Texans Seek Cotton Price Stabilization

Russia Is Involved In Crisis

(By The Associated Press)

TIENTSIN, Aug. 2.—Soviet Russia became involved in the North China crisis today when the Soviet consulate-general here was raided yesterday and its interior wrecked.

The raid was carried out by white Russians, enemies of the Soviet regime, but Soviet authorities said Japanese inspired it.

Extension of the undeclared war between Japan and the Chinese to the region northwest of Peiping on the highway to Mongolia was indicated by Japanese reports that Chinese troops were massing at Kalgan and Chinese reports that Japanese planes had bombed Nankou pass.

CONCENTRATION ORDERED

NANKING, China, Aug. 2. (AP)—The U. S. Consul at Tsinanfu, capital of Shantung province, today advised that all American women and children in the interior of the province be concentrated at Tsinanfu or Tsingtao, on the seacoast.

The precarious situation in Shantung was given as the reason.

Authoritative foreign advices reaching Nanking indicated the central Chinese government was sending large forces northward along the Tientsin-Pukow railway, which runs through Shantung.

Ambassador Files Protest

In Nanking Dmitri Bogomoloff, Soviet ambassador to China, protested to the Japanese embassy against the Tientsin raid and asked that the Japanese army be instructed to "cease pillaging" the counsulate-general.

Spokesmen for the Japanese army here denied it had any connection with the raid and declared the ambassador's charges were "insulting."

"New Disturbing Note" Injected

Japanese officers here said "a new disturbing note has been injected" into the situation northwest of Peiping by the arrival at Kalgan of Chinese central government forces from Shansi province. They said this "may lead to serious developments in the area."

Chinese accounts of the Nankou bombing said 18 Japanese planes took part, after which a mixed Japanese force of infantry and cavalry attacked.

Planes Bomb Concentrations

Along the Peiping-Hankow line Japanese officers said their planes had bombed concentrations at Paotinfgu, 85 miles southwest of Peiping, several times during the

Woodul At Helm In Capital Now

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 2. — Lieut.-Gov. Walter F. Woodul of Houston guided Texas' ship of state today while Governor James V. Allred enjoyed a vacation in Mexico.

In high good spirits, Woodul, who has filled the job often enough in the past not to be self-conscious, socked his heels on Governor Allred's shining new desk, smoked a pipe and avered he wouldn't "throw Jimmy any curves."

To Appoint Colonels

He planned merely to "sit on the lid," perhaps appoint a few honorary colonels on his personal staff, make some speeches here and there and, in between, get out of the state for a day so that Senator Claude Isbell of Rockwall, president pro tempore of the senate, could have the honor of serving as chief executive.

Woodul will visit the Pleasant valley community near Ralston, Okla., some time in the next two weeks and see how students he once taught there have "come out."

In this manner he will satisfy a

Two Little Girls Are Rescued After Tumbling Five Stories Down Between Buildings

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. (AP) — Two little girls who tumbled five stories down a narrow crevice between two buildings were rescued late today by police squads which cut through a brick wall to reach one of them.

A crowd of several thousand cheered as an ambulance surgeon and a patrolman brought out Marilyn Murphy, 9, the second victim. They had crawled into the narrow space and worked for more than an hour to ease the pain of the child until she could be brought through the hole cut in the wall. Her companion, Lorraine Chinchar, 10, already had been removed by a rope lowered from the roof.

Marilyn was reported suffering from probable fractures of the back and both legs. Lorraine was reported as having a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Motley County Farmer Killed In Car-Truck Crash

Truck Smashes Into Rear Of Automobile

J. R. Trout, 45, Resident Of Cee Vee Community Near Matador Victim; Driver Being Held

(Special To The Avalanche)

MATADOR, Aug. 2.—J. R. Trout, 45, farmer, of the Cee Vee community northeast of Matador and a resident of this section many years, was killed instantly when the light sedan in which he and a brother, Buster Trout, were riding was struck from behind by a heavy truck four miles west of here on highway 28 about 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Buster Trout, about 35, also a resident of the Cee Vee section, escaped without injuries, except a minor nose injury, according to authorities here.

Truck Driver Detained

Likewise the truck driver, a 28-year old Kansas man, did not suffer injuries. Late tonight he was being held in Motley county jail, said Sheriff L. A. Carlisle who, with members of his department, investigated the wreck. Charges, the nature of which the sheriff declined to disclose, probably will be filed tomorrow and examining trial will be held soon after, the officer indicated.

PLAINVIEW MAN KILLED

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 2. (AP) — Vernon Wright, 52, WPA worker, died here today of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile. Police said Miss Laverne Funk of Duncan, Okla., was the driver of the automobile. Her father, M. F. Funk, and other members of the family, en route to Albuquerque, N. M., on vacation, remained here of their own volition. Chief of Police Ote Martine said that witnesses with whom he had talked said the accident was unavoidable.

J. R. Trout, who was driving, suffered a broken neck, a fractured left arm and four deep gashes on his head when thrown free of the car by the impact, said attaches of Sheats Funeral home, where the body was taken. A Matador physician said either one of two of the lacerations on the head would have killed Trout. He also suffered numerous other injuries. His body skidded on the pavement after being thrown clear of the automobile.

Both Traveling East

Both the truck and the automobile were traveling east toward Matador on the Matador-Floydada highway. Cause of the mishap last night had not been determined. Other than officers here, Weldon Lawson and W. E. Renfro, both of the Lubbock division office of the Texas

Soil Course At Tech Opened

Given by Texas Technological college in cooperation with the soil conservation service at Amarillo, a course in soil erosion and conservation was begun at the college Monday. Lasting 15 days, it is one of the few such courses offered by a college in the United States.

Twenty men have enrolled for the course. All work ordinarily given in agronomy 434 will be covered, and three semester hours credit will be given students who wish it, but the work has been concentrated to enable county agents, and soil erosion men to take the course.

Lecture Scheduled Tonight

Roy Hockinsmith, regional soil technologist of Region 6, and from Amarillo, will lecture tonight at 7:30 on physical land conservation surveys. Last night Cyrus Luker, regional soil conservationist also from Amarillo, talked on coordination of the activities of the soil conservation service. Nineteen men attended last night's meeting.

Dr. A. W. Young, associate professor of agronomy at Tech, has charge of classes each morning and enrolles do laboratory work in the field in the afternoon.

Purpose of the course, under general direction of Dr. Young, is to give students practical knowledge of the cause, effects, and control of soil erosion; to acquaint them with the work being done by the soil conservation service; and to

House May Get New Chance To Prohibit Mexican Divorces

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP) — House members may get another chance to pass on legislation recommended by Postmaster-General Farley to prohibit peddling of Mexican divorces through the mails.

A similar bill won house approval last year but died in the senate.

In a letter urging enactment of the measure at this session, Farley said it "would tend to put an end to these corrupt practices which are contrary to good morals and the general welfare of society."

Signs May Designate Fatalities

AUSTIN, Aug. 2. b—The location of fatal accidents on Texas highways might be marked by signs.

Jack Edwards of Dallas today offered to place a marker at each location without expense to the highway department. Officials deferred action without a commitment.

Edwards' proposal was for signs inscribed:

"A fatal accident occured here. Please drive carefully."

Gaines Area Is Placed Under Quarantine

(Special To The Avalanche)

SEMINOLE, Aug. 2. — A 60-day quarantine to forbid movement of livestock and dogs from the northern half of Gaines county, including Seminole and Seagraves, was placed in effect today in an effort to prevent further spread of hydrophobia.

The step, one of the most drastic in years, was taken after Dr. A. J. Lewis of the state livestock sanitation board had conferred with members of the county commissioners court.

Eight Head Destroyed

Members of the court were told that at least eight head of livestock have been destroyed and that five persons are taking anti-rabies treatment as result of an infected dog having run amuck about two weeks ago.

Ranchers are fearful that other cattle or horses also may have been bitten and that other dogs may have been infected. The quarantine requires that livestock and dogs not be moved from their home premises while the order remains in effect.

On Two Different Ranches

Of the cattle destroyed, six head were on the H. S. Birdwell ranch eight miles west of Seagraves and two on the E. H. Jones holdings in the northern part of the county. All were diagnosed as being sufferers from rabies.

Those taking treatment after having been bitten by infected dogs are Clyde Sartin, son of sheriff J. C. Sartin, and Lon Dolloff of Seagraves. Three other men who are taking serum because they were exposed while treating rabied livestock are B. B. Curry, B. H. Howard and Marion Powell, all of Seminole.

Eleven Persons Here Begin Taking Anti-Rabies Serum

Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, associate professor of animal husbandry and veterinarian at Texas Technological college, yesterday received a telegram from state laboratories at Austin reporting that a dog which died

Girls To Represent Lubbock In Events

Betty Bob Redwine, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Redwine of 1921 Main street will leave this morning for De Leon where she will represent Lubbock as a duchess at the tenth annual fair and Melon-Peach Festival Wednesday through Saturday.

Selection of Miss Redwine to represent Lubbock was announced yesterday by chamber of commerce officials after the chamber had been asked for a representative by J. D. Tate, secretary of the De Leon chamber.

The local chamber of commerce earlier yesterday had announced selection of Miss Jeane Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh H. Hines, 1506-B Avenue T, as the City's cowgirl sponsor at the Midland fair, Sept. 4, 5, and 6. Miss Hines moved to Lubbock with her parents from Midland about a year ago.

Invitation to appoint a Lubbock sponsor in the event was extended by Bill Collyns, manager of Midland Chamber of Commerce and director of the fair association.

Olney Business Man Dies Of Heart Attack In His Car

GRAND PRAIRIE, Aug. 2. (AP) — The body of Carl H. Gaw, about 40, Olney business man, was being held here tonight pending funeral arrangements.

Gaw died in an automobile near the city limits here en route to Olney after visiting a Dallas physician. He was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. W. R. Mahon. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

Board Takes No Action On Per Capita Figure

Attorney General's Advice Asked In Connection With Injunction Issued Against It At Santone

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 2.—The state board of education took no action today in the controversy over the scholastic apportionment for next year other than to ask the attorney general's department for advice in connection with an injunction issued against it.

The temporary injunction was granted in San Antonio by District Judge W. W. McCrory and forbade the board, pending a hearing on whether the order should be made permanent, to change the apportionment, recently set at $22, or $3 more than the amount for this year.

"Right Thing" Believed Done

In moving to ask the attorney general's department for advice on the law involved, John W. Laird of Lufkin, a member, said he believed the board had done "the right thing" in setting the $22 rate, but otherwise there was no discussion of the subject.

Shortly after the education board had set the apportionment, the state automatic tax board, of which Governor James V. Allred is a member, reduced the ad valorem tax levy for school purposes from 20 cents on the $100 valuation to seven cents. The governor voted for the reduction.

Would Allow $30

The comptroller's department had estimated that to sustain the $22 rate it would be necessary to continue the 20-cent levy and that the seven-cent rate probably would allow an apportionment of $20 in addition to providing for textbook purchases.

Several members of the board are known to favor reducing the apportionment, in view of the tax

Mackenzie Tops With Visitors

Attracting a total of nearly 130,000 visitors in 61 days, Mackenzie State park of Lubbock led all other state parks in Texas in attendance during a survey period beginning May 16 and ending July 17, the Texas State Parks board announced.

The park led in attendance for the second consecutive year, ranking far ahead of any other park in attendance both years.

Average 2,119 Daily

Average number of daily visitors was 2,119 as compared with an average of 500 for Bastrop State park, which ranked second.

Attendance during the survey period was checked by about 12 men, said Barney Brady, park engineer. Automblies entering and the number of occupants were checked from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Most of the visitors came from Lubbock and surrounding counties although some visitors were from a long distance. The City park section of the state park attracted the most visitors, said Brady. Although the county park section is open, there is no lawn to attract picnickers.

Other parks out of the 15 in which the recreation and use study is being made were listed according

Senate Opposition To FDR's Recess Court Appointment Brews Among Bill's Foes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. — A White House announcement that President Roosevelt has been advised he can fill the present Supreme court vacancy after congress adjourns stirred up a hornet's nest today among foes of his defeated court reorganization bill.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) proposed that the senate go on record against an after-adjournment appointment. He suggested it

THIRTEEN HAVE BEEN MADE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—Since the founding of the Republic 13 men have been appointed to the Supreme court while the senate, which passes upon appointments to the tribunal, was not in session.

Three of the recess appointees of the past took their seats in advance of confirmation. The senate refused to confirm one of them—Chief Justice Rutledge of South Carolina, appointed in 1795.

adopt a resolution declaring the president should nominate supreme court justices when it is possible for the senate to pass upon them before the nominees serve any time on the high bench.

White House officials announced that Attorney General Cummings, in an informal opinion, has ruled that the chief executive can fill the vacancy, created by the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter on June 2, either now or after congress adjourns.

Although Stephen T. Early, a presidential secretary, said Mr. Roosevelt has not decided when he will name Van Devanter's successor, some senators assumed the president intends to fill the vacancy by a recess appointment.

Senator Burke (D-Neb), one of the leading opponents of the president's proposal to reorganize the Supreme court, said if a recess appointment is made and the nominee takes his place on the court before

Barker Is Appointed Assistant Attorney

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP) — Attorney General Cummings announced today acceptance of the resignation of William J. Barker as federal attorney at Santa Fe, N. M., and his appointment as a special assistant to the attorney general.

Earlier President Roosevelt had nominated Everett M. Grantham to succeed Barker.

Cummings said Barker was terminating his work as district attorney in order to devote more time to private business but that he had agreed to remain temporarily on the government payroll as a special assistant to the attorney general in order to complete several cases pending in his judicial district.

Housing Bill In Senate Debate

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The senate heard a demand today that the Wagner housing bill be revamped to benefit only the nation's lowest income groups—"the poorest paid washwoman."

Senator Walsh (D-Mass) said he feared "an awful scandal" under the bill as written. He hinted it might provide housing for persons in fairly comfortable circumstances, to the exclusion of the poverty-stricken.

To Be As Low As Possible

He said he would offer an amendment to make the rental costs as low as possible. Senator Wagner (D-NY), sponsor of the bill, replied he hoped the rent could be as little as $3 per room.

Walsh proposed that persons whose total income is more than three times the rent be refused the right to live in the houses which will be constructed with government aid. The limitation in the bill at present is five times the rent.

No Major Opposition Seen

Except for this flare-up and some other criticisms directed against specific sections of the bill, no major opposition appeared during today's debate.

Senator Byrd (D-Va) urged that a limit be placed on the cost of housing units. He demanded that the senate "prevent duplication of the extravagance" of the resettlement administration.

