WOMEN'S FEDERATED CLUBS MEET IN SNYDER

52 COUNTIES PARTICIPATE IN A DISTRICT CONVENTION HERE 500 VISITING WOMEN EXPECTED GUEST

The Federation of Women's Clubs will hold the Eighth annual District meet in Snyder, beginning Thursday April 25, and lasting through Friday and Saturday. Several hundred delegation visitors will be in our city at that time.. It is hope that 500 ladies from all parts of west Texas will be here to witness the great work that is being done andsponsored by the Women's Clubs of the district. This district is comprised of fifty two counties covering all the territory north and west from Snyder, Scurry county being located in the extreme south east part of the district.

Some of the greatest and most noted talent will be here to represent the different phases of the work of the women. Subjects will be discussed that will interest the congress and laymen of the world. Their work embodies all that is high and noble in life and the wisdom permeating from such a concentration of thought will be herald into the four corners of the earth and will come back to them many fold in righteous accomplishments.

Such subjects as: American Citizenship, American Homes, Applied Education, Public Welfare, Fine Arts, Conservation of Natural Resources, International Relations, Legislation and many others too numerous to give in the brief statement which we are compelled to do on account of the space allowed in our little paper.

The Times Signal goes into detail for the Federation and gives the work from the beginning to end in this weeks issue and the News is very glad indeed to have this edition come to our people. Some history is given that has never been given before and possibly will never be given again, several pages of the Signal was given to the Federation, many beautiful scenes of Snyder and the country as well as cuts of some of our prominent leaders in the Federation. The Signal had the full cooperation of the Women of the Federation, furnishing them with the data necessary in compiling this wonderful edition dedicated to the Federation.

Some of the highest officers in the Federation are found among the Women off Snyder and Mrs. J. T. Whitmore of this city is going to make the race for President of the Federation during the Convention here and it is believed she will be selected by a large majority.

Snyder and the County is backing the Federation to the limit, everything that can be done reasonably will be done for their pleasure and tertainment while here. We wish that it may be said of Snyder, when these noble women have returned to their respective homes and clubs, "Snyyder is a wonderful place, a wonderful people and a wonderful host."

DALLAS TO BE HERE 29th

The Dallas Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Good Will Tour of this county and will be in Snyder on the 29th on Monday morning at 8 o'clock and will spend an hour and thirty minutes with the businss men of our city. It is hoped that a real reception such as they will not have seen on the trip up to that time. Folks lets turn out to meet these people, itwill not cost you and there is no telling the good that may come from the publicity of it. People who are thus greeted do not forget it soon, they will have a warm spot in their hearts for Snyder. Let's meet 'em.

PYRON BOY INJURED

Herman Hall, 12 year old son of R. L. Hall of Pyron, was badly hurt last Thursday when a team ran with a disc harrow on which he was riding. He was thrown off and badly bruised by the harrow.

The boy was rushed to the Snyder Sanitarium and is reported recovering.

He had returned from school and taken the harrow from his father when the team became excited and ran.

HERMLEIGH STORE BURNS

Fire of unknown origin broke out in the Ethredge and Son Grocery at Hermleigh last Thursday morning about 3 o'clock, totally destroying the building and stock.

The fire was first discovered by traveling men who happened to be driving through at that early hour. The Early building which stands only four feet away, was saved by the Hermleigh fire boys.

The building and stock were partially covered by insurance.

BASE BALL

The Base Ball boys met this week but owing to the fact that it had not been properly norated and some of the teams were not present who will probably want to be in the league, nothing was done, another meeting was set for this week and the completion of the league will be made or otherwise settled. We hope that Snyder League will present at least one good club to meet the onslought of other towns and scoffers.

LIONS

The Lions Club met as usual and discussed many interesting items, but the only big thing that was done was to agree to support the Women's Federation with dollars and attendance at the luncheons. It is thought that several of the Snyder Lions will attend the Lions convention at San Angelo next week.

BILLS SERVICE STATION

Bill Hutchinson is opening the Bill Service Station just around the corner from H. G. Towle's Jewelry Store or the old First National Bank building.

Bill says he is going to show these Snyder people what it means to really get service, his idea of service is fine and we hope that he keeps it up, as service is one of the greatest items around a filling station, there are many things that a real service station can do for the tourists that will add to comfort of the driver and bring lasting friends to the man who gives the service. Bill is also putting in a wash rack and compressor oiling systems which will add to the service he proposes to offer.

BOYS 4H CLUB NOTES

Club work was started recently by the County Agent in the following Communities: Hermleigh, Canyon, Turner, Fluvanna, Bison, Loyd Mountain, Crowder, and Plainview. Their membership cards have been coming in, and they Rank in members as listed, with Hermleigh leading with more than twice as many members as any other community, while, Crowder and Plainview are tied for seventh place. Two or three communities have not sent in enrollment cards, and there are eight or ten more communities that will be listed this week. Total membership in the eight communities boast ninety six boys putting on one hundred forty one demonstrations. The Demonstrations are in feeding Pigs, Baby Beeves, Lambs, raising poultry, and eight boys are planning on getting Register of Merit jerseys, then field crops are being grown to use in feeding demonstrations, have a source of good seed, and for exhibition purposes.

