GENERALS URGE BRAZIL ELECTION OF ARMY MAN

Goulart Flies to Exile in Uruguay

By JOSEPH SIMS

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Generals who sparked the revolt that toppled President Joao Goulart urged Congress Saturday to elect immediately an army general as provisional president to carry out a Communist purge and insure stability until the 1965 elections.

Goulart Saturday ended a two-day mystery as to his whereabouts by flying from his Sao Borja, Brazil, ranch to Montevideo, Uruguay, where he requested and was conceded political asylum.

His departure from national territory appeared to end, for the moment at least, any threat of a counter-revolution.

Conservative governor Carlos Lacerda of Guanabara state immediately endorsed the military suggestion that a general be installed as chief of state.

The generals met with state governors who led the political arm of the rebellion and passed on the "suggestion" adopted by 500 field grade officers in a meeting at the military club Friday night.

The constitution calls for Provisional President Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli to be replaced by May 2, 30 days after his inauguration, but the generals do not want to wait that long.

Goulart refuses to comment on politics.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Joao Goulart, deposed last week as Brazilian president by a military-political revolt aimed at throttling communism, arrived here Saturday to take up political exile. He refused to comment on Brazilian politics.

Goulart's private plane landed at 3:35 p.m. EST on a flight from his Sao Borja, Brazil, ranch. His arrival ended a two-day mystery as to his whereabouts.

The small plane bringing Goulart here requested landing permission only 10 minutes before touching down at Pando Field, a military training field 20 miles northeast of this capital.

Goulart descended from the plane with four unidentified men. He had a slight smile on his face.

Priceless Statue Arrives in Naples For Ocean Voyage

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Michelangelo's Pieta, wrapped in three tons of plastic, wood, asbestos and steel, arrived in Naples Saturday night for its trans-Atlantic voyage to the United States.

The statue reached Naples over wet roads most of the way on a slow eight-hour truck trip from Rome.

The priceless statue of Mary with the dead Christ will be placed aboard the Italian liner Cristoforo Colombo here Sunday. Its final destination is the New York World's Fair.

The 150-mile land journey from the Vatican to Naples went off without incident despite heavy rain and wind.

Shelhamer and Gikas Win Posts In Heavy Vote

John Gikas, lone incumbent for re-election to the Pampa board of education, and E. E. Shelhamer, an insurance agent, were named to seats on the board by a large number of voters in Saturday's school trustee election.

Shelhamer led the total vote, followed closely by Gikas, in the final outcome of the day-long election that saw 2,272 persons cast ballots.

Shelhamer polled 1,262 votes while Gikas had a total of 1,232 votes. Shelhamer will replace R. D. Wilkerson, who chose not to seek re-election.

Gikas, who has been one of the more outspoken board members in recent years, ran on a platform favoring open meetings rather than executive sessions, closed to the press and the public; as have been held by the board in recent months.

Three other candidates polled heavy totals in the race. Joe Reid, a Cabot Corporation official, totaled 977 votes; Jack Hood, Pampa druggist, had 657 votes, and Bill McDonald, a Celanese employee, polled 281 votes. One write-in vote was cast for W. J. Henderson, Cabot Carbon Black employee.

E. Park Brown, election judge, said the voting at Pampa Junior High School's gym was "easily handled and the election as a whole went very smooth."

Brown said there was no hitch during the day and reported the voting was "steady" from 8 a.m. until closing time at 7 p.m. The heaviest vote period was from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m. when 628 ballots were cast. The total vote was combined with 2,190 cast at the polls and 82 absentee votes cast before March 31.

Shelhamer, contacted at his home, said, "I am very happy that the people of the Pampa school district has shown this confidence in me and I will do everything in my power to see that they are served well and fairly as long as I am on the board."

Shelhamer said he was pleased to hear of the heavy (See VOTE, Page 3)

Write-in Candidate Wins in Miami Vote

Heavy turnouts in the White Deer-Skellytown and McLean school board elections highlighted Top O' Texas board of trustee votes Saturday night.

The area spotlight was focused on White Deer and Skellytown where voters were selecting school board members by positions for the first time in history.

However, Miami's independent school board election stole the show from the rest of the area when a write-in candidate won a seat on the board by a wide majority.

The area election results by communities:

—Miami

An unexpected flood of write-in votes put Troy Hopkins on the Miami Independent School board of trustees Saturday. Three candidates were on the ballot, all running unopposed for three vacant seats when Hopkins pulled his upset.

Incumbents Frederick Gordon and Loren Grantham were overwhelmingly re-elected, but 62 write-in votes gave Hopkins the seat instead of Donald Black, seeking re-election and received only 28 votes. A total of 97 votes were cast in all for the posts.

In the county trustee election, two posts were open with the incumbents being re-elected to new terms. James W. Seitz received 86 votes and William W. (See WRITE-IN, Page 3)

Area Elections Set In Four Communities

Four Top O' Texas communities will hold municipal elections Tuesday to name city councilmen and mayors.

Citizens of Lefors, McLean, White Deer and Miami will go to the polls on Tuesday to register their choices in the election.

Three of the four city elections show contested elections with a total of ten persons seeking the mayor's office and two seats on the board of aldermen at White Deer.

The White Deer election finds Burl Caudle, Robert O. Eastham and J. D. (Ox) Fleming seeking the mayor's post with a write-in campaign being conducted by Alvin Williams.

Bill E. Abbot, Nathan Edwards, Eugene Hoskins, Grady Milton and Joel Sewell are seeking seats on the board of alderman. Two of the five will be named to the board. Ber-

HAIL? — YES! — Pampa's Priest Park was covered Friday with a light, smattering of small hailstones as a cool, tornado-bearing front moved into Texas. No severe damage was reported in the Pampa area and farmers were pleased to get the .42 inches of moisture.

Front Triggers Drizzly Weather

A cool front, pushing southward across most of Texas Saturday, left Pampans shivering in cold, drizzly weather and dumped a tornado on the bustling city of Wichita Falls Friday that killed seven persons.

Weather Bureau spokesmen in Amarillo said that Pampans could expect continued cloudy and cold weather through Sunday with drizzling rain and snow.

Rainfall Saturday measured a trace with .42 inches of rain and hail recorded Friday afternoon. The Pampa temperature dropped from 67 degrees at 2 p.m. to a cold 34 degrees about 9 p.m. Rain and hail fell in Wheeler, Mobette and Roberts county.

Hail covered most streets in Pampa during the rainfall which began about 4 p.m. Friday and continued for the better part of an hour before stopping. It resumed around 3 a.m. Saturday with fog adding to the moisture.

The tornado struck Wichita Falls, a bustling North Central Texas city of 155,000 people about 2 p.m. Friday, killing seven persons and injuring 102 others.

estimated at some $5 millions. Wichita Falls city manager Jack Davis said damage figures do not include Sheppard Air Force Base where three KC97 aerial tankers were damaged. The planes are worth millions of dollars.

Thirteen of the injured remained in the Sheppard AFB hospital and seven others in two hospitals in Wichita Falls. Six of the injured were in serious condition.

The Weather Bureau put Wichita Falls under a thunderstorm, hail and damaging winds — but not a tornado — forecast Saturday. A tornado forecast Friday probably helped save many lives.

President Johnson telephoned Rhea Howard, publisher of the Wichita Falls Times-Record-News Saturday, and told him the scope of the twister would not permit him to declare the city a national disaster area.

But he said he was "interested and concerned" and had alerted the Red Cross, Federal Housing Administration, small business administration and other government agencies to offer all help available.

In Washington, small business administrator Eugene P. Foley designed Wichita County as a disaster area. Owners of homes and businesses destroyed or damaged by the tornado may apply to the SBA for 3 per cent rehabilitation loans.

C. O. Layne, deputy director of the state defense and disaster relief office, said Johnson and the SBA were using two different definitions of a disaster area.

MacArthur's Condition Still Deteriorating

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The condition of Gen. Douglas MacArthur worsened ominously Saturday and the Army's surgeon general said it would be a miracle if he survived.

Li Gen. Leonard D. Heaton declined to say the 84-year-old military hero was dying. But he reported that MacArthur had fallen into deeper coma and that his heart, pulse and blood pressure continued to fail.

The morning medical bulletin at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said the ailing general "continues in a peaceful coma which is gradually deepening." The other major vital functions are becoming increasingly difficult to sustain.

In response to questions, Heaton used the term "ominous" to describe MacArthur's condition.

Asked about chances of recovery, the surgeon general confined himself to commenting, "Miracles always can occur." And, although he refused to say death was imminent, the expert conceded "It's certainly not a matter of weeks."

Heaton said that the coma into which the old soldier lapsed Friday was the result of liver failure. MacArthur also has developed a serious kidney malfunction, Heaton pointed out, that the general's heart, pulse and blood pressure were the vital signs that seemed to be ebbing.

Pampa Man Recalls Quake as 'Horrible Nightmare'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pampa Daily News received this story Saturday from Richard Lunsford, a former News carrier and Pampa High School graduate. It's his graphic story of the disaster which nearly destroyed our 4th state. Lunsford, a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist Seminary, has been on missionary duty in Alaska since taking a special linguistics course at the University of Oklahoma. His work has taken him throughout the state and to villages far above the Arctic Circle. His father, Dewey Lunsford, a welder at Pam-Tex Corp., and mother live at 1029 Duncan in Pampa.)

By RICHARD LUNSFORD
The devastating earthquake which hit here in Anchorage and many other parts of Alaska could almost be summed up in two statements.

1. It was a horrible nightmare.

2. It was a miracle of God. The long nightmare began at 5:36 p.m. on Good Friday. I was working at the time in the local Safeway Store on 9th and Gambel just about seven blocks from the hardest hit of the downtown area. I had just walked to the back of the store when all of a sudden I felt what seemed to be a distant rumble caused by thousands of wild stampeding elephants. I began shaking my head back and forth in a vain attempt to relieve the strange woozy feeling; when suddenly a sharp jolting crack introduced the next five minutes of horror.

Grocery cart with children overturned as mothers fell to the floor screaming under a continual barrage of flying cans, bottles, boxes, and what was feared to be broken windows. I was thrown against the wall near the dairy case and grabbed the arm of an elderly man who was carrying a cane. The five minutes seemed like five days as the building twisted and churned.

IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE to flee. The violent shaking produced what seemed to be a strange magnetic force that chained each of us to the spot where we were so suddenly caught off guard. It seemed as though the whole earth were on the deck of a ship which was being tossed about in a raging storm at sea.

It was not quite dark at the time, but when the power went off the semi-darkness added to the fear. We were in the midst of our Friday afternoon rush hour, and my greatest fear was that the roof would at any moment fall in killing scores of people.

Only one or two minutes must have passed when the initial fear of my own predicament subsided, and I began to think of what the rest of Anchorage was experiencing. Little did I know that not only Anchorage, but also many other cities and villages, were being torn to pieces and some washed away by tidal waves.

MY WIFE AND BABY girl were at home four miles from town and I was greatly worried for their safety. I was due home for supper at 6 p.m. so I was certain that she would have hot coffee and pans with hot grease on the stove which would add to their danger as things were being thrown around.

I tried to erase all these fears from my mind by praying, but the only words available were, "Oh, God, how long will it last?" And though in reality it lasted only a few minutes, those minutes were long enough to reflect on my family and loved ones back in Pampa and in Michigan. The material things of life suddenly lost their significance. More than anything else I coveted time. Time in which to complete those things which were yet undone — and time to help relieve the suffering of others. Life took on a strange new meaning.

Finally the rolling, jerking torment stopped as everyone stood in stunned silence. We were afraid to admit what had happened. The stillness was broken when someone shouted, "Get out of this building!" Then a search began for anyone who might be hurt or killed. One mother could not find her little boy, and we feared that he might be buried under the debris. After about five minutes of searching we found the boy safely in the arms of a soldier who was in the store at the time of the quake.

RIGHT THEN WE began to realize that interwoven with the tragedy we truly witnessed a miracle of God. In our store no one was hurt or killed, and only a miracle kept the building from falling in on us. The phones were all dead, so I got in the car immediately to go home, all the while trying to believe that the road on the way home was broken in several places with cracks almost a foot wide and breaks eight to ten inches high.

I turned on the car radio to get a report, but there was absolutely nothing to be heard. All the radio stations were knocked out including the military and civil defense.

When I arrived at the house the family was shook up but not hurt. The trailer had twisted somewhat and we were without heat or lights or water. Also the radio and some dishes were broken, but that didn't matter. We were together and safe. Fortunately, my wife had overslept and had not started supper at the time of the quake, so there had been no flying water or grease. This I also felt was a miracle.

WE WERE SAFE but that night was the longest night. Scores and scores of aftershocks, some more than half the magnitude of the original quake, occurred all night long. When the radio stations with their emergency power plants were back on the air, we began to realize the extent of the quake. We were told to put emergency gear and rations in the car and wait in case of evacuation. With the possibility of tidal waves some sections of town were evacuated, but we were more than 100 feet above the danger line. However, the after-

Mentalist to Address Knife, Fork Club Here

A New Jersey transcendental telepathist who goes by the mysterious name of DeMille, and who has been called the world's foremost mentalist, will be the guest of the Knife & Fork club when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Robert E. Lee Cafeteria, it was announced today by Jimmie Thompson, president of the club.

DeMille, according to the Chicago Daily News, is no ordinary mentalist. The Windy City newspaper came to this conclusion after DeMille had forecast on a Monday what the headlines of the paper would read on the next Thursday. He was exactly right, even predicting the headline that a cab driver would save children from a fire. Equally weird predictions have been made about other things, facts which had led those in the entertainment field to name DeMille the "Most mystifying man in America."

Local Minister to Talk in Galveston

Glyn B. Adsit, minister of Pampa's First Christian Church, will be among 27 guest ministers in Houston area pulpits on April 19 during the annual convention of Christian Churches in Houston.

