Terry County Auto Driver Believes In Punishing Himself

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 17—The record of an honest man—one who suspended his own drivers' license for six months—was on file today at state police headquarters.

The man, a resident of Terry county, had been convicted on a drunken driving charge and paid a fine of $115.

He then took it upon himself to mail his license to the department of public safety with the recommendation he should not be permitted to drive a car for six months in compliance with a state law.

Police officials thanked him and promised to return the license next May.

Special Study Is Ordered Of Pump-Priming

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Usually reliable persons said today four federal agencies were making a special study of "pump-priming" at President Roosevelt's request.

The study is being made by the treasury, budget bureau, federal reserves board and the national resources board.

To Chart Deficits

To test the results of past spending as a primer of the business pump, and possibly to guide future fiscal policies, it was said, the chief executive asked the agencies to chart federal deficits in comparison with business trends.

One of the tasks involves separating from the daily reports on federal spending those non-cash items which do not directly affect public purchasing power.

Results of the survey may figure in this winter's congressional debates on relief expenditures for the last four months of this fiscal year — which ends next June 30—and on emergency expenditures for the next fiscal year.

Used As Argument

One of those close to the study related, for instance, that the study would show that the cash deficit of the federal government decreased substantially between the bonus payment year of 1936 and the social security tax collection year of 1937, and that the current business recession followed the curtailments. This fact might be used, he said, as an argument against too rapid reduction of the current spending program.

The current budget provides for running up a $4,000,000,000 deficit by spending a total of $9,000,000,000.

Slaton Paving Funds Will Be Available

SLATON, Nov. 17 (Special) — Telegram advising that the Works Progress administration has approved an allotment of $42,925 for street improvement work in Slaton was received by the chamber of commerce from Senator Tom Connally today.

The money is to be made available at the discretion of the state administrator, the telegram said further.

Work for which it is to make provision includes paving, water lines, curbs, gutters and other improvements.

The allotment, according to officials here, is for a street improvement program which already is in progress.

Threat Hurled At Convention

Fiery Words Are Hurled By Speakers; Social Security Plan Is Being Mapped

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17. — The Congress of Industrial Organizations hurled today a threat of boycott by its claimed membership of 3,790,000 against the Ford Motor company unless that concern agrees to "bargain collectively" with the United Automobile Workers union.

The sudden action climaxed an exciting day in which delegates mapped a broad social security program, cheered approval of a resolution requesting an exhibition of their unity, and endorsed the "humanitarian and social program" of President Roosevelt.

Fiery Speeches Made

Fiery speeches by Van A. Bittner, regional director of the C. I. O. and district president of the United Mine Workers, Richard Frankensteen, vice-president of the auto workers, and others, preceded action on the Ford resolution.

Bittner said:

"If we are going to boycott Ford, let us boycott Ford. He will either manufacture cars with an agreement with auto workers or he will not sell any cars in America."

"We will notify every Ford dealer we are not going to buy any Ford cars until Ford signs a contract with the U. A. W."

Seek To Destroy Unions

The resolution charged the Ford management with exercising every means of destroying all semblance of bona fide labor organization within its plants, was an "unfair competitor" with other manufacturers who have signed union agreements.

In Detroit Harry Bennett, personnel director for Ford, asserted the U. A. W. A. was "not representative in Ford plants" and that "we'll iron out difficulties" with the union "wherever they are representative . . ."

Would Create Splits

On the question of unity, the newly created congress charged newspapers with misrepresenting the "purpose of ordinary debate, twisted meanings and distorted head lines" in striving "to portray and actually to create splits among forces of the C. I. O."

Morris Watson, a former newspaper reporter and vice-president of the American Newspaper Guild, read the resolution.

The delegates adopted a series of resolutions on social security, which endorsed adequate care for the aged, needy, blind and widows, approved the president's national health committee's activities and ordered a survey of the health committee's activities and ordered a survey of the health cooperative field.

Victim Details Torture Story

(By The Associated Press)

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 17—Irving Baker, former coast guard lieutenant, testified here today that Dr. Kent W. Berry tortured him more than an hour the night of August 19 and left him bound in an isolated gravel pit after threatening to rape Baker's wife, Susanne.

Dr. Berry had accused Baker of a sexual assault upon Mrs. Berry, 27, an accusation denied by Baker.

Final Major Witness

Baker was the final major witness for the prosecution in the superior court trial of Dr. Berry, 50-year-old socially prominent physician; William M. McAloon, former peace officer; Robert H. Smith, dairyman, and James Reddick, 27, taxi-driver, on charges of first degree kidnaping and first degree assault.

Baker testified Dr. Berry tortured him with pliers and lashed him with a heavy belt, while Smith held him down.

Reddick, he said, held a flashlight and at one time had a surgeon's scapel with which Dr. Berry proposed to emasculate Baker.

McAloon, he added, stood guard a short distance away.

No Tapering Off For Old Soak; He Must Become Teetotaler

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17—The old soak may be rescued from the bar room and restored to society by the psychiatrist without resorting to heroic "cures," the Southern Medical association was told today.

Dr. Robert V. Seliger, of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, told doctors the cure of the hard drinker should begin with total abstinence, avoiding all tapering off processes which have been used on chronic alcoholics in some instances in the past.

Can't Drink Moderately

"A person who has been an excessive drinker," Dr. Seliger said, "can never be a moderate, controlled, or a one-or-two cocktail drinker."

The psychiatrist tells his subject that failure of treatment in the past need mean nothing in the present treatment, suggests regular visits to his office for consultation, avoiding drinking friends, and the tap rooms.

Dr. Seliger suggested it often was possible to modify the in-

Opportunity To Help Business Given Banks

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 17—Intermediate credit to industry was urged tonight by E. N. Dekker, Cleveland banker, in an address to the final divisional session of the American Bankers association convention.

Dekker explained that his conception of intermediate credit was credit advanced for a period of one year to five years, a field commercial banks have barely tapped.

Would Boost Business

Long term loans to business would require a change by the bankers in their conception of the function of commercial banking in the extension of credit, he said, but loans of this type would do much to lift American business from the doldrums.

"Opportunity exists in this field for commercial banks," he said. "For example, the need for temporary capital by a good company may arise out of a shortage of working capital to take care of a substantial increase in business."

Door Being Closed

He explained that the uncertain situation in the securities market, the expense and delay incident to the registration of a capital issue, together with substantial underwriters commissions, have practically closed the door on public financing to any but the largest companies.

"The small and medium sized businesses are forced to find other sources from which to obtain temporary funds for capital needs," he said.

Demands Are Cited

Referring to the demand from some sources for governmental assistance in granting intermediate credit, Dekker said in the majority of cases the pressure for assistance from a federal agency has come from those not entitled to bank credit.

Dekker's address, delivered before the clearing house round table conference, closed the ABA convention.

Before adjournment the bankers adopted resolutions calling for balancing the national budget, eliminating of overlapping taxes by the state, federal and municipal governments and reaffirmed its stand on the dual system of banking.

Three Persons Are Injured In Car Accident Late Thursday

Three persons required hospitalization late Thursday afternoon as the result of an automobile accident on the Lubbock-Plainview highway near the Municipal airport.

A. D. Chase, father of Art Chase, was taken to the West Texas hospital for injuries of the head and a compound comminuted fracture of the left knee. He suffered concussion. He was most seriously injured and was admitted to the hospital.

Willie Land and Nicholas Land, both of Benjamin, were taken to the Lubbock sanitarium for treatment of minor bruises and lacerations of the head and body. They were released after receiving treatment.

The Benjamin men were accompanied by Alfred Land, also of Knox county, and were going north when their machine met the Chase car head-on about a mile south of the airport about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Sergeant C. E. Tabor and B. L. Patterson and T. C. Laws, all of the Texas Highway patrol, investigated.

Farm Officials Seeking Favor In The South

Present Crop Control Law To Come Up For Vote Dec. 10; Two-Thirds Is Necessary

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 — High administration farm officials, desiring to offset New Deal election losses in the midwest farm belt, began a vigorous campaign to win a "vote of confidence" from southern farmers on the present crop control law.

The officials were Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Assistant Secretary Harry L. Brown. The cabinet officer addressed a meeting of farmers and AA.. committeemen at Macon, Ga., while his assistant spoke before a session of the Tennessee Farm Bureau federation at Nashville.

Approval Being Sought

They sought approval of proposals to invoke strict marketing quota provisions of the farm law on next year's cotton, tobacco and rice crops. Under quota systems, the amount a farmer could market without paying penalties would be limited.

The proposals will be submitted to 2,500,000 producers of these crops in referenda December 10.

Each, to become effective, must be approved by two-thirds of the growers participating in the referendum regarding it.

Wallace and his aides hope southern farmers will help them beat off attacks on present farm legislation, which are expected to come from corn and wheat belt representatives at the coming session of congress.

Would Strengthen Foes

Officials conceded that defeat of the marketing quota proposals in the south next month could be interpreted widely as disapproval of the present law. Such a result, they added, would strengthen the hand of congressmen advocating substitute farm policies.

Wallace told his farmer audience that, in view of a record surplus of American cotton, lifting of production and marketing control measures would be "about as sensible as pouring kerosene on a burning building."

He declared cotton prices might now be as low as four cents a pound, instead of 8.5 cents, if the present program had not been in operation.

Uncle Sam Envisions Big Trade Hike In Treaties

"Light! More Light!" — Goethe's Last Words

Tariff Slashes Gain Approval

Signs Of Domestic Rows Over Pacts Are Seen; Dispute In New Congress Is Expected

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. — Two important new trade treaties, reducing American, British and Canadian tariffs on a wide variety of commodities, made their appearance tonight amid official predictions of a broadly increased foreign commerce—and some signs of domestic controversy.

The pacts, designed to carry forward Secretary of State Hull's program of eliminating the barriers to world trade, among which he considers tariffs the foremost, were signed at a White House ceremony by Hull, Ambassador Lindsay of Great Britain and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

Germany On Blacklist

The benefits of the new pacts go automatically to all nations with which the United States has so-called "most favored nation" treaties —which means every country except Germany. The reich is on the United States' economic "blacklist" because she is accused of discriminating against American products.

Many officials clearly considered the new agreements a reply to the challenge presented by totalitarian nations' trade practices, such as the reich's barter deals.

Britain Cuts Tariffs

Great Britain reduced her tariffs on long lists of American products, including agricultural commodities in return for, principally, a cut in American duties on the output of England's huge yarn and cloth industry.

Canada cut its duties on fruits, vegetables, fishery products, paper products, some wood products, automobiles, machinery, aircraft and aircraft engines, numerous textiles and chemicals. In addition it eliminated a special three per cent tax so far as all items affected by the treaty were concerned.

For these concessions, the United States reduced its impost on Canadian cattle, hogs, cheese, eggs, grains other than wheat, potatoes, fishery products, some paper products, silver fox furs and Christmas trees.

New Dispute Expected

Since the reciprocal tariff program has been the subject of a vigorous controversy since its inception, the treaties are considered likely to arouse a renewed dispute when the new congress meets in January. Protests are expected from the textile industry and from the dairy industry, which in several areas has maintained that even the previous rates were too low.

The program was authorized by congress over vehement Republican opposition. President Roosevelt was given the power to reduce the tariff.

Britain Calls On Her Vast Colonial Empire To Help Locate Refuge For Jews

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 17—Britain called on her vast colonial empire today to support United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's international plan to find refuge for German Jews.

Prime Minister Chamberlain asked governors of British Guiana, Tanganyika, Kenya and other colonies to report how many Jews their territories could accommodate.

Britain also asked the British dominions and the United States and other major powers what they were prepared to do.

George Rublee, American executive director of the 31-nation intergovernmental committee for refugees, estimated it would cost $600,000,000 to attain "final solution" of the German Jews' problem. It is estimated there are 600,000 Jews in Germany, now subject to one of the greatest campaigns of anti-Semitism.

Two Reasons Given

In addition to humanitarian motives, Britain was said to support immigration of Jews into her colonial empire for two reasons:

1. Less than one thousandth of the colonial population is white.

2. The addition of German Jews to the colonial population might strengthen opposition to Germany's agitation for return of war-lost colonies.

The problem was tremendous. Even if British territory were opened, an international committee must find money to transport the refugees.

Great Speed Needed

Kennedy apparently impressed Britain with the need of tackling the problem on a large scale and with great speed.

The American ambassador's plan has been described authoritatively as calling for an effort to remove most of the Jews from Germany to North and South America and to parts of the British, French and The Netherlands empires.

The envoy laid the scheme before Chamberlain on Tuesday and the cabinet considered it yesterday.

Brady Gangster Dies In Chair

(By The Associated Press)

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Nov. 18 (Friday) — James Dalhover, tiny red-haired trigger man of the Al Brady gang, died in the electric chair at Michigan City state prison here early today for the slaying of a state policeman.

The 32-year-old Dalhover, stiff-legged and heavy-footed, was taken from the death cell by two guards at two minutes past midnight and strapped in the chair.

Current Is Turned On

A minute and a half later, the current was turned on. Dalhover was taken out of the death seat at 12:09 1-2. Dr. P. H. Weeks, prison physician, and Dr. J. E. McMell, physician for the federal government, pronounced him dead at 12:11 a. m.

Dalhover's death finished the job which federal agents started when they killed his two pals in Bangor, Me.

Last minute efforts of his attorney to save his life failed last night, an hour and a half before he died.

Legion's Drive To Open Today

Dispensing entirely with the formalities which usually go with such drives, the annual membership campaign of Allen Bros. post of the American Legion will commence today, according to Dr. C. B. Qualia, chairman.

Assistants have been named, he explained, and names of membership prospects will be distributed among them. They will be responsible for the names assigned to them, Qualia said.

Assigned Quota Is 250

The post's assigned quota is 250, the same as last year, when Allen Bros. became one of a relatively few posts in Texas to exceed its objective.

Lacking, however, he said, is information concerning many of the scores of ex-service men and women eligible to membership who have moved to Lubbock in the last two or three years and who have not become affiliated with the legion.

An especial invitation is extended to them, Dr. Qualia said, to attend meetings of the post and to become members.

Start of the campaign has been delayed, according to George W. Brewer, post commander, because reorganization of the drive committee became necessary when Fred E. Wendt of the Texas state employment service was transferred recently to El Paso.

Wendt had been named chair-

Making Sentences Out Of Queer Names For Places In Texas Is Becoming A Pastime

(By The Associated Press)

VAN ALSTYNE, Tex., Nov. 17 — Making sentences out of queer names for places has come to be a pastime here.

Grayson county does not have "Roosevelt," which was mentioned in a recent compendium of peculiar place-names in Texas, but this county does have Hyde Park. This Hyde Park has pleasant surroundings—Basin Springs, Dripping Springs, Cold Springs and Rose Hill.

Here are some of the sentences the wags are making with Grayson county place names:

Football Film Is Seen Here

Motion pictures filmed at the Tech-Loyola football game Nov. 5 were shown Thursday night to an audience in the engineering auditorium at the college by Calvin Hazlewood, secretary of the alumni and ex-students association.

Most of the outstanding plays in the tilt were recorded on the 550-foot film which was taken by William F. Tanner, graduate assistant in the geology department, under Hazlewood's supervision.

Maneuvers Are Shown

Band maneuvers between the halves were shown in technicolor.

