FURY OF FATAL ATLANTIC STORM ABATED AS IT TURNS INLAND

J. FRANK NORRIS IS GRATIFIED BY INDICTMENT

"NOW WHOLE TRUTH CAN COME OUT" IS PASTOR'S COMMENT

BILLED FOR MURDER OF CHIPPS, FT. WORTH BAPTIST PLEASED

NO EMOTION

"AS I EXPECTED AND AS I DESIRED," SAYS FUNDAMENTALIST

By United News.
FORT WORTH, July 29.—It was most gratifying to Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church here, to learn today that the Tarrant county grand jury had indicted him for the murder of D. E. Chipps, a wealthy business man. Except when he is in his pulpit, Dr. Norris is a quiet and soft-spoken individual and received the news of his indictment late today without any show of emotion. "It was what I expected and desired," he said. "Now the whole truth can come out."

Dr. Norris, who shot and killed Chipps when the latter called upon him in his little study in the church, apparently to protest against attacks on the clergyman had been making on him and his friends, probably will find himself occupying the defendant's chair in a murder trial in September.

Band Stands.
Judge George Hesse, of the criminal division of the district court who will preside at the trial, allowed the clergyman's bond of $10,000 to stand. It was signed by 11 men, four of them lawyers. They include Marvin B. Simpson, whom the pastor retained today and B. F. Boudin, chairman of the board of trustees of his church.

When he was arrested, Dr. Norris made a statement to the police explaining that he shot Chipps to save his own life. Since then he has argued in and out of his pulpit that it was his inalienable right to defend himself from Chipps, just as it would have been his right to defend himself from a rattlesnake.

The identity of the "mystery witness" in the church murder, was made public today by the county prosecutor. He said that Carl Glaze, 14, saw Dr. Norris shoot Chipps. The youth had called at the church on an errand. When the shooting began he said he "left in a hurry."

By United News.
GRAPELAND, Texas, July 29.—Two escaped convicts from the Eastham state prison farm were captured by a posse of citizens on the outskirts of Grape Land Thursday morning, after they had overpowered the guards of the farm, cut all telephone wires to the farm and escaped in the prison chaplain's car.

Higgins, the men captured, were picked up by passing motorists who were unaware they were convicts. On the outskirts of Grape Land authorities stopped the car to inquire whether the occupants of the car had seen anything of the men sought. Prison clothes worn by Foster and Higgins were recognized by one of the officers and the men were taken into custody. They were armed but offered no resistance.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 29.—Leaving behind probably eighteen dead and property damage to the extent of possibly $15,000,000 for the tropical storm that has passed on over Georgia and eastern Tennessee and possibly reaching the upper Ohio valley. The wind is decreasing velocity, however, and no serious damage is expected inland.

As communication was restored, details indicating the extent of the storm were received. Miami reported that two men were killed and several others injured. Two sailors are reported dead aboard an unidentified British steamer which displayed distress signals off Florida's coast. Six more are believed to have perished on the whole-back steel barge Dallas, which broke from a tow during the storm. Great damage appears to have occurred in the Bahamas islands off the southern tip of Florida. Eight are reported dead at Nassau, the principal port. Heavy destruction occurred there and at Bimini, a small island of the group which lies about 30 miles east of Miami. One message reported that all buildings on the tiny spot were demolished.

Accurate estimates of the dead are unavailable but one dispatch said that the dead would number fifty and property damage $5,000,000. Damage on the mainland is estimated at twice that, making a possible total property loss of $15,000,000 in the entire area.

That Child of Yours

By Ruth Matthews

"How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child!" exclaims the half-crazed Lear, invoking a curse on his inhuman daughter. And while few children have reached the depths of ingratitude depicted by Shakespeare, examples of lack of feeling on the part of children for their parents have always been abundant and are only too frequent today.

Nevertheless, modern parents are coming more and more to realize there are two sides to the question of duty as regards the relations between parents and child, and it is a hopeful sign. Until recent years, one heard much of the child's duty toward the parents and very little of the parent's duty toward the child. Certainly the child owes a duty to the parents who sacrifice time, comfort and money to give him a proper chance in life, but in the past too many fathers and mothers have been prone to look upon the child merely as an investment, a potential source of income to be made actual at the earliest possible moment.

Modern View is Different. Unfortunately, such parents still exist, but the conviction is gaining ground that those who bring children into the world are in duty bound not only to feed and clothe them properly, but also to educate and otherwise fit them to make their way in the world. Relics of the old regime remain in some states, where children are required by law to contribute a stipulated amount to the support of dependent parents.

In camp. On his way home he visited friends and relatives in Abilene. Crops in South Texas are pretty good he said, but they are not in the class with South Plains' crops.

A. P. Duggan of Littlefield, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was a Lubbock visitor yesterday.

W. M. Pevehouse and family will leave this morning for Bell county and other central Texas points where they will visit for about two weeks.

Dr. P. W. Horn and party are expected to return to Lubbock the first of next week from a business and pleasure trip through points in Central and South Texas.

Ralph and Scott Eikes of Grainger arrived in Lubbock yesterday. They attended the Tech last session and will remain here until the school opens this year.

A. B. Davis, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who was stricken with appendicitis several days ago is able to be about attending to his affairs.

Maurice Powell and Oscar Sinton will leave this morning for Roswell, New Mexico, where they will visit friends. They will go from there to Ruidoso where they will be guests at a lodge party.

Word was received by friends here from Miss Johnnie Gilkerson, who is making a tour of Europe this summer. She writes that she is having a very pleasant trip. She will return to the states the latter part of August.

Edwin D. Martin, Mrs. Martin and family are spending their vacation in Lubbock. Mr. Martin's former home, a son of Raleigh Martin of this city, he lived for a while in Mineral Wells and has been at College station as an instructor. Next fall he will be principal of the affiliated school there.

Mr. Brewer and family of Seattle, Wash., who are touring the states and especially Texas, Mr. Brewer's home set, so in Lubbock this week. He is mixing business with pleasure by demonstrating and distributing a new patent mixer for carburetors on all cars. They are traveling in a Hudson brougham which is equipped with all kinds of camp equipment as well as a large radio set. Mr. Brewer says he quite often gets his home town.

That this law may work out beneficially in some instances is obvious, but it is likewise obvious that from time to time it may be invoked by lazy and unworthy parents to the detriment of ambitious and deserving youth. One might venture the opinion that a child who has had proper parental care and training generally will not require legal pressure to induce him to do his utmost for a deserving mother and father.

A new York court recently ordered a young girl to contribute to the support of her parents, and the case aroused much discussion pro and con. Those who sided with the court emphasized the alleged ingratitude of the child for the sacrifices of the parents, but there were others who insisted the parent should lack industry and foresight in their earlier days and failed not only to provide for their own future, but also to contribute properly to the upbringing of the child.

Child Should Be Considered. Whatever the facts may have been, it seems clear that the courts in ruling on such cases should give the child the benefit of every reasonable doubt. Primitive peoples in times of famine, war, or other catastrophe, have seldom failed to sacrifice the aged for the welfare of youthful and more able bodied members of the tribe, and the same mental soundness of this principle is recognized in medical practice of today. It is a far cry from the semi-civilized bushman to the cultivated man and woman of the present time, but most of us recognize that age must give way to youth.

The aged have their lives and have their opportunities, and while children with the common instincts of humanity naturally would do all in their power for their parents, few thinking men and women would care to see youthful opportunity hampered to the extent of rendering the coming generation less useful to society as a whole.

MEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THE THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1926.

Fashion Notes

(Written for the United Press) NEW YORK, July 17.—Colored leather bags have become so popular with the well dressed woman that they are now being carried for evening as well as day wear. Leather is no longer considered a sports style and some of the dressiest bags are made of soft glazed kid in blond colorings. The tan or blond envelope bag is the most popular one at present, since it can be carried with all pastel shades and can be worn for all occasions.

For evening wear, the smaller square envelope hape is the favorite bag of the moment. We find these in pastel kid, white moire and studded rhinestone effects. They, of course, are fitted with compartments for cosmetics for bank books, bills, etc.

Creme de chene umbrellas are among the Parisian novelties which we will soon find popular in America. They are waterproof and come in bright and pastel colors as well as staple colors. They do duty as sunshades as well as umbrellas for, since the decidedly feminine parasol is almost a thing of the past, these water proof crepe de chene fill the gap between them and utility umbrella. Taffeta parasols in shades such as bois de rose and tan are also popular for summer since they can be worn with the pastel mode and harmonize with an ecru.

Bright colored felt flowers are worn on flannel sports costumes. Multi-colored bouquets combining green, rose, yellow and perhaps a bud of claret are unusually suited to the flannel outfit. And by the way, Paris is sponsoring the huge corsage for day and evening wear. Huge carnations and crysanthemums are favorite for street wear while huge cliff roses are worn on the shoulder at evening. The Parisian corsage takes on tremendous proportions. No flower can be too large. Often, however, the flower is not worn to add contrast but harmonize perfectly with the dress or costume.

Huge link slave bracelets continue to rule supreme among the daytime jewelry. More recent models are merely large gold and silver links combined. Colored stones are getting a bit passe for bracelet purposes.

ENERGETIC BOY MAYOR OF WISCONSIN TOWN SAVES IT FROM FINANCIAL RUIN

WASHBURN, Wis., July 29.—Paul Ungrodt, "Kid Mayor" of this little city of 2,700, having completed his first term has been returned to office by an almost unanimous vote of confidence.