The convention runs from April 16 through April 19. "Swapping preachers" for a day on Assembly Sunday is a traditional highlight of the annual conference.

The Pampa minister will occupy the pulpit at the Central Christian Church in Galveston.

Extensive Study Made on Suicides

By JOHN N. HALL
United Press International
TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—The average public school pupil who commits suicide in New Jersey is a white boy who lives in a rural area, has no close friends, few extra curricular activities, no older brothers and sisters, gets poor grades, but is above average in intelligence.

This was the finding of an extensive study of the problem by the state Education Department.

The report, released Wednesday, showed at least 41 public school students took their own lives by hanging, shooting, poisoning or burning or choking between September, 1960 and June 1963.

"At least an equal number of deaths listed as accidental could be classified as suicide," director of remedial education, Dr. James Jan-Tausch, wrote. He said there are nine suicide attempts for each successful one.

Findings of Study
Here are some of the facts gleaned from Jan-Tausch's study:

—There were only nine girls in the 41 suicides. But Jan-Tausch said about four times as many girls try to commit suicide and fail as boys. Girls usually try overdoses of barbiturates or aspirin.

—All but one of the 41 suicides were white. Negroes, as a general rule, "express their hostility outwardly rather than inwardly." Furthermore, they generally live in cities, which seem to provide factors which lessen the incidence of suicide.

—Eight of the 41 came from the city, nine from suburban or small communities and 24 from rural areas.

—Thirty, or three fourths, were the first born of the family, indicating "that a child's need to be identified with an older person may be an important factor in satisfying his need for psychological support in times of stress."

Could Do Better
—Two were retarded, 24 normal and 15 superior in intelligence but three were superior, nine were average and 29 poor in academic achievement.

—There was an almost unanimous evaluation of each child by his teachers and parents as one who was capable of doing better.

—Only nine belonged to a chorus, a team, a cast or any other extra-curricular activity. (Jan-Tausch said "participation in extra-curricular activities is a good deterrent of suicide.")

—None of the 41 had any close friends. "The critical difference between the attempter who failed and the one who succeeded was the presence in the case of the one who failed of someone to whom he felt close, someone who shared his inner thoughts, someone who accepted him as he was."

Listen To Threat

Jan-Tausch said a child who unsuccessfully attempts to end his life actually is less dangerous than one who merely threatens to commit suicide.

"The child who threatens suicide and is not taken seriously finds his frustration and despair all the more difficult to contain and, in addition, feels the need to prove the sincerity of his threats," he said.

Jan-Tausch suggested that anything the schools can do "to personalize the teacher-pupil relationship" would be helpful to prevent suicides. Guidance counselors need "to reevaluate their functions," he said.

WHY BUY FROM DOOR-TO-DOOR SALESMEN?

Here is what the Kiplinger magazine, Changing Times, reports about the pitfalls you are exposed to when you buy from them.

"PRICES ARE HIGHER:

Item for item, most products sold door-to-door are likely to cost more than comparable things in stores. And, only rarely do the door-to-door salesmen promote a bargain. Then, they usually try to sell you something else."

"QUALITY CAN'T BE DETERMINED EASILY.

Many items are unknown brands created for this trade. You have no way of comparing price or quality. Selection is limited."

"THERE IS OCCASIONAL DECEPTION.

The salesman may not work for the firm he says he does. He may identify himself as a 'market researcher' or an 'interviewer' or a 'public relations' man. He may pose as a war veteran or college student. There are reports of salesmen who take deposits and are never seen again."

BE CAUTIOUS WITH DIET FADDISTS.

Authorities warn against diet faddists, who promise impossible cures and results from the unknown vitamins they offer. Their prices are usually much more than the reliable brands we stock in our prescription pharmacy."

WHY TAKE UNNECESSARY CHANCES?

White Deer-Skellytown
Ernie Bill Terry and Ed Harmon won seats on the White Deer-Skellytown board of education Saturday night with a total of 510 votes cast in the two communities.

Fuller had 146 votes to lead Thompson by three ballots in the field of three persons seeking seats. George Orrick, lone incumbent in the election, had 136 votes and J. B. Roach, who was retiring from the board had two write-in votes.

Neither Fuller or Thompson has served on the board prior to this year's election for three year terms.

Thacker polled 116 votes for his second term on the body while Bryant had 79 votes, one more than Gene Robbins, who had 78. The fourth candidate, Earl Hendricks posted 72 votes.

Bryant has been president of the board the past year and a member of the group for nine years.

Aletha Trussell of 432 N. Ballard was admitted to Highland General Hospital with a back injury, but doctors did not describe her condition as serious.

Patrolman Charles LeFever, who investigated, said Mrs. Trussell was riding in a car driven by her husband, Clarence, when it was involved in a mishap with a car driven by James L. Kennlin of 438 N. Cuyler.

Trussell was turning left off Cuyler onto E. Kingsmill at the time. LeFever said a total of $225 damage was done to both cars.

Nightmare

It was about midnight when we realized that many were not so fortunate. A friend of mine was across the street from the J. C. Penney store when it collapsed killing some and injuring many others. Flying glass from several department stores cut those who were trying to flee.

One woman was trying to steady a teen-age girl when the earth opened up and the girl disappeared.

IN SOME PLACES cracks 100 feet wide and 50 feet deep swallowed entire houses along with their inhabitants.

The pastor of the Assembly of God Church in Valdez, who was a personal friend of mine, disappeared along with several others on the docks there as the high chasms opened and closed again.

I talked with a man on Saturday who had gone all through the Pacific in World War II and he said that he had never seen such sudden and horrible destruction. He helped in rescuing people from Penneys.

Another friend of mine was trapped in the collapse of the cold storage building and it took almost three hours of cutting and digging to rescue him. Only a few more minutes and he would have suffocated.

The editor of the local paper tried to flee his home and 20 to 30 foot cracks opened all around him. He fell in but finally escaped.

NEW HOTELS AND massive automobile buildings collapsed like match boxes. And stores along Fourth Avenue sunk 15 to 30 feet from street level.

The very day before the quake I had been substitute teaching at the West Anchorage High School which was almost destroyed and has been condemned. The Government Hill Grade School slid down the hill and the playground sank some 25 feet.

If school had been in session at the time of the quake hundreds of children would have been killed. If the quake had occurred just a little later many people would have been in the theater that sank several feet.

Many people have been hard hit and have suffered intensely, but it can truly be said that a real miracle has happened, in that so few were killed. It is possible that several thousand people could have lost their lives, but because of the timing of the quake they were spared.

But the most heartening thing of all is that nearly everyone here in Alaska feels that he or she has been spared for a purpose. Most of them feel a deep sense of gratitude to God and closer to one another as they go about rebuilding this great state.

Vote

turnout at the polls and felt this was a sign of renewed interest in board affairs.

Gikas, contacted at work, told newsmen, "I am thrilled at the results. I shall continue to serve as fairly and as impartially as possible — just as I have done so in the past. I want to thank the voters for this fine showing and the kindness they have shown to me in this vote of confidence."

The election was conducted quietly with a splurge of last minute campaigning by Gikas, Shelhamer and Reid. The candidates used hand-shaking, mail contacts and some political advertising to bring their messages to the public's eye.

The school board will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday to re-organize their officers and begin a new term. A new president will be named at the meeting to take the place of Wilkerson. Regular business will also be handled during the meeting.

Since the beginning of the Panhandle Science Fair in 1957, Pampa students have been delegates to the National Science Fair - International every year except one. This is the second time that both finalists from this region have been from Pampa. Miss Plaster is the second Pampa student to make a return trip to the National Fair. Gene Shelhamer was also a National Finalist twice.

232 Objects Make Up Space 'Garbage'

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 232 man-made objects, including a mysterious Soviet craft whose purpose is unknown to the Western world, are orbiting in space these days.

They represent what is left of the 576 assorted pieces of space age hardware rocketed aloft by the United States and the Soviet Union since Russian scientists launched Sputnik I on Oct. 4, 1957.

Most of them now are nothing more than space garbage—dead satellites, burned out rockets or fragments of rockets and spacecraft. At least eight—five U.S. and three Soviet spacecraft—are in endless planetary orbits around the sun and their radios long since mute.

One of the most persistent is Vanguard I, the six-inch satellite launched by the United States March 17, 1958. It was only the second American object to get into the orbit and still is cluttering up the airwaves with its radio signals after six years.

Of the 232 still orbiting objects, 209 were lofted by the United States and 23 by the Soviet Union. Only 17 of the U.S.

objects officially are recorded as still "alive" and able to transmit radio signals to earth.

A year ago Thursday the Russians launched a spacecraft which still remains a mystery to the West. It is orbiting neither the earth nor the sun but is in a so-called barycentric orbit around the "earth-moon system."

A spokesman for the federal space agency said no one here has yet been able to figure out the purpose of the mysterious craft. Its unique orbit was not established definitely by U.S. trackers until early this year.

The pitch fork is still as important as insecticides in controlling flies. The two tasks of cleaning-up manure piles and spraying around the farm are both essential to rid the farm of these pests.

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International
Barry Goldwater sawable coming when Dwight Eisenhower smote a here rose up a genii that to be known as the Republican Citizens Committee of the United States. The trouble arrived.

The miracle of the genii took place on June 30, 1962. At the Eisenhower farm that day had assembled the first All-Republican conference or ARC. ARC sponsored the Republican Citizens Committee (RCC) and former President Eisenhower became honorary chairman of the groups.

Goldwater promptly denounced Eisenhower's citizens committee. In a letter to GOP National Chairman William E. Miller, Goldwater said the leaders of the citizens group were the same individuals who had caused most of the current Republican party troubles, meaning election defeats. Goldwater said that he and other party leaders had been by-passed when RCC was formed.

Progressive Step

Ike replied that formation of RC and RCC was the most progressive step the Republican party had taken in many years. The implication of the whole was that Ike and company were determined that Eisenhower's soft-boiled Republicanism and not Goldwater's hard-boiled conservatism should guide the party into and through the 1964 presidential campaign.

RCC will make its first big move next week under command of Ike's brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower. Dr. Milton will appear in Washington in his capacity as chairman of the Critical Issues Council to unveil the first of a series of critical issues papers. This first paper will be released next Tuesday, April 7. Others will be issued at intervals of about a week right up to the Republican National Convention next July.

"The Critical Issues Council is organized," the announcement disclosed, "under sponsorship of the Republican Citizens Committee of the United States, to conduct research, and articulate Republican-oriented positions on the great problems facing the people and government of the United States."

The foregoing paragraph of gold-plated, $30 words is egg-head talk for what would read in the speech of the common man, something like this:

Would Rather Fight

"Now hear this: Barry Goldwater and his conservatives can't get away with kidnapping the Republican party's presidential nomination, writing its platform and otherwise taking over in 1964. We'd rather fight than switch to conservatism. Ike is on our side. Brother Milton ditto. No Republican nominee can be elected without Ike. So, prepare to read the critical issue papers carefully and to be guided by them when writing the Republican platform."

Brother Milton's Critical Issues Council consists of a couple of dozen graduates of the Eisenhower cabinet and/or other associations with Ike's administrations. The council is salted with a few—very few—credentialed conservatives such as Lewis L. Strauss, chairman, Atomic Energy Commission, 1953-58. There is no political officeholder or candidate for public office on the council.

That means that these critical issues papers will be drafted independently of the congressional leadership of the Republican party. Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen and House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck probably will grin and bear it.

Ike's citizens have whacked that pair before this and got away with it.

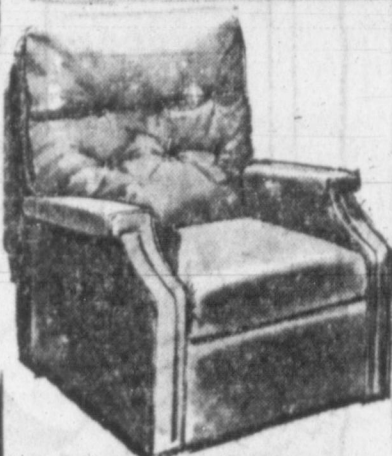

Goldwater, however, may be expected to fight, perhaps alone.

BALANCING BUS

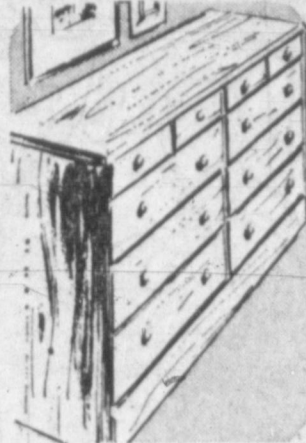

SALERNO, Italy (UPI) — A bus carrying 23 German women tourists hung for more than half an hour on the edge of a 16-foot precipice near here before a crane retrieved it.

The bus went out of control on a slippery road, crashed into a car and came to rest in an uneasy balance on the edge of a drop-off. Five of the women and the drivers of the bus and car were injured.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
Co. Agricultural Agent

Quite often you hear a rancher express his opinion on which the more profitable to run—cows or steers or calves of either sex.

A very interesting figure is noted on this subject from a copy of the proceedings of a Beef Cattle Short Course held at Pampa in 1963.

It takes 4500 lbs. of total Digestible Nutrients to produce a 450 lb. calf from a cow-calf operation. It requires only 100 lbs. of Total Digestible Nutrients to produce a 800 lb. steer out of a 400 lb. calf. In other words you can produce about 1200 lbs. of beef in a 12 months period running 3 calves compared to 450 lbs. of beef running one cow and calf.

Some people say this is too expensive a country to run cows and calves. A cow-calf operation would be in an area where the cost of an animal unit is much cheaper than here according to some ranchers.

I know one rancher that lives in Pampa that I have the highest regard for his judgement and believes this.

