Harvest of $6 Million Cotton Crop Nears End in County

Harvesting Collingsworth county's six million dollar cotton crop is almost finished, with an estimated not more than two thousand bales remaining in the field.

Wednesday gin managers reported a total of 37,187 bales ginned so far. This is at least ten thousand bales more than was expected in the weeks before the harvest began.

It was a year that saw the highest yields ever made in this area—two and a half bales per acre cotton on land that was irrigated and fertilized.

When the crop is finished, the yield on the county's approximately 66,000 acres will be between a half and two thirds bale, ginners estimate.

A considerable amount of bale per acre cotton on dry land was reported. This also is fertilized cotton. In the area near Dodson, bale and a quarter dry land cotton was reported.

In some sections, at least 15 per cent of the crop was accounted for by the late top crop that was allowed to mature when farmers did not defoliate but waited for frost.

But it was an expensive crop.

"Unless we can get insect control cheaper, we're in trouble," said Ed Crowder of Dodson. "The farmers made a little money this year, but a smaller crop would be a different story."

Grades held up well and so did prices, according to Jack Kopp of Farmers Co-op.

"We've had hardly any bad cotton at all," Mrs. Marvin Wynn, manager of the Davis Gin at Dodson, said.

Only in the Quail area is there an appreciable amount of cotton left—an estimated 10% of the crop. This is all dry land cotton, although most of it is fertilized, and there has been a considerable amount close to a bale per acre and the community average is estimated at around a half or little better.

Not more than a hundred bales remain to be harvested north of Salt Fork, ginners there reported.

Benefit Performance

Harlem Stars Here for Game Jan. 23

The Wellington Classroom Teachers Association is sponsoring a basketball game between the hilarious Harlem Stars and a team of teachers and other local men under Coach James Stavenhagen.

The game is slated for Thursday, Jan. 23 in the high school gym at 7:30 p.m.

This is a benefit performance and all proceeds by the local group will go into the Scholarship Fund of the Classroom Teachers Association, according to Ralph Word, who is working with the group.

Advance tickets are on sale at B&B News Stand or they may be bought from any member of the Classroom Teachers Association.

Advertised as the funniest basketball team in the country, the Stars are a combination of Negro stars who tour the world making people laugh.

Fans will see a fancy exhibition of razzle dazzle ball handling, intricate routines both planned and impromptu comedy and all sorts of shenanigans.

The Harlem Stars are unique in that they never try to run up a big score against opponents. It is their policy to keep the game close, devoting much time to comedy.

Boid Buie is the Stars' owner.

Playing with the Stars are Young Blood Curtis of Los Angeles; Big Maurice Harris of San Antonio; Ed Wallace of Fort Worth; Richard "Honey Bear" Morgan of Los Angeles; Joe "Foggy" Rivers of Springfield, Ohio; and Hollice Clay, who went to the University of Oklahoma and was the first athlete from Hobbs, N.M., high school to make All-American. Buie, who lost one arm in an automobile accident, also plays with the Stars.

The local team is shaping up and announcement of the players will be made next week.

Wellington Nominee

Mrs. Bernice Welch "Teacher of the Year"

Wellington's nominee as the "Teacher of the Year" is Mrs. Bernice Welch, high school English instructor, and an active worker in many of the town's civic enterprises.

Mrs. Welch was nominated by the 1924 Study Club and was presented as that club's candidate during American Education Week. This candidate was selected by the City Federation delegates as Wellington's Teacher of the Year and is a candidate in the Top of Texas District, Outstanding Teacher of the Year contest.

In designating this outstanding teacher, the standards of consideration were scholastic attainments, teaching experience and ability, professional attitude, extra-curricular activities pertaining to her classes and profession, and interest in community, state and national affairs.

Wellington's nominee holds bachelors and masters degrees from North Texas State University and was recipient of the Cora Martin Scholarship this past summer for study in the field of literature and literature application. This scholarship is awarded annually but Mrs. Welch was the first Wellington teacher to receive it.

This teacher has taught all grades in the Wellington school system with the exception of the sixth and twelfth grades. This year she is faculty adviser for FTA and faculty sponsor for the freshman class.

She enjoys her chosen profession and places its activities first before her own personal activities. Many are the times when she has cheerfully declined social and cultural invitations because they conflicted in time with a meeting or event which concerned her pupils.

She does not feel that being able to get a substitute when she must be away relieves her of her responsibility to her pupils; so it is only in dire necessity that she is absent from her professional activities.

She is active in several organizations for teachers. She is a member of Gamma Kappa chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary fraternity for teachers. She has served as an officer and committee chairman in the Collingsworth county unit of TSTA. During presidency of Wellington Classroom Teachers Association, a scholarship has been established for a recipient with intentions of becoming a teacher. Several noted speakers have been brought to Wellington during her administration; also unusual assembly programs such as the NASA mobil unit.

Templeton Asks for Re-Election

In announcing his intention to seek a second term as county attorney of Collingsworth county, R. L. Templeton worded his announcement as follows:

"I have been asked by many friends, both in this county and outside the county, to seek a higher office than I presently hold.

"I appreciate these kind sentiments. But my health is such that I have all the responsibilities that I can handle at the present time. My health has improved noticeably during the three years I have served as your county attorney. If you are satisfied with the manner in which I have carried out the duties of this office, I would appreciate your vote and influence and support in the coming election to be held May 2.

"I hope to see each and every voter personally between now and May 2, but if I should miss seeing you, let me take this opportunity to solicit your vote in behalf of my candidacy for a second term as county attorney of Collingsworth county, Texas."

