a crack and a sharp-nosed man peered out.

"Oh you, Claire?" His voice had an odd croaking sound.

"Hello, Eb," the girl greeted him as she went in.

"I was jest settin' out in the kitchen, smokin' a last pipe afore goin' to bed," Eb explained. "You didn't come up by yourself?"

"No, Eb. But I was alone when I started," answered Claire. "My car's down at the bottom of the hill, smashed up. Someone put a big log across the road where it cuts off from the main highway and I hit it. Two men coming along heard me and brought me on up here. I happened to know one of them."

"A log across the road?" Eb's voice sounded genuinely surprised. "I was down that way myself just afore supper and there wa'n't no log."

"Well, there certainly was one when I got there," Claire replied with conviction.

Before Eb could express any further opinion his sister Susie came hurrying down the stairway, her plump figure wrapped in a dressing gown. Innumerable curl-papers wagged about her round face that still retained traces of a one-time babyish beauty.

"Claire!" She threw her arms about the girl and kissed her. "Have you had your supper? Eb, stir up the kitchen fire quick. Claire'll want something hot after her drive."

Footsteps sounded outside and Eb went to open the door. He admitted the strangers with a sour look. After Claire had presented the newcomers and explained again about the accident, she dispatched the Spratts kitchenward to prepare supper. Then she looked rather curiously at the young men. Bob Steele was handsomer than she had thought, while Pat Magan was—well, still just Pat.

"I'm sure glad to see you again, Claire," he was saying. "Golly, you're looking wonderful."

"You haven't forgotten you've kissed the Blarney Stone have you, Pat?" laughed Claire.

"Pat always gets a little groggy when he's excited about something, Miss Fosdick," Bob Steele explained. His own blue eyes rested on her admiringly.

The girl turned away with a laugh. "I'm Claire to you, too, Bob. And now while we're waiting, let's go into the library. That was the room Uncle Lyman loved best. Everything has been kept just as it was when he was alive."

She led the way down the hall, and opened a door. A musty odor of heavy velvet hangings and old upholstered furniture hung over the place. Claire walked across to a window to open it.

"Ha, there might be a clew or two right here!" exclaimed Pat, rubbing his hands gleefully. He fingered the stone blocks of the elaborately carved mantelpiece. "In these old houses, it's practically a rule that something must slide open about the fireplace, isn't it?" Then he added. "Say, I don't think your man cares much for us, Claire."

Claire smiled. "Oh, Eb's all right. He's that way with Susie and Dan, too."

"Who's Dan?" asked Pat.

"Dan Dallas, the extra man Eb hired to work here. Eb always speaks of him as 'A number one,' so we take it for granted he likes Dan. But you couldn't tell that from Eb's manner. He's so anxious over the life hereafter he hasn't much time for anything else. What are you staring at, Pat?"

"I was wondering why that stone block with the broken arrow carved on it wasn't the same color as the rest of this gingerbread stuff on the fireplace. It's lighter."

"Looks as though it might have been added later, doesn't it?" Bob came over and ran his finger along the stone tracery.

"It's been there as long as I can remember," Claire told them. "Are you trying to imagine it might have been put there for a purpose, Pat?"

"Well, we're looking for something, aren't we?" he defended himself with a laugh.

Susie, fully dressed now, but still wearing her crown of curl-papers, bustled in carrying a big tray. "Ham and eggs, rolls and coffee, Claire," she announced as she drew a small table up before the fireplace. "Want Eb should lay a fire in here? My, you'll freeze with that window open that way. Land sakes, Dan." Her voice sounded surprised. "What ever do you want?"

In the doorway stood a man about 40 years old, carrying a black mongrel dog. The man's forehead bore a wide scar that twisted one eyebrow into a perpetual droop, but the eyes that looked out from under it were unusually keen and piercing.

"Trigger's dead, Susie," the man said, looking at her steadily. "I just found him out in those aspens back of the doghouse. Saw him run in there after something and I followed him."

"Dead," cried Claire. "Why, he barked when we came in. I heard him."

"And almost took a leg off me when we went around with the car," added Pat.

"He's been shot. See?" The man parted the shaggy hair above the dog's eyes and pointed to a bullet hole.