While enrollment and organization work has only started, and the communities are trying to excell each other in membership. There will be some new Clubs that may rank above the first ones organized. Club work offers Fathers a chance to pal with his son and lend him encouragement in ownership and productive fields. Boys like to see pigs fatten, milo grow, and hens lay, they want quick returns on their investment, they find satisfaction and experience in ownership that will aid them through the years.

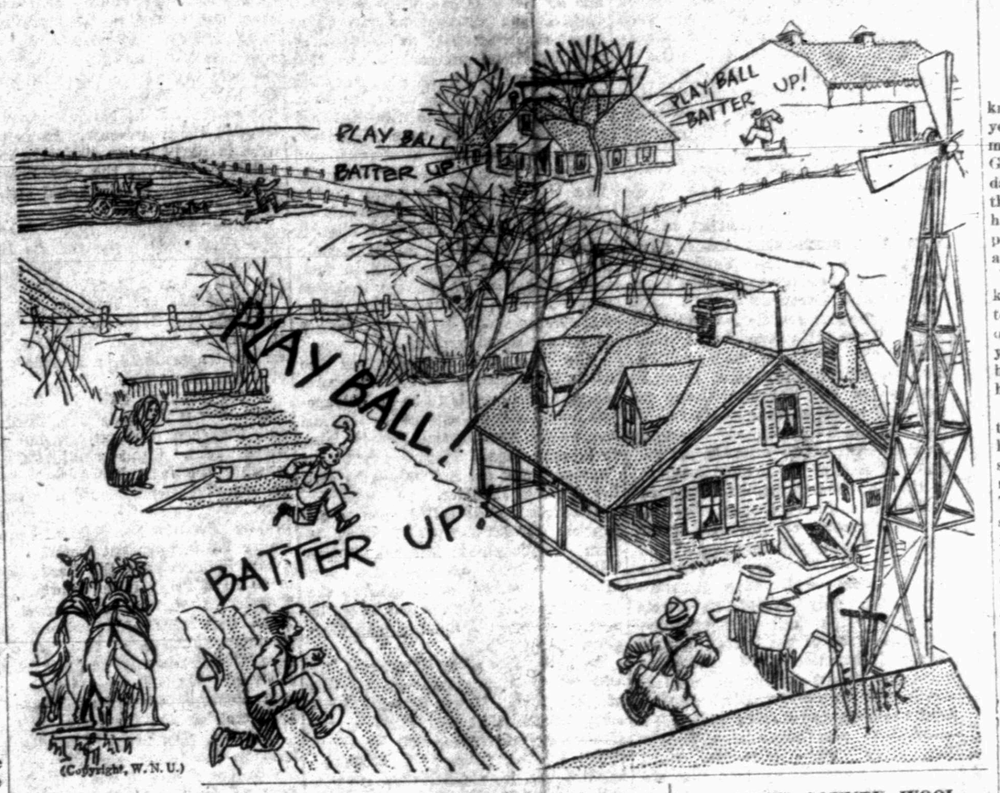

Every group of Club boys wants to send a boy from their group to A. & M. College to the Short Course. They are willing to take a chance on winning the trip, and are willing to help put over the trip for the winner. That's sportmanship, the boys want to be represented at judging contest at Lubbock, in fact these 4H Club Boys are widea-wake young men. The fathers of these boys may find it profitable, as fathers have done, to allow their sons to get in, have something, have a chance to follow improved programe, and spend his time in productive work iinstead of routine work as though he was a hired hand.

POPULAR COUPLE MARRY

Mr. Onnie Martin and Miss Vera Upton, popular young couple and members of two well-known Snyder families, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at the home of Rev. George Alexander who officiated.

The young couple left immediately for Lubbock and upon return, they will make their home in Snyder

Spring Work Gets Its First Setback

UNCLE BILLY GETS COLLIE

Trix, the faithful companion that for more than three years has been the only eyes for Uncle "Billy" Nelson, has passed from labor to rest, "Trix" is not dead but her jaws seem to be set fast, she cannot open them to eat and drink, she cannot lap her water or chew her food, she has to be fed and is at the mercy of her master much more so than her master was dependent upon her. She is helpless and without him she cannot live. The following is part of an article clipped from the Abilene paper, however as soon as the news reached the ears of one of our countrymen, J. G. Lunsford who lives a few miles west of Snyder a real rgistered Collie was sent to Uncle Billy and without cost. Mr. Lunsford is raising this breed of dogs and paid a Hundred dollars for the sire of this pup. The pup is a gracious gift and out of kindly generosity of a good man, Uncle Billy says that the dog has had a few lessons and seems to be a very apt scholar.

