Program For Memorial Day Is Completed

Local Post Will Provide Much Unusual Entertainment for Visitors

A program for Memorial Day on May 30 has been prepared by the Burt Fleming Post of the American Legion. The day of tribute will begin at six o'clock in the morning when the flag will be raised. This ceremony will take place on the courthouse lawn.

A basket lunch for veterans of all wars and their families will be held in Schreiner Park from 11:30 until 1 p. m. Following the lunch, at 1:30 p. m., a parade consisting of all ex-service men of all wars will start at the Highland Chevrolet Co. and proceed to Schreiner Park. Music for the day will be furnished by the Kimble County Chamber of Commerce Band.

The assembly of all citizens at Schreiner Park at 2 p. m. will be another important feature of the day. The Rev. G. W. Crabb, chaplain of the local post of the American Legion, will give the invocation. Mrs. Conde Hardeman will give an appropriate reading on this occasion. Judge Joe G. Montague will be the chief speaker of the afternoon.

Following the address of Judge Montague there will be a 30 seconds silence in memory of the heroic dead. Following this pause, the band will play the Star Spangled Banner.

The local post has secured the services of a firing squad from Fort Sam Houston of San Antonio to serve in the exercises. Following the playing of the Star Spangled Banner, the firing squad will give a salute to the dead. Then taps.

At the close of the program everyone will make a pilgrimage to the graves of the war veterans and the decoration of the graves will be held.

P.-T. A. Entertains Members Senior Class

One of the outstanding socials honoring the members of the Senior Class was the entertainment given by the Parent-Teachers' Association at Schreiner Park Friday evening.

Readings and talks were given by the Seniors and members of the Parent-Teachers' Association. Roy Cochran, star yodeler of the class of 1930, sung two songs. A trio composed of Elsie Bessent, Kaleta Taylor and Vivian James sang several songs.

One of the interesting features of the picnic was the manner in which the guests were directed to the spot of the picnic. Signs and arrows were placed over town directing the cars. After making them drive over a round-about route, the arrows finally directed them to the park. This picnic was one of the many pleasant entertainments which the class of 1930 enjoyed.

CATCHES FISH BUT DOES NOT USE BAIT

One night last week Messrs. G. H. House and Charlie Taylor were fishing from a boat on the North Llano River about six miles west of town, but the fish were not biting very well. They had a lantern burning in the bottom of the boat.

Suddenly the fishermen heard a splash and heard something land in the bottom of the boat near the lantern. They looked down and saw a ten and one-half inch bass flopping about in the bottom of the boat. They threw the fish back into the river.

Fisherman's Luck Hits These Anglers Hard

Gathering a little here and a little there, the State of Texas has accumulated a total of $140.80 in fines in Kimble County for violation of the fishing laws since the fishing season opened on May 1.

Four persons paid fines ranging from $23 to $24.20 for the possession of short bass. One was fined $20.85 for setting perch and one person paid $25.85 for trespassing.

Many of the business houses of Junction have condensed statements of the fish laws for Kimble County which they are distributing free to anyone who calls for them. Avoid that future fine—read the laws.

Junction Jubilee Program Plans Are Being Made

Big Free Barbecue Will Be One Of Main Features Of Affair

The Junction June Jubilee program for June 17-18 has been worked out by the entertainment committee, who have provided among other features a riding contest where prizes will be awarded for excellency. These contests will be held on both days of the Jubilee.

The finance committee has started the circulation of a subscription blank for the purpose of raising funds to put on the program. Their budget requires that $750 be raised by popular donation, and in addition that 150 goats or muttons be provided for the barbecue. With these provisions they expect to entertain five thousand people here on the day of the barbecue.

This committee announces further that the bids on the amusement concessions will be received in the office of the Chamber of Commerce on June 2. The Chamber of Commerce has already received inquiries relative to the sale of these concessions, and the committee believes there will be a greater incentive in securing them this year than last, due to the much better prospects of attendance.

School Student Is Injured in Wreck

Miss Ella Simon, high school student, was painfully injured in an automobile accident which occurred at the intersection of Main and Walnut streets at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday. Miss Nellie Bennett was driving the car in which Miss Simon was riding and Charles Barnes was driving the other car. Miss Bennett was not injured, but Charles Barnes received torn ligaments in the right shoulder and a few minor scratches.

Miss Simon received cuts over each eye that penetrated to the skull and received other deep cuts about the face. She was taken to the Standifer Hospital where she received treatment. She is recovering rapidly.

The cause of the wreck could not be learned, but it is thought that the sun blinded Miss Bennett and she could not see the other car. Both automobiles were badly damaged.

Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Crofoot moved this week to Junction. Brother Crofoot has just finished from the Seminary in Austin and plans to devote all his time to the cause of the Presbyterian Church in Kimble County.

Mrs. Cleve Stevens and daughter, Miss Vivian, and Miss Kaleta Taylor went to Kerrville Saturday where Miss Elizabeth Summers gave a tea in honor of Miss James. Miss Taylor and Mrs. Stevens were invited guests.

