Museum offers SPC history scholarship

FLOYDADA--A history scholarship to South Plains College-Floydada campus is offered to qualified residents of Floyd County by the Floyd County Historical Museum. Applications for the $60 scholarship, which equals one-half the tuition cost for a three-hour American history course, are available at the museum in Floydada. To qualify for the award, applicants must live in Floyd County, have a high school diploma or G.E.D.

American History is a required course for college graduation in all Texas Colleges and Universities. Credits and hours earned at the Floydada campus will go on record at South Plains College and will transfer to any accredited college in Texas.

By attending classes on the Floydada campus county residents may save money by living at home, continuing to hold their jobs, and participating in hometown events.

History classes will be offered Tuesday evenings from 6 to 9:00 p.m. at Floydada High School.

College registration will start Aug. 16, 1994, at the Floydada Chamber of Commerce office. Classes will begin Aug. 29, on the same time schedule with other classes taught in Levelland on the SPC campus. Holidays will be the same as on the Levelland campus.

The history scholarship is available only to Floyd County residents, but the college classes are open to any U.S. citizen who has a high school diploma or GED. Interested persons should come by the museum or Chamber of Commerce office in Floydada to register.

County Commissioners adopt budget and set 40 cent tax rate

The Commissioners Court of Floyd County adopted the proposed budget, as previously presented, during the August 8 regular session of the court. To support the budget, the court approved a 40 cent tax rate, a decrease of three tenths of a cent from last year.

A scheduled public hearing on the proposed budget drew no attention, with no one attending the 10:00 a.m. hearing. There was no discussion of the budget prior to its adoption at the Monday morning session.

Motion to adopt the budget was made by Precinct 1 Commissioner Connie Bearden and seconded by Precinct 4 Commissioner Howard Bishop. All voted in favor.

The budget, as adopted, estimates revenues of $1,6080,881.81 added to a carryover of $464,944.34 to provide $2,145,826.15 in usable funds. The adopted budget proposes spending $1,846,816.15 for county operations for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 1994 and ending September 30, 1995.

The court then moved on to setting a tax rate for the taxing year beginning January 1, 1994 and ending December 31,1994. A motion by Precinct 3 Commissioner George Taylor placed the tax rate for the year at 40 cents per $100 of valuation. The motion also allows discounts to those who pay their taxes early, specifically, three percent in October, two percent in November and one percent in December.

The motion was seconded by Bearden and all voted in favor.

County treasurer Glenna Orman presented her report on county finances for the month saying that the county began the month of July with $382,326.91 and had receipts of $249,607.33. Disbursements totaled $153,163.62, leaving $478,770.62 in county accounts at the end of July.

Orman also reported a certificate of deposit for Precinct 3 in the amount of $165,000.00 and one for $40,000.00 in Precinct 4. The CD's have earned $17,323.28 in interest to date this year.

Other items handled at the monthly session included:

... Sheriff Charlie Overstreet met with the court to review all accounts from his department for the month of July. A short review was also held concerning compensatory time off for employees and training school attendance by employees.

... Two agreements for donation of materials were approved by the court. Gerald Ford and Delores Auld agreed to donate railroad ballast suitable for use as road material to the county if the county would haul it away.

... One farm work contract was approved by the court for Jim Doucette for cleaning up old improvements at a location 4 miles south of Aiken to return land to cultivation.

... The court reviewed all accounts and reports related to county finances and authorized the payment of monthly bills.

... Budget amendments were approved allowing the transfer of funds between county accounts to facilitate the payment of monthly bills. Transfer of $10,000.00 to each of the four precincts from the Road and Bridge Fund was also approved.

... Reports of fines and fees collected by elected officials for the month were reviewed by the commissioners. Among the reports presented were those from Justices of the Peace Tim Burge and Dottie Stansell, District Clerk Barbara Edwards, and County Clerk Margaret Collier.

... Minutes from the previous meeting were read and approved as presented.

This year the competition has been moved to Main Street between Locust and Bryant. Last year the pulls were held on the parking lots at the Lockney Post Office and the First Natonal Bank.

Amateur entertainment will begin at 3:00 p.m. Anyone who would like to participate can contact Judy Jackson at the First National Bank in Lockney, 652-3355. The stage will be set up at Locust and Main.

Arts and crafts and food booths will be available at $15.00. Contact Marilyn Anderson at the CableVision office, 652-3328 or Judy Jackson for more information. These booths will be set up on the sidewalks between Locust and Bryant.

If your group is interested in having a money raising activity please contact Marilyn or Judy and let them know so that a space can be reserved.

Charlie and Missy Minnick are coordinating the washer pitching contest. Sign-up will begin at 1:00 p.m. at 718 East Locust or on the lot South of the Tastee Burger. A belt buckle will go to the first place winners and cash prizes for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winners. The buckles are on display at the First National Bank. If you need more information call 652-3752.

Old Fashioned Saturday will be concluded with a street dance beginning at 8:00 and continuing until 12:00. Music will be furnished by Clyde the DJ.

This is the fourth year for Lockney's Old Fashioned Saturday. The event is sponsored by the Lockney Chamber of Commerce.

Public invited to Thornberry reception

The community is invited to come and visit with Mac Thornberry, at a reception at the Lamplighter Inn, Tuesday, August 16, at 7:00 p.m.

Thornberry is the Republican candidate for U.S. Representative of the 13th Congressional District. He will face incumbent Bill Sarpalius in the Nov. 8 election.

The Lamplighter is located at 5th and Missouri, in Floydada. Refreshments will be provided and contributions will be accepted.

Floydada ISD proposes new tax rate

Floydada — Members of the Floydada Independent School District voted to propose a tax rate of $1.146 per $100.00 of valuation for the 1994 tax year. The vote on the proposal was split, with Charlene Brown, Steve Lloyd, Mitch Probasco, Trena Simpson, and Billy Joe Villarreal voting in favor and John Campbell voting against. Board member Don Hardy was not present to vote.

The proposed tax rate is an increase over the prior year of approximately 8 percent. Administrative Assistant Jimmie Collins pointed out that it is still one of the lowest tax rates in the state and several cents below that of schools the same size in this area. He also told the board that the district forfeits over a million dollars in state funding because the local tax rate is not high enough to make FISD eligible for tier two funding which is tied directly to the local tax rate.

A public hearing has been scheduled for Thursday, August 18, at 1:00 p.m. in the board meeting room of the central offices at 226 W. California. This will allow the public to present their views and comments concerning the proposed budget for the 1994-95 school year and the proposed tax rate.

Budget plans were also discussed during the meeting. According to Superintendent Jerry Cannon, "With the reduced state funding, even on a tight budget, we will be operating on a budget with a deficit of about $180,000.00."

"Estimated revenues based on a $1.09 tax rate are $5,874,626.00," said Collins. "Setting the tax rate at $1.146 will make some difference, cutting down on the expected deficit." He added that estimated expenditures, including capital improvements, are placed at $6,057,604.00. The extra funding will have to come out of the districts past reserves.

Capital improvements proposed for the coming year include: black topping a playground area at R. C. Andrews; new cafeteria folding tables at A. B. Duncan; and resurfacing the tennis courts at both the Junior High and FHS. Almost all other budget items have been duplicated from last year with all increases kept to a minimum.

A motion by Probasco with a second by Lloyd called for the approval of the FISD Board policy for ranking of honor graduates. The motion passed with Probasco, Lloyd, Campbell, Villarreal and Simpson voting in favor. Brown opposed the motion and Hardy was not present to vote.

The policy as approved ranks students according to grade point average, with accelerated classes having a weighted average. Advanced placement grades will not be included in determining grade point averages. To be eligible for honors as salutatorian or valedictorian, a student must graduate with the class year they were enrolled with in the ninth grade and must have been a student at FHS for the entire year preceding graduation.

Students may graduate in three years under special circumstances and with administration approval. Students graduating with a class other than their original 9th grade class forfeit eligibility to be valedictorian or salutatorian, but will be ranked by grade point average in the class they graduate with. A three year graduate who would qualify for the number one or two spot by grade average will be recognized as a three year honor graduate.

BY THE WAY!

BY ALICE GILROY

This is a story about putting your foot down. The kind of foot putting you do with your kids. The really serious kind of foot putting.

Brandon's babysitter has some rabbits. Some very sweet rabbits. He talked about them all the time and he wanted one too. I made the mistake of not saying No. I said—"Maybe, you can have one. You have to ask your dad. If he says yes maybe he'll build a cage for it."

The eyes lit up. That was as good as a yes because everyone knows dads hate to be the heavy on a little issue like this. I guess Brandon figured he had it in the bag.