"But—but who would do such a thing?" Claire exclaimed. "And why didn't we hear the shot?"

SHEPPARD SPEAKS IN CITY JULY 22

In the interest of his campaign for re-election, United States Senator Morris Sheppard will appear in Lubbock Wednesday, July 22.

The senator's speaking engagement was postponed from Thursday night, because of a conflict.

The decision was reached at a meeting of a local campaign committee in the courthouse yesterday afternoon. George R. Bean, dean of Lubbock attorneys, presided.

The committee decided to place seats on the City hall park lawn for the Sheppard rally.

One Game Slated In Softball Loop

Lubbock Poultry & Egg company's team, dethroned last week as local softball ruler, has a chance to start back up today. It meets Ray's Grocery in today's only scheduled league game, at the new park north of town.

Two games were played yesterday, the Tip-Top Cafe team continuing its ravages to smother City Bus, 20 to 5, and Terry & Childress Hardware winning from Southern Auto Stores.

The regular City Bus team was unavailable, and the makeshift outfit was no match for the pennant hungry Cafe boys, who scored their 20 runs on 15 hits and three errors. Spruiell and Duval, dividing time on the mound for Tip Top, allowed but three hits. Farmer pitched for City Bus, and Harris caught.

In the other game, Terry & Childress Hardware protected their league lead by trimming Southern Auto Stores, 10 to 5. Pitcher Turpin of Southern Auto was off form and allowed too many bases on balls, walking in two runs. Long pitched for Terry & Childress.

OLYMPIC SITE IS DECLARED READY

BERLIN, July 14 (AP)—The Reichssportfield, 325 acres of the lane built at a cost of many millions of dollars, today formally was declared completed and ready for the Olympic games August 1 to 16.

Located about 10 miles west of the center of Berlin, the Reichssportfield is a collection of stadia for track and field, swimming, tennis, hockey, polo, equestrian sports, of huge rally field, an outdoor theater and numerous tennis courts. It includes also the buildings of a high school for physical culture, its two cinder tracks which will be the training center for Olympic participants and six big lawns for field games.

Designed by the architect Werner March, son of the man who constructed the stadium for the wartime games of 1916, the tremendous project cost somewhere between 35 and 80 million marks according to various official estimates. Roughly that is between $14,000,000 and $32,000,000.

MISSIONS WALLOP STEERS BY 11-2

(By The Associated Press)

Old man rain and the San Antonio Missions grabbed the Texas league spotlight last night.

All of the teams but Dallas and the Missions were rained out and Dallas probably wished it had been. They took an old-fashioned shellacking 11 to 2 at the hands of hurler Elton Walkup and the Mission batsmen.

Walkup granted eight hits while his mound opposition, Stiles and Baker, were wild and wobbly. For the Steers, Leslie Mallon got two doubles and a triple in four attempts.

The MacGregor meets an emergency...

"and hur-r-ry it over, will y'" burrs Sandy MacGregor to his telephone . . .

With the thermometer crowding the ceiling, the MacGregors have declared a State of Emergency for the household. Ice cream sounds like a life-saving idea. So Sandy calls the store . . .

And the only thing he cares a Scotsman's hoot about is how quickly the telephone and the delivery boy can do the job for him!

Those calls, so simple to Sandy on summer afternoons, still present many problems to the men and women who work for this company. It is up to them to make each call fast and clear at a price the MacGregors are willing and able to pay.

A fortunate thing it has been for Sandy that these telephone people have behind them the specialized organization of the Bell System: the help of American Telephone and Telegraph Company's staff of engineers and business experts . . . the use of new inventions from Bell Laboratories . . . standardized equipment of high quality, made in the great factories of Western Electric.

Sandy MacGregor, visioning mounds of ice cream cool as the dew on highland heather, may easily overlook what these organizations mean to the telephone calls he makes.

Yet he benefits from the work they do. Not only have they helped make his calls faster, clearer and better; but in the face of the growing complexity of the telephone system, they have helped this company hold the cost of those calls down to a reasonable price for him.

If you visit the Texas Centennial, Dallas, June 6 to Nov. 29, you are invited to see the Telephone Exhibit.