Snyder, April 15.—Citizens here are contributing and even the school children are adding their mites to a fund being raised to purchase a pure bred Collie pup for "Uncle Billy" Nelson, first sheriff of Scurry county, whose companion and guide in blindness, a Collie dog, lay Monday afternoon at the Nelson home in hopeless death agony, a victim of lockjaw.

"Uncle Billy," who lost his eyesight several years ago, refused to be dependent on others when he retired from active service as a peace officer, afid established a pop corn and candy stand on a prominent street corner. A Collie pup was trained to lead him in his trips between the stand and his home. The dog became ill last week, and was taken to Abilene for treatment by a veterinary surgeon there.

No cure could be effected and the dog was returned to its home here, where it is expected to die soon.

GET-TOGETHER WEEK

May 5th to 11th, is to be a big get-together week for Snyder and surrounding country.

Capt. C. S. Nusbaum, Lecturer and town builder, will conduct a series of ten lectures, inspirational and constructive, giving the people a vision of their community, business and social posibilities. He has helped hundred of towns to start right in to make their towns better places in which to live. The Captain strikes home on every-day things of life which count for character building and enriches the people of the community with a large community spirit.

The inspirational, constructive and entertaining programs will be given under the auspices of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce.

J. C. Smyth of Hico, was a visitor to the editor of the News this week. Mr.Smyth is editor of the paper there and says that he was greatly surprised at the size and appearance of Snyder, he went home happy about it and we venture that he will have a nice write up about Snyder in this weeks paper, lets watch for it and if he does we will reprint it, that is if it is good.

G. L. Autry left this week for Marlen Wells, where he is spending a few days for his health.

Mrs. T. B Falls Dead

Mrs. T. B. Falls of Ira, died Thursday evening at 7 o'clock as a possible result of injuries sustained recently from a fall. Mrs.Falls seemed to be in the best of health up to the minute before she was stricken unconscious. She had been unusually happy in the evening singing and enjoying life. The family attended church and had just been seated when a neighbor sitting beside Mrs. Falls noticed that her head was bowed, furthur investigation showed that she was unconscious, friends lifted, and carried her to a residence near the church where she remained until death the following evening. She never regained consciousness during the time, and died with the last vision and thought of the church and happiness.

Interment will be attended at the Ira cemetery Saturday evening, Rev. Lambert Officiating.

Mrs. Falls leaves two sisters, three brothers, one daughter and three sons. The eldest child and daughter, Mrs. Pearl Bickam, who now resides in Louisiana failed to reach the bedside until four hours after death had called the mother away. Bill Falls, the youngest son, came from his home in Wichita Falls. Edwin and Ray Falls, the two elder boys live at Ira and were with her until the end..

The Falls family came to Scurry county some twenty three years ago from Van Zant county and resided in the same homestead for the full time.

There is not a soul in the country whose death could cause more and greater sorrow, well known and loved with a deeper appreciation than is ordinarily found in human life, a heart of love an a soul prepared for the great beyond

The News wishes to be counted among those who are deeply grieved and extend our heart in sympathy to the bereaved family.

SCURRY COUNTY WOOL

The wool market seems to be getting at a lower level as the time comes to shear. It is possible that Snyder will have a real market for this kind of produce this season, and can offer as much or more for wool than can be had in the old wool markets. There was a scheme on foot a few weeks ago to pool the wool here and have the buyers from the mills come here direct and buy by the car load but some of the wool growers thought that somebody was going to get something for nothing or some thing else would happen to it so that plan has for the time being been passed up.

WILHELM OPENS CASH GROCERY OLD STAND

F. T. Wilhelm who has been known in Snyder for the past fifteen years as Fred, has all arrangements made to bring to us The Star Cash Grocery which will open doors Saturday, April 27th., in the old stand on the east side of the square where he has spent many years serving Snyder people with good, clean, fresh, fancy and staple groceries.

If there is a man to be found that knows the grocery business from back to front, top to bottom, inside and out, it is Fred. For twenty seven years he has been connected with this business and most of that time right here in Snyder.

Fred will not give us the details of the store as yet but says that he will have the nicest, neatest and cleanest store in Snyder and different in arrangement from any store in west Texas. While Fred is of the old school of serving the people who come into his store, he realizes that the cash stores are the peoples choice and being an apt scholar to the wants of the people, he says the cash store goes and is therefore bringing us what he believes a real self service store with all the modern ideas of such a service.

Fred has a host of friends in Snyder who will be delighted to find him again with that Wilhelm smile and glad hand that Fred alone can give and though it was his friends who caused him to discontinue the old store, he says they are still his friends and hopes that they will not forget him, he does not charge misfortune of the past to his friends but to conditions of the country and says it is these same friends that he is counting on to stay with him in the new Cash store.

