PLAINVIEW, July 6.—Thousands of bushels of wheat, dumped in fields and around elevators on account of the congested condition of rail traffic during the unprecedented heavy harvest, are being rained on here today. However, the rainfall is not expected to hurt the grain, as it drains off at once. It is feared that water running under the piled up wheat, however, will rot it from the bottom up, and cause considerable loss.

It is understood that this congestion of shipping facilities will continue throughout the summer. At present shipments wait on the return of cars from Galveston, it is said.

Photographs of the wheat dumped on the ground waiting for rail transportation are being made. However, A. B. Martin, of the South Plains railroad commission, said that these could not be used as evidence before the interstate commerce commission at Washington July 19, in the hearing on additional rail facilities for the South Plains, because that case was closed as far as evidence was concerned. He said he would, however, carry the photographs with him as a matter of interest.

CONTRACT AWARDED STARTS COMMITTEE ON ROAD CANVASS

JACKSON AND CLUTTER GIVE ADDITIONAL LAND

15 FEET NEEDED

HOLT WILL SOON START ON GRADING AND DRAINAGE

With the announcement yesterday morning of the award by the state highway commission of the contract for grading and drainage work on the 16 mile Lubbock-Slaton road, a chamber of commerce committee headed by A. W. Dixon at once began a canvass of property owners along the route to obtain the additional right of way averaging about 15 feet, for the new 80 foot highway.

With A. W. Jackson and B. C. Clutter, large owners of land abutting on the highway, offering the necessary sections of their land free, and aiding in the canvass, it was said last night that a large part of the additional right of way had been given. The county will move the fences back free of charge, or if desired the farmers can leave their fences down and cultivate the land as far as possible toward the actual road bed, which will be only 18 feet, A. R. Davis, manager of the Lubbock chamber of commerce said last night.

The county will move the fences back free of charge, or if desired the farmers can leave their fences down and cultivate the land as far as possible toward the actual road bed, which will be only 18 feet, A. R. Davis, manager of the Lubbock chamber of commerce said last night.

Mr. Davis said the commission really preferred this latter course, as crops growing on the right of way would tend to hold the soil.

Fred B. Holt, of Alpine was granted the grading and drainage contract yesterday, his bid being $26,222.45. The bid of W. L. Culverhouse of Moran was low, but it was thrown out as irregular. Work will start soon.

The contract for hard surfacing the road will be held up until the county commission decides what type of surfacing to use. The commission, with Judge Nordyke, is now at Austin, where they eat with highway board yesterday.

The new road will follow the line of the present one with few exceptions. It will leave Lubbock, however on Avenue H extending for a mile due south, detouring around the flat to the old road.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS GIVEN BUILDING SITE ON AVENUE M BY DOCTORS HUTCHINSON, OVERTON, AND KRUEGER

Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, Dr. M. C. Overton, and Dr. J. T. Krueger, of the Lubbock Sanitarium, will receive the gratitude of one hundred twenty-five Camp Fire Girls of Lubbock today, and eventually of many more as the organization grows. They have presented the girls with a building site 80x140 feet on Ave M just a few feet off of 19th street south, in the Myrick addition. The lot faces west and plans to improve it are being worked out by Mr. J. W. Gamel and his committee from the Camp Fire Council.

Plans had been made for renting a house for the Camp Fire girls, but now since the gift has made it possible, the organization will go forward with plans for a permanent home. The gift of the site is encouraging to the council and to the members of the Junior Twentieth Century Club, who are sponsoring the Camp Fire work in Lubbock. These doctors have rendered a service to the girls which cannot be over estimated, and for which they cannot be too highly praised, the Camp Fire Council declares.

The Camp Fire organization will probably be incorporated soon, and a loan secured for a building. The council will meet at three o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. L. Petermann when this will be discussed. The council is enthusiastic over the gift and the prospects for a permanent home which is made possible by it, as with out a gift of this kind it would probably have been years before a building could have been erected.

Mrs. McPherson Summoned Before Grand Jury to Tell of Her Alleged Kidnapping; Many Others Called

By United News
LOS ANGELES, July 6.—Out of a maze of halting moves and conflicting reports, definite action at last appears probable in the investigation of the Almee Semple McPherson kidnapping case.

Subpoenas were issued today for Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her children and virtually every man and woman who has figured in the many angles of the sensational story of the evangelist's disappearance at Venice May 18 and appearance at Agua Prieta, Mexico, June 23.

They were summoned to appear before the county grand jury Thursday.

Though the case is being brought to the jury on the theory that Mrs. McPherson's story is true in its entirety, every detail upon which hinges any vagueness or lack of substantiation will be brought out.

Decision to call the evangelist's case to the grand jury was reached after a two hour secret conference between District Attorney Keys, Deputy District Attorney Ryan and Detective Chief Cline.

A mass of evidence from authorities in Douglas, Ariz., and Agua Prieta, where Mrs. McPherson disappeared five weeks after her supposed drowning, was believed the basis for the district attorney's sudden move to present the case to the jury.

The action was also construed as direct rebuke to those who have criticized authorities for alleged laxity in their investigation. Chief Cline late today called a conference to check over the facts in the case in preparation for its presentation to the grand jury.

Besides Cline those present were Deputy United States Attorney O'Hannesian, Arthur Veitch, the evangelist's attorney, Nick Harris, private detective employed by Mrs. McPherson several days ago, Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan and Assistant Captain Joe Taylor.

Heirs to Throne Fail to Marry

By United News

LONDON, July 6.—Europeans are commenting on the fact that there are now five young royal bachelors ready to ascend their father's throne in the Old World.

This is the first time in history, it is believed, when the responsible heirs-apparent to European thrones have shown such a marked disposition to enjoy their twenties free from marital cares.

According to the various genealogical tables, the youngsters destined in the past to monarchical rule have been firmly pressed—not to say hustled—into wedded bliss at a very early age; that tendency, it is widely remarked, is somewhat slowing down.

These five royal bachelors are: Edward Albert, Prince of Wales, heir-apparent to the British throne, age 32, enjoying an income of £33,000 a year.

Prince Leopold, Duke of Brabant, heir to the Belgian throne, age 25, studied philosophy under Cardinal Mercier, restless, inclined to travel, enjoys comfortable allowance.

Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, age 23, tall, stinky, good-looking, fond of outdoor sports and not yet over-impressed by the ladies.

Prince Umberto, Prince of Piedmont and heir-apparent to the Italian throne, age 22, will surrender, it is believed, at an early date.

Prince Alfonso, Crown Prince of Spain, age 19, as son of a Latin father and an English mother, the conflicting racial tendencies are so mixed in him that the outcome may be said to be in doubt.

Too young to be called a spinster, she walks the trim, neat grounds of the Palace Noordeinde in The Hague, a young unmarried girl who might be counted a sixth in the hostess of unmarried prospective princesses. She is the Crown Princess Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina, who is destined to succeed Queen Wilhelmina; she might, if the hand of destiny moved suddenly, ascend the throne of Holland and become an unmarried queen.

However, she is only 17 and it is believed that she will marry one of the Scandinavian princes before very long. Two years ago Amsterdam was stirred by the wild report—since officially denied—that she had fallen in love with the cantor of the great Jewish synagogue in Amsterdam. She is diligently and impartially studying the Scandinavian tongues, and Dutch opinion looks for an alliance in that direction.

TECH IMPROVES FOOTBALL FIELD

GRASS BEING PLANTED ON ATHLETIC FIELD AT COLLEGE

The Tech will have one of the best playing fields in the southwest for football next year as a result of the work which is now being done. The field is in the athletic park northeast of the engineering building. It is an oval field and will drain quickly giving no chances for a muddy field.

Bermuda grass has been planted and is up. A workman is kept on the field all this summer watering and clearing it of weeds. By the time that fall practice begins a thick mat will have grown and the players will be assured of a soft place on which to fall. According to several local men who have seen fields of several large universities in the south, Tech's field will rival them all and will be a credit to the school.

Uncle Sam's Advice to Plumbers

By United News

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Plumbing often gets out of order and little repair jobs can often be taken care of by householders with the aid of a few simple tools, according to Uncle Sam.

"Loose or rough edged washers cause vibrating or rattling noises, worn washers cause leakage," he advises in a governmental bulletin in the subject. "Replacing washers, after the water is turned off from the main, is a simple job."

Rust and dirt in water pipes are more or less successfully removed as follows:

"Tie a piece of small, stout cord to each end of a two foot length of small chain. Each piece of cord should be a little longer than the piece of pipe to be cleaned. Attach the free end of the cords to a stiff steel wire and push the wire and cord through the pipe. By means of the cord pull the chain back and forth through the pipe and then thoroughly flush the pipe with clean water under strong pressure."

"Other methods successfully used are flushing with a powerful pump working with wire brush, or pouring ordinary commercial muriatic acid in pipes, allowing time for the acid to act and then flushing out the acid and dirt with clean water."

Uncle Sam says a small leak in a water pipe can be stopped in emergencies by placing a flat rubber or leather gasket over the leak and hammering a stiff piece of metal, such as a picture hook, to fit over the gasket. Then secure both to the pipe with a vice or clamp.

Cracks in slate, soapstone or cement laundry tubs are made water tight with a mixture of litharge and glycerine or a specially prepared commercial cement. Where a leaky screw joint can not be tightened with a wrench it can sometimes be plugged and calked with lead, tinfoil or a commercial iron cement.

Tech Faculty Are Building Homes

Several of the Tech faculty members have been building good homes in Lubbock during the past few months. One of the latest to be constructed is that of Coach E. Y. Freeland in Elwood place. It is a beautiful white stucco structure and is a credit to the addition.

The home is modern in every detail, containing six big rooms with hard wood floor throughout. The woodwork is of a beautiful ivory finish. Roomy closets and other conveniences are found all through the house. The house was planned by Edgar Shelton, head of the architecture department of the Tech and shows the result of careful and skillful work.

Prof. Shelton is now starting construction on the home of Dr. W. A. Jackson, which he also planned.

"Co-operative church schools" are attended by 28,316 pupils in 264 schools in 36 cities of Kansas. In many of the cities it is the practice to dismiss the public schools for an hour every week to receive instruction in the churches, but it is reported that in a few places religious teaching is given in the school houses—some of the teachers of religion are paid, but others render voluntary service.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THE THINGS THAT INTER- EST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1926.

Fashion Notes

NEW YORK, July 6.—This might be called the nude age of fashions. Both because women are wearing fewer clothes than they ever have and because nude color are those most in demand.

