How's that? Baseball game

Q. Will KTPX-TV show the National League Championship game between the St. Louis Cardinals and the L.A. Dodgers?

A. No, the Odessa-Midland affiliate will instead choose to show a local regular-season high school football game between Permian and Lee, instead of the pro baseball playoffs. The broadcast, including pre-game, will start at 7 p.m., so the Cosby Show also will be pre-empted.

During the game, the station will air audio highlights of the baseball game and will show clips at halftime, said Sandy McIntosh, station traffic director. Also, they hope the game will be completed by 10 p.m. so they can air at least half an hour of the game, she said.

The game won't be on cable, either, said Paul Thoman, manager of Big Spring Cable TV, because only NBC will be carrying the playoffs and there are no other NBC stations available.

Senate approves deficit plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a plan to eliminate the government's annual deficits by 1991, but Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole said today the Reagan administration may have given House Democrats time to kill the legislation.

Dole criticized the Treasury's use of a complicated financial procedure Wednesday to prevent government checks from bouncing this week.

The cash shortage, caused by Congress' failure to expand the government's borrowing authority, was the club Republicans hoped to use to force quick passage of the deficit-reduction plan in the House.

"What they've done is given the House plenty of time to go out and kill" the plan, Dole told reporters today. The administration's failure to allow a financial crisis showed "no guts" and "a credibility problem," he said.

"My response is the Treasury pulled the plug on us," Dole said.

The Treasury has been warning Congress daily in letters requested by Dole that without new borrowing authority government checks would start to bounce.

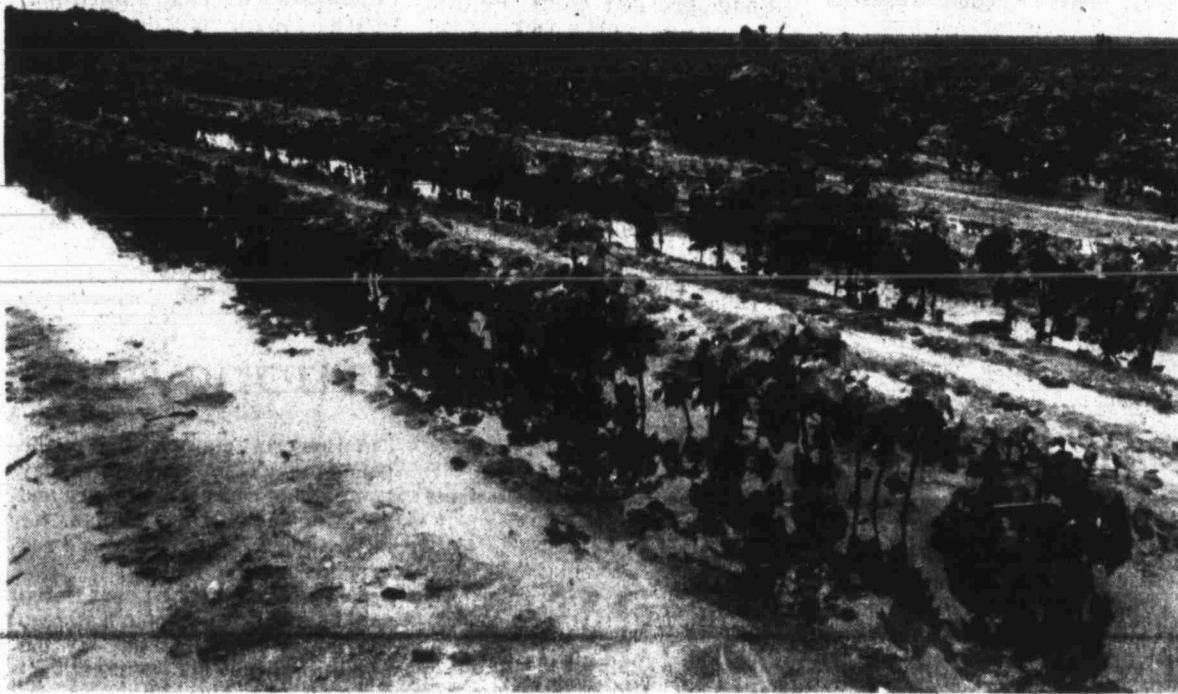

The lawmakers on Wednesday appeared near at least a temporary resolution of the government's financial squeeze. The major hurdle for nearly a week, the deficit-cutting amendment, was passed by a 75-24 vote in the Senate as an amendment to a bill raising the national debt.

"We took the No. 1 issue in America, we brought it to the floor of the Senate and we won it for the American people," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, a primary sponsor of the amendment.

But Dole couldn't get his colleagues to go along with an interim debt ceiling hike, to let the government meet its obligations until Congress takes final action on the long-term debt bill.

Water stands in a cotton field north of Big Spring after two days of rainfall. The rain is postponing harvest of cotton in the area, said Howard County agricultural extension agent Don Richardson, but so far the moisture hasn't caused much damage to the crop.

Floods hit Permian Basin

From staff and wire reports

Heavy rains hit parts of West Texas on Wednesday causing flash flooding in the Permian Basin and prompting the National Weather Service to post flood watches for the entire region through Thursday.

Flood waters approached the windows of automobiles in Midland Wednesday morning and in Odessa some residents were "treading water" as rain-swollen city streets left motorists stranded, a police spokesman said.

"Motorists are being stranded all over because they've drowned their engines trying to pass through high water areas," Odessa police Cpl. John McAdon said early Wednesday.

Rains were abating in downtown Odessa at noon, but the Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport said there was a 50 percent chance of more showers occurring Thursday.

Big Spring police had no problem with flooding and no streets were closed due to the rain, a police spokesman said this morning.

Big Spring field station recorded 1 inch of rain, bringing the yearly total to 20.82 inches. Rainfall of up to 2.2 inches was reported in the Big Spring area.

Neil Fryar of Lomax recorded one 1 inch rain this morning and 4 inch Wednesday.

Elton Hartin of 203 W. Nolan recorded 2.2 inches. Elmer Lindsey at the Shive Gin in Coahoma reported 1.2 inches. Red Thomas of 107 E. 13th recorded 1.25 inches, and B.G. Barber of 15th and Settles recorded 1 inch of rain. O.W. Scudly of Forsan reported 1.5 inches.

Howard County agricultural extension agent Don Richardson said so far the rain hasn't caused much damage to the cotton being harvested. The harvest will be postponed until the cotton dries, he said. But if the rain continues, the quality and the grade of the cotton could be lowered, he said. Some cotton could fall on the ground, some could be discolored, and some regrowth could occur on the defoliated plants, making the harvest more difficult, he said.

Knott farmer Paul Hopper, who recorded 1 inch of rain, said the damage might have been greater if there had been a lot of wind. "We'll wait till the cotton dries out," he said. "Maybe it won't be too bad."

Between 6 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., clouds dropped almost 2 inches of rain at the Midland-Odessa Regional Airport, forecaster Al Landers said, adding that the NWS received other reports from around the Odessa-Midland area of up to 3 inches of rainfall.

Landers attributed today's rainstorm to a flow of warm, moist air from Hurricane Waldo near Baja California.

A cold front situated over Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle and central New Mexico directed the moist air into West Texas.

The weather service predicted 8 to 10 inches of rain could fall through today in parts of West Texas.

Producers laud delay in ruling on natural gas

By WILLIAM GARLAND Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Natural gas producers applauded a decision Wednesday by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to postpone a ruling that would make a major change in natural gas marketing and cost producers an estimated $5 billion each year.

"It's a victory for producers and consumers," said Mike Waters, a spokesman for the Natural Gas Supply Association in Washington, representing both independent and major oil and gas companies.

A spokesman for natural gas consumers, however, said the victory was only for producers and that consumers would lose the benefit of $5 billion in annual savings on their gas bills.

Although FERC postponed a ruling on so-called "block billing," the commission did approve other changes in natural gas transportation that should give a broader selection to utilities for natural gas purchases. Edwin Rothschild, spokesman for the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition, said consumers should see some future savings as a result of the transportation decision.

Block billing would end a current practice of "rolling in" natural gas prices for consumers by averaging the prices of inexpensive "old gas," discovered before February, 1977, with the prices for "new" gas. Under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978, old gas prices remain under tight controls whereas new gas is free of controls.

FERC's block billing proposal would force pipelines to pass through the direct costs of old and new gas to distributors and utilities rather than averaging the two costs. Many pipeline companies complained in comments on the proposal that it would give unfair advantage to pipelines with greater access to old gas.

Waters and other industry spokesmen said the direct pass-through of gas purchasing costs would have put strong downward pressure on prices of new gas at the wellhead. Major oil companies control most of the nation's old gas, while independent oil and gas companies primarily sell more costly new gas.

