Loco and Arlie Reunion Highlight of Week End

Pioneers and latecomers. Those who still call the rich farms of the Loco-Arlie region home and those who long ago moved on.

They'll get together Sunday, August 6, for the annual reunion of those two communities.

The reunion location is Bura Handley Community Center. Visitors will begin gathering about 9:00 a.m., and coffee and donuts will be served to early comers.

A covered dish dinner will be served at noon and those attending will then visit as long as they wish in the afternoon, said Mrs. John Wolf, one of the hostesses.

The short program will be held during the afternoon.

Awards will be presented to the former Arlie resident and the former Loco resident who traveled farthest to attend. The oldest person representing each of these communities will receive a gift also.

A queen will be chosen from each community, and these will be nominated from the floor.

There will be a special exhibit which includes a series of drawings of old homes of the Loco area done by Mrs. Paul Baker, the former Elizabeth Adkins of that community. She and her family returned here recently after living for a number of years in Amarillo.

The pictures were commissioned by members of the various families who owned those homes, and they were done from old photographs.

HUD Grant To Extend Work Into Southeast Wellington

The $51,500 grant which Wellington is eligible to apply under the Small Cities Program of the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be more far-reaching than it first appeared.

City Manager Glen Taylor, on vacation when word of the grant was received, that an extended area will be covered by the funds earmarked for demolition and rehabilitation.

The area designated under the new funding would include a section in the east part of Wellington bounded by Highway 83 on the east, 15th Street on the south, Arlington Street on the west and 8th Street on the north.

Taylor pointed out that "There are quite a few elderly

Two Nights Rodeo Action Slated

Two nights packed with western style excitement are slated at the second annual Wellington Rodeo Friday and Saturday, August 4 and 5. Both performances will be at the VFW Arena in northeast Wellington beginning at 8:00 p.m.

Top rodeo performers from the Panhandle, Eastern New Mexico and Southwestern Oklahoma will be seen in the 7 jack-pot events offered each night, according to Dr. Bill Estes, rodeo chairman for the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce, the sponsor.

Two other events are scheduled in conjunction with the rodeo.

-A beef barbecue, sponsored by the men of First United Methodist Church, will be held at Ellison Park Saturday, August 5, starting at 5:00 p.m.

There will be western dances both Friday and Saturday nights at the National Guard Armory, from 10:00 p.m. to 2:00 a.m. The Country Edition will furnish the music.

Rodeo stock will be furnished by Bill Halliday of Elida, N.M., who produced last year's highly successful rodeo. Those who have seen his rodeos in the last few weeks report the stock is still raucous and full of fight.

Each night's performance will include 7 jack-pot events, Dr. Estes said:

-Bareback bronc riding, 12 contestants each night.

-Calf roping (one-round) 12 contestants each night plus 20 slack Saturday morning.

-Headin' and Heelin', one go-round, 12 each night plus 20 slack Saturday morning. There is a $5.00 cattle charge.

-Bull dogging, 12 each night, plus slack Saturday morning.

-Saddle bronc riding, 12 each night.

-Girls barrel race, jackpot each night, 12 each night with slack after each performance.

-Bull riding, 15 each night.

No advance tickets will be sold this year, but admission will be $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children under 12 years.

Chairman of the western dances is Carlyn Orr, who announced that the Country Edition of Childress will play both Friday and Saturday nights.

The dances are due to attract big crowds, both of those who are here for the rodeo performances and local rodeo fans, said Mrs. Orr.

Collingsworth 4-H Riding Club members will present the colors to open the 1978 rodeo Friday evening.

Rodeo judges will come from McLean.

Jake Leach is grounds chairman, and he and workmen from the Chamber and VFW have put the grounds in top condition.

He said the entire parking area will be mowed, and arena repairs are near completion.

Feed and water for the livestock have been secured.

The rodeo has been widely advertised through West Texas, New Mexico and western Oklahoma.

"The rodeo is one of the most popular events the chamber has sponsored," said Lyman Daniel, CC president.

"People of the Collingsworth area want a good rodeo, and we believe we are giving them one of the best that can be had in a town of this size."

Paul Martinez Dies in Confrontation

Paul Martinez, 25, three time jail escapee, died following a confrontation with two Perryton police officers shortly before 3:00 a.m. Tuesday, August 1. He formerly lived here.

He had been hunted since 10:00 p.m. Monday when he ran from officers who made a routine request for his identification.

Sheriff John Rainey, who first handled Martinez in 1971, was notified of the man's death by Texas Ranger Bill Baten about 6:00 a.m. Tuesday.

Ochiltree County District Attorney William L. (Bill) Rivers said Perryton police answered a disturbance call at an apartment complex about 10:00 p.m. Although Martinez was not the object of the call, he was leaving the complex when officers arrived, and ran when they asked for his identification.