Matador squadmen viewed the pictures Wednesday night in the administration building. Coaches Pete Cawthon and Russell Smith pointed out good and bad points in football technique to the players.

Touchdown club members will see the film at their regular meeting Monday night at the Lubbock hotel. Tentative arrangements have been made for showing the films Thanksgiving day at the Lindsey theater.

The pictures also will be featured at a dinner for ex-students of Tech at the Adolphus hotel in Dallas at 6:15 o'clock the night of Nov. 25. Dr. J. M. Gordon, dean of arts and sciences at the college and master of ceremonies for the dinner, announced Thursday that more than 100 plates, costing $1.50 each, have been reserved.

Dr. Albert Barnett, chairman of the arrangements committee, has called a meeting of the committee at 5 o'clock today in the administration building.

"The Tech - Marquette university game Nov. 26 likewise will be recorded by the telephoto lens from a vantage point either atop the Tech stadium press box or from a special platform," Hazlewood said.

Along with the petition for the error writ, Hagerty sent petitions for an appeal to the Chicago federal circuit court of appeals in event it was denied and for a stay of execution pending this appeal. Judge Slick denied these also.

Strong Protest Is Registered

AUSTIN, Nov. 17. (AP) — Representatives of the city of McAllen and the Philips Petroleum company registered a strong protest today against an application of Gordon Griffin of McAllen to drill four oil wells within the east city limits of the city.

The Phillips company was represented in person at a hearing before railroad commission examiners while Mayor Horace Etchison and City Attorney Cecil R. Fulton of McAllen outlined their views in a telegram.

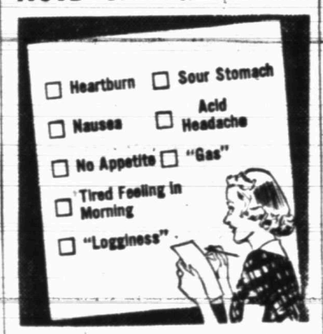

Locations Pointed Out

Hubert B. Herren of Harlingen, representing Griffin, made little oral argument other than pointing out locations of the proposed wells and asserting the edge of the Griffin property was only 1250 feet from the field's discovery well.

T. L. Dyer of Austin, representing the Phillips company, said there was no immediate danger of the Griffin tracts being drained. He argued granting of the permits should be delayed until after the city drafted a permanent ordinance regulating the oil development and the railroad commission promulgated special field rules. Permits to drill at this time might precipitate a "drilling orgy," he warned.

The city of McAllen notified the commission that it had "about completed" an ordinance regulating oil development. A temporary ordinance forbids any drilling until January 7. The commission gave no indication when it would take action.

Hormone Tr

Hopeless Cases Receive Cures

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17. — Hormone treatments which restore the minds and bodies of many subnormal children were reported today to the Southern Medical association.

These children are oftentimes idiots or have very low intelligence and have malformed bodies due to the failure of the hormones necessary for normal growth, Dr. Henry H. Turner of Oklahoma City declared.

Regarded As Hopeless

Most such cases have been previously regarded as hopeless because of failure to understand the causes of their abnormality, he added, but the hormone treatments, which consist of merely injecting the proper substance into the body in a long series of small doses, give hope of brightening the lives of hundreds of children and their families.

As one example of the power of the treatment he described a four-year-old girl who resembled a child one year of age and was unable to walk or talk. After thyroid hormone was administered to her she gained nine inches in stature, five pounds in weight, and was practically normal mentally within a year.

Girl Became normal

Another seven-year old girl was only 35 inches tall, weighed only 35 pounds and was a "congenital cretin idiot," Dr. Turner declared. Within a year she had become a "B" student in her school work and by the time she was 16 was physically and mentally normal as the result of the thyroid hormone injections.

These cases illustrate innumerable possibilities ahead in the treatment of disease and deformities as knowledge of the hormone secretions of the body's endocrine glands grows, Dr. Turner said.

Lack of vitamin D and calcium were declared by Dr. Harold T. Nesbit of Dallas, Tex., to be responsible to a large degree for the tantrums, spasms, crying, and irritableness of "problem" children.

Former Sparring Partner Of Dempsey To Face Charges

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17. (AP) —Carrol Holliday, one-time sparring partner of Jack Dempsey who turned from sports to oil promotion with headquarters in Lawton, Okla., today faced federal prosecution on charges of mail fraud in selling units in an oil trust.

The government accuses Holliday of claiming his trust owned 2,000 acres in Travis county, Tex., when he actually owned that property in his own name.

HEARING IS HELD

AUSTIN, Nov. 17. (AP) — Railroad commission examiners conducted a hearing here today on well spacing in the Slaughter oil field, Hockley county. Some of the smaller operators requested continued allowance of one well to each 20 acres or less while certain larger companies urged wider spacing.

Plainview Girl Plans To Pay Way Through College By Teaching Horses High Diving

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 17. (AP)—The adage that you can lead a horse to water but you can't make it drink may be true, but Betty Jane Bowman, 13, of Plainview has proved horses may be persuaded to do other things when led to water.

She makes her horses dive.

Her four horses plunge from a platform 35 feet high into ten feet of water at the command of their mistress, diving once each day from the time the water gets warm in the spring until autumn chill makes it unpleasant.

She Teaches Them

"We always had horses around and there was plenty of water from the irrigation wells," Betty said. "I liked the horses and water, too, so I thought I'd teach them some tricks."

Diving was the result. Betty declared she would pay her way through college with her diving horses.

"I start training them when they are colts," Betty Jane explained. "When a colt is about 10 days old I ride its mother into shallow water. After the colt had waded every day for a week it was not afraid of the water."

Here's How She Does It

The next step in the training routine was getting the colt to jump from a platform a few feet above the water. Every few weeks the platform was raised several feet. Eventually the colt was diving from a height that would make most persons dizzy.

The quartet of horses Betty Jane is now training is in their second year of schooling, all coming two-year olds.

Have No Other Duties

Her father, J. E. Bowman, operates a nursery which he irrigates from the irrigation well water is run into the diving pool. The horses have no other duties except to dive once each day.

No mechanical devices are needed to get the horses to make the plunge. They climb the 100-foot long sloping chute eagerly, step gingerly out upon the platform declining from the mouth of the chute and jump when their mistress coaxes. The platform slopes downward to give the horses foothold and the boards are covered with canvas to prevent injuring their legs.

A student in the Plainview Junior High school, Betty Jane stands high in her class work and takes part in sport and scholastic activities.

Her horses are half Arabian, Betty Jane said, and were raised on the Bowman place.

Methodists To Pray For Aid

MEMPHIS, Nov. 17. (AP)—Approximately 700 ministers attending the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist church signed pledges today to pray daily for power from on high.

The action was taken after Dr. W. A. Myer, representative of the general board of missions, had told them "the revival must start in the hearts of the preachers—not fine sermons, but preaching out of the authority of warmed hearts alone will save this generation."

Not Reaching Masses

Dr. Myer, declaring "we're not reaching the masses with the gospel, not more than half," said that last year 2,000 churches in Southern Methodism did not "report a single addition on profession of faith."

Clerical delegates to the uniting conference named by the convention were J. O. Haymes, Amarillo; C. R. Hooton, Plainview; O. P. Clark, Lubbock, and W. M. Pearce, Pampa. R. H. Nichols, Vernon publisher, was named a lay delegate.

The Woman's Angle

by Margaret Turner

THIS column and we are closing the pages on the 1938 convention of the Parents and Teachers. It seemed to be a worth while session taken by and large but we've gone so fast and furiously the last three days we've neglected our other work and dropped in bed without even taking the top off of our crepey throat cream.

We've decided we weren't cut out for a Mary Carter Toomey; one convention a season satisfies our desire for the rush.

DON'T FEEL BAD

YOU may have been downcast about the harsh sandstorm that blew up at noon Thursday just when many women were hurrying to grab their traveling bags and climb aboard the special buses. You may have thought "how terrible for the visitors to see that the sand really does blow out here." Well, we didn't feel that way at all. You see we had heard no less than three hundred women express a wish to see a "little sand" and we looked on it as having blown up especially for their benefit.

• • •

IT WAS GRAND

OUR vote for the most worthwhile feature of the convention would be the talk on American youth and the discussion period Thursday morning. This is influenced perhaps because Cameron Beck, leader, is so sincere and forceful and has such a charming personality that fits him in a peculiar way for the guidance and counseling of youth. Then, too, four of our favorite students, Bud Thompson, Eron Gafford, Joyce Halsey and Dub Estes were on the panel discussion.

We wish the 900 parents and teachers who hold memberships in the Lubbock associations could have been present and heard those intelligent youngsters give their points of view on the place of football in high school and college life, the issue of high school fraternities and sororities, social activities and parental education.

• • •

QUOTES from Mr. Beck's talk: "We are walking back from a big joy ride. . . . and the signposts are the Ten Commandments.

"John D. Rockefeller, jr., one day asked by a young man to define the thing that makes a man successful said, 'It seems to me success comes to the man in life who does the common' things of life uncommonly well.'

"The man who knows and knows that he knows is the man who will succeed.

"No amount of drag will carry an incapable or unworthy person to permanent success in life."

• • •

WORDS FAILED THEM

THE dinner served in the Merchants' building Wednesday night was the most stupendous night we have seen. Nine hundred and four women and men sat at long tables lighted with 500 candles, and decked with autumn fruits and leaves. The hundred waiters served the meal as rapidly as if they were waiting on one family, directed by that energetic and capable Mozelle Craddock. Incidentally the delegates lost words trying to describe the buffet table and the refreshment table arranged under the supervision of Miss Craddock.

• • •

THEY WERE SURPRISED

IF THE convention did nothing else it showed almost 1,000 leading women from every section of the state that we have modern improvements and beauty in Lubbock. One woman was surprised to find that electricity was a general thing and that the buildings were heated in a modern manner. Others were surprised at the size of Tech college and the number of students. One woman told us she didn't know Tech was co-educational.

• • •

OUTSTANDING FEATURES

INCLUDED in the outstanding features of the three-day session which Lubbock was responsible for we would list: The welcome placards placed in the downtown show windows, the work of Mrs. Bruce Bryan. Also the block print of the covered wagon and pioneer family that was on the cover for the program at the dinner. . . . Charles Fike's arrangement of "Little Gray Home in the West." . . . The pretty ushers and pages in their pioneering women's frocks of blue and white print. . . . The courtesy committee consisting of pretty blonde Mrs. G. C. Turner and pretty brunette Mrs. M. C. Butler.

The tables we've already described. . . . The Mother Singers. . . . Mrs. C. E. Hereford's accompaniments. . . . The flowers. . . . the Blitzes' playing. . . . The ride over the city.

WHAT, NO FIREWORKS

AND now that it's become history, we wonder if P-T. A. mothers over Texas will refrain from purchasing fireworks at Christmas for their little Johnnies and Marys, remembering the resolution they voted on Thursday to dispense with and discourage the use of all fireworks during the Christmas holidays. We're not saying what we think about the matter; we just believe that rules prohibiting the use of fireworks, like charity, should begin at home.

Carpenters Auxiliary Meets For Party In Byers Home

Mesdames C. H. Byers and Ray Corbin entertained the woman's auxiliary to the carpenters' local Wednesday night in the home of Mrs. Byers, 2108 Sixteenth street. After games of Chinese checkers, light refreshments of tea and pie were served.

Attending were Mesdames Floyd Lemons, John Hughes, Olin Monk, C. H. Tisdel, C. C. Williamson, Sam Martin, David Martin, Earl Martin, Bonnie Slaughter and Otis Rich.

The club will meet at 7:30 p. m., December 7, at the painters' hall.

How To Relieve Misery of Your CHEST COLD

If you are suffering from a miserable chest cold, try this: Massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on chest and cover with warmed cloth.

VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief—two ways at once. (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors.

This poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over. VICKS VAPORUB

Traditional Fete Staged At Acuff

By EVELYN BOYD
Avalanche Staff Writer

Turkey and all the trimmin's, served in the good old-fashioned way with steaming coffee and cakes and pies defying description, were enjoyed by men, women and children of Acuff community and a number of other guests Thursday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Pounds.

The occasion was the traditional Thanksgiving party given by the Four S. club which annually for several hours practically stops the wheels of industry in that bustling community. For this affair and other popular community undertakings "we're thinking of building a club house", one of the members said. Each year the crowd has increased until the large homes of the community are threatening to become inadequate.

The program was presented by Mrs. Leonard Cole of Lubbock and three of her students, Ina Whitney, Billy Lamm and Billy Ray Medley, who played accordion selections.

Guests who registered were Messrs. and Mesdames Roy M. Monk, L. S. Evitt, Edd Griffin, T. U. Hunt, Everette Griffin, Lee Evitt, Dub Dunagan, M. L. More Protests Being Lodged

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—Protest by prominent Catholic churchmen was added today to a growing volume of denunciation by American civic and social organizations against nazi treatment of racial and religious minorities.

The Catholic protest was made by former Governor Alfred E. Smith and four high church prelates last night in a nation-wide radio broadcast.

Applies To Others

It came on the heels of an announcement by Stephen T. Early, White House secretary, that President Roosevelt's criticism of Germany's attacks on Jews was also intended to apply to nazi persecution of Catholics and other religious groups.

After condemning the nazi outbreaks, Smith expressed approval of President Roosevelt's stand.

Demands for a boycott of German goods and for permanent recall of the American ambassador increased as indignation spread throughout the nation, bringing fresh protests from leaders in fields as diverse as sports, education, religion, politics, entertainment and literature.

Demands Are Made

They included those from Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, Temple university football coach, governors of Minnesota, Maryland and Florida; Methodist, Episcopal and Baptist church dignitaries; Professor Harold C. Urey, Columbia university Nobel prize winner in chemistry; Mayor LaGuardia, and Orson Welles, Broadway and radio drama producer.

Thirty-six leading American writers sent a telegram to President Roosevelt urging renewed protest against nazi anti-Semitic excesses.

Signers included Pearl Buck, recent Nobel prize winner, Paul De Kruif, Edna Ferber, Eugene O'Neill, Dorothy Parker, John Steinbeck, Dorothy Thompson and Thornton Wilder.

Jewish leaders, fearful of any action that might bring further calamity to their brethren in Germany, remained significantly silent.

Mayor LaGuardia—who repeatedly has denounced Adolf Hitler—and Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine disclosed that three non-aryan policemen—Capt. Max Finkelstein, Lieut. Jacob Licker and Sergeant Isaac Goldstein—had been appointed to guard all prominent nazi visitors to New York.

West Texas Day Is Slated For Tech

A "most hearty invitation" to visit Texas Technological college on West Texas day, Nov. 26, and see a "real heads-up football game" was extended in 80 letters mailed Thursday to chambers of commerce and civic clubs of the area.

The executive committee, the athletic council, the football team, and the entire student body "want you and your friends and all their relatives and their friends and relatives, in fact everybody in your community, to come over to Lubbock for West Texas day" to see the "season's feature game", that between Tech and Marquette university, the letters invited.

The letters were signed by Dr. Harry L. Kent, director of administrative research and member of the executive committee.

Stories for newspapers were enclosed and pointed out that if West Texas will rally to the cause and fill the stadium that day, contracts pending with big-name, big-time grid machines calling for heavy guarantees will have a brighter opportunity of being completed.

