Collingsworth Voters Favor Three Amendments, Veto Four

County Votes Dry Almost 2 To 1 As State Goes Wet

Collingsworth Favors Three, Vetoes Four Amendments

Old Age Pension

Voters Cast 1,038 Ballots For Old Age Pensions, And 220 Against

With complete returns from all voting boxes in Collingsworth County tabulated, the unofficial count showed that this county passed three of the proposed amendments and voted against four of them in the election Saturday, Aug. 24. The county favored old age pensions by an overwhelming majority, likewise they voted for commitment of insane and abolition of fee payment of certain officials. The amendments on Repeal, Constitutional Amendments by Special Session, Suspended Sentences to be Imposed by Judges and Free Text Books for Private Schools were voted down in Collingsworth County.

Despite the fact that Texas went wet, Collingsworth County still remains dry, according to the ruling of Attorney General William McGraw who stated that after the canvass, the local option wet counties will be legally wet. McGraw said the dry counties could not hold local option elections to legalize liquor until after the machinery is provided by Legislature. The following quotation from (Continued from Page Six)

The meeting was sponsored by the Dodsonville Agricultural Association for its purpose discussing the present agricultural situa-

Eller Not Home Of Forgotten Man

One Vote Costs $8, But That's Cheaper Than Building Road

The world may be filled with forgotten men and women, but he or she, as the case may be, does not live in the Eller Community, Collingsworth County.

When it came time to vote on the special amendments last Saturday, the Eller Community was found to have only one paid poll tax. Still, Eller is a voting box and as such is due all consideration accorded any other legal voting box.

Have Two Judges Having only one poll tax, the Eller box fell into the classification of 100 or less voters—and only two men were employed to hold the election as the law requires. Each of these men were paid at the rate of $3.00 a day for their services, totaling $6.00. The fee for returning the box was $2.00, and the total cost of the election at Eller was $8.00.

However, the lone voter at Eller did not seem interested in the entire seven amendments—and only voted on two of them. Thus, the Eller box only cast two-sevenths of a complete ballot at a cost of $8.00. Whether the single ballot was the paid poll tax, an "over," an "under" or an absentee ballot is not known.

Could Build Road The county thought perhaps the procedure of Eller's voting machine might be a little bit too high in cost so they looked around. Finally, they found that they could remedy the situation by merely building a road from Eller to China Grove, the nearest voting box, which is now accessible only by horseback. They are still scratching their heads. Furthermore, the community is Eller, not Ella—and there may not be but one vote there, but that vote is just as good as anybody else's vote.

Collingsworth County was urged to submit WPA projects as early as possible by A. A. Meredith, district administrator, in a meeting with the County Planning Board Monday, August 26. The time limit for submitting WPA projects has been set at September 12. It was pointed out by Mr. Meredith and W. D. Willis that the City of Wellington was the only sponsor that had thus far had projects pass the San Antonio office.

Approve Street Work Washington dispatches later indicated that the street topping project of the City of Wellington had been passed in Washington, but no official notice has been received in Wellington.

Mr. Meredith announced more liberal terms under which WPA work could be secured, and a number of additional new projects are being planned and work on the old ones are being rushed. Highway Paving Is Expected To Begin October 15

Project From Here To Ricer Receives State, Federal Approval

To Seek Bids

No Definite Action On Project From River To Wheeler Line

Prospects for surfacing work on Highway 4, north from Wellington to Salt Fork, indicated that the work would probably begin around October 15, following reports that the project had received the approval of state and federal authorities.

Seven-Mile Strip The strip will be approximately seven miles in length and will be surfaced with concrete just as the surfacing from here into Childress.

Plans and specifications on the project were received this week by J. B. Nabers, division highway superintendent, after they had been approved by the state highway department and federal bureau of public roads.

To Seek Bids In a few weeks the highway department will advertise for bids on the project. It is expected that the department will take active steps on the project at their regular meeting September 9. The bids have to be advertised 10 days before action is taken in letting a contract. Thus, officials estimate that the work will be started about Oct. 15. The remaining distance from the (Continued on Page 12)

Rudolph Wood Has Good Record In Cisco Firm

Former Wellington Man Builds Up Unusual Business In Cisco

Tribute was recently paid to Rudolph Wood, formerly of this county, in a recent edition of the Cisco (Texas) Daily Press. The article traced the growth of the Hyatt-Wood firm, in which Mr. Wood is a partner, from a small grocery store into one of the most successful institutions in the Cisco area.

Mr. Wood will be remembered by friends here as the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Wood of this county. He completed his high school work in Wellington in 1918, and is well known in this county.

In 1928, Mr. Wood left his job with Armour and Company, and went to Cisco, where he and his father-in-law established a small cash-and-carry grocery business.

In commenting upon the success of Mr. Wood, the Cisco Daily Press stated, "From the first it enjoyed good business, featuring prices and quality. The business grew until new fixtures and later a modern refrigerator display case were installed.

"In the early part of 1934 the firm took the franchise for the sale of Maytag washing machines in Eastland County and southern Calhoun County. They now employ 13 full time salesmen and one service man.

"Mr. Wood is a native of Navarro County, Texas, although he was reared from the age of two years in Wellington. He and Miss Vera Hyatt were married in 1926, at Tulsa, Okla., where he was working with Armour and Co. They have three children: Wayne, 6; Dorothy May, 4; Mary Elizabeth, 1.