Alumni Ass'n. Gives Banquet To Senior Class

Fifty Graduates, Alumni And Teachers Attend Feed At Hodges Hotel

The Alumni Association of Junction High School honored the members of the graduating class with a banquet at the Hodges Hotel Saturday evening at eight o'clock. Fifty plates were served at the banquet and the guest list included the members of the graduating class, the teachers of the high school, Superintendent Guy C. Moses and the class sponsor, Mrs. Margaret Dutton. The members of the Alumni Association were hosts at the occasion.

Before the banquet the seniors were given the oath of the association and initiated. Miss Nevada Blackburn, president, presided at the banquet and gave a toast to the class of 1930.

Junior Stevenson, Oscar Dunderstadt, Jake Beasley and H. T. Richardson composed a quartet that sang during the banquet.

H. T. Richardson made a five minute talk during the banquet. L. E. Dunbar also made a short talk. Mrs. C. W. McCarroll presented Louis Ragland, president of the senior class, with a present which was the gift of the senior class to their president.

Following the banquet a business meeting was held. All the officers of the organization were re-elected by acclamation. The officers are, Nevada Blackburn, president; Jack King, vice president; Fairalee Linn, secretary; Russell Lavelle, corresponding secretary; Frank Hubbell, treasurer. All the committees were reappointed.

A dance followed the banquet.

WEATHER REPORT

Junction and some sections of Kimble County are needing rain while many parts of Texas are being flooded. The light rains recently has helped the ranges and live stock are doing well, but more moisture is needed. The farming section in the eastern part of the county welcomed the sunshine this week as growing crops needed it.

Mrs. V. P. Emmons and daughter, Dicky Dane, left Tuesday morning for Abilene where they will spend their vacation. They expect to be gone two or three weeks.

Facts Concerning Our School Situation Are Bared to Public

For several months the school board has been grappling with the school situation in Junction, and the more consideration given to it the greater the crisis looms before the board. The scholastic census this year shows 568 scholastics for the next school year, which is 139 more than the past year. The actual enrollment always exceeds the scholastic enrollment and under normal conditions approximately six hundred children will seek admission to the Junction Schools next term. Practically all the teachers had more children this year than they could instruct properly.

With the increased enrollment the school board is faced with the problem of caring for the children next session. The suggestion has been made that the present auditorium be cut up into class rooms to take care of the high school, and that the primary grades attend only half day sessions. This arrangement would be only temporary as the natural growth would soon make this solution to the problem inadequate. The school board wants to do the right

Seniors Will Get Diplomas Friday Night

Gerald Mann, of Dallas, Will Deliver Commencement Address

Friday evening at 8 p. m. the graduating exercises for Schreiner High School will be held at the high school auditorium. Twenty-three boys and girls will receive diplomas.

The exercises Friday evening will wind up the activities of the present school year.

Gerald Mann, of Dallas, will deliver the commencement address. Hon. Coke R. Stevenson will award the scholarships. Mr. Chris Schraub, president of the board of trustees, will present the diplomas.

The commencement sermon was delivered by the Elder J. S. Newman last Sunday morning. The Rev. G. W. Crabb delivered the invocation, and following this, the processional of the graduates took place. A quartet composed of Mrs. C. W. McCarroll, Miss Bernice Sutton, Mr. K. G. Durst and Mr. Grady Kendrick sang a song.

The sermon which the Elder Newman delivered was very appropriate and interesting. At the close of the sermon the recessional of graduates took place. The Rev. G. W. Crabb pronounced the benediction.

A large crowd filled the auditorium for the services. The stage was decorated with cut flowers and pot plants.

Those who will receive diplomas tomorrow evening are Misses Tempie Boone, Kaleta Taylor, Vivian James, Elsie Bessent, Ruth Sanders, Merle Mil-sap, Nora Cabler, Norma Hendricks, Marjorie Montgomery, Ruby Davis and Lola Mae Goben, and Messrs. Louie Ragland, H. T. Richardson, Roy Cochran, Jake Beasley, Marvin Blackburn, Ina Knox, L. E. Dunbar, Leroy Skaggs, Junior Stevenson, Carleton Wright, Oscar Dunderstadt and M. C. Blackburn.

The Parent-Teachers' Association, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and Lions Club are concentrating their efforts to get our main street through town thoroughly cleaned. Every one is urged to see that all weeds and grass are cut and all rubbish removed. Let everybody help to create a favorable impression when any one drives into our city.

Borrow's Automobile to Go Fishing In- Stays

Fred Coleman is mourning over fisherman's luck this week. Recently a genial "gentleman" named C. B. Odell landed in Junction from Florida, according to his own statement. He leased an apartment at Price's Camp and started getting neighborly with local people.

He loafed around the Safety First Filling Station and became acquainted with Fred Coleman. Then Tuesday came and Kimble County spring weather seized him. He wanted to go fishing, and borrowed Fred's car to go in.

Sheriff Frank Patterson reported this morning that Mr. Odell had been found in Orange, Texas driving the missing car.

Real Clean-up Campaign Will Commence Soon

Business Houses Will Organize To Eliminate Dust Nuisance

A clean-up program for Junction has been endorsed by several of the merchants and residents of the city. With the prospects of entertaining tourists and visitors during the summer season, the matter was brought to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to get them to sponsor a definite program for eliminating the dust nuisance on our streets and for improving the appearance of our store-fronts and yards.