New Outbursts Being Feared

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Nov. 17—Jews lived in dire suspense today as the nazis buried as a martyr the young diplomat whose assassination occasioned the latest outburst of anti-Semitism.

The government withheld further restrictive decrees Jews had expected after services for Ernst Von Rath, fatally wounded by a Jewish youth, Herschel Grynszpan, in the German embassy in Paris last week.

Challenge Is Accepted

But two officials in funeral orations for Von Rath in Dusseldorf warned that "we understand the challenge (of Jewry) and accept it," and "no measure of terror can bring Germany back to slavery." Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler attended the services, but did not speak.

Though there were no new decrees, there were new prohibitions, such as a hotelmen's ban on Jewish guests, and new hints Jews might be evicted from homes overnight. Jews hoped for fruition of an Anglo-American plan to help them emigrate, but nazi newspapers unloosed new attacks on the United States and Great Britain.

Douglas Miller, United States commercial attache here, was called to Washington today, after departure of Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson for Washington.

Before 1,500 mourners, in Duesseldorf's swastika-draped Rhineland hall, State Secretary Ernst Wilhelm Bohle declared:

"The shots fired at Dovos, Barcelona and Paris (where assassinations of nazis have occurred), had but one aim—Germany, the third reich.

"Germans living abroad are everywhere attending to their callings and work as loyal guests of the states in which they live.

"Yet they are targets for hatred, . . . which concentrates all its strength upon the destruction of the resurrected reich.

"The Jew (Grynszpan), by his own admission, wanted to strike at Germany in shooting Von Rath. We were hard hit. But such persons always forget the nazi movement grows but stronger through its martyrs."

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop said the old world, apparently meaning the democracies, was definitely sinking and that a "sinister effort of international Jewry, inimical to everything," would be "unavailing."

Nazis' Excuse

His desperate act gave excuse for newest German persecution of Jews. Remorseful Herschel Grynszpan, 17-year-old Polish Jew, is seen under arrest in Paris after assassinating Ernst von Rath, German embassy attache.

Third Birthday For State Control Unit

AUSTIN, Nov. 17. (AP)—The state liquor board celebrated its third birthday today.

Administrator Bert Ford said that the board was organized Nov. 16, 1935, the agency had been responsible for revenues amounting to more than $19,000,000 of which $12,500,000 had been allocated to old age pensions.

Out of the same revenues, the available school fund received about $3,700,000 and the general revenue fund more than $331,300.

Expenditures Shown

"Expenditures for administration and carrying out a strict enforcement program over the three-year period amounted to $2,400,000," Ford said.

The administrator said cities and counties had collected more than $2,500,000 in license fees over the period.

Of 13,600 violation cases filed, almost 6,200 resulted in convictions and fines totaled slightly over $561,000.

Inspectors seized 1,300 stills, 302,000 gallons of mash and 7,700 gallons of contraband liquor, destruction of which represented prevention of more than $1,500,000 in tax evasions.

MAN SERIOUSLY HURT

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 17. (AP)—H. W. Bock, Lockhart stockman, was seriously hurt last night when his truck, loaded with two cows, overturned ten miles from the city on the Seguin highway, killing one of the cows which was being brought to the San Antonio market.

Houston Broker Faces Charges

HOUSTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—An indictment charging conspiracy and fraud in sales of securities against J. B. Parkinson, Houston broker and securities dealer, was returned by the federal grand jury in Laredo and filed with the federal clerk here today.

The indictment charged that the conspiracy covered a period from December 31, 1936, through April 10, 1938. It alleged that Parkinson solicited and accepted orders for stocks and securities, but in reality did not purchase the securities with the money advanced by the clients.

Offices Maintained

Parkinson, the indictment said, maintained offices in Houston, San Antonio, Austin, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Luling.

The indictment listed 16 "victims," and others unknown to the grand jury."

On April 16, 1938, a petition was filed in federal court here by seven Port Arthur creditors to have J. B. Parkinson and company declared bankrupt. The petition said that the district court in Houston on April 15 had put a state receiver in charge of the property. On April 22, Parkinson and company filed a petition in federal court stating that it was in no position to defend an involuntary bankruptcy and asked that it be adjudicated a bankrupt, which the federal court did.

The indictment listed the following as witnesses: Mrs. Grace B. Sain, Alice; J. G. Thomas, Beeville; Dr. Carl H. Schwedes, Weslaco; Dr. Rea R. Finehout, Victoria; John C. Dahlman, Ingleside; Mrs. A. M. Jarvis, Ingleside; A. D. Roake, Woodsboro; Fritz W. Maurer, Kingsbury; Dr. Frederick McAllister, Austin; Dr. Thomas J. McElhenney, Austin; E. P. Rouen, Port Arthur; Dr. Scott McNeill, Dr. Howard Lancaster, Dr. Robert E. Bratton, Lewis Worthy, Mrs. C. L. Davis, and others unknown.

Band Boosters Club To Stage Dance In City On Nov. 26

The dance was announced by Mrs. C. C. Born, president.

Jack York and his Gentlemen of Swing will play. Couples or stags will be charged $1.

Tickets will be sold by members of the club and through the high school.

At a recent meeting of the board of trustees a committee from the club asked assistance in obtaining uniforms for the band, conducted by H. A. Anderson. Nobel Peace Prize Of 1938 Is Won By Refugee Office

OSLO, Nov. 17. (AP)—The 1938 Nobel peace prize of about $30,000 was awarded today to the Nansen international office for refugees at Geneva, an organization which collects information on the material and moral welfare of refugees and gives general directions to relief institutions.

It was the fourth time the peace award provided for in the will of Alfred B. Nobel, the Swedish chemist-engineer who invented dynamite, had been given to an institution. A committee of five chosen by the Norwegian parliament makes the awards.

The Nansen office, named for the late Dr. Fridtjof Nansen who won the prize in 1922, carries on his work in the interest of refugees.

In 1921 he was invited by the League of Nations council to find a solution to the problem created by more than a million Russian refugees scattered over Europe and China. He became the league's high commissioner for refugees.

Columbia University received a total of over $403,000 in gifts during the past year.

The 7083 islands composing the Philippines have a total area no greater than that of the state of Arizona.

Canadian And British Trade Agreements Will Help American Agriculture

Cotton Will Be On Free List

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP) — Agriculture department experts said tonight the British and Canadian trade agreements should benefit American agriculture but not to the extent of greatly relieving existing surpluses.

Major advantages gained from the British, they said, would flow to producers of corn, hogs, rice, apples and citrus fruits.

Cotton On Free List

On the other hand, southern producers of cotton and tobacco, groups confronted with the most serious problem of excessive surpluses, gained no advantages not already possessed. Cotton continues on the free list in the British agreement. British import duties on tobacco, which give dominion producers a price advantage, were continued in effect.

Although state department officials emphasized that the British duty on American wheat, equivalent to 6 cents a bushel, was removed, other government experts said that the use of export dumping programs by Canada, Argentina and several other major wheat producing countries tended to lessen the importance of this concession.

Government Takes Loss

Because of dumping, wheat is selling in world markets for as much as 20 cents a bushel below American prices. At present, American wheat sold abroad is marketed at prices below domestic levels, and the government makes up losses by export subsidies.

Consequently, sales to Great Britain, while made on an equality with Canada and Australia, will entail no loss as long as present conditions prevail, the experts said.

They emphasized, however, that should wheat countries agree to abandon subsidies, the wheat concession should go far in helping the American wheat farmer to establish a profitable market in Great Britain.

Lard To Be Aided

The experts predicted a 50 per cent expansion in British purchases of lard, one of the major products of the midwestern corn belt. The agreement likewise substantially enlarged British import quotas of American hams, cured pork and other pork products.

Generally speaking, the agreement with Canada granted that country concessions on such important farm commodities as cattle and dairy products in return for Canadian concessions on American manufactured products.

The government experts predicted enlarged markets in Great Britain for American citrus fruits and more in Canada as a result of the agreements.

Guests Carve Their Names Upon Table At The Home Of This Texas Tech Professor

Calling cards are taboo at the adobe home of Dr. W. I. Robinson, 2612 Twenty-fourth street. Guests carve their names on the kitchen table.

Dr. Robinson is associate professor of geology at Texas Technological college. Signatures of 48 students and two faculty members have been cut into the pine surface of the table since 1936.

"The custom started quite by chance," said Dr. Robinson. While steaks were being cooked one night, a student set a frying pan on the table. When he asked if it were all right, Dr. Robinson answered, "Sure. Do anything you please with my table." Whereupon, the student took out a jackknife and carved his name on the table.

Widespread Use Of Contraceptives Brings Decline In Death Rate, Doctor Declares

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17. (AP) —Widespread use of contraceptives has brought a decline in the death rate of babies, an obstetrician told doctors attending the Southern Medical association convention here today.

Dr. H. P. Hewitt, Chattanooga, Tenn., said government statistics show the death rate of infants born not over a year apart is double that of infants born two years or more apart.

"They also show," continued Dr. Hewitt, "that when the birth rate dropped 20 per cent, because of the increased use of contraceptives, the death rate of infants under one year of age dropped 33 per cent."

Little Danger Seen

The Chattanooga physician could see little danger to the nation's birth situation because of prevalent use of contraceptives. He cited a poll by a national women's magazine which showed that although 79 per cent of the nation's women favored family limitation, 66 per cent considered three to four children as the ideal family. And only one per cent thought one was enough.

"The need of contraception today is a recognized fact," said Dr. Hewitt. "The present social economy and culture make family limitation and family planning a necessary part of our social life and it is here to stay, and we as doctors had just as well accept it wholeheartedly.

"There are no intelligent couples, who, by their own free will, would have a horde of weaklings and drive the mother to an early grave."

Appointment Of New Judges In Near Future Necessary

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)— Attorney General Cummings said today the condition of dockets in federal courts throughout the country will make it necessary for President Roosevelt to name some new judges soon.

Some present vacancies will be filled before congress convenes in January, he said.

There are 22 vacancies in the federal judicial system, caused either by deaths of incumbents or by creation of new posts.

Three Are Charged In Conspiracy Case

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17. (AP)— A 66-year-old wallpaper dealer and two women witnesses were charged today with conspiring to defraud the commonwealth through their claim to a $20,000,000 estate left by an eccentric widow of a Philadelphia snuff manufacturer.

The man, Issac Newton Sheaffer, of Newark, Del., sought the entire fortune. The women, Miss Grace L. Sheaffer, 54, of Penfield, Pa., and Mrs. Mary E. Suter, 62, of Lancaster, Pa., supported his contention that he was a son of the widow, Mrs. Henrietta E. Garrett, born before her marriage.

Their arrest came dramatically yesterday at a special master's hearing after a commonwealth witness, Alfred Cohn, 39-year-old Lancaster bookkeeper, testified he unwittingly wrote false entries in an old Sheaffer family Bible at Miss Sheaffer's request.

The arrests were the first in the case which took form after Mrs. Garrett died in 1930. She disposed of only a small part of her estate by will. Claims of kinship have come from 23,000 persons throughout the world.

Allred Will Start On Deer Hunt Day After Thanksgiving

AUSTIN, Nov. 17. (AP)—Texas' chief executive will wait until the day after Thanksgiving to try his 1938 deer-hunting luck.

Governor Allred said today he would attend the A. & M.-Texas football game here next Thursday, then go hunting in South Texas the following day. He will be accompanied by his eight-year-old son, James, jr., who got his first deer last year.

Gannett Expects FDR To Lose Third Bid

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 17. (AP) —Frank E. Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher, said last night he was "so much encouraged by the recent elections" he expected President Roosevelt to lose if he sought re-election to a third term.

He said in a statement he was misunderstood in an interview yesterday quoting him as predicting the president would run for a third term and win reelection.

"I predicted the renomination of President Roosevelt in 1940," Gannett said, "but not his reelection. I added that it would not be easy to defeat him. I might further say that I am so encouraged by the recent elections that I naturally expect Mr. Roosevelt to lose if he seeks a third term."

El Paso Salesman Is Being Held On Charge Of Bigamy

ALHAMBRA, Calif., Nov. 17. (AP)— George Duckett, El Paso, Tex., salesman, was held here today for Alpine, Tex., authorities on a charge of bigamy.

Chief of Police A. F. Cherry said Duckett, who married Ann Standford, attractive Alpine, Tex., brunette Thursday, admitted he was married eight years ago and has a son, but refused to say whether he had obtained a divorce, what his previous wife's name is or where she resides.

Chief Cherry said Sheriff Taylor of Alpine, who requested the arrest, notified him Duckett would be extradited as soon as he could draw up the necessary papers.

The girl, who said she had no previous knowledge of her husband's prior marriage, declared she is anxious to return to her father, a sheriff's deputy at Alpine.

Traditional Rivals Of American Football Clash On Many Fronts This Week

Irish, Wildcats Clash In One Big Feature

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Harvard football team, equipped with one of the country's trickiest offenses and labelled "the best team that ever lost four straight," will move into the Yale bowl Saturday favored for the first time in years to beat the Elis in this most traditional of all traditional games.

Other battles—Notre Dame-Northwestern, Wisconsin - Minnesota, Rice-Texas Christian—will have more bearing on sectional and national ratings. Yet this one, more than any other with the exception of the annual Army-Navy clash, can draw an impressive crowd no matter what the records of the combatants are.

Yale Holds Big Edge

This year they certainly aren't much. Harvard has beaten only Princeton of five major rivals. Yale, winner over Navy and Brown, has lost to Columbia, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Dartmouth and Princeton. Still 60,000 customers will be on hand for this 57th renewal of a series in which Yale has won 32 times and Harvard 18 since the inaugural in 1875.

One-touchdown victor a year ago, Harvard is favored to retain its big three championship because Dick Harlow's crimson-shirted cohorts finally have shown they are able to carry out the complex assignments essential to the success of the system he teaches.

The Harvard-Yale rivalry is the oldest to be renewed on Saturday. But Lafayette and Lehigh, of the middle three, have been more active. Though they didn't get started until 1884, this will be their 52nd meeting, for they played two and three times a year in the early stages of the feud.

Other Historic Games

The mid-west presents new episodes in five series dating back to the horse and buggy era. Wisconsin and Minnesota, battling for the Big Ten championship, will be staging the 47th installment of a gridiron thriller begun in 1891, the same year Purdue and Indiana put on their first scrap. Notre Dame and Northwestern will take up a rivalry started in 1889, Chicago and Illinois will renew a series inaugurated only three years later. And Michigan will be out to score on Ohio State for the first time in five years in a rivalry that saw the Buckeyes able to get only two ties from 1897 until 1919.

California, neck-and-neck with Southern California in the Pacific Coast conference race, will meet Stanford for the 45th time in a series that, from 1906 to 1914, was contested at rugby instead of American football. Pittsburgh's 48th duel with Penn State hardly looms like a throwback to their early days, when Pitt got only four points in the first six games; Georgia Tech will try for its eleventh triumph in 15 clashes with Florida, and Columbia and Syracuse, rivals since 1901, will meet for the 18th time.

Even Army and Princeton, though they haven't played each other in 30 years, will be reviving an old-timer. The Tigers and Cadets first got together in 1893 and played eight times. Princeton winning six and tying two.

