CIA Director Compares Spying To Journalism

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Central Intelligence Agency director William E. Colby said today that modern spying is much like modern journalism and that both groups have a responsibility to respect their sources.

In an advance copy of his speech released in Washington, Colby addressed officials at an Associated Press annual meeting as "fellow publishers."

"Intelligence," said Colby, "has changed from its own image to become a modern enterprise with many of the attributes of journalism." He said the picture had changed from stealing the general's plans the night before the battle to a much more complex and technical information gathering system.

Mata Hari, he said, has been replaced by a type of journalist — an information collector from both public and clandestine sources — and a type of information analyst. The CIA, Colby said, probably has more "advanced students of complex disciplines" than can be found in most large American universities.

"It is its responsibility to separate the true from the false, the full from the half story and the warped from the straightforward report," he continued. "They produce our publications and their reputation for independence, objectivity and integrity is as precious to them as the reputation of your profession to you."

Arrington To Be Canadian Mayor

George Arrington was elected mayor of Canadian Saturday when he received 250 write-in votes.

Ben Mathers, incumbent, returned to his seat on the school board with 263 votes. County School Board members elected were Ben Born with 74 votes and Dick Waterfield with 51.

Mrs. Pat Waters with 233 votes and Bob Lewis with 244 votes were elected to Canadian's city council.

The liquor option received 121 opposition votes and 75 in favor.

Colby told the executives "I sometimes say that our publications have the largest staff, the smallest circulation and the loudest advertising of any journalistic enterprise."

One indication of the revolution in information gathering in photography and electronics, he said, is that some of the publications on foreign weapons systems and military forces have pictorial supplements.

Reports about the CIA have recently come into the category of the "sensational lead," in which the facts were twisted to make a more appealing story.

"If CIA were in politics, we could perhaps take solace from the politician's old story about not caring what they said about him so long as they spelled his name right," Colby said.

But our intelligence agency today and its service to our country are being jeopardized by its status as the nation's number one sensational lead.

Colby said some Americans who had cooperated with his agency were worried that their businesses abroad might be endangered if the relationship were revealed. He said some foreign sources were concerned about passing sensitive information to the CIA.

Pampa Police Break Up Reported Fight

Randall Lynn Taylor, 20, of Pampa, was released from Highland General Hospital today following treatment of head injuries he reportedly received late Saturday.

Pampa police were called at 10:41 p.m. Saturday and informed of a fight outside the Catalina Club, 600 S. Cuyler.

According to the report filed by officers, when they arrived at the club they found Taylor on the ground unconscious. There were several versions of the fight reported to the policemen. Taylor was taken to the hospital and police arrested Marion Cary Wallis, 23, of Guymon, Okla., for intoxication.

At 11:26, the police received a report that another fight was in progress outside the Catalina Club. Officers arrested Allen Ray Anderson, 20, of 341 Jean for intoxication.

At 12:14 a.m., another call was received at the Pampa Police Department reporting a third fight in progress outside the Catalina Club. However, officers reported that things had quieted down before their arrival and no arrests were made.

of these sources withdraw from their relationship with us or restrict the information they provide us," he said.

He urged protection of the nation's "good secrets," but not what he called bad secrets — "our missteps of the past" — or nonsecrets — "a known fact about intelligence which in the old tradition would have been kept secret but which in our open society should no longer be withheld."

In conclusion, Colby said, "I only ask that we Americans protect our nation's sources in the same way the journalist protects his."

Don't Nationalize Oil Urges A&M Economist

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — A Texas A&M University economist says the federal government should keep its hands off the oil industry.

Don't nationalize the oil industry, urged outspoken economist William P. Gramm. "I don't care if you like Exxon or not, they can still get a gallon of oil from New Orleans to New York cheaper than the Post Office can get a letter from Dallas to Fort Worth."

Gramm made the observation at the 17th annual transportation conference at Texas A&M University.

He said the Arab oil cartel would have collapsed from greed if the State Department had not prolonged its life by dealing with petroleum exporters as economic partners, thereby fixing Arab oil rates at a 400 per cent increase.

John Hemphill, a transportation analyst for the Federal Energy Administration, agreed fuel prices should not be controlled by the government.

Higher gas prices will stimulate the consumer to buy more economical means of transportation," he contended.

He said conservation should be stressed by allocation of supplies, excise taxes on large and inefficient cars, efficiency standards for new cars, and radial tires.

He also said redundant, half-full and too frequent airline flights are "absurd in terms of the use of energy."

ers as economic partners, thereby fixing Arab oil rates at a 400 per cent increase.

Communists Shell Saigon, Attack 100 Delta Provinces

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces shelled an oil storage area less than eight miles from the center of Saigon early today in the first major attack on the capital since start of their offensive.

By late today they had shifted the thrust of their offensive around Saigon to the populous Mekong Delta.

Military sources said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong carried out more than 100 attacks in six provinces of the delta. They reported at least 113 shelling and 19 ground assaults. Several roads were cut and Communist units sank a ferry carrying military vehicles into Vi Thanh, 98 miles southwest of Saigon.

The South Vietnamese command said at least 60 mortar rounds slammed into Nha Be, only six miles southeast of Saigon, early today in an attempt to hit the country's main fuel dump. Six persons were wounded but no major damage was reported in the first major attack near the capital of the current offensive, officials said.

Military sources said a U.S. 7th Fleet task force including two guided missile cruisers, an aircraft carrier and escort vessels was in position 50 to 60 miles off the coast. The ships could be used to evacuate Americans from Saigon if an all-out attack were launched against the capital.

The sources said four of the vessels were amphibious ships with helicopters and U.S. Marines aboard.

South Vietnamese officials at midday today said they were calling an end to the Operation Babylift flights out of the country for war orphans but later in the day said mercy missions would be allowed to continue. Several planes arrived at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines today with 206 more Vietnamese orphans en route to the United States.

SAIGON remained outwardly calm but Americans and other foreigners continued their exodus from the capital aboard commercial flights and it was disclosed that the three U.S. banks operating here had pulled out their American staffs.

The banks are the First National City Bank of New York, Bank of America and the Chase Manhattan Bank.

Operation Babylift Resumes

SAIGON (UPI) — The Saigon government said today that "Operation Babylift" will go on and Vietnamese orphans will be allowed to fly out of the country to new homes in the United States and other countries.

Deputy Prime Minister Phan Quang Dan announced resumption of the evacuation of orphans only hours after it was halted.

He said the government would make sure all orphans leaving the beleaguered nation would be adopted.

Resumption of President Ford's emergency babylift program came after pressure from officials of the United States, Canada and Australia — the three countries directly involved in the evacuation — was put on the Saigon government, U.S. Embassy sources said.

The halt in the babylift, in which about 1,400 babies have gone to the United States and about 300 to Australia, Canada and Britain, was disclosed by American refugee workers and Australian Prime Minister E. Gough Whitlam.

Whitlam said the Australian Embassy in Saigon was told by Dan that the quota of orphans for emergency evacuation from South Vietnam had been filled.