Officers chased and caught Martinez, but he got away in the scuffle that followed. They ascertained who he was and the warrants that were out for his arrest.

"The Sheriff's office and police department conducted a thorough search until about 2:30 a.m. when it was essentially abandoned," Rivers said.

Two members of the police department, still hunting, located Martinez in an abandoned auto.

Again, he scuffled with the officers, and again he broke away. Several shots were fired from both a pistol and shot gun. One pistol shot struck Martinez under the left shoulder blade and part of the shotgun blast hit his legs.

He died about 15 or 20 minutes later at Ochiltree General Hospital.

The district attorney said that preliminary investigation brought out that Martinez leaving the abandoned car, came toward officers with a knife.

Rivers said the case will be presented to the grand jury for consideration Wednesday, August 2. Names of the two police officers will not be released until after that time.

According to information given the district attorney's office, Martinez arrived in Perryton Monday morning. He was believed driving a pickup stolen in Drumright, Oklahoma.

One of Martinez' brothers and a cousin are living in Perryton according to Rivers.

Sheriff Rainey traced Martinez record, going back to May 14, 1971, when he received a four-year probated sentence here on a theft conviction. He was convicted on a cattle theft charge in Lipscomb County August 12, 1972, and given a four-year sentence to the Texas Department of Corrections. At the same time, his probation here was revoked and Rainey took him to Huntsville.

Less than a year later, he was out of the Texas prison and on June 1, 1973, he was charged with larceny of livestock at Sayre, Okla. This brought a three-year prison sentence.

Martinez next brush with the law in Collingsworth County came last summer when he was picked up by Patrolman Herb Duncan on a misdemeanor traffic violation. While Duncan, alone in the sheriff's office, was checking to determine if Martinez was wanted anywhere, he slipped out of the court house and allegedly stole a car belonging to Robbie Murdock, which was found abandoned in Perryton.

Investigation showed that Martinez had escaped from jail at Mangum and was driving a stolen pickup at the time he was apprehended. He was arrested at Canyon and returned to Wellington.

Martinez escaped county jail October 17 by climbing through an air conditioning vent, along with William McClendon who was being held misdemeanor charge for Hall County. The men are charged with taking a car from Mickey Kendrick Olds, which they abandoned in Quanah and took another vehicle.

Subsequently, Martinez was arrested in San Antonio and returned to Wellington. He escaped again early this year when he lured the sheriff into the cell block and locked him in Martinez cell. Then walked out the door. He again left town in a stolen vehicle.

Martinez is believed to have committed an armed robbery in Eunice, N.M. in which one man was shot and was charged with two armed robberies at Cuero.

Arrested at San Antonio and jailed at Cuero, he again escaped, this time through a small hole in the jail ceiling, and is accused of stabbing a dispatcher. That was the last officers saw of the man until

Wellington Takes a Long Drink

More than a million gallons of water, on the average, was pumped every day in July to satisfy the thirst of Wellington residents, their lawns and gardens.

Eddie Davis, water superintendent for the City of Wellington, said that for the 31 July days, water use totaled 32,539,300 gallons. That averages 1,049,654 gallons per day, he added.

That was quite a jump over June. The city pumped 18,871,000 gallons during that 30-day month. Davis said that up to July, it was the biggest month since he joined the water department in June 1977.

The heaviest use of water came on Sunday, July 30, when Wellington people consumed 1,301,900 gallons.

Not all days in July saw water consumption over a million gallons, but there were enough of them-18 altogether- to push the average above the million mark.

Additionally, more than a million gallons per day was pumped for two days in June.

In 1977, three days in June saw million gallon production along with 6 in July and one in August.

Who is the big spender, waterwise, in Wellington?

Some people have guessed Southwestern Rail Products, Inc., in its rail spike plant. They're wrong!

"We have a lot of residents who use more water than the spike plant," says Davis.

He didn't name the city's champion water user. "But there are several residents who used over 100,000 gallons in July," he said, "and a lot between 75,000 and 100,000 gallons."

All equipment relating to the water system, from the pumps and wells at the Water farm 7 miles north of town, to the storage facilities in Wellington, is checked several times each week.

Davis said he believes the water level hasn't dropped any in the year he has been with the city, although he said all three wells at the water farm are being pumped.

"A lot of people worry about water, but it looks good to me. I'm proud of it," Davis said.

Moseley Named To Wellington State Board

Billy Moseley was elected to fill a vacancy on the board of directors of the Wellington State Bank in a recent meeting of that body, Bill Beall, president, announced Tuesday, August 1.

Mr. Moseley, who joined the staff of the bank March 1 as executive vice president will continue his duties in that capacity.

"This is the first time I have been associated with a local group on a local board, and it is one of the finest experiences of my banking career," said Moseley.

Prior to joining the Wellington State Bank, Moseley was associated with the City State Bank 18 years and for the last three served as president.