Sweet Potato Curing Plant Is Profitable

Potatoes Sell From 50 To 75 Cents Bushel Higher After Curing

Venture For Collingsworth Producer

A sweet potato curing plant operated in this county by A. J. Peters has created much attention among extension service workers here during the past week. John O. Stovall, agent, after inspecting the plant states that most any farmer who raises sweet potatoes could have a curing plant to take care of his crop after it has been harvested. Mr. Peters has demonstrated very successfully that such a plant is very practical and also a good source of revenue, when his potato crop is good. He has been operating the plant for several seasons, and has at different times altered and made changes until it is now very modern. He has made extensive study on this one particular project of his program of diversification and only goes to show what can be done with a little effort. Mr. Peters is a continual applicant for bulletins from the Extension Service from which he and Mr. Stovall worked out a practical program of farm diversification. The potato curing plant is one result of the bulletins and information he has received from the Extension Service. Mr. Peters has a solid concrete curing plant, with a basement; the building is 18 by 20 by 11 feet above the ground and the basement is 16 by 18 by 7 feet. The plant was constructed at a cost of some $500 which, of course, is more than most farmers would want to invest, and it could be built of different material at a lower cost. The floor of the plant is covered with six-inch boards about one inch apart and affords plenty of room for circulation of the heat coming from the basement. This plant will cure about 1200 bushels of potatoes. In building this plant, Mr. Peters took into consideration the climatic conditions of the county and is constructed different from plants in the east and south. It is covered with shiplap, over which is a cover of asphalt paper which in turn is covered with sheet iron, which makes a very sturdy and practical building. Mr. Peters states as a result of this building he is able to have first grade potatoes at all times, and that it affords him an income which he would not otherwise get, bringing 50 to 75 cents more per bushel than he could get if he sold his potatoes at harvest time. Not only does his potatoes pay him more, but he is able to save his own seed potatoes which are always much higher than commercial potatoes. This farm is located about three miles north of town, and Mr. Peters said he would be glad to let interested farmers inspect his plant. Mr. Stovall also said he will be glad to furnish anyone with any information they might desire in building a curing plant.

Pumpkins Hang From Altus Tree

ALTUS, Okla.—Probably the rarest garden to be found in the state is that of Mrs. W. E. Anglund of Altus. The garden includes pumpkin vines, some of which are more than 30 feet long, bearing pumpkins as large as wash tubs. At one point the vines extend into a tree, and at first glance the impression is given that the tree itself is bearing some kind of strange fruit. Not far away the vine grows over a fence, covering the structure with comparatively large pumpkins. Mrs. Anglund said the seeds for the vines were planted about February and that they were three-year-old seed at the time of planting.

Holley Operates Repair Shop Here

Announcement was made today that J. F. Holley has moved his repair shop into the Woods and Crawley Service Station, formerly the old Chrysler building, which is located across from the Coca-Cola plant. Mr. Holley has been in Wellington for the past 23 years and is an experienced repair man, having been employed at the Ford and Chevrolet garages before going into business for himself. He invites his friends and customers to visit with him in the new location. Sannazzaro, Italy, claims a record of 21 families with a total of 190 children.

Funeral services were held Saturday, August 24, at 10 o'clock for John Wesley Hardin, 53, who resided two miles south of Lutie. Rev. J. R. Bright was in charge of the services. Burial was made in the Shamrock cemetery. Mr. Hardin had been a member of the Methodist Church for the last 26 years. Mr. Hardin married Miss Montana Foster on November 27, 1908, and to them were born seven children, all of whom are still living. Besides his wife and seven children, he left two sisters and one brother.

By Jessie Lee Brewer

Those who attended the singing at the Nazarene Church of Wellington were: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Brewer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Dab Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fuson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Farmer, Mrs. Homer Ingram, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cook and Edith Cook. R. L. Harrison is improving from his recent illness. Mrs. J. C. Harrison is also on the sick list.

Procedure Is Simple

Mr. Lewis says the procedure is simple. He attributes the appearance of his lawn, in a large measure, to the installation of underground tile and careful study of extension service bulletins. He was one of the first men in the county to adopt the underground tile system. Mr. Lewis states that last year he watered about 2500 square feet of lawn by surface irrigation, and this year he is watering 5500 square feet of lawn at a much lower cost than last year. He placed the tile in his yard during the latter part of April and first of May, and dug up his grass in the back yard and reset it in the front lawn and started to irrigate. In a very few days he had one of the best lawns in town, the tile is spaced about 4 feet apart and 1 foot deep over his yard, and has only watered his lawn 4 times this summer. He also has by far the most attractive lawn he has ever had. This cost Mr. Lewis about $47.00, and he says he has already saved this much money in water bills this year, judging from his bills last year the 5500 feet of lawn has cost less than did 2500 last year. Mr. Lewis states that sub-irrigation is by far the best method of irrigation that he has ever known for this county. His vegetable and flower garden is the best he has ever had and his trees are in bet-

Enrollment Plan Announced Today For All Grades

High School And Junior High To Finish Enrollment By August 31

Plans for enrollment in the Wellington Schools were announced in detail today. It was also stated that students would be enrolled according to classes and on the dates specified. The plan follows:

High School Division
All seniors will enroll Wednesday, August 28.

All juniors will enroll Thursday, August 29.

All sophomores will enroll Friday morning, 8 to 12 o'clock, August 30.

All freshmen will enroll Friday afternoon, August 30.

Grade School Division
Sixth and seventh grade pupils will enroll Saturday morning, August 31, from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Fourth and fifth grade pupils will enroll at the East Side School Saturday morning, August 31, from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Third, second and first grade pupils will enroll Monday morning, September 2, beginning at 8 o'clock.

School Division Line

All first, second and third grade pupils on both sides of East Avenue and west of East Avenue will enroll at the West Side School. All first, second and third grade pupils on both sides of Arlington Street, and east of Arlington Street will enroll at the East Side School. The division line this year will be the alley between East Avenue and Arlington Street.

Future Transfers

"Do not send first, second and third grade pupils across the line for enrollment," Mr. Farrar said. "We have one more teacher in the West Side School than we have had—elected to take care of the usual overcrowded condition in the first three grades. We do not have an additional teacher in the East Side School for the simple reason that we do not have a vacant room in that building. Please enroll your child in the building he or she belongs according to the above rule. If you then wish to transfer across the line, you will please make your wish known by writing the principal of the building in which the child is enrolled sometime during the first week of school. Please state your reason for wishing to make the transfer. Give the name of your street and the number of your house in the request."

