For Seventy-one Years a Builder in Collingsworth County
WELLINGTON, COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY, TEXAS 79095 THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1981

Number 25

Clyde Drake, Engineer, Dies Jan. 5

Clyde Drake, 72, an engineer whose professional career was almost altogether with the Texas Highway Department, and whose retirement years were devoted to community service, died in St. Anthony's Hospital at 8 a.m. Monday, January 5.

He had been in ill health several years.

Drake was district construction engineer with the Texas Highway Department when he retired in 1974. He had come to the Wellington office in the early 1930s, and a few years later joined the bridge division of the department in Austin.

For three years in the early 1940s Drake was in the engineering department of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft, working on the experimental B36 airplane.

He returned to Wellington as senior resident engineer with the Highway Department, until he was promoted to the district office.

During his tenure, many of the hard-surfaced roads, both state and farm to market, were completed in the county. He was widely recognized also for his innovative planning and construction of bridges.

After he retired, he and his wife, Nora, developed from its beginning the Collingsworth County Historical Association and the Collingsworth County Historical Museum, of which he was the first president. He gave this both the planning and the work needed for its development.

Drake was appointed to the board of Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District and to the board of Collingsworth General Hospital, from which he retired in April 1980.

The Prestressed Concrete Association honored him for construction of the first pre-stressed concrete girder bridge in the Panhandle, and the General Contractors Association presented him a plaque for 40 years service to the industry.

In 1974, he was the co-recipient with his wife, Nora, of the Chamber of Commerce award for Outstanding Citizens.

BEGINNING

The concrete slab was poured this week for the new agriculture and auto mechanics shop and classroom building at Wellington High School. The site is located just south of the bus barn.

Country Club Observes Arbor Day With Planting

Wellington Country Club members will plant trees during the week of January 17 to celebrate Arbor Day.

Each member will be asked to either plant a tree or buy a balled tree to be planted at a later date. Every member furnishing a tree will be treated to a gourmet dinner, Friday Jan. 16 at the club house.

Randy Cole, club pro, will select sites for the tree plantings previous to the week. Steve Davis will dig holes for the trees. A water wagon will be provided by Lynn Fulcher to water the trees as they are planted, according to Henry Sullivan.

The original trees which were planted by John Sherman are cottonless Cottonwood. The same kind would be appreciated but any tree except Chinese Elm will be accepted. A prize of 1 dozen golf balls will be given to the largest tree that lives.

The reason for planting additional trees is to provide more windbreaks, beautification and in some cases to make the course more challenging.

"The local course is gaining a reputation as being one of the best course in the Panhandle. Members hope they can in future years have the very best," Sullivan said.

City Plans Construction Work During Year Ahead

Two major construction projects in which the City of Wellington will be involved during 1981 were put before the City Council Monday night, Jan. 5.

The new fire department building will be on the site of the old Kelly Pigg building, immediately north of Bura Handley Community Center, the councilmen voted.

The City has been approved for a $150,000 low interest loan from the Farmers Home Administration to build the fire house and to remodel portions of the community center.

City Manager Glen Taylor showed the architect's drawing of the building to FHA staff members in Amarillo Friday for their approval or suggested changes. It will be returned to council members for their studies and suggestions before final approval is given the plans.

Taylor told the council that he met with members of the volunteer fire department last week to determine their final wishes on the building.

Fronting on Amarillo Street, the new building will be 50 x 102 feet of concrete block construction faced with brick. "It won't have any frills," Taylor said.

The one exception to this will be the large plate glass window at the front to display the department's 52-year-old La France fire truck, one of the few remaining in this part of the country. It is now housed at the city barn for protection from weather.

Taylor reviewed plans for the community center. The present section now housing the fire trucks will be remodeled into offices. This means the floor must be raised and the south large door enclosed. A new door will be located and the interior finished for offices.

The bookkeeping department and computer will be moved into the present city council chamber and the old police chief's office will be remodeled for Eddie Davis, who heads the water department.

Bob Goforth, who has a background in building and construction, is drawing floor plans of the community center, as the original plans cannot be located.

The third part of the community building remodeling is updating the large auditorium.

Taylor said the windows will be enclosed, the balcony removed, and the ceiling lowered. This will extend across the stage to the east wall of the building, and a new sound system will be installed. New rest rooms will be located. Plans call for carpeting the auditorium.

The second project which Taylor announced relates to the Marian Airport.

Taylor told the council that earlier Monday, a phone call from the Texas Aeronautics Commission informed him that the $75,000 grant limit for airport improvement has been raised to $300,000 per year. Taylor intends to make application for this larger amount and said it will enable the city to complete the proposed $4,000 runway this year, and a second grant application next year.

Mrs. Roy Jeffrey, Sr., a past worthy matron of the Order of Eastern Star, died unexpectedly at her home, 1310 17th Street, at 7:15 p.m. Friday, January 2.

She had been in ill health about two years.

Mrs. Jeffrey had lived in Wellington 14 years, coming from Cloudcroft, New Mexico. In addition to her work with the Eastern Star, she was a member of First United Methodist Church and of the Dorothean Group of United Methodist Women.

She was employed at Parsons Drug for several years after coming to

Settlement Reached in Masten Heirs-ACU Suit

Attorneys for the family of F.O. Masten and Abilene Christian University announced Monday, Jan. 5 that they have reached a settlement in the contest of Masten's multi-million dollar purported hand-written will.

Neither the attorneys nor the judge presiding over the case would release information concerning the settlement. The will would have left Masten's entire estate to ACU.

The suit was to have begun at 9:30 Monday morning in 154th Judicial District Court at Littlefield with District Judge Pat Boone, Jr. presiding.

When court convened at that hour, the attorneys for the two sides told Boone that they had reached an agreement over the week end.

At stake in the case was an estimated $12 million dollar estate which would have gone to ACU under the provisions of the hand-written purported will, written and signed 72 days before his death in January, 1980.

The $12 million figure is far below those speculated on when Masten died, which reached as high as $30 million. It was conceded, both here and elsewhere, that Masten did not know how much he was worth.

Contesting this purported will were 18 members of Masten's family.

George Gilkerson of Lubbock, attorney for the family members, told Boone the settlement was reached January 2 and Texas Attorney General Mark Whitehead approved the agreement through an assistant on Jan. 3. The law requires the state to approve such wills or settlements involving charitable bequests, in this case ACU.

