Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The Red Cross continues its campaign to raise a ten million dollar fund to aid drouth sufferers and congressional leaders discuss with the Salvation Army plans for the distribution of $25,000,000 relief funds which it is proposed to vote by congress.

While the senate was considering the $25,000,000 appropriation bill John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, announced that his organization did not care to administer the congressional fund and wished to remain a voluntary organization.

In the meantime the Red Cross campaign to raise ten million dollars has lagged and there has not been the quick response that usually follows a Red Cross appeal for funds. Red Cross officials are said to feel that the agitation for governmental aid has deterred private giving.

Talker believes that the chairman of the Red Cross made a grave mistake when he told congress that his organization did not care to administer its appropriation. He cannot but believe the Red Cross has been dilatory in recognizing the drouth situation and in attempting to give aid. When the seriousness of the situation became apparent, as much through debates in congress as through reports of Red Cross agencies, it apepars from this distance that the best thing to have done would have been to obtain the largest amount of money that could be obtained and as quickly as possible and to organize the work of relief on the scale of the funds available.

Certainly the largest and quickest fund available was the proposed appropriation of $25,000,000 by congress which would have gone through promptly but for the refusal of the Red Cross to accept it. As it is, this refusal has deterred the passage of the appropriation by congress while the proposal of a congressional appropriation has interfered with the collection of $10,000,000 by voluntary contributions.

It may be against public policy, as President Hoover seems to believe, to vote public funds to feed starving people and it may be contrary to the policy of the Red Cross to administer public funds for the relief of the hungry, but to a lot of folks this seems to be a mighty poor time to split hairs.

Will Rogers says he has a lot of sympathy for both sides, but he has shown he has a lot more sympathy for the fellow who is penniless and cold and hungry, and is doing a great part toward bringing quick relief to sufferers throughout a wide area in the Southwest. Mr. Rogers isn't splitting hairs with anybody but he is cutting a lot of meat for the hungry.

What we need in this emergency is more meat cutters. We wish the Great Engineer was a meat cutter.

New York Cigaret Price Controversy Closed

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—The prospect of a prolonged price cutting war in the retail cigaret business appeared dissipated today by the Schulte Retail Stores corporation in restoring the "two for a quarter" price.

The company cut the retail price on four popular brands of cigarets to 11 cents a package a week ago.

The company at present publishes the Longview Daily News, afternoon paper. W. K. Leatherock is publisher; W. J. Beacon, business manager; and S. A. Parker, editor.

MELLON DRAWS ATTACK FROM EX-SOLDIERS

'Big Interests' Grew Rich At Soldiers' Expense, Says Fischer"

Resolutions calling upon congress to pass at the current session the Wright Patman bill, amended to provide immediate cash payment of adjusted compensation certificates for face value less outstanding loans were voted Thursday night at the Memorial auditorium by approximately 1,000 ex-service men representing Wichita and surrounding counties.

At the conclusion of the meeting, creation of a fund by subscription was begun for the purpose of sending at least two representatives from the 13th district to Washington to work for passage of the Patman measure. Almost $50 was subscribed within five minutes after adjournment, it was stated.

F. W. Fischer, Dr. Everett Jones, Dr. Wallace Martin of Burkburnett; J. F. Friberg, and O. T. Alles were appointed as a resolutions committee, with instructions to meet Friday morning at 9 o'clock to formulate and dispatch resolutions conveying the position taken by the assembly Thursday night.

Post Sponsors Meeting

Sponsored by the Pat Carrigan American Legion post, the meeting was designed to present to those present arguments both for and against passage of the Wright Patman bill without pitting the chosen speakers against each other in formal debate. All of the four principal speakers were selected by the local legion post for the purpose of bringing the most complete view possible of the matter before the meeting, according to Dr. Austin F. Leach, post commander, who presided. Both advocates and opponents of the bill indicated that without concerted and forceful action on the part of the American Legion, the proposed measure enjoys little if any chance of receiving further attention from congress in the present session.

Speakers in favor of adopting the Patman bill were ex-Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham, a former post commander at that place, and F. W. Fischer, local attorney and formerly post commander of the Oklahoma City legionnaires.

During his address, Mr. McFarlane said: "I believe this bill is one of the best pieces of legislation concerning ex-service men which has been proposed in the past decade. It would do more to relieve our financial distress now than any other single legislative act which wisely could be accomplished."

Insisting that cash payment of an admitted obligation to ex-soldiers is overdue, Mr. McFarlane alleged that railroad concerns were paid $764,000,000 shortly after the war's end for "estimated profits which they would have made under private management" during the war; that various other industries, businesses, and manufactories were similarly recognized and paid.

Right to Bonus

More than $3,000,000,000 was disbursed by the federal government, the speaker said, for earnings which "would have been realized by recipients but for the war." When the army and navy veterans asked for a small compensation, he said, their right to such consideration was admitted by the setting aside of $100,000,000 for the adjusted compensation plan.

Mr. Fischer joined Mr. McFarlane in declaring that cash payment should be made now "because it is due." A rousing burst of applause greeted his mention of Woodrow Wilson.

"Millionaires in this country numbered 1,000 before the war," said Mr. Fischer. "After the war we had 40,000, controlling 60 per cent of the nation's wealth. That increase in

All Unsold Tickets To Rogers' Program Go On Block At $1 And $2.50

High-Priced Seats Included in 'Bargain' Offer for Matinee At 2 p. m. Today; Will Rogers, 'Yodeling Brakeman' And Noted Quartet Head Bill

A bargain in entertainment was dumped into the laps of Wichitans late Thursday when the committee in charge of the Will Rogers program here Friday at 2 p. m., announced that all unsold seats, numbering approximately 2,000, would be sold at prices ranging from $1 to $2.50.

"The "clean sweep" of tickets included reserved seats previously priced at $5 and $10, as well as all others. Many of the seats remaining are for the first floor, and purchasers are assured of perhaps the rarest treat for the price in the city's history. In addition to Will Rogers, the nation's leading humorist, the program will offer numbers by Jimmy Rodgers, the "yodeling brakeman" of radio, moving picture and phonograph fame; Chester Byers, world's champion trick rope artist; and songs by the General Motors quartet, one of the highest paid group of radio performers on the NBC chain.

In addition, Capt. Frank Hawks, holder of many air records and ranked with Colonel Lindbergh as one of the nation's leading aviators, will appear on the stage. Captain Hawks is piloting Rogers' plane during the tour. A commercial organization bringing the same group of performers here would be compelled to place a guarantee of more than $7,000, according to the usual prices paid for performances of the various entertainers.

Those Wichitans who have expressed a desire to hear Rogers and the other performers on the program but who have been held back by the high price of the tickets may now attend the program for from $1 to $2.50 with the assurance of receiving choice seats, Walter D. Cline, chairman of the ticket sales committee pointed out. Every dollar raised in the program here will go to the relief of the unemployed and to drouth-stricken farmers. No advertising or promotion expenses have been charged against the program, all entertainers are paying their own expenses, and the amount raised here will be "net" for relief work.

"Full House" Promised

Ticket sales in Wichita Falls totaled approximately $6,500 in "cash and good checks," Thursday afternoon, according to a telegram sent by Mr. Cline to Will Rogers. "Bring all your gang and we will furnish a full house," the telegram added.

Many employers are purchasing $1 and $2.50 tickets in blocks for the use of their employes, while others are buying for school children and teachers, Mr. Cline said. Because of the reduction in prices, holders of these tickets will have excellent seats, he pointed out. Arrangements for short periods in a number of schools were completed Thursday afternoon, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent announced, and other schools which show sufficient interest will be dismissed early enough for teachers and pupils to attend. All teachers or school pupils who desire to do so will be allowed to attend the program beginning at 2 o'clock, Dr. Cantwell said.

In the race to see what Texas city will give Will Rogers the best support in his single-handed drive to relieve distress in the section,

Bullington Presents Case For Independents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. (AP)—American independent oil producers told the senate commerce committee today their existence was staked on legislative proposals to restrict foreign importations of oil.

Importations of cheaper oil from South America by the organized oil companies were blamed for a big share of an estimated 100,000 unemployed in the Mid-Continent field by Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, Texas.

Bullington added that Russia now loomed as "the most serious threat" to the entire American oil industry, saying 2,000,000 barrels were sent into this country recently by the Soviets at a price far below that which could be met by American producers.

Importers Named

Chairman Johnson of the commerce committee, called the hearings on the measure of Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, proposing to restrict crude oil importations to 18,000,000 barrels annually; and on the resolution of Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, proposing a tariff on oil. He said opponents would be heard next week and he declared in favor of an immediate decision on the question by the committee.

In response to Senator Johnson's inquiries, Bullington named as the chief importers of oil into this country the Standard Oil company of

Bodies of Blast Victims Recovered From Mine

LINTON, Ind., Jan. 29. (UP)—The last of 29 bodies was hoisted from the explosion wrecked depths of the Little Betty Coal Mine today while authorities attempted to fix a cause for the disaster.

Only nine men at work in the shaft when a blast of gas sent debris splintering down upon them late yesterday, escaped alive. Two men walked out last night, while five more were found at dawn today, bratticed off from the poisoned fumes in a little chamber they constructed hurriedly after the explosion.

VALLEY TRUCK GROWERS VOTE TO ORGANIZE

Marketing Association For Farmers Launched At Meeting Here

A. & M. EXPERT TALKS

Producers Must Develop Own Leadership, Says Paulson

Organization of a truck growers association in the irrigated valley was launched Thursday afternoon at a meeting of about 50 farmers and landowners at the municipal auditorium.

A committee headed by J. N. Sherrill was named to work out details of organization and fix a date for the initial meeting.

Dr. W. E. Paulson of Texas A. & M. college was the principal speaker at Thursday's meeting, and discussed many phases of the marketing problem, warning the growers of some of the pitfalls to be avoided.

Davis Presides

W. R. Davis was chosen chairman of the meeting. G. A. Remington in a brief talk explained the purpose of the call, adding that he hoped something definite would result.

County Agent G. C. McGown said it had become apparent that proper development of the valley depended upon an effective marketing organization. It might be found, he said, that the mixed carlot shipment would afford the most satisfactory outlet for truck products; he stated that an organization be formed.

C. H. McDowell, superintendent of the state experiment farm, told of experiments the station is making to determine what vegetables are most suitable here. The most pronounced successes, he said, had been with cantaloupes and black-eyed peas, but no general market for either had been established. He then introduced Dr. Paulson.

"The most successful marketing organizations" Dr. Paulson said, "are those in which the members themselves have worked out the best methods to follow. Too many of these organizations have depended on outside advice.

Sheppard Smythe, of St. Joseph, Mo., and Richard Gray, of San Antonio, received cuts on the face and hands. A faulty test tube was blamed by Professor J. R. Jenness.

Extortion 'Victim' Admits He Originated Plot

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 29. (UP)—Frank Mareno confessed today that he was the victim of his own "extortion" plot.

Mareno admitted, police said, that he had an acquaintance address a threatening letter to him demanding money. He hoped that a woman friend would give him the money if she believed his life endangered.

New Insurance Tax Law Proposed by Anderson

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (AP)—A bill to require all insurance companies to pay tax of three per cent on the gross premiums collected in Texas was introduced today by Representative Anderson of San Antonio. Present statutes require payment of the three per cent gross premiums tax only by insurance companies not organized under Texas laws.

Vanderbilt Silent On Report He Gave Butler 'Scandal' On Il Duce

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 29. (US)—Silence, frigid silence, was all that resulted from attempts today to learn if Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., a writer and former newspaper owner, told General Smedley D. Butler that Mussolini was a hit-and-run driver.

"I am sorry," said he, "but I have no statement to make right now."

The scion of the famous Vanderbilt family did reveal, however, that he was very busy today answering inquiries from all parts of the world about the Mussolini affair. His answers told nothing. Neither would Vanderbilt say whether he would appear as a witness for Butler if the general is court martialed.

"I know about the statement of Mr. White that he heard me tell the story to a group which included General Butler," Vanderbilt said, "but I am not going to say anything at present."

APOLOGY QUIETS ROME'S PROTESTS

ROME, Jan. 29. (AP)—Apology by the United States for allegedly derogatory remarks made by Major General Smedley D. Butler about Premier Mussolini appeared tonight to have closed what might have developed into an unpleasant incident.

While the premier was described as being naturally somewhat annoyed, official circles said he considered Butler's views were those of only one American general and not of the American people.

The promptness of the official American apology completely satisfied Il Duce, it was said, and the evening papers did not even comment on the affair.

But morning papers, issued before the apology became known, were incensed. La Tribuna described the marine officer's remarks as insolent, impudent and ridiculous.

COURT MARTIAL FOR BUTLER ORDERED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. (AP)—Out of Smedley D. Butler's speech in peaceful Philadelphia the other night came an apology today to Benito Mussolini by the American government and an order that the fighting marine be court martialed.

In the brief address before the Contemporary club Jan. 19 Major General Butler said he had heard Mussolini ran over a child and paid no attention to the accident.

A reverberation of this was Secretary Stimson's note of apology to Nobile Giacomo de Martino, Italian ambassador.

"I have the honor," Secretary Stimson said, "the express the deep regret this government feels at the reflections against the prime minister of Italy in the unauthorized speech of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler."

Trial Ordered

Just a little while before, Secretary Adams had ordered the court martial for one of the country's best known officers, General But-

Texas Football Star Killed in Car Crash

MARLIN, Texas, Jan. 29. (UP)—A dense fog here today was blamed for an automobile crash in which Henry Louis Hanna, 21-year-old football star of Abilene, was killed. The large sedan in which he was riding crashed into a loaded cotton truck during the mist.

Lanier Bennett, Abilene, a former team mate of Hanna, was taken to a hospital suffering from concussion of the brain, a broken right arm and cuts. R. D. McDonald, driver of the car, was uninjured.

The three were on their way to College Station where McDonald was to enroll in Texas A. & M. college.

35 Face Gallows On Turkey Revolt Charge

ISTAMBUL, Turkey, Jan. 29. (US)—Thirty-nine persons of high station tonight face death on the gallows for their part in the December revolt at Menimen which aimed at the overthrow of the republic and the restoration of the caliphate.

Those facing the death penalty are among the 78 convicted of high treason by the council of war today. Their execution, set for Tuesday, is contingent upon ratification of the sentences by parliament Monday.

Posse Follows Trail After Arrest Gives First Death Clue

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, Jan. 29.—Elbert Hart, alias Pat O'Day, charged with the slaying of City Detective Buddy Moorehead in Ardmore, Okla., on Jan. 23 was fatally wounded at a filling station near here Thursday night when he fled before a posse of officers from Ardmore, Memphis, and Estelline. Hart was shot three times by Bill Guess, deputy sheriff from Ardmore and died instantly.

The suspect had been traced to Estelline after the arrest of Roy Wilson, Hart' companion in Ardmore. When the posse approached the joint filling station and grocery store on the outskirts of Estelline, Hart ran from the front of the building, and Guess opened fire.

Body at Estelline

Guess, with Bennett Wallace, Ardmore deputy sheriff, Sheriff J. H. Alexander of Hall county, Chief of Police W. C. Huddleston, Constable J. W. Snow and Constable Williams united in the manhunt. After the shooting Hart's body was left in the care of an Estelline undertaker. He is said to leave a wife and children in Sonora, Texas.

Moorehead's body was tossed from the automobile of a suspect he was taking to the city hall for questioning last week. The man had been picked up at a tourist camp and Moorehead was said to have questioned the ownership of his car. Wilson, who was seen with the slayer, was arrested later.

HART WANTED IN OTHER CITIES

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 29.—Bill Guess, deputy sheriff from Ardmore, Okla., who shot and killed Elbert Hart, alias Pat O'Day, Ardmore murder suspect at Estelline Thursday night, told Sheriff J. H. Alexander after the shooting that Hart was wanted at Texarkana, Clarksville, and at Hope, Ark., on hijacking charges.

Guess said warrants were out for Hart in connection with three toll bridge holdups and that a robbery with firearms charge was pending against him in Hope.

Hart, who was about 37 years old, is said to have spent much of his life at Kerrville, Texas, although his wife and children now live at Sonora.

Maryland Legislature Asks Dry Law Repeal

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 29. (INS)—The state legislature this afternoon passed a joint resolution authorizing it to urge the congress in Washington to enact legislation that will repeal the 18th amendment, the Volstead act and the drastic Jones law.

The resolution was sponsored by Senator E. Milton Altfeld, Baltimore, and declared the "individual views of the members of the Wickersham commission reveal plainly the imperative necessity for immediate repeal or revision of the 18th amendment."

Textile Mill Strikers Sent Back to Work

DANVILLE, Va., Jan. 29. (UP)—The strike of Danville textile workers, started exactly four months ago, was ended tonight with the decision of union leaders "the necessity for this strike no longer exists."

The strikers were called upon to return to their machines at the Dan River and Riverside cotton mills "as promptly as places may be found for them." The call was issued by Francis J. Gorman, first vice president of the United Textile Workers of America international union, after a meeting of the strike management committee of the local union.

ELECTION SUIT SET MONDAY

Martin Advances Bond Test To Top of Docket

Trial of the suit of Mack Taylor et al. against the city in an effort to enjoin city officials permanently from issuing or selling water improvement bonds voted in the election of Jan. 20, will be called at 9 o'clock next Monday morning, Feb. 2, it was announced Thursday by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court.

The hearing was set for Monday morning upon the motion of Thelbert Martin, city attorney, who with Harvey Harris will represent the defendants in the action. It was stated that consent of counsel for the plaintiffs had been given Thursday afternoon to having the case called for trial at the announced time. Dealing with an election, it takes precedence over all other possible court business, Judge Martin pointed out, and will be given a prompt hearing.

Bonds in amount of $1,000,000 were voted in an election held here on Jan. 20 for the obtaining of funds with which to inaugurate extensive and immediate improvements in the city's water system. Notice of protest of the election was filed Tuesday by B. D. Sartin, attorney for the plaintiffs, with Attorney General James V. Allred, and on Wednesday afternoon suit was filed in district court seeking a permanent injunction against the city and its officials prohibiting completion of the project.

P. B. Cox is associated with Mr. Sartin as counsel for the plaintiffs.

Sterling's Signature Climaxes Fight To Extend State Tax Payments

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (AP)—The first major legislation of the present session was effected today when Gov. Ross S. Sterling signed the bill preventing taxes this year from becoming delinquent until Oct. 15.

The governor's signature enacted into law the bill which the legislature had passed with almost a minimum of dissenting votes. This was the first bill the governor had signed since taking office.

The purpose of the law is to keep persons unable to pay their taxes by Saturday night from losing their property through the tax sale route. Under the old law taxes became delinquent if unpaid by Feb. 1.

Governor Sterling requested that the matter be submitted as an emergency. Proponents of the bill said on account of present economic conditions and poor crops last year many citizens were unable to

WICHITA SCHOOL TAX BILL UNSIGNED

A bill calling for quarterly payment of 1930 taxes in the Wichita Falls independent school district has not been signed by Gov. Ross Sterling and no changes in the usual procedure of payments in the district have been effected, it was learned here Thursday night.

R. E. Huff informed The Record News of the status of the local bill after he had had a conversation with Senator Oneal in Austin. Judge Huff acted upon earlier reports which said the governor had signed the bill.

Officials of the school board indicated a policy of leniency in imposing penalties may be followed in the event the quarterly payment bill is not made effective immediately.

Chico Bank Robber Escapes Posse In Hail of Bullets on Highway

CHICO, Texas, Jan. 29. (UP)—Bands of peace officers from two counties, numbering more than 20 men, tramped tirelessly through the brakes west of here late tonight, on the trail of a bandit who looted the Chico State bank of $1,500 today.

Equipped with lanterns and flashlights, the possemen planned an all-night search through the densely-wooded and rough countryside. Bloodhounds were ordered from Mineral Wells and were expected before morning. The chief of police of the latter town telephoned local officers at midnight that he was arranging for the dogs.

Officers from both Wise and Jack counties were conducting the manhunt, augmented by a dozen private citizens, all heavily armed.

The automobile in which the robber escaped, a battered old sedan, was found abandoned on highway No. 53, its body pierced by numerous bullets fired by a pursuing posse.

Alone and heavily masked, the bandit entered the bank at 10 o'clock this morning, locked V. E. Baldridge, cashier, and S. W. Roberts, customer, in the vault, and picked up all the currency in sight. He spurned two sacks of silver.

The banker freed himself two minutes later and spread the alarm. A posse of citizens started in pursuit and the possemen got within firing distances of the fleeing bandit car and fired several volleys into the machine, apparently without effect.

The bandit abandoned his car and ran into brush that borders a creek, 15 miles from here. Possemen had searched the region without success.

O. BULLINGTON URGES TARIFF

Wichitan Presents Case Of Independents

Indiana, the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, the Gulf Refining company, and the Royal Dutch Shell company.

Bullington said these companies owned wells in Venezuela and Colombia as well as in this country. He said the Dutch Shell was British-owned.

Monopoly Predicted

Senator Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, inquired if the curb on foreign importations would not mean an increase in prices to consumers. Bullington said he did not think so but he warned that if the independents were ruined the way was opened for a monopoly.

Ralph Arnold of Los Angeles, a veteran in government geological and mining work, told the committee he had revised his estimates of the amount of oil available in this country at least five times in recent years. He also told the committee that the "producer is the fellow who needs help."

Senator Johnson said a request for a hearing had been made to him by parties who wished to oppose the oil legislation. He did not know who would appear in opposition but granted them a hearing on Monday. The hearings will be continued by the committee this week.

Arnold, a former government geologist, said this country has used 11,000,000,000 barrels of petroleum and still has 27,000,000,000 remaining in the ground. He scouted the idea of a domestic shortage.

The amount of "producible" shale oil was estimated by Arnold at 92,000,000,000 barrels and the producible crude from coal reserves at the gigantic figure of 595,000,000,000 barrels. He said it was impossible to estimate the cost of producing this oil until it was undertaken on a commercial basis.

Asserting that independent producers were being forced out of business by foreign competition, Bullington pleaded for adoption of the Capper bill. He said:

"The farmers and land owners throughout the oil-producing area are losing millions of dollars because of the inability of the oil operators to pay rentals due on their leases. If the estimate of 100,000 unemployed oil workers is correct, it means a daily loss of $600,000 to these workers."