The Parent-Teachers' Association already has promoted the yard-beautiful program with good results. It was remarked by one of our merchants that there had been sold about twenty times as much flower seed this year as last.

A special meeting of Chamber of Commerce directors was called for this afternoon, to which the members of the P.-T. A., City Council and Health Officer were invited. At this meeting definite measures were considered which involved the improvement of sanitation and the disposal of street trash.

School Library Will Be Open This Summer

At a meeting of the Junction Parent-Teachers Association held Monday afternoon, it was voted to keep the high school library open throughout the summer months, and Mrs. Walter Tinsley was appointed librarian.

The library will be open one afternoon each week from 2 until 6. A set of rules governing the use of the library will be made and published soon. Over four hundred books were read last summer as a result of the library staying open during the summer months, according to Mrs. Tinsley who was librarian last summer.

Local Firm Delivers 2000 Mutton Goats

Live stock is moving since the good rains over most of the ranching section. Browning & Carpenter recently bought from Ed Smith of Mason County two thousand 3, 4 and 5 year old mutton goats and delivered them to Raleigh Whitehead of Fort Worth at $2.75 a head. They have other deals pending that are not ready to be reported at this time.

Mr. R. W. Persons, district agent, and Mr. Arthur L. Smith, beef cattle specialist of the extension service of A. & M. College, were in Junction Tuesday and Wednesday doing special work along beef cattle lines. County Agent R. E. Homann aided them in this work.

P.-T. A. Holds Last Meeting Current Year

Music Week Program Followed By Regular Business Session

The final meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association for the school year just closing was held at the high school Monday afternoon at 4 p. m. with forty present.

The program, which was in observance of National Parents' Music Week, was interesting. The program opened with the audience singing "America." The Elder J. S. Newman gave the invocation. Edwina Lowgren gave a reading entitled "His Buttons." Janice Loeffler read "Sweet Pea Bonnets." Mrs. A. W. Loeffler sang a solo and Misses Vernelle Tinsley and Palarale Linn played a piano duet.

After the program, the regular business meeting was held. Mrs. C. W. Atchison gave a report of the Ways and Means committee and Mrs. Minnie Barnes gave the treasurer's report which showed the association in good shape financially with a good bank balance on hand. Mrs. E. R. Borden gave a report of the picnic which the P.-T. A. gave the senior class of 1930.

The resignation of Mrs. C. W. McCarroll as first vice president of the association was accepted by the members and Mrs. Mattie Patterson was elected to fill the vacancy.

The association voted to keep the library open this summer, and appointed Mrs. Walter Tinsley as librarian.

Mrs. Robert Loeffler gave a report of the Yard Beautiful Committee, and Mrs. George Pepper gave a report of the Pre-School Health Round-up which was conducted last week.

The first grade, which is taught by Miss Austin Durst, won the book which is given each month as a prize for the greatest attendance. The next meeting of the association will be held in August.

FIREMEN WIN GAME FROM LONDON SUNDAY

By scoring ten runs in the opening inning the Junction Fire Department defeated the London baseball team in a game at London Sunday afternoon.

Louis Ragland pitched for Junction for eight innings, and Alex Wahl relieved him in the ninth retiring the side without a run. The final score was 15 to 11. Dillard Motley did the receiving for Junction.

Junction will play Harper Sunday at Harper.

At the meeting of the Fire Department members recently, Howard Blackburn resigned as coach of the team and Ollie Floyd was elected to succeed him.

Skeezix is Gone

"Skeezix" is gone again. Everyone accustomed to being on the streets of Junction knows Skeezix, a little curly haired white dog. But he left home Sunday, May 11 and has not been heard of since. His owner, Bill Hamer, is anxious about him.

A short time ago Skeezix decided that he wanted to travel and he hopped a car and rode to Kerrville. Two days later he hopped another car and made the return trip.

It may be that Skeezix just wanted to take a vacation in some neighboring town and will return soon. He knows his tricks and will stand up and roll over when food is offered him.

MONTE CARLO HAS "POOR YEAR" BUT NETS $2, 800, 000

Monte Carlo.—Gross receipts, $5,720,000; net profits, $2,500,000.

Such is the balance sheet presented to the board of directors of the casino for the gambling year ending March 31. And the directors called it a "poor year."

The receipts were maintained at the level of the past five years, but there was a large increase in the expenditures.

The personnel, ranging from croupiers to street-sweepers, cost the kitty nearly $200,000 more than 1928-1929.

Publicity also came higher; about $40,000 more than usual. The task of supplying gas to the residents of Monaco, although bearing no direct connection with publicity, which is aimed at non-residents, also came higher by $30,000 than in any former year.

An item which showed conspicuously on the wrong side of the balance sheet was the movies. The falling off is said to be due to the talking innovation, which was more expensive to operate, and did not manifest a correspondingly greater drawing power here.

A bitterly contested election during which money flowed freely, was held on March 30, but no item under the head of "electioneering expenditures" appears on the balance sheet.

FOUR-CENT STAMPS WILL HONOR TAFT

Washington.—A new four-cent postage stamp, bearing the portrait of the late William H. Taft, will be issued soon. It will replace the current 4c stamp bearing the portrait of Martha Washington.