Mauldin Asks Tax Office

Hubert Mauldin has authorized The Wellington Leader to announce his candidacy for the office of assessor and collector of taxes for Collingsworth county. Mauldin, who formerly held that office, said:

"I am asking for the office on the basis of my experience and on this major promise to the people: If you elect me, I will personally get out and visit the farmers, as well as all property owners. to assess the taxes. I will do everything in my power to make a fair assessment in every case.

"I believe that my past experience, my knowledge of county property, and my knowledge of the operation of the office will enable me to do this.

"My experience in this office goes back to 1946, when I became a deputy assessor-collector. In 1948 I was appointed to the office to fill an unexpired term, and I was re-elected to the office. On Jan. 1, 1951, the office was combined with that of sheriff and I served in the combined office one term.

"During this time I became familiar not only with the office itself, but with the county conditions as they pertain to tax matters.

"I have lived in the county all my life except when serving in the armed forces during World War II. I have farmed south of town for a number of years, also.

"Between now and election time I will try to see each of you, but in case I miss you, please take this as my personal solicitation of your vote."

She was married to Mr. Tennison Dec. 17, 1893 at Sherman, and they later moved to Russell, Okla., where they lived until coming here in 1917.

A devoted member of the Baptist Church since she was 13, Mrs. Tennison also provided the background and inspiration which caused several of her family to enter the ministry of that church.

For a number of years the family lived southwest of Wellington, but after the late Mr. Tennison retired from farming the family home has been at 1204 Amarillo Street.

Split With Paducah

Quails and Bobwhites Win District Opener

The Quail Bobwhites and the Quails won their games at Dodson Friday night with victory over the Dodson Mustangettes and Mustangs in the first district contests for both schools this year.

The Quail girls won 54-26, while the Quails took a 82-34 decision. Earlier in the week at Paducah Tuesday night, the Bobwhites were defeated by the strong Paducah girls team 56 to 30, and the Quails took an easy 68-48 victory from Paducah's boys.

Bobwhites vs. Paducah

The Bobwhites jumped to an early lead but the Paducah girls came back strong and were leading by 3 points at the end of the first quarter.

The Bobwhites hit a cold shooting spell in the second quarter, scoring only 2 points in the period and thus the Paducah girls built up an 8 point difference at half time.

In the second half the faster Paducah girls really started hitting the basket and pulled away from the hustling Bobwhites.

Sue Saunders was high pointer for Quail with 18 and Shirley Horton scored 10. Tommye Lattimer was high for Paducah with 35.

Score by quarters:

Bobwhites	13	15	21	30
Paducah	16	23	44	56

Quails vs. Paducah

The first quarter was nip and tuck with each team scoring 12 points during this period. In the second quarter the Quails started playing good basketball and built up a slim 6 point halftime advantage.

The second half was Quail all the way as they applied the full court press which really rattled the Paducah boys. The reserves took over for Quail in the fourth period and did a very good job.

Four Quails hit double figures as Dale Morris was high with 26 points. Carrol Kennedy had 15, Robert Russell 14, and Bruce Ward 10. Again Joe Harris was the outstanding Quail on defense as he stole the ball on several occasions and set up the Quail scoring.

Moran was high for Paducah with 14 points.

The score by quarters:

Quails	12	29	51	68
Paducah	12	23	39	48

Bobwhites vs. Dodson

The Bobwhites, playing one of their better games, jumped to an early lead and maintained it throughout the contest. Leading by only 9 points at the half, they extended the lead to 25 points at the end of the third period.

The reserves played the entire fourth period as all but one Bobwhite saw action in the game. Bobwhite Linda Peters missed the game with a hurt foot she got during the Wellington tournament.

Sue Saunders again was high scorer for Quail with 26 points and Shirley Horton had 16 and Lonetta Neeley scored 8, however she was the main factor in some of the other points as she set the shots up for the other girls. Edith Lemon was high for Dodson with 16 points.

The score by quarters:

Bobwhites	9	23	44	54
Dodson	2	14	19	26

Quails vs. Dodson

The more experienced Quails jumped to an early lead over the young Dodson team and built up a 12 point advantage at the end of the first quarter and 21 points at halftime.

All 14 Quails saw action with four boys again hitting double figures in the scoring column and 10 boys scored points.

Sophomore Bruce Ward was high pointer for Quail with 18 points as he seemed to be at the right spot at the right time all night.

Dale Morris scored 16 points, Joe Harris and Robert Russell 12 each, and Carrol Kennedy 9. Paul Gollihugh led the reserves scoring with 6 points. James Riley had 10 points to lead the Dodson scoring.

The score by quarters:

Quails	15	40	61	82
Dodson	3	19	27	34

Let Us Be Calm
About This Matter of Trading at Home

LET'S look at it from the practical viewpoint... with a cool, calculating, what's-in-it-for-me spirit.

Well, what is there in it for us, when we spend our money in this economic community where we live.

First, of course, we get about the same goods and service we would get anywhere else... for about the same money... or less.

Furthermore, when we buy at home, we can get back some of that average 30% which goes for profit and overhead on every deal, wherever we buy ...get it back through our business neighbors being better able to help us pay community running expenses.

And... every dollar we put into home trade channels puts a little more pep in our personal prosperity — our own jobs, businesses, opportunities, and property values — which means more weight in our pocketbooks.

Have a Heart — It's Yours

AUSTIN.—"Have a heart" is a familiar slang expression. But scores of people would like to do just that—have a whole, unimpaired heart.

