Great Britain Starting To Let Her Hair Down By Admitting Weaknesses

BRITISH, NOT ITALIANS, FLED, SAYS DUCE

England Must Have U. S. Aid To Win War

Britain Hopes To Get Offensive Aid Quickly

By C. A. FARNSWORTH
Associated Press Cable Staff
Britain is starting to let her hair down.

She at last is saying, in various ways, that while morale is high, she has no hope of eventual victory undiminished by Nazi planes, U-boats and surface raiders, she must have help to win—help from the United States.

To date the overtures could be construed as falling within the "aid-short-of-war" category. Britain needs munitions, armament, planes and ships and—as her newly returned ambassador to Washington, Lord Lothian, acknowledges, "finances."

But she also is drawing deeply from the reservoir of her own manpower. Labor Minister Ernest Bevin has disclosed that "another enormous call-up" of British manpower will come before next June. With the call-up she probably will have drawn into the fighting services all eligible men in the United Kingdom less than 40 years old.

"The empire also is likely to be called to furnish men," he said. "Since the war began the British has to the United States has been: Send us the materials of war; we don't need your men."

Nothing that is being said now has changed that plea, except to emphasize it with the virtual acknowledgment that Britain will lose the war unless she gets help.

For public consumption, British officialdom does not specify the quantity of help she must have—nor precisely the category. But a general way of expressing it would be to say that Britain cannot continue as an industrial-commercial entity. She has been or will be so weakened by the Nazi counter-blockade and bombardment that she must have constant transfusions.

Britain's hope of victory lies in integrating her own diminishing industrial and commercial lifeblood with that of her mainstays, the United States and Canada, in a sort of Siamese twin relationship.

Minister Without Portfolio Arthur Greenwood dwelt on that theme in the house of commons yesterday when he spoke of North America as "a second arsenal."

Co-operative disposition of the United States fleet to free British naval units from certain world areas which the British merely are guarding now would add even further stress to the "short of war" policy.

Many persons profess to see in the destroyer-for-bases trade a movement away from non-belligerency. The British proposal to make up her shipping losses primarily through construction in United States shipyards in a case along the same line.

The British are not unanimous in this feeling of dependence on American supplies. Leslie Hore-Belisha, former war secretary, is one of those who believe that Britain should not rely too strongly on the United States and Canada. He favors a strong offensive war right now against Italy as the Achilles heel of the totalitarian lineup.

The British feel that they have licked the fear of their enemy—if not their enemy himself.

Milo M. Thompson, chief of the London bureau of the Associated Press, who flew to the United States as a fellow passenger of Lord Lothian, says there is no question of British morale.

The people, at least, Thompson reports, are confident that they have won the battle for survival in having undergone the German bombing thus far.

"They seem to have lost any fear whatsoever of bombing or invasion," he says.

But the morale of the people and actual capacity of their industry and commerce for war of the sort needed to outdo Hitler are two different things.

Britain probably never will win by fighting a defensive war. That was the strategy of the Maginot line, the basis of the utter reliance on the power of the blockade. Britain, somewhere, somehow, must win the initiative if she is to win.

And so, in the hope of insuring that aid, Britain now has started letting her hair down.

I Heard . . .
That Hol Wagner and John Mobley returned today from Colorado with a beautiful 13-point cat. They were out of touch with the world for 14 days while hunting in the Sangre de Cristo area. It was 35 miles below freezing and snowing all night they arrived and they battled snow drifts the entire time.

Utility Takes 'Beating' But Service Continues

Tremendous damage caused by the recent ice storm in the Panhandle and the cost of rebuilding a destroyed power transmission system, today were cited as an answer to statements which have been spread by proponents of municipal ownership in connection with next Wednesday's franchise election in Pampa.

It has been pointed out that there has been an endeavor to "make capital" of a reserve fund which the electric utility keeps for just such emergencies as the one which arose in this week's storm.

"In the instance of the storm this week," Mr. Collins said, "we not only have to go into this fund for repairs and maintenance, but for the most part will have to use the reserve for complete new construction."

Mr. Collins said that the damage to the system throughout the entire storm area probably would run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Pampa still was operating today from the company's emergency "stand-by" plant, Mr. Collins said, "and it may be a week before the system is cut back to the main feeder line."

The cost of fuel oil alone to operate the Pampa emergency plant amounts to $250 a day, Mr. Collins said. Through the local emergency plant, the company has kept Pampa served with electricity through the period in which the main power lines have been down.

And during this emergency period comparatively few consumers locally have been without power. Mr. Collins estimated today there still were approximately 30 to 50 families without electricity on a suburban line northwest of the city where damage was greatest.

One of the outstanding facts in the history of this week is the fact that the Southwestern Public Service Company, in spite of its tremendous damage and loss and almost insurmountable difficulties in Amarillo, has been able to keep service going without interruption in Pampa.

16 States Observe Thanksgiving Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—This is Thanksgiving day for the 16 states that last week chose to wait for the second table and they are going to get the regular blue plate special football menu just like last week's fans.

The main course will be served by the Southwest conference where the great Texas Aggies will stake their reputation and its position on rewards against that old and dangerous rival, the University of Texas.

The big game in the East brought Brown and Columbia together at Providence. Neither had any championship records to risk, but they appeared evenly matched. Franklin and Marshall meets Ursinus at Lancaster, Pa. South Carolina bumped into Wake Forest.

The Midwest and Southwest had some other toothsome morsels on tap. Tulsa was to revive its grudge with Arkansas. Kansas meets Colorado State and Creighton clashes with Wichita.

Church Choirs Will Join In Carol Sing
Members of Pampa church choirs will join in leading the singing of Christmas carols at the Junior Chamber of Commerce ceremony Monday night at 7 o'clock in the 190 block on North Cuyler street, preceding the turning on of the Christmas street lights. The Jaycees have extended an open invitation to everyone in Pampa and the Pampa trade territory to be on Cuyler street to sing the carols.

The massed singing is being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, whose Santa Day celebration will be on December 1. Pampa schools are assisting in the massed singing. The a capella choir and glee clubs from all other schools will assist in leading the singing which is to be directed by Miss Helen Martin. Jim Nevins and members of the Harvester band will provide the accompaniment.

Thousands of copies of the Christmas carols to be sung will be distributed by Boy Scouts to those attending the program. Copies of the carols have already been given to students and parents are asked to join with the children in the singing of the carols at home and also at the massed meeting Monday night. Copies were distributed to ward school children yesterday.

Jaycees working on the program include Wayne Phelps, master of ceremonies; Smiley Henderson, conducting choir; Paul Schneider, printing the carols; B. B. Altmann, securing loud speakers; Calvin Dittmore, closing the street; B. L. Parker, turning on the lights.

Thanksgiving Celebrated In 16 States
(By The Associated Press)
Part II of America's Thanksgiving was celebrated today in sixteen states.

In New England and in other sections from Pennsylvania to Nevada, families gathered today just as they had in the past, on the last Thursday in November.

The rest of the country observed Thanksgiving last week on the date proclaimed by President Roosevelt. A pageant arranged at Plymouth, Mass., depicted the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving. Other features over the country included football games, some of which were played in states where Thanksgiving officially was observed last week.

The holiday was effective today in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota and Nevada.

Some fifty women and children, the families of United States navy men in the far east, celebrated the day on shipboard, en route home from Asia's danger zone.

Offices of the federal government in Washington, and Wall Street markets, were open as usual. Hard luck beset some army draftees from Pennsylvania and Kansas. They missed turkey dinners last week on what was a work day Thursday in their home towns, and spent today in army camps in adjoining states where the holiday already was history.

COUNTY'S FIRST VOLUNTEERS

Answering the first autumn call to the colors from Gray county are the seven volunteers, as they appeared in the office of the Gray County Selective Service board on the afternoon of November 22. The volunteers were honored here with a banquet that night, left the next morning for the Lubbock induction station, where all were accepted for one-year's military training under the selective service act. Plymouth Bears Bombing Brunt

(By The Associated Press)
BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Plymouth, important southwest port and naval station of England, bore the brunt of a German air bombardment overnight, DNB, official German news agency, reported today, and day-long reconnaissance showed that its rail connection with London was broken, at least temporarily.

DNB said that reconnaissance planes, sent back by daylight because poor visibility hampered night observation, found that naval and other warehouses in the harbor district were destroyed and the facilities of the Great Western railway "extensively damaged."

More than 100 planes emptied their bomb racks on Plymouth, informed sources declared. They carried numerous incendiary bombs among their explosives.

The high command left it to others to report the Plymouth raid. Its daily communiqué listed only two direct hits on the city.

Night British raids in western Germany were acknowledged by the high command, but the results were written off as damage to "a number of apartments," the death of four civilians and injury of others.

The score of planes lost yesterday was given by the communiqué as four to five in British's favor.

Informed sources said hits from scores of planes caused fires and explosions at London last night.

Notorious Spy In U. S., Morrison Tells Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The house of commons in a secret session today heard a review of the arm's organization by War Secretary Anthony Eden following a gloomy session yesterday in which Britain's war effort was sharply criticized.

Before the doors were closed the house discussed the treatment of British Fascists held in internment camps. Herbert Morrison, home secretary, announced a decision to release some lesser officials of the British Union of Fascists.

Morrison, in discussing Fascist matters, was asked the circumstances surrounding the departure of Princess Stefanie Hohenlohe Waldenburg-Schillingsturm from this country to the United States. He explained that "this Hungarian subject left the United Kingdom in December, 1939."

"When applying for an exit permit she gave as her object a visit to relatives in the United States," Morrison said. "She was a notorious member of Hitler's spy organization, why was she permitted to leave this country to do that sort of work over there?" Minister got no reply.

Jail Visitors 'Jailed'
WACO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Late today, 46 Baylor University students had a good excuse—they were in jail.

Members of a law class, they visited the county jail to look around.

The jailer got busy and forgot they were in the cell block.

Francis cries an hour later brought the jailer with the cell block key.

Driver Injured As Truck Hits Train

George Miller, Pampa man, was seriously injured late today when the truck he was driving crashed into the side of a moving freight train east of Amarillo on U. S. Highway 66, according to word received here by W. N. Daughette, owner of the truck and Miller's employer, who was called to Amarillo early this morning.

Miller suffered a concussion, crushed right leg and serious cuts and bruises about the head and body. He was taken to St. Anthony's hospital. No report of his condition was received here today because of failure of telephone and telegraph service out of that city following the recent ice storm.

Mr. Daughette said he sent Miller to Amarillo yesterday morning to assist in the work of clearing debris from city streets.

