Coach Faces KKK Threat

(By The Associated Press)

LAKEVIEW, Ga., Feb. 4—Walter Bowland, athletic coach at Lakeview High school, said tonight he had been warned to get out of town or be tarred and feathered.

He said school Principal John B. Burks, received the warning: "Get Bowland out of town or he will be tarred and feathered. Then you will be tarred and feathered."

Statement Is Issued

The threats were inspired, said Bowland and Burks, by a fight at the gymnasium at between Bowland and Marion Hayes, a student at the University of Chattanooga and former student at Lakeview High.

Bowland said 18 hooded members of the Ku Klux Klan lighted a cross in front of his house on January 16 while he was absent on a basketball trip. He said his wife kicked over the cross and called the hooded men "yellow cowards."

He said he asked Sheriff Jim Moreland of Catoosa county for protection and he was refused.

The sheriff, in a statement to the Chattanooga Times tonight, said, "This is what I said to him (Bowland). "I'm just as scared of the Ku Klux Klan as you are. You should conduct yourself in such a way that the Ku Klux Klan wouldn't appear in front of your house."

Ready For Next Threat

Bowland said he found his wife hid in the front yard with a shotgun January 27 watching a group of men gathered on adjacent property. No threat was made at that time, he added.

Burks and Bowland said today they have decided to leave Lakeview High school at the end of the current school year, but added they "will not leave before then and will not be intimidated by the Ku Klux Klan."

"I may get shot," said Bowland, "But if they come into my yard and threaten me I am going to shoot some of them." He said he had collected three shotguns, an automatic rifle, ammunition and blackjack.

Said Burks:

"I have a pistol and ammunition. If they come to my house making threats I am going to shoot someone. I don't mind talking to a person who is unmasked and meets me man to man. But I'm not going to fool with anyone who hides behind a mask."

Lakeview is seven miles from Chattanooga, Tenn.

WOMAN ACQUITTED

New Threat Posed In Dixie Rebellion

South's Demos May Hold Party Funds

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 — Dixie Democrats may hold out on their contributions to the party's campaign funds, two southern senators indicated tonight.

They posed this new threat to party harmony as the rebellion mounted against President Truman's civil rights program.

Senators McClellan (D-Ark) suggested proceeds of the Jackson Day dinner at Little Rock February 19 be "frozen" until "we get some satisfaction out of the national committee."

Truman's Proposals Hit

McClellan told a reporter he discussed the "freeze" proposal with Gov. Ben Lamey, of Arkansas and "he joined me in my views."

Senator Ellender (D-La) also told a reporter the President's policy "is sure to have considerable affect on the amount of contributions." He added an affect has been noted already "and it is not very encouraging to say the least."

The policy laid down by President Truman Monday called for Congress to enact federal laws against lynching and against discrimination in voting or employment on grounds of race, creed or color. The President further asked for anti-discrimination laws covering election of state as well as federal officers, and for the abolishment of the poll tax.

The recommendations immediately encountered promises of "last ditch" opposition from members of the southern congressional delegations. But one Dixie congressman today called it just the "same old pary row."

Republicans, whose 1944 platform was more specific on the racial question than the Democrats, kidded the opposition for what was called their "splinter

Southern Leaders Are Up In Arms

By ROBERT MOOREFIELD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATLANTA, Feb. 4 — Increased rumblings of discontent spread across the South in mounting protests tonight against President Truman's 10-point civil rights program.

The south's Democrats generally were in revolt.

The home of the traditional Democratic vote found fault with its party's leader in the White House in a way that implied far-reaching repercussions in the forthcoming presidential election.

Dramatic Action Seen

Objection to the president's civil rights program was heard from one end of the South to the other. The people and the politicians said they didn't like it.

The reactions to Mr. Trumap's call for racial parity were varied. Arkansas spoke of the creation of a new party— a "Dixie party" composed of rebel Democrats.

South Carolina expressed its disapproval and dissatification in an abrupt announcement that the usual money-raising Jackson-day dinners had been called off for 1948.

Numerous suggestions of giving the Democratic party the old heave-ho were heard.

To Missouri-born Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas the President's program is both ill

Fire In Texas Tech Gym Is Extinguished With No Damage

What might have been a serious blaze was narrowly averted at the Texas Technological college gymnasium about 10 o'clock Wednesday night when a trash fire started in the dressing rooms under the grandstand in the north part of the building as the Golden Gloves tournament was ending.

The fire department sent six trucks to the 20-year-old frame and stucco building.

Firemen found a cigaret or match had been dropped in a trash container in the dressing room, but the container had been carried outside without damage.

Another run was made at 2:25 p. m. when a trash fire was reported in an alley between Twentieth and Twenty-first in 2600-block.

Construction To Start Soon On $80,000 Program At Boys Club

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

CONSTRUCTION of an $80,000 indoor swimming pool, game room and shop addition to the Lubbock Boys club will probably be underway before the end of the month, it was announced after the clubs board of directors met late Wednesday afternoon.

Decision to proceed with the expansion program was the most significant of several actions taken by the board, composed of representatives of Lubbock civic clubs.

Two new civic clubs, Exchange and 20-30 clubs, will be invited to appoint two representatives each to the board of directors, it was decided.

Directors heard an annual report of John W. Wilson, executive director, showing growth and progress of the club during the 1947 calendar year.

They agreed to conduct another meeting next week to take positive action toward securing bids or estimates for construction of the proposed addition to the building and to elect new officers.

Directors present at the Wednesday afternoon meeting were Dr. Marshall Harvey, president, J. A. Fortenberry, vice president,

Benefit Seen To Area Crops

SLOW, soaking rain fell on the South Plains Wednesday night, bringing cheer to farmers and brightening prospects for a fair wheat crop and favorable cotton and feed planting conditions in the spring.

The fall was general over the entire South Plains with little variation apparent in various localities, observers reported.

Good Fall Reported

At the Weather bureau station five miles north of Lubbock the weather observers reported light rain started at 2:25 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, becoming heavier shortly after 6 o'clock. The rainfall last night was still classified as "light," however.

At midnight the total fall for the day was .35 inch.

At 1:30 a. m. the total had been increased to .42.

Weather observers expressed confidence that the rain will continue, at least intermittently, today. There was a possibility that snow would be intermingled with the rain, the temperature at midnight having dropped to 34 degrees.

To Benefit Crops

If the rain does continue, the chances are that this month will have more than the normal February precipitation of .58 inch, which would help restore the seven-inch shortage of rain the South Plains has suffered since last July.

Elsewhere less rain was reported at midnight:

Amarillo, .04 inch; Wichita Falls, 12; Roswell, N. M., .41.

However, Big Spring reported .70 inch.

County Agent Dave W. Sherrill welcomed the rainfall and said that any amount, however small, would be of benefit to the Lubbock county wheat farmers and their estimated 8,000 acres of wheat, and also to the soil in general in preparing it for the spring planting.

Other South Plains points reported similar amounts of rain at 10:30 p. m., and at all points the rain was reported still falling at

Snow Blankets Midwest, East

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP)—A fast moving storm that piled a wide band of snow from Missouri to the Atlantic seaboard took the right of way over a predicted Midwest cold wave today.

The storm dumped up to nine inches of snow over much of Ohio, brought Philadelphia its 13th fall of the season and threatened New York City with a depth of eight inches. From one to eight inches of snow fell in Maryland and up to six inches in West Virginia. The snow was lighter to the west.

New Snow Expected

A new cold wave had been forecast for much of the Midwest Thursday but forecasters said it had been blocked temporarily. A new snow storm is expected to swirl into the Midwest from Oklahoma and Nebraska Friday, followed by much colder weather.

Wind-driven snow in New York delayed train arrivals and resulted in 50 plane flight cancellations at LaGuardia field. The storm disrupted transportation in Maryland and West Virginia. Heavy ice packs drifting into the main Chesapeake bay channel

100,000 Killed In Accidents

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 — Accidents hit the United States a more crippling blow in 1947 than the atomic bomb inflicted on Hiroshima.

The accidents tally shows:

Killed — 100,000 (compared with Hiroshima's 78,150.)

Injured — 10,500,000 (equal to the combined populations of New York City and Chicago).

The cost — $6,700,000,000 (greater than the income tax slash proposed in the Knutson bill before Congress).

Home accidents, which killed 33,500, deposed traffic accidents as the leading killer. The 32,000 motor vehicle deaths represented a 4 per cent drop from 1946. Home accidents gained 3 per cent over the preceding year.

The National Safety council, which compiled the figures, said the total 1947 accident death toll gained 2 per cent over 1946, with all classifications showing increases except traffic and military personnel.

GOP Seeks Budget Cut

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—Fiscal leaders in the Republican-dominated Congress demanded today that at least $2,500,000,000 be sawed off President Truman's $39,700,000,000 spending program for next year.

A $2,600,000,000 payment on the national debt—almost a hundred times that large—also was recommended.

And some Senate Republicans were talking of putting off any tax reduction until July 1. The $6,500,000,000 tax cutting bill passed by the House Monday would carry the reduction back to January 1.

No Definite Figure Seen

The cut in spending was recommended by a 20-member subcommittee of the joint budget committee which is made up of members of the four big money-handling committees of the Senate and House. It will report to the full 102-member joint committee on Friday. That group is supposed to have its budget recommendations ready for Congress by Feb. 15 each year.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) in reporting on the closed session emphasized that the committee can only set a target for a spending cut, not a guaranteed, scientific figure that will stand up under any possible developments.

More For Aid Predicted

To show what he meant, he said Senator George (D-Ga) had informed the other members that Mr. Truman will ask Congress for about $1,000,000,000 more in foreign aid, on top of the $6,800,000,000 sought for the Marshall plan's first 15 months.

Bridges pointed out, however, that if another $1,000,000,000 were set up for overseas help—including aid to China—it would not follow that it all would be spent in the new fiscal year which begins July 1.

But the New Englander also estimated that at least $600,000,000 additional money will be needed in that year to cover the cost of a civil service retirement program

New Program For Rationing Food Planned

By MORGAN REYNOLDS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 — The government prepared to launch a sweeping food rationing campaign on a voluntary basis.

Representatives of 18 consumer, producer and distributor groups will meet tomorrow with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to map details.

With Congress apparently determined not to grant President Truman's request for further legal powers to enforce anti-inflation measures, the administration plans to seek greater public support for an intensified voluntary drive to curb the cost of living.

Meat To Be Emphasized

Charles F. Brannan, assistant Secretary of Agriculture, will head the new food saving campaign. Started by the Citizens Food committee last fall, it has been carried on until now under the direct leadership of the cabinet food committee.

Although no details of the new drive have been revealed, it is understood major emphasis will be placed on meat. But other items in the housewife's food budget are expected to be covered in the voluntary program.

Meat Shortage Feared

The self-imposed rationing program to be drawn up tomorrow will be based on the specific recommendations of the industry and public representatives. It is designed to meet the twin problem of scarce food supplies and high prices.

The Agriculture department has predicted a meat shortage may arise in the next few months. Brannan has told the Senate Banking committee that meat rationing "by price" is already in effect because many people cannot afford to buy.

The Senate Banking committee is scheduled tomorrow to wind up its hearings on various anti-inflation measures with testimony from two large concerns, Standard Brands, and Procter & Gamble. The senators have asked them to "justify high prices" now in effect.

Food Is World's Major Problem

By MAX HARRELSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 4 — The United Nations published its first big survey on world economic conditions tonight, but important Russia was conspicuously lacking.

The 257-page report compiled by the UN Department of Economic Affairs contained these major conclusions:

1. Food shortage continued to be the world's top economic problem.

2. The United States is the only big power exporting more goods than it is importing.

Concerted Action Needed

3. Inflationary price movements threaten to "destroy the progress already achieved" in European recovery.

4. "Concerted national actions" are needed to keep down prices of goods going into foreign trade.

The study was made under the general supervision of David Owen, of Britain, an assistant secretary-general of the UN. David Weintraub, of the United States, director of the UN Division of Economic Stability and Development, was directly in charge.

One of the major difficulties in world recovery, the report said,

Fritz Kuhn, Former Bund Leader, Flees From German Camp

(By The Associated Press)

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 4—Fritz Kuhn, deported former leader of the German-American bund, escaped Tuesday under mysterious circumstances from the Dachau internment camp.

Police searched southern Germany for Kuhn, who was being held by Bavarian de-Nazification authorities for possible trial as a Nazi.

No one seemed to know how he got out of the German-operated prison camp. Prison inmates were the first to report his disappearance.

Kuhn, whose voice once thundered praise of Adolf Hitler at bund rallies in Madison Square Garden, was sentenced to jail in 1939 for grand larceny and forgery involving misappropriation of bund funds.

In 1943 he was deprived of his citizenship. He was ordered deported to Germany in 1945 as an alien enemy "dangerous to the public peace and safety of the United States."

British Map Price Fight

By ALEX M. SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 4—Prime Minister Attlee called today for the freezing of profits and wages to combat spiralling prices.

He urged the freeze on a voluntary basis and under honor system, but with it went a threat to use wartime powers of price control if inflation goes unchecked.

The prime minister risked the ire of the trade unions—the backbone of his Labor party—in his call for self sacrifice by all classes of British society, wage earners as well as employers. The appeal was contained in a white paper, published by the government and read by Attlee in the House of Commons.

Britain Faces Troubles

On behalf of economically-ill Britain, he asked for a general freeze on individual incomes, not only to combat increasing prices but to woo export trade.

His appeal was a reaffirmation with added emphasis of the Labor party's year-old declaration that Britain must tighten its belt at home while rebuilding its economy.

It came against the background of cold, hard evidence that Britain's economy has bumped into tough troubles. Yesterday the chancellor of the exchequer reported that the purchasing power of the pound had declined to 38 per cent of its 1914 value.

The housewife saw evidence of

Thirteen Killed In Palestine Violence

JERUSALEM, Feb. 4 (AP)—One British soldier, five Jews and seven Arabs were killed in Palestine fighting today.

The death toll from Holy Land violence since the Nov. 29 United Nations decision to partition Palestine rose to 1,055.

The British soldier was killed when Arabs attacked a military truck convoy between Jerusalem and Hebron, an official source said. Three other soldiers were wounded.

In northern Palestine, Arabs in Syrian army uniforms battled a British army unit tonight, an army statement said. One Arab was killed and six captured.

Two Arabs were killed by Jewish snipers in the Tel Aviv-Jaffa borderland area, a police report said. One Arab was found dead near Byriah in northern Palestine.

Grain, Cotton Slump; Other Items Also Hit

(By The Associated Press)

COMMODITY, stock and bond prices dropped sharply, without any new development to account for the break, in the nation's markets Wednesday.

Most experts said frankly they didn't know whether it was just a temporary setback or a prick in the postwar price balloon.

Nor could they say whether the present high cost of groceries and other items in the family budget might go down as a result.

Stocks Show Wide Break

Wheat futures dropped 10 cents a bushel—as much as they can in one day—at Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City.

Stocks fell $1 to $5 a share in a 1,200,000 volume turnover at New York, the widest break since last May. Railroad led a broad decline in the bond market.

Cotton broke more than $6 a bale at one time but made some recovery. Final prices at New York ranged from $3.55 a bale lower to 35 cents higher.

Basic Structure Unchanged

It was much the same story in lard, cottonseed oil, crude rubber and most other commodities. The Associated Press commodity index reflected the sharpest break since September, 1947.

Cattle prices remained firm, however.

Market men and economists generally noted that there has been no sudden change in two "basic facts" affecting the price structure.

That is, European requirements under the Marshall program are reckoned about the same as they have been all along. If these had been revised downward, a drop in prices undoubtedly would have followed.

Skid Causes Studied

Also, industrial output continues at the recent high level—a fact that ordinarily would mean steady prices.

In Washington, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson offered several possible causes for the skid in commodity prices.

One, he said, is that prices have

Hindu Group In India Outlawed

NEW DELHI, Feb. 4—The government outlawed the RSSS tonight and began one of India's greatest manhunts for conspirators in the assassination of Mohandas Gandhi.

A communique said the RSSS' "cult of violence has claimed many victims, latest and most precious being Gandhi himself." RSSS stands for Rashtriya Swayam Sevak Sangh (National Volunteer corps).

Mass Roundup Begun

High police officials said a mass roundup of persons prominent in RSSS and another military Hindu organization, Maha Sabha, already had begun. They estimated that 700 or 800 would be arrested throughout the country. Estimates of the number already seized ranged from 300 to 500.

Delhi police arrested more than 200 in raids beginning before dawn.

Narayan Vinayak Godse, held as Gandhi's assassin, was believed to have made statements implicating a number of persons.

NEW GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS—Here are the Lubbock and South Plains Golden Gloves open division champions of 1948. Four of them won their titles in ring battles during Championship night of the regional Gloves tourney in Texas Tech gym Wednesday night. They are left to right, Bill Henderson of Levelland and Lubbock, who successfully defended his featherweight crown; Dwayne Vaughn of Tahoka, who decisioned Billy Brackeen of Slaton to win the lightweight title; Earl Pollard of Lubbock, who decisioned Frank Telles of Texas Tech to take the welterweight championship, and Lonnie Balch of Lubbock who beat Ralph White of Petersburg to take the middleweight crown, J. Anglo-American Bloc In Europe, Middle East, Faces Obstacles

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Anglo-American efforts to improve their military position in Europe and the Middle East are running into serious difficulities.

The growth of a fiery nationalism among the Arab states, complicated by opposition to the partitioning of Palestine, has interfered with plans for a middle eastern entente.

Traditional neutrality and an apparent desire to exact economic consessions in return for military promises mark the Dutch and Belgian reception of plans for a five-power alliance in Western Europe.

Sweden Opposes Bloc

(The Dutch are so meticulous about their neutrality that in 1940, faced five days in advance with the knowledge of the impending German invasion, they nevertheless declined to ask for French and British aid in order to keep their neutral record clear.)

Sweden, trying to ride out the American-Russian storm with a Scandinavian bloc which leans neither to the right nor left, opposes the European bloc as likely to unbalance the pressure against her.

Italy's government has let the United States know that it is being embarrassed in its critical election campaign by the capital which Communists are making out of the presence of American fleet units in Italian waters. Ostensibly on maneuvers and paying a "friendship" visit, the fleet actually represents support of the small body of U. S. troops in Trieste, and of general U. S. policy in the Mediterranean. At Trieste 5,000 Americans are faced by 100,000 well equipped and highly truculent Yugoslavs.

The Greek government is fighting back against some U. S. demands made in connection with our aid program. The politicians have just ousted their best general over American protests, and only recently one faction expressed the wish that we would get out.

Solution Expected

North African independence leaders have made open threats to invite Russian support unless the United States can persuade France to change what they call her "oppressive" policy.

