Negro Man Sought In Midland Slaying

MIDLAND (AP)—Mrs. Fred Turner, wife of a prominent oilman and race horse owner, was shot during an attempted robbery. They had not determined what if anything was taken.

Police said they presumed that Mrs. Turner, who was alone in the large house, was shot during an attempted robbery. They had not determined what if anything was taken.

Turner was in Las Vegas. Police said that about 4:14 a.m., John Galley, who lives in the neighborhood heard a woman scream for help and then he heard a shot.

Officers sent to the area searched the neighborhood for some time but found nothing wrong.

Mrs. Juanita Young, 46, a cook for the Turners for nearly nine years, reported for work about 7:30 a.m., noticed the blinds drawn, which was unusual, and upon entering the house found muddy footprints in the kitchen and the downstairs in disarray.

Mrs. Turner was in her early 60s.

The cook went to a neighbor, who called Mrs. Turner's son-in-law, Clarence Scharbauer Jr. He and his wife and Sheriff Ed Darnell and a deputy sheriff went to the Turner home at once.

The sheriff and the cook found Mrs. Turner's body on the floor of her dressing room on the second floor. She had been shot once in the head. A bedspread covered the body.

When the group returned to the ground floor they found Mrs. Scharbauer sitting in a chair in the library with blood streaming from her face.

She told Darnell that as she was sitting in the chair a Negro man walked up to her and said "What are you doing here?"

Mrs. Scharbauer said she replied that she was excited and added "He then hit me with a gun."

The sheriff said he and Scharbauer started out the door when the Negro surprised them as he came in from the hallway with a gun in his hand.

"You get back there and stand up there," the sheriff quoted the man as saying.

The sheriff said he was unable to tell what kind of a gun chased the fleeing man about three blocks.

They lost him when he darted into the basement of an office building.

The gunman was described as being about 20 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds and of medium dark complexion. When last seen he was wearing khaki clothes and a red cap.

The Negro lined all of them up, at gunpoint, the sheriff said, and then backed out of the front door and fled.

Curtis Jones, 31, a Negro yardman, saw the man flee and chased him.

Jones hailed a mototaxi, was wearing khaki clothes and a red cap.

Meandering Ginny Still Eyes Coast

BOSTON (AP)—Hurricane Ginny brought relief from a prolonged drought in eastern New England today and flurried with the coast as it headed in northeasterly direction.

There was a possibility sections of eastern Maine might feel a strong punch from the meandering storm.

The erratic hurricane was expected to pass along the coast of Nova Scotia, its main threat to New England reduced to gale winds.

At Nantucket, the winds were from the north-northwest 40 miles an hour with gusts up to 55.

Tides generally were a couple of feet above normal on Cape Cod.

As she moved up the Atlantic Coast, Ginny brushed past eastern Long Island in New York and then turned seaward.

Nantucket got the heaviest rainfall with 2.58 inches in the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. The storm dumped 1.86 inches of rain during a six-hour period Monday.

A 90-foot dragger, the Casco Bay, with five aboard, was reported in sinking condition off Portland, Maine. The Coast Guard sent aid.

The Weather Bureau canceled a hurricane watch on the New England coast and a flood warning for Long Island.

This morning radar found the center of the storm about 180 miles east of Nantucket. Ginny was moving northeastward at about 35 miles an hour, packing an estimated 95-m.p.h. punch at the center and fringing gale-force winds for 225 miles.

The hurricane watch on the eastern England coast and eastern Long Island has been discontinued. The Weather Bureau said "However, whole gale warnings are displayed elsewhere from eastern Long Island to Eastport, Maine."

Heavy rain over portions of eastern New England brought a measure of relief to an area plagued by drought and forest fires. Bans on burning were eased.

The morning advisory indicated the Weather Bureau regarded Ginny as a diminishing threat.

The bureau said the present course indicated Ginny would continue moving rapidly toward the northeast, passing along the coast of Nova Scotia.

Heavy rain fell on eastern Long Island and the New England coast and breakers pounded the Long Island north shore.

Compromise Rights Bill Approved By Committee

Bobby Baker Investigation Opens Today

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators open their investigation today of Robert G. Baker, the page boy they called "Bobby" who quickly grew up to wealth and power as secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority.

The first witnesses in the Rules Committee's closed hearing was to be Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who has conducted a one-man probe of the affairs of Baker, 35, who resigned his Senate job under fire Oct. 7.

A specific point under the committee's scrutiny is an allegation that Baker used pressure tactics to induce big defense contractors to install at their plants vending machines of various kinds leased from a firm in which he had a financial stake.

Baker has denied any pressure tactics.

The case has been followed by disclosure that Baker was a moving spirit in the organization of an exclusive Capitol Hill group known as the Quorum Club, Inc., at a hotel across the street from the Senate Office Building. Its membership included Congress members and lobbyists.

He also has been named as the unsalaried secretary of a travel agency which numbered Congress members and lobbyists among its clients.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, asked Monday that the investigation also look into the affairs of Mrs. Elly Rometsch, attractive German brunette who was shipped home after allegedly bragging of amorous adventures with Washington figures.

One of the unconfirmed rumors was some members of Baker's circle were on good terms with Mrs. Rometsch, 27, and that she was often seen at the Quorum Club.

Do We Have A 'Christine' Also?

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican congressman has asked the administration to reveal the inside story of a German beauty who was whisked out of the country after reportedly boasting of amorous frolics with Washington figures.

"Members of Congress and the public are entitled to know whether there was any element of security violation concerned in this speedy and hitherto unpublished deportation," Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, told the House Monday.

The West German defense minister identified the statuette as Mrs. Elly Rometsch, 27. He said she and her sergeant husband had been called home last August on the basis of intelligence reports about her behavior.

The defense minister said the woman had no contacts with persons from the Soviet bloc and "the whole thing seems harmless."

Sgt. Rometsch had been assigned to the West German military mission in Washington.

Officials here said the kiss-and-tell frau was sent packing after a quiet investigation by the FBI but that she was not deported.