The truck struck about the center of the train length from the locomotive. It was a train of 30 cars enroute from Boise City to Amarillo over the Santa Fe line.

The truck was demolished, the motor being driven into the cab and then thrown clear of the wreckage. Miller was pinned in the wreckage and it was some time before he could be moved.

Channel-iron framing beneath the refrigerator car was badly bent by the impact and the air hose on the car was smashed, automatically applying the brakes. The truck was hurled against an electric warning signal south of the crossing, wrecking the signal apparatus.

The truck was a one-ton truck with a gravel bed.

Members of the state highway patrol were called to investigate the accident.

Italians Reported In Full Flight

(By The Associated Press)
ATHENS, Nov. 28.—Greek reports from the front indicated tonight that the Italians were in full flight up the Albanian coast after a stubborn four-day fight in the southwestern sector by a Fascist "regiment of death."

These picked troops had taken an oath to die rather than retreat, Greek advisers said. However, they declared the Greek victory in this sector appears to have been greater than was at first believed, and now the Italians along the coast all are reported in retreat.

In general the Greek counter-invasion of Albania was reported unofficially to be progressing in all sectors.

Principal's Office Hilarious In Comedy

Remember last fall when you attended a high school play called "Our Town"? Well, at the time you said that the play, as directed by Kenneth Carman, was almost too good to be true. You packed the high school auditorium two nights. Well, you began looking forward to the movie version of the play. Early this fall "Our Town" came to the screen, and you were keenly disappointed.

Carolyn Surrah and Aubrey Green were far better in the leading roles of "Our Town" than the screen actors," you said. And you also liked Bill Miskimins as the narrator better than you liked Frank Craven.

Well, we are not going to say that "What A Life," this fall's play, is going to be better than the original stage production that opened in New York's Baltimore theater in March 1938 with Ezra Stone as Henry Aldrich, but we will say that if you ever expect to see "What A Life" produced in the same spirit and manner as it was in New York, then you'd better see the senior class production next Thursday and Friday, Dec. 5 and 6.

Mr. Carman has his best senior players in the cast—Billy Mounts, Jack Baker, Ross Buzzard, Betty Plank, Marjorie Williams, Ed Terrell, Wayne Fide, Mary Frances Yeager, Helen Dudley, Joe Cargile, Clara Mae Lenn, Herbert Maynard, Marguerite Kirschman, and others.

The hero of the play is Henry Aldrich, played by Jack Baker. Henry is the problem child of Central High. He spends most of his time in the principal's office. When Henry is not lying, he is fighting, cribbing, collecting old shoes, drawing.

Did you see the movie, East of the River, in which Marjorie Rameau spoke with a rich Italian dialect? Well, she doesn't have a thing on Bert Isbell, shown above, whose Italian dialect in the play, What A Life, is wonderful to hear, and his gestures are amazing to behold. Bert plays the role of Mr. Vecchitto who is summoned to the principal's office by the principal and his secretary neither of whom can remember why they sent for Mr. Vecchitto or who his daughter is. When he is told to wait he spends the night in the anteroom of the office. Bert, pictured above when he was a Harvester quarterback, is one of the outstanding leaders and students of Pampa high school. He was born in Pampa, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Isbell.

Commission Order Would Close Wells

92 Gas Wells May Be Shut In; Jobs Would Be Lost

Production of gasoline and carbon black will be curtailed nearly 50 per cent in the Pampa area and dozens of men, whose salaries total thousands of dollars a month, will be walking the streets without jobs if the Texas Railroad commission enforces an order which will shut in 92 gas wells in the West Pampa, Carson county and south-east Hutchinson county, gas fields.

The order issued by the commission, effective next Sunday, reads: "all gas wells producing natural gas containing less than 1 1/2 grains of hydrogen sulphide per 100 cubic feet and less than 30 grains of total sulphur per 100 cubic feet of gas be and is hereby classified as sweet gas wells and the operators of such wells are hereby ordered to use the gas produced from them for those purposes provided by statute for sweet natural gas." The purposes provided is for light and fuel.

For years most of the oil wells have been producing for use in gasoline plants under special orders issued by the commission. But a year ago the order was challenged and a hearing was held in Austin, attended by many Pampa merchants as well as interested operators who asked that the order be made permanent. But a week ago another hearing was held and the number of wells challenged by the Northern Natural Gas company, a pipeline company, was increased from 27 to 92.

The objecting company declared that originally there were only a few wells producing under the special order but that more have been drilled until the field reservoir is being depleted by the use of the sweet gas for manufacture of casinghead gasoline.

Operators of casinghead and carbon black plants utilizing the gas from the questioned wells presented evidence to show that if they were cut off from their supply of gas their plants would be forced to curtail production or even move from the Pampa area.

Well owners said they could not get connections to sell their gas for light and fuel and that if they were forced to shut in their wells the sweet gas would be lost.

A few of the invaders got through the British defenses to London but one was brought down by fighting planes near Croydon, on the London outskirts.

Pampa Closes Up For Thanksgiving

Joining the ranks of those who favor the old-fashioned Thanksgiving date, instead of the Roosevelt edition, Pampa today closed shop and observed the traditional day highlighted by turkey dinners and football games.

Pampa churches held a joint Thanksgiving service last night in the First Methodist church, attended by several hundred persons. The sermon, "The Value of Thanksgiving," was delivered by the Rev. B. A. Norris, pastor of the First Christian church. The Rev. W. M. Pearce, pastor of the First Methodist church, presided. Prayer was by the Rev. C. Gordon Bayless, pastor of the First Baptist church, and reading of the scripture by the Rev. Robert Boschen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Members of all choirs in the city presented special music including an anthem, "O Give Thanks."

The city hall, courthouse, banks and most stores and offices were closed today. Hundreds of Pampans planned to attend the Pampa-Amarillo football classic in Amarillo while other hundreds decided to listen to their favorite games by radio.

Mussolini Says British Cruisers Hit

Plymouth Raided By German Planes During Night

(By The Associated Press)
Premier Mussolini's high command claimed victory today in a new version of yesterday's naval battle in the Mediterranean, asserting that the British fleet—not the Italian—"steamed rapidly away."

This belated account contrasted with the British admiralty's description more than 12 hours earlier which said that the engagement was fought at extreme range and that the Fascist fleet immediately "retired at high speed."

The Italian report said two British cruisers were "damaged for certain" in the shelling and three other British men of war—a battleship, an aircraft carrier and a cruiser—were hit by bombs dropped by Italian warplanes in a follow-up attack. The battle occurred south of Sardinia, the communiqué said.

A fire was started on the British battleship, the Fascist high command said, adding that only one Fascist ship was damaged. "An enemy projectile hit our cruiser Fium, but failed to explode," the Italian communiqué said. "Our destroyer Lanciere was seriously hit and has been towed to base."

The Rome communiqué also reported that Italian troops of the 11th army fighting in the 32-day-old war with Greece "set loose counter-attacks at various points which were crowned with success."

Again the communiqué with the Greek description of the campaign, which said Greek fighters had smashed Italian resistance on the southern front after a battle that raged four days and nights.

A Greek government spokesman said the Greek counter-offensive into Albania had taken the initiative generally and now was driving ahead "with the same speed which has marked the attack of recent days."

In the serial news of England, the Germans reported that more than 100 Nazi raiders pounded the southwest port of Plymouth, dropping 110 tons of bombs, and also attacked London again to set a new series of fires.

The British said between 150 and 200 German planes raided "a southwest town"—evidently Plymouth—from dusk until 2:30 a. m., scattering incendiary bombs and high explosives which left "barely any scars," according to the official account. Unofficial reports told of 11 deaths in the Plymouth area.

RAF warplanes carried out a "heavy and successful" attack on Cologne, in the German Rhineland, the British said, and renewed forces against the Nazi "invasion" ports of Havre, Boulogne and Antwerp.

London had an all-out last night and a half shortly after dawn today.

A Greek government spokesman said Greek troops had broken "systematically fortified" positions at Forazade about 20 miles north of fallen Koriza.

FDR To Cut Down
On Defense Costs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Congressional opponents of curtailed federal expenditures sharpened their paring knives with new gusto today after President Roosevelt announced that he intended to cut non-defense outlays to bare essentials in the new budget.

There were various estimates on the amount that might thus be saved. The consensus of rigid economy advocates was that the maximum to be hoped for would be about $500,000,000 in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Should that maximum be realized, they said, it would represent approximately 10 per cent of the current year's normal expenditures, omitting the fixed charges and both regular and extraordinary defense spending.

Senator Adams (D-Colo.), influential member of the senate appropriations committee, said that in his eyes, $500,000,000 would represent a "material saving," although it might seem relatively small alongside contemplated total expenditures.

The actual spending of the current fiscal year has been estimated at approximately $13,000,000,000, although congress actually voted $20,000,000,000 in cash and authorization. Official reports placed the size of the new budget at $15,000,000,000 or more.

Borger, Phillips
Combine Scouting

Special to The News
PHILLIPS, Nov. 28—Phillips and Borger troops of the Boy Scouts of America will be under the direction of one governing board rather than two. The new change was made as a result of a discussion of troop scoutmasters and executives from both Phillips and Borger during a banquet held last Friday night, November 22, in the Black hotel in Borger.

Benefits derived from this combining of the two boards will be many. The most important asset from such a combination will be the additional time given Fred Roberts, scout executive for the Adobe Walls council, for actual scout work. Mr. Roberts has had to duplicate his various duties in both Phillips and Borger, but now he will need do such official acts but once. This will save both time and money.

Boards of review and courts of honor for the Phillips and Borger troops will be held alternately in Phillips and Borger. Representatives from both towns will be chosen to serve on the scout executive board.

COMMISSION

gas would be drained from under their land by wells with pipe line connections.

"It's the beginning of the end for the carbon black industry in the Panhandle," one company official said today. "If we cannot get residue gas from casinghead plants we will have to fold up and move away."

Both casinghead and carbon black company officials said that they would curtail operations beginning next Monday unless the commission agreed to lift the order until the legislature convenes and some relief given this section of the Panhandle through legislation.

Sturgeon Files Plea
John Sturgeon, representative of one of the companies which would be forced almost to discontinue operations, returned yesterday from Austin where he pleaded with the commission to lift the order until next year. He left a written plea with each of the commissioners, asking that the order be rescinded. He explained that families would go hungry this winter if plants were forced to curtail operations and that Pampa and Borger would lose thousands and thousands of dollars of income.