Marquette Team Lands In Southwest For Two Games

(Special To The Avalanche)

DALLAS, Nov. 17.—Looking like anything but a football team that had suffered four consecutive defeats at home, the Marquette university Hilltoppers of Milwaukee, Wis., passed through here today on their way to Tucson, Ariz., where they will face the University of Arizona in a floodlight battle, Saturday night.

Coach Paddy Driscoll, first off the train as usual, was authority for the statement that the Marquette gridmen are in good shape for their southwestern excursion, which also will include a game, Nov. 26, with undefeated and untied Texas Tech at Lubbock.

Expect Tech To Be Tough

"Our scouts," Driscoll said, "report that Arizona is much stronger than its record would indicate and that those Wildcats are apt to break out in a scoring rash at almost any moment. But we're in the same boat ourselves. I'm positive we're stronger than you'd believe from a glance at our scores this fall. So, you see, some very interesting things may be happening in Tucson!

"Now," he continued, "Texas Tech is something else again, but we've got to play our games one at a time and Arizona comes first. They tell me that Pete Cawthon has really got IT at Lubbock this fall, and that the Red Raiders deserve a lot more credit than they've been getting."

"We know we'll be up against a genuine powerhouse there. I've got my fingers crossed!"

Tech Frosh Keep Home Fires Going

Texas Tech's varsity, in Albuquerque to battle University of New Mexico tomorrow, did not take all of the college football enthusiasm and news along with them.

Coach Berl Huffman's freshmen gridders, who have been digging all season just as hard as, and sometimes harder than, the varsity boys, will make their first and only local appearance of the season tomorrow afternoon.

Marquette Tickets Ready

And from that preliminary announcement the news tide shifts back to the varsity, which comes home next week to play Marquette university in one of the season's standout attractions. Tickets for the game, to be played Saturday, Nov. 26, are on sale now, and probably will go just about as fast as Lubbock-Amarillo high school ducats.

Ticket Manager Bo Williams has placed reserved seat tickets for the Tech-Marquette contest on sale at the Hub Clothiers, Mark Halsey Drug No. 2, Hotel Lubbock Drug and Tech drug. They also may be obtained at Williams' office in the administration building on the campus. Mail orders should be sent direct to Williams. Price is $2.20 each for reserved seats.

But for the mere sum of 40 cents a football fan may be treated to an afternoon of riotous gridiron activity tomorrow afternoon at Tech Stadium.

Sophomores In Making

The Picadors, who annually supply a stream of varsity "feeders" and who this year seem no exception to the rule and purpose, will tangle with a full-fledged senior college—Panhandle A. & M. of Goodwell, Okla.

Game time is 2:30 o'clock, and a large attendance of students and townspeople is expected. Coach Huffman has been, and is, administering to a select squad of husky first year collegians, hand picked from an original turnout of slightly less than 100 candidates, and in some of them he believes he has real varsity material, beginning as early as 1939. Huffman's freshmen of last year, the sophomores of this year, are doing steady duty in several positions for the black and red. At least two sophomore backs and one linemen, will start for the Red Raiders against New Mexico tomorrow at Albuquerque, and half a dozen others should see service before the game is over.

Huffman has named 22 players he says will see action in the Panhandle Aggie game tomorrow.

Coach Carl Wooten and his Aggies, who naturally rule as favorites over the frosh, are expected here today.

The Tech varsity, 33 players strong, left Lubbock shortly after noon yesterday from the Santa Fe station, and were to arrive in Albuquerque late in the night. They will practice this afternoon on the Lobo field, winding up preparations for what New Mexico has planned as THE game of the season.

A special train carrying three hundred or more Tech students, the band and pep squad, and townspeople is to leave the Santa Fe dock at 11 o'clock tonight, and arrive in Albuquerque about 7:30 in the morning. The trippers will have a full day in Albuquerque, with time to visit historic Santa Fe. Game time is 2:30, Mountain time. The special train leaves at midnight Saturday from Albuquerque, and will arrive home early Sunday morning.

Frog Coaches And Captains To Attend Vestal Rites

FORT WORTH, Nov. 17. (AP) — Coaches and captains of the T.C.U. Horned Frogs will attend the funeral of Jack ("Red") Vestal in Houston Friday afternoon. The scheduled workout for the Frogs on Rice field has been cancelled, Coach Dutch Meyer said this morning.

Several Frogs will attend including Coaches Meyer and Mike Brumbelow, Captains I. B. Hale and Ki Aldrich.

PHILS TO TRAIN IN TEXAS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17. (AP)—The Philadelphia National League club announced tonight the Phillies would train next year at New Braunfels, Texas. The date of the departure of the team from here has not yet been fixed.

Brownfield Boy Said Eligible

(Special To The Avalanche)

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 17.—Superintendent M. L. H. Baze of Brownfield High school said tonight records of Southland High school definitely relieved his mind on eligibility of Eugene McCraw, center on the Brownfield football team.

A protest had been lodged with the District 5-B executive committee by Slaton High school officials, charging McCraw had completed eight semesters before the fall semester began.

It was disclosed today in investigation of Southland records that the first semester of 1934-35 did not end until Jan. 24. McCraw had admitted playing in a basketball game for Southland on Jan. 10.

Slaton officials had believed the fall semester ended Jan. 5, but Supt. W. A. Smith of Southland found records to prove that three weeks had been taken out for cotton picking thus prolonging the semester's end to Jan. 24, Baze said.

The case will be studied by the executive committee at a meeting Saturday morning in Lubbock.

McCraw will play with the Cubs in the closing game of the district's southern division against the Antelopes at Post Friday afternoon, Baze said.

Olton, Brownfield In Final Conference Tests Today

Favorites of the two divisions of District 5B play "clincher" games this afternoon.

Brownfield, in the throes of eligibility questions, goes to Post to joust the Antelopes. The Post entry has suffered only one defeat in conference play and could throw the south half race into a three-way tie with a win over the Cubs.

Lacking only a tie to cop honors in the upper half, Olton's Mustangs play at Crosbyton. The Chiefs have been beaten by three district foes.

Levelland is host to Coach Bob Harlow's Tahoka Bulldogs in a non-conference contest and Floydada, dethroned power of District 4B, visits with Littlefield. Ralls played the Lubbock Cowhands Thursday.

Temporary Stands For Turkey Day Game Assured

Lubbock High school officials completed arrangements to bring 1,200 bleacher seats from Amarillo and will "get all they can here" to attempt to care for an overflow crowd Thanksgiving day at the Lubbock-Amarillo game.

A few general admission tickets had not been sold Thursday night, E. J. (Pinkey) Lowrey, business manager of athletics, said. They are for north end zone seats and are priced at 75 cents.

A block of 1,000 special Texas Tech students ducats will go on sale Saturday morning in the lobby of the college administration building, Lowrey said. Students with activity tickets may obtain them for 50 cents.

The Westerners, every member of the squad, went through another heavy drill Thursday afternoon. Workout was built around defense for Amarillo's fleet backfield and offensive maneuvers of the Westerners' own.

Levelland Plans Big Event For Tahoka Game Today

LEVELLAND, Nov. 17. (Special)—The Tahoka Bulldogs come to Levelland stadium at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon to play the local Lobos.

The Lobos will be closing the 1938 campaign. Fans here consider they have had a good season despite four losses.

Merchants and towns people are co-operating to make this the big game of the year. The football queen and boys eligible for play next year will be presented at the half.

Here's Active Picador Roster

Coach Berl Huffman has announced the following squadmen will see service in Texas Tech freshman grid uniforms tomorrow against the Panhandle Aggies of Oklahoma, a senior college:

Rice Challenges Frog Supremacy On Saturday

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Trailed by tragedy and ill fortune since the season's start, the remnants of a great Rice institute team Saturday pulls itself together once more to challenge Texas Christian's undefeated and untied band.

Only a few hours after burial of one of their sturdiest mates, Jack Vestal, brilliant blocking back who died Wednesday, the Owls will take the field before some 30,000 at Houston to defy a 14-year-old jinx.

Regulars Are Injured

Latest and most severe shock to the defending Southwest conference champions was the death of redheaded Vestal. It followed the benching by injuries of its hero pair—Ernie Lain and Ollie Cordill—and Capt. Jess Hines, a savage tackle. Out of the lineup also were Earl Glassie, sophomore fullback, and Bert Selman, sparkling ball carriers.

No one knew how the psychology would work in Saturday's game—whether Rice would play the game for Vestal, who had mumbled he wanted to live for the game, or whether the strain of constant bad luck would further break down the Owl machine once touted for national honors.

Lain, his ankles tightly taped, will hobble in the lineup for a passing barrage, it was indicated. But it was doubtful that Cordill, his nimble receiver, runner and outstanding punter, could shake off a bad knee injury in time for play. Hines was definitely out after re-injuring his lame knee.

Frogs Attend Funeral

The mighty Christians, who cancelled Friday's workout to attend Vestal's funeral, will be in prime condition. All of its injured stars will answer the kickoff—including Capt. I. B. Hale, 240-pound tackle; Guard Forrest Kline, 240 pounds, and Halfback Earl Clark and Johnny Hall.

Woven around the magic passing arm of David O'Brien is the passing game that T. C. U. will alternate with a vicious ground game in an effort to bag its ninth consecutive triumph.

Meanwhile, Southern Methodist, the only team keeping pace with the Christians in the conference race, attempts what it has never done before—defeat Baylor at Waco.

Ponies Seek To Stop Passes

Throughout the week Southern Methodist drilled 'till dark on defenses for the passes of Bullet Bill Patterson, Baylor's amazing hurler who spread more of his poison last Saturday in passing Loyola of Los Angeles to the ground, 35-2.

The Methodists, one-time "aerial circus" of football, planned a sky spree themselves, priming Sophomores Johnny Clement and Ray Mallouf for a "fight fire with fire" program. These two youngsters made life miserable for Arkansas last week in a 19-6 victory.

Should both T. C. U. and S. M. U. come through unscatched, their Nov. 26 meeting at Dallas will decide the conference championship.

Lobo Lineup Is Switched

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 17. (AP) — Coach Ted Shipkey juggled his University of New Mexico lineup today, seeking utmost scoring punch when the Lobos meet undefeated Texas Tech in a football battle here Saturday.

Shipkey has been experimenting with his backfield combination since Bill Dwyer, ace halfback, was hurt three weeks ago.

Colorado Eleven To Combat Buffs At Canyon Saturday

GUNNISON, Colo., Nov. 17. (AP)—Western State's grid team boarded a train for a two-game expedition into Texas and New Mexico.

The Mountaineers will play West Texas State Teachers at Canyon Saturday and then move on to Roswell, N. M., and remain there until their Thanksgiving Day game with New Mexico Military.

Coach Paul Wright mapped an aerial attack to try to pierce the defense set up by the West Texans' 193-pound line.

Champs! Yes, Sir, One For Every City

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Battling Pistone, who is our wrestling editor simply because nobody else will have any truck with the mysterious business, today tried to peddle his job. Even Pistone, a carefree fellow with a love for figures, couldn't endure the modern trend in the grunt industry when he discovered the "world heavyweight wrestling championship" will be defended in six different cities tomorrow night.

"Give me a simple job like counting the number of people who pass 42nd street and Fifth avenue at noon time," requested the upset BaBttler. "I can't keep up with them any more. Look at tomorrow night's all-championship program."

Well, the list is unbelievable—even for the wrestlers:

At Tampa, Fla.: "World Heavyweight Champion" Dick Shikat vs. Sholem Whale-em Aleichem.

At Cincinnati, O.: "World Heavyweight Champion" John Pesek vs. Nig Wilcox.

At Philadelphia: "World Heavyweight Champion" Bronko Nagurski vs. "International World Heavyweight Champion" Jim Londos.

At St. Louis: "World Heavyweight Champion" Crusher Casey vs. Ali Baba.

At Houston, Tex.: "World Heavyweight Champion" Leo Daniel Boone Savage vs. Elmer Wiggins.

At Bridgeport, Conn.: "World Heavyweight Champion" Steve Passos vs. King Kong Frankenstein.

Some of these matches, warns Pistone, may be changed at a moment's notice.

"It'll be the biggest wrestling night since day before yesterday," he said. "Eight were listed for that night but two were called off on account of bad train schedules when the promoters saw the crowds. By late Friday night, we'll have only seven 'champions.' Londos is the International champ. He even claims the title of Mars. Friday night's winners will be Shikat, Pesek, Casey, Savage, Passos and Londos. Wish I could pick football winners like the wrestlers."

Cowboys, Plainview Play To Deadlock

In a game featured by strong defensive play of both teams the Lubbock Junior High Cowboys played the Plainview Bullpups to a scoreless stalemate Thursday afternoon at Texas Tech field.

The Cowboys of Coaches Mule Davis and Lovic Liston were never able to get their offense to clicking against the strong Bullpups. Only thing resembling a threat of the locals was a 50-yard march in the final period. That drive bogged down on the Plainview 40.

The Bullpups advanced to the two-yard line in the third quarter on a 40-yard end run, but were held on downs by alert Cowboy forwards.

Kicking of R. L. Laxson was a feature of the game for the Cowboys. James Reese, Wilson Belt and Leroy Holley were line standouts.

Tyler Player Is Okehed By District 9 Committee

KILGORE, Nov. 17. (AP)—The undefeated, untied Tyler High school football team, an outstanding contender for the Texas Interscholastic league championship, is eligible to continue in the race, it was decided by unanimous vote of the District 9 executive committee here today.

Longview had protested on the grounds Wallace Scott, Tyler High school end, had not been placed on the eligibility list at the start of the season. Scott had been used in all five conference games won by the Lions.

A long-deferred battle between Port Arthur and Beaumont in which the championship of the gulf coast district is likely to be determined and Masonic Home's drive to hurdle the last barrier in the way to the Fort Worth title stand out in a weekend schedule of schoolboy football that makes up for lack of quantity with quality.

With the protest against Tyler, the East Texas power, settled in favor of the Lions, the Texas Interscholastic league campaign resumes the even tenor of its way with four districts in the limelight this week. The district 9 executive committee Friday voted unanimously that Tyler's star end, Wally Scott, was eligible and the Lions again came forward as one of the state's outstanding teams—one that many predict would take the championship.

Dallas Race Is Clinched

Port Arthur and Beaumont, each undefeated in conference play, resume gridiron relations Saturday at Beaumont. They have not met for several seasons due to Port Arthur's use of twelfth graders but this controversy was eliminated when the membership of the Interscholastic league voted these boys could not be used further.

Masonic Home faces Poly Friday night needing no more than a tie to clinch the District 7 crown. Poly can throw the race into a tie with a victory. The winner in this district plays Sunset, which has already won the pennant in the Dallas district, in the first round of the state race.

The oil belt district has two standout games with San Angelo at Sweetwater Friday night to decide the western division title and Cisco clashing with Breckenridge at Breckenridge Friday afternoon for the eastern division crown. The winners meet next week for the district gonfalon.

Champions in both brackets will also be determined Friday night in the Rio Grande valley district. Brownsville, Harlingen and McAllen are tied for the lead in the upper division. McAllen plays at Edinburg and Brownsville at Harlingen. In the lower bracket Pharr-San Juan-Alamo and Weslaco are deadlocked for the top with Pharr playing Mission and Weslaco tangling with Mercedes. Should each or both divisions end in ties champions will be decided on either season's records or statistical data, ever which is applicable to the case at hand.