On the other hand if every one started running calves we wouldn't have anyone to produce good stocker calves.

Corral Plans

George Quibble picked up our H-Club boys grass drill to do some grass seeding. He plans to seed blue grama and buffalo. George also picked up a blueprint on corral plans. This is a very popular blueprint on a two-ben corral. It is mainly for the fellow that runs from 150 head down. We also appreciate George's comments on our news article.

Brown Wheat Mites

Emmett Osborne was by the office seeking advice on an insect problem he is having with his wheat. From the description he gave he has Brown Wheat Mites. Although they can be knocked off with Parathion they will be back with you in less than a week. Therefore I would not recommend any type chemical for their control. A good hard 1 inch rain puts a stop to them. My recommendation would be to pray for rain.

Soil Test

I have recently received reports on soil tests that have been returned from our L. H. back Soil Testing Laboratories.

Rueben Baggerman, who irrigation farms near groom sent in one of the samples. E. R. Ware, of Laketon, sent in the other.

Fertilizing Wheat

Roy Tinsley had us take a run out to his irrigation farm to look at his wheat and advise him about fertilizing. Last fall, he had only 60 lbs. of Nitrogen added before planting. Normally we would have suggested a soil test but time is very short for fertilizing wheat. We recommended he apply 60 lbs. of Nitrogen and water immediately. This will bring his total Nitrogen supply to 120 lbs. This will be close to the general recommendation from the Bushland Experiment Station.

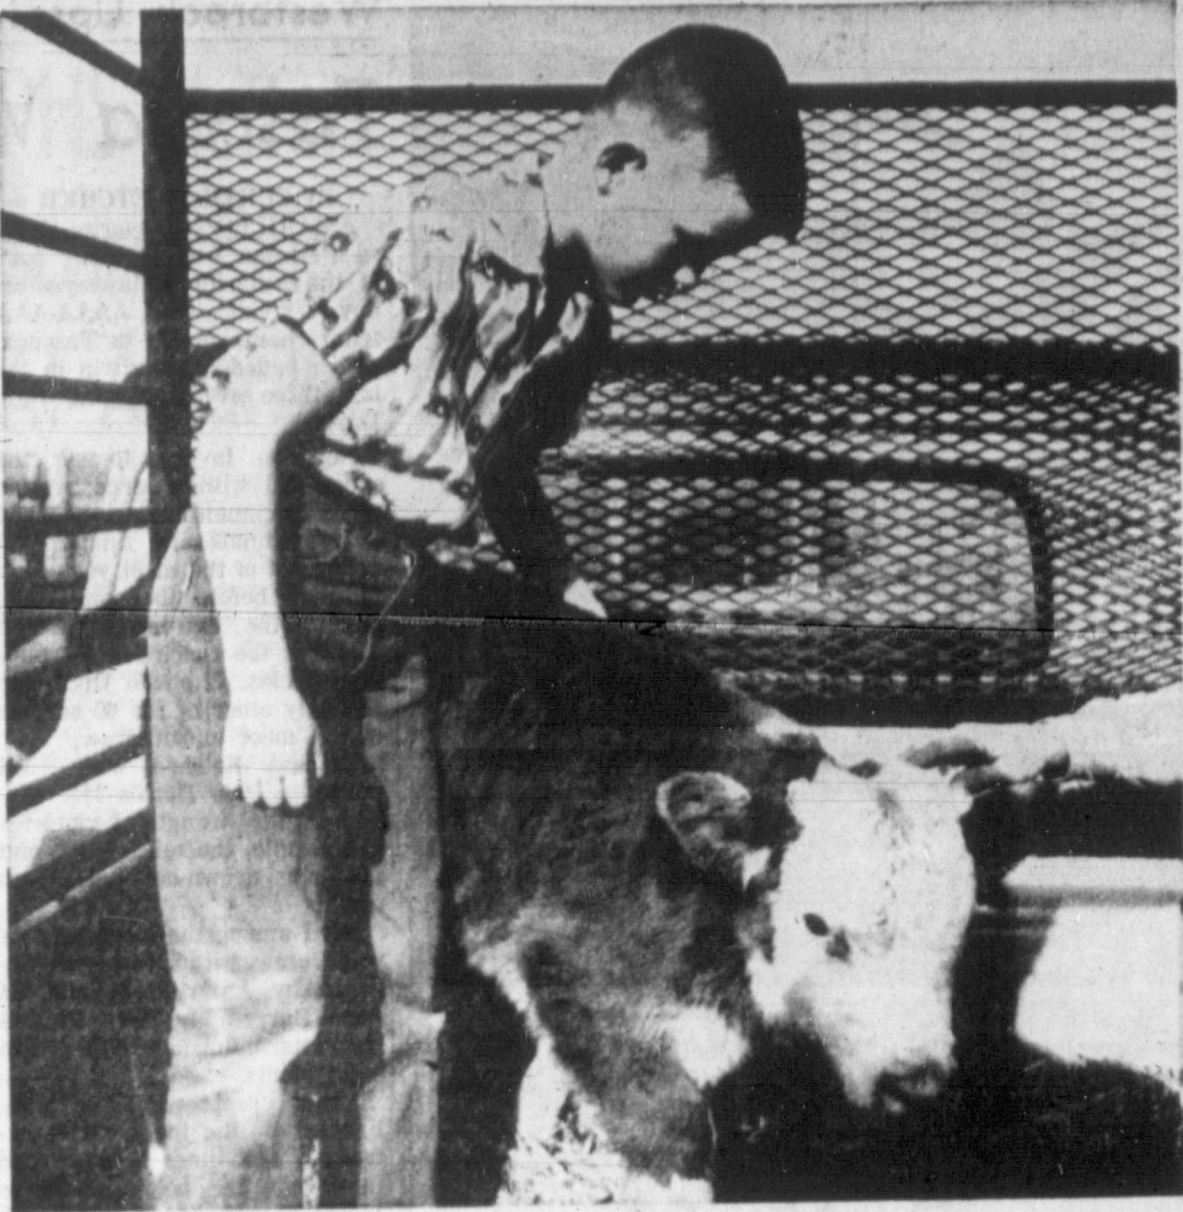

Asparagus Growing

M. L. Abbott called us for information on growing asparagus. We have an excellent publication F. R. 1646 "Asparagus Culture" which we mailed him. If he will read this bulletin he will know far more about growing asparagus than I do. We try to keep a pretty good supply of literature on most all items of this nature. It is impossible to be an authority on the many subjects that fall into the category of agriculture.

Spray Schedule for Fruits

About this time of year we begin to have many calls on the above subject. Mrs. M. E. Mahan, 1032 S. Nelson, is one of several that have called asking information on spraying of grapes. We sent her a publication entitled "Spray Schedule for Fruits and Nuts". This is the time of year to think about doing this chore. Call our office MO 4-3441, and we would be happy to send you a publication telling you the kind of insecticide, when and how to do the job.

Americans spent an average of $400 per person for food in 1963. That's less than 19 percent of their take-home pay, a record low in the United States, and it is less than any other country in the world. In 1963, Americans ate more meat, especially beef. They also consumed more chicken, more vegetables and less fruit. They ate less fish and fewer eggs, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

HOPEFUL CHAMP — Barry Trimble, a Pampa 4-H Club member, unloads his first calf from a truck with plenty of hope that with proper care and good luck the animal will become a Top O' Texas Stock Show champion next year. It will be young Trimble's first effort to grab a winner's title in the big show.

Pampa Area Rancher In Brucellosis Fight

Alvin Dauer, Pampa area rancher, has joined in the fight to rid the Top O' Texas of brucellosis, by assisting in taking blood samples from his cattle to see if they are infected with the disease.

The blood sample is taken to a mobile laboratory at Panhandle for the brucellosis test and should the test show positive a coding system utilizing a tag in the cow's ear with a number on the sample bottle permits reactors to be taken out of the herd.

The Dauer family ranches in both Carson and Gray Counties. Volunteer testing of cattle in Gray County is possible if an adjoining county has petitioned for a modified certified free area. Such is the case in Carson County where over 100 herds have been tested to date.

By the Dauers testing in Gray County they will be able to move cattle between ranches in each county without regulations. Otherwise each time cattle were moved from Gray to Carson County a blood test of each animal would be necessary.

Brucellosis disease (Bang's Disease) of cattle is a communicable disease to humans, known as Undulant Fever. There are a number of ways of contacting the disease.

The Brucellosis Testing Program is a cooperative county, State and Federal Program. Presently over 85 per cent of the counties in the United States and are Modified Certified Counties. By the end of 1964, it is estimated that over 92 per cent of the counties in the United States will have gone through the testing program.

A county is approved by the Texas Animal Health Commission for testing when 75 per cent of the livestock men representing 51 per cent of the cattle population sign a petition asking to become a Modified Certified area. This plan was adopted by the State legislature in 1959 after some 35 farm and ranch organizations had given their stamp of approval. The more prominent farm organizations such as the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Associations, the Texas Farm Bureau, Texas Farmer's Union and a host of others were among those voicing approval.

There are only four remaining counties in the Western half of Texas that have not petitioned for a Brucellosis Testing. They are Potter, Gray, Roberts and Hemphill.

According to Gaines Franks, County Agricultural Agent, Amarillo, two ranchers away on a world tour are due to sign the petition when they return. This will complete the petition for Potter County.

Top O' Texas Stock Crown Lures Youth

Barry Trimble, Pampa 4-H Club member, is about ready to begin feeding what he hopes will be next year's Top O' Texas Stock Show Grand Champion.

The hopeful champion was bred by Georges Davis, of Shamrock. Davis has had one Grand Champion at the Top O' Texas Show in years past and Barry has set his goal to make next year his second.

However, there are 12 other Gray County 4-H members who have the same goal in mind as well as many local F.F.A. members.

These boys and girls not only will spend a great deal of time in feeding, training, and caring for these show calves, but have invested a great deal of money.

Most calves put on feed cost from $125.00 to $150.00. Nurse cows have to be purchased and in most cases will cost $150.00 to $200.00.

About $100.00 worth of feed will be necessary to finish the steer and extra feed will be necessary for the nurse cow. Other expenses such as combs, brushes, and grooming materials are also an essential.

Planting Picking Up After Sudden Freeze

COLLEGE STATION (UPI)—Last week's freeze which hit northern and northwestern sections and dipped into Central Texas brought a halt to the spring weather but only for a short time.

Planting picked up steam again but problems were beginning to show up at midweek, said the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Moisture was still short in South Texas except in the Coastal Bend section and in northwestern and Trans-Pecos areas, the Service said. Other areas of the state reported surplus.

face moisture adequate with pastures and ranges making good to excellent recovery and livestock conditions on the mend.

Feeding continued to decline except in the drier areas, the Service said.

An acute shortage of labor could affect vegetable production this year on the South Plains, the Service said. No solution to the problem is in sight reports from Lubbock stated.

The South Texas cotton crop, with the exception of the Winter Garden area, is now planted.

Dragons Dragoon Foes In Small-School Section

By CURTIS FLETCHER
News Sports Reporter
AMARILLO — The Carver Dragons breathed fire and smoke as they steamed to an expected and overwhelming victory in the small-school division of the Amarillo Relays yesterday.

The sudden cold front bothered the Dragons not at all as they rolled up 114 points to 54 for their nearest competitor, defending champion Iowa Park, with Booker a close third at 50 tallies. Lubbock Dunbar was right behind the Kiowas with 49, followed with Tulia with 37. Tucumcari with 26, Wheeler with 20 and White Deer with 18. Other Top O' Texas teams failed to show well, Lefors getting six points, Miami getting one point and McLean and Canadian failing to scratch.

Although the Dragons could not keep up their tremendous sprint clockings in the 40-degree temperature, they came close as Nelson Huff won the 100-yard dash in 9.8, 5-100ths off Friday's preliminary time. Huff, however, was upset in the 220-yard dash as Mike Brockman of Iowa Park ran a 22.75. Biggest upset of the meet was Carver's defeat in the mile relay by Booker as the Kiowas dashed to a 3:28.7.

Tigers Win UT Relays

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Rapid Robin Lingle and his University of Missouri teammates led a parade of Big Eight conference victories in the 37th annual Texas Relays carnival Saturday.

Lingle, a junior transfer from the U.S. Military Academy from Philadelphia, turned in his second spectacular anchor lap performance in as many days to lead his Tiger distance running mates to another overall meet record in the two-mile relay.

Lingle and Missouri had turned the same come-from-behind trick Friday night in posting a new distance medley record and for their performances the Missouri team and Lingle individually were voted overwhelmingly as the meet's outstanding team and individual.

They contributed to two of the four overall meet records and teamed with Kansas, Oklahoma and Oklahoma State to give the Big Eight victories in six of the seven university division relay titles.

Only Abilene Christian's sprint medley triumph prevented a clean sweep. Lingle started the two-lap final anchor of the two-mile relay 10 yards behind host Texas' Loy Gunter, but made his bid on the backstretch and was 15 yards in front and pulling away at the finish with a 1:48.3 half mile that gave Missouri a 7:22.7 clocking.

That was five full seconds below the two-year-old record set by Kansas and not far off the recognized world mark of 7:19 flat held by Oregon's great 1963 foursome.

A Kansas quartet of Bill Silverberg (4:16.1), John Donner (4:11.1), John Lawson (4:17.1) and Harold Hadley (4:12.8) had set the final day's record-pace on the first running event with a four-mile relay mark of 16:57.0, 4.8 seconds under the 1962 mark posted by Nebraska.

The other meet record also came Friday afternoon when Texas A&M freshman Randy Matson tossed the shot put 62 feet 11 1/2 inches. Matson failed to improve on his throw in the finals, but his afternoon mark stood up to win the honors in his division.

