THOMPSON CONVICTED OF MURDER

Weeks To Address Mass Meeting On Valley Development

FARM EXPERT WILL DISCUSS COLONIZATION

Famed Los Angeles Exponent of Small Farm Returns Here

TALK IS ILLUSTRATED

Plan Already in Practice Here Promises Good Results

Charles Weeks of Los Angeles, expert agriculturist and colonizer, will address a mass meeting of Wichita Falls citizens at the Memorial auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening on the subject "The Development of the Irrigated Valley," according to an announcement made at the meeting of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce Tuesday afternoon.

The agricultural committee, with J. T. Harrell, chairman, in charge, will sponsor the mass meeting. No admission price or subscriptions will be taken up at the meeting, it was announced.

Illustrated Lecture

Meeting of the committee was called upon the return of J. A. Kemp from California where he conferred with Mr. Weeks concerning the colonization plan for the large tract of land in the irrigated valley. The plan which will be discussed by Mr. Weeks in his illustrated lecture Friday evening will be the subdivision of the tract of land near the city into small poultry and dairy farms, and the opening of a national publicity and advertising campaign for the sale of these small farms to practical poultry and dairy men.

Mr. Weeks has spoken in Wichita Falls upon previous occasion and the plans for colonization which he sets forth have been under discussion among Wichita Falls property owners for the last few months.

"The colonization plan of Mr. Weeks appears to be working out satisfactorily," said Mr. Harrell at the Tuesday committee meeting.

"The chamber of commerce has assisted materially in the matter. However, it has been decided that the trade with Mr. Weeks will be handled by a small group of Wichita Falls citizens including a number of prominent land owners.

"No general community solicitation of funds will be made at the mass meeting Friday evening and there will positively be no solicitation of money."

Mr. Weeks will illustrate his lecture.

Five Texas Banks Under Investigation

HALLETTSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP)—Investigation of five banks in this section, which had failed, was being made today by the Lavaca county grand jury which received instructions from District Judge Lester Holt when the body convened yesterday.

Judge Holt told members of the jury a through check should be made in order to determine if state banking laws are being violated.

Highway Commission Ends Regular Session

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP)—The state highway commission wound up its regular monthly meeting today by awarding the contract for construction of 7.2 miles grading and drainage structures on a highway in Guadalupe county, and allotting $5,500 aid to the town of Rockdale for street paving to connect with highway 44.

Hambone's Meditations

Four, Three, Two—

William Edward Hickman's last hope for life was ruined Tuesday when Governor Young refused to interfere in the slayer's hanging. So the confessed slayer in counting backwards his days on earth. Friday he hangs.

HICKMAN PLEA PROVES FUTILE

Governor Refuses to Stay Slayer's Execution

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 16. (UP)—The last thread of hope for the life of William Edward Hickman was broken today when Gov. C. C. Young refused to interfere with his hanging at San Quentin state prison on Friday morning.

The state executive listened to the plea of Hickman's father, Thomas Hickman, and his attorney, Jerome Walsh, and then read a letter from the condemned youth's mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman, asking that her son's life be spared.

Governor Young said after the conference that he saw no reason why he should step in to prevent the hanging of Hickman for the kidnaping and murder of Marion Parker in Los Angeles last December.

HICKMAN ASKS CARE FOR MOTHER

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 16 (UP)—Out of the cold prison walls of San Quentin prison, Calif., comes the request "to take care of mother" from Edward Hickman, condemned to die Friday morning between 9 and 10 o'clock for the slaying of Marion Parker. The request in the form of a two page leter, scribbled on prison stationery, was received here today by Capt. Charles Edwards, adviser of the Hickman family.

For the most part the letter was intimately personal but its general tone was an appeal to Kansas citians to be good to Mrs. Hickman. "Mother needs help, I know, and captain, as an old friend I am asking you to look after her. She has gone through a lot and I want you to help make it as easy as you can for her to bear." He was referring to his death on the gallows Friday.

Love Attacks Tammany In Sherman Address

SHERMAN, Texas, Oct. 16 (AP)—Declaring that as a loyal Democrat he cannot vote for Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for president because his election would "mean permanent domination of the party by Tammany Hall," State Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas spoke here tonight in the interest of Herbert Hoover, Republican standard bearer.

Abilene Man Killed by Shock at Throckmorton

THROCKMORTON, Texas, Oct. 16 (UP)—As he fell on a live wire and received 6,600 volts of electricity, Floyd Foster of Abilene, Texas, met instant death near here. His wife and two children survive.

G. O. P. PAINTS FALSE PICTURE, SMITH CLAIMS

'Economy Myth' Subject of Address Delivered in Missouri

'HERB KNOWS TRUTH'

Difference in Cost of Government Called War Margin

STATE FAIR PAVILION, SEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 16. (UP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith declared in his speech here tonight that the last two Republican administrations have been as wasteful as any the country ever has seen.

"They attempted to give away our natural resources," he said. "They have postponed and neglected the most pressing needs."

Striking directly at his Republican opponent Herbert Hoover as well as President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon, former Secretary of Interior Work and other Republican leaders, Smith charged them with conducting a campaign of misrepresentation. He said they had joined a conspiracy to paint a false picture of economy.

Challenges Claims

Quoting from Hoover's speech of acceptance to the effect that the administration had reduced federal expenditures two billions a year, the Democratic nominee stated in the text of his prepared address:

"I challenge him to make good his statement. He knows that it is not so, and he could never in his lifetime make good his misleading claim.

"No more misleading statement could be made in a campaign. He knows better or should know better. He knows, or should know that the two billion dollar reduction is the difference between the peace time cost of government and the war time cost of government.

Says Facts Hidden

"If he were talking out straightforwardly and fairly to the American people, that is what he would say. He chooses, however to attempt to conceal the true state of facts."

In turn Smith promised, if elected to reorganize the fiscal system in the manner which he said he used in New York, eliminating waste and encouraging benaficent enterprises.

The nominee came out flatly for payment of Mississippi river flood relief by the federal government, saying it was a matter of national concern.

"It is not sensible to assume that the rest of the country is not interested in the lives and property

SCHOOL DAYS

Landlady Biffs Pupil's Mother for 'Wasting' Lights

Socko! A dull thud. Two broken teeth and several loose ones as a blunt instrument was wielded by a wrathful landlady.

That was the story which fell from lugubrious, swollen lips of a woman who filed a complain charging assault and battery against an elderly woman in the county attorney's office Tuesday.

The complainant said her landlady was irked because the tenant's son burned midnight oil in her apartment as he pored over his school books. The weapon, with which the landlady sought to reduce the light bill, was a half brick wrapped in heavy cloth. The complaint was signed before L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney. The landlady signed a $200 bond for her appearance in the county court-at-law.

DEMO WOMEN ENTER LISTS

Club Is Launched to Aid Party Ticket

Organization of a new political club Wednesday morning will mark the formal entry of Democratic women of Wichita county in the campaign to keep Texas in its traditional place in the November presidential election, it was learned Tuesday.

Match Hoover Activities

Democratic women will hold their organization meeting at 9:30 o'clock at the party headquarters in the Hamilton building, with Bernard Martin presiding. Brief talks will be made by party leaders and the women left to their campaign plans. The new organization is to be known as the Woman's Democratic club of Wichita county, it was announced.

Formation of the club here is to match the activities of Republican women on behalf of Herbert Hoover, it was said at Democratic headquarters. Because of the active part women have been giving in the Hoover campaign, an erroneous impression has become widespread that Texas women as a whole are supporting the Republican nominee, it was stated. The meeting Wednesday morning was called without suggestion from party leaders and by Democratic women who have become aroused at the reports of Texas going Republican, leaders of the proposed club said.

First Meeting

Among women who were announced to attend the first meeting today were Mesdames M. M. Addickes, Jimmie Allred, Jouette Bonner, William Bonner, A. H. Carrigan, H. A. Dunn, Joe Carrigan, T. F. Durkin, B. D. Donnell, Harry Davis, E. T. Duff, C. B. Felder, W. E. Fitzgerald, E. E. Fisher, Charles I. Francis, E. L. Fulton, Minnie Gaffney, Luther Hoffman, Ed Howard, J. B. Hatchitt, T. A. Hicks, N. L. Inge, Carter McGregor, Bernard Martin, W. M. Moore, J. T. Maddrey, Joe Mayfield, C. C. McDonald, Walter Nelson, H. Q. Newton, Ben G. Oneal, H. B. Patterson, J. W. Powers, John Rhea, G. B. Smedley, H. F. Weldon, J. A. Allison, W. E. Cobb, R. T. Willis, F. S. White, E. W. Nicholson, Lester T. Burns, Abe Marcus, J. C. Straus, W. J. Bridwell, John McMahon, P. B. Cox, Wm. A. Maloney, W. W. Cook, R. T. Crawford and others.

Fourth of July Prayer Approved by Bishops

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. (AP)—A special prayer for Independence day was approved by the house of bishops of the Episcopal church today following a spirited debate in the general convention of the church. The proposed service was attacked as a religious act which would keep alive the hatreds of the Revolutionary war.

Snow Covers Rocky Mountain District

DENVER, Oct. 16. (AP)—Winter made a flying assault on the middle and southern Rocky mountain range states today, spreading a thick mantle of snow over the area as the season's first storm was driven down from the northern states of Montana and Wyoming by rising temperatures and sunny skies.

Borah Appeals for Support of Women

SALISBURY, N. C., Oct. 16. (AP)—Carrying the presidential fight of Herbert Hoover into the traditionally Democratic state of North Carolina, Senator Borah of Idaho, in a speech here tonight, called upon the women voters to prevent the overthrow of prohibition by electing the Republican candidate.

BLIMP'S CREW GIVEN OVATION IN NEW YORK

Notables Welcome Zeppelin Fliers After Parade Through City

ECKENER MAKES TALK

Flying Pioneers Guests of City at Dinner After Welcome

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (UP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener and his companions of the Graf Zeppelin's transatlantic voyage were welcomed to the city of New York late today by Acting Mayor McKee and started at once on an elaborate round of entertainment which had been planned for them. Landing at the Battery shortly before 4 p. m., the visitors were paraded up lower Broadway to the city hall for the formal reception.

Crowds lined Broadway and other thousands gathered in City Hall park for a glimpse of the distinguished visitors. The customary shower of ticker tape came down from the windows along Broadway and Park Row and tugs down in the harbor kept up a constant roar with their sirens.

Sincere Admiration

What the reception may have lacked in size was more than made up in the evident sincerity of the admiring throngs that swarmed lower Broadway from the Battery to the city hall.

The skies were threatening long before the fliers arrived at the Battery and a slight rain started falling before the procession reached the city hall court. Even this, however, failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the welcoming New Yorkers and the jostling, cheering crowd dissolved only when the last of the cars in which the fliers rode had passed.

At the city hall Acting Mayor Joseph McKee greeted the Germans in the absence of Mayor James J. Walker.

Eckener Congratulated

"We congratulate you on your skill and daring in bringing this enterprise to such a glorious conclusion," he assured the crew, "and in congratulating you we also extend our felicitations to Germany."

Eckener, apologizing for his broken English, responded on behalf of his men.

"It is the second time we have brought a Zeppelin to the United States," he said: "We think we have proved the feasibility of air passenger service across the Atlantic.

"You may criticize our delay, but that delay proved our ability to

Decision Barring Negro Voters Widely Studied

HOUSTON, Oct. 16. (AP)—The opinion of Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson Jr., handed down in July, denying negroes the right to vote in the Texas Democratic primaries on the grounds that political parties are voluntary associations, empowered to set the qualifications of their members, is being studied by attorneys throughout the country.

About 100 copies have been supplied attorneys from California to Maine.

Record Shipment of Mexican Steers Made

ODESSA, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP)—Five thousand Mexican steers, one of the largest inland shipments of cattle in west Texas in recent years, recently were brought here from Mexico and Arizona.

Although ranges are in the best condition of many years, there are fewer cattle in the Odessa sector than since 1918, ranchmen say.

Standard Oil Chairman Reported Seriously Ill

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. (AP)—George Henry Jones, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, is seriously ill in the Harbor sanitarium here, it was learned today. His physician said he was "slightly improved" after an operation, the nature of which was not disclosed.

Official Records Show Hoover Asked Lower Wheat Prices, Claim

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. (UP)—Herbert Hoover not only cabled the wheat price-fixing committee in August, 1918, urging that the price be held down but at an earlier meeting held in March personally appeared before the committee in company with Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the grain corporation, according to heretofore unpublished official records of the national advisory committee on agriculture, the Democratic national committee declared in a statement issued tonight.

These official records are in variance with claims made by Republican speakers that Hoover had nothing to do with the price of wheat during the war, the Democratic committee said.

"They corroborate the statement of former Governor Henry C. Stuart, chairman of the committee, that Hoover was responsible for holding down the price of the 1919 wheat crop 20 cents a bushel less than the price recommended by the committee," the statement added.

Girl Admits Shooting Owner of Plantation

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 16. (UP)—Miss Edith Lucille Anderson, alias Peeler, 25, Jonesboro, Ark., confessed today to Walls, Miss., police that she shot J. C. Gann, plantation owner, for whom she was housekeeper, Memphis authorities were notified.

According to the report from Walls, Miss., where Miss Anderson surrendered last night after a murder warrant had been issued for her arrest, she shot Gann in self defense after he had shot at her three times. Gann died in a Memphis hospital late yesterday.

Reconciliation Fails For Marie and Kenneth

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Oct. 16. (UP)—A trial reconciliation failed to end the marital strife of Marie Prevost, screen star, and her husband, Kenneth Harlan, also of the films, so they have separated for "once, and for all," the actress said today.

A trip to New York ended in disagreement before Chicago was reached so Miss Prevost came back home, she said.

Immense Expansion Of Stores Is Planned

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. Everitt, president, coincidentally with anouncement of large stock melon.

FATAL BATTLE BY MOONLIGHT IS RECOUNTED

Woodrow Wilson Davis, 12, Given Immunity to Tell Story

VICTIM BEGS MERCY

Eastland Jury Hears Vivid Account of Double Killing Near Leeray

EASTLAND, Texas, Oct. 16 (AP)—Clyde Thompson, Eastland county youth who is still in his tens, was found guilty of the murder of Lucian Shook by a jury which recommended the death penalty in district court here tonight.

Thompson was indicted for the slaying of Lucian Shook and his brother Leon shortly after the bodies of the brothers were discovered near Leeray. Each had been shot and beaten.

An alleged statement, which was admitted as evidence, said that Thompson had gone to the Shook cabin with Thomas Davis and Woodrow Wilson Davis, 12, to rob the place and had been surprised to find the Shook brothers there. The killing, the statement said, followed an argument over a previous robbery at the Shook home.

Woodrow Wilson Davis, however, testified today that Thompson had said, before going to the cabin, that he intended to kill Lucian Shook "just to see him kick," and that he had pretended to go hunting with the Shooks and had shot them from behind.

Boy, 12, Testifies

Attorneys for Thompson are expected to ask for a new trial and appeal the case. Thomas Davis, who was indicted with Thompson is expected to go to trial next. Charges against Woodrow Wilson Davis were dismissed today before he took the stand.

The night before the Shook brothers were shot and beaten, Woodrow said he and his brother, Thomas, went to the Shook home with Thompson. Their 17-year-old friend stole a shotgun and a banjo, and told the Davis boys he would "get" them and get them "right" if they told of the theft, Woodrow testified.

To House Again

The following night Thomas, who is still in his teens, and Woodrow went again to the Shook house with Thompson, Woodrow said. He said his brother stayed outside in the brush, but Thompson called the Shook brothers and asked them whether they had a gun, the boy said. The Shook brothers replied they did, and came out only with a lantern and a hound horn. Thompson then asked the Shook brothers to go with them to get some wolves from under a rock, and they started out while the two Davis boys followed.

Only a little while before Thompson had said that he intended to "murder" Shook and that "it would be the last time Shook will see a sundown," Woodrow testified.

Saw Everything

The moon was shining brightly, the boy said, and he and his brother, who were following Thompson

Sousa to Judge Bands of Wichita Area in Parade Here Wednesday

John Phillip Sousa, world famous band director, and his ensemble of about 100 musicians, will arrive for their two appearances in Wichita Falls Wednesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, it was announced by Maskat temple officials who are sponsoring the band's appearance here. The concerts will be held in the Memorial auditorium.

The band's arrival here will be later than expected, necessitating a change in the hours of the afternoon program, it was announced. Instead of beginning at 3 o'clock, the afternoon program will start at 3:30 o'clock. The evening concert will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Immediately after Sousa's arrival Wednesday, it is planned to stage the contest among bands of this region. Sousa, the principal judge, and his two assistants, R. E. Shepherd and L. V. Lawler, will review the parade of bands as they pass the Kemp hotel at 3 o'clock. Ten bands from this region have already entered the contest.

The line of march for the parade of bands will start at Tenth street on Scott avenue. It will proceed north on Scott avenue past the Kemp hotel, thence up Seventh street to the Memorial auditorium.

There are about 100 in the Sousa party, including many soloists and ensembles. The ensembles include one group of 24 clarinets, a flute sextet and a trombone sexte'

Government-Sinclair Oil Pact Held Invalid Because of Secrecy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. (UP)—Sale of royalty oil in the federal reserves at Salt Creek fields, Wyoming, to the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company was declared invalid today by an opinion of the attorney general.

The opinion said the sale made by former Secretary of Interior Fall in 1922 was invalid because of a secret five-year option clause providing for renewal of the contract. This clause was never bid on by other companies, the opinion said.

The opinion declared Secretary Fall acted beyond his legal rights in granting the contract with a secret renewal option and that the interior department was not bound to renew the Sinclair contract.

The option was renewed last January by former Secretary of the Interior Work, who said terms of the previous contract forced him to take the step.