As soon as Dad got home he was hit up with, "Can I have a rabbit-please Daddy—pleasssseeeee?"

The answer was a simple, straightforward and very shortsighted "No".

The little jaw dropped. The eyes filled up with tears and the wailing started. He only lifted his face off the pillow long enough to make sure we could hear the crying better.

My husband was dumbfounded. Normally Brandon handles "No's" a lot better than that—so it had to be my fault. "Why is he so upset," I'm asked. "Did you tell him he could have a rabbit?"

Well not exactly.

Anyway—the crying is louder. My husband is trying to regain control. He has already said no very emphatically, so now he tries threats.

"Brandon," he says, "crying does not get you what you want. It's not going to help."

Much louder wailing. More secretive discussion. More reasoning. More wailing. More secretive discussion.

"Now listen Brandon," says the Daddy who hates to be the meanie. "You can't have a rabbit but maybe we could look at hamsters."

It was a miracle. I've never seen tears stop so fast.

Two days later we are hamster shopping. Although Brandon is fascinated with them Daddy decides they are nothing but glorified mice and doesn't want one. Now how is he going to get by this? I mean after all—he has put his foot down.

We keep walking around the store thinking and worrying over this mouse decision. We keep walking by the rabbit cage. Those cute little bunnies keep sticking their noses out the cage.

"I have to admit," says Put Your Foot Down Dad. "Those rabbits are cute. Let's get one—as long as Brandon feeds it and cleans the cage." Our son agreed.

Brandon had it in the bag all along.

It's a good thing they have a tough mom in the house. I gave in to the rabbit—it only cost $12.00—but I drew the line at the $50.00 rabbit cage.

I was appalled. I will not spend $50.00 on a cage for a little rabbit!!! I put my foot down. Dad agreed—that was too much. He would build one.

We have now spent over $100.00 in lumber, screen, etc., for that one $12.00 rabbit. It's a very nice cage. The rabbit will be very comfortable.

While I was out in the yard cleaning the cage, my husband jokingly said he was going to hang a picture of a rabbit in the cage to make it more homey for our bunny. We laughed.

My son overheard and thought it was a great idea. He wants to hang a picture. I told him No.

I've put my foot down.

Wilson inducted as Phi Eta Sigma member at Tarleton

Kenneth Wilson, a Tarleton State University student from Floydada, was one 59 students inducted in the Phi Eta Sigma national freshman honor society. University officials recommended the students for membership at the end of their freshmen year last spring.

Students inducted into the society must have been enrolled full time at the University and have earned at least a 3.5 grade point ratio as freshmen. Only eight percent of college freshmen throughout the nation achieve this distiniction.

Wilson is a Pre-Engineering major at the University and he is the son of Trina Wilson of Floydada.

Phi Eta Sigma was founded in 1923 at the University of Illinois with the purpose of encouraging and rewarding superior academic achievements among freshmen. It was chartered on the Tarleton campus in 1981, and there are over 200 chapters throughout the United States and the District of Columbia.

Have a good week!

Don Turner shares FNB exhibit

FLOYDADA — Don Turner, a western artist from Turkey, is the second artist featured at the First National Bank of Floydada exhibit for the month of August. He shares the honors with Otho Stubbs who was profiled last week.

Turner grew up always drawing. He was encouraged by his teachers, especially his agriculture teacher, to continually improve his skills. Following graduation, he accepted a position as the staff artist for the Cattleman Magazine. His work also appeared in The American Hereford Quarterly, Quarter Horse Journal, Santa Gertrudis Journal and many other magazines during this stage of his career.

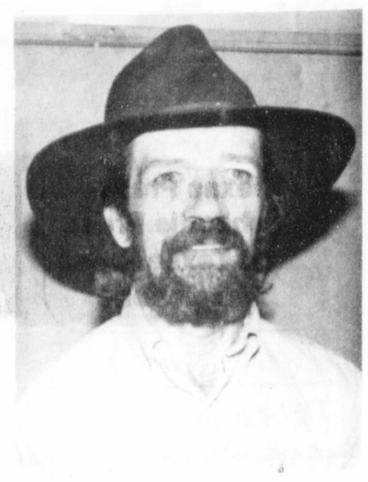

A hitch in the Army and several years working as an artist were followed with a return to working as a cowboy. Turner worked on ranches in Texas and New Mexico, eventually settling on a ranch in the Gila Wilderness area of New Mexico. Packing mules into the mountains, he lives the authentic cowboy lifestyle.

During this time, Turner was honing and adding to his artistic skills. He learned the ancient crafts of silversmithing and leatherworking as well as spur making from others who held his belief that the past can teach modern man a lot. From the Native Americans he learned the art of jewelry making. Modern ranch life inspired his work in bronze sculpture.

Turner has exhibited his works throughout the Southwest. His shows have been held at the Blue Gem Gallery in Texas, The Mountain Oyster Club in Tucson, Arizona, The Lodge in Cloudcroft, New Mexico and in Ruidoso New Mexico.

Current projects include a series of story-telling spurs. Much like the Native American story-telling bracelets, his handcrafted gold and silver western boot gear are being handled by galleries in Santa Fe, New Mexico and in Sedonia, Arizona.

Everyone is invited to come by to see this unique display of western art at the First National Bank of Floydada during regular business hours throughout the month.

Perez awarded WTPA scholarship

The West Texas Press Association recently awarded Cindy Perez, of Lockney, the Bob Craig Memorial Scholarship for $500.00. The Floyd County Hesperian-Beacon is a member of The West Texas Press Association, and as such, was able to submit Perez for consideration of the scholarship.

She will receive the scholarship at a rate of $250 per semester for two semesters during which journalism courses are taken at the college of the recipients choice. Perez will be attending West Texas A&M and will be majoring in journalism.

A 1994 graduate of Lockney High School, Cindy is the daughter of Efren and Maria Perez. At the time of her graduation she was a member of the National Honor Society, editor of the school yearbook and co-editor of the school newspaper, The Informer. She had also served on the annual staff and was a regional UIL qualifier in journalism for two years.

Besides keeping her busy academic schedule at school, Perez was also a Varsity Cheerleader for four years, band section leader for two years, participant in One-Act plays, and held down a part time job at The Floyd County Hesperian for 2 1/2 years.

Staff Photo

In applying for the scholarship, Perez was required to write a 250-500 word essay on the subject, "My Future and Career Plans in Community Journalism."

In her essay, Perez said, "My parents have stressed and pushed each of their children to get all the education they possibly can. They have taught us to work hard and to never take things for granted....

"Working had is something I have had to do for everything during my high school years. I not only have had to work part-time but I have been able to keep my grades up....

"I want to get a college education not only for myself but for my family and for the people in the community of Lockney. After finishing college I plan on coming back home (Lockney) and pursue my journalism career here.

"The county has a wonderful newspaper and for many people it is the only source of information they receive. I want to make sure that information is correct and I want people to have someone they can trust for reliable information."

"While working at The Hesperian-Beacon, Perez has been responsible for all aspects of getting the newspaper out to its readers," said Alice Gilroy, publisher. "She was a typesetter, reporter, photographer and even did some light bookkeeping. She was also involved in the paste-up of the pages and delivering the paper to the newsstands and post-office.

"There was almost nothing that went on in this office that Cindy was not helpful with. I can't think of anyone that is more deserving of this scholarship.

"We are going to miss her, but look forward to her return and the education she will be bringing back with her."

NICE TO MEET YOU--This young "Cooper's Hawk" was found by Floydada citizen RosieLee Jones, as it was standing in front of a church in the 500 block of E. Lee. Jones called the city and Ray Tinney, a water and sewer technician with the City of Floydada,was dispatched to the area to check on the hawk. The bird was very weak and without any hesitation climbed onto Tinney's gloved hand. Tinney drove back to City Hall with the hawk riding on his finger. Once there, the bird was immediately adopted by city personnel who provided a cage and raw meat, which the bird devoured. The game warden was called and arrived two days later to take possession. The game warden said Tinney had taken excellent care of the hawk and after a check-up will be returned to the wild.

Rapunzel returning to Floydada

The rock group Rapunzel will once again appear in Floydada, but this time they won't be performing for the youth crowd but will be making themselves free to mingle with the crowd.

A free "Back To School Dance" will be held at Duncan Elementary Cafeteria, August 20, from 8:00 p.m. - 12:00 midnight. A guest DJ will spin the records and Rapunzel will mix with the crowd. "They are coming to listen, to dance, and to talk," said Rapunzel manager Glenda Cameron.

After their last visit to Floydada High School in January they have been overrun by calls and letters from Floydada youth. "Rapunzel has talked to some many Floydada kids since they came that the group really felt a need to come back and just visit with the kids," said Cameron.

