Trustees Study Lighting Needs, Staff Vacancies

The need for six teachers to round out the 1963-64 faculty and for improved lighting conditions in high school and junior high classrooms topped discussion Tuesday night at a regular meeting of the Olton school board.

Supt. Johnny Clark brought up both topics as the board made ready for the start of the new school year, now only seven weeks away.

Clark said the school now has these teachers vacancies: four elementary faculty members (first, second and fifth grades and the special education class), a junior high coach and a band director's post.

Later, he took the trustees on a tour of classrooms in the older part of the high school building and those at the junior high, pointing out the need for better lighting conditions.

The board looked over various models of fixtures and checked costs. Clark estimated it would take $10,00 to $12,000 to bring lighting up-to-date in both buildings.

Trustees called for a more detailed study of the problem, and asked Clark to bring up the topic at a later meeting, after thorough investigation of needs and costs.

In other activity at the meeting, the board:

1. Employed two new teachers and a bus foreman, and accepted resignations of two faculty members.

2. Approved reports on taxes, average daily attendance and purchase of new buses and disposal of the old ones.

3. Accepted the delinquent tax roll total for 1962 and set the date for a public hearing on the budget for next year. The board also will set the tax rate at that time.

Early in the meeting, the board heard a request from American Grains Corp., buyer of the Billie Sol Estes elevator here, for a discount on delinquent taxes from 1961 and GETTING OVER a vacation is supposed to be tough. You know....it's hard to go back to work.

But the more I think about it, the more I believe that getting ready for a vacation is even rougher.

Here at the Enterprise, we've been going at it pretty steady this week. We're getting out the July 18 paper early, so that we can all take a week at the same time.

Then it'll take us a week to get over the week we were getting over the "getting ready" week.

If that makes sense to you, it's time you were taking a vacation, too.

THE STATE legislature is going to make us patriotic, in spite of ourselves.

H. B. 86 provides, in part, that funds going to local school districts "shall be contingent upon their regular and prominent display of the Texas flag on or about the school premises."

In other words, if local schools don't fly the Texas flag in a prominent place, they won't get any state money.

The bill provides that the Texas Education Agency field audit staff will check up on the schools to see they are meeting the requirement.

It used to be that Texans were proud enough of our state to go around bragging on it.

Our pride seems to have worn a little thin, though, because we aren't talking Texas as much as we used to.

Could be that the admission of Alaska as a larger state just took some of the starch out of us.

In Olton, our school flag-flying is in good shape. We have been flying our national, state and school flags right along.

I don't know why anyone would kick about the state legislature suddenly making Texas flag-flying mandatory in the schools.

It's just sad that such a requirement became necessary.

HEALTH authorities are warning people not to look at an eclipse of the sun which will be visible all over the United States on Saturday, July 20.

Eye specialists say that with each recurring eclipse of the sun they can anticipate cases of serious eye damage, even blindness.

Dark sun glasses are no protection, they say. Neither are heavy welders' glasses, or a lot of other methods. Telescopes and binoculars are particularly dangerous.

Most people, the specialists say, don't realize that less than one second's exposure to the direct rays of the sun can, under some circumstances, cause permanent blindness.

There isn't even necessarily any immediate sensation of pain before the damage is done.

They say the damage works like a fire which has been set to a piece of paper by focusing the rays of the sun through a magnifying glass.

It is this same burning power that damages the retina of the eye in eclipse blindness, with the sun's rays brought into focus on the interior of the eye by the optical system within the eye.

They recommend that if you're going to watch the eclipse, that you view it on television, or in pictures in magazines or newspapers.

I'd like to add another word of caution: It might not be safe on television or magazine, either---so you'd better stick to newspapers.....

Donkey Baseball Game Planned

A donkey baseball game between the Olton Lions Club and an opponent to be named later has been scheduled for Thursday, July 18.

The game will be at 8 p.m. on July 18. Admission will be $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students.