Bullington said restricting crude petroleum imports would have little or no effect on gasoline prices to the consumer.

Capt. J. F. Lacey, of Dallas, Texas, regional director for the Hoover unemployment committee in the Southwest, testified that the oil fields were the hardest hit of all.

A bill requiring oil pipe line companies to operate as common carriers and prohibiting them from ownership in producing, refining and marketing of oil was introduced in the house today by Representative Homer Hoch, Republican, of Kansas. It would make vast oil pipe line system available to small oil producers. Most of the pipe lines are controlled by big oil companies.

TEXAS SOLONS FAVOR TARIFF

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (AP)—The house committee on oil, gas and mining tonight voted out favorably the Howsley resolution memorializing congress to place a tariff or embargo on foreign oil.

The concurrent resolution was introduced by Representative Howsley of Albany. It pictured the plight of the oil industry in the United States.

Claude Wild of Fort Worth, executive secretary of the Independent Oil Man's association of Texas, attended the meeting. The independents favor an oil tariff.

The resolution met little opposition.

Grave of Pampa Woman Who Died At Party Found to Have Been Opened

PAMPA, Texas, Jan. 29. (UP)—Discovery that the grave of Mrs. Carrie Felker was opened after her death tonight had started a new investigation into the liquor party on Jan. 6 at which she died.

Police said someone who wanted to make sure no autopsy was performed on the woman apparently had opened the grave. The casket was found to have been tampered with and stockings removed from the corpse.

The discovery was made yesterday by the cemetery sexton who was remounding the grave. A buried shovel was unearthed. Officers were called and an investigation showed the casket had been opened.

A coroner's jury decided that acute alcoholism had caused the woman's death. Today, however, an autopsy was ordered and the woman's viscera sent to Austin for an investigation. Officers said they would determine whether the woman had died of poison liquor.

Companions of Mrs. Felker on the fatal party were sought by police tonight.

Rogers' Tickets Go at Bargain

San Antonio held first place Thursday by virtue of its sale of nearly $9,000 worth of tickets, according to Rogers' figures. San Angelo stands high with approximately $7,000 and Beaumont with more than $7,000 is up near the top. Wichita Falls apparently is assured of leadership among the cities receiving matinee performances, and if the expected response is given to the "bargain offer" today, it may climb to the top or near the top for the entire state.

The exact time for the arrival here of the Rogers party has not been determined. Members of the American legion, leaders of the relief program here and others will greet them on their arrival. The program at the auditorium will start at 2 o'clock.

OIL MEN NEED HELP TOO, SAYS WILL

BEAUMONT, Texas, Jan. 29. (AP)—In the name of Red Cross drouth relief, Will Rogers in less than five hours today wisecracked the Sabine district out of nearly $10,000. Port Arthur paid an estimated $2,500 for a noon appearance and the Beaumont matinee netted $7,035.50.

Rogers and Captain Frank Hawks took off for Houston shortly before 5 o'clock in a navy plane. They flew to Port Arthur from Dallas this morning in one hour and 45 minutes.

Dallas took a verbal trimming from Rogers for its showing in receipts last night, which he said amounted to $3,800. San Antonio, by his figures leads at $9,000 and he expects Fort Worth to contribute $15,000.

"Dallas laughed at my jokes," he said, "but they like to laugh for nothing."

Rogers said he might forget his "razzberries" at the Trinity river canal project if "Cowtown" pays like he believes it will. He describes Hawks' flying him over the river that is to be made a navigable stream and said they had to get down to 50 feet before he could see it.

Rogers made only one recommendation on the fund's disbursement—that the independent oil men get a share.

JACK WALTON DENIES CHARGE

Orders Issued for Arrests In Mail Fraud

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 29. (UP)—The federal government tonight started roundup of 19 persons indicted yesterday for mail fraud in connection with operations of the Universal Oil and Gas company, of Oklahoma City.

Orders for the arrest of Richard E. Enright, former New York police commissioner, and Henry Knight Miller, editor of the magazine, Psychology, were sent to New York. Former Gov. J. C. (Jack) Walton, now a candidate for mayor here, pleaded not guilty to the fraud charges and posted $5,000 bond with United States Commissioner George Eacock.

Included in the 19 indictments were S. E. J. Cox, who served a federal prison term with Dr. Frederick Cook, and his wife. The grand jury's action culminated a year's investigation of the Universal firm.

Enright was indicted, Eacock said, because he came to Oklahoma and described the Universal concern as "one of the most profitable business institutions in America." An article in Psychology magazine entitled "Oil Is King" and outlining prospects of Universal operations brought the indictment of Miller, Eacock said.

Authorities said the Universal company, organized two years ago by Walton after he had been impeached as governor, described as a "roaring gusher" its well in Texas which produced only 77 barrels of oil all the time it was open.

U. S. Oil Far From Exhausted, Says Thom

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 29. (AP)—The present generation need have no fear that America's oil supply will be exhausted, Dr. W. T. Thom Jr., professor of geology at Princeton university, told the Tulsa Geological society today.

How to Stop Skin Itching In 2 Minutes

If you suffer from skin eruptions of any kind, pimples, itch, tetter, ringworm, eczema, etc., a pleasant odored ointment, known as Tetterine, containing highly effective parasite germ-destroying and skin-healing properties, never fails to bring quick and permanent relief. Tetterine, by its cooling, soothing, antiseptic effect, kills the parasites that bore into the skin, causing irritation and itching. Tetterine is sold and guaranteed by all druggists at 60c a box, or sent direct, postpaid, upon receipt of price. Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.—Adv.

BUTLER FACES COURT MARTIAL

Reference to Mussolini Causes Furor

ler is under technical arrest in his quarters at Quantico, Va. The machinery has been set in motion for a climax, or anti-climax, to a career filled with drama and melodrama.

Paradoxically enough, in a book published through the navy today, General Butler was lauded for his work toward peace while on duty in China in 1927 and 1928. The title was "The United States Navy in Peace Time."

General Butler's speeches have caused him more trouble than all the bandits he has fought in Haiti, Nicaragua and China. His remarks are extemporaneous. Philadelphia is his home town. He talked of the possibility of future wars on Jan. 19.

The marine officer was quoted as naming a friend as authority for the statement that the Duce's machine struck a child but did not stop. Mussolini heard of it and the cables sizzled as he messaged his embassy here.

Premier Indignant

The premier was described as warmly indignant and deeply offended. He denied flatly his machine had ever hit a child.

Secretary Adams asked Butler to explain. His letter in reply was before the secretary and other high navy and marine officers today. They talked of it behind closed doors. It was not made public. The navy secretary commented, however, that it was fair to assume that Butler said he had not been misquoted.

The marine general returned to Quantico last night from Philadelphia. Callers were told that "General Butler was not receiving visitors today." Officers and men at the post gathered in groups and talked about the incident.

The speech was only a few hours old before it had involved two governments and famous men of two countries. Its ramifications extended westward to Phoenix, Ariz.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., is there. Members of a Reno, Nev., Rotary club yesterday recalled that he made a speech and mentioned Mussolini. This incident, he related was almost identical with that attributed by Butler.

The time for the court martial has not been fixed, nor have definite charges that the general will face been decided upon. They will probably be embraced in "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman." Officials say there are no specific rules preventing an officer from criticizing a foreign government, or a foreign official.

General Butler will be given time to prepare his defense. Whatever the evidence, or result, the trial will not be without color.

The note of apology was delivered today to Ambassador de Martino. He said he would send it to Mussolini.

Credit Grantors Study Accounts and Checks

The Wichita Falls Retail Credit Grantors association held its regular weekly dinner and meeting at the Kemp hotel Thursday evening. Delinquent accounts J and K were discussed. Repossessions of merchandise and returned checks were announced.

Members of the association reported several returned checks and one forged instrument.

The county attorney's cooperation and the work of other law enforcing agencies was praised by several of the members, who sought the assistance of officials during the past week in collecting "hot" checks.

Oklahoma City Well Halts School Classes

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 29. (UP)—Classroom work in the Walnut Grove school was disrupted today when No. 1 Westfall oil well of the Anderson-Pritchard Oil corporation was completed.

The well flowed 890 barrels of oil in its first 30 minutes.

A cold does 3 things
"Pape's" stops them all

A cold always affects you in at least three ways. Air passages are inflamed and irritated. Perspiration is checked Bowels are clogged with acid wastes from the mucous discharge. So doctors say you must do three things to be rid of a cold.

Pape's Cold Compound does all three! It reduces inflammation and swelling of the mucous membrane; it induces perspiration; opens the bowels. Chew one of these pleasant tablets and see how quickly nasal discharge stops; head clears; breathing becomes easy. See how that achy, feverish, weak feeling disappears. And "Pape's" doesn't stop with killing cold germs. It activates bowels and removes germs and acid wastes from the system. All drug stores—35c. Just remember "Pape's."—Adv.

do here, you will have the benefit of all that has been done by other organizations. You can avoid the mistakes they made and you can adopt their most satisfactory methods. Your organization should grow with its market. You may find it best to start in a modest way."

No Ready-Made Plan

Dr. Paulson spoke of the importance of raising quality products, saying that competition was such as to make low-grade fruit and vegetables unprofitable. He urged that careful attention be given to the time when the products come on the market, so as to have a minimum of competition from other sections.

"There is no ready-made plan of organization for you to follow," he said; "you must decide what plan is best. You must develop your own leadership, and that is very important."

B. F. Greer said that he was convinced of the need of an organization and was ready to proceed with the formation of one. He had come to realize the need of cooperation among farmers more and more as he grew older, he said.

Mrs. Mamie Dale of Iowa Park, in a characteristic talk, urged that an organization be formed. She was convinced, she said, that the valley could grow a great variety of things, with proper methods, and that the organization of a market was the principal need. Mrs. Dale told of her experiences in the Red Cross committee, saying that almost none of them who were receiving aid had canned any meat or other products.

Short on Hogs

"I took the census last year out in the county," said Mrs. Dale, "my district was nearly all farms. I found just nine hogs in that district. Maybe what we are going through with now will teach us something."

F. H. Harris of Valley View said he was an optimist about the valley and that he believed organization of the farmers would make it develop as it should.

Upon motion of B. F. Gregg it was voted to proceed with the organization, and an organization committee consisting of J. N. Sherrill as chairman, G. C. McGown, Mrs. Mamie Dale, C. H. McDowell and John Gould was chosen. The meeting then adjourned.

Wichitan Burned When Steam Pipe Blows Out

E. R. Wauford, 1604 Lamar avenue, sustained painful although not serious burns when scalded by steam when a valve blew out while he was repairing a boiler at the Producer's creamery Thursday afternoon.

The man was taken in an Albert's Funeral home ambulance to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital, where he was later reported to be resting well. The accident occurred, it was said, as Wauford was working in a manhole near the boiler.

This Great Healing Oil Best For Pimples and Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to any good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—an 85 cent bottle lasts 2 weeks.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oi lthat does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.—Adv.

WAVY BOBBED HAIR IN VOGUE

Cropped Tresses Here to Stay, Says Expert

DETROIT, Jan. 29. (AP)—Gone is the flapper's wind blown bob and the boyish haircut, but the semi-bob and the lengthy, wavy cropped hair is here to stay.

So said 4,000 beauty experts as they packed up their hairwaving apparatus and departed today after a week's convention of the American Beauty Trade exposition.

"You can't keep the bobbed head down," said Edwin Strauss, the organization's president. "No amount of talking or example setting ever will succeed in bringing back long hair. Some women adopted long hair for the novelty of it, but, not for long. All know the comfort of youthfulness of the bob."

Aged Carolina Senator Confined to Hospital

DURHAM, N. C., Jan. 29. (INS)—Senator F. M. Simmons, Democrat, of North Carolina today was confined to the Duke University Hospital here, but hospital attaches said his condition was in no way serious.

The veteran senator, who celebrated his 77th anniversary this month, came here in an automobile from his ancestral home at New Bern.

It was said that Senator Simmons entered the hospital for a general examination and for treatment of a minor ailment that had recently been bothering him.

DISCOVER WAY TO QUICKLY CONQUER DANGEROUS COUGH

Science has at last worked out a real cough remedy, entirely different from the ordinary "soothing syrup" that just temporarily deadens the cough with opium, morphine, chloroform or alcohol. Those who have tried everything for a stubborn, weakening, dangerous cough can, with this new discovery, get complete relief in 6 hours.

This new remedy, known as Mentodene, is based upon a new way of taking menthol internally in a pleasant-tasting liquid. Everybody knows how menthol, even when just inhaled, "clears out the pipes," soothes rawness, loosens phlegm and kills a cough quickly. When taken internally in this new combination with other healing ingredients, it is 10 times more effective.

Make this amazing overnight test yourself without risking a penny. Get a bottle of Mentodene today from your druggist and take as directed. No matter how severe your cough or how long you have had it, if you do not have a thoroughly comfortable and cough-free night, and if you don't feel 100 per cent better in the morning, maker refunds money. Start today.—Adv.

No More Piles

How to End Terrible Agony Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation until you have tried HEM-ROID. Allison's Drug Store will supply you and guarantee money-back if it does not end all Pile misery.—Adv.

Bumper Crop of Marriages Recorded In Many States Despite Depression

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (UP)—The temporary lack of a job hasn't prevented workers in the automobile, steel and rubber industries from dashing down to city hall in their usual numbers for marriage licenses.

Furthermore, although Pacific coast states may try to stop impetuous weddings by passing "gin marriage laws," calling for three days notice before the leap, young people are apparently drinking their gin and merely slipping across the Nevada border for their weddings.

These facts and a whole lot more on why young people are, or are not, getting married, is shown in a survey by the United Press of marriage statistics throughout the United States.

Youngsters of the agricultural sections apparently are more serious about drouths when they come. The territories hard hit by lack of rain show a tremendous falling off in marriages. However, in the industrial belt, where two may get on in the world a little better because the young woman may have a steady job, figures show more young couples are taking a chance in establishing homes.

Cities Hard Hit

Cleveland, Toledo, Scranton, Lansing, all cities hard hit because of a falling off in steel and auto orders, indicate more couples were married in 1930 than in 1929. Detroit showed a slight decline in marriages.

The secretary of state for Ohio reports that for the year ending March 31, 1929, there were 62,787 marriages in that state as compared with 66,691 for the year ending March 31, 1930. Marriages in Columbus, Cincinnati and rural districts feel off considerably, he reported.

The marriage recorder's office in San Francisco asserts he knows exactly just why the couples in love have not been crowding his gates during the last year.

He says the "gin marriage law," enacted in 1927, calling for three whole days notice before weddings, is making itself felt. The 1930 figures are the lowest since the law was passed in California. The recorder adds many San Francisco youngsters hop off in autos for Reno, Nev.

Reno indicates a bumper crop of "impulse marriages." Licenses there increased from 4,210 in 1929 to 4,513 in 1930. It is a gain of only 303, but authorities say most of them were "foreign", applicants being mostly from other states.

Harrisburg reports 1,106 were married there last year. That is 52 less than in 1929. They did not blame the "gin law" in Sacramento, Calif., when marriages slumped to 50,154 in 1930 from 51,866 in 1929, but said depression in that city had slowed down trips to the altar.

Philadelphia reported 15,020 marriages in 1930, and 13,757 in 1929, or 2,263 fewer wedding bells. In 1929, Kansas City had 4,877 applicants and in 1930, 4,079. In Albany, there were 1,196 married in 1930 and 1,380 in the year before. That's a loss of lots of fees to the parsons.

In Buffalo, 60 fewer couples were married. More than 4,900 signed the register there in 1929. In 1930, 4,339 signed up for weddings. Boston had 7,500 marriages in 1930 and a whole lot more in 1929, 8,251 to be exact.

And little old New York—she had a slump, too, for the first time in her history. Manhattan registered 12,569 in 1929, but only 11,873 in the last year. That's tough, says the chief marriage clerk in municipal building, because the gain generally is several hundred each year. The whole metropolitan area slumped. In 1928, there were 62,424 marriages; in 1929, 65,780, but in 1930, a little less than 64,000 paid their dollars for certificates.

TRIAL POSTPONED

DO-X DELAYS ATLANTIC JUMP

Further Engine Tests Made On Flying Boat

LISBON, Jan. 29. (INS)—Further engine tests being necessary the giant German flying boat, DO-X, will not hop off on her flight to South America until Saturday morning, it was announced here today. The flight was to have started this morning.

This flight will take the place of a projected north Atlantic crossing via the Azores and Bermuda which had been scheduled for last November. That flight had to be cancelled when one wing of the giant ship was almost entirely destroyed by fire which broke out while the DO-X was moored here preparatory to the start.

The south Atlantic flight will be made in short hops, with stops at the Madeira Islands, the Canary Islands, Cape Verde Islands, Fernando Norbuha and Natal. The final destination is Rio de Janeiro.

Canadian Premier To Confer With Hoover

OTTAWA, Canada, Jan. 29. (INS)—Premier R. B. Bennett left here in his private car this afternoon en route to Washington, where he is to confer with President Hoover.

The St. Lawrence waterway, problems of wheat marketing, and the rights of international commuters were among the subjects which Mr. Hoover and Premier Bennett are expected to discuss. Oriental trade and the question of credit to China also were listed among the topics to be dealt with.

How Good Doctors Treat Bad Colds

Medical writers agree that the important point in the treatment of a cold, or cough due to a cold, is to relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thereby preventing serious complications which may follow a neglected cold. To stop this congestion calomel was the accepted and standard remedy until Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablet was introduced.

Now that science has robbed calomel of its nausea and danger, making it pleasant to take and perfectly safe for general use, over forty million Calotabs are consumed in the U. S. yearly with only the most pleasant and satisfactory results.

In millions of homes Calotabs have proven their superiority in the prompt relief of colds and coughs due to colds.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a glass of sweet milk or water. No salts necessary. No nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning the congestion has subsided, your cold or cough is relieved, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish—no danger.

Get a family package of Calotabs, containing full directions, only thirty-five cents. Trial size, ten cents. At any drug store.—Adv.

Greer County Ginnings Reach 23,360 Bales

MANGUM, Okla., Jan. 29.—Greer county's ginnings from the 1930 cotton crop prior to Jan. 16 of this year totaled 23,360 bales, according to Jess Carpenter, county inspector. The crop for the previous year at the same time amounted to 47,986, or more than twice the number of bales ginned from this year's crop.

Federated Mission Officers Installed At Annual Lunch

Dr. Nat F. Grafton conducted the impressive installation of officers in the Federated Missionary societies Thursday when 245 members and guests gathered at the luncheon at the Woman's Forum clubhouse for this 11th annual event. Using the old hymn "Take My Life and Let It Be," as the consecration music, led by Mrs. Wayne G. Holmes with Mrs. Carrie Wilcox at the piano, Dr. Grafton made an inspiring talk charging officers that the measure of their success depended on the spirit of unity shown in their organization and telling members the officers' success demanded their cooperation.

Addressing the new officers as ambassadors with a message, he had them stand and the following officer were inducted: Mrs. S. E. Trevathan, president; Mrs. H. P. Ledford, first vice president; Mrs. W. H. Downing, second vice president; Mrs. J. W. Ginsburg, third vice president; Mrs. W. M. Mitchell, recording secretary; Mrs. J. R. McKinney, corresponding secretary; Mrs. O. T. Ailes, treasurer; Mrs. Horrace Robbins, parliamentarian; Mrs. R. O. Harvey, publicity chairman; Mrs. J. Lem Keevil, assistant social chairman to work with the second vice president; Mrs. W. W. Cook, program chairman; Mrs. M. C. Batey, story telling chairman; Mrs. Harry Weeks, yard chairman; Mrs. Irvin Vogel, auto chairman; Mrs. E. P. Williams, investigation; Mrs. A. B. Maples, extension; Mrs. J. A. Kemp, kindergarten; Mrs. W. P. Ferguson, devotional. Rev. Father Patrick O'Bierne gave a prayer of consecration.

Friends Introduced

Mrs. G. R. Ellis, retiring president was in the chair and introduced Rev. Daniel Barron who gave the invocation. In her opening talk, Mrs. Ellis spoke of the cooperation of Jewish, Protestant and Catholic people in an association numbering 1,034 paid up members.

Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes and Evans Rives KGKO artists, gave two lovely duets, "Love Divine" and "Coming Home," with Miss Lorene Tucker as accompanist after which Mrs. Ellis introduced the members of the board of directors of the Day Nursery, including Mrs. J. A. Kemp, chairman, C. W. Snider, vice chairman; Mrs. W. W. Cook, secretary; Mrs. O. T. Ailes, treasurer; J. N. Sherrill, attorney, H. F. Sanderford, Mesdames W. L. Robertson and J. J. Perkins. Mr. Sherrill, when called on for a short talk, stated that the Day Nursery was not just a charitable organization, but a character building organization, reaching into the home of each child and making contact with mothers who were better for the contact.

J. L. Jackson Jr., unavoidably absent for the first time from the annual luncheon, was spoken of as one of the staunch friends of the organization and Mesdames Jouette Bonner and Ben Bell were introduced and gave two beautiful violin and piano numbers. Mrs. Dotson, the superintendent of the Day Nursery was called on to stand and each minister present was introduced. Other friends of the Day Nursery who were called on to stand included George D. Fairtrace, Jno. F. O'Donohoe, Maurice Cheek, Jouette Bonner, Miss Rosa Harkins, and Mrs. Orr Bentley, who was described as the neck of the community chest, holding the head and body together.

Rev. Patrick Henry, after a charming introduction by Mrs. Ellis, made an inspiring talk on "life" as affected in these peculiar times. "Dollars are inconsequential," he said, "unless used right. It is the intangible touch that counts in this time; the purpose of an organization, divine in concept, is the only real thing." He stressed man's failure as God's opportunity and praised women for their influence, their ideals that remained fixed when other things changed.

Many Flowers

All flowers used on the many tables filling the auditorium were loaned by the Palace of Blooms except for the long golden basket in the center of the speaker's table. Snapdragon, daffodils, pussy willow, tulips and carnations made it like a bed of spring flowers. Potted hyacinths, cyclamen, daffodils and other lovely flowers were placed at regular intervals along each table and long sprays of fern made graceful greenery between, the pastel wrappings of pots and silver and golden ribbons adding their color to the pretty scene.