"We intend to balance the teaching load and if it works a hardship on someone, we simply cannot help it," Mr. Farrar stated. Senior and junior high school students were also notified that their ink fee of 25 cents would be due in advance at the time of enrollment.

Mr. Farrar said that bus patrons were notified that the bus would not run before the morning of September 2, but the children on bus routes would have to enroll on the day set out above. Patrons and pupils were also reminded to be prepared to give their street and house numbers, or exact place of residence at the time of enrollment.

Simultaneous transmission of 200 conversations over one circuit is possible with a new cable developed by the Bell telephone laboratories. Ordinary telephone lines can now carry four conversations.

Plate glass has been developed which admits 70 per cent of the sun's light, but excludes nearly one-half of its heat.

Wellington Representative in the Ritz Confectionary Ritz Building

As FDR Signed Social Security Bill

A beginning of federal protection for the aged, jobless, dependent mothers and children, the blind and the ill, was assured when President Roosevelt approved the social security bill in Washington. The act provides immediate federal aid to states in pensioning their aged, assessment of workers and employers through the years to provide future old age pensions, and joint state-federal unemployment insurance systems. Grouped about Mr. Roosevelt as he signs the bill are: Left to right, Representative Robert Doughton, North Dakota; Senator Robert Wagner, New York; Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, and Senator Pat Harrison, Mississippi.

Claunch Praises Recent Singing At Samnorwood

By JOE CLAUNCH
The singing which was held at Samnorwood Sunday, August 11, was a great success. At noon a lunch was spread to a large and attentive crowd. The special features of the singing were the Stamps quartette and Freddie Martin, who played the accordion and gave some very beautiful numbers.

It matters little whether you are a farmer or a preacher, you should attend these inspiring singings. Instead of attending the moving picture shows, ball games, and swimming parties, you should attend these singings and experience a moral uplifting. Many sermons were sung during this singing.

"Makes no difference if song does make your feet bounce around, sing and sing it from your heart," as Professor Stamps said. "It makes something break loose and makes you feel better, puts more religion and spiritual life in your soul."

"I think that singing conventions help keep the Sabbath holy, for they are spiritual, uplifting, far more than some other things that people do on Sunday."

We are thankful for such men as Professor Stamps and his associates for giving us such entertainment. This community would have more life and more religion if there were more men like V. O. Stamps. Instead, people stay at home and growl about someone else attending these conventions. In truth they would have more religion and understanding if they attended these services themselves.

Chevrolet Sets Production Peak

DETROIT.—Chevrolet sales and production in June were the largest for that month since 1929, W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, reported today. Sales in the United States totalled 97,862 units. Total production, including Canada and export, was 122,300.

"These figures," Mr. Holler announced, "not only surpass the sales and production totals for any other June since 1929, but with a single exception exceed the highest totals for any month in years."

"For the third time this year, June gave us a monthly production in excess of 100,000, the other two months being March and April. In no other year since 1929 has even an entire year had three 100,000-car months such as this year already has at the half-way mark."

"As we enter the second half of the year, we have already built more than 60 per cent as many cars as we produced in all twelve months of 1934—a year in which Chevrolet startled the industry by registering more cars in the last six months than in the first half."

"Sales of the Master de luxe models in June greatly exceeded Standard model sales. However, the lower priced Standard models, improved this year with the addition of the Master blue flame engine, is a tremendous success. To date, 1935 Standard model sales show an increase of 107,727 units over the same period last year."

NOVEL CLOTHES CLOSET

WACO—A clothes closet, four and one-half feet long and two feet wide, containing four shelves in one end and a willow pole peeled and rubbed down for hangers in the other end, has been built by Odell Neal, clothing demonstrator for the Axtell 4-H club in McLennan county, at a cost of 66c, according to Miss Martha Buttrill, home demonstration agent. The 65 cents was spent for paint and nails. Odell also made a tie and belt rack, two shoe racks, and three hat racks for the closet, which will provide storage space for her and for her two sisters.

Candlewick Spreads

You have to select simple carefully spaced lines to make a candlewick spread worth $10, but Lovela Koen, bed room demonstrator of the Crossroads 4-H Club, has selected interesting diagonal line offering an original design. The spread that cost $1.75 is 90 by 108 and made from unbleached sheeting worked in natural thread.

Hems For Pillowcases

"An even 2 1/2 inch hem stitched on the machine furnishes adequate trim and beauty for pillow cases, with more than for other home duties," according to Mrs. George Keller, Crossroads Home Demonstration cooperator. The pillow cases are finished across the end with a plain over-casted seam with rounded corners.

Scarf From Scraps

With the scraps left from a blue plaid blouse Mrs. R. W. Brantley, wardrobe demonstrator of the North Wellington Home Demonstration Club, made a scarf to wear with a gray suit. The sides of the scarf were rolled and whipped to give a neat finish.

Bermuda Fagotting

Bermuda fagotting is the simple decoration finish that Mrs. Jewel Roberts, wardrobe demonstrator of the Houselog Home Demonstration Club, is using for her Italian linen dresser scarf.

The scarf harmonizes in shape with the dresser only leaving one inch all around the edge of the dresser exposed.

Homemade Shoe Trees

"The homemade shoe trees hold my shoes in shape better than anything I have ever used," says Mrs. J. W. Masten, wardrobe demonstrator of the North Wellington Club.

The shoe trees were made of print cut the shape of the fore part of the shoe, sewed and stuffed

Local Men Hear FHA Outline By Division Leader

Building Work Possible In County On Month- ly Budget Plan

A group of local citizens attended a district meeting in Childress Wednesday afternoon, conducted by R. H. Sykes, head of the Fort Worth Federal Housing Administration, and C. T. Mehaffey of the insurance department. The meeting was for the purpose of explaining the provisions of the act providing for loans to citizens who desire to build or remodel homes.

Around 50 lumber dealers, bankers, contractors and city officials from over this district attended the meeting. Those from Collingsworth County were R. D. Wiley, J. M. Wells, J. G. Nisbett, Ernest Elliott, S. R. Pinkston, Ben Hurst, John Bonner and Deskins Wells.