Rapunzel is known for their message to teenagers of fun without drink, smoke or drugs. The band maintains a hotline with the Lubbock Regional Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse for people seeking help. They also correspond with fans and meet personally with them whenever possible.

The dance is free, however it will be open only to Floydada Junior High and High School teenagers. Out of town teenagers will be admitted if they are guests of a Floydada teenager. If a teen leaves the dance he will not be allowed back in.

Rapunzel is appealing to young couples in the area to come to the dance and help with chaperoning. "It would be helpful to have young couples who are familiar with the youth in Floydada," said Cameron.

Anyone wishing more information on the dance should contact Roxanne Cummings, at 983-3035.

Have a nice day!

Faulkenberry and Turpen united in marriage

MRS. JOHN DARRELL TURPEN II

Melissa Renee' Faulkenberry of Floydada and John Darrell Turpen II of Happy Union were united in holy matrimony Saturday evening August 6, 1994. The double ring ceremony was held at 6:30 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Floydada and was officiated by its pastor, the Reverend Clark Williams.

The bride is the daughter of Don and Shelia Faulkenberry of Floydada. She is the granddaughter of Gordon and Nora Mummert of Amarillo, the late F.A. and Pauline Faulkenberry of Floydada and the late A.K. Fair.

Parents of the bridegroom are Bobby and JoDella Evans of Happy Union and John Turpen of Lubbock. The groom's grandparents include Bess Alexander of Lubbock, Cleo Evans of Happy Union and the late Walter and Rosa Culp of Happy Union.

Wedding guests were registered by cousins of the bride, Tammy Hoover of Dallas and Shannon Bloys of Canyon. The table, covered with a white cloth and a white lace overlay, was decorated with a bride and bridegroom figurine, the white guest registry book and the bridal photo portfolio. Ushering guests were Cole Paschall of Paducah and Shane Bloys of Canyon, both cousins of the bride, who also served as candlelighters. Brady Rainwater, also a cousin of the bride, served as junior usher.

The center aisle of the sanctuary was draped on each side with white bridal illusion with fuschia and pink flowers, ribbons and bows trimming each pew. White candles, placed in each window, along with a large brass candelabra with white tapers at the altar area, cast their candlelight on the wedding ceremony. On each side of the ceremonial area, greenery arrangements were placed, accented with large fuschia bows.

Prelude, as well as the traditional processional and recessional, musical selections performed on piano by cousin of the bride, Suzanne Paschall of Paducah, included familiar hymns such as "Shall We Gather At The River". As the candles were lit, "The Rose" was sung by Hope Crabtree, accompanied on the electric piano by her husband, Kay Crabtree of Floydada.

As the grandparents and parents of the couple were being seated, "Always in My Heart" was performed by Hope and Kay Crabtree. Escorting the mothers of the couple were their sons, the groom John Turpen and Troy Faulkenberry, as each mother lit a white candle in brass holder at the altar area of the sanctuary.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full length gown of white satin, cutwork lace and bridal illusion. The fitted bodice, with a V-neck and back was decorated with pearls and sequins, as was the entire gown, giving a dazzling effect to the bridal gown. Beginning at the waist, the gown flowed into a gathered full length decorated skirt. The cathedral length train, spilling from the back waist, was lavishly filled and decorated with pearls and sequins.

The two-tiered fingertip veil was elbow length and was fully decorated with pearls and sequins. The headpiece, also with pearls and sequins, was attached to a double layer pouf of bridal illusion.

Following tradition, for something "old", the bride wore a ring, which has been worn by past generations of the groom's mother's family, and now belonging to the groom's sister, Tonda Howard. "Borrowed" and also "blue" was a blue sapphire ring borrowed from the maid of honor, Alissa Wilson. Placed in the bride's shoe was a "new" 1994 penny, and the other shoe kept two pennies minted in the couple's birth years.

Of special significance was the Bible carried by the bride. It was a gift from the bride's grandfather, the late A.K. Fair, to the bride's mother, and was also carried by the bride's mother when she married. It was attached to the bridal bouquet, a keepsake silk arrangement handmade by the bride's aunt, Freda Brooks and cousin, Suzanne Paschall, both of Paducah, who also handmade all of the wedding flowers and decorations. The cascade bouquet consisted of an assortment of flowers, all in white trimmed with ribbon and lace.

Following the recitation of the vows and the exchange of rings, taking the candles lit by their mothers, the wedding couple together lit the white unity candle, bearing the inscription, "And Two Shall Become As One". This was done while "The Lord's Prayer" was performed by Hope and Kay Crabtree.

Alissa Wilson of Floydada attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Dana Faulkenberry, the bride's sister-in-law of Lubbock, and Tonda Howard, sister of the groom of Dallas. Their dresses, of full length fuschia "candy" satin, were gathered at the V-back, where a white V-sash and candy-box bow were attached. Each attendant carried nosegay bouquets of various flowers in assorted shades of pink, fuschia and white trimmed in ribbon.

The groom, attired in a formal black tuxedo with matching tie and cummerbund, was attended by best man, Rob Gardner of Plainview and groomsmen, brother of the bride, Troy Faulkenberry of Lubbock and Craig Latham, of Plainview. They also wore black tuxedoes, along with white ties and cummerbunds.

Flower girl, Lindsey Paschall, cousin of the bride of Paducah, wore a long white dress accented by pink corsage, and carried a white basket of flower petals and clusters in shades of pink and white. Performing as ring bearer was Sam Howard of Dallas and nephew of the groom, who was also in black tuxedo.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding ceremony, the reception was held in Fellowship Hall, where the bride's cousins, Taryn Rainwater and Lindsey Paschall, and nephew, Derrik Faulkenberry distributed doily bird seed bags to the guests. Displayed were the couple's engagement photo portfolio, as well as the bridal portfolio and guest register. Wedding gifts were placed atop a handmade Dutch Doll quilt made, for the bride as a child, by her grandmother, Pauline Faulkenberry and great-grandmother, Granny Wise.

The groom's table, covered with a white cloth and a white eyelet overlay, welcomed guests to a double ring German chocolate cake made by the groom's mother and her friend, Janese Knocke. Topping and trimming the cake were sugar frosted red grapes and grapevine leaves. A silver coffee and tea service completed the table arrangement. Serving guests were Janese Knocke, her daughter Rebecca Knocke and Sue Mulkey.

The white lace covered bridal table displayed a three tiered white sweetheart wedding cake trimmed with shades of pink flowers and topped with the traditional bride and groom. The table was also enhanced by greenery, mints, nuts and a large silver punch bowl filled with fruit punch. The lattice background decorated with greenery and pink flowers provided a garden effect for the reception. Cake and punch were served by Beth Faulkenberry, aunt of the bride, Kay Rainwater and Suzanne Paschall, both cousins of the bride.

Amid showers of bird seed, the wedded couple departed the church for their honeymoon trip to be enjoyed in the Dallas area. The bride's "going away" attire consisted of an ensemble of long skirt, blouse and vest in shades of hunter green, soft peach and ivory, complete with a keepsake corsage. A beautifully decorated basket filled with punch, glasses, cake and snacks was prepared and given by Freda Brooks and Suzanne Paschall for the couple's wedding journey.

Out-of-town wedding guests travelled from distances throughout the state of Texas such as Brownwood, Allen, Lubbock, Dallas, Amarillo, Paducah, Canyon and Plainview. Serving as wedding director was Freda Brooks of Paducah, aunt of the bride, and director of the reception was Beth Faulkenberry of Floydada, also aunt of the bride.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by Bobby and JoDella Evans, parents of the groom, was held Friday evening. A backyard luau was enjoyed by the wedding party, family and friends at the Evans' home at Happy Union. Toasts of good wishes were made to John and Melissa, who toasted with champagne glasses from the fiftieth wedding anniversary celebration of John's grandparents, Walter and Rosa Culp of Happy Union.

Bridal courtesies included a miscellaneous bridal shower given in the home of Jerry Pearson on July 16, 1994. Hostesses for the event were Flo Cox, Arlene Bearden, Traci Helms, Pat Jones, Loretta Leatherman, Jerry Pearson, Sandra Robinson, Peggy Young, Penny Golightly, Sue Mulkey and Vicki Sellers.

The bride, a graduate of Floydada High School, will be attending Texas Tech University this September. She has recently been employed by Lighthouse Electric Cooperative of Floydada.

The groom, who is a graduate of Plainview High School, attended Texas Aerotech of Dallas. He is a partner in Turpen Insurance Agency and is also presently engaged in farming and Ratitie Business located at Happy Union.