"There was no present intention to agree to additional blanket waivers for bulk emergency evacuations," he said. "The Australian ambassador in Saigon has been given to understand that the government wishes to review its practices following the initial emergency evacuations and is reverting to the normal adoption procedures."

Following an initial flight of 212 orphans to Australia, he said, a second Qantas jetliner sent to Saigon to pick up more orphans had been canceled.

Don Scott, Vietnam director of the U.S. relief organization

World Vision, said the evacuation of orphans is over.

Hours later, Dan announced the airlift would go on without admitting that it had been halted, and pledged to cut through bureaucratic procedures. He said that several more countries were seeking to join the orphan airlift and offering to find homes for the war children.

Accuses Water Planners Of Rejection Voters Will

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Critics today accused water planners of trying to circumvent voters' rejection of an expensive plan to import water from the Mississippi River.

Representatives of the League of Women Voters and the Sierra Club urged rejection of a proposed constitutional amendment to increase from $400 to $800 million state officials' authority to issue bonds for water development projects.

The proposal by Sen. Max Sherman, D-Amarillo, won unanimous approval of the Senate Constitution Committee, but one senator who voted for the measure today indicated he will oppose it on the floor.

We see this as the first step toward implementation of water importation, said Meg Titus of Plano, chairman of the LWW's water committee.

Texas taxpayers would be paying the water bill for West Texas. Very few benefits would accrue to the rest of the state.

Stuart Henry of Austin, Sierra Club spokesman, said water planners want the money to begin implementing the water importation plan in states despite voters' overwhelming rejection of the multibillion dollar proposal in 1969.

James M. Rose, Gov. Dolph Briscoe's planning and coordination director, argued additional water development funds are needed to provide firm supplies of good quality water to small towns and rural communities in Texas.

Specialist Set To Instruct Play Workshop

"Helping Your Child Through Play" is the title of a workshop set for 1 p.m. Thursday at Carver Educational Center, 321 W. Albert.

Nancy Kelley, an early childhood specialist from the educational service center in Amarillo, will speak to persons interested in the education of young children.

There will be a display of easily made toys and an exhibit of art by young Pampa children.

Betty Haines is chairman for the Golden Spread Association for the Education of Young Children, affiliated with the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

She said that the Thursday meeting is open to the public.

Tornado Rips Eagle Pass

By United Press International
A tornado Sunday night destroyed a half dozen trailer houses, injured five persons and forced about 10 families to flee their homes in the Mexican border town of Eagle Pass.

The tornado ripped roofs off mobile homes and damaged several other residences in the Cula Vista subdivision on the town's south side. High winds also damaged homes on the town's north side.

Heavy rain and hail flooded streets in Eagle Pass, stalling cars and blocking major intersections for several hours.

Young Liberal Attorney Elected Austin Mayor

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The University of Texas student voting bloc and organized labor were decisive in the election of the youngest mayor in the city's history, according to winner Jeffery M. Friedman.

Friedman, 31, an attorney, and two other liberals won victories in Saturday's municipal elections. A conservative and a moderate took two other seats and runoffs will be held for the other two places.

A record 72,623 votes — 45 per cent of those eligible — were cast in the election.

"If you talk about the student — the University of Texas community vote — there's no question but that it was a great help. We won heavily there," Friedman said Sunday. "Being endorsed by the AFL-CIO in Travis County also was a big plus."

Friedman polled 55 per cent of the vote compared to Dr. S.H. Dryden's 44 per cent.

Friedman said it was unfortunate he was labeled a liberal from the start of the campaign.

"I dislike the labels 'liberal' or 'conservative.' I consider myself a progressive candidate. But I was labeled liberal because I was willing to question anything and everything in pursuit of the best possible solution — even a few sacred cows."

Friedman will be the youngest mayor in the country for a city Austin's size. The Central Texas city has a population of more than a quarter million.

Pampa Man Arraigned In Amarillo

A Pampa man was to be arraigned in Amarillo today following his Friday arrest on a warrant charging him with burglary in connection with a Dec. 1, 1974 incident involving an apartment in north Amarillo.

William F. Durkin, 35, was arrested Friday afternoon on the Potter County Warrant and the arresting officer said he recovered property valued at about $1,000 which allegedly was taken from the apartment.

Items reportedly taken in the burglary included guns, stereo equipment and a television set. Total value of the items was estimated at $1,200.

Japanese Girl Discovers Texas Full of Surprises

By JANE MARSHALL
Much to Keiko Hayashi's surprise and relief, she found that Texas was not full of fighting Indians and cowboys.

The 18-year-old Japanese girl is staying in Pampa as part of The Experiment in International Living which places international students in American homes for four weeks.

Keiko thought there would be Indians and cowboys where she was to visit. "I was scared about it," she smiled.

In fact, her father, a Japanese banker, didn't want her to come at all. She was the youngest in the group of almost 30 students from Japan and he thought, Keiko said, from reading the paper that America was dangerous.

Keiko returns to Japan Friday with a myriad of experiences and a notebook full of English words.

Before coming to Pampa, she spent four weeks at the Berkeley Institute, California, where she studied English. She took the language in high school and college but she still has trouble understanding everything, especially young people who talk fast and use slang.

Keiko is staying with Jozella McIntire and her family. And the McIntires are showing her this part of the country.

One day she rode donkeys on the McIntire ranch, none of the gentle horses were up, Mrs. McIntire explained.

The young Japanese had never seen so many horses and cattle. And she'd never experienced Easter or expected to see snow in Pampa.

Keiko did see her cowboys and Indians though, at the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City.

What else has impressed Keiko? She can hardly wait to tell her friends at home how Americans eat rice. "American people on their rice pour milk and sugar," she laughed. That's the way the McIntires eat it.

She exclaimed over the sugar in food. Keiko likes it but admits that her "weight went up."

To Keiko, everything is big in Texas. She bought some new jeans and found that a size three in Texas is equivalent to a size nine in she thinks inflation is not as bad in America as in Japan and she thinks Pampa is conservative, admitting that she has only Berkeley with which to compare it.

Keiko said she has found the people she has met very friendly and kind. She's not anxious to go home yet.

Keiko Hayashi found surprises in Texas.

Oil Picture in Context

A common impression is that the name "Arab" has an alternative spelling, the other being OPEC. That is to say, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, from which the acronym OPEC is derived, is fairly well identified with the Arab nations. But that is a mistaken notion about geography.

The actual fact is that OPEC membership is comprised of Venezuela and Ecuador (in the Western Hemisphere), Indonesia (in the Far East), Nigeria, Gabon, Algeria and Libya (in Africa), Saudi Arabia, Iran, Kuwait, Iraq, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates (in the Middle East).

Iran is not an Arab country. Students of language and archaeology believe it was the original homeland of the European nationalities. The name "Iran" is another version of the word "Aryan" that Adolf Hitler used to whip up enthusiasm against the Jews. In Biblical tradition, the Iranians trace to Noah's son Japheth, whereas Arabs and Jews are "semitic," a word derived from "Shem," another of Noah's offspring.

The OPEC countries together contain four-fifths of the Free World's proved crude reserves, but the focus is on Saudi Arabia and Kuwait where two-fifths of the proved reserves are located.

