SEVEN KILLED IN SECOND TORNADO IN ALABAMA

Mayor Asks Rail Commission To Require $200,000 Bond Of Gas Company

NELSON RAPS LONG DELAY IN STATE SURVEY

Commission Didn't Consult City in Fixing First Bond, He Says

ACTION DEMANDED

People Want to Know When Rate Will Be Fixed, Terrell Told

A formal demand that the Texas railroad commission require the Municipal Gas company to post $200,000 bond to protect claims of consumers here pending the settlement of the rate controversy between the city and the company has been filed with Chairman C. V. Terrell by Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., it was revealed Sunday.

Other Increases

The mayor also requested that the gas company's bond be increased at the rate of $100,000 for every six months that the rate case remains unsettled.

In submitting the formal demand to the commission, Mayor Nelson expressed surprise at a recent statement of Mr. Terrell that the city and the mayor had made on request for an increase in the $80,000 bond which the commission had the gas company file several months ago when it suspended the new Wichita Falls rate.

Mayor Nelson told Mr. Terrell he could see no reason why such a request should be expected from the city of Wichita Falls when "without so much as giving a notice to the mayor, city attorney, or any other person representing the city of Wichita Falls, you originally determined that a $80,000 bond was sufficient protection."

The letter also points out that the attorney general has held that it is the duty of the railroad commission to make sure that the bond "is sufficient in amount to protect each subscriber for the difference between the existing rates and the reduced rates" during the appeal. This amount, for Wichita Falls, amounts to more than $189,000 on the gas company's sworn statement, it was pointed out.

Previous Request Cited

A formal request that the Lone Star Gas company be made a party to the action was also made by Mayor Nelson, who pointed out that the same request was made in September by the city attorney. Mayor Nelson expressed the opinion that the city attorney's plea should have been sufficient to bring in the Lone Star company, but declared that if the commission did not so agree, that "I here and now, as mayor of the city of Wichita Falls make such request."

Criticism of the commission for failing to complete the survey of Lone Star properties, when funds have been available since August, 1931, was voiced in the letter, He added.

"The question of whether you are to remain a member of the railroad commission or I am to remain mayor of Wichita Falls is not important, but the vital question to the people of this city is, when can we expect the railroad commission of the state of Texas to fix the gas rate for gas sold at our city gates?"

Mayor Nelson's letter follows in full:

"On March 22 you wrote a letter to Harvey Harris relative to the gas situation in Wichita Falls. In this letter, in an effort to extricate yourself from an embarrassing situation, you, for some reason best known to yourself, saw fit to try to make me responsible for your delinquincies.

Graf Zeppelin Progresses On Return From Brazil

NEW YORK, March 27. (AP)—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, on its homeward flight from Pernambuco, Brazil, was reported over north latitude 27.08, west longitude 25.45, about 400 miles west of the Canary islands, at 4 p. m. eastern standard time today by the Radiomarine corporation here.

Its position was reported by the dirigible, which left Pernambuco at 12:58 a. m., Saturday (9:58 p. m., eastern standard time Friday) on the return flight of its first regular trip to Brazil this year.

Juvenile Judge Joins Children's Bureau Staff

WASHINGTON, March 27. (US)—Judge Carl B. Hyatt, formerly juvenile court judge in Asheville, N. C., has joined the staff of the U. S. children's bureau of the labor department here, it was announced today. He will study juvenile violations of federal laws.

Leader of Agudath Israel Dies in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, March 27. (AP)—Rabbi Chaim Sonnenfeld, world famous leader of the extreme Orthodox Jewish organization, Agudath Israel, died here today. He was 85.

Rome And Jerusalem Honor Day

ROME, March 27. (US)—Rome today put aside the mourning of the Lenten season to joyously celebrate the Eastertide.

In St. Peter's cathedral, central church of Catholic Christendom, and all of the Holy City's 400 churches special services commemorated Christ's resurrection.

50,000 Pilgrims

Nearly 50,000 foreigners, Holy week pilgrims to Rome, took part in the celebrations that were of particular significance to Americans.

In the Church of Santa Maria Maggiore, a sermon preached by Cardinal Cerretti was broadcast to the United States. The singing of the Liberian chapel choir and a concert on the church's bells were also put on the air for American listeners.

St. Peter's was jammed for morning, afternoon, and evening mass and the singing of the vatican choir.

Pope Celebrates Mass

Pope Pius XI celebrated mass in the Sistine chapel and gave communion to members of the vatican's diplomatic corps. Members of the American colony attended a special service held by the Paulist fathers in the Church of Santa Susanna.

American Protestants thronged to the Presbyterian church and St. Paul's Episcopal church. At St. Paul's Bishop James de Wolf Perry, of the American Episcopal church who is making his annual visitation to European parishes, preached a sermon and confirmed 12 children.

RAIN BRINGS HAPPINESS TO HOLY CITY

JERUSALEM, March 27. (AP)—Easter brought joy for all inhabitants of this holy city of Christianity today when rain fell to end a long hot drouth.

Christians, Moslems and Jews united a week ago in prayer for the rain and showers began as the resurrection of Christ was commemorated in the city which nearly 2,000 years ago witnessed the agony and triumph of His last days.

Cold weather came with the showers, but that did not prevent the Christians of Jerusalem and thousands of pilgrims from attending the moving and colorful ceremonies of centuries.

CHALK HILL ADDS ANOTHER

No. 3 L. F. Wilson Estimated at 800-900 Barrels

Flowing 320 barrels in a 12-hour period with the hole bridged over and tools in the hole, the Deep Oil Development-Lindsay Drilling company's No. 3, L. F. Wilson, located on lease No. 1, block 119, A. T. N. C. L. survey, added another nice producer to the Chalk Hill area of Archer county Sunday.

The well, which is the most distant southern extension of the pool and 600 feet to the south of No. 1 on the same lease, topped the sand at 2,201 feet and penetrated 12 feet into the formation. Saturday the cement plug was drilled out, but the force of gas pressure blew the tools back up in the hole and a bridge was formed.

The oil Sunday was flowing through the obstructions which the owners hope to have extricated early Monday.

From the performance in its present condition, the well when cleaned out is estimated anywhere between 800 to 900 barrels initial flow.

Amarillo Sells Warrants For 95 Per Cent of Face

AMARILLO, Texas, March 27. (AP)—Potter county commissioners recently sold $9,000 worth of warrants at 95 cents on the dollar, plus accrued interest, to pay off their last obligations on the county's new courthouse.

"The price is the highest we have heard of recently," said County Judge Sam B. Motlow. "If all Texas counties could sell warrants at such a price we wouldn't have any financial troubles."

GREAT CROWDS FILL CHURCHES FOR EASTER

Spring Sun After Stormy Night Calls Wichita To Parade

MUSIC IS FEATURED

Rotary's Egg Hunt Proves Major Event for 800 Children

With weather conditions which recovered during the day much of the warm spring atmosphere of Saturday after a rugged equinoctial storm during the night, Easter Sunday was celebrated by thousands of Wichitans under fair skies and in numerous religious ceremonies conducted at local churches.

Promises of an Easter morning almost perfectly attuned climatically to the traditional parade of bright and new attire were rudely shattered before midnight Saturday when a terrific gale was followed by a seasonal downpour of chilling rain and some hail. Almost suggestive of the resurrection events in Jerusalem, however, the climatic tumult increased in violence after the rainfall ceased, a howling wind continuing until dawn. As the great stone was rolled away upon the first Easter morning, so the heavy clouds literally were blown away by daybreak to restore sunshine and open sky over Wichita Falls.

Sunrise Services

Despite the sharp morning air and dampness which followed the midnight rain, worshippers to the number of almost 800 persons comfortably filled the auditorium of the First Methodist church at 6 o'clock Sunday morning for the annual sunrise Easter service. Arranged under the direction of the Wichita Falls Ministerial alliance, the service was marked by a stimulating sermon delivered by Rev. Bruce B. Corbin, pastor of the Grace Methodist church.