In addition to his banking career that emphasized the development of both the economies of the farming-ranching and town sectors, Moseley has been deeply involved in civic and youth work.

He has served as president of the Greenbelt Bankers Association and held other offices in that body, he is currently treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Volunteer Ambulance Service, secretary of Salt Fork Soil and Water District and chairman of the Collingsworth County Fair.

He and his wife, the former Carolyn Wright, have two children, Cristy, 16 and Barry, 11. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moseley recently returned to Wellington to live.

PO Guidelines Can Eliminate Package Damage

Postmaster L.B. Bratten today issued a reminder to postal customers in Wellington that if the Postal Service's new packaging guidelines are followed they can virtually eliminate damage to their parcels.

Postmaster Bratten said that checks at bulk mail plants show that more than 80 percent of all articles damaged in the mails were improperly packaged.

While the regulations and guidelines adopted recently by the Postal Service are detailed, they boil down to several basic steps that can help assure safe delivery.

First, select a strong carton. Use a fiberboard box with the "burst-test" number printed on it.

If the box says, for instance, 125 lbs. it can be used for mailing many types of merchandise weighing up to 20 lbs.

When a person is shipping dense or heavy materials, such as books, stronger boxes are required. For 10 lbs. of books the Postal Service recommends a box with a 175-lb. burst test.

The Postal Service suggests that wrapping paper not be used on cartons. If a wrapper is torn or lost in transit, the mailing address can disappear. Further, the paper adds nothing to the package's strength.

The use of masking and cellophane tapes for closing or sealing is prohibited. In transit they tend to peel off, and they have little strength. String is not recommended. If twine loosens, it can readily catch on processing machinery.

Instead, parcel post customers are urged to use the pressure-sensitive, reinforced tapes. They are almost unbreakable.

When marking a package "Do Not Bend," it is required that the container have stiffeners which will protect it from being bent.

In using a second-hand box, it is important to mark out addresses that may have been printed on it along with extraneous numbers that could be confused with the ZIP Codes.

A final suggestion: Enclose a return address card in the package so that it can be returned if the mailing label is damaged or lost.

Postmaster Bratten said customers should contact the Post Office for more information.

Lubbock Ranching Museum Tells What Pioneer Days Were Like

Here in Lubbock is one of America's most intriguing museums. And outdoors, too. It's the Ranching Heritage Center of Texas Tech University.

Because the homes and other structures of Texas' ranching legacy have been disappearing, due to neglect, old age and replacement, university officials and farsighted Lubbock residents in 1967 began collecting pioneer homes, headquarters buildings, barns, windmills, a schoolhouse and other remnants of a colorful age when cowboys and cattle were paramount in Texas.

The result at the Ranching Heritage Center is stunning.

The Center, which opens April 1 to remain open until late fall, shows a modern age how such courage and determination it took the Texans of a past century to develop ranches and farms, and to build a culture which endures to this day.

You learn how West Texas homesteaders used native materials to build small homes and thus prove their claims. An example is the sotol house, made in part from the stalk of the sotol plant which does well in dry, arid country. You see the one-room Bairfield schoolhouse, which dates to the 1850s, a house built by German immigrants in the 1850s, a cowboys' line house where shelter was sought and rest came on a crude bed.

There are 25 structures in the exhibit adjacent to the university's main campus. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for children over 5. The Center is open from 10 to 5 Tuesdays through Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Hostesses in traditional garb explain each structure and show the authentic furnishings which have been so carefully collected.

Cogdell's General Store at the entry building is a joy in itself, offering so many antique and antique-style gifts you are compelled to buy for family, friends and yourself.

Lubbock is an interesting, clean, growing city on the sprawling South Plains. It is proud of a spirit that led it to construct a magnificent Civic Center in a deteriorating area following a tornado several years ago.

It is proud, too, that only a short drive from the modern Center is an archeological dig that is unique. A dirt-moving project on a city water project uncovered traces of early man.

The dig may be viewed on Saturdays, when guides explain the work and findings. Data on travel in the Lubbock area is available on request to Dept. GW, Texas Tourist Development Agency, Box 12008, Austin, 78711.

"Fresh Country Air" Hazard to Health?

AUSTIN--The death of a young dairy worker who was killed as he cleaned a calf barn has renewed the Texas Safety Association's efforts to make all farm people aware of dangers in toxic gases that can lead to respiratory injury or death.

Highly poisonous substances lurk in the air within silos, grain storage tanks, manure pits and dusty areas where molds may be present. Some are actually very explosive. Others cause damage to delicate lung tissues. Still others silently steal one's life-giving oxygen and induce unconsciousness, or even death.

Since the storage of manure liquids and slurries has become more common, there have been a number of recent fatalities involving lethal gases in tanks or pits. In most cases, the victims entered underground tanks to perform maintenance, check the contents, or retrieve objects. In one such incident, three workers were overcome while trying to rescue fellow workers.