Oklahoma, sparked by sprinter Anthony Watson, added the 440-yard relay (41.8) crown Saturday to the 880-relay (1:25.0) won the night before, and Oklahoma State copped the mile relay finale Saturday in 3:11.5 to add to the Big Eight's domination.

In the college division, Texas Southern managed to salvage two of its six relay championships when the Houston all-Negro school won the two-mile in 7:31.0 and the mile relay in 3:11.5, while Grambling beat TSU handily in the sprint relay in 40.6 seconds. Texas Southern had lost all three of the titles decided Friday night.

Westbrook Upset in Mile

Tascosa Wins Amarillo Relays

By CURTIS FLETCHER

AMARILLO — Favorite Odessa Permian was "frozen out" of the Amarillo Relays yesterday, giving the AAAA-AAA team championship to Tascosa, which pulled out the win in the last three events, edging Palo Duro.

Permian, favored to win the meet and with a large portion of its trackmen having reached the semifinals and finals, cancelled out of the meet yesterday morning before the semifinals, due to the extremely cold weather, the coach fearing pulled muscles. Lubbock High was the only other of the 60 schools in the meet to withdraw.

Tascosa finished with 124 points to Palo Duro's 111, winning on the strength of victories in the mile, the mile relay, and the long drawn-out pole vault finals.

Third among the large schools was Dumas with 55 1/2 points, followed by Amarillo 44 and El Paso Burges 24. The Pampa Harvesters finished 12th with eight points.

Major upsets were the highlights of the meet, with extremely fast times being turned in despite the below 40-degree temperatures. Mark Westbrook of Pampa, with the second fastest mile time in Region One, was beaten for only the second time this year, by Glen Beard of Tascosa in 4:40.6. Augustin Chavez set the pace in the race, followed closely by Westbrook and Beard. Beard started his final kick in the last 220 yards and steadily pulled away from Westbrook, who barely nipped Chavez for second place.

Dean Melton of Palo Duro upset Mike Bell of Tascosa in the 440, winning in 50.5, the first time Bell had been beaten this year.

Henry Frizzell of Palo Duro, one of the state's best pole vaulters, finished fourth as David Taylor of Amarillo skyscraped 13'3", less than four inches under Frizzell's relay record of last year.

Hazzard Star In Olympic Cage Trials

NEW YORK (UPI) — All-America Walt Hazzard and his UCLA teammate, Gail Goodrich, made final bids for round-trip tickets to Tokyo when they helped the NCAA "Blues" turn back the AAU "Stripes," 75-67, Saturday for fifth place in the U.S. Olympic basketball trials.

The Armed Forces "Jets" rallied to score a 95-90 victory over the Armed Forces "Missiles" in the opening of a matinee doubleheader before 1,500 fans at the St. John's University gym. The victory gave the Jets seventh place in the eight-team tournament.

The NCAA "Blues" and the AAU "Stars" met for the championship after the NCAA "Whites" played the NAIA "All Stars" for third place in an evening twin-bill.

A special committee will select the 12-man U.S. Olympic team for the games in Tokyo in a decision to be announced Sunday. Hazzard is considered almost certain to make the squad, and the guessing was that Goodrich could make the team as one of the six alternates.

Hazzard and Goodrich did not enter the game until midway in the first half, and Goodrich sat out the first seven minutes of the second half. However, Goodrich still managed to lead the Blues in scoring with 18 points, including 12 out of 14 free throws, and Hazzard totaled 17.

Westbrook provided Pampa's only points as the only two Harvester semifinalists were both eliminated. Randy Johnston finishing fourth in his heat in the low hurdles and Waylon Bullard finished last in the same heat. No other Harvester trackmen got past the prelims.

SAYRE, Okla. (Spi) — Jerry Glover continued his shutout string as he pitched to Amarillo College Badgers to 7-0 victory over Sayre Junior College Friday and then helped bat them to a 3-2 victory in tonightcap.

The Badger freshman hurls his second straight shutout, b allowed his first hits of the season, giving up two singles as he struck out nine and walked two. The former Pampa High and Pampa Colt star then shifted to third base for the second game and finished the day with three hits for seven at-bats.

Sayre returns the trip tomorrow for a doubleheader in Amarillo. The first hit off Glover came in the fourth inning and the other in the sixth, both being bloopers over the infield. Badger coach Bob Carter reported that Glover would play third base in tomorrow's games being saved to pitch the district opener at Odessa Friday.

Neil Rogers To Play In All-Star Tilt

WHEELER (Spl) — Neil Rogers, giant Wheeler High tackle, has been invited to play in the North-South High School All-Star football game and will accept, his father, Joe Rogers, reported to the Pampa Daily News yesterday.

Rogers becomes the first player in Wheeler history to be named for the honor and the first gridders in the Top O' Texas area to be invited this season.

The 223-pound, 6'2" Rogers will accept an athletic scholarship to TCU after he finishes the current track season. A 12-letter man in high school, Rogers was named as first string tackle on the All Top O' Texas football team in 1963 and was a two-year, two-way all district selection.

The selection was made by the Texas High School Coaches Association. Rogers will play for the North in the game, which will climax the week-long coaches' association meeting, in Fort Worth on Aug. 6.

NEIL ROGERS

ters 4-5 on the year. Pampa comes home to play Shattuck, Okla., Monday and Borger Tuesday, before starting district play this weekend in Lubbock.

Hyatt, winning his third straight, used his curve, change of pace and assorted junk to keep the Harvesters off balance after the first inning, walking one, striking out six and hitting one batter. Jim Arthur was touched for all five Borger hits and four Dog runs in his 3 1-3 inning stint, with Blazing Bobby Price coming on to pitch perfect relief ball the rest of the way, but too late.

Jerry Garrison opened the ball game with a walk, Rick Stewart sacrificed him to second and Kenny Hebert beat out an infield single. Hebert proceeded to steal second, and as catcher Joe Coffey fired in vain to the bag, Garrison slid home with the first run. The Flying Frenchman went to third on a grounder, and then scored as Shotgun Gregory lashed a single through shortstop.

Borger came back with one run in the second as Preston Wilson singled, went to second on a throwing error, and scored on Dale Conner's one-bagger.

The Bulldogs got the winning tallies in the fourth as Wilson again led off with a single, Dale Conner doubled to the base of the left-centerfield wall and Bill Bowers singled them both home. Price took the mound, and Ricky Goodwin pulled him out of the jam as he made a long running catch in right field, nearly doubling the runner-off the bag with his throw.

Price threw aspirin tablets for the next two innings, walking none and striking out three, but the damage was done.

Pampa threatened in the fourth when they got Gregory to third base with one out, but Hyatt pitched his way out of the jam. Again in the sixth, Rick Stewart went to second with one out but was doubled off.

PHS Netters Score Pair At Amarillo

AMARILLO (Spl) — The Pampa Harvester tennis team finished with two points in the Amarillo Relays Tournament yesterday as surprising sophomore Timmy Adsit battled his way to the quarter finals, as did the A doubles team of Tim Elmer and Gene Eads.

Adsit, recently moved up from the B team, surprised in his opening round with a hard-fought upset victory over Rick Jensen of Tascosa, 7-5, 8-6. The veteran Rebel netter had downed Bob Harris of Borger in his first match, 6-2, 7-5.

In Saturday's quarterfinals, Adsit was eliminated by third-seeded Jerry Simmons of Palo Duro, 6-4, 1-6.

The new doubles combo of Elmer and Eads won easily Friday over Tommy Butler and Rex Akin of Perryton, 6-2, 6-2. In Saturday's round, however, they ran into the second-seeded duo of Bill Chamblin and Tommy Parks of Odessa Ector, 1-6, 3-6.

Evelyn Roberts lost her opening A girls singles match to Jody Wilson of Lubbock.

The Pampa B teams, usually the Harvester spark, were out-matched and all eliminated Friday. Vic Keys and Roy Milliron ran into the top-seeded doubles duo of Ronnie Whittington and Bob Able of Borger in their opener and lost, 0-6, 2-6.

Boys singlist Rick Maxie took his opener from Mike Marka of Palo Duro, 6-0, 6-2, but dropped his second set to top-seeded Larry Lewis of Phillips as the smaller schools in the meet were entered in the B division.

Lewis, Phillips' regular A star, took a straight love decision.

Coach Roy Kieval expressed pleasure at the Harvesters denting the scoring column in the powerhouse meet, especially the steady improvement and hustling play of the youthful Adsit.

The Harvesters will play at Spearman Tuesday, with the Lynx coming to Pampa for a return match Thursday.

Babe Ruth Tryouts This Week

Pampa Optimist Babe Ruth League tryouts will begin this Wednesday at 5 p.m. and continue through Friday. Any boy who wishes to play Babe Ruth baseball this summer and has not previously played on a team must make at least two of the three tryouts, which will last from 5 to 7 p.m. each day.

Babe Ruth League is open to all boys born between Aug. 1, 1948 and prior to Aug. 1, 1951. Boys who played last year do not have to attend the tryouts. They are to report to their same team when the opening day of practice is announced, and must bring $1 for insurance fees before April 30, as well as their birth certificates.

Following the tryouts, teams will bid for players on April 10. The season will start May 11 and run through July 3, with two four-team leagues. Games will be played again on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Pampa has been awarded the regional tournament this year, which will be held July 20-31.

Bowling

By JIM ADKINS

Marilyn Erickson seemed to have just the right touch this week as she rolled two good series as well as two nice games. She had a 201 game and a 559 in one league and a 195 and a 523 in another league. Dot Osborne had a higher series as she rolled a 573 series. Alene Keel and Lela Swain had 512 series, Ruth Snapp rolled a 511, and LaVerne Webb rolled a 501.

Jean Lusk rolled her first 200 game, a 205. Peg Kastein rolled a 217 game and Wyline Patrick tried to hit the 200 mark. She had a 199 game and a 503 series. Carolyn Strawn was consistent. She had games of 171, 168 and 169 for a 508 series. Jo Burgund has been having trouble, her average is 137 and she had games of 121, 125 and 126. At least she was consistent and her scores were getting higher.

Bernita Nidiffer, also, was consistent she had games of 156, 159 and 158 on a 145 average. Marion Regain, bowling on a 124 average had games of 132, 139 and 132. Dorothy Mosley did a bit of good bowling. Her average is 115, and she had games of 152, 141 and 152 for a 445 series.

We all wish Minnie Cable a quick recovery from her present illness. She has been in the hospital this week. In her absence some other league officials have been having fun taking care of records and so forth.

I guess the Ericksons can claim a monopoly on this week of bowling. Ted had games of 214, 204 and 213 for a 631 series, high series for the week. Gil Burgund put games of 204, 215 and 193 for a 612. Dennis Huntley rolled a 242 game as well as a 590 series. George Cree strung six strikes for a 228 game. Lonnie Parsley rolled a 221 game and a 594 series. Jim Herring rolled games of 205, 134 and 209. He said, for some reason that he dropped a ball on his toe. We all know better than that. John Snuggs also was off, he had games of 143, 124 and 209. Red Payne averaged four splits per game as he had 12 in a series. He still had a 460 series.

Bobby Nutt rolled a 221 game as well as a 210 in another league. Graydon Lantz rolled a 214. Jim Butcher a 211. Ken Weaver a 210, Tex Greer a 205 and Bill Fry a 202.

Jackie Evans was not quite up to par, he was consistent though, he had a triplicate of 123. His average—143.

A point of interest, Bud Hogan was open bowling Friday night and in some manner left the 7, 8 and 9 pins standing only. He was bowling with Larry Parsley who said it was a working ball.

See Ya Next Time.

Cincinnati Is Out To Bag NL Flag

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of 20 dispatches on the 1964 prospects of the major league baseball teams).

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds are out to prove that their fifth place finish in 1963 was a mistake.

From Manager Freddie Hutchinson on down they think they have a good chance of winning the National League pennant.

"And we can do it," insists Hutch, well on his way to winning his fight against cancer, "without any of our players having outstanding years. All they have to do is to play up to their potential."

The three men who hurt the Reds most last year were outfielder Frank Robinson and pitchers Joey Jay and Bob Purkey. Robinson, who had hit .342 in 1962 with 39 home runs and 139 runs batted in, slumped off last season to .259 with only 21 HR's and 91 RBI's. Jay, who won 21 games in 1962, won only seven last year while losing 18. Purkey, a 23-game winner in '62, won only six last season.

"They have got to do better if we are to win," Hutchinson said. "But we all know they are better than what they showed last season."

Others Disappointing

As a matter of fact, Hutchinson pointed out that three other Reds, too, didn't measure up to expectations, first baseman Gordy Coleman, shortstop Leo Cardenas and catcher Johnny Edwards.

Those six, along with sophomore second baseman Pete Rose, centerfielder Vada Pinson and pitchers Jim Maloney, Jim O'Toole, John Tsitouris and Joe Nuxhall form the backbone of the Reds.

"They need help from the others, of course," Hutch explains. "But on their records they figure to be our big men. Our fate is in their hands."

Like all other clubs, the Reds have some problems. They are counting on Tommy Harper, a sophomore who played the outfield most of last season, or rookie Chico Ruiz to fill a big gap at third base. And Harper would only be available for duty there if Bob Skinner can win the left field job. The Reds catching is a bit on the thin side, too, after Edwards.

So it stacks up like this:

Outfield Lineup

An outfield of Robinson, Pinson and Skinner with Marty Keough, who also can play first, and either Mel Queen or Deron Johnson, both San Diego graduates, for utility duty.

An infield of Coleman, Rose, Cardenas and either Harper or Ruiz. Harper is the big hope. Charlie Neal, who seems to have improved since he started wearing glasses this spring, may stick as a utility man.

A catching staff of Edwards, a real workhorse, with either Hal Smith, who appears over the hill or Jim Campbell, a Houston Colt discards like Smith, as the second man.

