LEAGUE 'NOW DEAD'—HARDING

RANGERS CAPTURE STILLS AND GAMING DEVICES

OFFENSIVE IS REOPENED ON LAWLESS RINGS

Bardley's Corner Region Yields 3 Stills, Gambling Outfit and Brew.

Man and Woman Taken in Field House—Other Arrests to Follow at Once.

Renewal of Ranger operations in the Northwest oil field against gamblers and whisky rings was revealed Thursday night in a report of this week's operations brought to the detachment commander here by Ranger M. T. Gonzaullas from Bradley's Corner.

It was disclosed that in three raids in as many days around the oil town three complete stills and a gambling outfit had been seized, with a huge quantity of whisky-making material.

Two prisoners were taken and more arrests will follow preparations of the charges by federal officials here, it was said, as owners of the outfits are known.

According to the report, which was submitted to H. P. Brady, commanding the detachment of six rangers, a raid Monday by Gonzaullas alone on a tent at Bradley's Corners resulted in the discovery of a 50-gallon still, complete with coils and burners, a bottling machine, one-half barrel of mash and other ingredients, and a complete gambling outfit, consisting of poker and dice tables and "chuck-a-luck" games.

Destroy Much of Material.

Save for the gambling paraphernalia and copper coils of the still, which were brought here and delivered to County Attorney John Davenport, the other stuff was destroyed.

Gonzaullas, by himself, Tuesday raided a cafe at Bradley's Corners, finding there a 30-gallon still, which was cleverly concealed under counters in the rear. Coils of the still were wrapped in flour sacks under the stove in the kitchen. The tubing connecting the still proper with the coils extended from the coils, through a partition in the wall to a room in the extreme rear of the cafe and connected with the burners and container.

No whisky or ingredients were found, but evidence that the still had been operated recently was discovered when an unmistakable fluid leaked out of the coils when they were taken apart.

Raid House on Lease.

Starting out again early Wednesday morning, Gonzaullas, J. Leseueur and Powers raided a house on the Lincoln lease, about a mile from Bradley's Corners, as the result of which Cleveland Watson and Mrs. Alma Viney were placed under arrest.

Investigations in the house disclosed copper coils for two stills and a quantity of corn whisky in bottles, which the woman attempted to throw away before the Rangers could reach her.

The suspicious presence of two copper coils led to a further search of the surrounding property, which resulted in the discovery of a "dug-out" or underground room, a few feet from the house. In this dug-out was found a complete 30-gallon still, a 30-gallon tank, and three barrel of corn mash.

Find Second Still.

Not satisfied with the search so far, the Rangers prowled around in the vicinity of the house and uncovered another still, of 50-gallon capacity, buried in the ground near the house, and a barrel of molasses, which was being used as a substitute for sugar, in a shed in rear of the house.

The man and woman, who were said to have been living there for some time, were brought to the county jail here pending action of state and federal authorities.

Charges of adultery and operating a still have been filed against them.

COTTON EXPORT PLAN IS PUSHED

Formation of $12,000,000 Corporation to Be Begun Nov. 6.

By Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 4.—Formation of a $12,000,000 foreign trading corporation under the Edge act for the purpose of financing business dealings between the cotton growing states of the south and foreign countries will be actively begun at a meeting to be held in New Orleans on Saturday, November 6 and to be attended by prominent bankers from all parts of the southern states.

The meeting was called today by Robert F. Maddox, president of the Atlanta National Bank, as chairman of a special committee formed at the recent annual convention of the American Bankers association held in Washington.

The committee was organized for the purpose of advising as to the feasibility of the plan and was continued by the association to perfect the organization and financing of the proposed corporation. The bankers association unanimously expressed approval of the plan and directed that such a body be formed, it was announced.

The meeting to be held in New Orleans on Saturday will be the first held by the committee since the Washington convention and is to arrange the details for the actual formation of the corporation. The new corporation will eventually trade in all products of the south but cotton will be the staple which will receive first attention.

It was pointed out by Chairman Maddox that the formation of the company is not for the purpose of controlling the cotton situation or in aiding the holding of cotton for higher prices but rather for the purpose of financing the sales of cotton and other products to foreign countries and providing the banking facilities for this class of business.

ELECTORAL VOTE FOR HARDING IS PAST 400 MARK

G.O.P. Majorities of Score In Senate and 150 in House Are Assured.

Republican Candidate for Senator Leads in Kentucky; Volstead Wins.

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—An almost record-smashing electoral vote for Senator Harding, topping the 400 mark, and republican majorities of more than a score in the senate and 150 in the house, were assured from virtually complete returns tonight from Tuesday's elections.

With the democratic strongholds of Oklahoma, Missouri and Tennessee definitely swept into the republican ranks by the party's crushing victory, the Harding-Coolidge ticket had 396 votes, exclusive of the five from Montana, where the republican state ticket was victorious and the presidential ticket ahead.

Beckham Loses Lead

The republican landslide tonight had given them 58 senate seats as against 37 for the democrats with late returns undermining the lead of Senator Beckham, democrat, Kentucky. His republican opponent, Richard J. Ernst forged ahead in a nip and tuck fight over the only senate seat left unsettled. Of the 34 senate contests, the republicans captured nine from the democrats and elected all 15 of their candidates. Among the democratic senators who today went down to defeat were Chamberlain of Oregon, former chairman of the military committee, Smith of Arizona, who lost to Former Representative Ralph Cameron and Henderson of Nevada, who was defeated by Former Governor Oddie.

Volstead Re-elected

Final returns from a few congressional districts still were belated tonight, some due to close races which upset a few previous announcements and others from isolated sections. With these missing districts, the republican roll in the house had climbed to 287 to 140 for the democrats.

Among house members whose re-election was reported definitely tonight was Representative Volstead of Minnesota, author of the Volstead prohibition enforcement act and chairman of the house judiciary committee, a position he is scheduled to retain. In the house contests, the republican sweep gave Ohio an almost solid republican delegation for the first time in its history. In this, the home state of Senator Harding and Governor Cox, the republicans gained and the democrats lost eight seats. In Missouri the republicans gained another block of eight.

TAXICAB LAW STRIKES SNAG

Car Owners Find Difficulty Over Bond—Givens May Act Again.

Enforcement of the service car ordinance, passed last week by the city council, after being amended for the second time, again is being delayed. The inability of the car owners to obtain the bond required by the latest amended ordinance is the cause. The last ordinance to regulate operation of service cars and other public vehicles requires the owners of the cars to furnish a bond of $2,500 to $5,000 for personal injury and $1,000 for property damage.

Insurance companies here state that they cannot furnish the bond. City Clerk George Thorburn stated Thursday that some trouble was being experienced in securing the necessary bond, and, if necessary, the ordinance again would be amended so that this situation could be met.

A. L. Givens of the Givens Auto Service company, which operates the largest number of service cars in the city, declared Thursday that he would fight the ordinance if it was not amended so as to lower the license fee., It was through temporary injunctions obtained by the company that the first two ordinances never went into effect. Mr. Givens stated that the fee of $25 was still too large. The first two ordinances provided for an annual license fee of $75.

It is claimed by Mr. Givens that the city is forbidden by state law to charge more than one-half of 1 per cent of the total value of a machine as an annual license fee. This would amount to approximately $10 per year on each machine. The Givens company is operating 17 machines in the city at the present time.

'THE CITY THAT FAITH BUILT'

PALMER'S PART IN COAL CASE TO BE PROBED

Notice Is Sent to Attorney General by Court Officials at Indianapolis

U. S. Official Is at Loss to Know What the Judges 'Proposes to Investigate'

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 4.—Investigation involving Attorney General Palmer's connection with the conspiracy case of 125 coal operators and miners will be made by Judge A. B. Anderson in the federal district court here next Monday, the date set for beginning the trial, according to a notice sent to the attorney general today by court officials.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Attorney General Palmer returned to his office here late today to find awaiting him a telegram from Federal Judge Anderson at Indianapolis informing him that an investigation was to be made of Mr. Palmer's connection with the soft coal case.

Mr. Palmer immediately went into conference with C. B. Ames, former assistant attorney general, who conducted the court proceedings at Indianapolis in the original cases at the time of the soft coal strike. After the conference which lasted two hours he said he was unable to understand "what Judge Anderson is proposing to investigate."

The attorney general said he had reviewed the entire record of the case in question with Mr. Ames but that they had shed no light on the matter.

Simms Case Reviewed

"I am at a loss to know what Judge Anderson is proposing to investigate" Mr. Palmer said. "My connection with this case has been simply and only the connection of the attorney general with any government case."

Mr. Palmer had not determined tonight whether he would go to Indianapolis personally in response to Judge Anderson's invitation. It was indicated, however, that Mr. Ames will probably be present at the inquiry in the capacity of a special representative of the department of justice.

There were indications at the department that the controversy which precipitated recently the resignation of Dan W. Simms as special prosecutor in the coal cases was being reviewed.

To Call For Evidence

Correspondence between the department and Mr. Sims and all data having a bearing on the proceedings have been assembled. It was understood the attorney general planned to go over the papers during the next few days.

While some officials thought it possible that further action by Judge Anderson might warrant the attorney general in making public a statement of his position "on all phases of the proceedings," the opinion was expressed that unless the judge himself threw additional light on the proposed inquiry, Mr. Palmer would remain silent.

Although in no way connecting the Simms controversy with matters to be investigated by Judge Anderson, Mr. Palmer maintained that his position with respect to using the coal conspiracy evidence a second time was "the only right and proper" position to take. He was represented as feeling that to use the evidence in the forthcoming case would amount substantially to placing the defendants twice in jeopardy.

Officials admitted the expectation tonight that Judge Anderson, acting on his own initiative, would call for introduction of this evidence.

Blind Musician Asks Injunction To Stop Arrests

L. F. Price, a blind musician, who has operated on the streets here in the rendition of popular songs and tunes, receiving compensation according to the generosity of the donor, and which, he claims, is the sole support of himself, a wife and three children, Thursday morning in Eighty-ninth district court, through his attorney, O. D. Beauchamp, filed application for injunction against the city of Wichita Falls et al. to restrain them from arresting him, threatening to arrest him, or to in any way interfere with his rights as a citizen.

In the complaint Price sets forth that he has rendered public entertainment on the streets and sidewalks of the city for several months without molestation, but that he was "unlawfully placed under arrest" on November 2 while singing songs, accompanied by a banjo, and compelled to desist from further entertainment under threat of future arrests.

He presents to the court that the police also threatened to put his wife in jail and to take their infant child and put it in the care of a public institution.

Price lost his eyes in an accident at the age of 11 years, and since has been earning his livelihood by playing and singing to street crowds. He claims that he has been acting within his legal and lawful rights as a citizen of Wichita Falls in making his living in this manner and that this act of the police in arresting him was "unwarranted, unlawful and illegal."

He states that he had been damaged to the extent of $1,000 by the city and agents of the city and asks protection of the court in further demonstrations against him.

Wilson in Wheel Chair Greeted by League Adherents

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—President Wilson made his first public appearance tonight in more than a year when he was lifted in his wheel chair to the east portico of the White House while hundreds of Washington League of Nations adherents gathered on the White House lawn to do him honor.

The crowd of men, women and children, bearing state banners and the national flag, under the leadership of John F. Costello, democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, assembled at democratic national headquarters at 8 p. m. and marched to the White House, where the gates were opened to the public for the first time since the beginning of the war.

As the president was lifted in his wheel chair up the steps, from the interior of the White House leading to the east portico, the crowd on the terrace below broke into applause and joined in the singing of "America."

Mrs. Wilson and members of the family stood about President Wilson while the crowd sang. With an overcoat buttoned closely about him and a soft hat shading his face, the president sat silently watching the throng below. There was more cheering as the song ended.

A soloist sang "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginia," and the crowd picked up the chorus. The president's face relaxed and he turned his head to speak to Mrs. Wilson beside his chair. As the song ended, amid renewed cheers, a large bouquet of flowers was laid upon the balustrade before him. Mr. Wilson raised his hat and held it aloft as attendants rolled his chair back toward the door. The crowd sent up cheers for the league and for the president, and as Mrs. Wilson waved a final greeting from the doorway, sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

U. S. WILL PLAY PART IN A NEW ORDER, HE SAYS

President-Elect Talks of International Association Founded on Peace.

Tells Crowd He Came Through Fight Without Apology or Regret.

By Associated Press.

MARION, O., Nov. 4.—Making his first speech as president-elect, Warren G. Harring declared at an election celebration of home folks here tonight that the Versailles League of Nations was "now deceased," although the new administration intended to see that the nation played its part in a new international association founded on peace and justice.

Mr. Harding also told his friends and neighbors, who gathered around the front porch in a cheering concourse rivaling the greatest crowd of the campaign, that he had come through the fight "without an apology or a regret" and that he would rather not have the presidency than to win it "by speaking ill or uttering a lie."

The celebration in which many from other Ohio cities joined, was characterized by all the carnival features of an old time political rally. So great was the gathering that the streets were jammed for a block away and only a small part of those present could hear the speech.