Nude effects in color rule through the entire list of feminine apparel. Stockings are nude, shoes are nude, frocks, hats, and wraps are nude. Gloves, handbags, undergarments, laces and furs are nude. One can't be dressed off-color if one is dressed in nude tones. For smart sports wear, nude colors are those most popular with women of taste. For afternoon wear, the frock of nude chiffon or lace is considered far smarter than the flowered chiffon or the colorful frock. And even on evening occasions we find that the various scaled nude shades are those most sought after by the fashionably dressed.

Nude shades range from pale tans, rose tans, beige, pastel yellows, flesh pinks, etc., to actual nude shades which tone perfectly with the color of the flesh. They are particularly becoming to blonde in the lighter shadings. Brunettes find that rose nude tones are best suited to their coloring.

Recently introduced are felt hats of nude shades and these are becoming to the majority of women. Where the frock is of a vivid shade, the trimming such as collar, cuffs, buttons and piping is often carried out in tan or nude tones. Gloves, handbags and accessories are often loved in these soft tones since they correspond with hoisery and shoes and aid in carrying out a harmonizing color effect.

Of course, no one insists upon a monotone nude effect, for that would soon become monotonous. There must always be some bright shade added as a high light for the nude ensemble. Perhaps, it is a handkerchief, a corsage, or a scarf! Red is one of the chosen colors which harmonizes with nude tones and we find a great deal of red used on nude sweaters, ensembles, jumper frocks and hats.

At present washable silks such as crepe de chenes are favorites for the Junior girl. Colors are plain and the sports dresses have been introduced straight-lined and jumper models are generally chosen. Long sleeves prevail in almost every instance and collars are of tailored type with the V-shaped front opening. Belts, worn low over the hips are frequently stressed for the youthful figure.

Patel shades predominate in the junior departments with such colors as pale pink, green, yellow and sunny lending. Recently, bright red sport dresses have been introduced into the junior-wear departments but the paler shades in washable silks are preferable for the young Miss for daywear. Men's shirting material in wide stripes is being worn by the younger set at nearby resorts for morning wear to some extent.

For afternoon occasions, the junior has the preference of flowered chiffons, georgettes and lingerie frocks. The flowered georgettes are invariably somewhat tailored in junior sizes, having long sleeves, tailored collars with scarf ends or occasionally the wing-backed drape.

Evening finds the young Miss dressed in sheer organdies, scru laces, velvet chiffrons or crisp tafetans. The bouffant frock or the frock with many ruffles on the skirt is particularly interesting in youth ful models. In fact, the only time when the little Miss can afford to step away from semi-tailored effects is at evening time. She may then wear the slim bodice with the full circular skirt, the slender dress with numerous ruffles on the skirt or the picture frock.

lined with black. The lower edge of the skirt is trimmed with rings of black satin ribbon of varying sizes. The collar and the jabot are scalloped, but this does not make them difficult to make. After the scallops are cut out, the black material is put in perfect bias strips, then folded in half. Sew to the edge of the scallop, as shown in Fig. 1. Keep the work as slack as possible, because holding it too tightly causes the scallops to stretch and lose their shape.

Sew the right side of the black silk to the right side of the scallop, then turn to the left side, as shown in Fig. 2. Repeat down with fine hemming stitches. The shoulder seams are dropped below the top of the arm, where the long close-fitting sleeves are joined to them. The lower edges of the sleeves are trimmed with the strokes of black silk to correspond with the skirt decoration.

This model may be developed in any soft, graceful material. If pre-

Discover Remedy for Hay Fever

As a result of investigations which have been carried on in the protein investigation laboratory of the bureau of chemistry in Washington, government scientists believe they have discovered a new remedy for hay fever. The treatment has been evolved by (left to right) Dr. F. A. Czomka, Prof. H. S. Bernot (of Georgetown university school of medicine), and Dr. D. Brees Jones, chemist in charge of the laboratory.

ROCKEFELLERS AND KRESGE WERE LARGEST CONTRIBUTORS TO PRO LAW FUND, SENATE PROBES DISCOVER

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

United News Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The senate primary campaign fund investigating committee has found out who pays the bills for the wet and dry organizations which seek to influence congress on prohibition.

The two John D. Rockefeller, father and son, were the largest contributors to the Anti-Saloon league with a joint gift of $20,000 on April 11, 1925. S. S. Kresge, Detroit, owner of a national chain of 150-cent stores, gave in conjunction with the North Woodward Avenue M. E. church of Detroit, $10,000.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league so vigorously opposed opening the list of contributions that the senate committee by a divided vote, decided to make public only gifts in 1925 and 1926. Chairman Reed, Missouri, democrat, and Senator La Follette, Wisconsin, progressive republican, voted to make all names of Anti-Saloon league contributions public.

The other three members voted to reveal only amounts given during the last 18 months. Reed's vote was by proxy.

Captain William H. Statten of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, authorized publication of the financial supporters from the time the organization was started in 1921. His heaviest contributors were two women, Mrs. Barnard Van Gerbig of New Canaan, Conn., $5,000; and Mrs. Marino De Brabant of New York, $3,000.

In each case only names of those who gave more than $500 were revealed. The dry lists showed a surprising absence of well known names, the principal ones being the two Rockefeller, and Kresge. Other dry contributors included Joseph Boyer, Detroit, $11,000; P. A. Peterson, Rockford, Ill., $6,500 and Harry I. Poundsford Cincinnati, $1,500. The wets included Larz Anderson, former minister of Sweden, $1,500; Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, New York, $500, and Arthur Curtis James, New York railroad magnate, $1,000.

The paucity of large contributors in both instances left the inference that the fight over prohibition, in so far as it is being waged by these two leading national organizations, is financed largely by those of small means.

The senate committee took two important steps today toward compelling greater respect by witnesses summoned before it. It ordered the senate sergeant at arms to Atlantic City to demand the appearance of Congressman Orin, Pennsylvania, republican, western manager for the Vane senatorial campaign who was quoted by other witnesses before the committee as having mentioned expenditures at Pittsburgh. He failed to answer the committee summons and Acting Chairman King ordered that he be brought here.

The other important action was the decision to turn over to the local district attorney the testimony of Francis X. O'Connor, Philadelphia politician, who was quoted by Senator Pepper and three newspaper reporters as having said the Vane forces offered him money and political preferment to induce him to desert Pepper for whom he was working during the primary campaign. O'Connor denied this under oath. The committee will turn over the evi-

A peculiar dark green plant louse known as an Aphis is being noticed in the cotton south east of here. Certain men who have studied the insect state that it is not like the ordinary cotton louse but acts in the same nature.

Dean A. H. Leidigh of the school of Agriculture of the Tech stated that although the louse does damage it is thought that there are enough lady bugs to devour them. While on a field trip recently Dean Leidigh collected some of the insects and sent them to the Experiment Station at A. & M. College for examination.

More Appreciation From Ft. Worth Men

Fort Worth business men who were entertained here on the return trip from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention are indeed grateful for the entertainment and were favorably impressed with Lubbock and Lubbock hospitality, according to letters from a number who made the trip.

"The reception afforded the Fort Worth delegation by your city on their tour, certainly was one of the outstanding events of the trip," John T. Stanley, building manager of the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank writes.

"We are indeed pleased to have had the opportunity of visiting in your good city and will welcome you similarly to Fort Worth at any time the occasion may present.

"The latch string of the F. & M. building is open to you at all times and it will be a pleasure for us to show our city from the roof-top to you or the citizens of your city at any time they may be in Fort Worth and we would sincerely appreciate your citizenship taking advantage of this opportunity when in the city."

Wyatt C. Hedrick, architect and engineer, well known here as the architect on the Lubbock hotel building and the Tech buildings, writes: "This letter is for the purpose of thanking your citizens for the very cordial welcome that they tendered the Fort Worth delegation to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, held last week at Amarillo. The business interests of this city made this trip by special train in order to pay you a brief visit, as a token of the gratitude that they so keenly feel for your patronage and loyalty in the past, which has enabled them to build a great financial, commercial and industrial city.

"All of the financial institutions, industrial establishments, commercial enterprises and great transportation systems of the city were represented on this trip because they wished to express their appreciation of your help and co-operation in the past, and to tender to you the further service of the agencies which you have been so instrumental in creating.

"We accept your very warm welcome as an assurance of your continued co-operation, and thank you sincerely. In expressing the sentiment in this organization, we believe that we bespeak that of the entire citizenship of this city."

Conducts Own Divorce Suit

By United News
NEWPORT, R. I., July 6.—Acting as her own lawyer, Mrs. Jessie Margaret Budlong cross examined her husband, Milton J. Budlong, for more than an hour today after he had taken the witness stand in his divorce trial here.

Mrs. Budlong was granted permission to plead her own case after she had declared herself insolvent and had dismissed her lawyer, Cornelius C. Moore of Newport.

During the examination by his wife, the New York millionaire showed that he still cared for her by refusing to touch upon any of the disagreeable incidents that had marked the past seven years of their married life.

"It is only through my faith in God that I am able to stand this ordeal," Mrs. Budlong told the court. "I am willing to suffer financial losses provided there is no petition for divorce. I have never wanted a divorce and I do not want one now. I am only fighting for my children and the right to live at the Rest."

The case will be continued Wednesday.

Mr. Higgins was called to his sister's bedside early last week and after arriving at Marlin found her condition critical and was with her when she died.

Mr. Higgins is a member of the law firm of Woodward & Higgins, of Lubbock. His sister, Mrs. E. T. Adair, of Lubbock, who accompanied him to Marlin, is visiting relatives there.

Call Candidates To Slaton Stump

Special To The Avalanche

SLATON, July 6.—All candidates for both district and county offices are invited to pay a brief visit to Slaton, July 10, to present claims to the voters. The speaking will take place in the city hall yard, from the band stand.

Editor Ben Smith of the Slaton Times, is issuing a candidate's special this week, and a special appeal is being made to the people of Slaton and surrounding country to be present to see, hear and meet their favorite candidate.

Inasmuch as the farmers are almost completely up with their work, having taken advantage of the fine weather the past few weeks, it is thought Slaton will have the biggest crowd present that will be there prior to the election on July 24th.

MARTIN DURKIN SAYS WOULDN'T SHOOT COP KNOWINGLY; THAT THEY PROTECTED HIS BOOZE TRUCKS

By EARL J. JOHNSON

CHICAGO, July 6.—Martin J. Durkin's own story of his career of crime has been entered in the record of the criminal court for what it may be worth in saving him from the gallows. It differs widely from the testimony of other witnesses in the young killer's murder trial and for that reason may not be worth much in the eyes of the law.

