Picture Story Of Fatal Battle At Dundee Bank

CALLES LAYS ASSASSINATION TO CLERICALS

President Issues Note Of Slaying of Obregon By Youth

KILLER IDENTIFIED

Art Student, 23, Named Jose de Leon Toral, Is Assassin

MEXICO CITY, July 18. (UP)—President Calles issued a statement tonight in which he said the assassin of President-elect Obregon had confessed that religious fanaticism had prompted him to commit the murder.

The president's statement said "The authorities charged with the duty of investigating the murder have full proof directly implicating members of the clergy in the crime."

LAREDO, Texas, July 18. (UP)—Seven passengers were injured, none seriously, three rebels were killed and two baggage coaches were telescoped when a Laredo bound train was derailed and attacked by 200 rebels 276 miles out Tuesday morning, it was learned here Wednesday afternoon when the passengers arrived nine hours late on another train.

Passengers were toppled from their Pullman berths when all but two coaches of the train left the track. A 15-minute panic in the train followed while guards held off the attack of the swarming rebels. In a second attack by the insurgents three rebels were taken captive and later executed.

Americans Aboard

Thirty-five American passengers were aboard the wrecked train. None of them was injured, although they narrowly escaped possible death when the Pullman in which they were sleeping toppled against the side of a water tower. The tower prevented the coach from rolling into a deep arroyo. One man was flung into the water of the arroyo but he was rescued.

Passengers on the wrecked train were taken aboard the south bound Mexico City train which turned back to Laredo.

The wrecking occurred near Rincon. While the battle was in progress, women and children ran screaming up and down the aisles, which added to the general confusion.

Woman Is Leader

The captured rebels declared that their leader was a woman. Several reports have been received here in recent weeks that a woman was leading a band of roaming bandits in the vicinity of yesterday's attack.

Inasmuch as the attack occurred several hours before the assassination of Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, no credence was given to rumors that the attack was part of a revolutionary plot.

Assassin Identified

MEXICO CITY, July 18. (AP)—Police headquarters tonight semi-officially announced that the assassin of General Obregon had been identified as Jose de Leon Toral, an art student, age 23 years, a native of Lagros, in the state of Jalisco.

It was reported tonight that police and arrested five men suspected of being involved in the conspiracy to assassinate General Obregon.

He is said to have lived at Guadalajara but to have come to Mexico City six months ago seeking work. Police said they found upon him a rosary and other religious emblems, and a picture of the Catholic Priest, Miguel Augustin Projuares, who was executed in connection with the attempt to assassinate Obregon with bombs last November.

It was said—unofficially—that De Leon Toral refused to admit accomplices and insisted throughout

Bandit Victim—
Too Easy on Them—
Summer Fever—
A Snake Story—

Charlie McDaniel, pioneer resident and loved citizen of the little town of Dundee, the victim of a bandit's gun. What happened to McDaniel may happen at any time to any business man or banker going about the peaceful pursuit of his affairs. That's one reason Texas bankers posted a $5,000 reward for dead bandits.

The attempted robbery of the Dundee bank is believed the work of the bandit who staged three holdups in Wichita county Tuesday night. Now the hijacker is hiding in Wichita Falls. He will be captured sooner or later, the sooner the better. And the justice meted out should fit the crime, and should be a warning to others of his kind. Too many criminals have come to believe a sob-story, a good lawyer and tearful regrets will satisfy a jury for even murder and highway robbery.

Stores which offer counters in sporting goods, particularly fishing tackle and camping outfits, prove attractions for many mythical vacationists. Many of those who come to look and many who make purchases never make use of their information or merchandise, clerks say. Tents mould in the family closet, fancy bait and heavy lines are never wet, and railway guides eventually help start the fall fires. It must be a fever somewhat akin to that which causes a person to order highly illustrated seed catalogues and plan many tomatoes and radishes in the spring time.

With the state fish hatchery almost at Wichita Falls' doors, streams, lakes and ponds in Northwest Texas should eventually be well stocked with game fish suitable to this section. No finer sport or recreation could be offered to Northwest Texas residents. Some contend that fishermen are born and not made, but it is this writer's opinion that all men and some women are born fishermen. All they need is opportunity.

Dr. William M. Harper, expert on snake poison who recently visited Wichita Falls, would be interested in a story given some circulation among many negro residents of this city. As told to W. K. Shane, a Record News reporter, the story relates to a two-year-old negro baby who lived on rattlesnake poison for two months and died when deprived of the snake's venom.

According to the story, the baby would seldom eat, and each day would crawl into the yard. Finally the child was followed by its parents, who were horrified to see the infant stop by a bush, where it was struck by a coiled rattler. The snake was killed and the baby died two days later from the ABSENCE of the poison, it is claimed. Support for the story was given as the presence of a number of puncture marks on the baby's body, on the theory that it had become immune to the poison over a period of time.

Ignorance and superstition are terrible and pitiful things, although there can be no shred of scientific possibility for such a happening, Dr. Harper would probably tell us that the baby was bitten ONE time, and that it died from that bite. The story continues to circulate, although city health department workers and reporters have so far been unable to find any person with actual knowledge of the case. —H. C. F.

CAPT. MARIANO LOSES LEG

Amputation Necessary For Frozen Limb

VIRGO BAY, Spitzbergen, July 18. (UP)—An Italian physician tonight amputated Capt. Adalberto Mariano's leg frozen on the march toward land after the transpolar dirigible Italia crashed on the Arctic ice.

Mariano, aboard the Russian ice ship Krassin, which rescued him, was in a high fever and gangrene had attacked the leg. The Krassin obtained a physician from the Italian rescue ship Braganza which met the Krassin in the open sea.

Capt. Filippo Zappi, who was rescued with Mariano, has recovered from the exhaustion of six weeks of walking across the ice floes.

The Krassin is steaming through the icy waters with a damaged rudder but the commander believes he will be able to return to the north almost immediately after coaling at Advent bay. He will search for six men blown away in the envelope of the Italia after the wreck.

Man Expected to Die Before Demo Primary Asks to Cast Absentee Vote

A lifelong Democrat at the point of death at a Wichita Falls hospital, who does not hope to live through July 28, sought insurance against death on an absentee ballot Wednesday.

"He'll probably be absent from Wichita county on July 28," a friend pleaded for him, "and wants to cast his vote. There's a man running for United States senator who is a particular friend of his."

Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, who has been answering all kinds of questions during the time 100 persons who expect to be out of Wichita county on election day have prepared their ballots, did not know what kind of answer to make. She referred the sick man's friend to the county chairman, who was not reached Wednesday.

Wednesday was the first day for voters who expect to be absent on July 28 to mark their ballots. For 10 days those who expect to be out of town on election day and who left before Wednesday have been mailed ballots to the points where they are visiting.

Two dozen persons voted by way of the absentee route Wednesday. Seventy absentee ballots had been mailed out of the county upon the application of the absent voters, Miss Hall said, bringing the total number of votes to almost 100.

Thousands Reverently View Last Ceremony in U.S. for Mexico's 'Lindy'

NEW YORK, July 18. (AP)—In an impressive ceremony witnessed by tens of thousands, New York bade a last farewell today to Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexican good will flier who was killed at the outset of a return flight to his homeland.

After the funeral procession, participated in by 10,000 troops and a score of airplanes, the casket draped with the flags of the two nations, was placed on a pedestal in the middle of Seventh avenue before the Pennsylvania station for full military salute to the dead.

A firing squad of 40 regular army soldiers fired three salvos over the casket, their guns pointing upward at the windows of office buildings which were jammed tier on tier with men and women who were unable to join the thousands in the street.

A bugler blew taps, the military call to sleep, and then Captain Carranza was borne on the shoulders of an army guard to the special train for Mexico.

The funeral procession was one of the most imposing the city has ever seen and one of the busiest streets in the world was cleared of all traffic to make a path for it.

Shortly afternoon crowds began gathering in the square by the funeral chapel in the upper Broadway where the flier's body had lain since he crashed last Thursday in a New Jersey berry bog, and by 3 o'clock police estimated that 25,000 were jammed in the immediate vicinity.

A bugler blew attention as eight soldiers bore out the casket and placed it on the black gun caisson brought for the purpose from West Point and drawn by six black horses. Behind the caisson a soldier led a horse, with reversed boots and stirrups.

As the troops began to arrive at the Pennsylvania station instead of disbanding they spread along both sides of the street, still in formation, so that the procession down Seventh avenue from Times square passed between solid ranks of soldiers and sailors at present arms.

The cortege did not reach the Pennsylvania until almost half an hour after the time originally set for the special train's departure.

LOVE CALLS COURT'S HAND

Candidate Belittles Body's Knowledge of Law

DALLAS, July 18. (AP)—Thomas B. Love, candidate for lieutenant governor, said today that the opinion of the San Antonio court of civil appeals handed down yesterday as reported in news dispatches evinced a total misunderstanding of the facts in the case and an utter misstatement of the law.

The San Antonio court denied a writ of mandamus against the Cameron county Democratic executive committee which would have forced that committee to place Love's name on the primary ballot. The committee previously had voted to omit from the ballot the names of Love, and Mrs. Edith E. Wilmans and Judge William E. Hawkins, candidates for governor, because they would not vote for Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Wrote Law, He Says

The former state senator said he knew all the facts as he wrote the law governing the case nearly 25 years ago.

Citing article 207 of the penal code Mr. Love asserted that it would seem that this whole controversy ought to be disposed of by the statement that this article makes it a penitentiary offense for anyone charged with the printing of a primary election ballot to leave off the name of any candidate for a state office duly certified to him.

Replying to that section of the court's opinion in which it said that if Mr. Love's conscience demanded that he should not vote for Al Smith that in honor and good faith he should have had his name removed as a candidate for a Democratic nomination, Mr. Love said:

Up to Voters

"There is nothing in the constitution or in the laws of Texas which gives the San Antonio court of civil appeals or any other tribunal, except the body of the Democratic voters in the July primary, the right to prescribe who shall or shall not run for Democratic nominations in this state.

"The election laws of Texas plainly and unequivocally provide that any Democrat can be candidate for a nomination for a state office without any sort of moral or legal obligation to support the Democratic presidential nominees. The test for participation in the July primaries is specifically limited to pledging the voter to support the nominees of 'this primary' thus excepting all nominees not chosen at this primary."

"Brass Collar"

The candidate for lieutenant governor characterized the opposing factions of the party as brass-collar Democrats and "freedom of conscience Democrats."

"The brass-collar Democrats believe that it is immoral for a Democratic voter to follow his conscience if it violates his pledge, while the freedom of conscience Democrats believe it is immoral for a Democratic voter to follow any pledges if it violates his conscience."

NEW YORK, July 18. (US)—Four persons died here today from heat. Scores were overcome and taken to hospitals.

Less Than $500 In Bank Where Battle Occurred

If the highway who attempted—and failed—to hold up the First State bank of Dundee Wednesday had succeeded he would have gained—

Less than $500.

If he had stripped the vault, the cash drawer and even the pennies from the money changer, his loot would not have amounted to the six month's earnings of a common laborer.

Yet the raid cost the life of Charlie McDaniel, one of the "old timers" of the old west, and, if the highwayman should be captured, will certainly lead to the state's demand for his life, according to Ben Allred, district attorney.

Too Much Risk

The amount of the money in the bank at the time of the attempted holdup is that estimated by Horace Flatt, cashier of the institution. It chanced that Mr. Flatt was out to lunch at the moment selected for the robbery. The doors of the bank were closed, a possibility which the highwayman apparently had not even considered.

It is a fact, pointed to by Mr. Flatt, however, which established that the robbery of small town banks is no longer worth the risk.

"Our bank, and most small town banks," Mr. Flatt explained, "usually carries only enough cash to meet the current day's demands. Dundee is not far from Wichita Falls and the roads are good. No matter what demands for money can be made upon us, we can be prepared within an hour to meet them. We simply send to Wichita Falls, and the money is sent to us.

"It isn't worth the trouble, much less the risk, to try to rob most of the small town banks of today. We keep only enough cash to meet the needs of the day's business, and, compared with Wichita Falls, that amount is not large."

Former Raid Successful

The Dundee bank, Mr. Flatt related, learned its lesson about three years ago when three men held up the institution and got about $2000. Nearly all was recovered. Two or three days later, some of the men, aided by at least one other, participated in the holdup of a bank at Loving. A spectacular chase and gun fight, in which officers were led by Warren Belcher, present Wichita deputy sheriff, resulted in the capture of four men, and they were sent to the penitentiary for terms ranging from 16 to 28 years. They were Alvin Ireland, Billy Keyes, John Reid and Louis Tillman, Belcher related. James V. Allred, former district attorney, prosecuted them.

Prior to that time, Mr. Flatt related, at least three attempts were made to burglarize the Dundee bank. The bank's safe, however, resisted all attempts, including one with nitroglycerin and another with acetlyne gas.

'LONE WOLF' OF HIGHWAYS TRAILED HERE

Charles McDaniel Dies Of Wound Received While Fighting Raider

OFFICERS CLOSE IN

Car Stolen by Robber After Attempted Holdup Located Here

Charles McDaniel, 54, pioneer peace officer of North Texas, wounded in a gun battle with a lone highwayman who attempted to rob the First State bank of Dundee at noon Wednesday, died at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Less than 12 hours before his death, the Dundee man had dared face a desperado armed to the hands of a desperado who had left a trail of three robberies behind him in the past 24 hours. The successful efforts of Mr. McDaniel to save the Dundee bank from robbery sent him to the Wichita Falls hospital where he died.