CARL NAFZGER on bull #6 in the Houston Rodeo, during the Feb.-March classic. Nafzger has been riding for six years. He began when a junior in high school. Son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Nafzger, Carl has been a professional bull rider for almost four years. The rodeo hand is ranked fifth in the nation as a bull rider.

Olton Cowboy Fifth In National Riding

The professional bull rider, rated fifth nationally, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nafzger.

Nafzger was in Olton this week to see how his father was getting along after a wreck last week.

The rodeo hand took time out from a riding schedule that would make "Stoney Burke" green around the gills.

The young Olton man has been riding six years since graduating from high school here. He turned professional four years ago.

Since then, the almost exclusive bull rider, has climbed to national rankings in the rodeo circuit.

"Actually," says Nafzger, "I'll ride anything that bucks."

In four years of professional riding, Nafzger has mounted more than 300 of the meanest bulls stock producers can buy. He's been in more than 150 Cowboy Association rodeos.

"Stock producers love hooking bulls and ones that will fight," said Nafzger. "It's rare though to find one that fights and hooks both." The cowboy said he likes a bucking bull that would score well.

Nafzger got interested in riding when he was in high school.

"Once I rode some Hereford and Angus bulls at the farm and loved it," said the young cowboy.

Nafzger confesses that he once swore he wouldn't ride after seeing a friend get bucked under a bull.

"I soon got over that though,"

Cucumber Harvest Beginning To Roll

First Load Delivered By Smith

Cucumber harvest built up a head of steam in Olton this week as thousands of bushels went through grading apparatus set up by Dalton Best Maid Products.

Manager of the Dalton concern Duane Adcock received his first load July 5. It was hauled in by Leo Smith for his son, Stephen.

Smith said, "I just hauled them in, the growing credit actually belongs to Stephen." The boy is 16.

A flat-bed trailer loaded with 13,880 pounds of cukes was the first vehicle to cross the scales.

Clovis Poteet, manager of Brown-Miller pickle Co., said, "farmers who have a contract with us will be a little late." He said that there were 32 farmers with 750 acres of cucumbers contracted thus far for the company.

Heavy rain and hail destruction to cotton crops was reported responsible for the extra-large cuke acreage. Some farmers are still planting the money-making vegetable.

Adcock said the cukes began to produce from 45 to 50 days after planting, having a six to eight weeks producing period. Several farmers have found the growing season tempting.

The Dalton manager said that everyone under contract is getting rid of the cucumbers with very little effort. The company has 435 acres under contract. Both pickle concerns have contracted around 1,200 acres, compared with the 1,000 acres planted last year.

The harvest, which closed last year in September is expected to run into October or November.

Adcock said, "there should be plenty of braceros if things run right." He added, they will also be getting more money for picking.

Poteet said, "we can expect the town to become more crowded with laborers, but they are bringing around a quarter-million dollars to the community."

Adcock added, "some of the patches may make 30,000 pounds an acre and gross around $900.

One of the largest cuke producers in the area is J. W. (Spec) Cole. He and his cucumber combine will harvest 85 acres this year.

Council Runs Through Agenda At Quick Pace

Fast-moving city councilmen Tuesday night worked with vigor and general accord in taking care of city business.

The less than two-hour meeting resulted in councilmen taking these steps:

1. Paying city bills.

2. Hearing a request on future taxes for the Olton elevator of American Grains.

3. Setting up stop signs at two Olton street intersections.

4. Appointing a replacement member of the Housing Committee.

5. Voting permission for litter can license.

6. Raising the salaries of the assistant city secretary and city trash collectors.

7. Approving an assessment ordinance for Main Street curb and gutter work.

8. Passing a resolution setting the water bill at the potato shed at a flat rate of $100 a month.

9. Requesting that the Texas Department of Public Safety, Lubbock, be written a letter to get a patrolman officially stationed in Olton.

On the patrolman matter, Bill Kemp made the motion to have a patrolman stationed here permanently.