Upon return from their honeymoon trip to Dallas and Possum Kingdom Lake, the couple will make their home in the Happy Union Community.

Summer heat may be dangerous to elderly

The searing summer temperatures in Texas can be deadly because the sweltering weather can be dangerous to the elderly.

Each year about 4,000 people -- most of them elderly -- died of complications due to heat stroke. "Heat stroke is more common and more life-threatening for the elderly," said Katharine M. Jew, M.D., internal medicine physician at Scott & White Memorial Hospital and Clinic, board-certified in geriatrics and associate professor in the Texas A&M University Health Science Center College of Medicine.

The elderly do not sweat properly, which means that their bodies do not cool down adequately. Senior citizens generally are not acclimated to the blistering weather as younger persons are. "The elderly may stay indoors for long periods of times. So when they do go out in the sun, the abrupt heat puts too much stress on their bodies," Dr. Jew said.

"Some medications such as diuretics, alcohol, sedatives and anti-depressants can also affect an elderly person's ability to sweat. These medications may also affect a person's judgement in perceiving how hot it really is," she added.

Elderly persons may not be able to protect themselves from the heat because of physical and/or mental disabilities. Heart disease, lung disease and diabetes can put them at higher risk for heat stroke. "The combination of heat stroke with these other illnesses can be fatal," she said.

When the thermometer soars to triple digits, care-givers must remember that the effects of summer weather can seriously harm an elderly person.

Blistering weather can also generate three kinds of conditions: heat cramps, heat exhaustion and heat stroke. Heat cramps are often experienced by younger persons who have overexerted themselves. The best remedy is drinking plenty of water. The symptoms of heat exhaustion include dizziness, headache, nausea and a low-grade temperature. "A person with these symptoms should go to the Emergency Department for treatment," Dr. Jew said.

The most serious heat illness is heat stroke, which can be fatal if left untreated. Persons experiencing heat stroke will have the following symptoms: severe confusion, dizziness, headache, elevated body temperature, nausea, vomiting and high or low blood pressure. In advance stages, a heat stroke victim may have seizures or go into a comatose state.

Dr. Jew recommended these steps for the elderly and their care-givers when the landscape sizzles under the sun:

*Don't take in a lot of sun and heat all at once. The elderly should acclimate themselves over a one- to two-week period by slowly and gradually exposing themselves to the sun.

*Be sure to drink plenty of liquids. Water is the best and cheapest drink. Drinking alcohol in hot weather can be harmful.

*Avoid going out in the heat during the middle of the day, when the sun and the temperature are at the highest peak. Plan outdoor activities in the early morning or late evening. If you walk to get your exercise, consider walking in an indoor air-conditioned mall.

*Use air conditioners or fans. Don't be afraid to turn them on because of high utility bills.

*Wear light-weight light-colored clothing that is loose-fitting.

*Be aware of the medicines you take and your medical conditions that may put you at higher risk for heat illnesses. If you have a question, call your doctor.

*Increase your rest periods during the heat of the day.

*Do not take salt tablets to replace salt lost in hot weather unless you have talked to your doctor.

Care-givers should be aware of elderly persons' lifestyles and habits. They should check on them at frequent intervals to make sure they have adequate air conditioning and fans.

If an elderly person is experiencing ill effects from the heat, care-givers should do the following:

*Call an ambulance or take the person to the emergency room immediately.

*Remove the person's clothing. Sprinkle water on the person and turn on the fans to cool him down.

Malcolm Moerbe returns to Lockney High School as new athletic director

LOCKNEY—Malcolm Moerbe has returned to Lockney and accepted the position of athletic director and head football coach for the school district. His wife, Jamie, is a Special Education teacher at Lockney High School and they are the parents of two daughters, Lanie 6 and Lindsie 3.

Moerbe comes back to Lockney after a three year stint as defense coordinator at Alice High School.

He is a graduate of Bishop High School and Sul Ross State.

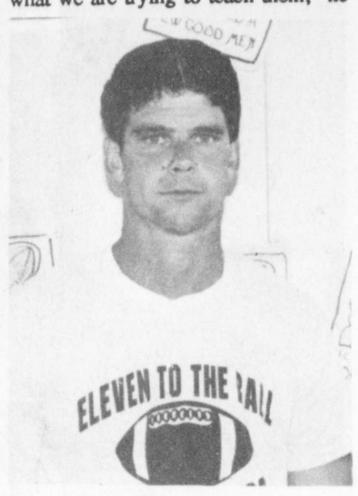

After graduation from Sul Ross State in 1981 he came to Lockney and served as an assistant coach for nine years under head coaches Bob Purser and Jim Clark.

"I am glad to be back in Lockney and I am looking forward to great things for the athletic department," Moerbe stated.

The Lockney Longhorns began their two-a-day workouts at 12:01 on Wednesday morning, one minute after the time set by the U.I.L. Athletic Coordinators.

"The 12:01 a.m. beginning workout went well," stated Moerbe. "We appreciate all the parents and fans who came out. It always helps to know that you have the town behind you."

"We are starting off with a new philosophy and the kids will be quick to pick it up. They are very receptive to what we are trying to teach them," he continued.

MALCOLM MOERBE

"Dowell and Norwood have coached in Lockney for several years, Ventura came in 1992, and this will be the first coaching positions for Sutterfield and Hallmark. Both Sutterfield and Hallmark are graduates of Lockney High School and look forward to being back at home," stated Moerbe.

The Horn's are working out twice a day until school starts and their first game will be at home against Floydada on September 2.

The schedule for the Longhorns includes Floydada, Petersburg, Crosbyton, Springlake-Earth, Olton, Morton, Hart, New Deal, Hale Center and Abernathy.

Whirlwinds slate scrimmage

FLOYDADA--The 1994 Floydada Whirlwinds will be participating in a scrimmage on Friday night, Aug. 12, in Slaton. Freshmen and Junior Varsity teams will play at 5:00 and the Varsity will play at approximately 7:00 p.m.

The coaching staff invites everyone to Slaton to show their support for this year's teams.

Longhorns get early start

By the Lockney Quarterback Club Reporter

If you happened to look out your window early Wednesday morning, say about 3:00 a.m., and wondered why in the world the lights were on at the football field, well it was not a little league game, softball game or even an accident, but the first workout for the 1994 Longhorn football season.

Forty seven prospects reported to training camp at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday morning along with 75 to 100 die-hard fans. The players, coaches and fans were excited about the late night (early morning?) workout.

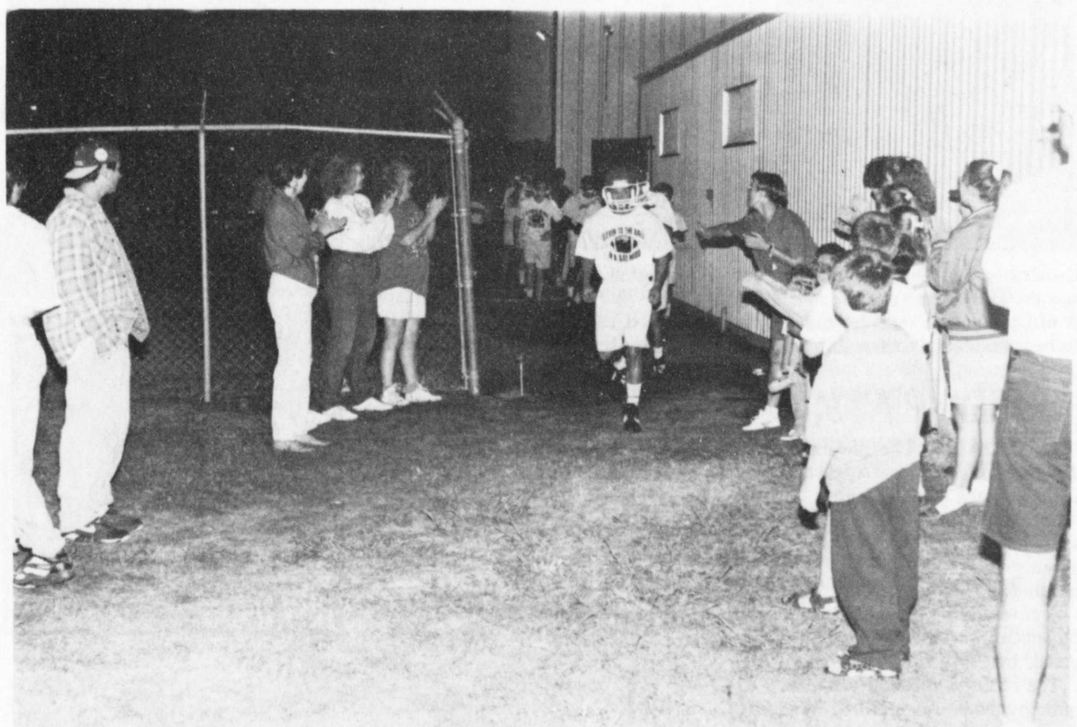

The players worked out until about 3:30 and were given Wednesday off to rest and recuperate. The next practice was held on Thursday at 8:00 a.m.