The word "reserves" should be approached with caution. For the proportion of known reserves can shift in recent years, the China mainland — formerly a zero in the petroleum reports — is showing results. North Sea discoveries have given hope to England and Norway. Whether or not new reserves are discovered depends heavily on whether anybody has the incentive to go out and hunt for them. Generally speaking, stockholders, finance their own exploration. Smaller companies rely more on financing from pools of speculators.

To the extent that tax advantages and other profit factors permit domestic exploration, American motorists are less dependent on Mideast supplies. On the other hand, to the degree that tax advantages are removed and development of domestic supplies is blocked by protest movements, the American motorist is placed at the mercy of oil imports.

This broad outline provides a context by which the reader may judge how certain vocal protest groups hurt everyone when they put roadblocks in the way of increased production.

Owens On Enterprise

Percentage wise, Negroes excel in athletics because they try harder.

That thought was expressed in a Portland (Ore.) interview with track hero Jesse Owens. He used slightly different phrasing. His words were:

"In the balk neighborhood, there is always a flock of kids playing ball. Basketball is a way of expression and very important to a black youngster. It also has been a way out of the ghetto. The necessity to excel in sports isn't as important to a white youngster."

He went on to say that "people want capability and capable blacks are emerging in every field."

"Ability," he added, "is like water running downstream — if you don't dam it, there is no power."

The Owens message is enterprise — enterprise in the language of sports, extra effort, sterner discipline, zeal to excel. It is the Horatio Alger spirit on the playing field.

Athletics thus have their value as a stepping stone to success in other arenas. Yet athletics are the possession of youth. There still is room to succeed for the middle-aged and beyond, but in different pursuits.

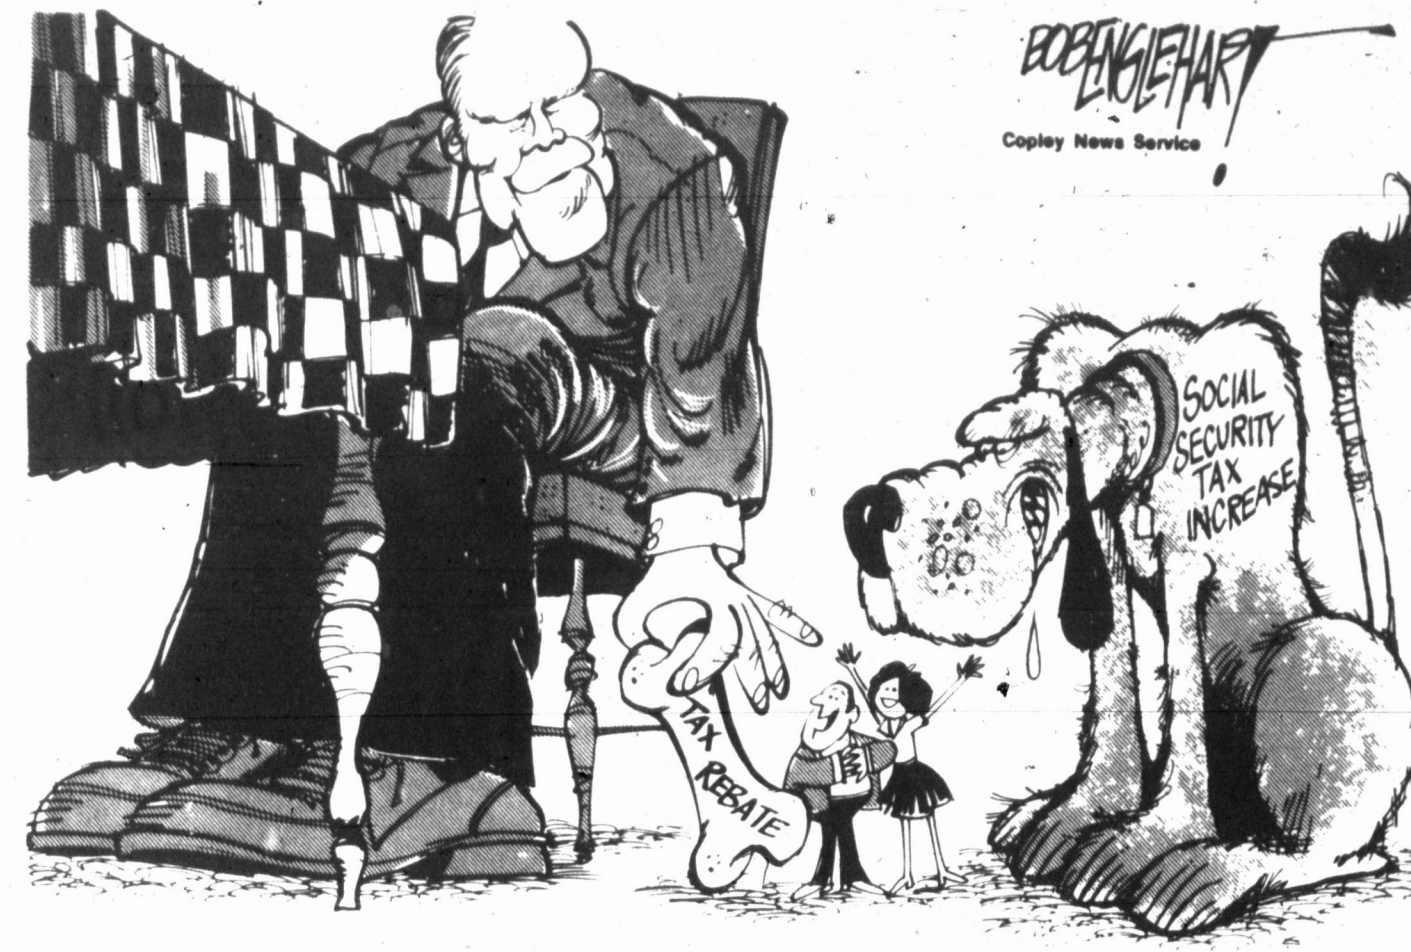

Negroes are succeeding on the professional level, in medicine, in law. The big breakthrough will come with success in business; that is, with the rise of a merchant class. For there is the modern nobility. The fact that profit-seeking commerce so frequently is berated is a sign that the vocation occupies the central consciousness of those who are not in it. The beating that business takes is a sort of reversed admiration. The attention is painful in kind, but — as the mistreated wife remarked — it shows that somebody cares.

One reason for keeping the country in a condition in which free enterprise thrives is to provide a means by which individuals are not prevented from excelling when they set their mind to it. Jesse said it right.

Texans Nix Foreign Aid Legislation

EDITOR'S NOTE — With this story, The News begins a new policy of including the cost per average taxpayer family of actual or proposed federal spending referred to in stories. We do this because of the difficulty most readers (and congressmen) face in trying to comprehend and conceptualize the billions of dollars the federal government routinely deals with. We think this new practice will aid readers in understanding the direct impact the federal government has on their lives.

By RANDY FITZGERALD
News Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — A foreign aid compromise bill containing more than $1 billion for reconstruction in both Israel and her Arab neighbor states was approved by Congress this past week despite stout opposition from a majority of Texas lawmakers.