Ungrodt, who was only 23 when first elected mayor in the spring of 1924 by a two to one vote over a man thrice his age, has so conducted municipal affairs that his administration will go into local history as the most remarkable the city has ever experienced.

Graduating from Lawrence college, Appleton, Wis., in 1923, he returned to Washburn and went into his father's hardware store as joint manager. Ten months later he was swept into office on an overwhelming tide of public approval. The city's troubles were mostly of a financial nature and he went after them with youthful enthusiasm.

He and his councilmen served without salary and all expenses were cut to an absolute minimum. To raise necessary funds he boosted tax rate to 7.15 per cent, the highest rate in the state. Tax collections were increased $12,000 and the city began to find its feet. The second year the rate was dropped to 5.15 per cent but it was still the highest in the state. By the use of unique advertising methods the boy mayor decreased delinquency 10 per cent and exceeded the most optimistic estimate of tax collections by $5,000.

Through such stringent measures the city's total debt of almost $100,000 was reduced about $25,000 in two years. The city is now on a firm financial footing for the first time since six-year days.

In addition to his success as mayor, Ungrodt has been singularly successful in operating his father's hardware store. By progressive advertising and aggressive salesmanship he has brought about a great increase in sales volume. In 1924, when hardware merchants throughout the northwest were suffering an average decrease in sales volume of 5 per cent the Ungrodt store experienced a 25 per cent increase as well as showing the first net profit since the boom days of the war.

The boy mayor's remarkable success has gained such wide attention that he has been mentioned as a possible candidate for congress from this district but his next step will probably be into the state assembly.

Ungrodt believes simply in the introduction of business methods into the affairs of government. He says: "The voters control the situation. They can elect men of business ability with an unselfish interest in the duties connected with the officers of government. Given the right personnel, any governmental body can adopt itself to business methods."

Spooky Stock in Flat Crepe. This green flat crepe trimmed with tuck-bands of self material may be smartly developed, using this frock as a model.

Here is a winsome frock sent over by Paris that may be adapted to the needs of almost any figure. The lines are straight and simple and the trimming is composed of tucked bands of its own material, arranged on straight rows down the front and used again for the collar.

Women whose figure calls for a larger size than 42 bust may use this dress by simply following the diagram. Fig. 1 shows how the back of the frock may be slashed to allow more fullness over the shoulders. Sometimes round shoulders require such a treatment as this to make the back fit well. The front is then shortened by taking in a tuck as shown in Fig. 2.

Again, if occasion is to be made for a larger hip, the back of the pattern may be slashed as shown in Fig. 1 to make it as full as desired, then when the material is cut all of the necessary alterations will have been provided for. It is always best to make the alterations in the pattern before putting the scissors into the goods. The dress is trimmed with buttons, which are put on in a single row all the way down the front. Long sleeves are gathered into cuffs of self-material and the belt may be either of ribbon or self-material.

Ladies' and Misses' Dress No. 264, cut in sizes 36 years and 36 to 42 inches bust. Will be mailed postpaid upon receipt of 25 cents. Be sure to give correct name and address when ordering. Write name and address plainly. Send orders to Pattern Editor, this newspaper.

PIG WOMAN TELLS OF MILLS MURDER

SAW MRS. HALL IN MOONLIGHT ON NIGHT OF KILLING SHE DECLARES

SOMMERSVILLE, N. J., July 29.—A four year old mystery of illicit love that ended in a double murder under a crab-apple tree on a lonely farm in the outskirts of New Brunswick on the night of September 14, 1922, was being unraveled here tonight.

Which they held Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall on a double charge of murdering her unfaithful husband, the Reverend Edward W. Heeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, his choir singer, the state authorities were fighting with every weapon in their power to unmask those who would keep the Hall-Mills murder secrets still a secret.

Every move was made quietly and mysteriously. The state officials to discuss the case, what it had found out or hoped to find out. Detectives went about their investigations in the counties of Somerset and Middlesex while newspapermen tried in vain to follow them.

"The pig woman" was questioned this afternoon by Prosecutor Francis Bergen of Somerset county and Major Mark O. Kimberling, head of the police.

In her story told at the time of the murder, which was not credited by the grand jury, Mrs. Gibson, a rather eccentric woman who keeps a pig farm in the outskirts of the New Brunswick told the following story:

"She was riding on her mule Jenny near the old Phillips farm and passed within fifty feet of the crab-apple tree.

"There, under the fitful light of a moon that every few seconds would be obscured by clouds, she would be obscured by clouds. One of the women, she swore, was Mrs. Hall, who was accompanied by a tall man.

"As she watched she heard quick shots and saw a man and a woman fall. Then a cloud passed over the moon and she saw nothing for several seconds. When the moon came out again she said, she saw Mrs. Hall bending over the body of the slain clergyman, weeping hysterically. She fled and said nothing until the investigation was well under way."

Here, are some of the principals of the original inquiry who have been questioned again or may be questioned.

Willie Stevens, Mrs. Hall's brother, known as an eccentric character "with a craze for volunteer fire fighting."

Henry De Brucier Carpenter, Mrs. Hall's cousin.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman" who claimed to have witnessed the murder as she passed the Phillips farm on the night of September 14.

Louise Geist, downstairs maid in the Hall home at the time of the murder. It was an annulment petition filed against her by Arthur B. Riehl, whom she subsequently married that caused the re-opening home, cotton marketing, dairy sanitation, reading for the farm, problems in feeding, reading home, the club woman's responsibility, the art of living together and citizenship.

Prominent speakers whose talks are to be broadcast are Dr. T. O. Walton, president of the A. & M. College of Texas; Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Oklahoma A. & M. College; Miss Susan Landon, North Carolina Cotton Growers' Association; Col. MARRIAGES IN INDIA HAPPY, BECAUSE WIFE REALIZES MAN HER MASTER

LONDON, July 29.—In each thousand marriages in India, 999 are happy, according to Prince Raj Godalpas, a prominent Punjab, here after a trip to Copenhagen where he performed a special religious rite under the "midnight sun."

"The marriages in India are almost always happy because the Indian woman always sees her master in her husband," he explained. "Here in Europe women are too dominating, too much at the front. In India the opposite is the case. Our women are stronger than the women of the West in the sense of morals and belief. The moral doctrine of the West are all right, but the question is, do the people stick to them in their daily life?"

The special religious rite which Prince Raj Godalpas traveled from India to the Arctic Circle to perform, took place on shipboard under the "midnight sun" and was watched by Lord and Lady Ullswater. The Brahmin Jagadish Chatterji accompanied Prince Raj and assisted him. It was necessary that royalty should take part, Prince Raj explained. His studies of Sanskrit enabled him to evolve the ceremony from ancient

FEDERATED CLUBS TO TOUR STATE IN AUTOMOBILES

DALLAS, Texas, July 29.—The first good will tour ever staged by women will be held the last week in September when officials of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs take an automobile trip over the State. The purpose of the tour will be to give publicity to the State convention, the 1928 biennial meeting of the General Federation and to popularize the Texas Federation News, official organ of the Texas organization.

Mrs. J. U. Fields, of Haskell, state president, planned the tour and will be in charge during the trip. Accompanied by the seven presidents of the districts and others she will leave Dallas for Texarkana and will cover the route from there to El Paso and from Oklahoma to the coast.

EAST TEXAS DEMOLAYS HAVE ANNUAL MEET AT NACOGDOCHES

NACOGDOCHES, Tex., July 29.—East Texas Demolays will hold their second annual convention here Monday August 2 according to announcement by Fred Goldsberry, master councillor of the local chapter.

More than 200 representatives from chapters in the eastern section of the state are expected to come here for the meeting.

of the investigation. The petition filed in Trenton two weeks ago, charged her with having accompanied Mrs. Hall to the Phillips farm on the fatal night.

Barabara Tough, "upstairs" maid who was more a companion to Mrs. Hall than a maid.

James Mills, husband of the slain woman, a quiet man who was janitor of a school near his home and who apparently knew little of the affair being carried on between his wife and the rector of the fashionable Episcopal church of St. John, the Evangelist.

Charlotte Mills, his daughter, who figured prominently in the investigation.

Raymond Schneider and Pearl Bahmer, who found the bodies.

The investigation which followed stirred the country for months.

Torn love letters beside the bodies told the story of the illicit love of the pastor and the janitor's wife; how they had met in secret—in the choir loft, behind the church, at secret trysting places in nearby woods and field, all the time presenting a front of respectability to the families and to the town.

The protracted investigation finally died down and lay dormant for nearly 3 years when it was renewed two weeks ago by the filing of Riehl's petition.

State troopers, the prosecutor, and detectives investigated, strictly under cover, for two weeks. Late last night troopers surrounded the Hall home and Mrs. Hall, with dramatic suddenness, was called out of bed and formally arrested on two warrants charging her with the murder of Hall and Mrs. Mills.

Mrs. Hall remains in the county jail here tonight. Every indication is that she is prepared to spend her considerable fortune to fight the case.

Headed by R. H. McCarter, a former attorney general of New Jersey who is famous in the state as a criminal lawyer, her counsel consists of an imposing array of legal talent.