"A lot of independents would have gone out of business" with block billing, said Waters.

He said block billing would have caused a dramatic downturn in drilling for gas prospects and, eventually, a shortage of gas for consumers.

The commission proposed a slightly modified rule on block billing that will require a new period for public comment and a hearing in December before the commission in Washington.

Rothschild said political pressure from Congress forced FERC to postpone the ruling. The Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee recently passed an amendment by Sen. Don Nickles, R-Okla., that would have postponed the FERC ruling until further hearings had been held.

Confirmation votes for two new FERC commissioners are pending in the Senate, and Rothschild said the two nominees might be less likely than several current commissioners to go along with the block billing concept.

Peter Wellish, a spokesman for the Independent Petroleum Association of America representing independent oil and gas companies, said IPAA was "extremely gratified" that FERC had decided to seek additional comments to the ruling.

U.S. demands prosecution of hijackers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States demanded maximum punishment for four Palestinian sea pirates, but Egypt's president said today they had been allowed to leave his country and he did not know where they were.

President Hosni Mubarak told reporters today that his government had stood by its earlier deal to let the terrorists go despite the subsequent revelation that an elderly American passenger on the hijacked cruise ship Achille Lauro had been killed.

Mubarak's announcement followed strong and unusually frank demands from the United States that the hijackers be prosecuted.

"While we welcome the release of the passengers and crew of the Achille Lauro," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said late Wednesday, "we are saddened and outraged by this brutal killing of an innocent American."

"From the outset, the United States government made clear to the government of Egypt and the government of Italy... our expectation that the terrorists would be apprehended, prosecuted and punished."

Secretary of State George Shultz today condemned the events as "murder, mistreatment of people that is unacceptable."

"There must be no asylum for terrorism or terrorists," Assistant Secretary of State Richard W. Murphy told reporters Wednesday night, confirming that passenger Leon Klinghoffer had been murdered aboard the Italian liner off the Syrian coast before it returned to Port Said, Egypt, and the hijackers surrendered.

Mubarak said today in Cairo that the hijackers had left the country, that he did not know where they were — "maybe in Tunisia."

"They left the country. I don't know," he told reporters. Explaining why Egypt agreed to let them go, he added, "You should know we started to make some negotiations when we understood there was nobody killed on board the ship."

If his government had known that someone had been killed before the deal was struck, Mubarak said, "We would have changed our mind."

He was not specific when asked about the statement of the Egyptian ambassador to the United States, Raouf El Reedy, Wednesday night that the pirates were in the hands of representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The State Department would not comment today on a report published in Italy that the United States had been preparing for military action against the hijackers when the drama ended. The Turin daily La Stampa quoted Premier Bettino Craxi as saying the U.S. government was ready for a military strike to free the passengers and crew but "the Americans needed time, at least until late Wednesday night." The hijackers surrendered Wednesday afternoon.

Oh Jimmy Lee!

TV soap actor isn't just another blind date

AUSTIN (AP) — Blind dates are bound to be a little weird at first. Until you know it's going to be OK, palms feel sweaty and adrenaline flows.

When your date is a soap opera heartthrob like the ruggedly handsome actor who plays Jimmy Lee Holt on General Hospital, it's natural to be nervous.

But on a recent weekend here, it was hard to tell who was more nervous: actor Steve Bond or Lynne Perry, the young Austin woman who won a radio contest and a dinner date with Bond after the J.C. Penney bridal show at the Embassy Suites Hotel.

Bond helped emcee the bridal show, autographed his picture for hundreds of women, and then went to his room to rest before meeting Miss Perry at the Velvet Turtle restaurant in the hotel. Personal appearances can be rough, Bond said as he slouched in his chair watching the 49ers-Raiders game on television.

"Everybody wants a piece of you," he said.

Dinner with an adoring Jimmy Lee fan — Sunday's date was a first, Bond said — might be interesting "if they can relate to you as a human being."

Relax, Steve; that's what Miss Perry had in mind all along.

An avid General Hospital fan since college — "my roommate and I just went crazy about Jimmy Lee" — Miss Perry said, "I can't come on to the man. Of course, that's the ultimate fantasy, but he is married. We'll just have a nice conversation and take it from there."

"I'm intrigued to see how I'm going to handle it," she said. "He's such a gorgeous man; it's pretty intimidating. I'm trying not to be too uptight, but those eyes are mesmerizing."

"He's hot. Combustible," Miss Perry said slowly, emphasizing each syllable like a separate word. "My game plan is to be memorable, and not be typical. I'd be mortified to be squealing and calling him Jimmy Lee.

"I want him to feel like he was the lucky one," Miss Perry said, tossing her head self-confidently. "He could have done worse."

Miss Perry, 23, was a knockout with her frosted blond hair, attractive tan and a borrowed black lace dress. "I wanted to dress in something different. I knew everybody (in the bridal show) would be in white."

Bond also made a fashion statement; before dinner he changed from his bridal show tuxedo to blue jeans, and wore sunglasses to cross the hotel atrium into the dimly lit restaurant.

"Guess he finally got used to the bright lights," wisecracked a friend of Miss Perry's from her perch near the piano bar as Bond tucked the shades into the neck of his yellow sweatshirt.

Before dinner, Miss Perry, who works for Norwest Mortgage Co. called Bond "the hunk of a lifetime. He's the epitome of, let me think, a walking lust," she said, laughing gaily at her choice of words.

Two hours later, dinner was over, and so was the fantasy.

Bond brushed Miss Perry's cheek with a goodbye peck and left for the airport and a flight home to his wife and infant daughter in California.

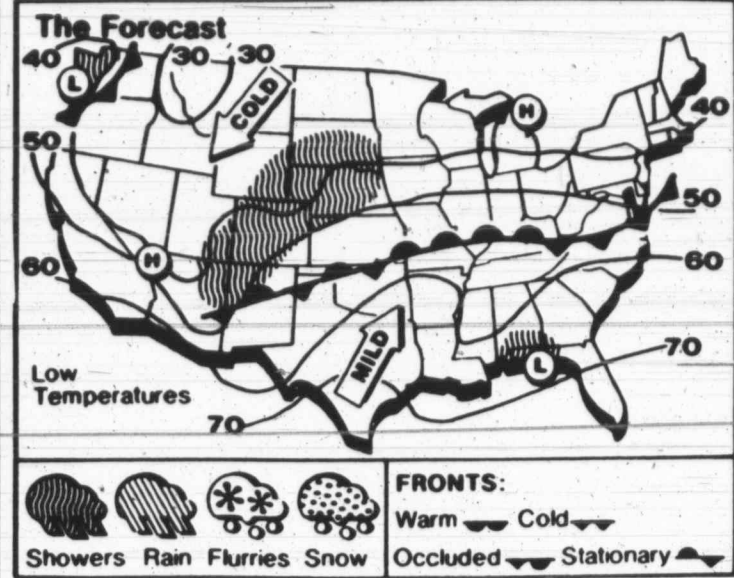

So, what was it like, this date with a hunk?

Miss Perry answered dreamily, a vivid contrast to her pre-date animation. "He's beautiful. He's not Jimmy Lee. He's not so brazen, but the ambience is still there."

"I like Steve better than Jimmy Lee, because he's more down to earth."

Would she do it again? "In a heartbeat."

Appraisal employees given better insurance

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
County tax appraiser employees will have additional hospital insurance coverage beginning Nov. 1.

A quorum of Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board members voted unanimously to accept the motion upgrading coverage from a $250 deductible to a $150 deductible.

Board members Rob Roberson and Harold Pierce were absent from yesterday's meeting.

Appraisal office employees will be covered by Provident Insurance Company beginning Nov. 1. Board members voted in favor of accepting Provident's bid during their last meeting in September. Chief assessor Gene Pereira said appraisal employees had asked that he bring their request of additional coverage before the board. Additional insurance coverage does not exceed the district's budgeted amount for 1986, Pereira told board members before they voted.

In other action:

• The district voted unanimously to change November's meeting date from Nov. 6 to Nov. 20 in order to permit Pereira to attend a Texas Assessing Association Officers meeting.

• Unanimously approved permission to purchase Christmas turkeys for district employees.

Truancy case dismissed

A Howard County justice of the peace today dismissed a three-day contempt of court jail sentence and $50 fine against a woman for failure to send her 11-year-old son to school.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin said he had given Lennie Kathleen Clayton, 37, of 3912 Parkway the maximum fine for contempt of court Wednesday. She had appeared "several times" prior in his court because of her son's truancy this year, Heflin said.

"The main reason I put her in jail is to show her I mean it," he said. "I don't get my kicks putting these people in jail."

He dismissed the sentence and fine because she promised the judge she would keep her child in school. "We'll have to see," Heflin said.

