Scientists say Pentagon seeking nerve gas funds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Scientists say the Pentagon is seeking funds to develop a new nerve gas weapon that they fear could usher in an era of "dazzling, unbelievable" chemical weaponry.

The device, known as a "binary weapon," would contain two or more relatively harmless chemicals which form a highly toxic nerve gas when the weapon is fired, said Dr. R.J.

Rutman, a University of Pennsylvania biochemist. He was here for a symposium on binary warfare at the American Chemical Society meeting today.

"The binary weapon has been called the 'escalatory weapon par excellence,'" he told a news conference Monday. "The only effective response to it is a nuclear weapon or something more exotic."

Rutman said replacing existing stocks of nerve gas canisters with binary weapons could make nerve gas politically acceptable by removing the danger of storing and moving an already poisonous gas.

G.R. Berdes, a staff member of the House Committee on International Relations, said "middle-level bureaucrats" in the Pentagon were eager to get funding for a program, twice voted down by Congress, to develop binary nerve gas weapons.

A Defense department representative was invited to the symposium to discuss the Pentagon's position, but a Chemical Society spokesman said the department canceled, citing personnel changes.

In July 1975, Congress voted down an Army request for $362,000 to prepare a building at Pine Bluff Arsenal in Arkansas for manufacturing binary gas weapons. A year earlier, Congress rejected a $5.8 million request for developing the weapons.

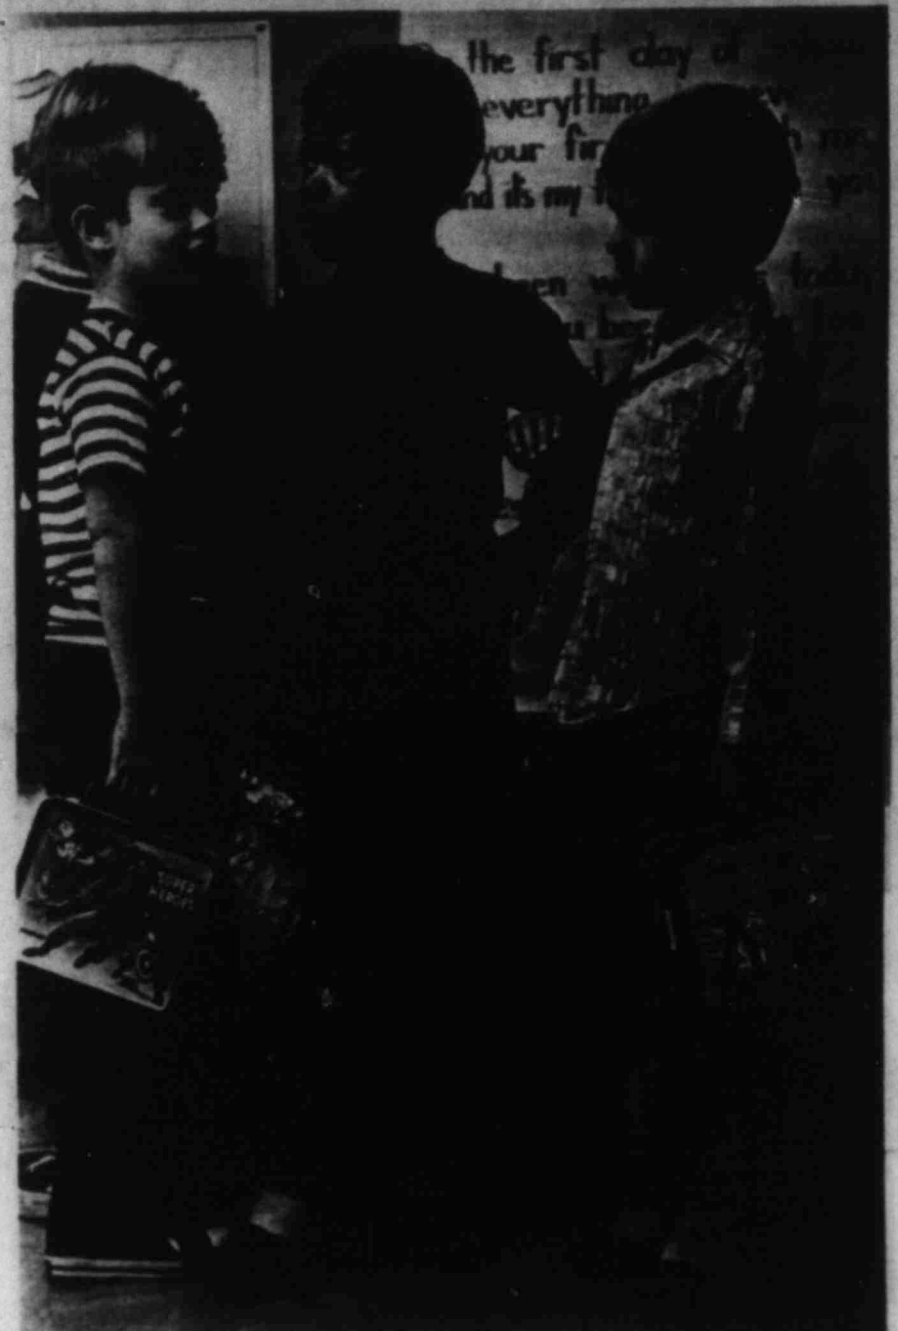

Berdes said a U.S. decision to start producing the weapons would increase proliferation of chemical weaponry and "pull the cork completely" on negotiations under way in Geneva toward complete chemical disarmament.

"The binary is the first in a long line of new weapons. They are dazzling, unbelievable," he said, citing futuristic schemes for weapons that could "vaporize" an enemy.

Rutman said the weapon might consist of an artillery shell loaded with one chemical and a canister filled with another chemical.

The canister would be placed inside the shell, he said, and "the impact of firing and acceleration would then break the partition between the containers..." and the contents would be mixed.

Heat generated by the friction of the flight or by the presence of additional accelerator chemicals would complete their conversion into nerve gas by the time the shell reached its destination, Rutman said, and a charge in the projectile's nose would spread the gas.

Soviet Union purchases U.S. wheat for fall use

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has bought an additional 275,000 metric tons of U.S. wheat worth an estimated $34.6 million for delivery under a long-term agreement which takes effect this fall, the Agriculture Department said today.

Officials did not disclose the seller of the grain or other details. Grain sales to foreign countries, including Russia, are handled by private firms. No government credit has been involved in recent sales to the Soviets.

Department officials say that grain sales to Russia and other countries will not cause American food prices to jump and that prospective 1976 harvests will be large enough to take care of all domestic and foreign needs.

The new sale raised to more than 4.6 million tons the amount of wheat and corn now sold to Russia under a five-year agreement signed last fall. It calls for Russia to buy at least 6 million tons of wheat and corn annually, beginning with deliveries Oct. 1, and as much as 8 million tons if Moscow chooses. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

Russia can have more than 8 million tons of the two grains a year if U.S. officials agree. Because of improved Soviet crop prospects this year, department experts say Russia probably will not buy more than 8 million tons for 1976-77.

Sales so far under the first-year terms of the agreement include 1,971,000 tons of wheat worth an estimated $248.3 million at current export prices and 2,653,000 tons of corn worth an estimated $307.7 million.

Judge rules Cleveland board guilty

CLEVELAND (AP) — A federal judge found the Cleveland school board guilty today of fostering racial segregation in the city's schools.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. Battisti also found the Ohio Board of Education guilty of "intentionally fostering and maintaining a segregated school system within the Cleveland public schools" by failing to use its full authority to pursue integration.

The 200-page decision came in a class action suit brought by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on behalf of the system's 127,000 pupils, of which about 57 per cent are black.

Battisti agreed with the NAACP contention that the Cleveland school board, through action or inaction, had violated the constitutional guarantee of equal protection by maintaining a segregated system.

The judge ordered both boards to submit a plan within 90 days for desegregation of the system.

The NAACP maintained throughout the trial that only cross-town busing would achieve integration.

Battisti also said he intends to appoint "a special master" to assist the court in the next stage, that of finding a remedy.

He also barred the school board from beginning any construction pending court review of the integration plan.

Medicaid clinic chiefs called fraudulent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medicaid clinic operators have been able to commit fraud with "virtually no fear of being caught" and no fear of any significant penalty because of a lack of government investigators and inadequacies in the law, a federal prosecutor said today.

U.S. Atty. Robert B. Fiske Jr. of New York City told a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Aging: "There are many deficiencies in the present operations of the Medicaid program which make criminal investigation and prosecution difficult at best."

The subcommittee is headed by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah.

Fiske told the panel his office has been investigating fraudulent Medicaid claims in the New York City area for the past 3 1/2 years but has been frustrated by inadequate legal tools.

He urged that laws be revised so that Medicare and Medicaid fraud "be changed from one year misdemeanor to five-year felonies."

"This would increase the deterrent effect of these statutes and also make Medicare and Medicaid fraud prosecutions more attractive to federal prosecutors from the standpoint of committing their resources to lengthy investigations," he said.

Fiske also urged the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to establish a criminal investigative staff to track down abuses in the programs.

Investigators for the subcommittee say that much of the money financing the Medicaid program winds up in the pockets of landlords instead of paying for medical care.

The subcommittee staff reported Monday after an eight-month study of the Medicaid program that fee-splitting agreements between physicians and landlords lead to numerous abuses. In effect, the physician ends up working for the landlord on a commission basis, the staff said.

Such agreements "present serious moral, legal and ethical questions," the subcommittee said.

Meanwhile, Val J. Halamandaris, associate counsel of the Senate committee and the head of the investigation, said Medicaid bills from clinics and physicians surveyed in the study would be examined for any sign of criminal fraud. Prosecution would be sought if there is evidence of fraud, he said.

In studying clinics in innercity areas, the investigators found that "most of the (Medicaid) money went to businessmen who owned the building or held the lease."

Most of the physicians were allowed to keep about 20 to 40 per cent of the money they generated from Medicaid, the subcommittee staff said.

The physicians were under heavy pressure from their landlords to see more patients, order more medical tests and spend less and less time with each patient, it said.

The report expressed "grave reservations that the Congress intended 80 to 90 per cent of Medicaid monies to be spent for rent, to be relegated as profit for a businessman, rather than as a legitimate fee."

Kissinger decries racism

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today scored South Africa's policy of racial segregation as "incompatible with any concept of human dignity."

Kissinger said that when he meets in Switzerland this weekend with South African Prime Minister John Vorster, he will press Vorster to move toward equality.

At the same time, Kissinger credited South Africa with "positive steps" regarding Rhodesia and Namibia and said that unlike those two areas, South Africa cannot be regarded as an illegitimate government or "an outside colonial intrusion."

In a prepared speech before a mostly black audience, Kissinger pledged a continued U.S. commitment to "a new birth of independence and racial peace" in Southern Africa. He said that with thousands of Cuban troops north of the Namibian border and with intensifying guerrilla warfare in Rhodesia "a volatile situation is emerging."

Based on the outcome of his meeting with Vorster, Kissinger may go on to Africa to promote majority rule in Namibia and Rhodesia and an end to apartheid in South Africa.

His speech to the Opportunities Industrialization Centers in Convention Hall here is part of a campaign for American black support for the Ford administration's African policy.

Sources in Washington said Kissinger will try to persuade Vorster that "time is running out" for avoiding the escalation of guerrilla warfare in Namibia, which South Africa controls, and in Rhodesia.

At the very least, Jal Lake proves the indomitability of the local citizenry, since it has taken a couple of years and a whole lot of polyethylene lining to make the sandhilly terrain hold water. It's also taken about $300,000 (mostly in revenue sharing and state development funds) and some gifts of trees from the tree farm of former Gov. Tom Bolack.

But the lake is now holding water, the panfish are getting big enough to attract anglers, and Bolack's trees—cottonwoods, poplars, locust, and mulberry come to mind—are beginning to offer shade and scenery, although the bumper crop of goateed stickers still discourages barefoot picnicking.

So it ought to interest Midland Zoological Society members eyeing a "river of life" theme for the proposed modern zoo for the Tall City: you can build an artificial body of water out of geophysical context.

That is, if you've got the gumption of the folks of Jal.

Jal little city with big ideas

JAL, N. M. —I'm still battling somewhere near zero with Aggies and Republicans—although I have great respect for many of both types—after I mentioned them during an appearance at the Ladies Night dinner of the Jal Lions last weekend, after which School Supt. Carl Martin rose to install new officers and revealed that he is both an Aggie and a Republican.

But he was a good sport, as were all the Jal Lions—and as, in fact, Lions must be everywhere to endure all the tail twisting and constructive mayhem that goes on most of the time at most Lions sessions.

Banker Jim Hunter, who replaces high school Principal Guan Miller as president, looks like a man who can tame a Lions den, though, and Tail Twister Mark Sparks is a mean man with the thunder mug that is characteristic of the fund-raising commitment of the huge service organization.

Lion Gary Blocker—who is also mayor of the town that took its name from a pioneer ranch—is duty proud of his little city in southeast New Mexico known for its power in the pipelines and on the football field, and I want to investigate further some of the imaginative approaches to government and taxation they've taken in Jal.

But the city project that happens to interest me most right now is the little lake east of town that represents both the initials and the spirit of the town.

Often referred to as "the biggest baggie in the world," the lake—about a block long—spells out the name of the town with its outline, including a little island in the middle for the heart of the letter "a."

Smith blasts personnel turnover

Dallas Smith criticizes the personnel turn-over in Sheriff Ed Darnell's office.

By JUDY JOHNSTON

Citing what he termed "constant turnover," Midland County sheriff candidate Dallas Smith today held the current sheriff's office responsible for the 111 per cent increase in felony crimes in rural Midland County.

Within the last four years, the Republican candidate said, 80 new deputies were employed and 72 have resigned. In the last 12 months, he added, 24 men were employed and 26 have resigned.

"With this serious problem in turnover, one does not have a competent staff of well-trained deputies, and without a staff of well-trained deputies, one cannot combat this alarming 111 per cent increase in felony crimes in our county," Smith said.

The Midland County sheriff's office reported the increase in rural felony crimes on a recent news release, Smith said. It reflects an increase in the first five months of this year over the same time period the previous year. Smith made his remarks in a prepared speech during the opening this morning of his new headquarters, 405 N. Big Spring St.

During a question and answer session, Smith said he did not think salaries were a factor in the large turnover, explaining that the men were told what they would be making at the time of employment.

Smith also said he believed the area of the sheriff's office which needed most improvement was the recruitment and training of personnel. He also suggested a better record system to find where to send officers where they are needed most.

As a result of his plans to put more cars in the rural areas of the county, Smith said he expects costs of operating the Sheriff's office to increase if he is elected.

Smith challenges Sheriff Ed Darnell, a Democrat who has held the position since 1941. Smith said he did not plan to make Darnell's age an issue in the campaign.

Hospital taps Campbell for administrative job

Appointment of Jerry Campbell as assistant administrator of Midland Memorial Hospital becomes effective Wednesday.

"It is with a great deal of pleasure that I announce Mr. Campbell's appointment. He comes to Midland Memorial from Baylor University Medical Center, Dallas, and brings with him considerable experience in the broad scope of hospital administration," Wayne E. Ulrich, administrator, said.