On the other side are the governor of the state, A. Harry Moore, who ordered the re-opening of the investigation and announced today that it would be pushed to the limit; Bergen, the county prosecutor; Major Kimberling, and a whole force of state police and special detectives. The latter include Captain Harry W. Walsh and Sergeant Richard Burke of the Jersey City police, regarded as the best detectives of the state and credited with brilliant work in solving several murder mysteries, one of which was the murder of Mary Daly, resulting in the arrest and confinement in an asylum of Harrison Noel

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—Gradual disappearance of the horse and mule before the march of the automobile is a factor in keeping agricultural production stable in the United States despite abandonment during the last five years because of the farm depression of 19,000,000 acres of land formerly cultivated.

This decrease in crop area, announced today by the department of agriculture is the first ever shown in the history of the country, and occurred in the face of a notable increase in population. It represents a five per cent drop. There are more people than in 1920, needing more food. The natural assumption would be that more of the food produced on the reduced acreage would be needed at home.

As a matter of fact, this country is sending about as much as ever abroad.

That is where the orse and mule enter. There are 3,500,000 less of these animals now than in 1920, hence that many less animal mouths to feed. Less land is required to produce food for them. The land thus made available is being utilized to produce food crops for man, according to the department of agriculture's explanation.

"As the feed consumed by horses and mules required for its production about 90,000,000 acres in 1920, it appears that the decrease in the number to be fed would release for other uses, or cause to be idle, about 2,500,000 acres," it states.

While the decrease is credited by the department as the strongest factor in keeping up the level of the export surplus, it says that it "may be due in part to the larger use of vegetable and milk products and the lesser use of meat."

The collapse of prices as a result of the depression "cause the ruin of thousands of farmers, especially of young men who had purchased farms largely on credit during the boom years of the war."

DUTTON TALKS OF MAN'S MAJESTY

OKLAHOMAN WILL TELL ABOUT JEAN VALJEAN TONIGHT

Dr. Dean C. Dutton of the University of Oklahoma gave his most interesting lecture of the series at the Methodist Church last night. "The Majesty of Man," was the subject. He delved into the place and possibilities of man and his work in the world. A large crowd attended.

Tonight at the Methodist church he will lecture on "Dramatic Interpretation of Jean Valjean." Tomorrow night his subject will be, "The Majesty of Modesty" for girls and, "The Majesty of Chivalry" for boys. Sunday night he will lecture on "The Men of Tomorrow," which is said by men who have heard him in other places to be the greatest lecture of the series.

These lectures are very inspirational and educational and the people of Lubbock are missing a great thing by not coming out to hear them. Dean Dutton is one of the foremost educators of the Southwest and is doing a great thing in elevating the public trend of thought.

THE ETERNAL REFUGE—"The eternal God is my refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." Deut. 33:27.

LET'S STOP BEING LOWLY

It is well sometimes—even necessary—for Americans to arouse themselves, shake a certain foginess out of their view, and give a clear-headed consideration to facts. For ten decades, before and since Charles Dickens visited our young Republic and amused Europe with accounts of its race of "human grasshoppers," Europe has regarded America's efforts at art with a certain amused tolerance.

Europeans accepted Thoreau and Emerson, Poe, Walt Whitman, George Inness, and Homer Martin, eagerly enough, to be sure, but these they were pleased to regard as isolated or exotic expressions of the vast untutored mob on this side of the Atlantic. It did not matter so much what they thought but what did matter was the readiness in which too many of our own people bowed to Europe's opinions, expressed generally with amused tolerance.

It could have been explained to our European critics that the generations just preceding had been too occupied with the wrestle with the wilderness, with conquest of forests and prairies, to care much about the more cultured amenities. Indeed the grim necessities of living left little room for aesthetic values, and besides the emotional surplus was absorbed in the passions of Civil War, in politics, in the church. Then came the hand's conquest of the land, ease, and time for leisure, until the average American enjoys a life more spacious in its economic security than that of the nobility in many lands.

Now we begin to see the flowing of the American miracle. For its music, opera, symphony concert, radio, phonographs, instruction in music; for its highways and homes and public edifices, for its common and higher schools America is expending a larger amount each year than all of the rest of the world combined. Where is there in America a town so humble that it lacks its public library?

There is a wide sweep, too, away from the old time cultural centers such as Boston and New York. Santa Fe, New Mexico, is the center of a group of citizens creating work as important, in its degree, as did the master painters who resided in the Forest of Fontainebleau; the opulent lands of Ohio and Indiana and Illinois have nourished scores in this and the preceding generation who have left their cultural impress on the world; and the recent rise of the Oklahoma group, the young poets centered culturally about the University of Oklahoma, know that their verse is read in Europe as eagerly as in America by those concerned with the cultural fact alone.

A REMARKABLE DEMONSTRATION

An impressive and pathetic sight it must have been, that parade of 20,000 French veterans, led by maimed and blind, through the streets of Paris to the foot of Washington's statue, where they placed a plaque in protest against the terms of settlement of the French debt to the United States. We are old that the parade was at first forbidden by the French Government, but this action later was rescinded "through the force of public opinion."

Public opinion in France undoubtedly was squarely behind the protest of the veterans. The sympathies of the Parisian population always have been with the veterans, especially the maimed and blind, for no matter how shrewd a Frenchman may be in a business transaction, he is never lacking in sentiment or a keen appreciation for the dramatic or theatrical.

One naturally recalls an episode of the first great Armistice Day celebration in Paris, in 1919. The French Government in preparation for the monster defile of Allied troops through the Arc de triomphe, had erected thousands of seats along the Avenue Champs Elysees. These seats were in great demand, and every person of any consequence in France made a strenuous effort to declare himself in on their apportionment. The committee in charge of allotting seats, beset on all sides by demands, backed up with many and various brands of political, social and commercial influence, tore its hair and pruned the original quotas allotted to various organizations with patriotic or service claims to representation.

Among these quotas was that allotted the war blind, for whom the French population always has had tremendous sympathy. As demands from politicians and others for seats increased, the committee cut down the number set aside for the blind, until only a few hundred seats were left. The blind men promptly refused this allotment, asserting there must be seats for all their number in Paris, amounting to some 3,000, or none of them would appear at the celebration.

Public opinion was thoroughly aroused, and for several days vehement discussions were carried on in the cafes, the Chamber of Deputies and the columns of the newspapers. The blind men had almost the unanimous support of the people of Paris, and the government was compelled to admit defeat. The demands of the special interests for seats was too strong to be ignored, however, and only the Gordian knot by tearing down all the seats a day before the celebration, the government cut which workmen for weeks had been laboring night and day to erect. Then everyone had to stand, and apparently everyone was happy.

The cynical might argue that the average veteran is in no position to judge whether the terms of the French debt settlement are just or unjust. The fact remains, however, that the millions of soldiers represented by the parades were solidly behind their comrades, and the French public also was with them. That the French government ostensibly forbade the demonstration proves little, for the French government through the French press has been largely responsible for the widespread feeling in France that the American debt in toto is unjust.

THE BIGGEST DOG WAS ONCE A PUP

Talent, in its crude state, has very little market value. It is like ore that has not gone through the smelter. It needs refining. And the refining process, by the way, is often an extremely painful, tedious and expensive one.

The most skillful surgeon in America was once a blunderbuss. He knew nothing of incisions, draining of wounds, blood clotting, anaesthetics, heart actions, antiseptics, etc. All this he had to learn. He may have learned it easily and quickly because of his interest and enthusiasm, but he did not acquire his skill by any miracle.

The greatest architect now living had to learn to draw straight lines and graceful curves. It was necessary for him to master the intricacies of tensility, proportion, symmetry and design. His skill and imagination may be almost uncanny by this time, but it was not always so.

Walter Johnson, the greatest pitcher of them all, threw a lot of wild ones before he established that remarkable control. Babe Ruth struck out a good many times before he began hitting home runs. Christy Matthewson, one of the greatest stars of baseball, spent months at a time pitching to the neighbor boys getting the muscles of his arm subordinated to his will.

There was a time when Paderewski knew nothing about music, when James Montgomery Flagg was totally ignorant of color values, when Gallucci could not "carry a tune," when Henry Ford could not borrow a dollar and when Rudyard Kipling didn't know his A B C's.

Brisban's first editorials were not paid for at one hundred thousand dollars a year. Mark Twain's first book did not produce fifty thousand dollars in royalties. Francois Millet painted pictures for years before he attracted any wide attention.

Even the man who is born great finds it necessary to work hard or his greatness deserts him. Nature has no favorites, besides the industrious.