"Everytime we need a highway patrolman," he said, "we have to call Plainview or Littlefield." He continued, "besides, it will take a lot of pressure off the local law enforcement officers."

Councilmen voted to write the Lubbock department to determine the possibilities of getting such an officer.

On the water matter at the potato shed, Mayor W. E. (Bill) Thomas said, "I sort of took it on my own to set the rate at a flat $100 a month. What do you think"?

Councilmen were all in agreement.

Councilmen voted the assessment ordinance to give the city a lien on right-of-way for curb and gutter work on Main Street.

"It's just good business," said Dr. Basil Johns, "we may need the protection if property owners refuse right-of-way."

City Attorney Andy Stroebel was to prepare the document.

Getting a raise in salary were Billie Hall, assistant city secretary and Lupe Rodriquez, garbage truck driver and his help.

Mrs. Hall's salary was raised from $230 a month to $250. Rodriquez will now draw $1.25 an hour and his help will be paid $1.15 an hour.

Litter can license, which have expired on the advertising trash receptacles in Olton, was renewed.

The receptacles are owned by Litter Maid of America Company. Permits on the disposals were renewed for one year.

Eldon Franks was appointed by the council to replace resigned Dwayne Dodson on the Housing Committee in other action. Franks will fill the remainder of the unexpired, two-year term.

Stop signs will be installed at Fifth Street and Ave. D., with traffic being stopped on Fifth Street, the council voted. A stop sign will also take the place of the blinking stop light at the intersection of Ave. G and Ninth Street.

Traffic will be stopped on Ave G. A motion was made to put up a seven-foot tall stop sign with a steel pipe body, set in concrete.

The councilmen also heard J. Gilliam, comptroller for American Grain, tell that the Olton elevator tax assessments were too high.

Gilliam said, "Any relief that you can grant to us on re-examining and evaluating taxes will be appreciated."

He said the formerly Billie Sol Estes-owned elevator was being taxed out of proportion to its actual worth.

Gilliam was referred to the board of equalization for further discussion of his request.

Hart School Bonds Sold

Hart school trustees Monday night voted to sell $360,000 in school building bonds at an interest rate of 3.72 per cent.

Low bidder among five bids was First Southwest Corp. of Dallas, which was financial advisor for the building bond election.

Closest bid to that of First Southwest Corp. was 3.78 per cent.

The $360,000 in bonds was approved by voters last May. Voters gave their okay to a new high school and junior high building.

Herbert Brasher, architect for the project, told the board that it would take about six weeks for him to complete drawings on the new building contract.

Construction is expected to start sometime in September and should be completed in time for the opening of school in September of 1964.

The expansion program will provide a new gymnasium, nine general classrooms, two science laboratories, a library-study hall, commercial room and general administrative area.

PLENTY OF potato planting help was available Wednesday on the Elmer McGill farm two and 1/2 miles south of Olton. Workmen here fertilize and treat the potatoes before putting them into planters. McGill decided to plant the potatoes after getting his cotton hailed out several times. He also will plant some pinto beans. The potatoes will be harvested in the late fall.

POTATO TIME is work time at Jim William's potato shed in Olton. Thousands of sacks of spuds are being shipped daily to distant markets. Work has been going on day and night to keep up with the constant potato harvesting. Area farmers are enjoying one of their best crops.

Lake Water Being Urged For Use In Irrigation

High Plains Underground Water Conservation District is urging irrigators to take advantage of the water that fills the many wet-weather lakes which dot the Plains.

Most of the lakes are standing with rainfall runoff which will largely evaporate unless utilized in growing a crop.

With the days becoming extremely hot, many farmers are cranking up their wells and have begun irrigating.

A spokesman for the Water District says, "The best way that we know to conserve ground water is to use lake water as a substitute. In fact, if a fellow has a lake filled with water on his farm and does not put it to work, he is missing a real bet. That's the cheapest water that he can use, and probably the best. You know, it is considerably warmer than ground water and when used should result in less shock to the growing plants."