Howard Kyle of Vernon Weds Vivian Rinehart

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 29.—Miss Vivian Rinehart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rinehart who reside north of Electra, became the bride of Howard Kyle of Vernon Saturday. The ceremony was read at Frederick, Okla., with Rev. H. W. Stigler of the Baptist church officiating. The bride has lived in Electra for the past 11 years and attended the local high school where she was prominent in sports. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kyle of Vernon. He is also well known here. The young couple will make their home in Vernon where the groom is employed.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

It is a strange thing how a woman glories over knowing some one thing better than a man; probably a great tribute to the man. But to learn that Walter Winchell does not know all there is to know, is really something of a triumph.

In his column Thursday morning he told of one of the things he did not know until now: "most females put a dash of vinegar in the water when rinsing their hosiery so that they will retain their sheen."

And we have reached a day when "sheen" is out. Even manufacturers, we were told by a saleswoman the other day, are making reduced prices on the shining chiffons because dull finish is the latest thing.

Of stockings however, we do not say much. They are a part of wearing apparel that draws too heavily on our budget even if we do use service hose for everyday wear.

But there are other things that men do not know. Some of them seem not to have become used to the idea that women can be prompt. Long ago we spoke of the fact that the forum president, Mrs. Newton Maer, was making one of her objectives for 1931, promptness. Since department and general meetings at the forum start on time, it has come to pass that almost everything transpiring there starts at the hour announced.

Dr. Claude Simpson was rather surprised Thursday when he appeared at the forum some 20 minutes after 12 o'clock to find the guests seated at luncheon. "How does it happen these women do what they say they will do?" he asked at the desk. Last year he attended the same annual affair and waited half an hour. 1930 and 1931 have made a great difference in the women of Wichita Falls. They are thrifty with time.

Men have been regarded as models of some of the virtues for many a year. But women can give them some lessons in small things. The retiring president at the annual luncheon of the Federated Missionary societies however spoke of the one thing that men do not brag much about. They will say—modestly—"I taught my wife all she knows about driving a car."—a silent intimation that a woman never knows much on the subject.

There's a thing we think should be corrected. Woman is the only one who has come down through the ages wrapped in praise of parental love. Mother love is a sweet and lifelong thing, but, man possesses the same spirit of affection. The relation between father and child is a peculiarly beautiful thing.

Man has always loved his son. There must be between them that same sort of intangible tie that holds mother to daughter when she looks on her girl baby and thinks of the little woman to be who will know all the joys and sorrows she has experienced.

But the most beautiful love we have seen from the male parent is that love for his daughter when she stands "where the brook and river meet." A man—a thinking man—sees the changing standards of the day and looks into the future for his daughter.

That father who can discuss all things with his growing girl is worth more in her life than anyone else until she has her own children. We know such wise men and revere them.

Each day of our life man's breadth of vision and depth of sympathy appeals more to us. We meet those who are square and just with all they meet; who know nothing of the littleness of indulging personal feeling in business contact; whose lives are beautiful things to know and remember.

There are so many hard places in the world of 1930-31 that to know such people makes up for rough traveling. Justice, tempered with mercy, is a quality almost worth worship.

Mrs. C. A. Rogers Elected President Musicians Club

A pretty valentine motif was stressed in the decorations of the table at the Wichita club where members of the Musicians club met Thursday for their annual luncheon and election of officers. Mrs. C. A. Rogers was named president for the next club year and those elected to serve with her include Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff, first vice president; Mrs. Howard Renfro, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Borland, third vice president; Mrs. Clarence Beavers, recording secretary; Mrs. Jasper Ferguson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lester Jones treasurer; Mrs. H. Duff Jones, parliamentarian; Mrs. J. W. Akin, accompanist and Mrs. Joe Art, librarian.

A delightful luncheon was served preceding the business meeting and covers were laid for Mesdames H. Duff Jones, J. M. Baber, Jasper Ferguson, J. M. Garrett, W. C. Hamilton, Lester Jones, Jess McLarry, Charles Borland, G. Wayne Barker, Phillip Oviatt, Stanley Raub, J. W. Akin Jr., E. A. Bebb, G. T. Buchanan, Fred Sharpe, C. A. Rogers, M. J. Adams, C. E. Birthday Dinner Given to Honor F. K. Bransford

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mitchell entertained with a lovely dinner party Wednesday evening at their home on Kemp boulevard, honoring F. P. Bransford on the occasion of his 72nd birthday. Mr. Bransford received the congratulations of his friends on his robust health. Mr. and Mrs. Bransford have made Wichita Falls their home for several years, coming here from Paris, Texas, and Mr. Bransford is connected with one of the leading insurance companies of the city.

A large white birthday cake with 72 candles was the attractive centerpiece of the dinner table and pretty spring flowers added to the beauty of the service.

A number of games followed dinner and delightful readings were given by Elizabeth Sue McHam and Verda Mae McHam.

Covers were laid for Messrs. and Mesdames F. P. Bransford, W. D. White, V. M. Thomas, J. B. King, C. L. Griffith, Billie McHam, E. D. Gibson, J. D. Holcomb, E. E. Davis, Mesdames C. C. Chapman, R. D. Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

TRUCK BREAKS DOWN BARRIER

Pipe Line Company Wins In Landowners' War

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29. (AP)—A raspberry patch "front," established by irate landowners in a war against entrance of the Phillips Petroleum company pipe line from the Texas Panhandle to St. Louis, was crossed today by an automobile truck used in construction of the pipe line.

The truck went through the patch despite the protests of Mrs. Herman Fuchs, who with other members of the family had retarded the progress of the pipe line construction work with shotguns. Mrs. Fuchs was guarding the patch in the absence of her husband and the other men.

She charged that Deputy Sheriff Orion Litzinger held her at bay with a machine gun while the truck entered the patch. Litzinger said she had mistaken his movements and that the machine gun was not loaded.

The truck driver went through the patch, apparently unafraid of a large sign reading "No trespassing, keep out or get shot." Seven other landowners are protesting the entrance of the pipe line and are dodging condemnation suits.

Stomach Troubles Headache and Dizziness

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength, get nervous and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

For 10 years Tanlac has restored to health and activity many thousands who suffered just as you do. Mr. Daniel Vinciguerra, of 6200 Gillis St., Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have not had a dizzy spell or a headache since taking Tanlac. My appetite has increased, my nerves are in better shape and I can enjoy a good night's sleep."

Let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer. It corrects the most obstinate digestive troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels. It restores appetite, vigor and sound sleep.

Tanlac is made of roots, barks and herbs. The cost is less than 3 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it fails.

Be sure it's Kotex

if you want safe, sanitary protection

SAFETY! Security! A feeling of real protection—you simply must have those qualities in a sanitary pad. And to get them it is wise to specify Kotex.

Kotex, you know, is the sanitary pad that is shaped to fit. It absorbs laterally, which means that you get a larger area of protection than ordinary pads give you.

And you can wear Kotex on either side in perfect safety. It gives you the same degree of efficiency. Kotex stays soft, and it deodorizes, too. It is so easy to dispose of. Assures you of that daintiness particular women demand at all times.

Hospitals use quantities of Kotex for their women patients. They find nothing else so satisfactory.

MELLON PUSHES FIGHT AGAINST CASH BONUS FOR VETERANS

QUIZZER HINTS MANIPULATION

John Garner Quizzes Mills On Possible Deficit

wealth was made off the sacrifice of you soldiers. Now it is your turn to be paid.

"Opposition to this bill comes from Andrew Mellon, and others of his thought; because, a government bond issue to pay these bonus certificates might slightly depreciate current government bonds, which those millionaires own—you don't have any, do you?

"And because that 60 per cent of wealth which they own would have to pay 60 per cent of this new bond issue; because foreign securities, in which they deal, might not find so good a market in America; and because it would in a measure reduce the public's readiness to invest in commercial stocks.

"Any government," concluded Mr. Fischer, "which fails to treat its defenders properly has not long to endure."

Messrs. Jones and Hoffman emphasized the following points in questioning the wisdom of passing the Patman bill:

Opposition to Bill

Only present cash values of certificates would be paid, representing less than half the face values. Three-fourths of the ex-service men in the country already have borrowed the maximum on their certificates, so that little actual relief would be effected.

That despite current depression, face value of such certificates in 1945 will be of greater value to war veterans than present cash values at this time; and that the protection of the insurance feature in the meantime is added value.

Would increase the nation's obligations to about $20,000,000,000.

Patriotism can not be measured in terms of money.

During Mr. Jones' talk, the first in opposition to the bill, a disturbance caused by noisy and concerted clearing of throats by a group near the stage spread almost instantly into a din of similar sounds and scattered shouts of "sit down!" "You're through!" and other challenges. Mr. Jones maintained his position, while Doctor Leach promptly restored the meeting to order.

"These speakers have been asked by the officers of your organization," he said, "to get up here and acquaint you with both sides of this question. They have no personal causes to espouse. I ask that you indulge each speaker the time we have given him, and pay him the courtesy of a fair hearing. He is here for the purpose of serving you." Mr. Jones completed his address without further interruption.

Prior to the meeting's opening, an entertaining concert of 30 minutes duration was given by the youthful Faith City band, directed by Leo M. Underwood, a member of the local Legion post.

Numerous past and present post commanders of various Legion groups in this area were seated on the platform with the chairman and speakers.

MELLON PRESENTS VIEWS TO HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. (AP)—Secretary Mellon carried his opposition to cashing veterans' bonus certificates to the house ways and means committee today and was met by a question whether the bond market was "manipulated" yesterday to "agree" with his warning.

Under Secretary Mills answered the question. He said the reaction of the bond market naturally followed reports that congress seriously was considering conversion proposals and "was to be expected."

Representative Rainey of Illinois, a Democrat, asked the question.

Garner Quizzes Mills

Mills came in for a general quiz by Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader, on Mellon's statement yesterday at the other end of the capitol, that a deficit of $375,000,000 was anticipated.

Mellon urged the committee to consider its responsibility in the nation's finances. He asked Secretary Mills to read the statements he gave the senate finance committee yesterday and calmly sat by, watching.

While the house committee was helping opposition to the proposal, four house members and representatives of two veterans' organizations were asking the senate finance committee for immediate redemption of the certificates.

J. Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion, said, however, the national executive committee of that organization had taken no stand on whether the face value or current value of the certificates should be paid. The former would cost $3,400,000,000 while the latter would cost from $1,700,000,000, to $2,100,000,000.

Kirby for Full Amount

Thomas Kirby, national legislative chairman of the disabled American veterans, unhesitatingly recommended the full amount. He said redemption of the certificates would not only aid the distressed veterans but would be "an extremely valuable method of meeting the national depression."

Three of the four house members who testified urged the committee to approve a measure for cashing the face value of the certificates. They were Representatives Patman, Texas; Rankin, Mississippi and Connery, Massachusetts, all Democrats.

Patman, referring to Secretary Mellon's opposition, said "his feelings naturally cause him to make estimates in accordance with his opinions. His feelings are such that his mistakes are always against the veterans."

Patman said he believed congress would have made the original bonus act a cash proposition if Mellon had not underestimated the condition of the treasury by nearly a billion dollars.

While the act was under consideration, the Texan said, Mellon estimated the treasury would have a deficit of $300,000,000 but when the year was over there was a surplus of $500,000,000.

"I don't mean he is dishonest—or there was any corruption," Patman added.

Before the house committee, Garner asked if the treasury had designed ways to balance its budget.

"We are deeply concerned," Mills answered, "but we are not proposing an increase in taxes at this time."

"It seems to me," the Texan persisted, "the treasury might be looking out for some way to balance its budget."

"You wouldn't ask us to say in January," Mills replied, "what we will do in December."

After Mills emphatically read the treasury plea for safeguards against the tremendous outlay the conversion of certificates would involve, Garner demanded to know which would be least troublesome if congress decided to enact one despite the treasury's attitude.

Mills responded that a measure by Garner would cost least. He opposed this on the ground it would pay the veterans in addition to one-fourth of the value of the loan, 25 per cent interest. Mills insisted this interest was provided by congress on the stipulation the veterans hold the bond for 25 years.

"You are mistaken about that, Mr. Mills," Garner told him. "The debates will show we added the 25 per cent for having delayed from 1918 to 1924."

TEXAS HOUSE URGES PAYMENT OF BONUSES

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (US)—By an overwhelming majority the lower house of the Texas legislature voted today to memorialize congress in behalf of the immediate payment of insurance bonus certificates to ex-service men, instead of waiting until their maturity in 1945.

"I would rather stand by Senator Tom Connally of Texas, and others, than to back up Secretary Mellon," said Representative Laird in speaking for the resolution.

Remittances on pledges made Thursday night to the American Legion for the purpose of sending representatives to Washington to work for the Wright-Patman bill should be sent to Bob Mathis, treasurer, at the Security National bank, Wichita Falls, or to J. F. Friberg, adjutant, 808½ Ohio avenue. This information was given by Dr. A. F. Leach, post commander, Thursday night.

Students Assigned Classes For First Session of Vocational School

100 Registered in Meeting Thursday Night; School to Start In Former Elks Club Home

Future business men and women of Wichita Falls enrolled in the vocational school Thursday night during the first meeting of the boys and girls who are taking the business courses. The school is sponsored by the state and federal governments but is in direct control of the Wichita Falls public school system. W. S. Rosamond is the director of the school.

Upwards of 100 persons who are now working either part or full time were matriculated and assigned to their classes. The first session will open Monday morning at the old Elks club.

"The primary purpose of the school," director Rosemond said, "is to offer a course to persons who are working and unable to attend classes in the public schools. The classes taught include salesmanship, typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business English, and business arithmetic.

Until the demand ceases, the classes will function 12 months out of the year, the supervisor announced. At all times during the day between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. the classes will be open. Employers cooperate with the plan by excusing their employes so that they may go to the school for one or two hours a day in three or four days out of the week. The school will train the students in any vocation that the curriculum specifies, allowing them to keep their present jobs and at the same time improve their knowledge of the profession.

At least 144 hours will be required by the regular course of study. If a student shows promise, the school cooperates with the merchants and business men to find the graduate a good position. A charge of $2 will be made for the registration fee of the students, half of which will be returned when the pupil is considered learned enough to hold a responsible position.

Teachers in each division of the studies offered have been engaged, several teachers of the local high school being among the instructors that will be the faculty of the vocational institution.

Greece Honors Leaders Of Near East Relief

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (US)—Greece today conferred decorations on two executives of the Near East relief for their assistance to that country. The men honored were Dr. James L. Barton, chairman of the board of trustees of the Near East relief, and Barclay Acheson, executive secretary.

Dr. Barton received the medal of the commander of the order of the redeemer; Acheson, the order of the Phoenix.

Man Freed From Jail Re-Arrested at Once

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 29. (AP)—Dan Walker was freed and rearrested again within 10 minutes in the Bexar county courthouse Thursday.

Walker was released under his own recognizance by Judge W. W. McCrory in 94th district court on an indictment charging him with being a habitual criminal and was rearrested a few minutes later by deputy sheriffs when a burglary charge was filed against him in Justice of the Peace Shook's court.

The man had been in the county jail more than eight months on the indictment in spite of the fact that he was announced ready for trial several times, according to Forrest Bennett, his attorney. The district attorney has postponed the case from time to time because a witness in the case was said to be out of the state.

Legge Warns Against Another Wheat Flood

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 29. (AP)—Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, warned today that the price of wheat can not "be efficiently stabilized if the 1930 surplus is repeated."

In an interview prior to an address tonight to the Illinois Agricultural association's annual convention, the farm board head asserted "crop reduction is absolutely necessary if the American farmer desires to put the wheat market back on its feet."

WOMEN TELL DEATH THREAT

Crabtree Slaying Described In Vernon

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 29.—Threats to "beat the life out of Homer Crabtree" alleged to have been made in a LeFors house on the day the Gray county rancher was stomped to death, were repeated in district court here Thursday afternoon when Peggy Dawson took the stand for the state in the trial of Emmett Thompson, charged with murder.

The woman said that Thompson and Carl Hefner, indicted with Thompson and sentenced to life imprisonment, came to her house looking for whisky on Nov. 5, 1930. She described Hefner as "crazy drunk" and quoted him as saying he was going to knock Crabtree off his horse and whip him.

The witness added that Thompson did not appear so drunk and had remonstrated against the language used by Hefner in the conversation. She testified that Thompson had said he was going to beat the life out of Crabtree and had told of a previous fight with the rancher.

Woman Forgets

The trial was brought to a temporary halt and the jury sent from the room to allow argument when Pearl Daniels, with Peggy Dawson at the time of the killing, was called to the stand. The question arose when the woman said she did not remember which of the two men said he was going to "stomp the life out of Crabtree."

The defense objected when Fred Weeks, special prosecutor, questioned the witness about an alleged statement she made to the grand jury on Nov. 6. Arguments on the admission of the testimony will be resumed Friday morning.

The two women followed Major Evans, LeFors truck driver and alleged eyewitness to the fatal beating, to the stand. Evans was the state's first witness.

Watches Attack

The driver described seeing two men drag a third out of an automobile near a gravel pit on the outskirts of LeFors. The pair attacked their victim, he declared, hurling him on the ground and kicking him. Evans said he had stopped his truck to investigate when he found a saddle and hat lying beside the road.

The witness told the jury he rushed back in his truck, got Charlie Hooper, and the two returned to the scene of the beating to find the victim gone and to observe a large spot of blood on the side of a ravine.

R. J. Jenks of Kings Mill was the third state witness Thursday. He declared that on the day of the killing he saw Hefner and Thompson in a car in LeFors. He said he heard Hefner, apparently drunk, complain about someone using his horse. The witness said that Hefner had accosted a strange young man with the threat of a "hell of a fight," but that Thompson had taken no part in the encounter.

Thompson's trial was transferred to Wilbarger county from Gray county after Hefner's conviction.

John H. Faichney, Veteran Oil Man, Dies After 17 Years in Wichita

John H. Faichney, 66, veteran drilling contractor and resident of Wichita Falls for 17 years, died early Thursday night at his home, 1711 Ninth street. Funeral arrangements await the arrival of out-of-town relatives.

Mr. Faichney had been active in the oil business during his residence here, first operating as an independent and about 10 years ago became a partner in the drilling company of Faichney & Long. He was among the first to exploit the great Northwest field near Burkburnett and brought in a score of wells in that territory. During his entire lifetime he engaged in the oil business.

He was a native of Sugar Grove, Pa., and was later a resident of Lawrenceville, Ill., from where he moved to Wichita Falls 17 years ago. He was a member of the Catholic church and of the Modern Woodmen.

Surviving are the widow, one son, Don J. Faichney of Wichita Falls; a daughter, two sisters, Mrs. M. M. Langan of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Mary Richardson of Denver, Colo.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Merkle Undertaking company.

Wai-Kun Staff Has Banquet

Workers on College Annual Hold Annual Fete

Wai-Kun staff members of Wichita Falls Junior college were entertained at an annual staff banquet Thursday evening at the Wichita club, with Miss Ruth Bruce, editor of the 1931 yearbook, acting as toastmistress.

Toasts to the executives of the Junior college of the present and of the future were given by Bill Hord. Velma Jane Meyners paid tribute to the college instructors. Holmes Dollerhyde and Marjorie Vincent gave toasts to the Junior college building of the present and that of the future, and toasts to the campus of the present and the future were given by Earlene Longan and Laurette Erwin. Student toasts were also given to the classes of the present and future by Springer Williams, S. C. Anthony, Joe Lee Briley and Hazel Hobbs, and to the activities Frank Tims and Kay Cason paid tribute. The toastmistress gave a final toast to the Junior college at the present and its future possibilities.

Dr. J. W. Cantwell, in his short address to the group, stressed the idea that "we are looking into a promised land. If we would have a part in the building of our community, let us begin with a junior college. Let us do what we can and do it right!"

Durward Park played for the group two violin solos. He was accompanied by Miss Laurette Erwin at the piano. Gertrude Klass sang a solo in Polish and gave a reading for the group in German. The invocation was said by Dean S. H. Rider, and Mildred Anderson led in a final singsong of popular songs.

National Air Transport Cuts Passenger Fares

CHICAGO, Jan. 29. (AP)—The National Air Transport today announced a reduction in passenger rates on its planes between New York, Cleveland, Chicago and Kansas City and Dallas. The rates will be effective Feb. 1, coincident with the extension of the company's line south from Kansas City to Dallas.

Under the new rates the fare from Chicago to Kansas City will be reduced from $30.85 to $30.66. The fare from Chicago to Dallas will be $64.31. The air-rail fare between Chicago and New York will be reduced from $55.73 to $49.53. There will be no change in the all-air rate between Chicago and New York.

OLNEY PLANS RELIEF DRIVE

County Survey to Reveal Sufferers' Needs

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 29.—Plans for a survey of Young county to determine the needs of drouth stricken farmers, beneficiaries of the Red Cross relief funds and the United States farm loan program, were laid at a meeting of business men and farmers here Thursday night.

W. C. Harrell, G. H. Roach, E. W. Hunt and William Thomas were named members of a committee to receive and act upon applications for aid. These will be passed on to the main county committee and then sent to headquarters in St. Louis.

The offices of the chamber of commerce will be used as a receiving station for applications. Blanks are available there and the organization in cooperating in the survey.

Reports heard at the meeting indicated that a number of Young county families are in immediate distress. The area will be thoroughly combed for suffering families, the rural schools being called upon to aid in the survey.

Several victims of the drouth and of deflated prices were among those attending the meeting Thursday. One man walked seven miles to report that his family of five children is without food. Leaders believe that such extreme cases are rare but organized to make sure no family is neglected.

Jury Picked for Trial Of Powers Death Suspect

BONHAM, Texas, Jan. 29. (UP)—Jury selection began today for the trial of Jim Robinson, charged with the recent slaying of Sam Powers, Fannin county commissioner.

BURNS FATAL TO BOY HERE

Calvin O'Cleary Dies Thursday of Injuries

Burns sustained late Wednesday afternoon when a gas tank of a wrecked automobile exploded while he was at play in the rear yard of his home proved fatal Thursday to Calvin O'Cleary, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. O'Cleary, 1219 North Eighth street. The child died Thursday morning at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital, where he had been taken following the accident.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon from the chapel of the Merkle Undertaking company, with the Rev. L. S. White, pastor of the First Church of Christ, in charge. Burial was in Riverside.