The aid package, totaling $3.7 billion ($40.40 per taxpayer family), narrowly passed the House, 193-185, and was approved by a voice vote in the Senate.

Nine Texas House members voted in favor of the expenditure, 12 against, and three did not vote, though two of them were "paired" against the bill. One opponent of the aid proposal pleaded with his colleagues to delay any expenditure for the Middle East until an assessment could be made of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's failure to secure a peace settlement.

"We may be financing war on both sides with this bill," said the opponent, Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md.

Supporters of the legislation pointed out that the appropriation was $2.3 billion less than what the Ford Administration had requested for the fiscal year ending June 30. The cut was the biggest in the history of the program.

The Mideast aid package included $624 million for Israel, $250 million for Egypt, $77 million for Jordan and a $100 million contingency fund for Palestine and other projects. Also included in the package is $440 million in reconstruction money for war-beleaguered Indochina, but none of it in direct military aid.

Those opposing this expenditure were: Reps. Jake Pickle, D-Austin; Richard White, D-El Paso; Bob Poage, D-Waco; Olin Teague, D-College Station; Omar Burleson, D-Anson; Ray Roberts, D-McKinney; Alan Steelman, R-Dallas; Abraham Kazen, D-Laredo; Bill Archer, R-Houston; Bob Casey, D-Houston; Jim Collins, R-Dallas; and Dale Milford, D-Dallas.

Those voting in favor of the $3.7 billion appropriations were: Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-Houston; Henry Gonzalez, D-San Antonio; Barbara Jordan, D-Houston; Bob Krueger, D-New Braunfels; George Mahon, D-Lubbock; Wright Patman, D-Texas; Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin; Jim Wright, D-Dallas; and John Young, D-Corpus Christi.

Will The Real Mr. Nader Please Stand Up?

By H. C. GORDON
The unsuspecting citizen who still regards Ralph Nader as a self-less crusader for the public interest is in for a rude awakening when he picks up Ralph de Toledano's latest book. In "Hit and Run: The Rise and Fall" — of Ralph Nader (Arlington House, $7.95) Mr. de Toledano does the truly extraordinary: he takes the biggest and most powerful muckraker in the history of the country and exposes him as a fraud and a menace. Impossible? Read on.

What is the truth about Ralph Nader? What lies beneath that carefully nurtured "white knight" image? Just how accurate are the sensational charges he routinely hurls against both business and government, and how reliable are those "public reports" (compiled, for the most part, by worshipful undergraduates) which are supposed to document them? What does he do with the enormous sums of money he collects to further his activities? And how much, for all his sound and fury, has he actually done for the consumer?

These are certainly the most basic questions which should be asked about anyone who presumes to set himself up as the chief spokesman for the consuming public of America. The problem, suggests the author of this book, is that by and large these questions have not been asked — either by the media or by the public. For too long Mr. Nader has been held by the media or by the public. For sacrosanct — as untouchable as motherhood or apple pie. No matter how incompetent or corrupt someone else might be, according to Ralph Nader, the curious notion has persisted that he himself is somehow above reproach.

Well no longer. Mr. de Toledano, a noted author and investigative reporter of long experience, has finally shown us the other face of Ralph Nader — an authoritarian, power-hungry and dangerous individual whom even the liberal Washingtonian magazine has characterized as an "American Lenin."

In his book, Mr. de Toledano examines every aspect of Nader and his movement, and gives the facts on both. He dissects the Nader reports — the sloppy and amateurish way in which they were compiled, their inflammatory but empty rhetoric, their serious errors and even gross misrepresentations of fact. He exposes Nader's own brand of deceptive advertising — his shrewd manipulation of the press, his contempt for facts that don't suit his purposes, his use of calculated smears and scare stories to grab headlines and intimidate his opponents.

He also asks probing questions about Nader's finances and reveals that while Nader has loudly demanded that the files of major corporations be made public, he apparently does not feel that the same standard should be applied to his own "Public Citizen" operations. In fact, General Motors actually tells its stockholders more about its activities in its annual reports than Ralph Nader has ever told his contributors about how he spends their money. Nor has Nader ever followed the commendable example of certain members of Congress and published his personal income tax returns.

With regard to Mr. Nader's accomplishments, Mr. de Toledano builds a strong case for the proposition that most of them have been negligible or even counterproductive. In the area of auto safety alone, he notes (among other examples) that a congressional inquiry ultimately disproved the charge that the Corvair really was "unsafe at any speed," that the primary effect of the new pollution controls was to cut gas mileage and the sole effect of the seatbelt-interlock system was to raise the price of new cars.

All things considered, Mr. de Toledano may have done more for the consumer by exposing Ralph Nader than Nader himself has ever done in the whole of his strange and flamboyant career.

Potomac Fever

That new Ford campaign group doesn't expect to call on big donors. They're all on unemployment.

A Texas military bombing range turned out to be a hunting and fishing resort. It's a protection against prowling senators.

The reason there was so much battling on the tax cut bill is that Congress is not used to giving back money to taxpayers.

There's no truth to the rumor that the sunken Russian sub was really a barge loaded with Pentagon overruns.

Who's Wearing the Pants

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What's with Mel in Belleville? Is he crazy? He says pants on women should be declared valid grounds for an uncontested divorce.

Doesn't Mel know that lots of women wear pants because they're warm in the winter? [My mother has arthritis, and pants have been a Godsend for her.]

I find them very practical on my job because I do a lot of stretching and bending and stooping. I'm not exactly petite, and while I never could get a dress in my size that was long enough to cover my knees, I can always find pants that cover me modestly.

Also with pants, I can wear different blouses, shirts and jackets. How many different ways can you wear a dress?

NUTS TO MEL

DEAR ABBY: I'm with Mel. I'm a woman who is tired of pants, but I can't find a decent looking dress anywhere. All the stores are loaded with pants suits.

My husband says I've got the best-looking legs in town, and I'm not about to hide them if I can help it.

Where are the designers who will make women look like women again? LOVES DRESSES

DEAR ABBY: This is for Mel: Speaking as a man (and I am not a homosexual or a transvestite), I personally find pants generally uncomfortable, so in private I wear pants as little as possible.

I would like to see the return of the Roman toga for males. In fact, there have been many civilizations in which men wore robes or skirts (the Catholic clergy), and even in Scotland, the kilts were popular.

The one advantage of pants for men were the pockets. But now, pants are made to fit so skin-tight that pockets are useless.

Sadly, comfort and efficiency are rarely the determining factors in fashion. Clothing is a big business that demands constant change for full employment and maximum profits. Maybe pants are men's revenge for Women's Lib. Anyway, when it comes to comfort, pants are the worst.

COMFORT-LOVING MALE

DEAR ABBY: Where does Mel in Belleville get off saying that all women look terrible in pants, only some look worse? And he thinks women should get back into skirts because that really arouses a man.

Well, I have news for Mel. He should try wearing a dress in Iowa in the winter. He'd freeze his fanny off. He should also try sitting on a metal chair or riding a bicycle in a skirt.