HOME FOR THE CHILD

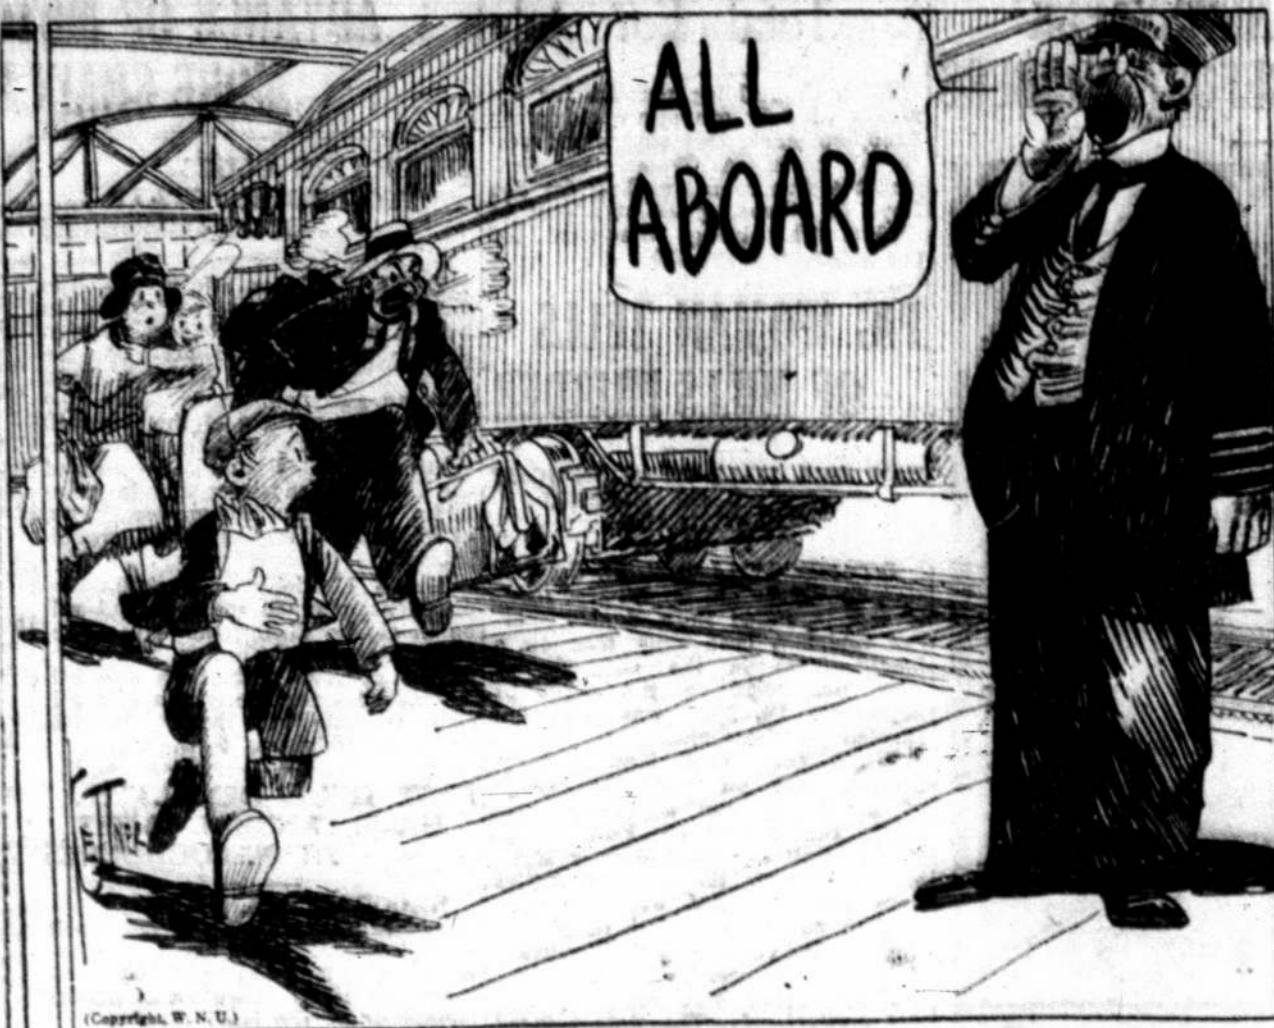

There is a growing realization that the home must be made a place for the safe guarding and education of children. The modern home has developed more or less into a convenient place to sleep and eat, while the activities of life are carried on outside its walls. This applies to children as well as adults, and is held by many as the chief factor in the waywardness of the present generation of young people. The hope of the nation lies in its children. The future should be safeguarded by providing children with an environment calculated to upbuild strength of character, keenness of mentality and appreciation of beauty and virtue. This is the province of the home. But many homes of today are so utterly characterless, so wholly drab and uninteresting that they hold but little prospect for the proper physical and mental development of children. Children are keenly sensitive to beauty. The home then, should be beautiful enough to create pride of ownership. Children are keenly sensitive to fair play and loyalty. The family should be a constant example of these virtues. When the home is such that the child thrills to its contact with its home and its family, there will no longer be any great problem of wayward youth. But can we arrive at this point? Is the present generation capable of making real homes? Has the present generation the necessary appreciation of beauty itself, to be able to impart any characteristic of beauty to a home? Is the average parent today imbued with enough of the spirit of fair play to provide such an atmosphere in a home? It is extremely doubtful. The money-grubbing regime of today makes so many demands upon time and energy that no leisure is left to cultivate beauty and the intense competition of the period leads to sharp commercial practices that tend to destroy the fine sensibility of honesty so necessary to a true spirit of fair play. Thus the trouble lies with us, the present generation, and not with the growing youth upon which we heap much undesired criticism.

WOMEN BOOTLEGGERS

Major Walton A. Green, chief prohibition investigator, about to retire along with his chief, says that the woman bootlegger has become "a serious problem and a growing nuisance." She establishes a little business, he says, preferably in a prosperous section of the city, and turns to bootlegging on the side, making a great deal more money out of her side line than her supposedly regular business. Many clever women get by for a long time without being caught.

It is hardly to be expected, in this age of equality, that women will keep entirely out of any business, legitimate or illegitimate, when so many men are engaged in it and making big profits. Yet it does seem oddly at variance with the general attitude of their sex, and the ideals that American women are supposed to stand for, to have apparently respectable women engaged in this double offense of breaking federal and state laws and peddling poison booze which disables the drinkers and wrecks families.

Famous Last Words

So Think We

We think there will be a great number of homes built in Lubbock this fall.

We think there are more brick business houses being erected in Lubbock right now than any other city of its size under ordinary conditions. No boom, no excitement, but a large number of very substantial and fine buildings are now under construction.

We think that Lubbock should settle down on some definite goal. Few of us can do much unless we have a certain thing to do. We would never get to a certain place if we did not have in mind to go there, unless we accidentally stumbled upon it. Let's be definite. We might set our heads for good roads, or a municipal auditorium, or a viaduct, or another railroad, or a dam across the canyon to make a big lake. Any of these things would be worth striving for.

We think the list of famous last words might be registered. Watch me do sixty miles per hour.

We think Lubbock can well afford to spend some money to send the ball team to Denver. It will be good advertising, especially if they are as lucky as last year.

We think Lubbock cannot afford to have the designated state and federal highway from Dallas into Lubbock miss coming into town from the east. The north route would mean missing Lubbock to at least seventy per cent of the tourists.

We think it will be a great thing to bring the tourists into the city from east, past the County Park, the Experiment Station, the Fair Park, etc. This will be a good showing to the people who are making the routes through this city.

We think the city should pave Broadway to the east line of the city corporation. It would seem that there is very little hopes of getting the Santa Fe to put in a viaduct, and we will need the paved streets to the fair grounds and the County park.

We think there is much need for some street improvement on the Plainview road on Ave H across the railroad. We understand the Santa Fe railroad is supposed to bear part of the expense of repairing this street, as the lake that remains there for many days after a hard rain is caused by some of the approaches to the crossing. The City Commission we believe should see that this is attended to at once.

We think the South Plains Fair should be one of the greatest ever held on the South Plains and there is no reason that it should not be.

We think Lubbock should begin at once to work out plans for the erection of a municipal auditorium. There is no question that Lubbock is in need of a suitable place for public meetings but not the kind of place we had while the old auditorium was in existence. It should be a nice, well arranged brick or reinforced concrete building on the city block, and built by the issuance of bonds.

We think now would be a fine time to commence the paving of several streets in Lubbock.

It Is Reported

That several people in Lubbock bet that the Fergusons would be in the second primary. They were merely poor seconds in the first primary.

That a very wise man recently said that if you wanted a thing done the best thing is to do it yourself, provided of course that you know how.

Now that some of the hard-boiled Fergusons are pleading with the people to be more forgiving, and not to hold so many things against the Fergusons. That may be true, and a lot of folks may be generous in forgiving, but we doubt if they will forget soon.

That a very large percent of the Ferguson appointees to office over the state received the knockout in the primary last Saturday at the hands of the voters. Most of them were not put in because of their qualifications, but because of their pull and their Fergusonism.

That a young husband has a mathematical problem that he has worried about for several weeks. He was considered a very apt student in math when he went to school, but he swears that his wife is half mad, half sick and half crazy all at the same time, and still she is only one.

That a goody-goody fellow was heard to say the other day that he wondered how a bootlegger felt when he went to church and dropped a nickel in the contribution plate. We doubt if this ever occurs himself, but we are confident that he does not feel much different from the night before, except that he was more able to afford the nickel.

That a new definition has been found for the word immediately. It does not mean right now, but it means three months hence. Reference, Ferguson's statement about Ma's resignation.

That a young fellow is now working on a divorce proof marriage certificate. This guy possibly is not aware that all the divorce proof certificates were used fifty years ago, and no more have been made. He should merely start the old mill up again for few divorces were known fifty years ago.

That in days gone by women worried about the undertaker getting their husband, but in this day and time their greatest fear is that hubby will be vamped.

Fergusonism Is Dead

By R. B. M.

Why not let bygones be bygones? is the question of the lips of every Ferguson supporter. They are indignant, inflamed with anger, and feel that Mrs. Ferguson has suffered because of unjust treatment. Yet they have not taken the time to realize there is only one answer, and that is this—the Fergusons will not permit it.

Five hundred thousand Texas voters paid $2.75 each in order that they might make legal protest against Fergusonism. Now they calmly sit by with only one hope—that Mrs. Ferguson will make good her word, her pledge, and resign.