But Marty was determined to tell it, so his attorneys put him on the witness stand. The remarks that he made there held the largest crowd the criminal court has seen since the Leopold-Loeb case spell-bound for a whole day. It remains to be seen whether they made as great an impression on the jury.

Durkin reiterated his plea of self defense. He said that he killed Federal Agent Edwin C. Shanahan thinking that he was a hold-up man bent on getting the $2,000 in bootleg profits that he carried in his hip pocket.

Other parts of Marty's story, however, seemed to be of more interest to the crowd which had come hours ahead of time to get choice seats. His exploits as a bootlegger would have made excellent evidence for the "wets" in the recent senate beer hearings.

Durkin said selling liquor in Chicago was a "snap" explaining that when he had an exceptionally large load to deliver he always took two policemen with him for protection.

This was designed to show that Marty was not afraid of policemen but really considered them as his allies. If he had known Shanahan was an officer he never would have shot him, Durkin said.

Marty reviewed his whole life and said that he was 25 years old. He emphasized his service in the Canadian army during the war.

PIMPLES AND BUMPS ARE AWFUL PESTS

Girls and women of the most even dispositions are quick to resent direct attacks on their character, or bold advances. But it is hardly explainable why these same folks tolerate disfiguring pimples, blotches, bumps, "breaking out," etc., which are even worse pests than that.

These skin diseases quit annoying people quickly after first few applications of the wonderful Black and White Ointment, and the regular use of Black and White Skin Soap. The rest is so small none need hesitate because they "can't afford it." The 50c size of the Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size. All dealers have both Black and White Skin Soap, and Ointment.

OUR HYMN OF HATE

Another national anthem row came to a harmless end the other day. The New York Port Society, an ancient and honorable institution, arranging "Uncle Sam" festivities for the Fourth, became involved in a controversy over whether "The Star-Spangled Banner" should be included. The chairman of arrangements had announced that this piece would not be sung. Whereupon there were numerous protests from patriotic organizations, and one speaker on the program declared he wouldn't speak unless the anthem was included. So the chairman compromised, having the anthem played by a trumpeter, but not sung. All of which is interesting but not important in a country where there are real issues to fight about. The reason the chairman didn't want the anthem sung, she said, was that she objects to the words, which are "filled with hate." She dislikes especially the reference to England as "the foul invader." That does seem a rather impolite and unnecessary epithet, as most of us look at the matter now, after having had more than a century to cool off. Most of us, however, have probably never realized there were such words in the song. The best we can do, ordinarily, is to get through the first stanza, which does no particular verbal harm to anybody, although pacifists may deplore its "war spirit." For a real national anthem, though, what is so fitting as our good old "America," even if the tune isn't exclusively our own? No hate or war in that, but strong, pure love of country. If we must have two anthems, we might keep that to sing and the other to play.

TEN-THOUSAND-DOLLAR GIRLS

Just why insurance companies should want to know the cost of flappers is beyond us, just as premium rates and the ways of insurance agents are beyond ordinary comprehension. But no matter. The fact is that insurance statisticians in California have been going into the cost of raising a girl, and find that in that state the average bill for the whole job is $10,047. That brings the girl up to the supposable marriageable or workable age of 18. We'll say, too, that she's cheap at the price. And not merely the California product, but such varieties as the tourists see in his rambles in any old state in the Union.

MEDICINE FOR THE FRANC

When the French franc sinks from a fraction over five to the dollar to 37 to the dollar, it is pretty far down. Not so far down, to be sure, as the German mark and Russian ruble went—but look what happened to them. France doesn't want ever to see a million francs paid for a bowl of soup. The new Briand ministry, straining to keep that poor franc from slipping farther, and willing to do almost anything to start it up again toward par, urges ratification of the Berenger-Mellon agreement made at Washington a few months ago for the funding of the French debt. That is undoubtedly right as far as it goes. Failure to settle with America has driven the franc down by creating general distrust of French finance. Ratification of the agreement, which on the whole is about as favorable to France as can be expected would strengthen the franc by strengthening faith in France's financial integrity.

BABSON AND BUDGETS

Roger Babson, statistician, had a comparatively smooth time of it as long as he confined his statistics and advice to the world of business. When he invaded the American home, and attempted to tell the family what they had to do without, he got into trouble. He says his critics insist that nobody who is anybody can get along on the allowance he has made for automobile, rent, clothing and some other things. Mr. Babson says his sympathies are all with the critics. He wishes they had more money for the things they want. But how can they spend it if they haven't got it? It seems that 38 per cent of all earners in the United States earn less than $1,000 per year. Thirty-four per cent get more than $1,000 but less than $1,500. Fourteen per cent of the whole get as much as $2,000. Eleven per cent get between $2,000 and $3,000. Only three per cent of the total get $5,000 or over. It is quite evident, as Mr. Babson says, that if a family spends too much for one department of life, it cannot have enough for something else. Even where there are several workers in a family, raising the total income, the problem is right there.

Ninety-seven per cent of all workers get less than $5,000 per year. This is astounding when one considers the style in which the average family seems to live. Mr. Babson's conclusion is that "budgets are very little used, and many families are gradually, but consistently, getting into debt." it is to think.

A DRIED-UP PRESS

"We will have dry newspapers," remarks Il Tevere, Roman Fascist organ, referring to the changes ordered by Premier Mussolini in the Italian press. Not meaning non-alcoholic, but desiccated. There will be virtually no foreign news—it is enough for Italians to read of Italy. Sport, art, literature, court news, especially criminal news in which the Italian public has always revelled, will be gradually dropped. The papers will all become little more than organs of the Fascist government, or else go out of business. This latter alternative is encouraged. There is to be only one newspaper to a province, explains Signor Turati, secretary of the Fascist party. Personal journalism is doomed. "I am determined," he says, "to destroy the innumerable weeklies which, although dealing with national problems and spreading fundamental Fascist ideas, represent solely the personal acidity and literary impatience of their editors." They have no right to express any acidity and impatience except those of Mussolini. Some of our comrades have already set a good example by suffocating their own creatures," he adds. "I will cite in an order of the day those following this example. So here is the end of a journalism never efficient, according to American standards, but until lately free and democratic. American editors who have upheld Mussolini and Fascism should now go to Italy for a career.

DICTATORSHIP AND DEMOCRACY

The list of European dictatorships grows. To Italy, Spain, Greece, Poland and Hungary is added Portugal, with a possibility of France and one or two others coming in before long. It is discouraging for those who believe in the right and ability of the people to govern themselves. We seem to have expected too much from the World War, and wanted results too quickly. The principle of democracy is still sound. There was just such a reaction as this after the French Revolution. Over-emphasis of freedom brought many abuses and frightened many people, and so the pendulum swung back to extreme conservatism. It is not swinging back so far this time. It is not royalty that is doing the dictating now. What arbitrary government there is springs mostly from the people. Democracy itself puts forward its strong men, and entrusts large powers to them for the moment, but doubtless stands ready to pull down and reassert itself when the time comes. Education grows, information spreads, society in general is awake, conscious and moving. A more intelligent democracy is evolving. It may come with the next swing of the pendulum.

USED CARS FOR A FARM

Which would you rather have—a batch of used automobiles or a farm? A young man in Ohio, who knows something about automobiles, thinks he would rather have the farm. One man last year and another a few days ago, who presumably knew something about farms, think they prefer to own old automobiles. The farm Lyman D. Jones bought last year cost him 19 cars. This latest one, 80 acres, cost 33. He guaranteed that all the cars would be able to leave the garage under their own power. What the farmers guaranteed is not publicly known. Whether the farm or the auto brigades were more valuable in real money, or whether they met, as in the ideal bargain, in equal balance, is hard to determine. But the young man who gathered up the cars and turned them into land is probably going to get somewhere before he gets through. His belief in the land does not imply a disbelief in the automobiles. Rather to the contrary. It indicates that he has observed the value constantly being added by the automobile to the land.