Referring to the appearance of Jesus to two of the disciples upon the road to Emmaus, Rev. Corbin

Mob of 2,000 Threatens Trio Held in Slaying

LAKELAND, Fla., March 27. (UP)—A mob of more than 2,000 persons jammed the city jailyard here tonight clamoring for possession of three members of the family of Sam Acree and Joseph A. Johnson, a neighbor, all held in connection with the slaying of two Lakeland policemen at 4 p. m.

Thomas A. Nicholson, 47, and W. T. Barnett, 54, veteran members of the Lakeland police force and two of the most popular officers in the city were killed instantly as they approached the Acree home.

Agriculture Department Reports Wheat Acreage

WASHINGTON, March 27. (US)—Increased acreage in winter wheat this year in seven countries, not including Russia, is more than offset by decrease in nine other countries out of a total of 16 countries, the department of agriculture reported today.

France, Italy, Germany, Poland, Bulgaria, India, and Tunis reported increases, while the United States, Spain, Canada, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Belgium, Lithuania, and Algeria reported decreases.

Steel Industry Leader Dies at LaPorte, Ind.

LA PORTE, Ind., March 27. (UP)—W. E. Taylor, 79, former general manager of the Republic Iron and Steel company of Pittsburgh, died here today after an illness of a week's duration.

Taylor, who began at the bottom in the steel industry and worked his way to the general managership of the Pittsburgh company, had lived here since his retirement 30 years ago.

Phantom Panther of Archer County Eludes Dogs and Men in Great Hunt

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, March 27.—Archer county's great panther hunt more or less came to an end this afternoon, after all the finest hunters and all the finest hounds in this section had put in some three days in a futile search for the phantom cat.

The search reached its peak Sunday, when some 150 hounds and scores of hunters galloped hither and thither over the C. L. Abercrombie ranch and adjacent lands in search of the panther. Apparently a fine time was had by all, including the panther, which managed to keep out of sight during all of the excitement.

The animal was first reported by a group of power company employes last week. Hounds and hunters from Archer City, Olney, Graham and other points took part in the search. Dryness of the ground handicapped the work of the dogs, it was reported. Some of the hunters today expressed the opinion that the animal seen by the power company workers was not a panther but a timber wolf. These wolves occasionally grow to large size, although none is known to have attained a length of "nine feet, from nose tip to tail tip," as reported of the panther.

Kentucky Puts Stop To Students' 'Impartial Investigation' Of Mines

Students of Columbia university, who planned an "impartial investigation" of conditions in the Kentucky mining area, were escorted out of the state almost as soon as they had crossed the border. Above is the group of collegians ready to enter the fields. Below, at the left, is Bob F. Hall, student leader, all dressed up with a miner's cap and demanding "constitutional rights" for the group. At the right, Joe Lawson, miner from Arjay, Ky., whose descriptions fired the students to the investigation.

MUNDAY GAS HEARING OPENS HERE TODAY

City Officials of Town To Fight Company's Plan To Raise Rates

All members of the city council of Munday, together with the city attorney and city secretary, plan to be present in federal district court here Monday morning at 11 o'clock, according to dispatches from that city, when Judge William H. Atwell will hear the application of the Stamford and Western Gas company for an injunction restraining the city of Munday from interfering in a proposed gas rate increase.

Confer With Harris

The gas company's petition was filed in Dallas last Wednesday, and was set for hearing here one hour after the March term of federal district court opens Monday morning, March 28.

According to information received by The Record News from Munday, Mayor C. L. Mayes and City Attorney J. S. Kendall of that city plan also to confer with Judge Harvey Harris of Wichita Falls while here relative to the fight being made here for lower domestic gas rates. Judge Harris' recent successful suits against the Municipal Gas company for rebate on October and December gas bills have been followed closely by citizens of Munday, it was reported.

Court to Hear Case

The petitioning company alleges that on an investment of almost $2,000,000 in the Munday community it realized a return of but 1.64 per cent in 1931. The net earnings of the concern there, according to the petition, were a little more than $29,000. A rate of 85 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, with a rate of 75 cents on all monthly consumption above 25,000 cubic feet, is now effective at Munday. The company also collects a 50-cent monthly service charge, and has a minimum of $2 on each monthly bill.

Arguments on the petition are expected to be heard immediately after Judge Atwell impanels juries for the ensuing term.

Inventor of Autogiro Perfects Wingless Plane

LONDON, March 27. (AP)—Juan de la Cierva, Spanish inventor of the autogiro, was reported today to have perfected a machine much like the autogiro, except that it is without wings, and to have made several flights in it.

The flying machine, which is now at Hamble airdrome, England, is one of the first of the heavier-than-air type without wings. It was described as capable of bullet-like velocity, getting up and alighting in a remarkable short landing space, and descending safely and gently, like a parachute.

Fire Destroys Buildings At Manor, Near Austin

AUSTIN, March 27. (AP)—Two rows of buildings fronting the main highway through the town of Manor, were destroyed by fire last night. The loss was estimated at $75,000 by W. H. Wentland, mayor of the little town, which is in Travis county a short distance from Austin.

A company of the Austin fire department was called to help fight the fire. Several of the buildings were brick and others were frame. The fire started in a frame building.

Return Of Lindbergh Baby Expected Within One Week--Boatbuilder Says

NORFOLK, Va., March 27. (AP)—John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk boat builder, who returned to Norfolk today from a trip to negotiate for the return of the Lindbergh baby, said he was much encouraged over results, but could not give any definite details as to what was accomplished.

Asked if he considered the negotiations in a final stage, Curtis said:

"I consider them in a semi-final stage."

He could not say how much longer it would take to complete the negotiations although he said he was encouraged as a result of his trip, which he made at least partly by airplane. He said he considered his trip quite successful, but added he was confident too much publicity at this time would frustrate his work.

Girl's Death Under Train Probed by Grand Jury

ELDORADO, Ark., March 27. (AP)—A special session of the Union county grand jury was called today to meet Wednesday for an investigation of the death of Miss Ruth Youngblood, 20-year-old senior at Magnolia A. & M. college, whom a tramp has confessed he attacked and hurled in the path of a train here Friday night.

Although a formal charge of murder has been lodged against Irvin Eddington, 38, Coroner T. E. Barton still held to a suicide theory.

Eddington has told several conflicting stories and at times has denied any connection with the girl's death.

Barton said physicians had examined the body and reported there was no evidence of an attack.

Gun Battle Takes Place At Ohio Coal Mine

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, March 27. (AP)—The wooded hills about the Wolford Coal company mine near Newport tonight were quiet after a gun battle in which officers estimated 200 to 250 shots were fired by striking miners or sympathizers.

Sheriff Harry C. Smith said he had not learned of any one being hit by the bullets from snipers in a crowd of 700 to 1,000 miners, or by the fire from the mine company's two machine guns. The firing continued three hours last night.

Judge to Give Ruling Today on Anti-Trust Law

AUSTIN, March 27. (UP)—A decision as to whether Texas' anti-trust laws are constitutional is to be given Monday in the suit in which Attorney General James Allred is fighting to oust 15 major oil companies and two petroleum associations from the state.

District Judge J. D. Moore will give the decision in 98th district court as hearing on Allred's suit is resumed after having been in recess for almost two weeks.

CO-ED EJECTED AT PINEVILLE

Protests of Students Meet With No Success

PINEVILLE, Ky., March 27. (AP)—Four eastern students, two of them women, were escorted from Pineville today after interviewing County Attorney Walter B. Smith and having Bell county's mine problems explained to them by a group of citizens led by Cleon K. Calvert, Pineville attorney.