Mr. Sykes, in an address, stated that now that the depression is practically over, it is the duty of the people to rebuild upon the ruins, and that the FHA was a most effective instrument to this end.

As he explained, under Title Two of the FHA plan, providing loans covering a period of 20 years, adequate means may be had to buy, build, remodel or refinance a home.

Loans under this plan are amortized and placed in a monthly budget covering interest and principal, taxes, insurance and a small service charge, to be paid on monthly installments over a period of 240 months.

As an example, Mr. Sykes cited a home loan of $1,100. The monthly payments on this size loan would be only $13.79, $7.26 of which would be interest and principal, $3.79 taxes, $1.83 insurance, 45 cents service charge, and 46 cents mortgage insurance premium.

There are at present 109 banks and others in West Texas who are rated as approved lending firms, and West Texas has placed more than a million dollars in FHA loans.

Former Citizens Of Jack County To Hold Meeting

Six Collingsworth Girls In WTSTC Co-operative Hall During Past Year

CANYON.—Six young women in Collingsworth County have lived in Randall Hall, co-operative home for girls on the campus of the West Texas State Teachers College.

They are: Mae Love, Mernalee Beard, Jim Mae Clark, Flora Mims, and Mary Katherine Hutchinson, all of Wellington, and Anna Lee Evans of Dozier.

Begun in the fall of 1933, Randall Hall was designed to give the daughters of West Texas a chance to attend college in spite of the drouth and depression. It has done that as far as its capacity allows. 106 girls have worked, studied and lived together in Randall Hall each term during the two long sessions and two summer sessions of its existence.

Miss Miltia Hill, organizer of the co-operative home, allotted the 37 different household tasks among the girls, giving each girl an hour of work to do a day. This work, plus fourteen dollars in money from each girl per month solves the financial problem of carrying on the home.

The social life at Randall consists of regular affairs both formal and informal conducted so as to give the young women a maximum of social contacts.

Miss Hill will be in New York doing graduate study this coming year. Her place will be taken by Mrs. W. L. Acker. Randall Hall will receive its new family on September 17, at which time the fall semester will begin at the college.

North Star, III, whose sons and daughters have won more than $1,500,000 in turf prizes, is buried on Col. E. R. Bradley's farm in Kentucky.

A Licensed
Government
Cotton Classer

We are pleased to announce that Bennett Bond, manager of the Wellington Gins, has been recently licensed as a U. S. Government Cotton Classer, by Secretary Wallace, and his work will be accepted by the Government in any division.

When your cotton is classified by Mr. Bond, it will be accepted by the Government, and his classification can be used in securing Government loans as well as in selling your cotton or seed.

In addition to the value of such service in regular sales of cotton and cotton seed, his classification will be accepted where seed is to be sold for breeding purposes.

In other words, Mr. Bond has been issued an unrestricted License as an official government classer. It is needless for us to list the many times and methods in which the service of such a classer can and will be of great value to you as a cotton producer.

Through the use of our government classer you may know exactly what your cotton is, how much it should bring you.

Mr. Bond's services as a classer will be available to all cotton producers in this county. We believe that his work will tend to greatly benefit the cotton growers of the county and invite you to take advantage of it this fall.

Gassers Lose To Childress Sunday By 10 To 7 Count

Official Gassers Reporter Lists Average Of Local Club

By KID MONROE

Last Sunday concluded the western division of the Red River Valley League schedule. The Gassers played Childress dropping the game 10 to 7. The gain was of very little importance, however, as Memphis had already gained third position August 18. Childress used Edmondson, a southpaw outfielder, against the Gassers, but he was later substituted by Mitchell. Morgan the "submarine" of the Gassers had the Childress bunch out of his hand—but he was replaced in the 6th inning with the score 7 to 2. Raymond turned the pitching over to Morris who gave way to McLearn after he had allowed seven runs.

Brisbin, Morris, N. Wilson collected 2 singles each. Nig Wilson hit one home run into the center field bleachers. Next Sunday the Gassers go to Paducah for the first game of the western division playoff. Childress meets Memphis. Winners of these two games will tangle Sunday week for the right to play the eastern division for the championship of the Red River Valley League in a three game play off. . . See you in Paducah.

SOCIAL SECURITY BILL

The few measures of greater significance have ever been inscribed with a president's signature than the social security bill which Mr. Roosevelt signed last Wednesday. In a sense, it is a summation of the political philosophy of the man whose name gave it validity. At least, it is a long step toward the social ideal at which that philosophy aims.

The significance of it is not only in the terms of the bill itself, but in the political background from which it emerged. Throughout the history of the republic, political parties have declared their overweening love for the common run of folks, proclaimed their desire to serve the general welfare. The results, however, have been scant. Legislation has been a matter of serving special interests and pretending that by so doing the general welfare was promoted. But now we have a definite, planned piece of legislation that, for almost the first time in the country's history, embodies the theory that government does have a responsibility toward those elements of society that become the victims of uncontrolled economic forces.

Woodrow Wilson had much the same governmental concept, and laid plans for legislation in keeping with it. The world war forced him to devote himself to other things before his program could be fairly launched. The two presidents who followed him could not be said to have any special philosophy that involved any consideration of security against economic stress. Mr. Hoover, out of his experience in humanitarian tasks, did have such a philosophy. His views along such lines are of present interest because of the route which he would follow. In the broadest sense, his conception of the government as a social agency has the same objectives as Mr. Roosevelt's conception does. The difference—and it is a difference that will be emphasized if Mr. Hoover is a political figure in 1936—is in method rather than in principle. If you go back and study the history of political parties, this difference will become more clear. Basically, it is the difference between the two major political parties.