The term "heart disease" actually covers a broad range of heart and blood vessel diseases. They are linked together because sooner or later they impair heart functioning ability.

Most common among cardiovascular ailments is coronary heart disease, a condition precipitating heart attacks. It is a condition of the arteries, affecting mainly middle-aged men.

Another well known cardiovascular condition is high blood pressure, i.e., hypertension. Over a long period of time, increased blood pressure can cause the heart to overwork and to lose efficiency.

Rheumatic heart disease strikes another note of familiarity in the line-up of cardiovascular ailments. The chain of events leading to rheumatic heart disease has been discovered within the last few years, and with the advent of penicillin it can be proved an important disease preventive.

Moldable Cotton Fabrics Due

The researchers see uses for these molded materials in the manufacture of upholstered furniture, hats, shoes and many other consumer products. The fabrics, that can be molded into three-dimensional shapes, have been worked out as the result of continuing effort to find new uses for agricultural products.

The idea for these molded cottons came from the research to develop stretch cottons, according to the USDA.

Through a process called slack mercerization, the cottons were made to stretch more than 50 per cent. Since these stretched materials fitted contours well, the scientists decided that if the fabric were chemically treated and molded it would hold its shape permanently.

The molding process involves treating the fabric with a solution of sodium hydroxide, that gives it stretch by making the fibers and yarns twist and shrink. Next, the fabric is wet with chemicals of the type used to make wash-wear cotton and finally, it is stretched over a heated mold of the desired shape. The heat of the mold dries the fabric and causes the chemicals to lock it into shape.

The new molded cotton has advantages for use in the toes of women's shoes and in the manufacture of sofas, chairs and other upholstered items the scientists say.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mulkey and children, Bryan Scott and Charlyn, of Amarillo, spent the past week end with her mother, Mrs. Donnie Huston.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bailey of Casper, Wyo., have been visiting his mother and brother, Mrs. Waddell Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bailey and family.

Research on Cotton Use Shows Progress

LUBBOCK.—Cotton farmers are making progress in research to find new or improved products for consumers, a report from the Cotton Producers Institute indicates.

Renewal of three research projects with this aim was announced by Roy B. Davis of Lubbock; Leroy Durham, Plainview; Roy Forkner, Lubbock; and Jack Funk, Harlingen, Texas trustees for the voluntary plan to increase cotton markets and profits. The projects were initiated last year.

Support of a project on warm cotton fabrics at Harris Research Laboratories was increased from $35,000 to $60,000. Using chemicals and laboratory scale equipment, scientists now are producing cotton fabrics with improved loft, drape and resiliency.

Adding these traits to cotton fabrics is a big step toward producing warm fabrics and enabling the fiber to hold and or expand its position in markets totaling 2.7 million bales.

Research at this same location has produced an experimental, all-cotton men's suit which now is being wear-tested. A $45,000 grant is being used for support of work to make further experiments and improvements. Success will allow cotton to hold and expand its share of the men's suit and trouser market. It now uses the equivalent of 1.07 million bales yearly.

Stanford Research Institute scientists have demonstrated the soundness of the "reversible crosslinks" principle. Goal of this $35,000 project is to develop a chemical treatment for cotton apparel and household fabrics that will maintain an unwrinkled appearance, require no ironing, can be given creases where desired, and can be altered for individual customers.

Funds to support such research are made possible by producers who participate in the Institute.

Phony Tree Doctors Work

COLLEGE STATION.—Questionable tree doctors, who not only take citizens for tremendous amounts of money but may harm trees, are being reported across the state, says Wendell Horne, plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Unfortunately these so-called tree doctors also give reputable silviculturists a bad name, says the specialist. These operators usually claim that they have secret formulas that will cure ailing trees of all problems. He may drive nails into the tree or spread some "revitalizer" around them. When asked about his cure-all, he usually explains that it is so new that research has not yet heard about it.

Horne recommended that an unbiased authority, such as the local county agricultural agent be consulted to diagnose the tree's ailment before bargaining with people that make such claims. It is also advisable for the home-owner to inquire about the operator's qualifications to work on trees.

Most of the questionable operators usually have no formal training in tree care or plant pathology. The reputable ones are always glad to give their background and qualifications and are willing to back up their claims with scientific data, points out the specialist.

Home-owners are reminded by Horne that there are no miracle cures for tree ailments, and when new treatments are found, research and educational organizations immediately make the information available to the public without charge.

Before spending money for the treatment of trees, make sure you are dealing with a reputable operator, and make certain that you know what is affecting the trees, emphasizes the pathologist.

Tree doctors who appear to be unreputable should be reported to the Better Business Bureau or the local chamber of commerce, he suggests.

FALLS TAKE 827 TEXAS LIVES

The Texas Safety Association reports that falls took 827 lives in Texas last year. Most frequent victims are children under the age of four and the elderly. For the senior citizen: pick up small objects on the floor and install grab bars or use rubber mats in bathtubs for safety. For children: make sure your baby is sleeping safely in his bed with the side bars pulled up. Check frequently to see that a baby does noot push his head through the bars. Keep playground equipment in good condition for older children.

Right to Loaf

Professor Robert Theobald, consulting economist for the United Nations, was quoted as telling a De Paul University audience the other day that the United States Constitution should guarantee everyone a salary, whether he works or not.

The United States is already over-subsidizing the U. N., but it might be a wise investment if we shelled out a little more to pay the professor's salary—provided he will quit his U. N. job and keep such ideas to himself. —Dallas Morning News

Quail to Play Hedley-Groom Jan. 17 and 21

Four basketball games will highlight action in the Quail gym in the next few days.