Most hazardous fumes on farms are created by the decomposition of organic material in an environment deficient in oxygen. Under most controlled conditions, such as in a silo, this process is beneficial. It breaks down a portion of the material being stored and can be quite safe.

Under other circumstances, however, gases produced by the breaking-down process are dangerous to humans in a number of ways. Among these are:

--Ammonia and hydrogen sulfide, which can cause damage to lung tissues and, in great concentrations, can cause respiratory arrest.

--Carbon dioxide, which is produced during the ensiling process, and can either displace or exhaust the oxygen which is needed for breathing.

--Nitrogen oxide, often called silo gas, has a yellow or orange vapor and appears during the first three weeks following a silo filling. Its effect may be delayed for several hours but may become critical if not properly treated.

--"Farmer's lung," although not a gas, consists of certain airborne molds which can cause severe illness and even death in susceptible persons. Fortunately, the defense for this ailment is the simple inexpensive disposable dust respirator in common use throughout industry.

Dr. Gary S. Nelson, a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offers these suggestions for avoiding contact with such toxic substances:

--Always assume that any pit or tank containing organic material may be deficient in oxygen or is filled with toxic gases. Ventilate the area for at least ten minutes with a blower before entering and continue with positive ventilation while working inside.

--Station someone outside the tank or pit as a "safety person" to offer assistance when needed. Tie a lifeline around the body and have enough help on hand to pull you out if you become unconscious.

--If blower ventilation is not positive, (that is, if fresh air is not being forced in) have a personal air supply such as a fireman's airpack or a supplied air respirator. Never rely on a chemical respirator; the atmosphere may be deficient in oxygen.

--Run the blower ten minutes before entering a partially-filled silo.

--Wear a dust mask whenever handling moldy hay or silage.

Texas Farm Land Up 11%

COLLEGE STATION--The value of Texas farmland went up 11 percent for the year ending Feb. 1, slightly outdistancing the nationwide increase of 9 percent.

The increase raised the national average from $450 to $490 per acre, noted Dr. William E. Black, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, citing figures from a U.S. Department of Agriculture report.

"Although the rate of increase has slowed, land markets still can generally be called strong," said Black.

While Texas surpassed the national average increase, a number of states showed an even greater increase in farmland values. Wisconsin had the steepest gain, 18 percent, followed by South Dakota, 17 percent; Maryland, 16 percent; Louisiana and Mississippi, 15 percent; Missouri, 14 percent; California, Ohio and Kentucky, 13 percent; and Minnesota, Indiana, Tennessee, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Delaware, 12 percent.

Nebraska was the only state showing a decline in farmland values for the year, down 4 percent. Increases of 3 and 4 percent were common in the Southwest, Southeast and Northeast.

Texas farmland is currently valued at $316 an acre compared to $285 in February, 1977, and $195 in February, 1976, pointed out Black.

States with the highest farmland values at this time are New Jersey, $2,057 per acre; Connecticut, $1,962 and Rhode Island, $1,939. New Mexico and Nevada farmland is currently valued under $100 per acre.

Your two lungs contain an estimated 300 million alveoli, tiny air sacs where the exchange of oxygen and carbon-dioxide takes place.

Library Notes

by Mrs. Clara Mote, County Librarian

If we only had a new shelf ready for them!

We are planning places for shelves so that as we get the books acquired and cards in them, we will have a place for them.

Mrs. Clara Mote loaded every available space in her car with old newspapers Saturday morning and took them to the insulation plant in Hollis which buys these for use in its product.

Friends of the Library receive 3 cents per pound for these papers, and the proceeds go to buy books for the library.

Until a permanent storage location may be found for the paper collection program, they may be left at the library.

Several memorial books have been added to Collingsworth County Library. In memory of Roland Mayhugh, his daughter, Mrs. George Porter donated "George C. Marshall, Organizer of Victory 1943-45," and "The Seige of Atlanta, 1864," by Samuel Carter III. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kersten, Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf and Mrs. Clara Mote have donated to the memorial fund in Mr. Mayhugh's memory. A book will be selected by Mrs. Mayhugh and Mrs. Porter. Other memorial donations for Mr. Mayhugh may be turned in at the library.

On Thursday, June 6, Ann Ouseley, who heads the Inter-Library Loan System, and Carlton Moyier of the Texas Panhandle Library System, Amarillo, were at the Collingsworth Library to assist.

These booklets are designed as a guide only and specific questions about each county should be directed to local Texas game wardens or P&WD offices. The new regulations will become effective Sept. 1, 1978 and will list game and fish regulations for a period of one year ending Aug. 31, 1979.

VFW Gives Flags to Two Groups

Tony Stephens, commander of the Glynn Moore Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, recently presented a United States flag to Collingsworth General Hospital, which will be flown from the flag pole on the hospital grounds.