Campbell holds master's degrees in hospital administration from the University of Minnesota and in public administration from Texas A&M University. He also has a bachelor's degree in biology and physics from Texas A&M.

He took an administrative residency at Baylor University Medical Center where he participated in such administrative functions as planning, fund raising, operations, community relations and certification of need programs.

From 1967 until 1970, Campbell served in the U.S. Air Force and was discharged with the rank of staff sergeant. His military assignments included a tour of duty at the USAF hospital, Cam Ranh Bay, Viet Nam, and at the USAF hospital at the Little Rock Air Force Base, Jacksonville, Ark.

His thesis for his degree in hospital administration was on "A Statistical Examination of the Impact of Mergers on the Performance of Hospitals." His thesis for his public administration degree was titled "Should Certain Tax-Supported Community Services Be Shared? — A Case Study."

In 1970-71, Campbell was research assistant to research oncologist Dr. John Stehlin, director of laboratory research at St. Joseph's hospital in the Texas Medical Center, Houston.

He served as a board member and director-at-large of the Opera and Performing Arts Society after being active in bringing a fine arts program to Texas A&M and the Brazos Valley. He was the faculty nominee for the James Earl Rudder Outstanding Student Award at Texas A&M in 1974 and was cited in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Campbell and his wife moved to Midland in August.

Desegregation sheet available

A basic fact sheet regarding school desegregation in Midland, prepared by the Midland League of Women Voters, is available at the Human Relations Council, 606 W. Ohio Ave.

The information is an overall view of the history, current status and possibilities for citizen participation in desegregation activities.

Area thunderstorms moisten only three West Texas cities

Thunderstorms scattered across West Texas Monday, but only three area cities, including Midland, got some precipitation out of them, the National Weather Service said.

Andrews reported the most rainfall of the area cities Monday, with its airport registering .07 inch. Lamesa had some scattered showers late Monday evening, and the Midland Regional Air Terminal recorded a trace of rainfall Monday.

Skies were overcast, temperatures on the cool side and winds calm across the Permian Basin this morning. No reporting station registered any precipitation early today, but all agreed chances looked good for more rainfall.

In addition to the cool temperatures and cloudy skies, Big Lake reported a heavy early morning dew.

The weather service said skies will continue to be cloudy through Wednesday with about a 30 per cent chance of showers and thunderstorms tonight and Wednesday.

Temperatures should change little, the weather service said. Lows tonight will be in the mid-60s, with the mercury climbing back into the low 80s on Wednesday.

Winds will be southeasterly across the Permian Basin area at 5 to 10 mph tonight.

Somewhat cooler weather brought welcome relief from end-of-August heat across roughly the north two-thirds of Texas today, the Associated Press reported.

Near dawn the mercury dropped in to the low 50s in the mountains of far West Texas. Readings elsewhere ranged from 59 degrees at El Paso and 60 at Amarillo up to 79 at Corpus Christi. Monday afternoon's top marks went no higher than 93 at Alice in South Texas.

Scattered thundershowers started developing anew near dawn from close to Amarillo in the Panhandle southward past Lubbock, Snyder and Guthrie in West Texas, eastward to around Fort Worth and Paris, and through East Texas to the vicinity of Lufkin, Beaumont and Houston. Showers also fell from around Corpus Christi down the coast past Brownsville and near Eagle Pass on the Mexican border.

DEATHS

Woods service Rites Thursday held today

Marse R. "Smoky" Woods died Saturday evening at Hogan Park Golf Course. He was 53.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today at Newbie W. Ellis Chapel, with the Rev. Bill Metzgar, Assembly of God evangelist, officiating. Burial will be at Fairview Cemetery, directed by Ellis Funeral Home.

DEAR ABBY

Laundry starch may cause stiff problems

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Ever since my wife got pregnant, she's been craving Argo laundry starch. She's been eating an awful lot of it and says it calms her nerves.

I'm afraid that all that laundry starch might hurt my wife or her unborn baby, but she insists it's harmless!

How would you feel, Abby, if someone you loved ate laundry starch by the box?—HARVEY IN WAYCROSS, GA.

DEAR HARVEY: I'd be worried stiff. Insist that she tell her doctor about this craving.

DEAR ABBY: After I had my seventh baby I asked my doctor to tie my tubes so I wouldn't have any more children.

Well, that was three years ago, and yesterday my husband announced that he'd made an appointment with a urologist to have a vasectomy! It sure sounds to me like he has another woman in his life!

Maybe I'm just dumb, but I can't understand why HE has to have a vasectomy when there's no danger of getting ME pregnant.

Do you think he's off his rocker, or he just plain doesn't like kids?

Please don't use my name. Four of my kids can read.—"OVER BEARING"

DEAR OVER: No matter what your husband's faults may be, "gambling" isn't one of them.

DEAR ABBY: VIRGINIA BEACH READER asked how one should introduce someone with whom he (or she) is shacking up, and you suggested "friend."

I object! I have many close friends, female and male, with whom I have never slept, and I would like to keep thinking of them as friends, thank you. I see no reason why I should change my vocabulary to cover my friendships just because social mores are changing.

I agree that "mistress," with its connotations of being "kept," has become outdated since today many mistresses keep themselves. And I certainly agree we need a conversational word to cover situations when a man and woman live and travel together but are not married.

I submit that it would be better to change the connotation of "mistress" and use "mistress" (an otherwise useless word) as the male counterpart than warp the meaning of "friend."

If we need another word, how about "bedmate" or "roomie"?

Abby, read the adage, "Make new friends but keep the old, etc." with your revised meaning of "friends." And then offer VIRGINIA BEACH READER a better word.—TOM B. IN TRENTON

DEAR TOM: Objection noted.

Mrs. Dan Colwell, Mrs. Richard Story, Mrs. Ron Pepper and Mrs. Ron Compton.

AT WIT'S END

Situation comedy doesn't always apply

By ERMA BOMBECK

I was watching a situation comedy series the other night of a typical American family. This family laughed until they got sick.

Every time Daddy opened his mouth, he was a scream. The mother was a stitch. And the kids were absolute geniuses at spewing out hilarious retorts. I looked around at our group. My husband was deeply depressed over the paper. (He's looked like that since he let his GI insurance lapse.) One child was on the phone insisting, "I don't believe it" every minute and a half.

Another was locked in his room with the stereo on and the other was staring morosely into the refrigerator waiting for something to embrace him.

"You know the trouble with this family? We're not funny. All the other families in the world are sitting around throwing away one-liners and having a barrel of laughs. 'Hawaii Five-O' gets more laughs than we do."

The next night as I heard my husband's car in the garage I shouted, "Hey gang, heeereeees Daddy!"

"Well," said our son, "if it isn't our father whose wallet is full of big bills ... all unpaid."

"What's the matter with you?" asked my husband. "You're on your feet. Has your car been repossessed?"

"Dyynnoooooomite!" said our youngest. (I almost fell off the chair.) "Hey Mom!" said a son, "what do you get if you take a fender from a Chevy, the chrome from a Ford and the hubcaps from a Pontiac?" I shook my head. "Six months!"

"A rubber hose up your nose," I said amid laughter.

"So," said my husband, "I thought you were going to straighten up the house."

"Why?" I asked. "Is it tilted?" (Group doubling over.) "Incidentally, did you hear Mel just got a poodle for his wife?"

"I wish I could make a trade like that," he said.

"Hey dad," said our daughter, "the dog just ate Mom's meat loaf."

"Don't cry," he said, "I'll buy you another dog."

Mother poked her head in the door. "Got any coffee?"

We all slumped in our chairs exhausted. Thank God for commercials.

TOWN & COUNTRY SHOPPING CENTER

Exhibition features glassware

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ahmanson Gallery at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art is the site of a current exhibition of American decorative arts featuring blown and pressed glass objects from the 18th and 19th centuries.

Items on view include art glass by Louis Comfort Tiffany — an unusual laburnum design lamp, vases and service pieces of iridescent glass — and a selection of Staffordshire transferware from the Hinman-Garland collection. The Staffordshire pieces provide a view of American history as portrayed on English pottery created for the early 19th-century American market.

Singers set guest program

The Desert Winds Lubbock chapter will Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., will present a guest night program at 7:30 p.m.

The Midland chapter also is sponsoring a five-minute shopping spree at United Methodist Church. Gibson's Discount Center. The award will be made at 4 p.m. Saturday. Tickets may be obtained from chapter members.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGTER

(Wed., Sept. 1)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a good day and evening to think in terms of the philosophy of life and to think about what you want to do in the future. If you are planning a trip, you can make major decisions about such now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Step out of the dull routine you are in and look into new outlets that can help you to live more abundantly in the future. Make new friends now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put some serious thought into the work ahead of you and you make big headway. Study into new outlets of importance. Avoid a gossip.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know exactly what is expected of you by your partners and then get together on deals so they work out more successfully. A civic matter can bring you fine benefits. Handle it carefully.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Stop wasting so much time and get busy handling your obligations. Then shop for clothing that can enhance your appearance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good day to look into those interests that could bring you added benefits. Set up appointments for later in the day for recreation you need in the company of friends. Pay more attention to a loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) You have a clearer understanding of a domestic problem and are able to handle it more intelligently now. An opportunity arises that gives you a chance to express a latent talent. Do so.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Seek the assistance of someone who is able to help you with routine work. Handle correspondence that can bring good results. Be sociable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) This is an especially good day to do something that will help you to increase your income appreciably in the near future. Seek the advice of an expert who can give you good counsel.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your personality is magnetic today and can charm others into doing what you wish and thus gain your personal aims. Avoid one who has strange ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make a plan that will help you achieve your goals without so much trouble and pain. Get your romantic life on a more ideal basis.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be your friendly self and get together with as many persons as you can and make big headway where your interests are concerned.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can get good results from any civic work you attend to today. Buy new appliances that will make your routine work easier.

Resin may have caused reprocessing plant blast

RICHLAND, Wash. Hanford Nuclear Six of the workers were washed clean of radioactive material shortly after the explosion and sent home. The two nurses were washed off and returned to work.

One worker, the only one in the room at the time of the blast, was cut in the face and shoulder by flying glass. He and a second man who came to his aid suffered the highest radiation doses. Authorities said they did not know how long the injured man would need treatment but said they expected the other worker to be released today.

Resin beads the cause of the explosion, a reprocessing plant here that contaminated 10 persons with radioactivity, an official says.

"We don't know exactly what happened," said Phil Craig, nuclear processing chief for the Energy Research and Development Administration here. "But I believe the resin beads, which had been in use for several months, degraded when... nitric acid hit them and caused something to go wrong."

Monday's blast on the plant was contaminated.

Treatment, in addition to repeated washings, included injections of chemical agents to help the body eliminate radioactive substances as quickly as possible. The injured man was "peppered" with flying glass fragments that would have to be removed before complete radiation counts were taken of him, one official explained.

ARHCO President George Stocking said the explosion occurred in a sealed-off compartment or "glovebox" measuring 4 by 8 by 9 feet inside the 30-by-40-foot concrete room. Workers use rubber gloves to extract a radioactive element on the other side of a window in the compartment with the aid of nitric acid and resin beads in a three-foot cylinder.

The commercial facility makes americium, a radioactive element produced by nuclear fission. It is recovered from waste produced by nuclear reactors and is used in petroleum exploration to measure ground heat and also is used as a source of radiation in some medical procedures. It is separated from other materials through the use of acids and resins.

Rioting erupts in England

LONDON (AP) — 60 civilians and 29 police officers were hospitalized.

Those arrested, including seven women, were charged with possession of offensive weapons, threatening behavior or assaulting the police, Scotland Yard said.

More than 400 persons were injured, most of them in running street fights between police and blacks. About a third of the injured were police officers. Authorities said

St. Johns Ambulance Brigade.

Motorists reported that police at some Thames River bridges were searching cars for weapons early today.

West Indian community leaders said that between 200,000 and 300,000 nonwhite immigrants were in the Notting Hill district of North London when the violence erupted on the final night of the three-day festival

Senate spares wild New River

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The still-wild New River was saved Monday from being harnessed by a giant hydroelectric project when the Senate, following the lead of the House, overwhelmingly approved legislation barring construction of two dams near the North Carolina-Virginia border.

The 69-to-16 vote, coming three weeks after the House approved the same bill 311 to 73, sends the legislation to President Ford, who has already indicated he will sign it.

The bill puts the contested area of the New River — a segment extending 26 1/2 miles through North Carolina to the Virginia border — into the federal wild and scenic river system. It also voids a license from the Federal Power Commission to the Appalachian Power Co. of Roanoke to build two dams near Galax in southwest Virginia and flood 42,000 acres of highly scenic farmland and mountain valleys.

The only recourse for Appalachian, which has fought for the $845-million project for 15 years, is a damage suit — an action its parent company, American Electric Power of New York, has already promised.

American Electric said "it is highly likely we will bring suit" against the federal government for more than $500 million. That amount, the company said, is the difference between what it would have cost to build the hydroelectric Blue Ridge project barred by the legislation and the cost of a coal-fired plant the company's Roanoke subsidiary will have to spend to replace it.

Passage of the legislation was a major victory for environmentalists, who had made saving the New River a national issue.

The waterway, identified by geologists as the second oldest river in the world, flows relatively untamed, down rapids and through gorges on a scenic mountain route from western North Carolina through southwestern Virginia to West Virginia.

The legislation also was a victory for the determined farmers and other residents in the valleys along the North Carolina-Virginia border who had fought the Blue Ridge Project for more than a decade.

They rejected arguments that the project would create jobs and a vacation wonderland of lakes behind the dams, as well as provide a new and secure source of electrical energy.

Instead they argued that the lakes would inundate their homes, farms, even ancestral cemeteries. This, the independent-minded mountaineers said, was too high a price to pay for more power.

Mexico orders investigation

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government has ordered an investigation into the death of a bracero allegedly beaten by U.S. immigration agents in Texas, authorities announced.

"As soon as the ministry was informed of the death of Cornelio Balderas Loreda, who had spent some time in the United States, consular authorities were asked to furnish clarifying facts on the matter," the Foreign Ministry said in a statement Monday night.

The man's family asked President Luis Echeverria to demand a thorough investigation by the U.S. government.

The newspaper El Sol de Mexico said the incident took place during the weekend of Aug. 22, the same weekend in which three braceros, or illegal migrant workers, were allegedly tortured by a group of Americans near Douglas, Ariz.

That incident prompted irate editorials in Mexico City newspapers and the Mexican government protested to the U.S. government.

El Sol said Balderas Loreda, a 45-year-old bachelor, was "brutally" beaten by U.S. immigration agents aboard a bus on which he was being deported from Austin, Tex., to Matamoros, on the border.

The man died Thursday morning, two days after reaching his home town, Razcon, in San Luis Potosi state, 575 miles south of the border, the newspaper said.

Ethics Committee gives O.K. to Hays hearing

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The House Ethics Committee voted 11 to 0 Monday to hold hearings Sept. 16 on the Rep. Wayne L. Hays

(D-Ohio) sex-payroll scandal, despite his lawyer's plea that Hays is so depressed he can't help in his own defense.

The committee's investigation was begun in June at Hays' request that it clear him of charges by Elizabeth Ray that he put her on the public payroll at $14,000 a year solely to be his mistress. Both the committee and a federal grand jury here have been looking into the question of whether there was a misuse of public funds.