Finalists in the Panhandle and Central Texas have already been determined. Amarillo plays Lubbock Thanksgiving day for the District 1 crown and Waco meets Temple the same date for the District 11 championship.

Other districts await this week's games to determine play-off teams.

Friday's conference games:

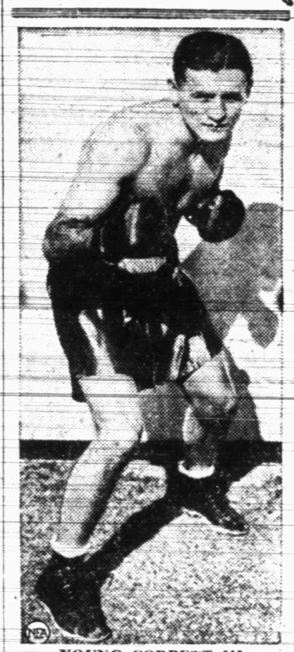

District 1, Plainview at Pampa; District 2, Childress at Graham; Vernon at Quanah; Olney at Electra; District 3, San Angelo at Sweetwater; Eastland at Brownwood, Cisco at Breckenridge; District 4, Ysleta at Bowie (El Paso); District 5, Sherman at Paris; District 6, Greenville at Denton; District 7, Masonic Home (Fort Worth) vs. Poly (Fort Worth); District 8, Dallas Tech vs. Sunset (Dallas); District 9, Texarkana at Athens, Marshall at Longview; District 10, Henderson at Livingston, Palestine at Mexia, Gaston at Nacogdoches, Lufkin at Jacksonville; District 11, Waxahachie at Hillsboro, Cleburne at Corsicana; District 12, San Antonio Tech at Austin; District 13, Sam Houston (Houston) at Conroe, San Jacinto (Houston) vs. Davis (Houston); District 14, Orange at Goose Creek; District 15, no games scheduled; District 16, McAllen at Edinburg, Brownsville at Harlingen, Mission at Pharr-San Juan-Alamo, Mercedes at Weslaco.

Saturday's schedule:

District 8, Forest (Dallas) vs. Adamson (Dallas); District 12, Reagan (Houston) vs. Lamar (Houston); District 14, Port Arthur at Beaumont.

N. Y. Title At Stake

YOUNG CORBETT III

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The middleweight championship of New York state will be fought out at the garden tomorrow night between a couple of California Italians, Fred Apostoli and young Corbett 3rd, and prospects are it will be a rattling good fight.

The reason a more extensive title will not be at stake in the 15-round battle is the fact that the National Boxing association, which rules the game in 47 other states and the District of Columbia, regards Solly Krieger of New York as the 160-pound king.

Corbett, a 33-year-old southpaw, won a close 10 round decision over Apostoli in San Francisco last February. That is the only smear on Apostoli's extraordinary record, which includes knockout victories over Marcel Thil of France, Freddie Steele and Krieger.

That eastern critics did not take the coast result too seriously is reflected in the fact that Apostoli, a great favorite hereabouts, has been made a 5 to 0 choice to whip Corbett this time.

Southern Teams Renew Ancient Grid Rivalries

By KENNETH GREGORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA, Nov. 17 (AP)—Traditional football rivalry replaces championship contention on this week-end's gridiron program within the Southeastern conference.

The titular argument has been all but ended by Tennessee's high-flying Volunteers, who went ahead with preparations for next Thursday's encounter with Kentucky's Wildcats.

On a neutral gridiron in Columbus, Ga., the University of Georgia Bulldogs and the Auburn Plainsmen renew a feud that dates back to the days of '92.

Rivalry Always Is Close

The rivalry always has been close, Georgia holding a 19 to 18 edge in victories. Five games were ties, last year's ending scoreless.

Of slightly less importance is the clash in Atlanta between Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets and the University of Florida 'Gators. Some 15,000 are expected to watch this affair, with Georgia Tech the pre-game favorite because of its 14-13 tie with Alabama last week. Florida apparently hit its best stride season in overwhelming Mary... last Saturday.

A third conference game sends Sewanee into New Orleans for its annual tilt with Tulane's Green Wave. Sewanee stands little chance of doing anything against such superior odds. Tulane humbled Georgia 28 to 6 in its latest trip to the front and should win as it pleases.

Vandy, Alabama Idle

Louisiana State's Tigers and the Mississippi State Maroons, both defeated last week-end, L. S. U. surprisingly by 6 to 28 at the hands of Auburn and State 0-19 by Centenary, step out of the conference. The Tigers deploy against Southwestern of Louisiana and the Maroons tackle Southwestern of Memphis, the Dixie conference champion, on the latter's field.

Vanderbilt's Commodores, 0-14 victim a week ago of Tennessee's titlebound gridders, and Alabama's Crimson Tide are also idle, awaiting their Thanksgiving Day encounter at Birmingham.

Inquiry Staged In Burglaries

(Special To The Avalanche)

OLTON, Nov. 17.—Continued investigations—which tonight had been futile—were conducted by officials into three burglaries here Wednesday night.

Merchandise valued at approximately $600 was taken. South Plains and eastern New Mexico authorities kept close watch for an automobile in which were a woman and a young boy.

Breaking a window of Van Doren Variety store, just across the street from the courthouse, the intruders made entry by working door latches. Of loss there was heavy, including 200 boxes of women's hose, each box containing three pairs; two knitted sweater sets; 24 pairs of men's dress shoes; six pairs of men's work shoes; six pairs of boys shoes, and 5 pairs of womep's shoes.

Cafe Suffers Loss

Clyde Cates' cafe, nearby, reported a nickelodeon was broken into. It was a penny slot machine, and an undetermined amount of money taken.

In North Olton, two offenses were reported. Two hosts were taken from L. H. Trotter garage, both painted blue. One was a truck, the other a two-ton hoist. A lock on a gasoline pump of Ormstead station was broken and enough gasoline drained to fill the tank of the undesirables, Mrs. F. A. Loyd, sheriff, and Sam Hutson, sheriff-elect, estimated.

Hutson said the men's dress shoes were 7 to 10 in size; the work shoes 7 to 10; the boys' shoes 3 to 6 and the women's shoes 4 to 8.

The burglaries interrupted a comparative quiet in Lamb county, with exception of scattered rural burglaries, said the sheriff's department.

Two offenses, reported Sunday, added to thieves with either a "perverted sense of humor or fellows who will take anything," said Hutson. Someone stole the front wheels off a county maintainer and those off the state machine near Earth community.

Clues today were being studied, but nothing tangible was announced as pointing to identity of those responsible, said Mrs. Loyd.

Title Of District 4B In Balance Today

Championship of District 4B will be decided this afternoon when the Spur Bulldogs and Lockney Longhorns tangle on the Lockney grid. Both teams have suffered ties with Flomot, throwing the race into a deadlock. Spur and Lockney were not scheduled to meet this season, and revision of the district slate was necessary to settle the title dispute.

The Bulldogs were threatened with expulsion from the race when Flomot protested eligibility of Andy Smith, star guard. The district executive committee, however, found Smith first eligible in a meeting Wednesday night at Spur.

In other games scheduled for District 4, Flomot plays Turkey at Flomot, Paducah goes to Silverton, Guthrie meets Matador, and Floydada invades Littlefield.

Cowhands Beaten By Jackrabbits, 26-7

RALLS, Nov. 17. (Special) — The flame Light wasn't taken lightly here today when the star halfback paced the Ralls Jackrabbits to a 26-7 victory over the Lubbock Cowhands.

Light reeled off runs of 40, 18 and 12 yards for touchdowns. Barton, Rabbit fullback, plunged six yards for another score.

The locals took a 7-0 lead in the first half when Light made his first touchdown jaunt. He repeated in the third and fourth periods. Lofton's score came in the final quarter.

A short pass Max Walthall to Jimmy Williamson, which the latter carried 72 yards provided the Cowhands' touchdown in the third period.

JIM KEESEY RELEASED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17. (AP)—Jim Keesey, former manager, released by the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas Baseball league, announced today he had accepted a similar position with the Portsmouth, Va., team in the Piedmont league.

Keesey said he would meet his new employers for a conference at New Orleans Dec. 27, but would not report for active duty until spring training.

SMITH "DOING FINE"

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 17. (AP) — From the hospital room occupied by Jack Smith, University of Arkansas halfback, came the report tonight he was "doing fine." The doctor said Smith of Frederick, Okla., youth who was knocked unconscious in yesterday's game between the Razorbacks and Mississippi would return to Fayetteville tomorrow.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't fiddle around with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are it's simple if you eat only what most people do: meat, bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that fits you, your ticket is a crisp crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1. Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

PACE IS REVERSED
NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The stock market reversed its pace for a moderate rally today after losing in a three-day decline practically all its post-election gains.
Some stocks recovered after losing in a three-day decline practically all its post-election gains.
Some stocks recovered a point or two on the rebound but small advances were the rule at the finish of a quiet session.
Traders, it seemed, still were playing the safe side while they watched the aftermath of the anti-Semitic drive in Germany and for hints on the administration's post-election policies at Washington. Also an inducement to inaction was a desire to await the details of the Anglo-American trade treaty.
Transactions shrank to 994,580 shares compared with 1,794,880 in the previous session. The Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks rallied .5 of a point to 52.4.
Steel and aircraft shares, lately in speculative favor on prospects of increased U. S. spending for armament, moved ahead with more vigor than most groups. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem each finished 1¾ points higher. Rails also did fairly well. Santa Fe, Atlantic Coast line and Illinois Central picked up more than a point each.
Also 1 to around 2 higher were Chrysler, Electric Autolite, North American, International Harvester, Sperry, U. S. Rubber, Woolworth, Texas Corp., Du Pont, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Smelting and Mack Truck.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Cotton futures alternately were under pressure from liquidation but the market fluctuated irregularly and closed steady, net 5 points higher to 6 lower.
Distant months absorbed the greater part of the selling because of Washington advices saying agricultural leaders advocated reduced loans on future crops.
At the close Dec. sold at 8.75@8.76, Jan. 8.69-bid, March 8.61@8.63, May 8.42, July 8.19, Oct. 7.87, Dec. (new) at 7.88-bid and March (1940) at 7.90-bid.
The spot basis was switched from December to March and as a result middling closed 8 points lower at 8.73.

NEW YORK REPORT
NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Cotton moved unevenly today as covering held near months steady and liquidation promoted by possibility of smaller loans on future cotton crops depressed distant deliveries. The market closed 7 points net higher to 4 points lower. March advanced from 8.45@8.50 and closed at 8.49.
Opening prices were 3 points lower to 1 point higher in small mixed trading. Trade and foreign buying absorbed liquidation and hedge selling. Prices advanced later as a result of persistent trade covering in near months.

AVERAGE PRICE
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17 (AP)—The average price of middling cotton at 10 southern spot markets today was 2 points higher at 8.68 cents a pound; the average for the past 30 market days was 8.61 cents.

RETURNS TO HOME
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP) — Senator Connally (D-Tex) left last night for his home in Marlin, Tex. He said he would make several speeches in the state before returning late in December.

fluences that may have driven the patient to drink in the first place—poor vocational adjustment, family difficulties.
In any event, Dr. Seliger said, the psychiatrist attempts to guide the patient toward new interests in hobbies, diversions, club activities, and the like. These help to take the patient's mind off cocktails, and the bonhommie of bar rooms.
He scoffed at the idea that cutting off the alcohol rations immediately might have fatal effect for the alcoholic, cited an instance of the treatment where in 500 cases only one died —a tuberculous patient.
For the "shakes" which sometimes accompany cessation of large alcohol intake, Dr. Seliger suggested sedatives, increased sugar intake, heavy doses of brewer's yeast.

Ex-Convict Is Being Sought

MALVERN, Ark., Nov. 17. (AP)—The body of a man slain on a lonely road near here last Friday night was identified by his four brothers today as W. J. Van Hooser, 55, Lubbock, Tex., traveling salesman for a Los Angeles firm.
Hot Spring county officers announced they were seeking a paroled Oklahoma convict for questioning in connection with Van Hooser's death.
The body was identified by F. U. and R. A. Van Hooser of Lubbock, S. H. Van Hooser, Murfreesboro, Tenn., and J. W. Van Hooser, McMinnville, Tenn. They ordered the body sent to McMinnville for burial.

Sheriff T. S. Fisher, Prosecuting Attorney W. H. Glover and Police Chief Frank Ault said an investigation made at Clarksville, Texas, resulted in information that the paroled convict left that city to drive Van Hooser to Memphis.
Van Hooser's body was found in the midst of a litter of broken beer bottles on the roadside Saturday morning. His automobile was found abandoned at Muskogee, Okla., Monday. Glover and State Policeman Jack Benton went to Muskogee today to return the machine here.

Immigration Is Great Problem

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—A new, large-scale attempt by Jewish and other European minorities to find homes in this country may lead to a resurvey of American immigration laws by the next congress.

Outbreaks of anti-Semitism in Germany and elsewhere have caused many more thousands of central Europeans to seek admittance to the United States than is possible under existing laws.

Expect Bitter Struggle

Administration officials said today they anticipated a bitter struggle between members of congress wishing to relax immigration barriers for those refugees and members desiring to retain or strengthen them.

President Roosevelt said this week he had given a great deal of thought to the German Jewish refugees problem, but he declared he had no thought of revising American laws to take in additional numbers here.

The United States is taking German Jews at the rate of about 24,000 a year, which officials estimated was more than all other countries combined are accepting.

There are now 220,000 applications for German visas on file, put the country's annual immigration quota is only 27,370. Similarly, there are 69,000 Polish applications, against a quota of 6,524, and 11,000 Czechoslovakian applications, against a quota of 2,874

New visa restrictions have been put in effect recently to meet the pressure of those clamoring for admission to this country as a result of anti-Jewish outbreaks abroad.

Applicants now must show clearly that they will not become a public charge on their arrival in America. Sponsors are asked to assume legal obligations for the help they promise.

FSA Officials Are Visitors In Lubbock On Thursday

High officials of the Farm Security administration at Amarillo, including L. H. Hauter, regional director, visited Lubbock yesterday and also inspected the Ropesville Community project at Ropesville. Later in the afternoon the party drove to Levelland for an inspection of ranch properties there.

Ralph Wills, assistant director and state director of New Mexico; Wilson Cowan, Texas director; C. M. Evans, regional director at Dallas; Tulane Smith, assistant and Mr. Barr, also of the Dallas office were in the party.

C. B. Baldwin, Washington, D. C., member of the national office staff, was with the party. They were accompanied to Ropesville by Marvin C. Wilson, supervisor. There they met Rex Baxter, manager of the project.

The Dallas men and Baldwin left during the early afternoon for Wichita Falls, where they were to inspect another project before returning to Dallas.

Useless Hands Can Now Be Restored Back To Normal Through A New Operation

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17 — Useless hands which are unable to grasp even a pencil now can be restored to normal by a new operation which transplants tendons from the toes to the fingers.

The operation, reported to the Southern Medical association by Dr. H. vh Thatcher of Portland, Ore., is used to re-create fingers damaged by cuts, burns, infections or crushing. It has proved successful in a wide variety of cases.

When the tendons of the fingers "which glide in tunnels just large enough to accommodate them" are severed or damaged it becomes impossible to move the fingers and the tendons must be reconstructed, Dr. Thatcher said.