Furthermore, many men think nice, tight-fitting pants are much sexier looking than a dress.

FOR PANTS IN S.C., IOWA

DEAR ABBY: I like pants for two reasons. (1) It has cut my hosiery bill down to nothing. (No one can see the runs in my stockings.) (2) My husband and I wear the same size, so it's increased my wardrobe by 50 per cent.

Predicts Destruction By Earthquakes in Utah

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Geological Survey warned today the sharp earthquake that shook the Utah-Idaho border area March 27 probably will be followed by more destructive tremors in the future.

Utah is "crisscrossed" by numerous active fault zones and there have been at least six strong quakes in the state during the past 75 years.

Dr. Al Rogers, USGS geophysicist who heads an earthquake study team in Utah, said the area will undoubtedly produce more quakes in the future.

He said future shocks are likely to be more destructive than previous quakes "because more and more buildings and people are moving into areas that are potentially unsafe because of earthquake-related hazards."

The March 27 quake had a magnitude of 6.3 on the Richter Scale and was the strongest in the continental United States since the 1971 San Fernando quake in California. The geological survey said damage was moderate in the Utah tremor.

It was centered three miles beneath the Utah-Idaho border, about 100 miles north of Salt Lake City. The quake occurred within the intermountain seismic zone, a zone of active faults that extends from Utah into Idaho, Wyoming and Montana.

Gives Career Counsel

AMARILLO — Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed April as "Career Opportunities for Youth Month" and Amarillo College is stepping forth to assist youth in selecting career objectives, obtaining career counseling, or receiving financial aid to attend college.

During "Career Opportunities for Youth Month" various agencies and institutions are being asked to work cooperatively in developing career awareness activities for Texas youth.

The Texas Education Agency has asked Amarillo College to develop a suitable means of communicating career guidance and training opportunities to interested high school students.

Directed by Fred Dodson, the AC Testing and Counseling Center has a trained staff of five counselors readily available to consult with interested persons about training opportunities available. Appointments may be made by calling the Testing and Counseling Center at the college.

Draft Registration Now Not Required

Youths no longer are required to register for the military draft upon reaching their 18th birthday, according to officials at Pampa Selective Service Board 52 in the Post Office Bldg.

The termination of registration procedures requiring a male to register 30 days before or after his 18th birthday went into effect April 1.

It marks the first time since August 31, 1948, that men will not be required to register upon reaching their 18th birthday.

Draft board officials say no word has been received of new procedures, but it is understood national Selective Service is considering annual registration.

Youths will not need to report for registration at their draft board until further notice is received regarding Selective Service procedure.

Col. Melvin N. Glantz, state director of Selective Service for Texas, said although registration has been terminated at this time, new procedures providing for periodical registration are being developed and will be tested.

Glantz said Selective Service will continue to carry out its mission on a stand-by basis and will continue to classify men in accordance with current regulations and maintain a pool of available manpower for the military as a part of the nation's overall Emergency Preparedness Program.

He said Selective Service has sufficient men registered and classified to continue the First Priority Selection Groups through the end of 1976.

The First Priority Selection Group for 1976 will be those men born in 1956, Glantz said.

John Rankin is chairman of the Pampa Draft Board which serves Gray, Wheeler, Donley and Roberts County.

Bentsen Says Ally Relations Jeopardized

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Democratic Presidential candidate Lloyd Bentsen says Americans attacking Congress for cutting aid to South Vietnam are jeopardizing our relations with other allies.

The Texas senator, speaking at a civic awards banquet Sunday night, said Americans should not forget how much aid South Vietnam has received in past years and how that government used the aid.

"Those accusing the United States of not living up to its commitments are rendering a disservice to our country and are lending credibility to those who are trying to sever our relations with our allies," Bentsen said.

"It is not our nation that is on trial here, it is the leadership of South Vietnam that is on trial. We can give them aid, but there is no way we can give them the will to fight."

BELFAST (UPI) — A 30-year-old Roman Catholic on his way to work at a linen factory was shot to death today in Ulster's worst weekend of violence in two years that threatened the Irish Republican Army cease-fire.

Cincy, LA Open Major League Baseball Season

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, whose best pitches are political and as far as baseball goes can only be tabbed a veteran slowball artist, throws out the first ball today to open the 1975 Major League baseball season.

After Taft makes his ceremonial toss, Cincinnati Reds southpaw Don Gullett delivers the first official pitch of the year to Los Angeles Dodgers leadoff man Davey Lopes.

The weather forecast was for sunny skies and temperatures in the high 50s or low 60s for the 2:30 p.m. Reds-Dodgers opener at Riverfront Stadium.

The head groundskeeper says the AstroTurf field is in excellent condition.

Tickets for all 51,786 seats were sold a month ago, and since then the Reds have been selling standing-room-only tickets for $3 each.

Taft, a native Cincinnati making his first public appearance since suffering a heart attack two months ago, will be accompanied by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Also at the game will be former astronaut James A. Lovell and probably Neil Armstrong, the first man to walk on the moon, who now teaches at the University of Cincinnati.

President Ford, who tossed out the first ball here a year ago just before Hank Aaron tied Babe Ruth's home run record, was unable to accept an invitation to attend.

Gullett, only 24 but beginning his sixth season in the majors, is opposed by Los Angeles right-handed ace Don Sutton, who turned 30 just last Wednesday.

Sutton helped the Dodgers win the National League pennant last season with a 19-9 record.

Gullett, 17-11 last season, also pitched on opening day in 1973 but was defeated by the San Francisco Giants on that cold, windy afternoon. He says he hopes to redeem himself in today's warmer weather.

"The weather is important, and it looks like it's going to be good," said Gullett. "Opening day is more than just another game, and I'm happy to be starting again."

Gullett and his teammates worked out at Riverfront Stadium Sunday afternoon.

"It was mainly for the nerves," explained Reds manager Sparky Anderson.

"We needed to get a little of the edge off for opening day."

The Dodgers finished their exhibition schedule Sunday afternoon and flew here Sunday night.

The opening day hoopla included a downtown Cincinnati parade and 40 minutes of on-field ceremonies, but the Reds-Dodgers matchup really didn't need much of a buildup.

The clubs are considered the best in the National League and are expected to fight it out for the Western Division title.

Head-to-head games between the teams have been crucial the past two seasons.

Los Angeles finished four games ahead of Cincinnati last year, winning 12 of the 18 games between the clubs. The preceding season, the Reds held an 11-7 edge and won the division crown by four games.

The teams meet seven times in the first 11 days this season. After opening day, the Reds and Dodgers take Tuesday off and then play again here Wednesday night and Thursday night. A four-game series is scheduled in Los Angeles for April 14-17.

PERRYTON — Pampa's freshmen captured second place medals in the 440- and mile division with 145 points, followed by Canyon 95, Pampa 58, Borger 54, Boys Ranch 41, Dumas 33, Dalhart 30, Woodward, Okla. 23, Miami 14, Stratford 2 and Canadian 1.

Longhorns Rout Bears To Up Mark 18-0

By United Press International

The Texas Longhorns broke out the bats during the weekend and came up with a stunning 50 hits and 44 runs in three games with the Baylor Bears in Waco.