The Anglo-American position on the shores of the former Italian colonies in Africa is threatened by the Egyptian desire for incorporation, or at least a mandate.

None of these impediments is insoluble, of course. Most of them, especially those in Europe, are likely to be solved amicably. The Moslems, although mad at us right now, will find themselves pushed inexorably into our camp by the rising threat of Communism, which they will not tolerate in the long run, and by their interests in foreign oil development money.

Some objections to the developing Anglo-American strategic pattern may just have to be overriden. To do so would go against our grain, but necessity is the mother of action in cold war as in hot.

Mustangs, the wild and almost wild horses of the prairies, are descendants of horses brought to America by conquering Spaniards in the 16th century.

Texan, Prisoner At Alcatraz, Suspected In Oklahoma Murder

By PHIL DESSAUER
United Press Staff Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 4—A murder charge has been drawn—although not yet filed — against a 26-year-old Texan, now in Alcatraz, for the slaying of James Long, Oklahoma highway patrolman shot to death here in 1942, state and county officers revealed today.

The suspect was identified as Ernest Tyree, of Royce City, Texas, now serving 10 years for rape in Alcatraz. The identification was made by Jake Sims, head of the state crime bureau, and county attorney Warren Edwards.

Interview Asked

Sims said he has written the head of the federal prison bureau in Washington for permission to interview Tyree. The letter was sent through the office of Gov. Roy J. Turner yesterday, Sims said.

The disclosure today was made after five years of investigation into the death of Long, who was fatally shot in Winans Park here when he came to the aid of a 17-year-old girl who was being attacked.

The officers said Tyree was in Oklahoma City working in a filling station about the time of the killing, and that he later entered the army in Texas. Royce City is in Rockwell county, about 30 miles east of Dallas.

Prisoner Transferred

Stationed at Midland, Texas, Sims said, Tyree was sentenced to 10 years for raping a sergeant's wife, and was sent to Leavenworth prison.

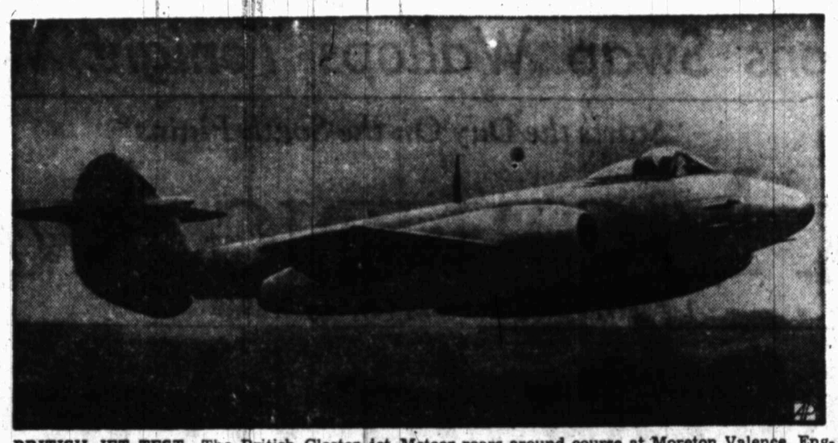

"In 1945, he attempted to rape a civilian employe at Leavenworth, and was transferred to Alcatraz," Sims stated.

The killing of Long created a furore in the state which led to rounding up scores of known sex criminals and other suspects in the period immediately following the shooting. Peace officers and other interested persons raised a reward of more than $2,000 for capture of the killer.

Investigations uncovered many suspects, and in one or two cases purported confessions were obtained, but officers never have been able to make a case that would stick.

State Supreme Court Disagrees On Responsibility In Drowning

AUSTIN, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Supreme Court disagreed today on who was legally responsible for the drowning of a five-year-old Orange boy.

The court's majority held the owner of the water-filled pit where the boy drowned, was liable. Two justices in a dissenting opinion sharply disagreed, saying in effect the majority was upsetting legal precedent in Texas.

James McLaughlin of Orange was awarded $15,200 damages in suit against H. F. Banker for the death of his son. The boy was drowned in a pit on a subdivision near Orange, allegedly owned by Banker.

McLaughlin claimed the digging of the pit made the spot especially attractive to children, and dangerous. Banker replied the child was a trespasser, the drowning was an accident and no fault of his.

The Court of Civil Appeals granted McLaughlin damages, but held the $15,200 was excessive. The amount was cut to $6,000.

The Supreme Court's majority agreed with the intermediate court, saying that when children of tender age come upon premises because they are unusually attractive, "the legal effect was that of an implied invitation."

The minority disagreed, saying that liability for trespassing children has been limited to accidents arising from "hidden and latent dangers" such as abandoned wells. The dissent said that this has never before been extended to the perils of "an open, obvious and patent character."

Railroad Commission Finding Is Upheld By Supreme Court

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Feb. 4 — The Texas Supreme court today declared that a railroad commission finding will be sustained if "reasonably" supported by substantial evidence.

The high court affirmed lower court judgments declaring J. C. Hawkins' permit to drill a well invalid. The special permit was created by the railroad commission in December, 1940.

Appeal Is Filed

It authorized Hawkins to drill a tenth well on a 21.6 acres tract in the eastern part of the East Texas oil field. The Texas company which owned an adjacent tract, brought suit to test validity of the commission's order.

The trial court cancelled the permit and enjoined drilling of the well. The Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld the trial court. Hawkins appealed to the supreme court.

Hawkins application relied on the dissenting opinion written in the important Trapp case. That opinion argued that in testing the validity of a commission order, testimony of a single witness which would sustain the permit makes it immediately useless for the court to proceed further.

Dissent Is Given

The court will be powerless to do anything except sustain the permit, regardless of evidence to the contrary, the dissenting opinion in the Trapp case declared.

This the Supreme Court denied today.

"The substantial evidence rule does not mean that," wrote Associate Justice G. B. Smedley, author of the opinion.

He said previous decisions repeatedly have said the findings of the commission will be sustained by substantial evidence.

Reviewing testimony of a petroleum engineer for Hawkins that drilling of the tenth well would increase the recovery of oil, the high court's opinion declared:

"It clearly appears . . . that this opinion is the expression of the "more wells, more oil" theory that has often been presented for support of permits to drill additional wells in order to prevent waste.

"The opinion of the witness is not based upon unusual conditions perculiar to the Hawkins tract."

Caution Urged In Using Weed Killer Without Expert Advice

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 4 (U.P.)—The herbicide 2,4-D should not be used without expert advice, according to Glenn Viehmeyer, of a University of Nebraska experimental sub-station.

Dosages previously recommended now appear too high for safe use, Viehmeyer said, but lighter applications will control most of the serious weeds without injuring the plant crops.

Lord Derby, Famous Sportsman, Claimed

PRESCOT, England, Feb. 4 (AP) —The Earl of Derby, 82, former cabinet minister and one of the world's prominent sportsmen, died in his sleep at his country home here today.

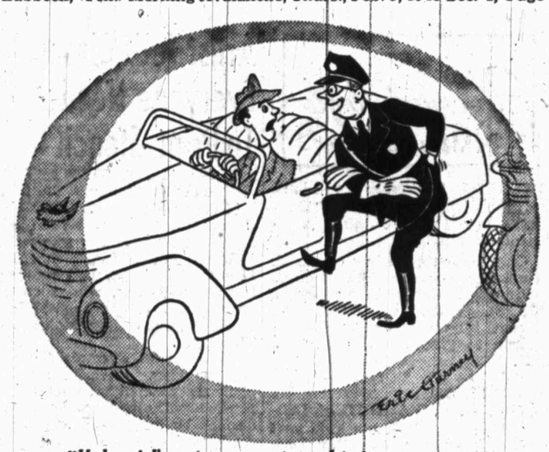

He had been ill with a cold. Last night he suffered a relapse and his heart failed. With him were Lady Derby and his 29-year-old grandson and heir to the Derby millions, Lord Stanley.

Lord Derby was Secretary for War under David Lloyd George during the first World War and British Ambassador to France.

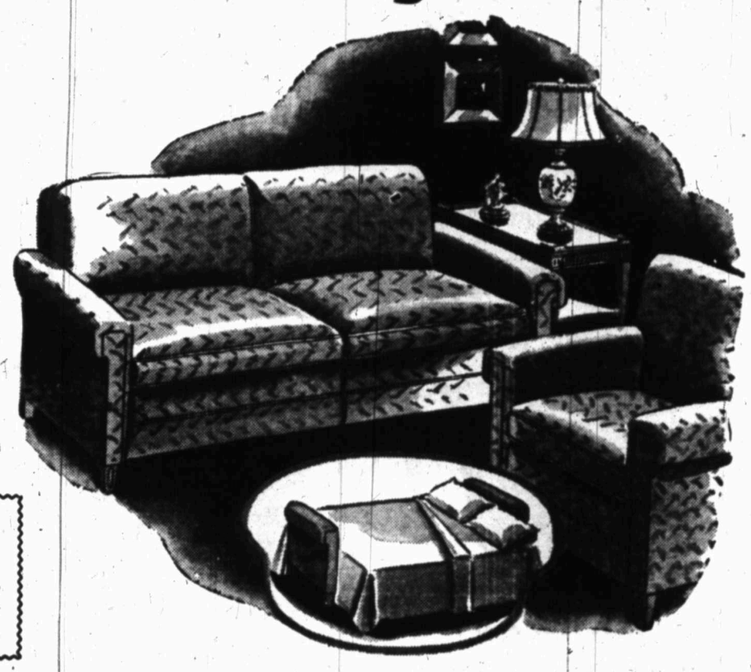

Lord Derby was best known, however, for his association with the English Derby, the great horse racing classic which was named for his family. For nearly a half century he owned some of the world's best race horses. They won for him over 1,000 races with nearly $3,340,000 in prizes.

Despite that record Lord Derby had only one winner in the famous race—Sansovino in 1924.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

DURING Shakespeare's time there was a custom on Valentine's day that we think is an excellent one.

One challenged a boy or a girl, a man or a woman, out of doors with the phrase, "Good morrow, 'tis St. Valentine's Day." The person thus challenged was required to give the challenger a gift.

MISCELLANY

MRS. G. C. VAUGHT of Lubbock route 3 has a kind spot in her heart for Mrs. Ray Dick of Post route 2 and small wonder. Mrs. Vaught lost a purse containing $48 in cash, her driver's license and other valuable papers recently in a Lubbock department store. Mrs. Dick found it and returned it to her by mail.

Whenever we hear of kind honest acts, such as these, it goes a long way to restore our faith in human nature.

NEED UNIFORMS

THE welfare committee in the Woman's Forum is sponsoring a Girl Scout troop and finds that uniforms are the greatest needs at the present time. The families cannot afford to buy them and the Forum members are wondering if mothers of Lubbock Girl Scouts would check their closets and see if perhaps they do not have outgrown Scout dresses that would fill this need.

The Woman's Angle isn't suggesting that you give the uniforms away; perhaps you want to keep them for sentimental reasons. We're just telling you about it and if you'd like to give one of your daughter's uniforms to a little girl who is interested in the program but unable to buy the necessary clothes, you are invited to telephone Mrs. A. E. Dietering at 7188.

Someone will pick up the uniforms.

Artist Tells Class Everyone Needs To Print, Stencil

By OLETA STEWART
Of The Woman's Staff

"Everyone needs to know about stencil work and silk screen printing, because they are so practical and so much fun," said Prof. Emmy Zweybruck, well known artist and designer, who conducted an applied arts workshop at Texas Technological college Monday and Tuesday.

Using as an example the scarves, napkins, luncheon sets and place mats which have been screen printed with modernistic original designs by the present class, Prof. Zweybruck explained the many uses of the art and said, "In these modern times, applied art is more important than pure art."

Enrolled in the workshop were Mesdames Bruce Bryan, Yancy Price, O. A. Kinchen, L. E. Parsons, Rosalyn Sasser, Chester Hubbard, C. C. Taylor, Kenneth Hicks, J. G. Keyes, M. H. Mayes, Truman Camp, Richard Heineman, Galen Carr, W. C. McManus, M. B. Hilburn and Misses Edna Houghton, Kate Rogers, Martye Poindexter, Claudia Neelley, Mary Wilson, Mabel Erwin, Quepha Rawls, Ellen Wright, Juanita Black, Martha Buttrill and Mary Lou Roberson. Using the materials provided in special kits designed by the professor, the participants selected their own projects, designs and colors.

Work Must Be Exact

Looking over the class working busily in smocks and aprons, Prof. Zweybruck smiled and said, "I don't allow them to fool around. Their work must be exact." She tries to teach each person a professional technique because she believes that if what she learns is not perfect, it is of no artistic value. The Viennese artist-designer moved from one work table to the next, taking a personal interest in each project, correcting and helping in an easy friendly manner.

Prof. Zweybruck prefers silk screen or stencil work to brush painting because it achieves greater clarity and contrast. Her designs are not taken from nature, but are purely modernistic, based on a vertical and horizontal structure.

Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla., will be next on Prof. Zweybruck's tour.

Fight To Protect Man's Rights Are Based On Age-Old Ideals

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—The rights of man . . . freedom . . . . civil rights . . . . we throw the words around. What do they mean?

Sometimes, it seems, they lose their meaning for President Truman issued a message this week on civil rights.

In it he asked Congress to pass laws protecting better the civil rights of all citizens.

Not New Proposal

In his 4,000-word message Mr. Truman used the word "rights" 54 times, which is understandable since it was a message on rights.

The rights of man are an old idea. We've put it into practice and tried to protect it with the Constitution only after ages of blood and agony for mankind.

Before the birth of Christ the stoic philosophers believed in the brotherhood of man and that every individual has liberty and responsibility.

Now we've reached the point where those who believe in Democracy—they fall roughly into two groups—believe man has, or should have, certain rights.

Arguments Are Given

Both groups arrive at the same conclusion, although differently, in this way:

The first group says men are born free and have a right to remain that way.

The others say men were born without rights. But in order to survive and live together, whether it's in a tribe or a nation, men must do this:

They must set up rules for living. Those rules—or rights—are to protect each man from unjust harm by anyone else and to give him freedom—

But he can enjoy that freedom only so long as he doesn't use it to hurt anyone else. If he does that; he violates someone else's rights.

So the view of both groups—comes down to this:

The individual is important. The state is created by individuals for the individual, not the individual for the state.

But the rights of individuals in this country are not always protected but are often violated, as Mr. Truman pointed out.

Negroes have been lynched without a trial and kept from voting. And minorities, not only racial but religious, have been abused and persecuted.

The Encyclopedia Britannica sums up what has happened to civil rights and liberties in this country:

"At various times and places minorities, many of which later became respectable, have been persecuted by Americans in ways which match the more wholesale horrors of the totalitarian terrors.

"Jews, Masons, Catholics, Quakers, Mormons, Abolitionists, Copperheads, Southerners, Carpetbaggers, Irish, Germans, Negroes, Indians, Chinese, Japanese, strikers, employers, union organizers, 'scabs,' syndicalists, anarchists, Communists, facists, pacifists, feminists, artists, teachers.

"Some of those in turn have violated each other's liberties."

Judge Pardue Grants New Trial In Suit

Judge G. V. Pardue of 99th district court Wednesday afternoon granted a defense motion for a new trial in the case of Commercial Music Co., Inc., against J. K. Cawthron and others, doing business as Automatic Music company, suite for collection of a note.

The case was filed July 22, 1947, and an instructed verdict for the plaintiff, whereby recovery of $20,792.79 was provided was returned Nov. 18 by a jury of which J. C. Massengale was foreman.

In his motion for a new trial, Ben Kucera, defense counsel, pleaded among other elements that there was reason to believe that the note had been altered; that the judgment was excessive, and that plaintiff had sold replevied goods and that a credit for the alleged sale should be applied against the judgment.

The case will be a de novo proceeding when heard.

Key and Kimmel, Lubbock law firm, represent the plaintiff.

Suspect In Poison Death Of Abilene Woman Believed Sane

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 4 (AP) — Members of the Arkansas state hospital staff are convinced that Lonnie A. Robbins, charged with murder in the New Year's Eve poison death of his bride, is sane and mentally responsible for his actions, Supt. George W. Jackson said today.

Jackson added, however, that Robbins would be retained at the hospital several days for further questioning before being returned to Van Buren county to face trial.

Robbins, 49, is accused in the death of his 51-year-old bride, the former Mrs. Sadie Sue Dudley of Abilene, Tex. Mrs. Robbins died at her husband's home a few hours after she arrived there following their Christmas Day wedding at Abilene. Physicians said she died of poison.

HARTLEY TALKS TO PETRILLO—Chairman Fred A. Hartley, Jr., (R-NJ), left, of the House Labor committee gestures as he talks to James C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musiciahs in Washington. As the hearing opened, Hartley told Petrillo the justice department was "exceedingly lax" in preparing a Lea act case in which the union chief was acquitted at Chicago. (AP Wirephoto).

Highway Engineer Trainee Jobs Announced By Civil Service

The Civil Service commission has announced examinations for positions of highway engineer trainee, and for several phases of photofluorographic work in the U. S. Public Health service. The jobs are located throughout the nation, including Washington, D. C.

Highway engineer trainee jobs, with the Public Roads administration, pay $2,168 to $2,644 a year. Written test is required and applicants must meet certain educational and experience requirements. Age limits of 18 to 35 are waived for veterans, and deadline on applications is Feb. 24.

Posts in the photofluorographic field are operator trainee, operator, unit supervisor, and inspector. Salaries range from $1,954 to $3,397 a year. Deadline on applications is Mar. 15.

Information and forms are available at the office of Elmer Potts, secretary of the local board, in the Federal building, or from civil service regional offices.

It has been estimated that 16 million housing units in the United States in 1940 were in such poor condition that they needed to be replaced or rebuilt.

Putting Chains On Automobile Is Hard Job For Bostonian

BOSTON, Feb. 4 (U.P.)—During one of the season's worst snowstorms, two Boston policemen received an emergency call. A man was seen pinned under an automobile stalled on a street corner.

At the scene they saw the lower half of a man's body wriggling beneath the car. The legs flexed and strove. The feet waggled. Muffled groans resounded. The two patrolmen hurriedly began to jack up the car.

From underneath a hollow voice spoke: "Will you fellows help me out after I get these chains on?"

It is estimated that 47 per cent of all rural highways in the United States are surfaced.

New York authorities claim the city produces $4,000,000,000 worth of goods every year, which they say is greater than that of Detroit, Philadelphia and Cleveland combined.

The domestic consumption of finished oil products in 1947 was at the rate of 582 gallons a year for every man, woman and child in the country.

Twenty-seven different languages are represented in the 1,200 newspapers and magazines which are edited or published in New York.