Volleyball spectator is barred from games

An overzealous spectator who is prohibited from attending high school girls volleyball games is restricted from going to out-of-town contests, too, a justice of the peace has ruled.

Judge Lewis Heflin last month issued a peace bond prohibiting Jerry Lynn Myrick, 41, of 1703 Jennings from attending the games. The complaint against Myrick was filed Sept. 23 by Ron L. Logback, athletic director at the school.

Heflin said volleyball coach Susan Sharp recently contacted his office and inquired whether Myrick was allowed to attend out-of-town Steer girl volleyball matches. The Steers, who are undefeated, played San Angelo Central Tuesday night in San Angelo. Heflin decided the prohibition extends to out-of-town games as well, he said today.

According to text of the peace bond, Logback said that Myrick "intentionally and knowingly threatened (school officials) with imminent bodily injury by verbal threats and harassments."

According to the terms of the peace bond, Myrick "can't go to anymore games," Heflin said. "If he does violate the peace bond, he's liable to go to jail for a year."

Heflin said the high school faced a possibility of getting kicked out of the Texas Interscholastic League because Myrick "always threatened referees during the game."

"All we are doing is what the law allows," Heflin said about issuing the peace bond. "As long as they behave themselves, they're in good shape."

Heflin said Myrick "understands the program."

Deficit

Congress' inaction forced the administration to use an obscure federal agency known as the Federal Financing Bank to obtain $5 billion to keep the government solvent.

The bank was set up by Congress in 1973, not as a cushion for periodic disputes over the debt ceiling, but to help independent federal agencies issue their securities. To help with that task, the bank was given $15 billion of borrowing power.

The administration tapped into that $15 billion on Wednesday, a step Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III said "we are reluctant to use." The only previous time that happened was in 1974.

The government has used up its cash reserves and its current borrowing limit of $1.824 trillion. The Reagan administration has asked for a hike in the debt limit to $2.078 trillion to cover another year of $200 billion deficits.

The House Wednesday rejected a Senate move to limit borrowing from the financing bank to the $5 billion, which would last about a week, but the House refused to even consider the measure.

The House isn't likely to quickly adopt the deficit-cutting amendment proposed by Gramm, Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., but House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said today he thought the House would pursue a similar approach.

"The deficit is eating us away and down the road there is disaster," O'Neill said.

Secrets leak admitted

BALTIMORE — A naval analyst accused of leaking secret spy photographs admitted after his arrest that he sent the pictures to a magazine because he wanted the American people to know what the Soviets were doing, according to court testimony.

Samuel Loring Morison admitted in a statement several hours after his arrest Oct. 1, 1984, that he mailed three U.S. spy photographs of Soviet ship construction to Jane's Defence Weekly, a British military magazine, in July of that year. David Swindle, a Navy Intelligence investigator, testified Wednesday in U.S. District Court during the second day of Morison's espionage trial.

Turnpike is toll free

NORWALK, Conn. — After nearly three decades of toll collections, motorists are driving the Connecticut Turnpike for free as the state opens the toll booths both cursed as death traps and environmental hazards and praised as sources of income.

"We're as happy as we can be," said Raymond Vallerie of Vallerie Transport in Norwalk, which runs 150 trucks to Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts and will save nearly $100,000 a year in toll charges.

Hitler had diseases

CHICAGO — Adolf Hitler suffered from heart disease and the degenerative ailment called Parkinson's disease and almost certainly would have died from them if he hadn't killed himself, says the only surviving physician who was with him in his Berlin bunker.

The two conditions "would almost certainly have soon killed him, had he not cheated the world by taking his own life, only days before the Russians marched into his bunker," said Dr. Ernst Gunther Schenck, now 81.

Felony charge dropped

CLEVELAND — For the second time in two weeks, federal prosecutors have dropped felony charges to avoid trials that could force them to reveal whether Teamsters union President Jackie Presser was an FBI informant.

U.S. District Judge John M. Manos approved a motion by prosecutors Wednesday to dismiss two charges against former Teamsters official John Nardi involving an alleged ghost-payroll scheme at Local 507 here.

Tribute paid to Lennon

NEW YORK — Dogwoods came from Monoc, birches from the Soviet Union and maples from Canada, but the cheers came straight from the heart at the opening of what John Lennon's widow called "an international garden of peace ... a growing monument" to the slain former Beatle.

Actor Yul Brynner, best known for his performances in the stage musical, "The King and I," is shown here with actress Deborah Kerr. Brynner died this morning.

Death of a king

Actor Yul Brynner dead at the age of 65

NEW YORK (AP) — Yul Brynner, whose more than three dozen movies were dwarfed by a record 4,625 stage performances as the bald, autocratic monarch of Siam in "The King and I," died today at the age of 65.

His wife, Kathy Lee, and his four children were with him when he died at 1 a.m. at The New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, said spokesman Josh Ellis of Solters Roskin Friedman Inc. The agency handled the publicity for the most recent Broadway production of the musical, which ended in June.

"He died of multiple complications that came as a result of what was originally cancer," Ellis said. "He faced death with a dignity and strength that astounded his doctors. He fought like a lion."

"He was a remarkable person," said Charlton Heston, who starred with Brynner in Cecil B. DeMille's 1956 epic "The Ten Commandments." "His work in 'King and I' was beyond compare. He was a very special talent. I'm very sorry to hear of his death."

"He was a charming and amusing man of many talents although, of course, he will be identified as the king for ever," Deborah Kerr, who starred with Brynner in the 1956 movie version of the musical, said from her villa in Marbella, Spain.

Although Brynner made more than three dozen movies, including "The Ten Commandments," "The Magnificent Seven" and "Anastasia," he was best known for his stage and screen portrayals of the king in the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical classic.

The role brought him a Tony in 1952, an Oscar in 1957 and a special Tony in June. He played his final performance as the king June 30 at the Broadway Theater at the end of a tour lasting almost 4 1/2 years.

That tour was interrupted in September 1983 when Brynner, who at one time smoked five packs of cigarettes a day, needed treatment for lung cancer. He received radiation therapy at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles.

"I think that the discipline I acquired through 53 years of working in show business has helped me enormously with my own physical problems — whether it was a crash in the circus when I was 17 or the serious illness which I had more recently," Brynner said in an interview last December.

"You have to make a choice — being sick in bed, and that's a fearsome kind of thing — or playing in a theater to standing ovations every night. The choice is obvious. I simply go on playing."

"He was very loving and warm as a man and a kind of uncle figure to me," said Phac Minh Chau, 16, a Vietnamese refugee whose education at a private school was paid for by Brynner after the two met in 1980 while "The King and I" was in London.

Brynner was born Taidje Khan on Sakhalin Island, north of Japan, which is now a part of the Soviet Union. His office gives the date as July 11, 1920, although Current Biography lists the year as 1917 and Who's Who in the Theater as 1915.

He made his Broadway debut in 1946 as an Oriental prince in the musical "Lute Song."

Spy suspect arrested

BONN, West Germany — A member of the extreme right wing National Democratic Party has been arrested on suspicion of spying for communist East Germany, officials said today.

The announcement marks the 10th espionage case made public since a secretary to Bonn's economics minister fled to East Germany in early August.

Among those who have fled to East Germany in the past two months has been a top counterspy who was in charge of monitoring East Germany's espionage activities in West Germany.

Three killed in clash

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Three blacks, including a 3-week-old baby, died in attacks apparently mounted by other blacks as anti-apartheid violence flared up across South Africa, police said today.

The deaths reported by police today raised the number of blacks reported killed in the past 24 hours to five.

On Wednesday, police said that two men were killed when mobs put tires around their necks, doused them with gasoline and set them on fire. That incident took place near Port Elizabeth, 600 miles south of Johannesburg.

Drug abuse start early

BUDAPEST, Hungary — Some 10-year olds are abusing drugs, and 30,000 Hungarians have misused them at some point, the state-run MTI news agency said.

The news agency's unusually candid dispatch said Wednesday that there are between 300 and 1,500 known drug addicts in the nation of about 10 million people.

Fans turn violent

LEICESTER, England — Soccer fans hurling gasoline bombs and rocks fought street battles with 300 police officers after the Leicester team was eliminated as a contender in tournament play.

A spokesman at Leicester police headquarters said brawling spread over several streets near the stadium where the Wednesday night match with Derby County was played. Fans overturned and set fire to cars, and smashing shop windows, he said.

Flood victims get help

PONCE, Puerto Rico — The Puerto Rican government rushed emergency money to survivors of this week's flooding and mudslides, and rescue workers pulled more bodies from the debris. Officials said as many as 500 people may have died.

Civil Defense Chief Heriberto Acevedo reported Wednesday that a total of 74 bodies had been recovered or located in the debris on the U.S. Commonwealth island.