Must Be Rested

Before this can be done the tendon sheath, or tunnel, must be "rested and an effort made to restore its smooth 'gliding surface,'" he added. To do this he inserts into the tunnel a smooth and very small stainless steel rod, bent to the normal curve of the finger, through an incision in the palm of the hand.

This rod is left in place for three weeks. Then in a second operation a piece of tendon of the proper length is taken from a toe or the wrist, stitched to the end of the finger inside, tied to the steel rod and brought back down through the tunnel, for stitching to the tendon in the palm of the hand, by merely withdrawing the rod.

Within two days the patient is able to move the finger and usually within six weeks has regained complete use of it.

CONDITION SATISFACTORY

LONDON, Nov. 17. (AP) — Queen Maud of Norway, who underwent an abdominal operation yesterday, had a "fair" night and her physicians said today her general condition was "as satisfactory as can be expected."

Man Was Realistic When He Showed How His Friend Had Shot Himself In Foot

MT. VERNON, Wash., Nov. 17. (AP)—Grant Falk, 29, of Conway, was showing a group how his friend, James Scamlon, shot himself in the foot while on a duck hunt.

Falk demonstrated with much detail and at last came to the point of the wounding. "Bang" —went his gun. Falk shot himself in the foot.

Menace To Oil Industry Told

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. (AP) — J. Howard Pew, president of the Sun Oil Co., of Philadelphia, characterized today what he termed government invasion of the oil industry under the guise of helpful regulation as a menace to the industry.

Speaking before the American Petroleum Institute, he made a vigorous plea "to stand firm in defense of the American system of free and competitive enterprise." He pictured the industry as the nation's largest single industrial undertaking and its most impressive monument to the efficacy of unstinted competition.

Is Not Monopolistic

Pew said the industry was not monopolistic because it charged the lowest prices for its products, paid the highest wages and earned a lower return on its capital than it would were the money invested in government bonds.

"If natural economic forces are adequate to keep business on a sound basis," Pew asserted, "there is no occasion for governmental interference."

William R. Schuh, of Milwaukee, Wis., urged price posting and fair trade laws rather than government control to meet the needs of the marketing branches of the industry. "The petroleum industry's record," he said, "is the best argument for free enterprise."

Regulation Needed

President Axtell J. Byles of the American Petroleum Institute, says additional regulatory measures are needed to curb over-production in the oil industry.

Delivering his annual address to the institute's convention yesterday, Byles urged membership of all oil producing states in the interstate oil compact which, he said, would widen and improve the usefulness of petroleum conservation through state authority and interstate cooperation.

He also recommended that the Connally act, a federal law prohibiting interstate shipments of illegally produced oil, be renewed and made permanent.

Movie Representative Is To Come Here To Check Script

Information was received Thursday at the offices of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce that Nation Wide pictures, a part of Paramount pictures, would send a representative here soon to check script to be used in a moving picture, "West Texas."

The letter, from Houston offices of the company, said the script was being prepared. Information relative to Lubbock, the South Plains, and all West Texas, has been sent the company by the chamber here.

The representative, when here, will check to determine if the script is correct and he also will obtain any additional information he may desire, it was reported.

It was not indicated when the representative would be here.

Experiences Of Trappers Told

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 17. (AP)—C. R. Landon, district agent for the Texas predatory animal control association, reports that 111 men working 3,293 days took 1,315 predatory animals in September. The catch comprised 1,115 coyotes, 137 bobcats, 62 wolves and one mountain lion.

A. L. Parker, working in Webb county, led the force with 61 coyotes and seven bobcats. In Northwest Texas, Frank Hoyle took 50 coyotes and one bobcat in King county, and R. E. Norton in Shackleford county led the Red Wolf area with 11 of these animals and one bobcat.

Experiences Related

Relating experiences of some of the trappers, Mr. Landon said:

"Claude L. Hill of Tilden, Texas, reports catching a bobcat earmarked and with a collar bearing the name of J. Knight, McKinney, Texas. Another bobcat similarly marked but with a small 'L' on his collar was taken by another hunter in the same vicinity. Hill reports these cats were said to have been turned loose on the Henry Martin ranch on the 21st of December 1935, evidently by men hunting with hounds for sport.

"O. W. Cates trapped an old female coyote on Jack Boyd's ranch near Aspermont. This coyote had crippled or deformed feet which caused its track to be very similar to that of a dog and was commonly called the old dog by the ranchmen. This animal's teeth were practically worn off and it would tear up three or four sheep for each one killed. Three government trappers had worked after this coyote for a year or more. Cates caught it on Friday and moved to Cox and Manlay ranch north of Abilene the following Monday. He set his traps Tuesday, caught two more coyotes Wednesday and a third one Thursday, cleaning the pasture.

Old Wolf Always Escaped

"W. F. Belong caught an old dog wolf on Ross Green's ranch. Mr. Green stated this wolf had killed in his pasture for the past three years. On several occasions his mates had been killed but the old wolf always escaped.

"On July 29th while working on a prairie dog crew under the direction of Darwin Ivy on the W. T. Johnson ranch twenty miles southwest of Van Horn, Frank Wyckoff was bitten by a rattlesnake. A member of the crew bound Frank's leg securely above the wound, another ran up with a shovel in one hand and a bottle of carbon bisulphide (highlife) in the other, killing the snake with the shovel and pouring a half pint of carbon on Frank's leg. When Ivy arrived with the car he cut the wound with a knife, allowing it to bleed freely, then applied kerosene. Twenty-five minutes later he was under a doctor's care in Van Horn. Dr. Wright, attending, reported the first aid was perfect and that Frank's life possibly had been saved by it. The doctor did, however, uphold Frank's innocence in the case by stating that the proper place for the highlife was on the snake."

It's A Good Thing Dogs In Longview, News Boy Says

LONGVIEW, Nov. 17. (AP)—If a certain Longview dog could read, J. G. Hurst, jr., newspaper boy, might have been the object of its resentment.

The dog long ago formed the habit of meeting the boy each afternoon, taking the paper from him, and carrying it to its master.

Recently, the dog's owner dropped the afternoon edition for the morning paper, but forgot to tell the dog. The first day after the change, when Hurst failed to hand it a paper, the animal blocked his path growling menancingly and the youth gave it a paper for "protection". The circulation manager of the newspapers, seeing the youth slip an old paper into his shirt a few days later, questioned young Hurst who explained he had been giving the pooch an old paper every afternoon as a sort of peace offering.

"If that pot-hound could read," the boy grinned, "he'd really give me a fit when he found I was pulling his leg."

Park Near Rio Grande May Be Constructed

LAREDA, Nov. 17. (AP)—Construction of a new state park on a high bluff overlooking the Rio Grande and Mexico in the San Francisco hills 33 miles south of Laredo and two miles south of the town of San Ignacio in Zapata county, is being planned by the Texas State Highway commission.

This park will be established immediately following the work of straightening out and hard-surfacing 13 miles of highway No. 4 in Zapata county, from the pavement at the Webb-Zapata counties line to San Ignacio in Zapata county.

Working On Highway

The work of construction on that portion of the highway to be straightened out is in progress. The proposed state park will be by the side of the highway and on the banks of the Rio Grande, and from its lofty elevation a view of the Rio Grande and Old Mexico will be afforded.

The site is well covered with large shade trees and flowering shrubs. This is one of several state parks being planned along highway No. 4 Zapata county on the road toward Brownsville.

Necessity Of Improving Cotton Grade And Staple Is Emphasized

Session Staged Here Thursday

The necessity of Texas cotton producers improving their cotton grade and staple, if they wish to maintain any semblance of a foreign market outlet, was emphasized yesterday morning by speakers at a cotton improvement meeting in the courthouse. John W. Palmore, assistant county agent, presided over the meeting, held in the 72nd district court room.

C. A. Miller, agronomist, pointed out Texas began losing its foreign market business before 1933, when foreign nations began to increase their acreages. "They grow a uniform grade of cotton and it is put up in nice appearing packages," he added. "When we had a monopoly on cotton we had better cotton and more uniform staple."

Makes Stronger Yarn

Spinners are now located in the cotton producing area rather than in the New England states and 80 per cent of the 1937 cotton crop consumed by American textile mills was used in the southeastern cotton producing area, he added. Results of experiments in a spinning laboratory at Texas A. and M. showed Texas grown cotton has "character" and makes a stronger yarn from upland cotton than from irrigated cotton.

Miller told of several one variety cotton areas and communities. In Williamson county one area profited $13 an acre more than the ordinary cotton. Floyd county's areas around Aiken were cited.

F. E. Lichte, gin specialist, told the farmers present they were largely the cause of so much poor ginning. "This territory is known as a half and half territory," he said. "There is too much three quarter inch staple grown out here. You can grow inch and a sixteenth to inch and three thirty-seconds."

Have To Peddle Cotton

Farmers of this section "have to peddle their cotton—nobody wants it," he added. Too many farmers prefer to snap or pull cotton instead of picking it. "These Mexicans start down in Mexico in June to pick cotton and come north," he added. "They pick cotton until they reach the T. and P. railroad. North of there they pull it. They tell you they can't pick cotton—but they can and do."

It costs more to pull than to pick a bale. Farmers lose about $10 a bale by pulling cotton. They insist that ginners gin the cotton too fast. "One gin up here has a record of a bale ginned in seven minutes," said Lichte. He quoted Herbert Jones, manager of the Postex mills at Post as saying he had only bought 31 bales of Plains cotton this year. He averages 66 bales a week. The Plains cotton does not have character as does other cotton, and it does not make as strong yarn.

James Buchanan, with the U. S. D. A. at Abilene, in charge of marketing service in this section; explained operation of the Smith-Doxsey act, passed some time ago and now effective for communities with a one-variety of cotton. He urged one variety communities be organized and that they take advantage of the provisions of the act for marketing service.

M. E. Heard, head of the textile engineering department at Texas Technological college, told of the Lions club experiment for one variety cotton. Field day will be Dec. 3, he said. Work of the club and vocational boys has demonstrated longer staple cotton can be grown here.

Sixty-Year-Old Negro Servant Back Home After 50-Mile Walk To Grocery Store

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 17. (AP)—A 60-year-old negro woman servant was back home today after a 50-mile walk—to the grocery store.

The servant came to Montgomery five months ago with Mrs. A. B. Stutts, after having worked all her life in the latter's family home at Demopolis.

Tuesday Mrs. Stutts said, the servant started to the grocery store, a few blocks from the Stutts home. At a main intersection she made a mark, but missed it on her return trip, became rattled and continued right on down Mobile highway.

At 4 a. m., Wednesday, the Butler county sheriff called from Greenville, saying he'd found the woman walking on the outskirts of town. She said her employer worked at "the capitol," and he guessed it was Montgomery. She pointed that way.

At 5 a. m., Mr. and Mrs. Stutts started for Greenville.

District Church Session Is To Be Held At Slaton

A Weatherford member of the faith, Bishop H. N. Scoggins, state overseer, is scheduled to preside at a district convention of the Church of God opening tonight and continuing through Saturday at Slaton.

Attendance of approximately 300 from churches in Post, Slaton, Brownfield, Newmoore and Lubbock is expected.

Among speakers will be Rev. Oscar Gregory of Brownfield, district bishop, and Rev. Roy J. Young of Slaton, district pastor.

Features of the session will include the ordaining of Rev. R. M. Nolen, Lubbock pastor, as bishop, a basket dinner at noon Sunday and the wedding Sunday night of Miss Marvine Carpenter of Slaton and Roy Mathis of Post, according to the announcement.

Highway 15 From Seminole Is Placed On State Program

SEMINOLE, Nov. 17.—Highway 15 west from Seminole to the state line has been put on the 1940 state highway program, Julien Montgomery, state highway engineer, has advised County Judge G. W. Gibbs.

This work will follow closely the completion of paving on No. 15 from the Dawson county line west to Seminole, now under way.

The road several years ago was given a surfacing, using an experimental type that did not prove satisfactory. It will be the last link in paving from Texas points to Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, the last New Mexico sector between Hobbs and Carlsbad having recently been completed.

The 1940 program will get under way soon after July 1, 1939. Funds have been allocated for the program.

Heavy Ginning Report Given

More than a quarter-million bales of cotton had been ginned on the South Plains through Oct. 31, total for the 19 counties being 254,008, as compared with 325,943 for the same date a year earlier.

Lynn again leads in bales, 34,572, with Lubbock a close second with 33,738; Crosby third with 30,638 bales; Dawson fourth with 25,709; Dickens fifth with 20,580 bales and Scurry sixth with 20,489 bales.

Last year rankings at this date were, Lynn, Dawson, Lubbock; Crosby, Scurry, Lamb.

Six Show Increases

Six counties, Dickens, Floyd, Hale, Hockley, Motley and Parmer, show increases this year over last.

The half-way mark is believed passed for the season, in bales ginned. Total production is estimated at over 400,000 bales and with continuation of present good weather, picking should be over by the holidays.

Comparative reports to Nov. 1 were as follows:

Over 4,000 Cases Of Tomatoes From Bailey County Used

MULESHOE, Nov. 17.—More than 4,000 cases of tomatoes, from irrigated truck farms of Bailey county, were called by the Muleshoe canning factory for its first season, Manager Case announced.

Farmers received up to $75 an acre for their tomatoes and a few reported up to $100 an acre. Already a number of farmers have said they intended planting larger acreages next spring.

Manager Case said much of the plant's output was contracted for before the season began. Next season he hopes to double the output of the plant.

Formal Opening For Hospital To Be Soon

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 17.—Formal opening date for the recently completed Littlefield hospital is to be announced soon, but, in the meantime the $50,000 building is being used. Contractor Joe Wells told owners that the structure was ready a few days ago and equipment was installed.

The structure is located on XIT drive and West Fifth street, fronting on the latter. There are 58 rooms in the one story and basement structure. Accommodations are for 30 patients.

New furniture and fixtures have been installed, including the patients rooms, nursery, laboratory, kitchen and offices for the doctors, operating room, x-ray room, biological laboratory, nurses rooms and a dining room. A private branch telephone exchange has been installed.

Air conditioned is the entire structure. A late type of heating and air conditioning plant was installed.

Owners include Drs. Thomas B. Duke, Roy E. Hunt, J. R. Coen, and William N. Orr and Floyd E. Coffman, superintendent and laboratory head. They have been located in the old building for about three years. Those physicians who had offices downtown have moved them to the new place.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Couple Saves Pennies And Buys Marriage License

SHERMAN, Nov. 17. (AP)—"That will be $1.75, please," said E. L. Fortner, deputy county clerk, as he finished filling out Carl B. Greene's marriage license.

Greene pulled a leather purse from his pocket and emptied a shower of pennies on the counter. Fortner counted out his fee and returned seven of them to Greene with which to begin married life with Miss Thelma Rene Wylie.

The couple had been saving the pennies since last May, Greene told the deputy.

Federal Engineers Survey A Part Of Ellis County Creek

ITALY, Nov. 17. (AP)—Federal engineers are surveying Chambers creek, which meanders 35 miles through Ellis county, as a part of the Trinity river watershed survey now under way. Chambers creek has its source far up in the sand hills of Johnson county and receives water from more than two-thirds of Ellis county before entering Navarro county south of Ennis.