THE VOTER'S NEGLECT

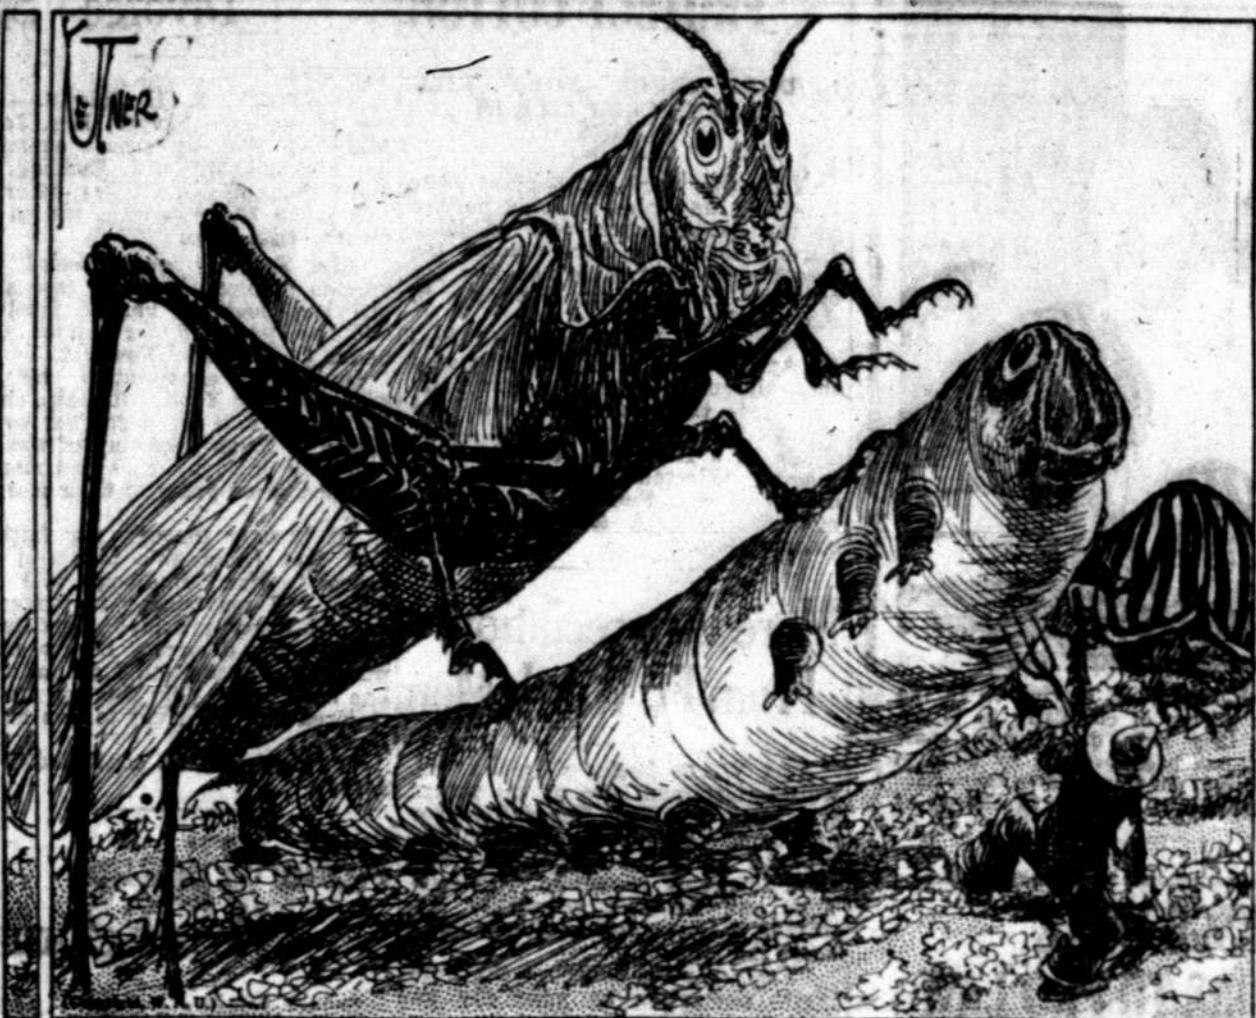

No one in his right mind can for a moment disagree with John Hays Hammond, chairman of the National Civic Federation's department on political education, in his contention that the negligence of the individual voter is responsible for the growing disregard for law. The last few months have seen revelations in Pennsylvania, Chicago and New York which would arouse the voters to some adequate conception of their civic duty. If it does not, if they do not respond to their country's crying need of their co-operation through intelligent voting, then they must consider themselves traitors to decency and law.

ADVERTISING'S NEW FIELD

Dr. Julius Klein, director of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, believes the strategy of international commercial operations should be based upon accurate up-to-date commercial intelligence which can best be furnished by advertising experts who are, perhaps, the most intimately aware of the conditions affecting trade. He believes that because of its alert watchfulness, and especially because of its obligations as a part of the intelligence service of modern business, the facilities of the advertising world should be brought to bear with all possible precision and dispatch upon the new fields being opened to our foreign trade. This is a rare opportunity for advertising to demonstrate its importance, not only as a booster but as a builder. It is in a position to render a unique service. Advertising experts, with the alertness characteristic of them, will be quick to appreciate this situation and to take advantage of the unusual opportunity to expend its sphere of usefulness.

So Think We

We think it will be a great help to Slaton and to Lubbock when the highway is built between the two towns. People will enjoy the drive, and we are sure they will become better acquainted by visiting more often, and will naturally like each other better.

We think Lubbock is about the weediest town on the South Plains. We have visited a number of places during the past few days and none of them can boast of as great a crop as Lubbock.

We think that we American should never even grant to paying a household bill for one wife. Just think of the African chief who has two hundred wives to pay bills for.

We think that some weighty problems are daily thrashed out on the court house walks. Governors have been elected. Presidents impeached, oil wells drilled and many other weighty matters have had close attention and discussion.

We think if the report is true that Chicago has had the greatest religious gathering in the history, is true, it may be a great thing for the city. We imagine that they are greatly in need of a general religious awakening.

We think that if it is true what all of the candidates say about each other we certainly must have some very unworthy people aspiring for some of the enviorous offices.

We think the young apple king who recently took a bride must have gotten into the wrong orchard. From her picture printed in the daily press recently she looks like a peach.

We think the special salt creek will have to put on some extra coaches from the large number of candidates who are bound for the dead waters for a vacation trip.

We think the stop signals on the streets will probably be the means of preventing many head on collisions, but we are not so sure that back end bumpers will be able to protect the rear of many of the cars that stop in obedience to the signal, without giving the usual signal.

We think there is one thing that poor folks can feel pretty safe from, and that is being kidnapped.

We think that in the next few years if things keep going in that direction, that one of the courses in the department of domestic science will be that of making of home brew.

We think Lubbock should be thinking something about the housing situation this fall in connection with the opening of the second term of the Texas Tech. There may be a number of vacant houses in the city, at this time, but there will be a number of additional faculty members that will want good houses, and Lubbock should be in position to supply the demand.

We think the Republican party in Texas might be said to have taken on some color in Houston the other day, when a negro's name was offered as a candidate for the chairmanship of the executive committee of Harris county.

It Is Reported

That the students and faculty members of the Texas Technological College who returned to their homes here late yesterday from Carlsbad Cavern are so elated over the wonder of the place that they want their friends to see it.

That as much interest will be shown in the hitching demonstration at the Tech College campus this afternoon as was given the first tractor demonstration on the plains just a few years back. It may be that old Dobbin is yet to have his day on the Plains.

That about the only successful exhibitors at the fair this fall will be those who have made adequate advance preparations.

That the members of the Lubbock County Commissioners Court, including Judge Nordyke, will see that Lubbock county's interests will be safeguarded in the letting of the contract on the Highway Number Nine at Austin today.

That too much attention cannot be given the road problems in Lubbock county. It will be but a few weeks now until the big feed crops will be harvested and ready for market and the farmers want their transportation cost to be cut down to the minimum.

That it is no violation of the prohibition law to make and sell beer, just so it does not contain the necessary one half of one percent of alcohol.

That there were more real estate transfers in Lubbock yesterday than in any one day for a good while. Real estate business seems to be picking up right along.

That the contract will be let for quite a number of new and expensive dwelling houses soon. A number of Lubbock citizens are going to build nice homes in the near future.

That a number of property owners have not cut a single weed off their property this year. Isn't that a real shame.

That the State of Texas made quite an investment in Lubbock town property yesterday, when Deputy Sheriff Ford, closed a deal for some twenty or thirty lots in various parts of the city, to satisfy a tax bill.

WORLD TOPICS

THE TROUBLE IN CHINA

Representatives of nine foreign governments have been in session at Washington over the question of extraterritoriality in China. While it is admitted that many reforms in courts and prisons have been made, it is contended that China does not present a united front to the world and until she does, foreign population within her cities must dictate and control certain matters.

The representatives of China took the position that foreign governments had no right to pass upon extraterritoriality and declared that China would not be bound by any report they might make.

In the international section of Shanghai foreign taxpayers control the municipal council which has authority over all foreign interests, although the Chinese taxpayers outnumber them nine to one. If this system that is creating most of the trouble in China.

WHAT ABOUT THE FLAG?

Some three years ago, pro-British writers, editors and lecturers in this country advocated a change in the words of our National anthem, "The Star-Spangled Banner" and some of them suggested that it be abolished on the ground that it was distasteful to the British people. The matter has never been given serious consideration, but the action of the New York Society in dropping it from the Independence Day program and substituting "God Save the King" seems to deserve at least passing notice.

More impressive is the fact, however, that the great American press, usually so jealous of American ideals has remained very silent regarding the incident.

Can it be possible that the old, patriotic hymn, honored by every loyal citizen by standing with uncovered head when it is sung, is to be assigned to the ash can?

And is the Star-Spangled Banner itself—the flag our forefathers and their sons and daughters died for—to be replaced by the Union Jack, just to please a few hyphenated Americans?

Two pet American theories have been thoroughly exploded and consigned to the ash heap. Public office does not seek the man, and the man who successfully attains public office must literally buy it. Some years ago a well-known Congressman who had expended nearly $100,000 to defeat his opponent, unblushingly declared that he was entitled to get his money back if he could. It is difficult to draw a distinction between the vote buyer and the vote seller—both are dangerous Bolsheviks and undesirable citizens.

MASTERFUL MUSSOLINI

Premier Mussolini is determined to stabilize financial affairs and put Italy on its feet. To do this he has ordered the people to adopt measures more drastic than during the war. He has added one hour to the day of working men. He has prohibited for one year the building of expensive houses. He has ordered a reduction in the consumption of luxuries. He will not permit cafes, bars and night resorts to open. He has served notice on newspaper publishers not to print more than six pages at an issue. He has reduced the cost of certain raw materials and has fixed the price on building materials. He also has a commission busy working out plans for employment to supply their workers with food stuffs at cost. And the peculiar part of it is the people apparently willingly submit. One can not resist drawing a comparison between Mussolini's rule in Italy and the chaos in France.

CANADA'S POLITICAL TROUBLE

After a very brief existence, the Mackenzie King government in Canada has come to an end by Premier King tendering his resignation. The government has been a very near defeat several times during the present session. Then came the demand for an investigation into the Department of Customs, against which serious charges were made, the government being accused of laxity in the performance of its duty. The parliamentary committee made a very damaging report and sweeping recommendations which the administration opposed, but the House was determined.

The end came suddenly and somewhat unexpectedly, and the Governor-General appointed Arthur Meighen to name a new cabinet. This he has accomplished for the time being, but what the future has in store for political parties in Canada is beyond conjecture.

Liberty-loving Americans neither offer nor accept cash for voting their convictions. No nation can rise above the level of the ideals of its citizens. According to the evidence some of our "leading citizens" have a very depraved idea of American principles.

It seems only yesterday that the buggy whip was an ornament in which the owner took deepest pride, yet it is passing into history. The commerce department reports that less than 100 men are employed in the making of whips today.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS:

Young folks have rights, say I,
This right to live until they die.
The right to boyhood, girlhood, too,
The right to have their point of view,
And what's Old Age, so prim and wise
That it should dare to tyrannize?
Is wisdom such a precious thing
That it should kill the joy of spring?
Youth has a right to have its fun,
Winter will come when summer's done,
Most old men living, I surmise
Would rather be young today than wise.
Counsel and train them well, say I,
Look on them with a kindly eye.
Be patient with their thoughts and whims,
Youth struts the world o' sturdy limbs,
Old age should keep in mind this truth
That young folk have the right to youth.
High are those parents who can be
Their children's happiest company,
Who, knowing all that Age has taught,
Can still stay young in heart and thought.
Old Age, put by that frown and grin,
Youth is a privilege, not a sin.

LUBBOCK DEFEATS IRON MEN BY 9-0 SCORE

HUBBERS TALLY FIVE IN FIRST;
QUATT CLOUTS HOMER OVER FENCE;
PLAY AGAIN TODAY AT MERRELL PARK

The Hubbers repeated their 9 to 0 spree again yesterday afternoon to a small crowd at the Merrell park with the Childrens iron men. A slight interruption was caused by occasional showers just prior to the game, it is thought that a good crowd would have attended had it not rained.