Gross linked Mrs. Rometsch's case with the Senate investigation of the business affairs of Robert G. Baker, who resigned as Senate Democratic secretary after allegations he used influence to help his business interests.

Among the unconfirmed stories making the rounds is that Mrs. Rometsch was often at the Quorum Club, of which Baker was a charter member. It has been an elegant gathering place for lobbyists and members of Congress. Quorum employees insisted they never heard of her. Police Monday, because his office building is gone, all 250 feet of it disappeared.

The furnishings were later found strewn about a field.

Bill Goes To House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee approved today an administration-backed compromise civil rights bill. The vote was 20-14.

The final vote, which sends the bill on its way to the House floor came after an earlier defeat of a tougher bill backed by some liberals on the committee.

Meeting shortly after President Kennedy had conferred with House leaders of both parties, the committee rejected by a 19-13 vote a bill the administration contended was too stiff to get through Congress.

It then began consideration of a milder, but still wide-ranging bill that is stronger in some respects than the original administration proposal. The bill was worked out by the administration during the last few days in the close collaboration with key House Republicans.

Although some supporters of the defeated bill, which was drafted by a judiciary subcommittee, claimed it could have been passed, others conceded the new proposals will have a better chance of passage.

At the White House meeting, Kennedy was reported to have told Democratic and Republican House leaders he expected them to work together to move the compromise bill smoothly through the House.

It was not immediately clear whether the committee would reach a vote today on the new package. When the meeting began many members had not even seen it.

It was finally put together late Monday night and printed copies were distributed to some members this morning.

It is a 56-page bill that contains all of the original seven administration proposals, covering voting rights, school desegregation and extension of the Civil Rights Commission, establishment of a community relations service, and a tough new provision that would authorize the administration to withhold federal funds for federal aid programs in which discrimination is practiced.

Success for the administration drive to reach a compromise had been signalled by House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who reported the White House meeting this morning ended on a "very happy note."

The gathering was held less than an hour before the committee session.

Reds Try To Water-Down Test Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Soviet attempts to water down a proposal aimed at banning underground nuclear tests have caused a split among the eight nonaligned nations that authored the resolution.

Some of the sponsors feel the proposed revisions make the draft virtually meaningless.

Informants said the two big powers, who are deadlocked over the key issue of on-site inspection, suggested a resolution that does not mention underground testing.

As a result, the U.N. main political committee decided to turn to other disarmament issues on its agenda.

Delegates predicted, however, the nonaligned nations would eventually accept the resolution in its watered-down state since only such a draft has a chance of solid approval.

The eight sponsors of the underground test ban proposal are Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Iraq, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic.

Elsewhere in the U.N., a sweeping call for elimination of race discrimination was approved Monday 89-0 by the assembly's social committee, but the strong wording caused the United States to abstain, along with 16 other Western nations.

A congressional member of the U.S. delegation, Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., told the assembly's budgetary committee that more efficient planning and fewer international conferences would help cut the cost of running the organization.

"Conference - going can be habit-forming," said Mailliard.

Body Of Ex-Sen. Connally Returned To Native Texas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The body of former Sen. Tom Connally, often described as "the senator who looks most like a senator should look"—was to be flown back to his home state of Texas today.

Connally, retired since Jan. 3, 1963, after serving 34 years in Congress—10 in the House and 24 in the Senate, died Monday at the age of 86.

The former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a razor-tongued statesman who fought many battles during his Senate years, died of pneumonia. He had been ailing for years.

Since his retirement, Connally called him "one of the authentic giants of the century" and "a man who was not only a part of history but who helped to shape it."

One of the most important pieces of domestic legislation bearing his name is the Connally Act, which prohibits interstate transportation of oil produced in violation of state laws.

Thomas Terry Connally was born in McLennan County, Tex., Aug. 19, 1877, a son of Jones and Mary Terry Connally. He was educated in Baylor University at Waco and the University of Texas as law school.

In 1904 he married Louise Clarkon of Marlin, who died in 1935. A son by that marriage, Ben Connally, is a federal district judge in Houston.

In 1942 Connally married the widow of his late colleague, Sen. Morris Sheppard of Texas. Besides his son and widow, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Sparks McKay of Tyler.

The Rev. Ashbury Lenox, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Marlin, will officiate at the funeral services.

Connally was furious on Dec. 2, 1941, when the Japanese staged their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. At a briefing session in the White House that evening, President Roosevelt said all the things the Japanese had done. It went on and on.

Finally the Texan could stand it no longer.

"Hell!" he shouted. "Haven't we done anything?"

"Often when asked about his stand on civil rights questions,

New Milestone For Everybody's

Everybody's Grocery, a major Snyder food shopping center for nearly two decades, has marked up a new milestone. Rex Miller, owner and operator of Everybody's, announced that the firm has become affiliated with South Plains Associated Grocers.

Miller said this affiliation will enable Everybody's to buy food products on a basis equal with that of the largest food chains in the nation.

The affiliation also adds new brand names to the huge list at Everybody's. The new brands, Shurfine and Shurfresh, are packed especially for the Associated Grocers organization. In order to give the consumer highest quality foods and the most economical prices.

Associated Grocers, which is designed to place the buying power of independent food markets in an even better bracket than national or statewide chains, has the largest warehouse in Lubbock serving its South Plains group.

"We feel that this affiliation will benefit our consumers, not only economically, but from the standpoint of quality and service as well," said Miller.

Everybody's Grocery dates its history back to 1945 when Miller was one of three partners who operated a store on the square. The name "Everybody's" came into being when a second outlet was opened on Avenue S just south of Deep Creek. Then, in 1960, Miller opened the present modern super market at Thirty-fifth Street and Avenue S.

63 Miners Emerge Safe

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Sixty-three miners trapped in an elevator shaft of one of the world's deepest coal mines emerged safely Monday night to be greeted by jubilant relatives and friends.

All the miners were pronounced in good shape. Thirteen were trapped for 12 hours in a cage nearly a mile below the surface. The other 50 spent 14 hours in another cage at the 1,000-foot level.