Halloween arrives early in township

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Halloween arrived early in East Pennsboro Township.

A few residents in a rural, wooded area of the township, northwest of Harrisburg, have reported an ape-like apparition, which they have dubbed the "creature."

"We are not making a joke out of it," East Pennsboro Township police Chief James Corbett said Wednesday. "But I can't buy the fact that it's not ... a human being."

Most likely, said Corbett, the "creature" came out of a department store costume shop rather than a dank swamp.

First reports of a strange beast, a terrible screeching sound and an awful stench, came from three to four people in August, Corbett said. On Sept. 29, police took five reports of the terrible sound and odor.

One young man claimed to have seen a 6 1/2-foot hairy creature, with long fangs and arms that extended below its knees. Three officers were sent to investigate and "one did hear the sound," Corbett said. "He described it as like a screech, but with a guttural, deep down effect."

Lee warns against trade barriers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew exhorted the Congress today to reject trade protectionism, warning that the alternative would be a global economic tailspin reminiscent of the 1930's.

Speaking to a joint meeting of Congress, Lee said a "replay of the Depression of the 1930's which led to World War II will be ruinous for all."

Lee, who here is on an official four-day visit, devoted almost the entirety of his 30-minute address to the protectionism issue. As he spoke, the House was preparing to take up a bill that would sharply restrict textile imports, one of more than 300 protectionist proposals before Congress.

Disputing the argument that trade barriers protect American jobs, Lee said such measures shrink world trade and thus increase unemployment.

"Is America willing to write off the peaceful and constructive developments of the last 40 years that she had made possible?"

"Does America wish to abandon the contest between democracy and the free market on the one hand versus communism and the controlled economy on the other, when she has nearly won this contest for the hearts and minds of the Third World?"

Lee predicted disastrous political consequences for much of the world if there is a significant shrinkage in world trade.

"Developing countries will have to abandon all thoughts of liberalization towards plurality and more democratic freedoms," he said. "Severe or repressive government is the other side of austere or negative economic growth."

Lee met Tuesday with President Reagan, and much of their discussion centered on the dangers of protectionism, U.S. officials said.

Lee also planned to attend a luncheon hosted by the chairmen of the House and Senate committees on foreign relations. Also sched-

PRESIDENT RONALD REAGAN, right, stands with Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, as he welcomed Lee during ceremonies on the South Lawn of the White House Tuesday.

ed were meetings with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and with U.S. Special Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter.

The prosperity Singapore has built over the past generation has been largely the result of its ability to find markets for its exports. Its chief trading partner is the United States, with two-way trade totaling $8.1 billion last year and a surplus of $900 million in Singapore's favor.

Anti-terrorist steps stressed

DALLAS (AP) — NATO Secretary General Lord Peter Carrington said Wednesday that western democracies should cooperate more and take a more uniform approach toward terrorism.

"The North Atlantic Treaty Organization official was here to address the Texas branch of the Atlantic Association, a non-profit American association promoting peaceful international relations."

"I think the free countries of the world have got to get together more than they have in the past," he said during a news conference.

One difficulty with that, he said, is the idea that "one man's terrorist is another man's patriot. Not all nations look at terrorists in quite the same way in different circumstances."

But Carrington said all nations should take the approach that "...any country which harbors terrorists should have measures directed at it, which all free countries of the world must observe."

As an example, he cited the United States' halt of all commercial airline flights into the Athens, Greece airport after the hijacking this summer of a TWA jet that departed from Athens. Such measures could help, he said, "but it's very difficult to see how you stop it absolutely..."

Following the terrorist hijacking of an Italian cruise ship, most of the questions directed at Carrington centered on international terrorism.

"We've been rather successful at preventing a third world war. That is something. But we haven't prevented terrorism," he said.

But he noted that terrorism "isn't really NATO's job." Carrington said that on his two-day visit to Texas, which began in Austin on Tuesday, he has been focusing his comments on the need to continue NATO.

He said the success of the 16-nation alliance is part of its problem today.

"People — the younger generation — are beginning to wonder what the alliance is all about," Carrington said.

So in his travels around the world he tries to address that question. The title of his speech in Dallas was "Why NATO?"

Carrington's prepared speech said "people forget what happened in Eastern Europe after the war, and how weak Western Europe was at the time," causing them to question the need for NATO.

The other problems facing NATO, he said, are the growth of the anti-nuclear movement, particularly in northern Europe, and the NATO countries' "falling behind" in conventional weaponry to the Soviet Union.

As for the recent visit of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to France, Carrington said Gorbachev will not be successful in creating a rift among NATO countries by seeking separate arms negotiations.

One who couldn't get away

HOUSTON (AP) — A 72-year-old judge and an admittedly out-of-shape prosecutor chased a convicted robber down three flights of stairs and across three courtroom floors after the defendant fled his punishment hearing.

The confusion started about 12:45 p.m. Tuesday as a jury left State District Judge Donald Shipley's courtroom to deliberate over a punishment for Kenneth Roberts, 23.

Roberts, who was convicted of robbery earlier in the day, suddenly fled the sixth floor courtroom.

The prosecutor pulled the defendant out of the elevator, the two struggled. But Roberts got away, with Shelton and Hatten, 72, in hot pursuit.

Roberts fled again. The judge kept running down the stairs, but the prosecutor found Roberts on the third floor.

Herald wins award for service

The Big Spring Herald won first place for community service in competition with Harte-Hanks newspapers nationwide, Harte-Hanks Communications announced Wednesday.

The newspaper also won first place in headline writing and for front-page layout.

The community service award was for "coverage challenging the city to make proper use of tornado warning sirens." The category was judged by David W. Schultz, editor and publisher of the Massillon (Ohio) Evening Independent.

The combination of news stories and editorials was written last spring during a spate of tornado activity, said Herald managing editor John Rice.

"Our editorial position was that the city should err on the side of caution. I felt — and a number of readers felt — it was better that the sirens be sounded if the danger from tornado was significant, even if a tornado wasn't imminent," Rice said.

"It is to city officials' credit that when a second series of storms moved through a few days later, they responded with ample warnings, and we praised that response in a follow-up editorial," he said.

Award winning headlines were composed by Keith Briscoe, who is now news editor at the Odessa American. Among the five headlines judged as a package was "Farmer chafed wheat not sent to Ethiopia."

Briscoe also won a second-place award in the business writing category.

The top-rated page one layout was by Luis Rios, now a copy editor for the San Antonio Light.

An honorable mention was awarded the Herald news staff for coverage of a fire at the Cosden Oil and Refining Company.

Honorable mention also went to Tina Steffen for a story titled "Rape: A traumatic crime of power and aggression." Steffen, then lifestyle editor of the newspaper, is now creative services director at the Herald.

Other honorable mentions went to Rios for news page layout (other than page one) and business writing for a piece on the country store at Luther.

Harte-Hanks competition is divided between newspapers above and below 20,000 daily circulation. The Herald competed against 24 other newspapers.

Arts, crafts festival opens Oct. 19

As in past years, the fine arts category has the most entries with 42 scheduled, according to the release. Of those, 18 specialize in oils, 10 in oil and watercolor, seven in watercolor and two in pen and ink.

Woodwork is the second largest category with 17 entries.

Benefit cookoff set for Saturday

By KEELY COGHLAN

Staff Writer

Twenty-seven teams have entered the Chicken-fried Steak World Championship set for Saturday, said a spokesman for the advertising agency coordinating the cookoff.

Susan Lewis of Multi-Media Advertising in Big Spring said the turnout for the United Way-benefit cooking contest was "great." All proceeds from the cookoff, foot races, armadillo races, and food and game booths will benefit Big Spring United Way agencies.

Registration for the foot races begins at 9 a.m. north of Dunlap's at Highland Mall, the starting and stopping point of both the one-mile Fun Run and the 5K race, Lewis said. The first 50 entries in either race will win a free T-shirt, she said.

Registration fee is $2 per person per race. The Fun Run begins at 9:30 a.m. and the 5K at 10 a.m.

The Fun Run will begin at Dunlap's, turn right on the FM 700 access road, turn right on Goliad and turn around at Scott Drive, from which point contestants will retrace their steps and return to Dunlap's.

The 5K race, which is equivalent to a 3.2 mile course, starts the same place as the Fun Run, but continues past Scott Drive to Highland Drive. Runners then will turn east on Highland to the dead-end, then turn around and retrace their steps to the starting point.

Maps will be distributed at the race. In addition, people will be staffed at the turning points to direct the racers. Safety provisions will include police assistance, Lewis said. Drivers may want to avoid the area near Goliad and the access road to FM 700 because of the race, she said.

For more information on the race, call Linda Davis at 267-3226. The race is being coordinated by Davis and Shelane Roberts.