Maintain prosperity at the top, Mr. Hoover says in effect, and it will percolate down to the bottom and the common can partake of it. Encourage the development of vast fortunes, of great industrial institutions and pass laws that further and protect them and the wealth thus created will certainly seep and trickle downward until society as a whole is benefitted by it. That is the essence of Republican doctrine. The protective tariff is a product of it. There have been times when it has worked admirably, or at least has seemed to do so. It is to plausible theory and, politically speaking, a practical one. Mr. Hoover wanted to develop it further than any of his predecessors, when the depression interfered.

The Rooseveltian view is that the general welfare must be furthered; that if the social structure as a whole is to benefit, prosperity and security must be provided directly at the bottom and middle levels as well as at the top. The social security measure is in keeping with that view.

Where the difference counts, politically, is in the groups to which presidents look for counsel and guidance. Under Republican presidents, such counsel and guidance came from the elements of which Andrew Mellon may be regarded as chief spokesman. Call it Wall Street, call it Big Business, or what you will. Under Mr. Roosevelt, there is little or no consultation of such elements. When that fact is clearly understood, much is in the groups to which presidents look for counsel and guidance. Under Republican presidents, such counsel and guidance came from the elements of which Andrew Mellon may be regarded as chief spokesman. Call it Wall Street, call it Big Business, or what you will. Under Mr. Roosevelt, there is little or no consultation of such elements.

A president who listened to them, who regarded them as his mentors, could never have put through congress such a bill as that which was given executive approval last Wednesday. Therein, as we shall see as the 1936 campaign gets under way, is the vital point in the present political set-up. There is in the White House a president, and there is in control of political party, who do not take orders or advice from the "top." The social security bill, because of its objectives and its implications, becomes the pivot on which political events may turn. It enables the lines to be drawn straight and distinct between the two concepts of government.

It is unthinkable that the American people can be persuaded that their interests lie either in the fulfillment of the Republican theory of the government's social responsibility or in the radical balderdash of a man like Huey Long. But the efforts are being made, from both directions, to so persuade them.—Wichita Daily Times.

WORTH CONSIDERING

There are many people in this community who would do well to acquaint themselves with the opportunities offered by the Federal Housing Act. For the first time since it was enacted, it seems that building under its provisions will be possible in Wellington. Under this plan any person who has a regular income can build, buy or refinance their home. It provides for regular monthly payments which will also include taxes and insurance. A loan of 80 percent will eliminate the need for a second mortgage. It is on these snags, which pile up at the end of the year that many of the old style mortgage loans go on the rocks.

The home owner can take twenty years to pay, but he has the option of paying it sooner if he is able. It is a matter that should be given careful consideration by every prospective home owner. By adopting such a course the person with a regular income can substitute a home of his own for what would otherwise be a bunch of useless rent statements. More complete information will be found in another part of this paper. Still more detailed information can be secured by inquiring at the lumber yards, banks or other financial institutions.

If home building does start in Wellington, it will have a most salutary effect on business conditions. It is easy to imagine what it would mean to the town as a whole if every carpenter, bricklayer, painter, contractor, etc., were kept busy for the next twelve months. And yet there is a dire need of enough remodeling and building work in Wellington to keep them busy for a much longer time than that. Furthermore this is not a bad time for the man who intends to do so, to think of acquiring a home of his own. Real estate values are low. Labor and materials are reasonable. A home can be built now at moderate cost.

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

In the death of Will Rogers the people of the United States mourned this man's death more than any other single citizen that we had. Will was very fond of the Texas people and one writer has already made the statement that he knew more people in Fort Worth than any other city with the exception of two.

This article deals with Texas history and many readers will wonder why the writer mentions the name of Will Rogers. He has been engaged in the cattle business in this immediate section of Texas and besides he is a great nephew by marriage of the most outstanding man in Texas history.

William P. Rogers being his full name is one half Cherokee Indian and his family were of distinguished tribal lineage, their name and their strain of Caucasian blood coming, by tradition, from a British officer of the Revolution. They were related to the Black Cats, the Bushy-heads, the Rattling-gourds, the Little Terrapins and most of the principal families on the Arkansas, including that of Oo-loo-te-ka—himself.

During the childhood days of Sam Houston, he ran away from home and lived with this Rogers while they were still located in the State of Tenn. After Houston grew to manhood and became a National figure, he often said that his most pleasant days were while he lived with the Rogers family in the Cherokee tribe.

As most of us recall the United States Government moved this tribe and several other tribes of Indians that were known as the five civilized tribes to the territories of Ark. and what is now Oklahoma.

During this time Sam Houston became powerful in the State of Tenn. and had been elected to the Governor's office and shortly after being made governor he married. He and his bride were the outstanding couple of Tenn.

For some cause Sam Houston left his bride, Governor's office and all the other honors that go with such a position, and his mind immediately turned to the pleasant days that he had spent with the Cherokee Indians. To this tribe in Ark. he made his way and was welcomed by the Chief, one of the ancestors of Will Rogers.

This Chief had a daughter by the name of Diana and was sometimes called Diana by the white people. Sam Houston had played with this girl when they were both very young and at this time she was a widow of about thirty years of age. She was tall and slender and, on testimony from impartial white sources, she was beautiful.

There were several other girls in the Rogers family besides Tiana and historians all agree they, the other girls, were beautiful also, and they all had attended schools of considerable distinction. In the summer of 1830 Sam Houston and Tiana (David) Rogers were married, she being the great aunt of Will Rogers.

Williams Charles Rogers an uncle of Will Rogers, was the last chief to rule the Cherokee Indian Nation.

In the year 1898 Will Rogers went with the Slaton-McKnight herd of cattle from where Plainview now stands to Kansas City as a cowhand. No doubt this man passed across some corner of Collingsworth County in this drive of cattle.

When Will was a small boy his father bought and drove 2200 head of cattle from South Texas to the Indian Territory and Will made this trip with his father.

Thus we have some of the points in the making and the life of the most beloved citizen of all the world. He knew life from more angles than any other person that ever lived.

SIDELIGHTS

By MARCY B. DARNALL

But just as important, if not more so, is the other wing of the program. Everyone in our section should be interested in this phase of development.