Littlefield attorney Jerome Kirby, representing ACU, said his clients had agreed to the settlement, but said additional time

OFFICIALS SWORN IN

These five officials were sworn into county and precinct offices at 10 a.m. Thursday, January 1. John R. Henard, Jr., commissioner, Precinct 1; Kenneth Maxwell, sheriff; Ann Wauer, county tax assessor-collector; and Bill Lowe, commissioner of Precinct 3. Wilson Porter, Constable of Precinct 1, had requested that he be sworn in December 31. Judge Bob Watson administered the oaths of office.

AMBULANCE SERVICE OFFICIALS

These officers and directors will direct the work of Collingsworth Volunteer Ambulance Service. From left, they are Larry Hammons and Ralph Owens, directors; Bob Watson, vice president; Mrs. Margaret Vines, secretary; Mrs. H.H. Bowen director; and Marshall Peters, president. Dennis Cudd, a new director, was not present. Elections were held Saturday, January 3 at the annual meeting.

CORRECTION

BOYS IT AIN'T
THAT GOOD.

In our story last week on reappraisal we gave an example of how "ag use" value is figured on rural land. All the figures in the example are correct except the last (and most important) one. In the example, the ag use value on dryland wheat acres should have figured to be $130 per acre, not $13 per acre as a typographical error made the story read.

will enable the city to build a second runway 2,500 feet
long.

More information is due
on this grant plan.

Sheriff Ken Maxwell, less than a week in office, met with the council for a discussion of what his office
and the sheriff's department
expect of each other.

The city requested that he enforce the junk car
ordinance which would rid
the town of cars no longer operable but which are parked in some parts of town.

The city also requested
that the sheriff's department continue disposing of dogs running around without collars and licenses.

Councilman Tom Wilkins
asked about a parking
ordinance that would eliminate some danger spots at street intersections.

Councilman Ralph Owens
requested that the sheriff's advisory board be revived.
This includes two members of the council and two from the commissioners court to hold monthly meetings with the sheriff to discuss any problems or plans that might come up. Maxwell
told the group this was fine
with him. Meetings will be at 9:30 a.m. on the second Mondays, immediately before the commissioners
court regular meetings.

Owens and Lyndon Crelia
represent the city on the board.

Jim Davis, division manager of General Telephone Company, Memphis, visited

the council to report on his company's recently completed underground lines
giving service to the Marella and Lillie communities. He said that lines between Wellington and Quail have been replaced and customers placed on four party or straight lines. The company
gained 42 new customers,
involving 82 phones, in Wellington during the last year.

In answer to a question
Davis said that the petition
of a group of Dodson people
to be placed in the Wellington exchange was sent by Judge Bob Watson
to the company's headquarters and that studies will be made by the Public Utilities Commission.

Taylor told the council the city received $1,180 as its part from the sale of lots on which delinquent taxes have been due for many years.
Additional delinquent taxes
have been paid.

The city manager reported that he has acquired for the city another piece of army surplus equipment, a 5800 gallon water tank from Holloman Air Force Base, Alamogordo, N.M., which will be useful in the airport
improvement work, as well as for other purposes. The city will pay only the cost of getting it to Wellington.

Taylor said this tank is mounted and its original purpose is to lay down foam
on airports when emergency landings are being made.

In its final action, the council voted unanimously to raise Taylor's salary by $200 per month to $24,000 annually. Part of this is in providing a pickup, medical insurance, etc.

Council members cited
Taylor's value to the city
especially in acquiring grant money and army surplus equipment. They noted that many Texas towns are seeking city managers and some no larger than Wellington have a beginning pay scale above the $21,000 salary Taylor was drawing.

Seniors, Parents to Hear Financial Aid Sources

A financial aid meeting for seniors and their parents will be held Thursday, Jan. 15, at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium, when those planning to attend college can learn of some sources of funding.

Louis Graham, school counselor, will explain the different facets and probabilities of financial aid and eligibility.

Among these will be the Basic Education Opportunity Grant, a federal grant that does not have to be paid back; student financial loans, work study programs, social security, veterans benefits, and scholarships.

"All of these will pertain to people who will be entering colleges, universities, vocational schools or trade schools," said Graham. "It is important that the students and their parents be there because we will be handing out the application forms and explaining how these are based on the 1980 income tax returns."

Graham said that adults who have been out of school, no matter how long, are also welcome to attend as some of these sources of aid are also available to them.

This includes those who may be returning to colleges

Estimated Farm Tax Due Jan. 15

Individuals who earned at least two-thirds of their 1979 to 1980 gross income from farming have until Thursday, January 15, 1981, to make a 1980 declaration of estimated tax and pay any taxes due, the Internal Revenue Service says.

However, farmers who plan to file their 1980 income tax return and pay the total tax balance by March 3, 1981, are not required to make an estimated tax declaration, according to the IRS.

Additional information is available in the free IRS Publication 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide," and Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax." These publications can be ordered by mail using the order form in the tax package, or by calling the IRS number listed in the local telephone directory. If more conven-

Groundwork for County's 1981 Progress Laid During 1980

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, January 8, 1981

4

Some of Collingsworth's major 1980 newsmaking events did not take place until the year was well under way...some after mid-year.

In July, Agri-Fuels, Inc., was organized to build a fuel alcohol plant, with Denzil Lacy, Tom Sanderson, Dudley Phipps and Andy Henard as officers. In late September this group announced Collingsworth may be the site of the first pilot plant of a new design to be set up in the nation. Work continues on this Agri-Fuels-National Farmers Union project. The plant is capable of producing 200,000 gallons of ethanol per year. A group had visited Omaha in January.

In August, Wellington Industries acquired Southwestern Rail Products Inc., which closed in February, after pumping millions of dollars into the town's economy for two years. Dwain Marple, Zeb Roberson and Brenda Marple are the officers.

In the fall, Bronco Seed, Inc., came to Wellington. The Stamford-based company bought Wellington Delinting's new plant, rebuilt after a disastrous fire a year ago. Construction of additional buildings began. Plans were announced for a wheat cleaning plant in the summer of 1981, along with sale of cotton seed and more growth plans the company will announce later.

In late October, Texas Aeronautics Commission announced a $75,000 grant for Marin Airpark improvement. The application was pending two years. Further negotiations are under way. The city filed an application in July for a $150,000 low-interest FHA loan to build a new fire station and remodel portions of Bura Handley Community Center.

As 1980 began, the city approved information of the Wellington Industrial Development Corporation, which would make possible low interest home and industrial loans as provided in the Development Corporation Act of 1975. Rising interest rates have held back the use of this source of funding, but it is there when it will be needed.

In August the Department of Interior approved a $20,000 matching fund grant for upgrading Pioneer Park and its travel trailer facilities. This is another 1981 newsmaker.