The attorney stated further that the casinghead companies had to have gas to live up to contracts made to furnish residue to carbon black plants long before laws were passed regulating the gas flow. He said that carbon black manufacturers were tired of the continual fight to get gas to manufacture the much needed product and that they had just about decided to move out of the state.

The companies cannot afford to lay pipe lines for miles and miles to sour gas fields, Mr. Sturgeon said. It would be cheaper for them to dismantle and move their plants to some state where regulations are not so harsh and out of a region where regulations are always being changed.

Extent to which the order will curtail production in Panhandle plants could not be learned today because of failure of telephone lines in the recent storm.

The Cabot company said it would take at least 24,000,000 cubic feet of residue gas daily from its Kingsmill and Schaffer plants west of Pampa. Under the order the Portland Gasoline company west of Pampa would be able to operate only about half of its units.

Crippled probably more would be the General Atlas Carbon company, Skelly, Magnolia and Cities Service plants and possibly others, local observers said today.

Cologne Bombed
LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—British bombers delivered a heavy two-hour assault on the Rhineland city of Cologne last night, blasting at the railway net work on both sides of the great Rhine bridge and setting many fires with incendiary bombs, the air ministry news service reported today.

It was the second heavy attack on Cologne in as many nights.

the heels of yesterday's blood bath in Bucharest in which at least 64 Rumanians met violent death at the hands of the pro-Nazi iron guard.

A government communique admitted the shootings in Jilava prison and expressed the disapproval of both Antonescu and Vice-Premier Horia Sima.

High-flying German raiders returned to the attack on England shortly after dawn, stirring an hour-and-a-half alarm in London. A bomb tore off the roof of a London hospital, it was reported, killing patients and a nurse, while other explosives started a fire which could be seen for miles.

British censors permitted disclosure that two of London's most famous hotels—the Savoy, near Charing Cross in the Strand, and the Carlton—have been damaged in recent raids.

From the Yugoslav border, near one of the fiercest battles in the Greek-Italian war, reports said that Greek troops attempting a flanking movement on Pogradetz had been pushed back and that the Italians were holding their lines along the Cerava river, five miles to the south.

The violent purge—avenging the assassination of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, founder of the iron guard—was reported to have involved a reign of terror, with self-appointed execution squads of the green-shirted guard threatening the lives of every political enemy in Rumania.

Premier Antonescu issued a decree fixing severe penalties for "violations of personal liberty," but bands of guards nevertheless were reported driving Jews from shops. "The blood bath" executioners were said to have announced to police that they carried out the mass execution, but none was held, even for questioning.

New details seeping out through strict Rumanian censorship disclosed that a two-ton slab of concrete was removed from the "martyred" Codreanu's grave at Jilava, his body was taken out for burial in the national heroes cemetery, and bodies of three slain political prisoners were then dumped in and the slab replaced.

Willkie Loses 4,000 Ballots in Michigan

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 28 (AP)—The Michigan canvassing board was notified today that discovery of clerical errors in the official tabulation of Kent county (Grand Rapids) votes in the presidential election would add 4,000 votes to President Roosevelt's total in the state.

Board officials said that while correction of errors in several of the state's heavily populated counties would narrow Republican Candidate Wendell Willkie's margin they expected Michigan's electoral votes would remain in the G. O. P. column.

Manton Denied Parole

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Justice Department announced today that a parole had been denied Martin T. Manton, former tenth ranking judge in the United States, who is serving a two-year sentence at the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison for conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

Manton was the senior judge in the second circuit court of appeals at New York when he was indicted for receiving large sums of money from parties in litigation over which he presided.

Henry A. Wallace To

Be In Mexico City For Inauguration

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28 (AP)—United States Vice-President-elect Henry A. Wallace, was not expected to arrive in the Mexican capital until late this afternoon after a three-day drive from the frontier marked by friendly greetings from thousands of Mexicans along the way.

The special envoy to the inauguration of President-elect General Manuel Avila Camacho spent last night at the tropical town of Vals, about 200 miles north of here on a highway that twists and turns through some of the highest mountains in the republic.

The capital itself was taking on a fiesta-like appearance. Colored lights were being strung across the principal boulevards, including the Paseo de La Reforma. The national palace in the plaza of the constitution and the great cathedral there were being decked with colored lights.

President Kallio Of Finland Resigns

HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 28 (AP)—Jorga, Finland's 67-year-old president, has resigned because of continued poor health, the government information bureau announced today.

Kallio suffered a heart attack August 29 and since then Premier Risto Rytty has been acting president. (In September the German official news agency, DNB, published an erroneous report that Kallio was dead, but this was quickly denied in Helsinki, where his condition was reported improving.)

Young Georgian Catches Convicts

LAKELAND, Ga., Nov. 28 (AP)—Freeman Carter, 21-year-old farm youth, met an emergency at his home yesterday by wounding two convicts with a single shot and capturing them single-handed.

Warden A. F. Hood of the state prison camp near here gave this account of Freeman's feat: "Two escapees from the Lakeland camp forced their way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Carter yesterday and forced the Carters to prepare food for them. While they were eating Freeman appeared with his .22 calibre rifle, fired once and inflicted flesh wounds on both men. The convicts jumped through a window but young Carter pursued, caught, subdued and turned them over to the warden."

Avalanches Continue

OSLO, Norway (Via Berlin) Nov. 28 (AP)—Floods and landslides in the southern part of German-occupied Norway seemed to reach an apex today as reports continued of homes washed away and communication lines cut.

The heavy rains caused greatest damage at Hjelmenland, where numerous houses were destroyed and 350,000 cubic feet of earth washed away. A cemetery was flooded. (Dispatches from Stockholm yesterday described avalanches which cut the key Oslo-Bergen railway as apparently the work of saboteurs.)

UTILITY

In the Panhandle not hard hit by a lack of power and phone service. Sunray, Stratford, Spearman, Slaton, Duhart, all were affected equally as severely as Amarillo with the possible exception of their water supplies.

Local officials of the Southwestern Public Service company also expressed appreciation today for the cooperation received from Magnolia, Shell, Skelly oil companies and others who assisted in maintaining the service in Pampa by lending assistance of workmen and trucks.

Probably the heaviest loser in all the Panhandle when final costs are tabulated will be the Southwestern Bell Telephone company which has thousands of wires and poles down throughout the entire storm area. Phone and other communication systems handled by the company are being placed back in service, just as rapidly as possible, according to L. J. Johnson, local manager for the phone company.

"We have been up against tremendous odds," Mr. Johnson said, "and we are doing our utmost to restore service to its normal condition."

ing caricatures of his teachers, talking in study periods, flunking exams.

The play was a Broadway hit and was the subject of a seven-page article, complete with pictures in Life magazine, March 24, 1938.

The Pampa cast has known lines of the play for two weeks now, and has been rehearsing interpretation and action. Mr. Carman believes that in another week it will be a rather finished production. Persons who have attended rehearsals report that it will certainly be one of the most amusing plays that has been staged by the school.

Cuts Off Hand

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 18 (AP)—A 24-year-old mother of three children, the youngest only one month old, was reported to have cut off her left hand at the wrist with an axe in Lytle, near here, today. Given emergency treatment by a neighbor, which doctors said, probably saved her life, the young woman walked half a mile to the home of her mother where she was quoted as having said "I had to do it." She refused to further explain her deed or say what she had done with the severed hand, which could not be found.

Anarchy Raises Head In Rumania

(By The Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Nov. 28—Rumanian Premier Gen. Ion Antonescu struggled today to check possible anarchy in his new Iron Guard state as self-appointed execution squads of green-shirted guards were reported threatening the lives of every political enemy in Rumania.

The outburst of vengeance in which at least 64 Rumanians met violent death yesterday, including generals and cabinet ministers under former King Carol, was said to have touched off a virtual reign of terror. Both Antonescu and Vice Premier Horia Sima, leader of the pro-Nazi guard, pleaded for "legality, justice and order."

These reports slipped past a screen of censorship: The blood purge, started by a rebellious wing of the Iron Guard "legionary movement," struck down not only those incarcerated in Jilava prison but also numerous politicians who never were arrested.

DNB, German news agency, reported from Bucharest that among the victims of the Iron Guard purge was Nicholas Jorga, who was premier from April 18, 1931, to May 31, 1932. He was abducted from his home at Simla, the report said, and his bullet-pierced body was found later on a highway.

Jorga had aroused Iron Guard enmity by bringing a libel action against its late leader, Corneliu Zelea Codreanu.

Antonescu issued a decree providing severe penalties for "violations of personal liberty" and fixing sentences up to death for thefts of public funds.

Despite the decree, however, bands of guards were reported taking the law into their own hands and driving Jews from shops and synagogues in the Rumanian town of Braila. Heavy guards were posted around all public buildings in Bucharest and soldiers patrolled the streets.

Only prompt government protection saved former premier George Tartarescu and Ion Gligutu and former War Minister Gen. Gheorghe Ilasievel from assassination.

The whereabouts of Julius Maniu, famed leader of the one-time National Peasant party, is not known and fears are expressed for his safety. He has had a strong bodyguard since Iron Guard rule began after Carol's abdication in September.

World Record For Wrong Number

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 28 (AP)—Leslie Howard, police department operator, thinks he has uncovered a world record for distance on a wrong number.

The call was from Dallas, Tex. An operator there said the Dallas police chief wanted to speak to "Detective Humphrey." Howard said he knew of no "Detective Humphrey." The operator insisted.

"Madam," said Howard, firmly but kindly, "There is no Detective Humphrey in the Minneapolis police department."

"Oh!" cried the operator. "I was calling St. Louis."

Dust Bowl Almost Upset As Good Guessers As Census

By W. B. RAGSDALE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. (AP)—The census bureau, which has developed the art of guessing into a science that can do dizzy things with figures, did it again with an estimate on the number of registrants for military service.

It boiled up a mess of statistics and brought out beforehand a guess that 16,404,000 would register for military service. Actually, the figure stands now at 16,315,678 registrants with a few cards yet to be heard from.

The difference amounted to a shade more than the old prohibition figure of half of one per cent. One person of every two hundred that the bureau guessed would show up to register, failed to do so.

To get its figure, the bureau had to use a host of allowances for certain intangible influences that have been working up in America during that period. This was more difficult when it tried to break down the figures into a state-by-state compilation and here the margin of error narrowed or widened, according to the impact of these influences.

But the base for the guess was the 1940 census. The bureau took out of that census the number of boys between eleven and twenty-five years old. From that, it subtracted the actuarial figures on the number of deaths that occur in these age groups over a ten year period. Any figures on newly naturalized citizens of that age group were brought in.