On Friday night, Jan. 17, the Quail teams will host the girls and boys from Hedley. The Hedley boys are defending District 9-B champions and hold a one-point victory, 51 to 50, over the Quails in the Wellington tournament.

"We feel like that with the knowledge we gained about the Hedley team in the tournament and the fact we will be on our home court, we should be able to handle the Hedley team," Coach Don Lacy said.

The two girls teams have not met this season. "Hedley has a real strong girls team but the Bobwhites have improved a lot, and we feel like with a little luck, we will be able to beat them," Lacy said.

The teams from Groom will come to Quail Tuesday night, Jan. 21.

"We know very little about the Groom teams. Their boys beat Hedley one point last week so we know they are pretty good. We know we will have to play good ball, but feel like we can take them," Lacy continued. "The Groom girls were beaten pretty badly by Hedley, so we feel sure that if we play the way we are capable of playing, we can beat them."

Kiwanis Hears Negro Chorus

The Wellington Kiwanis Club met for their regular meeting in the Wellington community building Friday. Jan. 10.

The boys and girls committee, with Jake Leach as chairman, had charge of the program. They presented the high school chorus and girls' glee club from the Booker T. Washington school.

These two groups presented seven numbers, with solos by Calvin Thomas, Nellie Sue Sango, James Faye Smith and Sallie Meadows. Mrs. Helen Miner, music instructor in the school, was accompanist for the group. The principal, W. E. Franks, was also present.

Don Maxwell of Dallas visited this past week end in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maxwell.

Mrs. Ernest Maxwell and Mrs. C. L. Moody were in Hale Center Saturday, Jan. 11, to attend the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Luther Brewer.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where many, many foreign countries have been awarded billions of dollars out of the Washington kitty, without ever having put a dime in same.

Whereas, some states and cities in the U.S. don't even get back as much as they put in, and find many gallsome strings on what they do get.

My logicalist neighbor says this seems to him like prime proof that foreign governments have got more friends in Washington, or better representation there, than most of our little home-based sub-governments.

I see where government aims to spend about $1 billion of our tax money to build an 1800-miles-per-hour airplane for more rapid shifting of people from here to there and back.

My impatient neighbor says this type of Progress is wonderful, like he recalls when he went from saddle horse to Model T, it gave him two more hours per day in the pool hall.

Says the only trouble is, it cut down the thinking time he used to have while riding along slow, and this poverty of meditation has at times caused him to do some very careless voting.

I note that this time last year many high economics experts, and especially the federally-nursed ones, were putting out predictions that business would have a bad sinking spell in 1963.

But old '63 turned out pretty good, which you might say suggests that the economics wizards don't know all about reading tea leaves either.

And now they're prophesying that 1964 will be a big fat business year, which is an encouraging word, in spite of the way they missed last year, because the natural odds are against even economics experts being wrong every time.

My sucker-listed neighbor has got word by mail from a Research Institute which offers to make him a mental wizard in one evening, for only $4.98.

Says he never knew before that such service was available though he had kind of wondered where our people-picked officials in Washington were getting all of those advisory wizards.

But he doesn't care to become a mental wizard overnight himself, because if he showed up here in town some morning that much smarter than he was the day before, it would take two mental wizards to explain it to his neighbors.

Trap Targets Travel 60 Miles per Hour

When the targets are released by traps for target shooting, they spin out at 60 miles an hour, revolving at the rate of about 5,000 revolutions a minute. They weigh about 3 and one-half ounces, are approximately four inches in diameter and measure a little more than an inch from top to bottom. In flight they combine the qualities of an airplane wing and a gyroscope.

WORKS ON HUMANS TOO

A Haine, England, farmer saved two piglets the other day with mouth-to-mouth resusitation after he found them lying cold and apparently dead.

Pitch, Limestone in Modern Targets

Pitch and limestone are the principal ingredients in modern trap targets, or clay pigeons. The flat top is called the poker chip, the circular rim about the chip is the ledge, and the rounded part that leads down to the side is the dome.

The flat side is the flange. One popular target has 16 scorings on the underside, that help break it into pieces even if lightly hit by only a few shot pellets.

More Insurance Required

Texas Drivers Face New Legal Responsibilities

AUSTIN.—The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety today reminded motorists that more stringent provisions of the state's safety responsibility law — requiring drivers and owners to be able to pay for damage to others in traffic accidents — became effective Jan. 1.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., DPS director, emphasized that the law requires the Department to suspend the driver licenses and vehicle registrations of driver and owner who are not in compliance with the law at the time of accident involvement, if the accident comes under the Safety Responsibility Act.

"The law provides that drivers and owners of vehicles involved in traffic accidents occurring or originating on a public street, highway or thoroughfare resulting in $100 or more property damage, injury or death must file written reports with the Department of Public Safety within 10 days and its requirements must be met," he explained.

"Accidents not involving death or injury but with $25 or more damage involved still must be reported to the Department but will not come under the Safety Responsibility Law.

"The Department is required to suspend driver licenses and all motor vehicle registration plates of both the operator and owner of vehicles involved in an accident coming under the Safety Responsibility Law, unless:

"1. Evidence of liability insurance coverage in the minimum amounts of $10,000 where one person was injured or killed, $20,000 where more than one, and $5,000 for property damage is reported to the Department.

2. A release signed by damaged or injured persons is filed with the Department.

"3. A signed agreement to pay damages in installments is accepted by the damaged or injured persons, and filed with the Department.

"4. The operator and owner are found not to be liable in a civil court of competent jurisdiction, and a copy of such finding is filed with the Department.