No doubt the election has been a shock to Texas' first woman governor, though the result was no more than other voters had predicted. They were tired of Fergusonism and entered the contest to crush it. It wasn't the vote of the "Ku Klux and monkey-faced Baptists" that defeated the Fergusons, as they would have you believe, but the vote Texas Democrats without thought of sectism or creed.

Little did Mrs. Ferguson think if she really thought at all that her "challenge" would be accepted, or if it was she would lose. She was acting upon the advice of her husband, and it has always been Jim's failing to see the winning side only. Jim didn't know there was such a word as "defeat" until he was kicked out of the governor's mansion by the Senate, and he doesn't really understand its meaning yet—thinks maybe he's been slipped.

But Jim does know one thing—he is not wanted in Austin. People have treated Mrs. Ferguson in a very kindly manner, for they felt sorry for her. Had she made good her promise and resigned immediately following the primary, she would have gone down in history as a good woman, a misguided woman, but an honest woman worthy of the respect of any man.

But, hellos! Before she fully realized an election had taken place, Jim outlined her future activities and announced to the world—a horrified world, that "Ma" would hang around for a few months just to get her business matters in good shape. Until that time people presumed they were in good shape, but maybe Jim knows better. This statement was not made, however, until Jim saw the writing on the wall, and that in half a dozen languages and dialects—Moody had polled more votes than all the other five candidates—there could be no mistake, and Jim knew it.

"Ma" withdrew from the race, and she was perfectly justified—voters had eliminated her. Moody had not beaten her one vote, but about a hundred and one thousand or so, and every return tabulated showed he was making steady gains. Zimmerman withdrew from the race, also, but he doesn't deserve any special credit for it.

The situation as we now see it is far from pleasing. It is a case of being legally right and morally wrong. One may be within the law, stay out of the sheriff's reach, and still be worse than lots of people who take their meals behind steel bars.

If Conan Doyle ever came here again to deliver a lecture on "spirits" he'd be deported for being a "wet."

We know a woman that lives on a circle yet expects her husband to come straight home. Women are so unreasonable.

Mrs. Dumphate declares there are two kinds of articles she never reads—one of them is definite and and the other indefinite.

Mrs. "On your way to town get me a paper of pins."
 Mrs. "It won't be necessary to buy any; I'm going to get a new shirt."

A man in Ashtabula married a widow with eleven children, ranging from two to seventeen years. He ain't a step-father—he's a step-ladder.

"Where have you been so late, John?"
 "To a free lecture, my dear."

About the only time a woman will hold her breath is when she's been eating onions, and then, unfortunately you can't depend on it.

Speaking of law, when you filed a suit in the days of armour, it meant something.

Maybe the Chinese bandits save their ransom money so they can come to this country and continue in the bandit business by running laundries and restaurants.

SWIMMING RECORD FALLS

By United Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—One new world record and a new American record were being up at the A. A. U. swimming meet on the second day here this afternoon. Arne Borge, Illinois A. C., beat his own world's record in the 880 yard free style with a time of 10:38 2-5.

His old record of 10:45 was made in Honolulu in 1924. Paul Wynn of Uniontown, Pa., Y. M. C. A., made a new American record of 2:45 4-5 in the 220 yard back stroke, coming ahead of Walter Lauffer, former title holder by a scant yard.

Tailors Swamp

Bankers 14 to 1

The P. O. Tailors made a tie game good yesterday by winning from the Bankers yesterday 14 to 1. Smith and Raley were wild in the opening frames, walking six men between them and allowing 9 hits. Lawson was touched to only two hits, Mille doubled to right and Dickinson followed with a double scoring the Bankers lone tally. The Bankers muffed and booted the ball at several costly periods. Rain stopped the game in the third inning.

BLANKSHIP HURT

By United Press.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Ted Blankship, star pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, was forced out of today's game with the Washington Senators when he suffered a split finger. The ace hurler suffered the injury in the sixth inning when he stopped a hot liner from the bat of Buddy Meyers. The White Sox were leading 3 to 2, when Blankship was hurt.

Baylor Coach.

Jenning To Report Aug. 15

WACO, Texas, July 29.—Word has been received by Baylor University officials that Coach Marley Jennings will report for duty here about August 15. Coach Jennings is attending Knute Rockne's football school at the present time. The letter from Mr. Jennings said that he planned to finish his work under the world famous coach about the first of August.

Coach Jennings will go from South Ben, Ind., to Arkadelphia, Ark., where he will meet his family and make preparations to move to Waco. Coach Jennings is reporting rather early but there is much to be done before the training camp opens September 10. The coach must find a home near the campus. He must move all of his personal athletic material and books into the new athletic building. He must complete plans for the training camp.

He will probably hold a series of lectures and discussions with his assistants, Coaches Wolf and Crow and Steinh Strickland, the freshman coach.

There will be various meetings of the coaches and officials of the southwestern conference and Jennings will want to attend these.

The new athletic building will be ready now in a few days. All of the outside work has been completed and the only work remaining to be done is a little painting on the inside. Carroll Field, the home of the Baylor Bears, is being prepared for the coming season as fast as possible. The goal posts have been erected. Each day the field is watered and once a week it is mowed and raked.

Doing The Sporting Thing

By JOE ARCHIBALD

Paul Berlenbach, the Astoria assassin, who had some of his proclivities toward assassination clipped when Jack Delaney took his title from him on points at Ebbett's Field a few evenings since, is mad for another battle. It couldn't be said of Paul that he was a non-fighting champion while he held the light heavyweight laurels, and he isn't afraid to work at his job now.

Paul, who would rather climb into the ring than sit down to a tenderloin steak, is nothing if not ambitious. And a fair dream went glimmering when he and Mr. Delaney mugged each other in their recent go. He wanted to take a shot at Dempsey. Now it looks as if it were Delaney's turn to make a face at the big champion. Paul is unhappy to have a rival for that chance.

"Gee," Paul has a wallop and might give Jack a real battle, but it developed at Ebbett's Field that he lacks speed and skill as a boxer, and Dempsey has rocked harder hitters than either Paul or Delaney to sleep ere now.

There are a lot of us who would like to see Paul do battle with Gene Tunney. Some say it would draw a bigger gate than a like misunderstanding between Tunney and the new light heavyweight title holder. Anyhow Paul's lamp while temporarily dimmed has not been extinguished—not by a couple thousand candle-power.

The Barrier Bros. team gave the Auto Dealers a good beating yesterday at Merrell park 9 to 1. Barrier's: Deas, Witt and Boles; Barrier's: Stubbs and Payne. Runners: Nabors 1, Stubbs 2, Sheppard 1, Payne 1, Galtier 2, Stevens 2, Wheeler 1.

MURDERER'S ROW Utilities Win

The icemen slowed the dispensers down yesterday at the Tech park by a score 2 to 1. After pitching for the Utilities hurled another no hit game, his second in the league this year. Ridge pitched a good game for the Skeets. Batteries: Texas Utilities: Brock and Ater, Soda Men: Alexander and Ridge.

Pro Referendum Unlawful, He Says

WASHINGTON, July 28.—A warning to states that they can not by referendum or otherwise nullify the federal prohibition amendment except by direct repeal has been conveyed in a letter to Senator Borah from James J. Britt, counsel for the federal prohibition unit. He said a national referendum would be unconstitutional.

Praise Lubbock For Hospitality

"As I reflect on the great hospitality of Lubbock and the good and profitable time furnished by committees in charge of the T. C. E. A. convention, I find that words cannot express full appreciation for the manner in which we were entertained last week," S. W. Cooper, secretary of the Crosbyton Chamber of Commerce states in a letter just received by the local chamber of commerce. Cooper was one of the many South Plains executives who urged all Texas secretaries to attend the convention and assisted in entertaining them while they were here.

Rain Slops Up

Saratoga Tracks

By United Press.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 29.—A steady rain which had put the track in a sloppy condition this afternoon proved a disappointing prelude to the 26 days Saratoga race meeting, which opens tomorrow. Nevertheless first class fields were named in the overnight entries for tomorrow's card, and unless there are too many scratches, real sport should result.

Chief interest centered in the Saratoga handicap for older horses, in which eight outstanding stakes horses have been entered.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's game list under the heavy impost of 129 pounds, but the son of High Time-Rush Box has carried that package before and won, when he felt like running. His uncertain temperament makes his chances speculative in the mile and a quarter race.

The others entered were Princess Doreen, the champion mare; King Solomon's Zeal, another veteran whose workouts show he is ready for a race; the Seewickly stable's Harrovan, a good distance runner; H. P. Whitney Blondin; R. L. Gery's Peanut; Rock Star and Cloudland.

MANY DISTRICT W.T.C.C. MEETINGS

DUCCAN AND WADE TO BE BUSY ADDRESSING ORGANIZATIONS DURING AUGUST

STAMFORD, Tex., July 29.—The month of August will be a record-breaker for district conventions of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and it will be busy month for all executive officials of the organization. Programs for the meetings are nearing completion and will include addresses by Arthur P. Duggan, resident, Homer D. Wade, Manager, and other officials of the organization.

The first convention scheduled for August will be held in Marfa, August 11, for the Big Bend district of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce territory. From Marfa the president and his party will go to Alpine August 11, where they will visit Sul Ross State Teachers' College. August 12, the party spends the morning in Fort Davis, and will attend a luncheon at Balmorhea. Van Horn and Sierra Blanca will be visited en route to El Paso, where the night of August 12, and August 13 will be spent.