On behalf of the VFW, he also presented a Texas flag to the 4-H Horse Club, to be carried in the Grand Entry at the Wellington Rodeo Friday night, August 4, at VFW Arena.

"Our VFW post presents flags to certain organizations free of charge, among many other community services we perform," said Stephens.

"All we ask is a letter of thanks from the recipient of any service they receive from our Post." By this means, he explained, the post receives credit for its community service work at the state and national level.

Another service is loaning wheel chairs and crutches to those needing them. He requests that anyone having a wheel chair or crutches belonging to the VFW, who has not been contacted, to get in touch with him and he will check their number for VFW records. He urges that they be returned when they are no longer needed.

Commander Stephens reminded VFW and Auxiliary members that business meetings for both groups are on the first Tuesday of each month and the socials are on the third Tuesday. Members bring a covered dish, and following the dinner, play cards, dominoes or just visit. Those interested in attending should not wait for an invitation, he said.

Future Telephones Have New Features

Texas's first oil well was 106 feet deep.

Future telephones will display innovative features and manufacturers will promote the use of more phones in the home.

In the not-too-distant future, consumers can choose telephones with a variety of features, such as clock phones, speaker phones, phone answerers, memory dialers and security-smoke-detector phones, says a consumer information specialist.

Manufacturers predict that they are not limited as much by technology as by consumer need, Claudia Kerbel explains.

Production from Texas offshore oil and gas wells totaled 2,891,000 barrels during 1977; 382,000 from federal leases and 2,509,000 from state leases.

Ms. Kerbel is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Telephone manufacturers recently received a boost from a Federal Communications Commission decision to eliminate the need for a phone company coupling for extension phone installation.

The decision permits direct retail sales of phones.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of James Dallas Smith, 105 North Beverly, Amarillo, and the late Evelyn Smith.

The couple will be married Saturday, October 7, in Amarillo.

Miss Mitchell, who lives at 2806 South Harrison, is a graduate of Wellington High School and attended West Texas State University and Clarendon Junior College. Her fiancé, of 105 North Beverly received his degree from West Texas State.

"The History of Little Goody Two-Shoes" published in 1766, is considered the earliest children's fiction.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Harald M. Hill of Shamrock honored Miss Barbara Gracey, Harald Lynn Hill, and their wedding party, with a rehearsal dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Williams in Garland, Texas.

Members of the bridegroom's family going to the wedding were his parents, also Mike Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hill, joined by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hill of Jacksonville, Rocky Hill of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. O.C. McCord of Arlington.

On hot days with especially hard work or play, up to seven or eight quarts of sweat can be lost per day, she adds.

Check with a physician or pharmacist for information on drug/sun interactions.

Certain drugs--for example, sulphas, and certain tranquilizers and antibiotics--can make the skin extra sensitive to sunlight, warns Carla Shearer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

We Celebrate Our Western Way of Life This Week

Friday and Saturday we will stop work to celebrate the oldest of recreational activities of the west, our annual rodeo. To those whose heritage is in this part of our country, it is a sport that came out of our way of life, a long-ago pleasure that was somehow closely related to the business of everyday living.

No longer must young men break horses and rope steers for their living. But as they pursue these activities for pleasure, there is possibly a memory that lies buried deep in the unconscious. The way of man and horse and steer gave rise to a southwestern culture that is realistic and independent, and at the same time gracious and friendly.

Those who attend Wellington's second annual rodeo Friday and Saturday will have the same feelings as those who participate in the arena events. The rodeo is one of the fine events sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. It can grow to bring recognition to the town, and become an event that highlights our summer.

We welcome the visitors who come to watch the riding and roping, to eat good beef barbecue, and perchance to dance the night away. We congratulate the Chamber of Commerce and Veterans of Foreign Wars on giving us these two nights of western fun this week.

Tax Measures May Be Cure For Voter Apathy

Proposition 13 may not do much for government services in California, but it was a real tonic for the voter apathy that has plagued the electorate there and elsewhere in the nation in recent years.

Although less than half the 1978 primary elections have been held so far and turnout data from them is still incomplete, it looks as though tax-slashing Prop 13 had real pulling power.

While voter turnouts in most other states continued their steady decline from previous elections, the pattern was broken in California.

Nearly 60 percent of registered voters, and 34.7 percent of the states' voting-age population, trooped to the polls June 6 to pull the lever for or against a massive property tax reduction, according to a preliminary analysis by the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, which tracks turnout trends nationwide.

In both categories, that represents a significant increase over turnout for the 1974 primary in California, the last held in a non-presidential year, although it is roughly comparable to the 1970 turnout.

What makes California look like a paragon of voter participation is the record in other big states this year.