As is the usual manner of the Hubbers they romped on the visitors moundsmen, Jeffries, in the initial frame for four hits and five runs. A double b Snipper Connolly and a circuit clout by Big Quattlebaum were numbered among the four rapped off of Jeffries in the first session. Quatt's homer was drove over the right field fence.

Red Gaither is still on a tear and binged out three for four trips yesterday, one double and two singles. In the last five performances that Red has appeared in he has rapped off fourteen safe bingles out of nineteen trip with six of them going for two bases. So terrifically has he been hitting that he has raised his batting percentage over 150 points.

The Childrens iron men hit Skeeter Ratliff for eight blows during the game yesterday, but were unable to get over one in any inning with the exception of the third when they drew two bingles in a row. Apparently the visitors were tired from their long road trips they have been making the past week.

Both the Hubbers and the Iron men will battle again this afternoon at Merrell park at 3:30 o'clock.

CAST OFF HURLERS FAIL TO WIN

By United News

Two cast offs, former star moundsmen, were beaten in Tuesday's ball games.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, recently sent to St. Louis from Chicago by the waiver route, pitched shut out ball for eight and a third innings, then allowed the Red to tie the score and win in the 11th, 5 to 2. Joe Bush, the former American league star, also turned in a splendid performance but his opponent, Blake, was just a little better and Chicago won the first game from Pittsburgh, 3 to 0. The Pirates came back in the second contest to win 3 to 2, the game being called at the end of the fifth inning by rain.

The St. Louis Browns made it 3 in a row from the Tigers, winning 5 to 2. Sisler, Forthright and Heilman poled homers. In the other American league game, Blankenship blanked the Indians while the White Sox made 8 runs. By virtue of their victory and the Athletics' idleness, Chicago advanced to second place in the league standing. The Athletics-Boston and Robins-Braves games were called off on account of rain.

HUBBERS CARDED TO MEET AMARILLO METROPOLITANS HERE

FULL SCHEDULE BEING ARRANGED BY ALLEN FOR REMAINDER OF SEASON; WILL ENTER AMARILLO, DENVER MEETS

With the recent assurance that Lubbock would retain the Hubber aggregation, Skipper Allen, manager of the Hubbers, has made a considerable influx in the schedule of the Hubbers for the next few weeks. In arranging the card for the remainder of the month Skipper has scheduled the Amarillo Mets here for the 16th, 17th and 18th of this month to be played here. These games with the Panhandle Metropolitans are probably the most interesting games for the July card, in that such rivalry has always existed. Then, too, since the tangle up of baseball rules during the W. T. C. C. convention last month the intense feeling of the two clubs has risen to utter rivalry and both teams will no doubt put up the hardest fought battles that they can in order that they might be a decisive matter as to who really is the better.

Aside from the Amarillo series in the middle of the month, the Post City aggregation of Garza county will meet with the Hubbers here on the coming week-end, the 10th and 11th of this month. The Post nine is a battling crew and are supported by the entire Post City inhabitants. It is expected that many of the Post fans will attend the two-game series here with the Hubbers.

Every one familiar with the Hubbers and the Lamesa Club knows that both teams are evenly matched in their baseball ability and have exchanged game for game for the past two seasons. Skipper Allen is carded to take the Hubbers to Lamesa on the 14th and 15th for return game with that club. Lamesa had several hundred fans here for the fourth celebration and is expected that several hundred fans of the Hubbers will be in attendance at the Hubber-Lamesa tilt which will be played there.

On the 22nd, 23rd, 24th, and 25th of this month the Paris All-Stars, a turnstoming nine out of Paris, Texas, a club composed of semi-professional players of East Texas will meet with the Hubbers here at the Merrell Park. This club has been on a tour over East, North, and West Texas since the beginning of the baseball season and have met with many different ball clubs, thus giving a very beneficial experience, with all of these favorable auxiliaries the Paris All-Stars will no doubt give the Hubbers four hard battles.

The Skipper has not sent in the Lubbock entrance to either the Denver Post Tourney, which will be held in the latter part of August, nor has he sent in his application for entrance for the News-Globe Tournament, to be held in Amarillo during the early part of August but he contemplates on doing so within the next few days. By attending the Amarillo Tournament it will greatly benefit the Hubbers in their encounter on the Denver contest.

Intense interest is being manifested in the Hubbers since they have been assured that they will remain here for the 1926 season. Almost daily during the latter part of July and during August the Hubbers will be engaged with games, most of which will be played on the home grounds.

FARMERS LEARN HORSE HITCHING

MANY WITNESS DEMONSTRATION AT TECH COLLEGE CAMPUS

A number of farmers of the surrounding territory witnessed the team driving demonstration held at the Tech yesterday afternoon given by Representative J. J. Peak of the Horse Association of America assisted by R. M. Lefebvre. Exhibitions of teams being driven in four, six, and nine and ten were staged at various intervals while the men explained the use of the hitches and how they are made.

The teams were hitched to double disk gang plows, sulky plows and other implements. The men explained and illustrated also how the large teams may be used in road work and long hauling. Daniels' studio made pictures of the demonstration which will be sent to several of the state papers. The demonstration was a decided success and the farmers were greatly benefitted by it.

Placards Made For Little Theatre

A great deal of interest is centering about the Little theatre play which will be presented here Thursday evening.

Attractive placard advertising the play have been prepared by Hynes Worsham while J. O. Smith has made a miniature stage setting which will be displayed in the Palace lobby in advance of the play.

The placards are being by Mr. Worsham are prepared shown at Martin's, Bowers and Halsey Hall's.

Postal Examination Application Ready

Civil service examination for clerk-carriers will be held sometime in August, and applications can now be secured at the Lubbock postoffice according to C. H. Peek, local secretary.

The applications for examinations must be mailed at once, according to Mr. Peek, as all these applications must be in the office of the tenth civil service district at New Orleans on or before August 11th. The date of the examination will be given on cards that will be mailed from that office to the applicants as acknowledgments of the receipt there of their applications.

TWO WORLD'S RECORDS SHATTERED AT PHILADELPHIA IN NATIONAL AMATEUR ATHLETIC MEETING

BY FRANK GETTY

United News Staff Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Two world's records were shattered here on the final day of the A. A. U. senior track and field championships. The Illinois A. C. and the New York A. C. finished in a tie for first place with 45 points each. The former were awarded the A. A. U. team trophy, having won five first places to three for the Winged-Foot club.

New world marks were established by the Newark A. C. in the 440 yard relay and the Boston A. A. in the two mile relay, and in addition three championships records fell.

To Chet Bowman, John Harwood, Henry Cumming and Louis Clark of the Newark A. C. went the honor of smashing the first world mark, which had stood for five years.

Pressed closely by the fleet quartet of the New York A. C., the Jersey men, each running 110 yards, finished their record breaking time of 41 6-10 seconds, four fifths of a second better than the mark set by Weers, Lovejoy, Ray and Farrell in 1921.

It was the brilliant sprinting of Louis Clark, Newark's anchor man, which settled the issues. Jackson V. Scholz, running fourth for New York A. C., put up a gallant but vain chase and finished three yards in the rear.

The greatest race of the day, and the one which cost the Winged-Foot aggregation its chance for the championship was the two mile relay, in which Lloyd Hahn, the Unicorn anchor man, ran a half mile in 1:51 1-5 and brought a world's record to the Boston A. A.

The Unicorn quartet was composed of Charley Sanborn, Louis Welch, Sam Martin, the great Dartmouth middle distance runner, and Hahn, who won the mile run in the individual senior championships Monday.

The New York quartet composed of Holder, Marsters, J. Campbell and Leness, jumped into the lead, but Martin, running third for Boston, cut loose with a brilliant sprint and made up most of the distance his team mates had lost.

Flored Hahn, starting in the anchor berth five yards behind Leness of New York, passed his man on the back stretch a lap from home and finished like a 100 yard dash man, sprinting to the tape to create the new world's record for the two mile relay at 7:41 4-10.

In the 880 yard relay, the Newark A. C., scoring its second impressive triumph of the day, defeating the Illinois A. C. and New York A. C. The New Jersey quartet covered the half mile in 1:27 8-10, two fifths of a second behind the world's record. The Newark team was the same as that which set the new mark for the 440 yard relay event.

Illinois, starting four points behind their New York rivals Tuesday achieved their narrow margin of victory by winning the mile and four mile relays. In the first of these, Oestreich, Taylor, Hase and Kennedy bettered the championship mark by finishing in 3:17 4-10, a second behind the world's record. The Chicago A. A. furnished the opposition in this event, with the New York A. C. a bad third.

The four mile relay, the most exciting contest of the day since it decided the issue between Illinois A. C. and New York A. C. developed into a duel for first place between these clubs.

At the end Big Ray Dodge, towering over Willie Goodwin, the Winged Foot anchor man, strode away on the far turn and finished ten yards ahead, in the comparatively slow time of 7:54, which, however, constituted a new championship record.

The decathlon championship, the only individual event decided Tuesday, fell to Harold Osborne, the spectacular Illinois A. C. star, who was defending his 1925 title.

Osborne tore a tendon during the pole vault, but had his injured leg bound up and gamely finished the remaining events. H. J. Frieda, Osborne's team mate was second.

Crosby Out For Plains Fair Prize

S. W. Cooper, secretary of the Crosbyton chamber of commerce was in Lubbock Tuesday on business. Crosby county will have another prize winning exhibit at the Panhandle South Plains fair this year, according to Cooper. Bill Dunn of Ralls, who has had charge of the exhibit for a number of years and who ranked high with the winners at the fair last fall will have charge of the exhibit again this year.

Te crops in Crosby county are looking better than they have looked this season in several years, according to Cooper. The wheat, oats, rye and barley crop has just about been harvested and Dunn already has his samples for these crops.

ADVERTISING

The value of advertising, practically demonstrated by mail order houses, large manufacturers, public service corporations, and later by municipal bodies, has now been accepted and is being utilized by states to "sell the world" of the advantages of their particular regions.

Last year the Maine legislature appropriated $25,000 as an experiment, to be used in newspapers and magazines to advertise the state's scenery. As a result Maine's resort and touring business increased 30 per cent and it is estimated visitors spent over $100,000,000 in Maine.

Few people are so dense nowadays as to contend that it does not pay to advertise, but not everybody realizes that cities, states and even nations may be advertised as successfully as a merchant can advertise what he has to sell. Today the merchant who does not advertise might as well take down his sign. Its just as much a part of his business as to pay rent.