The RA, he said, spent from $16,000 to $20,000 a family unit for dwellings intended for "low-income" groups. Senator Wagner estimated the cost of federally-subsidized units

Pruning Out Of Unsound Banks Suggested By FDIC Chairman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—Unprofitable institutions might well be pruned out of the banking system, Chairman Leo T. Crowley of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation suggested today.

Crowley said at a press conference that "if the number of banks could be reduced by 300 to 400 a year for the next five to seven years, those that were left could make money."

"We would have a sound banking system that could withstand future depressions," he added.

Four Are Killed Near Littlefield

(Special To The Avalanche)

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 2.—Inspector A. W. Meadows of the United States aviation division of the department of commerce is expected to arrive Tuesday to investigate the airplane crash Sunday two miles northwest of here which took the lives of four persons.

Dead were: O. V. Simms, 41, Slaton Santa Fe railroad brakeman; R. A. Baxter, 18, CCC camp worker of Wellington; Verne Hankins, 32, farmer of Littlefield; and Orville Tabor, 27, farmer of Littlefield.

Funerals Likely Tuesday

Bodies of the four men today were removed from Littlefield preparatory to conducting funeral rites which probably will be held tomorrow.

Body of Simms, owner and pilot of the plane and a resident of Slaton 17 years, will be buried at Crosbyton after funeral services at the First Methodist church of Slaton at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with Dr. W. M. Pearce of Lubbock, presiding elder, officiating, said Foster Funeral home of Slaton who will conduct burial rites. He had been associated with the railroad 20 years.

He was survived by his wife and two children, Otis, jr., 16 and Elizabeth, 7, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Simms of Corsicana.

Body Taken To Quanah

Body of Hankins, who was survived by his wife and four children, was taken today to Quanah. Tabor, also, will be buried at Quanah. Names of survivors were not known here. Baxter, who had been in a CCC came here only 13 days, was survived by his father, George W. Baxter. His body was removed to Blossom, said Hammons Funeral home.

It Rained So Hard In Missouri Section That River Ran Wrong Way; Creek Like Tidal Wave

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 2. (AP) — It rained so hard that a river ran backwards.

The fall yetserday was so heavy and the water of Big Creek hit the Chariton river like a tidal wave. The river flowed up stream for one and a half miles to the city water supply reservoir where it spilled backward over the dam. Highways were blocked for a few minutes and some county bridges were washed out.

Skies cleared today after a 30-hour rain period which brought a fall of three and one half inches.

Committee To Ask 15 Cents As Minimum

Meeting In Dallas Monday Ends In Plan To Send Delegation To Washington Next Week

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 2.—Leading cotton growers of Texas today formed a committee to call upon the president and congress in Washington early next week and request cotton price stabilization at a minimum of 15 cents per pound.

Called here for the conference by J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, the 125 representative farmers, with a sprinkling of bankers and business men, sought ways and means of promoting the welfare of the Texas cotton industry.

Point To Recent Price

Estimating this year's crop to be in the neighborhood of 15,000,000 bales, the speakers pointed to a present price of less than 11 cents per pound.

Ralph W. Moore of Granger, president of the Texas State Grange, said that if the committee fails to spur congress to pass a law enabling the stabilization loans, the farm leaders plan to make a march on Washington in the near future.

Others To Be Asked

In that event, he declared, five representative cotton growers, bankers and other businessmen directly interested in the industry would be asked to join the "marching" group from each of the 208 cotton growing counties in the state.

The delegates expressed the hope such a march would not be necessary.

McDonald said he would call on the commissioners of agriculture in the other thirteen important cotton-raising states to join the Texas group in its efforts at Washington. The meeting there will be subject to his call.

Would Receive 12 Cents First

Under the terms of the resolution, the cotton farmer would receive 12 cents per pound for his product immediately upon his delivery of it to a bonded warehouse and the remaining 3 cents per pound when he complied with the 1938 farm plan which is yet to be drafted.

It declared such measure would retain prosperity and lessen the burden of relief.

Appointed to form and lead the committee, which is expected to number over 200, on the Washington trip next week were the following:

Moore, O. H. Cross, Waco; George Moffitt, Chillicothe; Julius Seeligmann, San Antonio; Lawrence Chapman, Florence; B. B. Black and Hayden Perry, Robstown; B. C. Marshall, Heidenheimer; J. H. McCrary, Calvert, and Will Weatherford, Ennis.

Idaho Nears End Of First Year Of 26-Month Term

(By The Associated Press)

BROCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 2. —A year ago this week Idaho, a playful puppy, drew the attention of dog lovers everywhere when he went on trial here for his life.

Today—still playful, but a full-grown dog—Idaho neared the end of the first year of the 26-month term of imprisonment meted out by a justice of the peace.

Charged with causing the death of Max Breese, 14, Brockport High school sopohomore who drowned in the New York state barge canal July 4, 1936, Idaho was placed on trial Aug. 5 in the village hall at Brockport.

The carefree puppy slept beneath the lawyers' bench while husky Deuty Orin Little held fast to his leash as lawyers argued his case.

NEWEST IN SHOES

"WINGD" is the word chosen by a famous shoe company as a description of fall shoe patterns. It is pointed out at one time "streamlined" was the word but with its mechanical association it does not belong in fashion. Take rather the "same swift but more beautiful movement of the bird in flight, posed at rest, rising and soaring in great circles and curves and you have the swift movement that befits modern fashions."

CO-EDS AND BEAUTY

IT'S time to think of college days again and with that in mind we're submitting a beauty article from the versatile pen of Alicia Hart, NEA service writer. She pleads for beauty's sake—be a regular girl.

EXERCISE, fresh air, sunshine, a sensible diet and sufficient sleep are the best beauty preparations for the college girl. Good health is the foundation of truly radiant beauty, and it's a mistake indeed for the coed to try to subsist on chocolate sodas and fad diets, or to fall into irregular sleeping habits.

It's great fun to sit up in the dormitory and talk for hours and hours after study periods are finished, of course—and conversation is wonderful—but one who makes a habit of sleeping all too few hours a night will find that her beauty, not to mention her alertness, will suffer.

EVEN though you are not the active sportswoman type, do go in for at least one active sport while you are in college. If routine exercises in the gymnasium bore you no end, take up golf, tennis, swimming, badminton or fencing and get your exercise that way.

Brisk walks in the sunshine will keep your figure as trim and supple as it is now. No college girl wants to be bothered with a flock of intricate beauty routines, but walking isn't a bother, and it is more sensible to pay a mite of attention to your figure now while you are young and lovely than to wait until there are noticeable defects which require strenuous treatment.

CHILD LETTER-WRITING

HERE'S a tip for parents who find their children have time on their hands during vacation. Let the children write to their friends without guidance, says Dr. H. Wayne Driggs, New York university professor, after a study of 2,000 letters by children. Writing letters gives children opportunity to use a rich vocabulary they never use in the classroom he finds.

Boys have a better command of words than girls, Dr. Driggs has discovered, because they have wider activities. So he advises parents to subject children to a variety of experiences in order to improve their vocabulary. He has discovered that in letters, girls talk more about school, take more interest in dress and looks, write longer letters. Boys write mainly about sports.

IN the average, school remains the most prominent topic. Other popular subjects are camps and vacations, family and friends, hobbies, amusements, animals and pets.

The most amusing letters we heard about this summer were from children in camps and one junior high lad who went on an anthropological expedition with a group of college students. He wrote his mother in detail of the things they were excavating and then apologized by adding that after all this was his first anthropological expedition. One little boy at camp wrote his parents to send him some "funnies" because the boy next door wouldn't share his and another little fellow wanted three or two dollars for spending money and "quick." We wonder why someone doesn't collect children's letters for a book.

The success of the book written by the Abbey children is proof that the public likes what youngsters write.

The Rev. Robert E. Lucey, bishop of the Amarillo diocese, was guest speaker at a regular business and social meeting of St. Mary's Catholic auxiliary Monday afternoon in the new parish hall, west of St. Elizabeth's church.

The auxiliary planned to have open house, dedicating the hall, from 7 until 9 p. m. Sunday, August 15, at the hall. All members of St. Elizabeth's congregation and anyone else interested will be invited to attend, the group decided.

At the next meeting, September 6, officers will be elected and installed.

During the social hour, the retiring officers, Mesdames C. W. Ratliff, J. L. Ryan, A. L. Borho and P. G. Blazi, were hostesses. Ice cream and cake were served.

Twenty-nine persons attended.

Miss Etawanda Riddle To Be Wed To William R. Gaddis

Miss Etawanda Riddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Riddle of Abilene, formerly of Lubbock, will be married August 21 to William Rees Gaddis, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Gaddis of Alamogorda, N. M.

A tea announcing the engagement and wedding date was given Friday night at the J. M. Cook home with Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Riddle as hostesses.

The marriage will take place at the First Baptist church of which the bride-elect's father is educational director, a position he formerly held at the Lubbock First Baptist church. Miss Louise McCrummen, of this city will be maid of honor and Miss Leta Rue Riddle, sister of the bride-elect, will be bridesmaid. Bob Miller of El Paso, nephew of the bridegroom-elect will be best man.

Miss Riddle, a graduate of Lubbock High school is majoring in music at Hardin-Simmons university. Mr. Gaddis is a pre-medical student at the Abilene university.

O'Hair Wedding Is Social Feature

AUSTIN, August 2. (Special) — Highlight of midsummer society in Austin last week was the marriage of Miss Yvonne Thornton of this city and William Robinson O'Hair, native of Lubbock. The vows were exchanged Wednesday night in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Nash, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Serving as ushers were B. W. Crain of Longview, Ben Smith of Sulphur Springs, Morris McKay of La Porte and Robert Strickland of Dallas, a former Lubbock resident.

The bride was attended by Miss Catherine Nash and Miss Mary Nash, her cousins, and Miss Ellen Steck and Miss Margaret Beverly as bridesmaids Miss Beverly Ann Nash was junior bridesmaid.

Mrs. Harold Joseph attended her sister as maid of honor.

Bride Wears White

The bride wore white chiffon with a lace veil worn by Mrs. Joseph at her wedding several weeks ago. She carried a cluster bouquet of Easter lilies tied with white satin.

Father J. M. Riach performed the wedding ceremony. Serving Mr. O'Hair as best man was Mack Woodward of Coleman.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Nash garden. Immediately afterward the couple left for a wedding trip to Yellowstone National park and Canada. For her traveling costume the bride wore a black crepe dress trimmed with a Roman striped sash. Her accessories were black.

To Live In Coleman

After returning from their honeymoon, the couple will be at home in Coleman, where Mr. O'Hair is practicing law. He is the only son of Mrs. Hattie O'Hair of Coleman and Lubbock and was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from Texas Technological college before entering the University of Texas, where he was graduated this summer. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Mrs. O'Hair is a graduate of St. Mary's Academy and a former student at the university where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Mrs. L. S. Mast, aunt of the bridegroom, of 1620 Avenue Q attended the ceremony and several of the courtesies which were extended the popular couple before their marriage. These included a buffet luncheon given at the Austin Country club by former governor Dan Moody and Mrs. Moody.

Mrs. T. J. Sutherland Will Be Bridge Club Hostess

The Tuesday Bridge club will be entertained at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Hilton hotel by Mrs. T. J. Sutherland. Lunch will be served to the guests at 1 p. m. in the coffee shop.

The club has planned a special courtesy for Mrs. Harry Hunter, member, who is leaving soon for San Antonio.

Mrs. Walter Ford will be a luncheon guest.

Those to play bridge are Mesdames J. D. Shaw, Olen Stewart, Carl Slaton, Olan Key, J. Ray Dickey, Hunter and Louis Winn.

Calvary Circle Meets With Mrs. J. H. York Monday

Circle 2 of the Calvary Baptist Women's Missionary society met with Mrs. J. H. York, 1910 Seventeenth street, Monday afternoon to hear Mrs. W. W. Ray discuss the ninth and tenth chapter of Revelation. The group will meet in two weeks with Mrs. J. H. Comer, 1614 Avenue Q.

Study Book Is Finished At First Methodist Meeting

Mrs. H. C. Maxwell taught the final lesson from a mission study book, "Radiant Hearts," at a meeting of the First Methodist Women's Missionary society Monday afternoon at the church. Mrs. Ethridge W. Eagan played the piano and Mrs. Eli Perkins sang a vocal solo.

Mrs. L. A. McCollister of Mangum, Okla., was a guest.

World's Cotton Consumption Increases And Carryover Lower, Authority Says

Crop Total For Year Is Higher

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—Secretary Henry Pisuche of the New Orleans exchange today placed the commercial crop for the year ending July 31, at 14,371,000 bales, comparing with 13,321,000 last year.

World's consumption of American cotton totaled 14,326,000 bales, including 1,073,000 linters, comparing with 13,359,000 last year, including 954,000 linters.

Southern Consumption Up

Consumption in the South was 6,967,000 bales including linters, the report said, against 5,587,000 bales last year.

The total carryover of American cotton, Pisuche placed at 6,108,000 bales, including 368,000 linters, comparing with 6,995,000 bales last year, including 263,000 linters.

In the United States, the report said, the carryovers was 4,336,000 bales, including 368,000 linters, compared with 5,276,000 bales last year, including 263,000 linters.

Government Holds Less

Of the carryover of 3,968,000 bales of lint cotton in the United States at the close of July this year, Secretary Pisuche said that 1,665,000 bales are held by governmental agencies against 3,216,000 bales last year.

The exports this year, including shipments to Canada, amounted to 5,771,000 bales, against 6,257,000 bales last year and 5,038,000 two years ago.

Texas CIO Unit Is Organized

(By The Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, Aug. 2.—A Texas federation of the Committee on Industrial organization, described by leaders as having a potential membership of 30,000, took its place today in labor affairs.

John B. Patella of Houston, clothing workers organizer, was elected president, and Dallas was chosen for the next convention, to be held in April, 1938.

Resolutions Adopted

At an organization meeting in Beaumont yesterday, delegates adopted several resolutions.

One protested the cut in the Texas WPA rolls, and pledged confidence in National Labor Relations board officials, recently under fire in Washington. Letters were directed to WPA officials and Texas congressmen protesting the reduction in WPA employes.

Another resolution protested "discrimination against foreign born workers," with particular reference to the Mexican people of San Antonio and South Texas.

The immediate objective of the federation was the organization of state oil industry, and to add strength to this step oil workers were given more places on the executive council of sixteen.

Man Is Accidentally Shot By His Friend On Target Range

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Aug. 2. (AP)—Accidentally shot by his best friend on a desert target range, Walter A. Wright was dead today, leaving his widow and three children.

Harry Stollstenner, near prostration, walked 15 miles back to Las Vegas yesterday to report the tragedy to police.

Wright was setting up a target at 300 yards when Stollstenner took a line through the peep sight of his rifle and fired, he said. Stollstenner, 55, was without his glasses and saw what he thought was the target fall. It was Wright, a bullet, through the chest.