In Ohio, for instance, only 15.5 percent of the voting age population went to the polls for this year's primaries, compared with 22.8 percent four years ago. In Illinois, the figure was 14.5 percent this year and 19.7 percent in 1974. In New Jersey, it was a dismal 11.5 percent this year versus 18 percent four years ago.

In Iowa and Texas, turnout was actually up slightly over 1974, but they were exceptions to the general trend - and not as dramatic as California.

It's too soon to predict whether voter-initiated tax propositions that will be appearing on general election ballots in a number of states will have the same salutary effect on turnout as Prop 13 in California, but the possibility clearly exists.

"Voters are smart," says political analyst Richard Scammon. "When there's something really interesting on the ballot, they come out and vote. When it's just a bunch of hambones, they don't."

"It's a wonderful dilemma for the liberals, who believe in popular government until it produces a result they don't like."

LETTERS from the People

I enjoyed the editorial from the Perryton Herald which appeared in your newspaper on July 13, 1978. They stated that the net result of the Carter tax plan would be to further strip away the earnings of those in the middle income brackets and pass out more benefits to those who do not work. They went on to say, this political strategy had worked for a long time, and probably would continue to work until the average Sap Citizen wakes up. Earlier he mentioned that the government is creating the "New Poor" by a relentless program of "income redistribution."

I would like to point out that this has been going on for some years, and the principle advocates of this have been in the Democratic Party. As a child in Wellington, I well remember hearing some of the older generation boast of the fact that they had never voted for a Republican. Some of course, boasted that they did not "lose their vote". Some people were so blindly stupid that they would not even buy Hoover Vacuum Cleaners. This kind of political mentality is one of the reasons that we are having the present problems. Unfortunately the Republican Party has found it necessary to adopt some of the same stance to keep from being obliterated completely. You seem to have a good congressman, so far, in my friend from Memphis, Congressman Jack Hightower, but I really wonder how the citizens of Collingsworth County will vote in our state senatorial and gubernatorial elections. I have had the pleasure to meet Bill Clements and have a very good friend who is a close friend of his. He is an extremely able man, who has served on the SMU Board of Trustees, and seems far preferable to his opponent. I think the same is basically true in the senatorial race, and although John Tower's public relations may not be what we desire he certainly seems to vote properly. I noticed, also in your paper that the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education endorsed both John Hill and Bob Kruger. They also urge election of the entire Democratic ticket, and this goes back exactly to what the man from Perryton said. I think the citizens in Collingsworth County need to change their voting patterns.

Sincerely,
Dick G. Ellis, M.D.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—A preliminary report by the Sunset Advisory Commission staff has recommended major reorganization of the State Bar of Texas.

The report concluded the Bar should operate as a private professional group rather than a state agency.

Also recommended by Sunset staffers is transfer of the Bar headquarters, the Texas Law Center near the capitol, to the state and placement under the Board of Control for use by appellate courts and administrative offices of the judiciary.

Other conclusions of the tentative report:

—Bar restrictions on lawyer advertising are too tight.

—Complaints against erring attorneys should be centralized rather than handled by 40 local grievance committees which may be subject to "local bias and cronyism."

—The Bar failed to seek bids on office furniture, fund depository, equipment rental, printing and office space lease.

—Specialization programs for lawyers are too restrictive and limit competition.

—The Bar has tended to oppose legislation making it more accountable for its money and easing restrictions on getting into the profession.

"The major portion of the State Bar's efforts and resources go to areas other than those concerned with the regulation of attorneys," the report stated.

All licensed lawyers now must be members of the State Bar of Texas. The Sunset Commission staff report suggested licensing and discipline of lawyers should be performed under direct supervision of the State Supreme Court and an administrative agency.

Poison Danger

Cattlemen received warnings not to allow herds to graze in drought-stricken pastures due to threat of prussic acid poisoning there.

Texas Veterinary Medical Association cautioned that 300 cattle valued at $250,000 were lost to the poison—a type of cyanide that occurs in plants hard hit by drought.

Cattlemen also were warned about milo fields that failed to "make" due to drought and about pastures of Johnson grass, sudan or common sorghums which suffered from long-standing dry conditions.

The association said rain showers compounded the problem.

Cattlemen were advised to wait two or three weeks before letting cattle graze on new growth and to let hay lie at least five days after cutting so the cyanide gas can dissipate before baling. Feeding of hay to cattle before they are released in new pastures may dilute effect of excessive amounts of prussic acid, the association said.

Airports Aided

Texas Aeronautics Commission approved airport aid program grants for Alice and Austin, and granted Metroflight Airlines' request to suspend its scheduled air service to Greenville temporarily.

The commission cleared a $75,000 grant to Austin for airport entrance roads and parking and $50,000 to Alice to acquire land.

The city of Mineola requested cancellation of a grant to build a new airport because officials were unable to acquire necessary matching funds.

Metroflight said the Greenville stop did not generate enough money to support continued service.