In the state-by-state calculations, however, that bureau had to make allowances for such things as how many youngsters moved out of the dust bowl, how many moved out of cities.

In Vermont the bureau estimated that 106 more than the 39,804 that did register would show up. That was an error of about one to every four hundred men. In three other states, its misses were by hundreds. Oregon produced 334 more registrants than the 133,000 the bureau estimated. Utah lacked 778 of finding the 66,000 estimated. And New Jersey was minus 692 of the 541,000 estimated. The latter was a miss of about one out of every 700.

But the drought and dust bowl movements apparently upset the calculations in several states. They did not seem to many persons to California as the bureau had figured. Arizona showed a minus sign here, too. And apparently New Mexico caught more of them than were figured in addition to having an abnormal population leap. It showed up with more men than the bureau estimated.

Oklahoma lost more than the bureau guessed. Oklahoma has 30,047 fewer than the 298,000 estimated, and Kansas 21,118 under the 214,000. Texas, in the southwest, lacked 65,412 of turning up the estimated 854,000.

Grayson's Scoreboard

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

After his Arkansas club was beaten by the Rams, 27-7, Fred Thompson told Foxboro men that their team was not nearly as good as Texas A. & M., which trimmed the Razorbacks, 17-0.

Thomson considers the Aggies the best football team he has ever seen. "That doesn't mean that Foxboro isn't good," says Thomson. "But this fall's Aggie outfit is terrific. It's the sort of group which, when it needs four yards, can go right out and get four yards. It has a tremendous backfield and a fine line."

"Arkansas played its best game of the season against the Aggies, rolling up 17 first downs to four, but still lose, 17-0, because the Aggies were able to connect with passes whenever the chips were down."

Still the Stanford players insist upon tackling Texas A. & M. in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, Jan. 1. They want their fullback, Norm Standlee, to have the opportunity of demonstrating that he is a harder hitting fullback than John Kimbrough.

As great as he is that's a large order for Chief Standlee. Iowa, it seems, always can count on the breaks when it plays Notre Dame.

When the Hawkeyes won, 7-0, this fall, it marked the first time since their opening game that they converted a point after touchdown.

They missed nine attempted conversions in a row . . . against Wisconsin, Indiana, Minnesota, Purdue and Nebraska.

In seven games against such opposition at Washington, Nebraska, Ohio State, Iowa, Northwestern, Minnesota netted four more yards than a mile—1794—from rushing to give its ball carriers an average of five yards a try.

How are you going to stop an outfit like that? Davey O'Brien is going to quit professional football to be a G-Man.

After the job he has had finding Philadelphia Eagle receivers, finding criminals should be a leadpipe cinch for the little sharpshooter from Texas Christian.

The Rev. C. Gordon Bayless, pastor of the First Baptist church, was called to Mountain Grove, Mo., today by the death of his oldest brother, C. W. Bayless.

Hikes to Capital For Cabinet Job

Gottlieb Richard Werner, above, 76-year-old Kansas farmer, did not want President Roosevelt re-elected. Since he lost his wish, however, he wants to make the best of the situation. He's pictured in Washington, where he hitch-hiked to offer himself as Secretary of Agriculture. His promise: "No sinful slaughter of live stock."

Dies Issues 'Red Paper'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. (AP)—A bulky, documented handbook devoted exclusively to Communism came from the House committee on un-American activities today as Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) sped back here for a policy conference with President Roosevelt.

Dubbed "the red paper" by the committee, the 838-page compilation of alleged Communist statements, pamphlets, speeches and newspaper and pamphlet excerpts, set forth how party members should oppose what were termed "imperialistic wars," primarily by domestic propaganda and by "hindering the execution of orders for belligerent countries."

The report, issued last night, followed by one week a "white paper" of evidence on German activities in the United States. But the two were in sharp contrast. The German "paper" enumerated dozens of alleged propaganda and espionage efforts in the last year, while the Russian document was based largely on doctrinaire statements which the committee attributed to Communist leaders over the last two decades.

Both "red" and "white" papers, as well as other operations of the committee, probably will be discussed thoroughly tomorrow, informed sources said, at a White House conference to which Mr. Roosevelt unexpectedly summoned Dies from his Orange, Tex., home.

Robert E. Stripling, committee clerk, and Rep. Voorhis (D-Calif.) a committee member, said they attached relatively little importance to the "red paper" since it was intended as a compilation of exhibits intended to trace the history of the Communist party in the United States and its relationship to Moscow.

The committee, reproducing a pamphlet, "What Is Communism?" quoted Earl Browder, party general secretary, as having said in 1936 that capitalism could be ended only by "organized actions of the working class" working with other sections of the population.

"The revolution does not simply happen; it must be made," the quotations read. "This does not imply that the Communist party 'makes' the revolution. The socialist revolution is carried out by the great masses of toilers."

Mrs. H. L. Davis Dies After Illness Of Several Months

Mrs. H. L. Davis, 29, died yesterday at the family home, 401 North Perry street of an illness of several months. She had been a resident of Pampa for four months, coming here from Magic City.

Survivors are the husband, two sons, H. L. Davis, Jr., and Orville Davis, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Stephens, Pampa, and three brothers, Henry Stephens, Jr., and R. B. Stephens, both of Pampa, and Virgil Stephens, Memphis.

The body lies at rest at Huffman-Nelson Funeral home.

Burial arrangements await the arrival of relatives.

Convoys Sent Turkey

ROME, Nov. 28. (AP)—Il Giornale D'Italia declared today that the British were sending convoys to Turkey to prepare that country for developments in Italy's war with Greece.

The editor, authoritative Virginia Glynn, said in explanation of the naval battle south of Sardinia that strong forces of British warships were escorting convoys to the Mediterranean "toward Egypt, Greece and even Turkey, which the London government wants to equip owing to developments of Greek events."

Ray Boyles, cadet at Texas A. & M. college, is spending the vacation period with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Boyles.

The human body is composed of between 60 and 70 per cent water.

all Great Britain.

Dearest Mother:
Though I feel no premonition at all, events are moving rapidly, and I have instructed that this letter be forwarded to you should I fail to return from one of the raids which we shall shortly be called upon to undertake. You must hope on for a month, but at the end of that time you must accept the fact that I have handed my task over to the extremely capable hands of my comrades of the Royal Air Force, as so many splendid fellows have already done.

First, it will comfort you to know that my role in this war has been of the greatest importance. Our patrols far out over the North Sea have helped to keep the trade routes clear for our convoys and supply ships, and on one occasion our information was instrumental in saving the lives of the men in a crippled lighthouse relief ship. Though it will be difficult for you, you will disappoint me if you do not at last try to accept the facts dispassionately, for I shall have done my duty to the utmost of my ability. No man can do more, and no one calling himself a man could do less.

I have always admired your amazing courage in the face of continual setbacks; in the way you have given me as good an education and background as anyone in the country; and always kept up appearances without losing faith in the future. My death would not mean that your struggle has been in vain. Far from it. It means that your sacrifice is as great as mine. Those who serve England must expect nothing from her; we debate ourselves if we regard our country merely as a place in which to eat and sleep.

History resounds with illustrious names who have given all, yet their sacrifice has resulted in the British empire, where there is a measure of peace, justice, and freedom for all, and where a higher standard of civilization has evolved, and is still evolving, than anywhere else. But this is not only concerning our own land. Today we are faced with the greatest organized challenge to Christianity and civilization that the world has ever seen, and I count myself lucky and honored to be the right age and fully trained to throw my full weight into the scale. For this I have to thank you.

Yet there is still more work for you to do. The home front will still have to stand united for years after the war is won. For all that can be said against it, I still maintain that this war is a very good thing; every individual is having the chance to give and dare all for his principle like the martyrs of old. However long the time may be, one thing can never be altered—I shall have lived and died an Englishman. Nothing else matters one jot nor can anything ever change it.

You must not grieve for me, for if you really believe in religion and all that it entails, that would be hypocrisy. I have no fear of death; only a queer elation . . . I would have it no other way. The universe is so vast and ageless that the life of one man can only be justified by the measure of his sacrifice. We are sent to this world to acquire a personality and a character to take with us that can never be taken from us. Those who just eat and sleep, prosper and procreate, are no better than animals if all their lives they are at peace.

I firmly and absolutely believe that evil things are sent into the world to try us; they are sent deliberately by our Creator to test our metal, because He knows what is good for us. The Bible is full of cases where the easy way out has been discarded for moral principles.

I count myself fortunate in that I have seen the whole country and known men of every calling. But with the final test of war I consider my character fully developed. Thus at my early age my earthly mission is already fulfilled and I am prepared to die with just one regret, and one only—that I could not devote myself to making your declining years more happy by being with you; but you will leave in peace and freedom and I shall have directly contributed to that, so here again my life will not have been in vain.

Your loving son,

Tommy Harmon Wins Heisman Trophy

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—This year's Heisman Memorial trophy

has been won by Thomas Dudley Harmon, the minute man from Michigan, and besides proving that your Uncle Dudley is quite a ball-back, the voting also showed that men still don't get much attention when honors are being passed around. Harmon received the unprecedented total of 1,398 points in the balloting of sportswriters and broadcasters for the annual award of Downtown Athletic club of New York to the nation's outstanding college gridder.

Of the nine other players who were given something more than passing mention, seven were backs: John Kimbrough of Texas A. and M. topped this contingent with 841 points, followed by George Franck of Minnesota with 102, Frank Albert of Stanford with 90, and Paul Christman of Missouri with 68.

Texas Reduces Oil Production

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 28. (AP)—The oil industry plodded through cold weather doldrums today.

The seasonal call for fuel and burning oils continued good, with the market strong in some areas.

Work in Mid-Continent fields was curtailed by low temperatures and high water. Crude production for the week, however, was up 189,350 barrels daily, the American Petroleum Institute reported.

Texas and Oklahoma regulatory bodies each issued 60-day allowances for December and January. Texas set its order at 1,318,089 barrels daily, a reduction of 1,432 barrels under the net daily allowable reported Nov. 23. Oklahoma's allowable remained unchanged at 390,000 barrels daily.

The Kaw Pipe Line Co., announced it would lay a 23-mile extension of its line from the Gorman Pool to the Bemis Pool, northwestern Kansas. The company is owned by the Texas company, the Gola Petroleum Co., and Cities Service Co.

In the field, the Oil and Gas Journal reported 506 completions for the week, compared with 561 a week ago, and 589 a year ago.