Texas mauled the Bears in each game and extended its conference mark to 18-0.

The league-leading Longhorns have only six conference games remaining. None are this week.

Every other team with the exception of Texas A&M has been eliminated from the race.

The Aggies are three games back in the loss column at 12-3 and will finish the season with a three-game series with Texas in College Station.

Texas crunched Baylor in the first of their series, 18-6, but that football-like score simply fell in line with SMU's 20-14 victory over Texas Tech Friday and Texas A&M's 13-2 decision over Houston.

But the oddest series of the weekend could have been staged between Arkansas and Rice.

On Saturday, with the three-game series standing at 1-1 in Houston, umpire Howard Hansen declared a forfeit in favor of Rice in the final game.

Arkansas coach Norm DeBrynn had been thrown out of the game earlier, and when he reappeared in Hansen's view the game was called. Arkansas owned a 4-3 lead eighth-inning lead when the decision was made.

Both Pampa teams will compete in the North Zone Meet Saturday at Dumas. Top three finishers in each event qualify for the district meet April 26 at Canyon.

GOLF IN JAPAN

The bloom is off the boom

TOKYO — The golf boom in Japan is gone now and so has the lucrativeness of dealing in golf club memberships.

At one time during the peak of the golf boom in 1972, some golf club membership dealers earned as much as $10,000 in a single day. Between 1972 and early 1973 the golfing population in Japan suddenly jumped and new golf courses mushroomed all over.

As a result the prices of memberships also skyrocketed, some going up from $1,600 to $2,300 in only two or three days, according to one dealer.

At that time a major Japanese bank, after conducting a survey, estimated that the golfing population in Japan was increasing by between 500,000 and 800,000 annually and had reached around six million by then, or proportionately close to that of the United States. The bank also estimated the golf courses in the country would number 1,000 in 1975, or nearly double the number of 1972 if the increase continued at the same rate.

During the first golf boom of 1957-1960, most golf links were constructed on level grounds or in rolling hills within a radius of 30 kilometers from major cities.

During the second boom, which started around 1964, more golf courses were constructed in golf club memberships were estimated to number anywhere from 100 to 200 in Tokyo alone and about 300 over the country. However, a great majority of these dealers were fly-by-nights, according to Sadao Ushijima, secretary general of the Kanto Cooperative Association of Golf Membership Dealers. "No license is required and you only need a desk and telephone to start this business," Ushijima said.

Tom Wins Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf, a win under his belt for the first time since 1973 and his swing back to near perfection, figures he has about as good a chance as anybody to claim the coveted Masters championship.

"There's no reason I can't go into that final hole at Augusta with a chance to win," he said after pocketing $45,000 for winning the Greater Greensboro Open (GGO) Sunday.

"I've got a good chance at winning in Augusta and a better chance than 90 per cent of the field," he said.

Weiskopf showed why in the GGO, leading the tournament every round and cruising down Sunday's home stretch with a three-under-par 68 for a total of 275, nine under par on the 6,700-yard Sedgefield Country Club Course.

Al Geiberger, who won his sixth career tournament last year at Sahara, fired his second straight five-under 66 Sunday to finish in second place at 278.

Weiskopf was a last-minute entry in the GGO, deciding to come only after finishing second to Jack Nicklaus in the Heritage Classic a week earlier. He was obviously pleased that he did.

Not only did he become $45,000 richer and move into third place behind Nicklaus and Johnny Miller on this year's money winners list, he proved his game is back where it was in 1973, when he won four events on the tour plus the World Series of Golf, the British Open and the South-African PGA championship.

"This tournament has given me some great satisfaction," said Weiskopf.

"It has taken me three hard months of work to get my swing back to where it was in 1973," he said. "Now, I'm pretty satisfied with my mental attitude. I'm patient and my concentration is excellent."

Lee Trevino, who won his 18th career victory at the Florida Citrus Tournament earlier this year, finished in fourth place, six strokes behind Weiskopf at 281, three under par. Jerry McGee, 31, a consistent money-winner in his eight-year stint on the tour without a win, was third at 280. Trevino finished up with a 68, and McGee did the same.

Dave Hill was alone in fourth place at 282, two under par, after a final round of one-under-par 70.

Cavaliers Fail

By United Press International

The long arm of Ron Behagen reached all the way from Omaha to New York in the waning hours Sunday afternoon.

Behagen stretched it out to block a last-second shot by Cleveland's Fred Foster and protect the Kansas City-Omaha Kings' 95-94 win. In so doing, Behagen also blocked the Cavaliers' entry into the NBA playoffs. The Cavs' loss, coupled with New York's 106-93 victory over the Buffalo Braves, pushed the Knicks into the NBA East wild card playoff berth.

The Knicks, who huddled around TV sets to watch the game following their crucial win earlier in the afternoon, certainly needed the help.

"The way we started out, neither team seemed to want the game," said New York's Walt Frazier. "Everybody was falling asleep. I was falling asleep in the first half and I was out there."

Frazier's sleepiness could have meant the end of Knick dreams but something got him going in the second half.

The Knicks rebounded from a five-point halftime deficit, brought about largely by Bob McAdoo's 19 points, to reel off streaks of 11 and 14 points in the third quarter.

Though Cleveland and New York finished the regular season with identical 40-42 records, the Knicks move on to the playoffs because they won the season series against the Cavs.

Water Safety Important

Texas Parks and Wildlife

The warm south winds herald green grass, shade trees, hot days and water-related sports.

The myriad of Texas lakes and streams furnish hours of enjoyment to boaters, skiers and fisherman every year. And every year, persons through neglect or misuse of safety rules, drown in our state waters.

Quoting drowning statistics does not arouse much support for using or obeying the safety rules but, laws do.

Anyone operating a boat with motor attached on public waters must first register this craft with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. A certificate of number will be issued from Austin and the number must be painted, decalated, or otherwise affixed to both sides of the bow of the boat to provide easy identification for you or someone looking for you.

Motor boats are classed as A, 1, 2, or 3 in Texas and each has its own requirements.

Class A boats are less than 16 feet in length and a US Coast Guard approved life preserver must be on board for each person.

Class 1 boat (16 foot to less than 26 feet in length) require one type I, II, or III personal flotation device on board for each person plus at least one type IV throwable device available for use.

Another regulation of interest to Texas boating families is the requirement that a passenger under 13 years of age in a class A or a Class 1 boat while it is underway must wear a Coast Guard approved personal flotation device at all times.

Too better acquaint you and your family with these rules and regulations and other important information, pick up a copy of the digest of the Texas Water Safety Act at any Texas Parks and Wildlife Department office or write the Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

A thorough knowledge of boat operation, safety and regulations can be acquired if you study of a copy of the Texas Skippers Course. This booklet patterned after the U.S. Coast Guard Skippers Course is available from Austin also.

Remember, safe boating is the result of the use of common sense, obeying the rules and regulations, and showing that Texas boaters are considerate of fisherman as well as other boaters.