Courts Speak

In a setback for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's rate increase request, Texas Supreme Court backed the Public Utility Commission's system of telephone and electric charge setting.

Adult sons and daughters are not entitled to share in civil service retirement benefits earned by their father's second wife, the Supreme Court concluded.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals turned down an allegation that trustees of a school district in Bell County "bribed" voters over 65 by granting homestead exemptions before a bond election.

The state has no right to appeal an order temporarily committing a person to a mental hospital, the Third Court of Civil Appeals said.

Upholding an intermediate court, the State Supreme Court left standing an order reversing a $1 million invasion of privacy judgment for fired Southwestern Bell official James H. Ashley who claimed the company tapped his telephone.

Yantis Writes Governor

On the eve of his consideration of confirmation by the State Senate, Hugh C. Yantis, Jr. in a letter to Gov. Briscoe, included excerpts from a random selection of the more than 100 letters of support received during the past few months.

Yantis, who was appointed chairman of the State Board of Insurance by Gov. Briscoe almost one year ago, pointed out that during his tenure insurance industry requests for rate increases totaled $319 million, while the SBI granted increases totaling $33.1 million—a difference of $285.9 million.

As background information, Yantis said "this is $45 million more in dollars than was 'saved' by the Public Utility Commission when it lowered the Southwestern Bell Telephone request from $298.3 million.

Parks-Wildlife Has New Toll Free Number

The new toll-free number operated by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in Austin (1-800-252-9327) is receiving 900-to 1,000 calls per month according to the log kept by the Clarence Beezley, information specialist.

Information about state parks accounted for roughly 39 percent of the calls with wildlife, water safety, law enforcement, fishery and other department activities on the list.

Most of the calls have been from the large metropolitan areas of Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. Special activities such as the drama "TEXAS" in the Palo Duro State Park near Canyon in the Panhandle have also accounted for many calls.

The toll-free number 1-800-252-9327 is maintained five days a week from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the P&WD state headquarters in Austin. A small percent of the calls are referred back to local numbers when a local condition such as fishing, water access or law enforcement problem is received by Austin. Anyone having a question about the department or its activities should call for an up-to-date report now. Keep the tractor in gear when going down a steep hill or grade.

Earlier this year banks and savings and loan institutions began offering the six month certificate tied to U.S. Treasury bill interest rates. It was hard to tell just how successful the new CD's would be until a major test period came along. July was that test period with major midyear reinvestment coming up for renewal. At that time investors had to decide whether to leave funds on deposit or put them in high-yield money market instruments. It looks as if the certificates are a real success.

In many parts of the country the $10,000 minimum denomination DC's made the difference in the savings and loan associations and banks between a net loss and a net gain in savings deposits in the first ten days of the month. California, a "rate-sensitive" state had seven of the largest savings and loan associations sell more than $600 million of the CD's in the first ten days.

There are two primary objections to the CD's. One is that they may slow housing. The other is that they will raise the cost of funds for housing lenders. Savings and loan executives have another complaint. The fear that the Treasury Bill CD's will permanently raise the cost of their funds—a cost which they believe will show up in the cost of funds for home buyers.

New York savings banks saw 75% of the money invested in the new certificates come from internal accounts, principally from 5/4% passbook accounts. However, across the country, about 40% of the money the savings and loans are attracting with the CD's are new funds. That figure goes as high as 80% in certain parts of the country.

Federal regulators believe that the six month CD's will be a success if they just stop the savings outflows. If interest rates peak soon, it will take the pressure off the savings flow.

Persons who do vigorous physical work or play and sweat profusely may need added sodium—the body loses about 1,000 grams of sodium in one quart of sweat, reports Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Minimum Till Pays In Potato Growing

Minimum tillage as a farming practice is more talked about than practiced in this part of the United States. But a former Wellington man is putting that system to work in Oregon's potato-growing Columbia River Basin to better manage wind erosion on sandy soils.

Joe Bartlett, manager for Oregon Potato Inc., farms east of Boardman and believes this is a solution to a major problem in the newly irrigated lands in that part of the northwest. The idea is catching on.

Iowa Potato, Inc., grew 14,000 acres of potatoes under the minimum till method last year.

The practice adapted to their need calls for volunteer wheat left growing to stabilize the land during the winter. Before potato planting time, 17-inch strips are plowed, and an equal width of wheat left to hold the soil. Before the potatoes emerge, these growing strips are sprayed with herbicide, and fertilized at the same operation. The dead wheat still provides protection for the young potato plants.

The practice adapted to

Accidents Cost $$$ To Farmers, Ranchers

WACO--Accidents cost money--in property damage in medical costs, and in lost work time, says Mr. Joe L. Smetana, Texas Safety Association board member and Safety Director with the Texas Farm Bureau.