Ten years in one store for the same management is a enviable record for any man at this age and any man who can gradually build himself up to the management of a great business in a term of ten years is further evidence of worthiness and dependebility of sturdiness and character. Fred Wilhelm is just that man. Before going into business for himself, Fred served Higginbotham Bros. ten years as their grocery man, being transfered to Snyder to the same position with the same people and serving them faithfully for about a year, he decided it better for his family and the future to enter the grocery business which he did, something like fifteen years ago, serving continuously until this year.

Fred thought for a while he was going to do something else thought that he had been in one business long enough, but after looking into field of possibilities, trying to decide what it could be, discussing the different phases of other lines, mentally comparing them with something else and that something else being groceries, he found that nothing could take the place of the business he loved and had spent his life trying to solve so the final result of his efforts are The Star Cash Grocery.

The News wishes Mr. Wilhelm the best and we feel that he can do just what he is undertaking, build a wonderful business at the old place.

LETTERS FROM EGYPT BY THE ODORE YODER

Through the courtesy of Mrs. D. P. Yoder we are enabled to publish a letter, written by her son, Theodore, who holds the position of Assistant Director of the Division of Extension of the American University, at Cairo, Egypt.

Many requests have come to the Division of Extension asking for a description of its work and program.

But any attempt to paint a picture of the work of the Division of Extension, one of the four dapartments which compose the American University at Cairo, should have, for the sake of perspective, a back-ground of the aims and purposes of the whole University These have been set forth in "The Hand Book for American Instructors" as follows:

"The University firmly believes that true success in life can be attained only in so far as man works in harmony with Almighty God in carrying out His divine plan. It maintains that, while God has revealed Himself to men in many ways and through many agencies, no one has interpreted Him as Jesus Christ has done. The University, therefore, seeks to preach and teach the Gospel of the Master, and to become permeated with His Spirit, and to encourage its students to devote their lives to that unselfish service of others which characterized the life of Christ. The institution, however, recognizes the right of every man to his own beliefs, and respects every man's opinions on religious as well as other matters. It does not seek to change any man's denominational affiliation, but it does urge upon every man the prime importance of a right relationship with God. Its attitude toward men of other religions is one of co-operation in an earnest search after truth. To provide intellectual training which is thorough, scientific, and practical, suited to the needs of the Egyptian nation, and at the same time to realize in the lives of its students the highest ideals of Christian character, are the aims of the University."

The fullest realization of these aims and purposes makes it necessary to discover some means which will enlist the sympathy and co-operation of the community in which the University is located. In other words, the University must in a tangible and practical way meet the needs of Mr. Public. To do this adequately and thereby take advantage of its unique location, it was felt necessary to create a special department of the University, which is known as "The Division of Extension", or, in Arabic, "The Division of Public Service".

The question which arose was: where and how must the work be begun? After a survey of the field, a field wide and new, many problems difficult in solution presented themselves. But the facts that more than 90 per cent of the people of Egypt are suffering from some stage of Trachoma- one of the most devastating of eye diseases- that more than 75 per cent are the victims of other endemic diseases- including ankylostoma and bilharzia- together with the fact that the infant mortality rate is one of the highest of any nation, presented a case, which, after comparing with other problems, seemed more urgent in its demand for solution than any of the others. Thus the problem of Health and Hygiene was selected as the one which would receive primary consideration.

The wide spread of illiteracy prevailing in Egypt, a problem in itself, presented many difficulties as to methods as to procedure, but these have been overcome to a great extent.

Ewart Memorial Hall, a beautiful building in Moorish architecture, which seats 1150 people, is the center of the activities of the Division. Here people gather to listen to lectures, and see cinemas dealing with different phases of personal and social hygiene.

Some of the subjects of lectures given this year are:

"The Value of Public Health Teaching".
"The Effect of Alcohol on the General Health."
"Personal Hygiene."
"Insect-borne Infection."
"The Spread and Prevention of Infestious Diseases."
"Responsibility of Men in Matters Relating to Maternity and Child Welfare."
"Food and Public Hailth."

Most of these lectures were either illustrated with stereoptican pictures or followed with a one reel cinema film. A special effort both through lectures and cinemas, has been made to educate people in sex relationships and the reproduction of life. The popular American film "The Gift of Life", the property of the Division, has had a wide showing not only in

FRIDAY APRIL 1929

TWO FOOLS MET

There was a wreck on the highway and both cars were wrecked beyond repair, one of the drivers claimed that the other was to blame, the other claimed he was right and the other fellow was to blame, both were mad and each wanted to fight about it as a mad man will, for the lack of ordinary sense, but fortunately the third man came by and looked the situation over and found that both of them were guilty of violating the laws. One man stopped without holding out his hand the other was driving so fast he couldn't stop when he saw the other car slow down, consequently a wreck. The head man didn't see the man behind him and the rear man was in a hurry and didn't notice him slow down until he started to turn, it was too late then, the accident was unavoidable.