I served four years on the Roads Committee of the House of Representatives, and during that time urged a proper development of the farm to market road system. I have been urging it from year to year since that time. Naturally I am glad to know of the prospects of construction along these lines, and I am sure everyone in the Panhandle will rejoice with me.

No finer form of Public Works projects could be fashioned for our section of the country than a complete, well-rounded road building program in the interest of all our people.

Paul, The Worker

Text: Acts 20:33-35; Philipians 4:4-13

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for September 1.

Paul, first foreign missionary of the new Christian faith, was a tentmaker and apostle. We study Paul as "the worker with hand and brain." So many-sided is the character of this great man that we must confine our study of Paul, the worker, to these two aspects.

The independent spirit of the man, as well as his sense of the craftsman, are evident in the few references that we have to this occupation.

It meant a great deal that the apostle of a new faith could say to those who were drawn to his ministry that he had no motive other than the glory and beauty of the Gospel that he had brought to them. How often the motives that have occasioned some great new movement in religion have been mixed!

One should hardly say that the leader in such movement has not been earnest or sincere, but one has felt that mingled with elements of sincerity were regard for reward and especially for money. The success of a man or a movement even in religion has sometimes been judged by the amount of money raised, and those who have not always been critical even if much of this money went to a leader himself or was under his own control.

One can think even of great movements that have been overladen with their money appeal, and the result has been almost inevitably that such movements were materialized and lost much of their original fervor and spiritual reality.

It meant much, both to Paul personally in his independent spirit and to the work that he represented.

sent, that he was able to say "I have coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel," and that, on the contrary, he should point to his simple example in earning his own living, working at his trade as he had opportunity.

A man with such ideals must inevitably be something more than a worker of the hand. One thinks of a revolutionary shoemaker who said concerning himself, "Shoemaking is my occupation, but the propaganda is my calling." Paul's calling was the work of the Christian ministry—a work of brain and heart as well as of hand.

Into this work he put the same simple unaffected earnestness that he put into his work as a tentmaker. Zeal and thoroughness were his deepest characteristics, unless one speaks of the goal and purpose which these were applied to serve.

In this aspect, Paul appeals to us as a man of great originality of character. One may think of him in terms of a great empire builder or master of industry or business—a man always reaching out for some new field of interest and conquest.

The only difference was that Paul in all this outlook and outreach had in mind the extension of the Kingdom of God and not some goal of material conquest or attainment of wealth, power, or fame.

The glory of Paul as a worker, both with hand and brain, was in the fullness of his consecration, alike to his task and to his mission.

If the world had more apostles like Paul it would have better workers; and if it had more workers like Paul, might it not have greater apostles?

The work of the kingdom and the finest work of the world go hand in hand.

Adding Another To The List

BUILDING TIME IS HERE AGAIN!

Build

Remodel

Uncle Sam Will Help You Build, Buy or Refinance Your Home, or Repair

While, Building Materials, Real Estate Sites and Labor can be Secured at Money Saving Figures, is the Time to Build or Remodel. The Federal Government Will Help.

HERE IS THE PLAN:

HOME OWNERSHIP has been preached for many years. But the ways and means to home ownership provided for the public at large have been largely based upon many unsound principles and faulty theories.

Few homes are purchased for cash. Few homes are built and financed upon a cash basis. Homes, because of their stable character, and because of the fact that they are real property, have been financed by mortgages—thus supposedly providing a sound investment for those who have money to lend, and a way to ownership for the borrower.

But this method of home purchase and ownership has been a most burdensome one. If you are a home owner today, the chances are you paid down a certain amount in cash when you bought the property, and then borrowed the balance on mortgage. If you could not pay cash for 40 to 50 percent of the property's value, you probably had to take out a second mortgage. Hence, mortgages have proven a burden rather than a way to ownership because of the fact that second mortgages have had to be refinanced approximately every three years, and first mortgages every 3 to 5 years.

You have had no chance to do otherwise. It was not generally taken into account that your income, your salary—your wages—are paid on a monthly basis. No one offered you mortgage money to cover up to 80 percent of the cost of the home—and the chance to pay off that mortgage on a monthly basis over as long as 20 years. The lender, from whom you borrowed your mortgage money, in most instances was more interested in the value of the property which you purchased than in whether or not you could repay the mortgage according to its terms and maturity. As a way to home ownership, this is wholly unsound, because it is unfair to those who borrow and unwise for those who lend, as sad experience for both has now amply proved.

The easiest way for you to pay for a home is to pay for it as you pay rent. The logical way is to pay monthly, out of income, and installment on the principal and the interest, etc., and thus, over a given period of years, pay off the entire mortgage and have the house free of all debt. It's very much like buying a house and then renting it to yourself.

Now you can buy or build a house on exactly that basis. Your initial investment in the property can be as little as 20 percent of its cost. You may borrow the balance (up to 80 percent of the appraised value, but not more than $16,000) from an approved lending institution, covered by Government insurance, and repay the entire amount on a monthly basis.

You may take up to 20 years to pay. You may pay in 12 or 15 years, if you like. Each month you pay an installment which not only includes the interest and a part of the principal sum borrowed, but includes also a twelfth part of the annual taxes, mortgage insurance premium, and the fire and other hazard insurance premiums.

What does it cost? Less than the old method of home financing, because you may borrow up to 80 percent of the appraised value of your home. That means one mortgage, the end of refinancing problems, a fair and Government-controlled interest rate and service charge.

Under the terms of the National Housing Act, insured mortgages have been made available to you. You can now build your own home with the certainty of actual ownership before you. Today you can build a home or purchase a new home that will be yours in 12, 15 or 20 years.

Local financial institutions, such as banks, mortgage companies, life insurance companies, and building and loan associations, are in a position to finance the purchase if you are able to make a down payment or establish an equity of at least 20 percent of the total cost. It is, of course, to your advantage to make a larger down payment if convenient, but your borrowing capacity on this new plan, as sponsored by the Federal Housing Administration, is 80 percent of the total value—offered in one mortgage—and repayable exactly like rent.