Speaker of the House Carl Albert said Monday that Hays' lawyer, Judah Best, called on him recently and said Hays was so depressed he couldn't cooperate in his own defense.

Albert quoted Best as saying, "I have a client who can't help defend himself." Albert said he sent a letter to the Ethics Committee describing his conversation with Best, but not suggesting what action the committee should take. Monday Best met with the committee, presumably to urge that the investigation be dropped because of Hays' emotional condition. But the committee then voted unanimously to proceed with hearings.

Committee Chairman John J. Flynt (D-Ga.) refused to list the witnesses in advance of the hearing. He said Hays could testify if he wished. Ray presumably would be a key witness.

It has been all downhill for Hays since Ray made her charges in May. He has given up his two major committee chairmanships, was hospitalized with an overdose of sleeping pills and announced he will not seek a 15th term in the House in November. He has been home in Ohio for the last three weeks. Until his downfall, he had been one of the most powerful members of the House because of his control of members' office allowances and part of their campaign funds.

Hays' name has become symbolic of congressional impropriety. The Ethics Committee evidently felt that, regardless of his health, it must press the investigation.

After eight years of doing practically nothing, the committee has become extremely active this year. Its report led to a House reprimand of Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes (D-Fla.) for conflict of interest.

PB Graduate Center announces schedule

Pre-registration for all Permian Basin Graduate Center courses may be made at the Center office between 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m., Monday through Friday.

Center officials said early registration is urged to guarantee a place in desired courses. If a person is unable to register early, they should telephone the Center and advise of intent to register.

Courses will be held one night a week in the Center's classrooms in the basement of Gibbs Tower East.

Courses already scheduled include Geology 5314 (Seminar in Plate Tectonics) sponsored by the University of Texas at Arlington.

This course will begin Sept. 10-11, with registration to be finalized by Friday.

Geology 5314 will be taught by Dr. Joseph F. Fisher and will be held from 7 to 10 p. m. Friday and from 8:30 to 11:30 a. m. Saturday.

The first part of the course will be a review of Plate Tectonics and the present state of ideas. The remainder will be a seminar style with presentations by students of various oil fields of the world and the tectonic controls on their development.

Prerequisite for taking this course is graduate standing. Three hours of residence credit will be awarded. The fee is $85.50, plus $10 property deposit. Financing of all course may be arranged through the Graduate Center if necessary.

Upcoming non-credit courses include:

Improving Seismic Data with Computers, four hours, Dr. Norman S. Neidell of Houston, from 1 to 5 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 15.

Practical Geophysics for Geologists II, 6 sessions, Ed Woodruff, Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p. m., fee $100.

Prospect Evaluation for Non-Geologists, 6 weeks, Dr. Jack Elam, Thursday 7 to 10 p. m. starting Sept. 30, fee $125.

Effective Supervision Workshop, 4 sessions, John L. Buse, Friday afternoons 1 to 5 p. m. Fridays, starting Oct. 1, fee $125.

Oil and Gas Fundamentals II, 5 weeks, team-taught, 7-10 p. m. Tuesdays, starting Oct. 5, fee $50 for four sessions; $80 for complete course.

Calculus Review, 6 weeks, Dale Biggs, 7-10 p. m. Wednesdays, starting Oct. 6, fee $75.

Principals of Land and Leasing, 10 weeks, team taught, coordinated by Doug Stillwagon, 7-10 p. m. Wednesdays, starting Oct. 6, fee $125.

Production Engineering for Non-Engineers II, 6 weeks, team taught, 7-10 p. m. Mondays, starting Oct. 18, fee $125.

Gas Contracts, 6 weeks, Robert E. Mead, 7-9:30 p. m. Mondays, starting Oct. 18, fee $135.

Leadership Skills for Administrators, 1 weekend, 12 hours; Dr. Jim Lewis, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Oct. 23 and 24 to 6 p. m. Oct. 24, West Texas Education Center at Terminal, fee $80.

Geophysical Exploration, L. Fred Uhrig, 7-10 p. m. Wednesdays, Oct. 6, 13, 20 and Nov. 3, 10, 17. Complete course $75. Individual two-week modules, $30 each.

Migration Concepts Applied to Oil Exploration, 6 hours, Dr. R. J. Cordell, 7-10 p. m. Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 6-7, fee $40.

Assertiveness Training, 4 weeks, Marion Kimberly, 7-9 p. m. Wednesdays, starting Sept. 15.

Stratigraphic Trap Exploration, 6 hours, Dr. G. S. Visser, 1-4 p. m. and 7 to 10 p. m. Nov. 11, fee $40.

Practical Geophysics for Geologists II, 6 sessions, Ed Woodruff, 7-10 p. m. Tuesday and Thursdays, starting Nov. 3, fee $100.

Computer Applications by Petroleum Geologists, 6 hours, Charles Igelhart, 1-4 and 7-10 p. m. Dec. 9, fee $40.

Oil and Gas Taxation, one-half day, Donald S. Johnson, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Dec. 3, fee, $25.

Gulf test shows gas

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-TJ-23-53 State, 1/4-mile southwest stepout to the one-well University 53 (Ellenburger) gas field of Schleicher County, recovered 2,400 feet of gas and 345 feet of heavily gas-cut drilling fluid, with a slight trace of oil, on a drillstem test in the Ellenburger.

Tool was open one hour on the test taken from 7,835-7,875 feet. Flowing pressure was 127-85 pounds; initial shut-in pressure was 2,762 pounds and two-hour final shut-in pressure was 2,902 pounds.

The project is bottomed at 7,925 feet, and operator was preparing to take a drillstem test from 7,875-7,925 feet.

Location is 680 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 23, block 53, ULS, 17 miles northwest of Eldorado.

The discovery, Gulf No. 1-TM State, finalized in March, for 16 million cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 7,806-7,816 feet.

Pringle appointed

E. M. Pringle has been appointed engineering manager for the Permian District of Atlantic Richfield Co. at Midland, it was announced by C. E. Cardwell Jr., district manager.

Pringle, who has been district engineer, North Area, since 1973, succeeds K. V. Terrell, who, as previously announced, has been named district operations manager.

Pringle graduated from the University of Southwestern Louisiana with a B. S. degree in petroleum engineering. He joined Atlantic Richfield in 1958 at Merryville, La., and later was assigned to the company's engineering department at Lafayette, La., Denver, Colo., Roswell, N. M., and Dallas.

Pringle received his B. A. degree from Columbia College, a B. S. degree from Columbia School of Engineering, and his Engineer of Mines degree from Columbia School of Mines.

He serves as a director of six other firms and is a trustee of the Victoria Foundation, Inc. and Columbia University.

R. D. Lilley gains post

TULSA, Okla. — Robert D. Lilley, Short Hills, N. J. retired president of American Telephone and Telegraph Co., has been elected a member of the board of directors of Cities Service Co.

Lilley received his B. A. degree from Columbia College, a B. S. degree from Columbia School of Engineering, and his Engineer of Mines degree from Columbia School of Mines.

He serves as a director of six other firms and is a trustee of the Victoria Foundation, Inc. and Columbia University.

Moorhead joins firm

DALLAS — Texas Oil & Gas Corp. has announced the employment of D. Scott Moorhead as district landman in the Wichita, Kan., district office.

Moorhead will be responsible for the administration of the company's oil and gas leases in the state of Kansas.

He formerly was with Shenandoah Oil Corp. as division landman in Denver, Colo. He is a graduate of Eastern New Mexico University.

Judge turns down trial delay request

DALLAS (AP) — There were no "deals" with a pair of key state witnesses in a burglary case against East Texas oil heir James LeBus, prosecutors said Monday.

LeBus, 37, active in the country club set and a well known amateur golfer, is being tried here on a charge of burglarizing Metallic Development Corp. of Wichita Falls. Gold and silver bars valued at about $24,000 were taken.

Selection of jurors for the trial continued today.

Now a Dallas resident, LeBus is one of three wealthy and respected men indicted on criminal charges June 26. The others are Adam Nacol, 59, a Wichita Falls jeweler, and Barry Donnell, 36, president of a Wichita Falls manufacturing firm. Nacol is to be tried here in September.

District Court Judge Stanley Kirk of Wichita Falls denied Monday defense motions to delay the trial.

Defense lawyer Jack Banner of Wichita Falls sought the delay in a 10-page motion which claimed among other things that prosecutors had failed to give the defense a list of witnesses and had failed to supply information the judge ordered them provide.

In a pretrial hearing Monday, Banner called Dist. Atty. Tim Eysen and Special Prosecutor Howard Martin to the stand in an attempt to prove that prosecutors had made a "deal" for the testimony of Clyde Burns and Alton Woodruff Fanchier.

Burns had been charged in 1975 with burglarizing a home at Wichita Falls, but the charge was dismissed.

Eysen said he may have Burns, a convicted murderer, housed in a Dallas area federal prison for his protection during the trial.

Burns, 35, a self-styled master criminal, was convicted in the July 1975 slaying of James Carter Keith, a Clay County rancher who owned a valuable coin collection.

Eysen told a reporter last fall that his office was "negotiating" with Burns, adding that "sometimes you have to give to get" in such circumstances.

Martin, a Wichita Falls lawyer hired as special prosecutor by a group of Wichita Falls residents who called themselves "The Victims," was the prosecutor when Burns was tried in Clay County.

The case was moved here from Wichita Falls because Banner claimed "there exists in the confines of Wichita County, Tex., an influential but misguided group of extremists who in best soap opera fashion have styled themselves 'the vigilantes' and-or 'victims.'"

World oil recovery shows light increase

TULSA — World oil production bounced back from last year's slump during the first half of 1978, increasing 5 per cent.

The Oil & Gas Journal says global output went from 52.7 million barrels daily in January to nearly 57 million in June, for an average flow of 54.6 million. Non-Communist nations were producing 44.6 million in June, averaging nearly 42.4 million for a six-month gain of 4.5 per cent.

The 13 nations belonging to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) increased their output an impressive 8.2 per cent, the Aug. 30 issue of the weekly business magazine says.

OPEC, which produces 67 per cent of Free World oil, averaged 28.5 million barrels daily, and was surging to the 30 million level, the Journal's statistics showed.

The OPEC nations still are below their record 32 million barrels daily set on the eve of the Arab embargo in September, 1973, and now have oil fields which could produce about 38 million.

The Journal says the increasing oil market is partially due to the world economic recovery and the relatively stable prices since OPEC raised the price of high-grade Arabian Light crude 10 per cent last October.

But the growing demand for oil may prompt OPEC to boost prices 10 to 15 per cent for 1977. Efforts to raise the top $11.51 per barrel price have been blocked by Saudi Arabia, the largest OPEC producer, but it may consent to an increase later this year.

Whether this would cause oil importing nations to renew energy conservation efforts is problematical, but a 15 per cent increase would cost importers $20 billion a year above prices which have quadrupled since 1972.

United States production is headed for its sixth yearly decline since it peaked at 9.64 million barrels daily in 1970. Output fell 3.7 per cent in the first half of 1976 to an average 8.14 million.

Crude from Alaska's prolific Prudhoe Bay field should add another 1.2 million barrels daily in late 1977, but won't offset soaring crude imports, the Journal said.

Imports jumped 29.5 per cent to 4.8 million barrels daily in the first half. Imports of refined petroleum products dropped 13.2 per cent to 1.75 million.

Canadian production slipped 7.2 per cent to 1.28 million barrels daily during the first half. Canada hopes to cut its 1978 deficit to about 5 to 6 per cent by continuing to phase out crude exports to the U.S.

The Journal's static statistics showed Russia leading all nations with an average production of 10.2 million barrels daily, an increase of 5.7 per cent.

New North Sea fields boosted European output 51.6 per cent to 714,000 barrels daily. Norway's Ekofisk field flowed an average 243,000 barrels daily, and five new fields off England produced 145,000.

Middle Eastern output increased 4.7 per cent to more than 20.1 million barrels daily, paced by Saudi Arabia's 21.2 per cent gain to nearly 8 million. Oil flows are up slightly in Iran, but down in Kuwait and Iraq, the Journal says.

African production rose 23.9 per cent to 5.5 million, Latin America fell 5.7 per cent to 4.1 million (although Mexico was headed for a record 1 million barrels daily), and the Asia-Pacific area gained 13.7 per cent to 2.43 million due to a near 20 per cent increase in Indonesia.

Pool units approved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The railroad commission said Monday it has approved unitization projects in Smith and Montague Counties that should result in production of an additional 2.1 million barrels of oil.

McCommons Oil Co. of Dallas was given permission to unitize and install a salt water injection system in the Engle (Conglomerate 2nd) Field, Montague County, which was discovered in 1952.

The field has produced 764,000 barrels, and McCommons said it expects to recover an additional 400,000 barrels.

Jones-O'Brien, Inc., of Shreveport, La., was authorized to unitize the Tyler, West (Paluxy B Sand) Field in Smith County and to install a water injection pressure maintenance program.

The field was discovered in 1973 and has produced more than 287,200 barrels of oil, with an 1,739,000 more barrels expected to be produced as a result of the secondary recovery project.

Gas strikes reported

DALLAS — Dorchester Gas Corp. has reported four gas discoveries on its Irrigation Block in Southeastern Alberta province, Canada.

A drillstem test at No. 6-15-21-17 Countess flowed gas at the daily rate of 2.4 million cubic feet from the Viking zone at 2,930 feet.

No. 7-19-23-20 Hussar tested 1.5 million cubic feet daily from the Glauconitic zone at 4,334 feet.

No. 6-4-24-21 Standard flowed from the Glauconitic at the daily rate of 2.1 million cubic feet.

And No. 6-2-26-23 Standard flowed from two zones — 400,000 cubic feet daily from the Glauconitic at 4,864 feet, and at 450,000 cubic feet per day from the Viking at 4,224 feet.

The tests are the initial four of an exploration program which is underway to evaluate the Irrigation Block, comprised of 100,000 leasehold acres in which Dorchester holds an average of more approximately 20 per cent interest. Construction is under on the north end of the block in the partially developed Entice area, on a plant and gather system facilities with gas sales anticipated by the first of the year at a price of $1.25 per thousand cubic feet.

TAO dealing with Harding

Texas American Oil Corp. of Midland has announced the execution of an agreement with Harding Oil Co. of Dallas in which Texas American agrees to purchase substantially all of the oil and gas properties and other operating assets of Harding.

William F. Judd, president of Texas American, said the purchase price would be $2,600,000.

The purchase is subject to approval by the Harding stockholders.

Harding is a privately held company based in Dallas.

The production of crude oil from the properties being acquired from Harding is approximately 270 net barrels per day, Judd said.

TAO will be acquiring an interest in 90 gross wells, 40 of which will be operated by the company.

TAO had announced earlier that it is negotiating for the purchase of substantially all of the assets of Manning Gas & Oil Co., Denver, Colo. Judd said an independent reserve report is being prepared on the Manning properties and should be available for evaluation about the middle of September.

Negotiations with United Refining Co., Warren, Pa., for the purchase by TAO of a 9,500-barrel per day oil refinery and related wholesale gasoline brokerage business are continuing, Judd said.

Field discovery potentials; area counties get explorers

A discovery finalized in Concho County and wildcat sites have been staked in Schleicher and Irion counties.

Universal Minerals Corp., Dallas, completed No. 1 Mozelle Nutt as a Strawn gas strike in Concho County, eight miles west of Eden.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 3 million cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-condensate ratio measuring 338,750-1. Condensate gravity is 38 degrees.