Meanwhile officers of five counties were working desperately to apprehend the lone wolf of the highways responsible for the death of the Dundee merchant, cattleman and officer. Twenty-five suspects had been rounded up by the city police, the constable's department and the sheriff's department as the three law enforcing bodies here swung dragnets over the entire city.

Fifteen Jailed

Fifteen men were taken to the county jail.

Nine of these were released after questioning. The city jail held five suspects after five had been released.

Officers directing the search included Frank Burns, chief of police; G. W. Bralley, sheriff of Wichita county; Ed Goodwin, sheriff of Archer county, Curly Kincaid, Archer county deputy, and W. W. Belcher, Wichita county deputy.

Round Up Criminals

Officers here frankly were uncertain as to the identity of the man who attempted the daring single-handed robbery shortly after noon on the principal Dundee business street. Five or six men with criminal records were suspected, however, and investigations of Wednesday night were designed to account for their movements during the few hours preceding.

Activities of Wednesday night and Thursday morning were a continuation of one of the most spectacular pursuits of a fugitive in the history of this section of the state. While no fewer than 100 officers traveled the highways in search Wednesday afternoon, the man they sought stopped three other cars and, at the point of a pistol forced their drivers to alight. Two of the cars he seized to continue his flight, and in the second drove into Wichita Falls. At one time, he threatened occupants of two cars at a point about three miles from Holliday, having abandoned one seized car when a more desirable one chanced along.

Officers of Wichita county had been searching for a man such as that who held up the Dundee bank since before midnight Tuesday. They had been advised that a highwayman driving a Whippet roadster of striking paint design had committed three holdups between Wichita Falls and Electra during the early hours of Tuesday night.

Car Eludes Search

The car, however, had eluded the search, and about noon was brought to a stop in front of the grocery store operated by Mr. McDaniel at Dundee. The building is approximately half a block in length and shares the one story brick building of which the bank occupies more than the front half.

Horace Flatt, the cashier, had been alone in the bank during most of the morning and presumably still was on duty when the roadster was brought to a stop in front of the McDaniel store. The two establishments are at least 100 yards from all others and at the time Mr. Daniels and Mr. Flatt were probably the only individuals in that immediate neighborhood.

Mr. Flatt, however, closed the bank at noon to go to lunch, in accordance with daily custom, and one with which the hijacker apparently was not familiar. The man

BOLL WEEVIL GETS PRAISE

Held Responsible for New Farm Methods

SAN ANTONIO, July 18. (AP)—The boll weevil, usually the object of invective when farmers gather, was praised today as being responsible for the present improvement in farm profits, farm living conditions and agricultural practice at the opening session of the sixth annual South Texas short course.

O. B. Martin of College Station, director of the Texas A. & M. extension service, declared that the menace of the boll weevil had forced farmers to adopt modern methods and was directly responsible for the inauguration of demonstration service.

"The farm and home demonstration work was first originated to combat the boll weevil," he said. "The first farm demonstration ever held was 25 years ago when Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, prominent educator and agricultural statesman, showed Texas farmers how to grow cotton under boll weevil conditions by the use of cultural and crop rotating practices at Terrell, Texas.

"From his movement, started in Texas, has grown the network of farm demonstration work which now covers the country.

Ice Free If You Carry Your Own

Citizens of Colorado May Have Unlimited Supply and Never Pay a Cent

One advantage of living in Colorado is that one need never pay the ice man. The state provides this luxurious necessity free to its population the year 'round. Thousands of tons are always available for distribution and one may carry away as much as he chooses. The state, however, does not provide ice delivery.

The "stations" may be a bit remote, but the ice really is free. On most of the mountain peaks are great glaciers of solid ice that the sun never melts. While it may not be entirely practical to "carry your own" ice from these "stations," you can nevertheless enjoy the cool, invigorating breezes that blow over them. And these are delivered free. This and high altitude keeps Colorado constantly cool and makes it the ideal vacation land. Take your tweeds and sweater with you. The days are sunny but cool and the nights make the fire feel good. The Fort Worth & Denver is the quick direct route and offers tempting low summer rates.—Adv.

BOND ELECTION SET AUGUST 28

Tentative Date Suggested For $250,000 Issue

August 28 is the date on which Wichita Falls will be asked to vote on a $250,000 bond issue for the retirement of miscellaneous public debt if the date suggested Wednesday by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, is adopted by the city council Monday night.

An ordinance is being prepared by Thelbert Martin, city attorney, explaining the election and providing for the necessary legal steps.

It has been decided to make the election call for an even $250,000 instead of $252,499 as originally intended. The difference is covered mainly by paying for certain fire equipment from other funds. This was done to make the issue easier to handle throughout the election.

The tentative date, the need, the items covered and similar information is to be covered in the ordinance which is being turned over to Mr. Martin Thursday by the city clerk and city manager to put in legal form.

The city council Monday night may make any changes it sees fit or may change the date. It is expected that the ordinance will be passed on an "emergency" reading that no time may be lost and that the election may be called at the earliest possible date.

When asked as to the approximate cost of calling the election, W. E. McBroom, city clerk, Wednesday estimated it at $200 including advertising and clerks.

Coast Guards Ordered to Observe British Rights in Rum Warfare

MIAMI, Fla., July 18. (AP)—Halting of rum craft by American coast guard boats has been confined to waters outside the five-mile limit of British possessions in the Bahama islands, it became known today through a state department letter on record in federal district court here.

The letter declared the intention of the department to apologize for technical violations of an agreement through which the American boats have been permitted to enter British territorial waters solely for the purpose of observation.

To prevent a recurrence the letter said that orders had been issued to the coast guard that no vessel should be stopped at any point less than five miles from nearest British territorial land.

Weather Halts Atlantic Fliers

PARIS, July 18. (UP)—Aviators of two nations today awaited favorable weather for transatlantic flights to New York.

Meanwhile Major Louis Idziokowsky and Major Casimir Kubala, of Poland, were forced by unfavorable weather to postpone their contemplated take-off at dawn today. The plane, which the Poles hope will carry them to New York, via the Azores islands, was fueled yesterday.

Ramblin'
with
Marie Theresa

BLONDES can afford to be themselves.

We brunettes must either be vamps or guardian angels in order to make a social success of encounters with men. Marie Theresa learned this yesterday. She was sipping coffee when she overheard one of the masculine persuasion at the counter address the blonde waitress as "Poker Face."

"Huh," was the answer, "you don't look so keen yourself."

OLD-FASHIONED buttermilk is being advertised on the menu of one of the hotels. I ordered a glass just to see how it differed from most of the buttermilk I'd met at other places. Nothing quaint about that buttermilk. Wichita Falls is putting on dirs—pretending to be so far removed from buttermilk that a speck or two of butter floating about the surface of the glass will be mistaken for originality.

HERE'S a tip to men who are having marital troubles. This corner was told of an unusual contract drawn up and made binding between an Albany, Texas man and wife.

After a separation or two, the alleged head of the family conceived the idea of cementing the bonds by having a lawyer draw up a contract between himself and his erring wife, whereby she promised not to again leave party of the first part under any circumstances. Both left the office of the attorney apparently happy, the Mrs. confident that the contract is binding, the lawyer said, even though the original marriage contract had been tried and found lacking in effectiveness.

Four months have elapsed and little trouble has been heard from the couple, and the lawyer says that matters will probably take care of themselves. When questioned concerning the strength of the contract, party of the first part says that he has had no difficulty beyond having to take out said contract occasionally and read it over to party of the second part.

For natural reasons, party of second part is not likely to ever question the strength and validity of that contract, and they are living "happily ever after." Merely proves that the typewriter is mightier than the halter.

There, papa, that should hold her if she is given to walking and weak on thinking.

THE SPORT EDITOR opines that women will favor Tunney in the coming Tunney-Heeney encounter, as Mr. Tunney is one of the handsomest men of the ring. Get you a picture or two of Mr. Heeney and draw up a conclusion, as you will probably be called for an opinion on the bout within the intervening few days previous to the battle.

WE'VE read again and again that men are more discriminating in the matters of minutest detail. For instance, that perfume manufacturers employ men to do expert judgment on perfume mixtures because men have keener olfactory sense (know what that means?) and so forth.

But we've never believed it.

And now comes a contradiction. A local ice cream manufacturer (or chef) comes along and invites a group of the social leaders of the city and gives 'em an ice cream party, at which names for a new brand of ice cream will be submitted, and a prize given the winner.

And not a masculine man appears on the guest list.

Great Beacon Expected To Arrive Here In Ten Days

The gigantic 30-mile, 8,000,000 beam candlepower searchlight that is destined to guide flyers of the night to Wichita Falls has been shipped and will be here in about 10 days, it was estimated Wednesday by C. W. Cahoon, president of the municipal airport. The light is coming by freight.

Woman Who Wishes Career Should Have Clear View Before Marriage

The Problem of the Woman Lawyer Who Must Choose Between Marriage and a Career—The Rewards of a Noble Stepmother—Advice to Economical Parents of an Extravagant Grafting Son.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman lawyer. Quite successful. I am engaged to be married to a fine man, but he insists that I must give up my profession when I marry. I love him. I love my work. What must I do—give up my man or my career? I have spent years in studying a profession that is as the breath of life to me.—PORTIA.

Answer: You are wise to settle this question definitely and for good on the safe side of the altar.

No woman who hankers after a career should marry without a clear understanding of what her husband is going to demand of her in the way of domesticity, and certainly no man with grand Turk ideas has a right to marry a talented, energetic and ambitious woman who is running fame and fortune on her own behalf without making her fully realize the sacrifice he is going to demand of her.

Furthermore, having determined whether the wife should come out of her office or studio and go into the kitchen or not, both sides should be good enough sports to abide by the decision and not welch on their bargain.

That a woman should either have to scrap her career or her love dream is one of the innumerable curses of being a woman.

A man has no such difficulty and is called upon for no such sacrifice. When he gets married he adds the pleasure of domesticity to the joys of a career. He does not have to decide between the two. He has the comfort of his own home, the delights of the companionship of wife and children on the one side and on the other the never-ending interest and happiness that one finds in doing the special work to which God has called one, the thrill of achievement, the pride of victory.

Now, the woman who has a special talent has just the same pleasure in developing her power and exercising it as a man has. She has just the same urge of ambition and takes the same joy in success as he does, and it seems a hard thing to ask her to give it all up when she marries just because her husband wants somebody to darn his socks and keep his house. It is like making a plow horse out of Pegasus or a washrag out of a rose-point handkerchief.

But the difficulty about settling this problem of whether a woman should keep on with her profession or not after marriage is that both sides are perfectly right from their own standpoints.

The woman is justified in claiming that she has a right to self-expression, to do the work she loves, to exercise her talents, to gratify her ambitions, to make the money she needs.

And the man is right in saying that what he marries for is to get a wife and a home, a wife who will be a fire-tender, not one who is off trying law cases or watching a desperately ill patient or winning plaudits on the stage a thousand miles away.

He wants his wife to stay put in her own home and give her thoughts, her interests to him, and center her ambitions in him, not in her profession. He wants to be her career.

Nor will his vanity endure to be the insignificant husband of the successful wife. Wives are proud of their famous husbands, but there are very few husbands who are big enough and altruistic enough not to hate their famous wives.

Perhaps future generations will be able to solve this problem, but at present a woman has to choose either her husband or her career, unless she is lucky enough to get a very exceptional and advanced man for a husband.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Fifteen years ago I married a widower with three children who were mere babies. I have reared these children as if they were my own, shared their joys and sorrows. I love them devotedly and am sure that they love me.

But this worries me: My friends and neighbors tell me that I am doing myself an injustice by nursing them when they are sick, sacrificing myself in order that they might have things and working to make them a happy and comfortable home. They say that when these children grow up they will marry and have homes of their own and forget the stepmother who loved and reared them. Is this true?—A STEPMOTHER.

Answer: The friends and neighbors who tell you such lies are a set of malicious mischief-makers to whose evil counsel you should pay no attention whatever. Anybody who would try to poison a stepmother's mind against the little children who are in her keeping and prevent her from mothering them is possessed of seven devils, and the least you have to do with such a one the better for you.

Believe me, my dear lady, when I tell you that the very noblest thing that a woman can do in the whole wide world is to be a mother to a little motherless child, and nothing else she can do has such far-reaching influence for good.

Don't for one instant believe that they will forget you or cease to be grateful to you, any more than they would to their own mother.

As they grow older and have children of their own they will appreciate more and more what you did for them, and they will honor you even more than they would their own mother, because you did for them all that a mother would do, yet they had upon you none of the claims that a child has upon its own mother.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—We have a son who is to be married. He makes a larger salary than his father does, but lives up to the last penny. Now he wants us to borrow money to finance him through getting married, buying a diamond ring for his sweetheart, renting and furnishing a house and paying the expenses of his wedding. Now, we have lived very economically and have worked hard and are paying out for two or three pieces of property that we hoped would be a support for us in our old age. Should we go deeper in debt for him or let him shoulder his responsibilities as we have done?—MOTHER.

Answer: I would urge you with all the earnestness of which I am capable to refuse to burden yourself with one cent of your son's debts. To do so under the circumstances will not only hurt you but will injure him.