After leaving Texas, the party will be entertained first with a luncheon by the commercial club of Alma, and on August 14, and that night will be spent in Cloudford. On the following day the party will go thru Ruidoso and Roswell to Artesia, arriving here for the second convention of the month, the meeting of the Pecos Valley Inter-Mountain district August 16.

Following this convention the party will attend the two-day session of the Southern New Mexico Association of commercial clubs, held in Carlsbad, August 17-18. From there they will return to Brownfield, Terrell county, August 19, and to Littlefield, the home of President Duggan. The members of the president's party will be Manager Homer D. Wade; E. H. Whitehead, Publicist; Manager; B. M. Whiteker, Convention Manager; of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; also Mrs. Duggan and Mrs. Wade.

The last convention of the month will be held in Clarendon, August 30, this being the annual meeting of the Panhandle North Plains district of the month, the West Texas district conventions, and at other points where stops are made. President Duggan will stress the idea of diversified farming, and the tax revision. Manager Wade will discuss the objects of the district conventions and the work of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The officials will also give careful study to the recreational opportunities in the sections that are to be visited.

WEST TEXAS MELON CROP IS GOOD

PROFITS FROM WATERMELONS SHOW ADVANTAGE OF DIVERSIFICATION

STAMFORD, Tex., July 29.—Watermelon crops all over West Texas are doing well. Profits from this newly marketed crop will be another example of the advantages of the diversification of farm products, which is being urged by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce as one of the most important features of its program.

The farmers who have added the melon to their usual number of farm products, are realizing the good of the diversified program. Reports recently received by the Bureau of Agriculture of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce from Big Spring show that the soil of Howard County is productive for this crop.

G. S. Wheeler, living in the county marketed a load of melons on July 26 from vines planted May 6; more than $500 of melons are expected to be sold from these vines.

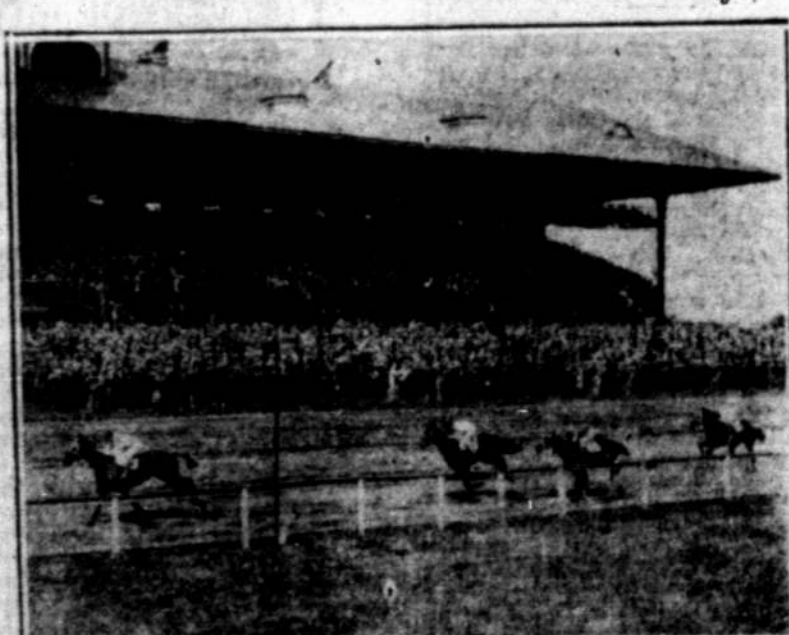

This crop is making profits for the farmer in all points in West Texas, and, with the returns from the melons this year, will be added to the variety of farm products for next season.

More attention is being paid to standardization this year than formerly, also to the best varieties for shipping. Indications point to the largest crop in the history of West Texas.

Texas has 529,000 telephones which is an increase of 1,700 per cent since 1900.

Ross Edwards' sale begins Saturday.

BLONDIN WINS EMPIRE DERBY

Blondin, running in the colors of H. P. Whitney, added the Empire City Derby to his owner's long list of stake events when he romped away with the principal offering at the Empire City Race Track recently, amid the cheers of 20,000 fans. McAtee rode the colt. Photo shows the finish of the derby: Blondin, first; Lester, second, and Light Carbine, third.

BIG SHIPMENTS OF WHEAT GO OUT FROM HEREFORD, TEXAS

HEREFORD, July 29.—Three hundred and fifty-eight cars of wheat had been shipped from Hereford county up to Thursday noon, July 29, and practically all of this wheat has gone out during the month of July. It includes car loads shipped from hereford and Summerfield.

Farmers are still working early and late harvesting and marketing the huge wheat crop that was raised in this section, and local elevators anticipate good business throughout the month of August.

Nine car loads of milo and four cars of oats were also shipped from Hereford county during the month of July. There are thousands of milo and kafir that was not marketed last fall due to low prices, which prevailed and a small amount of this is being dumped on the market each month. It is unusual for grain sorghums to be shipped from this section at this season of the year in large shipments.

The big grain sorghums crop last fall, and the huge wheat crop of the present year has caused local bank deposits to climb rapidly during the past thirty days. Many farmers over this section have been enabled to pay off loans and fatten their bank accounts considerably. The big wheat crop, good ranges and fat cattle, and bright prospects for a good crop have all helped to create a great deal of optimism throughout this section.

ENGLISH WORKING GIRL IS GROWING PRETTIER

LONDON, July 29.—London's working girls are yearly growing beautiful.

According to Sir Thomas Legge, senior medical inspector of factories, he last 20 years have shown a marked improvement in the beauty of the English working girl. He attributes the improvement to an open-air life, more exercise and higher wages.

"In the last factory visited," he said, "I noted that 72 per cent of the girls were good looking—of the Rossetti, Burn-Jones or Greek type—8 per cent were average looking and none at all were bad looking."

"The change in health is remarkable. Twenty years ago, records showed 30 to 35 per cent of the working were anaemic. Today the figure is five per cent."

CARLYLE BLACKWELL, FILM STAR, MARRIES MRS. BARNATO IN LONDON

LONDON, July 29.—Carlyle Blackwell, one of America's handsomest film stars and Mrs. Leah Barnato, one of England's wealthiest women, were married here today at a West End Register Office.

The couple had known each other for more than 10 years. They do not expect to take a honeymoon until later as Blackwell is starting work on another picture here within a few days. William Gardner, formerly British Consul in New York, was best man.

Mrs. Barnato was formerly, the wife of Alfred Haxton, but the marriage was dissolved. She has always used her maiden name since that time but has maintained the Mrs. as well.

More romance is attached to the Barnato fortune than practically any other in the British Empire. Her father, was Barney Barnato, who together with his brother Harry, migrated to South Africa more than 50 years ago.

Both arrived in the strange, and then almost uncivilized country, with scarcely sufficient funds to buy food. They secured position with a small travelling circus and saved their money until they had collected about $10,000, when they entered the trading business.

After many hardships and reverses, the two brothers purchased four shares in the Kimberly mines. The mine prospered and Barney Barnato became known as the "Diamond King of South Africa."

In 1897, however, he became depressed with the lonely surroundings of the country and decided to return to England for a rest. While on the way to England he threw himself overboard and was lost.

Two nephews of the brothers, whose names were closely linked with the making of the Barnato fortune met their fate at the hands of a Dutchman named Van Velsheim, who a year later entered the offices of the company and shot them.

Harry Barnato died in 1908, leaving an estate of more than $25,000,000. Barney Barnato's fortune has since become the favorite field for litigation between members of the entire family. Only last year Mrs. Barnato's only surviving brother became involved in litigation here over his share of his uncle's and father's estates. The case was against two cousins and a settlement estimated at $5,000,000 was arranged.

GREATEST JAP DAILY URGES BIRTH CONTROL

By United News.

TOKYO, July 29.—Birth control for Japan, without calling it such, has now a powerful advocate in the Osaka Mainichi, the most widely circulated daily in the Empire.

The Mainichi, is a very recent convert, as a short time ago it was among the many papers denouncing Mrs. Margaret Sanger, the American birth control apostle, for coming to Japan to preach her gospel.

The result of the recent census, showing that the population had increased during the last five years by an average of 700,000 a year, despite a great earthquake death list, stirred the Mainichi its new stand.

"Sylvia"

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters

Sylvia Wood, young bride and art student of Greenwich Village, injured in a motor accident, is compelled to write a psycho-analytical narrative of her married life. Her physician believes it is the only way in which an impairment to her mind may be avoided. She writes of meeting Robert Wood, of their courtship, of the scholarship which takes her to New York to a great art school, and of meeting Nell Hutchens whose studio apartment Sylvia shares.

The sinister shadow of sleek, overgrown Carlos Garcia stretched itself across the page of Sylvia's memory so vividly that it hurt. There are few faces one can remember photographically any more than one can remember one's own face five minutes after leaving the mirror. Carlos had a face that one did not remember, dark, handsome, the flashing white smile, the eyes that evoked both dreams and flame.

In other days Sylvia Wood would have thrust the thought of Carlos from her violently. Now during her psycho-analytical treatment, obeying the command of her physician, she brought the thought squarely into her mind. Strangely when it was there before her it stopped hurting; she gained a new perspective of the old situation. After all Carlos was now back in the Argentine and she was surrounded by the tenderness and fragrance of her husband's love.