There never was a smoke so pleasing as Camel

IN LIFE'S supreme moments no cigarette can compare with Camel. No other cigarette ever was made so good, for Camel excellence is the result of skill. Skill in finding the world's choicest tobaccos—in blending, as only the world's largest organization of experts can.

From the beginning Camel took its stand on the quality platform, and nothing could ever induce its makers to change Camel tobaccos. No expense is spared, no care is too great to make Camel the world's most satisfying smoke, regardless of price.

In popularity with smokers, no cigarette made can touch Camels.

Camel quality has been rewarded with the greatest demand, the largest sales any cigarette ever enjoyed. Since smoking began, there was never such a growing preference as for Camels. Camel rewards its friends with enjoyment that never ends, for Camels never tire the taste, simply never leave a cigarettey after-taste.

If you have never tried Camels, if you do not know how good, how satisfying a cigarette can be, we invite you to try them now for the utmost in smoking pleasure. Have the best that's made—we invite you—

Doty was charged with desertion in face of the enemy early in June. Subsequently it was announced in Beirut that the charge had been reduced to one amounting to being absent without leave.

Idalou Invites Political Barrage

IDALOU, July 6.—The citizenship of Idalou has broadcast an invitation for all candidates for county and district offices to be present here on Saturday, July 17th to speak to the voters.

Idalou has planned to have the candidates here for sometime, but due to the busy work on the farms and the continued pretty weather, they did not deem it wise to invite them here now. The majority of the farmers are completely up with their work or will be by that date, and a large crowd is expected, to hear the candidates set forth their claims.

D. M. Norwood, Editor of the Idalou Echo, will issue a special candidate's edition of the Echo next week, in which the majority of candidates are telling it to the voters, and an urgent appeal will be made to the voters to come and hear the various candidates which will be the last opportunity for them to do so before the primary election which is the Saturday following.

Davidson Wants A New System of Marketing

Special to The Avalanche

ROCKDALE, Texas, July 6.—Declaring one of the pressing needs in Texas at this time is a system of financing farm products so that they will be fed to the markets as the markets will take them, and thereby insure the farmer a fair margin of profit above what it costs him to produce his cotton and other crops, Lynch Davidson, speaking here tonight at a big Milam County rally, pledged himself when nominated for governor, to call a state-wide conference of business men and farmers to discuss plans for financing and marketing the 1926 cotton crop.

Davidson declared every indication is that Texas would produce one of the largest crops ever grown and that "on the face of the prospects alone, the market price of cotton has begun to decline." He said that as soon as the crop was on the market for sale the speculators and middle men would manipulate the price and every farmer who is pressed for money to take care of his obligations will be forced to take what is offered him instead of what the staple is worth on a basis of supply and demand.

"It costs about the same each year to raise an acre of cotton," the speaker said, "yet the price has been known to drop from 40 cents at the beginning of a season to as low as 11 cents. It is an unusual year when cotton prices do not fluctuate as much as 25 per cent over the marketing period. Such a shrinkage in profits is ruinous to any business. When cotton sells at less than the production cost, every bale so disposed of is a liability to the whole State of Texas. Similar marketing conditions hold with practically every crop raised in this state."

"After I am nominated in the primary, propose to use the influence of that nomination to call immediately a state-wide conference of representative farmers and business men to discuss plans for financing the marketing of cotton and other staple crops. Plans that will permit of feeding out the staple to the market as the market needs it and at the owner's own price—not the buyer's price."

Davidson left for Ennis tonight, where he is scheduled to speak tomorrow afternoon. He speaks Wednesday night at Kaufman.

NEW YORK MANAGES TO GET TO WORK DESPITE SUBWAY STRIKE; ONLY FIFTY PER CENT EFFECTIVE

By MAURICE MERMER

United News Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, July 6.—Approximately 1,000,000 New Yorkers, despite a subway strike, continued their routine past time of straphanging tonight as they jammed the subway at the end of the bottle shaped Manhattan to return to their homes at the end of the working day.

The strike of 735 motormen and switchmen which threatened to tie up completely all subway traffic, did not prevent the operation of a 50 per cent service.

The other 1,500,000 persons, who daily use the subway cheerfully came to the surface and used trolley cars, busses, taxis, trucks, elevated trains, moving vans or borrowed rides in the other fellow's automobile.

Except for inconveniences caused by delays in getting to work and home, New York was not bothered much by the walkout.

There was no disorders partly because the strikers' general committee urged the men to obey the law, and partly because more than 5,000 police, about one-third on the entire force were on guard on every train and platform as well as at important stations.

According to James L. Quackenbush, general counsel for the I. R. T., 72 of the disgruntled workers who had joined the Consolidated Railroad Workers union and had split from the parent organization, the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit employees returned to their posts.

He admitted any others who wished to do likewise would be welcomed back into the service. Frank Hedley, president of the Interborough, had said in a statement two days before the walkout that any employees who quit Tuesday morning would be dismissed.

The confusion of New York's night rush hour was greater than ever. At best the dive into the ground and the fight for a ride are precarious ventures, but the knowledge that his train service was reduced by half gave the home going New Yorker a grim determination reserved for great crises. This was one. As each train crawled into the station, the old straight football center rush, good form in normal subway riding, was made to look anemic by the mad plunge for the open train doors.

"Quit your pushing," and "Get off my feet," were hurled back and forth as common pleasantries of subway etiquette.

With subway service into Brooklyn crippled, it was a petulant crowd which gathered under Brooklyn bridge to await trolley cars. As car after car filled with waves of jostling humans, many decided the walk across the bridge would be less of a strain than the fight for transportation.

Thousands lost patience and boarded trucks or hired taxis or privately owned automobiles.

It was "see America first" day for hundreds of thousands who were diverted to the elevated lines. For the first time many were coming out from New York's tunneled under ground.

On many station crowds which had waited long for trains which did not come finally became exasperated and angrily demanded their fares back. They subsequently got into the trains.

Even after handling trains all day the strike breakers seemed hazy of door closing signals. The newly recruited motormen stuck their heads out of the cabs and waited for employees on the platforms to give the word to go.

In Grand Central and Times Square stations the throngs rolled into the subways like great ocean waves. There they were halted because of the curtailed service but trains creeping at half speed gradually took away the crowds and relieved the congestion temporarily. It took less than ten minutes to get another crowd on the platforms, however, and for more than two hours the situation was beyond human control.

DEFICIENCY MEASURE IS PASSED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—The deficiency appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1926 (House Bill No. 13040), carrying aggregate appropriations of $51,191,980.22, was passed by the Senate July 1.

Four amendments were added to it in the Committee of the Whole. They were:

(1) $150,000 for starting in motion the machinery authorized by the co-operative marketing bill, passed July 29, on amendment; offered by Senator Warren (Rep.), Wyoming, chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

(2) $10,000 for printing of certain reports by the State Department.

(3) $750 for stationery printed for the Fuel Administration, on amendment offered by Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia.

(4) $2,500 for salary of an actuary in the Treasury Department, authorized by law.

Before passage of the bill Senator Lee S. Overman (Dem.), North Carolina, ranking minority member of the Appropriations Committee, said that, in spite of a great deal of talk about economy, there has been no economy.

The amount carried in the bill, as passed by the House, was $45,014,229.80. The Senate Appropriations Committee added to this amount $6,014,500.42, and the Committee of the Whole added 163,250, making a total of $51,191,980.22.

Why Girls Go Back Home

CATHARINE BRODY

Copyright 1926 by Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" with Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner production from this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Clifford Dudley, matinee idol, while touring the sticks, finds a "resembling pretty country girl, Marie Downey, who, as innocent as a babe, thinks that because Clifford kisses her they have thus become engaged, and naively follows him to New York. Clifford figures how to get rid of the unappreciated girl without getting unpleasant publicity. Sally, an actress, happens to be getting a chorus job. Hearing the chorus girls' chatter about Clifford, Marie stoutly defends him and states they are engaged; this announcement leads to the newspaper.

"What?" said Sally under her breath. To do her justice, it was only a second before she was in full possession of her faculties. She continued in her most confidential manner. "Well, you see, Miss Downey's asleep, and I don't like to wake her. No, of course, I can't speak for her. Suppose you call to see her."

The voice began to expostulate, to plead, to insist. Sally hung up. Marie had crept into the room, wakened by the conversation, and the two girls looked at each other, speechless. Sally with amusement and a sort of admiration, Marie without understanding.

"So you've gone and done it!" said Sally slowly. "I have to hand it to you. You've got brains in your head after all. For this the street way to call his bluff. Oh, boy!" She wriggled in her ecstasy.

"Oh, what have I done? Oh, Sally," cried Marie as she slowly penetrated, "did one of those girls tell prettiest clothes, and get ready to smile your sweetest smile at the reporters," pronounced Sally, "then you're a sap, and I'm another, for taking you on. For two months, kid, you've been nothing but a darn little simp. I don't know and I don't care how you did it, but all of a sudden you raise your little nitt and hand Dudley a neat wallop, which that bird needs, believe me, and I'm here to see that you make the most of it. It just about proved what I've always said, little innocents like you get all the breaks. An old trumper like me would never get by with which practically falls in your lap. All you have to do is stick to your story, dear, and you're made."

"But what do you mean," moaned Marie. "Oh, Sally, Clifford will never marry me now, never!"

"A lot you care! Here am I to prove that you told me from the first that you were engaged to him, and here am I to prove what's true, at least, practically true, that Clifford never denied it. Dye suppose, when you start to weep on the witness stand that any jury isn't going to take your word and believe that you're telling the truth? If it comes to that, which it won't, if I know Dudley and Dugan. They'll square you, good and hard, too while I'm around. Supposing that falls through, even so, you should worry, you'll get oodles of publicity and your pictures in all the papers. Anyway you look at it, you can't lose. Did I hear anybody say the woman pays—'an' pays—'an' pays?"

As an afterthought, she added: "Now get up and make yourself pretty. And take my advice. Don't see Dudley or Dugan or anybody they send, when I'm not around."

Marie's voice came cold, shocked, defiant.

"You've been a friend of mine, Sally. But I won't do anything like that, never, never! I won't talk to anybody and I won't do anything. I only want to see Clifford, and—and if he never calls me any more, I'll be my punishment. I don't know what made me do it—oh, it'll ruin his career. Oh, I wish I were dead!"

She burst into loud sobs again. Sally, shrugging, shook her head hopelessly over her stubbornness. At this moment the telephone began to peal again.

"That's a reporter, or I'll eat my hat! Go on, answer it!"

"I won't," wept Marie. "I don't want to talk to the hateful things."

"Oh, you—! All right, I'll hand him a line for you, then."