"Heals Heart of Old World"

In a parade past the Harding residence there were many special features, one man leading a donkey on whose sides was painted "Jimmie did not treat me right," while another group carried a dummy corpse silhouetted against a red fire background and labeled "The League of Nations." It was from the latter tableau that the president-elect took the cue for the leading thought of his speech. His reference to it started a laugh, and then he said:

"I didn't see as much sorrow in your faces as I had apprehended. It's not that you or I question the desire of America to play its part; it is not that we question the high ideals of those who were responsible for the Versailles covenant. You just did not want a surrender of the United States of America, you wanted America to go on under American ideals. That's why you did not care for the league which is now deceased.

"America is playing a great part now. America is healing the heart of the old world tonight as no other nation. But there is more to do. There is a new world relationship, and when the next administration comes into power we're going to play our part. We're going to ask for nations associated together in justice; but it shall be an association which surrenders nothing of American freedom."

Going to "Boost U. S. A."

In his short talk the president-elect touched on no other issues of the campaign but thanked the crowd for its tribute and asked that he go to Washington "with your good wishes and your confidence and prayers."

"It's a solemn responsibility," he said, "and when I am through I want to be able to come back and be one of you again the same as I am now. I like to stand before you and tell you I don't come with a single apology or regret. Before I'd become president by speaking ill or uttering a lie, I'd spurn the office."

He added that he always liked the "Marion spirit of boosting" and that he was "going down to Washington as a booster for the United States of America."

Party to Make Trip.

With virtually no appointments on his program, Mr. Harding devoted today to cleaning up his affairs here in preparation for his vacation trip. He pushed through masses of correspondence, replied to many telegrams of congratulations and late in the afternoon visited his bank for the first time in several weeks.

Detailed arrangements for the vacation trip, announced today, show that those who will go along with the president-elect and his wife include Senators Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, Hale of Maine, Elkins of West Virginia, Edward B. McLean, the Washington publisher; Harry M. Daugherty, the Harding pre-convention manager; George B. Christian Jr., Mr. Harding's secretary; Dr. C. E. Sawyer, his family physician; Judson C. Welliver, publicity director at Harding headquarters, and also Malcomb Jennings, attached to the headquarters. The wives of several of these will accompany them, and two stenographers, a secret service guard and a dozen newspaper correspondents will complete the party.

Will Leave Saturday.

The trip will be made on a special train, which will leave here Saturday morning and will go to Point Isabel, Texas, by way of St. Louis and San Antonio. There will be a short layover at San Antonio Sunday night, where the senator will be joined by F. E. Scobey and R. B. Creager, prominent Texas republicans, whose guest he will be during the 12-day stay at Point Isabel.

The train will reach Brownsville Monday morning, and the party will travel the remainder of the distance, 20 miles, by motor. Some difficulty has been encountered in arranging a suitable schedule for the president-elect's proposed trips from Point Isabel to the canal zone, where he had expected to go after 12 days hunting and fishing along the Texas coast. It was said tonight that details of the voyage were in abeyance pending further advices from steamship companies. There are no regular sailings between the points where the senator had hoped to sail.

Paid $11,000 to 'Building Trust' Witnesses Claim

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—More housewrecking and building contractors appeared at today's hearing of the joint legislative committee investigating the "building trust" and testified to the payment of more than $11,000 to Robert P. Brindell, president of the building trades council, and his walking delegates for the privilege of getting jobs and using union men on the work.

Practically all of the witnesses told the committee that if they had not paid Brindell or his associates certain sums when demanded they would have been "put out of business" by strikes and labor troubles.

Louis Cohen, a housewrecker, made the first revelation of the day when he testified to paying Brindell $4,500 in sums ranging from $250 to $3,000 for the privilege of getting contracts and working them with council's men. He was followed by Israel G. Goldstein, another housewrecker, who said he had paid Brindell $200 a job, of which amount $25 was in checks. The check indorsed by Brindell was placed in evidence.

The first direct testimony relating to the payment of money to Brindell's walking delegates was given by S. X. Mineson, a contractor, who declared he had paid two business agents—Peter Stadtmuller and George Moran—$2,000 to get work started on a job. He testified he understood that they wanted the money to pay Brindell.

FATHER AGAIN AHEAD IN FIGHT TO GAIN CHILD

While constable John B. Nail was vainly trying to find H. Haddox, business man of Houston Wednesday night and early Thursday morning, to serve processes of his wife restraining him from leaving with their three-year-old daughter, the father, accompanied by an attorney was speeding to Vernon in an automobile making good his escape from the jurisdiction of the local court. Before the end of the week both the father and mother will appear in the district court at Crowell and the court will finally determine to whom the child will be given after a period of several days in which each parent has attempted to outwit the other for its possession.

The case came to the attention of the local police Monday when Mr. Haddox asked the aid of Chief Huff in finding the child. He said she had been spirited away from him in a Vernon hotel Monday noon. According to the father, who was accompanied by his attorney, he had possession of his child in Houston for several months. Last week, by order of Judge Harvey of the Eightieth district court of Houston, both Mr. Haddox and Mrs. Haddox, who has been employed here for some time, were told to appear before the district court at Crowell where final custody of the child would be decided.

Mother Outwits Haddox

Haddox said he was in Vernon Monday at a hotel waiting for a train on his way to Crowell when the mother of the child, accompanied by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Taylor of the Hearne hotel, came into the Vernon hotel also waiting for the same train going to Crowell. The mother of the child asked to take her daughter to her room for a short time, and Haddox agreed.

The child was then passed through a window in the hotel, according to Haddox, and accompanied by her mother and Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, was rushed to this city in a service car which was waiting outside the hotel. Haddox told the police that he became aware of the abduction soon after and came to this city only a short time after the child was taken.

The search of the father and lawyer for the whereabouts of the child Monday night and Tuesday was futile. In the meanwhile Chief Huff received authority from Judge Harvey of Houston to turn the child over to the father as soon as it was found.

Through the police the father learned Wednesday morning that the child was with its mother on a lease in the K. M. A. field. Accompanied by City Detective Bullard, the father went to the lease Wednesday afternoon and found the child. The mother made no resistance and accompanied the party back to the city. The child was turned over to the father at the police station. Fearing that the mother would attempt to hold the child here by habeas corpus proceedings he left the city in an automobile a few hours before the writ was issued.

Five Oklahoma Republicans to Go to Congress

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 4.—Oklahoma will send a delegation of five republican and three democratic congressmen to the 67th congress, according to a tabulation of returns from the eight congressional districts tonight. In addition, there will be one republican senator—J. W. Harreld. Senator Robert L. Owen, democrat, is the present member.

The congressional races are close in two districts. In the second with one precinct missing from a county returning a republican majority, Miss Alice Robertson, republican leads W. W. Hastings, democrat, by 276 votes. In the fourth, with 12 precincts missing, all in a county returning a heavy republican majority, J. C. Pringey, republican, leads by 551.

The democratic upset will extend to the next state legislature, according to incomplete returns. Political observers declare republicans will have a majority in the lower house, basing their conclusions on available figures, and a strong majority in the state senate.

The state will give a commanding majority to President-elect Harding and to Mr. Harreld. A tabulation of nearly complete figures late today indicated Harding would carry the state by approximately 18,000, and Harreld by well over 25,000.

FINDS BALLOTS CAST IN SEWER; PROBE STARTS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—All poll clerks, election inspectors and the board of canvassing inspectors in the Thirteenth election district of the Fourth assembly district, Manhattan, were subpoenaed tonight by District Attorney Swann to appear at his office tomorrow in connection with the finding of 26 ballots today at the opening of a sewer at Orchard and Stanton streets.

William Vogt and Joseph Hoffman made affidavits that they had found the ballots, which were marked for Mr. Swann, the district attorney, who is a candidate for supreme court justice, and appears to have been defeated on the face of present returns.

The district attorney stated that the election officials in the district who were subpoenaed would be "interviewed" by the grand jury."

"I am going to ask the extreme penalty," he said, "for any violation of the election law, as I have always done."

Board of elections records show that 585 voters registered in the election district, while the return sheets from the district certifies there were 604 defective ballots, or more than one defective ballot for every registered voter. Members of the district attorney's staff expressed the opinion that frauds had been committed in several districts.

In one Harlem district it was said there were 43 more votes for the judiciary candidates than there were registered voters.

ONE DEMOCRAT IS WINNER IN OHIO

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 4.—The only indicated change today in results of Tuesday's election was the apparent re-election of William A. Ashbrook, veteran democratic congressman in the Seventh district. Having yesterday conceded the election of D. M. Morgan, his republican opponent, Ashbrook today was claiming his own election by ten votes on complete unofficial returns. It will take the official count to decide the race.

Should Ashbrook finally win, he will be the only democrat among Ohio's 22 representatives in the new congress.

With only 23 precincts to be heard from on president, Senator Harding had a plurality of 395,108 over Governor Cox.

CROOKS AND CRANKS KEEPING GERMANY IN LIVELY TURMOIL

By FRANK E. MASON
International News service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN—Cranks and crooks are keeping Germany in turmoil. The German cranks and crooks are only a minutely small part of the German people, but they stir up enough dust to blind a large portion of the honest, everyday citizens and keep their country tottering on the brink of chaos.

The psychology of the German crook is simple: he wishes to gather in the paper marks as fast as they fall from the overworked government printing presses. He is usually a "schieber," which is the German word for a mongrel cross between a grafter and a profiteer. There are schiebers of every grade, from the little schieber who comes to your door at night and sells you one-half pound of butter or a schnitzel without the necessary food cards to the aristocratic, high-calibred scheibers who will sell you nothing less than a German air park or a million German army blankets.

The most dangerous schiebers for the safety of Germany and the security of the indemnities she must pay the laddies are the food profiteers. When the government announced that the food card system will be given up in October for all foodstuffs except bread, food profiteers rubbed their hands and got busy. They began to buy up potatoes and cattle and are paying the farmers prices which will mean the doubling and tripling of the retail food costs.

Expect Food Riots

All indications are that the coming winter will be a nice profitable season for profiteers and that the laboring man will have difficulty in buying enough food to keep body and soul together. Unless something unexpected intervenes, food riots may be expected with increasing frequency as the fall and winter come. It is impossible to phophesy what political and economic consequences may follow the profiteering of the food crooks.

As to cranks, it's a common mistake to regard the conflict in Germany as a straight tug-of-war between the left, radical, and the right, monarchists. Germany's public life and Germany's future may better be described as a battle royal being fought out by dozens of large and small groups. Sometimes one group merges with another only later to turn and attack the group it has been helping.

The French mission in Germany was badly deceived by the Independent Socialists whose organ, Freiheit, played the French game until public opinion began to accuse the Freiheil editors of being in French pay. Freiheit was aggressively pro-French as long as the French pulled the radicals' chestnuts out of the fire by disarming the German military organizations. But when France actively entered the Polish war against Russia the Freiheit did a prompt about face and attacked the French with a bitterness which startled both the French and the Germans.

Groups of Cranks

In addition to the various degrees of communists and monarchists, the important groups of German cranks may be summed up as follows:

1. The anti-semitic propagandists who can trace every past, present and future evil of Germany to the malignant work of the Jews. Jews started the war; Jews lost the war for Germany; it was the Jews who are responsible for the peace. Jewish agitators are causing all the labor unrest in Germany; Jewish schiebers are responsible for the high prices. Name your own disease in the German body politic; the Deutsche Tageszeitung will assure you that the Jews caused it.

The Swastika, which is a talisman of good luck in America, the symbol of anti-Jewish hatred in Germany. You pass dozens of men and women in the streets wearing the swastika as a scarf pin or on their coat lapels. They are members of the sect who trace all the world's calamities to the Jews.

2. The pro-English propagandists, among whose numbers may be counted no mean portion of the high officials in the Wilhelmstrasse, believe Germany's future depends upon the good graces of England. They will do nothing which might offend the country they four years ago so earnestly begged God to "strafe." They do their utmost to restrain the press from publishing any article which might annoy the British. The Berliner Tageblatt belongs to the class which will publish any number of insults to Germans in Paris, but whose policy forbids mentioning similar incidents occurring in London.

3. Pro-French or continental propagandists, under the leadership of George Bernhard, the editor of the Voissiche Zeitung, preach the idea that France needs Germany's coal; Germany needs France's iron; why not arrange a convenient business marriage between the two countries? The French propagandists declare Britain is repeating her historical game of playing off one continental power against the other, and they see the English hand in every new cause for strife between Germany and France.

Pacifists Disorganized

4. The pacifist group lost itself in the membership rolls of the socialist parties until Moscow decreed that milk-sop socialists aren't wanted; you'll have to fight, either with the Reds or the Whites. Swear you believe in terror or get out. They are regathering into a new group, but are still badly disorganized.