Tom McFarland, Manager of the High Plains Water District said he had heard one farmer say that the lake water furnished an amount of "frog-a-lizer" to his crop that is beneficial.

The "Frog-a-lizer" that he referred to was the tad-pole and other organisms that live in the lake water.

McFarland continued by saying that he was not sure about the value of the "frog-a-lizer" to a man's crop, but that by pumping lake water in lieu of ground water, everyone would benefit.

Jones-Berry Wedding Vows Read Thursday, June 27

Lavoy Nell Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Berry of Brownfield became the bride of Loman Doyle Jones, son of Mrs. Elry Jones, also of Brownfield Thursday afternoon, June 27, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Flatt near Muleshoe.

The double-ring ceremony was read by Frank Poynor of Portales.

The bride's niece, Ilene Flatt, accompanied another niece, Carolyn Thompson, who sang "Because" during the candle lighting, and "The Cloths of Heaven" as a solo.

The fitted bodice had three-quarter length sleeves which were slightly shirred at the elbow. The bodice and front panel of the skirt were strewn with white embroidered floral motifs.

The pleated skirt fell to a point below the waistline in the back. The headpiece was a cluster of silk organza leaves topped by silk illusion veil falling almost to the shoulders.

It had a scooped neck and gathered skirt. The pianist and soloist wore dresses of the same design but in mint green.

Rhetta Berry, the bride's niece of Olton, was the flower girl. She wore a pale gold dress with gold lace ruffles. All attendants wore white carnation corsages.

Collin Flatt, the bride's nephew of Muleshoe, and Lester Thompson, a nephew of Levelland, served as the candlelighters.

The groom's brother, Coy Jones of Brownfield, was the best man.

Scene for the reception, which followed the ceremony, was in the Flatt home also.

The table was covered by an ecru lace cloth over pink. The flower arrangement consisted of white gladioli and surprise lillies.

It was complimented by crystal candleholders and tall pink candles.

The bride is a graduate of Texas Tech College where she received her BA Degree. She has been employed by KSEL in Lubbock and taught in the Brownfield Public Schools for several years.

The groom graduated from San Angelo College, attended the University of Texas, and graduated from West Texas State College.

Jones taught school a year, and was employed by the Brownfield News for a year and a half. He is now News Editor of the Olton Enterprise.

Myrlene Bourland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. (Shorty) Bourland of Olton, and Jay Boyd Bridwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bridwell of Littlefield, were married Friday evening in the home of the bridegroom's parents in Littlefield.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beige sheath with matching accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid and feathered yellow carnation.

Dr. Franklin E. Swanner of Plainview read the double ring ceremony. He also was pastor of the groom's parent's wedding.

A basket of yellow and white gladiolias flanked each side of a large picture window in the living room.

To complete the floral decorations, yellow day-lillies were arranged in a golden urn.

Juanita St. Clair of Muleshoe was maid of honor and junior bridesmaid was Karon Bourland of Olton. The maid of honor was attired in a pastel pink suit with matching shoes and carried a white carnation bouquet. Miss Bourland wore a mint green dress with a matching bow in her hair.

Best man was Rex Pirtle of Lubbock, and Jerry Bridwell of Sudan, cousin of the bride, was groomsman.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bourland chose, a navy blue dress with white carnations as the bouquet. Mrs. Bridwell chose a beige suit, accented by yellow carnations.

At the reception in the home Miss Judy Evans, Miss Pat Jones and Miss Joyce West of Lubbock served the cake and punch. Kim Bridwell, sister of the groom, registered guests.

A white three-tiered cake, trimmed in mint green and yellow, was set on a white linen cloth.

The bride is a graduate of Hale Center High School and Draughons Business College. She has been employed by Rice and Hughes Motor Company in Lubbock.

Bridwell graduated from Littlefield and West Texas State University. He is employed as manager of the Crescent Park Swimming pool.

The couple will be at home at 120 East 13 in Littlefield.