To begin with, no man has any right to get married until he has money enough to underwrite his own wedding, and certainly no man has any business giving a girl a diamond ring that he has to make his poor old mother and father pay for by sacrifices of the little comforts that they need.

A diamond ring is no necessity to a legal and binding marriage. There are millions of happy and prosperous men in this country—some of whom have since given their wives ropes of pearls and tiaras and stomachers of precious stones—who never even thought of an extravagance as a diamond ring when they were married.

If your son were not utterly selfish he would not ask you to go in debt to give him money, and this should make you realize how little you can depend upon him to take care of you if you give him all you have and are dependent on him in your old age.

No parents are so foolish as those who impoverish themselves for their children, because the son and daughter who will rob their old parents will begrudge them a support when they are penniless and too old to work. Keep your money. Don't prepare for yourself that most terrible of all tasks, a dependent old age.—DOROTHY DIX.

Women Name New Ice Cream Brick

A group of women invited from the Woman's Forum by the Colvert Ice Cream company gathered together for a social hour on the lawn of Mrs. J. T. Bright in Country Club estate Wednesday afternoon.

The women selected were to name the new brick of ice cream recently put out by Colvert which has been wandering about nameless.

After a social hour of music and readings a spirited contest was entered into and many unusual and distinctive names submitted for the cream. The author of the name selected is to be the recipient of a $10 prize from the company while the Forum receives a gift of 50 cents per person for the crowd assembled. Refreshments and favors were served to about 35 women present.

This is the third time recently the women have demonstrated their interest in the industrial plants of the city. A few months ago inspections were made of two new plants—Shepherd Dry Cleaning and Narziger Bakery and now the women lend their taste for the naming of a new product.

MEXICAN BAND WRECKS TRAIN

Statement On Assassination Made by Calles

his grilling that he alone was responsible.

Identification Made

MEXICO CITY, July 18. (US)—Mystery surrounding the true identity of the assassin of General Alvaro Obregon was cleared up tonight when a woman identified the prisoner as Jose de Leon. Simultaneously with this announcement the federal secret service said five others had been arrested on suspicion of implication in the death of the president-elect. Those who saw the prisoners herded into jail said they appeared to belonged to the "middle class."

Earlier in the afternoon police said De Leon, who had previously given the name of Juan Escapularlo, had "begun to talk," but it was not disclosed whether the five arrests were based on information given by De Leon or as concurrent investigations of the police.

Woman Questioned

The identification of De Leon was made by Julia Rodriguez Rubio. When she saw De Leon she exclaimed "ho la Pepe"—"this is little Joe." She was questioned at length about her acquaintance with the prisoner but police did not reveal, what, if anything, they had learned about him.

The body of General Obregon was borne through the streets of the capital this afternoon, and thousands lined the way from the national palace to the railroad station. Airplanes circled above the funeral cortege, dropping wreaths.

The body was placed aboard a train for Obregon's native town, Navojoa, in the state of Sonora, where the burial ceremonies will be held.

Slayer Half-Witted

The slayer is described by the police as "half-witted" and of a type easily swayed. It was also announced that a search of the prisoner had revealed 100 pesos.

One detective, himself under charges of attempting to extort money from Catholics, today identified Escapularlo as the driver of the automobile of plotters who attempted to assassinate General Obregon several months ago in Chapultepec park.

The would-be assassins escaped, but some of them were recognized, and subsequently Padre Juarez and three other Catholics faced a firing squad as a result of the attempt on Obregon's life. Escapularlo, the detective asserts, was the driver of their automobile.

Today he faced Escapularlo in his cell.

"I know you," the detective said.

"And I know you," replied Escapularlo.

"How do you know me?" the detective flashed back.

Escapularlo mumbled and appeared confused for a moment but quickly regained his composure.

"Who doesn't know you?" he inquired vaguely.

Statement Later

Immediately he was questioned again at length by General Zertuche and his aids. Upon withdrawing from his cell the police chief said with an air of satisfaction: "he has begun to talk, now. Undoubtedly there will be arrests immediately. I will have a full statement later."

The situation was calmed somewhat today by the announcement that a special term of the Mexican congress had been called for immediate assembly to elect a president pro-tem. This was interpreted as meaning that President Calles would not remain in office beyond the expiration of his term.

Political gossip mentioned most prominently for the post Aaron Saenz, governor of the state of Nueve Leon and director of General Obregon's presidential campaign. He served a term as foreign minister.

The call to the representatives of congress asked that they reach the capital as quickly as possible—this evening if they could. A two-thirds membership will constitute a quorum and the president pro-tem will be named by a secret majority vote.

Widow Collapses

NAVAJOA, Sonora, Mex., July 18. (UP)—The widow of General Alvaro Obregon was in a state of prostration today as plans were made to bury the assassinated president-elect of Mexico near his home here.

It was said at the Obregon estate that a special train bearing the general's body already has started from Mexico City and that it was due here Friday night or Saturday morning.

Simple ceremonies will mark Obregon's burial, it was decided.

Senora Maria Tapia Obregon, the widow, was attended by a few personal friends who sought to assuage her grief after she was notified Tuesday evening of her husband's death. Physicians were in attendance but guards were stationed about the house and no definite information regarding her condition could be obtained.

Senora Obregon was the general's second wife. She was the mother of 10 of his children, all living.

Throughout Senora business life was at a standstill and deep mourning prevailed. Only one incident of a possible significant nature was reported—the arrest in Nogales of Pedro Gonzales, Mexican laborer, who was jailed after a public expression of satisfaction over the assassination.

Officials declined to comment on the arrest.

Nogales was the former home of the murdered leader and business houses, cafes and saloons were closed as it was decreed that no business should be transacted until after Obregon's funeral.

It was decided at a mass meeting there that a special train would be run from Nogales to Navajoa to bring mourners to the funeral here. The train will be draped in black and loaded with flowers.

Other similar expeditions from various sections of northern Mexico are expected to be arranged.

U. S. TO COOPERATE IN PREVENTING REVOLT

WASHINGTON, July 18. (UP)—The United States is prepared to cooperate with President Calles to prevent possible revolutionary disturbances in Mexico as a result of the assassination of President-elect Obregon.

Head of Methodist Church of South States Position On Politics

The following letter addressed to the editor of the Atlanta Journal, under the headlines "No Dissent From the Position of My Church," was written by Bishop Warren A. Candler, leader of the Methodist Episcopal church, South:

To the Editor of the Atlanta Journal:

In view of the many letters inquiring concerning my position on pending matters political, and asking advice upon the same, the following statement is made:

I see no reason to dissent from the position of my church on the subject of personal and party politics as that position has been proclaimed authoritatively by its leaders from the beginning of its history as a Christian body.

On the 17th day of August, 1865—before the colods of war had been dispersed and while the most irritating conditions were prevailing in our country—Bishops James O. Andrew, Robert Plant, and George F. Pierce met at Columbus, Ga., and issued a pastoral address to the ministers and members of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, giving timely counsels and admonitions concerning the course to be pursued in the midst of the trying situation which confronted them. Bishops Joshua Soule and Hubbard Kavanaugh were prevented from attending the meeting by the disordered state of railway transportation, but they approved the address issued by the other bishops when it was sent to them.

With reference to political matters the address contained the following exhortation to the preachers:

"Know your high calling. Preach Christ and Him crucified. Do not preach politics. You have no commission to preach politics. The divinity of the church is never more strikingly displayed than when it holds on its ever-straightforward way in the midst of worldly commotions."

In the spring of 1866 the general conference met in New Orleans, La., and the bishops said in the episcopal address to that notable body of able and devout men:

"We do not attempt in this brief address to enter into a detailed account of the general state of the work. We thank God that we have so safely passed through a most painful and fiery ordeal; that the church has preserved under His blessing her integrity; that she has in no wise become complicated with political affairs; but keeping in view her own high mission, has been satisfied to perform her legitimate duties."

In that expression of the non-political mission and work of the church all the bishops heartily united and the general conference approved it.

The general conference elected to the office of bishop Dr. William M. Wightman, Dr. David S. Doggett, Dr. Enoch M. Marvin and Dr. Holland N. McTyeire, all of whom went forth to their new fields of labor in perfect agreement with the sentiments of their older colleagues and the general conference concerning the subject of the church and politics.

Some years later that most saintly man, eloquent preacher and wise bishop, Bishop Enoch M. Marvin, published a very strong article in which he discussed the duty and destiny of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in the closing paragraphs of which he said:

"We must stand in our lot. The future must be left to the men of the future and to God. Those who shall have the affairs of the church in charge 50 years hence will be as wise as we. Let us pray that they may be much more wise. Fifty years hence—we cannot doubt it—there will be a Methodist church in the land, in poise and amid the clean from bribes, her robes of factions of the hour, pure amid its temptations, her candlestick still in its place, her light burning with the pure flame of inspiration and faith, her eyes lifted, her hands linen clean and white, the right-eousness of saints washed in the blood of the Lamb, revered by all who love the Lord Jesus, and hated only by His enemies; her children dwelling in peace in the south, and in the north in the west and in the east, with Republican and Democrat, Radical and Conservative alike calling her blessed. She will excite the suspicion and hatred of none by allying herself with an adverse party upon issues that arouse the passions of the hour but lie outside of her proper sphere. She will move with a great but quiet energy amid the affairs of men, the representative of Christ to all, the political ally or enemy of none. She will stand for Christ, recognized by all, upon a plane far above the level of those contests which come and go with the energy and swiftness of a tornado. She will adjure both the riches and power which might reward a lewd and bewitching coquetry with some successful party in the state. She will be known, and loved, and hated, as the chaste spouse of Christ. Her character will give full force and meaning to the Word of God committed her.

"This is the destiny of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, a destiny that she cannot alienate. She must 'stand in her lot to the end of the days.'"

At the general conference, held in Memphis, Tenn., May 3-21, 1894, the bishops said in their address to the body:

"It is not amiss to repeat what has often been declared—that our church is strictly a religious and in no wise a political body. Our sole business is to preach and serve the Kingdom of God. There are many questions, economical, social and in part ethical, of burning interest in this day, which our pulpit and churches may be tempted to substitute for the simple gospel. Men claiming to be advanced thinkers and wide-awake philanthropists may sneer at us as impractical dreamers and devotees of shadows and abstractions, because we give ourselves wholly to things spiritual and eternal. But Christ is the Rock, and only those who build on Him build safely. The more closely we keep ourselves to the one work of testifying to all men repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ, the better shall we promote the highest good of our country and race. As a church we are not related by affiliation or antagonism to any political party. As a citizen every man should carry his judgment and conscience into politics and all other spheres of life."

From this established and Scriptural position of my church I feel no disposition to dissent or depart. It is in agreement with the words of our Lord when He witnessed His good confession before Pontius Pilate, "My kingdom is not of this world." (John xviii:36).

Offering no criticism of others, I propose to abide unfalteringly by this principle, discharging conscientiously my duties as a citizen and fulfilling with fidelity my commission as a minister of Jesus Christ. On that I stand. I cannot do otherwise. May my Lord help me to serve my generation by the will of God; finish my course with joy and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus to testify the gospel of the grace of God; "fight the good fight of faith and lay hold on eternal life."

WARREN A. CANDLER.

runs for re-election two years from now he would be qualified. "My opponents," he said, "one over 40 and one over 60, are too old ever to qualify."

Dr. Joseph Graves and F. O. Swanson, opposing Long, were not at the rally.

Group Two

Iowa Park, Friday, July 20; Burkburnett, Tuesday, July 24; Bellevue park, Wednesday, July 25.

CASHION SCHOOL HEARS GROUP ONE

Wichita county and district candidates for office of Group No. 2, delivered their campaign addresses at Cashion Wednesday night before an audience of around 200 voters. Aside from the candidates for district attorney there was very little mud slinging or verbal fireworks.

W. L. Scott started the fireworks in the district attorney's race when he attacked the administration of Ben P. Alfred, district attorney and a candidate for district judge, saying among other things against Mr. Alfred that he had been too light for the job.

Alfred attempted to halt Scott, but Scott informed him that he did not want to be interrupted while he was speaking. E. F. Freuchte and Sam Spence, also candidates for district attorney, defended Mr. Alfred in their talks and in no easy terms attacked Mr. Scott.

Mrs. John E. Rhea, spoke in behalf of her husband who is ill, giving a personal history of his life and declaring his candidacy for district attorney.

Wolfe Chairman

M. W. Wolfe acted as chairman and introduced the speakers.

Other than the candidates for district attorney the candidates spoke as follows:

For representative of District No. 112:

A. Y. Grant: "We have too many laws already and I know of no new ones that should be made. What we should do is to put those and reveal some of the worthless ones that we now have."

Cecil Storey: "I believe that the gas and oil industries should pay their due and just amount of the taxes and no more."

Jesse S. Smith and Miss Eunice Jackson, candidate for district clerk, announced their candidacy and asked for the support of the voters.

Track for Sheriff

W. G. Bralley: "I have done my best to give you an honest and clean administration. I believe that I have done so and I think that I am better able to serve you than I was when I first took the office."

S. M. Spruiell: "What we need is a good old country boy for sheriff. I believe in cooperation and if I am elected I promise you that I will select deputies that will be trustworthy and who will serve you ably."

H. L. White: "I have worked honestly for the county for 8 years and I will give you a clean-cut administration if I am elected."