The effect of the opinion will be to invalidate the entire transaction and to terminate the contract now held by Sinclair.

The interior department, it was learned, will issue an order Wednesday to prevent the Sinclair company from removing additional oil from the Salt Creek fields.

FRYING FOODS IS HARD TASK

Housewife Has Much To Learn About Process

IDA M. CHITWOOD
Noted Culinary Expert

Frying is the one phase of cooking of which the average housewife still has a lot to learn. Either she fries food haphazardly ignorant of the scientific principles back of the process, and with sad results to her family's digestion; or, believing that all fried foods are indigestible, she veers to the other extreme and entirely avoids frying.

Of deep fat frying she often knows nothing. And yet, foods properly fried, have a flavor and delicacy which almost no other form of cooking can develop, and they hold no terrors for the digestion. In that word "properly" lies the whole secret.

One cannot speak of frying without differentiating between the two forms of frying, sauteing and frying in deep fat. They are two distinct methods, each with its fine points. Sauteing is cooking in a small amount of hot fat; deep fat frying means cooking in a kettle of hot fat, in which the food is immersed. In both of these forms of frying the French are past masters, and this is one of the reasons why their foods have such flavor, delicacy and variety.

The sauteing method is often used to sear over the outside of meat and poultry which are to be cooked in water, as for stews, fricassees and meat pies, the hot fat causing a coating to be formed over the surface which prevents loss of flavor during the process of stewing or simmering. Fish cakes, hash and fried eggs are just a few of the familiar foods cooked by this method. Fritters and croquettes may also be sauteed if preferred, but the appearance is not quite so perfect as when cooked in deep fat, and too, the food is more likely to absorb the fat; so the latter form is recommended.

Certain fish, cut in small pieces, such as fillets and thin fish like butter fish, are usually sauteed instead of cooked in deep fat. Just as for deep frying the fat should be hot—but not smoking—when the food is put into it.

To wipe out that bugaboo of indigestibility of anything that is fried, one must keep in mind two cautions, first as to the kind of fat used for frying and the way it is used; second, as to the preparation of the food to be friend. A fact to be learned by heart is that when fat begins to smoke, it begins to decompose. It then tends to become less digestible and less nutritious.

Various fine points are worth remembering in preparing foods to be fried in deep fat. "Egging and crumbing" for instance prevent the fat from being absorbed by the food, because heat coagulates egg proteins and quickly forms a protective coating through which grease cannot penetrate. Such foods as oysters, croquettes, scallops and cutlets are always dipped in eggs and crumbs before frying.

The gg for this purpose should be beaten slightly and mixed with two tablespoons of water. For the crumbs use dried bread rolled out and sifted, or you can buy crumbs in a package if you have no stale bread on hand. Roll the food to be fried in the crumbs, then dip it into the egg mixture and roll it again in the crumbs. This makes a heavy coating and a crisp tender outside crust is formed when the food comes into contact with the deep fat.

A second important point is that foods for frying should be as dry as possible before they are put into the kettle. If you soak French fried potatoes in clear cold water before frying, as you should to remove some of the starch, dry them thoroughly in a clean towel before dropping them into the hot fat. This makes them wonderfully crisp and tender.

LONG STRUGGLE IS NEARING END

"Two Bottles of Orgatone Have Done Me More Good Than All Other Medicine Combined," Says Texas Woman.

"I've had a long, hard struggle with ill health, but by the help of Orgatone I have found relief at last," said Mrs. Cora Ward, wife of one of the operators at the cotton mill, Denison, Texas.

"I had a nervous break-down from the after effects of the 'flu,' and was so bad off in health for the past two years, my life was miserable," she continued, "but I'm a thousand times better since I began taking Orgatone, and a medicine that is doing so much for suffering people can't be praised too much. I've spent lots of money trying to get relief, and it certainly seems remarkable, but it's the truth, two bottle of Orgatone have done me more real good than everything else I ever took combined.

"When I first began taking it, I couldn't eat anything without it hurting me. Any of the heavy or more nourishing foods would lay like a rock in my stomach, and even liquid diets, at times, would sour on my stomach and fill me with pain. My head would ache something terrible and besides this, gas would form and cause me distress for hours at a time. I was fearfully nervous and when I feel asleep at night, the least noise would wake me in a fright and cause me to almost jump out of bed. I was a very sick woman and was almost in despair.

"What caused me to take Orgatone was the statements I had been reading in our local newspapers here, and now I'm talking Orgatone every chance I get. I can eat just anything I want and enjoy it and never feel the slightest bad effects from it. I sleep fine every night, and as to my bad headaches they are a thing of the past. My friends say they can tell from my looks that I gave gained several pounds in weight. I don't know whether I have or not, as I haven't weighed, but I do know my increase in health and strength has been wonderful. I'm still improving every day and it's a pleasure to tell others about the medicine that has done so much for me."

Genuine Orgatone is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store, 716 Indiana avenue, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily and charges nothing to explain his theories on health and hygiene.—Adv.

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system — and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowel trouble.

Look at your TONGUE every morning!

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

CAMP IN WILDS TO HEAR NEWS

San Antonio Hunters Off On Mexican Trip

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 16 (UP)—Deep into the Santa Rosa mountains of Mexico, a small party of hunters hugs the campfire. The radio is suddenly turned on—KTSA, San Antonio broadcasting, all's well.

Thus will a small party, including three doctors and two business men, know that their families in the Alamo city are well after they leave soon on a hunt below the Rio Grande. Those included in the party are Doctors John Herff, T. L. Moody and Dudley Jackson; C. O. Weathers and Walter Beuche, business men.

They left on their trip today where their guide met them in Eagle Pass. Their truck carrying all their provisions left the city Oct. 1 and is now located some place in the mountains where the game is most plentiful. The camp will be from 150 to 225 miles into the interior of Mexico.

William Finan, owner of the Enieno Solo ranch in Mexico, has offered his herd of 65 saddle horses to the party. Mr. Finan's ranch will be headquarters for the hunters, it was declared. The ranch is 100 miles in Mexico from Eagle Pass.

From Mr. Finan's ranch the party will set out for camp on horseback with a pack-horse for each. Every hunter will carry first aid kits, principally for rattlesnake bites, it was said.

Bounty Placed on Foxes By McCulloch Hunters

BRADY, Texas, Oct. 16 (UP)—Fur hunters in McCulloch county this winter will have an added incentive to snare the wily fox, according to action taken by the McCulloch County Wolf club in placing a bounty upon this enemy of every barnyard.

Many complaints have been made by farmers and ranchmen about the heavy losses inflicted upon their livestock by foxes which have become numerous in this section.

Chemical War Lessons Given El Paso Police

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 16 (UP)—If the next war is to fought with chemicals, El Paso coppers will be ready to step right in and take a leading part.

Police captains and sergeants have been ordered to report to Fort Bliss to receive instructions in chemical warfare.

The training may come in handy in "smoking out" criminals who barricade themselves and refuse to surrender.

Interior Shippers in Texas Want Equal Rates

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP)—Equal rates from Atlantic seaboard territory to Texas points via the gulf with rates from the East to Oklahoma via South Atlantic ports are desired by interior shippers of Texas, Ed P. Byars of Fort Worth, testified at the closing session here of the Interstate Commerce commission rehearing of the Consolidated Southwestern rate cases.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Oct. 16—Sam Anthony, who lived at Thrift, died at his home Sunday evening at 3:00. Funeral services were held at the Thrift Methodist Church, with Rev. Pat Moreland in charge of the services. He is survived by his wife, two children, mother, three sisters and one brother.

Eckener Overjoyed at Sight of 'Baby' Zep He Delivered to U. S.

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 16. (INS)—"That's my baby!"

Dr. Hugo Eckener didn't say it in those words. But he did use the German equivalent: "Das ist mein scharts!" and he waved a greeting toward the naval dirigible, the Los Angeles, which was nestling in the hangar, where it was to be the roommate of its buxom sister, the 770-foot Graf Zeppelin.

Dr. Eckener was strolling across that space of the landing field which lay between the grounded Zeppelin and the hangar. The impudent nose of the Los Angeles was to be seen through the open doors.

"Ah!" said the doctor, expressively. He stopped still. A look of proud admiration was on his face. The pride of the father. He had brought this dirigible across four years ago.

"Yes, sir," he repeated in German, "that's my baby!" A baby it was—a 565-foot one.

The famous pilot continued his walk with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Edward P. Warner and Assistant Secretary of Commerce William P. McCracken, and he stole another caressing look at the Los Angeles as he entered the commandant's office. In his buttonhole the veteran commander wore a red carnation and with his right hand he gesticulated with a lighted cigar, his first smoke since the beginning of the historic flight. A hundred reporters gathered in a semi-circle around him.

"Where's my translator?" he asked in perfectly good and understandable English.

A laugh from the scribes.

A great smile spread over the airman's face.

"Well," he said, "It'll be in English, ten." There was laughter and applause.

"I am very sorry to hear that there has been some misunderstanding regarding our trial flight. I want to clear it up. I am anxious to see you all, and to speak with you. I am sorry we could not have crossed as planned. But bad weather prevented our doing so. We had to come across France, and down toward Spain to Gibraltar, and this part of our flight took up about 1,200 miles. Our trip consumed 5,000 miles over the Azores and to America.

"The flight, however, was successful, and I think this trip fully demonstrates the possibility of airships.

"When we were in the center of the Atlantic—2,000 miles from Europe and 2,000 miles from the coast of America—the accident happened.

"We were in a heavy squall, and it burst the cover off our left fin. There had never been such an accident before. It was like a steamer making its first voyage and not altogether according to schedule.

"Well, in this condition we had to guide the ship and keep her in a horizontal position. The wind had pressed against the under cover of our fin. If it had torn the upper cover we could not have finished.

"Four men of the crew climbed up in the fin during the flight to do repair work. Knute, my son, was one of them. For five hours they worked, with the Atlantic ocean far beneath them. They were in danger of their lives. We were at an altitude of 5,000 metres at the time. We had to reduce our speed from 75 miles an hour to 50 immediately following the accident, which occurred at 8 o'clock in the morning.

"Our log shows a flight of 6,300 miles. We had fuel for 65 hours left."

BOGOTA, Colombia.—The new airmail service of the Colombian-German Air Transports between Barranquilla, Col., and Guayaquil, Ecuador, will be weekly instead of bi-monthly after Jan. 1.

BAN IS CLAMPED ON DOG RACING

Oklahoma Governor Issues Orders

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 16. (UP)—Gov. Henry S. Johnston today ordered Attorney General Dabney to take steps to stop dog racing at Tulsa or at any other place in the state.

Governor Johnston instructed Dabney to cooperate with the county attorney of Tulsa county in the matter, if the Tulsa attorney would cooperate, but if he would not, Dabney was ordered to supersede the county attorney.

The governor said in issuing the instructions to Dabney, that he had been informed dog racing was to be discontinued Oct. 6, but that now he has been notified that it was not done.

Tulsa is the only place in the state where either the governor or Dabney has information that dog racing is in progress, it was said.

Grateful Relief For Nervous Women

Delicately poised women who suffer from nervousness especially appreciate and profit by the use of Caupdine, the improved method of relief from pain and high nerve strain. In cases of periodic pains, nervous headache, neuralgic and rheumatic pains, Capudine gives most grateful relief. Being liquid, its acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders and is more effective. Capudine does not upset the stomach and contains no habit-forming drugs.

Capudine relieves nervousness and nerve pains by gently soothing the nerves—not by deadening them, therefore, it is perfectly safe. At all drug stores—30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

Wrestler's Manager Finds Managing Wife More Difficult

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 16. (UP)—William Baumann Sandow, whose duty it is to manage Ed (Strangler) Lewis, the wrestler, has confessed in his divorce petition on file here today that managing a wife is more difficult.

In his petition for divorce he says Mrs. Ethel Sandow, his wife, has shown such disregard for him to his friends that he became ill and lost weight from humiliation.

MOODY FREES DYING CONVICT

Mexican Given No Chance To Live

AUSTIN, Oct. 16. (AP)—Governor Moody granted a 20-day furlough today to Jose San Ramon, so relatives in Bexar county can take him home from prison, where he is reported to be dying of tuberculosis. Clemency was recommended by the prison physician who said Ramon could live only a few weeks.

Ramon was convicted in five cases of burglary and theft last April and sentenced two years in each case. The sentences were to run concurrently.

The governor also granted A. C. Williams, Stonewall and Jones counties, a 60-day furlough from his eight-year burglary term so he can provide for a needy family, and Doll Bird, Hopkins county, a 30-day leave to allow him to gather his crops. Bird was sentenced two years in a liquor case.

Caverns Highway Near Lamesa Is Improved

Special to The Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, Oct. 16. —The Dal-Paso Caverns highway, or state highway No. 83 has been placed in excellent graded condition recently by the state highway department. A high road bed has been raised from Lamesa east and west from Lamesa and the routing has been straightened to the state line 70 miles. At present the 18 miles immediately west of the Texas line in New Mexico is the only stretch of the highway that is not open and under the supervision of the state and federal highway departments.

FORNEY GAP SPAN ORDERED

State to Bridge Bad Spot On Highway 15

AUSTIN, Oct. 16 (AP).—The state highway commission gave definite orders today for bridging the notorious "Forney Gap," a bad stretch on highway 15.

State Engineer Gib Gilchrist was authorized to proceed at once on preparation of plans, secure right of way and advertise for bids.

Location of the new construction was given in a motion by Commissioner Cone Johnson as beginning at the end of the concrete slab in Kaufman county, near Forney, to intersect number 15 on the west.

It is a waste of money for the commission to authorize the "turning and winding" of highways through small towns and villages in order to accommodate a "couple of filling stations and a hamburger stand," Commissioner Johnson observed in the course of the plea of Forney to route the road through that town. The commission's choice of a routing would miss Forney's main business section.

The commission Tuesday resumed hearings for delegations seeking aid and designations, after Monday having awarded $1,207,855.05 worth of contracts for work in 16 counties and granting aid to Trinity and El Paso counties.

A delegation from Brown county was temporarily denied its request for designation of a highway from an intersection with highway 124 at San Saba to Cross Plains, via Brownwood. The state engineer was authorized to investigate the feasibility of the proposed route and report back with recommendations.

Awards were to be made late Tuesday night for construction work in Shackelford and Guadalupe counties.

Annual Wolf Hunters Meeting Postponed

Special to The Record News

NEWPORT, Oct. 16.—The annual meeting of the Cross Timbers Wolf hunters that was scheduled to come off at the Garner ranch, near Shannon last Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, was called off on account of dry grounds and high winds. The date will be set again in November or as soon as rain falls that will enable the dogs to run. Hugh Walker of Bowie is president of the association, and O. R. Barker of Newport is secretary.

Salem Jail Office of Bossy Gillis Newburyport Bad Boy Mayor

The Salem, Mass., jail (below) is now headquarters of Mayor Andrew J. Gillis (insert), the red-haired ex-gob, of Newburyport. Gillis, who has long sought to operate a gasoline station, pleaded guilty to running one without a permit and was sentenced to 60 days' hard labor and fined $545. He is shown (right) demonstrating how he can wield an axe. He was photographed about the time he was summoned to court for cutting down shade trees to make way for his station.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (AP)—This staid, 300-year-old New England city is passing through the novel experience of absentee government by a mayor residing in jail in another city.

Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis, young, stocky, red-haired ex-gob, gained national note when he won election as mayor of Newburyport last winter. But the fruit of victory has had a taint of bitterness during a none-too-smoothly running administration. And now "Bossy" is in jail in Salem for conducting a gasoline station illegally.

That filling station has been a source of both ambition and tribulation for Mayor Gillis, even long before he became mayor. His plans to dispense gasoline at a chosen corner of undoubted commercial value early ran on the rocks of a zoning ordinance and official disapproval.

Gillis' decision to seek the chief executive office of his home was one of the fruits of his differences with previous city administrations. After a clean-cut victory at the polls, "Bossy," at once became Newburyport's best known mayor. The fact that he had bounced a solid fist off the chin of a previous mayor, his forthrightness and generally colorful temperament attracted ever-widening interest.

When he went to New York for a triumphal tour, a retinue of newspaper men waited in his hotel bedroom and followed him about town.

Back in Newburyport, again, there were clashes with members of the city council when they refused to endorse some appointees. A policeman he removed from the force was reinstated by a court's writ of mandamus.

"Bossy" busied himself with problems of reorganization and found time for a few speaking dates here and there about New England, but he refused a vaudeville contract.

Last June the storm brewing over "Bossy's" proposal to operate a filling station took definite form as Mayor Gillis was summoned to court for felling shade trees without the approval of the city council. These trees were removed to improve the filling station site. After the mayor's station had been operating full blast in a district that he contended was growing into a business district he was charged and convicted of operating a gasoline station without a permit, and the district court assessed $1,140 in fines and imposed a sentence of 330 days.

"Bossy" appealed. And while his appeal was pending he sought out the state fire marshal for aid in arranging for storage of gasoline. The Newburyport city council experienced a change of heart and voted him a permit. His long-sought goal apparently within his grasp, Mayor Gillis was moved to tears. But more complications over the question of storing gasoline followed.

And when his case was reached in superior court "Bossy" pleaded guilty to the charges. Sentence of 60 days' hard labor and fines of $545 were imposed.

While "Bossy's" friends discuss plans for a parole, insisting that he has done much for the city and contending that he is more popular than ever, the mayor goes about the city's business in Salem jail. Rules have been set aside to some degree in his case to permit him to carry out his duties of office.

Rabbi's Son Divorced In Reno, Nev., Court

RENO, Nev., Oct. 16. (US)—Mrs. Louise Joan Wise was given a decree of divorce today from James Waterman Wise, son of Rabbi Stephen Wise of New York. Mrs. Wise charged her husband with desertion and the action was not contested.