Starting pitchers — Maloney, 23-7 last season; O'Toole, 17-14; Tsitouris, 12-8 and one of the best right handers in the league over the last third of last season; Nuxhall, 15-8; Jay and Purkey.

Relief pitchers — Bill Henry, only 1-3 last season, the No. 1 left hander and the veteran Al Worthington, 4-4, the No. 1 right hander.

White Deer Duo Makes Semifinals

By RICHARD ULRICH
News Sports Correspondent

AMARILLO — The White Deer tennis team, limited to the use of their A boys team only, sent their doubles duo to the semifinals and picked up three points yesterday in the Amarillo Relays tennis tournament.

With the smaller schools at the relays entered in the B division along with the 4-A schools' B teams, the Bucks were unable to use their B team. The WD Does also were unavailable for net play due to a conflict with a volleyball match.

Dan Simmons and Cal Johnson went to the semifinals of doubles play before losing to favorite Borger. The Buck duo had opened with a revenge victory over old foes Dale White and Danny Young of Dumas in a long-drawn-out battle, 1-6, 6-4, 8-6.

The pair took an easy quarterfinal win over Gary Dunn and Mike Kennedy of Palo Duro B, 6-2, 6-0 after the Don pair had drawn an opening bye. Simmons and Johnson then tangled with surprisingly strong Quitaque, Jack Johnson and Terry Woods having beaten Clarendon and Muleshoe in their first two rounds, only to see the Bucks take a 6-3, 6-2 win.

Ronnie Whittington and Bob Able of Borger made their way into the finals with a 6-2, 6-4 triumph.

A singlist Richard Ulrich dropped his opener to Danny Young of Dumas, 2-6, 0-6.

Ten Battlefields in War on Poverty

The President's ringing call for a "war on poverty" has inspired many Americans who realize that serious economic problems do exist.

Poverty can be caused by many things, of course: unemployment, high prices, too little take-home pay, inflation, etc. So there are many fronts on which it must be attacked.

Here are ten battlefields where appropriate action can help bring the war on poverty to a victorious conclusion:

1. The Federal Government can sell the Tennessee Valley Authority to private enterprise — so that the poorer citizens of other states will no longer have to finance it.
2. The President should learn the importance of a balanced budget — so that inflationary deficits will not erode the savings of pensioners and others on fixed incomes.
3. Passage of the Liberty Amendment will cut the cost of government in half — eliminating foreign aid, farm subsidies and other welfare — state programs — thereby permitting outright repeal of the personal income tax.
4. Congress can repeal the oppressive regulatory laws that prevent companies from lowering their prices to better satisfy their customers.
5. If the President would break diplomatic relations with all Communist governments, it would end the aid the Communists receive from us and bring them to their knees. This would permit a spectacular cut in the defense budget, thereby causing reductions in corporation and excise taxes, lowering prices still further.
6. The government should leave welfare matters to private charity and let all taxpayers, rich and poor, share in the savings.
7. Unfair legislation that gives to unions oppressive advantages should be repealed. This would eliminate the present union stranglehold over the economy, which will then lower prices and open up more jobs.
8. Minimum wage laws can be eliminated — so that older people, younger people, and others who are not worth the politically established minimum wage can still get jobs.
9. Investors' private property should be guaranteed to be safe from political manipulation and interference. This is important to the creation of jobs and the protection of savings.
10. Lastly, the government should abide by the literal limits of the Constitution and not interfere in the economic decisions of its citizens.

These important steps have been urged for years by many people. They represent a positive program for reducing the age-old curse of poverty.

Now it is up to the President to act. Now he must show whether he really intends to reduce poverty — proving it by taking these steps — or if he is only seeking an excuse to enlarge the size, scope and cost of the government.

Up to now, it would appear that his only interest is in multiplying the power of government. But it is not too late to reverse that course — aiming it toward the free society that once made America the least poverty-stricken land in the history of the world.

Midcontinent Faces Power Growth

The once - stricken region known as the "dust bowl" in the 1930's is generating the nation's most rapid growth in demand for electric power during the 1960-80 period.

The fast-growing Southwest is running the Midcontinent a close second.

A Federal Power Commission advisory committee on power requirements has estimated that electric energy requirements in this country will expand three and one-half times in the 20-year period from 1960-80.

By 1980 the United States is expected to use nearly 2.7 trillion kilowatt hours of power annually. Much of the increase will be for heating 19 million all-electric homes, and running new electric trains, battery-driven automobiles and many battery-operated appliances.

Last year the nation's electric power industry produced $21 billion kilowatt hours of energy, according to the Edison Electric Institute. This was an all-time high.

The FPC advisory committee made estimates of regional power requirements which the Public Utilities Department of Bache & Co. projected into annual percentage growth rates.

These projections indicate that the Midcontinent and Southwest pace the nation.

The South Central states are in the lead. Their growth rate for energy will average 7.6 per cent annually during the 20-year period from 1960-80. This area includes Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas, most of Kansas and New Mexico and parts of Mississippi and Missouri.

The West Central states to their north have a projected 1960-80 average annual growth rate of 7.3 per cent, according to the FPC advisory committee. This area includes Colorado, Nebraska, North Dakota, most of South Dakota and Wyoming, parts of Minnesota and Montana and the San Juan Basin of New Mexico.

The Pacific Southwest states — Arizona, most of California and Nevada — follow closely with a growth rate of 7.2 per cent.

Most of the country will have a demand for energy requirements slightly higher than the national 6.8 per cent average.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON
"CIVIL RIGHTS" MEANS NO RIGHTS

The "Civil Rights" bill takes away more rights than it confers. The government which has told you what you can't plant is now telling you who you must hire. If you are not free to manage your farm or business, you don't really own it. And that is the long-time goal of the collectivists — to take it completely away from you. For instance, Negro Ralph Bunche, one of our United Nations representatives, is dedicated to the elimination of the property-owning class.

Means Force

What is the "Civil Rights" bill and what does it mean to you? It means that if you're a Protestant who hires only Protestants, or a Jew who hires only Jews, or a Catholic who hires only Catholics you would be prosecuted by the federal government. It means you would be forced to hire an equal percentage of Swedes as you do Italians or be punished for discrimination against national origin. If you defied the government when it told you that you had to hire a "qualified" Negro as your secretary, or foreman, or salesman, or instructor in a dancing school, or lifeguard at a swimming pool, you would be tried on criminal contempt charges, at your own expense. Under the "Civil Rights" bill, the Attorney General of the United States could bring legal actions in your name whether you desired to go to court or not, and the Civil Rights Commission could summon you on 24 hours' notice from any part of the United States to any place it might designate to defend yourself against charges of which you were ignorant until you got the subpoena. It means integration would be forced by army bayonets, martial law and federal goons.

Mob rule is anarchy. Government rule without the consent of the governed is autocracy. We should stand for neither. The idea that Supreme Court justices, federal troops or elimination of federal aid can force the majority of people of supposedly sovereign states to do something they're determined not to do is abhorrent.

Not Enforceable

During the Prohibition monstrosity, millions of Americans voted dry and drank wet. The 18th Amendment failed because it couldn't be enforced. It couldn't be enforced because a majority of the people didn't really want it enforced. The people voted it in, and the people voted it out — a majority of the people in three-fourths of the states. The great majority of the people, including many who piously plead from beneath their halos that all men are created equal, don't practice integration and have no intention to. They just preach it, for others. Many white integration eagebeavers either live in a state where there are few Negroes or are able to buy their own segregation in private schools and clubs and in their cloistered lives. In Connecticut, Negroes are 3 percent of the population; in Mississippi, they're 45 percent. The problem is in almost direct proportion to the percentages.

This is just the beginning — unless we find legal ways to stop it. After the pressure groups, do-gooders, Communists and unscrupulous politicians integrate all schools and businesses, public and private, next assaults will be on private clubs, fraternities, 4-H clubs, FFA and Boy Scouts. That leaves the home.

That's being strongly urged by Senators Ernest Gruening and E. L. Bartlett, and favored by Clifton Carter, top political lieutenant of the President. Carter holds that a visit to Alaska in late May to inspect effects of the great disaster and recovery measures would have much greater political impact than a purely campaign sortie in the fall.

POLITICALS—President Johnson has asked Clark Clifford, special counsel to President Truman and close to the late President Kennedy, to prepare a list of possible keynotes at the Democratic convention in Atlantic City in late August.

In giving Clifford this backstage chore, the President advised he consult key party leaders in Congress and around the country. The Senate and House Democratic Campaign Committees will be better heeled this crucial election year than in a long time. The committees will have at least $500,000 each to disburse among the party's candidates, and perhaps as much as $700,000. Present plans call for each committee's getting half of the $485,000 netted at the March 19 $10-a-plate dinner in Washington addressed by President Johnson, and another $300,000 each from the Democratic National Committee.

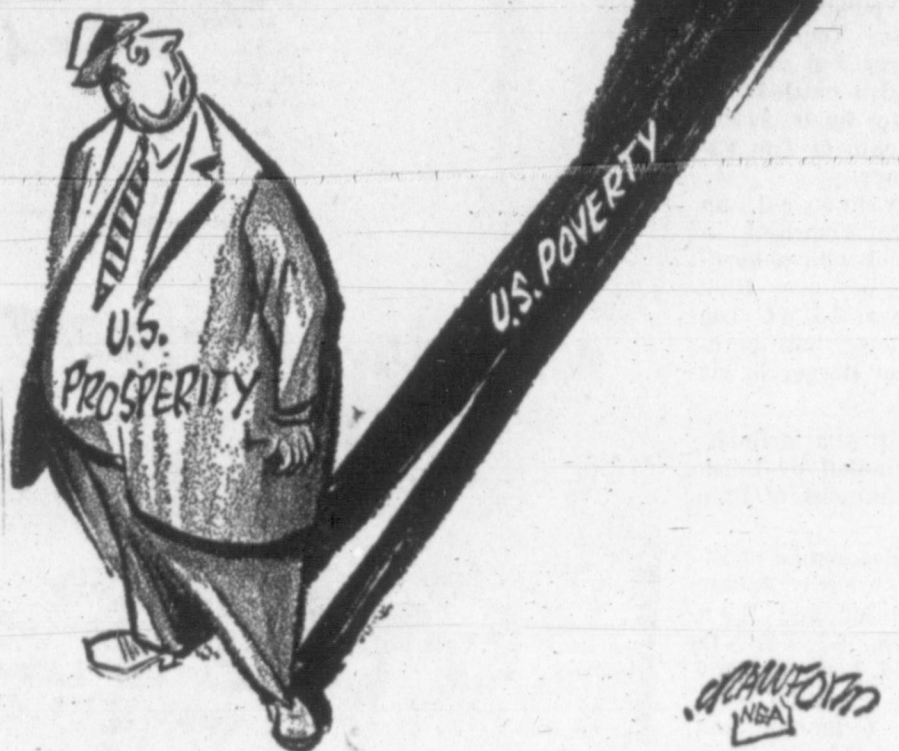

On that basis, the Senate Campaign Committee will be able to contribute an average of around $20,000 to each of the 25 Democrats up for election this year. Senate Democratic leaders consider the following four states the most doubtful — Ohio, Oklahoma, Utah and Wyoming. . . . President Truman is still a big drawing card. He is addressing a fund-raising dinner in Albuquerque for Representative Joseph Montoya, who is opposing Senator Edwin Mechem, R-N. Mex., and around 1,500 tickets have been sold — a record number.

President Tentatively Planning Western Tour For 'Non-Political' Political Appearances in Spring

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is taking a page from the strategy book of his late predecessor and will make a "non-political political" tour of a number of Western states in the late spring.

While the decision on this "conservation" trip is definite, the timing and itinerary are still undetermined.

They are subject to developments in the battle over the civil rights bill just getting underway in the Senate, and California's June 2 senatorial primary in which three prominent Democrats are vigorously embroiled. The President's policy is to stay close at hand during the former, and to remain carefully aloof from the latter.

Two major projects already are on the list of those he will dedicate.

They are the giant Glen Canyon Dam in Utah — tentatively set for around Memorial Day, and a large atomic reactor at Hallam, S.D., built jointly by public power districts and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, who has been assigned the job of formulating the President's itinerary, is conferring on dates and arrangements for these two dedications with Senator Frank Moss, D-Utah, who faces an admittedly highly uncertain re-election contest, and Governor Frank Morrison, D-Neb. Both have given assurances of large turn-outs.

In addition to Nebraska and Utah, other states the President wants to include in this "non-political political" tour, that will be made by plane, are Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico and Wyoming.

Also under consideration is a trip to earthquake-stricken Alaska.

That's being strongly urged by Senators Ernest Gruening and E. L. Bartlett, and favored by Clifton Carter, top political lieutenant of the President. Carter holds that a visit to Alaska in late May to inspect effects of the great disaster and recovery measures would have much greater political impact than a purely campaign sortie in the fall.

While Salinger was personally liked by White House newsmen, they were increasingly irritated by his persistent tardiness and airy casualness about arrangements and other important operating details. The morning of the day he quit the correspondents handed him a list of complaints covering that week.

Assistant Secretary Arthur ("news management") Sylvester, press chief of the Defense Department, hoped to succeed his close friend Salinger. The President's prompt selection of his long-time press assistant George Reedy foreclosed that. But Sylvester still has hopes.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Since President Kennedy's assassination we've heard much about the nation lacking a Vice President and the "need" for remedial legislation. Aside from the fact that we have known Speaker John W. McCormack personally for 30 years and admire, honor and respect him as a great American who would act wisely and well in any emergency, it should be remembered that the U.S. has lacked a Vice President in 16 out of 36 administrations. Eight succeeded Presidents who died in office, one resigned, and seven others died while serving in the second spot. More than two-fifths of our history evolved without a Vice President so we fail to see the need for "remedying" the present condition. In our opinion the Founding Fathers founded well.