Gov Proclaims This Defensive Driving Week

This week has been designated as Defensive Driving Week, announced the Texas Safety Association, and in the proclamation by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, individual drivers are urged to help make Texas a safer place to live and drive.

The special week coincides with National Defensive Driving

Week. "Traffic accidents take a terrible toll in human life, injury and property damage throughout Texas, resulting in over 3,000 lives and over 120,000 injuries this past year," said the Governor's proclamation.

Defensive Driving Week was originated by the National Safety Council in 1972 to call drivers' attention to the magnitude of the traffic accident problem and to induce motorists to help solve the problem by improving their own driving.

The National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course helps drivers better their performance behind the wheel, according to the Texas Safety Association.

Texas drivers who complete the course are entitled to a 10 percent discount on auto insurance premiums, in addition to becoming better drivers.

Drivers who are interested in an auto insurance premium reduction and in being better drivers by becoming DDC graduates should contact their local DDC training agency or write the Texas Safety Association, Austin, for information.

Court To Hear Disability During Childbirth Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sandra Wetzel and Mari Ross, who worked for Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. in Pittsburgh, took time off for childbirth in 1971.

The company affords its employees income protection in the event of disability. But the two women were not eligible because the plan does not apply to pregnancies.

They fought the issue through the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission; the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and two federal courts.

When their lawsuits were successful, Liberty Mutual appealed to the Supreme Court where the case is now awaiting the justices' attention. Lower courts have been handing down conflicting decisions in similar litigation. The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and General Electric Co. are among the other firms involved.

The Supreme Court has already spoken on this subject but in a different context—a constitutional challenge to state, as opposed to private, disability insurance programs.

The 14th Amendment to the Constitution guarantees to all persons the "equal protection of the laws." Four women attacked a California disability insurance system on the ground that it provided benefits for almost any incapacity, including: cosmetic surgery and attempted suicide, but not for normal pregnancy.

A six-man Supreme Court majority turned a deaf ear to their arguments. The opinion by Justice Potter Stewart held that, even though pregnancy is peculiar to women, California was not really classifying people according to sex and had a right to keep the plan within sound actuarial limits.

Stewart said: "There is no risk from which men are protected and women are not. Likewise, there is no risk from which women are protected and men are not."

Mrs. Wetzel and Mrs. Ross invoked Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights act, which forbids discrimination in job opportunities on the basis of race and sex.

Also the EEOC, after six years of taking a different view, in 1972 issued guidelines barring employers from discriminating between men and women with regard to employment policies and fringe benefits.

Liberty Mutual vainly insisted to Federal District Judge Gerald J. Weber and the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the Supreme Court opinion in the California case governs the situation.

The 3rd Circuit, affirming a ruling by Weber in favor of the women, distinguished between the two situations and rejected all the company's arguments, including the contention that pregnancy can properly be excluded from the plan because it is "voluntary."

Mentioning drinking, smoking, skiing, handball and tennis as activities which are covered by the plan if harm is sustained, the court added:

"We find that some voluntary disabilities are covered while one voluntary disability that is peculiar to women is not so covered."

The opinion also noted that the California plan excluded only normal pregnancies, while Liberty Mutual excludes all pregnancy-related disabilities.

The case is among numerous sex discrimination lawsuits that have come along in recent Supreme Court terms. The justices are expected to announce the disposition of it in a few weeks.

Texas Economy Prospers

Pampa News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Despite the nation's slide into what one economist has called "stagflation" — bringing on the worse case of unemployment and slowed business activity since the Great Depression — there are still cities and states where people are on spending sprees and Texas is one of the prime examples.

While department store sales nationwide are up only one percent from a year ago, most cities in the Lone Star State are recording a spiraling gain in sales of 10 percent and more.

Statistics compiled by the Departments of Commerce and Labor, and published in the most recent issue of U.S. News & World Report magazine, singled out three Texas cities as having significant gains in department store sales. They were San Antonio (9.2 percent), Houston (12.3 percent) and Dallas (8.7 percent). No other state came close to matching these sales increases, though a few individual cities did exceed them.

The trend in most other sectors of the economy in these cities is also encouraging.

Construction activity in Houston, for instance, is up 8.5 percent over a year ago, but down 7.2 percent nationwide over the same period.

By contrast, construction activity in St. Louis has plunged sharply, down 27.6 percent over March, 1974.

Unemployment in the three Texas cities is also far below the national average of nearly nine percent. In Dallas, only 4.2 percent of the potential work force is on the unemployment rolls, while Houston records 4.6 percent and San Antonio, 5.8 percent. In Detroit, where the automobile industry has been hard hit by a dropoff in auto sales, unemployment stands at 14.9 percent.

U.S. News also reported that permits for new homes in Houston jumped nearly 386 percent from December to January. The city is also experiencing an oil-related construction boom, with some $2.5 billion in plant expansion and construction underway along the Houston Ship Channel.

Red Cross News

By Libby Shotwell
Executive Secretary ARC

The Lefors Tornado is more than a week old and we are all a little weary, but thankful for all of our friends who have given so many things, money, time, and clothing to the victims of the disaster.

The money is coming in beautifully and please be assured that every cent will be used for the Lefors Disaster. The National Red Cross is helping too and people from Silverton who suffered from the Silverton Tornado have sent checks for Lefors. A special thanks goes to Skeet Wagner who has been in charge of the canteen and the clothing room. He was one of the first to arrive on the scene and he has stayed to see this operation through.

Ted and John Gikas made sandwiches and furnished coffee for the victims the first night when we were all in shock. The Lefors ladies who have worked to feed the many who have worked at Lefors. I will never forget Mrs. Joan Linville RN who has visited the hospitals in Pampa and taken forms for the ones who needed help to the Red Cross and Federal offices. Joan is a Red Cross Nurse and has done a fantastic job with our ill and sick.

The Red Cross work has gone on with welfare wires from all over the U.S. Mrs. Don Wilson (Doris), Mrs. Oran Carter, Mrs. Nell Jordan and Miss Inez Club have worked in the Red Cross office since the Disaster. Thanks girls, for your help!

Oh yes, Mrs. Vickie Moose has organized volunteers to work in the Red Cross Headquarters and has now been instrumental in getting volunteers to work with our Federal groups. Thanks Vickie, for your hard work and your pleasant smile has cheered many who needed you. Vickie is the grand daughter of Skeet Wagner.

I must say the women who have worked in the clothing room need a great big thank-you, as well as the merchants in Pampa, who gave groceries. The Shriners who cooked and served Dinner Tuesday, the farmers who gave sides of beef, Coca Cola Bottling Co., Meads Bread and so many, many who have helped in so many ways.

If I have not named you or your firm, know it is because I could not think fast enough, but the people of Lefors give their friends also thank everyone.

The Red Cross Board will meet at 7 a.m. Tuesday in the city club rooms according to Miss Norma Briden, chapter chairman. Breakfast will be complimentary for this meeting.

Bill Lynch, Disaster Representative for the Panhandle and will be present.

Ford Withheld Vietnam Aid Says Glenn

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Sen. John Glenn Jr., D-Ohio, accused President Ford Friday of withholding $175 million in defense aid for South Vietnam and then charging Congress with responsibility for the deteriorating Indochina military situation.