The automobile had been moved to the back yard of the home nearly two years ago. Playing near the automobile the child tossed aside a lighted match, which fell into the open gas tank. Enough gasoline remained in the tank to cause the explosion. After the accident, the child told his mother how he was injured, it was said.

Surviving are the parents and a younger sister, Lenora.

Georgia Youth Admits Robberies at Houston

HOUSTON, Jan. 29. (AP)—Complicity in the two robberies of the Thom McAn shoe store here in June, 1929, was admitted today by Harry Waller, 19, of Atlanta, Ga., in a statement to investigator R. R. Myer, the officer said. Waller is in jail facing two indictments charging robbery.

According to the statement, Waller came to Houston with Emmett George from Atlanta a few days before the first robbery. He said they parked their car, walked to the shoe store, held it up and escaped with $254 which they divided.

Five days later they staged the second robbery. Waller said he hitchhiked to Miami, Fla., where he was arrested.

George was sentenced to serve 10 years in the penitentiary.

Sterling Signs Tax Relief Bill

meet their tax obligations at this time.

The law was based on a bill by Representative Weinert of Seguin. A provision that taxes may be paid in two installments, offered by Senator Oneal of Wichita Falls, was included.

In order to encourage tax payment as soon as possible, the law included a clause that taxes would start drawing 10 per cent interest Feb. 15. The delinquent penalty will be 5 per cent after Oct. 15 and the interest will be reduced to 6 per cent.

The law embraces all state, county, school district and all other ad valorem taxes except those of cities and towns and those being paid under a special law.

An effort to work out a permanent revision in the plan of tax payments will be made later.

POLL TAXES AND AUTO FEES DUE BY JAN. 31

Requirement that Wichita county poll taxes be paid before midnight of Jan. 31 in order to give polling privileges to the voter is not affected by the new tax bill passed Thursday by the legislature and signed by Governor Sterling.

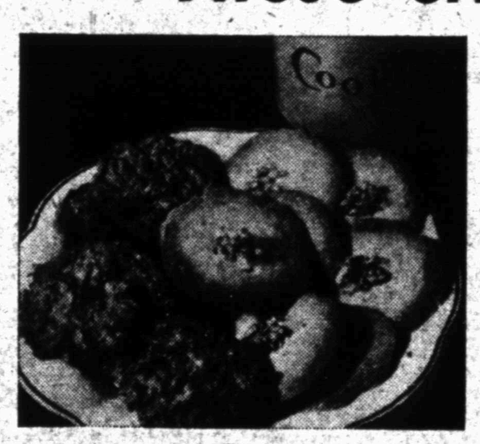

This information was stressed Thursday by Arthur C. Howard, tax collector. Poll taxes and auto licenses must be paid before midnight Saturday in order to avoid penalties, he said.

Veteran Jurist Dies In Floresville Home

FLORESVILLE, Texas, Jan. 29. (UP)—Judge T. H. Morris, 74-year-old jurist of this county, died at his farm near here today. Funeral services will be held at Stockdale, Friday. He was a former member of the state legislature and was for many years district attorney.

These crispy cookies give him away!

WALNUT CREAM WAFERS

½ cup Crisco, ¾ cup flour, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Blend Crisco, sugar and egg (You can, because Crisco comes already creamed!) until velvety. Then add flour, sifted with salt. Beat vigorously, add flavoring and drop on Criscoed cookie sheet like small marbles, placed well apart. Put a nut meat in center of each cookie and bake 10 minutes in moderate (350° F.) oven. This makes about 25 cookies.

COCOANUT CRISPS

1 cup Crisco, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1½ cups rolled oats, 1 cup chopped raisins, 1 cup cocoanut, 1¾ cups flour, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon water, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Blend Crisco, sugar and eggs. (Crisco is so fluffy that it only takes a few brisk stirs.) Sift flour, salt and spices and mix with rolled oats, raisins and nuts and add to the sugar mixture. Add soda dissolved in water. Add cocoanut. Combine thoroughly. Drop on Criscoed cookie sheet and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 15 minutes. This makes about 48 cookies.

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL—Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by the Procter & Gamble Co.

When your family's cookie-hungry, you can buy wonderful cookies. Good bakers' cookies taste home-made because they're made of fine ingredients—such as Crisco.

You may know him as a big business man. But in a drawer of his big flat desk there's a round tin box that makes him just a big boy. That box is full of crisp Crisco cookies, which he loves to crunch upon.

I wanted to learn the inner life of these cookies. So I went to the cook who makes them. I nibbled delicate walnut creams, so wafery and sweet—I feasted on cocoanut crisps, that bite off into chewy morsels.

A fresh-tasting secret

Said Hattie, "I want the very last cookie in the batch to taste fresh. I'm always sure of that when I use Crisco."

Isn't she right? Indeed, fats differ in quality as much as Grade "A", "B" and "C" eggs. To be safe, it never pays to risk using a fat that is the least bit "off."

With Crisco, you have a pure, sweet fat that stays fresh without ice-box help . . . not like cheap fats that so often taste and smell queer when you pry the lid off the pail. Yes, every spoonful of Crisco is "Grade A"—its sweetness will help you to be proud of your cooking.

It's easy to turn out a batch of cookies with smooth fluffy Crisco. No long creaming! Just whisk the Crisco, sugar and eggs together, and save yourself ⅓ of your mixing time!

They had NEVER tasted BEANS like these

In that Western camp where Uncle William first made Brown Beauty Beans famous, they had never known the different, delectable flavor held only by these plump brown mountain beans.

Uncle William's secret way of cooking them—in his own savory sauce—added to their rich goodness; made his eating place renowned; made him rich—and made Brown Beauty Beans famous.

Of course, people elsewhere wanted them, too—and now they come in cans. Meaty, tender, delicious and different in flavor, nourishing and satisfying, they offer a welcome change from the sameness of other foods.

Incomparable Pavlowa No One to Replace Her Apprehensive Soviet It Starts War Talk

By EMILE GAUVREAU

The incomparable Pavlowa, world's foremost dancer, is dead. Influenza and pleurisy battled with her for the stakes of life—and she lost. She was 45 and died at The Hague in the presence of her husband and accompanist, Victor D'Andre.

The grace that sculptors endeavored to imprison in marble, that poets tried to put into words and musicians into song, Pavlowa achieved and immortalized in life through the medium of the dance. Her creations in the classic style, "Le Cygne," "Les Papillons," "Valse Caprice," "Sleeping Beauty," were at once the delight and despair of an enraptured world.

At the time of her death she still ravished the senses and enchanted the eye, just as she did at 10, with the miracle of her art, which endured all things and conquered all things—save death. In the realm of the dance Pavlowa ruled with the divine right of an hereditary queen to whom homage is unhesitatingly paid. The world may never look upon her like again.

Incident to the celebration in Moscow of the seventh anniversary of the death of Lenin, the commissar of war took occasion to say in his address to the congress of Communist youth that Soviet Russia was threatened with the greatest war in its history, and that the Soviet union "ought to organize for the purpose of defending the country against inevitable intervention and for victory over that country which shall first draw the sword against us."

There probably exists in the thousands of wars that man has fought an isolated instance where a country admitted first drawing the sword without provocation, but the instance, if recorded, has not come to notice. Even Germany, the most modern instance of a guilty nation, insists to this day that war was thrust upon her, just as we insisted the Spanish-American war was thrust upon us, and just as France and England, warring with each other for a thousand years, have always claimed the other as the true aggressor.

The weakness and defenselessness of the lamb is sufficient cause for the wolf to attack it. In modern times, as was true in the old days, the wolf stands the better chance.

An incident that shows up the naivete of peasants or the lifelike reality of the photography is reported in the day's news. In a village called Georevesti, Rumania, where motion pictures were introduced for the first time, the showing of an engine roaring down the track sent the whole audience scampering for the exits. The stampede injured 12 peasants. The movie house was wrecked.

A convincing talkie has been known to work as effectively, psychically, on blase New Yorkers. Not a few of us, watching and listening to the progress of a railroad train over what seems miles and miles of prairie land, suddenly find ourselves riding. We experience a decided shake-up when the train suddenly comes to a halt. A bullet fired from the screen and aimed straight at the audience will cause some to faint. All of which seems to confirm Bishop Berkeley's subjectivisation of reality. The thing we imagine to be real is real, as far as our reactions to it are concerned. And our reactions to the world are our only key to unlock its mysteries and meanings to us.

Flattery

"And, darling," he finished, "I'll lay my whole fortune at your feet."

"But it isn't a very big fortune," she reminded him.

He thought very quickly.

"I know, dear," came his reply, "but it'll look awfully big beside your little feet."—Answers.

Courage of a Mother

SAMUEL COHEN came rushing home the other day, and tossed $1,759 in his mother's lap.

"We have plenty of money now, mother," he said. "I've just robbed a bank, my first."

There was a wide smile on his face. A happy, triumphant grin. In exactly the same way he had probably told his mother that his team had won the baseball game, or he had made a dollar shoveling snow.

But his mother didn't smile. She gazed a little wonderingly at the 18-year-old boy who was her son, and who so proudly had given her the spoils of his holdup.

Then she sent him away. She found a paper sack, put the money in it, and turned down the top so the coins wouldn't roll out. After that she put on her hat and coat, and went to the police station. She told on her boy because she had decided that it was the only way that she could save him.

There are some who say that it was a heartless thing to do; that justice becomes a paltry issue when love is at stake. But every step of that walk the face of Mrs. Fox's son probably went with her. She remembered how he had skipped along at her side, holding tightly to her hand when he was three and four and five; how proud he had been when he was old enough to cross the street alone; how he watched the traffic lights for her just a few years later.

It is safe to say that she didn't walk alone and her heart wasn't cool and calculating. It was aching and dull. And it struggled with a conscience that wouldn't let her turn back. Her son had broken trust with her. He had started off on the wrong path.

No mother wants to admit before the world that her son has failed; that he has broken trust and taken money that is not his. Mothers like to hold their heads up proudly as they say that Johnnie has received a raise or Harry has been promoted. The very fact that Mrs. Fox did her duty so fearlessly is proof enough that she believed that it was a necessary step to help her boy.

She was thinking of him and his future, not of herself and her pride.

So she put the money in a paper bag and gave it back. It must have stung her hands as she stuck the bills in, listened to the jingle of the silver.

Sometimes it must take courage to be a mother.

People of New York Are Thrifty

NEW YORK was the center point of the greatest financial crash in history—this in the not remote past. Now savings bank deposits in the state of New York are said to have increased more than $400,000,000 during 1930, setting a new high record. Of this gain in saving deposits the major portion was in New York City where an increase of $365,000,000 for the year was shown.

According to a metropolitan newspaper, besides the record breaking gain in deposits experienced by savings banks last year there was an unequaled advance in the number of savings bank accounts, the most ever recorded and representing a gain of 210,280 depositors during the year. It is said that not only was 1930 a record breaking year for the New York City savings banks but the month of December surpassed all previous monthly records for the increase in savings bank business. In times of stress, New Yorkers appear to be thrifty and create nest-eggs in banking institutions. In days of prosperity they appear to go the limit in expenditure. A reminder that the banks of the country, national and state, have heavy deposits but there is no great demand for the coin.

Why Money Is Needed

CHAIRMAN JOHN BARTON PAYNE'S statement that close to a million Americans will be receiving aid from the Red Cross in another fortnight emphasizes the importance of speedy public contribution to the organization's relief fund.

The $10,000,000 which the Red Cross is asking looks like a good deal of money. But when you analyze the situation in the light of Mr. Payne's statement it is obvious that it must be the bare minimum with which the Red Cross can function.

If a million people are to be helped, that fund will only provide $10 for each of them; and no matter how carefully you handle it, you can't buy a whole winter's supply of fuel, groceries and warm clothing for $10.

Mr. Payne's statement should be all that is needed to make the nation oversubscribe its quota in record time.

A Princess Marries

THAT recent wedding of the Osage Indian princess, who was "bought" by the bridegroom for 48 ponies, a silk flag and a new automobile, seems to us to have been an extremely fitting and proper pageant. It was a ceremony carried out in the old Indian tradition, with the automobile as the only modern note, and it made interesting reading.

Of course, it was all pretty expensive for the bridegroom. In addition to offering all of those gifts he had to entertain 150 of the bride's relatives for a solid week, providing a great feast for them every day; and the whole thing must have run into money. But after all, Indian princesses don't get married every day. By all our traditions, they are romantic figures, and it is only fitting that they get married in a romantic manner.

THE LOVELY LIAR : BY ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Eighteen-year-old Poppy Prior rebels at her tyrannical mother and runs away to New York when Ted Allison, whom she has known for a week, jilts her. A diamond bracelet belonging to Celia Nixon is found in Poppy's possession, and she is arrested. She picked it up on the train and considered it only cheap jewelry. Fearful that her mother may hear of the arrest, Poppy lies about her home address under the cross-questioning, and is convicted. Kevin Wallace, writer and friend of Celia, is interested in Poppy and assures her of his desire to help her if he can. She is committed to a home for wayward girls but finally escapes, because she resents being punished for a theft she didn't commit. Poppy flees to Wallace for help because she knows no one else. He takes her to his cabin in Connecticut, where she is to stay temporarily with his servant, Max. Celia unexpectedly arrives and Poppy hides in another room until Celia and Wallace leave. Wallace sends Poppy a complete outfit of clothes and she realizes that he has been wonderfully kind to her. Max is perturbed because people are asking about the girl at the cabin, though Poppy has taken pains to stay close to the place. When Wallace arrives, Poppy quietly announces that she must go back home. She hasn't yet told Wallace about Ashland and the reason she lied to the detectives.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XV.

Poppy was glad that Kevin didn't ask her any questions on the long ride back. Glad he didn't talk. She wanted to think, wanted to plan what she should say when she got to Ashland.

In her heart she didn't want to go back. Hated to go, hated to do what she had to if she went back. Yet it seemed the only thing to do. She couldn't stay and impose on Kevin Wallace any longer. It wasn't right.

Going back to Ashland meant so many things. Disgrace for her, because people wouldn't believe her story when she told it, wouldn't believe that she hadn't married Ted Allison, but had run away alone. Then, she'd never see Kevin again. Never. And she liked him, and wanted to see him as much as she could. Did she love him?

Poppy wondered. Sometimes she thought she did, and sometimes she thought she didn't. She hoped she didn't because things would be easier for her if she didn't. Kevin didn't love her. That was certain. He liked her, yes, but he didn't love her. That he pitied her, she knew. And pity was something that she didn't want to know.

Kevin was older than she. Thirty-two. Wiser. He thought she was a child. Sometimes he called her "child." He had tonight.

No, she hoped she wasn't in love with him. How could you be in love with a man you had only seen three times in your life? And that's all she had seen Kevin. At Mr. Rogers' office, then when she had come to his flat and he had taken her to the cabin. And now, when he was bringing her back to New York. Three times.

Yet when she had gone out three times with Ted Allison she had thought she was in love with him. Ted was different from Kevin, though. Impulsive. Too impulsive. Poppy thought, too, that she was wiser than when she had gone out with Ted, promised to marry him. Much wiser.

Now and then she stole a look at Kevin. He was watching the road intently, for he was traveling very fast.

What was he thinking about? Celia Nixon? His new novel? She asked him and he laughed.

"Really, Poppy, I'm thinking of nothing but the night, and how soft the wind is, and how glorious it is to be driving when the moon is gold instead of silver."

Then he wasn't thinking of Celia, or his novel . . .

"Which station?" he asked as they started down Broadway.

"Pennsylvania."

"I'll go in with you and see you on the train."

Poppy was alarmed. "No, please don't. Just let me out in front and I'll go by myself. I—I don't want you to get into trouble."

"I'd rather see you on the train."

"I'd feel much better if you didn't."

Kevin nodded. "All right, but remember Jane's address. Have you got it?"

"I won't need it. I'm going home."

"Well, take it anyway. Jane Rochester, 104 E. Eighty-fourth street."

Poppy was a little curious about this Jane Rochester.

The car stopped in front of the station, and Poppy got out.

"I'd better come in," Kevin said again, his hand on the door.

"No, please! I'll be fine alone. No one will see me. No one will recognize me. And thanks a million times for what you've done. I never can repay you, but I'll try—" Then she was gone, running into the station.

She was nervous as she went through the doors. Jumpy. Foolish when there were so many other people about. No one would recognize her. It was just as she had said to Kevin. She was perfectly safe. She couldn't be safer than when there were a lot of people about.

The station guards in their uniforms frightened her as she walked past them to the ticket offices.

"Poppy! Of all people!"

She spun around and found herself facing Roy Manners, her sister's fiance.

"Poppy!" he said again, as he put down his bag and gripped her hand. Roy, whom she had known for years and years and years. And whom Grace had been engaged to for the last six years. Roy in New York! She couldn't speak, couldn't think.

"I'm in town on business, Poppy. Came yesterday and leaving now. My train goes in 10 minutes. But imagine seeing you here, you of all people. Your mother and Grace told me to be sure and look you up. They didn't have an address, but I looked in the telephone book, and the directory to find your husband. I had his name right, but couldn't find any number that could be his. No Ted Allison. I hated to go back, and tell Grace I hadn't found you, and now I won't have to. Poppy, you look gorgeous! Marriage agrees with you!"

He seemed so genuinely pleased to see her that tears flooded her eyes. It was good to see some one from home.

"Mother and Grace, how are they?"

"Fine. Worried about you, of course, as they have a right to be when you haven't written since you left. You should have written, Poppy."

"I know, but I've—" What should she say? Should she tell Roy she was on her way back to Ashland? That she wasn't married?

"Busy with your husband, I suppose. Well, Grace and I'll be married one of these days, too. Sorry you beat us to it. How is the husband anyway? Is he down here with you?"

Poppy gulped. Now was her chance. She had to start some time . . . But Roy didn't wait for her answer. He was chatting on.

"When you coming back to Ashland? You ought to come for a visit if nothing else. Grace is lonely without you. We talk about you a lot and wonder what you're doing."

"Roy, I—I—"

A Queer Story

"Your mother bought a new chair for the living room," Roy broke in. Roy talking about a new chair for the living room when she wanted to tell him—

"Roy, wait—"

"And she's fixing up your room so when you come home to visit with this new husband of yours, it'll be all ready. Say, the funniest story came out in the paper at home about a girl of the same name as you, Poppy. Imagine anybody else in the world being Poppy Prior. We laughed about it, your mother and grace and I. But if you hadn't been married, and we hadn't

"Imagine seeing you here! You of all people."

Q.—What is a sugar-loaf sea?—G. T.

A sugar-loaf sea is a sea heaving in pyramidal waves, usually with but little wind.

Q.—Can you give me the origin of the saying "The gray mare is the better horse?"—D. S. C.

A.—The proverb dates back to Heywood, 1546.

Q.—What should a person's blood pressure be?—E. R. H.

A.—The normal blood pressure of a person is 100 plus his age with a variation of 10 points either way.

Q. What are the most common domestic furs? How many fur farms are there in the United States and Canada?—M. H.

A.—The four ounstanding domestic commercial furs are muskrat, opossum, skunk, and raccoon. There are about 2,500 fur farms in the United States and Alaska, and about 1,500 in Canada. The majority of these are raising silver or blue foxes.

Q.—How many people are employed in the railroad industry?—G. L.

A.—The average number of employes in the railroad industry during 1929 was 1,702,150. There are 148 divisions of labor within the railroad industry.

Q.—Did the Italians invent macaroni?—B. M. S.

A, Macaroni appears to have been the invention of the Chinese. It was introduced into Europe by the Germans, from whom the Italians learned of it. By the 14th century they were the only people enjoying it. The method of manufacturing it was held a great secret. Later, however, this secret leaked out to a cook in France, and it is recorded that Louis XIII was induced to order it is an inn in Tours. He was so favorably impressed that he had his own cook study the method of preparation.

Q.—How does the popularity of golf compare with baseball?—T. P.

A.—Golfdom says that last year the attendance at major league ball games was about 11,000,000, while at least 15,000,000 games of golf were played in the territory covered by these leagues.

Q.—How much have deer increased within the national forests in the past five years?—S. D. D.

A.—Deer in the national forests have increased 32 per cent.

Q.—Who invented the device which is said to enable air pilots to follow the beam of broadcasting stations? —W. K.

A.—Geodfray Kruesi, a research engineer of the Western Air Express company, has developed an instrument that permits aviators to navigate a course by following the beam of a radio program. In a test conducted between Los Angeles and San Francisco, an air pilot followed the radio of an Oakland broadcasting station throughout the 400-mile flight with the device.

Q.—How many children attend picture shows weekly in the United States?—E. M.

A.—It has been estimated that more than 38,833,000 attend weekly.

Q.—Is the revolving stage a new idea in the theater?—M. D.

A.—It is said to have originated in Japan about 1600, when the doll theater was a popular form of entertainment. Large dolls were operated by dollmasters in full view of the audience. Intricate scenic effects were devised to which the revolving stage contributed. In 1896 Lautenschlager devised a revolving stage in Munich. Fifteen years ago this form of stage was at the zenith of its popularity being used by Reinhardt in many of his productions.

Q.—How much coal and water does the average locomotive use in an hour?—J. C. F.

A.—Trautwine says that a typical powerful locomotive, pulling an average passenger train, evaporates from 25,000 to 30,000 pounds of water per hour, burning from 3,500 to 5,000 pounds of coal. Passenger engines usually carry fuel and water sufficient for 40 or 50 miles; some, 60 to 70.

Q.—What is meant by the English expression, "forty to the dozen?" —A. V. B.

A.—Forty to the dozen means to chatter incessantly and senselessly, to gabble, to talk piffle. To walk off 40 to the dozen means to make a fast getaway.

Q.—Was the league of the French system of measurement the same as the English league?—N. V.

A.—The league of the French measures of the "Systeme Ancien" was 2.7637 miles, while the English league is three miles.

Half Million Dollars At Stake In Race With Stork; Two Mothers Leading Field

Leading Entry in $500,000 Birth Contest

By JAMES MONTAGNES
(Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 29.—A little more than five years ago Charles Vance Millar, millionaire bachelor and king's counsel of Toronto, died and left a queer, jocular sort of will to amuse and disturb his native city.