A mishap in the lift machinery, which fatally injured a workman, caused the cages to become stuck Monday. The accident occurred at a mine near Carletonville, 60 miles southwest of Johannesburg.

A small service cage was used to rescue the miners. The cage inched its way down the shaft to the 1,000-foot level where 50 men trapped scrambled aboard.

The cage then reached the 4,800-foot level where the 13 were trapped. They, too, were hauled to the surface.

Michigan Gov. George Romney announced the selection today of the Flint, Mich., girl who was not expected to survive her first year because she was born with an open spine.

After corrective surgery, Mary Lou is starting the effort of learning how to walk, and helps her mother, Mrs. Raymond Graves, sweep the floor and dust the furniture.

AFL's Gate Is Improved

NEW YORK (AP)—Four, and possibly six, of the eight teams in the American Football league will show a profit for the 1963 season, Commissioner Joe Foss announced.

Foss said Monday that attendance had passed the 600,000 mark at the halfway point of the season—an increase of 80,000 at this stage last year.

"We really are moving along," said Foss. "Dollar volume is up 29 per cent. All the clubs are up."

Foss declined to name the teams who were in the black but made it clear that New York and Oakland still are on the losing side of the ledger.

Penn Station To Go

NEW YORK (AP)—Crews have started demolition work on Pennsylvania Station, a landmark for 33 years.

The station will make way for a futuristic sports palace and a 33-story skyscraper.

Electric jackhammers began tearing into the station Monday. Construction of the $70-million Madison Square Garden Sports Center on the site is expected to take three years.

During the construction, the station's 550 daily trains will continue to carry 200,000 passengers to and from the city. The tracks are below ground.

the shaggy-haired senator would throw back his head and say: "I've never had much truck with the Negro."

But on a tour of McCloskey General Hospital at Temple during World War II, Connally treated Negro and white veterans alike as he made his way through the wards of the Army's biggest amputee center. He shook hands with each patient, asked what theater of the war he was from, where his home was and about his parents or wife and children.

At one bed he talked to a tall, skinny and smiling Negro soldier who had lost an arm in the Pacific. After several minutes, Connally said:

"Well, boy, I guess we're cousins under the skin, 'cause I got a lot of relatives with your same name from the same part of the country."

A few days later the Negro soldier told a reporter: "I guess he's just a bit of the greatest man next to Mr. Roosevelt, who ever lived."

Moroccans, Algerians To Confer

BAMAKO, Mali (AP)—President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria and Hassan II of Morocco arrived in Bamako today to bring their border war to the conference table.

Hassan, first to arrive, was smiling. Ben Bella arrived about a half hour later.

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, a prime mover in mediation efforts, was the last to arrive.

President Modibo Keita of Mali immediately invited the three leaders to lunch at his palace before the first session of the conference.

Western diplomats hoped the meeting would produce a ceasefire in the disputed border area between Morocco and Algeria. But they doubted any of the fundamental issues dividing the two North African neighbors would be resolved.

Ben Bella told his people by radio that he was optimistic for peace.

To strengthen the Moroccan position at the talks, Hassan's government announced its troops were eight miles from Tindouf, well in the territory claimed by Algeria.

The Moroccan King told his nation by radio Monday night he would press for adjustment of the frontier, most of which has never been formally marked out. It was doubtful Ben Bella would concede much, if anything, and he was certain to reject Morocco's claim to the ore-rich Tindouf area.

Virgin Mary De-emphasized By Ecumenical Council Vote

By GERALD I. MILLER
Associated Press Staff Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican Ecumenical Council de-emphasized its consideration of the Virgin Mary today, voting narrowly to incorporate a separate document concerning her in a larger schema on the Roman Catholic Church as a whole.

The action is expected to have wide implications for efforts to promote Christian unity. Proponents often have criticized Roman Catholic emphasis on Mary.

In another major action, the council approved a document endorsing efforts to work out an

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Sitting here on a rainy afternoon reading a book on Slide Rules and Logarithms when I came across this letter from Mr. Buck Marryat, the American Airlines press agent, marking the chapter on Inverted Scales (nothing to do with fish).

At any rate, Mr. Marryat takes issue with people who claim chili con carne is a Tex-dish that has no relation with Mexico. And he states that it actually is a Spanish dish and hooked in with Mexico since we were all one big unhappy family during the days when Spain was saving the heathens.

Mr. Marryat belongs to an organization known as the International Chili Appreciation Society which will tolerate nothing but the most authentic cooking of this item.

So having delved into chili

Trapped Men Make Jokes

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP)—Three high-spirited men trapped in an iron mine since Thursday continued cracking jokes with their rescuers today as a rescue shaft passed the halfway mark.

"Don't send down too much stuff—we'll only have to bring it out of the shaft again," one of the miners quipped over a supply tube that has been bored down to them 230 feet below the surface.

Hot food, warm clothing and the sports sections of newspapers go down to the three via the six-inch tube.

If boring operations continue at the present rate of five feet per hour, the men could be rescued Wednesday. But Rudolf Stein, the mine director, warned that geological variations in the earth could slow the speed of the drilling.

After 46 hours of drilling, the rescue shaft had reached the halfway mark.

A more powerful drilling rig was put into action today on a second rescue shaft.

The three were trapped in an air pocket in a gallery when a nearby dam burst and flooded the mine. Eighty-six miners managed to escape, but 40 others are still unaccounted for and are believed to have drowned.

Killed By Rolling Car

FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga. (AP)—Mrs. Hoyle Turner, 36, panicked when her car began rolling down her driveway with her 16-month-old son inside.

She reached the car after it sped across the street and was pinned by the vehicle against a tree.

She was killed. The little boy was unhurt.

international perpetual calendar and a fixed date for Easter. The vote was 2,154 in favor, 21 against, and 18 in favor with reservations. Two ballots were null.

The vote on Mary was closer. A council spokesman said 1,114 prelates voted to incorporate consideration of the Virgin's place in Catholic theology in a broad schema or topic on the nature of the Church, while 1,074 voted to consider a separate schema on Mary.