Coach Malcom Moerbe stated, "The kids came to camp in pretty good shape, but they have a long way to go. They are chomping at the bit and ready to get after it."

The Horns are engaged in "two-a-day" sessions until school starts. The boys started out in helmets and shorts and on Monday, August 8, put the "pads" on for some serious "head knocking."

Also helping with the coaching duties this year are David Norwood, Rodney Dowell, Bobby Ventura, David Sutterfield, and Todd Hallmark. Sutterfield and Hallmark are former Longhorns players who played under Bob Purser and Jim Clark.

Sporting a new and enthusiastic staff the Longhorns are very excited about the '94 season. The team is looking for a supportive community to help them achieve their goals - a successful and exciting season.

STEPPING INTO THE SPOTLIGHTS--The Lockney Longhorn football team, led by senior Tanner Johnson, made their way onto the brightly lit football field for the first annual "Midnight Practice" on Wednesday morning, August 3, at 12:01 a.m. They were joined by many parents, friends, and dedicated fans throughout the practice.

'Winds open drills with new coach

By Bill Gray

FLOYDADA--The curtain rose on a new era of Floydada football last week as new Whirlwind head coach Bryan Davis welcomed about 40 upperclassmen to two-a-day grid drills. Freshmen will not report for practice until the first day of classes. There are many new faces around the Whirlwind camp as Floydada enters its seventh decade of football competition.

Conditioning and orientation were the name of the game for the first several days. Enthusiasm and spirit were quite evident as the Whirlwinds attempt to improve on 1993's 5-5 record. Coach Davis and his staff have installed the "Multiple I" offense, replacing the wishbone option that Floydada has employed for the past seven years. Although Davis plans some new twists and minor changes, the 'Winds plan to stick with the popular "50" as their basic defense.

The new coach is certainly familiar with tradition-rich Floydada football. As a schoolboy quarterback at Post, Davis played against some of the great Whirlwind teams of the 1970s. His father, Bobby Davis, was the Antelope mentor during those years.

Following graduation from Howard Payne University, Bryan spent eight years on his father's staff at Wolfforth-Frenship - where he assisted in building a growing Tiger football program. The next stop was at Olton. In his first head coaching position, Davis guided the Mustangs to the Class 2A playoffs in three of his four years at the helm.

Davis accepted the head coaching position at Floydada this summer following the resignation of Dean Bates who moved on to Class 3A Devine as athletic director/head coach.

Davis stated, "My wife (Karen) and I are excited about living in Floydada and accepting the challenges here." Karen is a "domestic engineer" (according to Davis), and they have three children - Brady (5th grade), Marissa (2nd grade) and B.J. (2 1/2 years old). "We just like the small town atmosphere and feel that Floydada is a good place for our family," said the coach.

Davis added, "I am very impressed with the enthusiasm and good work ethics shown by this team. It's obvious they have had good coaching in the past. Even most of the larger players have good foot speed and quickness . . . those qualities can be attributed to a solid off-season program."

"We expected about 30 to 35 sophomores, juniors and seniors out for two-a-days," said Davis. "We had 40 in camp by the third day of workouts, and I understand about 24 freshmen will join us when school starts. We are pleased to have these numbers out for football - it will help in our overall depth later on."

Unlike his predecessors Earl Overton and Dean Bates, Davis inherits a squad with a winning tradition. The 'Winds have advanced to the Class 3A playoffs in three of the past five years, but Floydada had several losing seasons prior to Overton's arrival in 1987.

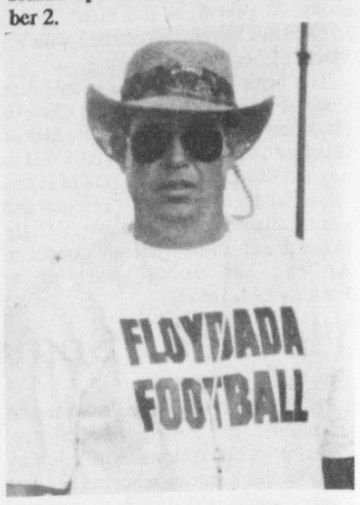

Floydada's turnaround into a yearly playoff contender after 1987 can be attributed, in part, to the off-season program instituted by Overton and continued for the five years under Bates. Davis not only commenced two-a-days with a larger turnout than the past few years, but also has the luxury of a returning all-district quarterback (Sammy Rodriguez) and an all-district running back (Pete Cooper).

"We're still pretty young at some key spots," said the coach, "but we have good size and quickness." The Whirlwinds will be hard-pressed to fill the spots vacated by Adam Gonzales, Brandon Gilliland, Rafael DeOchoa and Tyson Edwards. However, returning linemen D.G. Hollums (5-11, 200) and Zach Abshier (6-2, 180) will be joined by Lionso Cinseros (6-1, 215), Anthony Emert (6-0, 280) and David Watson (6-4, 235) to form the nucleus for the Whirlwinds' forward wall on both sides of the ball.

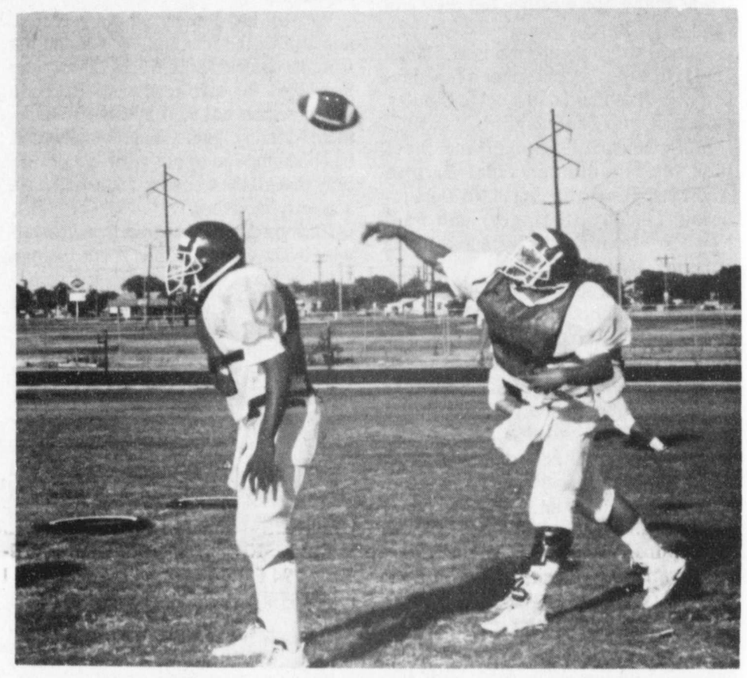

Rodriquez passed for over a thousand yards and Cooper rushed for almost that many (out of the tightly-disciplined wishbone offense), garnering all-district honors a year ago. The "I formation" offense should suit well for this duo - perhaps even better than the wishbone attack.

The kicking game was a big question mark entering the 1994 season. However, Coach Davis has been pleasantly surprised by the emergence of a deep snapper (David Watson) and a punter/place-kicker (Zach Abshier). "The kicking game will be a vital part of our game plans . . . you can win or lose ball games as a result of the special units and the kicking game," stated Davis.

The Whirlwinds donned full pads on August 8, and will continue the two-a-day practice schedule until the start of classes. Floydada will travel to highly-regarded Slaton for the first of two controlled scrimmages, and will host Lubbock Cooper in a final tuneup for the season opener at Lockney on September 2.

NEW COACH AT F.H.S.--New Whirlwind head football coach Bryan Davis takes a short break from two-a-day workouts to discuss upcoming season. The personable coach played high school ball at Post, and has coached at Frenship and Olton prior to taking over the reigns at Floydada. The 'Winds commenced contact drills on August 8 and will travel to Slaton this Friday for the first of two controlled scrimmages. The JV'ers will start at 5:00 p.m., followed by the varsity at approximately 7:00 p.m. at Tiger Field.

Lowe's hosts first golf tournament

Sixty employees of Lowe's Marketplace took to the fairways for a good cause last Monday in the First Annual Lowe's Marketplace Golf Tournament benefiting the American Cancer Society. The event, which took place at Lakeridge Country Club in Lubbock, was an overwhelming success, raising $47,000.