The Tubb area of Crane county, West Texas, was extended a half mile eastward. Two big gassers were reported in the Cunningham field of Pratt and Kingman counties, Kansas, and a lease play is developing in Graham, Phillips counties. In Oklahoma, the Dill Pool, Delaware county, got a new well in extension area, and a new gas field was opened in Caddo county. The Ross and Haggood fields in Clay county, north Texas, found deeper producing levels. The Falls City (Neb.) Pool completed its twenty-fifth producer. A well in Jasper county, Illinois, found the pay in the McClosky a mile from the West Liberty Pool.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their teeth dropped, slipped or wobbled at the wrong time. But not live in fear of this happening to you. Just smile a little EASTERBATH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour, checks "false odor" (denture breath). Get EASTERBATH at any drug store.

INDOOR-OUTDOOR FASHION

PATTERN 8836

One special beauty of this design (No. 8836) is that you can make it up in household cottons for home wear, cutting the sleeves off short, and in sport rayon or thin wool for runabout, cutting the sleeves long. And it's so easy to make that you're certain to repeat it many times.

Belted only in the back, with lengthening bodice panels that accent height, this making you look slimmer, and gathers beneath the yoke portions, this dress is cleverly detailed to give exactly the same effect that women's sizes require. The v-neckline is finished with a deeply notched collar, the sleeves are trimmed with narrow cuff-points. And you'll find it one of the most comfortable fashions you ever put on!

Pattern No. 8836 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 38 requires with short sleeves, 4-7-8 yards of 39-inch material without nap; with long sleeves, 4-1-3 yards; 5-8 yard for contrasting collar and cuffs.

Child Labor Bureau Chief Liked Work So Much She "Never Learned To Play"

By GERRY DICK

WASHINGTON. — If Katherine Lenroot had rebelled against parental authority she might have become a charming, but not particularly useful, member of capital society today.

Because she did rebel, she is chief of the U. S. department of Labor's children's bureau and 1940 winner of the Parents' magazine medal for outstanding service to children.

When she was only in her teens, Katherine Lenroot, under the direction of the University of Wisconsin, John Commons, was drafting minimum wage legislation. This was later presented to the state legislature, of which her father was then a member.

COULDN'T STAND NOT WORKING

He came to Washington a year or so later as a U. S. senator and wanted his daughter to put labor relations out of her head and have a gay holiday away from her books. Reluctantly she followed her parents to the capital and promised to stay a year.

But after six months of gaiety in the capital, Miss Lenroot persuaded her parents to let her go back to Wisconsin.

She passed the state civil service examinations and went to work for the newly-formed state industrial commission as a factory inspector. Later she made a survey of several hundred rooming houses in Milwaukee as her contribution to a cost-of-living survey.

A young woman on the commission's staff with whom she shared an apartment, was interested in the work of the newly created children's bureau of the department of labor and took a civil service examination to qualify for a Washington job. Just for fun Miss Lenroot took the examination too. Both girls passed, and in 1915 Katherine Lenroot returned to Washington, not to play, but to work for her former roommate in the social service division of the children's bureau.

Now chief of that bureau, Miss Lenroot's job is to coordinate the work of her staff, and to keep in touch with child welfare agencies and state children's bureaus. She also manages to keep in touch with the problems of individual children and knows how to solve the problems of children of her acquaintance.

SELDOM HAS A VACATION

Miss Lenroot is at her office desk from 9 to 6 every day and often spends Sunday there.

She files from Washington to speaking engagements throughout the United States and confesses that at first flying made her nervous, but that she has overcome her timidity.

Serious-minded and immensely capable, Miss Lenroot seldom allows herself a vacation. When she does, she spends it at the Lenroot summer home near Lake Superior in Wisconsin.

But, this amiable, round-faced, middle-aged woman who laughs easily, who makes people feel at ease with her, whose blue eyes are kind, is a top flight intellectual who has never really learned to play.

She says: "I rode a bicycle three times. I think someone heard about it and the story grew until I had the reputation of being ready for one of those marathons. I think I have played golf about three times, too."

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART

Subtly, in fact quite unobtrusively, today's mother begins to teach her daughter the fundamentals of good grooming and intelligent care of hair, skin and nails when the child is little more than a baby.

The four-year-old is told that biting her fingernails eventually will ruin the shape of her fingertips. To encourage her not to bite them, mother gives the little hands a gentle manicure as often as necessary.

Jagged bits of cuticle are removed and rough edges are smoothed with an emery board.

Once both rough cuticle and sharp edges are removed, the child's desire to bite her nails is somewhat lessened. Buffing helps, too. And so does pushing back of cuticle after each hand washing.

Very little girls learn to like having their hair brushed at night. By the time they are old enough to hold a brush it doesn't take much encouragement to get them to brush their own hair.

If your child has her own nail brush, preferably in the shape of a fish or an animal that she likes, she no doubt can be coaxed to brush her nails. By the time she is eight, her own clothes brush ought to be hanging on a low hook in her own closet. She should be taught to keep her coats and hats free from dust and dirt.

SPRINKLE SHAPE OF LIPS

By all means, don't ignore chapped lips and cheeks during the winter months ahead. Constant swelling and soreness of the lips may eventually spoil their shape. Put white vaseline or a special ointment that your doctor may recommend on the child's chapped lips, cheeks and knees before she goes to bed at night. Rub a little of your own hand lotion into her hands and wrists.

To fight necessary or even advisable to make a fetish of beauty routines as far as your daughter is concerned. But it is important that of good grooming and intelligent care of her skin. She's going to form life-long habits of one kind or another before she is 12. You know that. It's entirely up to you to see that she forms good ones.

The "Guardsman" Dive Bomber Has Range of More Than 1,000 Miles With Permissible Fuel Overload

When the plane is operating as an interceptor, it can climb to 3,000 feet in the first minute. The ship has a service ceiling of 30,000 feet.

The Consolidated B-24 is, according to aviation experts the deadliest U. S. long range bombing plane.

Fully loaded, the plane weighs 41,000 pounds, has a crew of from six to nine, a range of some 4,000 miles, and four alcohol engines totaling about 5,000 horsepower.

The average motor vehicle travels approximately 8,970 miles annually on the streets and highways of the United States.

Wink Captures District Title, Despite Midland

WINK, Nov. 28 (AP)—Lanky, bespectacled Lacy Turner, Wink High school football coach, wonders if Bud Taylor didn't tender his resignation as Midland High mentor two other times without receiving publicity.

Twice during the past two years Taylor has announced his intention of resigning. Each time the announcement was on the eve of the annual game with Odessa. Also, each time Midland came up with a Turkey Day victory over Odessa.

But back to Turner: were it not for Mr. Taylor's Bulldogs of Midland, the Wink coach would have a perfect record as a high school mentor.

Turner-coached teams at Wink won 26 consecutive games that brought two district, two bi-district and two regional schoolboy titles in 1937 and 1938.

But early last season Taylor's team snapped the winning streak with a 27-12 victory. It didn't count against the Wink district record because the Wildcats are in class A and Midland in class AA.

Wink relied on after that setback but on the eve of the district title game with Pecos, five members of the Wildcat team were ruled ineligible. Pecos, awarded the championship, went on to a regional crown.

Then came the 1940 season. The experts said "Lacy should resign and move on to a better job now that J. R. Callahan and Don and Dee Ewell have graduated."

But Lacy stayed on when it looked like a fine coaching regime might be spoiled by lack of material. First came Hobbs, N. M., and Wink won the game 25-0. Then came the Midland flux. Wink dropped it 24-6, the second Wildcat loss in 35 games.

Mohans became the district favorite but Turner kept plugging away when the crucial game came Wink edged out Mohans 18-12.

Then Pecos, stronger than in 1938, was on the card. Wink downed the Eagles 13-0 last week to give Turner another district title.

Today comes Odessa, another class AA team. Turner is hoping Joe Coleman, Odessa coach, didn't tell the

Food Stamp Plan Rolls On Against Little Opposition

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The famous food stamp plan, 18 months old on Nov. 16, has rolled up quite a record—and it's still growing to beat the band.

So far this plan has cost around $35,000,000 and has brought food to upward of 2,000,000 Americans. It has taken a pretty big bite out of the farmer's surplus foodstuff problem, too. In September, for instance, the stamp plan caused the purchase of 2,500,000 dozen eggs, 500,000 heads of lettuce, nearly 16,000,000 pounds of flour, 2,000,000 bunches of beets, carrots and celery, and upward of 14,000,000 pounds of other cereals and vegetables.

What it'll be doing in the near future is even more striking. On its present schedule, the stamp plan will be serving 5,000,000 people by the middle of the coming winter. It will then be costing around $10,000,000 a month. Operating on that scale, it is figured to increase the farmer's annual sales of butter by 70,000,000 pounds; of eggs, by 80,000,000 dozen; of pork, by 175,000,000 pounds; of lamb, by 70,000,000 pounds; and of fruits and vegetables, by unestimated carloads.

FUTURE DEFENDS

ON CONGRESS
The plan's operation is simple. Blue and orange stamps, in 25-cent denominations, are printed. In a city or county designated for the stamp plan, any person certified as eligible for relief is entitled to buy a certain amount of the orange stamps—usually a dollar's worth per week. When boys he was planning to resign and that he would like for them to win one more game for the coach.

he buys them, he is given blue stamps, free, in half that amount.

Any grocery store in his locality will then accept either the orange or the blue stamps at their face value in the purchase of food, with the stipulation that the blue stamps can be "spent" only for foods officially designated as surplus commodities.

Idea is that this helps move surplus which the farmer can't sell, and also gets food into the hands of people who can't afford to buy all they need to eat.

In three cases—Arizona, Nevada, and Washington—entire states have been designated as food stamp areas. More commonly, counties or individual cities are designated. So far 224 such cases have been designated; of these, about 190 are now in operation.

DEFENSE BOOM

A FACTOR

Big question right now is what the defense boom is going to do to the relief loads throughout the country. If these shrink materially, there will be less need for the food stamps, and curtailment may be in order. It's easy to figure possible maximum costs, assuming relief rolls don't shrink and that congress ultimately orders the plan extended all over the country. Stamp plan costs 50 cents per week for each participant. There are now 20,000,000 peo-

Tulsa Favored To Nose Out Arkansas

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 28 (AP)—With the 'Missouri Valley' championship in the bag, Tulsa's Golden Hurricane faced a thrilling anti-climax to the 1940 football season today in its traditional Thanksgiving clash with the Arkansas Razorbacks.

The experts predicted Tulsa would win by a one-touchdown margin, thus scoring its first victory over the Pikers team in seven years, but up-and-down Arkansas was scheduled to be "up" this time and the red-clad Ozark Giants had plenty of supporters.