Skunks Bother Olton Woman

Mrs. D. C. Eby, five miles southeast of Olton, is reported having trouble sleeping nights. She's afraid a litter of polecats will crawl under the house.

About two weeks ago, a smelly mother skunk dug under the Eby workshop and had a litter of little ones.

They were first discovered by a hired-hand when he opened the shop door and found them inside.

Eby said he would either "bait" the skunks himself or call the government trapper.

he added.

Nafzger, apparently gets over injuries. He considers his own very slight.

"I've been real lucky, I've only had two slight concussions, three broken ribs, a broken nose and a few stitches.

He thinks it's worth it. Early this year he won $1,500 in prize money at the Las Vegas rodeo alone.

"Really," said Nafzger, "most of my injuries came while I was an amateur." In his first year of riding, he only stayed on three of the 18 bulls he rode.

He makes the eight-second whistle much more regularly now. Nafzger says, "If a man really likes it," he'll try a little harder each time."

He never knows how much money he's going to make, but he knows the big money is to be made at the name rodeos.

"To make points," he said, "you've got to be at the big ones. A one-event man has to go where the money is."

One point in the bull riding go-around is given for each dollar made.

For that reason, Nafzger is in a different rodeo town almost every day. He's working hard to become the top bull rider in the U. S.

"Rodeoing is hard work," said Nafzger, "there's so much distant traveling."

For example, he was in Camdenton, Missouri, Sunday; in Springdale, Arkansas, Monday; in Limon, Colorado, Tuesday; and in Greeley, Colorado, Wednesday night. He rode each day.

He was headed for Calgary, Canada, when he received word his father had been injured.

"I probably make about 45 or 46 rodeos a year," said Nafzger. He won six bull riding events outright this spring.

Asked where all he had ridden, he said, "you name it, I've been there."

From Fort Worth to Houston, to the "Cow Palace" in San Francisco to Denver and Cheyenne, Nafzger has climbed atop snorting bulls.

"I love it," he said.

J. Gilliam, comptroller of the company, met with the board briefly, and asked if a discount might be possible.

He gave his reason for the request this way:

"The rendition of $302,000 in 1961 and 1962 seems high to us, especially in light of the fact that we have rendered the property at $175,000 in 1963."

The American Grains representative received little encouragement on the request, however, as the board pointed out that there were no complaints from the people who formerly owned the elevator, and that information on taxes was available to present owners when they were planning purchase of the property.

The board took no action and pointed out that such matters should be taken before the board of equalization, which has authority on requests for changes of valuation.

New teachers employed by the board are Mrs. Mona Swart, for girls' physical education, and Miss Mabel Parker, for first grade.

Mrs. Swart taught last year at Plainview and is an ex-Hutcherson Flying Queen of Wayland College. She will assist Sandra Meadows in coaching girls' basketball 1, in addition to p.e. class duties.

Miss Parker, a graduate of North Texas State College, Denton, last year, will move here from Abilene.

The board also confirmed the appointment of L. H. McAdams as bus foreman.

Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Joyce Harkey and Jack Burkhalter. Mrs. Harkey, whose husband teaches here, will devote full time to being a housewife and mother, while Burkhalter plans to give full time to his farming operations.

Business manager Elmer Moore reported that tax collections for the year stand at 95.6 per cent of the roll.

Delinquent tax roll for 1962 totals $9,064. The complete picture on delinquent taxes, he reported, shows a total of about $28,000 in taxes dating back to 1930.

Date set for the public hearing on the 1963-64 budget is Aug. 6 at 8 p.m., the time of the next regular trustee meeting.

A corrected report on average daily attendance for 1962-63 showed the school had an average attendance of 1095.61 white students.

This was just seven students above the average needed to give the school system an extra classroom teacher unit, for state pay purposes, in 1963-64.

Average daily attendance in the white schools for 1961-62 was 1071. The average at Bohner School remained the same in both 1961-62 and 1962-63---- 122 students.

Supt. Clark told the board that low bids on three new 48-passenger school buses had been $3,825 each.