Paper Repudiates Mme. Anastasia Claim

LONDON, Oct. 16. (US)—The Evening Standard today printed a statement by Grank Duke Alexander, of Russia, entirely repudiating the claim of Mme. Anastasia Tchaikovsky that she is Grand Duchess Anastasia, youngest daughter of the late czar. Mme. Tchaikovsky is now living in seclusion in the United States as the guest of Mrs. William B. Leeds.

ZEPP INMATE SCORES POLICE

U. S. Cops Need Schooling, Says Prussian

BERLIN, Oct. 16 (AP).—A scathing criticism of the behavior of the "American police" on the landing of the Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst is contained in an interview with Albert Grzesinski, Prussian minister of the interior, and a passenger on the Zeppelin, made public here today.

"Had circumstances like those I witnessed taken place in Prussia, these police officials would have been fired the very same day," he was quoted as saying. "On leaving the airship which the passengers were permitted to do only after hours of waiting, they had to their surprise to go through several unpleasant experiences. They were surrounded by a cordon of police and led into the customs building as though they had intended to smuggle. Several times they were yanked and frequently pushed—in fact one of them was struck in the face by a fist. Among those thus treated was also German Consul General Lewinski."

Grzesinski, both as the former police chief of Berlin and also the present head of the entire Prussian police force, is considered an authority on police matters.

"Anybody who knows America realizes that the reprehensible attitude of the police was not due to evil intentions but must be explained on the grounds of inadequate schooling," he said further. "The police, as is constantly evident on the landing of sea vessels, are easily inclined to assume toward foreigners reaching their country the role of a haughty superior."

Millions in Tobacco

HAVANA—Cuba exported $35,750,742 in tobacco during the 1927-28 season, an official report of the agricultural department says. Of the total amount $10,754,064 was in cigars and $284,751 in cigarettes. The balance was in crude and cured tobacco in the leaf.

Anyone Should Have Known This Bug Was Gryllatalpa Longipennes

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Oct. 16 (UP)—The "odd creature" mystery has at last been solved.

George Wray and E. J. Delk of Sardis found the varmint in front of a store at Sardis and A. A. Collins of Sardis brought it to the Daily Light office in an effort to find out what it was. It had a head like a stinging lizard, claws like a dog and body like a cricket.

The newspapermen could not solve the question, but they gave the bug considerable publicity, with the result that it attracted attention over the state.

In a final effort to identify the creature, it was shown to Dr. R. Chester Hughes, professor of biology at Trinity university.

"It is a gryllatalpa longipennes," Dr. Hughes said without a smile and after a momentary glance at the bug. "I recognized it from the description in the paper. It belongs to phylum arthropoda class insects, order orthoptora, family gryllidue, genus gryllatalpa and species longipennes. Although they are common in this section of the country, they are seldom seen, as they are a burrowing animal."

To those who do not understand, the biological terms it might be said that all the above statements means is that the bug is a mole cricket.

The bug attracted considerable attention among the Trinity faculty.

"If it hums, it is a humbug," Dr. S. L. Hornbeck said in seeking to identify the cricket.

Ward Politicians on Trial for Extortion

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16. (UP)—Matthew Patterson, Republican ward leader and member of the state legislature, and his friend, Police Captain Charles W. Schoenlever, went on trial today on charges of bribery and extortion from a number of saloon keepers.

The trial is the most important one of those that involved many policemen and police officials connected with the operations of a $10,000,000 bootlegger ring.

Attorneys for Patterson sought vainly to delay the trial. They appealed to Chief Justice Von Moschzisker of the state supreme court for a postponement on the grounds that there was popular prejudice against Patterson. The appeal was denied after a hearing.

Smith Endorses Hay For Missouri Senate

SEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 16. (UP)—Charles M. Hay, Democratic dry candidate for the Missouri senatorship, was wholeheartedly endorsed by Gov. Alfred E. Smith in an interview with newspaper men here today.

Smith said he would consider it extremely unfortunate if any voter should turn against Hay on the prohibition issue "when he stands for every other issue represented by progressive Democracy."

Henri Cheron, French minister of posts, telegraphs and telephones, got a wrong number when he inaugurated the first automatic central telephone exchange in Paris.

SECOND ARREST IN SLAYING

Woman Held After Man Is Convicted

ELLSWORTH, Kan., Oct. 16 (INS)—Following conviction today of William Bascue, 22, on a charge of first degree murder in the slaying of Charles (Pansy) Allen, 70, a truck gardener, authorities arrested Mrs. Charles Labarr for questioning in connection with the murder.

Bascue lived at the home of Mrs. Labarr and is the confessed sweetheart of her daughter, Bonnie. Mrs. Labarr's arrest followed within an hour after the conviction of Bascue.

Several stories were told by Bascue of events in the slaying, among them one that Mrs. Labarr was present when he shot Allen and another that she committed the deed.

Quickly Checked without "Dosing"

Every mother dreads the croupy coughs that attack young children at night. These attacks can usually be relieved in a few minutes, just by rubbing Vicks VapoRub on the child's throat and chest.

Vicks healing vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the cough.

At the same time, Vicks "draws out" the tightness like a poultice.

To prevent these attacks, apply Vicks at bedtime, and be sure of a good night's sleep.

Woman's Forum Directors and Executive Board Meet Tuesday

The first fall meeting of the board of directors and the executive board of the Woman's Forum was held at the clubhouse Tuesday morning. Chairmen of the departments of the executive board gave reports which outlined in full the work for the various divisions during the year. Special time was given Mrs. E. B. Lehrack, chairman of the civic department, for a detailed discussion of the immediate work they have at hand for the flower carnival.

Mrs. G. B. Smedley gave a report on "Twilight in Gypsyland," an elaborate operetta to be given the night of Nov. 7 during the flower carnival, under the direction of Mrs. Lois Parker.

Mrs. J. C. A. Guest announced that the next general forum attraction will be a lecture by Dr. Aurelia Rhinehart on the afternoon of Nov. 6. The luncheon, honoring Mrs. John F. Sippel, national president of women's federated clubs, will be for members and their guests only.

Mrs. F. L. Mercer called members attention to the fact that forum dues are now payable and if they are not paid by Nov. 1 the member becomes delinquent, and if not paid by Dec. 1, the membership is forfeited. Mrs. Mercer urged that members send their dues to her home, 2111 Ninth street, at their earliest convenience.

Other chairmen reported extensive work through the summer months.

The executive board adopted a resolution thanking the People's Ice company for the donation of programs for "Naughty Marietta" and for a basket of flowers and a frozen punch bowl presented at the opening reception. A vote of thanks was also given to the Pearl studio for a book of photographs containing pictures of all charter members of the Woman's Forum, to Mrs. W. W. Cook for her work for the forum scholarship fund, and to Mrs. G. B. Smedley for her efficent work in "Naughty Marietta."

Members of the board of directors present were Mesdames J. C. A. Guest, Hubert Harrison, T. A. Hicks, Tom Reese, Carrie Joline, P. P. Langford, Newton Maer, Ben G. Oneal, H. D. Patterson, C. P. Burton and W. W. Silk.

Sunday School Class Will Reorganize

Members of the Bethany Sunday school class of the First Baptist church will meet in their room at the church Thursday at 2:30 o'clock. The meeting has been called for the purpose of reorganizing and getting acquainted.

All Baptist ladies between the ages of 30 and 35 or those prefering the Baptist church have been invited to attend this meeting.

Young Wichita Falls

A young lady has to be exceptional to be a resident of Burkburnett and rate a position in "Young Wichita Falls." Wilma Jean Allen is exceptional for at 10 months she has taken 10 steps all by herself and has three teeth. Let it be understood, too, that she did not fail in taking the 10 steps unaided and that she can use the three teeth to good advantage.

Wilma Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Allen of Burkburnett and is not going into the newspaper business even if her father is agent in Burkburnett for the Wichita Falls dailies.

The baby has curly golden hair, a fair skin and blue eyes. Besides these attributes she possesses a police puppy and abundant health.

RASH BROKE OUT ON SCALP

Turned to Pimples. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"The trouble started with a rash which broke out on my scalp. Later it turned to pimples and blisters and itched so badly that I scratched my head about all the time. My hair became lifeless and dry. I could not sleep because of the irritation.

"Other remedies were used but they did not do a particle of good. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and five boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) E. E. Johnson, Minneapolis, N. C.

CHIC CHERIE — Latest Fashions

Cherie says she is feeling the need of a little fresh air and is about to go and take some in the correct quantity. Cherie's coat is of black broadcloth bordered with a tremendous collar of Jap mink. The skirt to the coat has three flat tiers, the top one marking a normal waistline. The coat is slightly bloused.

Cherie wanted company in the serious matter of taking the air and got Dina to go to lunch with her. Dina's fall coat is trimmed with caracul which almost seems to form an underskirt since curving panels of cloth come down over the fur band at the bottom as though they were flounces—lower in back than in front.

There was a matinee they wanted to see and Sue and Cicely wanted to see it too. Cicely's coat, to the left, has a long scarf collar of kid caracul and bands of the fur on the sleeves and at least half a dozen bands of it on the skirt of the coat. Sue's fall wrap has fur in a collar and border down to the very hem and where the points of the collar come together at one side in front there is a skirt flare of the fabric. Most of the fall coats—these are good examples — seem merely to add a little cloth to a lot of fur. You can take this as a reason for buying a fur coat or for not buying one, just whichever best pleases you!

A. Y. (Bud) McCallum, Coyote football coach, addressed the high school-junior college general assembly Tuesday morning on the principles of football. With Jerry Elliott, a member of the Pack playing the part of the opponent, many demonstrations were given showing the chief plays. Mr. McCallum will explain the fundamentals of the game during the next several assembly periods so that the game may be observed more intelligently. These demonstrations are expected to increase the attendance at the games as many of the students fail to attend through lack of an understanding of the different plays made in the course of the conflict. He also urged all members of the student body to attend the game with Electra at Electra Saturday afternoon to back the team in its first conference game of the season.

Philip Kouri announced that a pep rally would be held behind the junior college building Thursday night. A large bonfire will be made and all members of the pep squad and the band will be on hand.

Bob Crocker announced that a special meeting of the Hope chapter of the DeMolay is called for Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Masonic temple. The election of officers will be made at this time, it was announced.

Candidates elected to membership in the Blue Curtain club in a try out meeting held Monday night at the junior college were Elva Remington, Josephine Kelly, W. A. Johnson and Morris McAfee.

Looking Pleasant More Important Than Looking Pretty, Writer Says

Good Nature Is a Woman's Chief Attraction, Says Dorothy Dix—All the Other Charms and Virtues Depend Upon It for Their Chief Lure, but a Sweet Temper Will Suffice of Itself Alone.

A correspondent asks: "What is woman's greatest charm?" To which I reply emphatically: "Good nature, amiability.

A woman may have other attractions more spectacular and alluring at first sight. In fact, so far as I can recall, none of the sirens of history and tradition have been noted for their sweet dispositions or being easy to get along with, but for a good, reliable conjure that never fails to work in all sorts of time and places and weather, and is equally effective when applied to man or beast, and whose potency never wears out there is nothing that equals good nature.

Of course, we are in the way of thinking that beauty is woman's greatest charm. Poets sing it. Artists paint it. Novelists and dramatists endow their heroines with it, and we are all instinctively drawn toward those darlings of the gods on whom has been bestowed an unusual amount of good looks. But even beauty is dependent upon good nature.

For it avails a woman nothing to have a willowy figure, a peaches-and-cream complexion, violet eyes, naturally wavy hair and a classical profile, if her expression is cross and sulky or high-tempered and irritable, or if her eyes are cold as ice and her mouth distorted by a sneer. No woman looks pretty to us if she doesn't also look pleasant.

Intelligence is another great charm in a woman. We are attracted to the woman with a keen and alert mind who has studied and read and traveled and who can talk entertainingly on any subject. We like the woman who has understanding and who catches everything we say to her at the half word, to whom we do not have to diagram our jokes and explain the point of our stories. We are amused and entertained by the witty woman whose brilliant repartee keeps a dinner table in a roar.

But intelligence is also dependent upon good nature for its attractiveness. For just as there are no women so courted and so admired and so beloved as are the women who are sweet as well as wise, so there are no women who are so feared and so hated as those whose cleverness is steeped in gall and who are as cruel as they are witty.

We adore the humor of the woman who laughs with us, but not at us. We are enthralled by the conversation of the woman who knows more than we do and has had experiences that we will never have if through her talk there runs the strain of kindliness, of sympathy, of gentleness, of hope and cheer. But we turn away in repulsion from the woman cynic, no matter how scintillating she is, and we flee in terror from the one whose tongue stabs like a dagger and whose very cleverness enables her to cartoon our weaknesses and faults and make us a figure of fun and a laughing stock.

We admire women for their devotion, for their unselfishness, for the sacrifices they make for others. Many a man is at first attracted to a girl because she is so much in love with him. Many of us appreciate abstractly the virtues of a self-abnegating mother or sister, daughter or friend. Many a husband knows that he ought to be on his knees before his wife in humble gratitude for all she does for him.

But even goodness has to be coupled with good nature before it "sells" itself to us, and, alas, there are so many peevish and fretful saints! There are so many women who would die for their families who nag at them until they make their husbands and children wish that they were dead, themselves. And it is so hard to be properly grateful and appreciative to those who rub you the wrong way, who are tactless or fault-finding or bossy and interfering, who may possess all the virtues but are lacking in all of the amenities of life.

So in the end we come back to good nature as woman's greatest charm and the one that endures to the end. Beauty at its best is fleeting and lasts only a few years. Sometimes we feel like turning our eyes away when we behold the ravages that time has made in a living picture, but the woman who looks good-natured always looks good to us no matter how old she grows or how her complexion fades or her eyes dull.

We may tire of the brilliant women, but none of us ever wearies of listening to the good-natured woman who says pleasant things to us, who listens sympathetically to our tales of woe and who is interested in all the little things that concern us. Her discourse may not be highbrowed nor illuminating. She may not have any profound philosophy to give us, but nevertheless we go away from her soothed and comforted, feeling somehow that God is in His heaven and all is right with the world just because He put such women in it.

There have been husbands who have deserted model wives because they were gobs of gloom with a mission to reform the universe. They have been old parents who have loved their easy-going prodigal children better than they did tyrannical good sons and daughters who supported them. And all of us prefer our weak and erring friends who don't feel called upon to sell us of our faults to our noble ones who call our attention to our weaknesses.

DOROTHY DIX.

DIZZY FEELING, HEADACHE, THINGS LOOKED BLACK

MR. F. E. McKINNEY, of 6 South Columbia street, Lake City, Fla., says:

"I think I must have been about five years old when my mother gave me my first dose of Black-Draught, and later on, when I needed any medicine, she gave me Black-Draught. I cannot remember a time, in the last 20 years, when I haven't had Black-Draught in my home, or in my father's home.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything, and that maybe I could wear out the headaches, but I found they were wearing me out.

"If I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have 'swimming in my head,' and everything would get black. I would have very severe headaches.

"I found that Black-Draught would relieve this, and so when I feel the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught, and now I don't have the headache any more.

"I take Black-Draught when I feel a tightness in the chest, and a bloating after meals. A few doses relieve me.

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it for 20 years, I am satisfied to continue."

Thousands of other men and women find Black-Draught of great help in relieving and warding off common ailments, due to constipation, biliousness and indigestion.

For several generations, Thedford's Black-Draught, in a yellow package, has been a familiar item in family medicine chests.

Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery.

An Educational School on Practical Home Economics

There are many women who have often expressed regrets that they did not have the opportunity provided for school girls of today by the economics departments in schools. Housewives appreciate the benefit and value of instructions along these lines, and would grasp the opportunity of taking a course in household arts if such a thing were practical. By reason of their duties and responsibilities, as well as school regulations, they cannot attend the public schools, but out of the needs that present themselves along this line, have arisen various sources through which the housewife can acquire as practical instruction in home economics as is given in the schools.

One of these sources is through the series of lectures and practical demonstrations give by

UTAH LOOMS AS REPUBLICAN

Demo Governor Wields Big Influence

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff
Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 16.—Republicans are more confident than Democrats about Utah's four electoral votes, and most of the money is going down on Hoover. Yet the state does such strange things that the wise money may be wrong.

Get a Republican and a Democrat face to face at the Alta club here and demand the truth about the election and the Republican will reply with crushing finality:

"Utah was the only state besides Vermont to stand by Taft in 1912."

Turn to the Democrat and he has his answer ready: "But it went for Wilson four years later."

Normally Republican

The state is normally Republican by 20,000 to 30,000, yet it has a Democratic governor, George H. Dern, who is so popular that his chances of re-election are regarded as good by many judges of Utah politics. He was the only Democrat to survive the last election. The state also has a Democratic United States senator, William H. King, who got in on the Wilson landslide in 1916, defeating George Sutherland, who now sits on the supreme court of the United States.

The state knows how to scratch a ticket, and the strength of Governor Dern if he should win is not likely to pull down Hoover's vote materially. In fact, the Democratic state ticket is passing over Governor Smith rather casually, his wet views being unpopular in a state which forbids all stimulants, including coffee, tea and tobacco.

Strictly Tolerant

Smith suffers less here on account of his religion probably than in most states, for the Mormons have been through their share of persecution—that was what drove them to erect a civilization out here—and if there were not other considerations their sympathies would naturally be toward Smith.

William H. Wattis, Republican candidate for governor, will draw on the Mormon vote probably because he is manager of the gigantic Utah-Idaho Sugar company, controlled by the church. The church is a heavy property holder in the state. Heber Grant is a business man of large affairs and is a director in the Union Pacific railroad. Yet, contrary to the situation in some states where one sect is dominant, the Mormons do not proscribe those not of their faith.