GROCE'S WHITE ELEPHANT SALE

FOLKS, WE HATE TO ADMIT IT—BUT YOU HAVE GIVEN US SUCH A SURPRISE IN THE BUYING OF OUR MANY WHITE ELEPHANTS, THAT WE ARE FORCED TO CLOSE OUR STORE ALL DAY THURSDAY IN ORDER THAT WE MAY CATCH UP WITH OUR DELIVERIES AND TO PUT MORE WHITE ELEPHANTS ON OUR FLOOR FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

● BEDROOM SUITES Yes, we found some more bed room suites stuck so far back that we have not found the price on them—but they will be offered at a real sacrifice. Some in walnut, some in mahogany and it looks like I can see a ranch style bed room suite way back there in a corner. I do not know what it is worth—but it will hvae a White Elephant tag on it Friday morning.

● LIVING ROOM SUITES Well! Well! There are several 2 piece living room suites and several odd sofas up in the attic that we forgot to invoice so get them down boys, and I will put the White Elephant Tag on Them Thursday night, some of them even has the tag off, but I will guess at what they cost and then cut that price tag on them with the White Elephant.

● ODD TABLES Pshaw! I remember buying those tables, but you know I had forgotten all about them, and they are nice tables and all have a good finish. Well, pull them out of the crates and dust them off boys—we will see what the people think of them and the White Elephant Tag on them Friday and Saturday.

● ODD CHAIRS & PLATFORM ROCKERS Freelan said he knew they were back there in the corner, but just could not get to them until today—so the boys are pulling out enough to fill the floor (and some of them have best of materials and construction in frame and upholstering! All are ok and in a wide assortment of colors and materials. So to you good people—make it to the White Elephant Furniture sale at Groce's Friday and Saturday if at all possible.

● PICTURES You know that absent minded people sometimes get themselves in a jam and that is just what Freelan has done on pictures. The boys found 3 crates of pictures—some in prints, florals, scenery, godeys and a few modern. Now Freelan is trying to work himself out the jam on pictures and they are being placed all over the store with a great big White Elephant tag on them. So come down and look them over—it might be just the picture you have been wanting—and it will have a good reduction in price.

Take Time To Pay

To you good people of Lubbock and Lubbock's trade territory—Freelan W. Groce and his entire personnel take this opportunity to thank each of you in person for the wonderful patronage you have given him, and all ask that you forgive them for not being able to wait on all of you—but all did the best they could as this White Elephant Sale turned out to be bigger than anyone expected. They did not know that so many people wanted furniture and all do appreciate your patronage and your kindness in waiting to be served. During this sale we used the delivery men for salesmen—and now we are using the salesmen for delivery men. Come back Friday—we will make every effort to wait on you!

First Major Appropriation Bill Passed By House After Dispute

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The first big appropriation bill of 1948 skimmed through the House today after a brief flareup over President Truman's $700,000 emergency fund.

The $991,518,551 bill finances a score of miscellaneous federal agencies, including the White House, for the fiscal year starting July 1. The total is $56,280,313 below the President's budget estimates—a cut of about six per cent.

GOP Opposes Measure

The vote that sent the bill to the Senate was 339 to 10. All 10 negative votes came from Republicans.

The skirmish over the President's emergency fund developed over an amendment by Rep. Rees (R-Kas) to take $200,000 off the $700,000 recommended by the Appropriations committee. The President has asked for $1,000,000, twice what he was given for the year ending next June 30.

Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas called the $700,000 a "modest sum" and told his colleagues that Congress in the past has given presidents, including Republicans, the money they sought to run their offices.

Not a single Democrat supported the Rees amendment, while 12 Republicans opposed it. The vote that killed it was 32 to 59.

There was no debate on the biggest item in the bill, $459,588,854 for the Public Roads administration.

Western Demos Plan Platform

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 4 (U.P.)—The 11 western states will attempt to commit the Democratic party to a program of devolopment for the West, New Mexico Democratic party chairman Bryan G. Johnson said today.

Johnson said the Western states would join to form a group that would also ask for protection of the west's industries.

The group will request that these two primary programs be written into the Democratic party platform for 1948, Johnson said.

Headquarters Selected

Each of the 11 states will form committees to adopt detailed proposals which will then be submitted to the central group for sifting and adoption into a western program. Headquarters of the group will be in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Johnson appointed Albuquerque businessman Clyde Oden general state chairman for New Mexico's committee. Oden and Johnson will select 15 or 20 men from various parts of the state to serve on the committee. Johnson said that the New Mexico committee would represent most New Mexico industries and businesses.

Needs To Be Listed

The Salt Lake City group will have as its major objective the establishment of the essential western needs. Johnson said that the group would probably receive requests that protection and development of mining, oil, natural gas, lumber, and other industries be included in the Democratic platform this year.

Johnson added that further reclamation and irrigation projects would probably be asked by many of the states.

Chairmen of the state committees will meet in Salt Lake City on May 30 or 31, according to Johnson.

The move by Democratic party leaders followed a western tour some weeks ago by Republican presidential aspirant Harold Stassen. Stassen said he favored substantial appropriations for western reclamation and irrigation projects. He also said that he thought the West should have a greater voice in shaping national policy.

Brownsville To Mark Formal Opening Of Charro Days Fiesta

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 4 (AP)—A barbecue luncheon tomorrow will mark the formal opening of the eleventh annual Charro Days fiesta, a four-day celebration in the southernmost city in the continental United States.

The festival spirit has held sway all week, however, with crowds of celebrants turning out despite rainy weather the first few days.

The luncheon will be given by the Brownsville Kiwanis club in the motor pool building at Fort Brown, which also will be scene of three nights of dancing to the music of Desi Arnaz and his orchestra. Guests at the luncheon will be Rio Grande valley Kiwanians and members of other Brownsville service clubs.

The fiesta, originally conceived to entertain winter tourists and to give them an insight into Latin-American customs, folk dances, music, artistry and handcraft, has grown to the proportions of an international celebration.

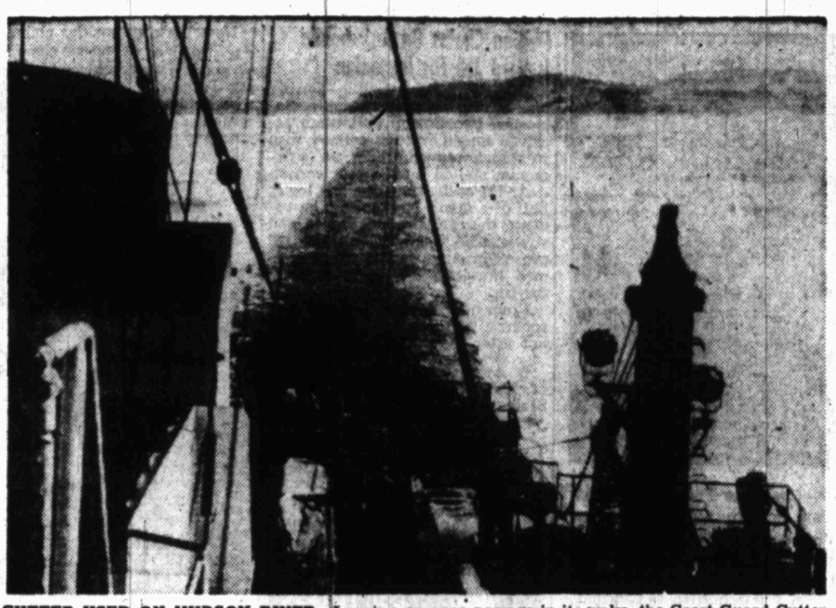

The men of Brownsville and the Rio Grande valley have been growing beards for the event since the shaving deadline went into effect December 1. A grand prize will be awarded the best whisker crop.

Bids Are Submitted For Hospital Annex

Six bids for general construction, three for heating and plumbing and five for electrical work were submitted Wednesday afternoon in the office of Haynes and Kirby, architects, for construction on an annex to Lubbock Memorial hospital for use by the obstetrical department, according to information from the architects office.

J. H. Felton, business manager of the hospital, reported last night that low bid for general construction was $61,139.40 by G & G Construction company of Lubbock. Low bid for heating and plumbing was $21,840, submitted by A. P. Kasch & Son of Big Spring, and J. D. Nelson of Lubbock submitted low bid of $4,475 for electrical work, it was reported.

Felton said that no decision had been made on awarding contracts last night, the decision pending contact with Dr. J. T. Krueger and other hospital board members. Contracts will probably be let sometime today, Felton said.

Identity Of Victim Of Crash Is Studied

Possibility that the identity of an unknown victim of a fiery crash of two pickup trucks east of Idalou last Dec. 17 may be established was discussed among law enforcement officers Wednesday night.

Lubbock police were requested by a Byers, Texas, woman to aid in the search for her husband, whom she said left Byers last Dec. 16 for Lubbock.

The woman described her husband's baggage and other effects. It was indicated the Texas Highway patrol would send the effects of the unidentified victim, who at the time was established as a hitch-hiker, to Byers for possible further identification.

Traffic Halted Near Slaton As Large Co'ton Truck Overturns

A truck loaded with 52 bales of cotton overturned on the graded curve just north of Slaton's business district about 6:30 o'clock Wednesday night, tying up traffic for a few minutes.

Texas Has Two Types Of Rats, But Naturally Neither Native

By JOE HITCHCOCK
Avalanche Staff Writer

There are two kinds of rats in Texas is the astounding fact released by the A. & M. college extension service, according to the Gaines County News. One, known as the Norway rat, lives on the ground, under buildings, heaps of rubbish, and in burrows.

The other, the Alexandrine rat, is the snooty type with some socially-desirable habits. "It craves to live in higher places sueh as attics, lofts, under roofs, eaves and double walls.'

"The Norway rat evidently hasn't been naturalized, but in Norway they are probably called Texas rats," the News says.

"Anyway, if you happen to hear a squeak with a Norwegian accent, you will know what kind of a character you have to deal with; do not confuse with Rattus Alexanderus."

Snakes To Be Pitied

The Old Timer of the O'Donnell Index-Press explains the vast difference in the characteristics of poisonous and non-poisonous Texas snakes.

Bull snakes, chicken snakes, and prairie racers, he says, reproduce simply by sticking their tails into loose soil, the female that is, where the eggs are unleashed. Mama snake then retires with considerable relief and 'probably soon forgetting all about the place in which the eggs were deposited, and so it isn't likely that the youngsters grow up with any knowledge of their their papa or mama."

But in the case of rattlesnakes, cottonmouth moccasins, copperheads, and coral snakes, the Old Timer points out, the young are born as are animals. When danger threatens, the mother opens her mouth and the snakelets and snaketes rush into the interior in a mad retreat. The upper part of the 'door' works on hinges, he adds, a convenience not possessed by her non-poisonous cousins. These kids know their mother inside out!

A slight inconvenience was overlooked by H. B. Lewis, manager of the Seminole Chamber of Commerce, when he was invited to address a meeting of the Lions club last week.

Several unscheduled events occurred, and apparently there was no time-keeper to stop the clock because there was not time enough for Lewis' speech. However, he graciously accepted the invitation to appear at the next meeting.

Douglas Meador of Matador says that with the new look in women's dresses the winds of spring promise no more than a suddenly uninteresting season.

In a slightly different vein, he says:

"Dressing in winter's boudoir, the night turned quickly and descended the stairway with powdery snow in her hair. Orchestra of the winds had reached a sonorous cadanza that melted rapidly in the warm milk of silence. Ice popped suddenly on the elms like the tapping of a conductor's baton and night, cold and beautiful, waltzed away in the strong arms of a blizzard!"

Dallas Lawyers Pledge Funds To Establish Legal Clinic

DALLAS, Feb. 4 (U.P.)—Approximately $100,000 was pledged last night by Dallas attorneys to house the Southwestern legal foundation at Southern Methodist university.

Dean Robert G. Storey of the SMU law school originated the idea for the project to consist of three buildings standing on a five-acre plot. The legal foundation would establish a postgraduate laboratory where lawyers, judges, government leaders and labor and management leaders could meet for study and consultation.

Storey told the 100 lawyers attending that "we want $150,000 from lawyers in Dallas and another $100,000 from lawyers around the state. If we can raise that much, Dallas businessmen have promised to raise the rest."

If money can be raised, the dean added, construction would begin this year.

Chief Justice J. E. Hickman of the Texas Supreme Court addressed the gathering. He commented that the proposed foundation was a "move forward with progress in law."

Two Men Are Held On Plainview Food Store Burglary Charges

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 4 (Special)—Charged with burglary of the Plainview Furr Food store Dec. 22; David Lester, 36, formerly of Lubbock, is held in lieu of bond.

George Raymond Adams, 34, also is charged in the case.

The burglary netted intruders $5,800 in cash and checks.

The men posted bonds in Eastland felony cases recently. Sheriff Ted Andrews of Hale county arrived in Eastland too late to obtain custody, but circulated a pickup request which resulted in arrest of Lester Saturday at Monahans. Adams had not been reported arrested on the Plainview charge.

None of the loot from the Furr store had been recovered, the sheriff's department said.

During the Revolutionary War, Americans drank tea made from brewing leaves of the ceanothus, a shrub of the buckthorn family.

Conlin Is Speaker At Rotary Session

Conformity with the moral law of God is the way to peace in the world, Fr. Leo Conlin of the Paulist Fathers staff at St. Elizabeth's Catholic church said in an address at the Rotary club luncheon Wednesday at Hilton hotel.

Fr. Conlin said that observance of the moral law on a national level has made and kept America free, and he believes that such observance on an international level will bring the same free status to the world. He asserted that "you can't supplant God's moral law with other laws," and believes that to oppose such a law is to oppose nature.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Wm. F. Blakeslee, St. Elizabeth's pastor.

The day's program included a skit by the Jaycee's version of New York's famous Rockettes, part of an announcement of the Jaycee "Fun For You" program Thursday and Friday nights at the high school auditorium. Ray Chapman introduced the skit.

Bert Nelson was introduced as Junior Rotarian for February from the high school. Texas Tech's Junior Rotarian is to be introduced next week. Visiting Rotarians included Earl Kromer of Amarillo, Thomas Metcalf of Toledo, O., Walter Watkins of Ralls, John Portwood of Brownfield, Joe H. Anderson of Quanah, Ray Nichols of Vernon, J. E. L. McCollum of Weslaco, and Mark Allen of Seagraves.

Club President Rex Webster presided, with invocation by S. L. Forrest.

HOOSIERS CLING TO BOND

NASHVILLE, Ind. (U.P.)—Nobody knows whether it was patriotism or thrift, but the fact remains that Brown County, Indiana, was the only one of the 92 Hoosier counties in which no government savings bonds were cashed in 1947. Brown residents bought more than $106,000 in Series E, F and G bonds during 1947.

Paratroopers Stage Operation Snowdrop In Upper New York

PINE CAMP, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—Five-hundred paratroopers thawed out today in a bivouac area after performing the largest mass snow drop in U. S. army history without major casualties.

The men parachuted yesterday from planes 800 feet above the snow-covered drop zone. A snow-shoed advance against an imaginary enemy followed, climaxing three months of training in the Army's "exercise snowdrop" at this northern New York military village.

In sub-zero weather last night, the 500 troops depended upon sleeping bags and improvised shelters to keep warm. Each man wore 20 pounds of clothing. No fires were allowed.

The move to the bivouac area involved an eight-mile hike on snowshoes and skis.

Supplies of food, gasoline and medical equipment were to be dropped from C-82 "flying boxcars," the Army's largest twin-engined planes.

The battle will continue until late Thursday.

TOSS IN TOWEL

ATLANTA, Ga. (U.P.)—U. S. Post Office employes literally tossed in the towel when higher-ups ordered them to economize. The first casualty of the new economy program was the 1,400 workers' towel service.

Henderson, Vaughn And Pollard Win Regional Golden Gloves Championships

Balch Gains Middle Title

By BOB CONE
Avalanche Staff Writer

The battling comeback of two former local Golden Gloves champions to hammer out decisions over fighters who, in earlier fights had stamped themselves as the-men-to-beat-to-win, featured championship night of the 12th annual regional Gloves tournament in Texas Tech gym Wednesday night.

Frank Telles, the 20-year-old Texas Tech student who dethroned Bill Mills of Brownfield, defending welterweight champion, Monday night by knockout and then put away Clarence Byrd of Petersburg the following night by technical knockout, was one fighter whose final bid for the title was thwarted by a wry red-head who was more ring wise and punch proof.

Vaughn Beats Brackeen

The second to drop from the championship picture was Billy Brackeen, the Slaton boy who came to Lubbock Monday to defend his bantamweight crown and, being overweight, fought in the lightweight open division.

A South Plains neighbor, the 1945 featherweight champ here, pummeled Brackeen about the ring rather heavily and consistently to drop him from the lightweight picture. He was Dwayne Vaughn, dark, rangy, and from Tahoka.

Telles didn't get to blast his opponent, Earl Pollard of Lubbock, the 1943 welterweight titlist here, with those jolting rights and lefts which dropped two other opponents. Pollard, tall, rangy, a red-head, kept his shoulder pointed at Telles throughout the fight and, moving close in, did most of his damage under a defense cover which the Tech fighter didn't seem to be able to beat down for opening shots at his target.

Telles, who is from Fabens near El Paso, had picked up a heavy following during the first two nights and the decision of the judges was received with an admixture of emotions. There was applause. There were boos. There were cat calls.

Those down under saw Pollard's defense work perfectly against many of those intended devastating rights and lefts which seemed to paralyze Telles' other two foes. Pollard took one of Telles' heaviest rights to the head in the second round and it hurt him badly, for the moment.

Henderson Wins Again

Plucky Charles Neff of Petersburg, who was beaten here last year by Bill Henderson, tried a comeback against the same Levelland Larruper here Wednesday night, but Henderson was even better and faster and his punches were more punishing and potent. Neff went down for the count in one minute and twenty seconds of the second round and many, many of those fans felt Henderson again was on his way to Chicago and more Golden Gloves fame.

The battle for the middleweight championship failed to develop into the ring duel which Lonnie Balch of Lubbock and Ralph White of Petersburg were expected to put on. These ex-Golden Gloves champs, White a former welter titlist, and Balch, crown winner in the lightweight division, drew one of those well known "Bo" Sexton warnings to fight as the second round opened.

They opened up and Balch began working his rights and lefts to the head. White jabbed Balch's body from time to time, but made little headway.

Balch won it by decision, but the fight seemed somewhat of a disappointment to the capacity-plus crowd. It was taken as an anti-climax to the evening general run of fighting during which all nine of the other bouts carried much more action and real fighting.

Three Knockouts Recorded

Kenneth Kirkpatrick, last of three Petersburg brothers, and who joined his brother J. D. Kirkpatrick, the light heavyweight champ, in the title group, punched out a decision over James Forbes of Brownfield in the opening bout to win the high school featherweight championship.