Pictured left to right are Sammie Prather, American Cancer Society volunteer; Christy Reeves, Executive Director of American Cancer Society in Lubbock; John Kyger, Vice-President of Field Income Development-American Cancer Society, Texas Division; and Roger Lowe. Proceeds will fund cancer research, produce educational resources, and provide services to area cancer patients and their families.

The Lowe's Marketplace staff worked with American Cancer Society volunteers in Lubbock to plan and execute the event.

The tournament, chaired by Max Smithey and Lezlie Lowe Harlan of Lowe's, consisted of two flights and approximately 248 golfers participated.

Lakeridge gift certificates were awarded to the first, second, third and last place teams. A golf trip was also provided by Coca-Cola and additional prizes were awarded for the longest drive, shortest drive, closest to the hole, and a special contest called "Roger's Hole." Nobody claimed the hole in one prize, a car sponsored by John Roley's Autoplex in Littlefield. Prizes were given at a special awards dinner held at the conclusion of the tournament. At the dinner, Smithey announced that the tournament will be an annual event. Although the tournament was held in Lubbock, sponsors from across the South Plains participated.

Lowe's currently operates 47 stores in West Texas and New Mexico.

Norwegian student joins Rainer household

Bobby and Noma Lou Rainer have once again opened their home to an AFS exchange student. The newest member of their family is a beautiful young lady from Bergen, Norway, named Kjersti Tvinnereim.

Kjersti pronounces her name Shastee (similar to Shasta except with a long E). She speaks fluent English, a skill she has perfected after having been required to study English since the 4th grade.

"We have to learn English in the 4th grade," said Kjersti. "We study the language through the 9th grade and then have a choice if we want to continue with English courses. I continued studying English through the 10th grade."

Kjersti was also required to learn another language besides English and she chose German. She studied German for four years and also took a Russian language class in the 10th grade.

Kjersti's school year in Norway begins August 22 and goes through June 24. Holidays are very similar to the United States with a two week Christmas holiday, a winter break, 1 1/2 weeks off at Easter, and religious holidays in May which correspond to the Day of Pentecost and the Day of Ascension.

Beginning in the first grade Norwegian students take Christianity courses. They continue these course through the 9th grade. "If the parents are opposed to the Christianity courses," said Kjersti, "the student can choose another course." Kjersti is herself a member of the Lutheran Protestant Church, which is the state church.

"We have other Protestant churches in Norway," said Kjersti, "but the state church is supported by taxes."

Mandatory schooling for Norwegians end after the 9th grade and students then have the choice to further their studies through the 12th grade.

"The 10th-12th grades prepare you for advanced courses in college or teach you a trade," said Kjersti.

Academics are stressed way above sports in Kjersti's school. The only sports inside the school are required gymnastic classes which students have from 1st through 12th grade.

Approximately 600 students are enrolled in Kjersti's high school and approximately 150 students are in her graduating class. She will be enrolled in the 12th grade at Floydada High School however when she returns home she will also attend the 12th grade in Bergen.

Classes are handled a little differently in Bergen. Although the students have a different teacher for usually eight subjects the students do not change classrooms. The teenagers stay in their classroom and the teachers come and go. "We only leave our class for the science courses because of the equipment that is needed for that class," said Kjersti.

Kjersti has two brothers back in Norway, 19 year old, Jon, and 22 year old, Endre. Her mother is a dentist who is in practice once a week and involved in dental research the rest of the week. Kjersti's father is head master of a 7-9th grade school specializing in students with behavior problems.

Kjersti was treated to a bit of a shock when she landed in West Texas. She is used to her coastal city on the west coast of Norway, which is surrounded by lush green mountains.

"I had sent her pictures of the area," said host mother Noma Lou. "She was prepared."

"I knew it was going to be flat," said Kjersti. "I liked it. The other night I could see the lightning and I thought that was very pretty.

"We get lots of rain in Bergen and some weeks you have to wear a raincoat everyday. I was sick of rain and I like this dry climate. There is often a heavy fog over the city and you cannot see the mountains. When visitors come to Norway and it does not rain every day they go home thinking we have a very beautiful country. If it rains every day they are glad to leave," laughed Kjersti.

The hottest part of the summer will usually register between 76-85 degrees in west Norway. The eastern part of the country may get temperatures up to 90 degrees.

Winter time brings temperatures of 30-40 degrees in Bergen. In the eastern regions the cold drops to minus 5 and minus 20 degrees.

"In the summer the sun sets at 11:00 p.m.," said Kjersti. "It rises at 4:00 a.m. Further north (around June 24th) the sun does not set at all."

In Norway, agriculture is limited to small dairy farms and the production of grain. Due to the mountainous terrain large acreage for crops is non-existent. Kjersti shows off a beautiful picture of a tall mountain dropping off steeply into beautiful blue waters. On the side of the mountain is a small farm house. "The house is not occupied now, but when it was the family would tie ropes to the children when they went outside to keep them from sliding down the mountain into the fjord," said Kjersti.

Bergen is a coastal town of 225,000 people (the 2nd largest city in Norway). Tourists are attracted to the large fish-market in the city and there are abundant oil rigs thoughout the ocean bringing up another money making commodity.

Although the school does not promote sports within the school system it does not keep Kjersti from being physically active outside of school. For recreation Kjersti hikes the mountains in the summer and skis in the winter.

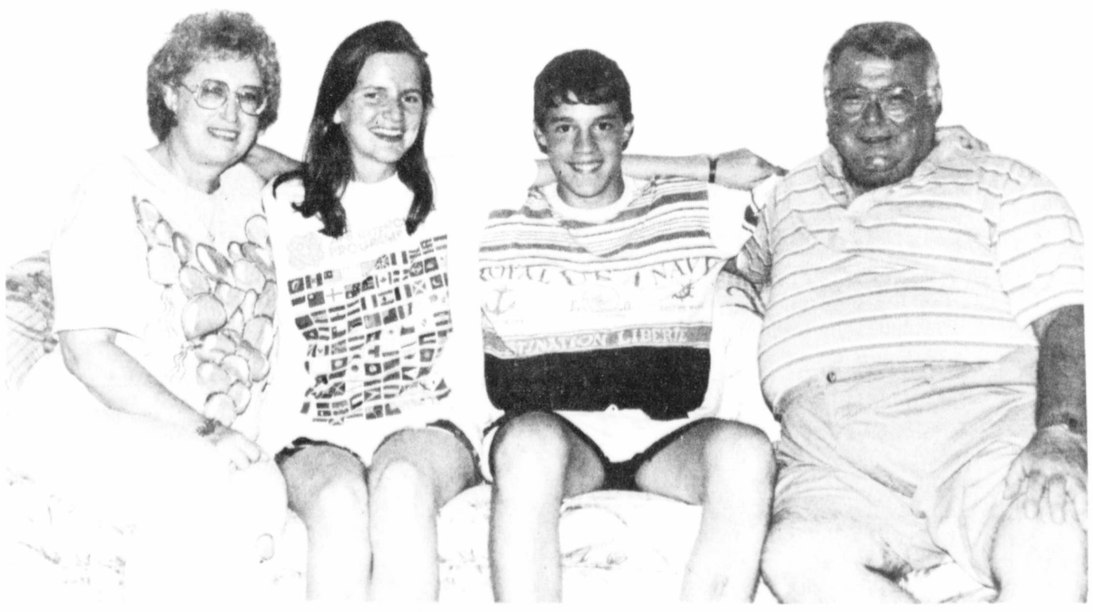

"No one stays indoors in the summer when the weather is nice," said Kjersti. "Everyday you are out walking, participating in sports or many other things."

Kjersti is also involved in a YWCA/YMCA choir which recently toured Europe.

Kjersti is the third exchange student the Rainers have sponsored in their home. Besides being entertained with a Norwegian visitor, the Rainers were also visited this summer by a Frenchman, Christian Jouault.

"Jouault is the nephew of a former exchange student, Anne Marie Jouault, who came and stayed with us from 1982-1983," said Noma Lou. "He is from Brittany, France (close to Rennes) and will return after his six week visit." Jouault is also fluent in the English language and is perfecting his skills while in the United States.

"We have really enjoyed having Jouault here. As soon as Kjersti arrived she and Jouault became good friends. We have decided that we are going to travel soon and visit all our exchange students. We'll get to visit Kjersti in Norway, Jouault and his aunt in France, and Norman Langhoff in Berlin, Germany.