Chambers creek was named for Judge Thomas Jefferson Chambers, superior judge of the Free State of Texas and Coahuila under the Mexican government. Chambers received the first grant of land made in this region by the Mexican government in 1834.

The grant 11 leagues, lay along the west bank of the Trinity, extending from a point far up in present Ellis county well into the region that became Navarro county. Many of the early important law suits in Texas centered around this land grant.

Kiwanians Get Cowboy Lunch

Kiwanians yesterday were carried back to the informality and hospitality of the old time western cow camp at meal time, when the house committee, headed by Dude Buster and the program committee, headed by W. C. Wood, staged a chuck wagon luncheon at noon in the ballroom.

Kiwanian Lee Hubby, who between luncheons runs the hotel, was head server. Resplendent in a loud shirt, he was assisted by Charles Still, Jennings Lewis and J. Culver Hill, similarly attired. Tables were arranged in chuck-wagon formation.

Men Pour Coffee

Seated at the tables, coffee was poured by W. D. Benson, jr., O. J. Sexton, Pete Glazner, Herbert Ewing, Sam Leifeste and Pete Smith. Barbecued beef and son-of-a-gun, prepared under the direction of "Big Jim" Robinson, red beans, fried pies, onions, pickles, etc., were the menu. Corn bread and white bread was placed on the tables, which were bare, in ranch house style.

During the meal the Bluejackets played cowboy numbers on stringed instruments.

President O. W. English announced no formal program had been arranged. Elton Plowman of Abilene, playing his own accompaniment on the guitar, sang two cowboy numbers. C. E. Burnett, Corpus Christi Kiwanian, brought personal greetings of the Texas-Oklahoma district governor, a resident there.

Meet With Rotarians

Secretary W. C. Rylander announced the Rotarians had invited the club to meet with them next Wednesday, because of the Thanksgiving holiday. Dr. Allen T. Stewart, past president, was asked by President English to give instruction to John A. Winslow, John W. Palmore, jr., W. C. O'Mara and Luther Scoggins, new members.

R. B. Fishers, Corpus Christi school superintendent, formerly a Pampa school head, spoke briefly and praised the hospitality of Lubbock. In recalling past football games he added, "you people know how to entertain visitors."

Teachers College At Sul Ross Receives Historic Collection

ALPINE, Nov. 17. (AP)—Through the Big Bend Historical and Scientific society the Big Bend Historical museum at Sul Ross State Teachers' college here received the collection gathered by the late Capt. J. B. Gillett of the Texas Ranger force.

Comprising 142 articles, including some of the late Ranger's firearms, oxen yokes, various mounted animal heads, pieces of saddle equipment, powder horns, spurs, shot bags, cartridges, arrowheads, Indian pottery cartridge cases, the collection will be arranged for exhibit along with a picture of Captain Gillett.

The museum deals principally with pioneer life of the Big Bend section.

Hunters Bring Back The Evidence To Tell Of Their Luck While On Arizona Trip

Three large bucks, one of them the second heaviest registered this year in Arizona, two lions, two turkeys, and one bear justify tales of Lubbock and Fort Worth huntsmen who have returned from Arizona.

Members of the party proper were J. T. Magee of 1718 Avenue L, L. G. Brown of 1319 Sixteenth street, J. D. Jones of 2427 Twentieth street, and Chas. F. Williams of Fort Worth.

Brings In A Turkey

And A. W. Boucher of Lubbock, who went to the camp headquarters, near Beaverhead lodge 25 miles south of Alpine, Ariz., to cart the game back, was not to be left out. He brought down a turkey.

Magee, who at 69 concedes nothing to his former reputation of being quite a bear and deer hunter in the Dakotas, was hunting his first time in 20 years. An unusual incident was touched off to bring him into the limelight.

He, Brown and Jones were driving along a washed trail and saw a deer, the big one, 10 yards up the side of a mountain. Jones, driving stopped quickly. Brown jumped out and was attempting to draw a telescopic bead.

"Bang! And I Got Him"

"There he is," said Magee. Bang! "And I got him, too."

It all happened as fast as that.

"Don't try to get a bead on 'em," he told Brown. "Shoot from the hip. They run like hell in this brush."

He had cut the heart out of the big buck, which scaled more than 210 pounds, all the scales were calibrated for. The biggest buck registered this year in Arizona was 237 pounds.

One of the lion pelts was left for being mounted, but the party brought back a bear hide "just because of the fun in remembering what happened." Another huntsman had come onto the animal in a tree. Nine times he fired. The bear decided to reverse the order. He came down from the tree and chased the nimrod up another trunk, from where the thoroughly affrighted marksman pumped 16 shots downward into the ascending bear.

"You can have him; I've seen enough of him!" the fellow said in making the presentation.

Jones dropped an 183-pound deer, Brown a 164-pound buck. All shots were made from 100 yards with .30-.06 or .30-.30 rifles.

Shot Lion In Tree

Williams shot a lion from a tree, 100 feet up, after the eight hounds had treed the varmint ahead of the mounted hunters. Brown brought his out of a branch 50 feet up, but had to batter him with four shots.

The bear was shot by Williams and was a "throwback," having qualities of both the grizzly and another variety. When knocked out of a 50-foot tree he was trying to get down to the dogs.

Jones killed the other turkey. Both were running.

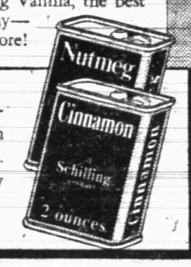

The scraggy brush, hanging on the slopes above the pinon, is at an elevation of 9,800 feet. The hunt was the third annual for some members of the party.

Williams is associated with the building specialties company bearing his name and Magee is his Lubbock office manager. Brown is a groceryman, Jones a wrecking yard proprietor.

Try the SPRY way to make

STUFFING FOR ROAST TURKEY OR CHICKEN

3 quarts soft bread crumbs	2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
2½ teaspoons salt	¼ cup Spry, melted
¼ teaspoon pepper	½ cup onion, minced
¼ teaspoon sage	¼ cup butter
¼ teaspoon thyme	½ cup boiling water (about)

Combine bread crumbs, salt, pepper, sage, thyme and parsley and mix thoroughly.

Melt Spry in skillet, add onion, and sauté 2 minutes. (Do not brown onion.) Add bread crumbs and sauté until very lightly browned, stirring constantly from bottom. (Notice how tasty and tender stuffing is, made this way.)

Melt butter in boiling water and pour over crumbs, tossing lightly with two forks. Add more water if additional moisture is needed. Makes enough stuffing for one 8-pound bird.

After bird has been stuffed and trussed, put it in roasting pan and brush with melted Spry. Then cover lightly with a piece of white cloth which has been brushed thoroughly with melted Spry. Leave cloth on during roasting. Roast in moderate oven (350° F.), allowing 20 to 25 minutes per pound. Try this Spry way and see how juicy your turkey is, how extra-rich and brown your gravy! (All measurements in this recipe are level)

Another Senseless Excuse

IF FLIMSIER excuse ever has been offered in attempted justification for an outrage than the German government's imposition of a $400,000,000 "fine" on its Jews, it does not come readily to mind.

The "fine" was imposed on several million people because a Jewish boy, crazed by privation, persecution and fear, assassinated an attache of the German embassy in Paris. The most thorough investigation has proved to the satisfaction of impartial minds that the slaying was not the result of a plot. It simply was the rash and unreasoning act of one 17-year old boy. Nor does the German government pretend that the victim of the tragedy was anyone of importance in the national sense.

The nazi excuse for its determination to seize $400,000,000 worth of Jewish property as a penalty for the assassination is that it will "protect other Germans from other Jews."

The real reason, however, is that the Jews of Germany are so unfortunate that they still have a little property which the nazis are determined to possess.

Drilling Within City Limits

CITIZENS of McAllen who have filed protests against proposals to drill for oil within their city limits will have the warm sympathy of those on the South Plains and elsewhere who have had opportunity to observe the results of drilling gone wild.

Oklahoma City, Burkburnett and Ranger are some of the horrible examples of such unrestricted operations. In each of those places, an oil well in a back yard is or was not an unusual condition, with the filth, the noise and obvious fire danger which go with such things.

If more petroleum were needed and if drilling within the city limits of McAllen were necessary to find it, there would be some excuse for the operation. But there probably is no oil pool in that vicinity which will not be found as readily by drilling outside the city as within it.

Towns and cities, after all, are places in which people make their homes. An oil well, drilling or completed, certainly is not a neighborhood to add to the pleasure or safety of home life.

Tomorrow's Toy Pickup

THIS is intended merely as a reminder that tomorrow—Saturday—will be Christmas toy pickup day. No appeal is necessary to people like those of Lubbock in a cause of this kind.

But, as a matter of information to the city's hundreds of newcomers, the toy pickup is an annual event. On the selected day, Boy scouts attempt to visit every home in Lubbock, collecting toys for which the owners no longer have use. The custom is to bundle any such gifts and leave them on the front porch or front steps where they will be found by the scouts.

Toys thus collected will be repaired. Then, through the Lubbock Goodfellows, they will be distributed to children who otherwise would not be remembered on Christmas. The Goodfellows are a group of public spirited, big-hearted men who voluntarily have assumed the happy responsibility of attempting to bring a little happiness into the lives of others.

So, don't forget. If you have toys which might be repaired, leave them for the scouts. It will help to take a lot of happiness into lives where joys are few.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

THE EMPTY GRAVE THAT NEVER WILL BE FILLED

In the Panteon Nacional at Caracas Venezuela, where the national heroes of Venezuela are buried, there is an empty grave to commemorate General Francisco Miranda (born in Caracas 1765, died in prison at Caracca, Spain, 1816). He is the hero of three revolutions in South America, North America and France. The grave will remain unfilled forever, because the mortal remains of the hero were thrown into a common ditch with the bodies of other prisoners and has been lost forever. On the side of the empty tomb, there is an epitaph to the effect that "Venezuela weeps because of her pain at not being able to find the remains of General Miranda, lost in a common ditch of the prison in which this great martyr of American liberty expired."

THE CROCHETING MAYOR

Ralph C. Mitchell, Mayor of Independence, Kansas, carries not only his crocheting on his travels, but also the trophies of his other hobby—lion raising. He exhibits two scars on his knees made by a lion's teeth.

Chapter 42

Kidnaped!

We lunched, which is to say that Dunning and I gulped down some mouthfuls of food while Hugo sat, refusing everything. Then Dunning suggested inquiring at the various gas stations on the roads out of town, to hear if they had seen the yellow car pass, and thought it was a forlorn hope, any action was better than nothing, so for a couple of hours we scoured the dusty countryside, all to no purpose. The Esterels were still burning bravely, but for the moment such a small event as a conflagration held no interest for me, and finally, just as dusk was falling, we pulled up again on the main square.

Across the crowded promenade pulling up outside the Grand Hotel, was a shabby Renault with dust thick upon it. A stocky, middling-sized man descended from it and started to climb the steps of the Hotel, but before he had reached the door, I was across the promenade and gripping him by the shoulder.

"Fleuriot!" I said. "You're a sight for sore eyes!"

He swung round and his face lighted at sight of me. "Tiens!" he answered warmly. "There is a small matter of a wager to be settled between us, a wager connected with the word 'Amourie.' You were right, my friend," he added, tapping me in a friendly way on the shoulder, "but I wish you had been a trifle more explicit, for you see, when I got there, the bird he had flown!"

I stared at him stupidly. "What bird?" I echoed, and he shook his head, gently reproving.

"Do not pretend you did not know. The chasseur of course! I guessed, naturally, that the word must be a street name in one of the older towns, and I made a lucky decision in trying Antibes first, but it took me some little time to locate the street, for it is now renamed. I discovered it at last, however!" he finished triumphantly. "And more, I found the house itself, the former dwelling of the armourer who gave it its name. So I added to myself certain of the local police, and between us we broke down the door."

"Gosh!" I said wistfully. "I wish I'd been there!"

"And I, too," he asserted politely. "With your weight, we had needed three policemen the less—but I digress! The ground floor was empty, but I ascended to the first story, even to that upper room where the old printing-press stands." He paused, nodding his head solemnly. There it stood, the whole equipment for that interesting little astrological magazine. We had received inquiries at the Surete about this strange publication, notably from the Dunning Agency of New York."

"I know all about that. I made 'em. I'm Dunning," said the big man hollowly.

"But now I found proof positive that Monsieur Rene Geiss was the author—notes, proof-corrections, unfinished sketches, what you like. You knew this, Monsieur Lumsden!" he added accusingly.

'Help!'

"We guessed it," I corrected him, "but we hadn't a shred of proof. Go on, man, go on!"

"Hiding in an attic under the eaves, I discovered a woman, a Negress, who said she was in charge of the house."

"Fatma," I said as he paused, and he flashed me a swift, reproachful look. "You see, you know all, Monsieur Lumsden. This Fatma I questioned, and she told me what I suspected. The chasseur had indeed sheltered there for two days, but that very morning he had left, for where do you think? For no less a place than the villa of a certain Monsieur Vladimir Rokovsky in Italy."

"And you believed her?" said Hugo hoarsely.

The other shrugged expressively. "I believed her, yes, for I had no reason to do otherwise, and her story was circumstantial. Also, I had other things to go on, as you shall hear. So to Monsieur Rakovsky I went, but when I arrived, it was to find I had been on what you call a wild-duck hunt. Our friend was not there — he never had been there, and Monsieur Rakovsky was a very indignant man at the mere suggestion that he might have been there! So back to Cannes I came, like the game-dog who has lost the game!"

"Too bad!" I said mechanically, for there was something in his manner that told him he still had a surprise or two tucked up his sleeve. "Look here, Fleuriot," I added, 'this other evidence that convinced you you were on the right trail—what was it?"

"Ah!" said he, on a long-drawn sigh, and his eyes, sharply intelligent, searched each of our faces in turn. "It was such a little thing a smere scrap of paper, lying concealed under the printing-press, and yet, to me, it said a great deal!" And with that he fumbled in his pocket and drew out a crumpled sheet of soiled paper, presenting it with a flourish for our inspection.

I took it, unfolding it dazedly, while Hugo and Dunning craned their heads over my shoulder to read, and there I saw, scrawled in red chalk, in crude capitals an inch high, the words: "They are taking me to Italy. Help! Ottilie Wills!"

"And she wasn't there?" said Dunning in a queer, hushed voice.

The man from Marseille gave him a sharp, quizzical look. "It is correct, then, that Miss Wills has disappeared?" he demanded, and at the others hopeless gesture of assent, he nodded slowly. "So? Then I will answer you. Not only was Miss Wills not there, mon ami, but she had never been there—if by 'there' you mean the villa of Monsieur Rakovsky. She has not been taken to Italy, and I tell you this with my hand on my heart, for two hours of my precious time were spent in questioning the frontier guards to determine that fact."

He stopped with a sigh of sheer weariness. "I am very tired. May I suggest that we adjourn to the lounge?"