5. There are separatists or secessionists of all shades. They are working to confront Germany with a crisis similar to the problem Lincoln faced. Bavarian separatists want a South German monarchy; Upper Silesia asks to be freed from the government of Prussia, but to be retained as a state in the German empire. The Rhineland has several secession movements; one group wishes to establish a separate republic; another makes the same demand as Upper Silesia and asks the right to control their local affairs, but to remain a part of Germany. The Welfen movement seeks to establish a separate kingdom in Hanover.

Anti-Masonic Group

6. The anti-Masonic group publishes long pamphlets to prove that international freemasonry started the war. Freemasonry dictated the peace also, according to them. The Catholic party furnishes the orators for the anti-Masonic movement.

7. Labor agitators hail from various camps. There are the regular labor unions, which are trades brotherhoods. Then there are workmen's councils in every factory which have as members delegates from the various trades employed in the business. The German communists are organizing revolutionary workmen's councils which shall be the basis of the proposed soviet republic of Germany.

8. The large farmers are so reactionary that many of them wish to have nothing to do with the cities, which they term Bolshevistic hotbeds. Rather than support the Red terrorism which they believe fermenting in the cities they will feed their food produce to their cattle. The result that in many sections the country is more or less deliberately starving out the city populations.

Some of the propagandists are numbered among Germany's wisest men. All Germany admits there is something wrong. But poor Herr Heinz and Herr Schmidt are in a dizzy whirl attempting to follow the panaceas that Germany's crank political doctors are prescribing.

ROBBERY CASES ARE SET FOR HEARING

Judge P. A. Martin Thursday in Eighty-ninth district court accepted pleas of not guilty by E. N. Smith, J. L. Barnhart and Melton F. Mc-Williams, charged by separate indictment with robbery with firearms, and ordered the case of Smith set for November 10 and that of Barnhart November 15.

The case against McWilliams was not set.

A special venire of 100 men will be summoned for the two trials.

A petition to have the aliases "Chick" and "Toughey," which McWilliams and Barnhart were said to have used, stricken from the indictments, was granted by Judge Martin.

Judge Martin, after setting the cases, sentenced Ernest Stafford, negro, who recently was convicted in Seventy-eighth district court on a charge of murder, to serve 20 years in the penitentiary at hard labor.

GERMANS KEEP PLEDGES MADE TO THE ALLIES

By NEWTON C. PARKE
International News Staff Correspondent.

PARIS.—The new German government has in a very large measure justified the confidence in its sincerity expressed by Premier Lloyd George in a statement to the International News Service at the conclusion of the Spa conference last July.

Germany has approximately fulfilled the two important pledges she gave the allies at Spa, though her own leaders at that time expressed doubts as to her ability to carry out her promises. She has delivered to France even a little more than the amount of coal she promised though there are some complaints as to its quality. She has practically fulfilled her agreement as to disarmament for the period ending October 1, and now advices received by the Council of Ambassadors shows that she has virtually carried out the air clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, a matter that gave the French very much concern.

Worry Over Airplanes

France has kept a watchful eye on the execution of the air clauses of the treaty, realizing that the Germans would be incapable of any early hostile action if they were stripped of air power. There are constant complaints in the French press that German civilian aviation is progressing at a dangerous rate, but reports to the ambassadors show that the delivery and destruction of former war planes and dirigibles in accordance with the terms of the treaty have been virtually completed.

At Spa, the Germans were frankly told that they had failed to fulfill the treaty terms with regard to aeroplanes and balloon delivery and destruction. They were further told that the carrying out of these clauses would be one of the tests of sincerity specially considered by the allies.

To Deliver Dirigibles

The Interallied Aeronautic Control Commission has now certified that the work is about done, in so far as mobile war material is concerned. Excepting the five Zeppelins destroyed by their crews, all those which were to have been handed over to the allies have been destroyed, or are about to be delivered. There remains only the question of the delivery of the two passenger carrying Zeppelins, the Bodensee and Nordstern. These are claimed by the allies to replace the five destroyed dirigibles and it is believed the Germans will deliver them.

A very large majority of the aeroplanes claimed by the allies under the treaty have been delivered or destroyed. The French actually took possession of only a few and these of the latest types. The others were destroyed in Germany.

Under the rrangement made at Spa Germany was given until February 15, 1921, to destroy or deliver "fixed aerial material." This work is going forward at a satisfactory rate and it is probable that it will be completed by the date fixed.

STEPMOTHER WINS LOVE OF BOYS WHOM COURT GAVE HER

Written for the International News Service.

NEW YORK.—Supreme court decisions are always of moment, particularly so in any case which has to do with the disposal of children as, for instance, in the legal conclusion which Judge Callaghan reached a few days ago in Brooklyn by giving the two sons of Charles W. Hatch, not long dead, and Eula Hatch, his first wife, into the custody of Mrs. Hazel Hatch of St. Albans, Long Island, the second wife.

Their father dead, their own mother living, yet these two boys of 12 and 10 were turned over to their father's second wife to rear.

The law chose a step mother, while a real mother lived. It was worth investigating. I decided to go down to St. Albans and see this stepmother, talk with her, look at her, hear from her own lips the twist of events and the change of heart that left these little ones happy in the case of a woman they did not know till within the last year or two, a woman her stepsons gladly called "mother."

Mrs. Hatch led the way into the wide spaces of her luxurious living room in the low-slung stucco house built to shelter a happy family.

Crowded with pictures of the two boys, Charles and Ford, the peace of that homelike room was broken with the yelps of a Pekingese, Bee-Nee, the boys' pet.

A woman can best be judged in the setting that is her own expression of life. Mrs. Hatch's sphere is evidently that of the home, and her attractive appearance was that of a capable wife and mother. We sat in a deep, down divan, and my hostess began to unfold the story of her motherhood by proxy, her happiness in it, and her far-reaching plans as careful as those of an actual mother who dreams great visions for her firstborn.

Cling to Stepmother.

"I shall never forget that day when, after our quiet marriage ceremony, Mr. Hatch told Charles and Ford I was their new mother. Without a moment's hesitation they rushed me, arms outstretched, and they called me 'mother.' I cannot express the deep affection and gratitude I felt for those little fellows. They had taken away all doubt in my heart that I could be a real mother to them.

"Our trip East to find a permanent home meant leaving them behind for a short time. But they were over-joyed at this house. We were to have been so happy here. But then Mr Hatch died and the boys cried to me, 'Oh, mother, please don't ever marry anyone, will you? We don't want anyone else but just all of us here.'

"My word that I gave them, that I would never again marry, will be kept. I will devote my life in caring for them. I will keep them in good surroundings and conditions.

Already the pretty house is being dismantled to some extent, since Mrs. Hatch will go to some less pretentious place.

Battle in the Courts.

The boys have been the object of a legal battle between their mother, Mrs. Eula Hatch, from whom their father, Charles W. Hatch, secured a divorce and the custody of his sons, and Mrs. Hazel Hatch, whom he married about a year ago. Since their father's death in August the boys, through a modification of the divorce decree gained in Cleveland, came into the possession of their present protector.

Justice Callighan said that the children's mother must share their love and society with the woman who was their father's second wife.

The stepmother's lot is not a happy one, usually. She encounters the antagonism of children, who resent one in their mother's place. She is watched lest she be too harsh in discipline or too lax. Rearing the sons of a woman her husband once loved is a problem full of pitfalls.

But Mrs. Hatch seems supremely happy in her role of stepmother, which she considers a great privilege. She smiles tenderly as she shows the penciled scrawls in boyish hand sent by her two charges now away at school in Peekskill. Here in one of the notes:

Letters From School.

"Peekskill, Oct. 12, 1920.

"Dear Mother—Well, how is everything at home, and Bee-nee, too (the family Pekingnese). I need a lot of things, so might as well make a list of them now. Shirts (especially), laundry bag, trunk, small rug, face towels, roller skates and wagon.

"Well, I guess that's all. Please write a letter to Major Stocking saying that I should take dancing lessons; began last night.

"Yours lovingly, CHARLES.

"P. S.—Don't forget to write to me."

"The boys went up there in a hurry," explained Mrs. Hatch, 'and I gave them just a few things so they could get started without delay.'

A note from Ford follows:

"Dear Mother—I am having a very nice time up here. How are you? I know several of the boys now. Will you come up Saturday?

"I hope that you can bring up Frank. Will you please write me when you can? Charles is all right. Gee! But they have a dandy place up here. Well, I hope that you will come up soon. Will you ask Frank?

"Well, I guess I'll say good-bye. With lots of love. FORD."

Use Different Names.

Although the elder boy's name is Charles Jordan and the younger's is Milton Ford, it is a curious fact that the mother and stepmother call the boys by different names. Mrs. Eula Hatch, the mother from whose charge the boys were taken by court ruling at the time of Mr. Hatch securing a divorce, calls Charles Jordan merely Jordan and his brother Milton. The stepmother refers to her oldest adopted son as Charles and his brother as Ford.

Probably new surroundings and blotting out of old painful memories made it wiser to remove a semblance of other less smooth-running days.

Even the unhappy mother deprived of her sons says she believes the boys are happy with their stepmother, who is well able to care for them.

And this is one instance that proves that tradition errs in depicting the stepmother as an ogre and tyrant.

Cinderella's stepmother made her eat crusts, sweep hearths, and stay home from parties. If her fairy godmother hadn't come along she might never have worn a decent slipper.

But Charles and Ford Hatch don't need to worry about a fairy with a wand.

Y. W. C. A. CLASSES OF COLLEGE PROPORTIONS

Fall reports of the educational departments of the Y. W. C. A. in most of the large cities of the United States show an enrollment in the various classes as large as that in many of the colleges. One thousand students is an average in the large associations, while the fall enrollment in one of the six centers in New York city is over two thousand. Y. W. C. A. courses include not only cooking, sewing and the domestic art features of classic popularity but courses in commercial subjects, languages, art, first aid, civics and practically everything which girls are interested in studying. A department of the work which shows marked increase this year is that of the International Institute or schools for foreign-born women and girls which offer courses in the same line of subjects taught by "nationality workers," or women who can speak and understand the language of the students.

Why Hens Never Lay Half An Egg

The usual method of feeding mostly grain, makes yolks but not enough whites to complete the eggs. As the hen cannot lay these half-made eggs, she absorbs them back into her system. Missouri Experiment Station tests showed that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kaffir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks, but only 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce (above bodily maintenance) as follows:

Purina Scratch Feed 247.49 yolks 142.11 whites
Purina Chicken Chowder 182.05 " 282.55 whites

Combined Ration 429.50 yolks 424.66 whites

Note the perfect balance of yolks and whites and the large number of each. This combination of Purina Feeds makes the maximum number of complete eggs, eggs a hen will lay. That's why we can absolutely guarantee more eggs or money back on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Scratch Feed as directed. You take no risk.

Pretty Bridge Party Given for Visiting Girls

Committees and their chairman of the Civic league will meet this morning at 8:30 o'clock at Brown's confectionery next door to the Telephone building and proceed with their drive for new members.

An effort will be made to reach every woman and extend to her a personal invitation to become a league member, with the hope of reaching the 1000 mark.

Members of the Civic league will be stationed at the Brown's confectionery all day and anyone wishing to join is requested to phone.

The league is affiliated with both the state and district Federations and their help to the city in all undertakings is well known. During the boom when help of any nature was needed, especially in the cooking and serving line, the Civic league came forward, serving lunches for the Rotary and Wichita clubs for two years when they were unuable to obtain quarters of their own.

And during the war, the Civic league headed all campaigns for funds and other necessities. Their primary aim is to make Wichita Falls a better city in which to live. In all things pertaining to the betterment of the community the league is always ready to lend a helping hand and they know that with 1000 members, the goal set in this drive, that they will accomplish big things in the future.

Plans are being made for a varied program of interesting social affairs to be given during the winter. They probably will include, first a tea for the new members, followed by afternoons, charity balls, and other entertainments.

HOLD-UP CHARGE AGAINST KISER ENDED BY JURY

A verdict of not guilty was returned late Thursday by a jury in Seventy-eighth district court in the case of F. D. Kiser, charged with assault with intent to rob.

It was alleged that Kiser, with Rex Candlish, alias "Silver Top" King, and the "California Stepper," attempted to hold up and rob a restaurant in Kemp City on October 15. Two deputy sheriffs interfered and both were shot, though not seriously wounded.

Kiser and the "California Stepper" made their escape, but were caught the following day. Candlish was arrested in the midst of the affray. He was recently convicted on a charge of assault with intent to murder and sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary.

County Attorney John Davenport and Attorney C. C. McDonald prosecuted the case for the state, and Attorney B. D. Sartin acted as counsel for the defendant.

SCHOOL CAMPAIGN IS DEFERRED UNTIL 1921

Conferences between B. Frank Johnson, chairman of the committee of business men working for the collection of an $87,000 deficiency fund for the public schools, and other members of the committee Thursday, resulted in a decision to postpone any campaign for the funds that may prove necessary until after the first of the year.

Prompt payment of the pledges made several weeks ago by patrons of the schools through the students themselves, equalling, with the cash contributions, about $12,000 will make it possible to conduct the school work successfully without a campaign during the rest of this year, Mr. Johnson believes.