Two council fathers voted for incorporation with reservations, and three ballots were blank.

It was one of the closest votes in the council since the assembly of 2,300 prelates opened more than a year ago. Council decisions usually require a two-thirds majority, but the action today was considered procedural and required only a majority of the 2,193 prelates voting, or 1,097 votes.

As a result of the vote, the Marian topic will become a chapter in the theological schema "De Ecclesia," which the council has been debating for the past month. "De Ecclesia" examines the nature and structure of the Roman Catholic Church.

At the heart of the matter is the highly controversial question of whether the role of the mother of Christ has been over-emphasized in Roman Catholic theology.

Some of the delegates feel a separate schema might put undue emphasis on Mary and distort her role in the church. This group holds that by making the Marian document part of a larger topic on the nature of the Church, the council could improve relations with Protestants.

Jet Liner Hits Man, Victim Unidentified

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A landing jet airliner hit an unidentified man at International Airport and the resulting confusion kept three other jets circling almost an hour until they could land Monday.

The jet which struck a man carried no passengers. It was on a practice flight. Police said the body was so badly mangled they might never be able to identify the victim.

Rafael Trevino, who was piloting the plane, said the man appeared suddenly on the runway and it was impossible to miss him.

So she turned to one of Mr. Marryat's relatives who was extracting an arrow from his trousers so he could sit down to lunch and said, "Basil, we must save these poor heathens from whatever is bugging them. Suppose we make them some excellent Spanish chili con carne?"

And Basil asked, "What's at?"

So Mar'y of Agrada said, "Just bring me this list of ingredients from the market and I'll show you."

Probably she never revealed the original recipe and for this reason was known as a wise and mysterious woman.

Now Mr. Marryat reports that to be properly manufactured, chili con carne must have cumino which is the seed of a dwarf carrot native to Egypt. Or maybe it is the seed of a carrot raised by dwarfs native to Egypt. His typing is awful.

Anyhow, this plus approximately 3,238 other ingredients gets you the 24-carat product which I am pleased to report is not considered repulsive in Mexico.

Of course it is spurned in the restaurants which serve only native cuisine but apparently because of ignorance. Nobody has bothered to advise the kitchen mechanics of such establishments that chili con carne was brought to New Spain and saved the northern portion when they didn't have so much as a dollar alarm clock.

In the olden days, reports Mr. Marryat, chopped antelope meat was used along with chunks of javelina. Possibly a few rusty nails and wilted cabbage leaves along with the spices. Also salt.

Mr. Marryat says salt was essential and was considered an omen of good luck by the ancient Romans. Especially if they had a good steak to put some on.

No Relief Forecast In Drought

CHICAGO (AP)—No general break in autumn's severe and costly drought appeared in prospect today but possible rains from hurricane Ginny may bring some relief in Eastern parts of the nation.

Rain, showers or snow were forecast for broad areas of the East and South. The rains, if heavy and widespread, could be of benefit in alleviating drought conditions, curtailing the rash of fires in forestlands and replenishing dwindling water supplies.

Forecasters said Ginny was centered about 250 miles south of Cape Cod and moving northward, aiming at southeastern New England and threatening strong winds and rain for New York City and Long Island. Heavy rains were indicated in eastern Long Island and eastern Connecticut, with tides running up to six feet above normal.

Gale warnings were displayed from Eastport, Maine, to the Virginia Capes.

If Ginny continues on her present course, most of the rain would hit only coastal areas rather than the tinder-dry inland sections. Weather officials said New York City's six Upstate reservoirs, based on Ginny's present movement, would not get much benefit because of the inland locations. Residents

Month-Long Test To Begin Monday

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Four young airmen will step into a 9-by-25-foot steel cabin Monday to start a make believe space flight that is due to last more than a month.

Scientists say the test, at a simulated altitude of 27,500 feet, will duplicate conditions expected on Gemini and Apollo space voyagers.

Six airmen have volunteered. Four will be selected just before the start. The other two will stay outside the cabin so doctors can compare their physical reactions to those of the men inside.

The six candidates, all single, are from the Air Force Training Center at Lackland Air Force Base here.

They are Jerry Huber, 18, of Hope, Mich.; Philip Jamieson, 17, of Clearwater, Fla.; Gary Morrill, 18, of Eaton Rapids, Mich.; Thomas Rusieck, 18, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Ronald Tasker, 19, of Westerville, N.Y.; and George Vandall, 21, of Milford, Mass.

The four selected will spend 30 days breathing pure oxygen. It is to be the longest known exposure to pure oxygen at the reduced air pressure of extreme altitude.

Capt. James Herlioch of Wolfrich, Pa., in charge of the experiment, said: "We are studying the effects of the subjects to prolonged living in this particular space cabin in atmosphere. We are not isolating the men and they have no set work routine as was the case in some of our previous cabin tests."

After 30 days the men will emerge for half a day of X-ray examinations of lungs and eyes. They'll go back into the cabin for another five days to permit collection of followup data.

The average earth tide at Los Angeles surges about 11 inches, according to Dr. John T. Pettit, research associate in the Los Angeles Institute of Geophysics of the University of California.

Cameramen Unprepared For Speed Of B52 Alert

New Growth Forseen For Oil Industry

HOUSTON (AP) — The Petroleum industry stands on the verge of a new era of growth and vitality, a leading oil executive says.

John C. Johnson, vice president and division manager of Pan American Petroleum Co., told the Houston Landman's Association that growing population and increasing use of hydrocarbon fuels for development of mechanical energy will dictate substantially larger requirements for oil and gas.

"I am convinced," he said Monday night, "that the industry is going to be around for a long time, that we are going to find a great deal more oil and gas without our borders, and that we will continue to be the dominant supplier of energy in this country and indeed in the world for many decades to come."

Johnson said this country's population is expected to reach 332 million by the year 2000 and it is estimated that the nation's energy requirements will increase by more than 50 per cent in the next 15 to 20 years.