The portrait of Martha Washington will be retained on the reply portion of the 2c business postal card.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES

The Rev. G. W. Crofoot will hold preaching services in the Episcopal Church building next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and at 8 o'clock in the evening. Everyone cordially invited to be present at both these services.

The captains of industry are elected to their positions by the votes of thousands, and sometimes millions of customers.

LATEST INSULT WAS TOO MUCH

Detroit.—Mrs. Helen Hotchkiss put up with her husband introducing her to his friends as "my crabby wife" she told the judge, but later he added an insult that she couldn't bear.

She left him she said, because he told a photographer friend that he would pose for a picture with his dog, but not with his wife.

Judge Joseph Moynihan granted a divorce.

LONDON LOCALS

Lack of space last week forbade us making mention of the fact that we recently visited the poultry yards of Master Ivy Amson and sister, Ernestine. In one of these yards Ernestine keeps her fine White Buffs. In another Master Ivy keeps his fine prize winning Barred Rocks. Both pens contain fine birds, and these children are proud of them, especially is Ivy proud of his fine prize winning cockerel.

While looking over these birds and noticing the enthusiasm with which this little boy and girl showed them off and conversed about them and outlined their future intentions, it naturally occurred to my mind that it is far better for parents and schools to encourage the children in doing something useful and getting a satisfying pleasure out of it than to encourage them in many senseless things that they do for pleasure's sake.

King Solomon wisely said, train the child in the way it should go, and when it is older grown it will not depart from it. We should train our young boys and girls to be unselfish and less to extravagance and pleasure.

We learn Master Dell Bannowsky won first prize at the county show for the best poultry display. This was fine, and our hat is off to all little boys and girls who are trying to accomplish something useful and looking forward to a life of usefulness and real pleasure.

Messrs. E. H. Rawleigh and Howard Kothmann and C. R. Robinson left Wednesday of last week for an extended trip through west Texas and New Mexico. They are making the trip for the benefit of Rawleigh's health. It is hoped he will benefit by it.

Our school boys played the Hext boys last Friday, winning the game by the score of 6 to 2. Mr. and Mrs. Dee Gibbs were shaking hands with friends here Saturday. It looked natural to see them on our streets again.

Many of our people attended the joint barbecue given by the Ivy and the Tea Cup Schools. Everyone says it was a great social success. This is fine. We do not care so much about the barbecue, but we are long on the social feature of such occasions which tends to keep alive the old West Texas hospitality. The old time handshakes and "How do you do," spirit.

Our Commissioner, G. W. Hardesty, has been doing some very necessary work on our streets for the last few days. We certainly appreciate this service.

Judge Slaytor informs us that he recently shipped about 500 muttons to market, receiving for them about $4.55. This shipment was range muttons but very fat, averaging high in weight.

We often read of the rough and rugged road we have to travel through life, and when we review the past it has been composed of one up and two downs, but a close analysis of our downs has revealed to us the fact that self was the cause of them all. Hence we decide that self is the greatest obstacle we have to overcome in order to live a pleasant, well spent life. Self has caused us to commit every act that has brought to us failure. Self is at the foundation of all evil; self is boastful and deceptive. Self is weak in you and I, but self is loath to acknowledge the fact, when others are overtaken in fault, self stands high and proclaims, I am too just or too wise to be guilty of such, while it was only self that caused the other man or woman to fall, and while they were committing the act to satisfy self, the very act that you are too just or too wise to commit, are you real sure that you were not obeying self and doing things that possibly they would scorn to do?

Remember, gentle readers, we are all human. We are all composed of a very arrogant Self.

MISSING STEERS FOUND IN ABANDONED WELL

Mason—When rounding up steers in a small pasture recently, Dave Polk of Mason County discovered two of the animals were missing. Nineteen days later when looking for the two missing steers, Polk found them both imprisoned in an abandoned well. One was dead, but the second was alive and after being hauled out with ropes was fed and watered and is back on the range going nicely after his long fast.

The steers were part of a herd of 100 head being moved by Mr. Polk for G. R. White of Brady from pastures leased in Mason County to northern pasturage.

* SHOOTS SELF IN NECK AND WITHOUT A GUN *

Chicago.—Frank Tuttle shot himself in the neck Sunday night—without a gun. There is no catch to this. He did it while in his room at the Metropole Hotel. He will recover.

He tells about it. "I held a pistol cartridge in a spoon over a gas jet. I wanted to see if the heat would explode it." It did.

HARMONICA BAND HAS LIVELY PRESS AGENT

In the Sunday issue of the San Antonio Express a picture of the Harmonica Band of the sixth grade of the Junction School was printed.

The band is composed of Will Alvin Linn, Hazel Davis, Veda McKay, Grace Hendricks, Luzon Tinsley, Nancifred Duderstadt, Annie Laura Braley, Carlton Massie, Dayton Blackburn, Milton Hill, Lenore Riley, leader; Leola Jetton and Bill Barnes. Mrs. Grady Kindrick is teacher of the grade and sponsors the band.

They have made several public appearances during the past school year, playing for entertainments and have made appearances before the Rotary Club and other organizations.