REVENGE FOR THE EX-SOLDIER

One bright spot is to be seen in all the disastrous picture of the Harding victory and its consequences. There may be others—for Harding, after all, is not an ogre—but this one is the first to appear, and to ex-service men, particularly of the uncommissioned brand, it will have especial appeal. Major-General Leonard Wood stands forth as a most likely Secretary of War in the new cabinet.

Wood, perhaps, isn't intimately known. The army has a way of suppressing the individual personality, and that is the very point. The army, meaning the hide-bound, narrow general staff, suppressed the personality of Wood particularly well. He was the especial target of their meanest shafts. For Wood had brains and foresight. He cared more for an accomplishment than for the means of its being brought about. And everyone who has had experience with the army system knows how distasteful to those who govern in that mediaeval sphere is the thought of any progress or change.

With Wood, of all persons, as the secretary of war, there would be fur flying from quarters which have been placid far too long. Wood knows the game, having played it for more than a score of years. He knows where the fault is. Unerringly he could place his finger upon every offender and state accurately his offense. With supreme authority, for Harding is not likely to interfere, Wood could correct many evils. Old faces far more familiar to Washington than to any fighting line, no doubt would disappear from the national capital. Much of arrogant authority would vanish. Wood is an administrator and a statesman more than he is a soldier, as soldier long has been understood.

With him as secretary of war there would be new ideas where none has filtered in decades. It is even possible that the doctrine that the enlisted man is on a parity with a yellow dog would cease to be preached. It is to be hoped for the future of America—war being far more likely than it would have been with our participation in a League of Nations—that Wood will be given the appointment. There would be less anguish and bitterness in the ranks—and the army might gain a popularity now dangerously absent.

THE SUCCESSION IN GREECE

Venizelos is reported to have said when young King Alexander was seated on the throne in succession to Constantine that this would be Greece's last experiment with royalty. Alexander proved to be entirely docile, caring little or nothing about the royal prerogatives. He violated the first canon of monarchial theory by marrying a commoner.

Venizelos now seems to have modified his original opinion about the inconveniences of a reigning Greek house. It is officially announced in Athens that the crown will be offered to Prince Paul, Constantine's third son. This son sympathizes with his father's views, as, in fact, Alexander did when he first mounted the throne. But Paul will not be allowed to inherit in his own right. He and his family must first give guarantees, two of them being that Constantine, who claims that he never really abdicated, will make a cast iron abdication, and that George, former heir apparent and a strong pro-German during the war, will similarly renounce all claims to the succession.

Venizelos is prudent, perhaps, in wishing to allow the passions of the war period to subside before Greece turns to a democratic form of government. The Greeks are a democratic people, and the monarchy has no deep root in the national life. But if Venizelos were to proclaim a republic and take over its presidency, as he was compelled to do in 1916, when he established a provisional government at Salonica in order to defeat Constantine's pro-German plots, he would doubtless reawaken old partisan enmities. He may try to go ahead with the substance of democracy instead of the form. Greece will look to him, however, not to any figurehead king, to direct the enlarged Greek state which his wisdom and energy have created.—New York Tribune.

A SYMPATHY SWINDLE

An Englishman has just been arrested in London for swindling the relatives of dead soldiers, says the London Graphic. His plan was to read the death notices in the papers and to write letters to any ex-soldiers that might be on the list, asking for gifts of clothing. The bereaved families, glad to do an act of charity to an "old friend" of their lost sons would send the clothing and frequently important sums of money.

On the Spur of the Moment

SO SAY WE, ALL OF US

My landlord is a pleasant soul,
He buys nine hundred tons of coal
To meet the winter storm.
He comes each day just to inquire
If menials keep up the fire
And we are plenty warm.

He has a hall-boy at the door
To do each little task and chore
And we'll say he's a gent.
What others do or may not do
In making tenants all come through
He never boosts the rent.

He asks us each and every day
If things suit us in every way
And we're contented, quite.
Of course you say he does not live,
He doesn't, but my word I give,
I dreamed this bird one night.

From Philadelphia comes the report of several cases of sleeping sickness, but in Philadelphia, is it an epidemic or a habit?

Out in our neighborhood the other evening the tenants had a meeting. Notices were sent out to all and sundry to be on hand because important matters were to be discussed, and there was a considerable amount of excitement in the neighborhood. People looked forward to the meeting with interest and the tenants of three or four houses planned to attend, which they did. The meeting, which was called to protest against the recent raises in rents and other difficulties of present cliff-dwelling, was held in a restaurant in the neighborhood, and a very good restaurant too. There were so many people on hand that the restaurant couldn't couldn't care for all and some had to wait. The poor tenants, many of them who had not a dollar in the world, sat down at the tables and everybody ordered what he could afford. The restaurant proprietor put on a lot of extra waiters and an extra chef and the orders for lobster and chicken and prime rib roasts and filet mignon swamped them. When the grand feed was about half over, an orchestra, concealed behind a bank of palms, began the seductive strains of a current foxtrot. The poor tenants began dancing and they danced and ate and ate and danced until 2 o'clock in the morning. The chairman who was to preside at the meeting forgot all about it and no one reminded him and at 2 o'clock, of course, it was too late. The limousines of the tenants began arriving at 2 o'clock and they all went home, pronouncing it the most successful tenants' meeting they had ever attended. The rents remain the same.

In the Mail Bag

There comes times in the life of nations as well as that of men when changes must be made in their practices, habits and conditions. It becomes necessary for the Pilgrim fathers to desert their mother country and seek one where they could have more liberty. The oppression followed them and they were compelled to declare their independence and fight for it.

The greed and oppression of gamblers, speculators, dealers and spinners have gone the limit in their work of arbitrarily depressing the price of cotton, until the time has come when not only the producers, but the business, industries and all legitimate branches of our national and state structure see plainly they cannot tolerate their underhanded methods any longer. They realize the time has come when they must take a hand in the affairs they are so vitally interested in or go down in bankruptcy and let anarchy reign.

Many prominent men, some of those high in financial, national and state positions do not realize the full cause of the present condition in cotton prices. I have been in position to know and see some things, the public has not. I have seen and heard some things the public has paid my expenses to see and hear which I feel the public is entitled to know.

Three years ago, as an employee of the state of Texas, I took charge of the work in its department of agriculture to find the cost of producing cotton each year and organize the farmers of the state to hold their cotton for cost and a small profit. In other words for the producers to have some voice in the price of their cotton.

The undertaking was bitterly opposed at the very beginning by the gambling, spinning and certain dealing interests. The opposition has continued unabated, but the combined work of the department of agriculture of the cotton producing states was found to be hard to overcome. Organization was perfected to combat the work of the states. The same element which opposed the work of the states, is no doubt that which originated and pushed the propaganda that led to the present condition of cotton prices. The purpose is to prevent the south from having a voice in the price of cotton or assuming control of marketing the crop. It is world wide in its scope. One of its strong opposing points is to ignore and discredit cost of production as found by the department of state.

The average cost of the 1918 crop as found by the department of agriculture of Texas was 35 cents, based upon the average yield that year of 100 pounds per acre. The average cost of the same crop as found by the national department of agriculture was 28 cents based on a production of 225 pounds per acre, which would amount to 35½ cents if based upon the actual yield of 160 pounds. Their "bulk line" talk is a camouflage. The average cost of the 1920 crop, based upon the average yield of 164 pounds as estimated by the bureau of census, and from the actual keeping of the expense of growing the crop, by farmers in all sections of the state, estimating only the picking and ginning, was 46 cents. To ignore the actual costs as found by the state department of agriculture as described, and name a price far below cost, arrived at entirely by guess and estimates, does not inspire confidence of the farmers in such work as that of friends. If the producers are entitled to cost, and a profit, the figures ought to be true and not guess work.

Some prominent men, high in authority as bankers and business men, join the speculating interests in their contention that those who produce farm products are not entitled to price them or have a voice in their price. They say farmers should not hold their products for a price. They call it "arbitrary," and farmers should not "arbitrarily" put a price on their products. They give no valid reason.

The majority of the farmers of this nation have from $5,000 to $100,000 invested in their farms. They produce cotton, wheat, corn, oats and livestock for sale; they are commercial producers. They use implements made by The John Deere Plow company, The International Harvester company, B. F. Avery & Sons, and dozens of others. They all produce their implements for sale the same as the farmers, and have their money invested in productive plants the same as the farmer.

They "arbitrarily" name the price of their products. They must do so or fail. When the farmer goes to buy an implement, we must pay an "arbitrary" price for it. When he buys something from the store he pays an "arbitrary" price. When he goes to the gin he pays an "arbitrary" price for his ginning. The oil mill pays him an "arbitrary" price for his seed. The cotton buyer pays him an "arbitrary" price for his cotton, the basis of which is made by a system of gambling and combination conducted by gamblers. Even the bootblack charges an "arbitrary" price for shining his shoes. I would like for some one to explain what material the farmer is made of, that he should be denied the privilege of doing as other commercial producers do? Knowing all others depend upon the proceeds of the farmers products for their existence or prosperity, I would like to know by what reasoning they expect the farmer to support and make prosperous all classes of business and industries by conducting his business along lines, which, if followed by those depending upon him, would result in their certain bankruptcy? Without a voice in the price of their cotton, why should any man be foolish enough to expect our farm boys to remain on the farm, or any of those who have left it to return?

The time has come when the question of who shall price the cotton of the south must be settled. It has been brewing for 25 years. Shall it be England, New England and the gamblers and speculators, as in the past, or shall it be the producers assisted by those business and industrial interests depending upon the proceeds from cotton? Those interests who do not want the producers to have a voice in the price are already lined up and organized, ready for the fight. The other side should lose no time in lining up and getting together. Cotton is the only ammunition that will win. If placed in the enemies hands they can win. If kept in the producers hands only as needed they can easily win. Speculators cannot deliver chalk marks to spinners, neither can spinners make cloth of them. There is only a few weeks supply of cotton in the hands of the spinners. The battle can be won easily and quickly if concerted action is taken at once, and it should be.

Ceasing to sell for two weeks will give us 40 cent cotton and three weeks will bring 46 cents or cost of production. Through the influence of their department of agriculture the farmers are ready to act if aided by their local bank. It will require less money to hold a while, than it will to sell, since the buyer must hold. Every town and community in the south should act together at once and report their action to the press. Never has there been such prospects for unity of action and beneficial results as at present. The advertisement of Mr. Wensel of Netches, Mississippi, in Sunday's press should be read by every one and action taken along lines suggested. Remember, however, he belongs to the crowd who does not want to see the producers have a voice in their affairs and to prevent them from having such a voice, stops at 40 cents or $30 per bale below cost. When this price is reached, their influence to sell may be expected. He says the American Cotton Association is "the only friend cotton has had for two months." I desire to inform him that millions of bales are being held as the influence of the department of agriculture of the south. Keep the record straight and come on, there is room for all.

Respectfully,
W. B. YEARY.

EXPERTS TELL ROTARIANS HOW TO REDUCE FIRE

Talks by Eugene Bullock and S. W. Inglish of Dallas representing the Texas Conservation and Fire Prevention Committee of the National Board of Fire Underwriters featured the luncheon of the Rotary club Thursday. Both told of the work being accomplished by their organization and the plans to perfect a local organization in this city. A brief account of their talks is given elsewhere in this issue.

NEW PARNASSUS ON WHEELS

In a rural section of Michigan, where 75 per cent of the population is foreign, an Itinerant Institute—or school—is the latest project of the local Americanization worker, a secretary of the Young Womens Christian Association. Instead of establishing the usual educatnonal and recreation center to which foreign women and girls are invited, this young woman, because of the scattered population, takes her books and other paraphernalia in a Ford car and travels through the country, holding English classes and cooking classes and other study or social clubs in the homes of the women where groups can be gathered together. The people in this section are chiefly Poles, Finns and Irish who work in the mines. They recently presented the "History of the County" in pageant form, before the twenty-five percent American population of the district.

GIRLS STUDYING CIVICS AND VOTING PROBLEMS

Practically every one of the 1,153 Young Womens Christian association centers in the United States offered some sort of class on civics and voting methods this fall before election day. The classes were attended by all types of girls—college students, employed girls, business women and industrial girls. Mock elections, open forums on the political platforms and debates by party adherents formed most of the programs.

STILL IS CAPTURED

VERNON, Nov. 4.—Sheriff Ish accidentally ran across a moonshiner's outfit this week in the Staley pasture, east of Vernon, while on hunt for different things.

"It's the biggest still yet," said Ish. The apparatus was elaborate in design, and there were two barrels of mash in the layout. A man, wife and three grown sons, posing as cotton pickers, are said to compose the personnel of the moonshiner's gang. They escaped into Oklahoma. It is the opinion of the officers that much of the "hooch" appearing at Vernon lately can be traced to this still.

MANY PARENTS STILL WAITING FOR NEWS OF SOLDIER SONS

(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK.—Although two years are now past since the signing of the armistice and the millions of American citizen-soldiers and sailors are now safely back at civilian pursuits, there still remain hundreds of homes where days and nights are spent in anxious waiting for definite news of the boys who went away but who failed to return.