The well is producing through perforations at 3,644-3,659 feet, after the pay zone had been acidized with 750 gallons and fractured with 12,500 gallons.

Originally drilled by the same firm to 4,000 feet, it was deepened to 4,002 feet, and operator set 4 1/2-inch pipe at 4,001 feet. It is plugged back to 3,750 feet. Top of the Strawn sand was picked at 3,582 feet, under ground elevation of 2,182 feet.

Well site is 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 33, block 8, M&TC survey, eight miles west of Eden.

SCHLEICHER TRY

Tucker Drilling Co., Inc., San Angelo, staked sites for two middle Strawn oil explorers in Schleicher, 9 1/2 miles southeast of Eldorado.

No. 1-33 Page Brothers, a 6,000-foot test, will be drilled on the east side of the Page (Strawn) field, 600 feet from south and east lines of section 33, block L, GH&A survey. Ground elevation is 2,287 feet.

No. 2-46 Robert Page is planned as a 6,300-foot venture, 3/4 mile west of a depleted gasser in the Page field.

It spots 850 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 45, block L, GH&A survey. Ground elevation is 2,355 feet.

IRION PROJECT

James P. Dunigan, Inc., Abilene, filed application for permit to drill No. 1-1804 Field, a 7,500-foot exploratory test in Northeast Irion, 14 miles north of Mertzon.

Location is 680 feet from south and west lines of S. C. Bennett survey 1804, abstract 13, 3/4 mile northwest of production in the Arden, South field.

Also in Irion, Union Texas Petroleum Corp., operating from Midland, plans to clean out to 7,450 feet at No. 1-145 Skelly-Sugg, for completion attempt as a second well and 3/4-mile northeast extension to the Rock Fen (Canyon) oil field.

It originally was drilled by Skelly Oil Co. as No. 1 Sugg Estate, and abandoned in September, 1945 at 8,700 feet.

Test site is 680 feet from south and east lines of section 45, block 1, H&TC survey, six miles west of Mertzon.

The discovery, UTP's No. 1-56 Farmer, finalized in June, for 140 barrels of 30-gravity oil and 12 barrels of water daily, through perforations at 7,122-7,145 feet.

CROCKETT TEST

Amoco Production Co. intends to deepen to 11,600 feet at No. 1-A R. A. Marrell, Crockett failure, 17 miles south of Ozona. It is to be tested for completion try as an eight mile southwest extension to Strawn production in the Whitehead field.

The project was abandoned by Amoco in November, 1975.

It spots 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 11, block L, GC&SF survey, 17 miles south of Ozona.

TERRELL OUTPOST

Seco Production Co., Midland, plans No. 1-29 Allison as a 1 1/2-mile south outcrop to the Allison (Pennsylvanian detrital) gas field of Terrell County, 7 1/2 miles south of Sheffield.

Sited to 10,300 feet, it is 487 feet from south and east lines of section 20, block B-2, CC&S&RG survey. It also is 3/4 mile northwest of the one-well Allison, South (detrital) gas field.

VAL VERDE STEP-OUT

C&K Petroleum, Inc., Midland, intends to drill No. 1-39 Exxon-Mills, a 3/4-mile southwest stepout to the two-well Will O (Ellenburger) gas field of Val Verde.

Drill site is 1,754 feet from north and 2,478 feet from west lines of section 39, block Q-3, TCR survey, 6 1/2 miles northeast of Pandale. The project is scheduled for a bottom depth of 15,500 feet.

South Plains tests slated

Wildcats have been sheduldftr Terry and garza counties.

Gulf Oil Corp. will drill No. 64 Mallet Land & Cattle Co., an 11,300-foot try in Northwest Terry, five miles south of Sundown.

Drill site is 1,670 feet from north and west lines of section 5, block D-11, J. H. Gibson survey, surrounded by production in the Slaughter field.

GARZA PROJECT

E. B. Brooks Jr., Dallas, accounted for an 8,500-foot explorer in Garza, 11 miles south of Post. It is No. 1 J. H. Herd.

It spots 1,980 feet from south and 1,650 feet from west lines of section 14, block 2, T&NO survey, three miles southeast of the Teas (Strawn) field.

Kosygin has close call

LONDON (AP) — The London Evening News says the bodyguard of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin saved Kosygin's life after the premier suffered a heart attack while swimming.

The paper said the 72-year-old premier is not in serious condition now, but had to be given "oral resuscitation and owes his life to this and the fact that professional medical help was immediately available."

So what's in a name?

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Diane Marie Stumpf arrived on the Indiana University campus and reported to the dormitory room she had been assigned to share with another student — Diane Marie Stumpf.

A computer error had assigned two freshmen with the same name to the same room at Wright Quadrangle.

Despite the inevitable confusion in telephone calls and mail, Diane Marie Stumpf of Indianapolis and Diane Marie Stumpf of Pittsburgh say they like the arrangement.

"I love it," laughed Diane from Indianapolis. "When I was told, I just burst out laughing."

And Diane from Pittsburgh just "couldn't stop thinking about it. I went all through high school writing my name and not thinking about it except that it belonged to me. I was kind of shocked to find out that someone else had it, too."

Now the nameplate on the door of Room 106 at Wright Quad reads: "The two Diane Marie Stumpts."

DRILLING REPORT

ANDREWS — Crown Central No. 1-46-A University; drilling 12,673 feet.

COTTLE — Bass No. 1-V Parnell; 6,300 feet, on a trip.

CROCKETT — Gulf No. 2 Bailey; 10,600 feet, circulating and conditioning hole.

EDDY — Black River No. 1 P-Dean-Federal; 4,855 feet, waiting on orders. A 1 1/2-hour drillstem test from 8,838-8,905 feet, recovered 20 feet of drilling mud, plus 18 cubic feet of gas and 600 cubic centimeters of drilling mud from the sample chamber.

Hondo No. 1 Wright-Federal; 11,300 feet, preparing to test through perforations at 11,000-11,080 feet.

CAK No. 1-15 Pennzoli-Federal; 11,780 feet, flowed 24 hours, making six barrels of water and gas at the rate of 975,000 cubic feet daily, through a 16-44-inch choke and perforations at 11,019-11,543 feet.

Mesa No. 1 Moore-Federal; 10,615 feet in time, shale, shut in. Perforations are from 13,309-13,326 feet.

FISHER — Friel and Carpenter No. 1 Kibler, Noodle Creek discovery, 2,000 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 27, block V, T&P survey, 10 miles northwest of Rotan.

Finalized to pump 48.7 barrels of oil, gravity 41, and 31.5 barrels of water per day, through perforations at 3,776-3,779 feet. Total depth is 3,820 feet, which 4 1/2-inch casing set on bottom.

LEA — American Quasar No. 1 Corbin-State; drilling 13,324 feet.

CAK No. 1-4 Greenwood-Federal; 12,394 feet, still shut in.

Teal No. 1-8 New Mexico-Federal; drilling 10,778 feet in time, shale.

LOVING — CAK No. 1-57 Johnson; 12,000, running temperature survey after setting 9 1/2-inch casing on bottom.

Williams No. 4 Gatage; 18,975 feet, flowed 14.8 barrels of water in 24 hours on a 13-64-inch choke and perforations at 18,908-18,978 feet.

Williams No. 1 Allen; rigging up rotary.

PECOS — Texas Pacific No. 10 Elmore; drilling 6,569 feet in time and shale.

Scholar says capitol artist not persecuted

By EDWARD MAGRI

ROME (AP) — The Italian artist who painted the ceilings and the dome of the capitol in Washington was a convicted criminal and not — as some Americans' biographies say — the victim of political persecution in Rome, a new study claims.

Giulio Romano, a Rome scholar, says he sifted through piles of unpublished Vatican papers to dig out the trial documents of Constantino Brumidi, a Roman painter who gained the title of "The Michelangelo of the U.S. Capitol." Romano published his findings in the latest issue of Concrettezza, a cultural fortnightly.

Romano said the Vatican papers showed Brumidi was jailed and convicted because of his admitted involvement in the looting of church property in Rome when anti-papal forces gained control of the city from 1848 to 1849. Pope Pius IX was forced to flee into exile to nearby Gaeta.

The pontiff came back with the help of French troops that defeated the rebels who had hoped to shake off papal rule of the city and help unify Italy, then a group of separate states.

Romano said American records described Brumidi as a troublesome Roman years in a way "very different from the certainly authentic one that comes out from our direct study of the Vatican documents."

Romano quoted one American biography as saying that Brumidi, a captain in the papal guard, was jailed when he refused to obey an order to fire on a crowd. He was then exiled after spending 14 months in jail.

"The halo of victim of political persecution at the hands of the pope... was quite a good plank to use in the new world," Romano said. Romano said Vatican papers showed Brumidi was jailed at the age of 45 on Feb. 4, 1851 on charges that as an officer of the people's militia on the rebellious city he led a patrol that looted the monastery of Santa Maria Nova near the ancient Forum.

"The target seems to have been a considerable sum of money that the Olivetan monks had collected to promote the cause of beatification of their founder, Bernardo Tolomei," Romano wrote. "But thanks to a tip, the monks fled with the money before the militiamen showed up."

He said the militiamen took furniture and various assorted items, including church vestments and vessels. Part of the items were sold and part were taken home by the men.

Brumidi took home 40 chairs, some tables and various pottery items, Romano said.

When the pope returned to power, Brumidi returned everything to the monastery. But he was jailed and prosecuted all the same.

Romano said various witnesses for the defense testified that Brumidi had helped in preventing more violence and looting. Others testified that in his case, Brumidi "prohibited reading of the newspapers" and "discussions about politics."

Brumidi wrote to the pope asking for pardon. Romano said. In a letter Brumidi recalled he had painted a portrait of the pontiff on commission by an Italian cardinal and that he was working on another portrait ordered by the Bishop of New York when he was jailed.

But Pius IX said he would grant a pardon only after a verdict so that the "principles of justice be safeguarded."

On Jan. 2, 1852, Brumidi was sentenced to a term of 33 months. The pope later canceled the rest of the term and Brumidi was released after 13 months in jail.

Once free, he took his family to New York.

In 1855, he painted his first Washington fresco in the room of the agriculture committee in the capitol building. He continued his work at the capitol for 30 years, depicting episodes out of ancient history and of the American revolution.

Savings firms' deposits climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Savers are pouring their money into savings and loan associations at a near record rate, a trend that should make more money available for home mortgages, the government reports.

Deposits outpaced withdrawals by $3.3 billion in July at the federally-insured associations, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced Monday. The figure was a record for the month and doubled the net new savings in June of $1.4 billion.

Mortgage lending slipped from $8.1 billion in June to $7.6 billion in July, but the board termed the July mortgage figure substantial and noted there is usually a larger drop in the summer months.

Outstanding commitments for future mortgage lending also fell slightly to $16.1 billion, but again the board said this decline was less than usually experienced at that time of year.

The Commerce Department said two weeks ago that the housing industry was in a slump, with new housing-unit starts down 9.2 per cent in July.

The average annual interest rate on home mortgages was just under 9 per cent in June. The surge in deposits at thrift institutions should keep rates down and make it easier for home buyers to get loans.

The bank board's acting chairman, Garth Marston, said that declining interest rates on government and corporate securities were responsible for July's increase of savings.

In other economic news on Monday:

—Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns said a congressional panel's charge that the board was dominated by banks and big businesses "has no foundation in fact."

—United Steelworkers President I.W. Abel opened his union's biennial convention in Las Vegas with a blast at union dissidents and the Ford administration. He also said the USW will seek a guaranteed wage in upcoming contract talks with the steel industry.

—U.S. Steel Corp. dropped a planned 4.5 per cent price hike on steel for autos and appliances. Several other steelmakers followed suit. But General Motors, the largest U.S. automaker, said it still plans to boost prices on new cars by 6 per cent, or an average of $300.

—Ford Motor Co. gives the United Auto Workers its new contract proposal today, two weeks before the current three-year pact expires.

Harris' lawyer says he 'expects worst'

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William and Emily Harris' chief attorney says he "expects the worst" when a judge sentences the couple on their kidnapping, robbery and car theft convictions.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler had planned to sentence the couple Monday, but he postponed sentencing until today after the Harris used Monday's court session for legal attacks on him and the jury that convicted them Aug. 9.

Chief defense lawyer Leonard Weinglass said he was not hopeful about the sentence awaiting the longtime fugitive companions of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst. And avowed members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"Based on long experience, we can't be optimistic that there will be any beneficial action toward the Harris. We expect the worst," he said Monday.

The heaviest penalty Brandler could impose would be an indeterminate sentence of five years to life, placing no limit on the Harris' prison time, Weinglass said.

The Harris must still stand trial in Alameda County on kidnapping charges in the Feb. 4, 1974, abduction of Miss Hearst, the absent codefendant who will be tried here next year on the same charges the Harris faced. Miss Hearst was convicted of armed bank robbery in San Francisco earlier this year.

In its last furious battle Monday to get the verdict set aside, the Harris defense team made 10 motions challenging the judge and jury for misconduct, seeking lie detector tests for the jury and other remedies. Brandler granted only one request, to let defense lawyers submit to lie detector tests to clear themselves of any suspicion in the smuggling of what the defense claimed to be a prejudicial newspaper into the jury room during the Harris trial.

Same prison houses both Manson girls

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Charles Manson "family" members Susan Murphy and Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme are practically roommates again.

Miss Murphy, 34, and fellow inmate Diane Ellis, 33, captured in Oregon last week after escaping from Terminal Island federal prison in Los Angeles, have been imprisoned in the Metropolitan Correctional Center, a year-old prison that is considered escape-proof.

Miss Fromme, 27, is serving a life sentence here for attempting to assassinate President Ford last year. Miss Fromme and Miss Murphy were roommates in Sacramento, Calif., at the time of Miss Fromme's arrest.

Miss Murphy had been held in Los Angeles for conspiracy to send threatening letters to businessmen she accused of polluting the environment. Miss Ellis was jailed on a parole violation after being convicted of bank robbery.

Rhodes snubs Army pension

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes says he won't accept a military pension as long as he is in Congress.

The Arizona Republican says he agrees with the position of the National Taxpayers Union that members of Congress should not accept federal pensions in addition to their salaries.

Rhodes, who is to begin receiving a $300 monthly pension next month for service as an Army colonel, said he will return the pension.

Kate Smith hospitalized

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Kate Smith is in satisfactory condition at Boulevard Hospital, suffering from a sore throat.

A hospital spokeswoman said Monday the 67-year-old entertainer, famed for her booming renditions of such standards as "God Bless America," was admitted over the weekend. She did not say when Miss Smith was expected to be released.

Carew steals home during Twins' victory

By The Associated Press

"Stealing home is just a gamble you take," says Minnesota's Rod Carew, a master of that last baserunning art. "Sometimes you make it, sometimes you don't."

It's less of a gamble if you know what you're doing, however, and Carew has proven he knows. He swiped home for the 15th time in his career in the first inning Monday night to start the Twins on their way to a 10-3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The first thing you do is study the opposing pitcher, in this case Milwaukee starter Jerry Augustine.