Hopes were revived for a dam on Elm Creek after Tommy Powell, Soil Conservation Service, Mayor Bill Hatch and City Manager Tiny Taylor announced the 7-county North Rollings Plains Resource Conservation and Development was funded by Congress and reorganized in February 1980. This had been in abeyance, pending congressional funding for several years. Talk about water development continues.

The County RC&D was reorganized and Dan Henard, Jr., went on the executive board.

There were no disastrous fires in 1980, but it took a while for the city and county to come to terms on what the county would pay for rural fire protection by the city-maintained volunteer fire department. They settled on $150 per call.

Out of a gift of an old rural fire truck from the Wellington Fire Department, Samnorwood men organized their own volunteer fire department and later acquired another truck. Wellington extended fire protection to Dodson.

Weather was brutal to Collingsworth in 1980. Hail damaged and destroyed crops in a 5-mile wide strip that went the length of the county in early May.

The last of May a tornado not more than a block wide, entered Wellington about 6th Street on the west side, moved southeast to Robert Owens Salvage and veered into open country. Only a few houses were destroyed. Many were damaged as it went through at roof-top level. There was no loss of life, and few injuries. Repair work went on much of the summer.

This was followed by a dry weather and searing heat that went for many days. Old Timers called it the worst since 1936. Ground moisture kept crops alive and although the cotton crop was less than half that of the 1979. As the year ended, 28,000 bales had been ginned.

Sheriff John Rainey announced in early January he would not seek re-election, and 8 candidates ran for the office, political interest focused there.

Kenneth Maxwell and Bill Lindsey went into the runoff at the May first Primary and at the June second primary, Maxwell became Collingsworth County's first new sheriff in 25 years.

In the only other change, David McCoy of Childress succeeded Charles Darter as district attorney.

1980 saw the death of a number of men active in the county: F.O. Masten, D.E. Scott, Paul Spillman C.T. Hubbard, Jones Singley, Hiram Cudd, Tom Cunningham, V.K. Orr, Jr., Robert Posey and others.

Four-H boys and girls took their steers to the big shows; Mark Fourmentin had the grand champion and Lynn Tate the reserve champion of the Wellington show in January; Tate had the first place light angus steer at Amarillo and in Houston, biggest of them all, Lisa Nix's summer yearling heifer was second in that division; and at the State Fair of Texas in October, Tate had the first place light Hereford steer.

Early in the year, the Quail School issue was settled. The consolidation election of the Quail and Hedley School districts passed 922 to 12.

Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce held a successful membership drive, presented major awards to Marshall Peters, Yates Parker, Pat Bouchell and

Emergency Medical Needs Told Ambulance Service

Enabling legislation, "to legalize what you are already doing," is a major need of the emergency medical services, Dr. Henry C. Moritz, Jr., told members of the Collingsworth Volunteer Ambulance service in their annual meeting Saturday, Jan. 3.

There are other major needs of these volunteer-run emergency services, explained Moritz, who is regional director of Public Health Region 1.

Establishment of compatible radio nets, is needed which would eliminate the problem of control of patient flow. This would give all hospitals contact with the EMS people, rather than one hospital, as is now sometimes the case. This problem is slowly being addressed, Moritz said.

Standardization of training and standardization of testing, along with less rigidity in both was called for. The care of the patient is the principal concern. Progress is being made on all fronts, he said, and local people look good in their performance. But their support must continue, and feedback into the Emergency Medical Services must continue.

Members named one new director, Dennis Cudd, and re-elected three, Mrs. H.H. Bowen, Bob Watson, Mrs. Margaret Vines. Holdover members are Peters, Ralph Owens. Directors then re-elected the three officers, Peters, president; Watson, vice-president; and Mrs. Vines, secretary.

The service is beginning its 10th years, Peters reminded. Starting with only one ambulance, donated by Jimmy Kelso, the service now has three ambulances and one four-wheel drive vehicle. It has the support of the city, county, hospital and community, the president said.

Volunteer have answered 1928 ambulance calls since its organization, 225 of these in 1980.

"The fact that you volunteered and then stood by is valuable to the community," said Peters.

"Panhandle Emergency

Medical Services (PEMS) looks to our service as the best in the Panhandle."

Operations were in the black in 1980, the group was told. There is an urgent need for new volunteers, "younger blood interested in volunteer work," Peters told the group.

N.E. Childers read Articles 4 and 5 of the service's by-laws relating to conduct of members and care and use of equipment. This is done at each annual meeting.

Twenty-eight volunteers made runs during the year, with 23 members making 5 or more runs. Mrs. Vines, who is in charge of collections, has achieved a 98 percent collection record, according to the president.

Mrs. Bowen, ambulance service co-ordinator, made the largest number of ambulance runs, 117. Others in the top 10 were Johnny Brown, 102, Judge Watson, 36, Lou Salsbury, who was here only part of the year, 29, Peters 21, Owens 17, Childers 16, Jimmy Barber 15, Ron Wheeler, Mary Ann Lowe and Tess Burba, 12 each.

Country Club Calendar Announced

Wellington Country Club golfers will say they'll play golf on Sunday, Jan. 11 whatever the weather.

They've scheduled the Eskimo Scrambles, with a covered dish dinner to be served at 2 p.m., according to Randy Cole, golf pro.

This is one of several interesting events the club members have planned during January.

Others include "Old Sul's Stag Party," January 14; Super Bowl Watch, with chips and dips to be served, on Sunday, January 18; and a wild game dinner at 7 p.m. Saturday, January 24.

In addition, Blitz Nite comes every Friday night, and members welcomed the year in with a bowl game watch on Thursday, January 1.

Others making runs were Danny Gray, Jim Sikes, Jeff Langford, John Birkey, David Peters, King Bowen, Jack Barnett, Larry Hammons, Tom Wilkins, Charlotte Burge, Zeldon Jenkins.

Collingsworth General Hospital provides an attendant on runs from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Almost all members of the service are emergency medical attendants or emergency care attendants.

A salad supper preceded the meeting.

Members and guests registering were Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Vines, Mr. and Mrs. N.E. Childers, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barber, Mr. and Mrs. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Burba,

Mayor and Mrs. Bill Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. David Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Gray, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Owens with Jill and Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Barnett,

County Commissioner John R. Henard, Jr., and Mrs. Henard, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sikes, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Coleman,

Mr. and Mrs. Sut Braselton, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hammons, Dr. Moritz and his son, John Moritz of Amarillo, King Bowen, Kenneth Patterson, and Virginia Robey of The Wellington Leader.