Booths for contestants in the chicken-fried steak cookoff will begin setting up at 8 a.m., at which time late registration for the contest also will be taken. In case of rain, the Chicken-fried Steak World Championship will be moved inside the old Montgomery Ward's building.

The Big Spring Federal Prison Camp Outlaw Band will begin playing on the outdoors stage at 11 a.m. and will continue to perform intermittently until 4 p.m. In case of rain, the outdoors stage also will be moved into Ward's building.

Armadillo races will begin at 11 a.m. inside the mall and will continue until 3:45 p.m. After a few match races, the public can lease armadillos to race for a small fee.

Armadillos will be provided by "Jalapeno" Sam Lewis of San Angelo, president of the World Armadillo Breeding and Racing Association.

Opening ceremonies for the day's events are scheduled for 11:30 a.m. At that time, former Dallas Cowboys stars Preston Pearson and Harvey Martin will be introduced, along with Alison Cook of Austin, the Texas Monthly food editor. All three will be judges in the cookoff.

The rest of the 11-member panel of judges will be introduced during opening ceremonies. They are: Jan Tomas of San Angelo, a feature writer for the San Angelo Standard Times; Jim Zack of Big Spring, a chicken-fried steak connoisseur; Johnny Rutherford, Big Spring city councilman; Art Climer of Balmorhea, also known as "Chicken Charlie" and the "Chicken-fried Steak King of I-10," and his wife, Connie.

Other judges are Gary James Tidwell of Big Spring, the producer of "The Eyes of Texas" syndicated television show; Tom Mackie, Highland Mall owner; and Gordon Brown of Fort Worth, a banker.

Emcee for the Chicken-fried Steak World Championship is Pat Porter of Gail. At 1 p.m., he will introduce the contestants, the judges will inspect the grills and meat and will pass out the meat. At 2 p.m. the cooking will begin.

At 2:30 p.m., Nabors and Phinney, a Big Spring musical group, will play at the outside stage area.

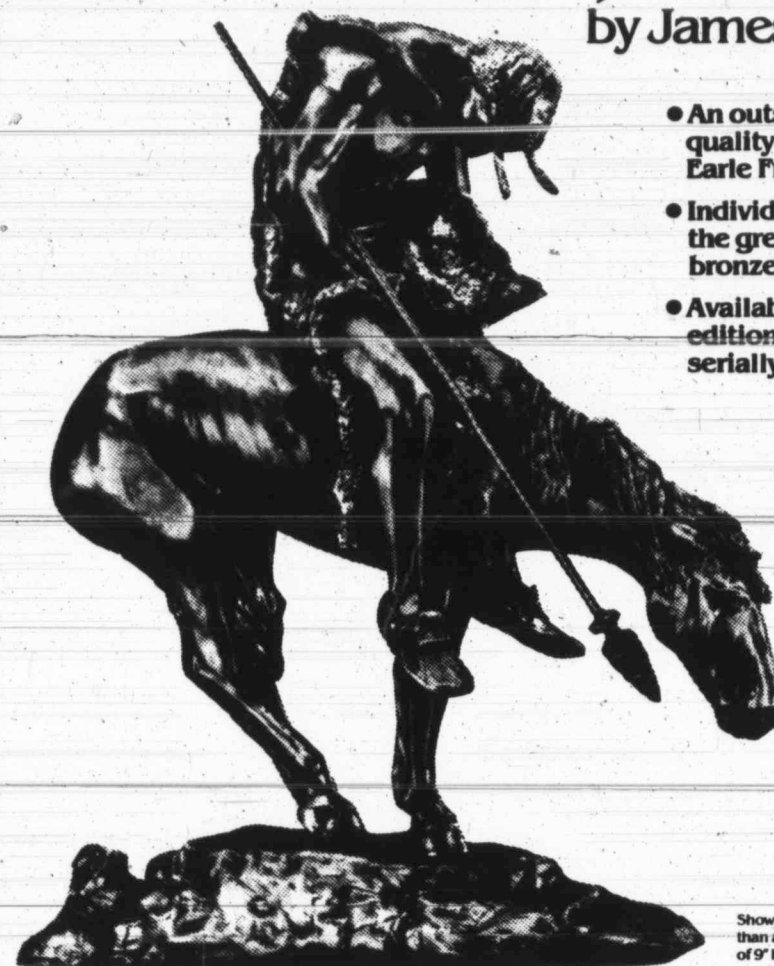

At 3 p.m., contestants will turn in their culinary efforts for judging. At 3:30 p.m., the public can taste bite-size samples of contestants' entries. Also, at that time Pearson and Martin will visit Dunlap's.

At 4 p.m., the awards ceremonies for the runners, the armadillo races and Chicken-fried Steak World Championship will begin. At 5 p.m., all the benefit activities will be finished.

"The End of the Trail" by James Earle Fraser

- An outstanding museum quality reproduction of James Earle Fraser's greatest work.
- Individually hand-finished in the great tradition of classic bronze sculpture.
- Available in a single limited edition issue of just 9500 serially numbered sculptures.

Shown smaller than actual size of 9" high.

One of the most beloved and acclaimed sculptures in American history, "The End of the Trail" is James Earle Fraser's world renowned tribute to the American Indian. The few existing bronze originals are virtually beyond valuation, but now this magnificent 1/2 size museum quality reproduction is available for the exceptional offering price of just $195.00 per sculpture.

This extraordinarily detailed and faithful reproduction has been created under the direct supervision of Ms. Christine Roussel — former Director of the Reproduction Studio of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Each "End of the Trail" sculpture will be meticulously crafted of cold-cast bronze — a remarkable medium that holds even finer and more intricate detail than traditional hot-cast bronze. Every sculpture will be individually cast from a special blend of powdered resins and bronze, then hand-finished with a classic patina, similar to the original. Each "End of the Trail" will be hallmarked and serially numbered. A Certificate of Authenticity will accompany each sculpture.

The edition will be strictly limited to just 9500 pieces worldwide and after that, all molds will be destroyed forever. To reserve this important Limited Edition Fraser reproduction, simply return the reservation application below. No payment need accompany your order at this time.

Dear Abby

Readers disapprove of many speech freedoms

DEAR ABBY: Re pet language peeves: Recently, I read that the editor of The Wall Street Journal sent his staff the following memo: "If just once more I see the word 'upcoming,'

"I will be downcoming on someone who will be outgoing." L.A. TIMES READER DEAR ABBY: As a faithful reader of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, I submit this item for your collection of language abuses: Back in the '40s, one of the all-time greats of baseball, Dizzy Dean, used "slud" for the past tense of "slid." "Old Diz" was publicly criticized by a group of school teachers for his poor grammar.

His response: "There are a lot of school teachers who ain't using 'ain't' — but they ain't eating."

CORNELIUS J. VENHEMANN, PATTON, MO.

DEAR ABBY: I was surprised that in your recent column on annoying speech habits, no mention was made about the incorrect use of the phrase "between you and I" instead of "between you and me." I have heard radio announcers, TV commentators and school teachers make that mistake.

Also, one would never say, "They did it for I," so why do they say "They did it for you and I?" The word to use is "me," not I.

Please print this for you and me, and all of your readers.

THE ME'S HAVE IT

DEAR ABBY: Will you please say a few words about a trendy phrase that came into vogue a few years ago: "I could care less." Many use it to mean "I couldn't care less." Actually, it means just the opposite.

The person who says, "I could care less" is actually saying, "I care more than I should."

CARING IN PADUCAH, KY.

DEAR ABBY: Are you running an advice column or giving English lessons? Please, get back to telling married women to keep their hands off other friends' husbands, and warning kids under 21 not to snuggle under a blanket while lying down on a sofa to watch TV.

BORED IN ELIZABETH, N.J.

DEAR ABBY: If you're still collecting common errors in grammar and English usage, how about people who say, "It's a true fact"? If something is a fact, it's true. If it's not true, it's not a fact. Has anyone ever heard of a fact that wasn't true?

Coit Walker presents program on abstracts

Coit W. Walker, district landman with Republic Mineral Corp., was guest speaker at the Desk and Derrick Club meeting Tuesday.

His topic was abstracts — abstracts of title, supplemental abstracts and supplemental abstracts. Various suggestions were given to those who loaned abstracts (surface owner) and also from the stand point of those borrowing abstracts (oil companies and attorneys).

Because of the value of abstracts (monetary), Walker recommended that the abstract loaner and borrower obtain and grant respectively, a receipt for abstracts in order to guarantee the proper return of borrowed abstracts. He also stressed how important it is to avoid and correct clouds (title problems) on a real estate title.

The historical value of abstracts was illustrated by Walker. He related two factual stories that appear in the Howard County Deed Records concerning an early (1903) mineral reservation by the heirs of Heneage Finch, the Earl of Aylesford and a love letter will by James J. Byrne who was killed by Indians in 1880.