Two old buses and a pickup truck will be sold on a bid basis, Clark said. Bids will be taken until July 26.

Swim Sessions Offered Again

He has asked that all persons interested in taking the lessons meet at the ORC pool Wednesday morning, July 17.

The session will run for 10 days at a cost of $10.

Scouting Trip To Include 300-Mile Journey In Canoe

Two Olton Boy Scouts are packing their gear this week, getting ready to head for the wilds of Minnesota and Canada.

They're Dewayne Campbell and Burney Hooper, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hooper.

The 14-day trip will include 10 days canoeing and camping through rugged country in the Canadian wilderness. The trip through the back reaches of Canada will include 300 miles of canoeing, hiking and camping out.

Saturday has been declared departure day for the trip.

Dewayne and Burney will leave Matador early that morning for Kansas City and on to Minneapolis. In Kansas City, they'll take time out to see the Cleveland Indians move into town for a professional baseball game.

The Olton Scouts will be in the company of other area Scouts under direction of the Matador Scout Master, Douglas Pitts Jr.

They will arrive at the canoe base in Ely, Minn., July 15. The camp is situated on Moose Lake.

"The other Scouts made me chief cook" said Campbell, "but they'd better not gripe or I'll turn it over to them."

Both Campbell and Hooper are first class Scouts. They had to learn Morse Code to be eligible for the trip. Each boy will also be assessed $125 to cover expenses.

The canoe trip will develop through lake areas, down rivers and across the Canadian wilds.

In case of emergency, the Forest Service and private seaplanes will try to locate the boys.

Scouts making the trip in one bus include eight from Matador, one from Floydada, one from Lubbock, and the two boys from Olton.

In all, there will be 35 scouts from 22 counties. All of these are in the South Plains Council.

BURNEY Hooper, left, and Dewayne Campbell leave Saturday for a 14-day trip to the northern United States and Canada. Scouts in Olton Troop 220, the young men will take part in a 300-mile canoe trip through reaches of the Canadian wilderness. Both boys are first class Scouts. The two will be under the direction of the Matador Scout Master. In case of emergency in the wilds, the Forest Service and private seaplanes will try to locate the boys.

Grand Opening Of Consumers Scheduled Friday And Saturday

Grand opening of Consumers Inc. has been scheduled for Friday and Saturday and the firm will be giving away many "valuable door prizes in celebration of the event.

"We're real proud of our new building and in it we believe we can serve the people of the Olton community more efficiently," commented Barton Prestridge, manager, this week as he and his employes settled in their new building.

The spacious new building is located on the same corner as the old one which had been there since 1942. It houses a greatly expanded stock of butane, oils, hardware and household items.

Prestridge took over as manager of Consumers on Feb. 1, 1956, with the entire stock consisting of butane and propane.

In 1957, he added motor oils and greases, ignition parts, oil filters and evaporative air coolers.

"Back in 1957, we also installed a 2-way radio in the office and vehicles, to be able to give faster service to the farmers," stated Prestridge.

He began stocking a limited line of tools in 1961 and now in the new building he carries camping and picnic supplies, lawn mowers and gardening tools, hardware, household and gift items.

"Another added attraction is our free gift wrapping department," added Mrs. Prestridge. Mrs. Prestridge has been bookkeeper for the company since 1957.

Other employees include Barry Prestridge and Don Taylor, store help; Sonny Miller, service man, and Bob Hodges and Buck Mills, truck drivers.

Prestridge and his wife, Neva, have three children, Jan Flournoy of Abilene; Kenneth, a student at Stephen F. Austin State College, Nacogdoches; and Barry, who will be a freshman at Howard Payne College, Brownwood.

They have been residents of Olton 24 years and are members of the First Baptist Church.

Don Taylor has been employed by Consumers seven years with a safe driving record of five years. He and his wife Beverly have three children, Bryan, Doniece and Lauren. They are members of the Church of Christ.