The girl resumed her writing. There was no other way to lift the brain scar, her medical adviser had told her. She began with this first day in Greenwich Village: "The cloud over my memory is lifting as I record my life story on these sheets of paper," she wrote. "Incidents that were dim are gaining clarity, and through and above and surrounding it all is the mantle of Bob's love, spelling protection and security."

Sylvia's pencil paused. She felt a surge of tenderness for the fellow who had she had married. He would be back at the hospital in the afternoon, bringing more roses, probably, gathered from the garden. Her father's cottage, her father would come too. In another fortnight she could go home, to the new home Bob had bought for her on the River Road.

The girl looked out of the windows of her hospital room. The June morning had been kissed by Heaven. She wrote these words "kissed by Heaven" and felt she had uttered a poetic expression. Perhaps she had talent for writing as well as for painting. She turned to her table and wrote again. "Somehow I had expected Greenwich Village to be different—more like the Latin Quarter in Paris. I have never seen the Latin Quarter but I have read tributes and have heard my father and Dr. Patrick Noble talk of that charming area on the Left Bank of the Seine. They both knew their Paris well in their student days, it seems.

"But although I had expected to find Greenwich Village different I found myself amazingly at home, and I had a devoted cavalier from the first. This was intended to be in no way disloyal to Bob. In the Village things are not quite the same. Men and girls can be friends, moved by a common artistic impulse or appreciation, without the usual conventional restrictions. I always were Bob about Carlos, and I guess at first he didn't understand. It's true that sometimes these friendships bring tragic crashes. How well I know that, having skirted the narrow margin of tragedy myself.

"Nell Hutchens seems like a perfect peach. She let me have the run of her studio, and she put me up in her spare room on a day bed that is a festive incident under a Navajo blanket when no one is sleeping in it. I expected to remain with Nell only until I could find myself a room, but as it worked out I occupied her apartment studio off Waverly Place almost a year.

"After luncheon which I fixed on the two-burner gas stove, Nell asking if I minded, because she didn't want to jerk herself away from this darned book she was binding in tooled leather—that's what Nell Hutchens does, binds books for rich folks—after we had eaten some chipped beef in cream on toast, two dill pickles and had coffee, I found my way on a Fifth Avenue bus to the art school. They were expecting me, and I enrolled in Rittenburg's class for life work, which will start on the fifteenth. That gave me five days to see New York and get acquainted.

"I came back to Nell's in time for tea, having no place else to go. Tea is a rite with her, and she broke up some charcoal and poured alcohol into the fire chamber of her samovar and prepared for it.

"Tea probably tastes just as good made in a teapot," she said, "but I like it better when a samovar is a part of the landscape."

"Nell sliced half a lemon and half an orange in thin slices, stuck cloves into half a dozen maraschino cherries and brought out a jar of blackberry jam.

"Sonia will want jam with hers if she drops in," Nell explained. She is Russian and likes her tea all dressed up. Prefers rum, she says, but has too much trouble getting it. I haven't any.

"I met my first Villagers that afternoon. The ydressed in for a glass of tea. Glasses are Russian too and so cups were de trop. The Villagers were Leonard Watkins, who came to the Village via Harvard and wrote tragedies in blank verse which no producer ever read, and Sarah Bloomfield, who writes real poetry and enjoys the distinction of having two volumes bringing in royalties.

"It was funny but Sarah, who is an established poet, looked more like a foreman in a laundry and talked like one too, while Leonard seemed utterly and completely the soulful-eyed, long-haired, versifier. He wore a velvet jacket like Ezra Pound's. "Lenny's great on the scenery," Nell explained afterwards, "but otherwise futile. He thinks he's a hero because he writes awful verse and lives in an attic, rather than go into his father's wholesale shoe house somewhere out in Iowa. Don't feel sorry for Lenny. He's happy. Real work would make him miserable."

"Both Lenny and Sarah Bloomfield were full of the dance that night, the 'Sept Arts Ball'.

"Oh my gosh," said Nell, "I forgot all about it. Want to go Sylvia? You'll see all the long haired heroes and the shingled headed heroines in the Village if you do. You don't have to go in costume but most everybody does."

"I said I would like very much to go."

"It was at the Sept Arts Ball that I met Carlos Garcia, destined to be such a source of regret and sorrow."

FAMOUS NEGRO CHURCH IN LINE OF GREAT OIL FORMATIONS

MEXIA, Texas, July 29.—A little old negro church known as Mount Zion—in which its followers have long attended services may soon be rated in the millionaire class if present drilling operations turn out successfully.

The little building which has history dating back to Civil War times is situated on the Navasota river near the Comanche crossing. It is in line with Nigger creek trend of activity and derrick has already been set up on the grounds surrounding the fifty-year old structure. Operations are going forward with the hope that oil will be forthcoming.

According to the pastor, if oil is found and the church receives large royalties from such oil, the money will be put into new buildings and parsonage.

Many of the members of the church are already prosperous having been lucky enough to own land in the Nigger creek section of activity.

FORD REPORTED PLANNING PURCHASE SHARE GERMAN AFRICAN RUBBER

By United News.

BERLIN, July 29.—Henry Ford is reported to be seeking shares in Germany's most prosperous rubber plantation enterprise in the Cameroon. But since German interests are also affected by the British domination of the rubber market, steps were recently taken to prevent Ford from buying his way into the Cameroon Rubber Company.

At a meeting of the board of directors of this concern, it was decided to issue 100 new non-transferable shares at 1000 marks each. The owners of the new shares are thus forbidden to sell out to Ford or any other foreign investor.

It was recalled at the directors' meeting that the firm's extensive plantations in Africa, confiscated by the British at the end of the war, were subsequently returned to the German owners. According to the head of the company, the British administration of the plantations was unsuccessful and they were rapidly approaching the status of a jungle when returned to Germany.

The Cameroon Rubber Company began its reconstruction work at once, with the help of a 1,000,000 mark government loan, swiftly revived production, so that the plantations soon comprised 200,000 rubber trees, 250,000 cocoa trees and 10,000 coconut palms—all fit for immediate exploitation.

At the recent directors' meeting here, fear was expressed that the British might increase taxes, thus rendering the German company's profits doubtful. Under normal circumstances, however, the concern expects to have 50,000 acres of rubber trees and the same expanse of cocoa and palm oil growths under cultivation at the end of 1926.

In 1895 there were exactly 815 telephones in the city of Dallas, Texas. Thirty years later there are over 60,000 telephones in Dallas and all automatic in operation, the first large city in America to be so equipped.

If the entire world were proportionately as well served from a telephone standpoint as the United States it would have ten times as many telephones as at present.

MUSICAL PROGRAM TO BE PRESENTED BY HEREFORD CLUB

Special to The Avalanche

HEREFORD July 29.—Both classical and popular music will be featured in the big musical program that is being staged here Friday evening, August 6th, by the Music Study Club and the Hereford Orchestra, as a benefit program for the Deaf Smith County Fair. The best of local talent will appear on this program, according to Mrs. C. H. Dyar, who is in charge, and Hereford ranks with the best cities in West Texas for musical talent.

Mrs. Helen Lambert Jones, formerly of Hereford, but now of Chicago, Mrs. Ray Conway, Mrs. Homer Fox, Miss Maurine Beyer, and Miss Kathleen Hawkins, all have special numbers on the program. Miss Maule Renfro is preparing some delightful readings for the occasion.

The Hereford Orchestra is one of the most popular organizations of its kind in the Panhandle. It is composed entirely of local talent, but all of them are experienced musicians. This organization will have a definite part in the program.

Hereford is fortunate to have this program at this time, because many of the artists participating are college girls, who are home during the summer months.

The Deaf Smith County Fair has always been given without charging admission, and plans are under way for one of the best of its kind that has ever been held. No donations are being asked for and it is being financed outside of the Chamber of Commerce. More than $1000 is being offered in prizes. The entire proceeds from the program to be given August 6th will go into the Fair fund.

In celebration of the semi-centennial anniversary of the invention of the telephone, the six surviving original subscribers to San Francisco's first telephone system recently held a luncheon. There were also present two of the first employees of the company.

State Highways In Good Shape Despite Rains

DALLAS, Texas, July 29.—Despite the intermittent rains that have fallen over the entire state during the past few weeks, Texas roads are holding up exceptionally well, according to information given out by Mrs. M. F. Tate, head of the highways department of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

"With the exception of short detours in some of the sections where road building work is going on all roads in the state are passable," said Mrs. Tate.

In West Texas rains were actually beneficial as they settled the dust and made traveling in this section much more comfortable, according to Mrs. Tate.

HEREFORD PLANS BIGGER AND BETTER COUNTY FAIR 1926

HEREFORD July 29.—Deaf Smith county is making preparations for one of the best county fairs that has ever been held here, and with the huge wheat crop, the excellent prospects for row crops, and with all livestock in fine condition, the whole thing is expected to go over in good style.

One unique feature of the local fair is the fact that it will be open to everyone; no admission charge will be made, and no money will be taken out of the Chamber of Commerce fund to put it over. The fair will be financed by the sale of advertising booths to merchants and auto dealers, the sale of concession rights and staging of benefit programs.

Mrs. C. H. Dyar, with volunteers from the Music Study Club and the Hereford Orchestra will put on a musical program on Friday evening, August 6, for the benefit of the fair and this event is expected to draw people from all the surrounding country. Fair dates are September 16-17-18.

Last but not least, Our summer sale starting Saturday.—Ross Edwards, Inc. 271-21

OIL AND GAS GOES LONG WAY TO CONSUMER CHICAGO July 28.—Oil or gasoline in the United States travels an average of 1,240 miles from well to consumer, according to the American Research Foundation in a recent bulletin.