The students were Mrs. Eleanor Curtis Henderson, who said she preferred to be known as Eleanor Curtis, of Columbia university; Miss Margaret Bailey of New York university, Willard Spence of Union Theological seminary, New York, and Herbert Ellis of Harvard.

They came here from Knoxville, Tenn., to demand from Smith an explanation for the ejection from Bell county of two bus loads of students Friday and Saturday.

After being told by Smith they could not remain in the county because he said he had evidence they were connected with the Communist party, the four students asserted they would go to Frankfort, the state capital, to protest to Gov. Ruby Laffoon.

REFINING PLANT DAMAGED BY HEAVY WINDS

80-Foot Smokestacks At American Crash Down On Buildings

Properties of the American Refining company on the Iowa Park road were damaged to an extent of several thousand dollars by a wind which struck Wichita Falls about 2 o'clock Sunday morning. Velocity of the wind was recorded here as 12 miles per hour at its maximum. Toll of the wind at the refinery could not be established definitely Sunday by Refinery Manager W. L. Scott after a preliminary survey of the wreckage.

Quarter of an Inch Rain

Two steel smokestacks, 80 feet tall, were whipped from their moorings and crashed into pipe lines, steam lines and connection joints, causing the majority of the damage. The principal damage was at the cracking plant when one of the fallen stacks crushed through the roof of the boiler and pump house, scattering brick from the walls and wrecking a large number of oil lines and connections.

Precipitation accompanying the wind totaled .24 of an inch.

A check of the fallen stacks revealed they had been properly guyed and moored. No explanation for the wreckage Sunday could be made, Mr. Scott said.

Other Damage Slight

It was believed by some observers, however, that the character of the wind, rather than its sustained force, was responsible for the damage. The wind came in heavy short blasts, each succeeded by a brief period of calm. The two extremes produced conditions very similar to disturbances of cyclones and tornadoes, it was pointed out, although the wind her did not reach such violent proportions.

Other refineries in the Wichita Falls vicinity escaped damage from the wind, a check revealed. Members of the oil fraternity in the city during the afternoon had not received reports of any damage in oil fields of the area.

Slang Term 'Snake's Hips' Gets Approval of Expert

CHICAGO, March 27. (AP)—The slang term, "the snake's hips," is grammatically correct, the Field museum of natural history said today in announcing the opening of an exhibit of reptile skeletons, including one of a huge rock python. The python, the announcement said, does possess hips because the serpent retains a vestige of hind legs. Several other species of snakes besides the rock python also have hips.

FAST BOAT

POTSDAM, Germany, March 27. (AP)—Nicolas Bellin, 28-year-old engineer, has built a boat, resembling a whale with an airplane motor atop the tail, which he says he believes can span the ocean between Liverpool and New York in less than three days.

WHEAT RULING

PARIS, March 27. (AP)—The ministry of agriculture reduced the amount of French-grown wheat required to be used in bread flour from 65 per cent to 60 per cent today.

Gangster Shoots Way Out Of Jail, Wounding Guard With Machine Gun

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 27. (AP)—Basil Banghart, a gunman of the Detroit "Purple" gang, wounded a guard, temporarily blinded another, and shot his way out of the St. Joseph county jail here today. An associate of Harry Fleischer, sought in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping, Banghart was a fugitive from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Banghart stole down the stairs from his second floor lockup today while Jailer Stanley Klosinski was holding roll call for 20 other prisoners. As he reached the first floor the gunman met Edward Wroblewski, another guard.

A handful of red pepper thrown in his eyes halted Wroblewski's attempt to overpower the fugitive. Banghart then ran to the jail office, smashed open a gun rack and snatched out a submachine gun.

Jailer Klosinski heard the noise and started down from the second floor, a pistol in his hand. He was greeted with a burst from the machine gun and fell with wounds in the left arm. His condition was reported critical tonight.

Banghart was scheduled to go on trial tomorrow in connection with two robberies here Feb. 9.

TWISTER HITS STORM-TORN AREA AGAIN

Wind Takes Heavy Toll Of Property in Sweep On Two Towns

TEXAS TOWN STRUCK

Death-Dealing Blow Takes Same Path as Storm Of Last Week

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 27. (AP)—Seven persons were left dead in Alabama tonight by a series of tornadoes that blew into western Georgia and turned northeastward across that state to bring injury to to an undetermined number and heavy property loss.

It was the second series of twisters to strike these two states within a week. Last Monday's tornadoes also entered Tennessee and the deaths reached more than 350.

Slashing into Georgia at two points, a county apart, the tornadoes left Mrs. Harvey Lewis dying at Buchanan, injured six other persons and bowled over 20 houses.

At Corinth, Ga., south of Buchanan, nine persons were injured and seven homes destroyed.

A severe storm was reported to be raging in the vicinity of Cartersville, a focal point for relief operations from last week's storm.

Five were killed at Lawley, Ala., today. The dead there were:

MR. and MRS. TERRY HICKS.
WALKER LAURENCE.
AUSTIN LAURENCE, 2.
JANE GREEN, 88.

The other two deaths were at Pleasant Grove, where the storm killed G. M. Tubbs, 60, a farmer, and a Mr. Pate.

All Doctors Called

Communications were disrupted throughout the storm area and efforts to obtain a check of the injured and the property damage were difficult.

Birmingham newspaper men sought to reach the stricken sections in airplanes in the face of near-gale winds.

Fire Results

Newnan reported a wind of tornado force that wrecked two houses and seriously injured a man and his wife. One of the houses caught fire and burned.

Reports from many other Alabama and Georgia points in and near the paths of the storms indicated a considerable number of injured and heavy damage to property.

Reports here showed today's tornadoes followed virtually the same course taken by last week's twisters.

The tornado truck at Pleasant Grove about 2:15 o'clock and swept a path 150 yards wide along the track left by the twister of Monday night.

Tornadoes were reported in Bibb and Elmore counties in central Alabama.

Sightseers Endangered

Bill Smith, editor of the Childton County News, told the Associated Press the tornado at Pleasant Grove came near catching hundreds of sightseers and that many abandoned their automobiles to seek safety in ditches beside the highway.

Anxiety was felt here for the safety of scores of fishermen known to be in the vicinity of the tornado in Elmore county.

The first check up by the Alabama Power company from its Jordan dam plant showed the tornado struck several fishing camps above the dam and dipped into Jordan lake where a geyser-like spray of water spouted into the air and showered over an area about 100 yards square.

The Jordan plant foreman said he saw one man with a child in his arms walking along the rim of the lake, but he could not say

MAYOR ASKS BIG GAS BOND

Formal Request Submitted To Terrell

mission on Oct. 9, 1931, reading as follows:

"'I have delayed in answering your communication in order that I might have some expression from the city council as to their advice and wishes in the matter before suggesting a date for this case too be set for a hearing. We are very anxious for the railroad commission to pass upon the rates charged by the gas company, for we believe that when the facts are properly presented to that body that they will immediately reduce the rates as low, if not lower, than the rates recently fixed by ordinance by the city of Wichita Falls. However, as the city of Wichita Falls does not have the facilities or finances necessary to conduct an investigation of the Lone Star Gas company, it is necessary that we await the results of the investigation instigated by the commission, therefore we cannot properly present our case until these facts are available. We prefer that this hearing be held at Wichita Falls, and that the date be fixed at the earliest possible time after the railroad commission has completed its investigation of the Lone Star Gas company.'

"But evidently because it did not serve your purpose, you failed to quote the last paragraph of my letter, which reads:

"'In this connection we would like to urge that the proposed investigation to be made by the railroad commission be begun immediately in order that the domestic consumers of natural gas, not only in the city of Wichita Falls, but over the state of Texas, may reap some benefit before this winter is over.'

Commission Has Funds

"When I wrote that letter of Oct. 9, 1931, I knew that the city of Wichita Falls did not have the facilities or finances necessary to conduct an investigation of the properties and records of the Lone Star Gas company or the Municipal Gas company, and I knew, and so also did you, that the legislature of the state of Texas had appropriated some $70,000 to be used by the railroad commission of Texas in making such investigations, and that this money was available for your use on Aug. 22, 1931.