Walker has been a landman 4 1/2 years. He and wife Linda have two children, Heather, 5, and Calab, 2.

The next meeting will be Nov. 12 at 6 p.m. at Alberto's Restaurant.

Dr. Donohue

Surgery cures high-decibel snores

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband snores, and it's not in the least bit funny. Our neighbors hear him. One neighbor happens to be a doctor and he very diplomatically suggested that surgery may be an answer for him. Sounds pretty radical to me, I guess what you medical people might refer to as a heroic measure. Is surgery being done and is it practical to consider it? — Mrs. B.H.L.

Desperate situations often call for desperate measures. There are many procedures to alleviate snoring. They are usually reserved for the kind that may be impairing health, the kind involving snoring periods that cause nighttime episodes of breath-loss — sleep apnea. If your husband's snoring is causing symptoms, such as daytime fatigue, then surgery might be his answer. The constant subconscious awakenings with sleep apnea can lead to daytime sluggishness.

One of the operations involves placement of a tube in the windpipe to assure adequate air intake. It's removed for the daytime hours. It's not as terrible as it sounds, and is common in severe apnea cases.

In another procedures, excess tissue at the back of the throat is removed to clear the way for air passage.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Agent gives program on heart disease

Extension Agent Naomi Hunt gave a program on heart disease to the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club at a meeting Oct. 3 at the home of Virginia Roberts of the Lomax community.

Roll call was answered with "My First Teacher."

Cardiovascular disease is another name for heart disease, Hunt said. Cardio means heart and vascular means blood vessels.

Hunt showed a film of how the heart pumps blood to all parts of the body.

She said atherosclerosis, often called hardening of the arteries, contributes directly to heart attack and stroke. Arteries are narrowed by cholesterol.

If any artery supplying blood to the heart is completely blocked, heart attack occurs, Hunt said. If an artery supplying blood to the brain is completely blocked, a stroke occurs.

Heart attack is the nation's number one killer, Hunt said. She also spoke on congestive heart failure, high blood pressure, angina pectoris, congenital heart and rheumatic heart.

The next meeting will be Oct. 17 in the home of Zula Rhodes.

Brownie Scout Troop 183 has first meeting

Brownie Girl Scout Troop 183 met for the first time this school year on Oct. 3 at the home of their leader, Sally Hewitt, 2503 Dow Drive.

Attending were Stephanie Arrick, Amy Billings, Joni Douglas, Jennifer Estes, Mistie Finch, Mindy Gressett, Erin Hewitt, Melinda Machado, Angela Miller, Amy Orona, Amanda Sciretta and Melissa Williams.

Arrick was elected secretary. Sciretta was elected treasurer, and Gressett was named reporter. They will serve for six weeks so that more girls can hold office during the year.

The girls and their leader discussed the Brownie program and set goals for the coming year.

They made large name tags which showed some of their favorite things as a way of getting better acquainted.

By Charlie Alcorn

The Big Spring Under-19 Select soccer team won its first game of the season last week as by downing the San Angelo Rowdies 7-1.

The team, whose mascot name is Blitz, is coached by Mark Bailos. Members include Jesus Zubiria Lague, Thane Russey, Jeff Needles, Jignish Bhakta and Sumatikumar Sand. Others include Bobby Hernandez, Mario Ramoz, Doug Jackson, Terry Murphy, David Williams, Kelly Kerby, Danny Ward and John Olson.

The Blitz will have their biggest game of the season Saturday at the soccer fields at the old airbase when they host the Abilene Cowboys at 3 p.m.

So if you want to see a good brand of soccer, go out and watch these two teams get after it.

Local golfer Patsy Sharpnack just keeps on winning.

Tuesday she teamed up with Kathy Campbell from Big Lake to win the First Flight Division of the Ladies' Low-Ball Championship at the Odessa Country Club. The duo's winning score was 60.

Now for some fishing news from Lake E.V. Spence.

Fishing patterns changed somewhat at Lake E.V. Spence with arrival of cooler weather. There was an increasing number of crappie showing up in reports, along with blue and channel catfish. The big ones, however, continued to be striped bass, the largest for the week was a 19-pounder.

Big Spring cowboys Wacey Cathey lost some ground to leader Tuff Hedeman in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association's Bull Riding rankings this past week.

Hedeman pocketed $5,000 after winning the Wrangler Round of the second Winston Tour Rodeo in Lexington, Ky. Thanks to the Winston Tour win, Hedeman now outdistances second place Cathey by $14,000.

Hedeman now has $63, 802 in earnings while Cathey has $49, 702.

Here's hoping the local rider can make up the ground in quest of his first world title.

'Jays take two game lead

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays, with surgical precision, have carved up Kansas City in the first two games of the American League playoffs.

The job has been so skillful and exact that the Royals can't even see the blood.

The Blue Jays' 6-5 victory in 10 innings Wednesday had the same characteristics as their 6-1 triumph Tuesday night.

Toronto hit no home runs in either game, but the Blue Jays got solid pitching and air-tight defense while taking advantage of every Kansas City mistake — and there were plenty.

Today was a travel day and both teams scheduled workouts in Royals Stadium in advance of Friday's third game of the best-of-seven series.

The Royals will throw the 21-year-old Saberhagen, 20-6 during the regular season, against Toronto veteran Doyle Alexander, 17-10.

But no matter how well the Royals do back in front of their own fans, they'll have to come back to the shores of Lake Ontario if they hope to keep the Blue Jays from becoming the first Canadian team to appear in the World Series.

Momentum didn't seem to mean a thing to the Blue Jays on Wednesday. They fell behind twice and had to overcome what could have been a crippling call by the umpires — but still they won.

With the score tied 4-4, Willie Wilson opened the Royals 10th with a single to center, stole second and scored on Frank White's controversial two-out single to center.

Toronto center fielder Lloyd Moseby attempted a shoestring catch of White's sinking liner and came up showing the ball in the web of his long glove. But umpire Dave Phillips, who was patrolling the right-field line, ruled that Moseby had trapped the ball.

"I saw the ball hit the turf," Phillips said.

Toronto's TONY FERNANDEZ slides safely into home past Kansas City's JIM SUND- BERG in the 10th inning of Wednesday's game in Toronto.

"He made a nice play and I think he thought he caught the ball."

Moseby, of course, said he was sure he had caught the ball before it hit the artificial surface.

"We didn't lose, so it was an even-even," said Moseby, who figured prominently in the Blue Jays' winning rally in the bottom of the 10th.

Tony Fernandez started the rally with a single. His grounder was fielded cleanly by Royals shortstop Onix Concepcion, who double-pumped and threw late to first. Fernandez moved to second on Damaso Garcia's grounder and scored on Moseby's single to right to even the score at 5-5.

Moseby advanced to second when first baseman Steve Balboni was charged with an error on a pickoff attempt by reliever Dan Quisenberry, then scored the winning run on Oliver's single to left.

The Royals grabbed a 2-0 lead in the third when Wilson hit a two-run homer off Toronto starter Jimmy Key. Kansas City went up 3-0 when Darryl Motley walked in the fourth and scored on a double by Jim Sundberg.

The Blue Jays got one back in their half of the fourth when George Bell reached on an error by Brett and scored on a double by Cliff Johnson.

The Blue Jays had two outs in the sixth when Bell was hit by a pitch from left-hander Bud Black.

"That was the second time he hit me and that was enough," Bell said. "I don't think that's fair. That's why I pointed at him."

Black claimed not to be shaken by the incident, but he gave up a single to Johnson that sent Bell to second, then uncorked a wild pitch to move up Bell and pinch-runner Lou Thornton. A single by Jesse Barfield drove in both runs to tie the game.

The Blue Jays took a 4-3 lead in the eighth when Moseby singled, stole second, continued to third on Sundberg's throwing error, and scored on a sacrifice fly by Bell.

Pat Sheridan led off the Royals ninth with a pinch homer off reliever Tom Henke to tie it 4-4 and force the extra inning.

Henke stayed around to get the victory while Quisenberry took the defeat.

"It was pretty quiet in the dressing room," Quisenberry said. "There were a few four-letter words but nobody tackled a clothes bag."

"I think we've got to hang with them. I think if we can win the first game back in Kansas City, we might be able to get back in this thing."

Fernando handcuffs Cardinals in opener

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fernando Valenzuela made Tommy Lasorda look like a baseball genius — again.

Asked why he'd chosen the recently struggling left-hander to open the National League playoffs for Los Angeles against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Dodger skipper smiled and replied: "Fernando has helped make me Manager of the Year three times."

Valenzuela, who hadn't won a game in almost a month, shut out the Cardinals for 6 1/3 innings Wednesday night as the Dodgers took a 4-1 victory in the first game of the best-of-seven series.