There were three knockouts, including Henderson's leveling of Neff. Elmo Hall of Texas Tech knocked Glenn Ammonett through the ropes for the night's first KO, and in so doing won the welterweight championship of the novice division.

Dan Williams of Lubbock, who weathered a barrage of heavy blows by Jerry Smith, also of Lubbock, weathered these earlier flurries well, and came through for a knockout in ne minute and forty five seconds of the second round to win the high school heavyweight title.

Bob Austin of Lubbock, who decisioned Robert Ferguson, also of Lubbock, was as much out on his feet and as totally unaware of what was going on about him at the end of the third round as was the loser. Austin, unable to get about under his own power, was laughing, but everyone felt he didn't know what he was laughing about. The slugfest they put on toe to toe, all over the ring, was a bout the fans won't soon forget. The win gave Austin the high school welterweight title.

Each winner was presented a robe, trunks and shoes. The runners up were given trunks and shoes.

SWEDEN LEADS IN WINTER GAMES

U. S. Housewife Takes Second Place In Olympic Ski Event

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 4 (AP)—A pretty western housewife, her pigtails flying, plummeted down a zig-zag Alpine snow course today to accomplish something no American ever had done before her—win a medal in an Olympic skiing event against Europe's masters.

Mrs. Gretchen Fraser, the 28-year-old Vancouver, Wash., star, was the toast of the American camp tonight as the mercury dropped, the ice froze over again and it became certain that it would not be necessary, after all, to abandon the games in mid-career.

Mrs. Fraser, a modest 115-pounder, scored her unprecedented personal triumph by placing second in the women's Alpine combined ski test, in which she was edged out of first place by Trude Beiser of Austria by the nearly invisible margin of 37 one-hundredths of a point.

She flashed down the course twice in 61.8 and 59.2 seconds for the second-best elapse time of the day—2 minutes, 1 second. Miss Beiser, the winner, totalled 2 minutes, 10.5 seconds for the two runs, but her better placing in Monday's downhill enabled her to squeak through over the American matron.

The day's results left Sweden still on top on the Associated Press scorecard, and pushed France above the United States despite Mrs. Fraser's brilliant showing.

The team standing tonight was: Sweden 60, Norway 48¼, Switzerland 45, Finland 38, Austria 36, France 27, United States 20¼, Italy 11, Holland six, Belgium three, Hungary three, Britain two, and Canada one-fourth.

The sixth day's champions:

Men's alpine combined—Henri Oreiller of France, who also won the downhill championship, thus becoming the first double individual winner of the games.

American Hopes High

Women's combined-Trude Beiser of Austria.

The United States has a chance for two titles tomorrow.

The men's figure skating crown seems a certainty for Dick Button of Englewood, N. J. Dick led the field by a wide margin at the end of the compulsory part of the competition on Monday, and only free style remains—at which he is without peer.

The cresta run, put off from today, may well go to Jack Heaton, of New Haven, Conn., winner of the event in 1928. He was only two-tenths of a second behind the leader at the end of the first three heats yesterday. Three more remain to be run.

General Admission Ducats For Gloves Must Be Exchanged

"All reserve ringside tickets already sold for the night of Feb. 5 (tonight) will be good for the inter-regional Golden Gloves exhibition matches, and the holders of these tickets will not have to exchange them," Morley Jennings, tournament director, announced Wednesday afternoon.

Jennings went on to say that "all general admission tickets, which previously were sold for Thursday night, are not good. All general admission tickets already sold will be redeemed, or traded, for new Thursday night tickets.

"New general admission tickets will be placed on sale at the Texas Tech athletic office for tonight's bouts."

Lubbock Boxers Battle Amarillo

The doors of the Texas Tech gym open to the fight public tonight at 7 and there is some doubt as to whether the old gym will be able to hold the more than capacity crowd, which is expected to be on hand for the inter-regional Golden Gloves match between Amarillo and Lubbock open division winners.

Arrangements for the inter-city fight were completed yesterday by Golden Gloves officials in both cities and eight fast rounds have been promised for tonight. The Amarillo team, which will compete in the state tournament at Ft. Worth next week, will have two flyweights and two bantamweights for the fights tonight, since Lubbock had no entries in either division.

The visiting team probably will bring Kenneth Davis, Clarendon, 112-pounds; Leon Palacio, Amarillo, 118-pounds; Buster Holman, Amarillo, 126-pounds; John Hernandez, Amarillo, 135-pounds; Eugene Cooper, Pampa, 147-pounds; Jose Perez, 160 pounds; Clifford Bradley, Amarillo, 175-pounds; and Dickie Brown, Amarillo, heavyweight.

Against these fighters the Lubbock team will send boys crowned in the fights last night.

Probably the spotlight fights will be those in which Heavyweight Gene James of Lubbock and Light Heavyweight J. D. Kirkpatrick of Petersburg face their Amarillo opponents. Neither Lubbock tourney winner had competition in the regional bouts, winning without fighting.

Fans also will be interested in watching slugging Bill Henderson, featherweight champion for the second consecutive year, and Lonnie Balch, who was far from impressive in winning the middleweight crown. Earl Pollard, who decisioned the popular Frank Telles last night also will exhibit his boxing prowess.

Getz, Carlin Take Team Mat Feature

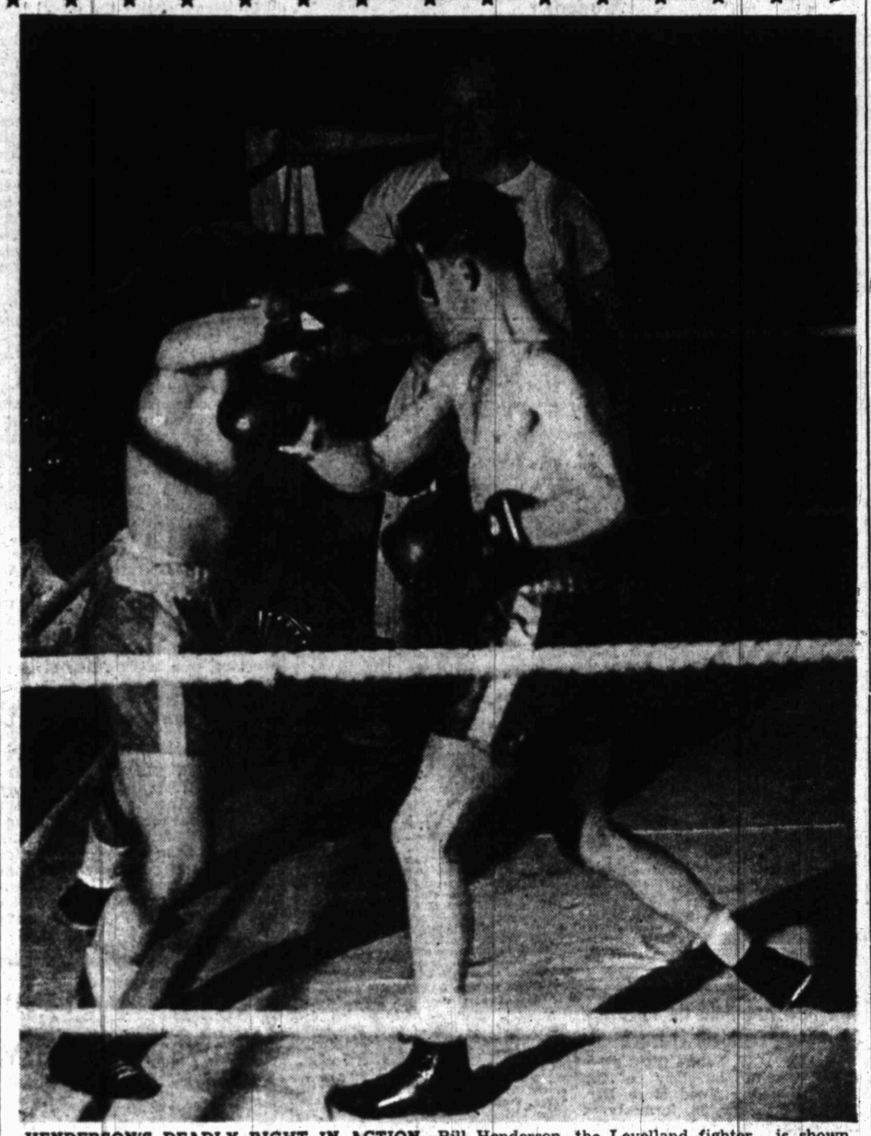

Al Getz, the veteran grappler from Pittsburgh, teamed with wily Johnny Carlin to cop the two of three falls tag-team main event from Gordon Hessel and Dory Funk Wednesday night at Sled Allen's arena, although Carlin lost the second fall to Funk.

A capacity crowd watched the sturdy Getz cop the first fall in just 12 minutes with a body twist on Hessel, but Funk evened the match when he pinned Carlin with a smother. Getz returned to grab the decisive third fall, overpowering Funk with a body lift and slam in 10 minutes.

In the preliminary event Salvador Flores defeated Carl Gray in two of three falls—one earned and the other a gift of the referee. Flores gained the second decision with an abdominal stretch, after Gray took the first fall with a body smother, then Gray was disqualified after four minutes of the third fall.

BASEBALL PACT SIGNED

LONGVIEW, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Longview Texans of the Class C Lone Star basketball league today announced the signing of a 1948 working agreement with the New York Yankee farm system through Beaumont of the Texas league.

HENDERSON'S DEADLY RIGHT IN ACTION—Bill Henderson, the Levelland fighter, is shown above driving Charles Neff of Petersburg into the ropes with terrific right hand punches during their Wednesday night Golden Gloves bout in which Henderson knocked out Neff and retained his featherweight title. Henderson launched a terrific attack with both rights and lefts as the fight opened and had his opponent in a bad way early. He knocked Neff out in one minute and twenty seconds of the second round. So, and after all, you fight fans will get to see the big boys, the "big guns," of the local Golden Gloves team in action at Texas Tech gym. . . . Gene James, J. D. Kirkpatrick, Bill Henderson, et al, will be swinging from the right and left tonight. . . . And they'll be swinging for keeps just as they'll be pushing the leather in Fort Worth in the state tournament, and, we hope, in Chicago during the national meet. . . .

We believe that Howard Kirkpatrick, deep down, regrets he's not fighting in this tournament. . . . Well, he's doing a jamb up job, handling his brother Kenneth in these, his first Golden Gloves, battles. . . . All of them, J. D., Howard and Kenneth, are quite symbolic of the fighting spirit which has put Petersburg on the fight map. . . . J. D., back in the earlier days of his youthful fighting career, got hold of a pair of boxing gloves. . . . He had nothing to punch but a wall. . . . And he punched that hard and often. . . . And when you see him loose a left or a right you know that those fists have hammered more solid substance than human flesh.

This corner has mentioned on several occasions that Kenneth Kirkpatrick has all the poise, the possibilities, and the punch, of an up-and-coming fighter. . . . Only Tuesday night it looked like the amiable, congenial little Plainsman, who wears blue jeans and a cowboy belt, had arrived . . . The way he tore in with rights and lefts to drop his opponents in a matter of seconds was quite an impressive scene to watch. . . .

And when he comes out of the ring he's just a friendly little fellow with a great big grin on his face, but that heart—it's big and it's full of fight. . . .

It's uncanny the way "Jake" Jacobs, the Tahoka cage coach, teaches his Bulldog five sharpshooting tactics. . . . Tuesday night, as his team took Sundown, 42-21, still another sharpshooter hopped into the limelight with his goaling to make it another runaway triumph for Tahoka. . . . He was Gilbert Hough, running mate at guard of Joe Don Minor. . . . Finis Botkin must certainly have been busy doing something else. . . .

Now, now. . . . You holders of reserve-ringside tickets, which you bought earlier for the fourth night of the Golden Gloves tournament, don't get excited. . . . Hold onto your ducats and leisurely present them at the door as you've done on the three other nights. . . . You'll get in. . . . You'll get your seat. . . . You'll see the inter-regional bouts between Lubbock and Amarillo, fighters TONIGHT. . . .

See you at the fights. . . .

Par Shattered In Qualifying Round

Top Golfers To Vie For Tourney Prizes

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 4 (AP)—Golf's tourists tested Brackenridge park course today in the first tune-up for the $10,000 Texas Open and par-shattering started early.

Only a few of the big guns of the tournament trail kept score, contenting themselves with knocking around the 6,400-yard layout to get the feel of the course and to find out what heavy rains the past week had done.

Among par-bettering rounds were four-under 67's tuned in by Jimmy Demaret of Houston, one of the favorites for first money in the tournament starting Friday, and Slammin' Sammy Snead.

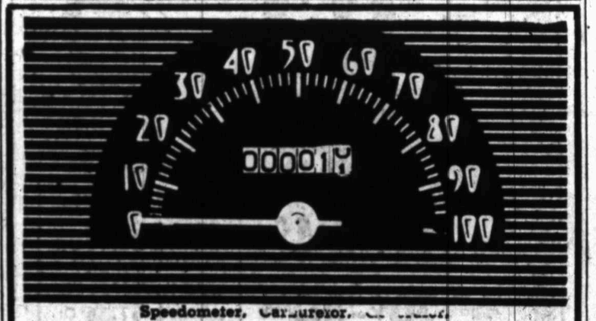

Bobby Locke, the benickered South African, and Ben Hogan, other top men in the ratings, used two and three balls on their green shots. Locke said, "I guess I hit about par."

Most of the attention centered today on a qualifying round played at the 6,332-yard Fort Sam Houston course where nonexempt pros and amateurs hammered away for 50 spots in the open. Bristling 67's were turned in by Frank Moore of St. Louis, Bob Gray of Toronto, Stan A. Strasz of Winsted, Conn., and Ken Peterson of Dayton, O. All are professionals. There was $500 in cash awards in the qualifying round which drew 170 candidates.

Tomorrow there will be a double pro-amateur, one at the Fort Sam Houston course and the other, carrying the big name players, at Brackenridge. A total of 240 had entered through today and tournament manager Ruben Albaugh said he expected probably 10 or 20 more to enter tomorrow. The latter will be exempt players.

South Plains Cage Powers Face Tough Weekend Slate

All of the South Plains Class A basketball powers will see action, and do plenty of sharpshooting, in a series of encounters which start tonight and come to a close Saturday.

Of strategic importance in the Class A realm—and that includes both Districts 3-A and 4-A—are two conference clashes tonight in one district and one in the other.

The front running Ralls High school Jackrabbits, who on Tuesday night beat Floydada, 42-34, to take over leadership of the District 3-A cage race, again see action tonight. Booked for appearance against them in Ralls are the Spur high Bulldogs who also have been playing greatly improved basketball, and only Tuesday night buried the Lockney high quint under an avalanche of baskets to win, 64-29.

In District 4-A's south zone big things are on tap among the leaders. O'Donnell's Eagles, who only recently handed Abernathy's Antelopes one of their two setbacks in the conference campaign, appear against the Tahoka Bulldogs, currently leading the zonal campaign.

The Bulldogs have dropped but one conference clash, that to Sundown, 34-32. Tuesday night the Bulldogs smeared Sundown, 42-21, in Sundown, and stamped themselves as the team to beat in the south zone.

Sundown's Roughnecks and the Antelopes, each with two losses in the conference campagin, meet in Abernathy Thursday night.

North zone play in District 4-A, where Sudan is unbeaten and Levelland is trailing with one defeat, will be limited to tournament play at Amherst. In that round of sharpshooting Sudan, Levelland, Abernathy and Littlefiled will all see action. For the first time this season the Sudan Hornets and the Levelland Lobos will be playing in the same tournament.

The Hornets start their week's cage activities with a 4-A conference clash against Morton tonight.

District 3-A is now in the thick of the second half of its double round robin.

In District 4-A the two winners in the north and south zones meet in an elimination tournament, and two of the teams will continue on into the regional tournament.

Raiders Battle Miners Friday

The leading team in the Border Conference basketball race, the Miners from Texas Mines, will sweep out the leftovers of the Golden Gloves tournament in the Texas Tech gym Friday night, when they tangle with the Red Raiders in an important loop clash.

The Miners have had better than fair success so far this season and are far out in front in the conference scramble. But this is their first extended road trip of the season, the Miners meeting West Texas, Hardin-Simmons and Texas Tech away from home. If they are able to sweep the road series, or take two of the three tilts, they will be in a strong position to challenge the crown now held by Arizona.

Coach Polk Robison, far from unhappy about the strong visiting team, is working his charges steadily in this period between semesters. The Techsans, unable to use their own court, have transferred to the Lubbock High school court, where they are making the most of daily evening drills.

With no casualties from school books, the Raider squad again will take the floor headed by Center Don Grove, whose average of 12.5 points a game in conference play is the best of the squad. Grove is the kingpin in the Raider attack and his work at the pivot post has left little to be desired.

Backing him up will be Gene Gibson and Jimmy Banks, Wimpy Hill and Ardis Barton, Chet Jackson and Wayne Bowles, Winston Churchill and Gil McAlister. These cagers, all of whom carry a potent shooting eye, have been teaming together to smooth out rough spots.

Thoughts of the Arizona trip, which knocked the Raiders out of the lead and into a center position in the standings, have evaporated and the squad is determined to win the remaining games.

Roberts Leads Levelland Five To 62-29 Triumph Over Morton

LEVELLAND, Feb. 4 (Special)—Levelland's smooth-working Lobos, paced by Larry Roberts' 19 point individual scoring tally, chalked up an impressive 62-29 District 4-A cage triumph over Morton here tonight. Jim Willis chalked up 11 points for Morton.

In the "B" clash the Lobos emerged with an easy 24-10 victory.

Westerners Drill For Pampa Tussle Friday

Lubbock High's undismayed Westerner cagers, practically eliminated from the District 1-AA title chase as a result of a second loss to Amarillo last weekend, speeded preparations for Friday night's tussle with the Pampa Harvesters with a lengthy scrimmage session yesterday afternoon at Senior High gym.

The Harvesters, now holding second place in the loop standings, handed the Westerners their most humiliating defeat of conference play two weeks ago at Pampa and the Lubbock schoolboys are eager to even the score with the rival quint.

Coach Harvey Dunn divided his cage squad into four teams for the Wednesday afternoon practice session, with scrimmage games underway at both ends of the court. The Black and Gold squad appeared to be in top condition for the tilt, although Charles Galey still favored an injured knee.

Tickets for the Pampa tilt at the Senior High gym will be on sale today at the school athletic office, E. J. (Pinky) Lowrey announced, as well as ducats for the Borger game here Saturday night. Approximately 100 reserved seat pasteboards are available and general admission tickets will be sold at the gym preceding the games.