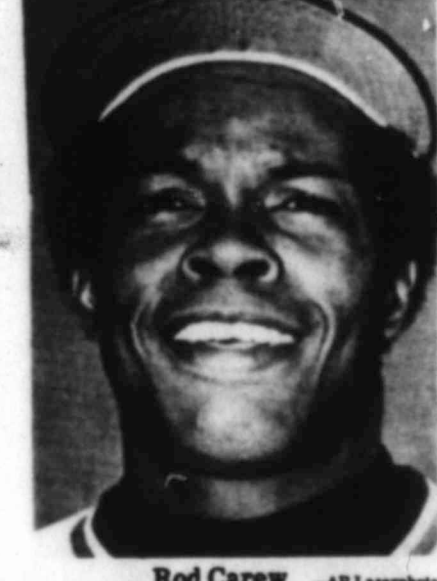

"I was going to go one pitch before," Carew said. "I timed the guy's windup and he was taking too much time."

Then you look for a little help from your friends—particularly the batter, Butch Wynegar.

"Butch helped me out by leaning out there and blocking the catcher's view," said Carew. "He must have seen me coming."

Then you go. It's a gamble, but if you know what you're doing you can shake up a pitcher. Carew made it, and Augustine did not last through the second inning.

Bartowski is happy with win

ATLANTA (AP) — Steve Bartowski can smile again, something the Atlanta Falcons' quarterback found difficult to do the past four weeks.

But the personable, second-year blond bomber from California has made up for it since Saturday night's 21-7 National Football League preseason victory over the Baltimore Colts, which snapped Atlanta's month-long victory drought.

"There's no question we needed that victory," said Bartowski after Atlanta improved its record to 1-4. The preseason schedule closes this Sunday at Milwaukee against Green Bay.

"I'm a firm believer that winning breeds winning and it has to become a habit," said Bartowski, who had three touchdown passes in the win.

"I don't especially like the feeling of losing. If we had kept on losing, I'd find problems living with myself. I'm feeling better now," he said.

Bartowski, who had a fine rookie season and preseason, had been victimized in earlier losses by receivers dropping balls. But Saturday night they finally held on as the 6-foot-4, 214-pounder connected on 14 of 28 passes for 222 yards.

"We felt like we could throw against Baltimore since they have such a fine defensive line. Our game plan was to pass," he said.

"I'm still making mistakes but I'm learning. It's awfully hard to play a flawless game, especially at quarterback. But I feel I'm progressing," he said.

"We haven't played our starters in the offensive line because of injuries but they were in there in the third period and we went 90 yards for a touchdown. There were some good signs in that drive and our running game did as well as we have all preseason," he said.

Bartowski also had praise for the defense and fans.

"The defense looked to one another and made things happen. We had gotten into the habit of waiting around and hoping something happened. Against the Colts we finally did things, we didn't wait around."

"And the fans in Atlanta have been great," he said. "They've been patient throughout the preseason and you can't ask for any more than that. They deserve a winner and that's exactly what we're trying to do."

Anthony rolls to bowling win

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — Earl Anthony successfully defended his title in the $60,000 Waukegan Open Bowling Tournament and he did it by rolling a near perfect game.

Anthony, in picking up a $6,000 paycheck to boost his winnings this year to $88,278, came within one strike of a perfect game in defeating Tom Wright 279-194 Monday night to capture his fifth tournament of the year and 25th of his career.

The victory moved him into a tie with Dick Weber and Don Johnson for first on the Professional Bowlers Association all-time title list.

Wright, the top-seed from Milbrae, Calif., never had a chance as Anthony strung eight strikes before a bad shot in the ninth frame left the five-pin standing. He then finished with three strikes in the 10th.

"I gave it too much room and it didn't come back to the pocket," Anthony said of the ninth frame ball. "I got outside my target just enough that I knew it wouldn't knock all the pins down."

In the opening game, Johnny Petraglia, Staten Island, N.Y., downed Paul Moser, Medford, Mass., 192-180. He then edged Marshall Holman, Medford, Ore., 204-203 before losing to Anthony 236-232.

Wright earned $3,500 for the second-place finish, his best ever. Petraglia won $3,000 for third, Holman $2,500 for fourth and Moser pocketed $2,000 for fifth.

The PBA summer tour closes with the $65,000 Columbia 300 Open Saturday through Tuesday at North Versailles Bowl in Pittsburgh.

Dallas trades Clint to San Diego eleven

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have traded disenchanted reserve quarterback Clint Longley to the San Diego Chargers for undisclosed draft choices, the National Football League team announced Monday night.

"We felt it was for the best interests of the team as well as Clint that we trade him to San Diego," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "It's a good opportunity for him. It's a club that's on the way up and this can be a chance for him to play."

Longley was suspended by the Cowboys in early August after he punched quarterback Roger Staubach in a training room incident at Dallas' preseason camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

The fight followed an earlier altercation between the two signalcallers.

Foyt, Unser may not get to race in California 500

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — The battle for the pole position for Sunday's California 500 was to have been a close contest between defending champion A.J. Foyt and Al Unser in his Cosworth-powered car.

But both drivers may be out of the running now.

Unser narrowly escaped injury in a Monday smashup into the first turn wall. His ParnelliCosworth, a winner in the Triple Crown race at Mt. Pocono, Pa., earlier this year, was extensively damaged.

Unser and Al Loquasto crashed nearly in the same spot during the wind-whipped portion of Monday's practice. Neither driver was injured.

"I almost got up into the cable on the fence," said Unser, who lost control in the middle of the turn, backed into the wall and bounced high into the air, before skittering down into the infield. His car likely would have been ripped apart if he had gone into the cable over top of the two-foot retaining wall.

Unser said the car would be repaired, but he was doubtful it could be in top shape by the time qualifying begins Wednesday.

Foyt missed the first two days of practice, remaining in Houston at the bedside of his mother, who had a stroke. And Foyt, the only winner of all Indianapolis racing's Triple Crown events, was not expected at the track today, the final day of practice.

"A.J. probably won't be at the track until Wednesday morning in time for practice before qualifying," said Dick King, executive director of the sanctioning U.S. Auto Club. "It all depends though on how his mother is."

Foyt's mother had the stroke early Sunday and reportedly is partially paralyzed and in intensive care in a Houston hospital.

"A.J. might wait until Thursday and qualify farther back in the field, behind the first day qualifiers," King added. "In any event, he'll go back to Houston until race day."

"He said he felt it was important for him to run here if possible, since he is the defending champion."

Oppressive heat for the second straight day kept track activity to a minimum, although 33 drivers braved searing 110 degree temperatures to make practice runs Monday.

Johnny Rutherford, two-time Indianapolis 500 winner, was the fastest at 187.153 miles per hour in his McLaren around the 2.5-mile Ontario Motor Speedway oval. His crew chief Tyler Alexander, however, denied that they should be considered the favorite for the pole.

"It's so hot that no one is really trying to go fast, and how do you know where you stand?" he said. "We've tried two completely different setups on the car and gone about the same speed."

Next quickest was Jerry Grant's American Motors-powered Eagle at 186.637 m.p.h. Gordon Johncock was next in a Wildcat at 185.908, followed by Sunday's fastest practice, Bobby Unser, at 185.594 in a Cobra. Tom Sneva was the only other driver over 185, at 185.223 in his McLaren.

Bjorn Borg wins U.S. pro net crown

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Sweden's Bjorn Borg was polite, but as usual, outwardly emotionless after winning the U.S. Pro Tennis Championship for the third year in a row.

Yes, his immediate goal is to win the U.S. Open, about the only major title which has eluded him. And, yes, his overall goal is to be No. 1 in the world.

"I've been like this for the last five years," the 20-year-old Borg said when asked about his lack of emotion Monday night after he whipped Harold Solomon of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-7, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 on Longwood's clay center court.

"What do you want me to do, cry?" he said with a grin. "Actually, I used to get excited, but I was losing. For the last five years I've been working on keeping my concentration at all times. Concentration is a big thing in tennis."

Borg collected $25,000, boosting his earnings for the year $182,000, after extending his winning streak to 18 matches on three visits to Longwood.

"It's really fun to win this title three years in a row," he said. "It's very satisfying. I like to come here, but it's still very difficult to see the ball. The lights are better this year, but they still need more light here."

Borg, who was sidelined five weeks with a pulled stomach muscle injury suffered en route to the Wimbledon title in July, reiterated that he feels "fine" and "very eager" to play.

"The rest was good for me," he said. "I felt good coming here and now I'm ready for Forest Hills. That's one I want to win."

Royal picks
Cordaro
quarterback

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A year ago sophomore Mike Cordaro was a walk-on quarterback candidate here, running the Texas Longhorn scout team.

Monday, Texas Head Coach Darrell Royal tabbed Cordaro as the Longhorns' No. 1 quarterback.

"We've studied hard and long on this and felt that it was best for the team to name a No. 1 quarterback," said Royal.

Royal said the quarterback battle between Cordaro and Ted Constanzo remains very close and could change any time.

Cordaro was put on scholarship at mid-season last fall after handling the signalcalling chores for the scout team.

Royal also announced that sophomore Johnny Jones of Hamlin was running with the first offensive unit at left halfback while offensive guard Rick Ingraham had been elevated to the No. 1 left guard position.

Ingraham, a junior from Austin Westlake, replaced Allen Rickman, who was moved to No. 2 left tackle.

In another move, freshman quarterback Jon Aune of Dallas was shifted to halfback.

McCovey thinks about big trade

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I had a couple of places in mind for next year and Oakland wasn't one of them," says Willie McCovey after being sold to the Oakland A's. "I'm not sure I want to go to all."

As the San Diego Padres announced a straight cash deal for their holdout hitter, McCovey said he got a telephone call from Charles O. Finley, owner of the A's, and Manager Chuck Tanner.

The A's want McCovey as a designated hitter to help them overtake Kansas City in the last five weeks of the American League's Western Division race. But McCovey said he refused to report for Monday night's game in Oakland against the New York Yankees.

"I'll have at least a couple of days to think about it," said McCovey, who was looking forward to playing out his contract, trimmed to $100,000 with an automatic 20 per cent cut as he and the Padres failed to come to terms.

The 6-foot-4, 220-pounder reacted bitterly to the news which came as the Padres prepared to fly to Pittsburgh. McCovey, now 38, said: "People talk about racial discrimination, but I was discriminated against because of my age."

He was reduced to pinch-hitting duty and replaced by young Mike Ivie at first base when his batting average fell to .204 in mid-July.

"I led the team in home runs the last two years," said McCovey, who was rookie of the year with the San Francisco Giants in 1959 and the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1969 when he hit .320 and 45 home runs.

In 1973, he was traded to San Diego for pitcher Mike Caldwell and smacked 45 homers in his two full seasons with the Padres.

A dangerous hitter still, McCovey batted .253 with 22 homers and 63 runs batted in for the Padres in 1974 and was credited with revitalizing San Diego's fan interest.

The downside at the plate was gradual. In 1975, he hit .225 and 23 homers, driving in 68 runs. McCovey was batting .302 after 71 games this season, clouting seven homers with 37 runs batted in. He's 14th on baseball's all-time homer list with 465.

Ivie, 24, was hitting .312 when McCovey's sale for an undisclosed sum was announced Monday.

A replacement for the big veteran will be delayed until next week at least, a Padres spokesman said.

Northeast grid team
suspect

MONROE, La. (AP) — Northeast Louisiana University's football team averaged 23 points per outing last year, but the potent offense was handicapped by a sputtering defense and won only four games.

This year the point production figures to drop off a bit, and the defense is still suspect.

"We're a long, long way from being a successful football program," said Coach John David Crow.

Crow was hired last December to rebuild the fortunes of a team that has had only eight winning seasons in 25 years of football. Crow is a legend in northern Louisiana, where he played high school football before going on to win the Heisman Trophy under Bear Bryant at Texas A&M and to make all-pro in the National Football League.

"I've been fortunate to be around good athletes all of my life," Crow said. "I know good athletes when I see them, and we have some players who stack up against anyone. But we just have a few."

Mottos popular with truckers from Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican truckers seldom use Citizen Band radio units as do their counterparts to the north. But they still have their "handles."

"Any brief excursion down a Mexican highway turns up trucks — old and new — with names painted on the bumpers. Like handles in the United States they often reflect hidden desires, a man's image of himself or wry humor."

Alma Grande or Big Soul; Fina Estampa or Good Breed; Yo No Soy Aquei or I'm Not The One; Se Los Dije or I Warned You; Tabanero or Barfly; Solo Borracho or Only If I'm Drunk.

Some of the handles reflect the truckers' long hours alone on the road: Eterno Vagabundo or Eternal Vagabond; Eterno Viajero or Eternal Traveler; Hercules, which needs no translation; Caminate or The Walker; El Vikingo or The Viking; El Ausente or The Absent One.

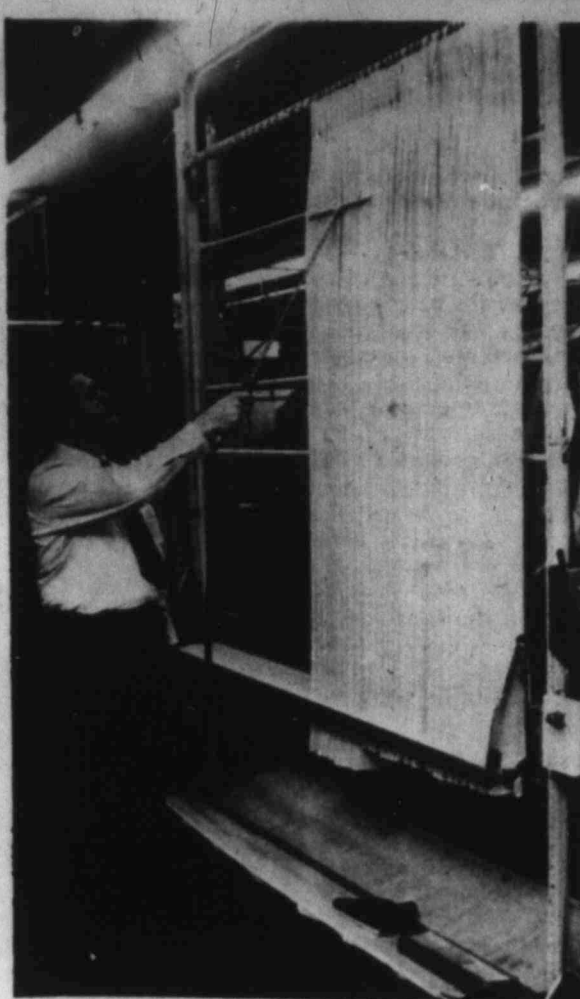

Many handles reflect religious feelings popular in a nation where more than 90 per cent of the population is Roman Catholic. The favorite by far is Guadalupe for Mexico's patron saint, the virgin of Guadalupe. Others are Regalo de Reyes or Christmas Gift; Cristo Rey or Christ the King.

A few drivers take their handles straight from English with names such as Blue Power, Starshell, Brave Hero, Mission Impossible, The Godfather, Albatross.

CB radio is still in its infancy in Mexico with probably less than 1,000 units in operation in Mexico City. Units are expensive, at double or triple their cost in the United States, and hard to find.

Most of the existing ones were purchased during trips north of the border.

A spokesman in the Mexican Communications Ministry said the ministry is not even trying to license CB users.