VISIT EXPOSITION

DALLAS, Aug. 2. (AP)—Mayor Ross D. Rogers of Amarillo headed a delegation of visitors here today at Amarillo day at the Greater Texas and Pan American exposition. Tomorrow will be Dalhart day.

Tiny, But Prince Of A Fellow

The "personality kid" of the British royal family since King Edward VIII fell into disfavor, little Prince Edward, 20-months-old son of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, peeks out from under the sun-shelter of his pram at admiring passersby in London. The little prince, whose curly head might conceivably wear the crown some day, was named for his Uncle Edward the present Duke of Windsor.

Data On Disease Of Trees Given

Reassuring information for those Lubbock persons who are fearful that presence of Black Spot on the city's elms may result in death of the trees has been given by C. D. McGeehee, city park superintendent.

"Black Spot, is characterized by black pustules on the upper side of the leaf surrounded by grayish masses. Later in the season brown areas appear on the underside of the leaf with a few pustules. The black areas contain the spores which cause the disease. Diseased leaves which drop in the fall carry the disease through the winter and it may attack with increased malignancy the following spring.

Can Be Controlled

"The disease can be controlled through spraying with Bordeaux mixture approximately every two weeks unless rains wash the spray off before that length of time. The mixture can be bought prepared or can be made by the following formula: four parts copper sulphate, four parts lime and 50 parts water. Combine in dust form and mix with the water. In addition leaves and trash around the trees should be cleaned up and burned. So far the disease has been confined to elms."

Associate professor of horticulture, O. B. Howell of Tech, further advises that Black Spot is not fatal but may so weaken the tree that other things may kill it. The case is comparable to influenza in humans. The "flu" does not kill but so weakens the body that other diseases and conditions may attack with fatal results."

Serious In Wet Summers

"Black Spot becomes serious in wet summers," said Howell. "When it attacks in the fall it is too late for it to do serious damage."

"The general good health of the tree should be maintained or increased," added Howell, "by watering regularly, keeping the ground stirred under the tree and use of fertilizer. Cattle manure or nitrate of soda may be used. The chemical may be applied at the rate of 1 ounce to 1 gallon of water in a sprinkling can. Wet the ground thoroughly."

Mr. Howell further warns against excessive watering of ashes, sycamores, maples, and roses.

"Too much water is the cause of a physiological condition called Tip Burn, which causes the tips and edges of the leaves to turn brown and dry. The remedy is to use common sense in watering the trees or shrubs. In addition care should be exercized not to excessively fertilize the trees."

Clemency Sought For Trammell

MATADOR, Aug. 2. (Special) — Sentiment favoring clemency for Luke Trammell, sentenced to die in the electric chair Aug. 20, has been found here.

Plea that the desperado's sentence be commuted to life imprisonment has come from persons who knew "the other Luke Trammell," before he shot his way from the Brazoria county prison farm approximately a year ago and terrorized a great section of Texas before being recaptured and sentenced to pay the supreme penalty.

Full information regarding Trammel's conduct here, when with a half-brother he made a crop on the U. L. Wilie farm near Roaring Springs in 1932, has been asked of Sheriff L. A. Carlisle by Carl Basland, acting director of the research classification of the Texas prison system.

Has Slight Chance

Motley county authorities said they believed he had slight chance of clemency, even in event reports from here warrant such action.

Wilie said, after receiving a similar request:

"While I am convinced that Trammel is a criminal, I feel he deserves a commuted sentence of life imprisonment. I do not believe he ever had a chance.

He Worked Hard

"I know that he worked hard for me and that he was honest in all our transactions. I knew that he was an ex-convict when he, his half-brother and widowed mother rented the farm, and I tried to give him a chance. He was constantly being questioned and, in some instances, abused by peace officers every time a crime was committed within one hundred miles of here, because of his prison record.

"On one occasion, I visited the farm near the noon hour and was invited in to dinner. They had nothing to eat but blackeyed peas, cooked without meat or seasoning, white cornbread and water. During the meal, the gray-haired mother prayed earnestly for her boys with tearful thanks for my kindness and the prospects for a good crop.

Crop Was Destroyed

"A few days later, the crop was destroyed by hail.

"I did not keep them the second year because of the constant bother from officers investigating, but I know that Luke Trammel tried every possible way to get a job by which to support his mother, by honest labor. He was goodhearted, fair in his dealings and a good worker. I believe he was partly a victim of circumstances in connection with the tragedy for which he was convicted and I shall make a plea to save him from the chair."

Wilie said he would make a trip to Austin and the state prison this week in behalf of the doomed outlaw.

Trammel, with Forrest Gibson, were the cause of an extensive manhunt in this section June 29, last year, when state highway patrolmen and other peace officers from numerous South Plains and West Texas counties engaged the desperadoes in a running fight.

Trammel and his associate in crime drove their car from the highway, through a barbed wire fence and over a bluff into a deep canyon, gaining temporary freedom near the Cottle-Motley line. Later, they were captured when asleep, without a shot being fired.

Trammel had been convicted of theft and burglary and received a 20-year sentence from Motley county in 1934.

Lubbock Men Peel Off Their Coats And Roll Up Sleeves To Fight Heat; Even Tech Hit By Going-In-Shirtsleeves Practice

By EVA BOB WATKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

Lubbock men have peeled off their coats and rolled up their sleeves to fight the heat.

Coats have become so scarce as to be almost a novelty. Men in offices don't wear them. Clerks in stores are in shirt sleeves, and one can see only a few on the street.

Deans Shed Coats

They are no thicker in halls of learning such as Texas Technological college. Deans sit in their offices sans the objectionable apparel and many instructors go to their classes the same way.

Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the education department at the college, said, "Boys have cast aside coats, ties, and hats. I'm a bit concerned about what they will take off next." Dr. Evans was wearing a coat, but he said it was "just a matter of convention."

Ought To Be A Law

Dean J. M. Gordon, far from willing to suffer in the name of convention, said there ought to be a law against coats until persons could control weather such as Lubbock has had recently.

Physicians and psychologists say suffering from heat is largely a psychological matter. From the paridoxical answers given by "those who do and those who don't" wear coats, it would seem so. A man who wears one says he does so "to keep cool" and another who never wears one has to "try to keep cool."

O. B. Howell, literally swathed in a coat, says, "I always wear mine. It's good insulation against heat." And that reason is given by most men who wear them.

One man when questioned as to his reason said he would be "most happy" if he could justify himself, because he hated to admit it was convention that made him continue the coat wearing habit. Ministers are sticklers for the business of staying inside coats regardless of temperature. At a pastors short course held recently at Texas Technological college not a single preacher shed the weighty garment, although obviously all were uncomfortably warm.

Teachers have decided there is no "professional reason for submitting to torture" and only approximately 50 of the 350 at a meeting at Senior High school auditorium recently were wearing them. One superintendent pulled off both shoes.

Even the court house has "let down" in the face of the heat wave, thrown convention to the winds—and off come the coats. Judge J. J. Dillard of county court doesn't wear one. Neither do justices and the corporation court judge. Federal court is the last great stronghold, and there it is an offense for anyone to enter the court room without a coat.

Took Him Three Days

In connection with the federal court rule, county commissioner P. B. Penny said that once back in the horse and buggy days a federal judge ordered a witness to go home and get his coat. It was an important case. The court waited and waited. After three days the man came back, with a coat on. He had carried out the judge's instructions. It took him three days to go home after the coat!

A surprisingly large number of salesmen wear coats. One went down the street wearing a heavy dark suit. In one hand he carried a portfolio. With the other he fanned himself vigorously with his straw hat.

Salvation army headquarters here reported that each year they get piles of men's coats, perfectly good, but officials long since have quit looking for matching pants.

And if the thermometer continues to soar, indications are that the Salvation Army will have more coats than ever next fall.

Crests and mottoes technically are battle symbols and war cries.

Deadline Is Extended For True World War Tall Tales Contest

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Entry deadline for the true tall tales of the World war contest of the American Legion convention here was extended to Aug. 15 today on authorization of Drury Phillips, state commander. The convention begins Aug. 22 and lasts through Aug. 24.

Phillips urges Texas veterans to submit their stories of war time experiences to the Standard-Times at San Angelo. The best 25 will be told before the convention in competition for prizes of $150, $75 and $25.

WINS RACE WITH DEATH

BOSTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—Mrs. W. C. Dotson of Dallas, Tex., won a 2,000-mile air race with death today. She arrived at the bedside of her 78-year-old mother who, physicians said, was dying. They telephoned Mrs. Dotson late yesterday. She arrived by air this morning and was hurried from the airport to the hospital under police escort.

Mrs. Oleta Davis and son, Charles Townsend of 1709 Twenty-second street will leave Friday for Denver, Salt Lake City, Santa Barbara, and Los Angeles. They will spend about a month in Los Angeles. Mrs. Davis' sister, Mrs. Cullen Rice of Houston, arrived Monday to visit Mrs. Davis and her mother, Mrs. Charles W. Watkins. She was accompanied by her two sons, Ricky and Gary, and by Elizabeth Ann Watkins of Lubbock and Opal Briggs of Petersburg, who had visited in the Rice home.

"I'D RATHER BE YOUR WIFE THAN YOUR WIDOW—"
PLEASE PUT THIS BLOW-OUT PROTECTION ON OUR CAR"

WHETHER you're married or single—whether or not you've ever had a blow-out, don't blind yourself to these facts.

Thousands of motorists are killed or injured—thousands of dollars are spent for repairs, doctor and hospital bills every year when blow-outs throw cars out of control. Every day somewhere, someone is headed for a costly or fatal blow-out accident.

A Life-Saving Tire

Many of these blow-outs that you hear and read about are due to the heat generated inside of all tires by today's higher driving speeds. This terrific internal tire heat may cause rubber and fabric to separate. And if it does, an invisible blister forms. Bigger and BIGGER it grows until, sooner or later, BANG! It's a blow-out! And where your car might land—nobody knows.

To provide you, and everyone who rides with you, with real blow-out protection, every new Goodrich Silvertown Tire is built with the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This Goodrich invention is a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist internal tire heat. By resisting this heat, the Golden Ply gives you real protection against these high-speed blow-outs.

Remember, no tire gives you Golden Ply blow-out protection unless it's a Goodrich Safety Silvertown. And don't forget, this life-saving tire actually costs much less than other super-quality tires.

Thousands of motorists all over America have found that Silvertowns below mean safety above. For your own peace of mind, for the protection of your family and friends stop in today for a set of these life-saving tires. It's better to be safe than sorry!

Vanderbilt's Ranger Scores Second Crushing Victory Over England's Yacht

Successful Cup Defense Is All But Conceded

By ALAN GOULD

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 2. (AP) — Ranger, Harold S. Vanderbilt's "galloping ghost" of the sailing seas, handed T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour II a record-smashing drubbing today of such proportions that the British challenger for the America's Cup promptly took "time out" before resuming what now looks like a hopeless pursuit.

After trailing his American rival across the finish line of a 30-mile triangular course by 18 minutes, 32 seconds, approximately three miles, thereby sustaining his second straight defeat by a margin even more crushing than was witnessed Saturday, Sopwith immediately requested and received permission from the New York Yacht club's race committee for a day's postponement.

Next Race Wednesday

The third race thus will be Wednesday while the Briton seeks some means of getting better results from a boat that tonight appeared to be as soundly liked as any challenger in America's Cup history.

It was planned among other things tonight, to haul Endeavour II out of the water at the Herreshoff yards in nearby Bristol, and give her a thorough going-over.

Ranger, now needing only two more victories to settle all that remains of the sixteenth seagoing argument for possession of the most highly prized trophy in international yacht racing, achieved her second straight triumph the hard way.

The defender spotted her rival a starting advantage on the haze-enshrouded ocean, trailing Endeavour II by as much as a furlong for the better part of an hour of brisk racing and then proceeded to make it another runaway in increasing southwesterly winds.

Most Decisive Victory

Vanderbilt's snub-nosed sloop made every mark a winning one over a course consisting of a 10 mile beat to winward, then two broad reaches of similar distance in breezes that ranged from 8.2 miles an hour at the start to 11.5 at the finish.

Ranger crossed the finish line in 3 hours, 41 minutes, 33 seconds, with Endeavour barely in sight. The challenger's finishing time was 4:00:05.

Ranger's margin of victory, 18 minutes, 32 seconds, represented the most decisive ever achieved over a 30-mile triangular course in America's Cup competition.

'Dollars From Pari-Mutuels' Is Bing's New Theme Song

DEL MAR, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP)—To the crooner of "Pennies From Heaven" the tune "dollars in the pari-mutuels" is sweet financiel music too.

Whether Bing Crosby's race track will bring in more sugar in the long run, Bing Crosby, the promoter, could not say today but the evidence from the 22-day inaugural meeting gave definite indication in that direction.

For in spite of dire warnings that the screen and radio star would lose his shirt in the race track business the records showed the "take" for the brief meeting was $177,946, not to mention considerable profit from the various concessions.

The handle for the meeting was $2,224,325, for a daily average of $101,105.68. Approximately 75,000 patrons, many of them Bing's film friends, were lured through the turnstiles of the little plant.

Parrott Of Amarillo, Clark Of Lubbock Lead 'Skeeters'

J. B. Parrott, dead shot from Amarillo, and Doyce Clark of Lubbock tied for high honors in Sunday's skeet shoot at the Lubbock Skeet and Gun club traps. Each broke 46 out of 50 targets.

Dr. C. C. Mansell cracked 44 for his best round, Jack Allred needed 43, Jake Hancock missed ten out of fifty and L. Banks was next high with 39 shots.

The next shoot, according to Manager J. E. Mann, jr., will be held Sunday, August 15.

National Public Links Golf Tourney To Start Monday

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. (AP)—Field of 191 entrants representing 61 cities and 24 states and territories, will begin play in the 16th amateur public links golf championship over the Harding Memorial park course at San Francisco next Monday.

This compares with the record of 223 entrants who competed at Farmingdale, Long Island, last year when B. Patrick Abbott of Pasadena, Calif., won the individual title and Seattle galloped off with the team crown.

The first 18-hole qualifying round will be played Monday, Aug. 9, and the second on Tuesday. Match play starts Wednesday.

Slammin' Sammy

Sam West, fleet veteran outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, has staged a remarkable comeback this season and is enjoying his best batting year in 11 American League campaigns. Slated for a bench-warming job last spring, West, who hit only .278 in 1936, is pounding along well over .340.

Doherty Retains Tourney Crown

Edgar Doherty continued his tournament championship streak Sunday by defeating young Al Holton, 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final of the second annual Meadowbrook Open tournament.