Brewery stock and race track shares worth upwards of $1,000,000 were left to various clergymen and reformers. This, in itself, was enough to set the city talking. But the most surprising feature of the will was the provision that $500,000 should go to the Toronto woman who would bear the largest number of children in the 10 years following his death.

That 10-year period will expire in the fall of 1936. Today, with a little less than half of the period completed, one Toronto mother has a record of having borne six children since the decade began. Another has borne five. These two, it is believed, are ahead of all competitors to date.

Mother of 26 at 42

The leader is Mrs. Florence Brown, a slight, fair-haired, smiling housewife of 42, who not only has had six children since practical-joker Millar died but who has borne a total of 26 babies in her 22 years of married life. Furthermore, she takes especial pride in the fact that all of these have been single births, with no twins or triplets included at any time.

Thirteen of her children are still living. Some are at work, some are at school, and the remainder are still at home, playing about the house or in the yard.

Mrs. Brown and her husband are not unmindful of their chance of winning that $500,000. If they do, they will buy a farm.

"A farm is the place to bring up youngsters," says Mr. Brown. "My ancestors, when they first came here, settled on a farm near Kingston, and a farm is what we want for the kids. They're the sixth generation born in Canada."

Outside of that dream of a farm, the Browns have not yet decided how they would spend the money if they won it. They simply say, "It'd come in handy for the kids," and let it go at that. Both Mr. and Mrs. Brown say that the time is still too far distance for them to make any definite plans.

How a Mother Tends 13

Their home is small, but comfortable, in a comfortable part of Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Brown, their 13 children and an uncle occupy it together; and the youngsters are kept surprisingly neat, considering the fact that Mrs. Brown has so many of them to look after.

"They're not clean all the time, you know," she explained, "but then, no children are. They don't dress up every day, but I manage to keep them washed and clean most of the day."

There is little sickness in the brood, although not all Brown babies have survived. There is always plenty to eat and plenty of clothing. The uncle and the two oldest boys are bakers; the oldest girl, who is 20, is a stenographer. Between them, they manage to meet the family budget.

Mr. Brown, whose health has been impaired, has been ordered by his doctor not to work. Some little time ago the doctor said Mr. Brown had only a year more to live. Mr. Brown fooled him; but he has had to take things easy.

Stork Comes to Home

"Does Mrs. Brown go to the hospital every time a new baby comes?" an interviewer asked. Mr. Brown answered that one.

"We don't believe in having children without the proper medical aid," he said. "Whenever a new baby arrives we have an upstairs room cleaned out and fixed up like a hospital room. A doctor and a nurse are in attendance. Mrs. Brown takes a two-weeks vacation in bed after the arrival of the baby."

Then Mr. Brown thought of something else.

"By the way," he said, "Mrs. Brown has the smallest foot of any mother here in town. Ma, show the gentleman your foot. See, that is a size 12 children's shoe. She can wear size 11 in a pinch. We have never heard of any other woman of her age with such a small foot."

Grandmother, 37, Is Second

The lady who holds second place in this strange race for Mr. Millar's half million is Mrs. Grace Bagnato, a Toronto-born Canadian-Italian, who is a grandmother at the age of 37. Married at 13, she has had 20 children, of whom 11 are still alive, the youngest having been born last October.

Mrs. Bagnato, incidentally, serves as court interpreter here, and has acted in murder cases and other trials. One murder case was interrupted by the arrival of one of her children. She had been on duty in court until 5:30 p. m. She hurried home, the baby was born by 7 p. m., and the youngster was washed and dressed by the time the doctor arrived.

Mrs. Bagnato won't commit herself about what they will do with the half million dollars if she wins it. She says she has been unlucky in a great many things, and she adds, "I'll probably be unlucky in this, too."

Certain relatives of the late Mr. Millar are contesting his will, and it is possible that they may succeed in upsetting it.

When the contents of the strange will were first made public, world-wide public attention was drawn to the satirical provision giving race track and brewery stocks to preachers and reformers. Some of these beneficiaries, accepted their bequests, and some of them declined. Of those who accepted, most of them turned the stock over to charitable institutions.

Electra Society Elects Officers

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 29.—The annual meeting of the Federated Missionary society was held Tuesday afternoon with the women of the Baptist church as hostesses. The purpose of the meeting was to elect officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. W. R. Skinner was elected president. Other officers were Mrs. O. E. Basham, first vice president; Mrs. J. C. Shaw, second vice president; Mrs. J. L. Clayton, third vice president; Mrs. W. D. Evans, fourth vice president; Mrs. G. R. Davidson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Terry Preston, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert P. Hall, treasurer.

Mrs. Grace Jennings, retiring president, presided over the meeting which was opened with the Lord's prayer, led by Mrs. J. P. Parr. The congregation joined in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," and Mrs. C. K. Orr gave a reading. Mrs. J. G. B. Totten sang as a special number, "My Work Is Done." Refreshments were served to 50.

TWICE WHEN CARDUI HELPED

Lady Tells of Nervous, Weak Condition Which This Medicine Relieved.

Corsicana, Texas.—Mentioning a disorder which troubled her in early womanhood, Mrs. Drucilla Lipford, of 512 South Nineteenth Street, this city, says she obtained relief through her mother's confidence in a well-known medicine which women have used for over fifty years.

"Mother thought Cardui would help me," writes Mrs. Lipford, "so she got it for me, and it wasn't long until I was all right. It corrected my trouble in just a little while, and I felt good.

"After I was married, this trouble came back. I felt weak and no account most of the time. My back ached, and I would have nervous spells when I felt blue and despondent. I did not enjoy doing anything. I never valued good health until I did not have it.

"I remembered how Cardui had helped me before, so I began to take it again.

"I improved from the first. I took seven bottles, as it was doing me so much good. I did not stop until I was in good health."

Wilkins Describes Dirigibles' Value

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. (INS)—Sir Hubert Wilkins, the explorer and passenger on the Graf Zeppelin's world flight told the house interstate and foreign commerce committee today he believes "that an airship can go around the world from north to south as well as from east to west.

He appeared in support of the McNary-Parker bill granting mail contracts to Zeppelins to aid development of transoceanic transportation, and said "the present design of airships is safe in any kind of weather if operated by men of meteorological experience."

Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of naval aviation, predicted regular transatlantic airship service within three years, while Edward P. Farley, chairman of the Pacific Zeppelin Transport company said that "if legislation is forthcoming we will start with a single ship sailing between California and Honolulu, making one round trip weekly, later extending service to Manila and Japan."

Historic Adobe House Crumbles Under Rains

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico, Jan. 29. (AP)—Continued rains today crumbled the historic adobe house built in 1870 by Jacinto Guarjardo, then mayor of the city. No one was injured, the occupants running outside as the walls started to crack. The furniture of the house was buried in debris.

KILLERS EVADE WILY BOBBIES

Scotland Yard Reports 19 Unsolved Murders

LONDON, Jan. 29. (UP)—Nineteen unsolved murders in two years are on the books at Scotland Yard as proof of the fact that the greatest body of manhunters in the world is finding the modern criminal a shrewd evader of the hangman's noose.

Two of the murders, both brutal, were committed during the first month of the new year. A girl textile worker was battered to death in the street of a Yorkshire town and the daughter of a garage owner was found dead near Newcastle-on-Tyne in an automobile in which she had "given a lift" to a strange man.

There are two schools of thought on the reason for the increase in crime and the inability of police to apprehend the killers. Some officials believe the new regulations prohibiting "third degree" questioning of suspects is to blame, while others defend the order and blame the scientific methods adopted by the modern criminal as compared with the blundering killer of a few years ago.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Merchant Tells Why Stores Hold Customers

By FRED L. HASKETT

Eleven years ago Nathan Marantz entered business in Wichita Falls with a small fruit store. Today, when some other concerns are retrenching and making no endeavor to expand business, Nathan Marantz, with the faith that he has always had in Wichita Falls and the confidence he has in hundreds of friendships that have been formed has enlarged his investments by opening a new grocery and at the same time converting another fruit store to a grocery. However, in enlarging the grocery business, the fruit departments in the stores have not been neglected.

The history of the Marantz plan of merchandising is interesting. Nathan Marantz first opened a small fruit store, and as business grew larger quarters became necessary. He leased the building now occupied by the Busy Bee, at Seventh and Indiana, and added a small stock of selected fancy groceries. The business continued to grow and the second store was opened at 706 Indiana. In this store staple groceries were featured at prices that attracted a large number of customers. Recently the third store was opened at Eleventh and Holliday, which is the finest of all the Marantz stores.

"In expanding our grocery business we are featuring the best quality of staple groceries at the lowest price possible to sell them," says Mr. Marantz. "As a result of our plan of merchandising, the quality of groceries and foods sold and at extremely small profits, we find that our sales are increasing rapidly in volume, regardless of the fact that food prices have declined heavily within the past 18 months.

"It is our desire to sell a good quality of staple groceries at the lowest prices. In doing this we are not merely 'keeping store' like the grocery merchant of old, but we have installed the most modern fixtures possible to buy, and our stores are equipped with all kinds of apparatus that means preserving the foods and keeping them sanitary.

Modern Progress

"Back in the old days no grocery store had even an ice box or modern display shelves for fruits and vegetables. Fruits were unwrapped and sold from the container. Vegetables were in baskets and nothing was used to prevent contamination. Today we have in the Marantz stores larger dry cooled cases, where even temperatures are maintained. Much merchandise is kept in dust-proof containers or comes wrapped so as to be sanitary.

"In our business now we are giving our attention to the staple articles of food. We are always seeking to buy the things that are most used by the family at the lowest prices. We are often compelled to purchase in quantity to obtain a low price and when that occurs we simply push the sales on the item and put a price that makes it a real bargain. As a result of this system we are able to lower the cost of table necessities of life.

"The Busy Bee store now has for its motto 'lots for little.' We have stocked in this store the most staple lines of foods and at prices that are as low as food can be sold. In the new store on Holliday we not only carry a complete stock of staple groceries at low prices but we are also catering to the trade that demands foods out of the ordinary. In the Holliday street store is to be found the finest delicatessen south of Chicago, and the foods are prepared by a chef of many years' experience.

"In conducting our grocery business in Wichita Falls we always endeavor to purchase from local wholesale firms everything possible to secure. However, there are hundreds of food items that local or even Dallas or Houston wholesalers do not carry in stock.

"In purchasing certain meats and cheese it is necessary that we go to markets hundreds of miles away from Wichita Falls, and in many instances even thousands of miles away. We often place orders for special products months ahead of the time the products reach our stores in Wichita Falls.

Imported Delicacies

"There are many kinds of cheese, domestic and imported. We often have from 30 to 40 different kinds of cheese in stock, and a major portion of the cheese is imported.

"We have special prepared meats —dried, spiced, pickled, smoked and prepared in every manner. Some of these meats come from Europe. Some from the Orient and some from South America. These meats are rich and in demand by the exacting trade.

"We purchase olives by hogsheads, over a hundred gallons in one of these containers. We purchase stuffed olives in hogsheads, all being imported from Spain or Italy. These olives meet the requirement of my order.

"We have hundreds of canned foods in stock, some of which are known to only a few. We have canned sea foods that come from each of the seven seas of the world.

"We have fish from every sea and prepared in every manner. We get the choicest from the markets that supply the best the world produces.

"The fact that we chose to operate a food store differently and keep in stock the choicest viands that the epicurean knows, is one of the many reasons of our success. This often creates a desire. Many times a housewife seeks something different for her table. She cannot make up her mind as to what she desires. A visit to any Marantz store will quickly aid her in reaching a decision. She will see something that she will relish for breakfast, lunch or dinner."

Protection of Foods

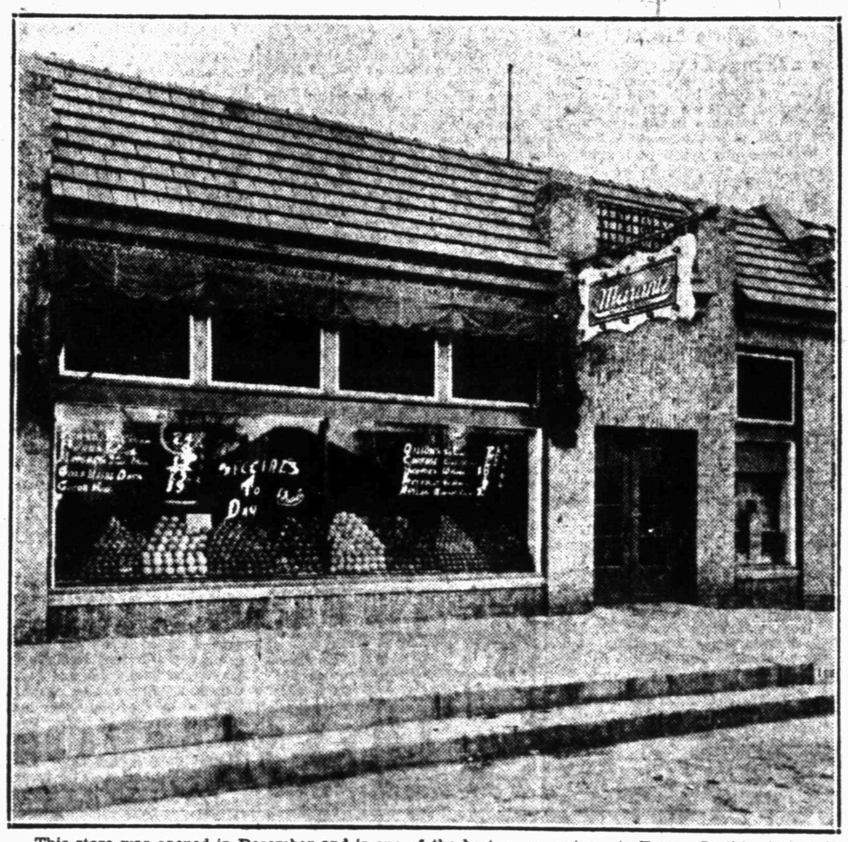

"Marantz stores protect foods and fruit from dust and insects. The food that should be kept in a cool temperature is placed in cases or refrigerators that are cooled mechanically. Many items of rare foods are shipped to us cooled by dry ice. Some items are even frozen far below zero temperature by the use of dry ice. In placing these items in storage we maintain the temperature necessary for proper preservation.

"Marantz food stores are becoming known throughout Texas by those who desire foods that are of the best quality and that are different. Our prices are low because we work on the theory that quick turnovers mean greater profits at the end of the year.

"We have items of food that are shipped for thousands of miles that sell at a modest price. We know the foods that the world produces. We have our buyers stationed in every buying center. The best in the world is none too good for the trade of Wichita Falls and Marantz stores will always carry a line of foods that is the best the world produces.

"It is the desire of the management of the Marantz stores to render a service to each and every customer and to that end we invite constructive criticism or suggestions as to how we can better our service or make our stores more desirable places in which to shop."

Marantz New Grocery and Delicatessen, Eleventh Street

This store was opened in December and is one of the best grocery stores in Texas. In this store is featured a delicatessen, said by Nathan Marantz to be the finest in any city south of Chicago. Foods from every section of the globe are carried in stock as well as a complete line of staple groceries.

HOLLIS ASKS TELEPHONE CUT

Rate Reduction Plea Put Before Board

HOLLIS, Okla., Jan. 29.—R. D. Miller, attorney for the city of Hollis, appeared before the corporation commission and asked for a reduction of telephone rates on all classes of service in Hollis. The Southwest Telephone company, owners of the plant, made a fight to retain the present rates. Commission advised Mr. Miller that it would hand down a decision to be effective March 1.

COOK'S SKILL AIDS ECONOMY

Inexpensive Dishes Can Be Appetizing

It is not always the cost that makes a dish palatable, but the skill in cooking or combining materials, says the chef at the Marantz delicatessen. Simple, inexpensive dishes that have the advantage of appetizing combinations of flavors are often more popular than expensive dishes thoughtlessly prepared.

Plain fare does not mean that tempting food cannot be served. The meals can be just as interesting and attractive and the family as well nourished when stews and pot roasts take the place of steaks and chops and simple greens replace elaborate salads.

Ginger breads and spice cakes are especially acceptable during the cold months and usually are very cheap to make. Apples and dried fruits can be used in numberless ways to make delicious desserts.

Scallopeds codfish with macaroni furnishes much food value at small cost. Served with stewed canned tomatoes, cabbage and carrot salad and Norwegian prune pudding a simple inexpensive meal is provided. Vitamins, mineral salts and calories are supplied in abundance.

Scalloped Codfish With Macaroni

Two cups flaked cooked salt codfish, 1¼ cups broken macaroni, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, few grains pepper.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Melt butter in saucepan, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and remove from fire. Stir in cheese and add pepper and prepared fish. Put a layer of macaroni in buttered baking dish, add sauce and fish and cover with remaining macaroni. Bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes. Serve very hot.

Ginger bread can be baked in a sheet and cut in squares for serving or baked in individual cupcakes. For a rather festive dessert and when fat is otherwise lacking from the menu, a wedge-shaped piece can be cut from the top of each cup-cake, the cake filled with whipped cream and the top replaced.

Hot Water Gingerbread

One cup molasses, ½ cup boiling water, 2½ cups flour, one teaspoon soda, 1½ teaspoons ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup melted butter.

Add water to molasses. Add soda. Mix and sift flour, ginger, cinnamon and salt. Add to first mixture with melted butter. Beat well for one minute and turn into an oiled and floured shallow pan. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Chicken fat tried out and clarified makes an excellent fat for allspice cakes and cookies. At this time of year fowl is apt to be quite fat, but if the fat is used in place of other shortening for baking, waste is avoided.

Congratulations

Our Formal OPENING

SURE: We are proud of our new store, the occasion of our formal opening, but the real point of pride is the wonderful reception this store has had from our many friends and customers. To have your efforts to serve, accepted as our new store has been by our friends and customers, is a gift of inestimable value, and we deeply appreciate it. It is our purpose to continue to serve you as we have for 11 years, and with your kindly suggestions and criticisms, we hope to always improve our service to you. Present business conditions without our faith in Wichita Falls would not warrant our expansion, but we have confidence in our home town and the loyalty of our host of friends.

CHEESE ONE OF RICHEST FOODS

Marantz Stores Carry Over 40 Varieties

One of the most nutritious foods on the market is cheese.

Although American cheese is most generally purchased, yet there are many American-made varieties that are flavored to closely resemble those of European origin.

Some of the finest cheese in the world comes from Holland. One variety comes in a hard rose-colored ball called Edam cheese. It is very fine for both table and cooking purposes. Camembert and Brie are from France. Italy sends Parmesan cheese which is one of the big reasons for going to an Italian restaurant for spaghetti.

Then Switzerland sends us some of the very choicest cheese. There is no cheese quite so rich and delicious as the genuine Swiss cheese.

Few in Wichita Falls will realize there are many different kinds of cheese that is produced over the world. There are hundreds of varieties. In the Marantz stores are carried from 40 to 50 different varieties, many of which are imported. The stock of American-made cheese is complete.

Rich in Mineral Calcium

Cheese, like milk or the yolk of egg, is rich in the mineral calcium so important in bone growth and development. A well-known baby specialist, Dr. McKim Marriott, in stressing the importance of a sufficient intake of milk for the expectant mother, explains "the milk may be cooked in foods, added to beverages, such as cocoa, etc., or ice cream. It makes little difference what form of milk is used. Dried milk or evaporated milk are as good sources of calcium as is fresh milk. Evaporated milk is of especial value as it lends itself to the preparation of many dishes and by its use a relatively large intake of milk is assured."

Since most of the calcium of milk is contained in the curd, cheese is rich in this element.

Aside from the domestic and foreign brands of cheese on the market there is another kind, which, we can make in our own kitchen —cottage cheese. As a salad base it combines deliciously with sweet cooked apricots, or a slice of pineapple, or slices of orange topped off with a rich French dressing.

Properly seasoned with salt and pepper, and finely chopped chives, cottage cheese can be the main dish for supper, or a large-sized appetizer on a dinner menu.

Use Evaporated Milk

If you have ever experimented with cheese rarebit you have noticed that milk combined with some cheese causes it to go thin and curdle. Evaporated milk will not do this. It will combine smoothly with any cheese you may wish to use in a rarebit.

Menu

Cold cuts, corn pudding, cheese biscuits, plum butter, pickled peaches, maple tarts.

Corn Pudding

One quart canned or fresh corn.
Two fresh eggs, beaten slightly.
One and one-half teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon sugar.
Few drops onion juice.
Three-fourths cup evaporated milk.
Three-fourths cup boiling water.
Two tablespoons melted butter.
Dash paprika.

Combine ingredients in order given. Pour into buttered bolds, set in a pan half filled with hot water and bake until firm in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). One-half chopped green pepper, one-half chopped pimiento or one-half cup grated cheese may be added for variation. Yield: six servings.

Cheese Biscuits

Three cups flour.
Four and one-half teaspoons baking powder
One and one-half teaspoons salt.
One-fourth cup fat.
One-fourth cup grated cheese.
One-third cup evaporated milk.
Two-thirds cup water.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Rub fat and cheese into flour with fingers until appearance is like coarse corn meal. Add milk, diluted with the water, and mix quickly with a fork. Stir until flour disappears then four or five times to smooth and slightly stiffen the dough. Turn onto a thoroughly floured board. Pat out or roll to one-half inch thickness. Cut and place on oiled tins. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 12 minutes. Yield: 24 biscuits.

Maple Tarts

Filling:
One egg.
One cup maple syrup.
Two tablespoons evaporated milk.
One tablespoon flour.