Husband Sought After Murderous Assault

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. (AP)—William Happer, 60, was sought by police today after his wife accused him of attempting to kill her by electrocution and then attacking her with a meat cleaver when his original plan failed.

The wife, Mrs. Josephine Happer, is in a critical condition in a hospital. She said her husband had wired the basement door so that when she opened it a charge of electricity would enter her body. The shock knocked her down and rendered her unconscious after which she alleges her husband seized the cleaver and severely beat her.

WICHITA MINISTER WILL PRESIDE AT CONFERENCE

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 16.—Dr. S. A. Barnes of the Floral Heights Methodist church, Wichita Falls, will preside at the conference of that denomination which will be held here Thursday, Oct. 18. Dr. Barnes will hold the Electra circuit conference during the afternoon of that day and the Electra conference during the evening hour, which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

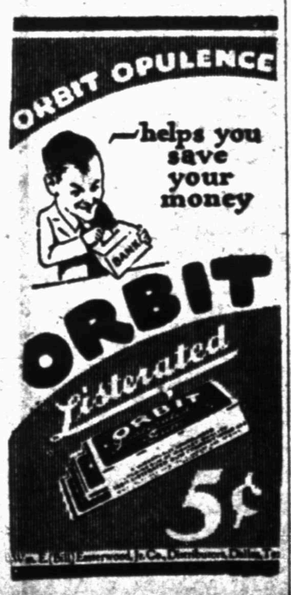

This is the last quarterly meeting of the year before the annual conference at Denton on Oct. 25. Bishop Sam R. Hayes of Dallas will preside at the annual conference. Dr. Barnes, who will preside at the Electra conference, is completing the year's work for Dr. W. J. Johnson, who at present is confined in a hospital in Wichita Falls.

GRAY HAIR DARKENED SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

Faded, streaked or gray hair can now be darkened, youthful appearance restored, and the stamp of encroaching years forever banished by the use of a simple mixture that anyone can prepare at home. To ½-pint of water, add ¾-oz. of glycerine or rosewater, and a box of Darlox Compound, (formerly Nuglo) which can be bought for a few cents at any drug store. Your druggist will mix it if you prefer. It will darken the hair and restore its natural color and youthful beauty. It is harmless, cannot be detected, will not darken scalp, is not dirty or sticky and will not rub off.—Adv.

Sunday Movies Win Court Battle

TEXARKANA, Texas, Oct. 16 (AP).—Sunday movies scored a court victory in Texarkana today when a jury acquitted Arthur Hardin, manager of the Saenger theater, of a charge of violating the Texas Sunday movie law.

Hardin was arrested for opening his theater on Sunday, Sept. 30. The theater cashier and one man were the only witnesses, the cashier tstifying that she sold tickets but did not know whether pictures were shown, and Hardin's attorney told the jury that the state had not made a case. He added that "people have a right to spend Sunday as they see it, and no one can be compelled to attend church."

Bowie County Posse Still Hunts For Negro

TEXARKANA, Ark., Oct. 16. (AP)—Unsuccessful after an all-night hunt for Luby Vaughn, negro, who is alleged to have shot Hartford Fischer, farmer, at Red Water yesterday, a posse of Bowie county officers and citizens today continued the search.

Fischer is in a Texarkana hospital, conceded a slight chance to recover.

The shooting, officers said, resulted from a dispute of two years' standing.

LIGHTS DIMMED IN CHINATOWN

Tong Feuds Cause Hush In Slum District

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. (UP)—The lights burned low in Chinatown tonight. Few footsteps pattered along the narrow, crooked streets. Doors were locked, doorways were unlighted. There was no genial hanging out of windows and lolling on fire escapes. The On Leongs and the Hip Sings were a-feuding again.

Morgues in Philadelphia, in Chicago, in New York, contained the first four victims—two in Chicago. The score was even. Yesterday a supposed On Leong burst into a room in Eldridge street with a pistol in each hand and made a colander out of Wong Chum, who was playing mah jong with other Hip Sings. An hour later an On Leong was killed in Chicago, a second died soon thereafter and three neutrals were wounded. It was a matter of moments only until a Hip Sing man was murdered in Philadelphia.

There were an unusual number of visitors to No. 15 Pell street, headquarters of the Hip Sing tong. There was also much activity at 41 Mott street, just around the corner. This is the headquarters of the On Leong tong.

At the height of the afternoon's scurrying the Graf Zeppelin passed overhead, in at last from Germany. Chinatown's streets were the only ones in New York not filled with gaping crowds. No interest was evidenced in the passing overhead of the airship.

Po Yee is secretary of the On Leongs. Unable to find the head of the Hip Sings, the police visited Po Yee. They found him in bed, although it was a strange hour to be in bed. Po Yee said he did not know what the shootings were about, but he asked politely for police protection.

The police, however, think it is all a matter of business. The On Leongs, they said, control the most profitable Chinese gambling houses in New Jersey. They are supreme in Newark and Jersey City. The Hip Sings recently tried opening a gambling house in Jersey City. The police raided it. Word then went out that the Hip Sings would open gambling houses in Newark "if they had to fight."

Extra police and detectives patrolled the shadowy region back of Chatham square and the Bowery tonight, watching the "L" trains rumble overhead and feeling rather silly and helpless.

Japs Complete Largest Plane in Far East

LONDON, Oct. 16 (UP)—Japanese navy officials have completed plans for the construction of a new giant airplane which will carry guns and bombs and have a cruising radius of 3,000 miles, the Tokio correspondent of the Evening News reported today.

When finished the dirigible will be by far the largest in the far East, it was said. Construction of the ship is expected to begin soon.

Condition of Injured Aviatrix Is 'Serious'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 16. (UP)—The condition of Mrs. Phoebe Fairgrave Omlie, noted aviatrix who crashed near Paragould, Ark., Sunday, was reported by hospital attendants as "serious" today. It was believed she will recover, however.

Mrs. Omlie, the only woman participant in the Ford reliability tour last spring, is suffering from cuts, bruises, burns and both legs broken as the result of a crash from a height of 500 feet.

Border King Declared Champ of Dairy Show

MEMPHIS, Oct. 16. (AP)—Border King of Roberts, owned by Glencliff Farms, Independence, Kan., was declared grand champion in the Guernsey division in awards made today by the national dairy show, in progress here.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Oct. 1'.—"Hallerluyour—I'm a Bum"—sang a seedy-appearing individual, as he held aloft sheets of white paper, upon which appeared the words of the new jazz song. And homegoing throngs, passing through Forty-second street on Saturday afternoon, saw a scene, fit for the pen of an O. Henry. Along came an inebriated gentlemen of uncertain gait. He, too, had heard the "Hallelujah" ditty. Then he shambled up to the seedy one, and extending his hand to the latter, remarked:

"Shake, brother, so am I."

Saturday evening crowds in New York, are like no other week-end crowds, anywhere throughout the country. In smaller towns, the evening means, that the folks are out shopping—picking up stray bargains here and there, stopping for a frozen dainty or a bag of sweets, after which they wend their way homeward. This is at least what it means to that vast army of workers who receive their pay envelopes, somewhere around 5 o'clock upon that day.

To New Yorkers, the day ends at 1 p. m., hence any shopping that is to be done, has to be taken care of during the afternoon hours, since the department stores close at 5 or 6 o'clock. Thus the big night is left for the visiting of the theaters and dining at the restaurants, of which New York has so many. New Yorkers love to eat, a fact in evidence from the large number of eating places, offering meals of every description. From the Ritz-lest of dining palaces, to the "hole-in-the-wall," where patrons stand upon the sidewalks and partake of their food, through a window—a hot dog and the cup that cheers, for the less affluent of life, each and every place seems busy, and at all hours of the day or night.

Food is always attractive. It has a magnetic quality for the casual passerby. People cast longing glances at delicious appearing pastries, displayed in cafeteries—or at roasts in rotiseries. A chicken, ham or luscious chunk of beef, turning upon a spit—yum-yum, how good it looks!

And sea food! Oh, what a treat! Passing through Thirty-second street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues last Saturday evening, one saw groups of persons, standing before the plate glass window of a restaurant, featuring the sea delicacies—oysters, clams, fish—of every description, crabs, shrimp and lobsters. And then human nature asserted itself—and in a humorous fashion. In a large glass tank, swam a school of gold fish. Real beauties, they caught the silvery, bronze and gold glints of the artificial lights, placed about the upper edge of the tank, wherein they were confined. In and out they darted, now and then stopping for a morsel of bread, placed for their consumption. Tiny lobsters had been added to the miniature "sea" to heighten its marine atmosphere. A large-sized gold fish tried hard to get ahead. What was keeping him? A baby lobster, holding the tail of the golden beauty in its jaw, was in turn held by a brother-lobster, No. 2 holding the former's claw, within one of his own. The crowd laughed at the funny little parade—the big fellow in the lead, with the two tiny ones, holding on for dear life. Even here, in a tank of sea food beauties, is the survival of the fittest.

TRUTH

The day it comes; it also goes;
A dozen thorns has every rose.
The giants of commerce always reap
The wool from we defenseless sheep;
And, aided by the dollar mark,
We never grow lank or weak or stark.

Oh, many truths of sterling worth
I've gained since I came on this earth;
All truth can be summed up as one:
There's nothing new beneath the sun.
A motto we might well apply
Is: "Grab, before the other guy."
—John Self Elliott.

Seeing America

THE department of the interior announces that 3,026,273 people visited the United States' national parks and national monuments during the 1928 travel season. This figure exceeds by nearly a quarter of a million any previous total.

Those figures are significant. They mean that an ever-increasing number of Americans is discovering that the vast government parks constitute as fine an assortment of vacation grounds as could be asked. To "see America first" is apparently becoming more and more popular.

This is a fine thing. This country of ours is so constituted that to see it more is to love it more. These vacation trips to national forests and monuments are builders of the finest kind of patriotism.

Public Hangings

THE varieties of freak and nonsensical legislation proposed in our state legislatures are almost endless. But a California legislator has thought up one that ought to take the grand prize.

This solon, according to press dispatches, plans a bill which would require each California county to hang all its murderers on a public gallows erected in an open square in the county seat. All hangings would have to be advertised in advance, so that as many people as possibly could attend.

It is a bit hard to believe that anyone would take this idea seriously, and the California legislature undoubtedly will toss the measure into the discard without delay. It is interesting, however, to know that there is extant a public servant, gifted with the responsibility of helping make the laws of a great state, who would sponsor such a proposal in all seriousness.

A Different Dog Story

THE story of the faithful dog that roused members of the family when the house caught on fire, thus saving their lives, is an old one.

Here's the reverse of it—not so pleasing to dog lovers, probably, but interesting because it goes counter to one of our traditions.

A Chicago man, passing along a street late at night, saw smoke pouring from a house. He rushed in to arouse the occupants. A police dog leaped on him in the hallway and nearly felled him. The man had to overpower the dog before he could proceed upstairs and carry out two women and a baby, all partially stupefied by smoke.

The faithful dog, in this case, was undoubtedly the villain in the piece. The story, accordingly, under the old "man-bites-a-dog" formula, is news.

The Dream Persists

THE gone-to-seed mining town of Bodie, Calif., is trying to put on a come-back.

Bodie has been quiet—quiet as death—of late. Back in the '80's it was a boom town. In one single year, $23,000,000 worth of gold and $4,000,000 worth of silver were taken out of it. Many a western mansion was built with the yellow dust of Bodie's lodes; many an honest frontiersman was enabled to don a silk hat and take his astonished eyes to the art galleries and what-not of Paris.

Then Bodie went to seed. Gold and silver production fell to a net total of something like $50,000 a year, and the population dwindled to a scant 75.

Now Los Angeles and San Francisco capitalists are taking a hand. Old diggings will be worked over, and it is believed that the golden stream will flow once more.

These old boom towns of the far west are immensely interesting. They were interesting in their heyday, when they were packed with turbulent, rowdy life; interesting in their decline, when jackrabbits scampered through the streets where the makers of millions once walked; interesting in their occasional revival, when a new generation tries to restore the old-time glory.

The west has been a land of dreams, anyway. For a century it has been the promised land to great multitudes of people. New England farmers, tired of struggling with rocky soil and harsh winters, loaded their goods into creaking wagons and followed the setting sun, sure that somewhere—in Oregon, Wyoming, Colorado or California—they would find kinder skies and richer land. With them went similar hopefuls from Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, the midwest, meeting dangers and hardships without protest, confident that El Dorado lay just beyond the western horizon.

Some of them found it, of course, and some of them didn't. There were gold mines and rich farm lands, and there were failures and disappointments. Some of the pioneers' towns became rich cities like Seattle, San Francisco, Portland, Denver; and some of them became boom towns like Bodie, which burned brightly for a while and then flickered low.

But the dream persisted. It underlies all American thought, all American ideals. Buried beneath our typical "booster" spirit is the unspoken conviction that America is to be different and finer than any other place; the unexpressed dream of the pioneers, that we shall build cities and towns and an open countryside where every man and woman can have a chance for the good things in life, and where the troubles of the ages can be overcome.

The episode of the town of Bodie brings it to mind. It is a good thing for us to remember. For it is our heritage and our responsibility.

The Room Under the Stairs

The Baffling Story of a Man Who Read of His Own Murder

By HERMAN LANDON

Copyright by G. Howard Watt — Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

Synopsis of Preceding Installments

Thomas Dean, well-known writer of mystery novels, has hidden from the world the fact that he is really

Paul Forrester, who as a youngster had been mixed up in a breach-of-promise suit and had figured in a self-defense killing out West some years before, from which encounter he still bears a knife scar on his neck. Dean is therefore astounded to read the death-bed confession of

Martin Lamont, Western business man, in New York on a visit, in which he repents the murder of Paul Forrester five years before. This confession is witnessed by

Dennis Littleby, famous lawyer, at whose home the dying man is visiting, and

Dr. John Ballinger, well known physician. Identification of the body, found in "The Room Under the Stairs," in Dean's deserted family house, is made by

Lieutenant Shane, of the police, who also finds a watch bearing the initials "P. F." Revisiting the house, Dean discovers pieces of a broken watch crystal at the scene of the murder, and is surprised at the sudden entrance of Littleby, who seems upset. Matters are further complicated by a strange young lady,

Viola Gray, who tries to connect one of Dean's stories with Forrester's secret.

A visit to the notary who took the confession reveals that Lamont seemed to have a peculiar dread of the telephone.

That night Dean outwits a hired assassin.

Freddie Mills, and forces the man to give the signal by telephone that his night's work has been successful and Dean supposedly killed.

Next morning at police headquarters Littleby shows no surprise at seeing Dean alive, and reports to Shane the strange disappearance of Lamont's daughter, just arrived from the West.

A chance encounter with the mysterious Miss Gray proves startling, as she shows terror at seeing Dean alive.

Dr. Ballinger also seems stunned by Dean's appearance.

Revisiting the lawyer's house, Dean hears a woman's screams over the telephone at the dying man's bedside, and steps into the hall to listen, when he hears Littleby and the doctor mention the word "scar." Just then a shot rings out, and Lamont is found murdered in his bed.

Hiding in the house and trailing the lawyer late that night, Dean sees him enter a hidden room on the upper floor. When he has departed, Dean opens the hidden panel and faces a beautiful young woman.

Shirley Lamont

"Good evening," said Dean lamely, for it was one of those stultifying moments when the tongue finds only banalities to utter. "Hope I didn't frighten you?" He stared at her—a bit rudely, he realized—and then an idea flashed like an inspiration through his mind. It came out of nowhere, as it seemed, but with a force that staggered him for a moment. "I suppose you are Miss Lamont—Shirley Lamont?"

She did not answer, but merely looked at him in her frightened, palpitant way, but somehow Dean knew that his wild supposition had been right. After all, and in view of all the other astounding things that had already happened, it did not seem so strange that his prowling through the rambling house of Dennis Littleby should have brought him face to face with the young woman from the West whose mystifying appearance and equally mystifying vanishing had been one of the multitudinous angles of the mystery.

He searched her face, but his analytical faculty failed him. One could no more analyze Shirley Lamont than one could analyze the fragrance of the cottonwoods or the exultant sweep of the prairies from which she hailed.

She was of medium height, with fluffy medium-brown hair, a slightly uptilted nose which under ordinary circumstances would have given her a provocative, inquisitive air, and large gentian eyes which Dean felt, would in more tranquil moments be capable of a frank and friendly gaze. Her simple tailor-made suit of navy blue seemed so intimately a part of herself that Dean felt anything else would have been out of harmony. The pallor that lay like a withering film over her cheeks gave an incongruous touch to the picture.

"What—what do you want here?" she demanded.

Dean's eyes left her face while his mind fumbled for an answer. There were no windows in the room but air seemed to find ingress through some hidden ventriele. Its large size, together with its meager furnishings, gave it a cold and unfriendly air. With a start his eyes paused on a telephone, a common enough thing to find in a house equipped, as this one was, with an inter-communicating system. By some untraceable process of thought his mind connected it with the instrument in the death chamber, a symbol of unfathomable dread. Suddenly he wondered whether Littleby had told her of the murder. It was doubtful whether she had heard the shot, for no sounds from the outside seemed to penetrate to this cloistered room.

Miss Lamont's shuddering gaze, reminiscent of some dreadful experience, made him raise his eyes to her face.

"Did Mr. Littleby send you here?" she asked suddenly.

"Oh no," said Dean, hoping to win her confidence by frankness. "I am a trespasser. Littleby would throw me out or have me arrested if he found me here."

She looked at him as if uncertain whether to believe or doubt. He had an indefinable impression that all her instincts of faith and confidence had been shaken to the depths by some fearful ordeal.

"How did you find me here?" she asked.