The same finalists played last year, and Doherty won. They also played the finals in last year's Meadowbrook Club championship, the husky red-head winning that one, too.

Ending the morning round all square, each with 67's, Doherty lost no time in piling up a commanding lead in the afternoon. Through the 23rd he held a 5 up advantage.

Assault Upon Par

Al started a par-assaulting bit of golf to come up even on the 28th green. Birdies on twenty-five and twenty-eight, a par on the 27th, and an eagle on twenty-eight turned the trick.

Holton had finished the first morning nine with a 1 up lead after both contestants had beaten normal figures. He had a 31 to match with Doherty's 32. Red kept even with par on the second nine, while Holton required an extra stroke.

The City Open champ bagged a birdie 3 on the 19th hole in the afternoon then followed with another on the 22nd and 23rd greens to put Al dormie three at the 23rd.

Holton's putter collapsed during the first six afternoon holes, otherwise the match would likely have been settled differently. He was matching long drives with Doherty, noted for his usual hard wood shots, but on the green Al was erratic.

After the winner had gone 1 up again on the 31st when Holton took a bogie 5, the match was squared on the 149-yard 32nd with Holton's birdie 2. He went over again on the 33rd and Doherty protected the one hole lead to finish the match with a birdie on the 35th.

Both players flashed signs of good golf, but both were badly off on several holes. Failure of the diminutive Holton to sink the short putt on the deciding hole was heartbreaking. After regaining his putting touch during the afternoon, the cause of his early disadvantage flared up again to terminate the setto.

Ball Lips The Cup

Doherty had sunk a ten-footer and the loser's try seemed easy enough but the ball lipped the cup and stayed away.

A large gallery followed the players throughout the afternoon round. Each player was cheered for his good shots, with little regard for which it was who made it.

The crowd was given a momentary thrill on the tenth when Holton's tee shot rolled slowly to the pin. It lacked a mere six inches being a hole in one.

W. F. Helwig defeated Otis Felty, 2 and 1, to grab off honors in the first flight. Rufus Bradshaw took the second flight championship by beating W. L. Hale, 7 up and 6 to go. N. L. Ball carried Buster Holton out, 5 and 3, for first place in the third flight.

Kay Bradshaw took championship consolations with a 2-1 triumph over Loftin Burnette. Wright Kerr ousted Clarence Fox, 2-1 in the first flight consolations. Tom Davis was victor over Wayne (Mickey) Henly by a one-sided 9 and 8 count for second flight consolation title. Charles Watson defaulted to Charles Purcell, jr., in the third flight consolations

Hubbers Divide Double Header With Amarillo

Backing up Lefty Blanchard's seven-hit pitching and "four-for-four" slugging, the Lubbock Hubbers lashed the Phillips Oilers of Amarillo to the mast Sunday and took a 14 to 4 victory, then played laconic baseball for the seven-inning nightcap to take their first shutout of the season, a 10-0 affair in Amarillo's favor.

Blanchard, pitching himself out of trouble in the early innings and slugging the ball for two home runs, a double and a single, might have won a shutout in the first inning. Overanxious fielders made a dobble or two, and these, with a couple of singles and a walk, brought in four Amarillo runs in the third and put the visitors ahead. But Lubbock, which had scored one time in the first, came back in the last half of the third to get all four runs back. Blanchard had the heavy hitting Oilers on his hip for the rest of the game.

Coburn Wins Second

Lubbock collected 18 hits off big Chief Gilliland, Amarillo right-hander, in the first game. Eight of these were made by the local battery, Blanchard and Coppage, each getting four hits. Coppage caught a masterful game, and was dog tired when the second contest started.

An anticipated hurling duel between Blanchard and the veteran Luke Coburn was nipped when Amarillo decided to save Coburn for the second game. The old man limited the weary Hubbers to three safe bingles, two of them by Blue Graham, to win his shutout. A couple of very nice double killings cut off Lubbock's two scoring chances in the second game.

Three home runs were blasted in the first game, Jack Thompson getting one, probably the hardest hit of them all, in the eighth inning. Two men were on bases ahead of him. None was on when Blanchard hit his first, but Win Breedlove trotted home ahead of him in the sixth when Blanchard lifted one over the right field wall.

That's Hitting The Ball

Coppage hit two doubles, a triple and a single in five trips, knocking in two runs, scoring three himself. Blanchard, batting four times, scored four times.

The Hubbers used four pitchers in the second game, none of them very effective. Slim Spradlin was batted out in the first inning. Cecil Thompson came out after the fifth, and Beans Pair pitched until the seventh, when Ed Hambright went in to "get 'em out."

Heavy clouting by Tad Clark, sensational second baseman, and Al Thomas wrecked the Hubber morale in the second game, although no blows were for more than two bases.

Dallas Steers Recall Art Bartelli, Smokey Woods

VICKSBURG, Miss., Aug. 2. (AP)—The Dallas Steers of the Texas League, sponsor of the Vicksburg baseball team, have recalled Art Bartelli, manager and outfielder of Vicksburg and Rudolph "Smokey Joe" Woods, pitcher.

A. H. Libby, former business manager of the team, will hold the position of manager temporarily.

Officials of the ball club said the two players were recalled to bolster the Steers but that their absence would leave the Vicksburg team in a weakened condition.

Awkward Boy With Fast Ball Too Dumb To Be Scared In Debut Game; Walter Johnson Makes Confession

By DILLON GRAHAM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—(AP) — Thirty years ago today a big, gangling rookie from Idaho lumbered out on the diamond here and astonished the Detroit Tigers with a faster ball than any they had ever seen.

That was the beginning of one of the greatest pitching careers in baseball history.

It was Walter Johnson's debut.

Johnson says he was "too dumb" to be frightened on that day. He just zoomed them over to Ty Cobb, Sam Crawford and the other Tigers, to whom the ball looked like a blurred streak of lightning.

He's been out of baseball since his release as Cleveland manager two years ago and he divides his time between his dairy farm in nearby Maryland and his position here as promotion manager of a soft drink firm.

Bunts Beat Him

"Say, you've never seen anyone as awkward as I was then," he laughed. "I lost that first game because I couldn't field. I was all hands and feet and tripped over myself trying to pick up bunts.

"Most hitters stand away from the plate when a new fast ball pitcher faces them. They want to find out first whether he has control. Well, those Tigers couldn't hit my tosses swinging, so they started sticking their bats out and bunting. And they wore me out."

Johnson allowed 6 hits in the eight innings before he gave way to a pinch-hitter.

"All I had then was a fast ball but I could fog 'em in all day. I didn't have a curve or a change of pace. They tried to get me to use a spitter, but I couldn't work it."

Was he discouraged about losing that first game?

Something Screwy Here

"No, I wasn't. I knew I had done the best I could. And I figured I would have won if I'd known how to field bunts. I practiced fielding until I was pretty fair at it."

Walter almost had to walk back to town from the park.

"The big league parks and crowds were new to me and after the game I stood out there gawking for a long while. Then I found the players' bus already had gone. So, in my uniform and spike shoes, I started down the street. Some fans gave me a lift.

"There's a funny thing about that game. There were some 700 spectators. Yet 20 years later, when they held a Walter Johnson day at Griffith Stadium, 5,000 persons called for the souvenirs offered to those who saw my debut," he laughed.

Levelland Coach School To Open Next Monday

LEVELLAND, Aug. 2. (Special)—Bill Stevens, head coach and athletic director at Levelland High school who has attended numerous coaching schools over the state, promotes one of his own next week.

Levelland will be host to high school football and basketball coaches from Monday, Aug. 9, through August 14.

Frank Kimbrough, well known head coach at Hardin-Simmons university, will be chief instructor of football at the Levelland school, teaching fundamentals of the game and demonstrating, with the help of athletes, the various items of interest to all grid coaches.

Basketball "Wisdom"

Kimbrough will lecture in the high school gymnasium from 1 to 3 o'clock each evening, using blackboard and charts to illustrate his points. He will take the students and the athletes to the fooball field in the evenings, at 8 o'clock, for a two-hour night session of demonstrating various plays and fundamentals.

W. J. Wisdom, one of the most popular basketball coaches in the state, teacher and mentor of the sensational John Tarleton Plowboys, will have charge of the cage division of the coaching school. Wisdom will lecture on basketball each morning from 9 to 11, and in the afternoons from 1 to 3.

All coaches are invited to attend the school tuition for which is only $5 for the entire week. College athletes who plan to coach in the future are also invited.

Tom Beaupre, Texas Hopeful In Heavyweight Division, Meets Tough Test Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2. (AP)—Tom Beaupre, 200-pound Texan making his fighting debut here tomorrow night against Eddie Simms of Cleveland, may have to knock out the eastern heavyweight to gain victory.

Observers watching both men work out and noting their records, figure the 10-round contest will not go the limit. Simms, they reason, is at the top of his form. He knocked out Phil Brubaker, Dinuba, Calif., fighter, in less than one round. Beaupre, credited with a fine right hand wallop, finished Jack Dempsey's boxer, Red Burman, much in the same fashion.

Both men hit too hard and too often to permit a full 10 rounds of socking, the railbirds believe.

Simms still rules a 10-8 favorite to win.

Touring Cinder Team Fails To Beat Britons

LONDON, Aug. 2. (AP)—Seventy thousand Britons jammed White City stadium today to see the United States wandering track and field athletes but at the end of three hours of mediocre competition they decided their own team was pretty good.

Winning four events and placing in most of the others, the British beat out the United States all-star aggregation and 15 other nations. The United States finished second.

The great crowd came close to not seeing the highly advertised battle between young Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kans., Teachers and England's Stanley Wooderson.

Is Fifth In Field

Changing his plans to go straight to Stockholm to compete with another American team, the Kansas miler was met at Plymouth by an airplane which was to bring him to White City in time for his clash with Wooderson. But when he landed from the Queen Mary, he discovered that Stockholm officials, who are paying his expenses, objected to his competing in London.

He got into the plane regardless and then almost crashed in landing at Heston Airport. He finally got his status fixed so he could run.

The little Briton stayed back until three-quarters of the race was over. He then moved out in front of Miklos Szabo and Hungary to win by 20 yards in 4:15.8. San Romani started sixth. He managed to pull up to fifth but never threatened to do better.

At Rate He's Going, Der Mag Will Eclipse Babe's Home Run Record

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Jolting Joe DiMaggio, who insists he hasn't any particular ambition to break Babe Ruth's all-time home run record, is challenging the Bambino's mark whether he wants to or not.

Although it's improbable that any batter can duplicate Ruth's runaway through the last month of the 1927 season, when he clubbed 17 out of the lot, the deadpan dynamiter of the New York Yankees may have a chance to come within shouting distance of the Babe's 60-homer mark for a season.

At any rate, he's in front of the Ruthian record right now, for the same period of play. The Babe hit his 30th homer in the 82nd game of the '27 campaign.

DiMaggio, despite a late start in which he missed the season's first ten games, hit his 31st Sunday, in what was officially the Yankees' 89th game.

In the 85 games in which he has seen action, DiMaggio has clouted one round-tripper on an average of every 25 innings. In Ruth's big year, his average, up to the time he belted No. 31, was every 27 innings.

But regardless of his chances of eclipsing Ruth's record DiMaggio has been doing a lot of pretty fair country clouting so far in his sophomore year. Except for three instances, his longest lapse in games between homers was four contests.

His particular pitching cousin up to now has been young Bonetti of the Browns, who has served four home run balls to him. Ted Lyons of the White Sox and Jack Knott of the Brownies are next in line with three "mistakes" each charged against them, so far as DiMaggio is concerned.

COLORADO TEAMS LOSE

DENVER, Aug. 2. (AP)—Two Colorado teams were ushered out of the Denver Post baseball tournament today.

Duvall-Davison of Golden, Colo., was ejected by Worland, Wyo., 7 to 6, and the Denver American Beauty team was blanked by the Leyden, Colo., Miners, Colorado semi-pro champions, 4 to 0.

Greatest American Troop Movement Since War On

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Aug. 2. (AP)—The greatest American troop movement since the World war—56,000 regulars and national guardsmen of 16 western states—was under way today.

In California alone, some 12,000 troops were being concentrated for the maneuvers etxending through August.

Furnishing an initial peacetime test of plans drawn up for the fourth army—in war comprising 516,000 men—other concentrations were scheduled at Camp Ripley, Minn., Fort Riley, Kan., and Fort Lewis, Wash.

A "blue army" of regular troops of the fourth army was pitted along the California coast against a "brown army" of National guardsmen.

Louisiana Firm Buys Oklahoma Oil Company's Stock Monday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 2. (AP)—The Cromwell-Franklin Oil Co., of Oklahoma City, today became a subsidiary of the Root Petroleum Co., of Shreveport, La., as the Root company acquired 10,897 of the Cromwell-Franklin's 15,568 outstanding shares of stock at an average price of $70.

The deal was announced by Stuart G. Lyon of Lyon, Pruyn and Co., New York fiscal agents for Root, an independent company owning a refinery and pipeline holdings in Louisiana and Arkansas.

Wirt Franklin, one of the Cromwell-Franklin organizers retains his stock and directorship in the company. Holdings of Joe I. Cromwell, another organizer, were transferred to Root.

D. P. Hamilton of Shreveport, president of Root, becomes president of Cromwell-Franklin; Frank M. Porter, remains as vice president and general manager; H. Canon, of the Root company, was named a vice president; and these with Franklin and Kent Shartel, both of Oklahoma City, compose the directorate.

It was announced for the present Cromwell-Franklin will retain its offices here and be operated as a subsidiary of Root.

Ninth Field Office Of Social Security Board Is Opened

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Opening of the ninth field office today of the Social Security board in Texas at Fort Worth was announced today by Oscar M. Powell, regional director for the states of Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas.

James E. Jackson, who formerly managed the San Antonio field office of the board, will be in charge of the Fort Worth office.

F. J. McCarthy, recently in charge of the El Paso office, has been transferred to San Antonio to assume Jackson's former duties here, Powell said.

PRAY FOR SUCCESS

TOKYO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Japanese delegates to the World Education conference prayed at the Meiji shrine today for the success of the Japanese army in North China before attending a conference session that stressed the achievement of peace through education.

Maverick Gives Views On Labor

(By The Associated Press)

CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 2.—U. S. Representative Maury Maverick (Dem-Texas) told a Delaware county labor rally that too much attention is being paid to individual leaders.

"I have nothing against John L. Lewis," he said yesterday, "but if he were to go up to the North Pole and camp with the Communists, the labor movement would go on just the same."

"Labor must first and last retain its civil liberties, then it will win."

Decries Talk Of 'Violence'

He decried "all this talk about 'violence' on the part of labor that you read in the newspapers."

"Who's committing the violence—who's getting killed?" Maverick asked.