Board Approves Cattle Check

Collingsworth County Tax Appraisal Board unanimously approved a fly-over of the county to check cattle and other personal property at regular meeting Tuesday, January 6.

The fly-over will begin this week, and every section of the county will be checked by air and cattle will be counted to help the appraisal office to locate and appraise the cattle on each farm or ranch. Under Texas property law, cattle are considered as taxable personal property.

Chief appraiser John Duncan said that after the count is complete, he will send a notice of the cattle counted to each landowner along with a request that the landowner notify him of the person who owns the cattle if the land is leased.

In other action the board approved contracts for appraisal services between the tax appraisal district and the various local taxing entities.

The board also approved bonds, holidays and compensatory time for staff members of the district office.

Present were board members Bill Lindsey, Margaret Coleman, Tommy Lewis and Doug Coleman, Jr. Don Tarver was absent.

Farmers Union Picks Delegates

Six members of Collingsworth County Farmers Union will serve as delegates to the Texas FU 77th annual convention in Dallas Thursday through Saturday, January 8, 1981. At least four others plan to attend.

Delegates were elected in a director's meeting Thursday, January 1 and are Dan Henard, Jr., Doug Seal, Andy Henard, Benson Long, Rudie Tate and David

Extension Office Has Tax Guides

Extension Agent Don Reeves announced that he has copies of the Farmer's Tax Guide for use in preparing 1980 returns available in his office.

"The Farmer's Tax Guide explains how federal tax laws apply to farming," Reeves said. "It gives examples of typical farming situations and discusses the kinds of income you must report and the different deductions you are allowed. Sample forms and schedules show you how to fill out the federal tax returns you may have to do for your farming business."

There are also samples of farm records illustrating the kinds of recordkeeping that can make it easier for you to prepare your tax returns.

The guide is updated each year and this year some of the chapters have been revised to make discussion of tax laws more understandable. Some of the more important changes to the tax law and other items that may effect taxes are noted.

These include investment credit; business energy investment credit; residential energy credit; barter income; standard mileage rate; Social Security withholding tax rate; other tax law changes; tax return preparers and the Privacy Act of 1974, which says "that each federal agency that asks you for information must tell you why the request is being made and how the information will be used. A complete statement on this subject is in the instructions for Form 1040."

Of interest here, although not benefitting 1980 tax payers, is the section of alcohol fuel credit, which reads:

"Beginning October 1, 1980, you may be able to claim a tax credit for alcohol used in the production of gasohol or for alcohol used as a fuel in your trade or business or sold at retail and placed in a fuel tank. The amount of credit is either 30 cents a gallon or 40 cents a gallon depending on the proof of the alcohol."

Caison. Other members planning to attend are Denzil Lacy, Doug Coleman of Dozier, Joe F. Knoll of Lutie and Kirby Campbell.

The 320 delegates will be concerned with the Republican Administration's approach to multi-year farm law due for congressional action in 1981.

They will be equally concerned with choosing a successor to TFU President Jay Naman of Waco, who after leading the organization for 19 years, has stated he will not be a candidate for re-election.

A key speaker will be Dr. Ronald Knutson, a policy economist from Texas A&M who was tapped by the Reagan agricultural transition team to serve as chief advisor.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Edgar Ace Parks of Shamrock and Mildred Daisy Russell Henson of Wheeler, Dec. 13.

Coy LaVaughan Clemmer of Willow, Okla., and Louise Gale Smith Norris of Fritch, Dec. 19.

Davis Heads Water Group

Eddie Davis, water superintendent for the City of Wellington, was elected president of Greenbelt Water Association at its mid-December meeting at Paducah.

Davis was advanced from vice-president. The new vice president is Bobby Kidd of Greenbelt Water Authority, Howardwick.

John Green of Dodson, district manager of the Red River Water Authority, was re-elected secretary. Kenneth Skelton of Estelline was the outgoing president.

Wellington will host the next meeting, slated for Tuesday, January 27, at 7 p.m. in the directors room of Greenbelt Electric Cooperative, Inc.

Greenbelt Water Association is made up of municipal water and sewer operators in 13 area towns. Meetings are held each month in which members are given programs which count for credit toward maintaining state certification or licensing, Davis explained.

He will be in charge of the January program. The association works closely with the Texas Department of Health, Canyon, in keeping members informed of changes relating to their work.

"It also helps to kick

The 13 member towns include Wellington, Howardwick, Clarendon, Hedley, Memphis, Quanah,

Life 60 Years ago in Collingsworth County Reviewed by Mr., Mrs. George Aduddell

BY BETTY ADUDDALL COLBURN

Mr. and Mrs. George Aduddell were honored on their 60th Wedding Anniversary Saturday at a reception in the fellowship hall of the Church of Christ in Winters. Hosts were their children: Mrs. Louise Chumbley of Denton, Mrs. Betty Colburn of Winters, Edwin Aduddell of Grand Prairie, Jimmy Aduddell of Winters, Robert Aduddell of Hobbs, N.M. and Jack Aduddell of Lovington, N.M. Besides their six children, 23 grandchildren and 27 great grandchildren and friends helped the Aduddells celebrate this special anniversary.

Recalling 60 years of marriage George and Pearl shared some of their experiences. Pearl's parents James Valentine and Zona Kellett Risner, moved to Quail in 1918 from Elk City, Oklahoma, with their eight children, Homer, Alfred, Pearl, Muriel (now Luce), David, Newt, Marie and Flo. Pearl went to her first school there, then went to the small school of Sandstone west of Quail.

They moved to Buck Creek in 1920. Pearl remembers walking three miles to school every morning and they were always the first ones there. In those "good old days" the children helped weed the cotton patch and in the fall they took their cotton sacks and pulled cotton.

"Oh the joy we felt when the harvest was over and we could go back to school," she said. So many children were working in the fields that school would let out till the harvest was over.

The school was the center of community activity and they had a good baseball team. George would come every Friday and play ball. This is where the Aduddells met. George's parents, George Thomas and Naomi Towry Aduddell, moved west of Memphis in September 1913 from Oklahoma. They lived there four years and Naomi passed away in 1917, leaving eight children, one girl only two years old. They were: Frances (married Roy Stafford and lived in Panhandle area) George, Phillip, Christine, Geoffrey, Barbara, Norma (married Muriel Lacy and lives in Wellington).

In 1918 they moved to a farm close to the Buck Creek School west of Wellington. George had been helping his father since he was seven years old. When he was nine his father would lay out the rows with a Georgia stock pulled by two mules and George would follow with a walking breaking plow drawn by two horses. As the oldest son, George had to accept a lot of responsibility to help his family. He went to the Buck Creek School and then the Peacock Military Academy. But his father came down with the flu and George had to return home to care for the farm and his brothers and sisters.