It is in the hope of clearing up, once and for all, some of these war mysteries that the International News Service, co-operating with the American Legion Weekly, is publishing these records of missing men. It is believed probable that readers of these columns may know some of the men listed herein and may be able to give that information that is so eagerly sought by grieving relatives.

A typical case is that of Earl Dudley Scott, who was a corporal in Company L of the One Hundred and Fourth infantry, Twenty-sixth division. When the One Hundred and Fourth was thrown into the breach to stop the German advance near Chateau Thierry, Scott was wounded. This was July 7, 1918. Later he was reported killed and still later it was reported that he was returning to the United States with a casual detachment. The detachment appeared, but Scott was missing. Anyone who knows of the fate or whereabouts of this man should communicate with the Red Cross home service, Greenfield, Mass., which will forward the information to his relatives.

Henry Schmitt, lieutenant, Company F, One Hundred and Thirty-first infantry, was wounded August 9, 1918, and "presumed" dead. His father, A. Schmitt of Woodstock, Ill., desires information.

Rollin Livick, Company D, Twenty-eighth infantry, was last heard of as wounded July 21, 1918, but his brother, Robert Livick, Edgerton, Wis., believes he is alive.

Noble L. Moore, private, Company K, Three Hundred and Second infantry, was wounded at Gesnes, September 28, 1918, and that is the last his father, Charles E. Moore, Bloomfield, Mont., has heard of him. Information requested.

Frank A. Miller, sergeant, Company M, One Hundred and Fifteenth infantry, was wounded near Balschwiler in the Vosges mountain of Alsace-Lorraine. His mother, Mrs. A. B. Miller, 180½ East North avenue, Baltimore, has never heard from him since.

Raymond E. Pond, private, Company D, Fifty-eighth infantry, was reported wounded October 6, 1918, then missing in action and later as returning to America with casuals. Address Mrs. P. C. Pond, 50 Parker street, Bangor, Me.

Nathaniel H. Jennings, private Company F, Fourth infantry, was variously reported killed, wounded and died of wounds. Mrs. Alvan W. Jennings, Toano, Va., is yet uncertain as to his fate.

Maurice R. Jones, Eleventh machine gun battalion, was wounded August 9, 1918, in the capture of Fismes. He has been among the missing since that day. His father is W. H. Jones, R. D. 2, Box 60, Harrisburg, Pa.

Dexter B. Woodman, Ninety-sixth company, Sixth marine, was wounded in the Argonne November 1, 1918, and was sent to a field hospital at Very-Cheppy. From there his history is unknown to his family. Philip E. Woodman, 33 Chestnut street, Danvers, Mass., brother, would appreciate news.

John P. Heiken, private, Company B, Ninth infantry, was reported missing in action near Soissons, July 18, 1918. He was later reported dead, but the war department can furnish no particular. Anyone knowing details write to Horce G. Heiken, Atlantic, Iowa.

Claude W. Jones, Company F or H, Fifty-ninth infantry, was reported killed in action September 30, 1918, but he was also said to be alive October 8, 1918. Write to his mother, Mrs. Cabe B. Jones, Patmos, Ark.

Leonard Wiltse, First division, has not been heard from for two years. He was a former member of the Minnesota national guard. Isadore Samuels, 33 Goddard street, Providence, R. I., wishes to ascertain what has become of him.

John E. Pyrtle, Second division, was discharged July 1, 1919. His last known address was 210 West Thirty-first street, New York. Mrs. L. Weedmark, 345 West Thirty-eighth street, in care of Mrs. Lyons, New York, is eager to learn of his whereabouts.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., PRAISES Y. W. C. A. WORK

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in a letter to officials of the National Board of Young Womens Christian association, expressing his opinion on their stand in industrial matters, says in part:

"In view of the increasingly important part which women are taking in industry, it is eminently appropriate that the Young Womens Christian association should interest itself in the industrial problem.

"The association, like the church, can render its largest service in the industrial field, not by seeking to enunciate programs, but rather by emphasizing the great fundamental principles of righteousness and justice, in accordance with which alone sane and adequate programs can be developed.

"The association may well stand for such fundamental principles in industry as these: The sacredness of personality representation, the application of the Golden Rule, cooperation between the several parties to industry. Not only should it stand for these principles, but it should seek in every way to give them currency in the daily lives of those whom it influences. Thus there will be built up a foundation upon which sane programs can be worked out by those who are experts in the particular field. Thus there will be set up standards by which the soundness of such programs can be tested from time to time in the light of current conditions and present needs."

A. & M. TO MEET BAYLOR TEAM IN WACO SATURDAY

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov 4.—The A. & M. Aggies face another sensational playing day for Saturday, when they meet the Baylor Bears at the Cotton Palace in Waco. In spite of the fact that they are going into the midst of the enemy country on a festival occasion when Baylor fans will be at their greatest strength, the Aggies will be cheered by the old home pep, for accompanying them will be the entire cadet corps of A. & M., the faculty and about 1,000 Bryan people.

When the A. & M. band of 40 pieces strikes up "Wild Cat" and the grandstand of uniformed cadets gives vent through their throats to "those" yells, the larger number of Baylor fans will feel seriously in the minority as far as rooting effect is concerned. The spirit and enthusiasm of A. & M. is known far from home.

As tradition has it, the Farmers always put up the poorest exhibition of football at Waco of any game played in the season, but the driving, plunging gait that the Aggies have acquired in the games with Phillips of Enid, Okla., and Oklahoma A. & M. is expected to be kept up in this game against the Bears Saturday and make of it one of the most decisive victories of the season, thus dispensing with the disappointment that has been consequent to such games in the past. The last three games played between Baylor and A. & M. have been victories for the Aggies, as follows: 1919, 10-0; 1918, 7-0; 1917, 3-0. An endeavor will be made Saturday to multiply the trend of ratio.

The spectacular feature of the game, of course, will be "Eddie" Mahan at fullback, who, with his powerful plunges, will administer the most severe punishment to the Bear line.

SHANER WILL HEAD TRAP SHOOT ASS'N.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Elmer E. Shaner, of Pittsburgh, who for more than a quarter of a century was identified with all the big trap shooting contests held in this country and Canada, today was elected president of the American Trap Shooting Association.

FROM THE JUDGES' STAND

Assorting the News From the Sport Realm

Charles H Weeghman, who was for several years the president of the Chicago Cubs, was dropped from the directors' board of that club at the annual meeting of the club in Chicago last Monday. William L. Veeck, the present club chief, was elected in his stead. The selection of Johnny Evers as the next season manager of the club was approved.

George Gipp, the sensational halfback from Notre Dame, is receiving his share of praise from the eastern critics just as Bob McMillin did after the Harvard game two weeks ago. When the Notre Dame eleven boarded the train for the trip to New York and their tilt was the West Pointers, there were reports that they were taking a possibility for the All-American selection as halfback with them in the person of George Gipp. This report was greeted at West Point with a great deal of skepticism. However, the two teams had not been on the field ten minutes when all signs of this skepticism had vanished from the cadet's rooting section. Gipp played the greatest and most spectacular individual game seen on the West Point gridiron since the day when Jim Thorpe of the Carlisle Indians won the game from the army boys single handed. Gipp gained a total of 124 yards from the line of scrimmage which is discounting the gains he was responsible for in throwing forward passes. He ran back kicks for a total of 112 yards, making a grand total of 236 yards gained during the day's work.

Ted Ray and Harry Vardon wound up their tour of America the other day in spectacular style and instead of showing the gallery that they were completely tired out after their strenuous sojourn in this country, as was expected of them, they played some of the best golf they have played. They took down Golden and Fotheringham on the Tuxedo course in New York city, by the score of 3 and 1.

Last week's football schedule left seven teams in the South to fight it out for the championship. The seven are Alabama, Georgia Tech., University of Georgia, Mississippi A. and M., Virginia M. I., Washington and Lee and Tulane. This Saturday's schedule will not bring any of these teams together but the week following will see some of them out of the race as Alabama meets W. and L., and Tulane ties up with Mississippi A. and M.

Harry Frazee, president of the Boston American League club has issued a statement in which he advises Baltimore to break into big league ball by purchasing the Washington franchise. He says that if it comes to the baseball war and a twelve club league, it will be impossible to give the twelfth place to the Oriole City on account of difficulties of making a schedule for such an arrangement.

TAXI RATES PROVE TOO HIGH FOR MANY

Efforts are being made by Mrs. Davidson, Travelers' Aid secretary at the Union station, to arrange special charity rates with drivers of service cars. For strangers with little money the $1 minimum for service is sometimes prohibitive, Mrs. Davidson declared.

According to the secretary, the Travelers' Aid is continually sending patronage to the service car drivers and in return is asking for special rates for the accommodation of its charity cases.

A similar arrangement already has been made with several local hotels, the managers agreeing to take charity guests at the lowest possible rate in return for general patronage directed to them by the organization

MEDICAL COLLEGE HELD INADEQUATE

By Associated Press

GALVESTON, Nov. 4.—The physicial property of the state medical college is utterly inadequate for present needs, Dr. R. E. Vinson, president of the University of Texas told the special investigating committee here today. The committee is inquiring into conditions surrounding the college and complaints of lack of co-operation on the part of Galveston authorities.

BASEBALL LUMINARIES PHOTOGRAPHED WITH NEW SCENERY AS GAME'S PROBED

Away from the plaudits of the fans and dressed in their "civies" the big league baseball stars called by the grand jury at Chicago in the baseball "fixing" probe, appeared in a different light to the crowds that hung about the courthouse. The players called merely as witnesses were surrounded by crowds while not in the jury room. President Heydler of the National league and Roger Bresnahan, former big league catcher and manager, were among the notables who gave the jury facts on the gambling situation.

GLADIOLUS HIT NEAR ELECTRA PRODUCES 768

The No. 9 well of the Gladiolus Oil company on the Burnett-Lloyd survey four and one-half miles southeast of Electra, swabbed 768 barrels of oil in 24 hours, according to information from drillers.

The well was brought in Wednesday and on initial showing is the largest well that had been completed in the Electra field in several months. The well is producing from the 1400-foot sand of that section which also has a shallow pay sand. The No. 9 well is the largest completion that has been made on the Burnett-Lloyd tract.

The No. 8 of the Gladiolus Company on an offsetting lease to the No. 9 well of the company, which was brought in several days go is still flowing by heads from the 900-foot sand. The No. 9 was drilled by Verschoyle and Anderson of this city and is the eighth well that they have successfully completed in that section by that firm.

President Wilson thinks that "the youth of the land will rally to the league." It will, if it is made plain that Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins and Ty Cobb are going to be prominent in it.—Houston Post.

FAULTY CHARGE FREES RUSSELL IN THEFT CASE

Omission of the phrase "without the consent of the owner" in an indictment against Hunter Russell, charging theft of more than $50, resulted in a dismissal of the case when called for trial Thursday morning in Eighty-ninth district court before Judge P. A. Martin.

The defective indictment was discovered by Attorneys Mathis & Caldwell, counsel for the defendant, which led to the request that Judge Martin hear a motion for dismissal of the case before bringing the defendant into the court room.

The request was granted, the motion heard, and the case dismissed on grounds of a defective indictment, without having the defendant present.

As is the usual custom in cases where a flaw in an indictment is discovered, authorities immediately prepare a warrant for the re-arrest of the defendant in order to hold him until another indictment may be returned. This usually occurs in the court room and the defendant is not given a chance to enjoy the advantage of a dismissal of the original charges against him.

In this particular case, however, due to the foresight of his counsel, Hunter Russell is now free, his bondsmen in the original case were automatically released from responsibility upon dismissal of the case, and he is under no obligation to the state to appear for trial on similar charges until authorities have succeeded in recapturing him.

ELECTION RESULTS REPORTED IN CHILE

By Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 4.—The results of the presidential election in the United States were received with keenest interest here. The members of the American colony assembled at a hotel and received the bulletins coming to the newspapers from the Associated Press.

The newspapers print photographs of President-elect Harding and his wife and of Senator Harding's home and birthplace and stories of his life history.

The ardent enthusiast had inveigled his Philistine friend to the recital by an eminent pianist.

The program was severely classical and of lavish length. During a pause—to allow the virtuso to extract his hair from his eyes before returning to the attack—the enthusiast whispered ecstatically: "Wonderful, isn't it? What do you think of his execution?"

"I'm for it," growled the Philistine. "But I'm afraid some idiot like you might get him a reprieve."

Harding's Choice Held Setback to League by Japs

By Associated Press

TOKIO, Nov. 4.—The Japanese newspapers in commenting today on the result of the presidential election in the United States express the view that the election of Warren G. Harding is a setback to the League of Nations.

The Jiji Shimpo says President Wilson's exemption of the Monroe doctrine reduced the league's effectiveness fifty percent and that if Mr. Harding makes further reservations, the league will be seriously imperiled.

The Yomuri Shimbun says the league may continue to function but that the result of the American election greatly diminishes faith in its efficacy.