Today's smile: We liked the one about the father who was telling the facts of life to his son and said: "You know, m'boy, I never kissed a girl until I met your mother. Do you think you'll be able to say that to your son?" The lad replied: "Yes, dad, but not with such a straight face."

Between the Bookends

EDUCATION FOR WHAT? A highly-respected research institution recently found that 61 percent of high school seniors think that the profit incentive is not necessary for the survival of our system of free enterprise; 76 percent think most of the gains from new industrial machinery go to the plant owners; 82 percent believe that there is virtually no competition in business today; and 56 percent feel that the way to have more is to take away from corporations.

These figures are evidence of an alarming ignorance of the private enterprise system that created America's great wealth. To Americans who are informed, who understand free enterprise, and believe in individual initiative, the question will occur, "If this is what our children are learning in our schools, for what purpose are they being educated?" If not to understand the simple truths of economics and life, then it must be for some less worthy goal.

To determine the approach of American schools to teaching the full truth about socialism and communism, P. C. Beezley commissioned a private research organization to conduct a survey and report on conditions in the 50 states. The results are contained in "Education For What?" (The book, Box 101, New York 16, N.Y.; $3.00).

Starting with the disclaimer that nothing in the volume has any partisan political significance, Beezley goes on to say that neither is it a blanket indictment of the teaching profession.

Cumulative Effect Yet, the author says, teachers have been subjected to the pressures of a collectivist front. They have also often become careless, slipshod, inexact and downright misleading in their choice and use of words. The effect of both factors has been

So I am not writing this article surrounded by bottles of pills and other medications, though it might sound that way. I got to thinking about health and non-health the other day when a long-time friend suddenly found himself "hors de combat" due to a coronary occlusion. By his own admission, the attack couldn't have been more sudden. Not a hint of anything wrong before the choking sensation and the sharp pain in the chest area.

Evidently, although we are aware of it, things like this usually start developing long before they reach their damaging and sometimes crippling climax.

Doctors are pretty much in agreement that the greatest threats to personal health are internal disorders. Accidents account for a fair share of personal disfigurement and sometimes deaths; but "dangers from inside" are the ones we are least aware of and constitute the overwhelming reasons for physical troubles.

When we are stuck down by "external" bacteria, germs and viruses, it is because the body has been so weakened by over-indulgence that there is little or no resistance to the invasions of disease.

Isn't this somewhat the situation we find ourselves in as a nation?

The political "quacks" hasten to calm our fears over anything being wrong internally. The danger is all external, they say, in spite of disquieting symptoms that tell us otherwise.

We're sure about one thing: The U.S. Constitution prescribes certain rules of good health for a people and their government. It appears the government considers them too restrictive and would prefer to "live it up."

The people, largely, have been too indifferent to care about national health, and have allowed government to jump the tracks time and again.

The over-indulgence in extravagant spending, frittering away valuable resources on socialist ventures, dissipating the nation's wealth on aid to wastrel and enemy governments — all have taken their toll, and we are now faced with destructively acute anemia of the nation's currency.

We'd say it's time to get back to the health rules found in the Constitution. There's not a day or a minute to be wasted.

Disaster Leaflet on Tornadoes Explains Need for Preparedness minute a hustling, bustling — the next minute almost beyond realization.

What should a person do when faced with a tornado?

If near a tornado cellar and time permits, go to the cellar, cave or underground excavation which should have an air outlet to help equalize air pressure.

These cellars should be kept fit for use, free from water, gas or debris and preferably equipped with pick and shovel.

There is no universal protection against tornadoes except underground excavations.

If in open country, a person should move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 mph. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

Avoid Windows
If in a city or town seek inside shelter, preferably in a strongly reinforced building.

Stay away from windows! In homes, go to the corner of the basement toward the tornado. This usually offers the greatest safety, particularly in frame homes. People in houses without basements can sometimes be protected by taking cover under heavy furniture against inside walls. Doors and windows on the sides of the house away from the tornado may be opened to help reduce damage to the building.

Standing against the inside walls on a lower floor of an office building offers some protection. Public fallout shelters are not to be used for tornado shelters.

If a person is in schools, in city areas, stay inside if the building is of strongly reinforced construction, but stay away from windows, remain near an inside wall on the lower floors when possible. Avoid auditoriums and gymnasiums with large, poorly-supported roofs.

Lookout Needed
In rural schools that do not have strongly reinforced construction, remove children and teachers to a ravine or ditch if storm shelters are not available.

If in factories or industrial plants, a lookout should be posted to keep safety officials advised of the tornado's approach on receiving a warning. Advance preparation should be made for moving workers to sections of the plant offering the greatest protection.

Keep calm. It will not help to get excited. People have been killed by running out into the streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are very slight. Tornadoes cover such a small zone, as a rule, that relatively only a few places in a warned area are directly affected.

Keep tuned to a local radio or television station for latest tornado information. Do not call the Weather Bureau, except to report a tornado, since individual inquiries might tie up lines needed to receive special reports or to relay advisors to radio and TV stations for broadcasts.

Remember that tornadoes can occur any place in the nation and at any time. They happen most frequently in midwestern, southern and central states from March to September.

Tornadoes occur mostly between 3 p.m. and 7 p.m., but they have occurred at all hours.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

The center has scheduled a student ping pong tournament for boys and girls starting April 13. This is an open division tournament with everyone being thrown in. There is no charge for entering the tournament. Students who are interested should place their name on the entry list located at the front bulletin board before the entry deadline at 3 p.m. Friday. A loving cup will be awarded to the winner.

This is the time of the year when, homerooms and church groups start thinking about parties. The center is available for such occasions in the early evenings from 4-7 p.m. The use of the recreation hall and gym is only 35 cents for those under 12 and 50 cents above 12. The pool may be rented from 4-6 p.m. for $18 for any group. Groups interested should contact the center before coming.

Directors, in accordance with the by-laws of the constitution of the Pampa Youth and Community Center are holding an election to fill five positions on a student advisory board. This election will be held on Friday and Saturday, April 24-25 in the Center Recreation Hall. Only center student members will be allowed to vote.

Candidates for these positions will be selected through the petition form of nomination. Any student interested in running for one of the five board positions must come or send someone to the center — obtain a petition form — then circulate the petition around to be signed by at least 20 center student members. Petitions must be turned in by 4 p.m., April 17. Petition forms will be available on Monday, April 6 at 4 p.m. A ballot will be drawn from these petitions and each student center member may vote for five of the persons nominated. For further information check with the center.

The men's and the women's volleyball leagues kicked off this past week with games on Monday, Thursday and Friday nights. In women's action the Jayceeettes downed the Dairy Queen 15-9, 15-4; Hilland Drive in Lassies took Ogden and Son 15-0, 15-0 and Surplus City topped Eloise Beauty Shop 15-2 and 15-12.

4-H Club Sale

The Armstrong County Annual 4-H Club Farm Machinery Sale will be held April 18 at Claude, Texas.

This sale not only provides an opportunity for farmers and ranchers to dispose of surplus equipment, but also makes available many bargains to buyers. This sale was among the first of its kind in this section of the country, and has attracted state-wide attention. Gross sales have reached $15,000 in a single year.

A small commission is collected on all items sold or passed out. These proceeds help finance activities of the Armstrong County 4-H Clubs. Auctioneers will be Wildon Hundley of Claude, Texas, and Meade Michael, of Canyon, Texas, who will donate their services for this event.

Anyone wishing to consign equipment for this sale should contact Bo Wheeler, County Agent, Claude, Texas.

BOMB INJURES TEN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A U.S. Army lieutenant and sergeant, as well as eight Vietnamese, were slightly injured Friday night when a terrorist tossed a hand grenade into a parked jeep in front of a U.S. billet in the town of Ben Tre, 45 miles south of Saigon.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said three children and a policeman were among the Vietnamese injured. The condition of both the Americans and Vietnamese was considered good.

Directors of Pampa's Citizens Bank and Trust Company recently elected two former employees, J. Richard Hankins and Mack Hiatt Jr., to executive positions.

Hiatt rejoined the local firm as vice-president and Hankins returned as assistant vice president. Hiatt was associated with the bank as assistant cashier from 1950 to 1958 and Hankins worked here as note teller from 1959 through 1961.

Prior to his return Hiatt served as vice president of the First National Bank of Okla. and worked at an El Paso church.

He and his wife are natives of Oklahoma and both are graduates of the University of Oklahoma. They and their three children, Jan, Jo and Mack III live at 2200 Dogwood.

Hankins has been employed as assistant bank examiner with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation at Dallas since leaving Pampa in 1961. He is a native Pampa and is a 1955 graduate of Pampa high school. He received a BA degree in economics from Texas Christian University in 1959. Hankins is a member of the local Jay First National Bank of Okla. and the First Methodist Okla. and worked at an El Paso church.

The possibility of not being promoted to the next grade (retention) will be considered for many students during the next few months. In order for non-promotion to be successful there must be careful planning and evaluation.

A student who spends another year in a grade will not necessarily be successful. It is reasonable to expect that the original failure was caused by one or more problems. Unless these problems are corrected there is little reason to believe that the retention will do any good.

This leads us to the need of a complete evaluation of the student. Health often affects achievement. A thorough physical examination including a dental, sight, and hearing check is indicated. In addition it is wise to consider the student's health habits such as sleeping, eating, and other general practices. Naturally, these require the assistance of a physician, dentist, etc.

Measure Achievement
Academic achievement must be measured. This can best be accomplished by combining the teacher's judgment with a series of standardized and diagnostic tests. The purpose is to discover the student's areas of weakness and to determine the extent of his learning problems. The school psychologist should evaluate the student's emotional and social makeup. It is also valuable to obtain an estimate of the child's ability. The psychologist's study should also involve an interview with the parents, and others involved with the child.

Several other factors must be considered in order to complete the picture. The child's age, physical size, athletic ability, social relationships, motor coordination, and general maturity are all important parts which must affect the decision.

After all the information is gathered, it should be coordinated by the principal, psychologist, guidance counselor, or other qualified professionals. It would be even better if the matter were discussed by a team of these individuals including the teacher and parent at some point.

It is important to remember that research shows that retention is not successful in the average situation. This does not mean that some children do not benefit. The child who is misplaced socially, academically and physically has a better chance to benefit from retention than the child who is misplaced in only one of these areas.

Various Alternatives
There are various alternatives to retention which should be considered. The child who has been absent a great deal may be helped by tutoring. A child who has a sight or hearing problem may need special training throughout his school career. A child with an emotional problem may need psychological treatment.

'Black Gold' Stirs Mobeetie

By GLENN McCASLAND
MOBEETIE — Six months ago Mobeetie was a sleepy Panhandle community.

Between what is known as new and old Mobeetie were the graves of the oil explorations that once caused Wheeler County to flourish.

Then one night a giant needle sank deep into Mother Earth and resulted in a gas well discovery which caused more than a little excitement in the oil-gas industry.

Major petroleum companies began watching Carwile No. 1, in section 99, block A-5 of the H&GN Survey, like hawks. The well became one of the biggest producers in the area and opened a new chapter to Wheeler county oil history.

TODAY MOBEETIE is no longer a sleepy little town. Oil field workers flood the community, keeping service station-cafe operators busy almost 24 hours a day.

Across the ranchlands in Wheeler County can be seen other giant needles rising to the sky, ready to bite into the earth to see if further oil and gas discoveries can be found.

There are no leases left to grab in Wheeler County. Oil companies have sewed up every available piece of land to check its possibilities of being part of the find that Texas Railroad Commission officers have tagged as "one of the biggest finds in recent Texas oil history."

NEAR THE crossroads of the Old Mobeetie Road and Highway 152 East, one of the giant needles is carving its way deep into the surface to tap what oilmen feel may be a heavy oil discovery.

Baker and Taylor Drilling Company is handling the well, all ready named Sims No. 2 after the first Sims well that came in on the other side of the community several weeks ago.

Pampa oil men are not hiding their excitement over what has been found in Mobeetie and neither is the usually reserved Texas Railroad Commission.

THE OIL PLAY in Wheeler County has resulted in the naming of a new field — the Mobeetie-Douglas Field — and has sent more oil companies pouring into nearby Roberts County and Gray County buying leases and making plans to send additional shafts into the earth to seek out the black gold hidden below.

Mobeetie residents, on the whole, are taking the events in and around their little community in stride. They aren't making any big plans about growth, but in Wheeler, the county seat, new construction is underway on a number of business buildings and many are planning face-lifts for their firms.

The oil strike, if one can call it that, has spread into the county seat like a river overflowing. Sheriff Bus Dorman and Deputy Doyle Ramsey find the activity is helping them in the county without bringing additional burdens of law enforcement on the area.

Meanwhile, the people of Mobeetie are going about their daily chores, with an occasional back-shoulder glance at the giant needles that reach from earth to sky, wondering when the deep secrets under the earth will come pushing their way up to the surface.