"Tom Girdler hasn't been killed. No police have been killed. But 17 union men have been shot to death in what is supposed to be a free country.

Representative John M. Coffee, of Tacoma, Wash., attacked the "men in congress masquerading as New Dealers who sold President Roosevelt down the river on the Supreme court bill."

"The big issue is still the court," he said, "and we have only just begun to fight."

Woman Serves As Chief Of State Department Passport Division; Mail-Order Business Brings In Government $1,500,000 Yearly

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Ruth B. Shipley, chief of the state department's passport division, runs a mail-order business which just now is bringing the government $1,500,000 a year.

She directs a staff of more than 100 in deciding questions of nationality, issuing passports, instructing foreign service officers on those subjects and writing letters of introduction for Americans going abroad.

All this is done so quietly that thousands never know the "R. B. Shipley" who signs their passports is a woman.

"It's a thrilling job," she said today. "Developments are so unexpected. It concerns people—not just papers."

Foreign travel has increased greatly this year, Mrs. Shipley said. The 119,390 passports issued in the first six months represent a 43 per cent increase over the same period last year.

Mrs. W. F. Scarborough To Be Buried In Midland Tuesday

MIDLAND, Aug. 2. (AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Mrs. W. F. Scarborough, 71, wife of a cattle and oil man of Midland, who died at their Ruidoso, N. M., summer home yesterday. An invalid for three years, she was found dead in bed. Dr. Lee R. New Comet Is Witnessed Over U. S.; Discovered Month Ago

CHICAGO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Telescopes all over the United States were trained today on a streaking bit of glowing light near the Pole star as Finsher's comet—discovered a month ago—whirled through its third night of visibility.

But the celestial snow was not for the savants alone. With the naked eye, Prof. George A. Van Biesbroeck of Yerkes observatory said, the amateur astronomer may see the comet as "a medium-sized star" tearing through space at an estimated speed of 20 to 30 miles per second.

And up on the rooftops, where the street lights won't interfere with observation, the rankest amateur with ordinary opera glasses can see the comet in full glory—tail and all.

Mother Of Four Is Sentenced For Extortion Try On Actor

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2. (AP)—Mrs. June Bates, of Oakland, Calif., 38-year-old mother of four children, today was sentenced by Federal Judge Leon Yankwich, to five years in the women's reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., for attempting to extort $500 from actor John Boles.

The machine gun first was patented in 1862 by R. J. Gatling, Indianapolis, Ind.

Col. Charles Lindbergh Thanks Frenchmen For Radio Advice

PARIS, Aug. 2. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh went out of his way tonight to thank the commander of Le Bourget airfield for radio advice given him on recent flights.

The American aviator landed unexpectedly at Le Bourget on a flight to England from Morlaix after a week-end with Dr. Alexis Carrel, with whom he devised the artificial heart.

His landing at the field where he completed his trans-Atlantic flight 10 years ago, went unnoticed for half an hour. Within another 10 minutes he took off for England after explaining that he stopped only to thank the Le Bourget commander.

A car that is streamlined perfectly for a speed of 30 miles an hour is not streamlined perfectly for a speed of 60 miles an hour.

Youth On Verge Of Starvation Is Found Near San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Apparently a victim of amnesia a well dressed 18-year-old youth was being held today by sheriffs deputies while an attempt to ascertain his identity was being made.

The youth was found in a semi-conscious condition on the new Seguin highway Sunday.

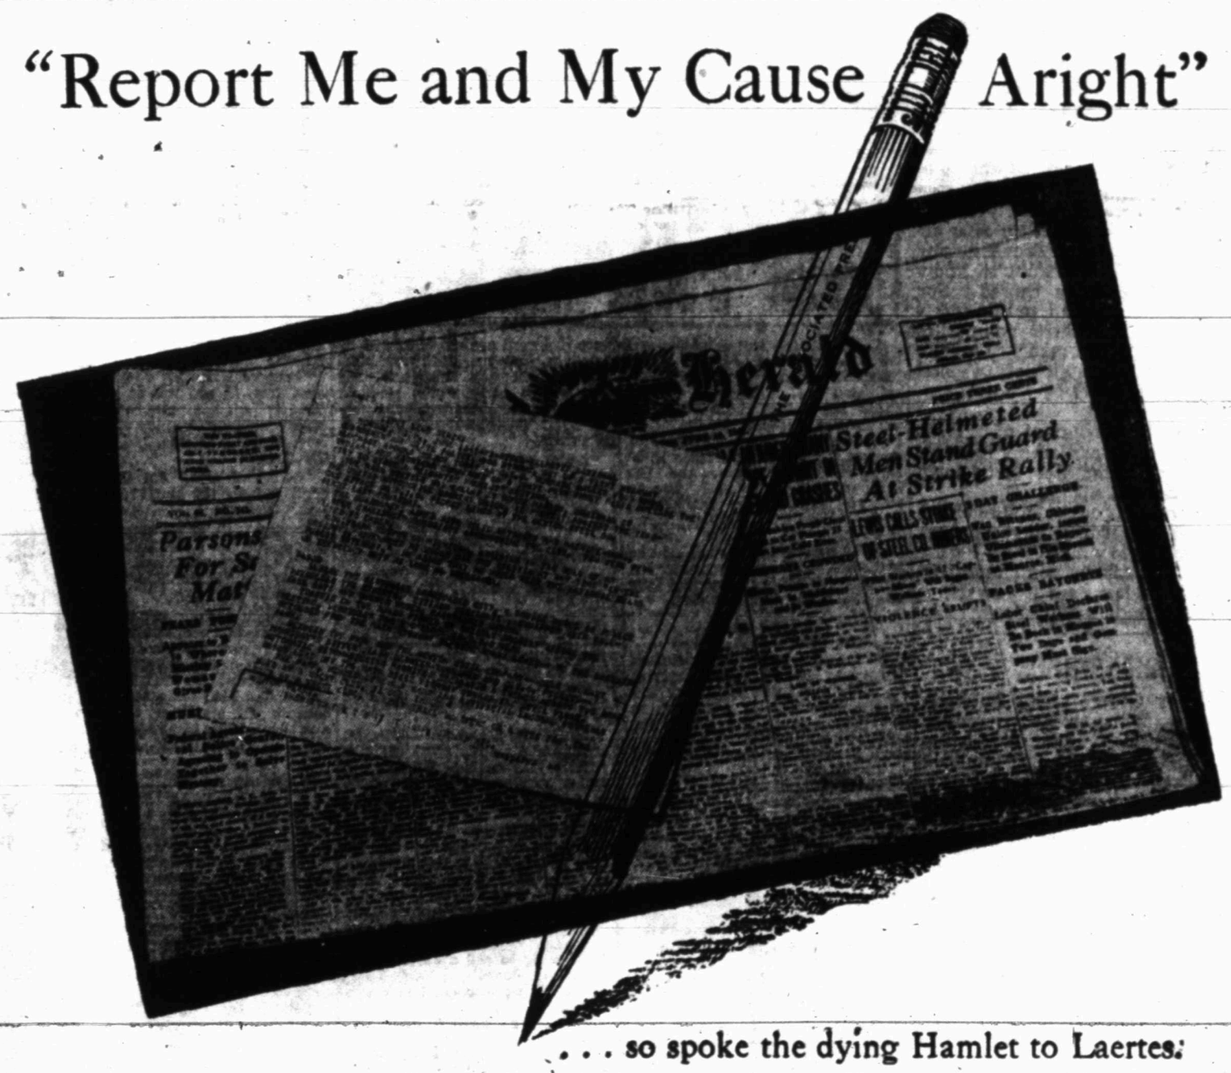

Deputy sheriffs took the youth to a hospital and later removed him to the county jail.

The boy told deputies he believed his name was James Harris, but he was unable to recall when he had eaten.

Attendants at the hospital said he was on the verge of starvation.

Hitherto unknown to science, a marine wor mrecently discovered is capable of eating through the lead covering of a cable and then severing a wire seven-tenths of an inch thick.

We Wisely Change Our Opinion

THE first job of the United States government is to see that Americans in the war zones around Peiping, China, or in Spain, for all that, are given the best possible chance to get out of there to places of safety if they want to go.

The second is to make it clear to them that if they do not want to take advantage of such a chance for safety, they remain in the danger zones at their own risk.

That is 1937 talk. Back in 1900, we went all mooney about the idea that an American must be safe anywhere in the world, and that the last ounce of American force would be exerted to make him so. That sounds dandy in a Kipling poem, but today we feel different. Even august Britain, which has done considerable sounding off about the safety of a British citizen wearing his dress suit in the jungle, has backed down from this stiff-necked dictum on several recent occasions.

TODAY, the question is asked with reverse English. Has an American citizen, given a chance to get out, the right to stay in a situation of danger where injury or death to him may bring down a horrible war on the heads of millions of people back home who had no interest in him or in the enterprises which led him into the danger zones?

Today we are beginning to feel that only Americans actually on public business for the government have a right to expect its protection, and that private individuals selling oil or salvation in dangerous quarters are strictly on their own.

Any one of the 1300 Americans in Peiping and Tientsin who refuses to co-operate in safety measures taken for Americans; who stubbornly insists on remaining when it is no longer safe, may be killed and thus precipitate a crisis.

But today we at home are likely to ask questions before our temperature rises in a hot demand for a war of revenge for some such "incident." We want to know what the victim was doing there? For whom? Was any American public interest affected? Did the victim co-operate in efforts to remove him from danger? Would going to war about it do any good anyway, in the long run?

SPECIFIC problems arising out of ticklish situations like those at Peiping must be solved as they come along. Most of us don't understand the details, anyway.

But the government ought to be guided by this principle regarding any pending foreign war, a principle which 99 44-100ths per cent of all Americans echo today in the classic words of Mr. Sam Goldwyn:

"Gentlemen, include us out!"

With Our Contemporaries

"Chas. Armor Guy of The Lubbock Journal professes to be greatly wrought up because the cotton pickers down in the Rio Grande Valley want $1 per hundred to pick cotton," Old Andy Jack Stricklin, the lone wolf of the Terry county cotton patches, grunts in the Terry County Herald. "Vas you ever dere, Sharley? Well, we have been, and in June—and we don't suppose July is much better — the sun stands just ten feet over your head apparently, and hell don't seem much further in the other direction. In fact, we were informed that few white people and negroes could stand to work there in summer, and Mexican labor did the field work. Did Sharley ever pick any cotton, anywhere, any summer. We have, and we'd want $2 per hundred to pick cotton in the Valley in July. We'd rather pull bollies on the Plains in late September and October. Sharley doesn't give a tinker's dam about either the cotton picker or the cotton producer. He just used that to hit at the New Deal. Sharley is itching all over the back under the Raw Deal."

"The proposal to deepen the Trinity river which flows through Dallas like Sulphur draw flows through Plains, is meeting with opposition from all the important cities in the western part of the state," W. J. Hale points out in the Yoakum County Review. "Probably the fight is staged because a canal will give Dallas advantage in freight rates over other cities."

* * *

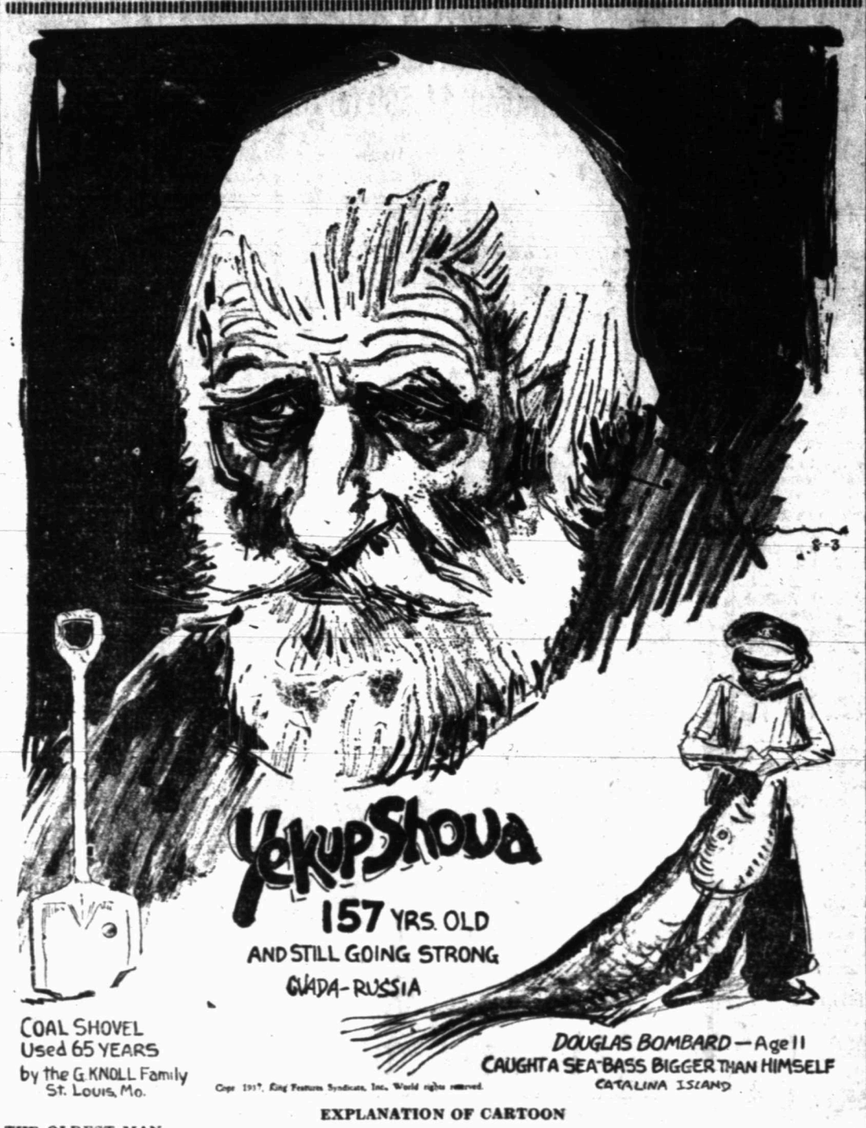

"I heard," says H. G. Richards in the Anton News, "H. B. Newton say that he drove from his farm two miles east of town to the city limits before he discovered that he had not shifted from second to high gear."

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

THE OLDEST MAN

The excellent climate of Abkazia, Soviet Autonomous Republic, a part of Soviet Georgia, Trans-Caucasus, is conducive to long life, and there are many people there who are well over a hundred. The oldest of all is Yekup Shoua, who is now 157 and still sprightly and active. Supporting himself on a small cane, Yekup makes daily walks in the mountains, going two miles from his native village, Gvada. His vision and hearing are still good, and his memory is so keen that he recalls incidents that occurred about 1800, as though they happened only yesterday.