"Don't you dare!" cried Marie, fiercely, starting up.

"Say," drawled Sally, and this time the temper that goes with red hair menaced from her eyes. "What do you mean, dare? I'm through. I butt out. Play your own game."

Marie kept on crying. With hauteur, Sally began to dress to go out.

Just at this time, three blocks away and turn to the left, four men in conference stamped right and left across the narrow space of an office. It was the private office of Mr. Berkeley Sheridan, a producer just coming into the bright lights from a tangled career in the background, by reason of a lucky buy of "His Own."

The four men figuratively tore their hair.

From time to time the switchboard outside buzzed, and from time to time the telephone girl repeated monotonously:

"No, he's not in. He hasn't come in yet. I don't know when he will be in."

"Blank, blank, blank, blank," yelled Mr. Berkeley Sheridan, his usually rosy cheeks mottled with the hue of anger. He was talking to the press agent, a lanky and troubled youth, who, when things were wrong, answered to the names of Blank.

"Yes, I know," said the press agent, wearily for the seventy-seventh time.

"Hell's bells, and a row of 'em," muttered Mr. Dugan, while his feet kept time to the rhythm of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching."

Clifford Dudley said nothing. He wore the expression of a broken man, and only fear of Mr. Sheridan's sarcasm kept him from burying his face in his hands.

"Only two nights after the show opens, Great Blank, blank, blank," sneered Mr. Sheridan, "and our Great Lover is engaged to be married! After all the money we spent selling him to the public as the man no woman could ever get. Yahi! Didja read how the papers kidded us about that? Yahi! They'll kid the show out of town. And you," turning to his press agent, "what the hell do I pay you a hundred bucks a week for? For your wis cracks? For your face?"

"Well—" began the press agent feebly.

Clifford interposed. "Can't you keep lies about me from getting into the papers? What're you good for?"

"At a late hour last night Mr. Dudley could not be reached on the telephone. Mark Dugan, his manager, however, said over the telephone from his home in Great Neck that the engagement was news to him. Mr. Dugan seemed to be much perturbed."

"I'll bet he was," remarked Sally emphatically at this juncture.

She got up and executed a neat somersault in bed, in the excess of her merriment.

Marie threw herself on the bed, too, and wept. But for once her tears left Sally's joy unabated. In fact, they made her irritable, and that lecture which had been withheld so many times, burst now irresistibly from her lips.

"If you don't get up and wash your face, and put on your

HOME EDUCATION

THE RIGHT TO BE BEAUTIFUL

Jessie E. Baker

"Mary Jane is getting so spoiled I can hardly live with her," remarked Mrs. Ray to her friend, Mrs. Brown. "People are always saying how pretty she is and whenever she receives a compliment or hears a remark about her beauty she acts so haughty and affected. She is simply losing her sweet ways."

"Just the other day she was with Mrs. Maborn and the baby. Some one stopped them and began talking about the baby's wonderful eyes. Mary Jane, having received no special attention, broke into the conversation with, 'But her eyes are blue. Just look at mine! They're brown.' Mrs. Maborn and her friend thought it funny, but I was mortified."

"Have you ever tried telling her yourself that she is pretty?" asked the friend. "I had the same trouble with Betty May. She was older than Mary Jane. I didn't know what to do. I couldn't tell her she wasn't pretty for she was and could see it for herself. Besides, if I had she would have thought my judgment at fault or else considered me unfair, and her friends would have seemed more dependable than her mother. I studied the problem carefully and decided I would be frank with her."

"One evening Betty May came in unannounced. 'O, Mother,' she exclaimed, 'I've had more compliments today.'

"I will do anything I can for my lovely daughter," I replied.

"She looked at me, surprised.

"Yes, you are beautiful," I assured her, "and it is nice of your friends to tell you."

"In the conversation that followed I spoke of several of her girl friends and remarked how pretty and sweet they were."

"After a while she said, 'Why, Mother, do you think they are all pretty?'"

"Yes," I replied, "they all have the beauty of youth. One girl may have wonderful eyes, another beautiful hair, another the sweetest of smiles, but they are all pretty. I've been wanting to tell May she how sweet and pretty she looked the other day."

Much Insanity Preventable

By E. BOSWORTH McCREADY, M. D., Member Gargas Memorial Institute (Written for the United Press)

CHICAGO, July 6.—Of every 1,000 children who survive the dangers of birth, infancy and early childhood, 10 are definitely feeble-minded, 40 will become insane, 80 will enter prisons and other correctional institutions, and an incalculable number of others are destined to become nervous invalids, cranks, eccentrics, dependents and misfits of various kinds. Upon the more normal remainder depends the preservation of civilization and the support of the less fortunate.

The Gargas Memorial realizes that much of this burden of misery is avoidable through early recognition of the signs of abnormality and the institution of proper prevention and remedial measures.

The abnormal child can sometimes be recognized by his physical appearance alone. Thus his head may be out of proportion with the rest of his body, overlarge or too small. A protruding, swollen tongue, dry wrinkled skin and unusual distribution of fat characterizes a condition of defective mental and physical development due to absence or deficiency of the thyroid gland. In these children cure may follow proper treatment.

Extreme and persistent irritability and fretfulness even in babyhood indicate an unstable nervous system, often including mental defect. On the other hand, the extremely good baby who lies quietly all day long without interest in his surroundings may, by this inertia, show his deficiency.

Every year 50,000 individuals enter our state hospitals for the insane! Fifty thousand in one year; one million in twenty years while an untold number remain outside who, while perhaps not actually insane, are a burden and a vexation to themselves, a worry and a source of sorrow to their families and friends.

Of this multitude of people, in one generation, destined to lose so much of the fullness of life, many can be saved through early recognition of their tendencies followed by proper preventive measures.

Habitual perversity, the tendency to do always the opposite thing, and to resist simple and sensible directions is significant. Bullying and its opposite of self-depreciation and self-consciousness both have their origin in a sense of inferiority, a mental state which presents serious dangers to mental equilibrium.

Tumults are of serious import. Violent likes and dislikes, strange fears, a constant craving for excitement, disregard for the rights and feelings of others, lack of proper affections, sleep-walking, night-terrors, phobias, persistent and useless lying and cruelty, are all conditions which require attention.

A lively imagination is a valuable asset, but when the child loses his sense of reality in his imaginings and occupies himself either in exclusive day-dreaming or in useless and fantastic fabrication, the problem is a serious one.

It is just as important that symptoms of mental abnormality receive the attention of a physician who understands their import as that proper medical advice be sought in scarlet fever, tuberculosis, appendicitis, or any other serious disease.

"LITTLE CABINET" GOES TO WORK

UNDER SECRETARIES TO RUN GOVERNMENT WHILE BOSSES PLAY

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Just about this time of the year there begins a change of administration here, all within the family, whether it be republican or democrat.

It is beginning now—the transfer of control from the cabinet proper to the "little cabinet," that group of under secretaries who are second in command in every department and many of whom have risen from the ranks over a long period of years.

Vacation time is here. President Coolidge is going away Tuesday and members of the cabinet soon will begin to scatter to summer homes in the mountains or along the seashore. They do not all leave at once, and they do not stay away the whole summer. If necessity arises they return here to handle any momentous problem. Usually there are few if any such problems in the summer, with congress away and a general lull in governmental business.

When they leave, the mantle falls upon the under secretaries and assistants, and business goes on as usual, for these officials have the details of their department work at their fingers ends. They handle the routine in winter session and often act the buffers for cabinet members who head the respective departments.

There have been times when the whole cabinet has been out of town. This may happen in the next few weeks as there is nothing on the horizon now which will compel the attention of cabinet members. But the wheels have turned smoothly before and probably will again.

This government of the "little cabinet" is such a regular event every summer that its members are organized for business. Within a few days, when the summerodus of cabinet members gets well underway, they will hold a dinner to discuss their problems. Presidents are often their guests, and probable get some pointers out of the discussions. President Harding used to attend their dinners.

When they gather about the table this summer Secretary of War Davis second in command at the war department, who sat with them last summer, will be absent. Harford McNider, a new comer, will sit in that place.

Under Secretary Grew, of the state department also is a new comer, though long in the diplomatic service. Grew however, will not be in charge of the state department very long, as Secretary Kellogg plans to stay here most of the summer, as he is the ranking government official when the president and vice president are away.

Rigging For Oil Derricks Arriving For Yellow House

Special to The Avalanche

LITTLEFIELD, July 6.—The big oil truck, has made its appearance on the streets of Littlefield. Seven of them, heavily loaded with lumber, material and machinery for Mays at Well No. 1 Yellow House Ranch, passed through. This well is located in the center of Labor No. 3 in Capitol League No. 697, about 1-2 miles north of the old Yellow House Ranch Headquarters and half a mile over in Lamb county. The derrick will be erected at once and work pushed to a depth of 3500 feet if necessary to find oil or gas in paying quantities. This well will be watched with considerable interest not only for oil but for Potash beds. There are some lakes not far from the location with a very high Potash content in the water, and it is likely that the U. S. Geological Survey will have a man here to observe this well and make thorough tests as it goes down.

it to the papers? Oh, Sally, what will Clifford say? The last sentence was a wail.

But Sally, not stopping to sympathize, dashed out of bed, opened the door from the living room, which led directly out into the hall, and grabbed the morning paper. They took a paper which specialized in theatrical news, and there, sure enough, the story was. It had been placed on the first page, and the reporter had run on whimsically to half a column. There was a picture of Dudley and a picture obviously not of Marie.

"Matinee idol to marry chorus girl. Great Lover of the Stage Finds 'His Own' in the Ranks of 'Pretty Polly.'"

"Just before the chorus girls of 'Pretty Polly,' Roy Rogers' Revue at the Revue Theatre, went home last night little Marie Downey, third from the left, confided a secret which will cause many a girl's heart to burst with envy in these United States. The secret is that she had been for some time the fiancée of Clifford Dudley, whose expert lovemaking in 'His Own' and formerly in 'The Artist' has won for him the title of the Great Lover of the Stage."

The story went on to give a history of Dudley and a few remarks attributed to Marie and supplied by the press agent, who had evidently taken the precaution, as a Broadway wise guy of phoning the story just before the last edition. For the narrative concluded with this illuminating sentence:

"At a late hour last night Mr. Dudley could not be reached on the telephone. Mark Dugan, his manager, however, said over the telephone from his home in Great Neck that the engagement was news to him. Mr. Dugan seemed to be much perturbed."

"I'll bet he was," remarked Sally emphatically at this juncture.

She got up and executed a neat somersault in bed, in the excess of her merriment.