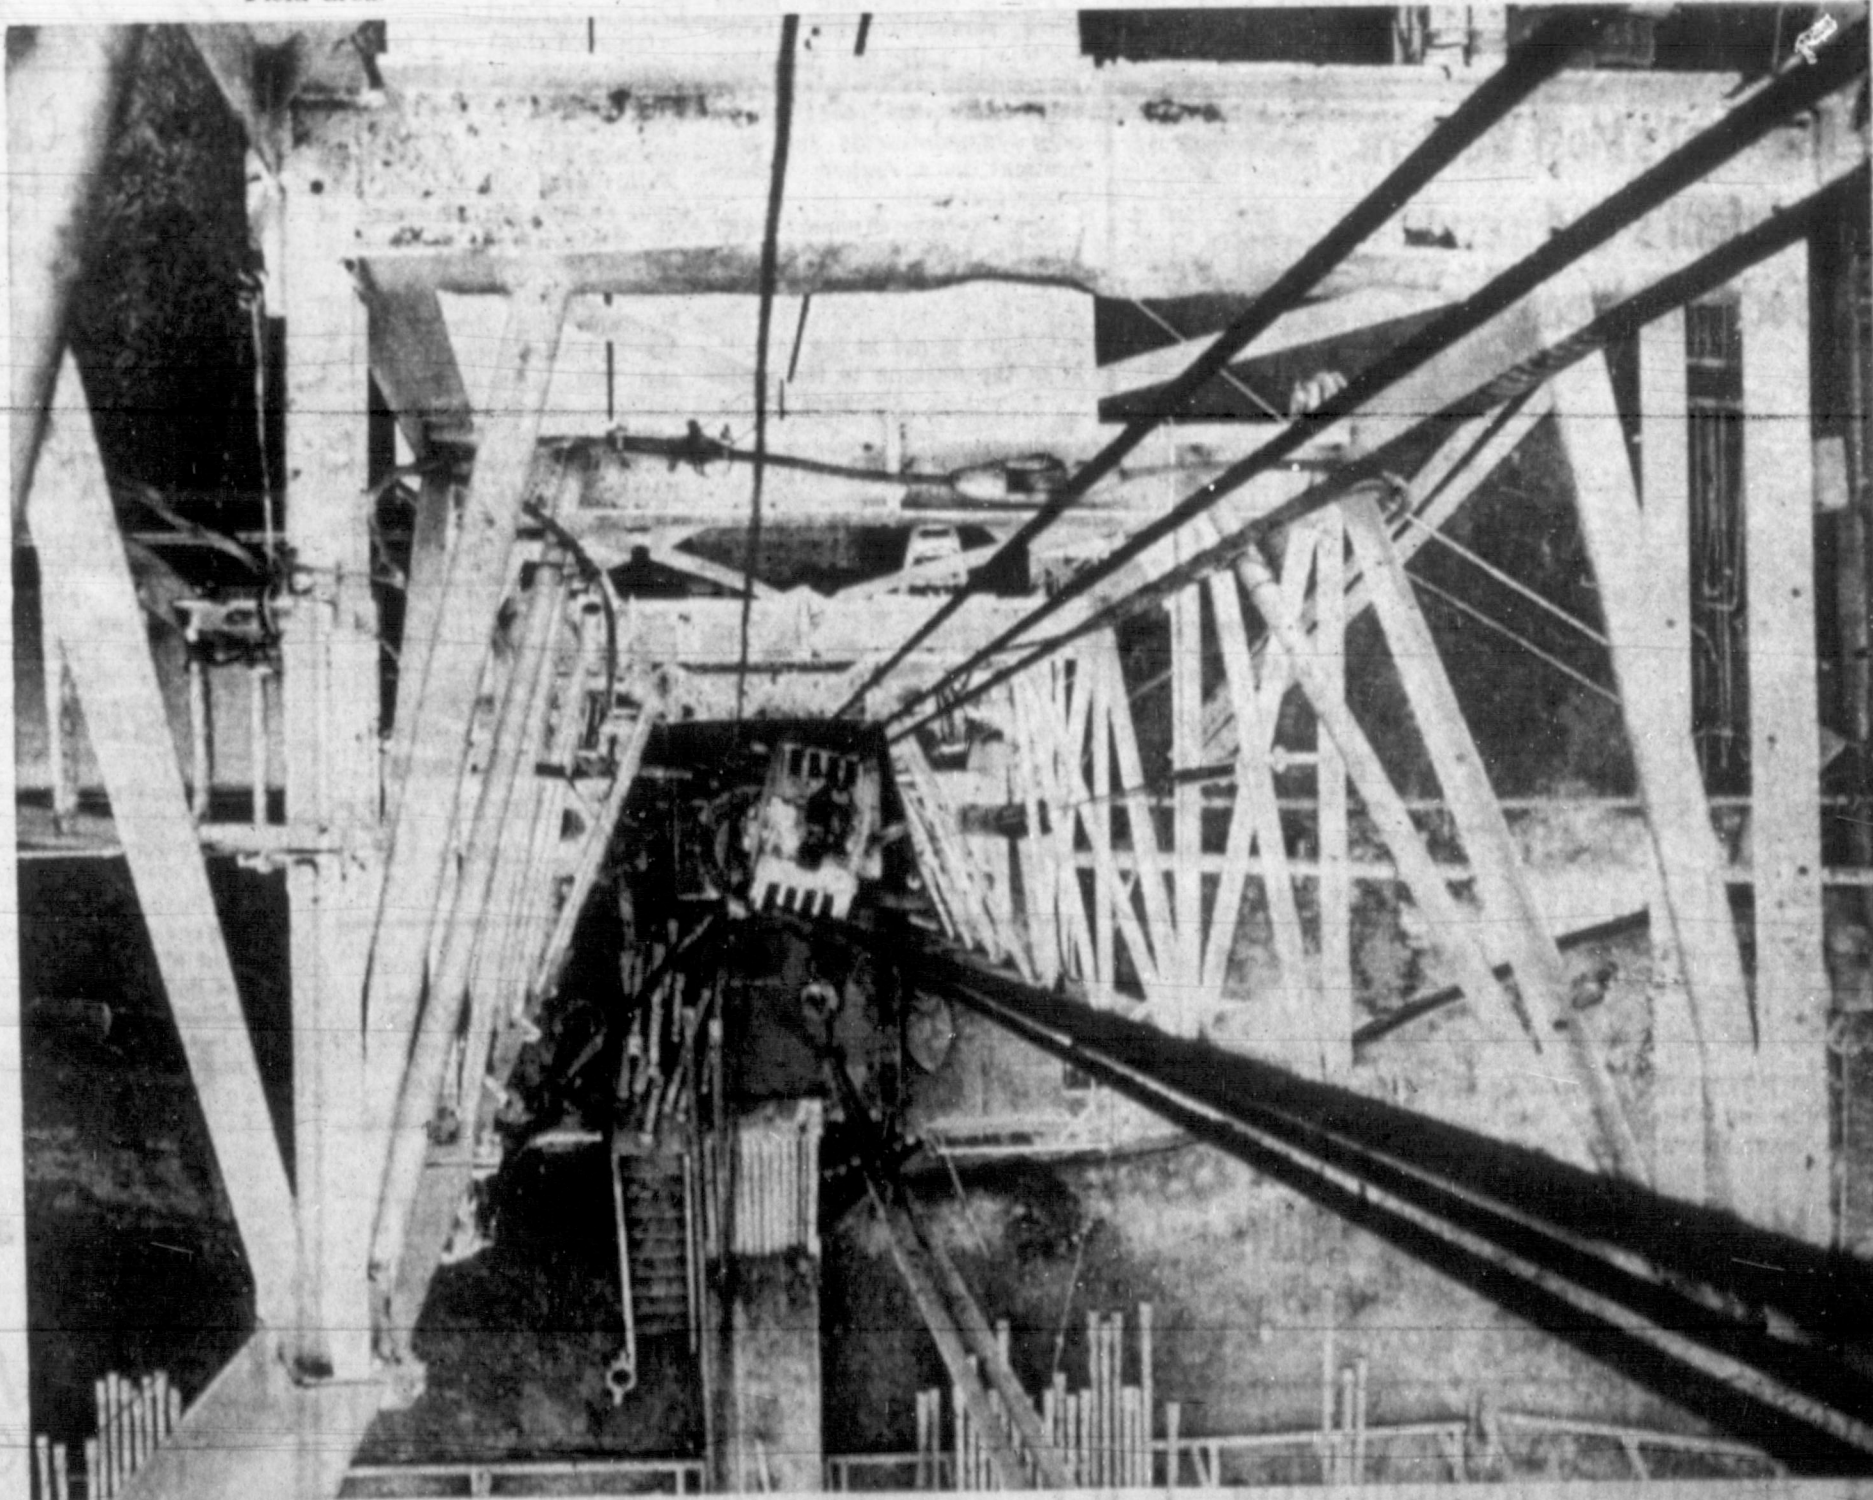

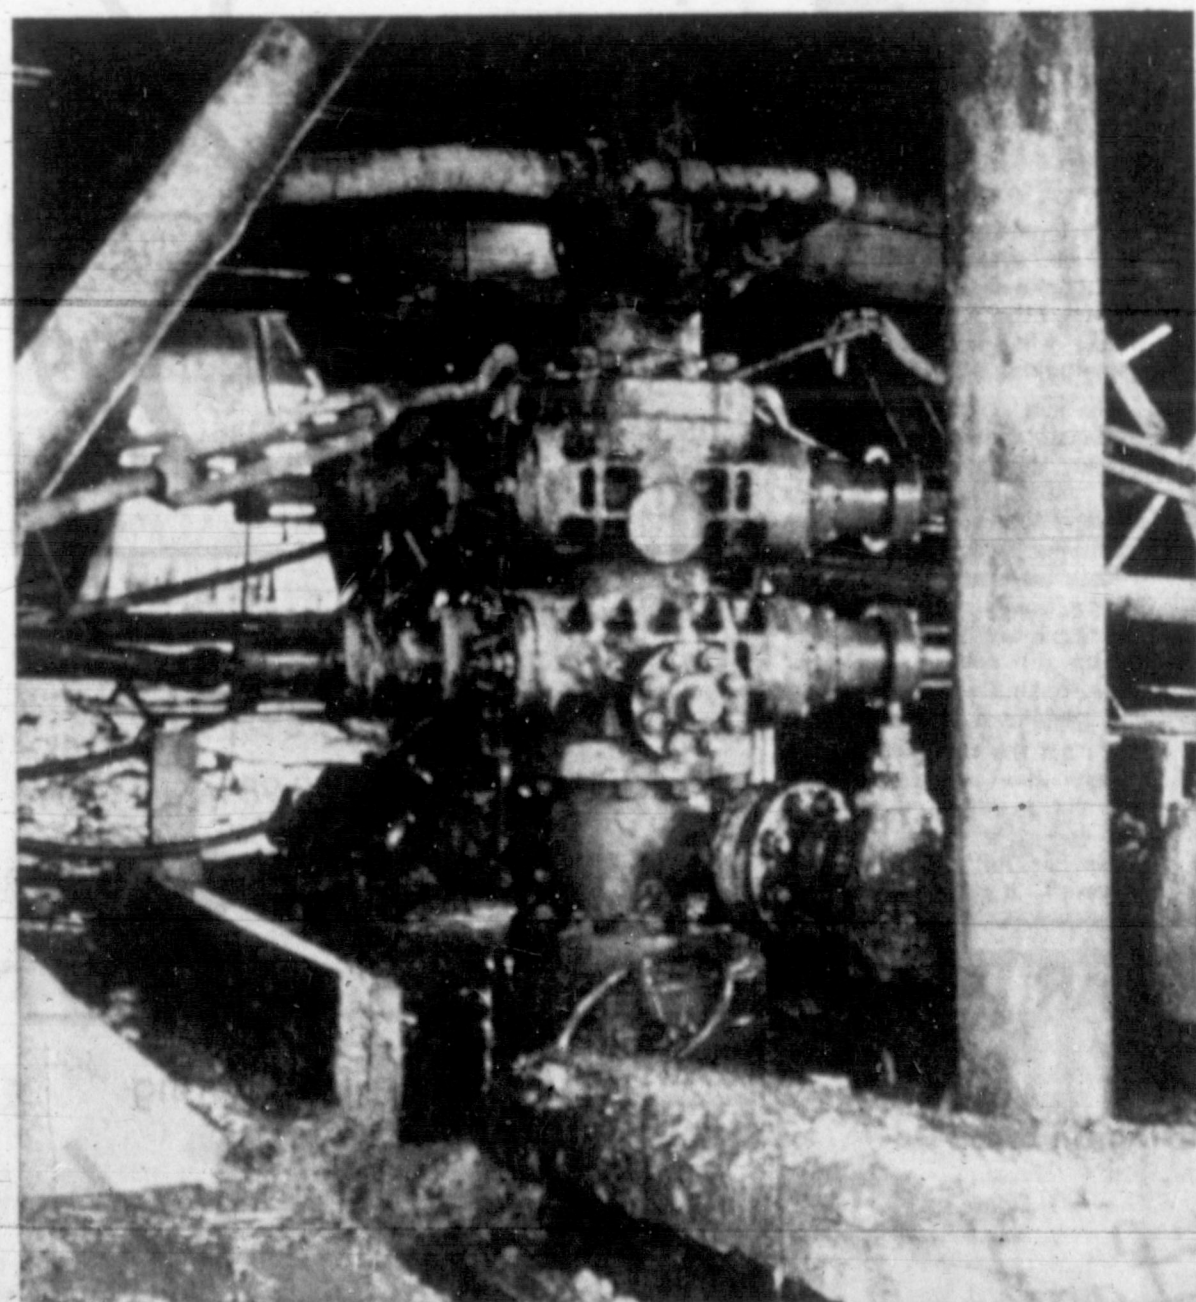

GIANT AT WORK — The photo at the top left is a close-up of Sims Well No. 2 near Mobeetie as the giant drilling rig moves up and down and around in the shaft seeking to find a deposit of "black gold" to enhance the Mobeetie-Douglas field which is causing a heavy stir of activity in oil industry circles. Two oil rig employees are checking additional casing to use with the rig in later operations.

INTO THE GROUND — This mass of pipes and valves at the lower left compose the section of Sims Well No. 2 that connects the giant drilling rig with the earth and guides the drill bit closer to the oil deposit, if any, located under the rig. Every piece of the piping and valves are needed to control the operation of the drilling each day.