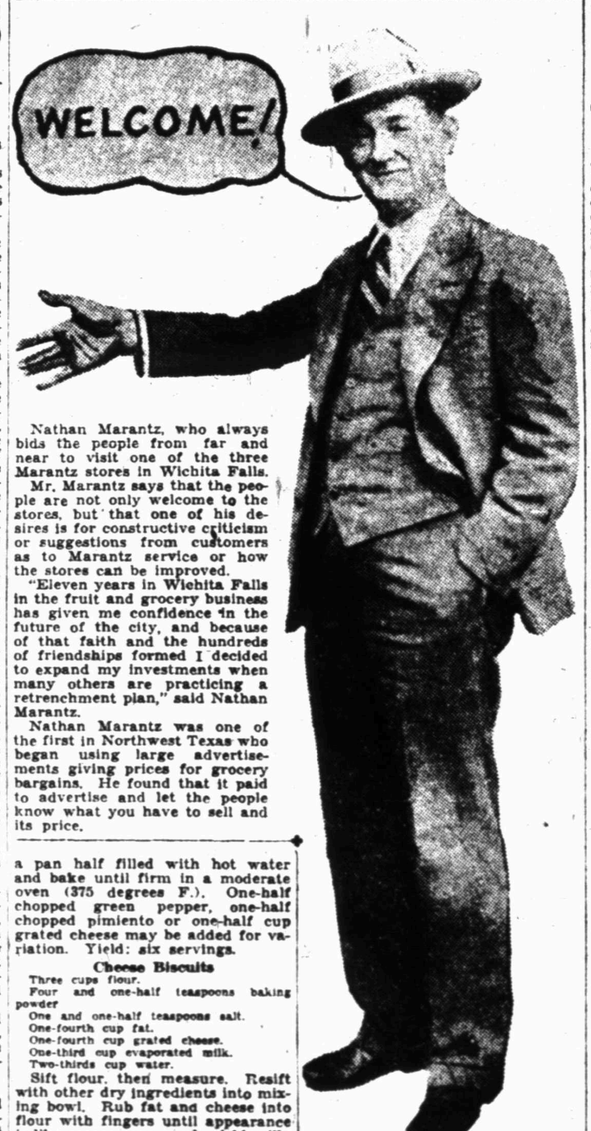

Beat egg. Add syrup slowly to flour to form a smooth paste. Then combine with beaten egg and evaporated milk. Pour into pre-baked tart shells. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) and continue baking until filling is set and pastry is browned. Yield: Eight tarts.

So Inconsiderate

Husband (who has just secured a job): Cheer up. The tide has turned. I've found a job as a night watchman.

Wife. Well, if that ain't aggravatin'. I've only just finished makin' ye a couple o' new night shirts.—Tit-Bits.

The Man Who Built Marantz Groceries

Nathan Marantz, who always bids the people from far and near to visit one of the three Marantz stores in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Marantz says that the people are not only welcome to the stores, but that one of his desires is for constructive criticism or suggestions from customers as to Marantz service or how the stores can be improved.

"Eleven years in Wichita Falls in the fruit and grocery business has given me confidence in the future of the city, and because of that faith and the hundreds of friendships formed I decided to expand my investments when many others are practicing a retrenchment plan," said Nathan Marantz.

Nathan Marantz was one of the first in Northwest Texas who began using large advertisements giving prices for grocery bargains. He found that it paid to advertise and let the people know what you have to sell and its price.

CAKES FAVORED BY CHILDREN

Here Are New Flavors to Tempt Youngsters

"What kind of a cake shall we have today?" "Choclit!" the children will shout. Invariably it's chocolate. But there are other flavors that could be made as popular as chocolate, and Marantz stores have them.

In selecting some flavors it may require more delicate handling. For instance, it is not so easy to attain perfection with maple flavorings. Yet the delicious sap that oozes out of the trees of our Northern states should not be neglected as a dessert flavor, as it is by too many housewives.

Here are several recipes. One is called Spanish cake. "Spanish" suggests an unusual combination of seasonings. In this case it is an unusual combination of flavorings —cinnamon flavored cake with maple butter frosting—amazingly delicious.

Do you delight in the velvety texture of cake made with sour cream? "But I can't wait for cream to sour whenever I want to bake," says the housewife. That is only an excuse, for sour cream can be made ready in a jiffy. Put a little vinegar in evaporated milk and it becomes sour cream. From this point on you make your cake exactly as if you were using sour cream. The result is a cake of incomparable softness and lightness of texture—the aim of every cake-maker and the joy of every cake eater.

The recipe for date cake is an example of this ingenious device, the short cut to fine-textured cakes.

Spinach Cake

One and three-fourths cups flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One half cup fat (half butter.)
One cup sugar.
Two eggs.
One-fourth cup evaporated milk diluted with
One-fourth cup water.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients. Cream fat until plastic. Add sugar a little at a time and continue creaming until free from sugar granules. Add well beaten egg yolks. Add dry ingredients alternately with the diluted milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into oiled layer cake pans lined with waxed paper. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Frost with maple butter frosting. Yield: 10 servings.

Maple Butter Frosting

Two tablespoons butter.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Two tablespoons evaporated milk.
One tablespoon maple syrup.
Four drops maplene.
One-half cup finely chopped pecans.

Cream butter. Work in sugar gradually. Add milk, maple syrup flavoring. Beat until smooth. Add nuts. Yield: Sufficient for two eight inch rounds.

Pound Cake

One cup buttter.
One and one-half cups pastry flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon mace.
Three eggs, separated.
One-fourth cup evaporated milk.
One and one-third cups XXXX sugar.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Break butter into pieces. Cream well. Add flour sifted with baking powder, salt and mace a little at a time, working in well. Beat egg yolks; add milk and sugar, then add to first mixture. Add stiffly beaten whites and beat until batter resembles thick, hard sauce. Add vanilla and pour at once into paper lined ungreased cake pan. Bake in moderate oven (325-350 degrees F.) 75 minutes. Yield: One loaf cake.

Date Cake

One cup evaporated milk.
One tablespoon vinegar.
One and three-fourths cups flour.
One teaspoon soda.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon cloves.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-half cup fat (half butter)
One cup sugar.
One egg.
One pound dates, sliced.
One cup nuts.

Add vinegar to evaporated milk. Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients. Cream butter. Add sugar and continue creaming until sugar granules are almost dissolved. Add beaten egg, then add dry ingredients alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Add dates and nuts with last few stirs. Pour into loaf cake pan that has been lined with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate over (350 degrees F) one hour. Yield: 10 servings.

Doctor Finds Evaporated Milk Safest; Marantz Stores Here Have Supply

How a physician practicing in a large rural area of New England overcame the handicap of an unregulated milk supply which frequently meant uncertain and unsafe milk for babies is told in an article in the Medical Woman's Journal, Beatrice Beattie, M. D., of Little, N. H., author of the article, was far removed from hospital and clinical facilities. In part Dr. Beattie says:

"Trained in a school of pediatrics, which teaches that a raw cow's milk modification is the best routine method of feeding babies, I found myself, in actual practice, faced with rather unsatisfactory results when I attempted to carry out what I had been taught. The babies got diarrhea rather too frequently, they did not gain as fast as they should, and they were not always the happy, contented infants that one expected them to be. In casting about for a suitable substitute, I hit upon evaporated milk."

In evaporated milk Dr. Beattie found a product whose physical and chemical composition made it an almost ideal basis upon which to build an infant's feeding formula. Dr. Beattie accepted the findings of scientific investigation—that evaporated milk does not change its qualities as an infant food except in an advantageous way. Then she began experimenting with the special feeding cases that came to her attention. Some were babies who were suffering from digestive disturbances. Some had been deprived of breast feeding soon after birth. "There are certain characteristics of evaporated milk," says Dr. Beattie, "which make it admirably suitable for many of the slightly off-the-normal conditions which occur frequently in pediatric practice. The premature infant deprived of breast milk whose formula must be easily digested and high in caloric value, does remarkably well on evaporated milk.

"Since evaporated milk in its canned state has twice the concentration of raw milk, it is often useful in cases which require small amounts of concentrated food. Infants who are extremely weak either from a protracted illness or from chronic malnutrition come into this class."

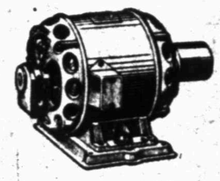

Dr. Beattie tells of a case of a baby who at birth weighed six pounds. When the child was 3 months old the family called her because "he could not keep anything on his stomach." Dr. Beattie found a weak, emaciated baby whose feeble crying caused even more alarm. The child had had breast feedings, next a raw cow's milk formula with lime water and cane sugar, and finally two prepared baby's foods. Nothing had agreed with him. Putting him on an evaporated milk formula he immediately gained weight and retained the new feedings from the start. She says, "at six months he weighed 14 pounds, had one tooth and was making attempts to sit up alone."

Cases of infantile eczema and allied allergies too, often clear up when put on evaporated milk formula.

"Another specialized field for evaporated milk," Dr. Beattie states, "is for babies who have to travel. A baby 5 months old was brought to me on the eve of departure for the South by motor, the parents seeking advice as to what they could safely feed the infant en route. On my recommendation they purchased a case of evaporated milk, a large can of vitavose, two thermos bottles and a sterno outfit. They later wrote me from their destination that the baby had made the trip without the slightest upset of any kind and was gaining faster on his new formula than he had on the raw milk modification previously given. The fact that the milk is of constant composition and of known cleanliness makes it admirably suited to babies who must go traveling."

The three Marantz stores in Wichita Falls carry a complete and fresh stock of the standard brands of condensed and evaporated milks, also fresh milk of the highest grade that can be produced by mechanical processes.

HARMON ROAD WORK STARTS

Surveys Underway for Two Highways

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIS, Okla., Jan. 29.—The state commission started work on the highways of Harmon county in accordance with their agreement with the county commissioners by bringing into the county surveyors and engineers who are making such surveys as are necessary in putting up to grade and drainage both U. S. highway No. 60 and state highway No. 9.

The agreement with the highway department was that Harmon county would deposit with the state $75,000 and furnish right of way for the two highways. Bonds to the extent of $75,000 were sold Jan. 21, and the county commissioners immediately notified the state commission of their sale and action was taken at the first meeting of the state highway commission.

This action on the part of the highway commission and the county commissioners will settle a controversy which has been going on in Harmon county for the past two years regarding the location of the highway running through Hollis and in addition will give Harmon county the completion of No. 9 which was not included in the bond issue. It has been agreed that home labor will be used as far as possible and that small contracts will be let which will relieve the labor situation in the county.

Interior View Marantz Store, Eleventh and Holliday

The fixtures used in this new Marantz store were planned by Nathan Marantz. The feature of the fixtures is that very little woodwork is exposed and advantage is taken of even the ends of the display cases for display racks. In the rear are seen the large display cases, which are cooled by the dry process. No ice is used to come in contact with foods. The delicatessen is in the rear of the store. A view of the kitchen cannot be seen, which is in a separate room, so provided that it can be kept in a most sanitary condition.

Marantz Stores Aid Housewife In Preparing Meals Quickly

Every woman has a few quick tricks up her sleeve when it comes to getting meals in a hurry. Hot biscuits are one of the quickest tricks. Most women can stir up a batch of muffins in five minutes. Of course, the quicker these breads are mixed up the better the biscuit.

Many housewives in Wichita Falls no longer resort to making hot biscuit for a hurry-up meal, or when friend husband forgets to telephone that he is bringing a friend home for dinner. Friend husband arrives home and in a minute he can be sent to the Marantz store on Eleventh street and get the very finest foods, piping hot, and as delicious as is possible for one of the greatest chefs in Texas to prepare them.

But in the event the housewife wants to fix up something tasty and fancy she can do it.

No one would suspect that a dessert like orange custard has been a rush order. Orange custard is partly prepared in the morning because the custard part of the dessert has to be chilled. Paring and slicing the oranges is all that has to be done at dinner time.

We always endorse the can opener but at moments like these you just can't get along without it. Since so many dishes for dinner and supper require milk be sure to have a supply of evaporated milk on your pantry shelves. There is nothing more exasperating than running out of milk when you are trying to prepare a tasty and nutritious meal in a hurry.

Menu
Oyster Stew
Celery
Deviled Ham Whole Wheat Biscuits
Fruit Salad

Oyster Stew
Two cups evaporated milk.
Two cups water.
One slice onion.
Two stalks celery.
Two sprigs parsley.
Bit of bay leaf.
Four tablespoons cracker crumbs.
One pint oysters.
Three tablespoons butter.
Dash paprika.
Salt.

Scald milk and water, with onion, celery, parsley and bay leaf 20 minutes; remove celery, onion and bay leaf and add crackers. Heat the cleaned oysters in their own liquid until the edges curl. Add to milk and season with butter, paprika and salt. Serve immediately. Yield: Five servings.

Deviled Ham Whole Wheat Biscuits
One cup family flour.
One cup Graham flour.
Three tablespoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two teaspoons fat.
Three tablespoons evaporated milk diluted with water to make 2-3 cup liquid.
One-fourth cup deviled ham.
One tablespoon evaporated milk.

Sift flours, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients, returning bran left in sifter to dry ingredients. Rub fat into dry ingredients with fingers until appearance is like coarse corn meal. Add milk and mix quickly with a fork. Toss on lightly floured board, pat out to ½-inch thickness and cut with a small biscuit cutter. Soften deviled ham with one tablespoon evaporated milk and spread on half the biscuits. Lay other biscuits on top. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees Fahrenheit. Yield: Ten biscuits.

Menu
Turnip Greens (canned) Bacon
Corn Meal Muffins
Orange Custard (soft)

Corn Meal Muffins
One and a half cups bread flour.
One-half cup corn meal.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One egg.
One-third cup evaporated milk.
Two-thirds cup water.
Two tablespoons melted butter.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Beat egg, add milk, diluted with the water, and butter. Stir liquid quickly into dry ingredients. Pour batter instantly into oiled muffin tins. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees Fahrenheit, 15 to 20 minutes. This batter may be baked in corn stick pans. Yield: Twelve muffins.

Orange Custard
Five eggs.
One-half cup sugar.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Two cups boiling water.
Two cups evaporated milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Two large oranges.

Mix the slightly beaten eggs, sugar and salt thoroughly. Add water and the evaporated milk. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Stirring constantly, cook in a double boiler until a coating forms on the spoon. Remove from fire at once, add flavoring. Chill thoroughly and serve over sliced oranges. Yield: Six large servings.

NIGHT CLUBS' CURFEW LOOMS

Recent Shooting May Disturb Play Routine

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (UP)—Broadway's hot spots, those four-dollar cover charge "clubs," where crooners exercise their adenoids, and racketeers discuss their next campaigns to the tune of music, were threatened today with a 1 a. m. closing law—which is just the shank of the evening for the average playboy.

As a result of recent blood-spilling at the Club Abbey which sent one of the Broadway boys to a hospital with a score of knife wounds, Police Commissioner Edward P Mulrooney today announced his advocacy of a curfew law which would effectually darken all night clubs, whether or not attached to hotels, at one hour after midnight.

The commissioner's edict, if backed up by the law, would not single out the "hot spot" in distinction to cabarets run by high class hotels.

Under the present law, a night club may remain open as long as its owners please, if it is maintained in connection with a hotel. A hotel, according to police definition, is any public lodging which has 50 guest rooms. Thus, to evade the closing law, many of the more flourishing clubs have quarters next door to—or within—small hotels.

This may be dangerous for hotel patrons upon occasion. The walls of the Hotel Harding, run in connection with the Club Abbey, were so thin that bullets from the gangster battle that wrecked the club zipped right through the partitions and greatly surprised and annoyed the clerk on duty.

"My first attention and my first efforts," Mulrooney said, "will be directed toward obtaining the cooperation of the corporation counsel. It may be remembered my predecessor once forced the Club Abbey to close at 3 a. m., but they knocked two or three holes through the walls between the club rooms and the hotel and set up the claim the club was part of the hotel.

"I believe a 1 o'clock closing time would make New York a better and healthier place to live in. I would like to see every one of these dancing, singing, girl-showing places closed and dark at 1 a. m."

Another Scotch One

A Scotchman crossing the ocean proved to be a bad sailor and went to see the captain of the ship to see if he could do anything for seasickness.

"Have you got a dime?" asked the captain.

"Yes," replied the Scot.

SOONER SCOUT GROUPS UNITE

Merging of Councils Voted At Meeting

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Jan. 29.—Decision to merge the Navajo Mountain and Washita Valley councils of Boy Scouts was made this week at a meeting here of 40 scout officials from the southwestern part of the state. J. T. O'Neal, nationally known scout executive of Dallas, presided at the meeting.

The chief purpose of the consolidation is to reduce the overhead expense of carrying on the work in the two areas and allow a larger per cent of the funds to be used locally.

A new budget committee, composed of representatives from each town in the area, includes Jewett Scott, Mangum; Hugh Fry, Altus; Roy Jackson, Lone Wolf; O. W. Talley, Hobart; B. L. Smith, Granite.

ELECTRA LIONS HONOR SENIORS

Class Feted in Annual Celebration

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 29.—The feature event of the year was afforded the seniors of Electra High school here tonight when the Lions club banqueted the graduating class in the Armilda hotel. More than 150 persons attended the annual dinner, including 82 members of the senior class.

A varied and interesting program was offered. Lion G. R. Davidson served as toastmaster and delivered many amusing introductions and short speeches. C. W. Scheurer led the entire assembly in a song to officially open the program. Lion C. C. Klingman, pastor of the Electra Christian church delivered the benediction.

G. J. Gilles, president of the local Lions club, welcomed the seniors of the high school into the midst of the club members and highly commended the students for their accomplishments. Aubrey Smith, senior president and captain of the 1930 football team, rendered the response to President Gilles' address of welcome.

"Loyalty" was the subject chosen by John Erhard, principal speaker of the evening and ex-district governor of the Lions club. "America suffers because the prevailing spirit is mass spirit" the Dallas speaker said. He further praised the students for the accomplishments in the school room and wished them the best of success in their later life and business.

A humorous stunt brought the meeting to a close. Music was furnished by the orchestra under the direction of Harry Masten.

C.-C. Refuses to Act On Consolidation of Trains

The traffic committee of the chamber of commerce refused to take action at its meeting Thursday on the application of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad to the Texas railroad commisison for permission to consolidate its two night trains scheduled between Dallas and Amarillo.

The application has been set for hearing by the commission for Monday, Feb. 2, and was the chief topic of discussion of the first meeting of the traffic committee, which was appointed Wednesday by J. L. Jackson Jr., president of the chamber of commerce. The committee passed the matter without making a recommendation.

Wichitans to Attend Marietta Road Meeting

A road meeting to be held in Marietta, Okla., on Feb. 17, for the purpose of furthering plans for the improvement and paving of roads will be attended by members of the chamber of commerce here, it was announced Thursday, following the invitation to participate.

An East-West highway connecting with roads to Wichita Falls is one of the highways for which improvement is urged. The invitation was received here from Otto Bound, secretary of the Marietta Chamber of Commerce.

Wentz Defies Murray Order

Three Controversies Stir Oklahoma Solons

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 29. (UP)—Three controversies, two of which have been brewing since the election of Gov. W. H. Murray, came to a climax in the Oklahoma legislature today, overshadowing the tangled administration program of economy and tax reform.

Investigation of University hospital and the long expected fight over Lew Wentz as chairman of the state highway commission followed in rapid succession. In the other controversy, the political career of C. H. Pittman, old friend of Murray, ended abruptly within 48 hours.

The secretary of state was brought under fire yesterday when Murray was advised Pittman was promoting bond business for his step-son.

Pittman Resigns

When it was reported a senate investigating committee was going to demand the resignation asked by the governor, Pittman resigned late today. J. William Cordell, Chandler, reading clerk of the senate for 15 years, was named his successor.

The committee absolved Pittman of dishonesty but held him guilty of indiscretions.

A supreme court contest over Murray's powers to remove Wentz, Ponca City oil millionaire, as chairman of the highway commission, was anticipated tonight. Wentz was removed by executive order but is disputing the legality of the move, contending his appointment is fixed by statute. Sam Hawks, Clinton, Murray campaign manager, was named chairman today. Wentz did not vote but issued a statement that Murray's order "will have no effect on him whatsoever."

Several employes, chief of whom was Ira Aiken, truck driver of the university hospital, testified before the house general investigating committee today that Dr. Wann Langston, hospital superintendent, used state supplies and workers to fill his larder and build dog houses.

Murray Checked

Aiken testified he took butter and eggs from the hospital to the Langston home on order of the superintendent and filled Langston's auto with gasoline from state warehouses.

When the house finally got to legislation, a brief rally to force consideration of Murray's measure reducing the number of assistant attorneys general from 11 to 5 fell short. The house voted 36 to 7 against the move.

Senator Tom Anglin, Holdenville, led the fight for Murray. He assailed the attorney general's office for its connection with W. O. Gordon, former assistant general, convicted on a charge of accepting a bribe in the Pottawatomie county liquor conspiracy case.

Stopping a Child's Cough

During this time of year mothers are kept awake night after night by having their children cough. There is nothing more ruinous to a good night's sleep than listening to a youngster who is having spells of coughing. I am therefore going to outline a simple treatment that the mother can use which usually has the effect of stopping the cough thus allowing both mother and child to have a good night's rest.

When the cough has been brought on by a cold settling in the throat or bronchial tubes, then the best thing to do is to use the sweating treatment. Put the child in a warm bath and heat the water gradually until as hot as he can stand. He should be left in from 10 to 20 minutes, or until he begins to perspire. Have the bath room warm. Take the child from the bath, dry quickly and rub the chest and upper back with camphorated oil or some eucalyptus oils or menthol ointments. Then cover this with some old silk and pin around a vest made from an old woolen blanket or woolen sweater. While the child is still warm wrap him in a woolen blanket. Pin this around the neck and put the child to bed, being careful that no chilling occurs. Pile more blankets over, keeping them tucked in at the sides. Give the child plenty of warm lemonade or orangeade to drink until profuse sweating starts.

This treatment may be used with success just before the child goes to sleep. It is best to keep the blanket pinned around the throat so that it cannot be thrown off during the night. This sweating treatment may also be used morning and afternoon.

A child with a cough or cold should also be put on a short fast. Give oranges or tomatoes as much as desired. Use no other food. This fruit fast will have a beneficial effect on the elimination of poisons which are causing the trouble, and will also reduce the acidity of the blood. Do not be afraid to keep the child on a fast for three or four days until the cold has disappeared. It will also help to have the child drink all the water he will take, as this flushes the system and speeds the cure.

Of course, the bowels should be kept clean. For this purpose, there is nothing better than the enema. In giving an enema to a child be sure not to use too much water and do not let the water run in too fast. Oil the tube with a little vaseline or olive oil.

The next time your child has a cough try this remedy. Such a common sense method is much to be preferred to using cough syrups to cure the cough. Many of these syrups contain cholorform and have the effect of suppressing the cough without removing the cause which is producing it.