George's father had a one horse buggy and a beautiful horse to pull it. George would take Pearl to church, singings, parties and ball games in the buggy. Then on January 1, 1921 they drove to Wellington to the preacher's house and got married. The preacher was S.B. Culppepper and his wife and Pearl's sister Muriel were the only witnesses. George's father gave them a pair of mules for the wedding present. George continued farming with horses and mules till 1937 when he bought their first tractor, a Farmall F-20. They raised corn, maize, cotton and alfalfa. They had a few cattle, hogs, chickens and turkeys. Summers were always busy times. They always found a way to solve their problems. When the grasshoppers were bad they raised a big herd of turkeys.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ADUDDALL

The children would herd the turkeys through the crops and the turkeys took care of the grasshoppers. George would plant black eyed peas and by the time the grasshoppers were gone the turkeys would fatten out on the peas.

Pearl has always had a big garden (and still does.) Since she didn't have a canner to put up the vegetables, she would dry them for winter use. She did can tomatoes.

Pearl and the children would pick wild plums along the Buck Creek and make pies and jelly. Pearl's mother taught her to bake bread with everlasting yeast. She remembers the neighbors coming for "starters" of the yeast. Pearl kept this tradition up and even today you can smell the bread baking when you walk into their home.

George and Pearl remember what a busy and exciting time it was when it was "hog killing time." George would kill the hogs and scald them in a special barrell. Then they would scrape the hide and dress it out. They cured their own hams and bacon. They took the fat and put it in the old iron pot and rendered it out. Pearl said you had to watch the fire and keep it just right so it wouldn't boil over. They stored some of the lard for cooking and doctoring, then she would add some water and lye to the fat and stir it till the mass was clear. Then they had the nicest white soap. She said it really cleaned the clothes and rusty hands, too. They used the "cracklings", the pieces left after the fat was rendered out, and made cracking corn bread. That was a favorite of everybody. The pieces of cracklings that were crisp they would eat as a special treat.

They would take their corn to a mill in Wellington to have ground for meal. They also bought their flour from this mill.

They did some of their shopping in Wellington but mostly ordered from the Sears, Roebuck catalog.

Pearl did the family wash on a rub board in a tub of water. The white clothes, went into the old iron pot in the yard. They built a fire and boiled the clothes. Six of the seven Aduddell children were born at home at Buck Creek. Dr. E.W. Jones delivered Edwin and Dr. E.W. Moss delivered Louise, Jimmy, Robert, Jack and Joe. Betty was born in Oklahoma when they lived there for a short time.

All but their youngest son Joe started to school at the Buck Creek School. Mildred Clements was the first and second grade teacher, Dorothy McMinn was the third and fourth grade teacher and Ed Brown was principal, teacher and softball coach. The four older Aduddell boys played softball. Betty had polio when she was two years old and the family spent many anxious hours till she recovered.

The Aduddells lost their youngest son Joe, who passed away in 1974 from an injury he received while he was in the service.

The children worked and helped with any chore that needed doing. Pearl said everybody sang while they worked and if they couldn't sing they whistled. They all had a lot of fun and the antics of the children made the work seem like play sometimes.

The Aduddells still continue their lifetime pattern of staying busy and doing for others. They are active members of the Church of Christ in Winters, Texas.

When George's youngest sister, Norma, was only five, Christine, the oldest sister still at home, had to drop out of school to take care of her. Jane Goodnight Luce, Christine's teacher, went to see why Christine was not in school. When she found out why, she told Christine to just bring Norma to school, and she would take care of her. At that time you had to be seven before you could start school, so Norma had a head start.

When Pearl was young she remembers that her Papa made a cooling box for their milk. It was wooden and had a lid. A pipe came from the windmill to the box and another pipe went out of the box to the cattle watering trough. It was used to keep their buckets of milk, butter, etc. cool.

When she and George married, George made a window box to keep the milk cool. He made a box shelf on the outside of a north window. He covered it with wire netting and then burlap. He made a door for the kitchen side. They would throw water on the burlap, and when the wind blew on it it would keep everything cool.

Pearl's family lived in Oklahoma during part of the years she was growing up. Her brothers, who are all deceased now, were Homer, Alfred, Dave and Newt. Her sisters were Marie Risner Miller, now deceased, Flo, and Muriel (Mrs. Roy Luce). Roy and Muriel lived in Blair, Oklahoma and ran a cafe. Roy is now deceased, and Muriel still resides in their home near Woodville.

The Aduddells lived at Warren, Oklahoma near Blair and farmed there from May, 1948 until 1955. The three youngest children attended school there. Jack and Betty graduated there, and Joe was in the 9th grade, when they moved to Lovington, New Mexico.

before that holiday.

It was given in Mrs. Jenkins home, which was decorated with a Christmas tree and other holiday pieces. Figures of the three wise men were on the mantle.

A Christmas centerpiece was on the serving table, which was laid with silver and crystal.

Those attending were invited to tour Mrs. Jenkins new home, which many had not seen.

Approximately one hundred friends called during the afternoon.

Paperwork

Congressman Jack Hightower has re-introduced several bills this week that deserve passage by the Congress.

One is called the Government Recordkeeping and Actions Act. It would limit to four years the time a federal department or agency could require an individual or business to keep records. It also would prevent any department or agency from enforcing any law or regulation or collecting a civil fine after four years from the date of the transaction or event
for which the record is kept.

It would not change the three-year statute of limitations that the IRS now uses for income tax purposes. And it would not exempt records on hazardous waste.

Passage of the bill would be a step in the right direction towards providing a little relief for individuals and businesses from the burden of government-forced paperwork.

And while I'm on this subject, I should give credit
to Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock who simplified
the sales tax form last year for most businesses.

The minutes that are saved each time the sales tax form is filled out, when multiplied across the state, add up to a lot of working hours that Texans are able to spend on their business rather than on the government's business.

More Census Problems

The fouled-up 1980 Federal Census is causing a lot more serious problems than blows to civic pride
from the apparent undercount. Redistricting of political boundaries, which is required by law in the year following each decennial census, may be delayed for two years in Texas unless a recent federal court ruling delaying release of census
figures until something is done about their accuracy
is overturned.

The city of Detroit, claiming a big error in counting its population won the court order holding up certification of the Census reports until adjustments are made. That's fine for Detroit, and a few other cities which have joined in the action, but it's creating major problems for many of the states if the census figures aren't somehow made official pretty soon.