THE NEEDLE — The photo to the right shows the full rig of the Sims No. 2 well located north of Highway 152 East near Mobeetie. The giant needle is part of a number of such rigs that dot the countryside in Wheeler County where one of the largest oil discoveries in recent years is being mapped.

Altrusa Club of Pampa Names New Officer Slate

New officers were named recently as the Altrusa Club of Pampa met for dinner and a program presented by American Field Service students attending Pampa High School.

The nominating committee presented the slate of officers and members elected for the ensuing year. Other officers are; Mrs. Libby Shotwell, vice president; Mrs. Marian Osborne, treasurer; Mrs. Lora Dunn, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Evelyn Mason, recording secretary; Mrs. Louise Sewell and Miss Luella Patterson, directors. The new officers will be installed June 1.

Mrs. Lena Pearl Hobbs reported on the Hospital Auxiliary information meeting and advised interested members to contact Mrs. Homer Johnson.

A petition for the board of school trustees to call an election to determine if Pampa will establish a junior college was circulated. Mrs. Lorene O. Locke, president, explained that signing the petition did not obligate the club members to vote in favor of the issue.

Pampa Altrusans nominated district officers which include: Governor, Mrs. Helen Hooker; Mrs. Aleene Aleken, first vice governor; Lurleen Beene, second vice governor; Irene Hurst, treasurer; Florence Rice, director and Helen Nixon, director. The club approved this slate to be sent to the Eighth District Conference for election.

Club guests included Pampa's exchange student, Evelyn Roberts and Margaret Vander Goe, Exchange Student attending Canadian High School.

Margaret spoke on her native Holland, stating that this very small country was below sea-level. The windmills are not there for tourists, she pointed out; but, are essential in pumping water from the land. The very fertile soil constitutes the importance of agriculture as a means of livelihood. She added that the world-famous fields of tulips are happy accidents in the sense that the purpose of the cultivation of the flower is for commercial value of the bulb. She stated that Dutch teenagers do not date as they do in this country and that youngsters go in groups. Bicycles provide transportation and no teenager is owner of a car. Gatherings of young people in homes or picnics makes a large part of the recreation. Thirty-eight per cent of the population endorses the Catholic Church and the remainder are Protestants and Socialists. Margaret added that she had enjoyed her year in the States and would never forget her American "family" or her experiences here.

Evelyn Roberts gave a resume of life in her homeland, New Zealand. She stated that her country was about the size of Colorado with a mountainous terrain. She added that it was almost an opposite of the Pampa area. She told of speaking with Cotton John, KGNC Television speaker, as he toured her land two years ago and added that she visited with him again in Amarillo upon her arrival in Texas. No snakes and insects are present in New Zealand, and forestry is the most important industry, followed closely by sheep-raising.

Groom Residents Attend Farewell

Dinner Party

GROOM (Spi) — A birthday dinner honoring Jimmie Helm and a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Martin and children who are moving from Amarillo to San Antonio, was held Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pennington in Amarillo.

Enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Helm, Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Helm, Mr. and Mrs. John Fraser and children; Mrs. Lillian Slay and Ren Sperber of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Martin and family, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pennington and family.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS ADDRESS ALTRUSANS — Guest speakers for a dinner meeting of the Altrusa Club of Pampa were left, Margaret Van der Goe, Canadian High School student and native of Holland; and right, Evelyn Roberts, student of Pampa High School, native of New Zealand.

ing. She stated that no married woman holds a job outside the home, especially if she has children. Drivers licenses may be obtained at 15 years of age. There are no spectator sports in the country. Everyone plays on a team. Physical exercise is mandatory in the schools. Five sports for girls and five sports for boys are taught in every school.

Evelyn stated that she believed that the American Field Service was the greatest agency for peace in the world. To be able to live together and talk together makes for peace.

Twenty-nine members welcomed the eight attending guests. Other than the Exchange Students, guests were Mrs. Walden Moore, Mrs. Doris Fisk, Mrs. M. Q. Wilson, Mrs. Joe Donaldson and Mrs. Hugh Wilson from Canadian. Guest of Mrs. Joe Tooley was Mrs. Lillian Summer.

Ruth Millett Successful Career Women Grove for Femininity

By RUTH MILLETT
A career woman recently chided women attending a conference of women executives for being timesaving and efficient in their offices — all day only to go home and turn back to the puttery homemaking ways of their mothers and grandmothers.

She maintains the very fact they are successful career women makes them anxious to feel they are just as feminine as other women; and to prove it to themselves and others they think they have to run their homes the way their mothers did.

The speaker was talking to the husbands of those successful career women.

For it is to win the approval of her husband that a successful career woman knocks herself out after a full day at the office doing the household chores she should have hired someone to do for her.

It's to please her husband that she squanders time and energy she should conserve on puttery little projects she thinks will demonstrate her homemaking skill.

The fact is: No matter how successful a woman is in a career, she knows good and well nothing is half so impressive to her husband as the traditional ways in which women have always managed to win men's approval — by making a big thing of stitching up slip covers and curtains, baking pies and cakes, and keeping a house shining.

It's not the successful women executives who need to be told not to waste their time and energy in trying to keep house like full-time homemakers — it's their husbands.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My beds aren't made yet and my dishes are still in the sink, but I must sit down and get this off my chest. All this baloney about lung cancer has fallen flat. People will go right on smoking on the chance that it might not hit them. But I know something that is true of everyone who smokes that should convince people to quit. Now I've been to college and and I realize this doesn't sound very polite, but I am going to say it in plain language. SMOKERS STINK! Their clothes, their hair, their skin and their breath just plain smell bad. All the money spent on perfume and deodorants is wasted. Most smokers don't notice it on themselves, but it bothers everyone within two feet of them. If you are a heavy smoker, the next time you go to kiss your child, or grandchild, ask him how he likes it. He will tell you the truth.

Sincerely,

EX-SMOKER

DEAR ABBY: After reading the mailman's complaint that the women on his route wouldn't leave him alone, and then the young meter reader who said that most of the housewives had designs on him, I began to wonder what mailmen and meter readers had that carpenters don't have. I have worked inside and outside of houses for 30 years, and I have dealt with the lady of the house, directly, and I never once had this problem. Should I be insulted?

DEAR CARPENTER: No. Maybe nobody else has had it, either.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe times have changed since I was a meter reader 25 years ago, but I was told that if I could not safely reach the meter to read it (vicious dogs or half-clad women) I should report it to the company, and they would send an estimated bill.

OLD-TIME METER READER

DEAR ABBY: What was the good-looking young meter reader, who had so much trouble beating off the love-starved housewife, doing in the house anyway? The meter is on the OUTSIDE.

CYNIC
DEAR CYNIC: Maybe he just wanted to meet her.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Doctor Says

WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Are you cool as a cucumber are you hot under the col-

Many ways have been deto measure the temper-of the body, but none ers more promise than the ermograms made by infraphotography.
As an instrument for locattrouble spots before se-damage has been done ey have a wide variety of es.
Long before there are any ens of obstructed blood vesle and incipient gangrene in e toes of diabetics, the therogram will reveal cold spots the affected areas. The ame is true for similar obstructions due to other causes.
inding these areas early can ad to the prevention of gang-ne.

The obstetricians are using ermograms to locate the lacta in pregnant women to discover the presence of wins and to detect false pregnancies and the ectopic pregnancies that sometimes oc-ur outside the uterus.

One great advantage of this orm of examination is that it ives information formerly btained only with X rays.
Thus it avoids the dangers associated with irradiation of the fetus and the ovaries. An early diagnosis of pregnancy can also be made because pregnancy causes definite changes in the thermograms of the breasts and uterus.

Other uses include the de-ction of hidden abscesses and tumors, determination of the severity of damage in a burned area and the rate of healing in wounds.

The chief drawback is that the equipment is very expensive. Thermograms, when they can be used to replace X rays, are much safer. In time, less expensive machines for this purpose may be produced.

Q — I had one breast removed because of cancer.
Now my arm on that side is swollen. What can I do to reduce the swelling?

A — About 50 per cent of the women who have a breast removed for cancer have swelling of the arm. This is because in an effort to remove any possible cancer cells in the area your surgeon had to remove the lymph nodes and vessels that carry lymph from your arm toward your heart.

Nancy Kwan Happy New Dual Role

JOSEPH FINNIGAN, Hollywood Correspondent (UPI) — Nancy Kwan, the Eurasian beauty who left Hollywood to live in the Austrian mountains, is happy with her new life, of part time actress and time mother.

Kwan is a mixture of Orient and Europe. Her father is Chinese, her mother is English. To make matters more international Miss Kwan is married to Austrian actor Peter Pock. The couple lives in Innsbruck, Austria, with their two children.

Kwan is a ski instructor there, also is in the hotel business. Kwan was back in Hollywood recently for a role in the 20th Century-Fox movie, "The Hunter."

Her movie career is not one she would consider busy, at least in terms of the number of hours she's done. Nancy's father is one that gives her the desire to be with her husband and child in Austria. Sometimes I don't work for months," she said during her time in the Fox commissary when I used to live here, all pictures were in Europe, all pictures are here."

Plays Many Roles

Two of Nancy's most important movies were "Flower and Song" and "The World Suzie Wong." Since then she played a variety of roles, says trying to do what seems possible to producers.

an oriental appearance, stays away from parts that are oriental in both physical and personal mannerisms. It is a difficult task. Movie producers rarely cast a non-occidental in a part that is not stereotyped.

"We turned down quite a lot of pictures," said Miss Kwan, who is under contract to the Seven Arts Production Company. "I don't want to do all oriental roles. After 'Suzie Wong' I got offers of parts but refused them."

As an example of what she means, Nancy cited some of her most recent pictures.

"There are a lot of roles where the nationality doesn't make any difference," she said. "In the 'Honey Moon Hotel' picture with Robert Goulet and Robert Morse, I play a social director. In this picture I'm an oceanographer."

Controls Pro Life

Miss Kwan is outspoken about her relationship with the Seven Arts Company management which controls her professional life. The company can decide whether or not she should appear in certain pictures for other companies.

Occasionally in the past, Seven Arts has refused her permission to work for another producer, a common Hollywood business practice.

"They said it wouldn't be good for me," she said. "So I went home for a few months. I don't mind, because I get paid even if I don't work."

When Miss Kwan finished work on the Fox film she headed back to Austria where she would prefer to stay for the next several months, or longer, depending on the whims of her bosses.

Any way you look at it, Nancy probably will be content. It's like she said, the money comes in whether she sits on her Austrian mountainside or works in the Hollywood flatland.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Albert M. Klein and Stuart W. Graff of Reuben Rose & Co. say the underlying technical and fundamental factors will carry the market to new record highs following completion of a minor correction.

Klein and Graff continue to emphasize stocks in those companies exhibiting strong earnings trends and selling at reasonable price-earnings ratios.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. feels that speculative and secondary shares are lagging behind the general and says he would not be surprised to see any recession in prices until these shares have caught up. Hooper expects the advance to continue but the vogue to become more speculative.

Bache & Co. feels the market has shown a good deal of resiliency in recent sessions and that this is an indication that there are plenty of funds waiting to be put to use on dips.

'Red Stocking' Wows Week-end Audiences

By HAL GAMBLE
Pampa Daily News
News Editor

A little bit of Broadway came to Pampa over the week-end with the Beta Sigma Phi Red Stocking Revue at Pampa Junior High Friday and Saturday nights.

Staged and directed by Ted Hook of the Cargill Producing organization, the show played both nights to near-sellout crowds.

Hook deftly handled the cast of strictly local talent and came up with a truly professional show.

The show was staged in two acts with a total of 27 scenes, and ran the musical gamut from the "Sophisticated Mambo Cha-Cha-Cha" to a Beatle act by the "Pampa Pests."

Only occasional amateurish bobbles interrupted the smooth-running performance and those few cases of faux pas added to the humor-laden revue.

Especially stellar performances were turned in by Louise Richardson, Treble Clef Club member, who sang "Penny Candy"; Pampa High School student Terry Watson with her rendition of "Mood Indigo"; and Kay Schoening of Beta Sigma Phi.

Pampa High Students Open Election Drive

It's election time at Pampa High School and the six candidates for president of the student body are digging in for the week-long campaign trail.

Seeking the top office at Pampa High are David McDaniel, Richard Fatheree, Larry Hollis, Pat Ludemann, Caroletta Johnson and Phil Smith, all junior class members.

Voting will be held Monday, April 13, following a series of campaign addresses at an assembly during the morning. The official results will be made public Tuesday morning, although candidates will be held Monday following school.

The second highest vote-getter will be named vice president of the student body for next school year. The current president and vice president are Donnie Rexroad and Larry Johnson.

Each student candidate is conducting a campaign complete with managers, posters and slogans designed to stimulate interest in the election. Posters will be spread across the hallways and student campaigning will be conducted between classes and before school each day until the assembly program.

Students seeking the high school office were required to bring a petition with 25 signatures on them to the office by April 1 where a screening committee of Principal Cameron Marsh and Mrs. Otis Holladay, sponsor of the student council, checked to make certain double signatures were not found on the petitions.

Students must be eligible by grades, can not be married and must have eight solid credits (English, history, etc.) on record to be able to seek the office.

While there are no issues involved in the campaign, many of the candidates attempt to learn wishes of other students and use their feelings on these ideas and suggestions as part of their platform come the campaign speech date.

Some of the candidates will be seeking to inject humor into the election as was done last year when Hank Henry, then a junior, marched a large monkey (a student dressed as such) through the school with sandwich type placards on its chest and back urging students to vote for candidates in the election.

Stunts such as these and others are planned by the student campaign manager.

Marsh, who has seen many of the elections come and go in the past years as head of the faculty, admits the student interest in the election is "high this year."

"I expect it will be a bigger election around the school than the presidential chase nationally," Marsh declared. "That is if I know my students."