For tax collector:

Guy C. Raley: "Since I have been tax collector I have increased the county treasury by the collection of delinquent taxes. I have brought the office to you and have not asked you to come to the office. If I am reelected I promise you the same courteous service that I have rendered in the past."

Asks Promotion

Arthur C. Howard: "I am asking for the office for a promotion and I think that I deserve it. I have served for four years as tax assessor and as it is your office I ask you to select the man whom you want to fill it."

For district judge of the 78th court:

Ben F. Alfred: "I have fought a good battle for you as district attorney but I do not ask for the office on my past record. I ask it as a promotion that I think I deserve and because I am old enough and capable enough to hold it. I promise you that I will speed up the courts not at the, cost of justice but by making lawyers step up and try cases and quit loafing around the court house."

George Smoot: "I believe that the district court should be run like the federal courts and that criminals should be given a speedy trial. I am also in favor of a new system of bookkeeping in the district government."

W. W. Cook: "I have tried civil cases mainly since I have been district judge through the agreement of the other district judges and I do not think that I can be charged for that. I have given my entire time to the courts and I have tried to turn out the cases but I find that it is better to take ample time and consideration before rendering a decision for or against a man."

H. F. Weldon: "I do not present my claims as a politician but as your servant and representative. I think that a district judge should take a judicial attitude and give every man a fair and an impartial trial. I do very little campaigning and hand shaking because I believe that the people should seek the man to fill an office instead of the man seeking the people."

For judge of county court at law:

C. M. McFarland: "I am a man of mature age and I think that I can make you a good judge by rendering fair and just trials."

Ralph D. Pittman: "I am seeking the office because I want it and because I am qualified to hold it. I pledge you my best and most courteous service."

Irvin J. Vogel: "I believe that there are too many delays in the courts and it is time that we got down to business and ceased killing time."

Tax Board to Close Hearings Thursday

Thursday is the last day of the three day hearings of the city board of equalization on taxes, and a greater number of appeals is expected than on either Tuesday or Wednesday, it was learned from W. R. Hyer, tax assessor and collector, Wednesday night.

"The board cared for 200 on Wednesday, almost twice as many as on the first day of the hearings," Mr. Hyer said. "The board is making very few concessions in tax values, and in general is holding to the most of last year's property values as most of the applicants reduced the values of their returns."

New York's Most Beautiful Hands

They are the hands of Miss Annette Grandin, the most photographed hands in the world. They are so white and smooth that they can stand "close-up" reproduction. And here's the secret, according to Miss Grandin:

"I use no fancy or expensive lotions, but make a skin bleach of my own. I get three ounces of Orchard White at the corner druggist and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a remarkable, and at the same time perfectly harmless, bleach. I rub a little into my hands—also my neck and face—every night, and don't worry about freckles, tan or redness. This simple mixtures not only keeps the skin clear and white, but luxuriously soft and smooth to the touch."—Adv.

BANK BANDIT SOUGHT HERE

Attempt at Robbery In Dundee Fails

from the roadster, Mr. McDaniel related, called for a soda and cigarets and then, about 12:15 o'clock, placed his hand in his coat pocket, indicated a pointing bulge and ordered, "Let's go to the bank."

"I didn't see a gun but I knew it was there," Mr. McDaniel related. He obeyed the order and, with the pocket covered gun pressed against his back, started toward the entrance to the bank. As they neared the door, he related while waiting for the ambulance that was to take him to Wichita Falls, the highwayman made a move to take the pistol from his pocket. Mr. McDaniel took advantage of the apparent opportunity to grapple with his assailant. He succeeded in grabbing the man's hand, but not until the pistol was out of the pocket. One shot followed, and it bounced from the sidewalk without damage. From that point, the story is told by Charles Drummond, also a pioneer cattleman of Dundee and the only eye witness to the shooting that officers have been able to locate.

Hears First Shot

"I was sitting across the street when the first shot attracted my attention," Mr. Drummond related. "I glanced up and saw Mr. Mac wrestling around with someone toward the bank. I ran toward them but was about 20 yards away when I saw the fellow push his gun into Charlie's side. Then I heard a shot. Charlie fell and as I went to his side, the other fellow ran.

"'I'm shot—shot bad, get me some water,'" Charlie told me. I bent over him, but looked around and saw the fellow who had shot him driving past. His pistol was pointed at me and he told me to 'stick 'em up.' I did as he said, holding up my hands till he got out of range. Then I turned back to Charlie."

Perhaps it may have been a vengeance of fate, in the opinion of Dick Kenley, assistant district attorney, that caused the highwayman to demand Mr. Drummond's attention.

"Sure, I got a good look at his face," Mr. Drummond declared. "I'll know him the next time I see him."

Although Kenley declared that there are witnesses in abundance who can positively identify the man sought if he is captured, it probably will be Drummond, the prosecutor said, upon whom the state will rely as its "star" witness, and his evidence will be all the more positive because of the highwayman's demand that he throw up his hands.

The man the officers seek is slight and wirey of physical construction, weighing between 135 and 150 pounds. He is about five feet eight inches tall. He is of dark complexion and his teeth are even and prominent.

"There won't be any mistake about it if I ever see him again," declared Drummond, who is as typical of the rugged, sunburned West Texan as fiction has ever imagined.

Alarm Broadcast

The alarm was broadcast from Dundee within a few minutes after the shooting occurred, and at Mankins, 15 miles away, Watt Richardson, a groceryman, and "Daddy" Clark waited in reception. As an automobile of the description of that which left Dundee approached them, they related, they signaled it to stop. The car speeded toward them, and as it neared, two shots were fired by its driver. The machine went by at high speed and they returned the bullets but failed to bring it to a stop.

A testimonial to their marksmanship was given less than an hour later, however, when the roadster was towed into Holliday. Five bullets had been driven through its sides. One ranged straight across the car, not four inches from where the driver sat. Another ranged upward from the rear, across the driver's wheel and through the top. It could not have missed the driver's head by more than a scant distance.

The fugitive's race came to a temporary halt about eight miles beyond Mankins while the driver was still about three miles from Holliday. The car crashed into a ditch and bursted a tire. Soon after, a truck drove by and the occupants stopped to aid. They climbed from their seats to face a drawn pistol, according to the report of officers.

"I just held up a bank and they are after me," they were told, officers were advised. "I'm going to take your car."

Before the highwayman could climb aboard, however, the driver of a Pontiac coupe stopped to ask if he could help. He in turn faced the pistol, and stood by as his machine was speeded away.

The Whippet roadster which the bandit had at Dundee when the robbery was attempted had been stolen from Miss Juanita Prince, 904 Austin avenue, Monday night.

The car continued its dash toward Holliday, according to the story pieced together by officers. It traveled about a mile and was brought to a stop after crossing a by-road. The drvier, with hair disheveled, brought the car to a stop with sliding wheels, backed up and turned in the road which led past the larger town of Holliday through the little community of Dad's Corner.

Speeds Through Town

He speeded along the one street of that place in spite of the fact that at least three small children were playing in the danger zone. Officers were told that he missed one small boy by not more than a few feet. Others were old enough to dash for safety. The speeder, officers were advised, approached the children without sounding any kind of warning.

At Dad's Corner, trace was temporarily lost of the fugitive. It was picked up again a few miles out of Wichita Falls when the highwayman smashed another tire and when F. M. Grundy of Archer City became the victim.

Mr. Grundy was driving a Chevrolet "tool pusher" and related that he stopped when he saw a car slide in a ditch and its driver pointing toward the flat tire. The highwayman approached Mr. Grundy and flashed his gun as he got near.

Takes Car

"I've got to take your car," the highwayman said. "I just held up a bank and they are after me. Climb out."

Grundy obeyed and his place was taken behind the driver's wheel. A motion to start the car was halted.

"Got any money," the hijacker demanded.

"Not a cent; all I've got is some checks," Mr. Grundy replied.

"You are a lying ——," came the reply.

The man pushed his pistol against Mr. Grundy's side and removed the victim's wallet. The contents were examined and checks only were found.

The trail, following that incident, again was lost and again was picked up in Wichita Falls. Some one who read the account of the robbery and chase in The Times called police.

"Say, that car you want is parked in front of the —— hotel," the informer said. Police investigated, and found it. The trail ended there.

Real Westerner

Mr. McDaniel, the victim of the shooting, is described as one of the typical representatives of the old west. Reared in the vicinity of Bowie, he went to Dundee in 1901 as a cowboy in the employ of Sidney Webb, now residing in Mineral Wells, who then owned ranch land covering many miles of area. After a few years, Mr. McDaniel bought a ranch of his own and engaged successfully in the cattle business. He was hit by the after-war slump and about four years ago, went into the grocery business with his son, Fred. They now operate their business in Dundee.

Other Robberies

The attempted robbery of the Dundee bank added, within less than a day, at least two other spectacular incidents accountable to the highwayman. Early Tuesday night he held up Jenkins' filling station near Electra. While the robbery was in progress, a truck occupied by two men was driven beneath the shed. They also were held up.

The highwayman doubled back nearly 20 miles and next was located in the lunch stand operated by W. H. Rozell about two miles east of Iowa Park. He got about $28 from the cash drawer after telling a woman customer that he would shoot her finger off unless she removed a diamond ring said by her to be worth $250. She had pleaded that the ring was a gift and had urged him not to take it.

Among the cities to which the warning was immediately sent after the shooting was Mankins, Watt Richardson and "Daddy" Clark, Dundee merchants, stood guard and when the first sign of the fugitive was seen, they started shooting. Their bullets pierced the motor hood and literally riddled the car. Five shots entered it from the back, but as they were soft nosed bullets and not steel jackets they did not pierce the driver's seat. This, in opinion of officers who later examined the car, was given as their reason for the escape of the fugitive from Mankins.

One mile north of Mankins, the Whippet was behaving so badly that it was half turned over, and the driver flagged W. M. Baer, a pumper for the Continental Oil company in Rattlesnake canyon. Baer stopped to give aid and the bandit took Baer's Pontiac coupe and continued his flight.

Meanwhile E. F. Kincaid, deputy sheriff of Archer City had been notified and was speeding to the chase. At Dad's Corner he got his first trace of the bandit who had attracted attention speeding through as he had narrowly missed running down a small boy.

Inquiry revealed that Deputy Kincaid was about 30 minutes behind the man in the Pontiac. Asking as he went along, the officer trailed the fugitive along the Archer City road toward Wichita Falls to a point two and a half miles toward Archer City from the Lake Wichita spillway.

Here he came on Frank Morgan, constable from Wichita Falls, who had recovered the Pontiac shortly after the bandit had stopped with a flat tire and taken a Chevrolet tool pusher with a tank full of gasoline.

At this point the bandit swung off of the highway to the east and entered Wichita Falls unseen to abandon his car at Tenth street and Indiana.

F. M. Grundy of Archer City, a teaming contractor, was the man from whom the bandit obtained the Chevrolet tool pusher.

"I drove up to a car that was stopped as the driver signaled to me and pointed to his flat tire," said Mr. Grundy in the office of Sheriff W. E. Bradley shortly after the affair.

"I pulled past just a little bit. He came up to my running board and shoved a gun in my ribs. Naturally I let him have my car. He was 30 to 35 years old, about five feet, five inches high, rather slender, wore a cheap dark suit, had dark rough hands but not working man's hands, was of swarthy complexion and at first seemed agitated. As soon as he took the wheel he seemed more composed.

"He immediately turned off of the main road and headed east."

Constable Morgan, who had gone out from Wichita Falls in the hopes of meeting the speeding Pontiac, came upon the abandoned car just a few minutes after the bandit had left in the Chevrolet tool pusher.

"If I had known that the man had turned off of the road in the Chevrolet, it would have been possible for me to follow him and possibly catch him as we neared the city," Mr. Morgan said.

"However, Mr. Grundy, the owner of the Chevrolet, had hopped a ride toward Wichita Falls in a Ford just before I arrived and I did not know what way to turn, so I notified filling stations along the road to tell other officers. I saw that I had the car but that the man was gone."

Mr. Grundy stated definitely that at the time his car was taken there was only one bandit. People at Dad's Corner and other points along the road also told Officer Kincaid that there was just one bandit. Other and earlier rumors had indicated there might be two bandits.

BOLL WEEVILS HURT COTTON

Insects Appear in Wichita Fields

The first boll weevils of the year have made their appearance in Wichita county, acording to G. C. McGown, county agricultural agent. The infestation is not heavy, however. Some of the cotton is heavily loaded with squares and bolls, Mr. McGown said, but the majority is unusually late. On the average the crop is in good condition, he said.

No leaf worms have as yet made their appearance, the county agent said.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 18.—Every time newspapers dust off variations of the headline, "U. S. Launches New Dry War on Broadway," and put them on first pages again, bosses of speakeasies raise prices, order additional supplies and prepare for increased business. They know that lots of customers who haven't been around for weeks and months will be in again, their interest in drinking revived and whetted. Other and less sophisticated clients, with fears that the application of the sponge will be more or less successful, are impelled to restock their cellars as a precaution against a possible period of drouth. And folks who really don't care much about drinking flock into the speakeasies because it is "the thing to do," for imbibing in bootleg parlors instead of at home becomes fashionable again whenever a "dry war" increases the glamour of breaking the law in them.

Just human nature, that's all.

Another result of "dry wars" such as the one now being reported to the hinterland, is that restaurants resume use of tea cups for serving cocktails and highballs.