Painting borrowed

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University's Meadows Museum has borrowed a 16th-century painting of the Pieta done by Spanish artist Juan de Juanes.

The 60-by-40-inch painting is on extended loan from the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts. Meadows Museum Director William B. Jordan determined the painting was genuine three years ago and arranged for its restoration and loan.

Lee chatter

By MICA CASTOR,
JANIS SANDERS &
DEEHONA WISE

Well, school's officially started! Now you've been through two of the many hard days of torture. Sophomores, have any of you bought any elevator tickets lately? Even though the upper classmen give you a hassle about being sophomores everyone is glad to have you at Lee. Now that you are a full-fledged Rebel, we want to see a bunch of Proud Rebel Spirit!!!

To show this spirit we hope to see not only the sophomores but all you Rebels at the volleyball and football games coming up this September. Linda Wieke's volleyball girls have been working super hard, so give them a good turnout at their games. Their first game is September 7 in Seminole at 7:30. Good Luck Girls!

To show how deserving the football team is of our spirit, it started off with a bang, winning its first scrimmage 24-1 over the Clovis Wildcats. This looks like a good beginning for our Maroon Platoon. The J. V. team is showing great promise too with its two scrimmage wins. KEEP IT UP, GUYS!!

Orientation was a great success! If the sophomores didn't understand the skits, they soon will be finding out exactly what it's all about. Thanks to everyone for all the help!

Youth Center cards are still $5, so don't forget to buy them. They will be on sale all this week. Junior Council members, don't forget to get your health cards.

Spirit was high at the Maroon and White picnic Saturday night. The band did a great job under its new director, Mr. Ragsdale. Welcome to Lee and keep up the good work!

The senior class is selling megaphones for a $1, so everyone be sure to get one.

Sophomores, you have your first 100 Club meeting September 9. Mark your calendar because this is the first big step to getting into Junior Council.

Key Club officers for the new year are Eddie Rynan, president; Chris Drake, vice president; Mike Francis, secretary, and Chandler Delemetter, treasurer.

Rebelleaters, you did a great job at orientation and the picnic! Without your support, Lee's spirit would not be as high! The first big squad meeting is at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday. Honor Squad, it's important that you be there because you will be picking your football guys. Hats have come in and if you haven't picked yours up yet, they are $9, and Honor Squad, $10. Senior Patches are $1.75 and are to be worn on the left side.

Attention, Shirley Stephenson is not leaving but instead Jack Stephenson. Good Luck as head coach in Snyder!

Rebelleaters, the candy orders will not be taken any later than Wednesday, so don't forget to turn yours in.

Happy Birthday goes to Beth Ormand!

That's all Folks! Until next week Mica Janis Deehona

Hospital tells of new monitor

CLEVELAND (AP) — University Hospitals here has developed a compact portable device it says is the first to permit day-long brain monitoring while a patient pursues normal activities.

The package, which resembles a camera or a normal tape recorder, is a sophisticated four-channel recording system which stores information in a cassette for playback later in a medical laboratory.

Dr. John H. Ferguson, a neurologist who is one of the developers, says the abnormality present in patients with temporary disturbances may show up only a few seconds a day.

A conventional 20-minute electroencephalogram (EEG) "may miss those precious seconds" but the 24-hour monitor is more likely to pick them up, Ferguson says.

Carter proposes elective Federal Reserve Board

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter told the AFL-CIO today that the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board should be under closer control and that the President should have the power to fire him.

Carter said eight years of Presidents Nixon and Ford have led to economic stagnation and have changed the American spirit for the worse, creating a need for changes in the economic system.

The speech by the former Georgia governor followed a fiery talk by AFL-CIO President George Meany, kicking off organized labor's drive to oust the Republicans from the White House.

Meany brought top AFL-CIO leaders here to outline political strategy, vowing that labor "is going to do all we can" to help elect the Democratic ticket in November.

Carter proposed that the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board "run for the same four years as the presidents." Members of the board now serve 14-year terms and cannot be removed except for wrongdoing.

"While maintaining the board's independence, the chairman would consult more closely with the president, other executive leaders and the members of Congress in developing a consistent economic policy," the Democratic presidential nominee said.

Carter's plan is certain to be applauded by some Democratic members of Congress who believe the Federal Reserve has had too much say in the setting of interest rates and in other U.S. economic policy.

It is equally certain to be opposed by some business leaders who believe the Federal Reserve should be relatively free of political considerations and the terms of presidents.

In his first approach to the AFL-CIO since winning its endorsement earlier in the month, Carter argued that unemployment can be kept low while inflation is kept in check.

He promised that economic policies in a Carter administration would be more consistent than under the GOP administration, saying, "A more coherent set of long-term economic goals can help us eliminate the wild rollercoaster dips of the last eight years."

As to a policy requiring a percentage of Americans to be unemployed, Carter said the issue is whether one economic group can force others "to pay the price for the incompetence of their leaders."

Dutch seek controls on leaders

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government plans laws to bring the leading members of the royal family under government control as a result of Prince Bernhard's involvement in the Lockheed scandal.

Premier Joop den Uyl told Parliament Monday that his cabinet would submit a bill giving the government responsibility for and the right of supervision over public activities of the royal family. He said the legislation would establish which royal figures will "particularly have to take into account the interests of the state."

The constitution spells out the responsibility of the government for only one member of the royal family, the reigning monarch. For this reason and also because of Bernhard's popularity and his success as a promoter of Dutch business, Queen

Juliana's 65-year-old husband served in several government posts and on a number of corporate boards with little or no supervision from the government.

Bernhard's career as a wheeler-dealer undoubtedly is over. But the government apparently wants to make certain that after Crown Princess Beatrix succeeds her mother on the throne, her husband doesn't emulate his father-in-law.

Informed sources said the government has not decided to what extent the queen will continue to accompany the queen in the performance of her public duties. But den Uyl said his government would not object to Bernhard's continuing to attend the Council of State, an honorary right he has rarely exercised. Members of the royal house may attend the council's sessions but are not permitted to vote with it. The council advises the queen, but its advice is not binding.

Parliament approved the government's handling of the Lockheed investigation and with only two dissenting votes endorsed its decision not to make a criminal investigation into Bernhard's conduct. The center-left coalition government said it shied away from criminal prosecution of the prince because of the "serious consequences" that would have for the queen as chief of state.

Bernhard resigned from his government and business posts last week after an investigating commission reported on its inquiry into allegations that the American aircraft company paid him $1.1 million to promote the sale of its planes to the Dutch government.

The commission said it could find no concrete evidence that Bernhard had received the money, but it said it also could not say that he had not gotten it. The three-man panel said the prince solicited a commission on the firm's sales to the Dutch air force, and although this deal fell through, his relationship with Lockheed had been "extremely imprudent and unwise."

Rogers to rebut charges

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Lorene Rogers of The University of Texas at Austin will have the chance today to rebut allegations that the school collects tax dollars for "phony courses" required of graduate teaching assistants.

Dr. James Sledd, a UT-Austin English professor, made the charge in testimony Monday before the budget subcommittee of the House Committee on Higher Education.

Sledd testified that the "398T" courses, which he said involve little or no actual work by teacher or student, were born of two circumstances:

—The legislative mandate that faculty members teach the equivalent of nine hours per week.

—Coordinating Board funding formulas that provide $160 for each semester credit hour in graduate schools, compared with $18 per credit hour in freshmen courses.

"For at least two full years... some of the nine hours for which TAs (teaching assistants) were required to register were phony hours—and known to be phony. Work which previously had not been considered coursework was now alleged to constitute genuine graduate courses; and a course numbered 398T and entitled 'Supervised Teaching' was inaugurated. But 398T sometimes entailed no work," Sledd said.

He added that a TA in English told him last fall that he would swear "that the English Department had promised its TAs that the English version of 398T would be phony."

"You know, Dr. Sledd, you might ought to worry about a hit man on the Forty Acres," said Rep. Don Rains, D-San Marcos.

Sledd declared that the nine-hour rule for TAs had the effect of either damaging their teaching by overworking them or leading "to the establishment of phony courses."

Soufriere spews rocks while scientists work

By NAT CARNES

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP) — A vapor explosion inside the Soufriere volcano showered 12 scientists with rocks and injured two of them, officials on this French Caribbean island reported.

The explosion Monday was the largest since the 4,813-foot-high volcano began emitting sulphurous fumes and ashes nearly eight weeks ago. But volcano experts did not classify the blast as an eruption.

It caught 11 French scientists and one Briton near the rim of the fissure that opened in the side of the volcano on July 8. Falling rocks blocked the road down from the peak, and two helicopters rescued the scientists.

"We might have been killed if it had not been for our helmets," said Haroun Tazieff, one of France's leading volcanologists.

Francois Le Guern suffered a back injury and a scientist named Bof got a cut on a thigh. Both were reported in satisfactory condition.

Two American scientists, Dr. Richard Fiske and W.T. Kinoshita, were taking measurements about halfway up the mountain, but they were not injured.

In a telephone report to the U.S. Geological Survey in Washington, Fiske said the explosion was a "large one" that spewed forth clouds of ash, debris and mud. He said he believed the volcano would now subside.

Size up opponent to choose finesse

You take the king of diamonds and return the jack of hearts for a finesse, losing to the king.

West's best chance is to lead a low spade and present you with a guess. You must now decide whether to play dummy's king or jack.

GOOD PLAYER

If a good player leads a spade from the West hand, he is more likely to have the ace than the queen. Good players often lead from the ace through dummy's king-jack. They shy away from leading such a suit when they have the queen.

A really expert West will lead a small spade whether he has the ace or the queen.

As you can see, the way to decide on your play is to size up your opponent. If your judgment of people is good, you should guess the right play about 75 per cent of the time.

DAILY QUESTION
As dealer, you hold: S73 HAQ972 DA986 C73. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass or bid one heart. You have 10 points in high cards and 2 points for the doubletons, enough for an optional opening bid if you tend to open light. If you had one or both of the red tens (instead of lower cards in those suits), you would still have only 12 points, but you would have an opening bid.

Scouts name Barclay 1976 Round-up head

C. W. Barclay of Midland, division manager for the Texas Electric Service Co., has been appointed the 1976 Boy Scout Round-up chairman.

Ed Magruder, president of the Buffalo Trail Council of Boy Scouts of America, said the Round-up is the annual fall membership campaign of the Buffalo Trail Council. The campaign started in mid-August with a council Round-up Kick-off and recruiting will start with the opening of school when 211 Scout troops and Cub packs enroll new members.

Special events scheduled for this fall include school night recruiting meetings, troop rally nights, first nighters, uniform day and many other activities such as demonstrations and campfires.

A boy may become a Scout when he is 11 years old or has completed the fifth grade or may become a Cub Scout when he is 8 years old or has completed the second grade, Barclay added.

The council expects to organize 38 additional units, giving the opportunity to more than 600 boys to join the Boy Scouts, Barclay continued. Information about the Scout and Cub Scout programs is available from the Council Service Center, 111 North D St. 563-2276 or 684-7171.

Challenge accepted

Bemoaning the fact that millions of people around the world "go to bed hungry every night" is virtually a cliché, one can credit the International Eucharistic Congress which met recently in Philadelphia for a more poignant definition of the world's hunger problem.

At perhaps the largest religious conference on American soil in half a century, the estimated one million Catholic clergy and laity from around the world devoted their sessions to "the hunger of the human family." The topics they covered are a reminder of an old biblical truth — that man does not live by bread alone.

Hunger in the most literal sense was a prominent subject, but it is hardly novel for churches and religious organizations to concern themselves with that problem. Feeding the hungry, whether in our industrialized society or at the frontiers of civilization, was a task taken up by religious orders and missionaries long before the advent of government-sponsored welfare and foreign aid programs.

It is mankind's other hunger that are rising to challenge the religious conscience, and their satisfaction is as much a spiritual issue as heeding the charitable command to share one's food with one's neighbor. The Congress addressed itself to humanity's hunger for freedom and justice, for peace, for truth and understanding, and for that spiritual "bread of life" represented in the teachings of Jesus.

Archbishop Dom Helder Camara of Brazil pointed out how these hunger are creating a dilemma. Physical privation can lure people in Third World countries into communistic forms of socialism or the Soviet or Chinese model, exchanging freedom for the promise of bread. But fear of that kind of revolution can lead governments into what the archbishop sees as a "new Nazism," a repression of the same freedom. Much of the world is groping for the middle ground that promises both bread and freedom.

For Catholics, the Eucharist is the central symbol of their faith. It is bread, but bread transformed into a spiritual food in the ritual of the Mass. The intangible hunger which occupied attention at the Eucharistic Congress stems from the spiritual qualities of men and women, but satisfy striving to them is not the province of religious institutions alone.

Whether nations can succeed in feeding both the hunger of the body and hunger of the spirit among their people is largely a political question. It is bound up in often brutal economic realities, the inertia of established institutions when faced with demands for change, and the all too familiar corrupting influence of power.

But the way that question is answered will depend on whether the great religions of the world can impart their concern for human dignity to those political leaders, whether on the left or right, who hold the fate of nations in their hands.

How religious bodies can best wage their battles against the "hunger of the human family" remains a point of controversy. The Eucharistic Congress itself demonstrated how Catholics, though united in their faith, have contrasting views of the role the church should play in the temporal world. However, in pointing out the scope of the hunger that beset mankind, and the importance of not neglecting one for the sake of treating the other, the meeting in Philadelphia could have historic significance for people of all creeds who make up our single human family.

Guns or butter

Anyone who has worn the uniform of his country knows about the "army way" of doing things. Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin has managed to describe that legendary system in graphic terms. He figures it costs $13.53 to serve up a grilled cheese sandwich in the private dining room patronized by generals in the Pentagon.

Since officers pay $1.50 for this menu item, it gives Rep. Aspin indigestion to think that each sandwich represents a $12.03 subsidy coming out of the taxpayers' pockets via the defense budget.

We go along with Rep. Aspin's idea to turn the food service in the Pentagon over to private companies under contract. Any caterer, we presume, can assemble a cheese sandwich without making it as complicated as dismantling an M-16.

WASHINGTON MERRY—GO—ROUND

Aid sought by Mississippi S&L

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Congressmen who vote against programs for the poor, invariably, seem to be the same ones who support benefits for business.

They are usually the first, for example, to demand that the taxpayers bail out faltering corporations. No small companies, mind you. Congress seldom rushes to the rescue of small mismanaged companies. These are allowed to sink into bankruptcy as casualties of the free enterprise system.

The corporations must be giants, their mismanagement massive, before Congress will intervene. Food stamps may be cut back for the poor, but millions are available for Penn Central Railroad and Lockheed Aircraft.

Mississippi's seven-man congressional delegation, for example, has been outspoken against government spending to help the poor. But the Mississippi congressmen have been maneuvering behind the scenes to save the state's huge Bankers Trust Savings and Loan empire from financial collapse.

The insurance company also insured other savings and loan associations. This precipitated panic withdrawals, which force a rare moratorium on withdrawals.

At this point, the political pressure began. Appeals have been made to Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, Treasury Secretary William Simon and the White House itself.

The entire Mississippi congressional delegation, led by the venerable Sen. John Stennis, called on Simon. Montgomery and Lott made the strongest pitch for federal aid.

Miss., and Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., who happen to have a personal stake in the outcome.