"5. The operator and owner deposit with the Department cash or bond security in an amout sufficient to cover any judgment for damages resulting from the accident that might be obtained by damage or injured persons, which in no case shall be less than $200."

In addition, the operator and owner must file proof of financial responsibility for the future and must maintain it for five years.

Garrison noted that under the new law, suspensions of licenses and registrations will be for a period of two years unless the requirements of the Safety Responsibility Act are met.

Also, he said that when a person's driver license is suspended or revoked under any Texas law because of a conviction on a serious traffic charge, the Department is required to suspend such person's motor vehicle registration, unless he immediately files proof of financial responsibility for the future.

In addition to other statutory filing fees required, a $10 re-installment charge has been provided for registration of a suspended license and/or vehicle registration in those cases where proof of financial responsibility for the future are filed.

Garrison listed these exceptions where the new law does not apply:

1. The law does not apply to the owner of a vehicle if it it involved in an accident while being driven by another person without the owner's consent.

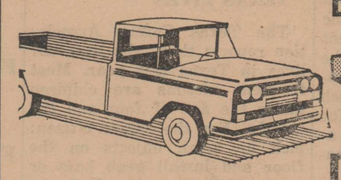

2. If the operator or owner involved in an accident is the only persons damaged or injured.

3. If the vehicle was legally parked or stopped at a traffic signal at the time of the accident.

4. If the vehicle involved was being driven by an employee of the United States Government in connection with official duties.

Burial Rites Here for Mrs. Ada Pendleton

Mrs. H. E. Pendleton of Shamrock, a former Collingsworth county resident, died in Shamrock General Hospital on Friday, Jan. 10 at 3:30 p.m., after being in ill health eight months. Her condition had been serious for three months.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday, at the First Baptist Church in Shamrock at 2:30 p.m. by the Rev. M. E. Wyatt, pastor, assisted by the Rev. C. B. Melton, pastor of First Methodist Church.

Following the service, her body was brought to the West Wellington Cemetery for burial.

Mrs. Ada Pendleton was born June 22, 1894 in Mountain Home, Ark. With her first husband, the late Claude Malone Thompson, she came here many years ago. He passed away in 1934 and an infant daughter also preceded her in death.

Mrs. Pendleton was postmaster at Samnorwood three years and also was housemother of a dormitory at Texas A&M College, College Station. For a number of years she was employed in the clothing department of a departmen store in San Diego, Calif., and in Shamrock she was cashier at a theatre.

She was married to H. E. (Sport) Pendleton of Shamrock Nov. 12, 1951, and the family home was at 520 North Main street in that town.

Mrs. Pendleton was a member of the Baptist Church and was a Sunday school teacher. She was a member and past president of the Athaeneum Club and a member of the Needlecraft Club and Shamrock Garden Club.

Survivors are her husband of the home a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Reeves of College Station; a step-daughter, Mrs. Carolyn LaDue of Guymon; and a sister, Mrs. Cora Rowell of Boynton, Okla. There are eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Fish Hook Is to Catch the Fish, Not the Fisherman

The most common fishing accident is catching a barbed hook in the flesh, usually a finger or hand, but sometimes a leg or other part of the body.

Lures and hooks left lying unprotected on a dock or in the bottom of the boat cause many of these accidents. Baiting a hook often leads to an accident.

The wise fisherman guards against hook accidents by shielding the hook. One simple way to do this is to stick a small cork over the barb. Lures should be stored in the tackle box until needed, and returned promptly to the box when removed from the leader. The band of your favorite fishing hat is, of course, a reasonably safe place to keep lures you intend to use later in the day.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson

THE RICH AMERICANS

Around the turn of the century a socialist oriented author named Thorstein Veblen wrote eloquently—and critically — of the effects of the industrial revolution.

Especially, in a book many college students read, "The Theory of the Leisure Class," he made America a pecuniary society, a fact to which no economics teacher could object.

But one of Veblen's catchwords, "conspicuous consumption," a phrase he used to describe one of the uses of money, has stuck with two or three generations of college trained critics of free enterprise.

Even historian Arnold Toynbee is able to claim that our affluence shunts aside the real American "revolution." We are getting so rich, he says, that we are forgetting our ideals.

Our standard of living is doubtless the envy of the rest of the world, although not many of us are rich in our own relative use of that term.

At times we forget our basic idealism, but it is possible that this British historian underestimates our strength in crisis. Too many Americans probably do forget that our abundance comes not from acts of Congress or White House magic.

Whence Our Wealth?

Our affluence has been made possible mostly because of the complex of freedoms granted by our American Constitution, not the least of which is freedom of individual opportunity and enterprise.

Economist John K. Galbraith, now returned to Harvard from White House service, has also focused our attention on the "affluent" society. Americans have too much money, as his image has it.

This view admits that consumers control the nation's economy, but it does not find that good.

This view argues that a larger portion of the economy should be funneled to government spending for education, medical care and public housing.

Because of the fact that our free economy depends on the demands of consumers, goods will not be produced unless people want them. It is the accumulated demand of people that drives our industry to produce. Not only does this pressure get out the goods, it also makes tax revenues possible, providing whatever services a federal budget of around $100 billion provides.

No Limit on Growth

If there is any reason for our not having enough hospitals and schools, it certainly does not lie in the charge that private wealth robs the public treasury.

This is the outmoded view that there is only a given amount of wealth or work. If we can improve our rate of growth, so as to move the whole economy ahead at a faster rate, then the so-called "public sector" will be entitled to a proportionate share, and even private philanthropy also will be working harder to provide those hospitals and schools.