This treatment which I have outlined helps in removing the cause and usually leaves the child feeling better than before the illness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Soda and Gas

Question—Grandma writes: "I am troubled with gas, and a friend of mine told me to take powdered borax. I have been taking baking soda. Which do you think is best? I am an old lady 75 years old and want to do the right thing. I do not want to take anything that will injure me, as I enjoy pretty good health."

Answer—Why take either of these remedies, for if you eat according to my weekly menus published in this paper you should not be troubled with excessive gas. If you will send me your name and address on a large stamped envelope I will be glad to send you some special articles on the subject of excessive gas. As you just signed your letter "Grandma' and as there are so many Grandmas in the world, I am afraid a letter would not reach you as easily as it does Santa Claus.

Fattening Foods

Question—F. P. writes: "As I am a little overweight, would like to know if raisins, grapes, and sweet potatoes are fattening."

Answer—These foods may be said to be fattening if they are taken in large enough quantities, but small amounts would probably not put on added weight in your case, as you say you are only a little overweight.

Skin Turning Yellow

Question—McR. writes: "My skin is slowly turning yellow. Can you give me any method of bleaching it."

Answer—You may be developing jaundice, in which case you should take a strict fasting and diet treatment. If your yellow color is not caused by excessive bile in your blood it may be because you are eating too many carrots. The carrotin or yellow color of carrots will discolor the skin, usually starting in the palms of the hands. This coloring in the body is apparently harmless. If carrots cause your color and you want to get rid of it, it will be necessary for you to leave them out of your diet for several weeks before your color will become normal.

SHUTE AND YOUNG COMBINATION TAKES LEAD IN TEXAS OPEN

LEADERS SHOOT SUB-PAR GOLF

Santone Youth and 1930 Champion Win

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 29.—Denny Shute, young Columbus, Ohio, professional, and Lorraine Young, 20-year-old San Antonio amateur, combined today to score a 65, six under par for the Brackenridge park course, and place first in the amateur-pro event, preliminary to the $6,500 Texas open.

Shute and his youthful partner were even-up for the muddy 18 holes, each scoring a 71, even par, but they displayed some fine teamwork to lead the field by two strokes. Shute did his fancy work on the first nine where he had a 33, and Young came in with a 32, helping his professional partner on five holes. Between them, they registered seven three's on the last nine holes.

Four teams tied for second place with 67's. They were Sam Schneider, San Antonio professional and Lieutenant Gus Shea, San Antonio amateur; John Golden, Stamford, Conn., and Byron Nelson, Fort Worth, Texas; Al Espinosa, Chicago and Lieutenant H. M. Turner, San Antonio; and Abe Espinosa, Chicago and Jack Wood, San Marcos, Texas.

Victory in today's event was worth $100 to Shute and a gold medal to his amateur partner, Young. The professionals in the four combinations tying at 67 divided $125, representing second and third prizes.

The card posted by Shute and Young:

Out	325	443	435	—35

Four teams finished with 69's, just out of the money. They were Frank Walsh, Chicago pro and Bud McKinney, Del Rio, Texas, amateur; Tom Lally, San Antonio, pro and Edgar O'Quinn, San Antonio, Edwin Jouselg, Houston, Texas, professional, and John Dawson, Chicago, amateur, and Phil George, Liberty, Texas, pro and James Gallett, New York.

A drizzling rain that had fallen for three days and kept many of the contestants indoors lapsed partially today. Prospects were for fair weather tomorrow, when the money shooters will get away on the 72-hole grind for the capital prizes. Eighteen holes are scheduled tomorrow, the same number Saturday and the final 36 on Sunday. First prize will be $1,500.

As a result of his fine showing today, Shute became an outstanding favorite to retain his Texas open title. Last year the Middle West star compiled a total of 277, seven strokes better than par, to lead the field. He displayed the same mastery of Brackenridge park today.

Other low scorers in today's event: Harold Long, Denver, Colo., and xGeorge Terrell, San Antonio, 70; Dick Metz, San Angelo and xJohnny de Forrest, England, 70; James D. Fogerty, Kickwood, Mo., and xJ. W. West, San Antonio, 70; Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, and xGus Moreland, Dallas, 71; Tony Amero, Elmsford, N. Y., and xBill Humes, Del Rio, Texas, 71; Frank Fogerty, Kirkwood, Mo., and xJ. E. Kid Berg Ties Into Kalamazoo Boy Tonight

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—Jackie Kid Berg, crack British lightweight, tackles Herman Perlick, Kalamazoo, Mich., for the third time tomorrow night in the feature attraction at Madison Square garden. Twice before, Berg has thrown the better half of a pair of fighting twins for a loss.

The match involves the trick junior welterweight championship which Berg won in England from Mushy Callahan, Chicago, a couple of semesters ago. The title is not recognized in this state, but the boys are scheduled to weigh 140 pounds, the class limit. Berg, with one match under his belt after a long vacation in England, is a prohibitive favorite.

Harper Takes Opening Block From Harris

CHICAGO, Jan. 29. (AP)—Robert H. Harper, Denver, defending champion, won the opening block in his national amateur three cushion challenge match against Dr. Andrew J. Harris, Chicago, today, 50 to 34, in 51 innings.

Harper gained an early lead and never was in danger. Harper's high run was four to Harris' five.

The second of three 50-point blocks will be played tomorrow.

Brothers at Alabama Find Blood Thicker Than Athletic Rivalry

Walton and Malcolm Laney, brothers, are members of the University of Alabama basket ball team this year. They were rivals for four years on high school teams.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 29. (AP)—After playing on rival high school teams for four years, Walton and Malcolm Laney, Birmingham brothers, are at last teammates at the University of Alabama.

Walton was an outstanding guard last year and was a strong factor in the Crimson Southern conference march. His brother was only a second stringer during that season, but has been in the opening lineup this year.

For four years, Walton Laney, the elder brother, played football, baseball and basket ball at Woodlawn High school, Birmingham. During the same four years Malcolm played in all three sports at Phillips High school, Woodlawn's arch rival. Both were prep school heroes.

The Laney family, while the boys were in high school, moved from the Woodlawn section of town to the north side, where Phillips is located. Malcolm entered the latter school, but Walton stayed behind with an uncle so that he might attend Woodlawn.

After they were graduated from high school, Walton entered Alabama, but his brother determined to go to Birmingham-Southern.

Malcolm finally changed his mind, however, and the long rivalry ended when he also matriculated at the Tuscaloosa institution. Both are now juniors.

Rip Miller to Follow Ingram As Chief Coach at Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 29. (AP)—Edgar E. (Rip) Miller, all-American guard at Notre Dame in 1924 and line coach at the Naval academy the past five years, will succeed Navy Bill Ingram as head football coach, it was learned at the academy today.

Miller has been a member of the coaching staff at the academy since 1926, when Ingram first took over the grid reins and turned out an undefeated team. He came to the academy fresh from the Notre Dame outfit which made history in football world, being one of the five "mules" who made possible the record of the four horsemen of that year.

Naval academy athletic officials would neither confirm nor deny that Miller had been selected for the vacancy created when Ingram signed a contract to become head coach at the University of California, but did say he would return to the academy as a coach.

A high athletic official said, however, that Miller had been agreed on, but that the formal announcement of the appointment would not be made for several days.

Bobby Jones Greets Brand New Daughter

ATLANTA, Jan. 29. (UP)—A seven-pound baby girl, Mary Eleanor, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyre Jones Jr., here today. Both mother and child were reported doing well.

Mary Eleanor is the third child in the family of the four-time golf champion, who recently retired from competition to appear in movies and before the radio microphone. Mary Malone is 6; Bobby Jr., 4.

College Team Beats Perryton Basketeers

PERRYTON, Jan. 29.—Perryton Rangers were nosed out in the last few minutes of play losing a hard fought game to Garden City, Kan., college here Wednesday evening 25-23. Flashing superior teamwork, the Rangers got many more shots at the basket but were unable to score on many of the shots, while the college boys made most of their efforts count. Rangers led most of the way. Pampa girls and boys come here Thursday evening for two games with the Rangers and Rangerites, and a thriller is promised.

Gould Coyotes Cop Sixteen Straight Games

GOULD, Okla., Jan. 29.—The Gould Coyotes defeated Hollis 39 to 23 on the Gould court Tuesday night. Gallop, Gould guard and captain, tallied 15 points for individual scoring honors. Barefoot and Chapman were outstanding for Hollis. This made the 16th consecutive victory for Coach Newberry's proteges. The Gould girls defeated Hollis 36 to 27 in a fast game.

BLUEBIRD MAY SPEED TODAY

Campbell Hopes to Test Great Motors

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29. (UP)—The motors of the Bluebird II, super-speedster pointed for a new world's automobile speed record, may be given tests by Capt. Malcomb Campbell tomorrow, he indicated today after skilled mechanics completed thorough examination and tuning of the machine.

But the car, rebuilt since its 225-mile-an-hour achievement in Africa, will not be taken to the beach course until the surface of the famous speedway improves, he indicated.

Campbell hopes to make initial spins in the 25-foot, 1,450-horsepower car Saturday or Sunday, but the preliminary trials will be on nearby highways, pending natural conditioning of the beach course.

The British racing driver said he planned to make about 100 miles an hour in preliminary runs. His ultimate goal is an indefinite point beyond the existing record, 231.36 miles per hour, established by Major H. O. D. Segrave, since killed while breaking the world's speedboat record.

Crowell Hi Smothers Chillicothe Quintet

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, Jan. 29.—The Crowell High school basket ball team won another victory tonight, defeating the Chillicothe team 54 to 12. Burrow of Crowell was the individual star of the game, garnering 19 points, while Ramsey of Chillicothe led his mates with seven points, more than half of their total. It was Crowell's 20th victory out of 21 games. Olney defeated the locals recently.

ALLEN AVERS

By JACK (RED) ALLEN

Spring training for football in many of the Eastern colleges is decidedly unpopular. The move to discontinue spring training was given birth by the annual meeting of the leading coaches of the nation in New York about a month ago. Many Eastern schools are tobooing the practice already, while others are planning to curtail the plans for the spring grid season. Still other colleges are uncertain whether to ban the practice or not.

Eventually the habit of playing spring football may die out altogether. Of course the spring training helps to learn green material the difference between a football and a basket ball, but the time and expense is staggering. Then too the track season deserves more time and consideration than it has been getting in past years.

In Texas the track season is getting more popular with the clients each year. The decline of the practice of holding spring training will raise the favor of track sky high. Not long ago the Southwest conference was on the verge of banning track and baseball in favor of spring training and tennis. Now that spring football is decidedly on the down grade the track and baseball division of athletics will have a clear field.

A lively chase will be in progress when the Southwest conference turns its attention to the cinder path sport. All of the schools boast of promising track squads and the team that captures the conference championship will have to get in the harness. From the Agricultural & Mechanical school at College Station comes the news that the Aggies will place one of their best and Mechanical school, College Station, comes the news that the Although only one veteran returns to grace the squad, a host of great thinly clads will be on hand to wear the Maroon and White. Rice, Texas and T. C. U. will also have versatile track squads.

A real blow was delivered the hopes of the Vernon Lions for a basket ball championship. Otto Love, captain and main cog in the offense of the Lions, was ruled ineligible for further competition. He was over age. The rules set forth by the Interscholastic league certifies that a boy over 20 years of age at the beginning of the school year in September is ineligible. As a result of his loss by ineligibility, the Lions forfeited the games that they had won in the county tournament, leaving them tied for last place.

Love also played football last fall and was ineligible then, too, it is thought. Playing ineligible men is risky business. A team that uses forbidden men is subject to a three-year suspension rule. It is not likely that the Vernon school will be suspended from athletic competition, however. Just a small incident, but it ruined the hopes of the Vernon cage team.

We hate to see the Vernon team fall victim to circumstances, but it happens to nearly every school in the state some time or other. Wichita Falls fans will recall when Rowdy Curtain, football captain during the first part of the 1925 season, was ruled ineligible. His loss was a great blow to the Coyote team. Nobody is exempted from the rules set out by the athletic league, and the law must be observed. 'Sfoo bad.

WHITE HAVEN, Eng., Jan. 29. (AP)—Between 40 and 50 men and boys were reported missing tonight after an explosion in a coal mine here.

CHURCH TEAMS RESUME PLAY

Second Half Opens With Thrilling Games

Raising the lid on the second half of the church league basket ball race, the Highland Heights Christians, Floral Heights Presbyterians and First Southern Presbyterians came through with victories. The games were all interesting and hard fought, but only one close score was the result of the three games. The winners whipped Grant Street Methodists 20 to 19, East Side Presbyterians, 23 to 21; and Temple Juniors 27 to 7, respectively.

The second game of the evening between the two Presbyterian teams was the one that gave the customers the thrills. An East Side dribbler pulled the Roy Reigals trick and sank a two-pointer for the other side. Incidentally the goal was the one that meant the difference between victory and defeat, the Floral Heights team winning by two points. The score at the half was 11-all.

Probably the biggest scoring sensation of the night was Pat Henry, center for the Highland Heights Christians, who scored 14 points. Ollie Reeves, scintillating forward for the First Southern Presbyterians, checked in with a dozen points to rival Henry for the high score honors of the night. The First Southern Presbyterian team showed a world of power and made themselves the big favorite to capture the second half championship by walloping the Temple Juniors.

Is Golf Dangerous? State Heads Wonder

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (UP)—Whether golf is to be listed in Texas insurance laws as a dangerous pastime, avocation or occupation arose as a question to legislators, insurers and golf fans alike today.

W. A. Tarver, state insurance commission chairman, was in a local hospital, recovering slowly from a broken leg suffered when he fell after a hard swing at a golf ball.

What Is Gum-Dipping?

Gum-Dipping

is the Firestone trade name for that patented, basic process which makes Firestone Tires fundamentally different from all other tires. It is one of the reasons why Firestone, through many years, has easily been able to make good the statement: "Most miles per dollar." It is not something done to a tire after it is made. It is something very vital done before the tire is made.

To grasp the full significance of Gum-Dipping, it is necessary to know something about how a tire is made and what goes on within a tire on the road. The body of the tire bears the principal strains in service. To it is attached the tread which provides traction and takes the wear of the road.

The usual tire body is built up of layers or plies of cotton cords between which rubber has been forced. Rubber is incompressible. Hence the tire body practically does not expand or contract to meet road shocks. It flexes—that is, it changes form.

The strain of the flexing tends to pull the plies apart and also to pull the cords themselves apart. A tire flexes about seven hundred times in a mile—which gives some idea of the strains and the friction which a tire must endure.

The great enemy to tire life is internal friction. Years ago the fabric was square-woven—and the cotton cords sawed, one across another.

If cotton rubs against cotton, the tire soon heats up and collapses. That is why the square-woven fabric tires were so short-lived. Then came the tires with parallel cords that could not saw each other. The best square-woven fabric tire would go scarcely four thousand miles. A poor cord tire will give at least twice that mileage. Making the cords parallel was a great advance—but it was only part of the battle against internal friction.

It was realized that if the fibers of cotton in a cord could be insulated one from another, then a step-up in tire life could be had comparable to that made by shifting from square-woven fabric to parallel cords. That is what all tire makers have been striving for. That is what Firestone has achieved.

Every cord

used in Firestone Tires has been treated with a rubber solution which penetrates every cord and coats every fiber; and thus not only the cords, but also the very fibers within them are insulated.

Eight pounds of fine, pure rubber are, by the patented Gum-Dipping process, integrated into every one hundred pounds of cotton cords. This means three extra pounds of pure rubber added to an average set of tires—and added where it means most to the strength and the life of the tire. This extra rubber all goes into the cords of the tire—where you never see it.

Why

does Firestone put in this extra value? And what does it mean to you? It means just this. The performance—the extra value—has been shown for years on the road and in the laboratory. It has been proved that Gum-Dipping:

—increases the flexing life of a cotton cord by 58%.

—increases tire life by from 25% to over 40%, according to the severity of the service—the more severe the service, the higher the percentage.

Firestone

Gum-Dipped Tires are not just tires. They are thirty years of organized experience. They are sold only through Firestone Service Dealers and Service Stores and only as Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—bearing the Firestone name and bearing the Firestone emblem that appears on this page.

Wherever you live—

city or country—a fresh and complete stock of Firestone products is near-by.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet today and prices fluctuated within a range of 9@10 points.

An early decline under some southern selling and liquidation was followed by rallies which carried May up from 10.51 to 10.60 or about 7 points net higher on trade buying and covering. The bulge seemed to meet somewhat increased offerings, however, and was not fully maintained with May closing at 10.56. The general market closed barely steady, net unchanged to 4 points higher.

March closed at 10.29 or net unchanged while July at 10.80 was 2 points net higher. Later deliveries were relatively steady and there was further transferring from March to the new crop months.

One or two reports of increased activity in some of the southern mills were published here during the morning, which with the firmer ruling of rain and the afternoon firmness in stocks, may have led to some buying in cotton. The demand failed to broaden on the bulges, however, while liquidation of the near months continued and the failure of the market to develop increased activity probably caused some reselling by earlier buyers at the close.

Liverpool cables reported continental buying with covering and trading calling in that market. Exports today 9,631 making 4,459,826 so far this season. Port receipts 14,932. U. S. port stocks 4,084,249.

Futures closed barely steady, unchanged to 4 points higher spot quiet; middling 10.42.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 29. (AP)—Trading in the cotton market here today was a trifle more active than earlier in the week and prices, though declining 4 to 5 points at the start, soon turned firmer and gradually improved. The opening decline, despite better cables than due, was said to have resulted from some selling on reports of beneficial rains in South Texas. The later improvement was due to firmer stocks, favorable advices from the cotton goods trade and private reports of intentions to greatly reduce acreage.

By early afternoon prices had advanced 8 to 9 points from the low levels 4 to 5 points above the previous close. There was more activity in the late trading on ring shorts covering and active months made new highs for the day, 10 to 11 points above the lows but lost slightly at the end on realizing, closing steady with the general market showing net gains for the day of 2 to 5 points.

Liverpool came in 2 to 3 penny points better than due and private cables reported that the continent bought and the trade called.

Manchester cabled that there was a fair home demand for cloths but export trade was quieter. Despite the favorable cables the market here opened 1 to 3 points down and continued to ease off in early trading and selling by ring traders until March dropped to 10.25, May to 10.50 and October to 10.97 down 4 to 5 points from the previous close.

Later the market rallied owing to firmness in the stock market and good textile advices and ring shorts covered. By early afternoon March had advanced to 10.34, May to 10.58 and October to 11.06 up 8 to 9 points from the lows and 4 to 5 points above the previous close.

The market became more active in the late trading and shorts covered, causing active months to make new highs for the day at 10.36 for March, 10.61 for May and 11.07 for October or 10 to 11 points above the early lows. Prices lost about 4 points at the end on realizing, March closing at 10.32, May at 10.57 and October at 11.06 or 2 to 5 points net higher on those active months.

Ports receipts 14,956, for week 87,948. For season 7,476,219. Last season 7,461,-246. Exports 4,631. For week, 51,055. For season, 4,326,809. Last season 4,781,451. Port stocks 4,224,268. Last year 2,520,025. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 101,394, last year 125,995. Spot sales at southern markets 12,184, last year 13,632.

Futures closed steady, at net advances of 2 to 5 points:

Early Reaction Gives Away To Improvement in Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (US)—Failure of early reactionary tendencies to make important headway, together with the appearance of better support in American Can and United States Steel, encouraged renewed operations on the constructive side of the stock market today.

In addition, considerable short covering also took place due to the failure of early selling to induce liquidation. Covering also was influenced by reports that banking interests were supporting the bond market.

Weakness in government obligations has been one of the most disturbing factors during the past few days with the result that the appearance of better support for these securities at the law levels tended to allay nervousness. At the same time, however, it was apparent that only half-hearted rallies took place in the bond market.

Although the financial community was still apprehensive over the soldier's bonus discussions in the senate, it was evident that constructive forces were inclined to take a more hopeful view of the general situation. In constructive quarters, the opinion was expressed that speculative interests attached too much importance to the discussions. Nevertheless, the subject was the chief topic of conversation in banking circles where little effort was made to hide the effects which the passage of the bill would have upon business. This attitude was clearly reflected by the action of the bond market during the greater portion of the session.

Montgomery Ward was a strong feature in face of the unfavorable annual report. Interests frequently associated with Montgomery Ward, however, cited the comeback in earnings during the final quarter which proved more than sufficient to wipe out the three deficits reported quarterly during the first nine months of 1930.

Other merchandising stocks also were strong, Sears Roebuck being influenced by estimates that 1930 earnings would be slightly better than anticipated.

Activity, however, was principally centered in the specialties. Worthington pump advanced sharply on shorts who are experiencing some difficulty in extricating themselves from their position. The current move in Worthington is sponsored by a well known floor operator who is concentrating his activities against shorts.

Auburn continued the stellar performer, movements in this stock virtually eclipsing all other activities. Sponsors of the stock apparently show little disposition to "cash in" as yet, particularly in view of the optimistic reports issued regarding the company's operations.

The short interest in the stock is estimated at approximately 30,-000 shares, but, despite the close manner in which Auburn stock is held, the stock is freely offered in the loan crowd.

In this respect, it is significant to note that the stock is loaning flat, whereas several issues in which the floating supply is substantially larger are loaning at a small premium. United States Steel again loaned at a premium of 1-128th of a point, but this was due more to the lack of offerings in the loan market than to any unusual barrowing demand.

Bethlehem Steel report published after the close was in line with general expectations. The optimistic remarks made by Eugene G. Grace, president, however, may offset the unfavorable earnings to some extent.

Strength in American Telephone & Telegraph was due principally to short covering, which also accounted for the recovery in Eastman Kodak.

Allied Chemical & Dye encountered better support at the lower levels, coincident with reports that a drive might be inaugurated against shorts. Coca Cola also was in better demand due to expectations that directors will shortly authorize a four for one split up and increase the dividend to the equivalent of $8 a share on the present stock.

Commodity markets were generally firmer. Wheat and corn displayed a strong tone, the latter advancing about 2 cents a bushel. Cotton closed practically unchanged.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 29. (AP)—Fair demand continued for the light offerings on the cash grain market today with dealers disposing of all commodities easily. Prices showed little change from Wednesday's closing although fluctuations in contract markets were sharp. No. 1 hard wheat of any protein was probably worth 77½@80c delivered Texas common points. Estimated receipts: Wheat, 6 cars; corn 2; oats 4, and sorghums, 2.