"To meet this demand, we will have to discover some 73 billion barrels of oil and 625 trillion cubic feet of natural gas by 1980," he said.

Johnson predicted much of this new oil and gas will be found in Texas.

"South Texas and particularly the Gulf Coast have many excellent remaining prospects," he said. "The offshore areas of the state can't be written off either, even though our success there so far has not been notable."

GOP Women Of Texas Elect Head

HOUSTON (AP)—A San Antonio woman, Mrs. Milton Cox, is the new president of the 5,000-member Texas Federation of Republican Women.

She was named to head the 100-club group at a business session of the federation's biennial convention Monday.

Other officers included Mrs. George Pearson of Tyler, Mrs. George Johnson of Houston, Mrs. L. R. Miller of Greenville, Mrs. Lee Woods of Dallas, Mrs. R. M. Metcalfe of El Paso and Mrs. Hugh Seewald of Amarillo, all vice presidents.

Mrs. Denman Cloud of San Marcos was elected recording secretary; Mrs. N. K. Farmer of San Antonio corresponding secretary and Miss Frankie Frenley of Dallas treasurer.

Delegates heard a prediction of victory on the first or second GOP convention ballot for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as the party's 1964 presidential nomination.

Peter O'Donnell of Dallas, Republican state chairman, made the prediction. He also is chairman of the Draft Goldwater Drive and said he feels there are now 500 solid Goldwater delegates, with 655 needed.

"Our mission is to put Goldwater in and Kennedy out," he told the 600 delegates.

Mrs. Barbara Mann of Wichita Falls, outgoing president, reported more than 70 Republican women's clubs have been added to the federation in the past two years. She said membership now totals 5,000 and the goal is 10,000 by October, 1964.

Delegates passed resolutions urging Goldwater to seek the GOP presidential nomination and offering full support to Texas as Republican leaders in redistricting reports.

Newspaper Editors Urge Less Government Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spokesmen for the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the American Society of Newspaper Editors urged Congress today to approve a bill to curb excessive government secrecy.

Eugene Pulliam, assistant publisher of the Indianapolis Star, told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that passage of the bill "would not be a victory for the press, but for the public it serves."

Pulliam said the measure sponsored by Sen. Edward Long, D-Mo., was needed because "federal agencies now can deny almost anyone access to many decisions, facts, votes."

Long's bill would compel government agencies to publish sources in the federal register where newsmen and others can get information about their activities. It also provides for legal recourse to federal courts to force disclosure of information.

Pulliam said the ANPA "has been concerned with the increasing secrecy which surrounds many activities of governmental departments and agencies and the resulting difficulties which newspaper reporters face in keeping the public informed at all times about how public servants are conducting the public's business, and how they are spending the public's money."

He said that the Administrative Procedure Act, which governs the conduct of federal regulatory agencies, "contains many compromises and generalities and some ambiguities."

As a result, he continued, "it has been interpreted to mean that it grants... public servants the authority to keep information hidden not only from the public but from the Congress as well."

Pulliam said passage of Long's bill would "demonstrate the active interest of the Congress in a free flow of information to the American people."

Creed Black, executive editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Morning News and chairman of the ASNE's freedom of information committee, said the burden of responsibility for providing information "is fundamentally misplaced."

"It should not be up to the American people—and the press is simply their representatives—to fight daily battles just to find out how the ordinary business of their government is being conducted."

"Rather, it should be the responsibility of their employees who conduct this business to tell them," he added.

Black said "Almost two decades of actual experience (under the administrative procedure act) support Sen. Long's statement that 'Time and interpretation have shown that it is woefully inadequate today' and Rep. John Moss', D-Calif., lamented that 'it actually has served throughout the government generally to suppress information rather than make it available.'"

Drug Price Cartels Told

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune said today it has turned over to the Senate Antitrust subcommittee "secret documents of a worldwide cartel that rigs drug prices."

The newspaper said it obtained the papers from several sources. It did not elaborate.

In Washington, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said the papers have been received by the subcommittee, which he heads. He said South American drug marketing practices and how U.S. firms are involved has been studied by the subcommittee behind closed doors for some time.

The Herald Tribune said "experts who have reviewed the documents are convinced that the price structure of certain drugs widely marketed in the U.S. is based on international agreements."

Tire Slashers Sentenced

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Three former college students, accused of causing more than $5,000 in damage on a tire slashing spree Oct. 14, were sentenced Monday to contact personally over 100 owners of damaged autos.

Justice Ellsworth Gump found the trio guilty on charges of vagrancy and malicious destruction of property. He sentenced them to a year in jail, with all but 90 days suspended.

The youths, Michael F. Skovron, 20, Great Falls, Mont., Edward M. McElligott, 19, Anchorage, Alaska; and Phillip J. Sheridan, 18, Everett, Wash., will serve 60 days of the sentence in jail.

The other 30 days they will split up, each taking a third of the owners of the 250 tires slashed. They will contact the owners, according to the sentence, to arrange for restitution. They were earlier dropped from Gonzaga University here.

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Spotty, a tomcat with wanderlust, is back after an unexplained absence of 28 months.

He found the Charles Pina family again despite the fact they moved to a new home nearly two miles away. Why did Spotty finally come home? Nobody knows, but there's a pretty young tiger cat living next door.

Real Happy Actress Is Rare Thing

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the rarest things in show business are a modest, operatic tenor—and a happy actress.

But English actress Julie Andrews right now is dwelling on a peak of ecstasy.

"I'm happier than I have ever been in my life—and I've had a very happy life," she proclaimed, attacking a luncheon plate of eggs Benedict.

The sources of her joy are threefold—marriage, motherhood and career. All are flourishing.

Julie came here to complete a film. With her came her husband and childhood sweetheart, producer Tony Walton, and their chubby-cheeked daughter, Emma Kate, who is in the learning to walk and spilling food on the floor stage.

Motherhood has brought to maturity the bloom of beauty which shone in Julie's performance as the Cockney lass in "My Fair Lady," which she sang over 1,500 times here and in London.