"It was an accident. For reasons of my own I made it my business to watch Littleby tonight. Call it curiosity if you like. I followed him, and here I am. Of course he didn't know that I was on his trail. He might have been more cautious if he had known."

Her eyes with a faint glimmer of awakening trust in them, searched his face intently. "You distrust Mr. Littleby then?"

"Not exactly. I am trying to keep an open mind in regard to him, as well as a pair of open eyes. The two go well together.

She seemed to ponder his statement for a moment. When she spoke again there was an aching throb in her voice. "You know what happened here tonight?"

He nodded gravely. "Did Littleby tell you?"

A trembling "yes" came on a long, despairing intake of breath.

For the moment she seemed so pathetically crushed and forlorn that Dean left a powerful impulse to comfort her just as one would a grief stricken child.

"Poor dad!" she murmured brokenly. "I was prepared for the end, but I never imagined it would be anything so dreadful. And they wouldn't let me see him—not even for a moment. That's what makes it so dreadfully hard. Oh——!"

He took her hand and pressed it gently, vaguely wondering whom she meant by "they." Her big blue eyes, downcast for the moment, burned with an anguish too great for tears, rousing within him a virile sympathy that swept away all the staggering complications that had piled up in the last few days. Her cold little hand trembled in his own, and the electric contact seemed to transmit a flood of turbulent emotions.

"You must go away from here," he said gently. "Will you come with me? Can you trust me enough for that?"

Her dry sobbing ceased. "Yes, take me away!" she cried. "I can't endure this dreadful place another hour. Such horrible things have happened here—!" She lifted her head, and a fresh tremor shook her. "Have they taken—him away, yet?"

"Not yet."

"I want to see him—just once—before we go. Will you take me to him?"

"Of course," promised Dean readily. A visit to the death chamber would mean only a few minutes' delay, and would involve no great risk. Littleby had presumably retired, and it was not likely they would encounter any obstacles. If they did, his new responsibility would sharpen his wits sufficiently to find a way out. Though Miss Lamont had not said so, everything indicated that she was being kept a prisoner in this strange room. If nothing else, the curiously arranged entrance and the girl's apparent isolation were proof of that.

"One moment," he whispered, a fresh difficulty occurring to him. He crossed the little hall outside and passed to the point where an opening had so magically appeared at his touch. Upon entering, he had been dimly conscious that it had automatically slipped back behind him, but in his eagerness he had given no thought to the circumstance. Doubtless the hidden door could be manipulated from the inside as well as the outside, and in all probability the mode of operation was similar, but he wished to make sure.

In a few minutes he was back, having discovered the secret mechanism and satisfied himself that the road was clear.

"Littleby seems to be fond of melodramatic claptrap," he remarked. "Didn't know that legal erudition included familiarity with secret springs and levers. If you are ready—"

He paused, taken aback by the curious questioning gaze she fixed on his face. During his brief absence some of her doubts seemed to have returned.

"Mr. Littleby has told me about father's confession," she remarked in a low, hesitant voice.

"Are you sure you want to have anything to do with the daughter of a—"

"Rubbish!" said Dean as she hesitated over the last word. "If your father killed Paul Forrester under the circumstances he described, there was ample extenuation. You were very ill at the time, I understand?"

"Desperately. I wasn't expected to live."

"And your father had to have money to give you the medical attention you needed. Forrester grew insulting when he tried to collect a just debt from him, and your father lost his head. That was all there was to it. Lots of men would have acted just as he did."

The words slipped out of his mouth easily enough, prompted by his quick compassion for the girl, but a feeling of weirdness rose to his head. What would Miss Lamont think if she could know that he was the very man whom her father confessed having murdered?

"Do you believe the confession?" she insisted.

"To tell you the truth, I haven't given it much thought," he lied brazenly. "Do you?"

"I don't know what to think. So many awful and mysterious things have happened lately that my brain refuses to work."

"Then let's not bother about trifles. One thing is sure. Your father was a man of absolute honor, and whatever he did was prompted by his love for you. You can remember that. Ready to start?"

"Wait?" A wan little smile fluttered about her lips. "Did you realize that you haven't told me who you are? If you are to be my escort, don't you think we had better know each other?"

He frowned, impatient at the delay, but he could see that her recent experiences had left her constantly alert against snares.

"You are right, of course," he assented. "My name, though it probably won't mean anything to you, is Thomas Dean."

He started as he saw the magical effect of his words. Her eyes, which had been raised to his with a shy gleam of confidence in their blue depths, grew suddenly rigid. For a moment her face remained expressionless, then a freezing film seemed to pass ovr her anguish-stricken features.

"Thomas Dean?" she echoed in a small, hard voice, at the same time shrinking away from him as if he were a venomous being. "How dare you pretending to be my friend? You—you monster!"

Dean could only stare, his facilities stunned by her sudden turn to fury and loathing.

"What on earth is the matter?" he at length blurted out. Could she have discovered that Thomas Dean and Paul Forrester were one? It did not seem possible, and even if such were the case, it did not account for her abrupt change of attitude.

"You know," she said in an icy, trembling voice. "I was a fool to trust you, even for a moment, after the way you sneaked in on me, but I felt as if I must confide in somebody. What a contemptible hypocrite you are! What did you want with me? Haven't you already committed enough crimes?"

"Crimes?" he echoed dully; then shook his head in despair. "Do you know, Miss Lamont, that I haven't the faintest idea what you are talking about?"

"Oh, you are clever, very clever—like all the rest. You came here pretending to be my friend so you could—I don't know what contemptible thing you had in mind. But you made a mistake when you told me your name. I suppose you didn't think I knew."

"Know what?"

"That you—that you murdered my father." It seemed to require a colossal self-control for her to speak the words calmly.

"Murdered your father?" Dean, utterly stunned, gazed at her incredulously. "What put such a ridiculous idea into your head?"

"Oh, don't pretend that you don't know." She flung the words from her contemptuously, as if they scorched her tongue. "You killed him because you feared he would live long enough to tell something he knew about you."

"Oh!" Dean was beginning to see a faint glimmering of light. The theory just put forth by the girl was the same as the one Littleby had suggested during the conversation on the balcony. Coming from the lawyer, the dark hints had failed to disturb him to any great extent, but their repetition by the murdered man's daughter seemed to clothe them in a new significance.

"So, the estimable Mr. Littleby has been talking to you," he remarked. "That explains. You must trust him exceedingly to take his word for a thing like that."

"I didn't have to take Mr. Littleby's word for it," she rejoined, looking at him as if his very presence in the room inspired her with unspeakable shudders. "Father told me himself."

"Your father?" Dean suddenly wondered if she were raving. "When?"

"Day before yesterday."

Dean shook his head despairingly. "How could he tell you of something that only happened a short while ago? Besides, it was my understanding that you were not allowed to see him?"

"But I was permitted to talk with him over the telephone." She cast a quick glance at the instrument in the rear of the room. "I was not allowed to converse with him more than a few moments, but he told me enough. He seemed to have a warning—call it a premonition if you like—of what was to happen. He told me he had information in his possession which, if it were made known, would send a certain person to the penitentiary. He said this person was desperately anxious that he should not have a chance to reveal what he knew. Father also said that if he should come to a sudden and violent end, I would know whom to suspect. He mentioned the person's name, and told me I mustn't forget it. It was Thomas Dean."

Dean gazed at her in dull stupor. There was a dizzying churning in his head.

Was the girl's mind reeling, or had her father been out of his senses when he made that astounding statement over the telephone?

"It's all an absurd mistake," he managed to say, coming forward hesitatingly. "Look at me, Miss Lamont. Do I look like a murderer?"

"No, you don't," she said coldly. "You look like an honorable man. When you first came into the room, I wanted to trust you. You looked like the kind of man I could place confidence in. That's what makes you doubly dangerous—and doubly dispicable." She retreated with an expression of intense aversion as he came closer. "Don't touch me! You should be turned over to the police, but all I want is that you go away from me. I can't endure the sight of you."

Dean made a despairing gesture. He could see that she was hysterical, that further arguments were of no avail, that his presence in the room revolted her—and all the while he felt an absurd, unreasoning impulse to take her in his arms and soothe her. Resisting the urge, he made one more attempt:

"Is there nothing I can do to convince you?"

She merely shook her head and motioned him away from her, and in the same instant a voice came from the little hall just outside the room:

"Ask him, Miss Lamont, where he was when the shot was fired that killed your father."

Both turned their heads in the direction whence the voice came. In the doorway, erect and lugubrious, stood Dennis Littleby.

KEITH HERD DRAWS NATION

Herefords Shown at Dallas Fair

By FRED L. HASKETT
Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Oct. 16.—The fame of the Keith Hereford farm, owned by George D. Keith of Wichita Falls, is bringing glory not only to Wichita county but Texas as a state where fine range cattle are bred. The Keith herd of show animals, 13 in number, has won a large number of prizes and ribbons this year and the show season is not yet at an end.

The Keith farm is located six miles east of Wichita Falls, and is one of the finest breeding ranches in Texas. On the ranch are more than 100 head of the finest blooded Hereford cattle to be found in America.

The show herd consists of five bulls, four cows and four heifers. One of the feature animals is a junior yearling heifer, Beau Aster Pride 2nd. This splendid heifer has won so many prizes this year that they are difficult to list, says Mr. Keith. She won first in class at San Antonio and Fort Worth; first in class and junior champion at Sedalia; second in class at Des Moines, Lincoln, Topeka and Hutchinson; junior and grand champion at Tulsa; junior champion at Muskogee and Dallas.

Prize Heifer

Rosebelle Domino, a 2-year-old heifer, is also a winner of renown. She was first senior grand champion at San Antonio, first in class at Fort Worth and Sedalia, second in class at Des Moines, senior and grand champion at Lincoln, first in class at Topeka and Hutchinson, senior champion at Tulsa, senior and grand champion at Muskogee and Dallas. She has been beaten only once this season.

Model Mischief, a 2-year-old bull, has won first at Tulsa, Dallas and Muskogee.

Mischief Domino, 1st, yearling bull, won first at Tulsa and Muskogee and second in Dallas.

Young Beau President, a senior bull calf, won first and grand champion at Tulsa and Muskogee, third at Texas State fair in Dallas.

The Keith show herd will leave the Texas State fair for the big shows at Omaha and Wichita, Kansas. The cattle are in much better condition now than when they left the ranch. The herd is in charge of W. B. Mitchell, superintendent of the ranch.

The real show of the year will be entered at Kansas City, following the Wichita fair. This is the American Royal, where the finest Herefords in the world will be found. Mr. Keith is confident that his herd will leave the Royal with many winnings and ribbons.

In the Midwest circuit, held previous to September, the Keith herd went up against the best Herefords in the nation, and won. This is the reason why Mr. Keith feels confident of bringing back to Wichita Falls some of the big prizes. It is doubtful if there has ever been a herd of Herefords that have won such signal honors as the Keith herd in one season.

Keith at Fair

Mr. Keith is attending the state fair in Dallas, where he will be for several days. He expects to attend the American Royal at Kansas City. Superintendent Mitchell is elated over the winnings made and going in the next three big shows confident of his show animals winning.

The results of the winnings of this herd is bringing much advertising to Texas, and especially for Wichita Falls. The Keith herd was founded some 10 years ago and care has been given the foundation herd to produce the present splendid show animals.

Raid to 'Clean Up' Seminole Field Fails

WEWOKA, Okla., Oct. 16. (UP)—A proposed raid last night to clean up the Seminole oil field, freeing it of loiterers and vagrants, failed to materialize.

State officers, headed by J. W. (Buck) Weaver, personal investigator for Governor Johnston, were scheduled to conduct the raid last night.

Hot or Cold Applications

One of the most valuable uses of water is to use it in the form of hot or cold applications to relieve pain or banish congestion. If you will remember that there are just two principal effects of heat or cold applied to the body, you will find it very easy to select the right treatment. Heat applied to the tissues always relaxes muscular fibers. On the other hand, cold will have the opposite effect of contracting the muscles and producing temporary anemia. It is easy to see that in as much as disease and pain are usually accompanied by a contraction of muscular tissues, in most cases relief can generally be accomplished by the application of heat to the congested tissues.

A persistent pain in the abnominal region may be caused by any number of specific irritations which have stimulated the muscles in that section to contract in an effort of the body to avoid further pain by increased tension. The sensitive nerves are really quite cowardly and this contraction is seldom productive of the best results in removing the real irritation which has stimulated the forceful contraction. The blood collects in the tense tissues and the most sensible thing for you to do is to scatter this congestion by the application of hot cloths or hot running water, and thus free the blood circulation which can then readjust metabolism and bring about a quicker cure.

If a small part, such as a finger or toe is struck by a blow, it is often wise to apply cold in the form of an ice pack for a few minutes. This will stop bleeding of the capillary circulation, but this should always be followed by the administration of warm water which is gradually brought up to as high a temperature as the body can stand without burning.

After stopping the flow of blood in the capillaries, it is the best plan to increase the circulation and carry away as much as possible of the dead congested blood which will otherwise stagnate and decompose. If the injury has been of a nature to break in the skin, and the blood is flowing from the wound, it is the best plan to only apply heat. For instance, when a nail is run into the foot, place the foot at once in a pan or tub of hot water and continue this treatment for at least a half hour or longer. This will remove the possibility of blood poisoning developing, and I have seen even well developed cases of septicemia from wounds disappear in an hour's treatment of this kind.

Remember that it is usually best to relax the muscles and encourage freer circulation of the blood if you wish to get the safest good results in all painful conditions caused by sudden injury. If you wish to become well and remain so, you will find that the various uses of water furnish one of the most effective—most easily available, and at the same time, one of the cheapest treatments that you can employ.

Questions and Answers

Question—Mrs. R. K. writes "My husband has a slow but strong pulse of 40 per minute. Is this abnormal or serious when he has an even temperament, with naturally steady, deliberate movements. He is 58 years old, strong and healthy, though thin. His pulse runs as high as 50 when actively engaged. Blood pressure is 130. He is a builder. Would lighter work, with regulated exercise be better?"

Answer: Your husband's pulse is very slow, but as he seems healthy, and his blood pressure is normal, I am sure that he is one of those cases where a particularly low pulse is not harmful. Regulated physical culture exercises would doubtless increase his heart beat to some extent, and should prove helpful in making him less phlegmatic.

Question—M. K. L. asks: "Is there any good method of developing the bust?"

Answer: Exercise of the arms, deep breathing, and swimming will develop the muscles in front of the chest and improve the circulation. This will usually assist in developing the bust.

Question—K. H. writes: "I work in a store and am very frail. My employer insisted that I have a medical examination to see if I had tuberculosis. The report read 'no active tuberculosis' but now my employer says that I have it and that it is only 'arrested.' As I am in danger of losing my job, please explain what 'no active' means."

Answer: The report of your examination simply means that you do not have tuberculosis. There is no evidence that tuberculosis is developed from infection or contagion. If you are frail you must build up your strength and at the same time avoid those foods which are known to be catarrh-forming. Send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will be glad to send you some articles on the subject of the cause and cure of tuberculosis which will show your employer a new viewpoint about this disease.

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLK

As Told by Them to
FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By VAN AND SCHENCK

This duo of vaudeville and musical comedy songsters are said to be responsible for introducing more popular songs than any other "double" in the business. Gus Van is the brawny one whose bass voice used to roar about the banana shortage. His partner, Joe Schenck, is identified as not being Joe Schenck the movie producer. Joe is the one with the infantile face, who plays the piano and who used to babble so much about the "Babbling Brook."

Gus Van

During the score of years the two have trod the boards together they have developed so much in common that they like the same joke.

"'It's a story about a distinguished actor,' Gus began.

"'Oh, yes,' broke in Joe, 'he's quite well known—we played on the same bill with him once. We used to meet in his dressing room after the show.'

"'He had a large photograph of Wordsworth prominently displayed on his wall,' Gus went on. 'And one day Joe here said to him, "I see you are an admirer of Wordsworth."

"'Who's Wordsworth?' asked the actor.

"The acter regarded the portraits with new interest. 'So that's Wordsworth—well I'll be darned. I got him for a study in wrinkles.'"

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MIKE SMITH OF FLOYDADA

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 16.—Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the First Methodist church for Mike Smith, aged 28, who died Friday in Floydada following an appendicitis operation. The body arrived in Electra Saturday and was buried in the Electra cemetery.

Mr. Smith, who was a former resident of Electra and the Clara community for many years, was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Smith, also pioneer settlers of this section. Surviving relatives are his wife, two sons, two brothers, R. E. Smith of Electra and George Smith of Floydada and three sisters, Mrs. Pearl Hedges and Mrs. Jewel Finch of McLean and Mrs. Lizzie Williams of Wichita Falls.

COYOTES PRACTICE FOR CONFERENCE OPENER NEXT SATURDAY

BLACK'S LOSS SEVERELY FELT

Man to Replace Harvey Is Sought for Electra Go

Attempting to discover a punter, passer and quarterback to replace the ineligible Captain Harvey Black, Coach Bud McCallum has spent the greater part of his time this week on developing several promising youngsters for Wichita Falls' game of the Interscholastic schedule Saturday at Electra.

Morris Lee seems to be first pick at quarterback as Dick Hambrick is still unable to participate in hard practice from injuries received in the game with Ardmore High school. Lee also does a considerable amount of passing.

Jud Bell, regular guard, will probably replace Black in punting while Mills looms as the only seasoned ball carrier left on the squad.

Hard Game Forecast

With an even break the Pack should hold the fast little Electra Tigers but inexperience of a large part of the team and the loss of Black cuts heavily into the chances of victory in the conference opener.

Assistant Coach Bill Morris is devoting the greater part of his time to development of the line and has worked the forward wall into fair condition with all its injured members except Howard Scott back in shape. Inexperience is the greatest handicap in the forward wall but the huskiness of the material and the fighting qualities of the leading forward candidates lends considerable strength to the team.