"I did not then, and I do not now, think that it was necessary for the railroad commission of the state of Texas to wait until nearly January of 1932 to begin such investigations when the funds were available for the purpose as early as August, 1931, and winter months coming on. When I wrote you on Oct. 9 it was inconceivable to me that under present conditions that you would not immediately begin an investigation and have same completed and ready for hearing within at least 60 or 90 days, but almost six months have passed, and the city of Wichita Falls is not yet advised as to what, if anything, has been done by the commission with reference to this investigation. And in this connection I had in mind when I wrote you that you would be governed by Article 6058 of the revised statutes of the state of Texas, which provides among other things:

"'But said commission shall determine the matters involved in any such appeal within 60 days after the filing by such utility of such appeal with said commission or such further time as such utility (Municipal Gas company) shall in writing agree to, but the rates fixed by such municipal government shall remain in full force and effect until ordered changed by the commission.'

"This may be a legal question, but I am still of the opinion that I was when I wrote you this letter, and that is that you have no power or authority to change the rates fixed by the ordinance until after a hearing.

"My testimony in the case of Harvey Harris vs. Municipal Gas company, which was tried in Wichita Falls, is a matter of record. At that time I stated the facts as I knew them, and in the instances where I gave an opinion I considered I had sufficient facts to formulate such opinion, and these facts still exist.

Was Neff Consulted?

"Since you have gone into the press of the state with your grievance against me, then in all fairness, I think the people generally should know the facts as they exist and for that reason I respectfully ask you the following questions:

"In your statement appearing in the Wichita Falls Record News under date of March 23, 1932, you said that same was made after you had consulted Commissioner Lon A. Smith and the gas utilities engineer, Laten Stanberry. Is not Pat M. Neff also a member of the railroad commission, and did you confer with him in regard to your statement? And if so, state fully what was said in regard to the matter by him.

"Since Mr. Neff is a member of the railroad commission, will you please state whether or not he had authority to make a statement as to when the citizens of Wichita Falls could reasonably expect any relief from the present gas rates.

"In paragraph 10 of your letter to Mr. Harris you say there has never been any complaint made by the mayor or city attorney as to the size of the appeal bond, and that if the bond is insufficient the Municipal Gas company will be required to post additional bond, and that you stand ready to hear the mayor or city attorney.

Policy Reversed

"I am glad that you have changed your attitude, for on Sept. 28, 1931, without so much as giving a notice to the mayor, city attorney or any other person representing the city of Wichita Falls, you determined from the sworn statement of J. B. McCabe, president of the Municipal Gas company, that a $60,000 bond was sufficient protection for this city, and in this connection it is interesting to note that J. B. McCabe's sworn statement for the year ending Aug. 31, 1931, showed the Municipal Gas company had received from the citizens of Wichita Falls, Texas, the sum of $568,529.51 for domestic gas, and that therefore, under our ordinance No. 1067 which reduced the gas rate to 50 cents per thousand feet, the sum of $189,509.86 would have been saved to the people of Wichita Falls. It seems to me that it would naturally follow that they should have been entitled to a bond in at least that sum on Sept. 28, 1931, and especially so if this matter was to be dragged on for an indefinite time. You further knew when you attempted to suspend this ordinance and fix the bond, which was done without any notice to any representative of this city, that the winter months were at hand, and that at least 75 per cent of the annual consumption of domestic gas would be used during the succeeding five months.

"Since you have J. B. McCabe's sworn statement in your file, I do not understand why it should be necessary for a hearing to be demanded, but since you seem to be complaining that I did not demand a hearing, I here now demand that the railroad commission of the state of Texas require the Municipal Gas company to give a good and sufficient bond in the sum of at least $200,000 in order that the rights of our citizens may be protected, and that same be increased each six months thereafter in an additional sum of $100,000. I do not think this is an unreasonable demand in view of the sworn statement of the president of the Municipal Gas company, which you have.

Other Cities Reduced

"Our people would be interested in knowing what petitions of other cities for a reduction of gas rates have been acted upon by your body within the last 12 months, and prior to the time the suits were filed in Wichita county, to which your letter refers. And in this connection, is it not a fact that every order reducing gas rates in this section of the state has been made and entered by your body since March 1, 1932, and after the suits about which you complain had been filed?

"When did the actual investigation of the properties of the Lone Star Gas company and Municipal Gas company, and the Lone Star Gas corporation actually begin, if they have begun, and would you mind furnishing me a copy of the record showing the beginning of the actual investigation? If you do not have such a record, then isn't it a fact that you did not enter into contract employing engineers to do this work until about January, 1932?

"In your letter to Mr. Harris you frequently refer to the fact that you had an opinion from the attorney general with reference to the appeal of this case, and in this connection, do you think that in all good conscience you followed the attorney general's opinion in regard to the making of the bond, when he says in his letter to you:

"'In this connection, however, I would suggest that you be very cautious in approving bonds of this character. You should make sure that such bond is not only properly worded, but is sufficient in amount to protect each subscriber for the difference between the existing rates and the reduced rates during the time that said matter is on appeal.

"'It might also be a good idea to write in the face of the band the provision that at any time the railroad commission might decide such bond is insufficient in amount to protect all subscribers or users, that a new bond should and would be furnished within so many days from the receipt of a request therefor.'

"Did you do this?

Attorney Filed Petition

"In paragraph two of your letter to Mr. Harris it would seem that you concluded that the answer filed by the city attorney, Thelbert Martin, in which he asked that the Lone Star Gas corporation and Lone Star Gas company be made parties was a formal motion which required no attention from you, but that you would issue notices to these companies when the mayor requested that they be issued. This is the first time I ever heard that you took this position, but if in your opinion the city attorney of Wichita Falls had no authority to ask that these companies be made parties, then I here and now, as mayor of the city of Wichita Falls, very earnestly request that the Lone Star Gas company and Lone Star Gas corporation be made parties in cause No. 34, gas utilities docket, Municipal Gas company vs. the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, and I am making this demand in order that all things may be heard and determined which pertain to the controversy.

"I would have made this demand sooner if I had known you were taking that position, but so far as I am advised, the railroad commission nor any one representing it has communitcated with any one representing the city of Wichita Falls concerning this matter since Sept. 29, 1931.

"Your statement that I have repudiated any promise or agreement is without foundation in fact, for I have always urged that you make your investigation at the earliest time possible and then give us a prompt hearing. The state is furnishing you the money for such purposes.

"The question of whether you are to remain a member of the railroad commission or I am to remain mayor of Wichita Falls is not important, but the vital question to the people of this city is, when can we expect the railroad commission of the state of Texas to fix the gas rate for gas sold at our city gates? If you can and will answer this question I am confident that it will be of more interest to our citizens than anything either of us could say. Very truly yours,

"Walter Nelson Jr., mayor of Wichita Falls."

Mangum History Teacher Talks on Passion Play

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., March 27.—Miss Tom Johnson, instructor in history in Mangum Junior High school, gave a public address at the Central Christian church on Good Friday evening, reviewing the Passion play. While making a tour of Europe 18 months ago Miss Johnson witnessed this play in the little Bavarian town of Oberammergau, made famous by the presentation of the play every 10 years.

MANGUM, Okla., March 27.—Funeral services for R. D. Willard, 57, were held Friday at the First Baptist church, Rev. R. B. Moreland, pastor of First Methodist church, officiating. A native of Gainesville, Texas, Mr. Willard is survived by one son, Dave Willard, of Mangum, and two daughters, Mrs. M. N. Hicks, Mangum, and Mrs. Fritz McCarty of Medicine Park.

J. R. Cassady of Cheyenne, Okla., has been a justice of the peace since 1894, with the exception of a brief time when incapacitated by illness.