Not only the climate but their simple manner of living adds many years to the lives of Abkazians. The mountainous country forces them to be athletic, they bathe in the mountain streams all year round, get plenty of mountain air and sunshine, and eat the simple foods that have been their fare for hundreds of years.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

BY ESTHER TYLER

SYNOPSIS: A storm breaks and eery things start happening as Michael, his sweetheart Gay Palmer and I (Jim Wells) reach his aunts' home, Farrington Bluff, for a February weekend. In the night, Mike awakens me as a chimney crashes, shouting that Jude Blinshop, the fourth guest, and the Skipper, his tall and tweedy younger aunt, have disappeared. With William, the chauffeur, a gun and flashlight, Michael and I start to search the island. At the boathouse, Michael slips over the wet rocks in his eagerness and falls into the black, churning surf.

Chapter Five

The Body On The Bluff

Even as I realized that the dark object was Michael, William moved. He threw the coats, my heavy one on the end, Michael was yards to the right of us and the coats went straight out. But William's eye was good. In a flash Michael was washed toward us, and the coats were blown toward him. As they met I lent my free hand to the tug. In one surging swell he came in. We pulled like madmen. Headlong, Michael was tumbled onto the ledge.

He lay, horribly still. Throwing the coats to me, William bent over. With one lunge he heaved Michael over his shoulder, and slowly, laboriously, we edged our way back to the path. Despite the care with which we laid him down, one arm was twisted under him. Blood was flowing from a gash on his head.

Luckily my hip pocket still contained the flask with which I had reconciled myself to that ride in the rumble-seat. I raised his head and forced a little whiskey into him. Possibly minutes ticked by. The roar of the blood in my ears drowned out the combined wind and surf. And then finally he moved. It was impossible to catch what he said. He insisted on getting to his feet and stood there, swaying, covered with blood, dripping wet, and altogether unpleasant to look at.

William roared, "Back to the house, sir!"

We thought Michael understood, for he started along the path before we could get the overcoat around him. As we came abreast of the tennis courts, Michael paused and signaled for the light. The backstop was down, a tangled jumble of wire, and the wet clay was a soft mush. In between the two courts, running straight toward the boathouse, a set of heavy footprints showed that someone had been too impatient to take the path. The Skipper? Michael was off like a shot.

At the drive we lost them. Too much water had poured over that gravel to leave any sign of anything. It seemed to me that wherever she was, the Skipper would agree that Michael needed attention at once. We were directly in front of the house. I grabbed him and shoved him, struggling and protesting, up the steps and into the house.

One Arm Hangs Useless

We were a mess, all three of us, dripping and coatless. William still wore rubber boots and a sou'wester. His trousers and his pajama top were plastered against him as if by mucilage, and his lips were blue. But Michael was Exhibit A. His face was a pasty white, smeared with blood. His right arm hung useless at his side and his clothes were in shreds.

"Damn you!" His roar gathered volume as William closed the door behind us. "Let go of me. I'll—"

But he didn't do anything. A piercing scream from the dining-room announced that he had been discovered. M. Farrington bore down upon us, babbling as she came.

"Michael! Michael! My poor boy, what—?"

I caught a glimpse of Gay behind her and of Higgins behind Gay when Michael put an end to the scene. In her stress of feeling, M. Farrington clutched his bad arm and Michael crumpled quietly to the floor.

Then things began to happen. M. Farrington promptly went off into hysterics. Gay knelt beside Michael, Higgins stood wringing his hands, and William stared dumbly at the general proceedings.

"He fell on a rock." I said to Gay's mute white face. "Higgins, ring for Annie and take Miss Farrington to her room. Lend a hand here, William."

In spite of his aunt's protests we picked up Michael and started for the stairs.

"I'm going to call a doctor," said Gay at my elbow.

"He can't get through. The bridge is down."

"There are boats," she said quietly.

It was something of a job to get Michael upstairs. He's no feather-weight, and below us M. Farrington was giving efficient proof of Higgins' lack of skill as a lady's-maid. We got him into his room and onto the bed, where a penknife made short work of what was left of his clothes. The gash in his head was wide, but not too deep. His knees and shins were merely scraped, but the arm was a different matter.

"It ain't broke, sir. I think it's his shoulder."

I nodded. We patched him up as well as we could and brought him around. It took him only a second to collect himself. His voice was hoarse.

"D'ii you find them?"

I shook my head. In the midst of our efforts to keep him in bed, Gay appeared behind me.

"The wire's down," she said dully.

Well, I had expected it. "Listen, Mike," I said. "You're staying right here. If you promise to do it, we go on hunting. If you don't, we'll stay right here and hold you down."

Once or twice a year I succeed in convincing him that I mean just what I say. I did it then. He stared at me for half a minute.

"All right. Only hurry, for God's sake!"

"I'll get them," I promised.

The Sound Of Shrill Sobs

Downstairs, Annie and Cook between them had managed to remove M. Farrington to the library, whence the sound of her shrill sobs was distinctly audible. William and I climbed into dry coats and tested the Skipper's Scotch. It was good Scotch.

"I suggest, sir, that we go out the west door. If you was to go round the front and me round the back, we could cover quite a lot of ground, meet at the east side, and go on to the garage."

"O. K.," I said. "For God's sake don't fall off the bluff!"

So we parted. Either the gale was gathering force or we were losing it. Going was hard and thinking was worse. Where the devil was the Skipper? And Jude! What was that girl up to anyway?

I thought nothing of reaching the end of the house ahead of William. Going, I reasoned, would be harder for him on mushy sod with no protection against the wind. But by the time I had been there several minutes, it was beginning to get me. And then I heard something—a faint shout in the distance, calling my name.

It was coming from the direction of the bluff. I forgot the danger of dashing over the edge in the darkness. I forgot everything and began to run toward that voice. Long before I could see anybody I could see the light, and I bellowed at the top of my lungs as I came. William was standing not 20 feet from the edge of the bluff, and I was still some distance from him when he turned his light downward.

There, without hat or coat, face downward in the mud, lay Jude Blinshop, still clad in her bright blue dress and silver slippers.

The Skipper explains her absence, tomorrow.

Youths To Work With Agents In Project

Youths will work with county agents through a district-wide National Youth administration project which was inaugurated Monday, said A. V. Bullock, district supervisor.

Approximately 80 youths will be given employment in the 24 counties. Some of the counties did not open the project Monday.

Projects Planned

The youths will be available for work in pasture and field contouring, trench silo demonstrations, laying irrigation ditches and other similar work. Last year they ran contour lines on thousands of acres.

Work on NYA projects over the district is progressing well, said Bullock, who returned this weekend from a tour of the district. Projects are opening up for youths who have been employed temporarily on farms. Work has been provided where justified by a sufficient number of eligible youths.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WORLD statesmen are slowly hatching a scheme for ameliorating military and economic strife with tempting economic bait. It was submitted to President Roosevelt by Belgian Premier van Zeeland as the basis for a possible union (not a league) of nations.

The six nations adhering to the currency stabilization agreement—the U. S., Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland—would pool proportional amounts in a fund designed to stabilize world currencies. Then they would invite Germany and Italy, whose monetary systems have erected artificial barriers of trade, to sit within the charmed circle. Each country would contribute to the central fund according to its capacities, with Uncle Sam and John Bull putting up the largest amont of the $5,000,000,000 bank.

Underlying idea is to attract the have-not nations into a (for them) profitable deal which could eventually be broadened to handle military and commercial problems. Private pourparlers, diplomatic exchanges in sealed pouches and fireside chats are going on now in preparation for the final agreement, which will be proclaimed at a world conference designed to win prestige for the statesmen involved.

RECASTING: Despite President Roosevelt's defense of his labor setup—Secretary Perkins and the National Labor Relations board—you may look for sweeping changes in both agencies in a few months. F.D.R. won't drop them while they're under fire, but it is his habit to move when folks aren't looking.

The President has been advised by his most trusted labor friends that he should get rid of Miss Perkins, and revamp the personnel of the Wagner board. Miss Perkins has antagonized William Green, who thinks she has shown partiality to the rival C.I.O., and she has irritated John L. Lewis, who tells friends that "labor hasn't a single representative in her department." He excepts Assistant Secretary McGrady, a staunch champion of organized labor's rights and responsibilities, on the ground that "Ed" exercises no real authority. Both labor groups, as well as "economic royalists," have little use for the official industrial arbiters on the labor board.

The likeliest prospect is that Miss Perkins may be shifted to the Department of Public Welfare if Congress creates this new agency before adjourning. Then Mr. McGrady may be stepped up to the cabinet post—otherwise he will step out some time in the fall. F.D.R. is already looking around for an impressive, impartial figure to take command of the Labor board. But he will make no substitutions until the drumfire has died down.

RIFT: "Charley Mac," which happens to be the friendly nickname of Republican Senate Leader McNary, performed a neat operation on the White House faction a few days ago. Only those who have listened to cloakroom conversation on the Democratic side sense the devilish subtlety of his remarks.

The Oregonian simply asked whether Congress was to follow the leadership of "Young Bob" La Follette, who had lectured the Senate after a weekend sail with the President, and whether the Supreme court arrangement effected by the "able Vice-President" was to be capped by an early adjournment. "Charley Mac," of course, had wallowed in the resentment seething among Senate Democrats over the La Follette performance. He knew that the old-liners were sore at F.D.R.'s selection of a Republican Progressive for his weekend companion.

Mr. McNary also knew how proud the Capitol Hill statesmen were over the V. P.'s dominant role in the latter days of the court conflict. It gave them a new confidence in themselves and lifted up their chins. "Mac" was appealing to personal prejudices, bitternesses and political difference. Inadvertently he advertised the G.O.P. strategy for the session and the pre-1940 period. It is to widen the abysmal split between Rooseveltian New Dealers and old-fashioned party Democrats.

COTTON: A southern Democratic crop—cotton—may eventually salvage Roosevelt reforms doomed to die at this session of Congress. A record-breaking surplus and a 50 per cent fall in price may permit him to say "I told you so" to the below-the-line legislators now sabotaging his demand for new agricultural, industrial and economic controls.

Cotton has been bringing hig prices for the last few years. But the demand has had the inevitable effect—the planters set out extra acres so as to reap the immediate benefits. Official estimates place the 1937 crop at termendous figures—far more than domestic consumption or the export trade can absorb. As a result prices may sag to the level of Hoover days, when nobody got back even their seed.

Should these unexpressed hopes materialize, Mr. Roosevelt will come up with an irresistible argument for Supreme court reform (the court killed the original AAA), for his catch-all agricultural bill and for measures restricting speculation in many other remote fields. King Cotton may eventually topple the "economic royalists" from their new-won throne of rugged individualism.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

MYRON TAYLOR is not the only famous head of a giant corporation scheduled to sever his industrial connection in the fairly near future.

Paste it in your hat that Alfred P. Sloan Jr. will not be chairman of the board of General Motors much longer. He will not be forced out, but he and his directors will agree in a friendly way that he has earned the privilege of retirement. There will be no regrets on either side about the change.

Mr. Taylor may take up public service—via an ambassadorship—when he quits Big Steel. Mr. Sloan, on the other hand, will probably slip quietly into private life and give up all activities that would make serious demands on his time and energy. Mr. Taylor's successor is plainly indicated in Edward R. Stettinius Jr. The next head of General Motors has not been definitely decided upon. However, Bill Knudsen has the inside track. People influential in G. M. affairs think well of his abilities.

PROTECTS: Bank loans on security collateral amount to more than a billion dollars a year and the volume is steadily growing. Business placed through loan brokers is especially flourishing. Bankers are delighted to get all of that type of loan they can. They are perfectly safe against even a violent market reaction under existing margin requirements—and they are profitable.

Banks never publicize their dealings with loan brokers—and here's why. If you borrow through a broker you pay the call loan rate of interest, which is low. If you go directly to your own bank for the same loan with the same collateral, as an established customer, you pay a much higher rate—perhaps more than twice as high.

It doesn't seem to make sense, but bankers privately explain the differential by saying that in case they want money in a hurry they always call their "Street loans" (i. e. the impersonal credits arranged through brokers) first and never dream of calling loan to their own clients until this resource is exhausted. It is argued that this cushion of "outside" credits protects regular customers and justifies the higher charge. Just the same, they don't advertise the spread to the latter.

MEMBERS: The Committee for Industrial Organization claims a membership of 3,000,000. Impartial analysis indicates that half that figure would be nearer right. The Mine Workers number 350,000; Clothing and Garment Workers—225,000; Steel—325,000; Autos—200,000; Textiles—250,000, and other industries in which C.I.O. organization is well advanced aggregate something over 100,000 members.

Of course this makes no allowance for the many A. F. of L. locans which would switch into the Lewis column if given the opportunity.

The A. F. of L. has a larger membership than the C.I.O. What's more, it is gaining members more rapidly—especially in the furniture, transportation, utility and white collar fields. The Federation is greatly aided by the fact that many employers are throwing their plants open to Bill Green's organizers on the principle that the A. F. of L. is the lesser of two evils.

Letters To The Editor

Your Voice Is As Loud As Our Own

HAS ECONOMY THEORY

Editor, The Avalanche: Thanks for the nice way you published most of my articles defending the President. And here is a conclusion which summarizes in a little different light.

The President was doing a good job freeing us from the economic traps we were caught in and was destroying the traps when the trappers who had been caught with us in their own traps began to howl for their traps as soon as they were released by the "New Deal." They seem to think they will be wise enough in the future to keep from getting caught while they are catching the people. Their howls joined by those of many innocent citizens whose thoughts are too fossilized for modern economics, may make such a noise the President may wonder whether he is right, unless he hears some approving yells from the people. Their great vote of approval is past history and soon forgot. But the process of making the people safe from economic traps must go on. I am yelling approval as loud as I can, solely in behalf of democracy and economic justice.

I was glad to hear the voice of another old-timer, Smith Shaw, of Idalou, yelling in the same chord.

I pioneered these plains when it was a cattle empire. I helped grow its first bale of cotton and saw the country grow into a great cotton empire. I observed processes in that growth similar to those of our nation.

I have published a fascinatingly romantic, but historically true story of the country's history which I wish all would read for the gospel of the Llano Estacado in it. From its geography and philosophy it is called "Hopeful Visions on Higher Ground." Some thoughts from its chapter on sociology are borrowed for this conclusion.

Man's rapid progress towards redeeming himself from the necessity of labor without redeeming his soul from selfishness makes it necessary for a democratic government to regulate the business of the people.

This land originally belonged to the people for making homes and living on it. But before the people were ready for it, far-sighted stockmen took possession of it and made great profits on it to themselves, and incidentally, to the people. Much credit is due the stockmen. However, when the people got ready to possess their land, they had an awful hard and long struggle, even aided by their state to get it. They finally succeeded and put 200 persons to living where only one did live.