What to do with pets while the family is away on vacation is no problem in New York. There are "hotels" at which birds, fish, dogs, cats, monkeys and even house-plants may be boarded by the week.

The "hotels" usually consist of an office in the city and a farm in the country where the pets may enjoy their respite from life in the city. Many persons who remain in the city for the summer send their dogs and cats to such farms in order to save them from being affected by the heat.

This is the pets' paradise. There are "hotels" for them, hospitals, luxury shops, beauty shops and cemeteries devoted exclusively to dogs, cats and such.

Five years ago short skirts, revealing legs and knees (as often as not, fat, billowy legs and knock-knees) attracted attention. Now it's the other way around. On a walk along Fifth avenue I couldn't help noticing a pretty girl whose dress was unusually long. Two women stopped to turn around and gape at her, and I heard one of them say:

"She's just trying to attract attention."

Police had to ask a Thirty-fourth street store to change the display in one of its windows because crowds that stopped to see it blocked the sidewalk.

The display consisted of a wax model in one garment, and a sign: "Cool as a cucumber in a chemise that weighs less than an ounce."

Few persons realize that it was the inventor of the electric elevator who made the modern skyscraper possible. The idea of lifting buildings far up into the air on favored spots is a very old one. It took the high-speed elevator and the coincident development of the steel frame system of construction to make the multi-floored building practical.

An insurance friend of mine reports that John D. Rockefeller Jr. lunches at a small place near Washington square, where luncheon checks average 80 cents, and where financiers rub shoulders with minor clerks, much to the wonderment of the minor clerks.

Dinner Stories

Brave Lad

He had been in love with her—hopelessly, he thought—for a long time. Then, one day as they were sitting together, she looked tenderly at him, and murmured.

"Claude, didn't you tell me once you would be willing to do any act of heroism for my sake?"

"Yes, Cora, and I meant what I said," he declared.

"Well, Claude, I want you to do something really heroic for me."

"Speak, darling, what is it?"

"Ask me to be your wife. It's time you did, don't you think?"

Belgians Approve Kellogg's Proposal

BRUSSELS, July 18. (UP)—The council of ministers have approved the text of a reply to Secretary Kellogg's proposals for a pact to outlaw war. The reply, it is believed, will suggest that due account be taken of Belgium's obligations to the league of nations and under the Locarno treaties.

New York's Defeated

"NEW YORK is no place for the man or woman without a job, friends, relatives or a bank account."

So reads a bulletin issued by the Welfare Council of New York City.

The bulletin points out that thousands of young people go to New York every year, fired by tales of success and sure that they can quickly get a job that will start them on the road to fortune. Most of them are disappointed. Getting a job is apt to take a long time, and the youth who arrives with only enough money to last a week or so is almost certain to encounter a great deal of hardship.

New York is a great city. But if your ambition leads you there, remember that it is full of people like yourself looking for jobs. Don't go unless you can afford to spend two months, if necessary, looking for work.

Edgar B. Davis and Luling

EDGAR B. DAVIS, Texas oil millionaire, startles Broadway with the declaration that he is ready to sink his entire fortune in the unsuccessful play which he has backed for nearly two years. And to the New York writing experts, Mr. Davis is everything from a "nut" to a "sucker."

They think differently down in Luling, Caldwell county, and Edgar B. Davis tossed away far more in that little Central Texas city than he has expended in two years on his Broadway production. When that first Luling gusher came in, Edgar B. Davis was down to his last dollar. When he sold out his holdings, he remembered all the men who had made him wealthy. He turned his riches to the aid of many friends, and he made outright gifts totaling more than a million dollars to his employes.

To the town of Luling, he gave more than a million dollars for two great parks—one for white and one for blacks—and for a foundation that would teach farmers better farming. He brings annually the best artists of the nation to Texas to paint Texas landscapes. He was under no compulsion to give away a couple of million to his employes and the town of Luling. He might as well have had painted landscapes of Alaska as of Texas. You might even consider him as a "nut" or a "sucker" for doing these things, if you have that viewpoint.

The Race to Santander

FIVE canvas-crowned yachts are racing across the Atlantic bound from New York to Santander, Spain. They are depending solely on the wind for motive power; the result depends largely on the skill and daring of the various commanders.

Time was when such a race would have had the country by the ears. Today, except in yachting circles, it goes almost unnoticed. The whirring propellers of the transoceanic airplanes have drowned out the swish of waves along the bows of the sailing vessels. And that is a shame. The racing of sailing vessels has a romantic, inspiring tradition; furthermore, it is great sport and calls for supreme skill.

Seventy-five years ago there were held, regularly, the greatest races the world ever saw—races between the famous old China tea clippers, bound for London and New York from Canton and Foochow.

The tea crop usually came on the market in May. Whampoa Reach, at Canton, would be lined with tall-masted ships and barks for weeks beforehand. When the tea finally was sold, there was a great rush for home; the first cargoes in London and New York would, naturally, command much higher prices than the later ones, and a speedy passage meant big profits.

The ships were constructed with that in view. They were long and narrow, with lines scientifically designed for speed. They had tall masts and lengthy yards and could loose a perfect flood of canvas. In a stiff breeze some of them could make amazing speed records; a well-handled clipper, under proper circumstances, could reel off from 17 to 20 knots an hour.

Being thoroughbreds, these ships were temperamental. A sudden blow could dismast or capsize a clipper if the captain was not extremely skillful. If such a ship were caught by a tropical squall at the wrong angle she was apt to lie far over on her side and sail backwards, in spite of everything that could be done.

Officers and crews were daring. When a gale arose sail would be carried to the last minute of safety—or beyond it. Often two ships would remain in sight of one another almost the entire way from Canton to London; on one occasion four ships that left China together docked in London within a few hours of one another.

It was dangerous, man-killing work. But it had a thrill, and old-time sailormen have never ceased regretting that the coming of steam ended it all. There was a beauty and dash to the old clippers that the steamer can never have.

That is the background for the present transatlantic yacht race. It helps explain why this race was organized. The men who are taking these yachts across the ocean are following a fine old tradition. Their contest, going almost unnoticed in the daily papers, will not fail to thrill all men who are familiar with the great days of sail.

THIS IS SPEED AGE

This is an age of motorization but there are still people who fondly recall the days when they whipped the old mules over the tail. There is no claim existent that men originated from the mule but occasionally we run across a fellow who would give credence to the theory. Apologies to the mule. —Lawton (Okla.) News-Review.

POLITICS WILL COOL OFF

As usual, the period just following presidential nominating conventions is marked by mutterings from those who are dissatisfied with either the platform or candidates of their respective parties.

Third party movements are threatened and the disgruntled give out voluminous interviews airing their grievances. Sometimes a third party really appears in some strength, but only once since the Civil War has such a party changed the normal election result. That was in 1912, when the revolt of the Progressives under Roosevelt caused the election of Wilson.

This year the same talk is heard as of old. In some sections of the middle west a revolt of Republican farmers against Hoover is predicted for November. In the South a rather noisy group of Democrats are denouncing Smith.

But with fall will come a cooling-off time, and the rank and file will doubtless become reconciled to a large extent and when they go to the polls in November most of them will vote as they have always voted—for the party to which they normally belong. Folks are like that. —Temple (Okla.) Tribune.

Diversion of Snooping On Pals Sometimes Aids Prohibition Agents

WASHINGTON, July 18. (US)—Snooping is getting to be one of the leading diversions of the American public.

And snoopers are most active in telling the prohibition office about "friends" and neighbors who are keeping something on tap for a party or to ward off a cold.

Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran disclosed today that thousands of anonymous messages and telephone calls are received by the federal dry service, through the country, containing tips on violations of the Volstead act.

Mostly Unnoticed

When these tips apply to serious violations, such as operation of stills, or wholesale bottlegging, they are investigated, but reports of hip-pocket toting or that somebody has a half a pint in his ice box, usually go unnoticed except in the offices of the exceptionally conscientious administrator.

A large percentage of the dry raids made in the country both by federal and local agents are the results of anonymous messages of the snooping element. Officials admitted that in some cases the informers probably are conscientious citizens striving to assist in breaking up the liquor traffic, but in a majority of instances they undoubtedly are mere busybodies.

Not Encouraged

Federal dry officials do not encourage snooping, but it was pointed out that it is frequently necessary to run down tips on violations. These tips have resulted in some important convictions. Many of them result in nothing.

There are about 200 informers actually paid by the federal prohibition bureau, receiving $7 a day. The informers work an average of two weeks and then drop their jobs or are replaced. Informers are required to "deliver" if they get federal pay.

Some of them are waiters in big city night clubs, and hotels, active bootleggers, denizens of the underworld, society women, club men and others who volunteer their services, representing that they have a knowledge of violations and the ability to furnish information that will result in convictions.

Condemns Practice

Snooping—under the politer name of information anonymously received—came in for some informal discussion at the national conference of dry administrators today and in general was condemned.

No official was willing to take the responsibility of appealing to the public to call the police or a federal dry officer every time a small violation of the liquor laws was discovered.

BIRD MOVIES FOR POSTERITY

Pictoral Record of Rapidly Disappearing Species

CHICAGO, July 18. (UP)—Remember the dodo, or do you just have a stuffed-bird idea of it?

As the dodo passed out of existence some time ago, one must look to the taxidermist's imagination to study this bird. Had the motion picture camera arrived before wild life on the American continent began to disappear, however, many of the birds and beasts, now extinct, would not have passed out of the picture.

The Chicago academy of sciences, alarmed at the rapidity with which wild life is disappearing from North America, announced today it has undertaken to obtain a motion picture record of fauna and flora for posterity and extensive plans to develop the idea are being worked out.

Auk Disappears

Take the great auk and the Eskimo curlew. You don't see them any more than you do the dodo and you never will. They have disappeared and no pictorial record of their characteristics are left to show our children.

The ivory-billed woodpecker and the Carolina paroquet are flying into oblivion rapidly and numerous other species of North American birds are nearing the vanishing point. Several species of mammals that were present in untold numbers two or three generations ago are quite scarce now and the mammalogists are perturbed.

"Mammalogists now talk of the passing of the age of mammals," Alfred M. Bailey, director of the academy's museum, pointed out, "and nature lovers everywhere are crying for conservation of our wild life.

"In many instances governments, realizing that the extinction of many species is only a matter of time unless preventive measures are taken, have set up game sanctuaries to preserve animal life for future generations."

State Aid Wanted

Bailey expressed the hope that state and federal authorities, as well as private individuals interested in natural history, are expected to cooperate with the museum in hastening fulfillment of the project.

Under the plans worked out by Bailey, thousands of specimens of animal life would be photographed and our animal album would be complete from the arctic to the Caribbean sea and the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean.

Scientists of future generations, Bailey said, would not be forced to undertake the painful process faced by the present day scientists in reconstructing the vanished animal life of the past.

Movies Too Late

"The moving picture machine arrived too late for us to have a permanent record of the hosts of bison which once covered our western plains—herds so vast they stopped trains and held up river traffic for hours," Bailey continued. "The passenger pigeon is gone. It occurred in unbelievable thousands just a few years ago, but not one remains today."

Bailey blames the increasing army of hunters and progress of civilization in destruction of forests, the plowing up of prairies and draining of swamp lands, for the extinction of much of the animal life in North America.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

This Has Happened

Virginia Brewster, after losing both father and wealth, consents to make her home with Clarissa Dean and her father. Her fiance, Nathaniel Dana, objects to this for he mistrusts Dean's motives. Meanwhile, Dean plots to get Niel away from Virginia but fails. Clarissa becomes jealous of Virginia, and the latter resolves to leave but Dean insists that she marry him. When she refuses, he threatens to reveal that her father cheated him out of $100,000. Recklessly, she promises to earn enough in one year to repay him—or marry him.

Virginia leaves, but has to pawn a ring to tide over until she can find a position. She goes to Niel's studio to tell him of her break with the Deans but her joy at seeing him is clouded because she dare not reveal her compact with Dean, and also because of the familiarity with which his model, Chiri, treats Niel.

Next day Virginia asks a broker friend how to earn a hundred thousand. Then she asks his secretary how to find a business position, and is directed to an agency where she is given the name of a newly-rich lady who wants a social secretary.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXV

As Virginia's eyes became accustomed to the subdued light of the drawing room she discerned a portly female reclining on a gold brocade divan, a toy dog in her arms and an open box of chocolates on a taboret at her side.

"Good morning," she greeted, a little at a loss for an answer to the extraordinary reception she had met with.

"Come over close," Mrs. Gernsner urged invitingly. "Pietro, turn on some light. We don't need to save on the electricity," she added to Virginia.

The butler walked pompously to a wall switch and flooded the room with dazzling light from a dozen incandescent lamps in the bronze chandelier.

"It's a beautiful day . . . " Virginia began suggestively.

"Daylight is so hard on the complexion," Mrs. Gernsner vetoed promptly. "Pietro, bring a chair for the young lady."

Virginia sat in a gold chair that matched the divan and took stock of her prospective employer while the latter returned the compliment. Mrs. Gernsner was talking at the same time.

"You have had experience in nice houses?" she inquired a trifle skeptically, unimpressed with Virginia's elegantly plain black crepe dress and custom-made shoes.

"Yes," Virginia returned simply.

"You know how to fix up swell parties and write nice, polite letters?"

"I believe so."

Mrs. Gernsner cleared her throat. "Don't be afraid to say something," she told Virginia encouragingly. Then, as Virginia's face took on an odd expression: "Maybe you should like me were alone," she added quickly. "Pietro, leave the room, please."