RAINERS WELCOME EXCHANGE STUDENT--For the third time Bobby and Noma Lou Rainer, of Floydada, have hosted an exchange student in their home. This year they are happy to be sharing their hospitality with a Norwegian student, Kjersti Tvinnereim. Kjersti will be with the Rainers through the school year. Also joining the Rainers for a short visit is, Christian Jouault, of France, the nephew of a former exchange student who had previously stayed with the Rainers. Shown here are: (l-r) Noma Lou Rainer, Kjersti Tvinnereim, Christian Jouault and Bobby Rainer.

Research facility renovation now complete

Cotton Incorporated scientists have begun utilizing the benefits of recently completerd renovations at the company's two research center locations in Raleigh, North Carolina.

During a May 12 open house for both the Crabtree Valley and Neil Street facilities, textile executives, industry trade press and Cotton Incorporated officials met and toured the centers that will set the pace in cotton research well into the next century.

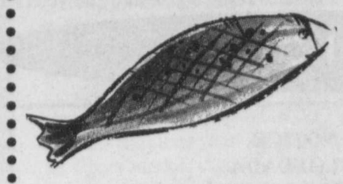

The locations house fiber and fabric processing centers, a color services laboratory, a complete fabric development center and a textile services lab. The operation coordinates programs such as agricultural research, fiber quality and fiber processing, as well as textile research and implementation.

The textile services lab was enlarged to accomodate the increasing numbers of fiber and fabric samples submitted by the High Volume Instrument testing. The Raleigh Research Center is one-half of the research and promotion nucleus that has led the resurgence of cotton to dominance in the domestic textile market.

In addition to wrinkle-resistant technology, the center is responsible for numerous industry developments including the Engineered Fiber Selection™ Cotton Management System and yarn processing techniques that allow for crush resistant pile on 100% cotton area rugs.

SPS announces 20 year contract with Lea County Electric

Southwestern Public Service Company has entered into a long-term power supply agreement with Lea County Electric Cooperative in New Mexico, in which SPS will provide the cooperative's full requirements power into the next century. The agreement will be for 20 years and continues a relationship between the utilities which has existed since Lea County Electric was founded in 1949 Lea County Electric purchased a portion of its power needs from SPS until 1983 when the cooperative discontinued its own generation and began purchasing all its power needs from SPS.

SPS Vice President of Marketing Gary Gibson said SPS is gratified by the contract extension. "This extension by Lea County Electric exhibits faith in SPS's ability to be the best power supplier in the region, and we intend to meet that expectation," Gibson said.

"More than 20% of SPS's business is from wholesale power sales," said SPS President Coyt Webb. "We're pleased that we can provide reliable service at low prices to Lea County Electric and our other wholesale customers," he said.

Lea County Electric is a member-owned cooperative which provides electrical service to more than 6,000 members in southeastern New Mexico and West Texas.

Southwestern Public Service Company is a regional electric utility that primarily provides electric service to a population of about one million people in a 52,000-square-mile area comprising eastern and southeastern New Mexico, the South Plains and Panhandle of Texas, the Oklahoma Panhandle and southwestern Kansas. Corporate headquarters is in Amarillo.

Welborn attends Firemen's School

FLOYDADA--Bobby Welborn, volunteer fireman of the Floydada Volunteer Fire Department, attended the 64th Annual Texas Firemen's Training School, July 24-29. The school, attended by nearly 2,000 students representing about 750 cities from more than 25 states, was held on the Texas A&M University campus..

Firemen can choose their course at the school from a list including Fire Fighting, Fire Prevention, Fire Department Officer Training, Fire Department Pump Maintenance, Specialized Fire Protection, and Disaster Rescue Training.

Fireman Welborn was sponsored by Floyd County Farm Bureau and Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies by contributing toward the cost of the school. Since volunteer firemen are interested in attending this school to help do a better job of fire fighting and fire prevention, 125 County Farm Bureaus and the Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies in the statewide program have sponsored 125 firemen at the school.

"The Farm Bureau Insurance Companies believe Volunteer Fire Departments have been very effective in reducing the amount of loss involved by fire in rural areas," said President Bob Stallman of Columbus. "It is our hope in sponsoring this program that the fireman will help the Floydada Volunteer Department to better serve the residents of Floyd County."

Cotton competitve sales stronger

Bolstered by consumer desire for 100 percent cotton, wrinkle resistant men's pants and ongoing demand for cotton jeans and towels, cotton was able to capture a healthy share of a robust 1993 U.S. textile market.

"Cotton Counts Its Customers," the National Cotton Council's annual market research report, revealed that cotton maintained a competitive share of 37 percent in the 1993 fibers market. A total of 10.426 million 480lb. bales of cotton were consumed—316,000 more than the previous year—in total domestic fibers market that saw 28.2 million bales used in 1993 compared to 27.3 million bales the previous year.

"The additional 316,000 bales of cotton consumed last year were represented by across-the-board gains in domestically-produced apparel, home furnishings and industrial products," said Jim Howell, a Council senior market analyst.

The Council report revealed that nearly 64 percent of all cotton used in 1993 was in apparel, 30 percent was in home furnishings while six percent went for industrial uses. Cotton's strength in the apparel sector was maintained primarily because of: 1) consumers' continued desire for outerwear T-shirts and other knits, 2) the dominance of denim jeans in the men's pants market and 3) the momentum gained by wrinkle resistant men's pants throughout the year.

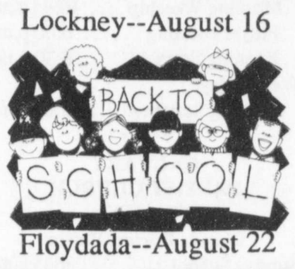

"The apparel sector also was helped along by the introduction of wrinkle resistant men's shirts late in the year," Howell said. "These shirts were being produced for sale to consumers primarily for Father's Day in 1994.

Howell said the cotton end use data helps explain why cotton also was able to capture 65 percent of the total apparel market in 1993, a reflection of consumers' preference of cotton to manmade fibers.

The Council analyst said 1994 market data likely will reflect the continuation of trials to wrinkle resistant technology in cotton clothing items such as suits, shorts, sleepwear and other "at-home wear" apparel.

"It also appears that 100 percent cotton will be the fabric of choice for wrinkle resistant pants in the women's and children's categories, too," Howell added.

Cicada killers have been found around the South Plains

A very large wasp, the "cicada killer," is making it's annual summer appearance on the South Plains. This wasp is the largest in our area, being about 1 1/2 inches in length.

This wasp is much more interested in stinging cicadas than people. They can often be seen dragging or flying and carrying paralyzed cicadas back to their nests.

Depending upon their size, from one to four cicadas are provisioned in each underground cell. The female lays an egg on the last cicada she places in a cell. As many as four females may provision a single nest simultaneously although only one of them made the initial excavation.

The wasp larva which hatches form the egg has a cicada meal waiting. After consuming the cicadas provisioned in a cell, the wasp larva remains underground until the following July when the adult wasp emerges again to repeat the cycle.

Cicada killers are not aggressive and seldom attach humans. The males are not capable of stinging. Only the female can sting.

Cicada killers are considered beneficial insects because they prey cicadas. However, they can be present in sufficient number to be a nuisance. For control you may use one of the outdoor aerosol sprays containing pyrethrum or dust the nest entrance with sevin.

Lockney's UMC observes 100th anniversary of Bible Schools

LOCKNEY — Continuing a tradition that began a century ago this year, the First United Methodist Church of Lockney recently held Vacation Bible School. The theme this summer was Beneath the Storytelling Tree. 119 children, adults, teachers and helpers participated in this celebration of 100 years of Vacation Bible School.

Children from 4 years old through 6th grade students came to the church at Poplar and Main Street each evening from July 24 to the 27th to study the Parables Jesus Told from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. Roy Ray of Cargill Hybrid Seeds drove a company trailer around to pick up the children. Shawnda Foster and Pat Schwab expressed their gratitude to all who helped or participated in the VBS activities.

1994 marks a century of the annual event. In May and June of 1894, Mrs. D. T. Miles, wife of the pastor of the Methodist Church in Hopedale, Illinois, organized the first known Vacation Bible School in the United States. That year, forty children were enrolled and classes lasted four weeks. It was held in a public school building and an adjoining park.

The children studied the Bible, including finding references, spelling Bible names, learning the geography of the Bible stories, and memorizing Bible passages. Parents contributed a dollar for each child to cover the cost of supplies, many of which are still indispensable for Vacation Bible Schools today, modeling clay, sewing materials, picture cards, and topographical "sand maps." After a century, VBS is still the highlight of many children's summer.

SIDERS' SIDELINES

By Kerry Siders, CEA-Ag

Two result demonstrations here in Floyd County should be of great interest to cotton producers. The first is the Staple herbicide study for control of venice mallow at the Mickey Dot Hammond farm in Floydada. This applied research project has been repeated now for three years. Though Mickey Dot may not think we are getting much accomplished because of the weedy untreated check plots his assistance is one reason that DuPont was granted an Experimental Use Permit and has been tested extensively over the past half dozen years.