God endowed the people with natural resources for power to use in redeeming themselves from hand labor. Cheap electricity could work wonders toward that purpose on these plains. But before the people were ready for those resources, keen business men took possession, very profitably to themselves and, I must say, incidentally they profited the people. However, the people are ready now to take charge of their resources and make them 200 times more servicable. They will have a long, hard struggle for them even with aid of their government.

Time was when a section of land afforded a living for the owner and several good tenant families. Now the owner buys machinery and hires a hand and works the whole section himself. The tenants must move to town and starve, or take other people's jobs, or go on relief and be called "no-accounts." They are unable to buy needed goods and the producers are ruined by a jammed over-production or an under consumption.

Man's heaven is a state where his living is provided without his labor. In his progress toward that state by inventions, he has recently decreased the amount of work necessary for his living and thereby lessened the amount of jobs. This throws many out of employment. Yet man's living rather increases in cost. Therefore, man's income must not decrease. Shall we destroy machines and go back to hand labor to make more jobs? No! Divide work into smaller jobs distributed to more people with out reducing their incomes. That will not be unjust to business, because less labor now produces more results.

But extreme profits and salaries must come down. Why allow salaries greater than our President's? That kind of adjustment must be made for all working people. And many people must be provided a living without their work. These adjustments will come by hard struggles of the people, aided by their government. Otherwise, we will be "to ills a prey, where wealth accumulates and men decay."

W. P. Florence,
Slaton, Texas.

FOR THE PRESIDENT

Editor, The Avalanche: Why do all the newspapers have to knock the President when it has been demonstrated only recently that he is highly popular?

I am under the impression that our newspapers reflect the large advertisers' opinion instead of public opinion. If, as you say, Franklin received a spanking from Congress, it is my opinion that Congress would receive a spanking from the voters of they were given a chance to express themselves at the polls on an amendment.

Why not say for awhile "God save our poor people," instead of our constitution? Why not say "unpack" the court instead of "pack" it. It is my opinion that our courts seldom dispense 100 per cent justice. If I am ever brought up before any court I want the best lawyer to be had. With financial interests ably represented and have Supreme court members radically conservative what chance has a progressive measure.

Yours truly,
L. M. Austin,

Ryan Urges End To Labor Union Strife; Blames CIO Chiefs

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2. (AP) — Joseph P. Ryan, of New York, president of the International Longshoremen's association, here today urged an end of labor strife between the C. I. O. and the American Federation of Labor to avoid what he said would be confusion in American maritime industry at a time when the national administration is trying to build up the merchant marine.

Ryan was here attending the wage conference of the South Atlantic and Gulf district of the I. L. A. at which he said tentative wage and working agreements would be drawn up for submission to shipping operators by the first week in September.

He blamed the present day industrial strife on the C. I. O. and charged that the C. I. O. was "dominated by Communists."

"It is regrettable," said Ryan, "that with business improving and the government embarking on a $226,000,000 merchant marine building program and labor faced with a golden opportunity that another labor group should inject itself into the picture and take over control after the I. L. A. has been building slowly and effectively for about 25 years."

Ryan said longshoremen in New Orleans were working under a differential five cents an hour lower than other Gulf ports and that when contracts are negotiated in September the I. L. A. would seek to wipe out this differential.

Boy Escapes With Only Slight Injuries In Accident Here

Bobby Brown, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Brown, 2005 Fourteenth street, escaped with slight injuries when struck in front of his home Monday by an automobile driven by Culver Hill, department store advertising manager.

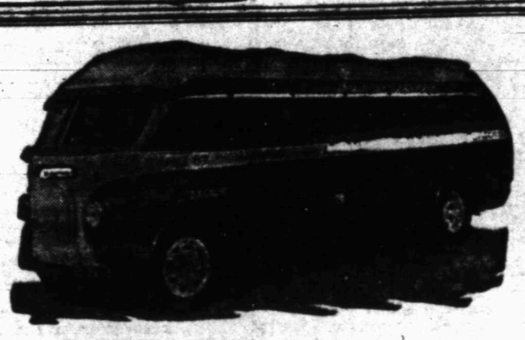

Report to police said that the boy ran from behind a parked automobile in front of that driven by Hill. The boy was scratched and bruised on the neck and side. The family physician, who attended him at the boy's home, said the injuries apparently were not serious.

The accident occurred about two hours after parents of the youth had left on a vacation trip to New Mexico.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 20

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

When he regained consciousness after his terrific battle with the Bukena warriors, Tarzan found himself in the dark interior of an evilsmelling hut, his wrists and ankles bound securely. He seemed powerless to escape whatever fate hung over him! . . .

. . . In contrast, swift action was the keynote of Jane's attempt to escape the lion. Her lightning leap would have done credit to Tarzan himself. But the beast rose, too, in a powerful jump, and its raking talons barely missed her foot as she drew herself up.

From her position in the tree, she could see Prince Sborov in the underbrush, paralyzed by terror. "You'd better get out of there," Jane cried; "but don't make any noise. If the lion hears, he'll dash for you. He's terribly angry, and he means business!"

She feared the lion would find Sborov; and as leader of the party she felt responsible for every member. There was only one way to protect him. She must distract the lion by tempting him to leap at her! So, she swung down, in range of the growling beast!

Russia Involved In East Crisis

last two days. They said their infantry was 35 miles below Peiping. (But Chinese dispatches to Nanking declared a Japanese column was moving steadily on Paotingfu, under cover of airplanes, which bombed Chinese troop trains.)

Japan poured more troops into conquered North Hopeh province and gave evidence of plans for organizing that district as a permanent base for possible further military expansion.

Came From Manchuria

The reinforcements came down from Manchuria. Japanese troop movements monopolized what railroad facilities had been restored in the Peiping-Tientsin area, although headquarters announced that completion of "mopping up" against Chinese bands around Langfang would permit resumption of service between Tientsin and Peiping soon.

North of Peiping the Japanese said they had disarmed the Chinese 29th brigade of 3,000 men.

The Japanese army's political organizers reported considerable success in their efforts to set up new Chinese-staffed but Japanese-controlled administrations in conquered North Hopeh. "Peace maintenance committees" were functioning here and in Peiping.

Tientsin's refugee problem grew to grave proportions. Chinese estimated as many as 300,000 were flocking to this city.

Woodul Acting Chief

desire of long standing, he said today, and will give Senator Isbell opportunity also to act as governor.

As substitute governor, Woodul sat in on a meeting of the state board of mineral development, received some callers, and announced he would appoint Orville M. Mosier of Ralston, Okla., airways company executive, and John Howard Payne, business manager of a Houston newspaper "colonels" on his personal staff.

Speaks At Brenham

Later in the day he went to Brenham to deliver a speech at a celebration which he said was one of a number of addresses he would make, others being at Sulphur Springs Thursday, Dalhart Aug. 9 and Weatherford Aug. 12.

When Isbell becomes acting governor, he will be the eighth person to have served as governor of Texas in less than three years. In January, 1935, Governor Allred succeeded Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, and in the numerous absences of Allred the lieutenant-governor has substituted for him.

Presidents pro tempore of the senate who have acted as governors are John S. Redditt of Lufkin, Tom DeBerry of Bogata, Ken Regan of Pecos and Wilbourne B. Collie of Eastland.

Housing Bill Debate

would be $4,000 per family under his measure.

"Mandates" Of Bill Cited

Wagner contended "mandates" in the bill would guard against use of federal funds for other than poor persons and would prevent "extravagance" of construction.

The bill would create a United States housing authority to make loans and grants to local public housing agencies for slum clearance and housing construction.

A $700,000,000 bond issue over the next three years and an initial appropriation of $26,000,000 would be authorized. This program, Wagner told the senate, would rehouse $25,000 families. Annual subsidies up to $20,000,000 a year also could be made.

INDUSTRIALS MOVE UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. (AP)—A late rally in steels gave a touch of buoyancy to today's stock market and leading industrials pushed into new high ground for the move.

While gains of fractions to 2 or more points were held by favorites at the finish, utilities, rails and a number of other issues refused to participate and final trends were mixed.

General Motors was out in front from the start on anticipation of pleasing dividend news from the directors after the close. The board came through for the optimistic prophets with the declaration of a $1 disbursement on the common despite the sharp drop in profits, previously reported, in the second quarter. "GM" stock emerged with a net upturn of 2 points at 58, the top of the day.

Chrysler did virtually nothing until the last lap when it took courage from the performance of its chief competitor and advanced 1¼ to 117⅝.

The principal steels were laggards during the greater part of the proceedings. Their belated revival was coincident with the estimate of the American Iron and Steel institute placing current steel mill operations up 1.2 points over the preceding week. Predictions of the magazine "steel" that production probably had seen its low for the season also helped the group.

Trading volume picked up a bit, transfers totalling 789,370 shares compared with 615,250 last Friday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .3 of a point at 69.8.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2. (AP) — Cotton prices sold off to new low levels for the present movement at the start of the new season today. The close was barely steady at net declines of 13 to 17 points.

Continued favorable weather of the belt and good private crop advices were the main factors behind the offerings.

The official weather map showed practically no rain in the belt, and temperatures high.

October closed at 10.60, Dec. at 10.62, Jan. at 10.66, Mch 10.76, May 10.80 and July 10.82. Spots were quiet and on sales of 20 bales middling eased 17 points to 10.95.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. (AP)—Cotton declined approximately $1.00 per bale further today to new low levels for the life of active contracts.

Favorable weather over the week end and absence of new constructive developments resulted in aggressive selling. December sold down to 10.56, closing at that level with final prices 18 to 22 points net lower.

The market opened 3 to 8 points lower under hedge selling and liquidation. The Liverpool market remained closed for the bank holidays and foreign operations were small. Around midday there were occasional small rallies from the early decline but late in the afternoon aggressive Wall street selling, couped with liquidation and further hedge selling sent values down with little opposition other than trade price-fixing and covering.

Crop accounts were favorable and prospects of a large yield further undermined confidence and encouraged more active outside selling.

State Education Body

body's reduction of the ad valorem rate, but whether they constitute a majority of the nine members is a question.

Opposite View Taken

Ghent Sanderford of Austin, president of the board, contends the board has no power to reconsider its action and the matter, under the law, had to be disposed of by Aug. 1. Ben F. Eisinger of Dallas, a member, takes an opposite view.

The entire membership of the board was present when Sanderford called the meeting to order. Other than Tisinger, Sanderford and Laird, the members are Tom Garrard of Tahoka, J. C. Blair of Kerns, R. S. Bowers of Caldwell, Irvin McCreary of Temple, J. G. Strong of Carthage and D. F. Youngblood of San Antonio.

Press Allowed To Remain

A big crowd of school men, several members of the legislature and others had to leave the room when the meeting was declared executive but press representatives were allowed to remain.

Laird made his motion to turn the defense in the injunction case over to the attorney general's department, it was amended to include Gaynor Kendall, the board's attorney, and, in short order, the board passed to routine business, including consideration of bond purchases.

Scott Gaines, first assistant attorney general, sat in on the meeting and later said that while he had not conferred with Attorney General William McCraw the department would doubtless seek to have the injunction, obtained by the San Antonio independent school district, set aside at a hearing in San Antonio August 4.

Another Meeting Predicted

Tisinger expressed confidence the board would have no difficulty having the restraining order vacated and said that when it was free again there probably would be a meeting to consider setting the apportionment.

"Speaking as an individual," Tisinger said, "I take the position the apportionment never has been fixed, and the action of the board of education, preceding that of the automatic tax board, was illegal.

"I am in favor of giving the schools all the money we have without creating a deficit. It is a simple matter of dividing the amount of money which will be available by the number of scholastics, and it looks as if that division will give us between $20 and $21. I believe there are five or six of us who feel that way."

The board purchased approximately $500,000 in school bonds for the permanent school fund and probably will buy about that amount tomorrow when it also plans to pass on certain rural aid allotments.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Climaxing what trade leaders describe as the greatest outpouring of wheat this country has ever seen, prices today tumbled 2¾ cents a bushel maximum.

The outpouring referred to is the big movement of newly harvested domestic winter wheat causing nearly 18,000,000 bushels increase of the United States visible supply total today, as against only 7,578,000 bushels increase at this time last year. Today's increase immediately follows last week's increase of 20,573,000 bushels.

Adding to the bearish influence of the visible supply figures was announcement that new domestic spring wheat in larger volume is now beginning to be marketed.

The the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1¼@1¾ cents under Saturday's finish, Sept. $1.15@1.15⅛, Dec. $1.16¼@$1.16⅜, May $1.17⅛@⅜$1.18, Corn, 1⅜ off to 3 cents up, Sept. 98⅜@⅝98¾, Dec. 66@66¼, May 67¾@68¼, oats ⅝ off, Sept. 28⅜, and rye showing 1 cent to 2 cents drop, Sept. 78¼. Provisions results were 15 to 22 cents down.

A contributing bearish factor as to wheat was apparent general expectance that most of the monthly unofficial domestic crop estimates due tomorrow would prove bearish.

Chicago September delivery of wheat scored the sharpest downturn of prices today, falling to a low of $1.13⅞ compared with $1.13⅞ at Saturday's finish, but closing with a rally to $1.15⅛.

Fresh low price records for the season developed not only in wheat, but also in corn, oats and rye.

Gaines Quarantine

Friday in the 2200-block on Eighteenth street was affected with rabies.

Following receipt of the notice, eleven persons began taking antirabid treatment, and possibly others will start soon, authorities said.

Those who began treatment yesterday were:

Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Young and children, Malcolm and George, of 2208 Eighteenth street.

Howard, Elizabeth, Bob and Dick Schmidt, children of Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Schmidt, 2206 Eighteenth.

Billy Allen and June McAlister, children of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. McAlister, 2209 Eighteenth.

Marvin McLarty, jr., 2210 Eighteenth street, life guard at City swimming pool and former high school football player who actually was bitten by the dog.

Away On Vacation

Mrs. McLarty, sr., and three other children are away on their vacation and uncertainty was expressed this morning as to whether they will require treatment. Probabilities are, however, McLarty said, that they will be given serum. The dog belonged to the McLarty family.

Dr. Schmidt said the others possibly have been exposed among the 25 children of high school age and under who reside in the one block. The dog was something of a neighborhood pet and had played at one time or another with almost every child in the block.

He and others were fearful that other dogs may also have been exposed. They recalled that the McLarty pup had played with a stray a few days ago and all dogs in that vicinity have been ordered held under observation.

Fatal Highway Crash

Highway patrol, investigated.

The Trout machine, a 1930 Chevrolet four-door sedan, was damaged considerable, officers said. The truck was a heavy refrigerator machine with a Wichita, Kansas, license. A meat truck, it was almost empty.