SEVEN DIE IN WIND STORMS

Alabama Again Swept By Disastrous Tornado

whether any one was killed or whether any fishermen had been caught on the lake and drowned.

Red Cross central headquarters, which had been established at Birmingham for relief work in Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia as the result of last week's storms, sought to get in touch with workers in the field and obtain data on the extent of today's damage.

H. T. Johnson of Gorgas, nine miles from Cordova, reported hailstones the size of baseballs fell over a three mile area and covered the ground. Cordova is in the northwestern section of Alabama.

TORNADO INJURES 20 AT SELMAN CITY

SELMAN CITY, Texas, March 27. (AP)—A roaring tornado dipping down between the hills here today, scattered this little oil field shack town over the countryside, injuring 20 persons and causing thousands of dollars damage to property.

The twister, of violent intensity, struck the city about 5 p. m., and made short work of many of the shacks lining the rutted roads of this section of the East Texas oil field.

Giant oil derricks crashed to earth before the wind. A total of 27 derricks, including a steel tower, were left a twisted mass of ruins by the storm.

Seven oil wells began running wild immediately after the derricks had been uprooted. The highway to Arp was blocked until noon as the wells sprayed the fields with hundreds of gallons of oil.

A checkup at 5 p. m. revealed 20 persons were injured, six of which were removed to a hospital at Henderson, seven miles east of here for treatment, but later were discharged.

Buildings Crumble

An incomplete list of the injured follows: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thaxton and a small son, J. C. Shelton and son, and Mrs. Roy Chamberlain. These were treated at Henderson.

One of the first buildings in town to crumble before the wind was that of the Russell Mercantile company, a large frame building.

A swath three miles long and 100 yards wide through Selman City and the oil field of 600 derricks was cut by the twister in a few minutes. Derricks constructed to withstand a wind of 75 miles an hour were toppled over with ease, oil field workers said.

One family of six escaped death by crawling under a bed in their fragile, box-like home while the storm tore the house to pieces and scattered parts of it for more than a mile.

Another family escaped serious injury when the wind lifted their house from the ground several feet into the air, while another blast blew the floor of the house across the highway.

Children Escape

The husband received a severe injury to his hip and his wife sustained cuts and bruises. Several small children escaped injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Etheridge and their family of small children escaped with minor injuries when the tornado demolished their home while they sought refuge beneath a bed.

Residents said the storm came roaring out of the West. A cone shaped cloud was seen to form about half a mile from the city and suddenly dip down to the ground. The roar was distinct for several minutes before the twister struck the business section.

At nightfall residents and oil field workers were making provisions to care for the homeless.

where, how or to whom I talked, I am not in a position to state at this time. I left early Saturday morning and returned this afternoon."

"I saw my time was getting limited," Mr. Curtis said, "so that is the reason I slipped away hurriedly yesterday. Too much publicity has been given to our efforts."

Asked if he had gone in a special plane, Mr. Curtis replied "I did not say I went in a plane." He then refused to say whether the trip was made by air, thought it was ascertained some time after his departure that he left here as a plane passenger.

Mr. Curtis refused to answer questions as to whom he saw and to what destination he went. Asked if he made a contact with the reputed representative of the kidnapers who is said to have approached him March 9, Mr. Curtis answered:

"Now, that is the kind of question I can not answer:"

Expect Baby Back

Shortly after returning to Norfolk Mr. Curtis informed the Rev. H. Dodson-Peacock and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, the other intervenors serving with him, of the results of his trip.

Dean Peacock indicated earlier that Curtis made the trip to complete final negotiations rather than to effect the actual recovery of the baby. He said he had prepared himself, however, to "go at once" should anything definite develop.

"We expect some time this week to have the baby either in our hands or in the hands of Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh," he said.

Absence of Americans Hurts Nanking Business

NANKING, Monday, March 28. (UP)—Absence of 120 American refugees from Nanking is impeding business, the American consulate declared today in a circular suggesting that the refugees return.

The consulate's circular declared the government could not guarantee normal living conditions. It left decision on whether to return to the individuals.

Rain Brings Happiness To Jerusalem

ly attended the earliest service at 5 a. m., at the garden tomb at the foot of Calvary where tradition says the body of Christ was laid after it was taken from the cross.

NEW YORK ENJOYS STYLE PARADE

NEW YORK, March 27. (AP)—Gardenias sold for 25 cents. Orchids were rare, but the Easter parade today was as generously topped with sleek silk hats and new bonnets as ever.

Overcast skies carrying a threat of rain and below 50 temperatures did not daunt the throng of fashionables strutting in spring finery along Park and Fifth avenues.

Long before the 11 o'clock services, Easter morning worshippers stood in long lines before the portals of St. Bartolomew's in Park avenue and St. Thomas' and St. Patrick's in Fifth. Hundreds were unable to crowd into the edifices.

Several thousands of persons emerged in the chill of dawn to attend sunrise services on the campus of Columbia university. In the course of a prayer, the Rev. Herbert E. Evans of Columbia asked forgiveness "for our wearing of pretty clothes and pretty things, and the pride and joy we take in earthly things."

Worshippers at St. Patrick's received the papal benediction from Cardinal Hayes.

While blue and beige are the most popular colors of the season, black figured most in the Easter parade. White was used considerably for contrast. Costumes of brown, red or green also were noted and there were many bright hats of yellow-red or brilliant green.

HOOVERS LEAD NATIONAL WORSHIP

WASHINGTON, March 27. (AP)—Beneath one umbrella in a drizzling rain, the president and Mrs. Hoover led the nation's Easter commemoration today at sunrise services among the mist-swept soldier graves of Arlington National cemetery.

Standing at times with head bared to the weather, the president joined with thousands who thronged to the early services in the great white marble amphitheater at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Rain set a keynote for the capital's Easter day. Falling steadily, it caused the chief executive and first lady later to cancel their customary attendance at a Quaker meeting. Nevertheless official Washington almost en masse, with thousands of visitors from every state, moved through it to join their own congregations.

Standing with rain cloaking his bared head, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman bishop of Washington, spoke at the brief sermon at Arlington.

"We are in the presence of the dead," he said, "but our theme is life. No place could be more fitting in which to recognize the great truth of the resurrection."

The scene within the open amphitheater was impressive. The president and Mrs. Hoover, flanked by one of his secretaries, Walter Newton, and the White House military and naval aides, sat upon one side of the raised marble platform. Upon the other were the Reverends James Shera Montgomery and Zebarney T. Phillips, chaplains of the house and senate, with Bishop Freeman beside them. Behind them, covered by a marble arch, was the marine band. Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Dolly Gann sat nearby.

The rising rows of the big amphitheater were almost completely filled.

announced his text as Luke xxiv: 15, "And Jesus Himself drew near and went with them."

"These two men had departed from Jerusalem after their Master's crucifixion," the speaker said. "They were discouraged, and downcast; their hopes were shattered. Nor was it an individual dejection; their discouragement was that of the Jewish nation, which sought eagerly the promised Messiah. In such a mood, they were unconscious of the approach of Jesus, and at first did not recognize Him.

"One of the most significant elements in His appearance to those two travelers, and of His resurrection, is the revelation of divine illumination in the human mind. Through those events, men were enabled to see the will and purpose of God the Father. Through divine enlightenment, we have been able to perceive that all human ills come to us from the past. We should be able to see that the solution for all our ills may be found in the divine truth and experiences to be drawn from the past.

Horst Presides

"Jesus made Himself known to His followers there by the breaking of bread. It is not in great assemblies, nor in connection with astentatious ceremonies, that Jesus may be found, but in connection with the actual life of humble men. A nation can be ennobled only by the nobility in the lives of individuals. Our generation can be purified only when the lives of indiviuals become pure.