"Sonny is one of the best butane equipment servicemen in this part of the country," Prestridge said of Sonny Miller, a 14-year employe of Consumers.

He has a safe driving record for the entire time. Miller and his wife Virginia have one daughter, Judy, a junior at Olton High School. They are members of the Presbyterian Church.

Bob Hodges has a safe driver's record for the three years he has been employed at Consumers. He and his wife Norma and their children, Lafonda, Georgeann, Bobby Jr. and John Arnold are members of the Baptist Church.

Buck Mills, the newest employe, moved to Olton three weeks ago from Santa Anna. He and his wife Velma and daughter Karen are members of the Church of Christ. The Mills have another son, Harold of Olton and three children who do not live in Olton.

"We would like to invite everyone to come by Friday or Saturday for the Grand Opening and register for our many door prizes," said Prestridge. "The drawing will be at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon."

MR. AND MRS. BARTON PRESTRIDGE are pictured in their new building at Consumers, where a grand opening is scheduled Friday and Saturday. Below, Mrs. Prestridge is shown in the new office.

Feeding Show Calves Year-Around Job

Feeding out show calves is almost a year-around proposition. For Olton high schooler Billy Carson, it's pretty serious business.

Carson was in town this week weighing his Angus and Whiteface. The Angus tipped the scales at 460 and the Whiteface weighed in at 410.

Carson said, "by February, I hope to have them up to a 1,000 pounds.

"The Whiteface has its own nurse cow which gives five gallons of milk a day," says Carson.

He added that the Angus has its own mother.

"I'm going to try to put two or more pounds a day on the calves," confesses the Olton youth.

"I give them 'Caddo Sweet', a sweet-feed ration, and mineral supplements," said Carson.

Last year the FFA boy showed the second place Angus at the Olton show and hopes to improve next February.

Carson weighs his calves periodically, comparing his weight charts to see how much increase or decrease the animals have made.

"I feed them once in the morning and once at night," he said, "and this is always after they've nursed."

The young farm enthusiast said he believed his calves picked up most weight in the late summer or early fall.

Named "Tuffy" and "Whitey" the calves also are given rich, prairie hay as a filler. "It helps their digestion," added Carson.

Carson said he paid $175 and $150 for the show calves. "A person will usually pay about $150 for a good one," he said.

"I have to feed them regularly and give them proper care," said Carson, "otherwise, they could easily get grubs or the mange.

"Mange, explained the FFA youth, "is something like dandruff and it causes the calves' hair to fall out."

"They cause grubs that cut down on gains," he said. He told about some of the boy's calves getting grubs. The boys would place the mouth of a coke bottle over it and hit the bottom of the bottle. The grub would shoot out.

"I was lucky not to have grub trouble last year," Carson added.

The young man said he thought Richard Hall, Bobby Allen, Dennis Givens, Ronny Trusty and J. Curtis Hall were also feeding out calves.

Carson will also feed out some show pigs and sheep.

SHOW CALVES belonging to Billy Carson were loaded up this week and weighed. Carson keeps a close check on his calves, hoping to pull their less than 500 pounds weight up to a 1,000 pounds by February. The Olton FFA youth has the calves on a special diet in an attempt to make champions out of them both. "Tuffy" and "Whitey" are the animal's names. Carson is also raising show sheep and pigs for next year's stock shows.

Running Water Philosopher Says Khrushchev Blundered

Editor's note: The Running Water Philosopher on his careless weed farm on Running Water Draw has an idea this week which is his, not ours.

Dear editar:

People in Washington are always wondering what's going on behind the Iron Curtain, what the Russians are doing, how they get such heavy loads shot into orbit, is Khruschev on the way out, etc., but nobody ever knows for sure.

I don't know, either, but I have discovered without even getting off this careless weed farm that freedom of speech is about to break out in Russia.

I found out this way. I was looking through a copy of the New York Times which I found out here wedged against a fence and which must have fallen out of an airplane, which is the only way I know it could have gotten here unless some New York sociologist was driving by here studying my place as an example of rural blight and it blew out of his car. At any rate, over in the magazine section I found a picture which made me suddenly realize freedom of speech is headed for Russia.