European Economic Conditions Show Improvement, Experts Say

GENEVA, Feb. 4 (AP) — Most economic experts here believe Europe is making great strides toward industrial and economic recovery. But, they add, she still desperately needs help.

A general reluctance to forecast the rate of progress appeared due, in part at least, to uncertainty over vital factors. These include future harvests, possible industrial unrest and the extent of American aid—now being argued in Congress.

Report Being Prepared

Under the Marshall plan the European nations are required to do what they can on their own and together to put Europe on its economic feet. The economic commission for Europe planning, however, is distinct from the Marshall plan.

A full analysis of Europe's present economic position and prospects now is being prepared by the economic commission's research division. The division is headed by British Economist Nicolas Kaldor, a native of Hungary. The report is expected to be ready for publication early next month.

Sweden's Prof. Gunnar Myrdal, the commission's executive secretary, declines specific comment on the status of Europe's economic recovery pending publication of the survey.

Need Still Great

He has, however, referred frequently to "considerable progress" made during the past year in actual production and in self-help measures taken by various technical committees of the commission.

One senior member of the commission's secretariat said that even if European production developed to a point above the highest prewar level, Europe still would be in desperate need.

The accumulated demand caused by the war's destruction and long-deferred consumer requirements can not be filled for many years, he said.

Although most delegates and members of the secretariat share the general optimism they all agree Europe still is far from self-sufficient in food and essential raw materials.

Seagraves To Honor Baseball Club Tonight

SEAGRAVES, Feb. 4 (Special)—The Seagraves Chamber of Commerce will hold a banquet Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the American Legion Hut, honoring the Seagraves Oilers who have been the Oil Belt baseball champions for the past two years, Chamber of Commerce Manager F. W. Jones has announced.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of jackets to the members of the team, Jones said. The jackets are blue with a gray trim and have the Oilers insignia attached.

Other than the presentation of jackets to team members, the meeting will be taken up with a round-table discussion of plans for next baseball season. Claude Hearne, local merchant, will act as master of ceremonies.

Donors to the Oiler jacket fund and a few other special guests have been invited, Jones stated.

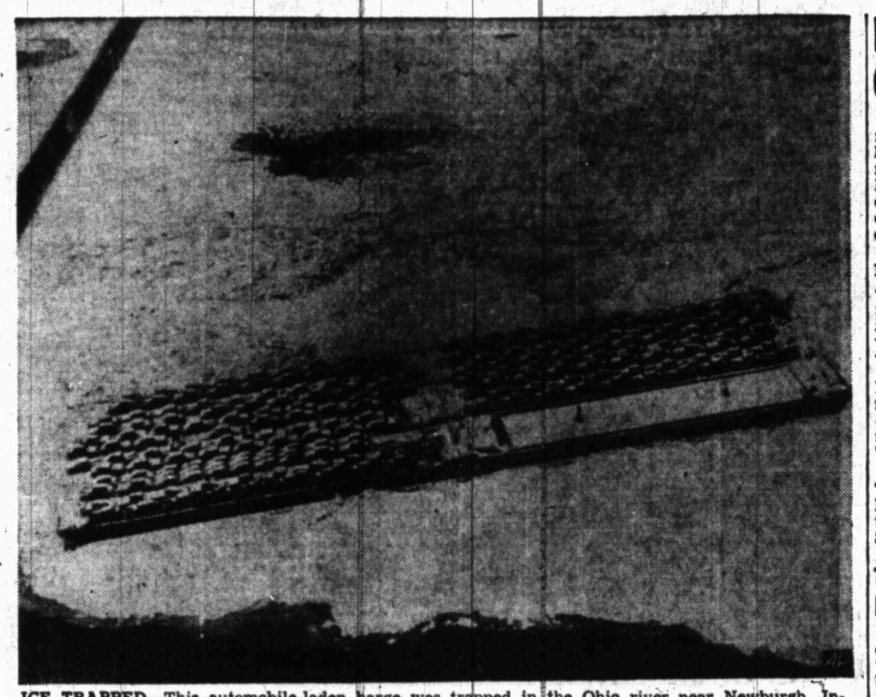

Members of the Seagraves Oilers are "Putsy" Gentry, manager, "Blue" Graham, Don Reeves, Lance Furlough, "Lefty" Courtney, Scott Prather, Cal Greenfield, O. C. Blair, Charlie Lawrence, Bob Jones, Marian Belknap, "Rusty" Smith, Tommie Thomas, "Cyclone" Jones, R. D. Prather, Eddie Gorman, Son Willingham, Ike Moore and Paul Barber.

Willingham, Moore and Barber will not be present at the banquet, Jones said, the three being away at college. Barber is a student at Texas University and the other two are at Texas A. and M.

Bataan Veteran Urges Solons To Correct 'Gross Injustice'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (U.P.)—A veteran of Bataan today urged a House committee to wipe out a "gross injustice" against his comrades, who died in Japanese prison camps without leaving GI insurance benefits to relatives.

Former Lt. Col. Virgil O. McCollum, of Carlsbad, N. M., told the House Veterans committee, that many were not covered by army insurance only because records were lost in the confusion of surrender.

"They applied for it in the closing days of the battle," he said. "Now, their families find that they cannot collect the money."

McCollum, who was interned in a prison camp in Japan after the surrender, said that every man who died should be considered to have taken out the full $10,000 worth of national service life insurance.

"It would be little enough to do for them," he said.

Committee Chairman Edith Nourse Roberts, R., Mass., said she was confident that "every member of this committee wants to correct this situation." She is author of a bill which would grant the automatic insurance to every American soldier captured by the Japanese during the early days of the war. The measure is now before a subcommittee.

LOST 47 POUNDS WITHOUT DIETING

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger.

Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

More to Proof

"When I started taking Barcentrate, I weighed 212 pounds and wore size 46 dresses. Now I wear size 18 and weigh 165 pounds. I started taking Barcentrate in March and by June I had lost 47 pounds. I would have lost more weight had I left off fattening foods, but I was anemic at that time and afraid to diet. People who knew me before I started taking Barcentrate are amazed at the weight I have lost. My flesh is firm; I have never become flabby or wrinkled and I am 46 years old.

"Before taking Barcentrate I couldn't do my house work without becoming exhausted; had dizzy spells and my head and back hurt me constantly. I was so short winded, I was miserable. But now all those things have gone and it is really a pleasure to do the chores I once dreaded.

"Three years ago I nearly died with Typhus fever and it left me anemic and I could never get my blood count up again or get back my energy. After taking Barcentrate my blood count started up and is now normal. So you see why I praise Barcentrate so highly and recommend it. Any praise I can give Barcentrate is small compared to the relief and happiness it has brought me."—Mrs. Eula Whitehead, 509 Harmon, Corpus Christi, Texas.

At All Druggists

The above is one of hundreds of amazing endorsements we have received.

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe, easy way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION REPORTS

Nation's Attic Getting Stuffy With Increase In Specimens

By ARTHUR EDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—Things really are getting stuffy in America's attic, the Smithsonian institution.

For there now are 20,000,000 specimens — including Princess Kawananakoa's feahers — stuffed into the famous 100-year-old museum.

This statistic staggered out of the Smithsonian's annual report today, and it shows the museum has had a busy year.

During fiscal 1946-47, the Smithsonian acquired 746,870 new specimens.

Such as:

The Norden bombsight which was used in dropping the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

Princess Kawananakoa's ancient feather robes, presented to the museum by her descendants.

38,700 Bikini fsihes, pickled in alcohol, brought in after the Navy's bomb tests.

A gadget which can engrave the Lord's Prayer 781,250 times in a square inch.

A satin dress worn by Mrs. John Quincy Adams when Mr. John Quincy Adams was president.

All of which eventually adds up to 20,000,000 specimens.

Now to give you some idea of how many 20,000,000 is:

Let's suppose you're Dr. Alexander Wetmore, Smithsonian secretary. And let's suppose you accept a specimen every second, day and night, without a letup. It would take 13,900 days, or 38 years, to stuff your museum with 20,000,000 specimens.

But look at what you've got.

It's hard, of course, to estimate in dollars and cents what a museum is worth.

What's Value Of Flag?

What's the value of the pants George Washington wore in the Revolutionary war?

Or the flag that inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner?"

But Dr. Wetmore has done his best. In his report to Congress, he said:

"We place a value on these vast collections at upward of a half billion dollars."

Rains Fall

that time.

Some of the reports were:

Brownfield — County Judge Homer Winston, who is also a farmer, reported that it had been sprinkling since sundown Wednesday and was "still at it. It would take a day and a night to rain an inch at the present rate," Judge Winston said. The temperature was about 40 degrees, he said. Asked whether much wheat was planted in Terry county this year, he estimated the current crop at approximately 20,000 acres.

Littlefield—Wayne Robinson of radio station KVOW, said it was not raining very hard at Littlefield, but had rained continuously since about 5:30 p. m. The temperature was about 42 degrees, he said.

Morley Drake, publisher of the Lamb County Leader, said the rain probably amounted to at least a quarter of an inch. He said wheat farmers in the north portion of the county would benefit from it, as well as farmers who needed the stored-up moisture for planting of their cotton and feed in the spring.

Muleshoe—George Templar, former operator of the bus station at Muleshoe, said it was raining fairly hard, and reported that it started about 5:30 p. m. in Muleshoe also.

Crosbyton Fall Average

Plainview — Bill Harrell, announcer at radio station KVOP, said there had been intermittent rain since 6:45 p. m., accompanied by a temperature of about 46 degrees.

Crosbyton—Hubert Curry, editor of the Crosbyton Review, said about half an inch of rain had fallen and it was still raining.

Ralls—Earnest Joiner, editor of the Ralls Banner, said it had been raining since 7 p. m., and he estimated the fall at one-fourth inch up to that time. He said the temperature was approximately 40 degrees.

Post—Eddie Warren, publisher of the Post Dispatch, reported rain during most of the afternoon, very light, with harder rain starting early in the evening. He estimated the fall at about an eighth of an inch up to the time when the harder rain started.

Tahoka—Billy Hill, Lynn County News employe, said about .56 inch fell there between 3 p. m. and 11 p. m. The temperature was about 40 degrees, he said.

Lamesa—Observers said the rain had been falling rather heavily since about 4 p. m. The fall at 11 p. m. was estimated at one-fourth inch.

COLDER WEATHER FORECAST FOR STATE LATE TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

Texas weather is in a cycle.

Today it will be cloudy, cooler and rains will fall. Wednesday it was sunny and warm in most sections of the state. The day before that it was rainy. The rains were preceded by bitter cold.

Now, predicts the Weather bureau, the state is in for more cold weather. It will begin to be felt late today and tomorrow. Snow flurries are forecast for the Panhandle.

Yesterday's sun and rising temperatures did much toward trying to dry up the soggy fields and ranges in the country and pools of muddy water that still spotted city streets.

Readings Are Boosted

It was the warmest day in weeks. At Presidio, the mercury climbed to 78. It was 77 at Brownsville. Some rains fell, but they were light and widely scattered, hardly enough to measure.

Other highs included: Abilene 59, Austin 64, Dallas 63, Houston 70, El Paso 52, Waco 67, Corpus Christi 69, Beaumont 71, Tyler 68.

But it was still chilly in West Texas. At Childress the temperature was 38, only six degrees above freezing. It was 43 in Amarillo.

BOB FORD

Ohio Youth Seeking Life On Area Ranch

Capt. Vincel Larsen of the Salvation Army, chosen recently as Lubbock's "Outstanding Young Man of 1947," has an outstanding problem on his hands in the form of six-foot, 16-year-old Bob Ford from Akron, Ohio, who wants to go to work on a Texas ranch.

The situation came about when the boy came to the attention of the Council of Church Women of Akron, an organization which believes among other things that the best way to combat juvenile delinquency is to prevent it before it starts.

The council found that the boy was living with his mother and several other children, the father having left the home when the boy was quite young. The mother was trying to bring up the family alone. Bob had finished high school and two years in a boy's school in Michigan. While at the latter school he had shown interest in caring for the beef cattle on the school farm.

Aptitude tests revealed that the boy was best suited to life on a farm or ranch, since he showed definite likings for animals and caring for them. Psychoanalysis indicated that the boy's temperament was unsuited to life in the city, especially a city whose metropolitan district shows a population of more than 350,000. Like the pioneers who settled West Texas, Bob needs more "elbow room."

The logical person to call on, the council thought, was Capt. Larsen, who lived in West Texas where there's probably as much "elbow room" per square mile as any other place in the United States. So Bob Ford is now in Lubbock.

If anybody wants an inexperienced ranch hand who will "be 17 in May" and wants to live on a ranch, contact Capt. Larsen in care of the Salvation Army. Incidentally, the boy is not available for adoption, Larsen stated.

virtually closed the Baltimore, Md., harbor to low-powered shipping.

Fuel Situation Eases

Because of the heavy snows in Ohio, five schools were closed in Butler county and 16 in Highland county.

Rising temperatures eased the critical fuel supply in parts of the country, however.

More than 10,000 workers in Ohio were back on the job following the lifting of the ban on the industrial use of gas.

In Pittsburgh, the Manufacturers' Heat & Light company restored natural gas service to hundreds of schools, bakeries, restaurants and small industrial consumers after a week's curtailment. However, a 100 per cent curtailment remained in effect for the company's large industrial consumers.

Additional snow also was forecast for New England where the mercury slipped to an unofficial low of 54 degrees below zero in Maine and Vermont.

Continued cold was forecast for New England and the northern midwest where the mercury was 20 below zero or more. Temperatures remained somewhat below normal on the west coast.

American Warships May Avoid Visits To Ports In Italy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP) — American warships operating in the Mediterranean may largely avoid visits to Italian ports for the next few weeks—on Italian advice.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi, diplomatic sources here said today, has told American Ambassador James C. Dunn that such a course might be wise in view of political conditions in Italy.

Communists fighting De Gasperi's government have denounced the presence of American fleet units.

Italy is scheduled to hold national elections in April.

Responsible informants said the United States could be expected to cooperate with any wishes De Gasperi might express in such a matter. In another development the State department accused the Communist government of Romania of preparing "to wipe out the last vestiges of Democratic opposition."

Hope Held For Plane After Signal Heard

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Listeners waited in vain tonight for possible renewal of faint SOS messages which kindled hope that they might have come from the missing British airliner Star Tiger.

The Coast Guard air-sea rescue service said tonight that no new signals had been heard by any listening stations keeping watch for word from what some had hoped was the missing plane.

The Star Tiger disappeared with 29 persons on board last Thursday while approaching Bermuda on a transatlantic flight.

The messages ending with the word "tiger" were picked up on a continuous wave length from Florida to Newfoundland and inland as far as Chicago during the early morning hours.

As the messages trickled in, Coast Guard and Army planes were alerted. The FCC ordered mobile radio units set up tonight in the hope of obtaining a definite bearing on the sender.

The hoax angle was not overlooked. The messages were sent by someone who apparently did not know the international code.

Southern Leaders

advised and untimely. The 43-year-old senator told reporters he fears the President's statement will take the attention of Congress away from "important questions."

Program Is Assailed

Arkansas' other senator, John L. McClellan, a veteran of World War I, declared in a statement that the program was regrettable and was "devised and intended to embarrass the southern Democracy."

Rep. E. E. Cox of Georgia cried to colleagues in Washington that the proposed civil rights program "saddens and sickens me." Georgia's junior senator, 51-year-old Richard B. Russell, said in a statement that enactment of the program would benefit neither white persons nor negroes, and that the program itself was rooted in political expediency.

"It will not add to the President's stature in the minds of thinking people," Russell said.

Said Communist Plan

Rep. Don Wheeler of Georgia asserted the proposal was no more than "one of the major planks of the Communist party" and a bid for the leftist vote.

From Mississippi, it was reported that the move to bolt the Democratic party had the backing of some of the state's most conservative and most influential Democratic leaders and bosses. The idea is not something new. There was an incipient revolt in 1944. Gov. Thomas L. Bailey halted it then.

But this time Gov. Fielding L. Wright has fostered a party break and he is getting strong party backing.

The question of state rights—long a rally banner in southern politics was injected by Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama.

"The measures recommended in President Truman's message seek to determine questions which belong to the states and should be left to the states," Hill declared.

South Carolina's plan to ban the money-raising dinners for the Democratic party evoked an echo in Arkansas. There reports circulated that the dinners would be cancelled, but a later announcement said the dinners would go ahead as scheduled. Arkansas Democrats would, however, "hold steady in the boat."

Word of the formation of the rebellious "Dixie party" came from Dr. R. B. Robins, Arkansas national Democratic committeeman.

"We'll just have to wait and see before we can say or act on leaving the Democratic party," said Dr. Robins. "In these troubled times we need a leader who can maintain unity and harmony at home. How can we expect a leader who cannot do this at home to maintain it in world affairs?"

British Price Fight

economic woe in the hike last week of the controlled price of scant bacon and eggs.

It appears likely that French devaluation of the franc was a contributing factor in today's move. Britain, desperate for dollars, must compete for export trade with markets changing slowly from the sellers' to the buyers' advantage. France is also in the export market and now possesses the advantage of the devalued franc.

Attlee put it this way:

"The alternatives before us are either a general agreement by the people to act together upon sound and public spirited lines, or a serious and prolonged setback in our economic reconstruction, accompanied by a persistent low standard of living."

He said it was essential that there should be "no further general increase in the level of personal incomes without at least a corresponding increase in the volume of production."

Area Water Problems Studied In WTCC Commission Meeting

ABILENE, Feb. 4 (AP)—Recommendations to improve West Texas' critical water problem were made here today.

The recommendations were made by the new Water Resource Development commission of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in its initial meeting.