"The hearts of those two disciples 'burned within them' at His words. Reconsecrated because of that holy fire, they, arose at the same hour and went back to Jerusalem. They returned to the scene of their defeat, to the field of conquest, to recapture an evelasting victory. At Jerusalem again they beheld the risen Christ, and there they resolved to carry out His great commandment to 'go into all the world, preaching His gospel.'"

Dr. Geo. P. Horst, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, presided at the sunrise service. Rev. J. E. Montgomery of the Highland Heights Christian church read the Scripture lesson, and prayer was offered by Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Church-goers of the city were summoned to the Easter morning service by a short concert played upon the chimes of the First Methodist church organ by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., who also played throughout the service. Miss Will Pinson, of the First Baptist church, sang "The Holy City" just before Rev. Corbin's sermon. The service opened with a period of congregational singing led by R. E. Shepherd, assisted by Mrs. Shepherd at the piano.

Elaborate Musical Programs

Musical programs figured largely in the commemoration of Easter in all the churches in this city. Both 7 o'clock and 11 o'clock mass at the Church of the Good Shepherd (Episcopal) were attended by large congregations Sunday morning. Choral movements from the Gounod "St. Cecelia" mass, with Baldwin Montgomery as tenor soloist, were included in the choral program at both hours under the direction of Mrs. J. O. Ammann. At the church school hour, a chorus of boys' voices directed by Miss Minnie T. Baker sang a group of favorite Easter hymns.

Received by communicants of the Catholic church as one of the most impressive masses ever used in their services here, the "Festival Mass" written by Charlene B. Underwood of this city was presented at high mass Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. It was sung by the choir of the Sacred Heart church under the direction of William L. Underwood, and with the assistance of J. S. Minton, tenor; James Williams, baritone; and Mrs. Underwood, soprano. Mrs. Carl Edwards was at the organ. The church was filled for the two-hour service.

Three complete cantatas were given by choirs of the First Presbyterian, First Baptist and First Methodist churches Sunday night. Directed by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, organist and musical director at the First Persbyterian church, the combined senior and young people's choirs sang Wolcott's "The Dawn of the Kingdom." The musical score for a well chosen text proved appealing, and was given an excellent treatment by both soloists and choir.

Methodists Give Cantata

At the First Baptist church, the choir presented "The Risen King," by Schnecker, before a congregation which filled the church auditorium. Directed by W. E. Young, with Mrs. F. R. Collard at the organ, the cantata produced an unusually effective series of choral numbers, both in male and female voices. The cantata was preceded by the playing of Beethoven's "Concerto in C Minor" by Miss Erma Nala Voss, pianist, with Mrs. Collard playing the orchestral score on the organ.

Easter Sunday services at the First Methodist church were concluded Sunday night with the singing of "The Daughter of Jairus," a cantata written by Sir John Stainer. With Mrs. Stanley M. Raub, soprano, and Luther R. Thurman, tenor, as soloists, the cantata was sung under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis. Tuneful in its melodic elements and with rich, substantial harmonies, the Stainer composition constituted an impressive program of devotional music.

In practically all other churches, one or more special Easter numbers were included in the worship program for each hour of service. Three numbers from Gaul's "The Holy City" were sung at the First Christian church, and at the Highland Heights Christian church, selections from Nolte's "The Resurrection" were sung by the choir. The Grace Methodist, First Southern Presbyterian, Floral Heights Methodist, and Lamar Avenue Baptist church choirs all used Easter anthems in Sunday's services.

Almost without exception, pastors of Wichita Falls churches devoted their morning sermons to exposition of the Easter theme.

Numerous visitors were present in the city, according to reports from members of many different churches. Rapidly rising temperature in the afternoon encouraged the appearance of thousands of automobiles in and near the city, the afternoon ride bringing out colorful new attire which had not braved the cool morning.

800 KIDS ENJOY EASTER EGG HUNT

More than 800 children of Wichita Falls expressed their appreciation for the annual Rotary club Easter day egg hunt Sunday afternoon by locating hidden nests at Myles O'Reilly park in record time. The hunt was called at 2 o'clock, but the clamoring youngsters were on hand much earlier and were released for a wild dash through the park gates at 1:55 o'clock.

All of the 7,200 eggs had been accounted for within 10 minutes and many of the youngsters were assisting their parents in devouring the meat of hard-boiled eggs, previously highly colored by the city laundry under direction of Harry Gray.

Chief Frank B. Creighton and members of Wichita Falls Boy Scout troops directed the hunt under supervision of the police department, and assisted by members of the Wichita Boys club under direction of "Lefty" Robertson and national guardsmen. The Easter day hunt was arranged by Horrace Robbins, Rotary club committee chairman, assisted by Mr. Gray and Dr. O. T. Kimbrough.

Apartment-Size Dog Returning To Favor

CHICAGO, March 27. (AP)—The kitchenet apartment and the automobile have scaled down the size of the family dog.

Alex H. Stewart, internationally known dog fancier, and president of the Chicago Kennel club, which is staging its annual show with $500,000 in canine aristocracy on exhibition, said the "apartment-size" dog is in most demand today. Wire-haired fox terriers, scotties, cocker spaniels, Boston terriers and the other small varieties that won't take up too much room in the average city dweller's home are preferred.

This tendency may help to bring the "wiener hound," which slipped in favor during the world war, back into popularity, Stewart said, when it was suggested that the low under-carriage of the Daschund would enable him to back under the divan and out of the way after the theory of a roll-away bed.

Manuscript Club Members Report Original Writing

Members of the Manuscript club met Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bentley Nelson when an unusually clever program was given and when the "market" report was made by members who had sold work since the last meeting. Meetings hereafter will be held on Saturday, it was voted.

Miss Ollie Roediger read chapter five of the original novel being done by the Manuscript club and displayed a marvelous gift of imagination in her work. Her splendid poise and originality was displayed in the group of poems she gave.

A group of poems written by various members of the club were read by Mrs. Dick Davis and a critical discussion was the animated close to this part of the meeting. Members of the Manuscript club must do professional work.

Mrs. Dick Davis, who writes as "Ann Pence Davis," reported the sale of "Indelible Number" to the New York Unity. The same magazine has accepted three poems by Mrs. Sam Kruger under her pen name of Fania Kruger, and the magazine Fantasy, accepted Mrs. Kruger's "Whirling Tunes." It was also reported that Mrs. Kruger had been doing Russian translations from the magazine "Praoda" for "The Rebel Poet."

Mrs. Faye Yauger, whose verse is full of poignant beauty, reported sale of "Second Choice" to Kaleidoscope and of "Starfish" to L'Alouette.

At the close of the meeting, light refreshments were served to Misses Sara Jones, Lucile Sherrod, Ollie Roediger; Mesdames C. R. Yauger, Dick Davis, Mary C. Hindman, Louise Williamson, J. F. Bailey, James P. Bowen, and the hostess, Mrs. Bentley Nelson.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

You are supposed, if your brain is not ossified, to learn something every day. But on Saturday, coming down Ninth street, we only learned to wonder. The fire plugs at the corners were open, and rivers of water ran down the street. And now and again, a man stood with a long sort of instrument through which he listened intently; it looked as if they were taking a test of the water pressure and it reminded us somehow of stethoscopes and other paraphernalia that doctors carry about. But the weird fascination of it clings to our memory.

Then on Easter Sunday, we learned that every one who goes out early in the morning, doesn't go carefully. With a friend, we drove in our ancient vehicle to early communion, and some one put such a dent in our fender that we've decided it is the car's one foot, and not our own, that is in the grave.

The sun shone in the eastern windows of the Church of the Good Shepherd just as the early service began. It reminded us of stories of the sunny April morning some 1900 years ago when the women who loved Jesus went with the rising of the sun, to look at His body. It was Mary Magdalene who waited longest when the angel told them "He is not here, but is risen." Mary Magdalene to whom Christ had been so wisely and generously kind. Being forgiven much always makes women wish to respond to need—if they are real women.