MICHIGAN PREXY DELIVERS ADDRESS TO W. T. S. T. C.

Special to The Avalanche CANYON, July 29.—This week Dr. Chas. McKenney, president of the State Teachers College at Ypsilanti, Michigan, delivered three addresses to the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon. The subjects were "The Qualities of Leadership"; "The Scopes Trial"; "Shall the Crime Wave Stop, or Shall We All be Murdered?"

Mr. McKenney is author of a book called "The Personality of the Teacher" and of many magazine articles. In suggesting remedies for the crime situation in the United States he mentioned the need for revision of our criminal code which at present leaves a criminal ninety-nine chances out of a hundred of escaping the death penalty for his crime, while in England he has only twenty-four chances out of a hundred of escaping. "The United States has more murders for its population than England, France, Italy or Germany," said Dr. McKenney. In speaking of the Teachers' College Dr. McKenney said: "The West Texas State Teachers' College is doing more work for the size of its plant than any college I know of in the United States. I have just visited several other colleges in Texas, Indiana, Colorado, South Dakota, Illinois and Michigan and nowhere I have been has the need for more buildings been so imperative. In his addresses he emphasized the need for encouragement of Boy Scout, Girl Scout, and all other activities which will help to keep boys and girls safe when they are out of school and away from home, and the revision of our criminal code."

SOVIET INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION FALLS OFF

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Industrial production in the Soviet Union during May showed a falling off of nearly 10 percent from the record breaking figures of April, and an increase of 29 percent compared with May of last year, according to a bulletin received by the Russian Information Bureau.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lubbock County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon J. W. Baber by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Lubbock County, to be held at the court house thereof, in Lubbock, on the 3rd Monday in August, A. D. 1926, the same being the 16th day of August, A. D. 1926, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 15th day of July, A. D. 1926, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 2609, wherein Edna Baber is Plaintiff, and J. W. Baber, is Defendant, and said petition alleging that plaintiff and defendant were married on the 15th day of January, 1917, and separated on the 15th day of May, 1924. That defendant left plaintiff on the date above mentioned without means of support and with two minor children to care for and support. He abused her and told her he had no love or respect for her, and such conduct on his part rendered her further living with him insupportable.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays for divorce, for care, custody, and control of her minor children, and all costs of courts, etc.

Herein fail not, and have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Lubbock this 15th day of July, A. D. 1926.

(Seal) LOUIE F. MOORE, Clerk, District Court, Lubbock County.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW YORK FINANCE

By United News. NEW YORK, July 29.—Today's market will long be remembered as U. S. Steel and General Motors day. All previous marks for activity and strength by these two issues went by the board in a mad trading session in which 712,000 of the total of 2,452,000 turned over, were Steel or General Motors about evenly divided.

Apparently the country at large was more highly impressed by the tremendous earning power of the two corporations as buying orders were coming in on a heavy scale and both issues were sent hurtling through the previous high records for all time. Two other stocks which are always linked with General Motors and steel in market calculations because of the similarity of banking sponsorship caught the fever and shot up abruptly. Allied Chemical and Can were I. H. $.85, JubaJ. $.85, J. $.85, both very active. In the case of Can the advance was not comparable with the other three Morgan issues as chemical added early 6 points to yesterday's last.

In the case of the four stocks mentioned the companies concerned are all dominant factors in their own industry. While General Motors always has Ford to reckon with this is only in the very low price field. In the class field General Motors earning ability transcends that of its seven nearest competitors. Steel's position is unquestioned as is that of Can and Chemical. Thus the four concerns are in a prime position to benefit instantly and to the fullest extent from every improvement in the country's affairs.

While there was a certain degree of irregularity in the rank and file of stocks throughout the market, it was noticeable that those which went higher, established substantial gains whereas the setbacks were mainly fractional. For instance, American Snuff rose 4 1-2 points; Youngstown Sheet and Tube gained 2 1-8 and Nash was up 2 1-2. These advances appear rather pale compared to the 12 point jump in General Motors and 9 3-4 in Du Pont, which is General Motors natural running mate by reason of the interlocking stock ownership.

DEAF SMITH GRAIN DEALER WILL TRY HIS HAND AT WHEAT

HEREFORD, July 29.—E. W. Harrison, local pioneer grain dealer of Hereford, will try his hand at raising wheat next year. He plans to sow six hundred acres in wheat some 18 miles northwest of Hereford. If this man goes into the wheat farming business like he tackles the buying job, he is liable to set an example for others to follow. "I haven't raised wheat since 1900 but the huge crop of the present year makes me want to try my hand," he declared. "Esley" as Mr. Harrison is known to his friends, will not quit the elevator business, and will raise wheat only as a side line. He has been buying grain here for the past twenty years.

WARFARE ALONG 175 MILE FRONT NOW BEING WAGED IN MICHIGAN TO HALT CORN BORER DISASTER

By EDWIN L. HECKLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LANSING, Mich., July 29.—A line of battle is being established along a 175-mile front in Michigan and around the northwest corner of Ohio to fight the advance of the European corn borer toward the granary of the middle west this summer. Warfare of entomologists against the most destructive agricultural pest of modern times will be carried on with unlimited money and vigor but Michigan state experts who have studied the corn borer moth say the task of stopping it spread appears to be hopeless. Control methods developed are by no means completely satisfactory, it is said, and merely delay spread of the borer. Work is now being done in government laboratories to effect a new method of control.

While it is impossible to predict how long it will take for the borer to work its way into Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, where a wide infection might threaten economic stability of the entire west, the moths spread from the east lake shore almost to the center of Michigan in five years and last year the quarantine area in this state was doubled. Similar conditions exist in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Forty government inspectors, assisted by state police, will maintain the quarantine in Michigan this year. The quarantine line runs from the southern point of Saginaw Bay to the Indiana state line. No corn of any sort or corn fodder is permitted to pass from the infected area. In addition, squads of inspectors will maintain watch all summer for appearance of the pest in territory bordering the quarantine line. Heavily infected fields will be burned and farmers instructed regarding methods of harvesting corn to slow the infection spread.

It is impossible to stop additional infection of corn fields, however, because the borer moth will fly several miles from one field to another, ignoring quarantine lines and wishes of agricultural authorities with impunity. It is impossible to control conditions by lessening the corn acreage because experimentation has shown corn borers live in the vicinity returning to their natural habitat as soon as corn growing is resumed.

It is now virtually impossible to grow corn in Eastern and Kent counties in Ontario where the Michigan infection is said to have originated, according to A. C. Carton, head of the state agricultural industry bureau, and a similar condition may develop in any other section where the borer is not controlled.

Congressional appropriations are being used in connection with state funds for the work this year. Plans are now being made for a more extensive campaign next year which will be financed in part by other middle western states. According to Carton appropriation measure will be introduced in corn belt state legislatures next winter for the purpose, backed by the various state departments of agriculture on the theory it is more economical to fight the borer away from home than to await its advance.

Governor Elect May Join W.T.C.C. Special Train

STAMFORD, Texas, July 29.—Leaving Fort Worth on the morning of August 23, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Special Train, which will go through to Philadelphia, Pa., may carry the Governor-elect and Mrs. Dan Moody to witness the Semi-Centennial International Exposition. An invitation to join the expedition party was extended by telephone yesterday by Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who is planning the excursion, and the invitation is being seriously considered. Sleepers will leave Sweetwater, Abilene, Amarillo and San Antonio on the night of August 22, and will concentrate in Fort Worth on the following morning, where other cars will be added. The special train will leave Fort Worth at ten o'clock August 23, traveling over the Katy and Pennsylvania lines.

After making several stops en route, the party will spend one day and evening in St. Louis so that it will be possible to attend the Municipal Grand Opera and to visit points of interest in the city. The train will leave St. Louis at midnight, stopping next at Indianapolis for half a day, and in Washington, where a day and night will be spent.

Before the West Texas party disbands in Philadelphia, a Texas banquet and reception will be held in one of the leading hotels of the city, to which all Texans will be invited. Senators Morris Sheppard and Earl B. Mayfield, and Texas Representatives in Washington will be invited, and several prominent Texans will

B.C.D. GUARANTEES IDALOU ROUTE PROMISES SUITABLE RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR PROPOSED STATE HIGHWAY

Idalou people have been assured of a good road to Lubbock and work on same will likely begin in the near future. A guarantee was made by the Board of City Development Thursday that a suitable right-of-way would be obtained.

The Lubbock-Idalou highway at this time is in good condition as is always the case during dry weather, but when there is excessive rain the road is at times almost impassable. The proposed new road will shorten the distance some two miles and will insure a first class highway 12 months in the year.

For a time it was thought the highway would follow the railroad, but this will not be true. A change will be made that will enable commissioners to use approximately half of the old highway. In other words one will follow the old road to a point the agricultural demonstration farm, thence in a northwesterly direction to a point four miles southwest of Idalou. The change eliminates all the bog holes and lakes between Lubbock and Idalou.

The party will return from the Exposition by direct routes. Round-trip tickets will be sold by the local ticket agent and the regular Centennial rates will be in effect.

Already Mrs. J. D. Sandefer, wife of the President of Simmons University, Abilene, is arranging for one or more sleepers from that city, and interest is being shown all over West Texas in the trip which is expected to be an opportunity for pleasure and an avenue for publicity for West Texas.