The territory-wide recommendations included:

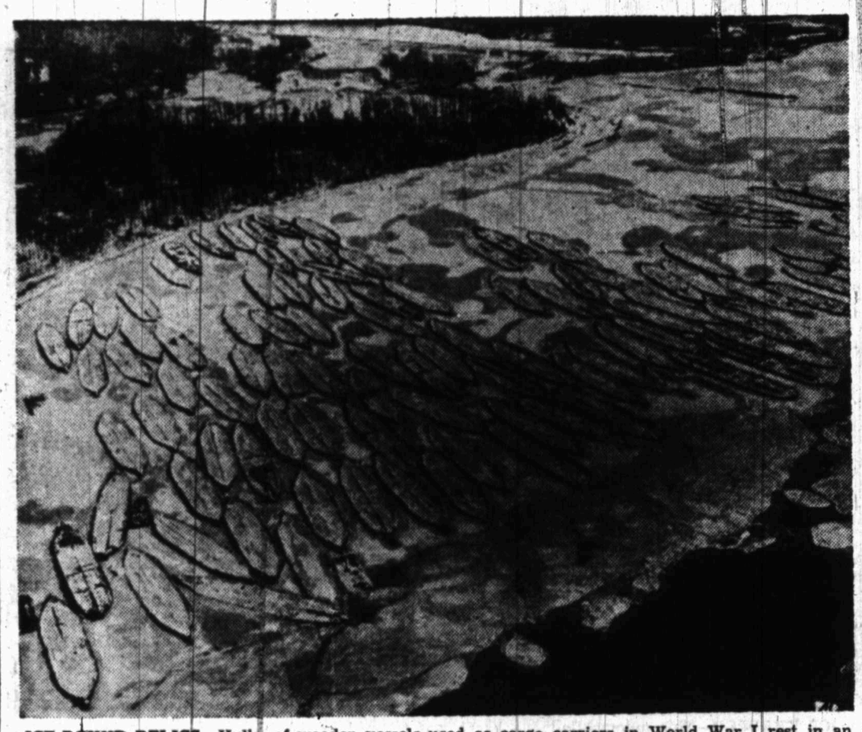

1. That the chamber's executive committee employ a competent engineer as technical counselor for the commission.

2. That the need of more small dams and reservoirs in West Texas be emphasized.

3. That agriculture be placed on a par with industry as regarding priority rights to underground water.

4. That the commission collect available information on water sources and supply and offer its services to affiliated towns on their water problems.

Members of the commission are Chairman Winfield Holbrook, Plainview; Vice-Chairman James N. Allison, Midland; W. O. Fortenberry, Lubbock; Charles L. Smith, Coleman, and C. F. Coombes, Stamford. They met with WTCC manager D. A. Bandeen and his staff.

Boys Club Program

Plans Under Study

Quanity and cost estimates for the swimming pool, shop and game rooms are being prepared by Arnold Maeker, a member of American Business club. Preliminary reports at the Wednesday night meeting disclosed the addition may cost as much as $80,000.

The plans, prepared by the architectural firm of Haynes and Kirby, call for a 75- by 36-foot pool three and a half feet deep, with a T-shaped extension for diving 11 feet deep and 30 x 28 feet in size.

The pool will have a recirculating and chlorinating system that will completely change and purify the water every eight hours.

Modern heating equipment will maintain the water at the correct temperature the year around.

Lubbock Boys club, Inc., has approximately $58,000 of the funds on hand at the present time. Of this, $24,000 was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Retha Martin and $22,000 was raised in a Gene Autry rodeo conducted last year.

Directors expressed hope that another rodeo, already scheduled for this year, will provide the remaining capital by the time the pool is completed in six or eight months.

Wilson's report on the past year's activities revealed the broad scope of the club's work.

The report showed that 901 active members were on the club rolls in 1947, as compared with 797 the year before.

Of the club activities, the athletic program was the largest with 19,533 participants registered during the year. The figure reflects numerous registrations by the same boys. In 1946 16,905 participants registered.

The library, next largest activity, showed 11,063 users, a slight decline from the 12,480 of 1946.

Special activities showed total attendance and participation of 10,734. These included motion pictures, a "baby sister" contest, Hallowe'en carnival and Christmas party, fight nights and other activity.

Total attendance at all activities was 71,941, compared with 69,940 in 1946.

Ten boys participated in photography activities, 65 in Indian lore study, 590 in woodwork craftsmanship.

Wilson's report indicated the club secured employment for 45 boys in 1947, from which 10 boys obtained permanent jobs.

The club directors handled 135 behavior problems that arose within the club. Only one boy who belonged to the club was sentenced to the state training school for boys at Gatesville in 1947.

Boy members of the club participated in two notable public service jobs, Wilson told the directors. For the American Business club-sponsored rodeo, proceeds of which went to the swimming pool club, 96 boys served as ushers. When the Lubbock Community chest, which has taken over the financing of the Boys club and furnished its $12,000 operating expense in 1947, started its 1947 drive, 40 boy members of the club distributed posters.

Membership is open to all boys of ages 10 through 16. The club is affiliated with the Boys Clubs of America.

The club now employs three full time workers—Wilson, Vernon L. Jackson, assistant director, and Miss Ann Karcher, librarian. Other employes include athletic directors, Thomas George and C. L. Thomason, Texas Tech students, the shop director, Jimmy Bearden, the building and grounds custodian, Phil Kemp. In the summertime six additional athletic directors are added.

Budget Cut Asked

and a boost in veterans benefits which has been approved by both Houses.

Anti-Veto Moves Talked

In reaching their estimates of how much the President's budget and the national debt should be reduced, the subcommittee calculated that tax receipts will amount to $47,300,000,000.

The subcommittee did not decide where the budget cuts will be made. That is up to the Appropriation committees.

Senate Republicans who talked about trimming down the House tax cut figured they must do so to pick up enough Democratic votes to override an expected veto. The Republicans have 51 members of the Senate and the Democrats 45. It takes a two-thirds vote in both Houses to override a President's rejection.

Even Chance Seen

Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the minority leader, said he "wouldn't think the chances are any more than 50-50 either way" that there will be a tax reduction this year.

Barkley told reporters after a meeting of the Senate Democratic policy committee that until there is better information about appropriations and the cost of the Marshall plan, it is impossible to know "how much if any" tax reduction could be made this year.

He added that he plans to call a conference later of all Democratic senators to map strategy on taxes.

South Poses Threat

parties." And they got caught in the line of fire.

"Bartering" Charge Hurled

Southern Democrats took to the House floor for the second day to accuse both major parties of "bartering" for minority votes and forgetting what they called the unorganized majorities.

Some politicians began speculating whether President Truman might be led to choose a southern running mate as a result of the uprising. However, Mr. Truman's own opinion of its seriousness is not known.

But off the floor, Rep. Trimble (D-Ark) called it "the same old row within the Democratic party which occurred every presidential election year since I can remember."

Aid For GOP Seen

"It is well that we kick each other in the shins occasionally in a good old family row," Trimble told a reporter. "But I hope we confine it to shin kicking only."

Some of Trimble's southern fellow legislators have advocated a southern state convention to nominate their own Democratic candidate for the presidency.

Northern members of the party contend this would only assure a victory for the Republicans who are on record in their platform as favoring most of the things Mr. Truman advocated in his message.

"Splinter Parties" Named

Chairman Carroll Reece of the Republican national committee issued a statement about "splinter parties." He said:

"The current revolt of southern Democrats against Mr. Truman's civil rights program is additional evidence that the so-called Democrat party is really an aggregation of splinter parties with discordant and mutually antagonistic aims and purposes.

"With the Moscow wing of the party already departed to the left, and with the racially intolerant wing now threatening to go off in another direction, it looks like the Pendergast splinter will be all alone by next November."

Communist Comparison Made

Reece referred to the Pendergast Democratic organization in Missouri, the President's home state. His statement also apparently pointed to Henry A. Wallace's third party move.

On the House floor, Rep. Abernathy (D-Miss) accused both parties of "bartering" for minority group support. Rep. Williams (D-Miss) said southerners will "fight to the last ditch" to prevent the South from being "mongrelized." He suggested a "wholesale spring house-cleaning party."

Rep. Cox (D-Ga) said the President's message had been compared with a page from "The Daily Worker," New York Communist paper. He contended the Harlem, N. Y., district has more influence with Democratic party leaders than the "entire white south."

Meanwhile, South Carolina Democrats had not made plans for a Jackson-Jefferson day dinner, a headline event sponsored by the national committee.

W. P. Baskin, South Carolina chairman, said at Columbia that no dinner has been arranged and the national committee has been so notified.

Committee officials here said, however, that Baskin's letter was written Jan. 19, long before the President's message set off the southern uproar. They added the letter was "friendly" and indicated a dinner may be arranged after Feb. 19, the day set for many of the affairs over the country.

The committee said dinners already have been arranged in Arkansas, Tennessee, Georgia, Virginia and Kentucky.

In another political development, Secretary of State Marshall has let it be known that he is as unequivocal in taking himself out of the Democratic vice presidential picture as he was recently in saying he could "not be drafted" for th top place on the ticket.

Negro Applies At University Of Arkansas Medical School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 4 (AP)—A negro has applied for admission to the University of Arkansas medical school here, the school's head said tonight.

Dr. Henry C. Chenault, university vice-president in charge of medical education and hospitalization, identified the applicant as William J. Mitchell, 27-year-old war veteran. If accepted he would begin his medical training next fall.

Dr. Chenault said the university trustees would pass on Mitchell's application along with those of others.

Silas Hunt, Texarkana negro, was enrolled in the university law school at Fayetteville this week. He will be taught by regular instructors, but will not attend classes with white students, university authorities said.

Prices Drop On Major Markets

been too high and perhaps a realization of this has "begun to take hold of the markets."

Another is that many speculators have left the market as a result of the recent investigations and publication of traders' names.

Wheat Outlook Improves

A third is that the world wheat supply is better than it seemed likely to be a few months ago—and the more wheat there is, the lower its price trends to be.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder touched on the boom-bust question earlier. He said the government would proceed "judiciously" in paring the national debt because of the possible effect on business and industry.

If the government doesn't tread lightly, Snyder indicated at a news conference, banks might be forced to refuse new loans or call old ones. Either would be a symptom of "recession."

Loans Influential

Rapid retirement of the debt, particularly that held by the Federal Reserve banks, could have sharp effects on the lending ability of banks which deal with the public because:

1. The government would get the money for debt retirement from banks which hold government funds. Bank depositors are now paying taxes by check to the tune of billions of dollars a month, and the government can draw the cash for them out of the banks as it chooses.

2. If the government paid off debt held by the Federal Reserve banks, the money would not get back into the hands of the ordinary banks or of the public, but would in effect "disappear" from circulation.

Break Believed Temporary

With less money around, the banks which deal with the public would have less resources for lending.

The belief that the break was merely a temporary trend was held by James S. Bennett and Co., Chicago grain traders. The Bennett company said "spot (cash) wheat is selling at too great a premium over the futures to expect further declines."

On the other hand, two other large Chicago trading concerns, the Uhlmann Grain company and Goodbody and company, insisted that the downward surge was a definite "deflationary trend." The Uhlmann firm said it expected increased sales by farmers in view of the sudden decline.

Recession Feared

One well-known economist and vice president of a New York bank said he was convinced businessmen were becoming increasingly apprehensive of a recession.

He said "these same men are traders in the stock and commodity exchanges. Their nervousness over the future could be translated almost instantaneously into lower stock and commodity prices."

There were few exceptions to the general decline, which extended through a wide range of commodities and the stock and bond markets.

Hog Prices Slump

Here is what happened in major markets:

Wheat futures lost 10 cents a bushel, corn 8 cents and oats 6 cents at Chicago. Minneapolis and Kansas City. Wheat for May delivery at Chicago closed at $2.76⅜ a bushel, which compared with a high of $3.06¾ last Nov. 28.

Hogs slumped as much as $1.00 a hundred pounds at Chicago. Prices were the lowest in two months. Cattle prices were firm, although best grades were bringing the lowest quotations in about six weeks.

Bakers flour was reduced 20 cents a hundred pound sack at Minneapolis.

Cottonseed Meal Loses

Lard futures plunged $2.00 a hundred pounds at Chicago. Also off the daily limit were soybean futures, which dropped 8 cents a bushel. Soybeans were down around 60 cents a bushel from their seasonal highs.

Cottonseed oil futures fell 2 cents a pound, the daily limit, at New York.

Cottonseed meal and soybean meal lost $3.00 a ton, the daily limit at Memphis.

Buyer Support Lacking

Also suffering heavy losses in futures markets were cocoa, crude rubber, coffee, wool tops and eggs. Butter and sugar futures were mixed. Cash butter was higher in wholesale markets at both New York and Chicago.

On the New York Stock exchange with selling on an aggressive scale, and buying support lackadaisical at best, quotations soon dropped.

Brokerage quarters said demand from many of the larger investors as well as professional traders was noticeably lacking. They attributed this to pessimism over recent economic and political developments here and abroad, rather than any specific item in the day's news.

TURKEY RECALLS ENVOY

ANKARA, Feb. 4 (AP)—Turkey has recalled her ambassador from Moscow, it was learned here tonight. The sudden diplomatic move was a "tit for tat" answer to Russia's refusal to return her ambassador to Ankara, it was learned. The foreign office declined immediate comment on the withdrawal of Ambassador Faik Zihni Akdur from Moscow.

Food Rationing

ceded on Capitol Hill that the President's request for rationing, wage-price and allocation powers will be rejected, senators heard a further parade of witnesses.

Freeze Laws Introduced

The United States Chamber of Commerce voiced opposition to price controls; Emerson P. Schmidt, economic research director for the chamber, declared such curbs would be "worse than useless for dealing with the problem we all face."

Emil Rieve, CIO vice president, urged that price controls be ordered until March 31, 1950, but not wage controls.

Rieve asked that all prices be frozen as they were on Jan. 5. And two Democratic senators, Thomas, of Utah and Wagner, of New York, introduced legislation to that effect today.

The House Banking committee heard Tighe E. Woods, housing expediter, say he believes rents will go up 50 per cent, on the average, if Congress fails to extend controls beyond the Feb. 29 expiration date.

World Food Problem

was the "dollar crisis." It was this "crisis" which led to the Marshall plan.

The UN economists explained it this way: Import requirements of Europe can be met only with U. S. goods. Most European countries have exhausted their dollar supply. They are unable to get more by selling goods to the U. S.

This situation, the report said, has made "external aid" from the United States "a major issue" in 1948.

UN officials said tonight that Russia had submitted two weeks ago a production report from the Soviet Planning commission. This information, all previously published in Moscow, arrived too late for inclusion in the UN survey, they said.

The Soviet report said Russia's economic production is back to pre-war levels.

Tanks and troops in force marched through Delhi's streets as the roundup proceeded.

The RSSS advocates driving all Moslems out of India and making the country all-Hindu.

"Iron man" Sardar Villabhai Patel, home minister and outspoken against Moslems, issued the communique announcing the organization henceforth was illegal.

The statement declared RSSS members "have indulged in acts of violence involving arson, robbery, dacoity (robbery by gangs), murder." It said they had engaged in collecting arms, exhorting the people to terroristic methods, and in attempting to enlist police and the military in their criminal activities.

Georgia Capital Puts In Bid For Title Of "Flower City"

ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 4 (U.P.)—This Georgia capital, famed for its peach trees, now hopes to get a leg on the title "City of Flowers" when the triple - header flower event of Atlanta is held here this year—the National Convention of the Men's Garden Club, the Atlanta Tulip Show and the Dogwood Festival.

All three events will bring thousands of visitors here from many sections of the country next April.

Twenty-five thousand tulip bulbs have been obtained from the Associated Bulb Growers of Holland and have been bedded down for winter.

Solon Charges Gas Shortage

AUSTIN, Feb 4 (AP)—Four hundred Gatesville homes will be out of butane gas by the end of this week, state Rep. Sid Gregory said today.

Gregory said retail butane distributors have advised him they will not have sufficient supplies to carry Gatesville customers through the winter.

Gregory said he was in Austin to confer with railroad commissioner William J. (Bill) Murray, who is chairman of the governor's emergency fuel commission. But Murray was out of town.

"I'm told the commission has quit functioning," Gregory said.

However, a spokesman for Murray's office said the commission is still operating. Mr. Murray was unable to locate any companies the past two days who had any butane reserves left," the spokesman said adding:

"Mr. Murray said from the start there wouldn't be enough butane to take care of everybody."

The emergency fuel commission was created by Gov. Beauford H. Jester to alleviate the critical butane shortage caused by last week's severe cold weather in Texas. A calling on producers, refiners and distributors to help voluntarily, the commission located an estimated extra 3,000,000 gallons for distribution through regular channels.

Houston Bus Firm Held Liable In Suit

AUSTIN, Feb. 4 (AP)—A bus company whose driver hit a motorist in the face with a money changer was held liable today for $1,000 damages.

The motorist testified he had lost seven teeth in the altercation, Supreme Court records showed.

The court upheld the finding of a Houston jury that the bus driver was acting "in the scope of his employment" and the Houston Transit company should pay the damages.

The records showed a car driven by Guy Felder hit the rear of a Houston Transit bus.

Bus Driver B. F. Goodson got out of the bus and hit Felder with the money changer.

Goodson contended Felder had refused to give his name and had reviled him.

Felder testified that the driver shouted something at him, and that the attack was unprovoked.

The trial court jury found that Goodson was acting as the agent of the transit company and fixed Felder's damages at $1,000. The judge, however, held that the driver was not acting within the scope of his employment as a matter of law and entered judgment for the transit company.

The Court of Civil Appeals reversed the judge's ruling and the Supreme court affirmed the civil appeals ruling.

Russian Newspaper Urges Placard War

POSTERS NEEDED

MOSCOW, Feb. 4 (U.P.) — The government newspaper Izvestia has called on the placard industry to get busy mass-producing posters against war incendiaries and Soviet citizens who find admirable qualities in foreign culture.

It criticized the "Art Publishing House," the biggest placard plant, for not yet having produced posters appealing for the fulfillment of the five-year plan in four years, or praising the monetary reform and abolishment of rationing.

The first war placard was up 24 hours after the German invasion, Izvestia said, suggesting that such ought to be the norm, with placard factories as sensitive to developments as newspaper plants.

More satire is needed, too, according to the paper.

"It is not the direct duty of the placard printers to strike with the whip of satire the war incendiaries of all shades and types — the trans-ocean followers of Goebbels and Rosenberg who invent new race 'theories' and the traitors of the working class," Izvestia said.

"Who, if not the placard painters, should teach the people indignation and intolerance towards speculators and idlers, and ridicule those who admire everything foreign?"

Missouri Scientist Says Old Fashioned Cures Still Good

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (U.P.) — A doctor appeals to his profession to remember that many old-fashioned cures are still good.

Dr. Charles C. Dennie, Kansas City, Mo., professor of dermatology at the University of Kansas, addressed a scientific meeting here.

He said "the new drugs have accomplished wonderful cures and it is also true that many specifics of days gone by had best be forgotten.

"But younger physicians may do well to remember that there are several excellent remedies which are still first rate in certain treatments."

Brief Bits Of Local News

An appeal of Joe Maurice Moore, Lubbock insurance adjuster, from an Aug. 29 county court conviction of drunk driving was submitted on brief for both parties Wednesday in the court of criminal appeals, the Associated Press reported from Austin. A decision in the case probably will be reported next week, County Attorney John Steele, who prosecuted the action before a jury, said. The appeal is being made by James O. Cade, Moore's counsel.