In Texas, for example, the Legislature is required
to effect re-districting before its June adjournment,
but the Leg can't do anything until the Census figures are certified. If that happens after adjournment, it could be two years before Texas can re-district. Since the Legislature meets only every two years unless a special session is ordered by the Governor.

And since Texas stands to gain two and maybe
three, extra seats in Congress when the final census
figures are in, that could have national repercussions in a closely divided Congress. Whether those extra seats would go to Republicans or Democrats will probably depend on how...and where...the Legislature draws the lines.

even as ye are called in one hope of your calling;
one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all." (Eph. 4:3-6)

It has come to my attention of late that many national religious leaders are calling for unity in saving this nation for Christ. These words from the New Testament have always been the moving force and desire of God's people. The only common bridge mankind has is the cross and resurrection of our savior Christ Jesus. God's plan of unity has always been the same. It's man who has drawn away and changed these plans.

Let us put "self" and the ideas of men aside and unity behind (following; not leading) our savior
Jesus Christ in this Year of Our Lord.

We do not need new leadership! We need to follow the Leader we have.!

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Last session
the Legislature almost passed a bill which would have allowed low-level nuclear waste dumps in Texas.

This session the bill will probably sail through, although the waters may get a bit choppy.

And sometime in the future, probably not this year,
the Legislature will approve waste dumps for high-level
nuclear waste.

In fact, it may be virtually impossible to stop creation
of nuclear waste dumps in
the Lone Star State because all three of the national
dumps have now been closed
to out-of-state users.

Illinois just put the final touches on enforcement of its new state law banning
out-of-state waste at its site.
Earlier, waste dumps in South Carolina and Nevada
were closed to out-of-state
dumpers, including Texas.

Texas currently produces
low-level nuclear waste at hospitals and laboratories.
When the nuclear power plants at Bay City and Glen-rose are completed, high-level waste will be generated. Facing stark reality,
Texans will have to set aside
a place to store its nuclear offal.

Not When, But How?

The important question to Texas citizens is not if or when Texas will create the nuclear dump site, but
"how?". What legal safeguards will be approved, and will they be sufficient to protect citizen health from radioactivity? For politicians who must vote on the controversial issue, the key
question is where to put the dump?

It seems only right that if Texas generates nuclear waste for the benefit of its citizens, then it must accept the responsibility of storing the hazardous nuclear waste
somewhere within its borders. But should Texas allow other states to dump their nuclear trash here, possibly to the harm of Texans?

"Bad Of Bill"

The nuclear dump bill
which passed the House but failed in the Senate last session was regarded by many
as one of the worst bills of the lot. The sorest point was a $200 fine for improper dumping or packaging of nuclear waste, which one legislator called "an open invitation to out-of-state waste
producers to come dump
their trash in Texas."

Considering that $200 is the maximum fine for throwing your beer cans and candy wrappers out the car window, he might have a point. Waste producers who ship their improperly packaged nuclear material by truck through Texas cities
and towns ought to be slapped with something
more than a fine equal to littering.

"Somewhere in West Texas" is the site most often mentioned for any Texas
nuclear dump. Few legislators would be willing to allow a nuclear dump in their home district. Besides the potential for harm to health
and life, it is generally assumed that property values
in the area will go down.
Dump sites might also appear closer to power plants
than West Texas. The location will be an intriguing guessing game, and political futures will hinge on the outcome.

Census Decision

Texas may be able to begin the redistricting process
this session, thanks to a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court last week which cleared the way for the Census Bureau to report its population figures to Congress.

Justice Potter Stewart had issued an emergency order
overriding a lower court
prohibition on reporting the statistics. Minority groups have legally challenged the validity of the census statistics and sought to delay their release.

Texas Atty. Gen. Mark
White had asked for Stew-

art's action to prevent delay
of release of the Texas statistics.

The Legislature is scheduled to receive the census report sometime in early April,
leaving only a scant two months to redistrict Texas
before the Legislature adjourns June 1. State law allows a redistricting board to complete any work left unfinished by the Legislature,
but the work must be initiated during a regular session of the Legislature. Thus, a two month delay in reporting the figures to Texas will set back redistricting here by two years.

School Budget

State budget planners
have proposed that Texas
spend $7.2 million on elementary and secondary education during the next biennium. The bill will be footed
by both state and local government.

The Legislative Budget
Board also recommended
the state can avoid more civil rights lawsuits by appropriating an additional $20 million to predominately black universities.

A worried Mark White
told the board that a $53
million cut in the budget request by two black universities was being viewed by federal officials as a retrenchment by the state in its commitment to compliance with civil rights laws.

White predicted that if the budget cuts remained, it would be only a matter of days before a formal accusation of racial discrimination would be filed.

How Much Surplus?

No bigger political coup
could be pulled this session
than the return of tax dollars
to taxpayers, but just how much, if any, tax money will be available for return is unclear at present.

Clements is insisting the state will be able to offer
taxpayers some $1 billion in tax relief.

State Comptroller Bob
Bullock predicts about half
that amount, $568 million,
including about $200 million which may go unspent
by state agencies.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, also chairman of the Legislative Budget Board, said he does not see how Clements could find the extra money in Bullock's figures, but Clements
said he has his own sources
of information, some the

same as House Speaker Bill Clayton who apparently agreed privately with Clements on the $1 billion figure.

Clayton has already announced he wants extra money to be put into a permanent fund for water-
related projects, and Clements is backing the Speaker
to a degree. The Governor said he also has other projects in mind to be funded by a surplus.

So there may be a large
surplus and there may not.
And if it's there, it may be returned to taxpayers and it may not.

Once again, and perhaps next election more than ever, political futures will be made and undone by votes
on spending in the Texas Legislature.

Redistricting Lawsuit

Texas Atty. Gen. Mark
White is asking the U.S. Supreme Court to set aside a recent federal ruling in hopes of preventing other states
troubles from delaying redistricting in Texas.

The city of Detroit, claiming that large numbers of its blacks are missing from the U.S. Census report, last month won a judgment to delay release of census figures.

White said until the Detroit lawsuit is resolved, the Census Bureau cannot report its figures to Texas or any other state, and may put Texas off-schedule by two years.

The census data was expected to reach the Legislature sometime in April, giving lawmakers a bare two months to redistrict before adjourning on June 1. If the information is delayed until after adjournment, it may be two years before Texas can redistrict, and prove entitlement to two, possibly three extra seats in the U.S. Congress.

Reported Each Week

WASHINGTON -- Here is how area members of Congress were recorded on

major roll call votes Dec.
10-16.