She is reconciled now to the fact that Audrey Hepburn was picked to play the film role.

Her own career is full of so many pending projects she has little time to mull over disappointments. She plans more films, a London musical, and perhaps more television shows. Julie, tall, blonde and smiling, has a warm, friendly, almost madcap quality when she is around friends. She likes to recall the merry times she had when she first came to Broadway.

"We got paid on Fridays," she said, "so on Thursday my roommate and I usually had nothing to eat except eggs we bought at a delicatessen and cooked in our room."

As she spoke, she spilled on the table some sugar she was putting into her tea. Unconsciously, she picked up a few grains—as if they were salt—and tossed them over her left shoulder.

"I might as well. It can't hurt," she said. "No, I'm not really superstitious. But I'm super, super careful. I always take the very best before I take a step in any situation."

Julie said that to her the important things in life are "love, health, and a bloody good sense of humor."

One of the great apes—the rare red-haired orangutan of Borneo and Sumatra—faces extinction at the hand of man.

Women Are Serving Well In Uncle Sam's Armed Forces

By INEZ ROBB

WASHINGTON.—There is in the United States a small group of women entitled to call themselves DACOWITS.

That name invariably and understandably produces in the listener a look of astonishment. He usually asks, "What's that again?" and leaps to the conclusion that the woman has identified herself as a (1) half-wit, (2) a survivor of the dread Nazi extermination camp or (3) a member of some obscure native Indian tribe.

Well, we are none of these. DACOWITS indicates that we are civilian members of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services. We are each appointed for a three-year term by the Secretary of Defense.

The 50 members of DACOWITS, created 12 years ago at the suggestion of the late Gen. George C. Marshall, meet here semi-annually on invitation of the Department of Defense to consider the utilization of women in the armed services, to discuss their problems and, when we return home, help interpret to the public the role of and need for such women.

As for the need for women in the armed services, a DACOWITS member is always confronted by the Doubting Thomas or Thomasina who challenges that necessity. To this DACOWITS individual the answer seems obvious and is not far off.

If women in many fields were not a necessity to the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Marines, then surely these four services wouldn't fight like tigers for retention of the WACs, the WAFs, the WAVES and the women Marines.

If additional proof is needed, it lies with Congress, which has the power of the purse. Women in the services and the invaluable functions they perform have passed the acid test and received the seal of approval from U. S. legislators who long since could have cut them off at the hip pocket by refusing to appropriate funds for their continuance.

As of now, there are approximately 31,000 women in the armed services, including about 9,000 nurses and medical specialists. Of this number almost two-thirds are serving in U. S. military installations overseas. They serve at American bases in the Orient, in Europe and in Africa.

Expert secretaries, tri-lingual telephone operators and gifted mechanics and drivers (assigned to the motor pool) largely comprised the first group of 200 WACs sent overseas to Allied headquarters in Algiers in January, 1943, at the request of General Eisenhower.

Twenty years later, highly competent women in the four services are engaged in psychological warfare programs, in intelligence work, in logistics, in air traffic control and in map-making, to name only a few of the areas in which they operate.

Women chemists in Uncle Sam's uniform work on the testing and development of missile fuels; with Admiral Hyman Rickover at the Atomic Energy Commission; and in the radiological hazards branch of the Special Weapons Center at Albuquerque, N. M.

There are WAVES on the staffs of the Naval guided missile schools in Virginia and California. WACs work with the "Missile Master" units as radar console operators and plotters. One of the few audiologists in the world is a WAF who rides jets to measure their noise in reference to eardrum pressures. And women Marines are experts on automation, data processing and all that really advanced jazz.

Women in uniform run service hotels; manage PX's, serve as judge advocates and hold down responsible jobs in NATO. And then there are the invaluable and indispensable Nursing Corps of the Army, Navy and the Air Force, and the medical specialists corps, to boot.

All in all, one cannot help but feel, with a great sense of pride in these women in uniform, that they do, in all truth, comprise a hand-picked group. They constitute a veritable corps of specialists, in whom Uncle Sam and the rest of his family can take immense pride.

Junior Editors Quiz on SHIPS

QUESTION: Why are ships christened as if they were people?

ANSWER: People who use and love ships and boats have always had a special affection for them; they think of their craft as living things rather than just a collection of bits of wood, plastic or metal. Perhaps this is because water craft have been so useful and important to mankind. Boats have enabled men to gather food from the sea to explore the ocean and sail new lands. And because the sea is dangerous to sail over, boats must be carefully and thoughtfully built. A boat is entrusted with human lives, so the boat builder puts loving care in her construction. Pride in his craft leads the boat owner to select a name as a symbol of her importance to him.

Christening is part of the Christian ceremony of baptism, as a name is given to the child and sanctified water is sprinkled on him. Shipowners borrowed the idea of this ceremony for the great day of launching their ships. A lady sponsor is selected and she breaks a bottle of champagne over the bow. In our picture, Kenny and John have built a beautiful little sail boat from a kit they bought. Now John's sister, Phyllis, is christening her by pouring some soda pop on the bow.

FOR YOU TO DO: Some day you may learn enough about using tools to be able to build a real kit boat from parts already cut to shape—as Kenny and John did. In the meantime, build a boat from a model balsawood kit. It's a great way to get acquainted with water craft.

Congress Continues To Defy Efforts For Self Policing

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Five years ago Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, Oregon Democrat, complained that nobody polices the policeman, that Congress can investigate the whole area of government but nobody polices Congress.

For example: The head of a government department must rid himself of his stock before the Senate, to prevent conflict of interest, let him take office. This is to prevent his profiting from some company he may do business with. But a member of Congress can have all kinds of outside interests, and even fight for a law to help those interests, but he doesn't have to rid himself of anything or reveal anything about his total income.

Neuberger said: "I fear it has a corroding effect on government generally when a member of the President's cabinet can be ordered to jettison his corporate portfolios by senators who themselves may be dabbling in oil, cotton futures, television, hotel chains or uranium business. If federal commissioners are to be pilloried for accepting airplane tickets to Palm Beach, how can senators and representatives continue profitable associations with law firms retained by banks, railroads, labor unions and utility companies?"