Body Taken To Matador

Body to Trout and the brother were brought here in an oil pick-up truck which arrived at the scene of the accident soon after it happened.

Definite funeral arrangements pended communication with relatives of Trout at Childress, although rites will be conducted there probably tomorrow, said Sheats Funeral home.

He was survived by his wife, three children and the brother who was with him. Names of other survivors tonight were unobtainable. He was an ex-service man, having fought in the World war.

He was a farmer of the extreme northeast corner of Motley county near the Cee Vee community which is just across the county line in Cottle county. His brother lives near him in Cottle county.

Plane Crash To Be Investigated

at 4:27 o'clock Sunday afternoon. A watch belonging to one of the persons on the plane was found stopped at that reading.

The plane, falling off in a 270-degree turn from downward into the east, struck the ground with such terrific impact a tractor and a service garage truck had to be employed to separate the wreckage before Simms and the occupant of the right forward seat could be removed.

Altitude estimates range from 130 to 500 feet.

The engine had been driven backward "into the laps" of the pilot and the person, not immediately identified, who sat beside him, and they had been thrown forward against it. Metal tubing had been thrust through the right leg of the man sitting in the right front seat, so that he could not be lifted from the splintered and crushed debris until it had been cut.

Witnesses of the crash were indefinite as to what happened and as to contributing circumstances. No pilot, apparently, saw the crash.

Lubbock airmen, Clent Breedlove, manager of Municipal airport; Art Chase, J. H. York, Gene White, Truman Meinecke, and Bill Alder, appeared at the crash scene soon afterward, all except Alder, a highway patrolman, flying here after being informed of the crash. Alder and Jack Reaves, another highway patrolman, were in Littlefield when informed by personnel of Stokes Drug store of the crash, and rushed to the cotton field on motorcycles in time to protect the plane and escort ambulances loaded with the dead back into the city.

Falls Off On Wing

The airmen were informed the plane had been flying north, or downwind, in "rotten air made up of gusts and vertical currents." The engine began spluttering, either before the pilot banked to the right or after he had put his ship into the turn, and the big craft fell off on a wing and spun in out of control to the ground. The nose of the ship was facing eastward when the advance of a crowd reckoned as high as 4,000 persons arrived.

All occupants of the ship apparently had died instantly. Simms, who had flown his ship here Sunday morning from Lubbock, where it had been hangared several months, had been "hopping passengers" all day, said J. A. Price, editor of the County-Wide News of Littlefield.

Was At Low Altitude

I. W. Curry, farmer of Littlefield, said the plane was at low altitude when the engine went out.

Herman Kelm, another eyewitness, said the motor continued sputtering spasmodically until it was buried in the soft earth.

The plane fell within 100 yards of the farm home of B. P. Hodge, five minutes after leaving its takeoff and landing field near the CCC camp.

Mrs. Simms and her daughter were in a theater at Lubbock when news of her husband's death was conveyed to her by Mrs. Clent Breedlove, wife of the manager of Municipal airport at Lubbock.

Numerous Lubbock persons, including airmen intimates, plan attendance at rites for Simms, it was learned at Municipal airport.

Simms was considered a better-than-average pilot, said his flying friends.

Two Killed, Two Injured In Collision Of Two Planes

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2. (AP)—Two men were killed and two others were critically injured in a collision of two airplanes preparing to land at Dycer airport here tonight.

Chester O. Powers, 24, a private pilot, and his passenger, Harry Allen Wigley, were killed as Powers' plane locked wings with a biplane, witnesses told police.

Frank Jamison, 31, of Beverly Hills, owner and pilot of the biplane, received fractures of an arm and a leg, a possible skull fracture and internal injuries. Joe Vierling, 36, a student pilot with him, suffered a crushed chest, a broken leg and internal injuries.

Witnesses said the planes came together at a height of about 300 feet. They spun slightly as they fell, tearing shingles from a garage.

Criminal Cases In County Docketed

Twenty-five criminal cases were docketed for hearing in county court within the next two weeks by County Judge J. J. Dillard who called the docket at 9 o'clock Monday morning. Twenty-one of the cases charge violation of state liquor laws.

Other cases scheduled for hearing in the two weeks include one embezzlement, two aggravated assault, and road law vialotion charges.

Recess Appointment

being confirmed, he will consider that "sufficient grounds to vote against confirmation."

Even Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz) of the senate judiciary committee, who supported the president's court bill, commented that "a wise man would not take his seat until confirmed by the senate."

Connally Criticizes Resolution

However, Senator Connally (D-Tex), a foe of the court bill, took the senate floor in the afternoon to criticize the Vandenberg resolution.

"The senate has no right to put pressure upon the president," he said. "The duty of the senate is to stand up and perform its duty when the issue comes to it. The senate will not get anywhere by lashing at the White House with political resolutions of this kind."

Both Connally and Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky pointed to headlines in the afternoon papers about the Vandenberg proposal and said the Michigan legislator had "accomplished his purpose."

Vandenberg replied that he was sorry if the senators questioned his sincerity. He said his resolution was no attempt to dictate to the president, but merely asserted that the senate "can best perform its function of confirmation if it has a chance to act before a justice has entered upon his term of office."

In the midst of the furore over the White House announcement, the judiciary committee unanimously approved a resolution for a broad inquiry into all phases of the judicial issue raised by the president's reorganization proposal.

It endorsed a resolution by Senators Burke and Hatch (D-NM), a Roosevelt supporter, calling for appointment of a group of judiciary committee members to study the entire question and report "from time to time."

With an appropriation of $10,000 the committee would be directed to inquire into "all matters relating to the reorganization of the courts of the United States, the appointment of additional judges for any such courts, and the reform of judicial procedure."

Hatch said he believes the study either would "get something worthwhile, or demonstrate we can't agree on anything."

He expressed the opinion a constitutional amendment for compulsory retirement of judges at 75 years of age is needed.

The proposal for a study of the judiciary issue came on the eve of senate consideration of the lower court bill which has been substituted for the president's measure. Senate leaders said they expect to take up that measure tomorrow after disposing of the Wagner housing bill.

Most of the Roosevelt court bill foes did not challenge the validity of Attorney General Cummings' opinion. Burke, however, said he was not sure it was correct and that he would study the question thoroughly.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev) said the constitution provides for naming Supreme court justices "with the advice and consent" of the senate, and if a new justice is needed before congress convenes again the nomination should be sent up at once.

Senator Borah (D-Idaho) said the attorney general had "ample precedent" for his opinion, but contended "the precedents grew out of political exigencies and are in conflict with the plain, simple and unmistakable language of the constitution."

Vandenberg, explaining the purpose of his resolution, said:

"It is manifest the senate can't be a free agent to exercise responsibility under the constitution to confirm supreme court nominees if the senate can't act until after a nominee has put on his robes and served for many months as an integral part of the court.

"It's one thing to reject a nominee before he enters upon his duties and quite a different thing to remove a justice after he has started serving.

"The fact that previous nominees have declined to enter upon their duties during a recess and instead waited until the senate had acted is judicial confirmation of the properiety of the rule I've suggested."

Idaho's Sentence

which spared Idaho's life but which will keep him in confinement another 14 months.

"After considering the evidence in the case," the peace justice said, "I have decided that the actions of the dog, Idaho, while in the water, are dangerous, and Victor Fortune is hereby ordered to securely confine said dog from this date until Oct. 1, 1938, and if said dog is not securely confined, any peace officer or designated representative of the commission of farms and markets is hereby ordered to kill said dog either off or on the premises."

The trial followed a hearing held after Daniel Houghton, who said he had been scratched by the animal while swimming in the canal July 11, swore out a warrant that the dog was "dangerous." Idaho was charged with causing Breeze's death by climbing onto his back while the youth was swimming.

New Phase Of Anglo-Italian Relations Opened

Friendship Seen In Messages

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 2.—An exchange of personal messages of friendship between the heads of the British and Italian governments was believed tonight to have opened a new phase of Anglo-Italian relations.

A letter from Premier Benito Mussolini to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was delivered today to complete the exchange.

Cool In Recent Years

Relationsc between Italy and Britain have been cool in recent years, at times badly strained, because of the conflict of interests in the Mediterranean and the Red Sea and a series of diplomatic issues.

British officials expressed belief this might be ended now.

Anti-British feeling mounted in Italy when Great Britain championed sanctions in 1935 against the Italian campaign in Ethiopia.

An Opposite Side

Italy, in concert with European Fascist nations, has been on the opposite side of council tables from Britain, aligned with the democratic governments, in controversies over non-intervention in Spain.

Contents of the reply letter were not discolsed but authoritative sources said it was "couched in cordial tones and reciprocated the tone of Chamberlain's message to Mussolini."

Chamberlain's letter had been interpreted generally as a frank gesture to Italy that Great Britain would welcome her friendship.

Authoritative sources said the exchange of notes opened the way for further Anglo-Italian negotiations and may have made possible a new four-power pact to replace the defunct Locarno treaty.

Decision Is Expected Thursday On Traxler

ADA, Okla., Aug. 2. (AP)—A decision on whether Texas or Oklahoma will get custody of Pete Traxler, southwestern outlaw, is expected here Thursday when the state of Oklahoma will resist the attempt of Pontotoc county to keep Traxler in the state for trial.

Gov. E. W. Marland granted extradition last week so that Traxler could be returned to Eastham, Tex., prison farm, from which he escaped while serving a 99-year robbery sentence.

But Pontotoc county officials sought a restraining order to prevent Traxler's removal until he has faced an armed robbery charge.

Owen J. Watts, assistant attorney general, who will represent the state here, said an agreement had been reached with Bryan and Marshall county attorneys, who also seek Traxler on armed robbery charges, to be bound by the decision at the hearing here.

"I will take the position," Watts said, "that the governor has the power to extradite despite any district order."

Traxler, wounded and captured in his flight from Eastham, now is in the McAlester penitentiary hospital.

Don't Hang A 'Come In, Burglar' Sign On Your Door, Chief H. L. Johnston Warns; 'Do's' And 'Don'ts' Listed For You Don't hang a "Come In, Burglar" sign on your door when you leave home.

That, in effect, was the warning given by Chief of Police H. L. (Bud) Johnston as he listed "don'ts" which citizens should observe to guard against burglary from their homes or their persons, and "do's" they should observe to provide identification and aid police in recovery of valuables.

Don't do any of the following: if you would avoid house burglary:

Don't Leave A Note

Leave a note on the door bell announcing that you are out and will return at a given time.

Leave your door key under the mat, or over the door.

Pull all the shades of your apartment when you go out as an invitation for thieves to enter.

"Take new servants into your confidence until you can be reasonably sure they are honest.

Note Distinctive Marks

Fail to note the distinctive marks on your valuables (number of case and movement of watch, all descriptive marks on jewelry).

Leave valuable clothing or jewelry in a rear room with windows unlocked while entertaining friends in front.

Allow strangers who represent themselves as gas inspectors, etc., into your house until they can show credentials.

Leave valuables in the house when you go away for a vacation, for thieves can enter any house if they have time.

Give strangers information regarding your neighbors.

Fasten Windows And Doors

Close your house or apartment for any considerable time without being sure that the windows and doors are securely fashioned, nailed or bolted if necessary.

Go on your vacation without giving written notice of your absence to the police headquarters.

"Don'ts" regarding burglary of one's person were:

Carry your pocketbook in your hip pocket.

Become careless when in a crowd and fail to keep your coat buttoned up and your eyes on your pockets.

Don't Show Money Too Largely

Be too eager to show your money in banks, theaters, railroad depots, steamboat landings, or other public places.

Fall asleep in public places.

Lay your handbag or valuables on the counter while shopping.

Carry your handbag suspended by a strap from your wrist; hold it tightly in your hand.

Chief Johnston also advised precaution for the identification of every member of a family. "When children or adults leave their homes, become afflicted with amnesia or loss of memory, or have been killed or died in remote places from their home, fingerprints would prove their identity, if a copy of their fingerprints were in the non-criminal file in the Bureau of Identification at Washington, D. C.

Criminal Has Advantage

"At the present time the criminal has the advantage over the law-abiding citizens because his fingerprints are recorded (although in a different file)."

The police department is "willing and anxious to forward your identification card to the United States Bureau of Identification," he said.

Accurate descriptions of every member of a family should be available should anything serious happen. Distinctive marks should be remembered, and not just the usual "age, height, and weight."

Notify The Police

"When you see a crime committed or a very suspicious person or condition, notify the police at once. The more you cooperate with the police, the more the police can accomplish for you. Regard the policeman as your best friend. You are paying him to enforce your laws. He is entitled to your help."

"Light and noise are very distasteful to the criminal. A good watchdog is better than a lock on a door.

"A revolver in the hand of a novice is not as good as a shotgun, for the protection of the home.

"Keep your eyes open, learn to observe. It costs nothing and it is a habit that once formed will always help you."

Need for education of boys and girls in the "great necessity of respect for law and authority" was emphasized by Chief Johnston.

Plans For New Grade School At Roosevelt To Be Ready Soon

Plans for the new grade school at Roosevelt, to take the place of the three district school buildings, will be ready for contractors to figure on, within the next two or three days, Herman Fink of Fink and Benson, architects, said yesterday.

Date for receiving of bids has not been set but will be in about two weeks, Fink said. The present buildings are to be razed and the new structure, near the present Roosevelt Rural High school will take its place.

Three Are Killed In Collision Of Car And Truck In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 2. (AP)—Three persons were dead and seven injured, five of them seriously, today as the result of a head-on collision between a truck and a crowded coupe about a mile west of Denham Springs last night.

The dead:

John L. Knight, of Varnado, Washington parish, 21-year-old Louisiana State university senior.

W. B. Stafford, Corbin, 21, driver of the coupe.

Buck Perkins, negro, of the Denham Springs vicinity.

FRENCHMEN STILL ALIVE

PARIS, Aug. 2. (AP) — Official French advices indicated today that two Frenchmen, Louis Chabrat and Jean Boujennec, condemned to death by a Spanish insurgent court at Pamplona on charges of plotting to spread disease germs among insurgents, still were alive.

Other reports had stated they were shot.

This was the first cognizance French officials had taken of the case. They did not, however, discuss it further.

Demonstration In Dusting Of Cotton For Flea Hoppers To Be Given Today, Wednesday

Farmers interested in dusting of cotton for treatment of flea hoppers, are invited to the J. B. McCauley farm, about two miles north of Texas Technological college on the old Plainview road, today and Wednesday morning.

A demonstration of dusting is to be given then. McCauley has a supply of dusting sulphur and a machine which he is attaching to his tractor.

McCauley said he would be glad to have farmers visit the place and see how the work is done. He was one of the first farmers to reported trouble with hoppers.