The moral is that you should always be prepared to meet a fool or to find one somewhere in the road either going or coming and if you are not prepared to thus meet him you are just another fool. Nine times out of ten, when there is a wreck it is because both parties are guilty of some violation of the road ethics or common sense.

Farming on paper is the safest way, we have no weevils, worms or droughts. If the cotton crop of Texas had been held until now it would have brought Texas $37,000,000 more than it did.

Texas has 2660 Silos and ranks 28th in number of silos.

Mrs. R. B. Hicks down in east Texas has a hen egg 9½ inches in circumferetice.

A Jersey cow has been known to bring a calf at the age of 12 months.

Texas raised approximately 9,000,000 pounds of pecans last year.

We raised over 75,000,000 pounds of peanuts in Texas last year.

Did you know that felt is made from rabbit hair and did you know that there are hundreds of uses for felt.

Nations whose habitants eat less meat and more fruit and vegetables live the longest but the meat eaters seem to have it on the others as dominators and rulers.

Washington Letter

By Helm News Service, Inc.

As an interlude to the stodgy melodrama of politics, which ebbs and flows in Washington with the regularity of the tides, the Capital now is plunged deeply into one of the quaintest of its social struggles and pink-tea jockeying for place and precedent.

Unquestionably there has never been a more embarassing moment in the life of the Vice President than when he was compelled to make public announcement of the fact that he behe was compelled to make public announcement of the fact that he believed his sister, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, who is acting as hostss for him in the social duties which fall upon him by virtue of his office, had been slighted and snubbed by the social ring here which tries to control matters of official precedence, and that he is determined to make a fight for her social rights as he conceives them.

The Vice President's wife died four years ago. If she were alive, she would sit with him, at dinners and functions, next to the President and Mrs. Hoover. But the social pundits say that Mrs. Gann, his sister, whose husband is a comparatively obscure lawyer, is entitled to no such ranking. The State Department, in fact, ruled that the cabinet, the Supreme Court justices, and the entire diplomatic corps should be rated above her at official social events.

The Vice President despises the whole silly busines of official precedence, he believes is to be an outrageous social edict, inspired by certain powers in Washington society who, it is said, regard Mrs. Gann as an "upstars" and are determined to give her the cold shoulder.

Congress will be called upon to determine whether or not it wants to pass a revamped McNary-Haugen bill, minus the equalization fee. Mr. Hoover, of course, is opposed to the equalization fee, but the details of the new measure he will leave with Congress itself.

As to the fate of tariff revision, we will not make any comment on this at this time. Many persons, however, believe that the fate of the Hoover administration will be determined by the manner in which he handles the high protectionists who will attempt to ride the coming Congress with whip and spur.

There is another tonch of satirical comedy to the Washington scene this week-the emergence of Henry J. Allen as senator from Kansas, succeeding Vice President Curtis.

Curtis and Allen are ancient and deep-dyed political enemies. The latter is a former governor of the Sunflower state, grim-visaged and humorless, a man who espoused the cause of Herbert Hoover in the pre-convention fights. Inasmuch as senator Curtis was a "favorite son" of Kansas, and was fighting tooth and nail to win the Republican Preidential nomination, the attitude of Allen seemed to be nothing less than treachery to the Curtis cohorts, and the feud has been growing in bitterness ever since.

Be that as it may, here we have Allen in the Senate in the seat which Charles Curtis graced for so many years. The welkin may ring, as the saying goes, fur may fly, and Senatorial courtesy tumble into the scrapheap when the new senator arises to discuss Kansas politics in the "most august deliberative body in the world."

President Hoover himself has indicated that he does not desire to be placed in the position of making dry law enforcement the major objective of his administration. Yet there is every reason to believe that he will attempt to give the law more reality and force than it has had since being placed upon the statute books.

With a finesse that has the Capital chuckling, Vice-President Curtis has scored an eye-filling victory in the social battle which involved the official status of his sister and hostess, Mr. Edward E.Gann.

Not in many moons has Washingtonseen so complete a triumph over the white-spatted scoins of snobbery as that achieved by the genial and suavely effective Kansan in winning a verdict, framed and approved by the diplomatic corps itself, to the effect that the Vice-President's sister has the same social standing a his wife would have if she were living. It came like a chill north wind to those salons wherein a group of dowagers, self-appointed arbiters of Washington society, function with such solemn sweeping self-importance.

The tension is getting altogether too sharp for the politicians to relish, and there is much grumbling in those circles which make a fine art of following Presidential cues and "leads." At the present time, there is no cue to follow. Mr. Hoover is maintaining a masterly silence that even his predecessor could envy, so far as the "burning issues" are concerned.