Arkansas has been both bad and brilliant in the course of a mediocre season. The Razorbacks won gloriously from Mississippi and Baylor, lost miserably to Texas Christian, Texas, Southern Methodist and Fordham.

Tulsa has been more consistent, losing twice in nine games, and on the records will hold the edge in both offense and defense.

A crowd of 10,000 was expected at Skelly stadium. Clear, crisp weather was in prospect. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 p. m.

WTSC Raises $7,000 In Brick Campaign

Special to The News

CANYON, Nov. 28.—That unique "brick campaign" to build another unit on the Fairhandle-Plains Historical Society museum here will reach its final state soon, when the construction order will be issued.

The brick campaign among school children and citizens generally has brought in about 150,000 common brick. The drive will be pushed for 100,000 more brick. Cash in hand amounts to about $7,600. This will be increased to double the amount.

WPA labor is expected to be used in part. The addition will raise the superstructure on a basement annex completed three years ago. Architect M. O. Carder of Amarillo has been instructed to complete plans and prepare for actual construction.

Judge James D. Hamilton of Pampa is president of the historical society. The museum is located on the campus of West Texas State college, which originated the society two decades ago. Dr. L. P. Shaffly, head of the department of history, is the executive secretary.

Completion of the new unit will make possible acceptance of gifts valued at more than $100,000. The museum already is nationally famed for its collection of western and Indian artifacts and scientific collections.

The British commonwealth air training plan is reported to be a year ahead of schedule. At the end of 1940, it is estimated that all the airfields for the training plans will have been completed.

Five District Titles Will Be Decided Today

(By The Associated Press)

Five district championships hang in the balance today in Texas schoolboy football, but only one of them is a clear cut issue.

From the Port Arthur-Beaumont struggle at Beaumont will come the District 14 titlist.

Amarillo entertains Pampa with the Sandies needing but one victory to clinch District 1 honors. Amarillo is heavily favored.

It's the same with Paris of District 2 against Denison tonight at Denison.

Ties are in prospect for Districts 11 and 12.

Tyler plays at Marshall and if the former wins it will clinch at least a tie for the leadership. Longview can do the same with a victory over Gladewater tomorrow.

Jacksonville, Lufkin and Mexia, deadlocked for the top in District 12, play Palestine, Henderson and Nacogdoches respectively to finish the campaign.

Air transportation is expanding in part at the expense of other forms of travel as Pullman travel traffic shows no gain this year despite the higher level of general business.

For its farms and its mines and its mills.

Thanks for the spirit of America

A proof to the world and all nations
That a land can grow great and be free.

Thanks for the strength of America,
A giant that has slumbered so long,
And now stirs in its might and its vigor,
A nation awakened and strong.

Thanks for the love of America,
Love of family, of home and of land,
While we cherish and guard and defend these
The American Dream shall yet stand.

We're Lucky—Let's Be Thankful

Americans are the luckiest people in the world. If they were anything but devoutly and humbly thankful this Thanksgiving Day, they would be the most ungrateful people in the world.

We are at peace—and thus we have been granted the most precious boon granted to any people in these days.

We live in a plentiful continent stuffed with all the good things of material life.

We have freedom; we have hope.

Of all people in the world who should give humble thanks for their blessings, we should be foremost.

We are at peace—but that is no great credit to our superior policies or even our superior good-will. Other countries have as earnestly sought and worked for peace, have had as great good-will, but peace was snatched from them.

We live amid plenty. That this plenty is not available to all is a matter for our shame. But the opportunity has been given us. Plenty is ours. That we have not had the wit or the will so to distribute it that all might share is certainly no fault but our own.

We have freedom. Our forefathers won it for us with blood and tears. It comes to us today through no special merit of our own. Whether we shall keep it and extend it—that will be the test of our merit. But it is given us today without regard to our efforts or merit.

Surely a people so blessed can do no less than to take a day of solemn thought to consider how it may become more nearly worthy of this country.

More than 300 years ago a tiny band of Pilgrims on the Rocky New England coast saw their struggling crop wither in drought. They visioned another "starving time" such as they had looked upon before, when loved ones weakened and died before their eyes for lack of a little corn. Then came rain. The crop was saved. And for this simple bounty they declared a day of Thanksgiving.

This is the day which we, who have been a thousand times more favored, are to observe once again. May we render these thanks with something of the humility and devotion that moved the Pilgrims, kneeling amid their ragged cornstalks at Plymouth.

NEW DEALERS PLANS

(By George Rothwell Brown—Los Angeles Examiner)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—It was very clearly demonstrated in Washington last week that the New Deal "economists" who over a period of seven and a half years plunged this country into appalling debt, consider the recent election to have been a mandate to continue their fiscal policies to the point of national bankruptcy.

These New Dealers have learned nothing from their failures.

At the Milton Harrison conference of financiers, industrial and labor leaders, and others, Richard Gilbert, consultant of the Defense Commission, is quoted as having said:

"Everybody knows that you can get an economy to function fully if you get the community to spend the entire income it creates."

In this we are told he was supported by Leon Henderson, Mordecai Ezekiel—economic adviser to Henry A. Wallace, as though that superlative economic genius needed advice from anybody—and Dr. Isidor Lubin, economic adviser to that other "economic genius, Madame Perkins."

The whole raft of economic idea men of the New Deal, including the long-lost Rex Tugwell, swarmed out of the woodwork for this conference in Washington.

At this conference we got the lowdown on what the next four years of the third-term President have in store for us. More astronomical spending of borrowed money, and a permanent end to unemployment through perpetual outlays for the national defense.

There was, of course, nothing new in the economists, flushed by their third-term victory, to the economists, flushed by their third-term victory, to the gaping financiers and industrialists of the country.

These views laid before the Milton Harrison conference go back to the philosophy of Marriner Eccles expressed in his astonishing letter to Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia on December 22, 1938.

Senator Byrd, in a speech at Boston, had warned the country of the danger of the mounting national debt. It will be recalled, no doubt, that in reply, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, made this amazing confession of financial faith:

"In connection with the question of debt, you also make the curious statement that some day the whole amount must be repaid. Such a statement reflects a misunderstanding of the fundamental nature of our capitalist economy. Debts and obligations of various kinds are but the other side of investment, and if we ever tried to liquidate the whole amount of them, or even any substantial fraction, we would precipitate a crisis so severe that general economic paralysis would result. When there is contraction of total debt, private and public, we have deflation. We have never had prosperous conditions without an accompanying expansion of debt, either private or public, or both."

It was in this statement that Chairman Eccles finally threw into the discard the Democratic Party's pledge of balanced budget.

Here Mr. Eccles, neatly got away from Government spending by calling spending investment. Here he proclaimed the New Deal theory that a nation could spend itself into prosperity and life itself into affluence by its own boot straps.

President Roosevelt was significantly mute throughout his third-term campaign on the subject of Government finance. Of course he did not dare to discuss it. But now the election is over, the New Deal "economists," throwing off their political reticence, now that it is safe to do so, are out in the open again, with all their economic nostrums doing business at the old stand.

Common Ground

By E. G. HOILES

This column contains, there can be no satisfactory progress until we recognize the status of each man by the common yardstick of the Golden Rule right to create and enjoy anything except as it has a right to create and enjoy.

WHAT DOES EQUAL OPPORTUNITY MEAN?

The other day, I heard a professor of Economics make a statement in a church service in which he was speaking that opportunity should be equal. He did not explain what he meant by equal opportunity or how opportunities could be equal. It is a most dangerous statement to make, unless one believes in absolute socialism.

How can any two people have equal opportunities, or how can the same man have equal opportunities from day to day? The opportunities a man has depend entirely upon the original, native ability of the man and the use he has made of this ability in the past. If he has not used it he will not later have the opportunities he would have had, had he used it.

Invariably these advocates of equal opportunities mean, when pressed for an explanation, that the youth of the land should have an equal opportunity to study. But this would not give them equal opportunities because of the vast differences in their native abilities. If a real attempt were made to give equal opportunity, the youth with the least ability would have to have a great deal more energy spent in getting him to understand than the youth with natural ability.

If the Divine Architect intended men to be equal in ability and equal in accomplishments and equal in desires and equal in happiness, He certainly would not have created every individual different.

Possibly it is because people, without thinking, come to believe that it is very humanitarian to take from one and give to another. Certainly no one would have any objection to one man giving his time and energy to bring about equal opportunity between himself and those he thinks need help, but, invariably, these advocates of equal opportunity are not at all interested in doing this themselves. What they really want is, by votes, to pass a law to make those with the greatest abilities finance them, or others, to do with the least fortunate what they think should be done for them.

This is what equal opportunity usually means when thoroughly analyzed, and those who advocate it are invariably socialists at heart without knowing it and believe that the Creator made a great mistake when he created people different. In other words, they want to repeal the laws of nature and adopt a new system of evolving and perfecting man.

ILL EFFECTS ON LABOR UNION MEMBERS

One of the worst results of collective bargaining, which gives labor union members much higher wages per hour than they could get for the same service on a free market, is that they are so well satisfied with their material lot that they will not read or study in order to advance. They become stagnant. They cannot see, of course, that the other workers will not consent to be slaves perpetually. They cannot see that workers who are excluded and thus are being robbed, eventually will throw up the sponge and go on relief and the whole structure will bog down.

These labor union beneficiaries are like the slave owners in the South. They were satisfied and contented with their lot and made no growth and development. It is unfortunate for any individual to get more than he actually produces by any device for any length of time. It, in the long run, does him as much harm as the humble workers whom he is robbing.

attempt is made to repeal or modify the Johnson act so as to permit U. S. loans to Great Britain.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California, bitter-end isolationist since 1920 and author of the act which bans loans to foreign nations which are in default on their debt payments, is perfectly clear on this point.

"I'm going to fight any such proposal, even if I have to fight all alone," says Johnson. "There'll be at least one vote to keep the Johnson act, no matter what anybody else does."

Johnson has no idea what sort of strategy the aid-the-British group will attempt, and he isn't greatly interested. He doesn't believe that the general public will support the attempt to knock the act down, but he refuses to guess how the Senate will finally vote.

"I'm too old a man in this business to count any votes until they're cast," he says.

WELCOME FIGHT

Another isolationist leader, Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota, is inclined to welcome a showdown fight for genuine neutrality on this issue, he says. "You see, the administration can hedge on most of the neutrality laws. There are too many ways to get around them—the destroyer deal, for instance. But there's no way to get around the Johnson act. It's too clear cut. You either obey it or you don't."

"So they'll have to fight it out. I expect they'll go for straight-out repeal, instead of for amendments of any kind. I think the public is going to be pretty much aroused by it, and I think we can beat them on it."