Quotations on coarse grains ranged about as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 72½@73c; No. 2 white 75@75½c; No. 2 yellow 75@75½c.

Oats—No. 2 red 43@43½c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.24@1.26; No. 2 kaffir $1.22@1.24.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 29. (US)—Throughout the world wheat trade there are indications of a better movement of old wheat into consumptive channels. Winnipeg has been stronger on a steadily improving foreign demand for Manitobas. It is reported the proposed deal to sell direct to Italy is likely to be consummated. Broomhall reports the sale of five cargoes of wheat to China from Australia and the slowness of the Argentine movement in getting underway is worrying Liverpool importers.

In addition to the lack of moisture over the domestic winter wheat belt, which is accorded more attention by the trade each time the market has a firmer tone, there is considerable interest in the almost sensational deficiency which persists in canada.

Cash corn remained in about the same condition it has been for the past few weeks. The basis was firm for choice grades and a trifle easier for the other varieties. Local shipping sales were somewhat larger at 98,000 bushels. Bookings were only 5,000 bushels and most of the arrivals of 129 cars were from other terminals. Offerings from other markets were not as large today.

Wheat acreage in India was estimated officially at 30,364,000 compared with 30,468,000 a year ago.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 29. (AP)—Wheat advanced more than 2½ cents a bushel today to the highest level in two weeks and held most of the gain. Multiplication of drouth complaints from domestic winter and spring wheat belts, including Canada, was largely responsible, together with big export purchases from Canada. The advance was in the face of transient breaks by corn and rye to new low price records.

Wheat closed irregular, varying from a shade lower to 2 cents up, corn at ⅝@1⅝c gain, oats ⅛@¼c advanced and provisions 5@35 cents down.

Latest estimates put export purchases of North American wheat at 2,750,000 bushels in the last 48 hours, mostly Canadian spring and durum. Sharp attention was given to reports of increasing dearth of moisture, much of the United States winter wheat belt having been practically without adequate rain for three months. Winnipeg advices said southern Saskatchewan and southern Alberta have had no snow all winter, and that dust blowing in many places covered the railway fences.

All deliveries of corn momentarily outdid yesterday's record low prices, unequalled since 1922, but today's declines were only fractional, and increased buying led afterward to advances. Corn arrivals here were reported going into immediate use instead of into store. Oats duplicated the action of wheat and corn.

Provisions sympathized with hog market declines.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May, bids, 81⅝c; July 66¼c, 68⅛@⅜c.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 29. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Although eastern dressed beef markets reported a very slow demand with prices weak to lower, packers displayed moderate interest in the light to moderate supplies of killing cattle. Matured steers at Chicago and Kansas City cleared at $11.00. Short fed steers sold around $7.25@9.75. Bulk of stocker and feeder steers are selling from $6.50@8.50 with choice light yearling stockers upward to $9.25. Receipts were estimated at 19,800.

Hogs found a slow outlet at most markets at prices unevenly steady to 25c lower. Packers at some points on the close enforced a 15@25c decline on medium weight and heavy butchers. The top of $8.10 was paid at Chicago and St. Louis. Offerings were around 117,000.

The sheep supply approximated 50,700. Killing classes were steady to 15c higher. Choice lambs in Chicago realized $9.50@9.60; while at Omaha the top to shippers was $9.10.

DEEP OIL TEST TO MAKE CORE

Oil Bearing Formation To Be Further Tested

According to information obtained from its offices in Wichita Falls, the Deep Oil Development company No. 1 Munger deep test one mile north of Kemp City in Wichita county, after swabbing and cleaning out the hole the past few days, is now coring further into the sandy lime. This formation, which has been drilled 22 feet from 3719 feet, showed the earmarks of a 100 barreller, accompanied by plenty of gas.

Shooting of the well will be held up pending the result of the present coring operations and hopes of picking up a real deep sand below the saturated lime is thought by the officials as within the realm of possibilities.

Abilene Woman Dies on Visit To Son in Wichita

Funeral services for Mrs. P. L. Smith, 64, of Abilene, will be held Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the First Baptist church, with Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor, officiating. Burial is to follow in Riverside.

Mrs. Smith died Wednesday night at the home of her son, W. T. Smith, 1414 North Eighth street, a few hours after her arrival here from Abilene. She became ill on the train journey here.

Surviving Mrs. Smith are three daughters, Mrs. S. L. Moore of Soacheloa, Calif., Mrs. Phillip Repogle of Milan, Tenn., and Miss Dorothy Smith of Abilene; three sons, W. T. Smith and Douglas Smith of Wichita Falls, and B. N. Smith of Las Vegas, Nev.; and a brother, H. F. Davidson of Denton, Texas.

Arrangements are in charge of the Hines mortuary.

Anti-Lobbying Bill Proposed in House

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (AP)—Use of corrupt lobbying methods would be a felony under a bill introduced today by Representative Johnson of Carrizo Springs. The bill would require all lobbyists to register and file a statement of expenses paid and debts incurred during the session.

A bill to assess the death penalty on persons convicted of kidnaping was introduced by Representative Petsch of Fredericksburg. The minimum penalty would be 10 years.

DEATHS

MRS. J. A. JERDEN

Funeral services for Mrs. J. A. Jerden, 70, of Jayton, Texas, were held Thursday from the chapel of the Hines mortuary, with the Rev. W. D. Bratton, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, in charge. Burial was in Riverside. Mrs. Jerden died at a hospital here Tuesday. The husband survives.

MRS. V. L. BASS

Funeral services for Mrs. V. L. Bass, 20, were held Thursday afternoon at the graveside at Lakeview cemetery. Mrs. Bass died at a hospital here Wednesday. The Rev. S. F. Martin, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church, officiated at the services. Arrangements were in charge of Albert's Funeral home.

Surviving are the husband; the father, N. T. Thompson of Millerton, Okla.; five brothers, Jerry, Frank, Tenson, Will and Lloyd Thompson and two sisters, Misses June and Ollie Thompson, all of Millerton.

L. H. HORN

Funeral services for L. H. Horn, 74, early resident of Cotton county, Okla., were held from the First Baptist church Thursday afternoon with the Rev. Miles B. Hayes, pastor, officiating. Burial was in the Burkburnett cemetery.

Mr. Horn died Tuesday night at his farm home near Burkburnett after an illness of a month. He was one of the first settlers of the Oklahoma territory and has been a resident of this section for 38 years.

Surviving are six sons, three daughters, a brother, a sister and 10 grandchildren.

Little Theater to Give Final Performance of Play Tonight

Promising to set an attendance record for plays thus far presented in the playhouse of the Wichita Falls Little Theater, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" by Jerome K. Jerome will be given its finale Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Playing to four different audiences on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday which filled the house each night, the fanciful Jerome piece has attained an increasing hold upon its hearers and upon members of the cast by which it is being presented.

While consummate blending of varied characterizations into an effective critique on human association is the outstanding element in the production, two individual roles are allowed to contribute conspicious lines. The mysterious stranger, portrayed by F. C. McClung, delivers throughout the play and epilog beautifully worded philosophy which rank the piece as a telling argument for the supremacy of idealism. In the broken speech of Jape Samuels, effectively handled by Ridley Maples, racial traits and timely wit are combined to furnish a refreshing line of comedy throughout the entire performance.

Friday night's performance will begin at 8 o'clock.

Casual Elegance Marks Palm Beach 1931 Colony of Well Dressed Women

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29. (AP)—Elegance—casual rather than studied—marks the best dressed women at this famous resort. Garments are fashioned as a frame for individuality.

Evening wraps of ermine or sable are thrown nonchalantly back, to display rare jewels. And the jewels themselves are oddities which express the social freedom of 1931.

And for beach wear, there is riotuous color, some of the costumes being inspired by the styles formerly worn by farmers, firemen and fishermen.

For formal wear Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, social arbiter, sponsors black velvet, enlivened with a pearl. She wears a red velvet evening wrap, embroidered in circular motifs of gold thread and collared with Russian sable.

The Countess Valentine Tukine, of Paris, wears over her evening frock a wrap of cyclamen velvet, banded in ermine, with delicate gold embroidery.

Gowns follow the vogue for the vague and misty. Skirts are long and full, and fall in graceful ripples. Laces, chiffons, and satins are favored materials.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney, New York, was seen at the polo games, wearing a white jersey, sleeveless, one piece frock with a V-neck.

Miss Pauline Munn, New York and Paris, wears one of the new sheer white wool frocks, which are made with sleeves. There is a cap to match.

Mrs. Milton W. Holden, Elkins, Pa., the former Fifi Widener, was seen at a luncheon wearing a three-piece sport costume. The jacket, overblouse and pleated skirt were flat white crepe. Her suede belt, sandals and bag were pastel green, while the same shade of green banded her Panama hat.

The ostrich plume is coming back for some occasions. It appears in many variations. A favored style for matrons is a baku hat with curling ostrich feather at the back.

With the exception of a multicolored berets, few brimless hats are seen.

School and College Notes

By MARGARET FLEMING

Members of the Junior college Girls Hiking club were hostesses to the entire student body Thursday morning in the initial "pay program" of the second semester, "Let the Wedding Bells Ring." The cast of 11 was made up entirely of girls, and was directed by Miss Katherine Ashford and Miss Mary Clare Burton. Proceeds from the performance will go to the high school and Junior college annuals, the Coyote and the Wai-Kun.

Members of the cast under the direction of Miss Ashford, included Misses Maxine and Nell Duffy, Velma Jane Meyners, Katherine Stewart, Mildred Anderson, Earline Longan, La Verne Harr, Thelma Norvell, Lucille Whitman, Marjorie Vincent, Rebecca Park, Shirley Smyth, Pearle Smyth, Kay Carson, and Dorothy Bennett.

Miss Dorothy Bennett was introduced to the group as the "Ideal Girl" of the 1931 Hiking club. Miss Bennett's picture will appear on the club page in the Junior college yearbook, the Wai-Kun.

Girl Reserves

High school Girl Reserves will hold their initial meeting of the second semester Friday morning in the main auditorium, according to information given Thursday by Margaret Bone, president. A special invitation has been given to the new students, and the meeting will be open to all high school and Junior college girls.

Outdoor Club

Junior College Boys' Outdoor club will meet in room 121 Friday morning during the 30-minute period, according to A. F. Edwards, faculty sponsor, for a short business session.

Hirsch to Represent Texas at Academy Meet

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (AP)—Gov. Ross S. Sterling today named Maurice Hirsch, Houston attorney, as the Texas delegate to the 35th annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia April 17-18.

DROUTH STUDY BRINGS RELIEF

Stonewall Organizes To Feed Destitute

Special to The Record News.

OLD GLORY, Texas, Jan. 29.—The survey which was made by representatives of the Stonewall county chapter of the Red Cross unfolded a situation of distress and suffering among drouth stricken families in every section of this county. Barren cupboards, empty bread boxes and barefoot, scantily clad children found in homes of destitute farmers awakened relief workers to the acuteness of the situation and to the need of emergency relief.

An appeal by County Chairman C. D. Stamey to the national Red Cross headquarters for additional funds to supplement the $1,000 already provided for human relief, brought a new grant of $2,000. Sectional representatives and county officers have been working night and day to provide food and clothing to farmers, their wives, sons and daughters.

Last week, farmers at Swenson, Old Glory, Aspermont and Peacock were given orders for a month's supply of groceries for their families. Monday, at Old Glory, a tightland section where crops have failed for three consecutive years, a long line of farmers stood during the greater part of the day awaiting Red Cross aid. They were fed at the noon hour with barbecue, onions, pickles, bread and coffee donated by a local citizen. About 25 ex-soldiers headed the bread line. Rev. J. H. Sharp and Rev. C. A. Baskin of Aspermont, disbursing agents, addressed the gathering.

Many to Attend K. P. Ceremony

Delegations from all Knights of Pythias lodges in the Wichita area are expected to attend the Rathbone Bible class which will be conducted here Friday evening in the Eagle's hall by members of the local group.

The Bible was presented to Justus H. Rathbone, founder of the order of the Knights of Pythias, by his mother and was used in the first meeting of the lodge. It has been the property of the order since. After the death of Mr. Rathbone, the Bible was presented to the supreme lodge after which it was placed in a silver case and is only carried about for these classes by a member of the supreme lodge.

An unusually large class of candidates, provided by the various lodges of the area, is expected to take the obligations on the Bible. Harry M. Love, supreme keeper of the records and the seal, will confer the obligations on the candidates. Several other members of the grand lodge will be present, it was said.

Trustees and Principals Postpone Meeting

Postponement of the meeting of the Wichita County Principals and Trustees association, scheduled to have been held at Iowa Park on Friday, Jan. 30, has been announced by Chairman J. E. Rogers of Clara, according to J. A. Hood, county superintendent of schools.

Conflict in date with so many other community enterprises, including the Will Rogers, Red Cross and other current relief activities, was given as the reason for postponing the meeting. It will be held in March, according to the information given.

Court Hears Testimony In Suit for $10,000

Trial of the suit of J. C. Scott against W. C. Weidmer et al. for $10,000 damages occupied all of Thursday before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court, and promised to require all of Friday for completion.

Injuries alleged to have been suffered by the plaintiff as a result of being struck on the stomach by the handle of an automobile jack while engaged in his work as a mechanic form the basis of the action. Numerous witnesses were examined Thursday in the case, and it was said that several more are to be put on the stand Friday.

WANT AD HEADQUARTERS

The Lovely Liar

known it we certainly would have been worried.

"Story!" Poppy held her breath. Poppy Prior!

"Yes. Story about a girl named Poppy Prior who escaped from an institution. We read it because of the name. You must have seen it in the New York papers."

"No, I didn't." The color was slowly ebbing from her face, leaving her cheeks chalk white.

"Funny, you didn't see it. Well, this girl was put into some home for girls or other for stealing, and she escaped after being there for 10 days. Got away in an ice wagon. The name was what interested us. I suppose there's a guy named Roy Banners in some penitentiary, too, and he'll escape some day, and it'll be in the papers."

"Quite a coincidence." Poppy's mouth drew up in a weak smile.

"Yes. Of course we knew it wasn't you. You're married, and you aren't Poppy Prior any more, and besides you wouldn't be stealing somebody's jewelry even if you were starving. Say, tell me, you're happy, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"Grace and your mother'll want to know just what you said. Still in love with your husband?"

"Yes—" Poppy had to say it. She didn't want to but after what Roy had told her about the story in the papers at home, she had to lie, again.

"I wish I had more time, now and I'd go home with you and meet your husband. Awful running into you like this, when I have such a few minutes to make the train. Have to be back to the office early in the morning, or I'd go back with you. Besides my boss is on the train, and I have to go back with him. What's your address?"

"I—I—we're moving, Roy, so it's no use giving you the old one. I'll write as soon as we're moved. I will, really." She wanted to get away now. Wanted to get away from Roy's questions, his chatter about home. His train would be leaving in a minute.

"Be sure and do that. And give my best to your husband!" He shook her hand again and rushed away.

Poppy instead of going up to the ticket window, turned the other way. It was settled, once and for all. She couldn't go back to Ashland.

Construction Work Rushed in Memphis

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 29.—The laying of brick was begun Wednesday morning on the $10,000 drive-in service station that is being built on the corner of Tenth and Main by the Continental Oil company, and the work is being rushed as fast as possible during the mild weather now prevailing.

Workmen were also put to work Wednesday morning on repairing the building of R. E. Martin on West Main street, which was badly damaged about two weeks ago by fire. The walls will have to be replastered and a new roof put on.

The building on the west side of the square now occupied by Wood Brothers, general merchandise, and owned by J. J. Walker of Canyon, is being remodeled throughout, and with an additional 30 feet being added on to the rear of the building. A new front will be put in the building, new floors, and the inside all repainted.

The A. Womack grocery on the east side of the square is also remodeling their store throughout.

THOMAS MAPS INDIAN PLAN

Senator Outlines Rules For Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. (UP)—Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, has submitted to the senate 10 rules of conduct to guide activities of the Indian bureau.

Thomas, member of the subcommitee on Indian affairs, has been critical of the Indian administration.

The duties outlined follow:

1. Complete census of Indians.
2. Compulsory attendance of every Indian child at school.
3. Adequate vocational training to permit every Indian to earn a livelihood.
4. Adequate employment agencies for Indians.
5. Cooperation between bureau and Indian officials.
6. Accessible hospital facilities.
7. Employment in Indian work only "competent, efficient and sympathetic persons."
8. Allowance of sufficient budgets.
9. Provision of adequate grade and high school facilities.
10. Research of social, administrative and educational conditions.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Jan. 29.—Members of a visiting delegation from the Wichita Falls club entertained Henrietta Kiwanians in an intercity meeting at noon Thursday. Musical numbers were conducted by William E. Young. Ira L. Cain, the principal speaker, addressed the joint meeting on "The Little Things of Life."

Child Improving After Eye Injury

Special to The Record News.

BYERS, Texas, Jan. 29.—Condition of James Graves, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Graves who punctured his eye while playing with a pocketknife Tuesday, was reported improving by hospital attendants in Wichita Falls Thursday.

The injury to the eye necessitated an operation and physicians said the vision would be impaired. A similar accident several years ago caused impairment of the sight of the child's other eye.

ROTARY HEARS SCHOOL TALK

Rosamond Tells Need Of Vocational Courses

Cooperation between the industrial and business life of the city and the school system, as planned in the newly-created department of vocational education, was discussed before members of the Rotary club Thursday noon by William S. Rosamond, director of the department.

Mr. Rosamond explained that the entire present set-up of public school education is designed to prepare the pupil for college, despite the fact that only 50 out of every 1,000 first-grade registrants finally matriculate for college work.

Plans for working out a part-time cooperative relationship between the schools and the downtown world of business and industry were outlined by the speaker. A guidance, training and placement bureau, and a downtown school, are included in the project, he said.

On the eve of his departure for Marlin, where he will become a member of a hospital staff there, Dr. George H. Hampshire made a short leave-taking address to members of the Rotary club.

Walter D. Cline spoke briefly on behalf of the Will Rogers charity lecture at the Memorial auditorium Friday afternoon, urging Rotarians to attend.

A singsong was conducted by R. E. Shepherd, assisted by Mrs. Shepherd at the piano. Edwin A. Bebb, first vice president of the club, presided. Thursday's program was arranged by Walter K. Campbell.

McCrory Store to Close In Tribute to Official

The local branch of the J. G. McCrory 5 and 10 cent store will be closed Friday from 10 to 10:30 a. m. out of respect to the memory of Perley A. Prior, national vice president who died at Nutley, N. J., Thursday.

Mr. Prior had been active in the chain store business for years and it was largely through his untiring efforts that the McCrory stores gained a national reputation.

Following this half-hour memorial respite the local store will be open again to the general public.

LITTLE THEATER: F. C. McClung in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

STRAND: Clara Bow in "No Limit." Short subjects and sound news.

MAJESTIC: "The Silver Horde" with Evelyn Brent and Louis Wolheim. Cartoon, comedy and sound news.

STATE: Eddie Quillan in "Big Money." Oswald the Rabbit cartoon; Tom Tyler serial and comedy.

GEM: "Senor Americano" with Ken Maynard and Kathryn Crawford. Talkartoon comedy and chapter 8 of "Spell of the Circus."

FOLLY: "Pitfalls of Passion."

After about a year during which there have been few of the once-overproduced gangster pictures, "Big Money" is worth sitting through. It is reminiscent of that period when "scram" and "on the spot" and "take 'em for a ride" was the greater part of every talkie.

Eddie Quillan is well cast as a lovable youngster who is easily influenced, but the director is wise enough not to give him any particularly manly scenes, for he is far too youthful in appearance.

Oswald the Rabbit is more enjoyable. His antics in "Alaska" are almost as good as a silly symphony. And those who started with Tom Tyler in "The Phantom" are still rushing to the State every Thursday to see another thrilling rescue.

Charming little Maureen O'Sullivan and Charles Farrell are cast in Alice Duer Miller's story, "The Princess and the Plumber," starting at the Majestic Saturday. If for no other reason, the story and Miss O'Sullivan should put it over.

CHECK WRITERS FINED

Two Vernon men were fined $1 and costs in justice court here Thursday on charges of swindling by check, besides redeeming the paper in question, according to Constable Fred Smith, who made the arrests. Another man was arrested on a similar charge, and was released on bond of $100. A woman was re-arrested on a charge of theft after having forfeited a first bond.

Fire Wrecks Home Of V. E. Stampfli

The home of V. E. Stampfli, 1800 Kemp boulevard, was wrecked by fire early Thursday morning, according to the report of fire officials. The place had been undergoing repairs and was unoccupied at the time, the family residing with relatives until repairs were completed. Origin of the blaze was undetermined. J. L. McClure, fire chief, estimated the loss to the structure at $800.

DE MOLAYS TO HEAR CLINE

Hope Chapter to Hold Annual Banquet

Walter D. Cline will be the principal speaker at the annual De-molay banquet which will be held at the Wichita club Friday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock, it was announced by Phillip Kouri, master councilor.

Mr. Kouri will act as toastmaster and will present other numbers on the program which will include talks by Al Ellis, recorder for Maskat Temple, Lillard Anderson, Daryl Jackson, Ed Napier Jr., and Robert Crocker. The dinner will be followed by a dance from 9 to 12 o'clock.

The group will install newly elected officers at a meeting Wednesday evening.

Grand Jury Resumes Work on Cases Here

Investigations by the January grand jury will be resumed Friday morning at 9 o'clock, according to Assistant District Attorney George Anderson, that body having adjourned shortly before 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Purposed to complete during the current week work postponed from the first session early in the month, the jury reconvened Thursday morning. Investigations of more than 30 cases were scheduled to be made in its present sitting. C. E. Basham is foreman.

Judge Prepares Charge In $25,000 Damage Suit

Taking of testimony was completed Thursday before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court in the suit of Mrs. Pearl Tedford for $25,000 damages against the Wichita Falls Traction company et al.

The court's charge will be given to the jury at 9 a. m. Friday, it was said, with the expectation that the jury will get the case by noon.

FACES CHARGE

Arrested in Dallas Thursday on a charge of having removed mortgaged property from the county, C. F. Cannon will be returned to Wichita Falls Friday by Deputy Sheriff Ben Smith, according to Sheriff Perry Browning. Deputy Smith left for Dallas Thursday evening.