Weeks of hard practice have been heaped upon the linemen and by Saturday they should demonstrate the best form that they have displayed this season.

Beaty to Play Center

One notable change seems likely from indications in this week's practice in that Tom Beaty probably will relieve Monk Hodgkiss at center with the latter moving to tackle for the Saturday game. Hodgkiss has been the ace of the line as pivot all season, though the lanky Beaty is by no means incapable of holding down the berth.

Ross Saye, Jud Bell and Rollin Dixon, all capable linemen, are counted upon to play at guards Saturday while Jack West, Hodgkiss, T. Saye and Goodman Bray round out the most promising of the tackle material.

Pete Powell and Clarence Bains are almost sure to receive starting assignments at ends when the Coyotes engage the Tigers Saturday.

Baer Facts

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A lazy comet came floating out of the luxurious twilight yesterday and did a slow waltz around the Woolworth tower.

It was the Graf Zeppelin on its way to from Berlin to Lakehurst, via the Madeiras, the Azores, the West Indies, with stops at Madagascar and Nova Scotia to put on the dining car.

The pilot of the Zepper must have been using a Mexican jumping bean for a compass.

We had been waiting ever since Saturday for the big air limousine to poke its beak into a New York welcome. But every time we heard from the Zepp it was in a different place like a flea on a dog.

We have seen some Zepps before but this is the mamma blimp. You could easily spot her damaged flipper as she shimmied around New York and then flattened out again for Lakehurst.

She had an escort of 15 or 20 planes which looked like little boys with express wagons trying to hook a ride.

It was difficult to realize that there were 67 people inside that oversize tumor. Even though the journey is ended the Zepp isn't safe yet. Wait until the customs inspectors start pulling the bag inside out and throwing engines and other useless objects overboard.

Then the quarantine officers have got to look the Zepp over for skin disease and falling arches.

If all the tests are all right, and Lady Drummond Hay proves that she can read and write, the Zepp will be allowed to park at Lakehurst.

There is a Zepp bungalow at Lakehurst which is a mile long. The doors are 258 feet wide and 172 feet high.

We'll bet that nobody looks through the keyhole.

We have to be nice to this Zepp because she has been bought by the Spaniards. A crew of toreadors are coming over here next week to kill it after the matadors have teased it.

This Zepping business is all very exciting but we stand united in the subway.

Even if somebody gave us a Zepp we couldn't pay the gas bills.

By an act of the Idaho legislature in 1927, stealing poultry was made a felony, punishable by a maximum sentence of 10 years in jail.

Pilots Here for Saturday and Sunday Races

Left to right in the above picture are Rex Edmonds, in his Chevrolet No. 77; Barney Oman of Detroit in his 16-valve Fontenac No. 9, and Art Hutchins, of Chicago, in a 16-valve Frontenac. This close finish shows Edmonds nosing out Oman and Hutchins on the finish lap of the middle state championship dash, winning the $500 Texeco trophy at the Kansas State fair a few weeks ago. All three drivers arrived in the city yesterday with their mounts ready for the two-day week-end racing meet at the Texas-Oklahoma fairgrounds' half-mile oval, Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

More than two score of professional cars and drivers are in the city already for the two-day card. Eight races are slated for each afternoon, including the six-lap dash for the state championship for the 1928 season and the southwest championship. The feature event of both days will be the 50-lap Texas-Oklahoma sweepstakes classic.

Cochrane Named 'Most Valuable'

Manush Second by 2 Points; Judge, Lazzeri Tie

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. (US)—Gordon Stanley Cochrane, catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, today was named the most valuable player to his club in the American league.

Cochrane is 25 years old, a native of Bridgewater, Mass., and was purchased in 1924 by Connie Mack for $50,000 from the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league.

The selection was made by the league's commission of eight baseball writers, who gave Cochrane a total of 53 points. Henry Manush, St. Louis outfielder, was second choice with 51 points and Joseph Judge, Washington first baseman, and Tony Lazzeri, Yankee first baseman, tied for third place.

Willie Kamm

Willie Kamm, White Sox third baseman and Leon Goslin, Washington outfielder, were fourth and fifth in the selections. Injuries which handicaped Goslin and Lazzeri were regarded as working against them in consideration of the award, which carries with it $1,000 in cash.

Four of the eight members of the commission placed Cochrane as first choice, while three made him second choice. One member did not vote for him at all, picking Jimmy Foxx as the Athletics' most valuable player.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, New York stars, were not eligible for the award, having been previously honored.

All Vote for Manush

The league commission reported that every member voted for Manush, two placing him first, one second, four third and one fifth. Lazzeri and Waite Hoyt, Yankee pitching star, were the only other players voted first choice, each receiving one first choice vote.

Cochrane received only four votes in 1926 and was ranged 18th in the 1927 selections. Manush received 16 votes in 1926 when he led the league in batting but received none a year ago. The commission selecting Cochrane was made up of the following writers:

Harry Neily, Chicago American; Paul Shannon, Boston Post; Ed Bang, Cleveland News; H. G. Salsinger, Detroit News; W. B. Hanna, New York Herald-Tribune; James Isaminger, Philadelphia Enquirer; J. Ed Wray, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and Denman Thompson, Washington Star. The official vote follows:

Player and Club—Position	Points
Gordon Cochrane, Philadelphia, catcher	53
Henry Manush, St. Louis, outfield	51
Joseph Judge, Washington, first base	27
Anthony Lazzeri, N. Y., 2nd base	27
William Kamm, Chicago, third base	16
Leon Goslin, Washington, outfield	13
Earl Combs, New York, outfield	13
Charles Gehringer, Detroit, second base	12
Charles Myer, Boston, third base	11
Waite Hoyt, New York, pitcher	8
James Foxx, Phila., catcher, 1st, 3rd	7
Joe Sewell, Cleveland, short-third	6
Luke Sewell, Cleveland, catcher	6
Ira Flagstead, Boston, outfield	5
Edward Morris, Boston, pitcher	4
Harry Heilmann, Detroit, outfield	4
Carl Lind, Cleveland, second base	4
William Cissell, Chicago, shortstop	4
Owen Carroll, Detroit, pitcher	3
Harry Rice, Detroit, outfield	3
Lew Fonseca, Cleveland, utility	2
Ted Lyons, Chicago, pitcher	2
Urban Hodapp, Cleveland, third base	2
Alex Metzler, Chicago, outfield	1
William Regan, Boston, second base	1

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

SOUTHWESTERN TEAMS have not fared so well in intersectional grid games to date in this hectic campaign. That is, in the matter of victories. Only one win to four reversals has been scored by an eleven of this section in combat with clubs of other parts of the country that by Texas Aggies over Sewanee. Victories of Army over S. M. U., Mississippi over Arkansas, Vanderbilt over Texas and Centenary over Aggies have been scored against southwestern elevens, but except in the case of the Porkers, the games were hard fought against the best of opposition and no prestige was lost.

◆ ◆ ◆

SOUTHERN TEAMS have won five and lost six intersectional games. In addition to wins of the south over the southwest, South Carolina beat Chicago and Vandy trimmed Colgate. Defeats of Loyola by Notre Dame, Sewanee by Texas Aggies, Georgia by Yale, North Carolina by Harvard, Virginia Poly by Colgate and Centre by Missouri have been suffered by southern teams, though in some instances it wasn't representative elevens of below the Mason and Dixon line engaging among the best teams of other sections. Virginia has a scoreless tie to show with Princeton.

◆ ◆ ◆

The east has five wins and two losses to show in intersectional competition. This on the premise that West Virginia is an eastern team. As West Virginia confines its football almost entirely to eastern opposition, the Mountaineers are included in that section. Puzzling indeed is the geographic rating of some teams however. One wire service rates Nebraska and other teams of the Missouri valley section as in the southwest. But to return to the east and its intersectional football, it has wins of Army over S. M. U., West Virginia over Haskell, Yale, Harvard and Colgate in other above-named games. Colgate and Navy sustained defeats, the latter at the hands of Notre Dame.

◆ ◆ ◆

MIDDLE WESTERN elevens have scored five runs against one defeat. This includes the victories, as enumerated previously in this column, of Notre Dame over Loyola and Navy, Indiana over Oklahoma and Chicago over Wyoming, and Chicago's loss to South Carolina.

◆ ◆ ◆

TWO FAR WESTERN clubs, neither of them representative of the best football out there, have been beaten in ventures with squads of other regions, the reversals suffered by Wyoming and Montana State. Missouri valley district teams have broken even, in Oklahoma's loss to Indiana and Nebraska's triumph over Montana State.

Report That Yost Quits Michigan Meets Denial

Pennant Winning Clubs of Boston Never Have Lost World's Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—They make fun of Boston's ball clubs, yet of the 11 cities in the two major baseball leagues the Massachusetts metropolis is the only one that has been represented in two or more world's series without tasting defeat in the diamond classic.

When the Boston Red Sox won the American league pennant in 1912, the fans of the Hub, without regard for their league sympathies, organized "The Boston Royal Rooters" to root for Boston pennant winners in the world's series. Since then they have been in action six times and on each occasion were enabled by the result to use their various noise-making devices to the limit.

That year the Red Sox defeated the New York Giants and two years later the Royal Rooters were on hand doing their stuff when George Stallings' "miracle team" took four straight from Connie Mack's formidable American league champions.

The Red Sox kept the Royal Rooters busy the next two years while they were winning the baseball championship from the Phillies in 1915 and from the Brooklyn club in 1916. The Rooters had a year off in 1917, but were back on the job in 1918 when the Red Sox won from the Chicago Cubs.

The fans in Cincinnati and Cleveland also know only how it feels to be with a winner, but in each of those cities the fans experienced the thrill only once, their respective teams winning on their only appearances in the post-season games, Cincinnati in 1919 and Cleveland in 1920.

The Yankee-Cardinal games this season marked the 25th meeting between the pennant winners of the American and National leagues. With respect world's series victories the count now stands 15 to 10 in favor of the junior circuit.

The Giants and Yankees have given the fans of New York more opportunities to root in world's series than have been enjoyed by those of any other big league city. Between them, the clans of McGraw and Huggins have won 16 pennants, which have enabled the New York fans to witness 12 world's series. The discrepancy is accounted for by the fact that there were no post-season games in 1904, one of the Giants' pennant-winning years and because for three years the two New York teams had the world's series all to themselves.

The New York teams each have won three world's series and their total is equalled in Boston by the five victories of the Red Sox and one of the Braves.

How the teams have fared in world's series is shown below:

National League—	Won	Lost
New York	3	6
Pittsburgh	2	2
Chicago	2	3
Boston	1	0
Cincinnati	1	0
St. Louis	1	1
Philadelphia	0	1
Brooklyn	0	2
Totals	10	15
American League—	Won	Lost
Boston	5	0
Philadelphia	3	2
New York	3	3
Chicago	2	1
Cleveland	1	0
Washington	1	1
Detroit	0	3
St. Louis	0	0
Totals	15	10

ROGERS SEEMS CHICAGO BOUND

Cubs Refuse to Affirm or Deny Deal for Hornsby

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. (AP)—Whether Rogers Hornsby, the much tossed-about manager of the Boston Braves, would appear in the Chicago Cubs' lineup next season was more or less a conjecture today as President William J. Veeck of the Cubs would neither deny nor confirm the rumor.

"I am in no position to say anything at present," said President Veeck. "We would like to have Hornsby, as would any other club in the major leagues, and are in the market for available good players to bolster up the team."

Veeck declined to deny reports that the Cub management was negotiating with Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston club, for the transfer of Hornsby's contract.

Rumors of the trade, one of the most important in baseball history, have been circulated since the start of the world series. At that time both Veeck and Fuchs denied they had discussed the possibility of the Boston manager joining the Cubs. Hornsby, however, said he expected to be wearing a Cub uniform next season.

Here's Terrible News; New Soccer War Looms

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. (AP)—Organized soccer, something of a storm center of controversies of late, developed another spirited dispute today when the Philadelphia Football club, Inc., applied to Supreme Court Justice Ingraham for a writ of mandamus to force the club's reinstatement in the American Soccer league, Inc., from which it was ousted last fall. Decision was reserved.

Attorneys for the club argued that the order of expulsion giving it three weeks to sell its franchise caused grave financial loss.

Cobb and Illini Nine Visit Japan This Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. (AP)—Ty Cobb's one-man baseball expedition to Japan will be the second American invasion of the Orient this year.

The University of Illinois club went over during the summer and played several university teams.

Cobb will play as a member of the Japan teams in a series of about 10 games.

Football Upsets Upset Dailey's Record

Average Declines From .875 to .808 in Week

The upsets and many games between elevens of equal strength caused Larry Dailey to drop several points in his percentage of forecasting grid winners last Saturday. Out of 48 games he picked 32 winners and had 14 losers and two ties. That was more losses and ties in one day than in previous weeks combined.

Dailey still has a mark of .808 for the season, but from now on all the games are tough ones to forecast, and he probably will drop as many points again as last week, when he fell from .857 to .808.

Following are the forecasts and scores of last week's games, the predicted score named first and the actual count second:

S. M. U.-Simmons 20-0, 6-0.
Texas-Vanderbilt 14-7, 12-13.
Texas Aggies-Centenary 13-6, 0-6.
Baylor-Arkansas 16-13, 0-14.
T. C. U.-Austin, 14-0, 21-0.
Rice-Trinity 13-6, 20-6.
Texas Tech-St. Edward's 10-7, 13-0.
Tulane-Georgia Tech 13-7, 0-12.
Washington and Lee-Kentucky 21-0, 0-6.
Alabama-Mississippi 26-0, 46-0.
Iowa-Chicago 14-6, 13-0.
Michigan-Indiana 13-0, 0-6.
Minnesota-Purdue 14-7, 15-0.
Ohio State-Northwestern 13-0, 10-0.
Illinois-Coe 27-0, 31-6.
Wisconsin-Cornell 30-0, 49-0.
Kansas-Washington 14-0, 7-7.
Missouri-Centre 27-0, 80-0.
Nebraska-Montana State 21-0, 26-6.
Navy-Notre Dame 10-0, 0-7.
Iowa State-Grinnell 13-0, 0-3.
Oklahoma Aggies-Creighton 14-6, 0-37.
Kansas Aggies-Hays 32-0, 22-7.
Amherst-Haverford 13-0, 12-23.
Army-Providence 20-0, 44-0.
Brown-Dayton 17-0, 13-7.

Cardinals Declare Dividend of $50,000

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16. (AP)—A dividend of 20 per cent was declared today by stockholders of the St. Louis Cardinal baseball club. Sam Breadon, president, will receive approximately $30,000 of the $50,800 to be distributed.

This is the third dividend declared by the present Cardinal organization since its inception in 1917, and the largest to date. Dividends have been curtailed by heavy investments in minor league clubs to develop players. The 1928 dividend is twice that paid after the pennant and world championship victories of 1926.

Saints Meet Southwestern; H. Payne Faces Austin

By HAROLD BANKS

DALLAS, Oct. 16 (AP).—Texas conference football squads, which in early season contests consistently refused to enact doormat roles in tilts with Texas, Rice, S. M. U. and T. C. U., square off this week in two gridiron battles which bear the earmarks of being determining factors in the quest for titular honors.

St. Edwards and Southwestern, two of the strongest offensive clubs in the Bix Six, take the field at Georgetown and Howard Payne goes to Sherman to meet Austin college's Kangaroos.

The Saints, beaten last week by the powerful Texas Tech Matadors, have recovered from the flush of victory occasioned by their unexpected victory over Rice the week before, and are being carefully groomed for the game.

Both in Good Shape

St. Edwards came out of the melee with the plains eleven suffering nothing but bruises and will be ready for the Pirates with their full strength. Southwestern probably will be without the services of Capt. Wesley Blackburn, the team's best passing, punting and ball carrying threat, but Janick and Young of the Buccaneers will likely provide an interesting afternoon for their foes.

Howard Payne, long a monarch of all it surveys in the conference, faces a Tartar in Austin college, whose recent showing has cast a threatening shadow across the pathway of championship aspirants. The little Red team, previously considered an also ran, has injected a new angle into the situation by soundly drubbing Abilene Christian college, 36 to 0, and four days later playing the best game against T. C. U. that the Horned Frogs have experienced this year.

Ten days ago the Yellow Jacket-Kangaroo clash would have been considered settled before the opening whistle. Now it looms as a bitterly-fought grid battle on which the eyes of North Texas will be focused.

Two Draw Byes

Trinity and Simmons have drawn byes so far as competition within the ranks of their organization is cocerned, meeting T. I. A. A. members.

After having bowed down to three Southwest conference members, A. & M., Baylor and Rice, Trinity faces a comparatively easy assignment in the Southwest Texas Teachers at San Marcos.

Simmons, whose stock took a sharp upward trend as a result of the team's great stand against S. M. U. last week, journey to Canyon, where they meet West Texas Teachers' college, a team which has been pointed for the Cowboys. The big Simmons squad, craftily coached by Frank Bridges, one time Southwest conference mentor, should find the Teachers no difficult hurdle unless their recent showing has created an exaggerated opinion as to their prowess.

Kopecky Takes Rough Mat Bout

Dempse Moore Scores K. O. In Third Round

Joe Kopecky, substituting for Bobby Chick, defeated George Barnes in a rough and tumble mat last night at Spudder park Kopecky won in three falls in a bout that was held under New York commission rules and fought to every advantage by the principals, much to the amusement of the customers.

Kopecky won the first fall in 25 minutes with a flying toehold. Barnes took the second fall in two minutes with a dazzling body slam. Kopecky came back to win the third and decisive fall in 10 minutes, by slamming Barnes to the canvas.