The isolationists have not yet got to the point of planning their strategy in the fight. Nye expects Johnson to lead the fight, and both men expect that Senator Claude Pepper of Florida will carry the banner for the repealers.

WHITE COMMITTEE PROCEEDS CAUTIOUSLY

Meanwhile, the administration group is not yet certain just what it does want. The William Allen White committee has been cautiously sounding out House and Senate sentiment on the proposition, but has not yet launched a regular campaign.

It may be significant that one of the committee's most recent publications—a pamphlet entitled "Battle of America," by Livingston Hartley—suggests revision of the Neutrality act so as to allow both British purchases on a credit basis and transportation to Britain of the purchased goods in American vessels. It adds: "We may have to become a non-belligerent instead of a neutral. We may have to do things unthought of now to help Britain win."

One suggestion now being discussed in Congress is that instead of amending the Johnson act, Congress simply go ahead and cancel the British debt to this country—which would automatically restore British eligibility to government loans, although the Neutrality act itself, unless amended, would still prohibit the sale of British bonds in America or any loans or extension of credit by private citizens.

THANKSGIVING

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—Preston Foster is so well-balanced and forthright and otherwise normal that he's actually one of the phenomena of Movietown. And his story ought to be an inspiration to any hesitant amateurs who are wondering if a picture career really is worth while—whether a successful actor can keep his perspective, his wit, his outside interests and a non-Hollywood mode of living.

This actor is an especially good example because he's neither a recluse nor a cinema-cynic. He enjoys movies, gets a kick out of acting, knows almost all the people in the industry, and likes quite a few of them.

Unlike most players, he has lots of friends outside the picture business. His hunting partner is an old man who wouldn't know Hedy Lamarr from May Robson. And Mrs. Foster isn't an actress; she the original one—and only, a New Jersey girl who married him before Hollywood took him.

HE LIKES

Stars usually dread business affairs, hire managers and don't know how their money is invested. Foster owns all sorts of enterprises. He owns a gold mine, part of an oil well, two apartment houses, a filling station, part of a beach development on Lake Meade, and a slice of a coach company which builds fancy automobile bodies.

The latter venture is the outgrowth of an amazing station wagon he designed for his hunting trips into Mexico. It has a double bed, stove, mechanical refrigeration, air conditioning, sink, bar and short-wave radio. Most of the other wilderness-journing stars, like the Gables, want one like it.

Foster also has a 52-foot power cruiser which looks like a battleship. Although he won't eat fish, he's crazy about fishing, has taken four marlin, lost half of his only swordfish to a shark. His lack of luck is due mostly to tragic circumstance; for seven seasons, whenever the swordfish would have been running, Foster has been stuck with a picture on some remote location.

With all his activities, he's still going ahead in Hollywood. He has worked at every major studio and mounted an exclusive Paramount picture deal there. At 38, Foster is drawing more romantic roles, and in "Northwest Mounted Police," he came the first actor ever to take a girl away from Gary Cooper. And he just finished winning the heroine from Richard Dix in "Roundup."

EXPERIENCE TO SPARE

Incidentally, Dix was the star of Foster's first flicker—one of seven eastern productions in which he played extra and bit roles. He had applied for work as a tough guy who could ride and fight; so they put him into a tuxedo. "Roundup" was his 52nd Hollywood film in eight years, and next comes "Skylark," with Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland.

His diversity of interests may be due to the variety of jobs he had while trying to get from his native New Jersey to the Broadway stage. He packed records for a phonograph company, worked in shipyards, drove a fruit truck, chauffeured a bus, repaired sewing machines, sold automobiles, planes, advertising and electric light bulbs.

He also sang two seasons in the chorus of the La Scala (Philadelphia) Opera company. This latter experience has been kept secret from Hollywood. Foster has a fine bass voice, but the only singing he ever did for the screen was a couple of bars while shoveling coal in "Wharf Angel."

On each of his many jobs, whenever Foster got a little money to new congressman, and we have the fullest confidence that Gene Worley will make his mark and that his record will be a source of satisfaction to the Panhandle of Texas and since the man who has represented us for 24 years has retired, we think it appropriate to call the attention of Mr. Worley and the people of the Panhandle to the great tributes paid Mr. Jones in the house of representatives, Nov. 18 last, Mr. Jones made a speech which Rep. Hope of Kansas called a "splendid exposition of the American philosophy of government."

In his remarks Mr. Jones said, "The supreme test of any man's courage in a legislative body comes when he is required to show courage and yet be under the imputation of lacking in courage. To be courageous when one gets credit for it is a fine thing. To be courageous when one knows he will be misunderstood and that he will be charged in the minds of others with being a coward or lacking in courage—that is the supreme test of courage and is courage in its highest form."

Later Mr. Jones said, "...most all legislation is a matter of compromise." "May I pause here to say that in my judgment the problem of the ownership of land is the problem of us all. I stop to express the hope that congress will continue the provision it has made for the financing of the ownership of family-sized farm homes in the interest of the future of this country."

The Congressional Record of Nov. 18 shows that Congressman Jones was the only member of the House who spoke in praise of Mr. Jones, and none seemed more impressive than these words from Mr. Fulmer of South Carolina: "In closing I would like to make this further statement which no doubt is responsible for the wonderful character and influence which he (Mr. Jones) has on his colleagues. If you visit Marvin's private office you will find on his desk a copy of the Bible, which clearly indicates to me and others who have had the privilege of visiting his office that... he must have been a reader of the Written Word which, no doubt, has been helpful to him not only in his congressional work but in his life work."

Then these words spoken by Rep. Pierce stand out, and may come to mind as you read the day by day of Marvin Jones' epitaph: "The farming word can never pay the debt it owes to the gentleman from Texas, Marvin Jones."

Also this compliment from John W. McCormack, the Democratic majority leader: "He is one of the outstanding men, not only during his period of service... but in the entire history of this great body under constitutional government."

Either through wounds or bereavement, one British man in every fifty is a victim of the first World War.

Camecho To Recognize Revolutionary Party

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28 (AP)—Political circles reported today that President-Elect General Manuel Avila Camacho had decided to recognize Mexico's dominant political party, the Mexican Revolutionary party (PRM), and rename it the National Democratic party (PDN). They said it would be stripped of its centralized powers to name candidates for state and national offices and to supervise elections, count votes and carry on similar other activities. These powers would go to the ministry of interior.

YESTERDAY marked a birthday anniversary for the fellow who conducts this space, and he was surprised that three other persons remembered it, too. One was a commercial reminder, the second very non-commercial, and the third an invitation to have a birthday chat over coffee cups this while arriving at a momentous decision. Birthdays really sneak up on you if you're not careful. Which reminds us that the Boy Wonder will have a birthday, come Christmas week. When's your birthday, by the way?

Just read a note in another column about a woman who left her first husband and two children because she thought she was "in love" with another man. She married the other man, and they had one child. Now the woman doesn't care for her second husband and wants her first husband back. But her first husband is married to a second wife and is quite happy. Things sure do get mixed up, don't they? Which inspires our motion picture critic to inquire why doesn't Hollywood's Cecil de Mille make a talkie version of his silent film hit, "Don't Change Your Husband."

CITY EDITOR Archer Fullingim can't get over the exaggerated reports that got circulated around the nation about that Panhandle storm. He wonders now if that happens on all the stories we get from other parts of the nation. We don't think so. A storm like that one is so unusual in the Panhandle of Texas that it seems only natural that somebody along the line would get a little over-enthusiastic about it as he was telling it in another section of the country.

Take that airline aviator who came down in Missouri to tell of the recent of lifelines, desolation he saw when flying over the Panhandle Tuesday. It is stories like that which cause people to repeat an exaggeration. Everybody likes to be the first to tell something new, you know, and that accounts for a lot of misrepresentation of facts.

Bob Willis, the orchestra leader, is going to be in Amarillo tonight to play for a dance. We're sorry we can't get over there to hear him play "New San Antonio Rock." Incidentally, this is Thanksgiving Day No. 2, and we almost forgot about it. If you had something to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day No. 1 last week, are you still thankful about it today? A great many Pampa men left for Amarillo around noon to attend that Pampa-Amarillo football game this afternoon. The Harvesters would be plenty thankful if they could upset the dope buster.

THIS should be interesting to all Pampans as well as motorists in the vast trading area who come here to shop. A city has been found which has solved its parking problem. The town is Pawhuska, Okla. It may be to town at 10 o'clock in the morning and find a parking place in front of the store in which you wish to make a purchase. Or, if you work downtown you may drive onto an auto parking lot and remain all day without receiving a parking ticket or racing out every two hours to move the vehicle.

The arrangement was worked out in a cooperative agreement of the chamber of commerce, the civic clubs, and business men in the town, reports Owen A. Smith, director of the division of traffic control of the department of public safety. Each of the civic clubs members signs a pledge he would not park his car on the downtown streets during business hours. Each signer was given a small windshield sticker with his number. If such a car is parked downtown more than 10 or 15 minutes the car owner gets a call notifying him that he is violating his pledge.

IN LIEU of street parking the city has set up two free parking lots where clerks and business men may leave their cars all day. Lights and a guard are provided for night-time protection. A similar arrangement was recommended in Nowata, Okla., by Richard L. Burton, traffic engineer for the department, after a recent survey. In addition the safety experts recommended parallel parking instead of angle parking on narrow streets, pedestrian crosswalks to be marked, school patrols, and fences about school grounds in congested areas, to keep children from dashing thoughtlessly into the streets. Bomb ideas there to think about, locally.

The War Today

By DEWITT MAACKENZIE

Yesterday I received the view that England, while hard pressed, has a chance to win the war provided she has our increased aid.

Later in the day the campaign for more American aid had a stirring in the British House of Commons in a debate which both exposed England's weakness and produced optimistic language.

In combing the debate for facts, the following statement, I found:—said it was a most stirring one, was this from Minister Witkop-Poortloo Greenwood:

"With a close knowledge of the industrial damage we have suffered, I am unhesitatingly that it has not eaten to any serious extent into our productive capacity."

"What we can say with certainty," he remarked at another time, "is that Britain's resources and the capacity and the growing help of North America outmatch the industrial resources and capacity of the enemy."

Now this claim about British industries not having been seriously impaired comes at a moment when the British say that most of the German reports of disastrous destruction of British factories by Nazi bombs. It therefore is of the utmost importance that we know whether we can put full faith in Greenwood's statement.