The picture showed a row of Russian women with their hair in curlers sitting under driers in a Russian beauty shop.

I don't know if Mr. Khrushchev knows this, but you can't have a bunch of women sitting under driers all afternoon without developing freedom of speech in all directions. One of the women under a drier was holding a newspaper, but the others were just sitting there, and right there is where Mr. Khrushchev has slipped. It is a violation of human nature to have women sitting in a beauty shop under a drier and not expect to have an uncontrolled flow of conversation develop.

It is a fact of political life that mayors are beaten, school trustees defeated, governors exposed, and presidents tarnished as a result of the free play of words by women under driers, and this doesn't take into consideration what happens to all the individual lesser people who are given an honest going-over when nothing else is at hand to talk about.

Washington may not have found it out yet, but Mr. Khrushchev's whole system of follow-the-leader was imperiled when he allowed women to go to beauty shops.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Corvair 700 Club Coupe

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more useable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no anti-freeze or water for you to add. Ever.

All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

Vine-Covered Olton Windmill Is Reminder Of Days Gone By

There was a time in Olton, shortly before World War II, when just about every home here had its own windmill.

There were no paved streets, and riders galloped their horses across town and watered them at countless troughs.

That era has passed. Now, there's only one windmill remaining within the city limits. It hasn't pumped water in seven years and stands now only as a reminder of the past. Gone too are the churn and the buttermilk once cooled there.

The aged windmill and tank, almost 40-years-old, belongs to the Winston Bley family. Bley was crowding four when the structures were put up.

He said, "my father C.E. Bley had them built either in 1924 or 1925." The elder Bley was one of Olton's first store owners when the town had only one street.

The windmill and tank are almost fully hidden from street view by tall trees and vines. The rapidly growing greenery has covered the tank and most of the wooden, windmill frame.

"Mother planted the vines shortly after the windmill was built," said Bley, "there wasn't any trees and the place needed something for decoration."

So for about 35 years the vines have wound themselves about the relics of yesterday.

"That's a mighty long way for sap to run," quipped Bley, commenting on the vines.

Once the frame of the windmill was a brilliant red. The sun, wind and rain have bleached the wood until today only a smattering of red is visible. The original wooden fan and wheel were replaced.

"The well is about 80 or 90 feet deep," Bley said, "and until about 15 years ago the water was icey cold."

He told that the last few years the well pumped the water had warmed up. "I don't know what caused it," Bley added, "unless irrigation wells pumped out the cold water."

Leathers wore out on the mill seven years ago and it has not been repaired.

Carolyn Bley said, "granddaddy wanted to tear it down then because it was so rotten, but we all talked him out of it. The windmill ladder was cut off several years ago to keep the children from climbing.

"There's still water there," Bley said, "but there's no reason to have the windmill repaired."

Until the mill went out of order, the Bleys' watered their grass from it.

The Olton man recalls when he was a young boy and manpower was used to pull the rods and change leathers and ball bearings. (The block and tackle days also are gone.)

"After World War II," said Bley, REA and Southwestern Public Service began stringing electrical wiring. In came pressure pumps and out went the windmills."

Bley told they keep the old windmill because they like it. His wife and children also think it's attractive.

A unique feature about the tank is the fact kittens are born on top of it.

"For several years now," our cat has been having its litters on top of it," Bley said. When the kittens are old enough, they come crawling down the vines, he added.

So with two or three litters of kittens being born atop the structure each year, there's slim chance it or the windmill will fall by human hands.

THIS VINE-covered windmill and water tank belong to the Winston Bley family. The structures are the only ones of their kind within Olton city limits. They both are almost 40-years-old, being built by C. E. Bley. The vines were planted by the elder Mrs. Bley about 35 years ago. The mill broke down seven years ago and hasn't been repaired. From the street the windmill is almost invisible.