IVY ECHOES

This week brings to a close our school for this term. Closing day always brings with it happy anticipations, and at the same time it brings a bit of sadness to teachers and pupils when we realize that this school year is past and gone and that our pleasant association shall cease.

Our school has a good program under way, which will be rendered at the school house Friday night of this week. An invitation is extended to everyone to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Dick of Utopia are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Ray Amberson, who lives on the river near the Yates crossing.

Mr. G. N. Walker, who has been in California for the past two months, returned home Tuesday greatly improved in health, and is almost himself again. Mr. Walker is well pleased with the climate of sunny California, but says there is no place yet just like good old Texas.

Nearly all of our people attended the joint picnic last Saturday on the Llano River, in Mrs. McCaleb's pasture given by the Ivy and Tea Cup schools. This picnic was one of the most enjoyable get-together of the people that has occurred in many months.

A big feature of the program to be given at Ivy next Friday night is the play: "A Bunch of Keys." Don't miss it.

PROTRACTED MEETING

Our annual protracted meeting at the Church of Christ in Junction will begin Sunday morning, June 1st, at 11 a. m., and run over the 8th. We will have services both morning and evening. The hours for the meeting will be announced later. Brother Glenn Wallace will do the preaching. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend these services. A more extended announcement will be made in next issue of the paper. J. S. Newman, Minister.

Uncle Billie McKee and V. P. Emmons attended the Rotary luncheon in Kerrville Wednesday.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

THIRD INSTALLMENT

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
A beautiful young woman had herself on the sidewalk in a strange city. She cannot remember her name or where she came from. She has nothing in her purse to tell herself who she is. A young man who has seen her in the hotel where she is stopping notices her and takes her to the hotel in a cab. There they find that she registered in French, as "Miss Nobody of Nowhere." The clerk has been calling her "Miss Parsons." The young man tells her she is in New York. His name is Eric Hamilton. Chicago. She is terrified at her loss of memory. He asks his friend, Dr. Carrick, a nurse specialist to call at the hotel. Dr. Carrick talks encouragingly, but says he will send a nurse to stay with the mysterious "Miss Parsons" that night.

New Go On With the Story

"Will you tell me exactly what the doctor said, and all he said?" she asked at last.
"Of course." He came and stood beside her. "He thinks that you have had some sort of shock, which made you decide to get away from the scene of it, whatever it was. He thinks you came to the decision very hastily, for you started with no luggage. Yet when you got here you clearly expected to stay some time, for you went out the next day and bought some things which you had delivered at the hotel."
"When I came up here to my rooms before dinner I went through everything," she confessed, "but there was nothing to help me, except some money. It's not much, but I hope it will see me through. Anyway, it's probably all I have in the world, for my clothes show I'm not rich. They're good but not gorgeous," she grimly paraphrased.

His heart leaped over the small jest, but before he could speak her face darkened and she went on.
"The money won't carry me very far in a New York hotel if I have a long siege—with a trained nurse at night and a psychiatrist coming every morning," she pointed out. "Suppose this attack lasts longer than my money does?"
"It won't." He spoke with such conviction that she brightened again. "The Carland's summer rates are still in effect, and they're very reasonable," he went on. "Carrick is too good a chap to send you a big bill."
He was talking against time, to keep her panic at bay till the nurse came.

"Oh, what a devilish situation this is!" She turned back to the window, bringing her hands together with an effect of desperation that alarmed him.
"Come now," he urged, "keep steady! A whole lot depends on that. The more quietly you take this, the sooner you will get over it. He agrees that the thing to do is to sit tight, just as you're doing, and let inquiries come from the other end. If your family and friends don't know where you are, they'll have started an investigation by this time, but they're probably doing it very carefully."
She stood still and stared into the darkness. Suddenly she turned back to the room with a little laugh that broke through their seriousness like a gush of a fountain.

"We may discover that I have run away from a husband and six children," she said lightly, but giving him a definite effect of breathlessness and tension. "My innocent babes may be crying for me this minute."
"What a ghastly idea!" he began, and stopped abruptly. As if she had caught his thought she looked at him with sudden intensity; but he was on his guard again and his disarming smile banished any suspicion she might have had. However, the little episode seemed to harden some half-formed purpose, for she went toward the inner room with an air of resolution he recalled later.

"If you will excuse me," she said, "I'll make some preparations for the nurse. I suppose since she is coming she must be made comfortable. No, please don't go," she added as he turned to take up his hat. "I'd rather you were here when she comes. There's some light literature on the table that may interest you."
She made a hospitable gesture toward the light literature, and disappeared through the door leading into her bedroom.

He selected a magazine, drew an easy-chair to the reading-lamp, and contentedly sat down. She was only a few feet away, on the other side of the door, and there was something satisfactory in being her sentinel. It wasn't strange that he was immensely interested in her, he mused. Anyone would be interested in a girl in that tragic plight. For a few minutes more he casually thought about her while he turned the pages of the magazine, glancing at pictures and titles.