The fact is that the President is acting with the precision of a Rolls-Royce engine on matters that fall clearly within the executive function, but so far as the leadership which Congress wants, or pretends to want, is concerned, there is none. Everybody suspects that there is a "mailed fist" within the velvet glove, but so far there is no evidence of it.

On farm relief, the major issue of the session, what is likely to happen is this: the White House will remain aloof from the Congressional debate over the various plans promoted by the agricultural experts until the strategic time arrives to take a hand in the fray.

There would seem to be no doubt that the demands of the high-tariff element in the Republican party are going to be so sensationally arrogant in their disregard of the consumer's interest that President Hoover will be compelled to fight and vanquish them if his administration is to survive as a "going concern." If he surrenders to the extreme protectionists, dominated by the eastern manufacturing interests, he will split his party just as surely as President Taft did in 1910, and his political collapse in such an event will be apparent. Of course, he is not going to commit any such folly.

Will Charles Gates Dawes make a really effective diplomat or a successful ambassador to the court of St James? Many of his friends and admirers doubt it and privately deplore President Hoover's decision to send him to the London post.

There is every likelihood, however, that the middle west and the far west will exercise a more powerful influence in this administration-and have a more liberal share in the dispensation of patronage-than in any other Republican regime of the past generation. Mr. Hoover is a western man, and so are the majority of his close friends and addvisers. Those who watch the trend of things political here say that the eastern wing of the party will not dominate this adminisration in the same manner that it ruled its predecessor. In fact, the west is likely to be distinctly in the saddle as soon as the new President really gets his bearings and tests his position.

"We're writing the farm bill now," says Chairman Haugen of the House Committee. "How much money does the bill provida for?" was asked. "Oh that has not been decided yet," declared Mr. Haugen. Many think it will be "around" $3000,000,000, and that appears to be Haugen's idea of a sum to start on.

There has been quite a lot of talk about a rift between the President and the farm Committees, not over where Mrs. Gann shall sit, but whether the farm board shall be in or out the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Hoover seems to want it in the Department, while Congress wants an independent board.

Mr. Haugen says the Farm Board is to have "very broad power." He thought it should have power "to make the tariff effective" on farm products. Just how this is to be done will apparently be "left to Mr. Hoover." "It will be Hoover's bill" said Representative Aswell, ranking Democrat on the farm committee.

Anyway, they are writing the bill, both in the House and Senate. "If we cannot find out what the President is for," said Senator Frazer, "we can at least find out what he is against." He was referring to the Grange Debenture plan, and thought that such a plan might be adopted instead of the equalization fee bill. But no one knew where President Hoover stood on Debenture. Mr. Hyde said, when questioned by the farm Committee, that he "had not studied the plan," which has come to be taken as a polite way of saying "no". But even if the administration is opposed, the debenture could ride it over a veto. The Democrats favor it and some Republicans. Senator Walsh of Montana is for the debenture "to the full amount of the tariff." Now if the "bloodhound of the oil scandals" gets started on farm relief, he might make the Presidency on it. It is being heard more and more, even in friendlly circles, that of all the great problems Hoover has tackled so far, he has shown the least ability in farm relief. "He has sidestepped it beautifully so far," is the common opinion. Some think even his message to Congress will not be very enlightening on the subject. But that remains to be seen.

But while any increase in industrial rates may be opposed, there is little doubt that some increases in farm rates will be made. All in all the big industrial tariff makers are going to find the farm Congressmen tough customers to deal with this time. "Last time we did not pay much attention to heir schemes of excessive industrial rates," said one.

"Mussolini has put on a tariff to bar American wheat," makes Congress take belated notice of the harm excessive duties on Italian products into this country has done.

TEXANS LET'S TALK TEXAS

As Surely as the DAY follows the NIGHT

West Texans! let's talk about the opportunities of West Texas, agriculturally, industrially and commercially--and as a wonderful place in which to live.

AS SURELY as the day follows the night, West Texas stands upon the threshold of an era of industrial development which will be as thrilling and as picturesque as has been the past history of this remarkable empire.

Sometimes the most worthwhile things are the least obvious. It seems to have been so in the case of West Texas. In the outset it seemed to many people that there was very little to recommend this section as one peculiarly fitted for the building of a great industrial area. Men were attracted to this section of Texas, however, whose vision was far reaching. They foresaw that West Texas was destined to become a great center of industrial activity.

Accordingly they instituted a program of foundational industrial work which required the greatest courage and fortitude to carry forward. These men pioneered West Texas. Today their efforts are gloriously in evidence. On every hand the force of their determined optimism is felt. National recognition of the correctness of their forecast, made a quarter of a century ago, is daily being given. They have laid the foundation of a mighty empire.

This heritage they are tendering to a new generation, whose capacity for going forward with it is reflected in today's sound developments.