Montgomery owns 2,780 shares in Bankers Trust and has $7,537 on deposit. Lott owns 500 shares and has $4,000 in savings. A third member of the delegation, Rep. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., owns 300 shares and has about $6,500 in savings. Other prominent politicians are reported to have far greater holdings in the faltering company.

Bankers Trust is Mississippi's largest state-chartered, privately insured savings and loan association. It began to founder earlier this year. There were charges of gross mismanagement.

Not only politicians and fat cats have money in Bankers Trust. Some 60,000 ordinary Mississippians, including many elderly, stand to lose millions.

Because the savings and loan combine isn't federally insured, the depositors must depend on the private insurance company which insured Bankers Trust.

But unfortunately, the insurance company is largely owned by Bankers Trust and, therefore, is mired in the same financial bog.

The insurance company also insured other savings and loan associations. This precipitated panic withdrawals, which force a rare moratorium on withdrawals.

At this point, the political pressure began. Appeals have been made to Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, Treasury Secretary William Simon and the White House itself.

The entire Mississippi congressional delegation, led by the venerable Sen. John Stennis, called on Simon. Montgomery and Lott made the strongest pitch for federal aid.

ART BUCHWALD

A wise tourist knows to offer his prayers

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

According to The Times of London, the Greek Orthodox Church has just issued a new prayer asking the Lord to protect the Greek people from tourists. The prayer, which is to be said by monks and nuns every morning and every evening, goes like this:

"Lord Jesus Christ, Son of God, have mercy on the cities, the islands, and the villages of our Orthodox fatherland, as well as the holy monasteries which are scourged by the worldly touristic wave."

"Grace us with a solution to this dramatic problem and protect our brethren who are sorely tried by the modernistic spirit of these contemporary Western invaders."

Now it's only fair if the monks and nuns are beseeching the Lord with anti-tourist prayers, that the tourists get equal time. So I have written a prayer for tourists which they must recite when they get up in the morning and go to bed at night.

It goes like this:
 "Heavenly Father, look down on us your humble, obedient tourist servants, who are doomed to travel this earth taking photographs, mailing postcards, buying souvenirs and walking around in drip-dry underwear."

Art Buchwald

"We beseech you, oh Lord, to see that our plane is not hijacked, our luggage is not lost and our overweight baggage goes unnoticed."

"Protect us from surly and unscrupulous taxi drivers, avaricious porters and unlicensed English-speaking guides."

"Give us this day divine guidance in the selection of our hotels, that we may find our reservations honored, our rooms made up and hot water running from the faucets (if it is at all possible)."

"We pray that the telephone work and that the operators speak our tongue, and that there is no mail waiting from our children which would force us to cancel the rest of our trip."

"Lead us, dear Lord, to good, inexpensive restaurants where the food is superb, the waiters friendly and the wine included in the price of the meal."

"Give us the wisdom to tip correctly in currencies we do not understand. Forgive us for underestimating out of ignorance and overestimating out of fear. Make the natives love us for what we are and not for what we can contribute to their worldly goods."

"Grant us the strength to visit the museums, the cathedrals, the palaces and the castles listed as 'musts' in the guidebooks."

"And if perchance we skip an historic monument to take a nap after lunch, have mercy on us, for our flesh is weak."

(This part of the prayer is for husbands.)

"Dear God, keep our wives from shopping sprees and protect them from 'bargains' they don't need or can't afford. Lead them not into temptation for they know not what they do."

(This part of the prayer is for wives.)

"Almighty God, keep our husbands from looking at foreign women and comparing them to us."

"Save them from making fools of themselves in cafes and nightclubs. Above all, please do not forgive them their trespasses for they know exactly what they do."

(Together)

"And when our voyage is over, and we return to our loved ones, grant us the favor of finding someone who will look at our home movies and listen to our stories so our lives as tourists will not have been in vain. This we ask you in the name of Conrad Hilton, Thomas Cook and the American Express. Amen."

The politics of abortion in an election year cited

WASHINGTON — Abortion remains an issue and a problem for politicians striving to get elected this fall. President Ford, Jimmy Carter, any candidate in a tight race, can stumble on it. Abortion is a deep-seated issue forcing many politicians to waffle. Most wish it would go away, but it won't.

It won't, because abortion causes two disparate views. One side doesn't agree with the premise of the other, so the issue is polarized.

One view holds that life begins with conception and must be protected along with all other human life. To deny life to a fetus, the pro-life people argue, is to put all human life in peril.

The other point of view, as enunciated by a majority on the U.S. Supreme Court, holds that life exists only when it is viable, and that this is a medical determination. Moreover, according to this view, in the first three months of pregnancy this question is to be resolved by a woman and her physician.

Thus there is a strong difference of opinion between the pro-life people and the free-choice people as to when life begins and whether there is a morality which transcends a woman's "right to her body."

Abortion is taking a life, no question about that. The argument is over visibility. Taking a life, however euphemistically described, is a grisly tragedy, and any citizen with sensitivity abhors abortion. Therefore, abortion becomes an emotional question, and emotion can be translated into politics and government policies.

To cut through the rhetoric, the posturing and the intricate votes dealing with abortion, is to arrive at three issues: (1) Should abortions be federally funded? (2) Should the President, by executive action and legislative preference, reflect his own views on abortion? (3) Should there be an amendment changing the language of the Constitution to define a "person" guaranteed protection to a "human being," thus qualifying the fetus for protection under the law?

In the current political season, where are the presidential candidates and major political parties on the question of abortion?

On federal funding, the Ford White House has shown no opposition to the HEW programs which pay for some 300,000 abortions annually. Jimmy Carter says he would oppose federal funding of abortions, even in a national health insurance program, but if the courts overruled this view, he would have to comply with the law.

In two critical votes, Republicans proportionately showed greater support in Congress for amendments prohibiting use of federal funds for abortion. Both measures lost, and the question has yet to be settled by a Senate-House conference committee. It is interesting that Catholic Democrats such as Sen. Edward Kennedy and Sen. Mike Mansfield vote against any move to block funds for abortions. In the most recent vote,

Sen. Walter Mondale was absent, and Sen. Robert Dole was paired to vote the pro-life view.

Opportunities for executive action on abortion are quite limited. President Nixon ordered the Defense Department several years ago to adhere to local or state law when performing abortions at military facilities. Since the Supreme Court's rulings are more liberal than laws still being tested in lower jurisdictions, the effect of the Nixon order was to minimize abortion by the military. The Ford Administration, through Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, overruled the Nixon order last September, and the military now follows the rule of the Supreme Court.

Still, President Ford won praise from Catholic groups for supporting a constitutional amendment returning decisions on abortion to the states. Carter opposes any constitutional amendment restricting abortion.

The Republicans, in their convention platform, supported "the efforts of those who seek enactment of a constitutional amendment to restore protection of the right to life for unborn children." The platform also protested the Supreme Court's ruling allowing teen-agers to have abortions without parental consent, and favored more public dialogue on abortion — both popular stands with pro-life groups.

The Democratic Party platform recognized there was religious and ethical concern about abortion, but made it clear the party was against any constitutional amendment. The Democratic platform was severely criticized by pro-life groups, and Carter was similarly scored for not working to change it.

The controversy over abortion does not neatly fall into liberal and conservative categories. Most liberal Democrats and Republicans tend to favor abortion on demand, but there are enough exceptions among liberals that it is a mistake to generalize. Same story with the conservatives.

It is also a mistake to believe that it is only Catholic legislators who vote against pro-abortion bills. Some of the toughest opponents of liberalized measures on abortion are Protestants in the Congress, especially those from the South and West.

Steel price rollbacks won't reduce car costs

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The nation's major steel companies Monday withdrew price increases scheduled for Oct. 1 on the types of steel used extensively in manufacturing automobiles and appliances.

But General Motors Corp., the nation's largest automobile maker, said that the price rollbacks would probably not result in any reduction in the 5.8 per cent or $344 rise in the average price of a 1977 GM car. GM announced the increase last week on its new models which will be inroduced next month.

Other automobile companies have not announced pricing plans for 1977 models.

On Aug. 13, United States Steel Corp., the biggest producer, announced it would raise prices on its flat-rolled products an average of 4.5 per cent, effective Oct. 1.

That increase followed a 6 per cent mid-June rise on the same sheet steel products.

Other major steel producers quickly followed U.S. Steel's lead.

President Ford said that the increase disturbed him but took no action beyond requesting his Council on Wage and Price Stability to speed up a study of metals price increases that it already had under way.

Last Friday, however, Armco Steel Corp. said that it was delaying its planned Oct. 1 increase until the new year. The Middletown, Ohio-based steelmaker said that it had learned some of its competitors were offering steel to large customers for delivery at current prices after Oct. 1.

Armco, the fifth biggest steel producer, said it would not offer steel at a discount to some customers without offering it to all.

Monday, U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, and Inland Steel, among others, announced that they were rescinding their Oct. 1 increases. Unlike Armco, which said it was delaying the increase until Jan. 2, these producers totally withdrew the scheduled rise.

Industry observers suggested that the steel companies had taken a gamble in raising prices but found the market was weaker than they thought.

William Lilley III, acting director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said that in view of the withdrawal the council would not go ahead with an accelerated study of the move, but would incorporate steel into a price study which is now under way.

Lilley suggested that the U.S. Steel price rise was an attempt to stimulate orders in late August and early September because demand was lagging. Even with the Oct. 1 increase looming, however, many steel mills found themselves working below capacity, according to one industry economist.

The steel companies deny this. U.S. Steel said Monday it was withdrawing its price increase "in spite of high demand." Armco made a similar observation last Friday.

Steel companies had been hinting for some time that even though they had put a 6 per cent increase on flat-rolled products into effect in June, the costs of producing sheet steel were rising faster than the prices they were receiving from users. In announcing its 90-day postponement, Armco said the increase "is fully justified and badly needed."

Several observers suggested privately that Armco was playing price policeman in the steel industry, insuring that companies sell steel at the prices they publish. The steel industry has historically been wary of heavy price competition.

General Motors Corp. said that it did "not expect" to make any changes in its new car prices because "even with the steel price increase rolled back, our cost increases are substantially greater than our price increase," a spokesman said. When it announced the rise last week the auto maker cited big increases in steel costs as a factor and also noted increases in other materials and in labor costs.

The automobile industry historically has been the biggest purchaser of steel in the country, and some observers suggest that it was heavy pressure from automobile makers, wary of raising new car prices too much, that forced the postponement or withdrawal of the Oct. 1 steel price hikes.

General Motors, however, in response to a question said that it had put no pressure on steelmakers.

Furr's Super Market to open Wednesday

A new Furr's Super Market located at 2208 N. Big Spring St. at Scharbauer Drive will have its grand opening at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

The 34,944 square foot super market is designed to offer more shopping convenience, a large selection of national brand merchandise and expanded general merchandise departments and allow the shopper to save money, time and energy with one-stop shopping.

Bill Massey, Permian Basin division manager for Furr's, is supervisor over the new store. His assistants will be Frank Vaught, meat supervisor, and Bennie Cowan, general merchandise.

The new Furr's replaces the old Furr's located at 2600 W. Michigan Ave., which was to close at 8 p.m. today. The new store will employ 70 full and part-time persons.

Don Ankerholz will serve as store manager. Assisting him will be Tom Long, market manager; Tony Luna, produce manager; James Horton, general merchandise manager; and Dean Reed, assistant manager.

To celebrate the grand opening, a 500,000 gold bond stamp give-away is planned with drawings for 100,000 stamps to be given away each Wednesday for five weeks, beginning Sept. 8 through Oct. 6. No purchase is necessary to win, but registrants must be at least 18 years old. Registration will be held at both Furr's stores in Midland and the drawing will be held each week at the new store. Winners need not be present to win.

The new store will feature 10 check-out stations plus two express check lanes. Its special departments will be the service meat counter, the in-store bakery and the delicatessen, in addition to the grocery department, frozen food section, cosmetic bar, firearms section, camera department, pharmacy, soft goods section, housewares, small appliances, hardware and tools, paints and paint supplies and clothing items for the entire family.

College heads defend student loan program

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Several college presidents have told a College Coordinating Board hearing that students applying for loans should not be penalized because earlier students defaulted on such loans.

It may even be a violation of the current students' constitutional rights, some of the presidents said Monday, and those students could sue to block proposed cuts in the state loan program.

The legislature created the Hinson-Hazlewood program in 1965, authorizing $285 million in bonds for loan to needy students.

The federal government began insuring the loans in 1970, and now the U.S. Office of Education says it will cut the program's lending capacity 29 per cent because of a default rate of 15.56 per cent.

The federal office says it will suspend that reduction if the board agrees to limit student loans to institutions with default rates less than 10 per cent.

The committee conducting the hearing will make recommendations to the full board.

Students declaring bankruptcy totaled 3,800 in the nation last year. Some student newspapers reportedly have published stories advising students that "loopholes" will permit them to avoid payment of the loans, adding a telephone number where information on bankruptcy can be obtained.

Pending federal legislation would add five years to the life of such a debt even when bankruptcy is declared. That would give the student time to get a good job and acquire property.

Most of the speakers at the hearing head predominantly black colleges, including Prairie View A&M, Huston-Tillotson, Texas Southern, Paul Quinn, Bishop and Texas College of Tyler.

Dr. Allen Hancock, president of Texas College, said more than 50 per cent of the students at his school probably would not have gone beyond high school if such loans had not been available. He suggested collection through some form of income tax.

Dr. John King, president of Huston-Tillotson, said his school had done all it could to see that the loans were repaid. "We've even used the phrase, 'This is not a giveaway program. We've told them time and time again, 'This is not a grant. This is a loan.'"

George McLaughlin, vice president for student affairs at Lamar University, said, "The coordinating board must delegate to the institutions some authority if you are going to hold us responsible."

For other types of student loans, schools usually include on the note authorization for hiring collecting agencies in the event of default. But they have no such authority on the Hinson-Hazlewood loans.

Robert Logan, director of financial aid at Texas A&M University, said it was too late to cancel loans made last spring for this semester. That is typical of the federal government, he said. They always do something like this "three days after the term has started," he said.

Forest Judge Bates service claims frame survives

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Forest Service believes it has at least partially relieved the critical rural fire defense problem in the state, without any state funds earmarked for the purpose.

"The Texas Forest Service has, in the past 36 months, managed to acquire, rig out and place some 162 major items of fire fighting equipment, mainly reconditioned rural fire trucks in as many rural communities throughout the state," said Patrick A. Ebarb, head of the fire control department.

"We have also provided basic on-the-ground fire training to 65 departments involving 529 firemen.

ing the case, postponed the trial date from Sept. 21 to early November because it conflicted with his vacation.

Barron allowed Bates' attorneys to take a deposition from Fontenot, but refused to take a deposition from Bates' attorney.

"This whole problem is a set up, a persons allegedly in frame," Bates' attorney Joe Reynolds argued Monday in a pretrial deposition if they are in hearing before Dist. Judge John Barron. "We can't get at the frame though, unless we can take depositions from some of these people."

Bates is charged with accepting $50,000 from Nukie Fontenot to keep Fontenot out of prison on a robbery case scheduled in Bates' court. Ed Jay Riklin, also is charged with Bates.

Bates, 61, abandoned his silence in the case and blasted prosecutors.