A title on a page of the magazine he held caught his eye and he began to read, with frequent glances at the closed door and an ear alert for sounds in the inner room. As he had already demonstrated, it was not his habit to do things by halves. He became attentive to the article he was reading, then interested, and finally absorbed.
"Is this Miss Parsons' room?" she inquired. "I'm Miss Adams, the nurse. Doctor Carrick sent me."

"Yes, of course. We have been expecting you."
"Doctor Carrick told me all about the case and gave me full instruction," the nurse went on. "It took some time. Otherwise I could have been here sooner. I suppose she's in her room," she suggested. "Hadn't I better go right in and report?"
"Miss Adams gave the door panel a soft but decided rap, and when she received no reply she repeated it without emphasis, calling clearly: "The nurse, Miss Parsons. May I come in?" But when there was no response to this, she turned and cast a questioning glance at the young man.

"Go in," he managed to bring out, and strengthened the order with an imperative gesture.
Plainly Miss Adams was not the type of nurse who accepted orders from every one who chose to give them. She hesitated, and rapped a third time. Still receiving no reply, she turned the knob and entered the bed room, leaving the door ajar behind her. Hamilton remained close to the open door, but he did not look into the room beyond it. Instead he wheeled and stared hard at the opposite wall, telling himself there were a half dozen reasons why the girl in the inner room might not have heard those three decided taps.

Miss Adams reappeared, and now she was obviously disturbed.
"We mustn't assume too much," she said kindly, with an understanding glance at his agitated face. "You said she was frightened, and in such conditions patients do strange things. I've looked out of the window," she added calmly, and again he felt his scalp prick. "There's nothing wrong in the street. Of course she may be somewhere else in the hotel."
He found his voice.
"You're perfectly sure she isn't in these rooms?" he asked.
"Quite sure." Miss Adams smiled austere. "I've looked in the closet and even under the bed."

"May I look?"
"Of course, if you like."
Her manner nicely combined with its professional courtesy an intimation that he would be wasting his time, but he pushed past her even before she could move to one side.
The room had the look of having been unoccupied for days.
The words of the nurse made him swing around toward her.
"Here's the way she left," she said. He had noticed another door with a bolt on the inside. It led from the bed room and he had taken for granted that it was part of the adjoining suite and was locked. Now he saw that the bolt had not been shot. The nurse held the door ajar, revealing a glimpse of a side corridor past its threshold.
"Easiest thing in the world," he conceded. "She packed, stole out through that door and along that back corridor to a rear staircase, and probably got away without being seen by anyone. But how about her hotel bill? Do you think she'd forget that?"

Miss Adams looked thoughtful.
"She might. They do all sorts of queer things when they're not normal."
He had been staring down unseeingly at a little writing stand, but now he caught a faint suggestion of penciling on the top envelope of the pile of hotel paper.

"Here's something," he cried, and picked up the envelope. Then his expression changed. It was addressed to Doctor Carrick.
"Where did you find that?" the nurse demanded. She had been standing on the threshold, looking down the hall, but turned back into the room at the sound of his voice.
"On the table, on top of this little heap of stationery. It looked like all the other envelopes, for the name is written on it very faintly, with a hard pencil. I didn't notice it till now."
He felt the envelope.
"Lord! I wish I dared to open it," he muttered.

Hamilton hurried from the room. At the hotel office desk he asked for a match and lit his cigarette with careful casualness.
"Has Miss Parsons gone?" he asked as he drew in the first mouthful of smoke.
"Yep; she checked out 'most an hour ago," the clerk told him, and added without rancor: "Women make me tired."
Hamilton rested an elbow on the desk.
"Why?"
"Oh, because they're always changing their minds. That girl said when she came that she was only staying one night. She stayed three days. That was all right—the longer the better. But tonight she had a cot put in her room for a woman friend who was to visit her, and after I'd stirred up a chambermaid and a porter and got everything fixed she changed her mind again and cleared out. She left a dollar for the chambermaid and the porter, though," he added forgivingly, and ended, on another afterthought, "Nice girl."

Hamilton put on the hat he had been carrying and descended the hotel's front steps to the street.
"Cab, sir?" asked the doorman, who knew him.
"Not yet. . . See here, Saunders—" Hamilton put a dollar into the man's hand—"did you happen to hear the address Miss Parsons gave her cabman tonight when she left?"
Saunders pocketed the dollar and looked sympathetic.
"She didn't take no cab here, sir," he reported. "It was funny, too, for she usually does. Besides, tonight she was carryin' a little handbag and a big bun-die. But when I started to get a taxi for her she walked off, shakin' her head."

"Which way did she go?"
"That way," Saunders indicated the side street. His voice sank to a confidential note, for his was an honest nature and he desired to earn his dollar—in part, at least.
"I got the feelin' sir," he said, "that she walked off because she didn't want to give no address here. If that hadn't been it, why would she carry them things? She gave me my quarter jest the same, and I'd bet that quarter she took a cab at the next corner."
Hamilton returned to the waiting nurse. It was easy now to piece together the bits of the puzzle. Miss Parsons had experienced another panic, had decided that she was becoming "a case," and had fled to avoid that horror. Of course she would pick up a cab farther along the street or take one of the scores of cabs plying up and down the next avenue, only a block away. By this time she might be in Harlem or on a train bound west or south. In any case, she was definitely gone. She was out there somewhere in the darkness. What would become of her? Anything, everything, might happen to her.