What are the total costs? Suppose you needed a $4,000 mortgage to finance a new $5,000 home. You would pay, approximately $40* monthly for a 20-year period—and the home is yours, outright and free of all debt to leave to your family. The $40 payment covers the interest, repayment of loan, taxes, fire insurance and mortgage insurance. That is on the basis of about $6.88 per month per thousand dollars borrowed to repay the principal and interest; the balance covers the taxes and other expenses. If you wanted to pay for that home in 15 years, your monthly payment would be approximately $45. If you wanted to pay it in 12 years, your monthly payment would be approximately $50.

Thus, there is today placed before you a broad highway to home ownership. A way that enables you to pay for your home, as you go, at a lower cost, with all the elements of safety and convenience, and assurance.

Today you can buy or build a home, knowing that you are able to make the monthly payments, and that at the end of the monthly payment period the home will be yours.

*These figures are based upon an average. There is always a variation in assessed valuation of property, tax rates, insurance, and other factors. But such variance will, in most cases, not exceed more than $1 per month, per $1,000.

Corn-Hog Group For Continued Processing Tax

Advisory Committee Of Texas Commends Work On Program

The Texas Corn-Hog Advisory Committee, being the duly elected representatives of about 38,000 Texas Corn-Hog producers in 225 counties, while in session at the Farmers' Short Course at Texas A. and M. College, issued the following statements:

We wish to go on record commending the National Administration for its untiring efforts to give the farmer an opportunity to receive parity prices for the commodities he produces and markets, and to give the producers of agricultural commodities a protection similar to that which has been given manufacturers and other commercial interests. Texas farmers are keenly aware of the fact that this is an unprecedented consideration given them.

We insist upon the contention of Agricultural Adjustment programs and processing taxes, without which Texas farmers and Texas business would suffer.

We express the determination of Texas farmers to hold our adjustment programs regardless of attacks made on them, and serve notice that we shall insist upon some kind of farm program no matter what legal difficulties may arise in connection with the present one.

We heartily endorse, and are ready to assist the Texas Agricultural Association in its effort to expose the unconstitutionality of high protective industrial tariffs which have been of great damage to the majority interests of farmers, and we call on all the people of Texas to assist us in our struggle for a fair deal which is of great importance to the people in all occupations just as well as to those engaged in farming.

We wish to commend and endorse the Corn and Hogs Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington for the splendid way they have carried out the program in Texas and the manner in which they have helped the Corn-Hog contract signers of Texas to meet each problem that has come up in carrying out the program.

We want to express the appreciation of the farmers we represent, to the Extension Service of the Texas A. and M. College for the capable way the program has been handled and the fair, impartial decisions that have come from the officials in charge.

We endorse the actions of the members of the present Corn-Hog Review Board and the way they have handled the job of allotment that has been their duty. The board has been fair and just in all its decisions and rulings, and the signers appreciate its important decisions.

The committee feels that the program has been efficiently carried on in the county agents, all committeemen and other workers connected with the program. The contract signers have worked harmoniously and have cooperated with the officials, and this committee wants to express its appreciation to all connected with the program for the manner in which it has been handled.

Signed:
J. P. Strader, Canadian, chairman.
J. S. Sharp, Paris, vice chairman.
S. M. Ainsworth, Gonzales, secretary-treasurer.
O. J. Edler, Crosbyton.
R. E. Lee, Mason.

A Grizzly Bear 'Big As A Horse'

A grizzly bear "as big as a horse" was rumored to have been seen in the Cnoos River Country of central British Columbia. The rumor interested G. L. Pop of Vancouver, B. C., and lured him into that territory with his gun. The rumor proved to be correct, for Pop found and bagged the huge silvertip, a magnificent nine-foot trophy shown above.

Flowers, Discarded Trinkets Give Richards Home Air Of Friendliness

"Won't you come in?" is what Mrs. George Richards' bed room says after she has chosen simple out-of-date, discarded butter molds, sugar bowls and preserve stands from the cupboard to express a livable appearance in her home to replace the paper flowers and fair souvenirs after she entered the Cross Roads Home Demonstration bed room contest in Collingsworth County, July, 1935.

Antique Candy Jar
Some sixty years ago Mrs. Richards candy jar graced her Auntie's table as a sugar bowl. Today she has grouped it on her book case with a quaint bowl that she got with a bluing coupon when she was ten years old. These two articles were grouped on the book case to give an informal balance by the contrast in height, and to reveal her like for simple, lovely, old things that reflect her personality. To express a note of friendliness, Mrs. Richards arranged wild flowers in an old butter bowl on her chest of drawers. The flowers create more interest, expressing refinement and an appreciation of art and beauty instead of confusion and over-decoration. The flowers were grouped with a basket of oranges, lemons and bananas, which reflect light in the dark corner as well as expressing life in her room.

Radiates Happiness
Even the old round butter mold has a place in Mrs. Richards' room as it was used as a quaint container for a geranium. To give a touch of individuality, Mrs. Richards has grouped a silver tray back of the plant of radiating happiness, to reflect the colors of the plant back in the room. Grouped with the flowers is a small box that gives the informal grouping that seems more natural than our formal even balances that have been used repeatedly in every home especially on mantels.

To keep the cedar chest from looking bare, Mrs. Richards has placed a current magazine which gives it the touch of friendliness and the proof that she enjoys reading.

As we leave Mrs. Richards' room there is a thought that she has made the most of what she had to create the comfortable, livable room, showing that one of the great luxuries of living among interesting things, beautifully kept, is not dependant upon money but upon artistic taste, intelligent selection and simple, interesting arrangements.

dairy herds. No judging will be included, however, since the students in the Samnorwood School have not had ample training in this line. Mr. Coleman and Floyd Thompson, school board chairman, will appoint directors for the Samnorwood Fair.

In addition to the Fair, the Samnorwood School this year also announced the addition of two new departments, one in home economics and the other in vocational agriculture.