We understand women much better in the year of our Lord 1932, it seems, than we do the younger generation. No person on earth is worth considering if he or she has no understanding of spiritual values. We wish sometime that we could look into minds and hearts and souls through the eyes that seem so brave and honest and true and could know if they were true as they seemed.

Long ago, Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote in "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," that he believed at the first lie working outward from a woman's heart, she should be gently chloroformed into a better world. It might be the same with all sexes and ages. Lies are to us almost the only unforgivable thing—lies that are deliberate. Friendship is beautiful and there can be no real friendship between women or men or girls and boys if it is not based on truth.

Another beautiful lesson has come to us on Easter morning. A basket of flowers that is a tribute to our feeling for the beautiful, from a "silent reader." Those exquisite spring blossoms and the little card would have started us promising ourself to do those things we should do and leave undone those things we should not do, if we had not been doing that already ever since a recent illness that made us feel the beauty of friendship.

We also learned that even though we have never been driven in any way toward vanity, we can feel mightily flustered at a pretty compliment. Sunday morning, we talked, in a somewhat trembly voice, to a lovely Sunday school class; (we had promised the talk a year ago). And when it was over, every one was kind. One little lady came up to introduce herself and express appreciation and when she had done so, asked, "Do people ever remind you of flowers?" "Oh often," we told her. "Well," she said, "you made me think today of a lovely sweet pea." And how we were puffed up, though we know our family will laugh at our pride. However, their laughter is tender.

Members of the Highland Heights Christian Woman's council will meet in separate divisions Monday as follows: No. 1, at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Edgar Weshunt, 2205 Buchanan; No. 2, at 10 a. m. with Mrs. J. W. Bradley, 1622 Eleventh St.; No. 3, at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. P. C. Brashear, 1642 McGregor; No. 4, at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Earl F. Rees.

Today's Pattern

MAKE THIS MODEL AT HOME
Bows Are Very Smart
Pattern 2303
Step-by-Step Instruction Diagrams Given With This Pattern
By ANNE ADAMS

A most becoming neckline with the new square effect has a smart scarf collar that pulls through slashes in the bodice, forming a pert bow. It is the very last word in fashion. The sleeves, too, are lovely, and may be worn above or below the elbow as sketched. Elastic holds them in place. This model is charming in printed flat or sheer crepe, with contrasting trimming.

Pattern 2303 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch fabric, ⅞ yard 39-inch contrasting, or 1⅞ yards of ribbon.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted. Address all mail and orders to Pattern Department, RECORD NEWS, Wichita Falls, Texas.

On account of the large number of orders being received, 10 days time will be required in filling orders.

Sunday School Children Given Easter Parties

Junior departments of various churches spent exciting afternoons Saturday in Easter egg hunts. Mrs. Horrace Robbins was hostess to members of her junior department of the First Methodist Sunday school with Mesdames Ben Howle, B. D. Brooks, Crosby and Miss Alice Marrs, assisting.

The children took their baskets and after egg hunt, were served ice cream cones and candy rabbits.

The group included Billy Trickett, Amy Lee Hayslip, J. W. Hines Jr., Helen Mayne Cummins, Mary Cummins, Marion Bullington, Jacqueline Cocke, Clair E. Cocke, Marion Cocke, Sue Ann Wallace, Mary Lee Fox, Douglas Brooks, Helen Maucine, Margaret Bridwell, Virginia Henry, Marilyn Mann, Bobbie Joe Crosby, Sue Ann Thomas, Hallie DeShong, Malcolm Carpenter, Steve Howle, Benjamin Howle, W. C. Hamilton Jr., Rose Mary Friend, Larry Gray and Edwin Thomas.

Episcopal Party

Members of the primary department of the Church of the Good Shepherd were entertained by their teachers at the home of Mrs. Fred Gates, Avondale and Harrison, Saturday afternoon. The beautiful grounds furnished a plendid hiding place for eggs and 57 children from the department were happy in finding them.

Mrs. James H. Allison, superintendent of the primary department, and all her teachers were assistant hostesses in the afternoon and a number of mothers were present with the children.

Don't Practice in Public, Says E. Post

By EMILY POST

Don't Practice in Public

Recently I said, practice to be perfect by all means, but don't practice in public. A remark that is evidently clear to no one but myself! So let me explain the idea I had in mind, but expressed so incompletely. I meant that all studying and practice should be classified with dressing or housework, something done in preparation, something to which one gives one's attention when one is alone but which is put aside in company or in public.

You shouldn't brush your teeth or comb your hair or manicure your nails at table or in a drawing room or sitting in the theater. If you must comb your hair, go and comb it in a dressing room. And in the same way, say whatever you are learning, over and over to yourself or to a member of your family willing to hear you. But practicing speech in public is almost as unappealing as hair combing in public. Not really unattractive like combing, but it expresses an unalluring idea.

"How may one be always natural and at the same time make an effort to improve?" is the question of a letter on my desk at this moment.

Answer—By doing just what I have said: Read and study and practice in order to cultivate your mind, your taste, your speech, but don't show off that which you have learned, and don't practice that which you have not yet learned, for any supposed benefit to strangers. The reason being that, whatever you know or do thoroughly well becomes part of your spontaneous thought or action. That which you have to stop and think about, in some strange telepathetic way, communicates an impression of bad machinery, venere, something that doesn't go, or that isn't right, or that isn't real. On the other hand, that which we know thoroughly is assimilated by our personalities very much as food is assimilated by our bodies.

Mrs. W. M. Newman Honoree at Party

Mesdames J. O. Bradshaw, W. A. Wilkes and Winnie Biggerstaff were joint hostesses Saturday evening at Mrs. Bradshaw's home on Kemp boulevard to Mrs. W. M. Newman in a surprise birthday party.

The dining table, where a number of beautiful gifts were prepared had as a pretty background, the Easter motif.

Dainty refreshments were served to Mesdames Ralph Dick, T. B. Smith, T. M. Strawn, H. M. Roberts, L. T. Lane, Walter Cocke, Leora Roberson, C. W. Froman, the honoree, Mrs. Newman and the hostesses, Mesdames Bradshaw, Wilkes and Biggerstaff.

Miss Grace Morse of 1614 Eleventh street, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at a local hospital Saturday, is reported to be improving.

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Gives Interesting Program

A clever poem by William Allen Butler, a short biographical sketch by George Sand, an interesting group of maxims written by Theognis and a bok review were included in the program for the regular meeting of the Texas Kappa chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the Kemp hotel last week-end.

"Nothing to Wear," Butler's short satirical poem on women's love for clothes and her eternal wail, "I've simply nothing to wear," was read by Miss Hazel Hill The life of the brilliant French woman dramatist who claimed Chopin for a lover, was reviewed by Miss Louise Roberson, after which a group of maxims, which suggest much that is considered very modern in thought but which were written by Theognis in 540 B. C., were read and commented upon by Miss Anne Edwards.

Following these numbers, which are included in the regular course of study set down by the national organization, Miss Mary Huffines reviewed Dr. Logan Clendening's latest book, "Care and Feeding of Adults," stressing the points which were of special interest to her audience.

Those present were Misses Ora Watts, Wanda Williams, Agnes Blackmon, Anne Edwards, Mary Huffines, Lucy Long, Lulubel Thomas, Hazel Hill, Gene Strickland, Faye Hunn, Emma Wall and Maurene Leach.

Abilene Revokes Fines When City 'Found Guilty'

ABILENE, Texas, March 27. (AP)—City officials of Abilene are convinced, and have so ruled, that law enforcement, like charity, begins at home.

The ruling by the commission came when the body authorized and instructed officers to revoke fines assessed in corporation court against individuals charged with violation of the city fire ordinance by the use within fire limits of rubber hose connections for gas stoves instead of metal as required by city statute.