The Texas Electric Service Company has had a part in West Texas development. And this Company feels that it partakes fully of the spirit of West Texas, that it has an understanding of the needs of this territory which enables it to plan its future along the most constructive lines of helpfulness to this great wealth producing area.

PASSION PLAY IN AMERICA

as seen by Snyder girl

Marian Rosser

Through the years Americans have flocked to Oberammergan in Bavaria, and to Friedburg, Baden, Germany, to witness the Passion Play.

American management has brought to this country sixty Friedburg players and all the costumes needed for a cast of one thousand. Only the Passion Week was given, making a pageant lasting three hours, and so realistic was the presentation of the Lord's divine example of selfsacrifice, love and kindness, that a calm prevailed during the entire spectacle, a feeling of spiritual exaltation lingered long afterward.

This company of Friedburg players is headed by Adolph Fassnacht, who has been trained babyhood to enact the role of Christus. He comes from a long line of ancestors, who have played the part since 1264.

The setting alone was enough to take one back to other lands, and seemed appropriate to have the speaking parts given in a foreign language, (German). The huge stage of the Municipal Auditorium in San Antonio made possible this outdoor setting. Between the hill to the South and the stone gateway leading to the Garden of Gethsemane was the city of Jerusalem. Between the north and south gates of the city the impressive palace of Pilate stood almost three stories high. To the right of it and towering above it was the Jewish Temple with its long flight of stairs. At the side of the steps leading to the Temple was an open room made colorful with oriental coverings, rugs and draperies. Here the priests plotted against Him, and later brought Him for questioning. Beyond the south gate to the city was Herod's balcony. Here Jesus was brought by Pilates' guard.

In the streets of the city Jewish peddlers offered their goods, women came with their water jugs to the wells on either side, camels were led through the streets. The words were spoken in German, but so vivid was the acting, and so closely was the Bible story followed that nothing was missed by those who did not understand the foreign tongue.

There was no changing of scenery and no delays. The actors moved naturally from scene to scene and from one setting to another. Beautiful purple velvet curtains were pulled back for the different tableaux. The first of these was the angel casting Adam and Eve out of the garden signifying the fall of man. This was followed by a large group of angels above in a movement about the cross, signifying the redemption of man. While it is difficult to exaggerate the grandness of the settings, and the appealing power of the acting, much of the effect was due to the inspirational music.

The costumes and hangings were exact copies of the period portrayed, and were remarkably beautiful. The oriental reds, yellows, purples, greens, and blues made a colorful picture as the people gathered with their palm branches as Christ rode into Jerusalem. To the massive Temple building, Jesus went with his disciples, and drove out the money changers.

The scene of the Last supper, like many others was breath-taking in its beauty. The arrangement of the players, the lighting, the costumes, all followed closely the famous paintings of DaVincies. The audience sat spell-bound scarcely breathing as Jesus passed the cup to the twelve and spoke to them of his death. Other scenes taken from the paintings of old masters and familiar to all of us are the Savior in Gethsemane, Christ after the scourging, the Saviour on the way to Cavalry, the Crucifixion, and the Descent from the cross.

Judas was seen as he left the Last Supper, when Christ told him he would betray him. We saw him flattered by the men who wanted something of him. Here in the garden of Gethsemane he came to betray his Lord into the hands of His enemies. George Fassnacht, the younger brother of Adolph, has played this inimitable role of Judas for twenty years. He is the father of the young man who will play the Christus of the next generation, Adolph Fassnacht having no son.

During the last tableaux the audience was requested to stand while the Chorus sang "The Halleujah." The only cities where this play was shown, in America were San Antonio and New York.

The people from Snyder who were fortunate to see this play were: Mrs. Dora Cunningham, Mrs. D. P. Yoder, Mrs. H. E. Rosser, Dan Gibson, Fred Yoder, and Misses Marion Engel, Marion Rosser, Ruth Yoder, Virginia Yoder, Mattie Ross and Maurine Cunningham.

SNYDER'S MAY FETE

Definite plans for Snyder's annual May Fete have been made. The Festival is under the direction of Mr. Homer Springfield and Mrs. Hugh Taylor, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher's Association. Mrs. R. L. Gray will be the piano accompanist.

Wednesday evening, May 1st at 8' clock is the date and time for the gay event which is to be held at Snyder's new $10,000 Stadium. There will be three hundred participants besides fifty dukes and duchesses. Thirty towns have been extended an invitation to attend and preparations will be made for the accomidating of guests.

Mr. Sam Williams of Dallas was a business visitor in Snyder last week-end.

Mr. Dave Sudderth of Pecos was a Snyder visitor Sunday.

Cairo and provinces, but it has been sent to Turkey. "The Science of Life", a film dealing with the same subject as "The Gift of Life" but in more detail is also being widely exhibited.