"Now, tell me how you should be my companion," she went on when the splendid butler had stalked out of the room and closed the door none too quietly behind him.

"Do you mean you wish to know my qualifications?". Virginia countered.

"That's right. Talk about yourself."

"Well, I believe I'm competent in the duties you mentioned." Virginia stated and then paused.

"Go on, go on. What else?"

"My French is considered rather good but not my German. I can get along fairly well with Debussy but Beethoven and Chopin are beyond my technique. . . ."

"That's all right," Mrs. Gernsner broke in hurriedly. "We don't have to invite any professional guests to our parties. I've got plenty of friends of my own."

"Wha. . . ." Virginia broke off her ejaculation in the middle of it and substituted an unintelligible murmur instead.

"I told Mrs. Phelps I don't need anyone to get people to come to my house," Mrs. Gernsner explained patiently.

"I quite understand," Virginia replied soberly. "But I think it might be better if you would state your requirements."

Mrs. Gernsner thought a moment. "What I want? Well, you should read me the new novels while I'm having my massage and manicure. And you can help Pietro with the flowers when we have a party . . . fix up things nice . . . write out my invitations and go with me on shopping." She stopped and looked at Virginia significantly. "If you know the swell places," she added as if she doubted it very much.

"I can give you the names of some exclusive shops."

Mrs. Gernsner brightened. "Some places where they have chic things," she qualified.

Virginia nodded. "Would those be all my duties?"

"Oh, I don't know. Maybe I'd want you to take the children out for a walk or a ride in the limousine sometimes."

"Haven't you a nurse?"

"Oh, yes, but I mean you should take her place when she's off."

"How often is that?" Virginia had an alarming suspicion that this position threatened to include the duties of a female factotum.

"Only once a week . . . " Her answer to Virginia's question was drowned in a howling, screeching din that came from the foyer and bore down upon the drawing room in a struggling mass of juvenile arms and legs. As they pushed and shoved through the door Virginia caught glimpses now and then of the red face of an irate Irish nursemaid.

"Le'me go, you big stiff; le'me go!"

"Mama! Mama!"

"He did it! He did it!"

"You're a liar!"

"Stop it, you blithering little devils! Stop it, I say."

"Maggie!"

Mrs. Gernsner's voice rose above the uproar in magnificent crescendo. "Maggie, what does this mean?"

"What does it mean? What does it mean?" Maggie shrilled. "It means I'm leaving and the saints wine my mim'ry o' this past week! Will ye be quiet?" she began again upon the children.

"Oscar! Come Here! Annie, stop that kicking!"

Mrs. Gernsner took a heavy hand in the affair but even so she was panting and dishevsled when the children were at last planked down in chairs and reduced to blubbering.

"Now, what's at the bottom of this?" she demanded of Maggie.

"Them imps of Satan have been us to their pranks agin," Maggie exploded accusingly. "'Tis soap in the candy they're feedin' me now. Me innards are blastin' like a three alarm fire." She put her hands over her stomach and groaned.

"Go tell Pietro to fix you up something," Mrs. Gernsner advised uneasily.

"I'm goin' to a clinic," Maggie announced firmly. "I'll send me frind, Miss Casey, to pack me things."

"But you came for two weeks on trial," Mrs. Gernsner protested. "You won't get paid if you leave before your time's up. I got to get someone in your place."

"Ye can keep the money! I wouldn't stay another day under the same roof with them divilish brats for a month's pay!" She shook her fist at the children, who made faces back at her, and dashed out of the room, still clutching her middle and emitting strange sounds between a gag and a groan.

Mrs. Gernsner turned to the culprits. "Wait 'till your papa comes home!" she shrieked at them. "That's the third time this month you've driven someone out of the house! You're goin' to bed, both of you. Pietro! Pietro!" she called, raising her voice even louder. "Take them away and give them castor oil," she cried when the butler came running in.

The children screamed and kicked and bit but somehow Pietro managed to drag them off. The echoes of their struggles could be heard for several minutes before a slamming door somewhere in the apartment restored quiet to the drawing room.

Virginia was amazed at the ease with which Mrs. Gernsner changed her manner back to the calm before the storm. Her features relaxed instantly into the genial expression she had worn at the beginning of their interview and she settled herself leisurely upon the divan before she spoke.

"Let's see . . . where were we?" she said, trying to take up the broken threads of the conversation.

Virginia got to her feet, shaken and disturbed. "I . . . really think it's no use going further into the matter, Mrs. Gernsner," she said. "I'm sure I never would be equal to taking your nursemaid's place."

Mrs. Gernsner frowned. "Them frishers don't know how to handle kids," she scoffed. "A little joke and they fly off the handle."

"Well, I'm sure I don't think it would be pleasant to eat soap," Virginia replied before she could check herself. It was, of course, demeaning to argue the matter. She had known from the beginning that she could not live with these people, but until the advent of the children on the scene she had been trying to convince herself that she ought to try. She had thought herself something of a weakling because she wanted to chuck it. But now that it had become thoroughly impossible to accept the position she was immeasurably relieved.

Mrs. Gernsner bristled. "You don't expect children should be angels, do you?" she snapped.

She crossed over, intending to take a bus downtown and save taxi fare.

"I don't expect them to be anything to me when I accept a position as companion to an adult," Virginia retorted. "Good afternoon, Mrs. Gernsner. I shall report to Mrs. Phelps that the position is not one I care to accept."

"I'll do some reporting myself," that lady muttered darkly, "and if you get a job by Mrs. Phelps I'm a customer what she should never see again!"

Out once more in the sparkling sunshine of the spring day Virginia drew in a deep breath of fresh air and blessed her lucky star to be out of that house.

She crossed over and walked to a bus stop signal, intending to take a bus downtown and save taxi fare. As one of them rumbled up a few minutes later she stepped hastily onto the platform and took a step toward the door before it occurred to her that it would be more pleasant on top.

Her quick turn brought her up abruptly against a passenger who had boarded the bus directly behind her. "Oh, I'm sorry," she apologized and smiled briefly at him. He smiled back at her, and Virginia caught a glimpse of a flashing gold tooth.

Then he stood aside and permitted her to ascend the narrow, curving stairs. She paid too little attention to him to notice that he did not lift his hat and of course she forgot all about him the next second. But when she got up to leave the bus at 48th street she saw him in one of the rear seats. He did not look at her nor move, but when Virginia alighted from the bus and happened to face about rather suddenly she discovered that he too had left the bus.

He turned sharply away and started to walk briskly toward a store entrance, but there was something so unexpected in seeing him at her heels just a few seconds after he had been so apparently staying on the bus that Virginia experienced a queer feeling of uncertainty about him.

BAPTISTS TO HOLD CAMP

Paisano Assembly Opens July 27

ALPINE, Texas, July 18. (AP)—The Alpine-Davis Mountain-Big Bend Baptists are preparing for the seventh annual meeting of the Paisano Baptist assembly, 12 miles west of Alpine on the "top of Texas" July 27 to August 5. Drs. George W. Truett of Dallas and L. E. Gates of San Antonio, outstanding ministers, will be the principal speakers.

The Paisano Baptist encampment is the largest religious encampment in the world. It comprises 1,000 acres in the heart of the Davis mountains. The acreage is dotted with great groves of oak trees which furnish an abundance of shade for the thousands coming from almost every part of the United States to worship and enjoy the great outdoors each year. The camp ground, although only a few years old, grew from a few tents the first year to a tented city of more than 5000 last year. More than 100 permanent stucco, frame, and stone cottages have been built and are owned by those who attend regularly. A large tabernacle with a seating capacity of 6000 or more, a large dining pavilion and a number of other small tabernacles are among the permanent improvements. The assembly also owns an adequate water system.

There will be no charge for meals. A few prominent ranchers of the Davis mountains personally assume the financial burden, and rely on the hundreds who attend to help with the expense by donations. True western hospitality is extended to all who attend.

Harry Thaw Gives Impression Of World as Seen Through Porthole

NEW YORK, July 18. (UP)—Harry K. Thaw, the retired amateur scientist, was back in the United States today in the role of world traveler and gave his impressions of England as viewed through a porthole.

It was Thaw's opinion that England was going to the dogs. Not materially perhaps, but spiritually.

Shaw's probe of world conditions carried him also to France, Germany and Austria, which nations let him in. He gave them a clean bill of health. They are doing all right since the war. The period of political and monetary adjustment is passing. Things are looking tophole spiritually. Only alarmists are worrying.

But England! Whew!

Thaw's conclusions about England seemed to be based on the fact that England is now one up on the United States in the matter of protecting home morals. After all, the United States finally let Vera, the Countess of Cathcart, come in.

Thaw had no such luck when the liner Aquitania docked at Southampton.

Smites England

On his arrival here today Thaw read a lengthy statement to the ship reporters. The first part was devoted to some rather obscure matter concerning Sir William Joynson-Hicks, secretary for home affairs. Chuckling at the high points, Thaw read the remainder:

"The English still suppose they are free, but they are not.

"They were free in England, and certainly free ever since Cromwell until now. Not French revolution or Napoleonic wars ever made England degrade themselves. But here every English newspaper bows low for laws that would have made the earlier Georges tremble.

"What I've said now is straight, and it is slightly interesting, but no English newspaper will publish it. Is it permissible to ask why?

(Signed) "H. K. THAW."

All this seemed slightly vague, but at least it gave the lie to reports of passengers that Thaw had won the ship's pool of $1,500 and spent his time entertaining show girls on board. The mysterious document apparently supports the counter assertion that Thaw whiled away the voyage drinking tea.

SPUDDERS TAKE SERIES WITH BEARS BY WINNING IN 11TH, 6-5

TURGEON HERO OF LONG GAME

Pete Doubles, Scores On Fitz' Bunt and Error

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The Spudders resumed their winning ways yesterday. And in a manner to delight the fans. They won an 11-inning battle to cop the three-game series with the San Antonio Bears, and a hectic duel it was.

Pete Turgeon, who had clouted a double and single in other times at bat, was first up in the eleventh. He smashed a long double to left. Howard Fitzgerald laid down a beautiful bunt along the third base line. Dick Schumann scooped up the ball and threw hastily and fast to Flippen at third base. The ball evaded Flippen and Turgeon scrambled to his feet from his slide and dashed home to score the winning run, 6 to 5.

As may be deduced from the score and the fact that it went extra innings, it was anybody's ball game all the way. It was marked by some glittering fielding and also by some erratic defensive play. In addition to that fatal error in the ninth, a pair of misplays helped the Spudders' run-getting earlier in the game. But on the other mitt, a Spudder error was of material assistance in the Bears' tallying.

Steengrafe Stars

Milt Steengrafe and Jim Christian started on the hill but neither finished. Four hits, three consecutive doubles, gave the Bears three runs in the second. Milt chucked creditable ball then until the seventh when San Antonio tallied two more, though the error figured largely in that round. Herb Cobb took up the burden in the eighth with two on and one out and retired the next two hitters.

Herbie retired in our half for a pinch-hitter and Bill Shores went the rest of the route and is credited with the victory. The big righthander was wild, but by bearing down and with fast support blanked the hostiles the four rounds he worked, in which he yielded two hits.

Christian gave up three runs and a brace of hits and was relieved in the third with none out and two runners on base, both of whom scored and are charged against Jim. Dick Schumann, the southpaw acquired in the deal with Dallas, yielded two more runs in that round. He held the Spudders scoreless thereafter until the eleventh, though he was nicked for seven hits in those seven innings. Schumann is charged with the defeat.

Turgeon Stars Afield

Turgeon was the batting leader and also flashed some brilliant fielding. Stanton and Jenkins each maced a single and double. Jenkins saved a two-base hit, mayhap the ball game, with a great running one-hand catch of Flaskamper's drive in the eleventh with one out. Benton also flashed some fast fielding.

The Bears scored three runs in the second inning. Consecutive doubles by Chapman, Nason and Meyers tallied the former two. Boggess lifted to Eldred. Christian's single to left scored Meyers.

Wichita Falls tallied one in its half. Jenkins doubled to left. Swenson walked. Stanton singled to center, Jenkins scoring.

The Spudders scored four runs in the third—and with only one hit! Benton and Turgeon strolled. Schumann went to the mound. Benton and Turgeon advanced while Schumann was tossing out Fitzgerald. Eldred walked, filling the bases. Grimes dropped Flaskamper's throw on Jenkins' grounder, Benton scoring. Turgeon scored while Flaskamper was throwing out Swenson. The boy Stanton delivered again, his double to left scoring Eldred and Jenkins, making three runs driven in by Buck.

Bears Score in Seventh

San Antonio scored its last two in the seventh. Schumann singled to center. Swenson came to the home plate for Flaskamper's fly and the ball dropped safely through his hands, Schumann going to second. Both advanced a base while Flippen was tossed out by Steengrafe and they scored on Mulvey's single to center.

The Bears had two on with one out in the eighth, but Cobb stopped them. Then Shores took up the war with Schumann.

Dallas Sweeps Series

DALLAS, July 18. (AP)—Another fine exhibition of pitching and the daily two big innings on offense enabled the Steers to sweep the three-game series with Beaumont Wednesday with a 5 to 0 shutout. Pierce, southpaw, did the unusual for the wrong-side species when he breezed through nine innings without losing a single batsman on wide pitches. He gave up only five hits, all singles. No two came in the same inning. No Exporter reached third base and only one saw second.