The passage of the anti-Japanese legislation in California was discounted in advance by the newspapers, which are finding difficulty in saying anything new.

The Jiji Shimpo expresses the opinion that Mr. Harding is more unfavorably inclined toward Japan than Governor Cox but says his attitude probably will be more defined in office.

The Yorozu Choho calls on the government to protest formally against the anti-Japanese legislation.

A high official of the foreign office today expressed the opinion that the public would await the outcome of the Washington negotiations on the subject.

COMPRESS TO PLACE EMPARGO ON COTTON

Unless shipping orders are received at the Northwestern compress early this morning, ordering car movements out of Wichita Falls, an embargo will be placed on all incoming cotton by 9 o'clock Friday, according to A. L. Warren, superintendent at the compress.

Between 11,000 and 12,000 bales of cotton has accumulated at the compress and on the tracks, making handling more incoming shipments impossible until the present congestion is relieved. No more cars can be unloaded. Mr. Warren could not estimate the probable time extent of the embargo if its enforcement became necessary.

MEXICAN MINES' STRIKE IS SERIOUS

(By International News Service.)

MEXICO CITY, Mexico.—Failure to settle the coal miners' strike and clashes between workers and employers in various parts of Mexico indicate that the government is not meeting with its usual success in handling industrial disputes.

Until recently the government was remarkably successful in preventing trouble. Then came the miners' strike. While efforts were being made to settle this, the stevedores at Vera Cruz walked out and there were strikes in a number of other cities.

It is said that at present there are 75,000 Mexican workmen on strike, with the prospect that the number will be greatly augmented.

There is talk of a general strike, but this has been threatened at intervals for months by radical organizations.

The coal miners' strike has forced some industries to close and may soon tie up railroads in the northern part of the state.

The stevedores' strike has stopped traffic at Vera Cruz.

TROUSER COSTUME FOR BOUDOIR WEAR

Cheniel, the great French designer, evidently thinks it time for women to adopt the bifurcated garment, for he has designed this boudoir costume of brocaded and plain crepe de chine with real pantaloons. Over them falls a graceful loose coat of jade green crepe de chine with bands of bead embroidery trimming it. It makes a striking costume for leisure hours.

SCHOOL GEOGRAPHIES SAID KAISER WAS "IT"

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. — The school board here is up in arms. Just as school was opening for the year, it was discovered that geographies in a new batch of textbooks declared that the "German Empire includes Alsace Lorraine, that the Kaiser is its Emperor and is a powerful monarch." Also that next in strength to the German Empire is the great Austro-Hungarian monarchy. There was a lot more along this line, with maps to prove. The frenzied school board discovered that many of the books were twenty-two years old.

BRITISH WOULD LIKE HOOVER IN CABINET

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Daily News in an editorial expresses the opinion that the composition of President Harding's cabinet will be more important for Englishmen than Mr. Harding's election.

"The appointment of Herbert Hoover and Elihu Root, whose names are mentioned," says the paper, "would be viewed here with unqualified satisfaction."

HARDING CARRIES 12 LA. PARISHES

By Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—Complete unofficial returns from 155 of the 157 precincts in the city give Cox 32,760; Harding 17,946. Harding carried thirteen precincts in the city. Returns from the country parishes are coming in slowly, but it is generally conceded today that Harding carried at least one dozen parishes in the sugar belt.

VERA CRUZ STATE GARRISON REVOLTS

By Associated Press

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 4.—Military forces forming the garrison of the town of Coatepec, near Jalapa, the capital of the state of Vera Cruz, have revolted as a result of announced plans by the federal war department to dispose the troops in opposition to the wishes of their commanders, Generals Ricardo Morales and Alennando Kurzain.

The rebels have taken possession of nearly 100,000 pesos in the hands of the garrison paymaster, and about 50,000 pesos which was being sent to the business men of Coatepec.

Three columns of government troops located in this city have been ordered to Coatepec to subdue the rebels. It is expected the revolt will have an influence in the dispute which arose some time ago over the governorship of the state. Elections will be held in the near future, and it is believed two legislatures will be chosen, each of which probably will nominate a different governor.

DIPLOMAT MARRIES WIDOW OF SLOANE

HUGE INCREASE IN CALIFORNIA OIL WELLS

(By International News Service.)

LOS ANGELES.—Speeding up production to the highest possible pitch in view of the ever-increasing demands, the oil industry of southern California bids fair to contribute this year to the world's supply approximately 10,000,000 more barrels than last.

Reports show that more than 1,000 new wells are spouting the wealth-producing fluid in this section this year.

Government and refinery figures place last year's production here at 97,204,836 barrels and the value at $132,000,000. According to H. H. Maxson, of the Independent Petroleum Marketers' association, if the present average production holds up approximately 108,000,000 barrels will have been produced in the southern California field by January 1.

HARDING GRATEFUL FOR VOTES OF LA.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—In a telegram yesterday to the Daily States here, the managing editor of the Marion Star, Senator Harding's paper said:

"Senator Harding asks our office to utter his most grateful appreciation of the fine vote given him in Louisiana, particularly as it manifests a growing belief in the republican position. He asks me to say to you he has one ambition which is to wipe out the last vestige of sectionalism in America in thought, politics, our economic life and in government."

DODSON ALLOWED BAIL ON APPEAL

Counsel for Frank Dodson, who was recently convicted in Seventy-eighth district court on a charge of operating a gambling house and sentenced to serve four years in the penitentiary, perfected appeal bond of $4,000 Thursday before Judge Edgar Scurry and obtained the release of Dodson pending appeal of the case.

Judge Scurry overruled a motion for new trial.

Why Are Skin Diseases So Difficult to Overcome?

When your skin breaks out with itching eruptions, tetter, rash, eczema, psoryasis, or other terrifying disorders, temporary relief will do you but little good, for soon all the itching and irritation breaks out afresh with renewed fury, and you soon realize that local remedies such as ointments, salves and similar treatment will never rid you of your trouble.

These troubles originate in the blood, and if you expect real substantial relief you must treat them through the blood.

The best remedy for this purpose is S.S.S., the fine old blood remedy that purifies the blood of disease germs, and thus restores the skin to a normal and healthy condition.

Begin taking S.S.S. today, and write a complete history of your case, and our medical director will give you expert advice without charge. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 161 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

UP where a man must balance on iron girders, climb swaying beams, where a single false move means a helpless body dropping to the pavement 800 feet below—that's where Adam Diehl works.

"Believe me," says Adam Diehl, "it means a lot when I tell you I put on Blue Buckle OverAlls every time I work on a high building. The overalls I wear have got to fit easy. I can't afford to have them pull or bind—and they've got to stand up strong under the toughest kind of wear.

FAMILIES ARE DISRUPTED BY COLOR SCHEME

Written for the International News Service
By MARGERY REX

NEW YORK—Many schemes have been suggested to make home happy and thereby cause husbands to stay by the hearth, but the latest advice is that coming from Andre Groult, famous Parisian decorator, who says the right kind of furniture is half the battle.

"Innumerable homes are broken up because people don't know how to choose the right kind of furniture," says Monseur Grout.

"Women are to be blamed more than men, because the women, as a rule, have most to say about the home.

"If a woman would bear in mind that walls should be covered with colors which suit her complexion, that carpets should be selected to hide or display her feet, that furniture should be stiff or resiful according to her temperament, whether active or languid, she would always look best in the home and therefore always be attractive to her husband."

Harken, unhappy wife, and hasten to that shop where you saw the very chair you thought expressed your personality before it is too late!

Opinion of N. Y. Woman

Further commendation for M. Groult's plan comes from a New York authority on household arts, who is also a pretty young wife, Mrs. Christine W. Nelson, instructor of the department of household arts at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

"I don't with to speak officially now, but from a personal standpoint," says Mrs. Nelson. "I have always had very decided views about home furnishings. Furniture is the background of home life and should not be ornamental alone. It should meet the needs of the family, be useful and simple.

"Furniture should be chosen so as to minimize labor in caring for it.

"Simple lines, less stuffing of satins and tapestries, would relieve many a housewife from a burden and transform her home into a place of pleasure.

"Consider the tired husband who comes home at night to the 'parlor.' Oh, yes," smiles Mrs. Nelson, "there are really a few parlors left in the world, hard as it may seem to believe. A man wants one good comfortable chair. He can't find it. He wants to lean back and relax, to read in a good light.

"Lighting is very important in point of comfort, too.

Easy Chair; Good Light

"The husband should have a restful chaid, not far from a lamp which sends its rays, not only down, but out far enough to be useful. Nothing is more irritating or makes a man crosser than a lamp that lights a spot on the table or floor and refuses to cast a gleam on his book or newspaper.

"Many men are actually afraid to relax in the homes they have bought and paid for: the tables are so perfect it would create a small revolution if cigarette ashes ever fell upon their surfaces.

"Then there is the subject of color in the home.

"Even the person who knows nothing of color is influenced unconsciously by bad color, glaring, crude color. It has a fatiguing effect.

"Walls are the background of the home. In a small city apartment they should be a restful gray or tan of a light tint.

"Dark wall covering makes for a morbid atmosphere in a room. Then there is the old red rose insanely patterned paper we see seldom, happily seldom. It is annoying, irritating and distracting.

"While the home should primarily express the personality of the owner, it should be in keeping with its occupants' station in life, and should be livable.

"Every room should be a 'living room' in the sense of being sane and comfortable.

"A woman should choose her furniture so that if necessary she can care for it alone. It should not be too heavy. Massivness and stuffed things are awful in a small room, but one large, comfortable chair is not out of place.

"Now, I have always been devoted to the use of a bit of wicker. It is often a gay, bright note in a room, adds a little touch of personality, and is not easily injured when, for instance, children lean upon it.

"Above all things I want homes to be free from the institutional look."

From a professor of psychology at Columbia University, who, in matters of the home may be called but a mere man, comes a somewhat different opinion about home furnishings and their effect on marital happiness. Professor H. L. Hollingsworth is also married, but refuses to believe too much in Monsieur Groult's theories.

"Psychology points out," says this authority, "that our feelings are not localized, that is, we don't know what causes them. For instance you have a toothache, you are cross, unreasonable, think every one is your enemy and a liar.

"Of course, the cause is the tooth, but you blame every one who gets in your way.

"In advertising the theory is the same. You may like the actual 'copy' in an 'ad' and yet decide you don't care for the article advertised because you have unconsciously been influenced by an unpleasnat picture illustrating a story which runs alongside the perfectly good advertisement.

"You will hate, perhaps, some editor's opinion, because printed beside it is a poem that seems silly to you or to a drawing you don't like or can't appreciate."

A BUSINESS WOMAN'S SCHEDULE

6:30 to 7:30 a. m. Dress and prepare breakfast.

7:30 to 8. Breakfast.

8:00 to 8:30. Breakfast dishes, straighten rooms, make beds. This requires only half an hour because we leave things in order the night before.

8:30 to 8:45. Dress for business.

8:45 to 9:00. Car to office (one-half block from car.)

9:00 to 5:00 p. m. Office. During these hours I forget the house entirely.

5:00 to 5:30. Marketing—More time if necessary. Materials for salad, fruit for dinner and breakfast, vegetables and meat for that night's dinned and for the next day as far as possible.

6:00. Home.

6:00 to 6:10. Dress for home.

6:10 to 7:00. Prepare dinner.

At this time I plan breakfast and dinner for the next day and prepare ahead, getting the slower vegetables ready, perhaps cooking them so that they can easily be reheated or finished in the fireless cooker. Deserts also may be partially prepared—custards, gelatins, party sells, and so forth. Each day overlaps the next so the meals for the following day are partially prepared. Gas range, fireless cooker, and electrical appliances have simplified cooking.

7:00. Dinner. Always leisurely. Afterward the dishes, leaving the kitchenette in order; final planning for next day.

Evenings. Whatever may present. We enjoy reading aloud, concerts, theatres, or guests, although these are usually planned for the end of the week.—November Good Housekeeping.

LEADERS OF MILLION STRIKING COAL MINERS IN ENGLAND

Above, Robert Smillie, head of the miners, at right, and Frank Hodges, his chief colleague, leaving a recent conference of miners' executives and, below, Herbert Smith, leader of the Yorkshire miners, explaining a disputed point in the miners' demands to one of the men present at a meeting of miners and coal owners.

These pictures, the most recent ones from England, give intimate glimpses of the men who are leading the 1,000,000 coal miners who struck recently in England, shutting off England's coal supply and throwing hundreds of thousands of men in dependent industries out of work. The strike followed weeks of conferences between the miners, mine owners and the government.

MONTANA RULES ON CHILD IN DIVORCE

HELENA, Mont.—That parties to divorce actions may not remove children from the state during the time the case is pending was the decision handed down here by the Montana Supreme Court.

The decision was rendered in the case of William A. Cash, who is suing his wife for divorce. The couple have three children who have been the object at various times of sensational kidnapings.