In tonight's 8:35 p.m. EDT second game, Los Angeles' Orel Hersher, 19-3 and winner of 11 straight, faces the Cardinals' Joaquin Andujar, 21-12, at Dodger Stadium.

In the opener, the Dodgers beat the Cardinals at their own game, scratching out runs with timely hits and alert baserunning — including a two-out bunt for a run in a three-run sixth inning that gave the Dodgers a four-run lead.

Valenzuela, who allowed seven hits, two walks and struck out six before yielding to reliever Tom Niedenfuer in the seventh inning, said he didn't approach the playoff game any differently than he does others, commenting: "Every time I go out there I want to pitch the best I can."

Los Angeles third baseman Bill Madlock, not known as a threat on the bases, scored the Dodgers' first two runs off loser John Tudor, who had won 20 of his last 21 decisions en route to a 21-8 mark during the regular season.

Madlock reached first in the fourth inning on an error by St. Louis third baseman Terry Pendleton, stole second, then raced home on Pedro Guerrero's bloop single to right field.

In the sixth, Madlock started things off with a one-out double off the left wrist of the Cardinals' fielding whiz at shortstop, Ozzie Smith. After Guerrero was walked intentionally, Mike Marshall fled out. But Mike Scioscia laced a single to center to score Madlock as Guerrero alertly took third.

Then Lasorda noticed that Pendleton was playing deep at third and yelled "Toque" — Spanish for bunt — at Candy Maldonado as the Puerto Rico native stepped up to hit. And Los Angeles first base coach Manny Mota, from the Dominican Republic, made sure that Guerrero, also from the Dominican Republic, was aware of the strategy.

Maldonado then laid down a perfect bunt that hugged the third-base line as Guerrero broke for home. Pendleton, nearly step-for-step with Guerrero, fielded the ball with his bare right hand, but his throw to the plate struck a surprised Tudor in the back and fell harmlessly to the infield grass as Guerrero scored the Dodgers' third run.

Steve Sax, the next batter, hit Tudor's first pitch up the alley in left-center for a double to give the Dodgers a 4-0 lead.

That hit chased Tudor, who allowed seven hits and was charged with all the Dodgers' runs. The Cardinals' only run came in the seventh on a run-producing single by pinch-hitter Tito Landrum.

Lasorda has Hersher ready to go for that second victory against Andujar, a 20-game winner the last two seasons.

"You all go with (Dwight) Gooden," Andujar told reporters, "but I like Hersher. He is smart, has a better slider."

"Maybe I'll take Joaquin to my (contract) negotiations," joked Hersher. "He may have an off-season job. I like Dwight Gooden better than me."

C-City, Coahoma resume rivalry

One great step toward consistency for the Bulldogs would be the elimination of the big play. "We've been playing respectable defense the whole year," explained Mitchell. "But it seems like every time we get a team in the hole, they break a big play on us. That's what has killed us the last two ball games." (Reagan County and Abilene Wylie)

Colorado City has been hurt less by fumbles (none in the past two games) and more by the inexperience that comes with having ten new faces starting on offense and defense.

"We been pleased with the defense so far," commented Ramsey. "We've only given up over 20 points in one game. And we've been moving the ball on offense, but our inexperience has hurt us in some crucial situations."

The Wolves offense has been relying on All-District running back Sammy Rivera solely for its ground production. The senior slasher has over 700 yards through five games. "Our running game is in pretty good shape with Sammy back there," commented Ramsey. "We like to throw the ball and Sammy opens up the passing game for us."

Wolf quarterback Mike Ligon, who directs C-City's innovative run-and-shoot offense, has been hot and cold in his first starting campaign. "Mike is getting more confident with every game. He's putting the ball where he has to," said Ramsey. "We've had some dropped passes in the past couple of

Steers brace for Cooper Cougars

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

The Big Spring Steers and Abilene Cooper Cougars have had similar problems this season trying to win games. One major point

The Cougars were handled by Midland Lee, 39-7; while Big Spring was floored by Permian, 49-15. Like the Steers, coach Mike Garrison's Cougars have been plagued by turnovers and a porous defense.

Big Spring coach Quinn Eudy can certainly relate to Garrison's defensive dilemma.

Turnovers have been one of the major setbacks for the Steers this season. Last week's five turnovers gave Big Spring 22 for the season. The only district team with more turnovers is Cooper with 26. Permian also racked up over 500 yards total offense against the Steers.

"Last week we put the defense in bad shape with fumbles in our kicking game," said Eudy. "Three-fourths of the fumbles gave Permian great field position."

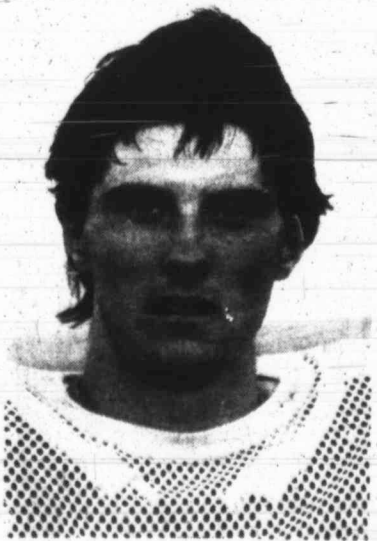

Garrison is looking for a good offensive output from his team this week which will be easier with a healthy starting lineup. "We've been having injury problems all season. In our district opener against Odessa High, we had seven starters out."

Garrison recently got All-District fullback Jay Tollison, who suffered an injured achilles tendon, back in the lineup. Tollison was the district's leading fourth-leading rusher last season.

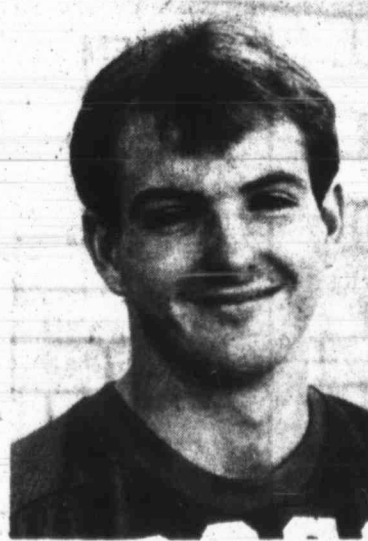

Even with Tollison in the lineup, Garrison feels his offense is not playing up to their potential. "We still haven't been consistent. We're trying to throw the ball to open it up for Jay, but we've been completing as many to our opponents as we have to ourselves."

Cooper quarterback Bill Dehlinger has passed for 432 yards, but he's been intercepted 13 times. His leading receiver is tailback David Nowlin with 12 catches for 187 yards.

back seat to bragging rights as 7-3A's hottest rivalry moves down I-20 for the annual battle at Wolf Stadium.

Both teams are coming into the game licking wounds. Colorado City has lost three tough ball games after starting off 2-0. Coahoma has also lost twice in the past two weeks. But the season starts anew, with this, the first game of the 7-3A district season.

Colorado City head coach Tom good enough to win all of them, but we've made the kind mistakes an inexperienced team sometimes makes."

Coahoma head coach Bruce Mitchell's Bulldogs have also been plagued by mistakes in the early going. "We've been moving the ball on offense but turnovers have been a problem. Those kind of things start working on you mentally. We need to work on our consistency on both sides of the ball."

RANDY HAYWORTH
...switches to tight end

is that Big Spring has won a game and the Cougars are still looking for their first win.

The Cougars will be trying to change their luck and the Steers will be trying to experience that "winning feeling" again when the two battle Friday at 8 p.m. in Memorial Stadium.

It will be the third district game for both teams. The Steers and the Cougars are coming off losses to two of the top teams in the state.

DEEG YOUNG
...mans def. end spot

The Coogs are rated last in the district in defense, allowing 345 yards per game. Last week the speedy Rebels racked up 468 yards in their win.

"Our defense is not really that bad," said Garrison. "We just put it in a hole with so many turnovers. I'll admit we have some problems on defense, but the turnovers are eating us up. Then the defense stays on the field so long, they eventually give up the big play."

Steers

Meanwhile the Steers offense continues to move the ball well. Last week the team amassed over 300 yards, the most the Permian defense has given up all season.

"We just have to quit stopping ourselves, because we will move the ball," Eudy matter-of-factly stated.

The Steers may be without starting tight end and defensive end David Shortes who is nursing a leg injury. He's waiting for a doctor's release. If he can't go, Deeg Young will take his place on defense and Randy Hayworth will occupy his offensive position.

The only other Steer nursing an injury is safety Sean Jackson, who has a bruised leg. He will see limited action though, according to Eudy.

Garrison sees the Steers as a much improved team. "Big Spring has a good football team. Quinn always does a good job with them.