In short Neuberger was calling on Congress, which has passed laws to prevent conflict of interest on the part of federal officials and other government employees, to pass a conflict-of-interest law on itself. Congress ignored him with great calmness, as it has ignored similar proposals by other members of both houses for years. Recently two former members of Congress were convicted of influence - peddling while they were in Congress.

Neuberger died in 1960. His wife, now Sen. Maurine Neuberger, also an Oregon Democrat, was elected to succeed him that same year. Last week she picked up where her husband left off. She and Sen. Clifford P. Case, New Jersey Republican, asked consideration of a bill they had introduced requiring top government officers, members of Congress and their staffs to report their yearly incomes, including gifts of substance and assets and liabilities and their financial transactions to the comptroller general, with these reports available to press and public.

Case has made this kind of proposal repeatedly and, like the late Neuberger, has been ignored. He and the present Sen. Neuberger made their pitch in a letter to Sen. B. Everett Jordan, North Carolina Democrat, who is chairman of the Senate Rules Committee which today begins an investigation of a former Senate employee, Robert G. Baker.

Baker, who was paid about $20,000 a year, resigned this month as secretary of the Senate Democrats after newspaper disclosure that he seemed to have an extraordinary number of outside financial interests. His duties included a wide variety of personal and business favors for Senate Democrats. In addition to his various outside business interests he had a law practice.

What started the disclosures about him was a $300,000 civil damage suit filed against him by the Capital Vending Co. which charged he had accepted commissions of $5,600 to put its machines in plants working for the government and then had ended the deal when Capitol refused to sell out to another vending company in which Baker is alleged to have held stock.

The Jordan committee's hearings on Baker's financial activities were to be held behind closed doors. Mrs. Neuberger and Case told Jordan that if their bill on financial disclosures by members of Congress and their employees had been law Congress would not have had to be informed about Baker by outside sources.

While Congress has shown practically no interest over the years in proposals like those of Neuberger and Case, it has been prompt to get indignant about wrongdoing in the executive branch and has had full-scale investigations. Right after President Kennedy took office in 1961, he asked Congress to tighten and broaden the laws against conflict of interest as it applies to employees of the executive branch. The law was passed quickly.

But there's hardly a chance in a billion that Congress will do anything about itself.

Project Gemini Continues Tests

By HOWARD BENEDICT

A.P. Aerospace Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A 90-foot-tall Titan 2 rocket, split into two stages, rolled onto launch complex No. 19 on special stock-resistant wheeled carriers. Workmen gingerly started to unload the valuable cargo.

Thus, an Air Force-contractor team began Monday the complex task of preparing the rocket for the first launching in the United States' next man-in-space effort, Project Gemini.

The initial flight will attempt to hoist a mockup model of the two-man Gemini spacecraft into orbit. It will tell engineers many things: the structural compatibility of the spacecraft and booster; temperatures and pressures which will affect the combination; performance of the guidance system, and Titan 2's ability to place a payload into a precise orbit.

The flight will be one of two, perhaps three, unmanned launchings designed to "mature" the Titan 2 for astronaut orbital and space rendezvous missions. The first astronaut flight is scheduled late next year.

The intercontinental-range Titan 2 has performed well in military weapon tests—but it is far from ready for manned flight. The major problem is a vibration which could blur the astronauts' instrument panel during the critical launching phase.

The vibration trouble is one reason the Gemini program is a year behind schedule. It has been called the "pogo effect" because it vibrates the length of the missile like a boy hopping up and down on a pogo stick.

The chief of the Air Force Gemini launch division, Lt. Col. John G. Albert, told newsmen about the difficulty.

"It occurs between 90 and 140 seconds after launching and vibrates at 11 cycles per second," he said. "We haven't pinpointed the precise cause. There are several things under study."

The turbo-prop is believed to be the most likely villain and its impeller is being redesigned. Albert noted the Titan 2 has been modified considerably for the Gemini flights and as a result it may not have the vibration problem.

"That doesn't mean we're not concerned," he said. "It might turn out to be worse."

Space officials are making two approaches to the trouble: surgically cleaning the second stage engine to prevent clogging of fuel orifices and redesigning the engine with more orifices.

Tooth Decay Down In Pittsburgh Area

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tooth decay among Pittsburgh school children has been cut by about 66 per cent since the area's water was fluoridated. Allegheny County health authorities say.

Fluorine was added to water supplies in 1952. At that time, the average child had 4.5 permanent teeth affected by decay, compared to 1.50 teeth last year, according to Dr. Jerome Altman, county dental examiner.

A study was carried out on 35,000 children between the ages of 6 and 18.

GOPs Want '64 Primary In Texas

FORT WORTH (AP) — Republican leaders, state and national, favor a presidential primary in Texas in 1964.

Rep. William Miller, N. Y., national GOP chairman, said Monday, "We Republicans suffer from underexposure. We need to attract public attention."

Miller said he didn't oppose preferential primaries for grabbing the spotlight.

The state committee man, Albert Fay of Houston, agreed with Miller.

"I certainly think we will have a presidential primary in Texas. We want to know what the grass roots feeling is," he said.

Miller told the news conference he believed Republicans would make substantial gains in 1964 with Negro voters.

Gridiron Rigs For Beauties

By PEGGY SIMPSON

DALLAS (AP) — Cute-as-a-bug teen-agers suit up today for a game of touch football in the Miss Teen-age America Football Bowl.

It's the East against the West for the 50 contestants in the third annual Miss Teen-age America Pageant. Their football game is one of the few breaks in a rigorous schedule of dress fittings, talent rehearsals, and poise and personality sessions before the judges.

The climax of the week-long pageant is a televised program in which all the girls will participate Friday night. It will give a national audience opportunity to see Miss Teen-age America of 1964 crowned.

Monday night the contestants heard Dallas Mayor Earle Cabell call them an unusual combination of "beauty and brains."