While living in Los Angeles with her three children Mrs. Cash permitted the father to take them to a "movie." The next news from them that the mother received was the information that the father was speeding to Montana with his three offsprings. Later Mrs. Cash attempted to escape from the state with a daughter. She was apprehended in Salt Lake City and returned to Helena.

After a legal battle fraught with criminations and recriminations on both sides, the supreme court decided that offspring of couples seeking separation must remain within the state boundaries until a final decree has been rendered in divorce proceedings.

When you do not intend to pay a bill there is nothing like being decisive in your refusal. The other day a bookseller had an "account rendered" returned to him with the following reply scrawled across the billhead: "Dear Sir—I never ordered this beastly book. If I did, you didn't send it. If you sent it, I never got it. If I got it, I paid for it. If I didn't, I won't. Now go and hang yourself, you fathead. Yours respectfully, John Jones."—London Answers.

At a school examination the examiner asked one child:

"What are the products of the Indian empire?"

The unhappy infant began nervously to reel off the list she had got by heart:

"Please, sir, India produces curries and pepper and rice and citron and chillis and chutney, and—and—and—and—"

"Yes, yes," said the examiner, impatiently. "What comes after all that?"

Another infant's hand was raised.

"Well, you tell her what comes after that."

"Please, sir, India-gestion."

ASSESSOR DECLARES OIL TAXES ARE LOW

That the total tax valuation on leases and personal property connected with the oil industry in this county is less than one-sixth of the value of the oil produced in the county in the year ending September 30 was asserted Thursday by T. E. Ragsdale, county tax assessor. Mr. Ragsdale stated that this was true despite numerous complaints of oil operators that their properties was assessed too high.

"Our office has done everything we could possibly do to obtain a fair return of oil properties in the county and we have been able to obtain as large a rendition as we have only by constantly seeking out operators who would not give a fair return on their property" said Mr. Ragsdale who pointed out that the total tax roll for the county was considerably less than the value of the oil produced in the county during the last year.

Mr. Ragsdale's figures were based on a report in the Oil Weekly which shows that this county had produced over 34,000,000 barrels of oil valued in excess of $137,776,088. The total value of the oil leases and personal oil property in the county according to the report made to Mr. Ragsdale was $23,329,400.

Harrisburg, Ark.—After serious symptoms had become apparent, Mrs. Belle Wilkerson, of Route 1, this place, says she "got worse and worse."
"I wasn't able to stand on my feet and had to go to bed," she explains. The * * * grew worse, and for about three weeks nothing seemed to do me any good. I grew so weak and nervous and could not sleep, I began to have pain in the lower part of my body, and all across my back. There was a great deal of soreness and pain in my left side * * * I just gave up, for I suffered so. I grew discouraged and thought I was not going to get well.
"My head not only ached, but would feel so light and dizzy * * * I decided then I would take Cardui, as I read of how many women it had benefited, and some whose case was like mine. When I began Cardui, just after a few doses, I noticed a change. I slept better at night * * * and left like I could eat something. G. O. P. CARRIES 1 PRECINCT IN WILBARGER CO.

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Nov. 4.—Assistance so far as Wilbarger county is concerned in making an accurate map of Texas is being given a map company by the Vernon Chamber of Commerce. A real map of Wilbarger county is being prepared.

This map will show all the main traveled automobile routes, other roads that are fit for automobile traveled, and all towns of small settlements. The leading hotels are also furnished together with the county's leading industries which includes cotton, wheat, oil, grain, sorghum, livestock, flour milling, cotton seed milling and oil refining with reference to the oil refinery. It is not generally known that the Waggoner refinery is on the eastern boundary of the county.

The map is to be used for tourist travel. It is hoped that Vernon will have a free camping site for tourists next season.

Wilbarger Precinct G. P. O.

Returns from the general election held in Wilbarger county are unavailable only four boxes out of 17 reporting, and two of these Vernon boxes. Returns thus far indicate that the republicans polled a larger vote than in history of the county. The Highland box, in the German settlement, went republican, it is said being the first time in history that a voting precinct gave a majority to any other than except democratic, except socialist. —Nothing has been learned as to the fate of the amendments.

Diphtheria Prevalent

Diphtheria is prevalent in Vernon. Thus far there are no deaths reported from the malady, but several children are reported in serious condition.

The local Red Cross committee met at the courthouse yesterday and formulated plans to make effective the big drive to be inaugurated by that organization.

Vernon Commander, Knights Templar, conferred the Order of Temple upon nine candidates from Vernon, Electra and Chillicothe. Past Commanders occupied the different stations. G. O. Fritz, recorder of Maskat Temple at Wichita Falls, was present and secured a large batch of petitions for the ceremony to be held at Wichita Falls November 17.

"MID-CHANNEL" TO BE AT OLYMPIC TODAY

One of the finest motion pictures of the year appears under the suggestive title of "Mid-Channel," the famous stage-play from the pen of England's foremost playwright, Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, and enacted on the screen by Clara Kimball Young. This picture will be shown at the Olympic theater today and Saturday. The strength, the timeliness and the intensity of "Mid-Channel" needs no comment, as the play has already won world-wide praise since its appearance on Broadway with no less a star than Ethel Barrymore in the role now enacted by Miss Young. It is enough to say that Clara Kimball Young reveals a dramatic magnetism that is nothing short of electric in its force, and displays an interpretative ability that has rarely been seen in any motion picture.

That "Mid-Channel" is considered by critics the world over as Pinero's greatest drama of domestic life is enough to insure the tremendous popularity of this super-picture. And when we add that the play gains infinitely in its charm by the luxurious settings and rich scenic effects—that could not be brought out on any indoor stage, then the triumph of this superb photodrama of modern marriage is beyond doubt. It is only natural that a play dealing with the most critical period of married life—figuratively called "Mid-Channel" because that stage of domestic affairs resembles the stormy center of the English Channel in its treachery and danger, should receive unanimous applause as the most vital play of married life ever picturized on the screen.

"Mid-Channel" as depicted on the screen fairly teems with brilliant and vivid dramatic moments that touch the fibres of the heart, awakening memories in some and sounding a warning to others. Its message is unmistakable—it rings out with clarion-clear tones. Many a husband and many a wife will find their lives unfolded in grim truth with each act of this great photodrama. "Mid-Channel" is a distinct achievement in the photo-dramatic art, and reveals Clara Kimball Young at the peak of her power.

AGED PIONEER OF VERNON IS DEAD

VERNON, Texas, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Louisa J. Sears, aged 85 years, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Stroud, in the Pleasant Valley community. She was born November 16, 1835, in White county, Georgia, and married Wyatt C. Sears October 6, 1853. Fourteen children were born, seven of whom survive her. The body was taken to Crowell where it was interred. She was a member of the Methodist church, and for the past twenty years made Wilbarger and Foard counties her home.

NEGROES HELD AS 'FENCES' OF BOY BURGLARS

George Sims, Andrew Sims, Joe Sims and Howard Jones, four negroes who were arrested Sunday by operatives of the Shelton detective agency, waived examining trial before Justice R. V. Gwinn late Thursdays and were placed under $500 bond each to await action of the grand jury.

The negroes were charged with receiving and concealing property in connection with the alleged activities of three young boys, Freddie Hostler, Claude Reeves and Carl Hopkins who are said to have admitted burglarizing several stores here recently.

About $500 worth of stolen property, including automatic pistols and high powered rifles, were said to have been found concealed in a room which the four occupied in the rear of 308 Lamar street.

County Juvenile Officer R. W. Morgan will leave Thursday for the state reformatory at Gatesville with the boys who were re-captured late Wednesday after escaping from a cell in the juvenile jail Sunday night.

A father of one of the boys caught them when they returned to the house for some clothing and delivered them to Morgan. As an added precaution against a second jail break the boys were placed in separate cells.

Immediately after their re-arrest, Juvenile Officer Morgan obtained committments to the reformatory from the county judge. The boys will serve time there until they have become of age. Hostler is 14, Reeves 13 and Hopkins 16.

They were arrested Sunday morning by operatives of the Shelton detective agency in connection with a series of department store robberies here. They were said to have made complete confessions and to have led authorities to the hiding place of a large amount of the stolen goods.

VERNON CAPTIVES CONFESS, IS CLAIM

VERNON, Texas, Nov. 4.—Giving their names as Hope Heisley and John Hill, two men were arrested by the authorities at Wichita Falls and brought to Vernon and placed in jail, awaiting the action of the grand jury for alleged implication in a series of robberies at Vernon, Oklaunion, Harrold, Electra and Iowa Park, in which property worth $1,000 was taken. It is said they have confessed. A high-powered car was used by the men in their alleged operations. A great quantity of merchandise was recovered and the goods are being sorted out and returned to the proper ownership.

VERNON STORES CUTTING PRICES

VERNON, Nov. 4.—All of the popular dry goods stores of Vernon are announcing great price reductions in the lines carried by them. A majority of the dry goods stores here bought heavily during the oil boom at high prices and now during the slump they are reducing their surplus stocks regardless of cost, preferring to taking their loss now instead of holding the merchandise.

The Dixon Dry Goods company, the largest dry goods store in Vernon announces that they have reduced cotton goods 10c a yard, and each merchant stands to lose between $15,000 and $20,000 by the slump in cotton goods and goods being sold regardless of cost. The reduction ranged around 30 per cent. Mr. Dixon of this store is of the opinion that goods will be lower in the spring. The stores are heavily stocked, but as the farmer is not getting any price for his cotton, the merchant has to go for lower prices.

"LOVE, HONOR AND OBEY" AT MAJESTIC

An all-star cast, including Claire Whitney, Wilda Bennett, Kenneth Harlan, Henry Harmon, George Cowl and E. J. Ratcliffe will appear at the Majestic theater today and Saturday in a thrilling photoplay, "Love, Honor and Obey," by Eugene Walter. The production proved to be one of the notable events of the season. Mr. Walter's mastery of dramatic technique was always in evidence, as he developed the story founded upon Charles Neville Buck's novel "Love, Honor and Obey."

The acting was masterly. Miss Whitney, always popular with screen audiences, was cast as a wealthy New York divorcee, a role that gave splendid sweep to her emotional powers. Miss Bennett, as the heroine, Conscience Williams, brought beauty and real distinction of manner to her role with an undercurrent of intensely dramatic power. Mr. Harmon gave an unforgettable performance as her Puritanical father, and Kenneth Harlan carried just the right touch of gentlemenly charm to the role of the young New Yorker named in the divorce suit.

The story of a young girl, trapped into marriage by fraud which she discovers on her bridal night and which forces her to bolt her door against the bridegroom, is one of the most engrossing that the screen has seen. The production by S-L, leaves nothing undone to heighten the dramatic effect. The excellent direction is credited to Leander de Cordova. Arthur Martinelli was the camerman and M. P. Stalcup is responsible for the decorative art interiors. "Love, Honor and Obey" is a Metro release.

"Down with the billboards!" Sure. And down with the board bills.—Providence Tribune.

DAILY FINANCIAL, OIL AND MARKET NEWS

COTTON LOWER; TRADE REPORTS CAUSE SELLING

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—Unfavorable trade reports and pessimism because of a continued tight money market caused enough selling to put the price of cotton lower in the early trading today in the face of the settlement of the British coal strike.

For a while following the first selling movement the market steadied on realizing of profits on short contracts, but in the late trading further selling pressure developed and the market closed almost at the lowest on rumors of large ginning returns.

Weather reports were considered favorable and helped depress the market. While temperatures over most of the belt were rather low, the weather was dry and the forecast called for fair weather in every state in the belt, leading to the conclusion that picking was making fast progress in those sections where picking still is going on.

DECLINE IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Apparent failure of the British strike settlement to stimulate the Liverpool market was considered partly responsible for liquidation of long accounts in the cotton market here today and a decline of half a cent in prices.

The English market was higher early and reported a better tone because of the improvement in labor conditions. Prices showed net losses of 30 to 37 points right after the call, but except for some New Orleans selling there was no pressure of offerings fro mthe South, and there were rallies to within a few points of last night's closing figures.

Later there was local selling on favorable weather prospects, while liquidation by pre-election buyers was reported owing to the failure of news from the goods trade to show any improvement. Rumors of bearish private ginning returns and talk of increased spot offerings in the Carolinas rendered sellers aggressive in the afternoon.

INSURANCE MEN TO INSPECT CITY FIRE HAZARDS

Under the direction of Fire Chief McClure, an inspection of the entire city will be made today by 20 insurance men at the instance of the Texas conservation and fire prevention committee of the national board of fire underwriters. The inspection, which probably will be followed by recommendations as to changes needed here, is part of a campaign of the national board of fire underwriters to reduce to a minimum loss of life and property by fire.

S. W. Inglish, secretary of the Texas committee, and Eugene Bullock of the Dallas office of the Hartford Fire Insurance company, were guests at the Rotary club luncheon Thursday noon and explained the nature of the work being carried on under the direction of the national board of fire underwriters.

The inspection of this city is in no way connected with insurance rates, the speakers explained, but is merely to aid the city in the protection of life and property from fire hazard.