Gregory Salas of Lubbock county filed suit Wednesday afternoon against Associated Indemnity corporation asking that Judge Dan Blair of 72nd district court set aside a Jan. 27 award of the state industrial accident board and that the plaintiff Salas recover workmen's compensation of $20 a week for 401 weeks as result of alleged total and permanent disability suffered June 3 when in scope of employment here. He pleaded that he was accidentally struck by a heavy timber. The suit was filed by the law firm of Smith, Cunningham and Boling.

Judgment of $25 fine and court costs, as well as five days imprisonment in county jail, was filed for recording Wednesday in the case of Hugh Carroll, 35, a negro who pleaded guilty of theft. A drunk driving charge naming Ernie Bishop was dismissed on motion of County Attorney John Steele. A county court jury of which Cecil Long was foreman was unable to reach a verdict in the case Jan. 27, records showed.

Sam Rosenthal Will Filed For Probate

Application was filed Wednesday by Mrs. Adalayde Ray Rosenthal for probate of the will of Samuel S. Rosenthal, Lubbock merchant and president of the Lubbock Hubbers Baseball team, who died here Jan. 26, "possessed of real and personal property of a probable value of $100,000."

The petitioner set out that her husband left a will in which the petitioner was appointed independent executrix and providing that no other action be had in county court in relation to settlement of the estate other than probating and recording of the will and a return of inventory, an appraisement and list of claims.

Filed by W. D. Girand, attorney for Mrs. Rosenthal, the petition stated that the joint will of Mr. and Mrs. Rosenthal was executed Jan. 8, 1947, leaving all the estate to the community survivor or, in case neither survived the other, to their children, share and share alike. The will provided that the community survivor be named to execute terms of the will, without bond being required.

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Thursday, February 5, 1948

Warning Given On Car Licenses

A word of warning concerning expiration dates for out of state licenses was issued Wednesday by the highway patrol division of the Texas Department of Public Safety, vericle licenses having gone on sale Monday morning at the county tax office.

Under reciprocity agreements among most states a car owner who moves to another state has a stipulated time, which varies by states, to transfer his license to the state into which he moves.

Expiration Dates Vary

License expiration dates also vary, but in all states come up for renewal some time during the first quarter of each year. In most states expiration date is Dec. 31, but time extensions are allowed in some. In California, where licenses expire Dec. 31, an extension is granted to midnight of Feb. 4. In Florida a 15-day extension is granted, from Dec. 31 to Jan. 15; in Kansas a full month is granted, from Dec. 31 to Jan. 31; and in Louisiana from Dec. 31 to midnight of Feb. 5. New Mexico grants two months extension, from Dec. 31 to March 1, and Oklahoma one month, from Dec. 31 to Jan. 31.

In Texas, a revised plan is in use this year. With final deadline set as midnight of April 1 for legal use of 1947 plates, plates were placed on sale for immediate attachment if desired, on Feb. 2. Heretofore the plates could not be attached until March 1.

Rush Subsides

It was explained, however, that in transfer of title from out of state, or in licensing a new car, the owner must pay for the unelapsed portion of 1947. Legal expiration date in Texas is March 31, and if plates of this type are purchased during February, owner must pay two months of 1947. After March 1 only one month of 1947 is required. It is not necessary to use the 1947 plates, because 1948 plates are obtained at the same time and can be legally attached to the car.

Tax Collector J. B. Johnston reported that the early rush for 1948 plates has subsided, but that many motorists are taking advantage of the time element to avoid the rush and confusion of last-minute plate purchases.

Veteran Air Force Official To Visit City

Brig. Gen. Ramey To Speak Here Today

Guest speaker at Kiwanis club luncheon in Lubbock hotel at noon today will be Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, distinguished war leader.

Gen. Ramey, now commander of the U. S. Eighth Air Force, directed early B-29 operations against the Japanese mainland, went to India to succeed Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay as commander of the 58th bombardment wing, and after the war was in charge of aerial activity in atomic bomb tests at Bikini.

Graduate Of West Point

Ramey, 1928 graduate of West Point, finished advanced flying school in 1929, and served in various capacities until 1940 when he became commanding officer for of a bombardment squadron at Hickam Field, Hawaii. As operations officer for the 18th Bomb wing at Hickam at time of the Jap Pearl Harbor sneak, Ramey earned special commendation for attempts to save planes while the enemy strafed and bombed hangars, planes, and personnel on the field.

In the hectic months that followed, Gen. Ramey was in the thick of the desperate battle against the Japs, first as deputy chief of staff of the Seventh Air force, then as commanding officer of the 43rd Bombardment group, and later as commanding officer of the Fifth Bomber command.

Head Battle Operations

He directed bombing attacks in support of operations which turned back the Jap thrust at Port Moresby and resulted in Jap expulsion from Papua; was commanding officer of the Fifth Bomber command which sank 22 Jap vessels in the famous battle of the Bismarck Sea; directed extensive bombing operations in New Guinea, the Bismarck archipelago and other sections of the Southwest Pacific; had charge of planning and directing bombing and strafing attacks during the campaign which led to capture of Lae; conducted operations which crushed the strong Jap base at Wewak, and directed bombing of critical targets in areas under land attack by Allied forces. For these operations he received the DSM (Distinguished Service Medal).

Gen. Ramey was awarded the DFC (Distinguished Flying Cross) for conducting the first bombing attack on Wake island, and the DSC (Distinguished Service Cross) for "extraordinary heroism" while participating in an attack on the

BRIG. GEN. RAMEY

Jap base at Rabaul, New Britain. As command pilot leading a flight against the Rabaul base, Ramey remained at scene of the attack for more than two hours, making 20 passes over the target, dropping flares on each run and thus drawing attention of searchlights and diverting much of the heavy ackack from other bombers to his own.

Late in 1943 he returned to the states to become commanding general of the 38th Flying Training wing at Kirtland Field, remaining there until he was named chief of staff of the 21st Bomber command of the Twentieth Air force. In that capacity he helped plan and direct early B-29 operations against the Jap mainland from the Marianas. In January, 1945, he went to India to succeed Gen. LeMay in charge of the famous 58th Bombardment wing.

In April, 1945, Gen. Ramey took

Lubbock Students To Attend Meet

Two delegations from Lubbock High school will leave this morning for state meetings of organizations to be conducted Friday and Saturday.

One group will go to San Antonio to attend an annual meeting of the Texas Association of Student Councils, at which Lubbock High school will be candidate for office of president.

School Is Elected

A school, not an individual, is elected to office of president. If Lubbock were to win the election, next year's student body president at the school would serve as president for the state organization's convention.

H. J. McCabe, dean of boys and student council sponsor, will accompany the Lubbock group. Students going will be Dan Davis, student body president; Kara Sam Dunn, vice president; Charlene Laws, secretary, and Bert Nelson, head cheer leader.

The meeting will be conducted at Thomas Jefferson High school. Student council work will be discussed in general and committee sessions. Delegates will be guests in homes.

Meeting At Austin

Another delegation will leave for Austin to attend a meeting of the state Association of Distributive Education Clubs. Omer R. Bantz, coordinator of distributive education at Lubbock High school, and sponsor of the Distributive Education club at the school, will accompany three delegates, Jerry Medley, who was president of the club the first semester this year; Charles Galbraith, who is second semester president, and Imogene Wallace.

Sight seeing trips, a banquet and dance and a business session are included on the program.

Gov. Beauford Jester has proclaimed Feb. 1-7 as distributive education week in the state.

TO HEAD ASSOCIATION

FORT WORTH, Feb. 4 (AP)—Jim Gill of Coleman, was named president of the Texas Polled Hereford association at a meeting here last night. Hartley Howard of Devine was named vice president. Jow Weedon of Grosvenor, and Fred Freeman of Denton were elected to the board.

Chances Of New Party Doubted

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—Texas Democrats were advised today to keep cool and not go off half-cocked over President Truman's civil rights declarations.

The advisor was Robert W. Calvert of Hillsboro, chairman of the State Democratic executive committee.

He also urged "all Democrats" to be sure and attend their precinct conventions (May 1) "so that county and state conventions will accurately reflect the thinking of party members over the state."

New Dispute Talked

These comments came as Texas Democrats were speculating over the possibility of a split something like 1944's at the presidential convention at Brownwood May 25.

"It's a long time until the election," Calvert told the Associated Press by telephone from his home at Hillsboro. "Let's keep our heads and not go off half cocked."

Calvert said he had not yet conferred with Gov. Beauford H. Jester over the situation. Jester is titular party head in Texas and thus far during his administration he has kept the party under firm control. His attitude would have considerable influence at the May session. He has reserved comment on the outcry from some southern Democrats, demanding that this section of the party hold its own convention.

Question Is Asked

"When southern Democrats say they are ready to leave the party because Mr. Truman advocates some things they do not believe in, I just wonder what party they're going into," Calvert said. "The Republicans and Mr. Wallace advocate the same things.

"About all the southern Democrats would do would be to put their votes with Wallace's votes and elect a Republican."

Calvert said he was willing "within the party" to try and write a platform that states the sentiments of the South and enact it into law.

But when I get whipped inside my own party, I go along with it," he said.

Calvert compared the southern demand for a separate convention to the Texas Regular move in 1944, "planning to control the electoral college and force a compromise." He said he was against that then, and still is.

Southern Convention Urged

Merritt Gibson of Longview, leader in the now-defunct Texas Regular party, yesterday said he did not think southern Democrats could win in a fight against President Truman's civil rights declarations at the national convention. They ought to call a southern Democratic convention, said Gibson.

The Texas party split in 1944 after the May convention named electors not flatly pledged to vote for President Roosevelt. This was an effort partly to force the national convention to adopt a platform plank critical of efforts to nullify state laws for segregation of negroes and whites in schools.

Film Company In Doghouse On Name

(By The Associated Press)

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 4—The Venezuela motion picture workers union is mad at Donald Duck.

The union decided today not to show any more Walt Disney cartoons if Bolivar (Donald Duck's dog) continues under that name. The name, says the union, is an insult to the memory of Simon Bolivar, national hero of Venezuela.

In Hollywood, Disney studios said the name Bolivar had never been used to identify a dog in the film cartoons, but had been used occasionally in comic strips. The latter, a studio spokesman added, will be changed immediately.

Jaycees To Open Show Tonight

If you can relax and laugh out loud, you should go to the Senior High school auditorium tonight for the opening presentation of the Lubbock Jaycees' "Fun For You" variety show.

Imagine, if you have an imagination, Jimmy Morris, local automobile dealer, as Betty Grable; Mont Jennings, brick and tile man, as Lana Turner; Bill Linn, truck company employe, as Mae West; L. D. Whiteley, nursery company owner, as Carmen Miranda; J. C. Hughes, oil company employe, as Gravel Gertie; and Lester Grimes, insurance company employe, as Gypsy Rose Lee. Doesn't just the thought of some of the characters start you to laughing already.

To Award Prizes

Well, Lubbock Jaycees say that's just a sample of what's in store for patrons at the opening night of the variety show, conducted in the manner of famous radio shows. And what's more, the Jaycees have announced that those attending the show tonight and tomorrow night will have an opportunity to get in on more than $2,000 in prizes to be awarded in

Boost In Foreign Spending Seen

Marshall May Ask Additional Funds; More Aid To Greece, Turkey Hinted

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—Secretary of State Marshall was reported ready today to ask another billion dollars or so for foreign spending. And Marshall said further military aid to Turkey and Greece is being considered by the State department.

Senator George (D-Ga) of the Foreign Relations committee said he had been informed that about one billion dollars would be asked for aid to China and for occupation costs in Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea.

George told reporters his information came from a source he considered reliable.

Study Is Underway

This extra request, on top of the $6,800,000,000 Marshall is asking for his European recovery program, would raise foreign spending proposals to nearly $8,000,000,000.

Marshall told a news conference the State department is considering all the facts in connection with the $100,000,000 military aid program to Turkey.

He said also that the department is trying to determine whether more money will be needed for the Greek aid program when the present $300,000,000 appropriation expires June 30.

Action Is Asked

The secretary urged anew that Congress act on the European recovery program by April 1, and Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the Senate Foreign Affairs group said later that he thought this could be done.

The Senate committee, holding public hearings, heard today the sharpest attack to date on the Marshall program.

Yale professor George P. Murdock declared it would "plunge us into a third world war," make the U. S. A. "hissing byword throughout the world" and "make the Kremlin the capital of the world."

Childress Voters Make Chief Of Police Office Elective

CHILDRESS, Tex., Feb. 4 (AP)—In the heaviest balloting of the city's history, Childress voters yesterday decided to make the office of chief of police an elective position.

The vote was 789 to 546. The decision involves amending the city charter.

The issue began last September when citizens protested to the city council against alleged rough handling of prisoners by police. A petition was circulated for calling election.

No election date for choosing the chief of police has yet been set.

Investigation Of Holdups Pushed

Capt. Pat Davidson, chief of police detectives, and Dep. Sheriff Earl Horton returned Wednesday afternoon from San Antonio, where they questioned three men, 19, 20, and 21, in connection with two narcotics robberies here.

The suspects also are under continued investigation tracing to armed robberies of a drugstore in Houston, a pharmacy in San Antonio and places in Dallas.

To Continue Probe

The Lubbock officers, not successful in getting admissions, nevertheless said they would take to Amarillo pictures of the three, as well as one of a 22-year-old companion who was fatally injured Jan. 25 when a car the four occupied was overturned near Blanco, for attempted identification.

In successive nights, there were such robberies at Sand Springs, San Angelo, Lubbock and Amarillo, officials said.

Morris Davis and Arthur Burnett, a 19-year-old student of Texas Tech, went with Lubbock officials to San Antonio to attempt identification of the suspects. Davis was at the Prescription lab, at 1629 College, on the night of Dec. 26 when that place was robbed by two gunmen. R. P. Lytal and Burnett were robbed by a lone gunman the night of Jan. 19. Narcotics and money were taken in both robberies.

Positive identification of the suspects could not be made by Lubbock witnesses, although sizes and color of some of them were "close," officials said.

It was hoped that Amarillo victims might be able to identify or eliminate entirely the suspects, officials said.

WILL IT TURN?

The "Worm" Writhes

THE long-suffering Southern "worm" will be justified thoroughly if it actually should turn at last in protest of the President's 10-point "Civil Rights program." This was the latest kick in the pants given the South as a reward for its unswerving loyalty to what still is called the Democratic party.

While conceding that the President possibly may have had finer motives for presenting the "program," the possible political values of the maneuver are too obvious to ignore. Everyone knew the most vigorous opposition to the scheme would come from the South. But that probably did not worry the Democratic policymakers. They doubtless assume that the South will vote "straight Democratic" next November, regardless of treatment.

They doubtless assume that the South will vote "straight Democratic" next November, regardless of treatment.

In an entirely different category are many doubtful states where the solid support of minorities like racial groups might swing an election. This program is an obvious bid for that vote. Possibly Mr. Truman still would have proposed the plan if he had believed it might cause some or all the Southern states to desert the Democratic party. But anyone who ever has had dealings with politicians will doubt it.

The President's motives would be under less suspicion if there was more reason to believe Congress might approve the program. No such confidence is justified. The expectation based on experience must be that Congress will waste a lot of time talking about the proposition, and then do nothing. If all other maneuvering fails to block the program, it is virtually certain to be talked to death in a Senate filibuster—and there is little prospect that such a filibuster could be blocked.

THUS, logic supports the suspicion that Mr. Truman deliberately has made inevitable a gross and pointless waste of Congressional time to put himself in position to bid for the support of racial minorities in pivotal states by saying he tried to do something in their behalf.

Probably neither he nor the so-called Democratic party's policy-makers care how the South might react to the maneuver. Possibly they are blandly confident, as they have every reason to be, that the South will submit to whatever treatment it received without attempting retaliation.

If that is the supposition of the party bigwigs, maybe they have begun to squirm a little. Probably none of them anticipated protests as violent as those which were heard almost instantly—including the proposal that Southern Democrats hold their own separate convention and name their own candidates for President and Vice President. Such a ticket would, of course, have no chance of election. But, if supported by most of the South, it probably would play hob with Mr. Truman's hopes.

But, regardless of eventualities, the proposal of the President's program and the reaction have served an interesting purpose. They have demonstrated fairly convincingly that there is life in the Southern "worm." As long as there is life, there always will be the possibility that circumstances might arise which will cause it actually to turn, thereby upsetting many political apple carts.

Overheard: "It's a lot harder to flag a man down with a long skirt."

The Little Savage

Murder At My House

By Rene Ryerson Mart
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: It all started after I had been in Hollywood three months, writing the movie script for one of my own mystery books—and letting Jeff Haverson help me get over. Oscar Craig, Jeff was director on my picture and a very attractive man. When Liz Leyden, my unpleasant collaborator, informed me vindictively that Jeff had been married for some time to Avis Vaughn, our glamor star, I was stunned. Jeff had been searching for an actress who looked enough like Avis to play her sister in the film, but not finding one had cast Avis in both roles. That day's rushes showed bit-player Madge Narney to be the perfect double for Avis. But the star didn't like the idea and threatened trouble. Jeff walked me back to my office afterwards, admitted his marriage, said Avis refused to divorce him.)

HIS voice was a monotone. He deliberately squeezed all emotion from it to keep it from betraying him. "It's hard to believe now," Jeff said, "but I was in love with Avis when I married her. And I wanted to make our marriage last. I thought I knew how, too. The bright boy from Brooklyn, that was me. I knew all the answers. Work together! That was it. Never give other actresses or directors a chance to come between us.

"I had an attorney friend draw up an agreement and Avis and I signed it. As long as we were married to each other, I was to direct every play she starred in; and she was to have the feminine lead in every play I directed. Fixed it so that neither of us could sign a contract to work in any picture unless the other was included in the deal. Any studio had to take both of us—or neither. Or face some pretty expensive litigation. It was an air-tight agreement, all right."

Jeff laughed. "That was to keep us together—and happy forever. It lasted three months. Our living together, I mean."

I began to understand a lot of things. Jeff was a good director. His pictures made money. He didn't have to worry about whether or not his contract was going to be renewed by the studio. While Avis would have hit the skids long ago if her career hadn't been tied in with his. Easy to see why she wouldn't divorce him. As long as she was married to him, the studio had to give her the leading part in his pictures. But. . .

"But you could divorce her, Jeff." I couldn't keep all the eagerness out of my voice. "You'd have plenty of grounds. . . ."

JEFF shook his head. "I can't divorce her, if she wants to contest it. You see—I left her first. And I haven't been an angel either."

I never answered that. The door of the office opened without warning and Liz Leyden oozed into the room. He ignored me and gave Jeff a disagreeable look.

"Well, you've fouled things up, haven't you?"

Jeff looked at him but didn't answer. He continued to look at him. It was as if he didn't see him or hear him, either. "Have I?" he said finally. "Have I?" His face changed. He got to his feet. "It might be," he said slowly, "that I'm just getting things straightened out?"