The pageant emphasis is on intelligence, personality, good grooming and talent — credited by sponsors for attracting girls of unusual depth.

The Jr. teens gave Cabell something from their home towns.

One of the more unusual gifts came from Miss Teen-age Tucson, Diana Grisso — a bottle of Arizona sunshine.

Washington state and Virginia both sent their distinctive brands of apples for all the contestants to munch.

The judging continues through Wednesday, with six finalists to be named Thursday afternoon, then begins a tension-filled wait until the 9 p.m. coronation Friday.

After a new queen has been crowned, the girls will be escorted to a coronation buffet and ball by a group of tall Texans — the singing cadets from Texas A&M.

The Los Angeles Dodgers scored first and went on to win in all four games of the 1963 World Series.

Looking Back

10 Years Ago

From The Snyder Daily News

At least one class of ex-students of Snyder High School will hold a reunion this week during homecoming activities of the school.

It is the class of 1910, which had 14 graduates. Hugh Taylor of Snyder, one of the class members, said he expected at least 11 of them to be here tomorrow for the reunion.

Several copies of the city street paving petitions have been given to residents in various parts of town, but none have been completed and so turned to the city hall.

Fishermen Suffer Layoffs Caused By Botulism Scare

DETROIT (AP)—The three-week-old botulism food poisoning scare is causing a reported 20,000 layoffs in the Great Lakes commercial fishing industry. Meantime, the nation's fishing industry is fighting to restore public confidence in its smoked fish product.

Great Lakes-area layoffs reports came from commercial fishing sources Monday as representatives of the industry began meetings with government officials at Washington in an effort to regain the housewife's favor.

Sales of smoked fish plummeted after seven deaths from botulism and a government warning to the public not to eat smoked fish from the Great Lakes area unless it is known to have been properly processed.

The seven deaths, blamed on botulism in smoked fish, were in Michigan, Tennessee and Alabama.

The federal Food and Drug Administration agreed after the meetings with industry men to issue a statement re-emphasizing that its warnings on smoked fish does not apply to fresh fish, salt water fish, corned fish, fresh-frozen fish or smoked fish from any place except the Great Lakes region.

Deputy FDA Commissioner John L. Harvey said some industry men felt that some aspects of the FDA's warning had led to public misunderstanding.

California ordered removal from retail outlets any smoked whitefish or chubs from the Great Lakes area. These included Great Lakes fish smoked and packed in California.

H. J. Dornbos & Bros., Grand Haven, Mich., fish packer which the FDA said had produced a contaminated smoked whitefish, Monday held back on plans to resume smoking although given FDA permission to go ahead.

David Price, Dornbos plant manager, said operations would be closed down until FDA officials "get to the bottom of this matter." The FDA said no botulism had been found in Dornbos products since the Tennessee deaths. Dornbos quit these operations voluntarily Oct. 7.

Ike Elected To Board

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected chairman of the National Board of Directors of the English-Speaking Union of the United States today.

Eisenhower, in a statement released with the announcement of his election, said he was "indeed happy to be associated with an organization which plays such an important role in fostering friendship between the peoples of the United States and the Commonwealth and particularly between Americans and the people of Britain."

CLOSE SHAVE—Benny Hooks, 16, of Little Rock, Ark., clings to a rock quarry ledge as fireman approaches him on an aerial truck ladder. The ladder wouldn't reach so fireman lowered a rope from the top of the cliff and Hooks used it to make his way down to the ladder. Hooks and a companion, Kenny Herndon, 16, tried to scale the cliff and got stuck. Herndon fell 55 feet and was seriously injured. Hooks wasn't hurt. A third member of the climbing expedition got down and went for help. (AP Wirephoto)

Auto Sales Show Dazzling Figures

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Dazzling profit figures are sprouting from the dizzy production and sales pace set by Detroit's auto makers.

They gave promise of warming the hearts—and palms—of stockholders, including by more than one million of the General Motors Corp.

Of the "Big Three" automakers, only Ford Motor Co. remained today to be heard from following GM's report of all-time high earnings and dollar sales in the nine months ended Sept. 30.

Chrysler Corp. last week unfolded another financial chapter in its spectacular. Directors promptly voted a 2-for-1 stock split, the second in less than a year, and in effect doubled the dividend.

GM's pattern of rewarding its shareholders—whether by more liberal dividend treatment or possibly a stock split—will be decided when directors meet Monday in New York. In the first nine months, GM cleared $1,000,000,000, or $3.79 a common stock share, on unprecedented sales of $11,500,000,000.

The results suggested strongly that GM was on the way to shattering 1962's records for a full year. Of $2,200,000,000 in earnings and $14,640,000,000 in sales, levels unequaled by any manufacturing corporation.

The nine-month figures compared with 1962 figures, or $3.36 a share, cleared in the comparable 1962 period, on sales of $10,451,000,000.

Wall Street has been alive with speculation over what GM directors will do next week. Many traders and brokers looked at least for a rise in the regular dividend rate, pegged at 50 cents a quarter since 1956, or a fat year-end extra.

Some held hope of a stock split. GM last divided its shares in 1955 on a 3-for-1 basis, and before that split 2-for-1 in October 1950.

The New York Yankees had a team batting average of .170 in the 1963 World Series.

Says Meet 'Right Step'

MEXICO CITY (AP)—President Romulo Belandier of Venezuela expressed confidence Monday that a meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers would be a giant step toward blocking military takeovers of Latin American governments.

In an interview published by the newspaper Excelsior, Belandier said his foreign minister, Marcos Falcón Briceño, is on a tour of Latin American countries to seek support for the proposed meeting.

He said these nations include Colombia, Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, El Salvador and Mexico.

Confiscation Of Fish Ordered In Texas

AUSTIN (AP)—Health officials pressed today a statewide seizure of certain shipments of Great Lakes smoked whitefish connected with botulism.

Dr. J. E. Peavy, state commissioner of health, ordered the fish confiscated. He said he acted at the request of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, which reported that some Great Lakes whitefish was involved with recent outbreaks of botulism in Michigan and Tennessee.