HOUSE

New Agency--By a vote of 218 for a 84 against, the House passed and sent to the president legislation (S 1097) to create a new agency
to attract tourists to the U.S.
The U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration, an independent agency, would replace the Commerce
Department's U.S. Travel
Service and have the same budget, $6.6 million this fiscal year.

Members voting "yea"
favored creation of the U.S.
Travel and Tourism Administration.

Reps. Charles Wilson,
D-2, James Wright, D-12,
Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe
Wyatt, D-14, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Mickey Leland, D-18, Henry Gonzalez,
D-20, Abraham Kazen,
D-23, and Martin Frost,
D-24, voted "yea."

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1,
James Collins, R-3, Phil
Gramm, D-6, Jack Brooks,
D-9, J. Marvin Leath, D-11,
Richard White, D-16, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent
Hance, D-19, and Tom
Loeffler, R-21, voted "nay."

Reps. Ray Roberts, D-4,
Jim Mattox, D-5, Bill
Archer, R-7, Bob Eckhardt,
D-8, Jake Pickle, D-10, and Ron Paul, R-22, did not vote.

SENATE STAFF--The
Senate rejected, 56 for and 34 against, an attempt to cut the Senate staff payroll by five percent this fiscal year.
The projected saving was $10 million. The vote came during debate on HJ Res 637, an appropriations bill later approved by both houses and signed into law.

Senators voting "yea"
favored the five percent cut
in fiscal 1981 Senate staff
payroll.

Sen. John Tower, R,
voted "yea."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D,
voted "nay."

SEVERANCE PAY--By a vote of 44 for and 43 against,
the Senate approved severance pay for an estimated 500 staffers leaving Senate
jobs at the end of the 96th Congress. Most of the departures resulted from the November election results. The pay will consist of one week's salary for every year of service, with a maximum of three months
in severance salary. The vote came during debate on an appropriations bill (HJ Res 637). However, a later non-record vote on a separate measure actually
put the severance pay into law.

Senators voting "yea"
favored severance pay for some 500 departing Senate
staffers.

Bentsen voted "yea."
Tower did not vote.

AUTO IMPORT QUOTAS

By a vote of 12 for and 65
against, the Senate refused to kill legislation in support of import quotas on Japanese and other foreign vehicles. The measure,
giving a president authority
to negotiate such quotas,
later died in the face of a threatened filibuster.

Senators voting "nay"
favored import quotas on foreign vehicles.

Bentsen and Tower did
not vote.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS--The
Senate adopted, 54 for and 24 against, an amendment
blocking a proposed Internal Revenue Service regulation
that limits the deductibility
of contributions to private schools. In part, the IRS
says that if the contribution
is comparable to a tuition payment it cannot be considered a charitable donation. The measure was attached to HJ Res 637, a bill later signed into law.

Senators voting "yea"
wanted to block the IRS
regulation.

Bensten voted "nay".
Tower did not vote.

SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT

All members of the sheriff's department, regular and special deputies, jailers and dispatchers, as they took the oath of their offices Thursday, January 1. It is probably the only time they will be together during the year. From left, they were John Rainey, who after 25 years as sheriff, was sworn in as a special deputy; Kim Wauer, Robert Wolf, Gene Denton, Byron Bell, Chief Deputy Ray Akemon, Guy Bell, N.E. Childers, G.T. Owens, Jr., Jayne Bell, Billy Gilbert, Winnie Bell, Robin Rainey and Melodeze Wauer. Not present for the swearing-in ceremony was Kenneth Martindale, who serves as a part-time deputy at Samnorwood.

Friends Pay Tribute to John Rainey

The first badge of office which John Rainey wore after he became Collingsworth County sheriff, and the last badge, which he wore 25 years later, the .38 handgun which he had carried since it was presented to him from the people of Collingsworth County and the Chamber of Commerce, along with other official mementos, have been placed together in a frame and this was presented to him at his retirement party Wednesday, December 31.

County Judge Bob Watson made the presentation. Honoring him at the party were elected officials, law enforcement personnel and county employees.

After Rainey had received the permanently framed symbols of his office, a plaque from members of his family was presented by his small granddaughter, Miche

Rainey of Dallas.

The inscription read:
John S. Rainey,
Sheriff,
Collingsworth County
1955-1980

"The people of Collingsworth County have been favored to have your dedicated service...We your children have been favored to have you as a father. Jerry, Sally, John Zachary, Mike, Susan and Miche.

Rainey explained that the engraving on the handle of the pistol had to be done in England, and arrangements for this were made by the late Polly O'Neil, who had an identical gun.

While his own was being engraved, Rainey wore O'Neil's gun. O'Neil died before the gun could be finished and returned.

Refreshments of cake and punch were served by Helen Gollighugh, Patsy Gentry and

JOHN RAINEY

Charlene Poteet.

Members of the sheriff's family attending were John and Clovis Rainey, their sons, Jerry Rainey of Wellington and Mike Rainey and Miche of Dallas.

Others present were Don Reeves, G.T. Owens, Al Boyett, Tommy Baker, Mearl Parker, Bettie Byrd, James Richardson, Clara Mote, Beatrice McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Gilbert, Judge R.L. Templeton, John Alf Thomas and Lindy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Rainey and Denise, Herbert Duncan, Sheriff-elect Kenneth Maxwell, John James, J.R. Bowen, Jr., Patsy Gentry, Rose Mary Throne, Louise Dwight, Helen Gollighugh, Bernice Needham, Charlene Poteet, Mr. and Mrs. Kim Wauer, Ann Wauer, Donna Maxwell, Patsy

Barnett, Mary Lou Souder, Judy Thomas, Gene Denton, Wilson Porter, Bob Watson, Yvonne Brewer, Rhia Ketchum, Meoldeze Wauer, Joe Frank Knoll, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bell,

Verne Barton, John Duncan, Nell McKinney, W.R. Breeding, Judge Zook Thomas, Mrs. Larry Stages and Janna, Jennifer Pendleton, Helen Pryor and Virginia Robey.

One of First Settlers Dies December 30

One of the last survivors who in the memorable year of 1888 came to the land that would become Collingsworth County has died at the age of 92.

Mrs. Percy Wells died at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, December 30, at Ennis. Since 1974, she had lived at Scurry with her daughter, Mrs. Leta Fern Wampler.

Mrs. Wells was the former Bettie Burton Gribble and was born April 6, 1888. Her father was Luther Gribble and her mother was Edna Seale. Like many other of the earliest settlers of this county, they were from Denton.

Mr. Gribble came to file on land and establish a permanent home in that year, and not long afterward he brought his family.

Mrs. Wells attended school here and was one of the early members of the Methodist Church.