Glenn, who said Defense Department fiscal officers told him $175 million of "still uncommitted appropriated money" was available as of March 15, said use of the funds would have "turned the trick" in Vietnam.

"I don't know why it was done," Glenn said. "I just am saying that when the President comes out and intimates that the lack of money from the Congress is the reason for this current military disintegration, I don't believe it."

Government costs keep increasing

Since 1929, government expenditures have increased in every decade. They now stand at 32 percent of the national economy (nearly 40 percent including off-budget expenditures of federal agencies) and if the trend continues, 50 percent of the gross national product will be generated by government rather than private enterprise by 2000. — CNS

Capitol Hill News

15 Texans Opposed Cut

Pampa News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Many Texas

House members, adopting the philosophy of taking the bad with the good, voted in favor of a tax cut bill, even though the legislation included a provision eliminating the oil depletion allowance for large producers.

The legislation passed, 287 to 125, with eight Texans voting for the bill, 15 opposing it. Rep. Jack

Hightower, D - Vernon, did not vote due to illness.

The legislation, which has been signed into law by President

Ford, provides for a $22.8 billion tax cut. Included under its provisions were a gradual phaseout of the oil depletion allowance for most oil firms and other assorted measures, such as a $50 payments to each of 31

million Social Security

recipients.

Opponents of the bill argued against it for as many reasons as there were provisions. Most of the Texas House members voted

"no" because of amendments relating to the oil industry. Many Republicans contended that the bill would, in the words of Rep.

Herman Schneebeli, Pa.,

"perpetuate the long - term budget deficits which ... have been the cause of the inflation we have experienced in the past few

Supporters of the tax break said it was essential to stimulate the faltering economy.

But some opponents pointed out it was "unfair" that persons paying income taxes could receive a maximum $200

rebate, while the very poor —

those who in many cases paid no

1974 federal income tax — can receive $400. Supporters of the bill countered this argument by saying the provision was designed to put more money into circulation and that the nation's poor deserved a more sizeable tax break.

One of four Texans to speak on the House floor during debate,

Rep. Jake Pickle, D - Austin, said he supported the tax cut bill because "the condition of our national economy demands it."

event though he had grave

reservations about it, Pickle voiced concern over the oil depletion allowance provision, as did the other three Texans who spoke — Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D -

Houston; Bill Archer, R -

Houston; and Ray Roberts, D -

McKinney.

Roberts and Archer voted against the bill, Eckhardt and Pickle in favor.

Other Texans opposing the tax cut were: Reps. Omar Burleson,

D - Anson; Bob Casey, D -

Houston; Jim Collins, R -

Houston; Henry Gonzalez, D -

San Antonio; Abraham Kazen, D -

Laredo; Robert Krueger, D -

New Braunfels; George Mahon,

D - Lubbock; Dale Milford, D -

Dallas; Bob Poage, D - Waco;

Alan Steelman, R - Dallas; Olin

Teague, D - College Station;

Charles Wilson, D - Lufkin; and John Young, D - Corpus Christi.

Others voting in favor of the bill were: Reps. Jack Brooks, D -

Beaumont; Kika de la Garza, D -

Mission; Barbara Jordan, D -

Houston; Wright Patman, D -

Texarkana; Richard White, D -

El Paso; and Jim Wright, D -

Dallas.

Hanoi Denies UN Permission To Aid

ROME UPI — North Vietnam

and the Viet Cong have denied the United Nations permission to evacuate refugees from territory in South Vietnam under Communist control.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt

Waldheim has announced with regret the decision by Hanoi and the rebel force it directs but said he wouldn't make a public appeal to rescind the ban

because it might hurt other vital

U.N. work.

"Such a public appeal wouldn't really solve the problem," he said. "On the contrary, it would have risked doing harm to the work of our humanitarian organizations in the area, which are doing an excellent job."

"I am personally deeply touched by the human suffering of these people, and I am certainly doing my utmost to be helpful through our humanitarian agencies."

Waldheim, attending a meeting of U.N. agency heads, said both Hanoi and the Viet Cong contend the refugees can be aided in South Vietnam and there is no reason for them to leave the country.

In response to a U.N. appeal,

Waldheim said Australia has pledged $1.2 million in aid.

Lufthansa, is flying relief supplies to South Vietnam on behalf of West Germany, and Sweden has pledged $6 million in help - half of it to the Viet Cong's

Provisional Revolutionary

Government.

Leader Blames King Murder On CIA, FBI

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) —

Civil rights leader Rev. Jesse

Jackson told marchers observing the seventh anniversary of the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Friday he believes the CIA and the FBI were involved in the assassination.

James Earl Ray said he was not alone and I believe him," Jackson said.

Jackson said he will make a personal appeal to Attorney

General Edward Levi to reopen

the investigation of the murder and will join with a group of other ministers from across the nation in attempting to interview Ray, who is now serving a

99-year sentence in the Tennessee state prison following his guilty plea in 1969.

Ray has repudiated his confession and now claims he was pressured into it by defense lawyer Percy Foreman.

Ford Wants To Extend Unemployment Benefits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Ford says he will ask Congress to extend unemployment benefits from 52 weeks to 65.

Ford told the San Francisco Bay Area Council Friday night the recession is showing "tentative signs that the worst may be behind us."

He said "encouraging indications" include a slowdown in price increases, lowering of interest rates, retail sales holding up as inventories are reduced, and automakers planning increased production.

But "this does not mean that all our troubles are over," the President said. "A few flowers do not mean that spring has really come."

He said that as soon as Congress returns Monday from its Easter holiday he will ask the lawmakers to:

—Extend by 13 weeks federal jobless benefits to persons who have exhausted their eligibility.

He said this will give most workers covered by unemployment compensation protection for up to 65 weeks.

—Extend by 39 weeks the current one-year temporary compensation for the 12 million persons not previously protected by the unemployment insurance program. They include domestic workers, farm workers, teachers and other state employees.

Ford said both special programs should continue until the end of 1976. But he is asking Congress for automatic controls that would cut off the extended benefits if unemployment falls to a certain level, so far unspecified.

The Labor Department announced in Washington Friday that 7,980,000 workers were without jobs in March. That was 8.7 per cent of the labor force, the highest unemployment rate since 1941.

AFL-CIO president George

Meany said that if the government counted as unemployed those who have given up looking for full-time work, the rate would be 9.8 per cent, or 9 million persons.

The Labor Department estimated that 1.1 million "discouraged" workers have given up job hunting.

Junior College Sound Out Set Today

First of two meetings to sound out public opinion on establishment of a junior college in Pampa was scheduled from 5 to 7 p.m. today in the banquet room of Furr's Cafeteria in Coronado Center.

H. Clovis Shipp will preside at the meeting tonight and at the same hours on Wednesday night to explain plans developed so far and to answer questions concerning the junior college project.

Shipp, prime mover in the attempt to bring a Community Christian College to Pampa, today urged interested persons to attend either tonight's meeting or Wednesday night's meeting.

"We want to determine if there is a real interest among Pampa in bringing a