Smetana points out that safety management is as important to farm and ranch management as production management. He notes that "time is money when it comes to farm safety. An accident on the farm may result in high medical bills, but it can cost thousands of dollars more if it delays planting or harvesting a crop. Missed marketing opportunities are cash losses."

Besides the obvious costs of medical care and equipment damage, accidents cause businesses to lose the productivity of injured workers, adds Smetana. Wage and production costs may further be incurred due to other workers who normally need the injured's output or teamwork and are delayed or work inefficiently because the injured is temporarily absent or, after returning to work, is slow or needs help from others. Further, he notes the permanent loss of the valued talent and skill of workers.

Other losses involve the cost of hiring and training replacement workers, the wage cost due to the lower output of new workers during the break-in period, and the production losses due to the unavailability of inefficiency of damaged production equipment.

Smetana concludes that the "hidden costs" of accidents can be many times that of the obvious costs. When accident losses are viewed in this light, it is seen that a small investment in accident prevention can mean increased profits by minimizing losses and conserving the resources which maximize productivity.

Cotton Producers Study Research

RALEIGH—Twenty-one cotton producers from the Rolling Plains region of Texas visited the Cotton Incorporated research center here recently to find out how their dollars are invested by the company to improve cotton markets and cut their production costs.

Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of American cotton producers.

In their one-day visit, the Texans toured laboratory facilities and heard Cotton Incorporated officials detail the research and promotion work of the company.

Counties represented in the tour were Cottle, Collingsworth, Fisher, Hall, Haskell, Jones, Kent and Runtells.

At the conclusion of the trip, one tour member, ginner D.F. Miller of Memphis, commented: "We've always been interested in Cotton Incorporated and wondered just how our money was being spent. So we came up and went through their facilities and laboratories. We certainly understand now where our money's being spent and that it is being well spent. We're real proud of this trip."

One of the tour members, ginner Foy Mitchell of Memphis, Texas, admitted he had some reservations about the work of the company, but he came away impressed.

Said Mitchell, "We were invited to Raleigh to see their facilities, and I was very much impressed with what they are doing. They seem to be doing a real good job of research and promotion of cotton products."

Another tour member, cotton producer Billy J. Holley of Paducah, explained that he made the trip "because we wanted to look at our facilities and see what Cotton Incorporated is doing to improve the sale of our products to the public."

"It looks real good," he concluded. Said Davis Weaver, a cotton producer from Hamlin: "I was interested in where my approximately $2 a bale went. I wanted to see what kind of stuff was going on here. And I think they are doing a pretty good job at it. They're doing a lot more than I thought."

Cotton Incorporated officials from the agricultural research division told the producers about efforts to lower the costs of production through improved insect and disease control, better varieties, and by streamlining the harvesting-handling-ginning process.

The producers also heard Cotton Incorporated's Dan Troxler, associate director of supply economics, describe how the economists analyze potential demand and supply of cotton so producers will be in a better position to market their crop.

The group toured the company's product research lab, testing facilities, and dyeing and finishing lab, where they saw how Cotton Incorporated works to design new mostly cotton or all-cotton products for the textile market. They also heard about and saw new equipment developed by the company to cut the costs of using cotton for textile mills to make cotton more competitive with synthetic fibers.

Charles Lapidus, director of merchandising in the New York marketing office, explained to the producers the company's marketing and advertising strategies.

He told the group that, through advertising the cotton seal had become the most widely recognized symbol of a textile product in the minds of the American public.

Commented one of the tour members, Carl Wischkaemper of Wellington at the end of the visit: "I think they're doing a wonderful job. There are a lot of things going on that we didn't realize were going on in the way of research and new products that are coming out and new methods. I think they're doing a wonderful job of it."

Concluded another Memphis cotton producer, George Williams: "I came to see where my $2 a bale was being spent. It's been very informative, and I think we're getting our money's worth."

John Rainey At Sheriffs Association

Sheriff and Mrs. John Rainey attended 100th anniversary convention of the Sheriff's Association of Texas, Inc. held last week in Dallas.

At the closing night banquet, Brandon Bickett of Austin, a former South Texas sheriff, later with the Attorney General's office, chose to honor his father, the late John H. Bickett, sheriff of Milam County from 1891 to 1966, presented a pistol to the association to be given away.

A Smith and Wesson 357 Magnum, it was won by veteran Sheriff Rainey who has served Collingsworth County almost 23 years.

Only a handful of sheriffs in Texas have had a longer tenure than he and only one in the Panhandle has greater seniority, Rufe Jordan of Gray County, who has been in office either two or four years longer, Rainey says.

President of the Sheriff's Association of Texas, Inc. is John R. Lightfoot of Nacogdoches. Its headquarters are in Austin.

Rainey has served on several boards and committees.

stake, Martin seed defeated Farmers Co-op a close 13-11, then came back to win the second game and the championship 17-11.