Staple herbicide can be used both preemergence and post-emergence to the crop and/or weeds, at rates of 0.6-2.3 oz of product per acre. It is particularly effective on pigweed species, morningglory species, Russian thistle, lanceleaf sage, venice mallow, cocklebur, velvetleaf, devils claw, and other broadleaf weeds. No activity has been noted on blueweed or lakeweed. It can be tank mixed with MSMA-DSMA or Assure II to achieve annual and perennial grass control. Hopefully, DuPont will receive full federal label clearance for the 1995 use season.

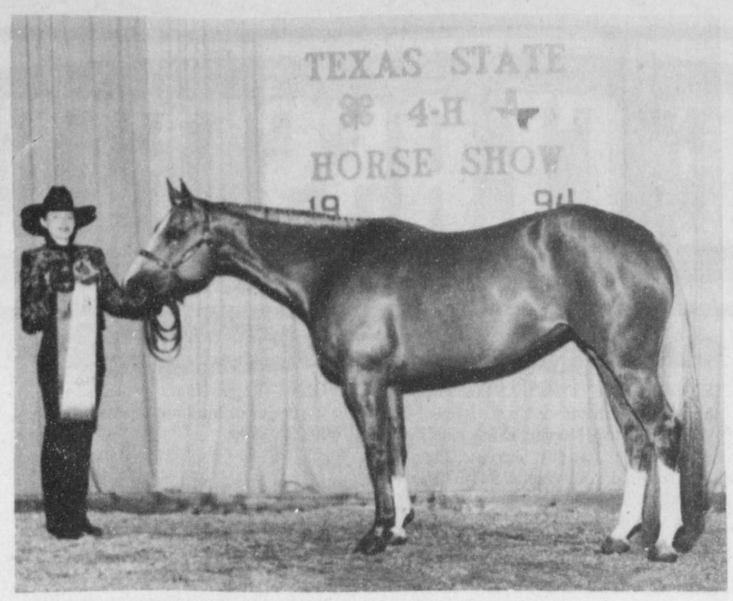

Another unique field demonstration is at the Ricky Mosley farm in Lockney. This contains the transgenic cotton which is resistant to Buctril herbicide. The herbicide can only be applied over cotton that has been genetically modified for crop tolerance to Buctril. The BXN cotton is a development from Calgenel Stoneville Seed Company in cooperation with Rhone-Poulenc. An Experimental Use Permit granted this year has allowed us an opportunity to look at it for control of cocklebur and venice mallow. It also will provide control of sunflower, morningglory and some other broadleaf weeds. It allows for a post-emergence "burndown" type of herbicide to be applied directly over the top of cotton genetically modified to tolerate the herbicide. Other cotton varieties would be serverely damaged, just as we have demonstrated at Rick's farm by applying the Buctril over a few rows of HS-26 variety as well.

The Stoneville variety is presently a picker-type. Hopefully in 1995 a full label clearance will be granted and more Buctril-resistant varieties will be available.

Amy is an 8th grader at Lockney Junior High School where she plays basketball and track. She is the daughter of Bill and Francis Davis.

Davis uses her 10-year-old gelding, Small Town Tuffy, for showmanship, pleasure, and horsemanship as well as halter. She has won 12 American Quarter Horse Association Youth Grand championships, several all-arounds, and numerous reserve championships.

Davis feels that young people should become involved in 4-H to learn and grow, to make new friends and to travel.

When asked how she would like people to see her, she said, "Dedicated and caring towards all my animal projects."

The 32nd Annual Texas State 4-H Horse Show is managed and produced by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System. The focus of the show is the showcase youth from third grade to age 19 in their area of expertise with their 4-H project. Recognition of a young person for their accomplishments and reaching their personal goals is the underlying purpose for such events through the 4-H Program in Texas. Along with parents and Extension faculty members the show is conducted with the assistance from many volunteer adult leaders from the twelve Extension districts in the state. Without these valuable volunteers the opportunities youth have in the 4-H program would be far fewer.

RDA creates or saves over 19,000 jobs in rural areas

More than 19,000 jobs will be created or saved in rural areas this fiscal year through the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Development Administration (RDA) Business and Industry Program, according to RDA Acting Administrator Wilbur T. Peer.

"The RDA Business and Industry program is helping to provide new jobs in rural areas by working with banks to make financing available to new or expanding businesses," Peer said. "Thousands of jobs are also being saved by helping companies that would have to go out of business without additional financing."

"The Administration is emphasizing the Business and Industry Program as part of its commitment to participate with the private sector to help create jobs and improve the rural economy," Peer said.

Nationally, RDA has invested $144,942,250 for 81 loans this fiscal year, which began last October first. Nearly $135 million remains available for the rest of the fiscal year which ends September 30, 1994.

In Texas, RDA has invested $2,500,000 this year in rural areas to create and/or save 230 jobs.

Under RDA's Business and Industry Program, guaranteed loans are available for such purposes as the start-up or purchase of a business, working capital, conversion from one type of business to another, expansion, and modernization.

"The RDA guarantee helps small businesses find credit that otherwise may not be available. Banking regulations have been tightened over the past few years and some banks, especially small rural banks, may be hesitant to lend to emerging businesses," Peer said.

"Even smaller banks, however, can make loans with the RDA guarantee because the guarantee reduces their risk. And the guaranteed portion of the loan does not count against their reserves," he said. "In addition, banks can sell the guaranteed portion of the loan on the secondary market. Also, these loans help lenders fulfill their obligation to the community in accordance with the Community Reinvestment Act"

Companies of any size can apply for guarantees on loans of up to $10 million. The amount of the Federal guarantee depends on the size of the loan. A maximum 90 percent guarantee is available for loans under $2 million, an 80 percent guarantee on loans of $2 million to $5 million, and a 70 percent guarantee is available on loans over $5 million up to $10 million.

"The Business and Industry Loan Program is one of the least costly to the American taxpayer," Peer said. "Since the Federal Government only guarantees the loan, there is no direct outlay of Federal dollars unless there is a loss on the loan."

The RDA Business and Industry Loan Program is administered at the local level by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) and is available through FmHA State Offices around the country.

FLOYD CO. AG. UPDATE

August cotton estimate provides glimpse

by Shawn Wade

The release of the August 11 crop production estimate will provide the first glimpse of what the future might actually hold for the 1994 High Plains cotton crop.

According to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) the August estimate should reflect the state of the area crop after July 22, the date when enumerators from the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service began collecting crop data.

The rapidly maturing High Plains crop is still keeping most crop observers in the dark about how things will turn out. With the area's planted acreage placed at 3.27 million acres the potential still exists for a 1994 crop in the neighborhood of 2.5 to 2.75 million bales, although some estimates are well below these figures.

The biggest question mark remains the area's dryland acreage. The dryland crop has struggled throughout the season from a lack of both in-season rainfall and subsoil moisture. Significant acreage is still characterized as having little yield potential and prospects for the remainder of the dryland crop will hinge on August and September weather.

Kater Hake, cotton specialist at the Texas A&M Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, notes that the 1994 crop is such a mixed bag that no matter what the weather does it will be good for some and bad for others. He notes that there are some dryland fields, generally those that were planted in late May or early June, that are in better shape than earlier planted fields.

Hake attributes this difference to the fact that some of the later planted dryland fields are just now beginning to bloom and did not suffer as much during June and July. Most irrigated fields continue to look good and should produce average or better yields provided the weather and insects cooperate.

Following his successful heart transplant operation PCG Chairman of the Board Wayne Huffaker of Tahoka has asked PCG to pass along his sincere thanks to everyone on the High Plains and across the rest of the Cotton Belt for the support they have given him during his time in the hospital.

Haffaker underwent the operation on July 16 and currently remains in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock to continue his recovery.

TDA holds seminar for Mexico's environmental regulatory agency

About 50 officials from Mexico's environmental regulatory agency will attend an August 2-4 Texas Department of Agriculture seminar on U.S. pesticide regulations and enforcement, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

"Mexico has requested this seminar because they want to learn more about how we regulate pesticides in the United States and how we enforce our pesticide laws," Perry said. "As this seminar indicates, the North American Free Trade Agreement has clearly opened up the lines of communication between our countries."

The "Comprehensive Pesticide Use Course" will give participants information that includes pesticide product registration, training and licensing for pesticide applicators, and how routine inspections are conducted. The seminar will be at the Fairway Resort in McAllen. Three officials from Nicaragua are also expected to attend the seminar.