He must find her, of course. That went without saying. Even if his interest had been less than it was, he couldn't let her in her condition vanish into the unknown. He had not been responsible at first, but now . . . He made his report to the nurse.
"She paid her bill and checked out an hour ago."
Miss Adams nodded.
"She would," she confirmed. Hamilton's strained nerves snapped.
"If it was so certain that she would why the devil didn't Carrick warn me?" he broke out, and immediately apologized again. "Come on, we'll go uptown and talk to Carrick. You don't suppose he has gone to bed, do you?" he asked irritably.

Miss Adams expressed her theory that Doctor Carrick could not have done anything so inconsiderate. It was much more likely, she thought, that the physician might have dropped in at his club on his way home, to have a rubber of bridge with some friends. As a nurse who attended many of his patients she knew something of his habits. She even knew the name of his club, and mentioned it.

on for the money.
H. T. and Mr. Moses were given a chance to get their property back. H. T. was to play while Mr. Moses sang. They held a secret conference, then Mr. Moses wound up the victory while H. T. secured a record. The record selected was "O Baby Where Can You Be." Mr. Moses stated that this was being sung for the benefit of one boy in the senior class of '29. We drew the imagination that this boy was Jack King. The constitution of the Alumni organization was read by Nevada Blackburn. The house was then open for election of new officers. Someone suggested that the old officers be re-elected. This was seconded and voted on. The vote that the old officers be re-elected carried and the meeting was adjourned.

SHOWER

Thursday afternoon at one o'clock the J. H. C. gave their sponsor, Mrs. Dutton, a miscellaneous shower. The gifts were presented to her by the president of the club, Harry Witt. These gifts were presented in token of the members' appreciation of Mrs. Dutton's work and friendship during the past year. Among the gifts received were, silk dance handkerchiefs, a pair of book ends with Abraham Lincoln in raised design, bath powder, seed pearl necklace, linen handkerchiefs, bath salts and stationery.

THE DAY'S SCHEDULE

From the east there rose the morning,
There was heard a whistled warning;
Smiling o'er the hills away,
Comes the sign of a new dawn,
Through the morning in the dew,
Passed the laborers two by two;
Higher yet and higher still,
Climbed the sun from o'er the hill.
Hour by hour the laborers toil,
Tilling the soft and yielding soil;
Till signs the whistle blows,
Then to home each laborer goes.
—Mary Abel, 6th grade.

THE MIGHTY LEADER

(by Opal Porter)
The sands of life blew wildly,
All signs of light were gone,
Then softly stepped and mildly
The king to claim his throne.
The sands of life ceased blowing
And all men saw the light
That Christ, the blessed Redeemer
Had come to fight our fight.

THE SPARKLING RIVER

Sparkling is the river,
And yellow is the sand;
I could swim forever,
And never step on land.
Happy are we children,
Who can swim and play;
In the pretty river
That will never run away.
—Grace Hendricks, 6-A grade.

SPRING

The flowers now are budding,
The trees are budding too;
The blossoms look so cheerful,
That they hold a friendship true.
The birds begin to chatter,
And build their nests so dear,
And the sun up in the heavens
Makes a happy atmosphere.
—Mabel Hodges, 6-A grade.

SPRING'S RETURN

Spring is here again,
With its flowers galore,
For many to look upon
And for many to adore.
Spring is here again
With its leafy green trees,
Oh, how we shall miss them
When they begin to freeze.
—Leola Jetton, 6th grade.

SNOWS

The snow comes falling, falling,
Falling down upon the pretty trees,
Although it is very pretty,
It kills all the pretty leaves.
The snow comes falling, falling,
Falling down from the blue sky,
But sometimes comes too often,
And all the pretty flowers die.
—Annie Laura Braley, 6th grade.

I wish to thank you, members of the High School faculty, members of the ninth grade and members of the Agriculture I Class for the nice gifts and the spirit in which they were given. I thank you for the excellent spirit of co-operation that you have shown me during the past year.
I assure you that it has been a very pleasant task to have worked with you.
R. H. Brison.

Saturday night Margaret Hubbell, a popular Junior, met with the misfortune of being bitten by a copperhead water moccasin. She was taken to the Standifer Hospital immediately but was able to leave the hospital Monday afternoon.

The High School Commencement exercises will be held tomorrow, 8:00 p. m., at the High School Auditorium.

I wish to thank the members of the J. H. C. for the shower of beautiful and useful gifts presented to me Thursday. It has been a pleasure to be associated with this class and I shall never forget the many courtesies you have shown me throughout the year. This profuse shower of gifts is only a last and parting remembrance that I shall take with me wherever I go.
Margaret Dutton.

The ladies of the faculty complimented Miss Mary Willis with a luncheon at the White Kitchen last Thursday at noon. At this time she was presented with a hanging flower basket and green flower pot.

There were no failures among the Seniors this year.
Some of the best fun in life is a by-product of the day's work.

Junction Trade Notes

(By G. G. Co.)