"Look here, Haverson," Liz decided to be conciliatory. "You know Avis was only bluffing."

For a moment Jeff hung on his heel. "Was she?" he said. "Well, maybe she bluffed once too often. I'm tired of her pushing me around, and I'm going to do something about it." His face was ugly and stubborn and deadly.

He walked past me without a word and went out and slammed the door. Hard. I guess it was the way he looked that affected me. A little chill played hide-and-seek up my spine.

Liz, of course, was undisturbed by any such hypersensitivity. He said bluntly and matter-of-factly, "Well, it's up to us."

I asked him shortly what was up to us.

He said to put on the peace-making act.

I still didn't see why it was our affair. This was strictly between Jeff and Avis. And I was beginning to get an idea. If Avis stood pat on her refusal to play the part of the wife unless she played the sister also, it would mean the breaking of the contract between her and Jeff; and if she lost the hold on him which made him her meal ticket, she'd divorce him fast enough. And Jeff would be free to marry again.

LIZ read my mind as if it was an open book.

"And don't get any screwy ideas, sister," he said. "Avis will never let this part in technicolor get away from her. Or Jeff either. She'll stall and scrap and make difficulties until everybody is in an uproar, and then she'll turn up at the studio sweet and meek and ready to go on with her part. And the contract will still hold, see. She's done it before. And she can sic her attorneys onto Jeff and cost him a lot of dough if he doesn't let her play the part of the sister, too. You see, it's already been assigned to her."

"I still don't see what we can do about it."

"I think we can fix it so that Avis will let Jeff cast Narney in the sister part—which is what he really wants. And then everybody will be happy again." He paused, thinking it out as he went along. "What about you inviting Avis and Art out to your place for a few drinks this evening? I'll come along and we'll hash over the script and make Avis think we've re-written the part of the wife for her and built it way up to here—" Liz gestured at his chin. "That way she won't feel she's losing face when she agrees to let Jeff cast Narney as the sister."

I was beginning to see why the studio heads valued Liz Leyden. He was little Mr. Fix-it.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

A week or two ago I told you about all the fun I get out of the classified advertisements in the newspapers I read.

I think you can learn a whole lot about the character of a community by reading the classified ads.

That certainly applies to San Francisco.

BRANDEIS

San Francisco, as you all know, is a fun-loving city.

Our hotel is on Geary Street, which is right in the heart of the city.

Looking out of the window at night it's like a necklace of fake jewels in all colors.

There are red signs and yellow signs, green and yellow and orange and blue. And all the jewels are blinking and moving and beckoning.

Come in, the signs say. Enjoy yourself. Have fun. Forget realities. Make believe.

And what the signs don't say but really mean is "Spend your money. We need it."

I just looked down the block.

A saloon (cocktail lounge, they call it now) or night club in every single building in our block.

Two theatres. Gertrude Lawrence in one of them, Katharine Dunham, that wonderful Negro dancer, and her "Bal Noir" troupe in the other one.

But back to the ads.

A whole page of amusement advertising.

"The Blue Fox Cafe. Quality Foods." One of San Francisco's famous restaurants, located, strange to say, right oppositethe City Morgue.

"Bocce Ball. Unique Entertainment. European atmosphere."

"Sinaloa. Fine Mexican Food. Dancing. Show. Cocktails."

"Where to go in Chinatown. Lion's Den. San Francisco's Famous Underground Night Club. America's Smartest Chinese Restaurant.

"Vista Del Mar. Marvelous Marine View. Fishermen's Wharf."

And fifty more. Come in. Enjoy yourself. Have fun. Forget Realities—and spend your money.

But what is this?

The other side of the story.

Ad after ad—all in the same vein.

"ARE YOU LONELY?"

Do you want to meet someone congenial? Do you want to be happy?

"We open the door to companship or Matrimony."

"A select medium for social contacts, designed to bring worthwhile people together. Strictly confidential."

Here is something!

"Cultured Lady, age 69. Owns home, property, has means, very sincere. Seeks acquaintance of sincere gentleman near own age. Will marry if suited."

And right under it:

"RETIRED Rancher, age 79, excellent health, active, owns property and car, lonely, seeks acquaintance, lady under 65."

Could this fun-loving, gay, colorful city be also the city of "lonely hearts"?

Column after column of "Used Cars For Sale."

And what names the sellers give themselves!

There's "Crazy Cox," "Horse Trader Ed" and "Smiling Jack."

So much for now—somebody else wants this space. More tomorrow.

Eccles Steps On Toes

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The price which Marriner S. Eccles paid for his opposition to the Truman-Snyder anti-inflation program was his own official deflation. More than any action since he became President, the demotion of the New Dealish banker from Utah demonstrates that the Missourians in the White House and the Treasury are a pair of tight-lipped, determined men who want their own way.

Despite the pleasantries exchanged between Mr. Truman and the long-time head of the Federal Reserve System, Washington recognizes that the latter had stepped on too many important toes in presenting his views to Congress on how to prevent rising prices. He criticized F.D.R.'s deficit financing of the war, Mr. Truman's new proposals for wage-price-materials controls and had harsh words for the private bankers who opposed him.

TUCKER

The identity of his successor, Thomas B. McCabe, a Union League Republican from Philadelphia, has shocked both liberal and conservative Democrats, especially southerners who now have no representative on the Reserve Board of Governors. As head of the Philadelphia Reserve Bank, closely allied with New York financiers, Mr. Eccles's successor attacked his proposed remedies openly and violently. . .

RESPONSIBLE: The disagreement between President Truman and Governor Eccles is one of the most unwritten stories at the Capital because it involves such key personalities and such a basic problem as domestic and world inflation. The Utah banker was so realistic in his offer of solutions that he verged on the iconoclastic and pessimistic.

Besides assailing the McCabe group's opposition to new checks on bank loans and credit, he declared that one of the "most inflationary factors" in today's inflation was "excessively easy mortgage credit." He pointed out that in two years this form of credit on homes and buildings had increased by more than nine billion dollars.

But his heresy lay in emphasizing that federal agencies were responsible for half of this increase through the operations of the National Housing Authority, the Home Loan Bank System and the G.I. Bill of Rights. He criticized three of the best vote-getting agencies at the capital and begged them to tighten their policies on loans and appraisals of property to be financed with federal funds.

LABOR: Governor Eccles also sideswiped organized labor at the very moment when President Truman and his political aides were coaxing A. F. Whitney, William Green and Philip Murray back into the Democratic camp for 1948.

The Federal Reserve spokesman urged longer hours of work and a postponement of a new round of wage demands. In both these recommendations he virtually paraphrased the words of Bernard M. Baruch.

Mr. Truman dismissed the Wall Street financier's program with the crisp statement that he approved only those portions which coincided with his own proposals to Congress in his economic report and in his message on the state of the union.

BANKERS: Unfortunately for Mr. Eccles, he denounced the President's specific anti-inflation suggestions—controls on wages, prices and allocations of key materials—as "curbs rather than cures."

Specifically, Mr. Eccles proposed reimposition of regulations on installment credit, raising the amount of legal reserves which banks must hold, and an additional "special reserve" to lower their lending power.

The McCabe faction of the Reserve System fought every one of these remedies, as has Secretary Snyder. So, in the showdown which the Missouri Secretary of the Treasury demanded, either he or Mr. Eccles had to step down.

Regardless of the individual fate of the two protagonists, President Truman has sided with the big bankers of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and elsewhere.

VAGUE: President Truman's support of Secretary Snyder in this controversy makes all the more puzzling the latter's vague answers to questions about the Administration's anti-inflation program, when he was a witness before Congressional Committees.

When Mr. Snyder was asked where Mr. Truman hoped to obtain the funds to finance the elaborate health, educational, public works, social welfare and farm program he submitted to Congress in his state of the union message, the Administration's chief financial officer had no answer. He simply suggested that the Congress put that question to President Truman.

When they inquired when he first heard of the Chief Executive's tax reduction plan—a $40 deduction for each taxpayer and dependents—the Secretary of the Treasury admitted that he "could not remember." The fact is that he is supposed to have opposed this retreat from the original Truman stand of no tax cuts now.

OIL: "Why has Secretary Krug delayed until now to propose a program for the manufacture of petroleum from shale, lignite, coal etc? I have read that Hitler got the gas for running the war from this process. What are the prospects of supplementing our dwindling domestic supply of oil?"

Answer. I do not know why Mr. Krug waited until this very moment to advance a vast, long-range plan for making the U.S. self-sufficient through production of synthetic petroleum. The general theory at Washington is that he timed it so as to allay growing fears over current shortages. He wanted to show that he was on the job.

Hitler did obtain his gasoline in this way, but expenses were no object in his slave labor state. Thanks to Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, we are now conducting a few experiments with pilot plants in the West. They are reported to have cut the production cost, which is the great obstacle to the synthetic process, to about eight cents higher than the present price of gasoline and oil.

Many scientists, however, believe that it will take some years before the method can be perfected commercially, and that, even then, the retail price will be about forty or fifty cents a gallon. Of course, by that time ordinary petroleum may be selling near that figure, if we have to rely on imports, deeper or tideland wells and increased wages.

Wild life seems to be diminishing in all of the places except where there is a juke point.

Maybe the philosophy of government would be better if we had more philosophers.

The man who depends too much on his family tree is liable to be left out on a limb.

Robinson Crusoe should have been content on that island. He didn't have to worry about keeping up appearances.

CRITICISM OF SOLONS UPHELD

Martin's 'Censorship' Scored

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The cracker barrel club was gathering with much scraping of chairs as the members settled themselves comfortably about the glowing stove. There were still little damp spots on the worn floor where the snow had been shaken from coats and boots. The wind tapped at the windows in vain. All was warm and cozy there in the country store.

STOKES

Jed Hoskins let one fly at the stove, with a sizzle that echoed through the room, then nonchalantly reared back and gave forth:

"Looks like we've got to disband, boys."

"What do you mean?"

"Quit getting together. That's what. Don't you see it in the paper? About Joe Martin. You know, Joe Martin from over at North Attleboro. Joe's a big shot, Speaker of the House down in Congress. Joe says we can't cuss Congress any more. And it ain't no use meeting if we can't do that. Why, what that bunch of galoots has been doing! But don't let me get started. Here it is in the paper"—

News Story Read

He pulled a clipping from his pocket and adjusted his spectacles.

"Joe says there's some kind of a plot to discredit Congress, an alien plot. Uses a lot of big language. Must have one of them ghost-writers I've heard about. Here, lemme read some of it. It says here that Joe said we've got to combat 'sinister forces which cook up these canards.' Canards. That's a whopper. Sounds devilish. These forces, he says, 'feed them out,' meaning them canards, 'for the very specific purpose of discrediting Congress in the opinion of the people.' You reckon that means us? No feller could call me one of them things to my face, I know that.

"Joe was talking to some lady radio broadcasters. I knew they never should of let women in that business. Joe gets pretty hot. Listen here to what he says:

"'For years there has been a very powerful, highly-sustained, well-financed and cleverly managed campaign of sabotage in some of the press, over some radio microphones and on some public rostrums to destroy the confidence of the people in Congress as an institution'—

"Whew! What a mouthful. You can see why they elected Joe the speaker. Boy, does he speak! Jim you're an editor. Looks like he's after you. What you got to say about them canards? Seems to me you get off some pretty good cracks about Congress yourself every now and then. You in on this alien plot?"

'Editor' Has Say

The editor shoved his crumpled felt hat back on his head and said:

"Looks to me like Joe Martin is just making what he calls a political speech when it's Truman that's talking. Joe, you know, is a newspaperman, too, a publisher. Started out as a reporter. I'm surprised at him. I don't see his paper often, but I bet you'll find criticism of Congress in there. Why an editorial writer would have a hard time, particularly when things get dull, if he couldn't whip one up about Congress.

"Of course if I was writing an editorial, and wanted to be fancy, I would say something about cussin' Congress being one of the best safety valves in our Democratic system. It lets us blow off steam, all of us. It doesn't hurt anybody. Wonder if criticism of Congress isn't bad now because Republicans run Congress and because Joe Martin runs one branch of it. Looks like Joe's getting thin-skinned. Looks like he can't take it.

"There's been talk about him wanting to be President. He'd better watch his language then. All the Presidents I ever knew anything about or read about got pretty riled up about Congress every now and then, and said plenty. If Joe should make it, why he might become one of those one-man sinister forces feeding out canards and destroying the republic. By the way, Jed, what do you think about that tax bill the House passed down there?"

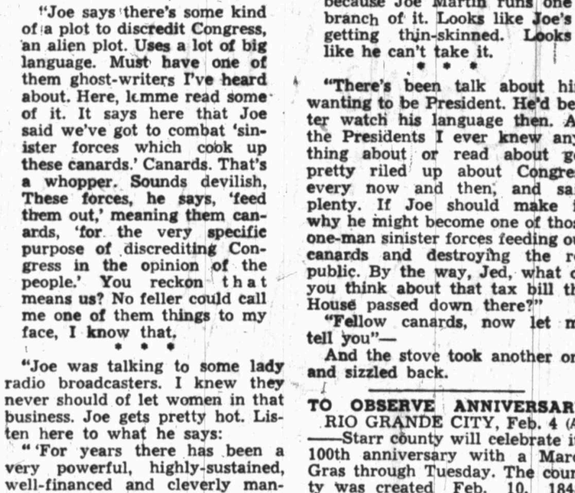

"Fellow canards, now let me tell you"—

And the stove took another one and sizzled back.

STOCKS TUMBLE AGAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Stock prices tumbled 1 to more than 5 points today in the sharpest market decline since last May. Commodity futures also skidded with some contracts off the limit allowed for a single day.

Selling on the stock exchange picked up speed in the afternoon to make it the fastest session of the new year with a total of 1,200,000 shares traded. Some issues finished above their lows of the day.

Wall Street commission houses reported unloading on the slide by customers wary of increasing consumer resistance, effect of high costs on profits, prospects for tax revision and outcome of foreign monetary and and recovery programs. Pointing up concern over the economic future was the official British government warning against a race between rising prices and personal incomes. Some quarters in the financial district, swept by a snow storm today, noted that a sharp drop in the market also accompanied the biz Dec. 26 snowfall.

The fall of 1.2 in The Associated Press 60-stock composite equaled its sharpest dip since April 14, 1947, and left it at 62.2, the lowest average since last June 10. Of 1,997 issues traded in the broadest market since Dec. 30, there were 868 declines and 76 advances.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP) — Cotton futures broke more than $3 a bale today under pressure of heavy liquidation. The drop was influenced by sharp declines in grains and other commodities, along with uneasiness over prospects for cotton exports and domestic textile demand. There was some hedging by nervous merchants who had been carrying cotton on an unhedged basis.

A good deal of switching from nearby to later positions took place. New crop months showed some resistance to the decline, influenced by the rising parity trend, pointing to a somewhat higher government loan on the next cotton crop.

Cotton closed strong.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4 (AP) — Cotton futures broke $2.40 to $3.15 a bale here today before persistent mill buying and short covering caused a sizeable recovery. Closing prices were steady, 60 cents to $4.35 a bale lower.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP) — All contracts of wheat, corn, oats, soybeans and lard plunged for the limit declines permitted in a single session on the board of trade today.

After opening slightly lower, grains encountered heavy liquidation around the end of the first hour.

A distinguished feature of the trade, dealers said, was the lack of new buying attracted into the market on the break.

Everything closed off the limit with unfilled selling orders in all pits, particularly wheat and corn. The decline was 10 cents in wheat, 8 cents in corn, 6 cents in oats, 8 cents in soybeans and $2.00 a hundred pounds in lard.

May wheat ended at $2.76⅝, May corn $2.30⅝, May oats $1.12⅜, March soybeans $3.78 and March lard $22.15.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 4 (AP) — Wheat No. 1 hard, 2.93¼-3.02¼.

Oats No. 2 white 1.41⅝-43⅝.

Corn No. 2 yellow 2.85½-70½; No. 2 white 2.84½-86½.

Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lbs. 2.95-4.09.

WRONG NUMBER

MILWAUKEE (UP)—When Gilbert Haehrbass tried to call his father on the telephone he got a busy signal for about 45 minutes. The operator thinks he'd still be trying if she hadn't tipped him off he was calling his own number.

the 58th wing to the Marianas, where he operated until end of the war, then was in charge of Operations Sunset, which flew thousands of soldiers home from islands of the Pacific.

He was placed in charge of Task Force 1.5, the Army air force portion of the combined Army-Navy operations for explosion of two atom bombs at Bikini, and directed all aerial activity for the tests. It was a plane from his organization, the old 58th wing, that dropped A-bomb No. 4 in Bikini bay, and the Bikini operation brought him the Legion of Merit.

Subject Not Announced

In reactivating the famous Eighth Air force, famous for knocking the luftwaffe out of the European skies, the War department incorporated the 58th wing, under Gen. Ramey, with remnants of the Eighth. This was effective on Nov. 1, 1946 and headquarters was established at Fort Worth Army Air field. Gen. Ramey was for a brief period chief of staff under Maj. Gen. Clements McMullen, and in January, 1947 assumed full command.

The Eighth is comprised of one dependent and three independent bomb wings, and one dependent and one independent fighter wing, whose mission is long range defense of America, with the latest weapons, including the A-bomb. The force is equipped to move and prepared to bomb any place in the world on ten days notice.

Gen. Ramey is one of four brothers in the service. He has more than 7,000 hours flying time to his credit, and participated in 30 bombing missions during the war. A native Texan, he was born at Denton, where his parents still reside. He is an acknowledged authority on very heavy bombardment in the Army Air forces, and is the only man in the world who commands an air force equipped to drop atomic bombs.

The general has not announced his subject for the Kiwanis club address.

Dean Allen Of Tech Speaks To Lubbock High School Seniors

James G. Allen, dean of men at Texas Technological college, spoke to seniors at Lubbock High school Wednesday afternoon, emphasizing that now more than ever before students should seriously consider selection of a college and a major subject they will study in college.

Because of wide divergence in ages and large enrollment of veterans, students face heavy competition in college and have to work harder than ever before, he said.

Dean Allen was introduced by Billy Tatum, senior president. After his speech, Dean Allen introduced Joe Arrington, Lubbock High school graduate who is to complete pre-medical work at Texas Tech this summer, who urged students to attend Texas Tech.

Good Business Calls For Good Accounting

A well-known economist has said: "Once a business becomes too big for one brain to handle personally, accounting takes over the job."

American business could not have grown to its present size without accounting.

Advising business, big and small, on management problems involving accounting is an important part of the work of many Certified Public Accountants. They help management keep expenses in line with income . . . pay the right taxes (not too much or too little) . . . cut overall costs.

A CPA's work can help business efficiency and economy—which in turn may result in lower costs and lower prices.