Such curious critics have developed myths that are a direct affront to the American Way. These myths add up to an attack on the right to own, as well as on the freedom to determine what constitutes the good life for ourselves, and hence the freedom to use our money as we choose.

Besides denying individual freedom, from this comes the notion that ownership of goods or money is anti-social. To foster the idea that to be "rich" —even average-American rich —is bad, does the whole world a great disservice.

The Power of Consumers

We may condemn waste as well as some self-indulgence, but to put our free economy under suspicion is a great mistake. A mass consumption society, placing as it does an important evaluation on freedom, wants everyone to enjoy a similar advantage. It is possible that we may be getting these notions across, gradually, to the people behind the Iron Curtain. Either here or there, the demands of free consumers can produce more wants than can ever be satisfied.

If the Russian people, for example, are able to show greater and greater interest in consumer goods, the world is better and safer.

If their system does not provide the goods and services they read about in Sears Roebuck catalogs, it may lead them to want a better system.

It will be a happier day when America is known all over the world not as a squanderer of resources, but as a nation where the consumer is king.

The world may then come to know that the liberty and freedom we enjoy has made possible the American Way, and that the enterprise system undergirds the whole of it.

Late Ginning Reflects Low Cotton Quality

The classification of late ginnings during the week ending Friday, Jan. 10, showed the lowest quality of the season, according to K. E. Voelkel of the USDA's cotton classing office in Memphis.

Based on the Agricultural Marketing Service's statistical estimates, 10% of the cotton classed during the week was in the White grades. This was the same as the previous week, but 65% was Light Spotted; 22% was Spotted; and 3% was tinged and gray in color. The predominating quality for the week was the same as last week — Strict Low Middling Light Spotted, 15/16, with 33%.

The amount of cotton reduced in grade because of Bark, Grass and Preparation was 8% which was the same as the week earlier.

The staple length ranged from 13/16 to 1 inch, with 15/16 staple length representing 79%, and 4% of the cotton classed during the week was designated as Wasty.

Micronaire readings were lower this week when compared to any previous week this season; 36% tested under 3.5. Other readings were: 3.5 to 3.9, 29%; 4.0 to 4.4, 23%, and 4.5 to 5.4, 12%.

The moving of cotton into trade channels continued at an active pace. Cotton having a micronaire reading in the 3.5 to 5.0 range brought the farmers the following prices: Middling, 15/16—30.65; Strict Low Middling, 15/16—29.60; Middling Light Spotted, 15/16—29.58; and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted, 15/16—29.25. These were average prices based on uncompressed, mixed lots, in warehouses.

In spite of the cold weather throughout the week, the samples receipts held steady, ranging from 2,600 to 3,600 a day. The Memphis office classed almost 20,000 samples with seven classers working. This brings the seasonal total to 201,000 bales compared with 190,000 as of the same date last year.

Waggoner Carr Will Head '64 Cancer Crusade

AUSTIN—The Attorney General of Texas has accepted appointment by the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society to head its 1964 Cancer Crusade.

Appointed during the division's recent annual meeting in Houston, the Honorable Waggoner Carr will lead 80,000 volunteers from all over the state in a Crusade which last year totaled $1,575,203.11 in contributions.

Carr was also elected to the State's Board of Directors and Executive Committee during the meeting.

The month-long educational fund-raising Crusade which gets under way April 1 marks the beginning of Cancer Control Month, so designated each year by the President of the United States.

"There is a growing need for everyone to do his share in striking back at cancer — a disease that will attack some 48 million Americans now living if current rates continue," Carr said. "For this reason I accept the Crusade chairmanship and will do everything within my power to help conduct the most successful Crusade ever held in the state of Texas."

The Attorney General appeals for a record number of volunteers to join the Crusade so the fight against cancer can be accelerated.

Contributions to the annual Crusade will be used in the society's continuing program of research, education and service, Carr explains.

In 1959 and 1960, Carr, then an attorney, worked with the Crusade committee in Lubbock county where he was graduated from Lubbock high school and Texas Technological College.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

The board of supervisors of Salt Fork Soil Conservation District, in a regular meeting Saturday night, Jan. 4, voted to again sponsor the Greenbelt District land and grass judging contests for Future Farmers and 4-H members.

The district has sponsored these contests several years and they serve as the official FFA Greenbelt District contest.

Grass Planting

It's time to start planting grass, Bob Crawford, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, reminded.

"Grass can be planted any time between now and the first of June, but it is usually better to get it in early so any rain or snow will bring it up," Crawford said.

"Last year we didn't get the early rains and the grass did not come up till June, and then the heat was hard on it."

He added however, that those who planted grass last year should not be discouraged, as it often doesn't show up too well until the second year.

John Coffee, northeast of Wellington, and George Patterson, west of town, along with Doug Coleman, will plant a mixture that will include Indian, switch and blue stem grasses.

On tighter land, Marvin Knoll, east of Lutie, Herbert Knoll of Nicholson and Tom Wilkinson, north of Dozier, will plant side oats and switch grasses, Crawford said.

Parallel Terraces

Interest is growing in parallel terraces, Crawford reported.

"Quite a bit of detailed survey work is involved in this type of terrace," Crawford said. "And if you are interested in these and want to go ahead and sign up with the ASCS for them, you can do it and after the survey we can determine if they are right for your land. If they are not, you can change to standard terraces."

Clyde McGee in the northwest part of the county and Hubert Tindall in the north part are two Salt Fork SCD cooperators who have built the parallel terraces.