She and Mr. Wells were married December 8, 1903. He had come with his family from Wise County, two years earlier.

Mr. Wells was one of the town's early merchants, operating stores, sometimes individually and sometimes with a partner until 1926, when he and Mrs. Wells established a dry goods store.

She remained active in its operation through the 34 years they operated the business. About 1960, they retired, turning the business over to their son, Lowell Wells.

They continued to live in Wellington until his death November 22, 1974.

Altogether, this was her home for more than 84 years.

Funeral services were conducted Friday, January 2, in First United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Tom Thomson, pastor, officiating. Burial was in an area of Memorial Gardens where some of the earliest members of her family to come here were buried.

Arrangements were by Guy Owens Funeral Home. Survivors are her daughter, Mrs. Wampler; three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Two sons preceded her in death, Lowell Wells in 1961

All Wellington Teams in Competition This Week

Junior high will be in charge at Wellington Gym Thursday night, December 8, meeting Shamrock in games that begin at 5 p.m. when the 7th grade girls play. This will be followed by 8th grade boys and girls.

Wellington Skyrockets and Rockettes go on the road again Friday, January 9, playing at Paducah.

Junior Varsity teams will play in the Childress JV tournament Thursday through Saturday, January 8 to 10.

Both teams will meet Quana Thursday morning, the girls playing at 9 and boys at 10:30.

Varsity girls had a record of 10 wins and 6 losses up to the Tuesday night game with Miami. Junior varsity girls were 5-2; 8th grade girls had 2 wins and three losses, and 7th grade girls.

Rockettes have yet to find some consistency. "We have been up and down this year. We have played some good ball and then we've come back down. I hope we can get up again in time for the opening of district play January 16," said Coach Dale Morris. Coach Ray Bostick said little is known here of the Paducah Dragons. Class AAA Childress played Paducah and won by a large margin.

"They have a pretty good team, but we don't know their strong points. If we keep playing like we did Friday night, we'll be all right when district rolls around."

Skyrockets and Rockettes meet Childress in their last non district game. In any sport in which they compete, Childress is a team to be reckoned with.

Bostick looked at the district competition: "We open Friday, December 16, at Memphis. They're not quite as strong as last year, losing all 5 starters and a good freshman who moved to Wichita Falls.

However, Lynn Monzingo stands out. "He's a good player and a good person," is Bostick's evaluation. "Memphis always gives us trouble."

Clarendon comes to Rocket Gym Tuesday, January 20.

"If we play to our capabilities, we have a chance to win district. These boys can go as far as they want to," Bostick declared. He believes Shamrock and Canadian are the biggest threats to Wellington in the district competition.

Coach Morris urged basketball fans to come out and get behind the teams. "A crowd backing us, whether at home or on our opponents court," makes a lot of difference.

"We need more people away, from home and more at home," he declared.

Morris, the head basketball coach, pointed out that all games away from home will be played on Friday nights this season, all home games on Tuesday.

"We don't have to get in early Friday nights and attend school the next day. I like that," he said.

ROCKETS-MCLEAN

Skyrockets defeated McLean Tigers 81-45 in Wellington's second home game of the season. "It's nice to see friendly faces," commented Coach Ray Bostick.

Second and third quarters were especially good, with Wellington scoring 28 points in the third and holding McLean to 20, says the coach.

"We ran the ball. This team can play slowdown ball if they have to, but when they play ball, we're going to make points. We played real good defense also through the second and third quarters."

In the last half, Wellington scored 40 points and held McLean to 17.

"I don't care who you're playing, it's hard to do that. Darrell Thomas, who has been in a slump, came back and started hitting. All five starters scored in the double figures. "For us to win, we needed to have that happen," Bostick said. Starters accounted for 68 points, those from the bench 13.

TRENT STEPHENS

Stephens Has American Farmer Degree

Trent Stephens of Pattonville has received the American Farmer Degree, highest degree presented by the National Future Farmers of America. He was nominated by the Texas FFA Association and this was approved at a meeting of the National FFA board of directors in Alexandria, Va.

Stephens is the son of Mrs. George W. Stephens and the late Mr. Stephens, and the grandson of Mrs. G.T. Stephens of Quail and the late Mr. Stephens.

He received his gold key and certificate by the National FFA Organization at the national FFA Convention in Kansas City. The awards are sponsored through the National FFA Foundation and a group of agriculturally oriented industries.

Stephens attends Paris Junior College and is employed at Lamar Veterinary Clinic in Paris. He attended Prairieland High School.

To qualify for an American Farmer Degree, an FFA member must have advanced through a system of degrees unique to the FFA organization. Members begin as Greenhands and advance to the degree of Chapter Farmer, then State Farmer, which is presented by the State FFA Association to two percent of the state's membership.

A Future Farmer then becomes eligible for American Farmer Degree.

The National FFA Convention, always held in Kansas City, is carried out in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Education. This year more than 20,000 FFA members, their teachers, parents and guest.

The American Farmer degrees are one of many awards presented at the meeting.

More than 1,500 books have been written about Abraham Lincoln.

Youth Livestock Show Slated on January 17

Boys and girls with show calves and sheep will show their animals at the 1981 Youth Livestock Show to be held Saturday, January 17. The show will be in Bill Wilson's indoor arena a mile and a half north of Wellington, with judging to begin at 1 p.m.

Both calves and lambs will be shown.

Extension Agent Don Reeves said he is expecting 15 calves and 9 lambs are expected, according to Rodney Myrick, Wellington vocational teacher.

There will be three classes of calves and two of lambs, with the lambs to be judged first.

Paul Sammons, Ochiltree County extension agent, will be the judge.

Wayne Martin and Earl Patterson will be the show chairmen, and Wellington State Bank is providing trophies and ribbons.

With the availability of Wilson's indoor arena, spectators as well as the young exhibitors and their animals will be more comfortable. This should bring out a larger crowd of spectators, said Reeves.

Myrick said the lamb classes will include medium wool, which includes lambs of Suffolk breeding, and fine wool, or Ramboulette.

Eight boys will exhibit lambs, and six of these have had experience in other shows.

Both calves and lambs are due to go to the Amarillo Livestock Show which starts the week of January 19.

Calves will go to the Fort Worth Livestock Show February 2, and a month later they will be in the Houston Livestock Show.

Two Services Pending Here

Two funeral services were pending Wednesday with Kelso Funeral Home in Wellington.

Rufus Shanks died Wednesday morning, January 7, in Collingsworth General Hospital.

Frank Gillespie, who grew up here, died Wednesday morning, January 7 in Missoula, Montana.