Marie threw herself on the bed, too, and wept. But for once her tears left Sally's joy unabated. In fact, they made her irritable, and that lecture which had been withheld so many times, burst now irresistibly from her lips.

"If you don't get up and wash your face, and put on your

RUSS PANTHEON PLANNED

LENINGRAD, July 6.—The local branch of the "Authors' Trade Union" has petitioned the authorities to transform the famous Cathedral of Transfiguration—one of the historic spots of the old "St. Petersburg"—into a national pantheon or burial place for the great writers, artists and scientists of Russia.

Their petition does not say whether those thus honored should be of the new soviet regime or of the old Czaristic days, or both.

DAILY MARKETS

New York Finance

By United News
NEW YORK, July 6.—Heavy buying of General Motors, General Electric and other high price issues were the features of today's fairly active session of the stock market.

Net gains in standard securities ranged from substantial fractions to as much as seven points in one of the more volatile shares which was in the speculative limelight during the bull market last fall.

The most notable development of the day was the impressive advance of General Motors which carried the price of that issue up to 151 1-2, a gain of four points over Friday's closing price.

The sensational in the Premier Motor stock encouraged renewed pool operations in other motor issues.
Substantial gains were registered by Mack Trucks, Pierce Arrow common and preferred, Packard motors and Dodge. Pooling was evident in the independent steel group and in the oil which were taken in hand shortly before the close when the remainder of the market showed signs of slipping off moderately under the weight of increased realizing sales.

Local traction advanced in the face of interborough troubles, rubbers sold off on reports that tire prices were again reduced.

Investment issues, such as United States Steel, General Electric, Union Pacific were well bought and showed stubborn resistance. Taken as a whole, the market displayed remarkable resistance to profit taking throughout the day. The persistent strength of issues such as steel, General Motors and General Electric has dispelled the pessimistic atmosphere which prevailed in the financial district less than a month ago. Bullish predictions are now made with a greater degree of confidence.

Call money loaned at 4 1-2 per cent all day, despite the fact that banks called approximately $90,000-000 in loans.

Foreign exchange was a shade lower. Sterling declined to $4.86 7-16
and French francs to 2.62 1-2, later recovering a moderate portion of the early loss. Commodity markets displayed a general strong undertone.

Wheat advanced approximately two cents a bushel and cotton gained $1 bale.

Foreign exchange was a shade lower. Sterling declined to $4.86 7-16

Agricultural Development

J. F. JARRELL, Manager, Topeka, Kansas.
Agricultural Conditions in Santa Fe States—July 1, 1926

This statement is prepared from wire reports received June 28 from the several states by the Santa Fe System lines. It is issued to give those who make inquiry about the crop situation in Santa Fe territory information as dependable as it is possible to make it.

Kansas
Wheat harvest in Kansas has been in progress since June 15, and there will be 10 more days of it. Good rains and cool weather early in June greatly improved the crop, and the yield is much higher than expected. Hail and wind a week ago in several sections, and dry weather in 20 northwestern counties, kept the state's total under the high record. The yield for the state is expected to be from 135,000,000 to 150,000,000 bushels. The official estimate June 10 was 133,000,000 bushels. Wheat is running from 18 to 35 bushels per acre in the main wheat districts. Many farmers report more than 40 bushels per acre. The quality is exceptionally good.

About half the Kansas wheat already is harvested by combine machine (cut and threshed at the same time) and the product is being hushed to market, giving the railroad about as heavy a traffic movement as they can handle. However, there has been no serious car shortage to date. When the combine-harvested wheat is out of the way, the remainder of the crop likely will move in a more orderly manner. Some of the wheat from the combines has been too damp but as a rule it is in good condition, as growers have been cautious about operating in unripe fields. Damp wheat has suffered a slight reduction in price. More than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat will be produced in 35 counties in the central, south central and southwestern counties served by the Santa Fe—a new record for that part of the state.

Most growing crops in Kansas are promising. Cool weather has retarded the growth of corn, but there is a good stand, well cultivated, and it should be able to survive the late summer heat. The first cutting of alfalfa was impaired by a late freeze, but the second crop coming on indicates a good yield. Grain sorghums will make heavy yields. Sugar beets are doing well in the Arkansas Valley. Potato digging in the Kaw Valley started this week. There will be a fair yield. A good apple crop is in the making.

Oklahoma
Oklahoma apparently is having a banner year. With wheat harvest practically completed, the State Board of Agriculture estimates the yield at 65,000,000 bushels. With one exception this is the largest wheat crop the state has ever produced, the pressure of war having accounted for 66,000,000 bushels in 1919. Reports from 200 threshings show average yields of 17 1/2 bushels per acre. Not only is the average yield turning out better than expected, but the quality of the wheat is excellent, out of it carries a high percentage of protein, and is testing from 60 to 65 pounds.

Moisture conditions throughout the state seldom were better at this time of the year. Rain would benefit some sections, but everywhere growing crops are reported to be in good condition. Compared with last year it is estimated that the cotton acreage has been decreased about 7 per cent, but the fields are clean and there is a good stand due to cool nights. Growth has been retarded somewhat. Corn, broom corn, kafir and other crops are growing rapidly, and pastures are good. It is estimated that Oklahoma will ship at least 800 cars of Irish potatoes, this year. The potato harvest is now on; both quality and yield are satisfactory.

Texas and Louisiana
Cotton is making a good growth, and prospects at this time are for a normal yield. In the western counties there is an increased acreage.

Wheat in the Panhandle country has been harvested, and much of it threshed. The yield for the state will be from 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels, the bulk of it from the Panhandle; quality never was better. Corn and feed stuffs are doing well. Good weather in June overcame early troubles due to excessive rains. A heavy oats crop has been harvested. The quality of fruit is high and good yields are reported from all sections. Figs from the Gulf Coast country are going to northern and eastern markets for the first time. Prices are satisfactory.

Watermelon shipments from the Southern and Central counties will be the heaviest in years; quality excellent.

Tomato shipments from the San Augustine district were heavy, the demand for this product being stronger than usual.

Onions from the Farmersville-Copeville districts are going to market; high yields and good quality.

Cattle ranges are in fine condition, and all kinds of stock are doing unusually well.

Business in the first six months of 1926 is ahead of the corresponding period of 1925.

Conditions in Southwestern Louisiana are about normal. It has been a good year for fruit and vegetables.

New Mexico
Crop and livestock conditions continued to be favorable through June.

There was sufficient rainfall, but the weather was cooler than normal.

The first cutting of alfalfa was heavy, and the second crop is coming on rapidly. Hay prices are good.

Wheat harvest is well under way. The winter wheat crop is estimated at nearly 5,000,000 bushels. Spring wheat on the highlands is in fine condition. Oats, barley and dry crops in the southern valleys have been harvested, and good yields are reported.

Cotton has grown slowly because of cool weather, but it is expected that the crop will come rapidly with warmer weather. There is a good stand.

Early fruit, including cherries, apricots and plums, are being marketed and early peaches are ripening in the southern valleys. The peach crop is below normal due to a late spring. The apple crop is promising.

Pastures and ranges are in excellent condition and livestock of every kind is doing well. A heavy wool clip is bringing a good price.

The business situation throughout the state is much better than it was a year ago.

GRANBERY TELLS OF CAVERN TRIP

TECH STUDENTS EXPLORE BIG CAVES FOR FOURTH OF JULY

The Tech trip to the Carlsbad Caverns for July 4 was almost perfect according to Dr. J. C. Granbery. "Some of the students who went had chosen the Tech for their summer school work because the bulletin had held out the prospect of such a visit. No doubt there will be many faculty and student excursions from the Tech college to the caverns, he said.

"A matter of surprise," he said, "was the ease with which the trip can be made. We did not get out of Lubbock Saturday afternoon till nearly two, and were in Carlsbad before dark. The trip may also be very inexpensive.

"The caverns themselves beggar description. They are now under the auspices of the Federal government. At 10:30 in the morning the visitors are admitted, at two dollars each, under courteous guides, one of whom is the famous pioneer, Jim White, who explored the cave 20 years ago. It takes five hours to go through the part of the cave to which visitors are admitted. For about three weeks most of this has been electrified. Many series of steps have also been constructed for the convenience of visitors. There is no danger whatever, and there are no difficulties, except that the long tramp is somewhat fatiguing, and would be impractical for one who is crippled or in delicate health.

TAHOKA BUSINESS MEN CELEBRATE ON FIFTH
TAHOKA, Tex., July 6.—Business men of Tahoka were closed here on July 5th, celebrating the 4th which came on Sunday. Many local citizens attended celebrations at neighboring towns, as Tahoka postponed its barbecue to a later date so as not to conflict with other similar events near at hand.

Many Cars of Wheat Handled At Slaton

SLATON, Tex., July 6.—A daily average of from 1,200 to 1,500 cars of wheat are being handled in and out, weighed and checked, through the Slaton terminal, with indications that this week will bring a heavier flood of grain than before. The wheat harvest over the North Plains has thrown the greatest volume of business on the Slaton division of the Santa Fe that has ever been known since the construction of the Plains lines. Storage facilities are so cramped in Slaton that the main line of the Lamesa branch is now being used to store hundreds of cars of wheat that are waiting to be weighed.

For the past month thousands of cars of oil from the Panhandle fields have rolled through Slaton en route to the refineries on the coast. At the present time four trains of wheat and three oil trains are passing southward through Slaton daily; the oil trains carry about one hundred and twenty-five loaded cars. The Slaton division is doing almost one hundred percent more business than was ever handled before. A large number of railroad men, including a dozen complete crews of trainmen, have been added to care for the heavy traffic. Indications are that the present volume of business will continue for many months; the cotton crop will begin to move as the last wheat is shipped and the oil shipments will be greatly increased with the completion of the two new branch lines now under construction into the oil fields.

BRITISH FAIR

LONDON, July 6.—Another British Industries Fair, to boom English trade and attract foreign buyers to England, will be held here February 21st to March 4th, 1927.

In an effort to recoup overseas customers lost to foreign competitors through the general strike and again strat British industry on the uphill climb, the Board of Trade is attempting to make the coming exhibition the most complete yet held. This fair will be the thirteenth of the series.

LUMBER YARD FIRE STARTED BY RAIN

FOLKESTONE, Eng. July 6.—Rain set fire to a lumber yard here. A truck containing lime and lumber stood in the center of the yard. In the course of a heavy rainstorm the rain beat its way through a tarpaulin covering the lime. The water combining with the lime generated heat which set the timber on fire. The truck on fire. This in turn set part of the lumber yard on fire. The blaze was extinguished, however, before much damage had been done.