Windbreaks

Windbreaks should be planted the latter part of January or in February or March, Crawford reminded.

"These make a valuable addition to a farmstead, improving the scenery and giving protection from wind," he said.

The Salt Fork SCD has its own Chinese arbor vitae and red cedar for sale in three to four foot sizes. Information on these may be had from the SCD supervisors.

"Evergreens such as arbor vitaes and cedars should be put out in double staggered rows to give best protection," Crawford said. "They should be watered when they are planted and watered and the weeds kept hoed out during the first year to get a desirable growth. And we can't stress too much the necessity of keeping weeds out."

Jess Deger of Samnorwood and Orville Vaughan of Dodson have two good examples of windbreaks.

Patty Overton has been chosen as a contestant in the talent contest and Mrs. Sam Thompson will be her accompanist, and also sponsor the girls at the convention.

Party Sandwiches May Be Frozen

Fancy party sandwiches and hors d'oeuvres can be prepared a week in advance and stored in the freezer until party time, says Mrs. Kathryn Barjenbruch, home demonstration agent.

Most meats freeze well, and so do cheese spreads, olives, pickles and nuts. But, she cautions, avoid moist fillings such as egg salad and tuna salad, and don't use mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Instead, us lemon, orange, or pineapple juice, milk, dairy sour cream, applesauce or cream cheese as binders in fillings.

Spread the bread or pastry with soft—not melted—butter or margarine to form a protective coating. Thawing time before using will take about an hour at room temperature.

TEXAS ACCIDENTS TAKE BIG TOLL

Missionary to Africa Will Preach at Dodson

Color slides of Nyasaland, Africa, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 17 at the Dodson Church of Christ at Dodson, by missionary G. B. Shelburne.

Friday night's program features colorful pictures of this rapidly emerging African nation, showing its people and their surroundings. Shelburne took these pictures during his past two and a half years of work at Namikango Mission near Zomba, Nyasaland.

He will relate some of his experiences among the African people and will explain the mission activities seen in the slides.

Namikango Mission was established in 1961 by Churches of Christ. It is supported by many American congregations and individuals. At the mission numerous African church leaders receive training.

Shelburne and a co-worker, along with their families, have been at the mission since its beginning. Before entering the African work, Shelburne served as minister for the Sewell Street Church of Christ in Abilene, and the Black Canyon Church of Christ in Phoenix, Ariz. The Shelburnes will return to the mission together with another family in April, 1964.

According to the missionary, his report should be of interest to many people of the community. There will be no collection and the public is invited.

Shelburne will also be the speaker in services Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Flashing Light Discourages Birds

The bothersome and sometimes destructive problem of birds in hay lofts can be solved by the use of a flashing light.

A revolving cylinder with two amber and two clear lenses placed over a 75 watt bulb will annoy the birds and drive them away.

Don't burn the light at night, however, because from a distance the flashing amber and white lights make the barn appear to be on fire.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

In the death of Judge Luther Gribble our community lost a most useful citizen, the Methodist Church an able lay leader, Masonry a devoted member, and the legal profession an outstanding judge. He served as county attorney, county judge and district judge and before that he was a teacher of talent. Seldom do circumstance, ability and hard work combine to enable a man to serve his fellowman so well in so many capacities. These were his larger tasks, but it was the little things he did for people week after week and month after month that endeared him to those who knew him best. He will be missed and remembered.

Now there is speculation as to who will be appointed as his successor. In most cases the Governor follows the recommendations of the majority of the bar associations in making the appointment to fill the unexpired term of a district judge. The appointee must run in the next election if he wishes to continue and in this case that means this year.

Two dates that should be remembered by voters are near at hand. Those who are under 60 must pay their poll tax by Feb. 1 to be eligible to vote and candidates must file with the county chairman of their party by Feb. 3 to get their name on the ballot.

Some people seem to think that the cotton ginning is in its final stage. Paul Bell had to make a trip over parts of the county last Monday and he says he saw some fields that had never had a machine in them. Ginning may slow to a walk, but it will continue in spurts for some time yet.

Over at the lumber yard Monday I asked Ed Bawcom for a cigarette. He had none for he and his wife both quit smoking when they read the report of the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee. I observed that this should enable them to save a tidy sum of money in a year's time. Ed frowned and said: "Not if I keep chewing gum all day and keep on smoking these cigars." And he took a furious puff on his half-smoked stogie.

The seriousness of the Surgeon General's report can not and should not be minimized; but even so the loafers and the coffee drinkers found cause for jesting. One observed: "Well, it looks like they issued the report just in time to take our minds off the business of giving away the Panama Canal." Others were merry as they speculated on what would happen in the town that passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in the city limits.

After all there was nothing unexpected in the report. It was simply documented more carefully and was signed by an impressive list of medical names. As a matter of fact the same information has been carried in the medical journals and the health magazines for years and has been poured forth from the schools, the pulpit and the offices of the cancer specialists and the heart specialists for an even longer time.

Dr. Richard C. Bates of Lansing, Mich., has been delivering a humorous speech on "How to Better Your Chance for a Heart Attack." In the talk he sets forth a number of interesting facts, as reported in The National Observer. For instance, Men have six times as many heart attacks as women. It is not a matter of age as was originally thought. The peak for having a coronary is 45 if you are a man and 55 if you are a woman.

The good doctor continues on exercise and news of a dull day:

We used to teach that exercise brought on a heart attack. Now we believe it is the factor that stimulates the growth of new blood vessels into the heart.