Pierce was the leading hitter of the day, connecting with three singles in four trips. Score:

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Copyright, 1928, By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, July 18.—Of all the Olympics held in Europe we like those of 1918.

No young athlete had trouble in making that team.

You didn't even require your college letter.

All you needed was your government postcard.

We had 2,000,000 winners in the 1918 Olympics.

One of the glorious events was walking with the 14-pound shoes.

Another was the 100,000-kilometer for sprinters desiring to spread the news the enemy was coming.

Midnight marathons were popular events in no man's picnic grounds. You qualified in short relays stopping at filling stations dug by shells.

Rowing without oars in thundershowers demonstrated that our athletes were still amateurs.

Ring-around-a-rosy with two-pound hand grenades was easy.

Squat tag brought some fine contests between raiding parties. It all depended on who was tagged first.

Borrowing the makings was a dead heat between the English and Americans.

The Paris relay team also did great.

All our second looies turned out to be high jumpers when the general started breathing through his ears.

But the best event was the yacht race back to Hoboken.

Base Running Lost Art Says Collins, Once Best

PHILADELPHIA, July 18. (AP)—Eddie Collins, great second baseman of not so many years ago, thinks baserunning has slipped.

"I remember that when I led the league in stolen bases I thought as much of a stolen base as I did of a base hit," Eddie said. "But that is all gone now. The only thing the boys want these days is base hits."

Primitive Man In Gene to Surface As He Hammers Sparring Partners

Tunney Stages Fiercest and Best Workout of Training Session; Looks Helpless When Rushed to Ropes

By ED FRAYNE

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 18.—The misunderstood man of Fistiana flashed a most exciting and a hitherto unsuspected fact of his many-sided personality on a startled audience today. There is a streak of wolf beneath Gene Tunney's veneer, and it cropped out in a six-round workout with two sparring partners.

Perhaps the champion was stung by the criticism that has followed his dress rehearsal for New York friends on Sunday afternoon. Possibly his mind is more at ease, now that he has made his peace with Boxing Commissioner Bill Muldoon. Whatever the reason, he staged the most vicious exhibition of his training siege.

Both Harold Mays and Billy Vidabeck were driven around the ring before his vigorous assault. At times, Tunney forgot all about boxing and stood there trading punches. Usually a most considerate employer with his hired help, Tunney stepped out of character for the afternoon. He put everything he had behind rights to the jaw against Vidabeck and it looked as though they were deliberately trying to score a knockout.

Gene Lands One-Two

Vidabeck stumbled two or three times under straight rights that sped hard and fast against his chin. Billy's lips were bleeding at the finish. Tunney timed him again and again with his famous one-two punch, and he was letting them go.

Mays escaped more easily, but it wasn't Tunney's fault. Harold happens to be able to take care of himself. Tunney ripped and tore against him just as strenuously as he did against Vidabeck. He worked three rounds against Mays, as he did against Vidabeck.

The one disquieting feature of Tunney's showing developed in a thrilling exchange during the second round of his bout with Mays. Four times, Mays rushed him into the ropes and each time Tunney looked rather helpless. He did not seem to know what to do when off balance. It was by taking advantage of this weakness that Jack Dempsey put him on the floor at Chicago. But on the whole, it was an excellent showing, far better than anything he has done. He came back fighting furiously every time he hit the hemp. He literally fought Mays away. In all, the champion worked 10 rounds. He put in four rounds on the bags.

His Best Workout

As he stood in the center of the ring, afterward, a newspaper man complimented him on his improvement. Billy Gibson, unlacing his gloves, exclaimed:

"You bet. You looked good. You were rusing a punch you never use in a gymnasium, and you always use in the ring, a left hook. That's the best workout you've made."

Tunney himself was pleased. He said:

"I suppose I did look better today. I certainly am blessed with two wonderful sparring partners. I don't believe the fighter ever lived who had a more loyal pair. Their one aim seems to be to get me in shape to retain my title. They don't seem to worry a bit what happens to them in the process."

More than 600 persons assembled at the little arena to watch the fun, and three out of every four were women. The rest were children.

DAILY DOPE

By Larry Dailey

HOME RUN KINGS of the Texas league will wage battle today and tomorrow in the two-game series here with the Spudders meeting the Waco Cubs. Tom Jenkins, Spudder outfielder, setting the loop pace with 16 circuit drives, will find his lead menaced by George Blackerby, the Cub gardener, who is runner-up to Tom with 15. And in the event he plays one or both games, young Edward Roetz, fighting his friendly duel with Jenkins for leadership of the Spudders and the league, will be in there swinging his potent mace in an effort to tie or overhaul Tom and George. Roetz has 14 home runs to his credit, though the youngster has played in many games less than Jenkins and Blackerby. Blackerby, incidentally, is leading the league in hitting.

If you were a big league scout and were buying a ballplayer and the choice lay between Stanton and Roetz, whom would it be? That's a tough question as propounded by a fan to this writer. Stanton is a more finished fielder than Roetz, but Eddie is a harder hitter. Stanton hits the ball well, however, though he is batting in exceptionally hard luck this season. Buck may be depended upon to hit the ball in most cases, and hit it hard, too. But Roetz is getting more base hits than Buck and there is more power behind Eddie's smashes.

THE POTENTIAL VALUE of both youngsters is great and offhand I wouldn't hazard a guess as to whom will develop into the better player. They both are major league prospects, with brilliant futures ahead of them. I wouldn't be surprised to see either or both go up this season. If they don't advance this campaign they will surely go up in another year, provided, of course, they improve in a manner as indicated this summer. They're a sweet-looking pair of youngsters. Also in their favor is their attitude. They are clean-living, modest youths, who think only of baseball and of keeping in condition to give their best to the Spudders and in advancing in their chosen profession.

WHO WILL WIN, Tunney or Heeney? This writer and other Record News reporters are asking that question of boxing enthusiasts here. Some opinions follow:

RALPH THOMAS: Tunney will win the decision in 15 rounds.

ARTHUR SALMON: Heeney will win. Tunney's only chance is to win by a knockout within 10 rounds.

As law enforcement officers see it:

W. W. BELCHER: Tunney will win on points.

ELLIS SUMMERS, motorcycle officer: Tunney will run Heeney down running from him and will finally win on points.

GEORGE HAWKINS: Heeney in thirteenth or fourteenth round.

C. W. CAHOON JR., says Tunney will retain his crown but will not win by a knockout. "I don't believe he has enough punch to knock anyone out," Mr. Cahoon explained.

ALDERMAN ORAL JONES, vice president of the City National bank, stopped in the middle of the street between a green light and a red one to admit that, in his opinion, Tunney will win in seven or eight rounds.

THE CANDIDATES are entering the last stretch. And the people who go to hear them denounce each other are having a stretch—and a yawn.

I know a man who is intensely interested in politics. He was shaking hands with three candidates yesterday, telling each they would win.

All were candidates for the same office.

Candidates are all right. I'll smoke their cigars.

But they can't kiss our baby.

TOM TO DRILL IN DAY'S LIGHT

Heeney Quits Night Work; Nears Fighting Edge

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 18. (UP)—Now that Tom Heeney is nearing his fighting edge for the championship bout with Gene Tunney, he has decided to change his training routine.

Three days ago Heeney's managers announced the Rock would work out at night under electric lights to accustom himself to the glare he will face when he crawls through the ropes at the Yankee stadium. Heeney did—just once.

Tom Changes Plan

Then in his stolid English way Heeney said he preferred to do his training in daylight. The night, he announced, was made for sleeping. John Mortimer, Heeney's manager, acquiesced.

That was the keynote of Heeney's training for the last two days. Everybody is taking it easy and agreeing with the challenger.

Heeney went six rounds in the ring today, two each against Jim Braddock, Phil Mercurit and Jimmy Lawless. It was a slow workout, but slowness in everything seems to have become a motto in the camp. The challenger still has about six pounds to take off before the fight, but he prefers to wait and shed his excess poundage a day or two before he meets Tunney.

Dempsey Due Sunday

Jack Dempsey is due Sunday along with Tex Rickard and the caravan of newspaper men who are coming down to watch Heeney's workout. Dempsey has promised to spar with Tom, and by that time Heeney may be ready to open up and show his wares.

Now he is resting, drinking tea and playing golf.

Golf Is Recognized As "Athletic Sport"

PARIS, July 18. (AP)—Golf, at last, has been officially recognized as an "athletic sport" in France. Hitherto it had been regarded as "fine exercise for the aged and feeble."

Vindication came in the course of a general congress of the Union of French Athletic Sports Federations.

Barry Coached at Knox

GALESBURG, Ill., July 18. (AP)—Justin "Sam" Barry, basketball coach at the University of Iowa, coached Knox college teams that won six state championships.

An onlooker, caught in the cave-in of a sewer excavation sued for $10,000. Apparently his injuries were minor.

To put it mildly, the sincerity of the claim is doubtful. The court will decide, and all legal expense and any award will be covered by insurance.

Also, the contractor can be "on the job," as his insurance includes handling his defense.

PRISCILLA DEAN

By PRISCILLA DEAN

Priscilla Dean, "the wildcat of the screen," was born in New York City, and is still alive—making pictures and traveling around in vaudeville in-between times. She is the daughter of May Preston, once popular emotional actress.

Priscilla has sort of grown up with the theater. For many years she traveled as a child actress with her parents while they were playing in stock. While still a baby she appeared with the famed Joseph Jefferson, emulating Eugene and cries in "Rip Van Winkle." She began making two-reel comedies at the age of 14.

"I got a giggle," she told me, "out of a story about a young Scotchman who had been courting his lassie for two years. They sat in the moonlight one evening; and, for some reason, the young man dropped into a mood of quiet. The lass studied him for several minutes, and, finally, said:

"'A penny for your thoughts.'

"'Well,' said the Scot, with sudden boldness and a blush that could be detected even in the moonlight, 'I was thinkin' how mooch I'd like the kiss ye lassie.'

"I was thinking the same thing,' was the lassie's surprising answer.

"After they had exchanged osculation, Jock again sank into silence.

"Presently the lass spoke again. 'An' what are ye thinkin' about noo?' she asked, hopefully; 'another kiss?'

"'Na, lassie; it's naair serious this time. I was just wonderin' when ye were goin' tae pay me that penny for the theeths.'"

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

The second layer of the skin, which we learned was the dermis, is composed of connective tissues richly supplied with blood vessels, capillaries, lymphatic vessels and nerves. The surface of the true skin just underneath the epidermis presents a curious appearance like little mountain peaks, caused by the papillae, which contain blood vessels for nourishing the derma and the live cells of the outer skin.

Some of these little peaks or papillae contain the touch corpuscles. In some parts of our skin these touch papillae are thicker than in the other parts. They are most thickly grouped on the end of our tongue and next at the finger tips. We can distinguish two objects as being separate, even though they are very close together, by touching them with these areas of our body. In some spots of our skin these touch corpuscles are so far apart that two objects even from one to two inches apart cannot be distinguished from a single object. If you wish to prove this, take two of your fingers about an inch and a half apart and touch your back. In all probability you will be unable to distinguish more than one point of pressure.

In the lower part of the dermis and in the layers immediately under the true skin, large quantities of fat are stored. This gives the skin a plump and smooth appearance.

If you examine your skin with a magnifying glass, you will see large numbers of small pores or openings in the skin. These are the mouths of the sweat glands which are little tubes composed of the same kind of cells as the epidermis but adapted for their special function.

A sweat gland tube goes through the dermis and ends in a little coil in the dermis or in the sub-dermal layer. The functions of these glands are to cool off the body by producing perspiration and to discharge waste products. In some parts of the skin these sweat glands are very close together. There are as many as 2,500 to the square inch. While some perspiration is being continually discharged through these sweat glands, the amount is usually so small that it passes off in vapor without being noticed, but on a hot day the amount discharged may be so abundant as to produce heavy beads of sweat. It may be interesting to you to know that all of the skin structures are produced by dividing skin cells which have been grown and developed into special functions. This includes the hair, sweat glands, oil glands and fingernails.

Brittle fingernails and rough, scaly skin are caused by a lack of certain mineral elements in our food materials, and it is interesting to observe the improvement of the complexion of the individuals who eat the right kind of foods. In fact, it would be a good plan for all beauty specialists to become dietitians.

One of the best ways for keeping the skin healthy is to use cold shower or sponge baths. This stimulates the little muscles in the skin to contract, and really provides these muscles with exercise. In almost every case, when a hot bath is taken, it should be followed by a cold one to temporarily close the pores of the skin and counteract the relaxation caused by the heat. Rubbing vigorously with a dry towel will also increase the circulation to the skin and can be used to advantage following the cold bath.

If you will keep your skin healthy at all times, you will encourage elimination, and your body will function better in every way.

Questions and Answers

Question: Mrs. K. J. asks: "What would cause a baby's legs to cramp and draw back at the knees?"

Answer: Any time a baby's legs cramp or begin to draw back it is liable to be a symptom of some dangerous spinal irritation, such as infantile paralysis or cerebrospinal meningitis. Some symptoms in a baby should be immediately reported to your doctor who can best tell you what to do.

Question: Mrs. J. asks: "Are there any fruits which do not contain acid? If all contain acid, does cooking destroy it? I would like to eat fruits but cannot if they contain acid, so I am very desirous of knowing which fruits do not contain acid, either cooked or uncooked."