"This has been very embarrassing to me, but somebody else will be embarrassed before it is all over," Bates said. "I have been tried and convicted in the media by the district attorney's office."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Sam Robertson terms Bates' remarks typical of a motion hearing "where the facts have yet to surface except in piece meal fashion." Presentation of the evidence in a trial will be proper response to the allegations, he said.

Candidate wanted: see Lubbock GOP

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY: Dynamic individual wanted for state representative race. MUST be Republican. Contact Lubbock County Republican Chairman Mike Stevens.

Lubbock Republicans are again screening possible candidates for the Dist. 75-A state representative campaign.

Attorney David Sullivan was the original candidate named to oppose Democrat Roy Ward in the race in the newly-created district. But he had to withdraw earlier this month to move his law practice to Illinois.

His replacement — Lubbock commodities broker William C. Sharpley — found out Monday that he can't run because he voted in the Democratic primary May 1.

Sharpley, 46, had been in the campaign only three days, since precinct chairmen had named him to replace Sullivan Saturday.

Monday, state GOP leaders discovered a little-known section of the Texas Election Code which says a person who voted in or was a candidate in one party's primary can't have his name on the ballot as another party's nominee.

Sharpley calls himself a conservative and isn't a registered Republican.

Precinct chairmen will meet again Thursday night to find another candidate.

Minister, family killed in crash

SHAMROCK, Tex. (AP) — A twin-engine Cessna airplane crashed into a muddy field and killed all four of its occupants Monday afternoon.

The private aircraft went down four miles west of Shamrock in the Texas Panhandle.

State troopers identified three of the dead as the Rev. Charles Newton Vaden, 42 pastor of the Alice Avenue Baptist Church in North Phoenix, Ariz.; his wife, Gloria Maryann Vaden, 40, and their daughter, Roxanne Slayton, 20, of Roswell, N.M.

Officers said the fourth victim was believed to be Steven Vaden, 14, but the body was not identified at once.

The plane cracked up about 150 yards off Interstate 40 during a driving rain storm about 3:30 p.m. Authorities said it apparently was trying to make an emergency landing and struck a field terrace.

Three of the occupants were thrown out and the fourth was trapped in the wreckage.

Q. In which areas of the world is goiter most frequently found?

A. Goiter occurs most commonly in the Great Lakes region, and in some areas around the Rocky Mountains in the United States, and also in certain mountainous districts of Switzerland. Drinking water in these places is low in iodine. Goiter rarely occurs along the coastal regions where the water is rich in ocean iodine.

PB Graduate Center announces schedule

Pre-registration for all Permian Basin Graduate Center courses may be made at the Center office between 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m., Monday through Friday.

Center officials said early registration is urged to guarantee a place in desired courses. If a person is unable to register early, they should telephone the Center and advise of intent to register.

Courses will be held one night a week in the Center's classrooms in the basement of Gibbs Tower East.

Courses already scheduled include Geology 5314 (Seminar in Plate Tectonics) sponsored by the University of Texas at Arlington.

This course will begin Sept. 10-11, with registration to be finalized by Friday.

Geology 5314 will be taught by Dr. Joseph F. Fisher and will be held from 7 to 10 p. m. Friday and from 8:30 to 11:30 a. m. Saturday.

The first part of the course will be a review of Plate Tectonics and the present state of ideas. The remainder will be a seminar style with presentations by students of various oil fields of the world and the tectonic controls on their development.

Prerequisite for taking this course is graduate standing. Three hours of residence credit will be awarded. The fee is $85.50, plus $10 property deposit. Financing of all course may be arranged through the Graduate Center if necessary.

Upcoming non-credit courses include:

Improving Seismic Data with Computers, four hours, Dr. Norman S. Neidell of Houston, from 1 to 5 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 13.

Practical Geophysics for Geologists II, 6 sessions, Ed Woodruff, Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p. m., fee $100.

Prospect Evaluation for Non-Geologists, 6 weeks, Dr. Jack Elam, Thursday 7 to 10 p. m. starting Sept. 30, fee $125.

Effective Supervision Workshop, 4 sessions, John L. Buste, Friday afternoons 1/2 to 1:30 p. m. Fridays, starting Oct. 1, fee $125.

Oil and Gas Fundamentals II, 5 weeks, team-taught, 7-10 p. m. Tuesdays, starting Oct. 5, fee $50 for four sessions, $80 for complete course. Calculus Review, 6 weeks, Dale Biggs, 7-10 p. m. Wednesdays, starting Oct. 6, fee $75.

Principals of Land and Leasing, 10 weeks, team taught, coordinated by Doug Stillwagon, 7-10 p. m. Wednesdays, starting Oct. 6, fee $125.

Production Engineering for Non-Engineers II, 6 weeks, team taught, 7-10 p. m. Mondays, starting Oct. 18, fee $125.

Gas Contracts, 6 weeks, Robert E. Mead, 7-9:30 p. m. Mondays, starting Oct. 18, fee $135.

Gulf test shows gas

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-TJ-23-53 State, 1/4-mile southwest stepout to the one-well University 53 (Ellenburger) gas field of Schleicher County, recovered 2,400 feet of gas and 345 feet of heavily gas-cut drilling fluid, with a slight trace of oil, on a drillstem test in the Ellenburger.

Tool was open one hour on the test taken from 7,835-7,875 feet. Flowing pressure was 127-85 pounds; initial shut-in pressure was 2,762 pounds and two-hour final shut-in pressure was 2,002 pounds.

The project is bottomed at 7,925 feet, and operator was preparing to take a drillstem test from 7,875-7,925 feet.

Location is 600 feet from north and 1,000 feet from west lines of section 23, block 53, ULS, 17 miles northwest of Eldorado.

The discovery, Gulf No. 1-TM State, finished in March, for 16 million cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 7,806-7,818 feet.

Pringle appointed

E. M. Pringle has been appointed engineering manager for the Permian District of Atlantic Richfield Co. at Midland, it was announced by C. E. Cardwell Jr., district manager.

Pringle, who has been district engineer, North Area, since 1973, succeeds K. V. Terrell, who, as previously announced, has been named district operations manager.

Pringle graduated from the University of Southwestern Louisiana with a B. S. degree in petroleum engineering.

Eddy test rates flow

Hondo Drilling Co. of Midland No. 1 Wright-Federal, project four miles north of the Morrow discovery in the Turkey Track field of Eddy County, N. M., is testing the zone from 11,076 to 11,086 feet.

Bottomed at 11,390 feet, the project flowed gas at the rate of 7 million cubic feet per day, plus an unreported amount of distillate on a two-hour test through a 1/4-inch choke. The zone has not been acidized.

Location is 600 feet from south and 1,900 feet from west lines of section 28-18-29e and 10 miles southwest of Loco Hills.

Antweill finals well

Morris R. Antweill, Roswell, N.M., has completed No. 1 Mesa Macho as a Morrow gas producer, southeast and southwest of two undesignated Morrow gas producing areas in Eddy County, N.M.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 24,587 million cubic feet of dry gas daily, producing natural through perforations at 11,259-11,339 feet.

Location is 600 feet from south and 1,900 feet from east lines of section 24-20s-27e, seven miles north of Carlsbad.

Mesa Petroleum Co., Midland, is a partner in the project.

Judge turns down trial delay request

DALLAS (AP) — There were no "deals" with a pair of key state witnesses in a burglary case against East Texas oil heir James LeBus, prosecutors said Monday.

LeBus, 37, active in the country club set and a well known amateur golfer, is being tried here on a charge of burglarizing Metallic Development Corp. of Wichita Falls. Gold and silver bars valued at about $24,000 were taken.

Selection of jurors for the trial continued today.

Now a Dallas resident, LeBus is one of three wealthy and respected men indicted on criminal charges June 26. The others are Adam Nacol, 59, a Wichita Falls jeweler, and Barry Donnell, 36, president of a Wichita Falls manufacturing firm. Nacol is to be tried here in September.

District Court Judge Stanley Kirk of Wichita Falls denied Monday defense motions to delay the trial.

Defense lawyer Jack Banner of Wichita Falls sought the delay in a 10-page motion which claimed among other things that prosecutors had failed to give the defense a list of witnesses and had failed to supply information the judge ordered them provide.

In a pretrial hearing Monday, Banner called Dist. Atty. Tim Eysen and Special Prosecutor Howard Martin to the stand in an attempt to prove that prosecutors had made a "deal" for the testimony of Clyde Burns and Alton Woodruff Fanchier.

Burns had been charged in 1975 with burglarizing a home at Wichita Falls, but the charge was dismissed.

Eysen said he may have Burns, a convicted murderer, housed in a Dallas area federal prison for his protection during the trial.

reported Activity

An oil pay opener was completed in a Ward field, a wildcard site has been staked in Martin, a confirmer finished in Reeves and a Loving field was extended.

Cities Service Oil Co. No. 1-12-18 University, Wolfcamp gas confirmer in the War-Wink, South field in Ward County, has been reclassified as a Wolfcamp oil pay opener.

It had a 24-hour flowing potential of 1,000 barrels of 42.1-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio measuring 925-1. Production was through 15-, 18-, 21-, and 26-44-inch chokes, and perforations at 12,471-12,758 feet, which had been acidized with 11,000 gallons.

It was finished in mid-August, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 980,000 cubic feet of gas daily, through the above perforations.

It currently is also testing through Wolfcamp sand perforations at 11,246-11,350 feet.

Drilled to 18,832 feet, it has a 5-inch liner hung from 16,360-18,825 feet, and is plugged back to 13,170 feet.

Location is 1,900 feet from north and west lines of section 12, block 18, ULS, 8 1/4 miles northwest of Pyote.

MARTIN SEARCHER

RK Petroleum Corp., Midland, filed application to drill No. 1-C Wolcott, a 12,200-foot venture in Northwest Martin, 1/4 mile southeast and southwest of two active wildcats.

Location is 6,413 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of league 250, Hartley CSL survey, nine miles northwest of Tarzan.

REEVES CONFIRMATION

Clayton W. Williams Jr., Midland, has completed No. 1 Chicora Modesta as a second producer and 13 1/4-mile southeast extension to the Pec-Reeves (Devonian) field of Reeves County.

The calculated, absolute open flow potential was for 7.5 million cubic feet of gas per day, producing through perforations at 15,951-16,055 feet. The pay had been treated with 2,500 gallons of acid and with 60,000 gallons and 65,000 pounds of sand and 4,500 pounds of glass beads.

Staked as a wildcard, it was drilled to 16,532 feet, and has a 5 1/2-inch liner hung from 11,181 feet to total depth. The plugged-back depth is 16,150 feet.

Location is 1,900 feet from south and 2,226 feet from west lines of section 322, block 13, H&GN survey, 13 miles east of Balmorhea.

The Pec-Reeves discovery, Southwestern Natural Gas, Inc. No. 1 Henry Wilbanks (now operated by Hytech Energy), finished in February, 1970, for 12 million cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 16,050-16,112 feet.

LOVING EXTENDER

Clayton W. Williams also completed his No. 4 Gataga Gas Unit as a one-mile southeast extension to Fusselman production in the Moore-Hooper field of Loving, two miles south of Mentone.

It gauged, on calculated, absolute open flow potential, 14.2 million cubic feet of dry gas daily, through perforations at 18,808-18,976 feet, after acidizing with 9,500 gallons.

Location is 1,320 feet from northwest and southwest lines of section 66, block 1, J&NW survey.

Burns, 35, a self-styled master criminal, was convicted in the July 1975 slaying of James Carter Keith, a Clay County rancher who owned a valuable coin collection.

Eysen told a reporter last fall that his office was "negotiating" with Burns, adding that "sometimes you have to give to get" in such circumstances.

Martin, a Wichita Falls lawyer hired as special prosecutor by a group of Wichita Falls residents who called themselves "The Victims," was the prosecutor when Burns was tried in Clay County.

World oil recovery shows light increase

TULSA — World oil production bounced back from last year's slump during the first half of 1978, increasing 5 per cent.

The Oil & Gas Journal says global output went from 52.7 million barrels daily in January to nearly 57 million in June, for an average flow of 54.6 million. Non-Communist nations were producing 44.6 million in June, averaging nearly 42.4 million for a six-month gain of 4.5 per cent.

The 13 nations belonging to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) increased their output an impressive 8.2 per cent, the Aug. 30 issue of the weekly business magazine says.

OPEC, which produces 67 per cent of Free World oil, averaged 28.5 million barrels daily, and was surging to the 30 million level, the Journal's statistics showed.

The OPEC nations still are below their record 32 million barrels daily set on the eve of the Arab embargo in September, 1973, and now have oil fields which could produce about 38 million.

The Journal says the increasing oil market is partially due to the world economic recovery and the relatively stable prices since OPEC raised the price of high-grade Arabian Light crude 10 per cent last October.

But the growing demand for oil may prompt OPEC to boost prices 10 to 15 per cent for 1977. Efforts to raise the top $11.51 per barrel price have been blocked by Saudi Arabia, the largest OPEC producer, but it may consent to an increase later this year.

Whether this would cause oil importing nations to renew energy conservation efforts is problematical, but a 15 per cent increase would cost importers $20 billion a year above prices which have quadrupled since 1972.

United States production is headed for its sixth yearly decline since it peaked at 9.64 million barrels daily in 1970. Output fell 3.7 per cent in the first half of 1978 to an average 8.14 million.

Crude from Alaska's prolific Prudhoe Bay field should add another 1.2 million barrels daily in late 1977, but won't offset soaring crude imports, the Journal said.

Imports jumped 29.5 per cent to 4.8 million barrels daily in the first half. Imports of refined petroleum products dropped 13.2 per cent to 1.75 million.

Canadian production slipped 7.2 per cent to 1.28 million barrels daily during the first half. Canada hopes to cut its 1978 deficit to about 5 to 6 per cent by continuing to phase out crude exports to the U.S.

The Journal's static statistics showed Russia leading all nations with an average production of 10.2 million barrels daily, an increase of 5.7 per cent.

New North Sea fields boosted European output 51.6 per cent to 714,000 barrels daily. Norway's Ekofisk field flowed an average 243,000 barrels daily, and five new fields off England produced 145,000.

Middle Eastern output increased 4.7 per cent to more than 20.1 million barrels daily, paced by Saudi Arabia's 21.2 per cent gain to nearly 8 million. Oil flows are up slightly in Iran, but down in Kuwait and Iraq, the Journal says.

African production rose 23.9 per cent to 5.5 million. Latin America fell 5.7 per cent to 4.1 million (although Mexico was headed for a record 1 million barrels daily), and the Asia-Pacific area gained 13.7 per cent to 2.43 million due to a near 20 per cent increase in Indonesia.

Pool units approved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The railroad commission said Monday it has approved unitization projects in Smith and Montague Counties that should result in production of an additional 2.1 million barrels of oil.

McCommons Oil Co. of Dallas was given permission to unitize and install a salt water injection system in the Engle (Conglomerate 2nd) Field, Montague County, which was discovered in 1952.

The field has produced 764,000 barrels, and McCommons said it expects to recover an additional 400,000 barrels.

Jones-O'Brien, Inc., of Shreveport, La., was authorized to unitize the Tyler, West (Paluxy B Sand) Field in Smith County and to install a water injection pressure maintenance program.

The field was discovered in 1973 and has produced more than 287,200 barrels of oil, with an 1,730,000 more barrels expected to be produced as a result of the secondary recovery project.