Crops in the agricultural belt of Kimble County are growing off satisfactorily—but will need the next rain—according to A. M. Reese and other successful ranch-farmers of the fertile section adjacent to London. Corn is now waist high, forage crops are up to a good start, and wheat is being chopped. Pecan culture is an important adjunct of Texas agriculture because the pecan tree is native to this section, thrives in Texas soil and climate and becomes the most graceful of all shade trees as well as producing a valuable crop of nuts. Texas A. & M. held demonstrations in San Antonio Monday, teaching methods of cutting back, budding and cultivation.

Pecan-Nut butter, blended with peanut, is a new food product receiving favor in Junction. In stock here. Gann Grocery Company. Planting seeds in stock: Improved Mex. June corn, Higera, "Red Top" cane.

Mrs. Mary Sharp and Mr. and Mrs. Neal Penz of Ballinger were in Junction for a week-end outing as guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Moore of Kimble County. Mrs. Hart of Brownwood is at Kimble Courts for summer vacation. Dr. Halstead and party of Rio Grande Valley are enjoying their early summer vacation on the classic Llanos and enjoying every day of it. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bowers were in town Monday from Harner. Sam was recently laid off work on account of his health, which at present shows but slight improvement.

Suggestions for the quick meal or picnic lunch: Sliced cooked ham in picnic tins, ready to serve; Hamburger steak and onions, Deviled chicken in sealed tins; Norwegian Kippersnacks. Gann Grocery Company. Tomato juice in tins. And the lowly salmon has entered into good society by announcement of U. S. Public Health Service that canned salmon contains the substance that will prevent pellagra.

Demand for wools is showing considerable activity with numerous sales reported in Texas in a range of 20 to 28c. Schreiners at Kerrville are reported as selling their accumulation of 12-months to C. D. Stokes at an average of 24c to 25c. At San Angelo W. G. C. Storage Co. report sale of 130,000 lbs. 12-months around 27c. Del Rio Wool and Mohair Co. sold a 50,000 lb. lot 12-months at 28 1/2c. The Producers Co. at Del Rio are moving 200,000 lbs. 8-months at 25c, bought by Tom Richey of Lampasas representing Texas Trading Co., with offices in Boston. Shearing in Kimble County is under full headway and the spring accumulation at Junction wool warehouse will exceed a half million pounds. A pool sale of Texas wool warehouses, aggregating 7,000,000 lbs. short wool, is scheduled to be held in San Angelo May 27. "Eat More Lamb" and thereby aid the sheep and wool industry.

In stock: Martin's and Peerless screw-worm killer, Martin's flysmear for repelling flies.

CORRECTION

In the history of Kimble County written by Coke R. Stevenson, Jr., and published in the Eagle of May 15, 1930, his article stated that in 1904 Dr. J. W. Burt erected the two story building known as the Masonic building, but the type had him saying that Dr. J. Fred Burt erected the building. It was Dr. J. Fred's father who erected the building.

Another error in the article is that James Bourland edited Junction's first newspaper, the West Texan, when it should have been J. F. Lewis, according to N. C. Patterson, who was postmaster at the time and it was printed in the rear of the post office.

Mr. Philip Joseph was looking after his store in Rocksprings Wednesday.

MECHANICAL CHANGES UNNECESSARY IN FORD

The Model A Ford car during the last two years has demonstrated its power, speed, comfort and dependability. Essentially the Ford is an automobile that does not need constant re-designing. This does not, however, mean that there are not improvements from time to time. There are. But these improvements are incorporated as they are developed and the public is immediately given the benefit of them.

For instance in the new body types recently introduced rustless steel is used in the exposed metal parts and a strip of this non-tarnishing metal has been inserted between the hood and the cowl. This is the first time rustless steel has been utilized in the less expensive cars.

The policy of incorporating improvements as they are developed obviates the necessity of issuing annual models. Also, it benefits the company, the dealer and the public.

The company is not obliged to re-tool its plant to make a car that is simply different, the dealer escapes the necessity of stocking new sizes and kinds of parts, and the public receives the benefit of the savings effected in lower prices than otherwise would have to be charged. Furthermore, dealers can meet their demands for parts with a considerably smaller stock, and this again benefits the public since it necessitates less overhead.

The new Ford cars with the improved bodies incorporate more changes than had been effected theretofore since the introduction of the Model A. They too, will be improved in one way or another, but, unless the Ford Motor Company changes its long-standing policy, there will be no annual models of Ford cars.

HOMER D. WADE OFFERS AID TO JUNE JUBILEE

Mr. H. W. Bierschwale recently received a letter from Homer D. Wade, General Manager of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, stating that he hoped the Junction June Jubilee on June 17 and 18 would be a great success.

Oil Activities Increase Throughout County

Mr. E. Holekamp announces that good progress is being made by the Consolidated Royalty Oil Company of Fort Worth in blocking ten thousand acres of land for drilling for oil along the Llano River between Junction and Tea Cup. Messrs. W. W. Boyce, chief geologist; Ralph Hart, drilling contractor, and R. Kamon, oil operator, are in Junction this week blocking the land.

It has been reported to the Eagle that the contract calls for the drilling of three wells on the block and that operations will begin as soon as the acreage can be blocked. More than half of the required leases has been signed, and it is expected that before many weeks the tests will be going down.