Dempse Moore, Wichita Falls light heavyweight, engaged in his first mill here for several weeks and scored a knockout in the third round of a carded six-round go with Joe Hewitt of Ponca City, Okla. Hewitt, said to be a sparring partner of Babe Hunt, gave Dempse a very good argument until brought down by the dynamic fists of the local puncher. It was an interesting scrap.

Smith Wires Regards To Zeppelin Commander

SEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 16. (UP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith today wired Dr. Hugo Eckner, commander of the Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst, N. J., his congratulations to himself and members of the crew on the successful trip of the giant ship across the Atlantic.

WINS FAIR TRIP

TYLER, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP)—Cone Beckham, member of the Smith County Boys' Corn club, won a trip to the State Fair of Texas and is likely to take the capital prize in a Kiwanis club corn contest, by growing 111 bushels on one acre of his father's farm near here.

The yield is more than four times that of the average acre in East Texas.

Governor Assails Claims of Economy

of millions of its citizens; that it would tolerate long and useless discussion instead of going ahead with the work and completing it," Smith told the citizens of this region, whose congressional representtives have fought for government financing of flood relief.

Republican Myth

Smith summoned a new array of material to bolster his argument against " the Republican economy myth." He said the Republicans had inherited $2,600,000,000 of war assets from the Wilson administration. He characterized President Coolidge as the great apostle of economy and charged that appropriations for running the White House had been increased 100 per cent from 1921 to 1928. He added parenthetically at that point that Republicans claimed some of the increase was spent for remodeling the White House roof, saying "certainly if there is a man in the United States who wants the White House safe to live in, I am that man."

Continuing his expose he said expenditures of government departments jumped $200,000,000 from 1924 to 1927. He charged the government spends exorbitant sums for rents. He told how building sites had been bought in Brooklyn, Binghamton, Chicago, Richmond and Pittsburgh since 1915 and have not been used or sufficiently provided for. There are 100 sites throughout the country on which no building have not been constructed, he said.

Neglect by the government has caused Indians to die rapidly of disease, he charged, citing a report of former Secretary of Interior Work, now Republican campaign manager. He quoted the secretary of war as saying army housing conditions "almost amount to a national scandal."

Smith said he had found a letter from former Secretary of Interior Fall to President Harding thanking the president for a compliment of General Dawes on efficiency in the interior department. "This letter was written at the very time that the secretary was taking the first steps to get conrol of the naval oil reserves so that he migh lease them to private interests from which, according to record, the private interests were to make one hundred millions dollars," Smith added. "There is economy and efficiency for you, running wild."

The governor charged the administration with what he called "trick bookkeeping" designed, he said, to burden succeeding administrations through deferred appropriations. He chided the Republicans for taking the red and blue stripes from mail bags for economy and told of a case of "spoiled soused seal shoulders" shipped from Alaska on which $20 was claimed to have been saved by selling them for grab bait.

Day of Political Fun

The speech concluded a day of rollicking political fun among the thousands of Democrats from St. Louis, Kansas City, Joplin, St. Joseph, Springfield and numerous towns from which special trains were operated. There were hundreds of marchers who staged impromtu parades through the streets and hotel lobbies, singing "The Sidewalks of New York," to the accompaniment of several fiddlers and sometimes to no accompaniment whatever.

The town ran out of food before 3 p. m. and several restaurants were closed. "We haven't an ounce of food left," proprietors said when hungry visitors appealed for a cup of coffee. Extra supplies had been laid in, but they were not sufficient to provide for the large crowd.

The brown derby was the emblem of the day. It seemed as if every other man on the street wore one. They were peddled by street vendors and prominently displayed in all men's furnishing shops.

NO FISH

DALLAS, Oct. 16. (UP)—A visitor to the state fair here was so curious to know if the large fountain near the entrance contained goldfish that he leaned far over the pool and fell in. "Nope there ain't any goldfish," he said as he climbed out and shook the water from his clothes.

Calls for Cotton Pickers Are Filed

BRADY, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP)—Calls from nine west Texas counties for 11,000 cotton pickers and maize headers have been filed with the Brady bureau of the United States department of labor.

Reports state that cotton picking and maize heading in west Texas will be continuous for the next three months.

The most recent sections calling for cotton pickers are: Lynn, Hale, Lubbock, Hall, Dawson, Briscoe, Dickens, Garza and Floyd counties.

Dairy Work Pushed In Coleman County

COLEMAN, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP)—Attempting to encourage the formation of registered dairy herds in Coleman county, Elmo V. Cook, member of the agricultural department of the local chamber of commerce, is organizing bull circles among livestock raisers.

Jersey bulls, bearing the register of merit, will be distributed to farmers if sufficient interest is manifested in the movement.

Station Thronged

At Jersey City, a large crowd thronged the railroad station and pier, cheering the fliers to the echo as they made their way from the train to the waiting city tugs, Macomb and Manhattan.

Sirens, bells and throaty tugs' whistles greeted the Macomb as it turned up the bay and headed for the Battery. The band aboard the boat blared American airs through most of the trip while the Macomb's screeching siren kept those at the battery informed of its progress.

At the Battery a committee greeted the fliers. They were hurried into the waiting fleet of cars and the ride up lower Broadway—which every transatlantic flier must make—began

The crew was the guest of the city at a dinner tonight and was to attend a midnight performance of a Broadway revue.

Plans for the remainder of their stay in the city are still in formulation.

COOLIDGE TO BE HOST TO OCEAN FLIERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, First Officer Lehman and three German passengers on the dirigible's first transatlantic voyage, will be entertained by President Coolidge at a White House breakfast Friday, it was announced today.

The commander of the giant dirigible may remain in Washington until Saturday, it was said.

Present plans for the entertainment of the Graf Zeppelin officals and passengers call for the White House visit, a luncheon by Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary of war, a visit to Arlington, a reception at the German embassy and a dinner dance Saturday evening.

ZEPP TO VISIT SEVERAL CITIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP).—Dr. Hugo Eckener expects to start the Graf Zeppelin on its return flight to Germany in about 10 days.

"But first," he said today, "we will fly to Pittsburgh, Akron, Detroit and perhaps Chicago and some other cities."

With Capt. E. A. Lehman, his first officer, he outlined the future of the huge Zeppelin as he neared the reception New York had prepared.

"The damaged horizontal fin will be fixed by the end of the week," he said. "It is only the cover that is damaged. We will be ready to go back by the end of next week."

"With favorable winds we will probably make the return journey in three days," Captain Lehmann estimated, "but it is not safe to make guesses. I cannot say that the cause of the damage to the fin was. No definite statement should be made until after a complete investigation."

Death Penalty Asked In Drug Addict's Trial

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 16. (UP)—The death penalty was asked today by Deputy County Attorney John Yeager for David Smith, St. Louis drug addict, on trial for the murder of Roy L. Tinkham, druggist, during an attempted holdup of Tinkham's drug store. Smith's partner, Morris Swarts, was given the extreme penalty by a jury two weeks ago.

Building Permits in Lamesa Exceed $250,000

Special to The Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, Oct. 16.—The building permits in Lamesa have exceeded $250,000 since June 1, this year. Local capital is doing the building here. There is still a big demand for rent houses. There is ample labor here to take care of the building now in progress or anticipated.

Five Mexican Rebel Leaders Reported Shot

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16. (UP)—Dispatches from San Luis Potosi tonight said five leaders of the "grand army of liberation" had been executed at dawn after a three-hour court martial hearing Monday night.

Those sentenced to death included Jacinto Loyola, known as "inspector-general of the general revolutionary forces in the state of San Luis Potosi, Guanajuato, and Queretaro.

Kansas Youth Found Guilty of Murder

ELLSWORTH, Kan., Oct. 16. (UP)—William Bascue, 22, who confessed to killing Charles Allen, 70, was found guilty of first degree murder by a jury today. Bascue in his confession stated that he "just took a notion" to kill Allen. Allen, a truck gardener, living near here was killed Sept. 21, and his body was found two days later under a pile of sunflower stalks on his farm.

Grand Jury Ponders Election 'Irregularities'

LAREDO, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP)—Instructed to investigate election irregularity charges made by Sid Hardin, unsuccessful candidate for nomination as representative in the recent Democratic primary, the Webb county grand jury today was attempting to determine whether they "believe anyone violated the law" in the elections or in "making his charges against election officers."

Search Continues for Probable Suicide Victim

BOONVILLE, Mo., Oct. 16. (UP)—Search was continued today for the body of Mrs. Virginia Boss, 60, who disappeared from her Kansas City home and who is thought to have committed suicide by jumping into the Missouri river near here.

HOOVER PLANS GOTHAM SPEECH

Nominee Prepares for Biggest Invasion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UP)—Herbert Hoover had no sooner returned home from his first invasion of the east today then he turned his attention to his second and most important trip into that territory, his visit to New York for a speech Monday night.

The Republican candidate went immediately to his Massachusetts avenue headquarters when he arrived here at 11 o'clock this morning from Boston and took up the rough draft of the address he will make in Madison Square garden. After lunch, to took it to the study of his home and continued work there during the afternoon.

The New York speech will be the high point, not only of the eastern campaign, but of the entire campaign. Hoover will speak to 20,000 people there. As in his Boston address, he will make the keynote "prosperity." His major theme will be the relation between business and government, but the speech will deal also with other subjects.

The New York appearance will be notable also in another respect. It will bring the first campaign speech of Vice President Charles G. Dawes, who was a pre-convention supporter of former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. Dawes hitherto has been in the background. He was one of the backstage leaders in the successful senate fight for the McNary-Haugen farm bill, which Hoover opposes. Dawes will speak for half an hour preceding Hoover.

The Republican presidential candidate will carry to New York, the home town of his Democratic opponent, an entirely different sort of campaign from that of Smith. He will participate in no parades.

The battle for New York has settled down to one of the most intense political struggles of the campaign. Both sides now claim the edge. Hoover will seek to turn the balance on his visit.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP).—Unfavorable weather advices and firm Liverpool cables seemed responsible for advances which carried the price of December contracts up to 19.54 in the cotton market here today, or 29 points above yesterday's closing quotation and the highest figure reached since that delivery sold off to 17.28 last month. December closed at 19.47, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 20 to 26 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 11 to 17 points on the relatively firm showing of the Liverpool market and reports of rains in the south. The initial advance attracted considerable realizing and southern selling, but the offerings were quite readily absorbed by covering and trade buying while there appeared to be a little more buying through commission houses. Offerings increased as prices approached the 19½ cent level for the winter months, but were gradually absorbed, and another spurt of buying right after the publication of the detailed weather reports sent October up to 19.59 while January sold at 19.51, or 29 points above yesterday's losing quotations.

A few stop orders were uncovered on this advance and after they had been executed, the market reacted several points under realizing and a renewal of southern selling. The buying movement continued, however, and the close was within 5 to 7 points of the best on most positions.

An apprehension that the wet weather reported in the south from Oklahoma eastward would be followed by lower temperatures with prospects for frost in Oklahoma and the Texas panhandle was one of the factors on the advance here. Port receipts today were 136,147. U. S. port stocks, 1,689,799. Exports, 48,544, making 1,528,879 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16. (AP)—The cotton market moved into higher price levels today owing to rather general rains in the belt, predictions of frost for the northwest corner of the western cotton region and higher Liverpool cables than due. Despite short lived reactions from time to time, December advanced from an opening of 18.78 to 18.95, or 27 points above the previous close and after a moderate reaction on realizing that option closed at 18.86, or 18 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains of 17 to 19 points.

Liverpool was 2 to 5 points better than due as early reports indicated considerable rain in the belt. First trades showed gains of 10 to 12 points. The market continued to advance on shorts covering and trade as well as speculative buying until near noon. December traded up to 18.92, January to 18.91 and March at 18.82, or 23 to 24 points above the previous close.

After easing off 6 to 9 points on profit taking, the market turned firmer again in the first half of the afternoon session and made new highs at 18.95 for December, 18.93 for January and 18.84 for March or 25 to 27 points above the previous close. In the final hour of trading a renewal of profit taking caused prices to ease off 5 to 9 points from the top, December closing at 18.86, January at 18.86 and March at 18.79, or 18 to 19 points net higher. May closed at 18.65, or 17 points net higher.

Although snow was reported in the western part of Oklahoma and the official forecast called for frost in the Panhandle of Texas as well as in western Oklahoma, much less importance was attached by traders to the cold wave than to the rains.

New Pools, Price Advances and Merger Rumors Boost Oil Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. (US)—Oil shares featured an irregular active market on the stock exchange today, in which total trading approximated 4,500,000 shares with the tape more than 20 minutes late at intervals.

Pan American, Sinclair and Barnsdall moved steadily forward while other petroleum shares held firm with increased demand evidenced coincident with more bullish advices from the main oil fields. New pools, indications of price advances and merger rumors were the main influences to awakening of the group.

Call money was in slightly greater supply and held at 7 1-2 per cent.

General Motors was the most active issue and held part of its gain despite a closing wave of selling that closed most motors and many other industrials net lower. Chrysler was the particular target for professional pressure at the close. Montgomery Ward fell off 12 points in profit taking following dividend announcement. Rails and coppers turned dull but showed firm undertone.

Membership Increase Proposed

Bullish sentiment was enhanced by revival of proposal to increase the membership of the stock exchange. The proposal would not have been revived without the approval of leading brokers and their banking associates. Further, it is believed, the officials of the exchange would not have brought it up again unless they saw great need for a larger membership in the not distant future.

The result was the trading community cried "a world market in securities here" and forecast normal days of 5,000,000 shares when the exchange has the proper facilities for handling such business. There is no doubt that the late tape is keeping domestic business away from the market in some part. If foreign interest in our market increases to the extent forecast therefore, a larger membership would be needed.

There was quiet absorption of Electric Auto Lite noticed ostensibly for the account of those who have been the dominating interests in dealings recently. Like they have operated in Can. General Motors and others have permitted Auto Lite to quietly stabilize itself around present level during recent sessions and attracted some short selling so that the technical position is such as to influence them to more oppressive operation. Somewhat similar development has been taking place in General Motors, those associated with the Big Ten state in explaining its comparative lassitude recently.

Cash Register Climbs

National Cash Register climbed steadily to a new high with activity credited to the group that started working many months ago and who now declare improvement in earnings has exceeded their expectations. Victor was the sensation for awhile coincident with revival of report that ultimately it would go into the radio corporation organization. Relations between the two managements now are very close.

Montgomery Ward stock offering was forecast here many weeks ago. Proceeds therefrom will permit of opening of additional distributing agencies. Linseed's further move to a new high record reflected belief stated here recently that another attempt will be made by Gold Dust to get all of the Linseed stock not under its control at present.

Oils Attractive

Greater prominence of the oil shares was influenced by the developments on individual properties and also by increased interests taken in several companies by outstanding market operating groups. Mexican Seaboard's announcement of its new well brought a new high price for the stock. Its strength was enhanced by indications that further favorable developments are to be expected in the very near future.

Tidewater Associated's good quarterly report caused better demand for that stock with interest therein enhanced by knowledge that it has properties near Tholnew field in California. Pan American move was helped by absorption for the account of certain interests in the Big Ten. Like Sinclair it is expected to figure prominently in merger developments before long.

Foreign exchange held steady with the peseta scoring fair recovery while sterling held to slight fractional range. Commodities remained stronger with professional covering putting both cotton and wheat higher as a result of bullish weather advices.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16 (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Comparatively light sheep receipts stimulated the fat lamb market, and prices were steady to 25c higher; choice range lambs in Chicago reached 13.85; while at St. Joseph and Kansas City 13.50 was scored on choice westerns; the supply estimated at 77,200, was 13,500 less than last Tuesday and 21,000 short of a year ago.

Low trading on cattle and calves prevailed at most points around the 11-market circuit; packers continued to hammer fed steer prices, and majority showed a 15@25c loss, with some sales of weighty steers as much as 50c lower; stocker and feeder trade was draggy at steady to 25c lower values; country demand centered on high quality stock steers averaging under 500 pounds. While the outlet for stockers with weight and feeders was undependable, thin steers purchased on contract have helped to sell the week's receipts; highly finished steers and yearlings at Chicago cleared from $17.00@17.10. The receipts were estimated at 47,900 as compared with 41,952 a week ago and 63,618 a year ago.

Limited shipping orders prompted a 10@25c decline in the hog market; the day's extreme top of $10.25 was paid at Chicago, while at Kansas City, St. Joseph and Omaha, the high mark was $9.85. Total offerings approximated 83,700, a decrease of 7,000 from a week ago but 3,000 more than a year ago.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 8,000; 10@15c lower; top $9.85 on choice 200-280 pounds; butchers, medium to choice 250-350 pounds $9.35@9.85; 160-200 pounds $8.90@9.85; 130-160 pounds $8.25@9.60.

Cattle—Receipts 12,500; calves 2,000; killing classes, steady to weak; top yearling steers $17.00; slaughter steers, good and choice 1300-1500 pounds $12.75@17.00; 1100@1300 pounds $12.75@17.25; 950-1100 pounds $12.75@17.25; fed yearlings, good choice 750@950 pounds 12.75@17.25; heifers, good and choice 850 pounds down $12.25@16.00; cows, good and choice $8.25@11.50; vealers (milk-fed) medium to choice $8.50@14.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

By THOMAS TEMPLE HAYNE

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. (US)—A jumpy bull market that came to a tired close today took the gimp out of enthusiasm for upgoing prices. Both wheat and corn at the end acted as if climbing was too high to be persisted in from the present level.

At the close wheat was up ⅝ to ¾; corn was ⅜ to ⅝ higher; oats ¼ to ½ better; rye was up ⅜ to 1⅛.

At the start prices were higher and the markets acted for a time as if they meant to do business on a mass scale for the bulls. But they lost their kick and sagged off.

Later in the session they developed strength again, only to get tired during the last few minutes before the close and fade away from the tops.