On a Dull News Day

But then, what about the stories in the newspapers of people dropping dead during violent exercise? One of the things that happens is this: On a day in the winter when we have a wet, heavy snow, some newspaper reporter—for want of anything better to do—calls the city morgue and reports that 5 men dropped dead shoveling snow that day. The next day it's bright and sunny, and the snow is all cleared away. He doesn't call the morgue. If he did, he would find on that day 11 men dropped dead not shoveling snow. After all, if it takes 45 years to bring this disease on, what you are doing in the last 5 to 10 minutes really is of little importance.

Dr. Lansing also considers the case of the Eskimo:

Then somebody asked about the Eskimo. Eskimos, as you know, live on practically nothing but fat, and yet when it was possible to measure their blood cholesterol levels, it was discovered that they were a little below the international average. This and other work led us to the conclusion that there is a difference in the ability of fats to raise the blood cholesterol.

Eskimos' fats come from animals that swim in the sea, and these fats are normally liquid at room temperature. Fats that are liquid at room temperature (so-called "soft" or "unsaturated" fats) do not elevate the blood cholesterol and some of them actually lower it. The fats in this group in our diet would include Mazola, which is corn oil; cottonseed oil, which is Wesson oil; peanut oil; and olive oil. The fats that raise the blood cholesterol are solid or semi-solid at room temperature ("hard" or "saturated" fats), and these are represented by beef suet, mutton tallow, pork lard, the "more-expensive spread" (and you will recognize that these are all animal fats)—but also by vegetable fats that have been artificially solidified or hydrogenated, such as the "less-expensive spread" and the various lard substitutand the various lard substitutes.

In conclusion the Puckish doctor, who is a heart specialist himself makes these observations on how to better your chance of having a heart attack:

Well, in summary, then: Pick your ancestors, be a man, live in a city in the United States, make a lot of money sitting behind a desk, eat a lot of meat and dairy products, be fat, smoke two packages of cigarettes a day, and never exercise. This is probably the nicest advice you ever got from a physician. Most of you won't have to make any changes; just keep on doing what you've been doing.

First Victory in 8 Years

Eaglettes Take 9-B Opener from Claude

Samnorwood Eaglettes took their district 9-B opener Friday night, Jan. 10, with a 40-39 victory over Claude — a school that has won the Class B state championship 9 times in 11 years.

This one-point was the frosting on the cake. It is the first time in eight years the Eaglettes have defeated Claude.

The Eagles led all the way in their game to defeat the Claude boys 50 to 40.

Eaglettes - Claude

The widest margin in the girls game was 4 points, although Norwood led most of the time.

With three minutes to go Roger Weems was high scorhead, they took a shot from the floor, missed and Claude got the rebound. Norwood fouled them, but Claude missed the free throw. The Eaglettes also missed a free throw, Claude got the rebound, took it downcourt and scored two points. The Eaglettes were then able to keep the ball for a long 29 seconds until the game ended.

Mary Finley of Claude was the game's top scorer with 29; Jo Nell Breeding made 17 for Norwood, Kay Purkey 15, and Suzy Bentley 8.

The game by quarters:

Norwood	6	21	31	40

This teacher is a member of the Methodist Church and is currently a member of its board of stewards. She is an assistant Sunday school teacher and is president of the local Wesleyan Guild.

One of her pleasures is giving book reviews and she is often called upon by various organizations to review books of her own selection or individual requests.

She was the narrator for the recent Methodist cantata.

She is a past president of the Wellington Music Club, which received several state and national awards during her presidency. As audio-visual chairman, she served on the TFMC district board of directors.

This member and past president of the Excelsior Club has also been a member of the Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club.

The currently honored teacher is not the first nor the only teacher in her family. Her brother, Mayfield Workman, was cited last year for his outstanding work with the youth of his school and the city of Arlington. Her son, John Charles Welch, was a student instructor while attending NT SU and is now teaching his first school year as a faculty member of the Richland Hills school near Fort Worth. Her mother, the late Mrs. C. M. Workman was a teacher.

There are numerous other teachers and educators in her geneology, dating back to Oxford graduate, the Rev. William Barksdale, who was Canon of Worcester Cathedral, 1604-1628. An interesting letter from the current Canon of Worcester Cathedral to Mrs. Welch confirmed her lineage records of this ancestor.

There is another facet to the personality of Betty Welch, that of homemaker, for she is the wife of Wellington's popular Bernice Welch, owner of B&B News Stand. Their comfortable home on Haskell St. reveals her talents in this field.

The Computation Center, a one-story structure, was completed in 1961. The building's roof is formed by an 82-foot extension of the paved terrace east of the Main Building.

The Center is being used by University scholars to accelerate teaching and research in virtually all fields of learning.

St. Joseph's Joins National Credit Card Plan

St. Joseph's Hospital joined a guaranteed hospital in-patient account program sponsored by a major credit card company, the Hilton Credit Corporation, whose cards, Carte Blanche, provide credit privileges on a worldwide basis, according to W. M. Corkrell, executive vice chairman.

The program, first national hospital in-patient account guarantee by a credit card company, went into effect Jan. 1 in more than 1200 hospitals in fifty states and Washington, D.C. It guarantees the first $200 of hospital bills incurred by in-patients and provides them with immediate credit recognition. There is no cost for the service either to hospital or card holder.

"This program has been developed as an additional convenience and service for Carte Blanche card holders," said Cockrell. "It can be especially useful on trips and in emergencies." He added that the guaranteed in-patient account program was only one of many innovations that the credit card company is planning for its members.

"The hospital will bill the patient in its normal manner, knowing that the first $200 in hospital bills are guaranteed by Carte Blanche," Cockrell stated.