Answer: Fruit acids are changed somewhat by cooking. Also, dried fruits have less acid than when fresh. Many people are afraid of using fruit because of the acid, but could do so if they understood how to use the fruits properly. It is better to use only the stewed fruits with meals, and take fresh fruits by themselves, making an entire meal of one kind of fruit. Practically all fruits contain some acid, but because of their effect upon increasing the flow of bile, their final reaction in the body is alkaline. If you have overacidity of the stomach, you will find that a fruit fast of a few days will greatly benefit you.

Question: Alice asks: "What is the cause and cure of low blood pressure? What are the different stages and effects of symptoms?"

Answer: When a person has low blood pressure it simply means that he or she is enervated, and that the bodily tissues lack tone. There is a general weakness felt, and a lessening of all functions. The cure is to cultivate strength. This is accomplished by dieting carefully and exercising vigorously.

Liverpool cables came in 9 to 10 penny points better than due, and first trades showed gains of 13 to 16 points. The demand was stimulated in early trading by talk of further weevil infestation and December traded to 20.78, or 20 points net up.

Business tapered off around this fig... ... a few points but the market strengthened later when the week... weather and crop report failed to meet bearish expectations. MARKET REVIEW

H. O. Harvey & Co., rooms 630-34 Harvey-Snider building, received the following Wednesday on cotton, grain and stocks from their New York and Chicago connections:

Cotton

NEW YORK, July 18.—It was indeed disappointing to those against the market to read the weekly, which was far from favorable. Reports of further rains and the ever present weevil caused some short covering and higher prices. It looks like a trading affair until the market finds itself.—E. A. Pierce & Co.

Stocks

NEW YORK, July 18.—There was decided reversal in trading sentiment today with active speculators turning quite aggressively to the buying side, even though there was some selling when call money renewed at 6 per cent. When the rate was forced down to 5½ per cent later and then to 5 per cent vindication of the bullish stand for trading purposes was established. The weekly trade reviews on conditions in the iron and steel industry were quite cheerful in tone, and among other things pointed out that the manufacturers of farm machinery reported the best business in 10 years. A number of semi-annual financial statements of the industrial companies made their appearance during the day, and for the most part they were quite satisfactory. An exception was the report of Penn Dixie Cement, which showed the preferred dividend was unearned. As a result the stock sold down to new low levels. The rally in the industrials was led by General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Radio and International Nickel. An extremely large short interest is said to exist in the latter named. Continued bullish reports were circulated on the earnings prospect of Montgomery Ward and the outstanding strength in General Motors dissipated street reports that the directors would not declare any unusual disbursement at the August meeting. The street is looking forward to a substantial decrease in brokers' loans in the report which will be issued tomorrow afternoon.—E. A. Pierce & Co.

CHICAGO, July 18.—After an early showing of strength, wheat prices sold off sharply, influenced by weakness in Winnipeg. Buying limited to local short covering and against privileges. Hedging pressure somewhat larger. Cash basis steady. Crop reports from Northwest continue favorable and weather conditions fine. Southwest millers reported record flour business past week. New wheat movement continues large. Export sales were estimated early at 500,000 but later reported nearly 300,000 worked on the break. Corn firm most of the day. Distant futures eased later on weakness in wheat. Short covering in old crop months was the day's feature. Trade largely local. Cash basis steady, with elevators best buyers. Trade in oats dull and prices off in sympathy with other grains. July showed most weakness. Cash prices off with futures. Liquidation in rye continued and deferred months were off with wheat trade moderately active.

Good Attendance At Methodist Revival Here

Rev. C. E. Thomas, pastor of the Methodist church at Archer City, is conducting the services, assisted by M. E. Taylor, song leader of the church. The Sibley-Taylor orchestra, under the leadership of Mrs. L. H. McKinley, is assisting with the music of the services.

Stocks Make Further Recovery As Call Rate Drops From 6 to 5 Per Cent

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, July 18.—Stocks continued their recovery as money worked easier in quiet trading, today. From a renewal of 6 the call rate dropped to 5 per cent, as corporations and the West offered money in competition with the banks here.

General Motors led again, advancing 3¾ points more while Radio soared 8½, wright 11, Curtiss over 6, and other industrials jumped less amounts.

Short covering was largely responsible for the advance, although renewed pool work was evidenced in some of the Durant and Cutten favorites. Railroads displayed a little better tone but remained quite dull. Oils were held back by report of further increase in production.

Cotton slipped off as realizing developed when further advance was scored in early trading. Wheat was offered quite heavily and influenced lower prices in other grains. The foreign exchange market remained dull.

Loans at 4½ Per Cent

There were loans arranged on the outside at as low as 4½ per cent during the afternoon. The bankers expect continued ease tomorrow but look for a higher rate for over the week-end. There was considerable talk as to the high rates that would be experienced through the fall, but that will depend entirely upon how much the stock market is corrected in the meantime.

Reduction of well over $100,000,000 in loans is expected to be shown in the statement of the reserve bank to be issued tomorrow as what borrowing was necessary on account of today's rally will go into next week's report. It is believed also that the reserve statements will reveal considerable drop in rediscounts and general strengthening of the position of the system. The advance in the Boston rediscount rate was to be expected and should have no influence on the stock market.

Planned Run on Shorts

There was the appearance of a planned run in of shorts in Radio where the already strong technical position was made better for such operation by the selling that followed recent rumors as to what the forthcoming quarterly report will show. It was General Motors, however, which was watched by the trading element as giving the real cue to the market.

It moved steadily forward as Durant and his associates continued at work and there were indications that their continued activity at last was reaping success in attracting a following. Chrysler gave the best performance in the independent motor group as continued favorable reports of sales were received and the belief spread that the Dodge acquisition would be put through successfully.

Big Ten Bullish

The members of the "Big Ten" and others who have remained bullish in the face of money developments will have their ranks augmented with every boat that arrives from Europe over the next few weeks. The several market operators who left the market during May and early June to rest abroad while correction of the list was brought about now are on their way back.

When the Mauretania arrives on its record trip there will be aboard one of those most active in the group that dominated the bullish operations of Montgomery Ward which jumped near its old high.

The Gold Dust merger rumor was revived with talk of definite announcement of another acquisition next week.

Grain

GRAIN REVIEW
By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, July 18. (US)—The battle at the board of trade between bulls in the grain markets and nature producing bounteous crops was marked today by heavy bull losses in most of the futures. The action of corn in breaking after an early show of strength was a heavy blow to the backbone of confidence in the success of the July deal.

At the close wheat was down 2⅛c to 2⅝c; corn was 1c higher to 1c lower; oats were off ⅛c to ⅝c; rye was down 2c to 2⅝c.

Corn started out as if it were really going to demonstrate that it has plenty of strength, but as the session waned the strength in the market waned also. Both the September and the December futures broke badly, the latter closing below the bids. July finished higher.

Corn continues to come in from the country in volume that is extremely large for this time of year, nor do the reports disseminated that corn is tight in outside markets create the tightness in the futures that might be expected under such circumstances.

Wheat was sick again today. Sentiment on this grain is intensely bearish. The situation in Canada and in this country seem to make that sentiment well founded at present.

It was said that a big long line of wheat went overboard at Winnipeg today. The trade here was not large, but there was no buying power.

Wheat ought to have an upward reaction, if only for technical reasons. If it does today there may be plenty of selling ready to take advantage of such a bulge.

In the cash market wheat was 1c to 1⅛c lower; corn was 1c to 2c up; oats were unchanged; rye was dull; barley was 5c to 7c lower.

Surprise Well At Noleda Produces

NOLEDA, Texas, July 18. (AP)—The ironic uncertainty attending the search for oil is well illustrated by the Cain-Smith No. 1 Schalert producer here.

Humble, Sinclair and other big producers have spent upwards of $2,000,000 in attempts to find deep producers in this territory and have obtained more than a score of dry holes for their expense. The No. 1 Schalert, on the other hand, drilled only 453 feet to get production. In comparison with the expenditures of the big companies the well cost nothing. The sand was struck at 450 feet and the drill was driven into it only three feet. The well makes heads every four or five hours and for a time the production is at the rate of 400 to 500 barrels a day. The remainder of the time it is on the pump and in 24 hours it actually produces about 125 barrels.

Oil men hope that the Palangno salt dome, from which the well is producing, will prove as good a field as the old Piedras Pintas pool nearby.

The City Stores company was organized in 1923 as a holding company with subsidiaries operating department stores in New Orleans, Memphis, Birmingham and Louisville. Most of these stores are owned by the operating subsidiaries or by realty subsidiaries. The buying in New York and vicinity, and also the operation of the furniture, apparel and millinery departments of the various companies are concentrated in a separate corporation.

The company now controls 16 subsidiary stores and employs approximately 3000 workers.

Since 1924, the first full year of operation, earnings have increased rapidly. For the year ending Jan. 31, 1928, net income amounted to $1,309,726. This was equivalent to $16.21 a share on the class A stock, and $6.25 a share on the class B, compared with $766,755 net income in the previous year.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of 80,796 shares of $3.50 class A cumulative preferred of no par value, and 154,303 shares of class B of no par value. Class A stock is entitled to cumulative dividends of $3.50 a year and no more. Class A is redeemable at 55 and accrued dividends. It has no voting power unless five successive quarterly dividends are in default, in which case it elects the majority of the directors.

On the old stock, dividends were paid from 1923 to 1925 at varying rates. On the class A stock, dividends have been paid since 1926 at the required rate. On the class B a stock dividend, payable in class B stock, amounting to 5 per cent, was declared payable July 16, 1928.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, current assets totaled $7,418,518; current liabilities were $2,588,738, and net working capital $4,829,780. Book value applicable to the class B stock amounted to $22.54 a share after allowing $55 a share for the class A.

Club Hears Story Of Japanese Quake

L. H. Putney, foreign agent for a book concern, entertained members of the Wichita Falls Optimist club Wednesday with a tale of the Japanese earthquake of September, 1923, in which he said, he found himself involved.

Mr. Putney said he was in Tokyo when the earth began to careen and tremble, when fire swept through wooden structures and tall stone buildings were hurled to the ground. Refugees, he said, swarmed to the palace grounds in thousands. He went with them.

Huddled there without leaders and with no governornment aid, the Japs showed remarkable self control, Mr. Putney said, and not for once was there a sign of panic. In further compliment to the Japanese, Mr. Putney lauded their courtesy.

It was announced at the meeting that members of the club next Monday evening will be the guests of the Boy Scouts at their encampment at Diversion lake.

Ace—that was the nickname he bore as a shortened form of the ace of spades which he had shaded for darkness—heard the man in the barber chair next to mine ask for a shine the other day. Ace was rather sleepy so he shined my shoes instead of those on the man in the next chair. No one said anything, and it's a question if the other man has had a shine yet.

That reminds the writer of what happened last year in Childress one day. I had been talking on the street with Rufe Layton, theater owner there, and had gone to the garage to take my old wreck out for a spin. The car was not where it had been left and a search revealed it in the repair department with the motor OUT. Through an error and a similarity of cars which were parked side by side, the shop foreman had pulled the motor and was preparing to give it the thorough overhauling ordered for the car in the next stall.

Settlers Convene At Childress

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 18.—Fully 1000 old-timers were present at the old settlers' reunion held today in Childress. It was a glorious day for the old settlers. They lived again the lives of the sturdier days when this region was first won to civilization. There was no set program. The pioneers gathered at the auditorium at the park and spent the time in renewing acquaintances made 35 to 40 years ago.

At 2 o'clock Hon. Barry Miller, lieutenant governor of Texas, gave a talk upon the early history of Texas and Northwest Texas. He has been a close student of Texas affairs for many years and his talk was along lines that were interesting to the old settlers. Some of the old timers made short talks during the afternoon recounting some of the early incidents of the settlement of Childress county, and of Northwest Texas.

Church's Interest In Politics Defended

DALLAS, July 18. (AP)—Bishop John H. Moore of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, one of the Methodist churchmen opposed to Governor Smith, Democratic presidential candidate, in a statement here today took issue with the Rev. Warren A. Candler of Atlanta, Ga., senior bishop of the Methodist church, who had advised ministers to keep out of politics.

Usually, he said, Bishop Candler would be right in advising ministers not to take sides in politics, but, he continued, "No minister can afford to remain quiet when a great moral issue, such as that of this election year presents itself."

Court to Decide If Divorcee Or Widow to Get Insurance

Should a man's insurance be permitted to go to a divorced wife when the woman to whom he was married at the time of his death lives? This is the question Judge E. G. Thornton of 30th district court was called upon to settle Wednesday.

The point came up in the suit of Mrs. Mary Jones vs. the American National Insurance company in a suit for $739 insurance carried by Johnnie Jones, who died March 15, 1928, when Mrs. Lela Jones, who married Johnnie Jones on January 2, 1928, a year after he had divorced Mrs. Mary Jones, asked the rights of intervener.

Mrs. Lela Jones claims that her husband could not legally leave his insurance to the divorced wife when a second wife was living with him. She alleges that the policy which insured Mr. Jones was made out to his first wife before they were divorced. The case is entirely a point of law, Judge Thornton said. Mrs. Lela Jones also is claiming personal damages of $1000.

A jury in 30th district court brought in a verdict which made the insurance company liable for the insurance, Wednesday afternoon. Judge Thornton will give his findings in the case in a short time.