Less than a week ago Milo M. Thompson, chief of the London bureau of the Associated Press, just returned from England, wrote this: "It is not propaganda when the British say that a great deal of the bombing has had small military significance. I have seen from week to week the actual figures and had the opportunity to visit the scenes of the bombed factories and it is reasonable to believe that the direct damage has been small, in spite of them, the very factories bombed have been back in production in a matter of days and hours."

Aggs Have Not Won Game In Austin In 18 Years

FELIX E. MCKNIGHT

AUSTIN, Nov. 28 (AP)—Cloaked in a jinx that has held good for 18 years, a University of Texas team today set out in the sunshine of a bright, chilly day to do what it has never done before: to beat the Texas Aggie football machine.

The largest college through in all southwest history—45,000—was on hand to watch the challenge of an underdog Texas team carrying a heritage handed down since 1922.

It was that long ago that an Aggie eleven beat a Texas team in Austin.

More than the cracking of that jinx was ahead of Jarrin John Kimbrough and his Aggies, however. First, there was the business of becoming the first team in history to win the Southwest conference title twice in succession; second, nailing down of a handsome bid for the Rose Bowl game; third, stretching to 20 a consecutive winning streak that would carry through two full seasons and a Sugar Bowl game.

Incidentally, not since that Sugar Bowl triumph over Tulane on Jan. 1 of this year has the Aggie team been behind in a football game. Southern Methodist held them to a 7-6 half-time tie.

Not since the Texas game of 1922 has Texas A. and M. lost a football game. On that day they confidently roared into Austin a two or three touchdown favorite; went out a beating team, 6-7. And they were indeed fortunate to get that touchdown in the last minute on a recovered fumble over the Texas goal line.

Texas has a good football team, one that has won six games, and lost only two. A team that rates only slightly behind the fearsome Aggies in every offensive statistic. But today it planned to meet the surge of the Cadets with plain old speed and hustle.

Coach D. X. Bibb hinted that the only way to stop Kimbrough's jolting runs and Marion Pugh's poisoning passing was to "spend the afternoon in the Aggie backfield."

Two big, fast ends, Malcolm Kutner and Preston Flanagan, were the men for the job.

Too, the Texans planned a veritable storm of passes with Pete Layden, great fullback and pitcher, as the wheelhorse. Glaring in the Aggie statistics is that 811 yards the enemy has whipped through them on passes.

But the Aggies have proved both in rain and in shine that the passing monkeyshines against them can go just so far. Only three touchdowns have seeped across the Aggie goal line through the air—and, strangely, all were on long, freak completions. The Cadet pass defense has a strange way of getting very good when the enemy gets down to the 20-yard line.

Only one major casualty for both teams was listed before the kickoff. There was still doubt that Marion Pugh, the Aggies' coach play selector and passer who has heaved for almost 700 yards, would be able to play any length of time. He has missed many days of practice while hospitalized with a leg injury.

Texas' Ted Dawson, a fine guard, returned to practice only Wednesday after spending days having an infected hand treated.

Cowboy Jack Chain, the wild Yoncoma jackrabbit, was still favoring ailing ankles, but Coach Bibb said he would be near top condition.

The kickoff is at 2:30 p. m.

Tempe Teachers To Play In Sun Bowl

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 28 (AP)—Arizona State Teachers college at Tempe was selected by faculty representatives today to represent the Border Conference in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas, New Year's day. The announcement was made by C. Z. Leisher, conference secretary.

It will be the second successive year in which the Bulldogs, coached by Coach D. X. Bibb, have appeared in the Sun Bowl classic. Tempe and Catholic University of Washington, D. C., played a scoreless tie January 1, 1940.

The Bulldogs were undefeated in

Buff Cagers To Be Taller Than Ever

Special to The News

CANYON, Nov. 28—Close of the West Texas State football season this week will free several players for basketball and launch Athletic Director Al Baggett on final development of this season's edition of "The World's Tallest Basketball team."

Taller than ever and bolstered by powerful sophomore guards and point makers, the Buffs will be a formidable club this season. Their first major opponents will be the Southern Methodist University Mustangs in a game to be played at Childress December 6 and 7.

Football men who will join the cage squad next week are Dewey Johnson, senior forward; Gordon Price, captain and senior guard; O. T. Schupbach, 260-pound, 6 foot 6 inch junior transfer who is a center; and Earl Stagner, senior guard. Johnson and Stagner have injuries which will slow them for a few weeks on the floor.

Coach Baggett has been working with available men and has selected the following tentative starting lineup: Forwards, Brookfield and Maddox; guards, F. Stockman and Trimble; center, Halbert. Halbert was high point man last year with 500 points while Brookfield was second with 394 points. Stockman totaled 203 points for last season. Maddox was a freshman sensation on a team which won the Amarillo city league championship. Trimble is a fast-moving sophomore who also made a fine record on the freshman team.

The Buffs will leave soon on a two-week road trip which will take them through the middle west for games with such teams as Baker U., South Dakota, Omaha U., Morrisville, Drake, Simpson, Nebraska State, and Tarkio (Mo.) college.

conference play this year, but tied with Texas Mines of El Paso.

Tempe was named under an agreement with the bowl committee that the conference select the "host" team.

At Tempe, graduate Manager Tom Lillio said the bid to play at El Paso New Year's day would "without question" be accepted.

A meeting of the board of athletic control to approve the post-season contest, he said, is "only a formality."

Team members voted favorably on the proposal yesterday.

THE CADETS COULD USE IT

Claude And Higgins To Play For Title At Phillips Friday

The Claude Mustangs, defending Class B champs, will meet the powerful Higgins Coyotes at Phillips stadium, Phillips, Friday in what promises to be a rousing game for the Class B championship of 1940.

To date, the Mustangs have piled up 307 points to their opponents' 37 and have been defeated only by the Panhandle Panthers, 7-6, in the first game of the season. The Mustangs feature the highest scoring back in Texas for the current year in Coy Clavert, fullback who has scored 28 touchdowns and converted 12 placebacks for an eight-game total of 180 points.

The Mustangs will be outweighed by the Higgins entry who has a rather heavy team this time. Forbau, stellar fullback for the Coyotes, and Price, quarterback, have played outstanding ball thus far. Several injuries to the Mustangs will hamper their running attack and Coach Cox has been polishing his passing game for the past two weeks in readiness for the Higgins game.

Cadets Die In Crash

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 28 (AP)—A cadet pilot who had completed his advanced flight course and a Kelly field private were killed in the crash of a training plane near Medina Lake, 30 miles northwest of here, yesterday.

They were Flying Cadet H. E. Coleman, 21, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Pvt. James J. Enloe, 20, of Temple, Texas, a member of the 64th school squadron.

The Taj Mahal is located at Agra, India. It is an architecturally beautiful mausoleum.

Harmon Back In First Place As Ground Gainer

By GAIL FOWLER

SEATTLE, Nov. 28 (AP)—A week ago today American football statistics bureau figures showed that Tom Harmon of Michigan would have to stage a yard-eating feast against Ohio State or fall short of his 1939 ground gaining feats.

So Harmon had the feast and topped his feats.

He packed the ball 26 times for 161 yards and passed it 22 times for 148 yards to account for 309 yards against Ohio State.

This put him back in first place as the country's leading ground gainer with 1,368 yards.

The Michigan walrus ranks second as a rusher and 10th as a forward passer.

Only player with a chance to catch "number 98" in total offense—gains rushing and passing—is Creighton's Johnny Knolla, who has been hovering around in the first 10 all season and who led last week. Knolla plays his tenth game today against Wichita. He needs 76 yards to pass Harmon and take first place on the basis of total yards gained, which is the classification under which the bureau rates the gridgers.

Knolla is third this week ranking behind Missouri's Paul Christman, who concluded his season.

Al Ghesquiere, Detroit's senior, is apparently safe as the 1940 rushing leader, his 957 yards from 146 rushes being the highest since Whitmer White of Colorado racked up 1,121 yards in 1937.

Billy Sewell of Washington State has the forward passing crown clinched with 80 completions.

Owen Price of Texas Mines kept his lead as the top punter, although punting averages showed decided shrinkage in all cases except those where the booter had an open date.

California Texans Await Outcome Of Texas-Aggie Battle

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (AP)—Thousands of transplanted Texans and football observers herabouts awaited with keen interest the outcome of the Texas A. and M.-Texas football game today, for on the outcome may rest an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena January 1.

Evidence of this interest was seen in an annual "post card" poll conducted by the Los Angeles Times. Strictly unofficial, it invites the public to "vote" a preference for the Rose Bowl bid.

Sports Editor Paul Zimmerman reported he was "snowed under" by votes for Texas A. and M. and that the Aggies were far ahead of other possible participants.

Officials of the Pacific Coast conference Rose Bowl team—which apparently will be Stanford university—naturally have the final say on which team will be invited west. But it seemed a safe guess here that the Stanford delegation at Palo Alto was deeply interested in the Aggie-Longhorn game, too.

Harvesters Leave By Bus This Morning At 9 a. m.

Today an underdog band of Pampa Harvesters are in Amarillo for their last football game of the 1940.

On Monday the Harvesters will probably be called to basketball practice.

The Harvesters left Pampa by bus at 9 o'clock. They were scheduled to have a light dinner at 11 a. m., and then a brief rest before going to the field about 1:30 p. m.

Both the Harvesters and Sandies have been handicapped by the weather which kept them from working out regularly. The Sandies worked Tuesday for the first time since they defeated Lubbock. The Harvesters had a workout last Friday, one in a shed on Monday, heavy scrimmage Tuesday and a light workout yesterday.

Never before has an Amarillo team been as highly rated as the Sandies of today, and never before has a Harvester team been such an underdog.

But despite the dope, between 5,000 and 6,000 fans are expected to witness the game, according to the Amarillo school business manager. Many Pampa fans were to leave the Santa Fe station at 1 o'clock by special train while others left this morning or were leaving early in the afternoon by car.

For 10 of the Harvesters today's battle with the Sandies was their last in a Harvester uniform and two others who still have a year more of eligibility can also graduate.

Combination tickets left carry a seat around the 35-yard-line for the football game.

Sugar Bowl Tickets Limited To End Zone

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28 (AP)—A sell-out of tickets to the annual New Year's Day Sugar Bowl football classic was indicated today as time neared for selection of the teams which will meet in the 73,000 crowd event.

Hap Riley, of the Sugar Bowl committee, said there were "only a few" end zone tickets left at $2.75, "possibly a couple of thousand at the most," and an undetermined number from the 1,000 combination tickets which embrace the football game and all other major events of Sugar Bowl sports carnival week at $10.

Selection of the teams is announced during the first week in December.