Complimenting the city on the progress that it had made in fire prevention, Mr. Bullock stated there were several situations affecting the fire hazard of the city that should receive immediate attention. Small mains for the water in the outlying districts of the city was dwelt on by the speaker. Mr. Bullock stated that a local organization will be perfected in the city.

Mr. Inglish gave a history of the fire conservation work in the United States. He stated that the great conflagration in Chicago in 1871 caused the insurance world to realize the need of co-operation in fire prevention and conseravtion. He traced the various steps of conseravtion work.

During the war the work received great encouragement by the success of the insurance companies in reducing to a minimum the fire losses to the government in war equipment and material. The little loss to the government was attributed by the speaker to the prevention taken.

PHYSICIANS TO SEE WHY MAN 132 YEARS OLD IS STILL ALIVE

(By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—"Uncle John" Shell, of Greary Creek, Leslie county, Kentucky, who claims the advanced age of 132 years and the distinction of being the world's oldest living male, will be a guest at meetings of Illinois health authorities December 15, when all the available secrets of longevity will be probed to their mysterious depths.

A number of aged who own a hundred summers will be questioned as to their methods of life and the reasons for their having outlived their generation.

"Uncle John," like many centenarians, is not certain of his age. A New York specialist pronounced him about 100 after an examination about a year ago.

Shell's trip to Chicago will be arranged by the Kentucky State Board of Health.

WHEAT LOWER AS OFFERINGS ARE INCREASED

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Wheat underwent a material setback in price today, owing more or less to talk that country offerings were somewhat larger. The market closed nervous, 3¼c to 6¼c net lower, with December $2.00¾ to $2.01 and March $1.94¾ to $1.95. Corn finished 1c down to ⅝c up; oats off ⅝c to ⅝c, and provisions varying from 10c decline to 5c advance.

Downturns for wheat values began as soon as trading opened. Lack of any sign of important new export business counted as a handicap on the bulls. Meanwhile considerable notice was taken of the fact that Canadian wheat brought here by water was being unloaded for Chicago millers. Throughout the day buying power seemed to be at a minimum, except from shorts covering profits.

Scantiness of receipts had a strengthening effect on the price of December delivery in the corn market. Otherwise quotations were governed mainly by the action of wheat.

HUGE POTATO VINE

VERNON, Nov. 4.—A sweet potato vine, yielding forty pounds of potatoes was dug Saturday by Henry Graf in the forks of Red and Pease rivers. There were nine potatoes on the vine, aggregating forty pounds in weight—nearly two-thirds of a bushel. The largest tuber weighed exactly seven pounds. Mr. Graf dug two wagon loads of potatoes from two rows of vines extending across his garden. The yield from two rows—not one-twentieth of an acre—was about forty-five bushels.

COFFEE FUTURES HIGHER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Some buying attributed to Wall street banking interests at the opening for coffee futures today brought prices 20 points higher, with March selling at 8.80. The advance in the Rio market was largely offset by the decline in the dollar buying rate. Rallies followed on covering, with March closing at 8.67 and with the general list showing a net advance of 2 to 12 points.

'ASSESSMENTS' ARE FIXED FOR RED CROSS FUND

Two lists of 100 men each were drawn up Thursday by the executive force which is to conduct the Red Cross roll call for 1920 and assessments of $50 and $25 made against the names thereon Thursday afternoon. Theoretically, these assessments account for $7,500 of the $12,000 sought from the county.

According to plans outlined Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week are to be devoted to an intensive campaign, practically every active organization of men and women being called on to assist in a house-to-house canvass of the residence district, an office-to-office canvass down town, and the conducting of numerous booths on the downtown streets.

W. W. Gardner, J. R. Hyatt and B. B. Greever, general manager of the drive will visit Iowa Park, Burkburnett and Electra Friday, organizing the various local chapters and distributing supplies.

Mayor Cline, general chairman, has addressed letters to the pastors of the local churches, asking that a few minutes of the services on Sunday, November 7, be devoted to a discussion of the work and needs of the Red Cross.

Final instructions and supplies will be given all workers in a get-together meeting at 2:30 on Thursday afternoon, the first day of the drive. Members of the Civic league will organize for the house-to-house canvass under the direction of Mrs. T. B. Smock, on Friday. Saturday, booths in charge of various women's clubs, will be opened down town.

Boy Scouts have agreed to place about one hundred large posters at points of vantage about town.

VERNON MAN DIES

VERNON, Nov. 4.—News was received in Vernon that Studie W. Smythe, a son-in-law of former Congressman John H. Stephens, died last Friday at his home in Los Angeles, California. Mr. Smythe was wedded to Miss Stephens at Vernon over twenty years ago and lived at Fort Worth and Oklahoma City. The body will be buried at Oklahoma City.

GRADING STREETS

VERNON, Nov. 4.—The city authorities are grading a number of streets in the south part of the city. A number of streets in the district where paving has been done, has been graded. Work has been halted in paving on account of lack of material and rainy weather.

STOCK MARKET PRICE CHANGES ARE CONFUSING

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Extremely confusing price changing characterized today's session of the stock exchange, the erratic movement being accompanied by a turnover approximating 1,200,000 shares, the largest total of any day since the early autumn period.

The constructive side of the market was again upheld by the railway division.

Call money rose to ten percent.

General weakness characterized foreign exchange. The British rate dropped to the lowest qpotation in several weeks, French bills were at their minimum for almost six months and Italian remittances regeistered an absolutely new low level with rates on Greece.

Strength of Southern Pacific convertibles fives again overshadowed all dealings in the firm to strong bond market.

EXPERT TO ADDRESS ADVERTISING CLUB

"Pat" Patterson, head of the Dallas Ad league, in communication with Sydney Gaines, leader in the movement to establish a similar organization here, has agreed to supply a speaker from the Dallas league for the meeting of the local organization at the Chamber of Commerce this evening. Patterson, if possible, will speak.

Members of the nominating committee, appointed last week, will report, and permanent organization will be perfected tonight.

CHURCH SOCITY OF DISTRICT TO CONVENE TODAY

Opening Friday evening, a convention of Christian Endeavor members from all over the Wichita Falls district, including 13 counties, will be held at the First Christian church, continuing through Sunday evening.

Several hundred delegates are expected, among them prominent religious workers of the city. Eight services, to include music, lectures, demonstrations and worship, have been planned.

R. E. Shepherd is in charge of the music. Dean Colby Hall of T. C. U. is on the program for an address on "Using Our Latent Powers for Christ," on Friday evening.

John Harris of Wichita Falls is president of the district society; E. R. Cline of Wichita Falls, vice president; Miss Ethel Nycum of Wichita Falls, recording and corresponding secretary, and Jack Dale of Henrietta is treasurer.

Mother and Babe In Need, Search For Family Here

Somewhere within a two-mile radius of Wichita Falls lies the solution of the very urgent problem of Mrs. Ethel Ware and her 19-months-old baby, who arrived in Wichita Falls penniless Thursday afternoon.

"Two miles from town" live Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lawler, parents of Mrs. Ware, with whom she plans to make her home.

Until the Welfare council, the Salvation Army and the Y. W. C. A. Travelers' Aid, all working together, are able to discover the particular point "two miles from town" where the home is located, the child and its mother, whose health is delicate, are being cared for at the Salvation Army dormitory, their meals and other necessities being furnished by the Welfare council.

Mrs. Ware came to Wichita Falls from Ennis, Texas, where she and her husband, who, she says, has gone to west Texas in an effort to cure himself of pulmonary trouble, had been living. She went first to Farmersville, where Mr. and Mrs. Lawler had made their home until about one week ago.

Learning that her parents had come to Wichita Falls to live, Mrs. Ware was forced to borrow money with which to continue her trip. Arriving here she appealed to Mrs. Davidson at the Travelers' Aid and to officials at the city hall. It was learned that a car of furniture had been shipped by Mr. Lawler from Farmersville on November 1 and that on November 2 he had come into town with a wagon to unload the car and that he had said he lived "two miles from town."

That statement is the only clue.

MOSLAH TEMPLE CEREMONIAL TO BE BIG AFFAIR

(Special Correspondent.)

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 4.—Moslah Temple's fall ceremonial, which will be held, starting with the registration of Novices Saturday, November 12, and the grand reception and ball that evening, followed by the registration of Novice Saturday, November 13, will mark the opening of the largest ceremonial ever held by Moslah Temple.

New and novel floats will feature the street parades which will be held Saturday, November 13, which are in charge of Noble Lester Cowans. The parade will also feature the nobility in dress suits as well as Moslah Patrol.

The main ceremonial will be held starting at 2 o'clock, Saturday, November 13, and the Stunt Committee have arranged an entire new stage setting for the ceremonial and an entire new set of stunts.

The ceremonial will be over in time for the Nobility to attend the Majestic theater party in the evening and catch the early trains from Fort Worth, Saturday, November 13, should they wish to. Special railroad rates have been granted on the certificate plan and Nobles and Novices attending the ceremonial are urged to procure a certificate when purchasing ticket.

The visiting ladies will register at the Metropolitan Hotel from 9 until noon when they will be guests at a dinner party and later in the afternoon they will be guests of Moslah Temple at the Majestic Theater, where a special Shrine show has been arranged for the occasion.

Denison, Sherman, Cisco, Ranger, Abilene, Brownwood, Coleman, Stamford, Jacksboro, Haskell, Seymour, Graham, Denton and Cleburne have so far been heard from definitely and as petitions are being received in every mail, it is thought that indications point to a 500 class.

Never before has any Temple made such elaborate entertainment arrangements for the visitors and the day will long be remembered by all who attend the ceremonial.

Out-of-town Nobles and their ladies are especially invited to attend the ceremonial as arrangements have been made to take care of the largest crowd ever attending a Moslah Temple ceremonial.

OSTEOPATHS PLAN BIG STATE SESSION

"Osteopathy Day" will be observed with a big celebration in Fort Worth November 5 and 6, by the Fort Worth Osteopathic Society. The big noise will be the football game between the T. C. U. eleven and the American School of Osteopathy from Kirksville, Mo., at Panther Park Saturday afternoon and the entire convention of delegates have reserved seats for the struggle.

Decided action is to be taken at the convention against the proposed establishment of a national health department with a portfolio in the cabinet at Washington, as the osteopaths claim that this is a part of the "conspiracy" to destroy the osteopathic school of practice.

Among the prominent physicians who will attend the convention are Dr. A. O. Sharff and Dr. R. H. Peterson of this city. Dr. Sharff is secretary and treasurer of the Osteopathic Association and is to play an important part in the affairs at the convention.

"GO AND GET IT" AT THE EMPRESS AGAIN

The Empress theater is offering today and tomorrow a return engagement of Marshall Neilan's thrilling story of newspaper life, "Go and Get It."

This production has probably caused more talk than any picture since the "Birth of a Nation" smashing records wherever shown. "Bull" Montana, who recently wrestled in this city, plays the part of the mysteriously human ape, around whom the story is centered.

"Go and Get It" is a newspaper story in which an energetic team of reporters unearth a mystery of startling nature. Back of the entire mystery plot is the pertinent question of the day: Is the substitution of new human organs practicable so far as the prolongation of life is concerned? The audience will be mystified and thrilled by the unusual events that line the path of the reporter who is told to "Go and Get It." It comes more nearly being a perfect production than any other picture, being full of thrills, comedy, romance and drama and critics do not hesitate to pronounce it one of the seasons' best.

NEW NEGRO CHURCH

VERNON, Nov. 4.—The Pilgrim Rest Missionary Baptist church, colored, at Oklaunion, has erected a church building at that place and moved into it. SMART WRAP FOR FOOTBALL DAYS

At the football games this fall, and at the country club, this sport coat will be found just the right thing to keep out the chill breezes. It is a knitted wrap in orange and white made on the fashionable new lines. A huge block design makes a border and a striped design trims the long stole collar and the turn-back cuffs.

big dinner will be spread on the ground, and white folks will make talks to the crowd.

W. P. HUPP, of Akron, Ohio, who says he would not take one thousand dollars for the good Tanlac has done him. Declares his health has been fully restored and that he has gained over 20 pounds.

"I would not take one thousand dollars for the good Tanlac did me," said W. P. Hupp, 839 Camden St., Akron, Ohio, for the past ten years a valued employee with the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

"I will always owe a great debt of gratitude to Tanlac," he said, "because it restored my health completely after everything else failed, and I have gained over twenty pounds. I can now eat better, sleep better and work better and I feel like a brand-new man.

"Before taking Tanlac I suffered night and day from indigestion and my stomach was terribly disordered. I was nervous and weak and could neither eat nor sleep to do any good. I seemed to be going down hill every day for six years. Finally, my condition became so rundown that I lost one or two days from work every week. But, now since my troubles have been overcome, I can hold my own with any man at the plant, and often after working hard all day, I put in overtime at night and feel none the worse from it. I just seem to be full of new life and energy.

"After seeing the good Tanlac did me, my wife began taking the medicine and now she says she feels better than she has in years.

"Tanlac certainly beats anything I ever saw in my life."

Tanlac is sold by all druggists.—Adv.