Teachers Are Named

The Samnorwood district now includes 25 instructors, seven in the high school and 18 in the grade divisions. They also expect to add another instructor in the grades. Mr. Sanders will again serve as superintendent, and Jimmy Holston will serve as principal and athletic director in addition to his duties as history instructor. Other instructors in the high school will be Mrs. Hazel Bretz, English; Miss Audie Johnson, math; E. A. Peck, agriculture; Miss Frances Weimbold, home economics; Miss Mary Allen, commercial arts.

Elementary teachers: Mr. and Mrs. Olson Sweat, Morris Ledger, Mrs. L. C. Sweat, Mrs. Jack Lowry, Leroy McDaniels, Miss Katherine McMinn, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Powell, Hueyln Laycock, Mrs. Guy Beasley.

Raymond Powell will also assume the duties of general supervisor of the grade schools in the district.

line of work clothing and standard merchandise, the Stubblefield store also has a complete stock of ready to wear and millinery. The policy of the store will be to continue to stock quality goods that are in general demand by the people of this section.

Service Is Aim

"Our motto is to serve and to please," Mr. Stubblefield said. "We conscientiously believe this is the duty of every merchant to his community and such will be our aim in Wellington."

Mr. Stubblefield has high hopes for the future of Wellington as one of the most promising agricultural towns in the Panhandle, and states that he is glad to make his home in such a community as Collingsworth County, where he already has many acquaintances and friends.

The store will have five clerks including R. V. Whitley, Mrs. J. L. Burt, Mrs. J. M. Stubblefield, Joe Stubblefield and J. A. Stubblefield, manager.

The public was invited to attend the formal opening of the new store Saturday and to get acquainted with the personnel.

County Urged--

at the close of the Monday meeting. Eight other projects, including a football stadium in Wellington, a gymnasium at Samnorwood and Dodsonville and county road work had been approved at a previous session of the planning board.

Urges WPA Projects

Mr. Meredith stated: "It is upon their own speed in submitting proposals and upon the care of design and planning exercised by Texas sponsors that each section of the state must depend for its participation in the benefits of WPA. Unfortunately, many sponsors failed to plan carefully the early projects which were submitted to the state WPA office, consequently impeding their own progress and that of the entire program. It is hoped and believed that this type of delay will be avoided in the future."

With the Texas relief load composed largely of unskilled and semi-skilled laborers, projects, offering work for this type of employe will find much favor. Roadwork, for example, is most easily adaptable to our available supply of man-power.

Replacement of rickety, worn-out culverts, erosion work on the roadways, removing of sharp, blind curves, establishment of roadside parking places on scenic drives, and building of rock retaining walls on hill-country roads may be considered as typical road projects which will be welcomed by our examiners.

School houses in many smaller Texas towns are sadly in need of sidewalks, especially in rainy weather. Numerous proposals for sidewalks, gutters and curbs are expected from smaller towns.

Although our $600.00 per man-year expenditure restriction prohibits the construction of large buildings, WPA can do much improvement and modernization work on public buildings. County recreational projects, roadside parks, and similar projects may also be undertaken.

Sewer plant and water supply works, both needed in many small Texas communities, are expected to form a considerable item in our list of project proposals.

Often a neglected, stagnant pool or creek can be transformed into a parkway encircled by a smooth, pleasant drive with a small amount of labor. Civic minded persons should study the potentialities of their own communities for projects such as this. Swimming pools and wading pools for children certainly can be assets to any town.

creek, but hardly reached the county line on the west. Crops in this area were reported to be in wonderful condition.

The Samnorwood-Plymouth area received from one to two inches Sunday night and around another inch Monday night. The shower Sunday started about 6 o'clock and rained hard until 7 o'clock, followed by a slow rain during the night. The rains were generally confined to the area north of the river, however. Dozier received a fair rainfall, but Lutie and Aberdeen reported only a slight sprinkle. Some early feed in the Plymouth-Samnorwood-Dozier section was lost, but crops were said to generally be in good condition.

Contrary to early reports, Dodsonville residents today said that only slight showers fell there and in areas west of there. However, one mile east and one mile south of Dodsonville a rainfall was reported on both Sunday and Monday. The same area received about the same amount of moisture in a previous shower several days ago. Crops in the "rain area" south and east were reported as unusually good into Hollis. Crops back toward Wellington were said to be holding their own, but naturally in need of moisture.

Much of the "tight-land" around Wellington was also in need of rain and feed has been completely lost on several farms. Cotton, however, has a chance to make a fair yield in case a general rain descends upon the county.

The farmers expressed themselves in a resolution in which they voted to uphold the farmers' attack on the present tariff walls, in event the processors continue their fight on the processing tax. At the close of the meeting all who were in favor of the present AAA were asked to stand up—and the farmers stood and shouted their approval.

The officers of the Dodsonville Council present were: W. H. Kutch, president; Harry Patterson, vice president; Fred Boyd, secretary; W. S. White, local cotton committeeman and Frank Ford, assistant.

Several visitors from Wellington were present, including Judge E. H. Small, A. V. Coker, the county cotton committeemen, B. G. Glenn, F. W. Thompson, P. O. Cummings; County Agent John O. Stovall, O. J. Walker, Roy Horn; J. L. Tarter, county agent of Wheeler, was also present and made a brief talk.

Highway Paving--

Salt Fork River to the Wheeler County line is still to be considered, but county officials estimate that the contract on this project may be let before the project to the river is finished. However, it is also expected that the final project to the Wheeler County line from the river may be finished in caliche or crushed rock with an asphalt topping, a surfacing very similar to that being placed on the city streets here. It has been definitely settled that the project from here to the river will be concrete surface, however.

agent said. Hence the sale value of the tags of this county would figure around $698,180.20.

Just as last year 10 per cent of the county's Bankhead allotment has been held in reserve by the government and will be issued at a later date.

Notices from the agent's office also stated that the national certificate pool would open sometime in September and that notice would be given to assist farmers wishing to place tags in the pool.