We filed after him into the big, empty room and sent a waiter scurrying for refreshment. "And now, messieurs," said Fleuriot quietly, "I think that you have a great deal to tell me, but first let me make my own position clear. I had already heard, as I have told you, of the inquiries made by Monsieur Dunning here and others as to the authorship of Le Grimoire astrologique inquiries which we had not, unfortunately, been able to answer. I knew that a plot against the life of Monsieur Virgoe Wills was suspected, but I tell you frankly that I thought the idea fantastic, and neither we of the Surete nor the local police were unduly disturbed when Monsieur Wills and his niece arrived here. When, however, I saw this note, I realized that the idea of the young lady's abduction was not as fantastic as it might otherwise have appeared, and I realized too that Monsieur Rene Geiss was in some way implicated."

'West, Not East'

He paused to sip appreciatively from his glass. "It is not so hard to be wise after the event!" he admitted with a pry little smile. "But me, I felt a spiritual indigestion at the knowledge that was suddenly heaped upon my plate, for, from the fact that the chasseur had been hiding in that house, I deduced that there was a connection between this Wills affair and the murder of Monsieur Venner, and more, that you, Monsieur Lumsden, had been in possession of this information for some time, but had not thought fit to inform me!"

I shifted uneasily. "Let's not go into that now," I suggested. "You'll find I had good enough reasons when the time comes to spill them."

He waved his hand magnanimously. "I've heard of the regrettable attempt on Monsieur Wills' life and the not so regrettable fate of the assassin. Now I see that the disappearance of Miss Wills is a very serious matter. You believe, do you not, that Monsieur Geiss has abducted her? My friends, you shall tell me all you know, and then we must act, and act quickly."

"This will be news to the lot of you," Hugo said. "Whether Ottilie has been abducted or not, one thing is certain. She didn't write this letter! First, it's printed in lipstick."

Fleuriot grinned. "The classic method for ladies in distress who have no pencil."

"Just so," assented Hugo dryly. "But I think you will admit that ladies are not in the habit of carrying an assortment of lipsticks around with them. I happen to know that Miss Wills uses what I believe is known as carmine, whereas this letter, you will note, is printed with an orange stick."

Fleuriot rapped out an oath and sprang to his feet. "You are sure of this, Monsieur Stern?" he demanded sharply.

Hugo swung round on me. "Ar-

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

OLD-FASHIONED and conservative Democrats will join with Republicans in demanding a law divorcing W. P. A. from politics. It is one of the curious results of a crazy and confused political campaign.

Almost every important Democrat — inner New Dealers like Corcoran and Cohen, friendly Roosevelt-ians like Jim Farley and Joe Guffey, anti-White Housers like Senators Bailey and Byrd—figures that the W. P. A. is no longer a political asset. In their opinion, it makes more enemies than friends. Its costs antagonize all conservatives. The discrepancies in pay, together with the resentment of people denied relief, anger the very class W. P. A. is supposed to woo. Like postoffice patronage, it creates more heart-burning than hero-worshippers.

Insiders' canvass of election returns offer conclusive proof of this new theory. The W. P. A. went to town—also P. W. A.—in New England, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan, but it didn't prevent those states from going Republican in a big way. It didn't save Herbert Lehman from the narrowest win of his political career. So look for enactment of the Hatch act barring W. P. A. officials and employes from taking part in or even talking about politics, as Harry Hopkins does every now and then.

* * *

FADING: Members of the O'Mahoney Monopoly committee, like everybody else, glued their eyes to the election returns. And if they saw what everybody else did, it will slow down their hop-skip-and-a-jump investigation of the economic structure to a gentle Lambeth Walk set to slow music.

Chairman O'Mahoney's state of Wyoming, for instance, went Republican and conservative in a florid way. So did many other states in the mountain area. Trust-Buster Borah's Idaho also indicated that it was ready to settle down and be reasonable toward business, industry and agriculture. Senator King of Utah, though his commonwealth stayed New Dealish, never had any use for an inquiry that would disturb the corporations. Likewise Rep. Carrpl Reese, Republican, of Tennessee. Likewise Rep. Hatton Sumners of Texas. The sixth Congressional member—Rep. Edward Eicher of Iowa—saw his constituents deliver a mandate against a further feud between Washington and any species of royalists.

But if the anti-monopolists don't recognize the trend, their colleagues on Capitol Hill will. The committee is almost broke despite its $800,000 appropriation, and extreme New Dealers on it privately planned to ask for $10,000,000 for a three-year study. Now they'll be lucky if they get another $500,000—$250,000 is more likely.

* * *

COALITION: The G. O. P.'s triumph at the polls has brought heavy political penalties. In private post-election powwows key strategists concede that they face a difficult dilemma in the pre-1940 period.

In their campaigns their most eminent winners stumped for drastic reforms of New Deal experiment though professing sympathy with the administration's far-range objectives in the social and economic fields. They promised revision of W. P. A., N. L. R. B., Social security etc. But if the party forces the changes it promised in the next Congress, it may be left issueless for the 1940 campaign. On the other hand, if amendment is delayed until after 1941, when they may have to bear all responsibility, a sweeping housecleaning may antagonize millions now receiving federal handouts. They would be biting the hands that elected them.

The best bigwig opinion favors immediate action in line with the individual candidates' platform promises—that is, coalition with anti-New Deal Democrats for a little interior decorating. By 1940 new issues may have arisen to supply them with fresh ammunition.

* * *

GRATITUDE: When Senator Burton K. Wheeler made a special trip to Washington to speak against a railroad wage cut before the President's fact-finding board, he staged the neatest political coup of 1938. From now on you will hear no more protests from the Montana man that he is weary of politics and may not run again in 1940.

The White House has been grooming Rep. Jerry O'Connell, a loyal and left wing New Dealer, as the Senator's 1940 primary rival. For a while it looked as if the younger man might make the grade because of his liberalism in this politically wild-and-wooly state. Burt himself was discouraged over the future. But the Senator saw his chance and took it, when he spoke for the railroad workmen on the proposed pay reduction. Mr. O'Connell, though Montana has many railroad labor constituents and he was once state railroad commissioner, was apparently asleep at the switch. He failed to show up along with his prospective rival for the Senate.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

VERY few Democrats increased their prestige and influence as a result of last week's election. One who did was National Chairman James A. Farley.

The Democrats suffered their worst setbacks in states where the amateurish intervention of leftist New Dealers aggravated the intra-party split between Roosevelt-ians and conservatives. Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania are cases in point. Farley was consistently opposed to the Roosevelt-Corcoran-Hopkins purge campaign as a fatal blunder in practical politics. But the President refused to listen to his advice, preferring to accept "brain trust" assurances that he had only to snap his fingers and the voters would do his bidding. The election returns fully justify the national chairman's judgment.

Moreover, the three Democratic victories that saved the party from terrific disaster, instead of merely a substantial setback, were recorded in New York, Illinois and California. In all three of these states, Farley's skill in healing wounds and uniting discordant elements in temporary harmony was a paramount factor in the successful outcome.

* * *

MENTOR: Critics have noted the incongruity of alliances between New Deal liberals and such thoroughly practical (and essentially reactionary) political organizations as Tammany in New York, the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago, Hague's in Jersey City, Crump's in Memphis, Pendergast's in Kansas City.

The point to be stressed is that, it Tammany and Kelly-Nash hadn't done their stuff, the New Dealers would have been completely out of luck. New York and Illinois, added to the states which the Republicans actually won, would have given the G. O. P. a majority of the nation's electoral vote. It was Farley's political realism that averted such a crushing catastrophe.

Small wonder that the White House is being flooded with frantic appeals from panicky Democrats to jettison Hopkins, Ickes, Corcoran and the rest of the "amateurs" and restore "Genial Jim" as the administration's number one political mentor. Whether the President heeds these appeals or not, Farley is sitting pretty.

* * *

ENDURING: From the angle that the Republican party must convince the public that it has shed its reactionary tendencies if it is to win in 1940, as noted in yesterday's column, its New York well-wishers are privately relieved that ex-Senator L. J. Dickinson's bid for a comeback in Iowa failed.

Dickinson is the personification of old-guard Republicanism. He was intimately identified with the duPont-Raskob Liberty league, which was unintentionally a great help to President Roosevelt. Moreover, the Iowan is outspoken in his right wing convictions and could never have been persauded to refrain from voicing them on the Senate floor.

No matter who is elected in 1940, conviction has jelled that it's a long-odds bet that such Roosevelt reforms as Social security, legal sanction for collective bargaining, federal relief for the needy and federal regulation of securities, exchanges and utilities are here to stay.

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Nov. 17. (AP)—Public opinion definitely has turned against destruction of the great forest in East Texas.

"This is evidenced," Major E. A. Wood, director of the State Planning board said recently, discussing the forestry situation in Texas, "by the fact people who willfully start grass or tree fires there are being convicted, which was not always so.

"Why anyone would want to start a forest fire is something many persons would have difficulty understanding, but why would anyone want to plow furrows up and down a hill, instead of horizontally?

"The answer to both questions is, because they think it a good thing to do. Concerning forest fires they have been started because people wanted to get rid of the trees."

* * *

Public Opinion Set

The public is viewing with disfavor improper commercial exploitation of Texas' forests, the planning board director continued.

This exploitation has included in the past the wanton destruction of seedling trees in logging operations, the marketing of immature timber which had not reached its greatest value, stripping of land and failure to provide for re-growth.

Wood recalled that until comparatively recent times, some considered it good logging to clear land of all timber and the more complete the clearing the more attractive the land for agricultural and grazing purposes.

He estimated that less than two per cent of the original virgin forests of Texas were standing at the end of 1936, despite the fact a long growing season and an average annual rainfall of 50 inches makes timber grow faster in this region than any other part of the United States, except small areas on the Pacific coast.

* * *

THE planning board has been trying to get across the idea that trees may constitute a crop, just as cotton is a crop, and that in failure to consider them as much many Texas farmers are overlooking a valuable source of income.

"Trees can be harvested annually like any other crop," Wood said. "They can be planted, protected and cut when they are ready for market and the market is best, year after year.

"Every farmer should have a woodlot and grow trees for the market and for his own needs. If he did, a tremendously important new source of income would be opened in this the finest tree-growing area in the United States."

WORSE THAN DEATH

Editor, The Avalanche: A Jew was killed in the riots of Austria. That was bad, exceedingly bad, especially that he was beaten to death. It displayed an angry barbarous spirit. Taking it all in all, it is horrible to know such things are being committed through racial hatred. It is nothing short of appalling to think of such depredations in the very heart of our old civilizations. But they killed a Jew is one of their more humane acts. Something worse than actual death is occurring to thousands of this race.

To be treated like so many dumb driven cattle, to be routed out of home, to be separated from family ties, to be cast out and robbed of all property, to have to face winter's cold, many aged and feeble, to be beaten and mistreated, to see all that is dear receive all the accumulated hatred of all that is low in human nature, fed by a fiend elevated to the highest rank, to have this heaped upon his people, to be exposed to hunger, famine and disease, to this list death is sweet mercy.

dle, you saw that Negrees the other night—what shade of lipstick would you say she used?"

I cast my mind back to that bizarre scene under the night sky. "Orange it was!" I admitted, and he gave a short, triumphant laugh.

"You see? It was the Negress who wrote this letter, and she wrote it under dictation with the sole objective of making us believe that Ottille had been in Antibes and has been carried even farther east into Italy." He broke off, studying our intent faces. "Gentlemen," he finished, "there's only one possible explanation for that maneuver—Ottille was never in Antibes, and if we want to find her, we must look, not east, but west."

Flueriot struck his forehead. "West, that includes the whole of France!"

"Steady on, man!" I said. "That car of Geiss's should be easy to trace, and if Ottilie's gone with him unwillingly he couldn't well shift her into a train."

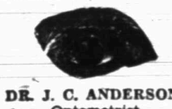

"The car!" he echoed. "Imbecile that I am! If the car is on the road it shall be found!" And he ran like a two-year-old to the private telephone in the manager's office.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 83 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Jeff Biggers lost his head completely. Before, he had treated Mary with awesome respect, but since she had promised to marry him his attitude had changed. Now he was master, she his slave. He only laughed at her struggles as he drew her to him in close embrace.

"Turn me loose," she cried. "Take it easy, sweetheart," Jeff grinned; "You can give me a kiss; we'll be married in a few days." Mary, however, did not cease her struggles. The man's brutality, his display of possessiveness, were abhorrent to her.

Jeff's strength began to ebb. The injuries he had sustained in the lion's attack had cost him much blood, and the past few hours had been strenuous. Mary, on the other hand, was stronger than her appearance indicated. And she was stimulated by her fury.

Jeff had put down his rifle, the better to handle her. But now the girl broke away. With the agility and accuracy of a lioness she swooped down on the gun. Jeff dashed toward her. In a flash the rifle leaped up, its muzzle on a level with the man's chest.

Charity Work Is Organized

LAMESA, Nov. 17.—Lamesa and Dawson county men and women have organized the "United Charities of Dawson county," and will seek the elimination of duplications in charitable work and the preventing of unorganized drives by individuals for funds with which to allegedly carry on such work.

Sponsored by the Lamesa chamber of commerce, the work is designed to stop haphazard solicitation and to prevent transients and "professional beggars" from making deep hauls on the tills of local business and professional men. Hundreds of dollars have been wasted each year in this work, it was indicated.

Mrs. M. Q. Martin was chosen chairman; Mrs. W. D. Arnett, vice chairman; O. B. Norman, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. J. H. Harp, assistant secretary-treasurer. Besides these, who are also directors, the committee in general charge as directors, inludes, Mrs. A. B. Hefferman, Rev. David J. Murray, J. T. Allen and Matt McCall, president and A. G. Bearden, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Details of operation are being worked out. It is planned to begin a financial campaign for funds to carry on the work.

One plan includes the elimination of all general and public solicitation for funds, except in special cases. In these instances the committee will endorse the fund. Monthly contributions will be sought.

Plants Previously Unreported To Science Have Been Found

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 17. (AP)—Three plants previously unreported to science have been found in the proposed Big Bend national park of Texas, regional headquarters of the national park service here announces.

The plants were discovered by Ernest G. Marsh, jr., of Austin, a graduate of the University of Texas, while working in the Big Bend as a student technician of the national park service. Two of the plants have been named for Marsh by Paul Standley, nationally recognized botanist and curator of the Field museum at Chicago. Botanically, the plants are described as a wild mallow (abutilon marshii), which is similar to a hollyhock but has smaller flowers, and a wild nightshade (chamaesaracha marshii), a flowering plant of the potato family.

The third new species, a shrub regionally known as "senisa", has been named leucophyllum pennelli. It resembles a snapdragon, belongs to the figwort family, and has been named for Dr. Francis W. Pennel, curator of plants in the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences.

First Construction Steps On New Postoffice Are Taken

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 17. — First actual construction steps for the new postoffice building here have been taken with setting of four solid concrete posts at the four corners of the lots recently given the postoffice department by the city of Littlefield.

R. W. Prendergast, engineer of the department, made a topographical survey and a soil survey was made to a depth of 17 feet.

Plans are being drawn by the treasury department for the building and when completed, bids will be asked. An appropriation of $70,000 has been made.

Within 60 days, it is expected by Postmaster W. D. T. Storey, actual work of building will be under way.

FEMALE GUARDS HIRED

HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 17. (AP)—Two women guards, with payranking equal to male guards, have been employed by the State Prison system for work at the Goree farm for women near here.

They are Miss Betty Mitchell of Huntsville and Mrs. Annie Kincaid of Rockdale. They will act as night matron and assistant steward respectively.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 2 spoonfuls of impurities.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