This year they have more offensive firepower than in recent years and they've always played pretty tough defense against us. We must stop their passing game and handle our duties on the option."

Eudy has mutual respect for Cooper. "They are better than a 0-5 football team. They played one of the toughest non-district schedules in our district (Brownwood, Wichita Falls and Temple). We are not expecting an easy game."

Rivalry

games that could have changed things for us, but again you have to expect that with inexperienced receivers."

Coahoma will counter with Brian Calaway, a 190-pound quarterback who has added a deft passing touch to his considerable running skills.

"Brian has been doing a good job for us this year. If we can get our running game going, he'll be even more effective passing the ball," explained Mitchell.

Ramsey sees stopping Calaway as the key for the Wolf defense. "He's their main gun and we have to stop him. Last year he had about 100 yards rushing against us and he's throwing the ball better this year, so we know what he can do."

Coahoma will have to get steady play from their defensive ends if they hope to contain the speedy Rivera. "He's got such great balance and quickness that if you give him any kind of opening on that quick pitch he's a threat to go all the way," noted Mitchell. "He's a great back and we've got to stop him."

Despite the intensity of the rivalry and the game's importance in the 7-3A race, emotions have never spilled beyond the playing field. These two long time combatants have a mutual respect for each other that makes for a special occasion every year.

"All you have to do is mention Colorado City and the intensity picks up around here," remarked

Mitchell. "It's a grudge match but it's always a clean, hard hitting game."

The Coahoma game always has been special for Ramsey as well. "We always sit on a couple of favorite plays until the Coahoma game and I'm sure they've got some tricks for us too. Our boys have a lot of respect for Coahoma. It's the kind of rivalry that makes for 48 minutes of warfare and I think everybody enjoys it."

WBC takes title from Spinks

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Michael Spinks has a week to appeal or accept the World Boxing Council's decision to strip the new heavyweight champion of one of his three light heavyweight titles.

The WBC stripped Spinks of championship recognition Wednesday, saying he had violated a rule by holding titles in more than one division at the same time after he outpointed Larry Holmes to win the International Boxing Federation heavyweight title last month.

Spinks returned home to Delaware Wednesday to attend a rally in his honor and wasn't disturbed by the WBC's announcement.

"I don't need them anymore," Spinks said of his light heavyweight titles. "I needed the light heavyweight championships to feel the way I wanted to feel. I wanted to be there alone."

"I've got the one that counts," he added, referring to the IBF heavyweight title.

Butch Lewis, who promotes Spinks' fights, agreed it was no great loss.

"Everybody knows we didn't intend to defend the light heavyweight title," Lewis told The Associated Press in New York.

The money is in the light heavyweight division. Spinks earned $1 million for fighting Holmes and figures to earn much more in a rematch or a title defense against Gerry Cooney.

Holmes and Cooney both say they are retiring, but either might be willing to fight again for a six-figure purse.

Spinks earned $100,000 in his last title fight as a light heavyweight.

WBC President Jose Sulaiman said the council intends to determine who will fight for the vacated title, but no timetable has been set for when the decision is to be made.

Later this month, the World Boxing Association will decide at its convention how long to continue recognizing Spinks as light heavyweight champion. The IBF has indicated it will recognize Spinks as light heavyweight champion for 90 days.

Sulaiman said the WBC rules require a dual champion to relinquish one of his titles within seven days of obtaining another.

The president said no vote was required for Wednesday's action, but he took one at the council's convention here because he hoped to make legal action less likely.

Sulaiman said Spinks appealed to the WBC to delay its decision to strip the title because the champion hoped to earn another world title, the WBC cruiserweight crown now held by Bernard Benton.

"We cannot accept that," Sulaiman said.

We're 100% behind the Texas Longhorns in their big game against the Oklahoma Sooners.

Denison back captures AP spotlight

By The Associated Press
Denison tailback-defensive back Aaron Jackson will be a familiar figure in Friday night's Dist. 7-4A showdown against McKinney.

Jackson played a big part in last week's 27-7 victory over Paris.

Jackson was held to 44 yards on 16 carries going into fourth quarter but he finished with 201 yards rushing on 24 carries and touchdown runs of 32, seven, and 71 yards.

The feat earned Jackson a spot on The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

It was Jackson's third 200-yard rushing performance in a row and gave him 821 yards in five games.

In what Pottsboro coach Ronnie Ray called the best individual effort he's seen, linebacker Chris Ashburn had 16 tackles, blocked a punt and had two interceptions in a 15-13 victory over Boyd.

Ashburn returned one interception 87 yards for a touchdown and the other came on a two-point conversion try by Boyd that would have tied the game.

Conroe McCullough quarterback Arthur Baird tied for second on the state's all-time list with six touchdown passes in a 61-0 victory over New Caney, which has a 25-game losing streak and is scoreless this season.

In other outstanding performances:

--San Angelo running back C.L. Bowman scored five touchdowns in a 42-0 shut out of previously unbeaten Odessa. Bowman rushed 177 yards on 21 carries and had scoring runs of two, 32, six, 45 and four yards.

--Refugio linebacker Russell Joshlin had 15 unassisted tackles and three more assists, knocked down three passes and caught a 30-yard touchdown pass in an 8-6 victory over Falfurrias.

--Hempstead quarterback Michael McDade hit 12 of 16 passes for 331 yards and four touchdowns in a 33-12 victory over Waco.

--Corpus Christi Miller tailback

Dennis Clay rushed 19 times for 157 yards and a 26-yard touchdown run and caught four passes for 110 yards, including touchdown catches of 24 and 68 yards in a 40-7 rout of Corpus Christi Carroll.

--Hull-Daisetta's Hillory Broussard rushed 194 yards on 21 carries and scored on runs of 28 and 91 yards in a 20-20 tie with Orangfield. Broussard's 91-yard run knotted the game.

--San Antonio Marion quarterback Chuck Ford returned a kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown, ran eight yards for another score and completed a 29-yard touchdown pass in a 27-24 victory over Nixon Smiley.

--San Antonio Southwest quarterback Ty Detmer hit 13 of 20 passes for 269 yards and touchdowns of 26, 80 and 15 yards in a 29-16 victory over Carrizo Springs.

--Jefferson's Bobby Langbartels caught almost as many of the opponent's passes as he did for his own team. Langbartels caught four passes for 75 yards on offense and intercepted three passes on defense in a 27-21 victory over Pleasant Grove.

--Hughes Springs' Darrin Terry scored on a 77-yard pass reception, 83-yard kickoff return and three-yard run in a 23-14 victory over New Boston.

--Wellington tailback Johnny Nash had 307 yards of offense in a 40-8 victory over Hale Center.

MIDLAND — It will be lights, camera, action for the Midland Lee Rebels and Odessa Permian Panthers when they clash tonight in Midland's Memorial Stadium.

It will make District 4-5A high school football history because it will mark the first time that a 4-5A game will be televised live. Midland NBC affiliate KTPX (Channel 13 or 4) will broadcast the game because of the demand to view the contest.

All five Lee home games have been sold out the 10,200-seat stadium before the season started. Permian had to conduct a lottery (four tickets per person) to distribute 3,100 adult tickets for the 7:30 p.m. game.

The District 4-5A Executive Committee when approached about TV coverage of the shootout, declined to have a game televised on Friday, so it wouldn't affect other play around the league.

The coverage has drawn interest of the New York Times and Wall Street Journal.

However, neither team is a newcomer to TV as both Lee and Permian played in the first two state wide telecasts of Class 5A state championship games.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Expect some arguments in whatever your daily occupation happens to be. It is not helped by an unwise desire on your part to make some drastic or dramatic changes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Being patient in doing your work today is wise, whether it be in the outside world or at home, since there could be many delays.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You feel nervous and want to change your plans about recreations, but don't do so. Don't lose your temper.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make plans for the day and carry them through instead of running off at random here and there.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) If an outside partner acts strangely, do not get your feelings hurt since this person is under tension.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Control that temptation to spend lavishly and save the money for more practical purposes. Handle business wisely.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to come to the right decision about changes you want to make either at your home or at place of business.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to get out of limitations placed upon you, but be patient since this is not the right time to do it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Pals may disappoint you today, but realize that they may have problems also. Don't be overly anxious to gain your wishes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to be wise, but tactful, in business or public dealings today if you want to have good results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You feel you are in a rut, so plan now just how to get out of it very soon. Do not rely on a new contact or you will be disappointed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You think your hunches are good today and want to follow them, but they could lead you in wrong directions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not the right day to get your points across to a stubborn associate so postpone till a better time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be so anxious about how a project will work out and get bogged down with details that the motive and purpose of the matter can be almost forgotten. Teach to study the reasons behind any situation and not to enter into anything that is not really understood fully.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