"The Village Health Contest" has been conducted for the past two years, for the purpose of enlisting the co-operation of the students of Egypt, in spreading health propaganda in the villages and rural communities. This work has already produced some good results, as is evidenced by the following quotation from the Head of the Department of Public Health, in a recent news article:

"The method which is being used by the Division of Extension, is that of inviting students to lectures given in Ewart Memorial Hall during the school year. These lectures are ethical and scientific and most of them deal with matters relative to hygiene. They are delivered by prominent scientists and doctors in response to the invitation of the Director of the Division of Extension. By the end of the school year students have acquired enough knowledge of science and hygiene to enable them to spread propaganda on matters relative to health among the natives in the towns and small villages.

"Then the Division of Extension conducts 'The Village Health Contest' and invites all those students interested in health education to participate in health propaganda during their summer vacation.

"At the beginning of the next school year every contestant presents a written report of the work done by him during the summer, explaining his methods and their results. These reports are then judged by a committee and prize winners chosen, who are awarded prizes ranging from one to five pounds.

"This method is to be commended because it is effective in educating all classes of people in hygiene, especially the students, who in turn teach others.

"Therefore, the Department of Public Health suggests that the Ministry of Education adopt something of the method outlined above and apply it generally to all the government schools. The Department of Public Health will be glad to cooperate in any way possible with the Ministry of Education in giving the students information that will enable them to participate in a contest such as is being conducted by the Division of Extension."

Not long ago the first prize winner of last year's contest came into the office and said that he wanted The Division of Extension to be the sponsor of a club which he and his friends wished to organize for the purpose of assisting each other in health propaganda work.

The Sayyida Zenab Child Welfare Center, an auxiliary of the Division of Extension, which is supported largely by gifts from the wives of the members of the Board of Trustees of the University, is not only treating a great many babies and mothers of the Sayyida Zenab native quarter, but it also conducts classes for the mothers in "The Proper Care of Children," and while they are waiting for treatment patients are told Bible stories by women trained for this work. The Center demonstrates what the possibilities for low cost medical service are where there is willingness to meet the needs of the people. The Center also gives out leaflets in Arabic on "How to Wean the Baby", "Proper Care of the Teeth" and "Instructions for the Expectant Mother". This is only one of the avenues through which the Division distributes literature which is in both English and Arabic.

The more recent project in health education is the promotion of a scenario contest for the purpose of making a cinema film, when completed, will be sent to Syria, Turkey, and India.

Plans are being completed for the equipment of an exhibit room which will be used to demonstrate, in a graphic way, to people who attend the lectures, some of the truths to which they have just been listening. These exhibits, will after their use in Ewart Memorial Hall be sent to the villages.

But not all of the work of the Division of Extension comes under the heading of health education. There are public lectures on other subjects such as:

"The National Unit—The Home"

"Young Criminals- Means of Treatment and Methods of Reformation" (Two Lectures)

"Egyptian Economic Enterprises"

"Literature and its Influence upon the Social Life of the Community"

"Egyptian Womanhood"

"Economic Reform the Basis of Social and Religious Reform"

The fact that these lectures are delivered in Arabic before mixed audiences which often tax the capacity of the Hall is an indication that the people are being reached.

The criticism has been made, that like all other missionary activities, the work being done by the Division of Extension is superimposed and foreign. Perhaps so; but the fact that all of the lectures mentioned above have been delivered by Egyptians of people who are natives of one of the countries of the Near East and speak Arabic as their mother tongue, is one with which the critics must reckon.

TURKEY, TURKEY PRICES

About all the excuse specialty breeders have for existence is the service they render the raiser of commercial for market turkeys. This service, however, is one easily measured in dollars and cents. The specialty breeders supplies the turkey raiser with vigorous young toms unrelated to his stock. At six months of age these young toms are due to reach a standard weight of 25 pounds. They will add about four pounds' weight to each turkey produced. For instance, if 100 turkeys are raised, it would mean 400 extra pounds of turkey to sell.

The price is usually something like an average of 30 cents per pound and upward. Hence, a gain on account of $15 to $25 spent for the young breeding tom will result in 400 pounds, which at even 25 cents would amount to $100. So it is evident from a business standpoint that the raiser cannot afford to use a small tom nor one related to his breeders.

SNYDER BOY IN WRECK

Herbert Banister, son of Dr. Banister ofthis place barely escaped serious accident Sunday when The Fort Worth Limited smashed into the east bound Dallas interurban. Herbert suffered bruises and cuts about the face but fortunately they are of a minor nature and he is about his work in school.

Herbert had been visiting his people here over the week-end and was on his way back to Dallas where he is attending a school of Pharmacy when the accident happened. It seems that the Fort Worth Limited split a switch and on leaving the track ran into a telephone post. The post was knocked into the window of the Dallas car where Herbert was sitting. The motorman on the Limited was also slightly injured.