The open interest in wheat showed another big gain for Monday's trading and at the close of that day was 123,181,000 bushels. Here is evidence that some interest is buying plenty of wheat.

But the market itself has to do better than hold its own to put fear into shorts. A lot of the latter have been run in during the last two days, but as their buying did not reduce the open interest it must be presumed that other shorts took the selling end and provided what was wanted.

The market is unsatisfactory and seemed likely to drag lower tomorrow. It may not get far unless liquidation sets in, but buying wheat does not look attractive at present to the rank and file.

The statistics on the wheat situation are so bearish that it is difficult to find any support for a conclusion that prices are going higher except on the theory that there is heavy accumulation because of the belief that a bull market will prevail before election day.

The statistics on corn, on the contrary, present a picture that ought to be a warning to bears. Nevertheless, the market does not come back with the energy the bull might well expect.

Chart players pointed out today that corn on its reaction upward after a break of more than five cents could not get more than half way. At the half-way point the May future faltered and weakened. The other futures could not get up even that far before they developed the same fatigue.

Corn is wanted. The visible supply is now down to very small volume and every indication is that it will shrink considerably more before this month is out. Nevertheless the futures may sell lower before they sell higher.

Ultimately a good bull market in corn seems probable, but for the time being the market may work up and down discouraging traders on both sides of it. Tomorrow an early bulge may not rise to follow with buying.

In the cash market wheat was 1 to 2 up; corn was 1 to 2 up; oats were unchanged to ½ up; rye was steady to 1 off; barley was steady.

Tuf Nut Garment Plant to Hold Formal Opening Here Saturday

Invitations Sent to 20,000 Persons Outside Wichita Falls; Prize Offered in Display of Merchandise

The Tuf Nut Garment Manufacturing company, 505 Travis street, one of the newest of Wichita Falls' industries, is to hold a formal opening Saturday between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m., according to announcement Tuesday by J. B. Fulkerson, general sales manager.

The company has been in operation here about three weeks. In making its bow to the public, over 20,000 invitations have been sent out to merchants and friends of the industry in the surrounding territory. R. A. Nelson, president of the company, has already informed stockholders that he will arrive here from Little Rock, Ark., in time to participate in the opening.

Mr. Fulkerson, who is arranging the celebration, has completed details for the event. An attraction that is expected to enlist co-operation of many merchants is the company's plan to award a prize of $50 for the best window display of Tuf Nut garments. Any merchant in town is privileged to enter the competition. The windows, Mr. Fulkerson said, should be in place Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and at the close of the day Saturday, competent judges will be secured to award the prize.

Visitors at the plant during the day Saturday will be entertained with appropriate music, Mr. Fulkerson said. Employes of the factory will act as guides, and will explain in detail the workings of the new garment factory.

LULL ON WILBARGER FRONT

The heavy barrage of drilling that for the past few weeks which has been under way on the various sections of the Waggoner area on the eastern Wilbarger front came to an abrupt end Saturday at 12 o'clock when R. L. More, field marshal of the Waggoner forces, issued orders to the various operators to cease hostilities. The orders which were sent out from the general headquarters at Vernon, called attention to the necessity of this action on account of the desperate need of water for further operations.

TEXAS PIPELINE COMPANY

The Texas Pipeline company has completed and is testing out its new eight-inch oil line between Olney and the South Bend pool in south Young county. The line which runs a distance of approximately 30 miles will connect with the north Archer line at Olney and will discharge crude from Wilbarger and Archer pools to connect with the main artery at Ranger.

MASONS OPEN LODGE OCT. 20

2,000 Expected Saturday At Ceremonies Here

More than 2,000 Masons from Wichita Falls and suroundling towns are expected to participate in the formal opening Saturday night of the new $100,000 lodge roms which were completed last month in the Masonic temple at Tenth street and Scott avenue, according to Charles Smoot, chairman of the program committee.

The formal services will be in charge of George Montgomery, grand master of the grand lodge of Texas. The grand master will confer a master's degree on a Wichita Falls Mason in the dedication ceremony and deliver the principal address of the occasion.

Open house will be held at the temple from 1:30 until 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The program at the lodge room will begin at 8 o'clock.

The new lodge rooms have been under construction for several months but were turned over to the lodge last month by Taylor brothers, contractors. All furniture in the rooms is new and was built for the Wichita Falls lodge by special order.

The lodge room is located in the rear of the building and is sound proof with roof ventilators. A new library, kitchen and dining room were also constructed in remodeling the temple.

Farmers Move Stock to Safety as River Rises

ARTESIA, N. M., Oct. 16 (AP)—Stockmen and farmers along the Pecos river were reported today to be moving their stock to safety as the result of overflows from the river.

The river was a mile wide and rising as the result of rains to the north and west. The damage was confined to farms along the river's course.

Phone Your Classified Ads to

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad Department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Ads accepted for afternoon papers up until 11 a. m. same day.

Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.

Sunday paper up to 7 p. m. Saturday night.

Same copy in both papers.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 6 p. m. And telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

COURT CALLS 100 WITNESSES

Thornton Forfeits Bond in Burglary Case

Nearly 100 witnesses in criminal cases docketed for next week in 30th district court before Judge E. G. Thornton were subpoenaed Tuesday by Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney. Judge Thornton's docket calls for 15 cases on indictments returned by the October grand jury.

Only one case was called by Judge Thornton Tuesday morning when he forfeited two bonds of Jennie Lee Helm, negress, indicted twice by the July grand jury on burglary charges. The bonds were for $1,000 and $500, signed by Ralph Mathis, G. W. Pond and M. D. Walker.

Next week's docket in 30th district court includes the following cases:

L. E. Smith, theft over $50; J. P. Stout, driving car while intoxicated; Mary Pearson, robbery; T. C. Smith, theft over $50; Sherman Irwin, possession of liquor; Charles Vines, C. I. Woodal and Harlin Hubbard, conspiracy to violate liquor law, possession and transportation of liquor; Walter Scott, theft from person; Edgar Menefee, burglary; Ray Sanders, forgery and passage of forged instruments; C. I. Woodal, driving car while intoxicated; Bob Boyd, driving car while intoxicated; S. V. King, theft over $50; W. J. Padgett, alias Charles Evans, forgery and passage of forged instruments.

Willis Predicts Growth for City

Wichita Falls may grow to be a city of 100,000 population within the next five years if reasonable prosperity is afforded the city, according to R. P. Willis who addressed members of the Real Estate board at the luncheon meeting Tuesday. He spoke on property and leased property valuations in Wichita Falls since "boom" days to the present.

Wichita Falls has witnessed a period of depression which the country as a whole has seen, and the decrease in some property valuation has been due chiefly to the building of inferior structures, he pointed out to the board. Property valuations are now again on a safe basis, he declared, and the outlook for the future of the city is bright.

Following the address, Mr. Willis led a round table discussion on the subject.

Ad Club Plans for Convention Parties

Wives of members of the Wichita Falls Advertising club will assist in entertaining delegates to the tenth district convention here Oct. 21 to 23, it was announced at the Tuesday luncheon meeting in the Kemp hotel.

The women attended the luncheon and discussed with the men the plans for the convention and its entertainment. A ride through the city has been planned for the delegates Sunday afternoon. Women have been invited to attend the Monday and Tuesday luncheons and the banquet and dance Monday evening at the Wichita club. Attention was invited to the talk that Rev. W. M. Wright, pastor of the First Baptist church of Paris, will give at the Memorial auditorium at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

J. H. Allison complimted the work of A. E. Kelly, president of the club, in a short talk.

U. S. Radio Commission Increases Power of Wichita Falls Station

KGKO to Seek Even Greater Range in New Petition to Government, Leaders Announce Here

Radio station KGKO, the National Security Life Insurance company station of Wichita Falls, will broadcast with 250 watts power and at 570 kilocycles or a wave band of 526.2 meters starting Armistice day, Nov. 11, it was announced Tuesday in Associated Press dispatches from Washington, D. C.

An order issued Sept. 10 permitted the local station to use only 100 watts and to broadcast on a low wave band. The order was announced by the federal radio commission as effective Oct. 4.

The order received by wire Tuesday night amends the previous order and gives the station permission to use a less crowded wave band and also to broadcast on a power that will enable it to be heard, under all normal conditions, for 1000 miles.

KGKO was one of a group of stations in widely scattered parts of the country affected by changes by the radio commission Tuesday, the announcement said that further changes might be expected later and made the following statement of reasons for the changes:

"The changes are due in part to the fact that extensive checking has revealed possibilities for deriving greater service to the public on certain channels and for more economical use of daytime hours; in part to the desire to remedy certain injustices to particular stations and certain sections of the country without the expense of a hearing; and in part to the necessity of correcting a few sources of interference."

Following the receipt of the Washington message, J. M. Gilliam, business manager of KGKO, announced that the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce had sent a telegram to Washington on behalf of the local station's fight for permission to broadcast with 1,000 watts power. The telegram said that if necessary to show the truth of the facts heretofore presented to the radio commission and the need for a representative station for this part of the country, a public hearing will be sought.

Cottages Needed for Aged Couples, Says Family Relief Leader Here

"Aged couples who have lived their lives together and who find poverty staring them in the face should not be forced to separate and spend their last days apart."

This statement was made Tuesday by Mrs. Effie McHam, secretary of the Family Relief association.

"Wichita Falls has no place where its poverty stricken, aged couples may spend the last years of their lives together," said Mrs. McHam.

"If the old folks are admitted to the county farm, the men must go with the men and the women must go with the women.

"One of the greatest problems I face in my work is what to do with these people. I have not the heart to tear apart two people who have gone through life together."

Mrs. McHam said the suggestion had been made that the erection of several small cottages at the farm or even of a building with rooms large enough to accommodate couples might answer the question.

Weeks to Tell Of Colonization

ture with stereoptican views of his projects which will prove of interest to all citizens of Wichita Falls and surrounding territory, Mr. Harrell said. A special invitation has been extended poultry and dairymen of the vicinity. He will also address the business council of the chamber of commerce at the regular Friday luncheon meeting.

Other Projects

Mr. Kemp expressed himself as especially impressed with the newest of Mr. Weeks' ventures, the colonization of 600 acres of land into one-acre tracts with 600 families living on the small poultry farms and specializing in egg production. The year's revenue from this 600-acre tract of land is estimated by Mr. Weeks to be approximately $1,000,000. Marketing of the products of the colony is the feature of the project, Mr. Kemp said.

"Cooperative marketing is what Wichita Falls most needs and through plans advanced by Mr. Weeks it will be possible to aid poultry and dairy farmers materially in directing the movement for getting the best results for such products. What we need here is scientific instruction in getting the best results fro mpoultry and dairy farming.

"I think the illustrated lecture to be given here Friday evening one of the most important ever given in the city and one ethat all citizens and especially all poultry and dairy farmers might well attend."

Mr. Weeks has specialized in poultry farming and has obtained phenomenal success from his ventures in colonization and fertilization of soil in California for the last 25 years.

Community Builder To Be Mailed Today

The October number of the Wichita Falls Community Builder, official publication of the chamber of commerce, has just come off the press and will be mailed out Wednesday, according to Miss Florence Jackson, publicity director of the chamber of commerce.

The cover carries a picture of the new building of the First Methodist church, South. The feature picture of the issue is that of the 60 old settlers who attended the chamber of commerce luncheon given in celebration of the 46th birthday of Wichita Falls last month.

Wichita Police Nab Kansas Convict Here

A man alleged to have escaped from the state penitentiary at Hutchinson, Kan., July 9 was arrested by Wichita Falls police Tuesday afternoon.

The accused man aroused suspicion when he attempted to cash a check in a local bank, and was arrested. His finger prints were found to coincide with the escaped Kansas convict's upon investigation by C. W. Jenson, Pat Allen and J. B. Flenneken, city officers.

He was sentenced to the Kansas penitentiary for automobile theft.

100 ATTEND CHURCH MEET

School of Missions to Open November 19

Approximately 100 delegates representing 15 churches attended the monthly meeting of the Wichita-Archer Baptist Workers' conference held Tuesday in the Lory Memorial Baptist church here. Next month's conference will be held in the Thrift Baptist church.

Rev. Glenn N. Neafus, pastor of Iowa Park church, was ele cted permanent chairman of the organization for the ensuing year and members adopted plans for a school of missions to be hel din all of the churches of Wichita and Archer counties the week beginning Nov. 19. 0Decision followed an address by Mrs. J. H. Tanner of Electra whose subject was "A School of Missions in Every Church."

Rev. W. H. Townsend, pastor of Lamar Avenue church, Wichita Falls, presided at the sessions of the conference which opened at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Devotionals were conducted by Rev. J. L. Walters, pastor of Lory Memorial church and addresses were delivered during the day as follows: "Elements of Victory in the Baylor Campaign," Rev. Miles B. Hays, pastor of the Burkburnett church; "Essentials in the Program of the Baylor Campaign," Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of First church, Wichita Falls. Rev. J. R. Balch, pastor of the Seymour church, also discussed the Baylor campaign in an address during the afternoon. Members of the association were guests of the Lory Memorial church at a luncheon held in the church parlors at noon, the meeting closing following Mrs. Tanner's address.

Jury Convicts Clyde Thompson

and the Shooks, could see everything.

"I heard a shot and saw Leon stagger. He groaned. Lucian cursed Clyde and Clyde shot him, then shot Leon twice, then shot Lucian two times more. Lucian screamed and threw the lantern and horn at Clyde. Lucian fell and Clyde beat him in the head with the pistol. I told Thomas for us to run, but he said Clyde would kill us. Shook was on the ground and I heard him say: 'Please don't.' Clyde hit him again." Woodrow said.

Pockets Looted

The boy testified that he saw Clyde take a watch and some money from Lucian's pocket. Saw him search Leon and hit him on the head with the pistol.

Thompson, Thomas and the witness then decided to get the Shook automobile and take the bodies to the Shook shack and burn them with the building. Woodrow testified, but they could not get the car through the fence, so Clyde took some clothes and they went back to the Davis home.

"On the way home Clyde said, 'Well, I got 'em, didn't I?' and Thomas said 'Yes, you got 'em but they will get you before long'." Woodrow testified.

W. R. Thompson, father of Clyde, testified that his son was born on Oct. 5, 1911, and was under 17 years of age at the time of the slayings.

Arguments Completed In $27,200 Damage Suit

Arguments in the $27,200 damage suit of Miss Inez Giles against the North Texas company were completed in 78th district court before Judge W. W. Cook Tuesday afternoon. Judge Cook took the case under advisement, telling attorneys he would render a verdict within the next two days.

Miss Giles alleged she suffered a cold which led to more serious complications as a result of alterations made in a building which she and her mother had rented from the defendant company.

MONK GETS ANGRY

HOUSTON, Oct. 16. (AP)—After submitting meekly to the fondling of children in the neighborhood for months, a monkey joined the "anti-petting society" and bit Miss O'Die Keating, 23, so severely that she had to undergo treatment at a Houston hospital.

CHEST FIXES $65,000 GOAL

Directors to Approve Budget for Year

The budget of the Wichita Falls Community chest for 1928-1929 was tentatively set at $54,600 and the dates for the drive for funds at Nov. 25 to 30 at a meeting of the budget endorsement and campaign committee in the Memorial auditorium Tuesday.

It has been the custom of the board of directors of the chest, which will review the report at a meeting to be held in the near future, to approve the report and recommendations of the committee. chest met with the budget endorse-

The finance committee of the ment and campaign committee, and also recommended that the drive this year be for $65,000. The $10,400 difference is to allow hor shrinkage.

All budgets were cut under the amount sought by the individual member organizations. The total budget recommended, however, was $2100 more than last year. This was due mainly to the increase in the total allotted to the Family Relief association.

Organizations and their budgets this year and last year follow:

Name—	1928-29	1927-28
Day Nursery	$5,470	$5,000
Salvation Army	6,500	6,000
Chest Administration	3,500	3,500
Camp Fire Girls	33,00	3,500
Boy Scouts	7,000	7,500
Family Relief	12,500	10,300
Childrens' Aid Society	5,000	5,000
Y. W. C. A.	6,500	7,500
Travelers' Aid	3,130	3,000
Colored Day Nursery and Charities	1,800	1,800
Total	$54,600	$52,500

Douglass Asks City to Guard Against Frozen Water Pipes

Winter freezes will soon be here, and the danger of frozen pipes and ruined floors was emphasized Tuesday by Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the water department, in a warning to make preparations for colder weather.

"Every home should be equipped with a water cutoff," Dr. Douglass said.

"Now is the time to attend to it. Homes not yet equipped should call plumbers and have the cutoffs installed at once. This procedure is much easier than waiting until the freeze comes.

"The cutoff enables the person occupying a house to shut off the water in periods of severe cold so that the pipes will not freeze and burst."

SMITH GOES TO TYLER POST

Theater Manager to Head Dent Enterprises

Hans Smith, manager of the Majestic and Strand theaters, will leave Wednesday for Tyler where he has been appointed to take over the management of the Dent theaters there.

Mr. Smith has been here in his present capacity for the last two and one-half years. He was associated with T. B. Noble Jr., now in Amarillo, and was until his recent appointment, associated with H. T. Federer, manager of the Dent theaters here.

TAX VALUES SHOW INCREASE

$1,747,590 Increase Made Over 1927

The gross valuation of the city of Wichita Falls for city tax purposes is $51,913,700 instead of the $51,500,000 originally estimated for this year, it was revealed at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday when the recapitulation of the city tax rolls was finally completed.

This is an increase of $1,747,590 over 1927 when the total was $50,166,110.

With the tax rate the same this year as last, $1.40 per hundred dollars valuation, the net taxes will jump $24,446.26 from $702,325.54 in 1927 to this year's $726,791.80 if all taxes are paid.