Two men had been convicted of the charge, and a third case passed, when it developed that rubber hose connections were in use at fire station No. 1. An impression that the station was out of the fire limit was found to be wrong, and immediate connection of the gas lines in conformance with the law was ordered.

Rats and Cats Give Grief To Postoffice Officials

SAN ANTONIO, March 27. (AP)—Despite their half-starved condition, the San Antonio postoffice cats fell down on their duty.

Assistant Postmaster J. W. Fuller, who recently begged that homes be provided for various and sundry cats residing in the postoffice, has revealed that the building is overrun with big, fat rats.

The rats, Fuller explains, are larger, in many instances, than the cats, and the rodents defied the felines.

And so Fuller has had to call in the services of a professional Pied Piper to exterminate the rats, after appealing to the public to care for the scrawny cats.

'Back to Mexico' Drive Expected to Gain Ground

LAREDO, Texas, March 27. (AP)—Thousands of destitute Mexican nationals out of employment in Michigan, Indiana, Pennsylvania and other states are being sent to the border by charitable organizations of the states. They are provided with free railway transportation to various parts of Mexico by the Mexican goverament.

It is expected that the "back to Mexico" movement will establish a high record during the spring and summer of 1932.

Theft of Official Seal Holds Up Court Business

SAN ANTONIO, March 27. (AP)—Howard Dickens, clerk of county court at law No. 2, recently had to buy back the court seal before the day's business could be started. He discovered upon his arrival at the office that the seal had been pilfered. He immediately telephoned an engraver to prepare another. The engraver advised Dickens he had purchased the old seal for 15 cents and would return it for that price. Sheriff Albert Hausser is investigating.

State Weddings

JENNINGS-REID

Special to The Record News

MUNDAY, Texas, March 27.—Miss Billie Reid of Munday and Cecil Jennings of Fort Worth were married here Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Burton, intimate friends of the bride.

The couple left immediately for Wichita Falls for a brief honeymoon. They will make their home in Fort Worth after Mr. Jennings has finished with business which has held him here for several months.

Miss Reid was attended by Miss Helen Houser as bridesmaid. Joe Lynn Mayes, son of the mayor here, was best man. Rev. J. H. Crowe of the Methodist church, performed the ceremony.

Bill Goes to Congress For Building Program

WASHINGTON, March 27. (US)—Construction of 106 federal buildings in New York state, at a cost of $21,275,000, is provided in an amendment which Senator Wagner, Democrat of New York will offer tomorrow to the treasury and post-office supply bill.

These buildings constitute part of the public buildings program authorized by congress in 1926. Altogether 163 projects were allocated to New York state.

Under the amendment New York City would be allocated $6,350,000 for the federal office building, and $120,000 for a quarantine station.

Wagner also has in the senate a bill calling for $1,100,000,000 for general federal construction throughout the country based on authorizations already made but for which no money has been appropriated.

New School at Dumas Vacant by Litigation

DUMAS, Texas, March 27. (AP)—Dumas has a new $150,000 school building completed and equipped but—unoccupied.

And unless pending litigation is in some way forestalled it may be many months before the pupils of this independent school district will be able to attend school in the new modern structure.

The Underhill Construction company completed work on the school early in February, but was unable to collect the final estimate. Now the construction company has filed suit against the school board for the final amount of money due, which approximates $25,000. The board in turn will enter suit against the bond company.

Minor Thefts Reported To Officers Sunday

One Holliday youth arrested at Archer City Sunday afternoon was brought to Wichita Falls for questioning Sunday night in connection with automobile license plates found in his possession, and believed taken from a car registered here.

Three local boys were released by officers Sunday night after an automobile tire and rim, stolen from the Van Lumber company, was returned. The missing property was recovered after having been buried on the banks of the Wichita river northeast of the city.

Mrs. E. E. Scannell, 3206 Peckham, told police Sunday a white straw hat, valued at $10, was missing from her residence. Mrs. George Anderson, 1407 Twenty-fourth, reported loss of a child's coat, valued at $15. The coat was taken from 1009 Broad, police reports said.

Knights Templar Hear Talk By Masonic Leader

Easter day services of Wichita Falls Commandery No. 59, Knights Templar, were held at the Masonic temple Sunday afternoon with Frank I. Buckingham of Kansas City as the featured speaker. Special music for the occasion was presented under direction of Mrs. Hermoine S. Vaughan.

The Knights Templar attended in full regalia and Commander John A. Elder presided at the service. "While Masonry welcomes men of all religions to its fold, the Knights Templar is a branch of Masonry professing the Christian religion only and therefore celebrating church holidays with proper ceremonies," Commander Elder said.

Buckingham Speaks

"Russia will never undertake an open invasion of the United States because their work is done in secret by Communists posing as citizens, who use propaganda or the dynamite bomb with equal facility, as the occasion demands," Mr. Buckingham, a 33rd degree Mason, told the assembled knights.

The speaker branded the Japanese-Chinese trouble as a situation of Communist engineering. "Over 30 million active Chinese communists hope to keep the fighting going until the eastern nations are so weakened that it will be easy for Russia to take control without actual warfare," Mr. Buckingham stated.

In reviewing a recent tour of Europe, Mr. Buckingham declared the luckiest man in the world is the one who is born in America. "No one who has not seen conditions in Europe can appreciate how very fortunate we are here in the United States regardless of economic conditions or anything else that may be bothering us."

Picture of Communism

Mr. Buckingham related how the body of Lenin lies visible, sealed in a glass case in Moscow, and carved on the four sides of the tomb are the words, "World Revolution Is the Goal." "It is the goal of the Soviets to destroy all religion, establish the dominance of the Communists over the entire world with Moscow as the capital, and to promote marriage between races," the speaker continued.

Al Ellis, Knight Templar and 32nd degree Mason, K. C. C. H., introduced the speaker as a true American devoting his time to the task of educating the youth of Aemirca to an appreciation of their own government and to make them better citizens.

The musical program included: Chorus, "Oh, Morn of Beauty (Sibelius); from the symphonic poem, "Finlandia," high school mixed chorus.

Mixed quartet, "Serve the Lord in Youth" (Hall), Bob Carey, Ruth Tucker, Nell Ground and George Napier.

Chorus, "Praise Ye the Father" (Gounod), high school mixed chorus.

Violin solo, "Killarney" (Balfe), Lorraine Mathis.

Girls' trio, "Grateful, O Lord, Am I" (Roma), Evelyn Franklin, Elta Rose Franklin and Stella Evans.

FOR HUNTER

10,000 Heard Address Of Wichitan at Mineola, Says Marlow

J. B. Marlow, enthusiastic booster of the gubernatorial candidacy of Tom F. Hunter, returned to his Wichita Falls home Sunday from Mineola, in East Texas, where Hunter officially opened his campaign in an address Saturday afternoon.

"What was claimed to be a record crowd of about 10,000 people heard Hunter make his address," said Mr. Marlow. "Residents said it was the biggest crowd ever assembled in Mineola. Hunter made a stirring speech, and undoubtedly will carry Wood county, which heretofore has been one of the staunchest Ferguson counties in Texas."

Mr. Marlow was with a party of Wichitans on the East Texas trip.

47 Members Enrolled At First Methodist

The largest evening attendance within 12 months at the First Methodist church was reported Sunday night for the Easter cantata, "Daughter of Jairus" by John Stainer. The regular sermon in the series for young men, "The Young Man and Marriage," was postponed until April 24, Dr. S. S. McKenney announced.

A total of 47 persons were received into the church membership Sunday with 45 received at the regular morning service, when the pastor offered the sermon, "Our Immortal Hope."

Five-Year-Old Child Travels Alone by Air

DALLAS, March 27. (AP)—Just tall enough to reach the ticket window, a winsome 5-year-old miss thumped on the counter to call the clerk at the Love Field airport here this afternoon and said, "A ticket to Houston, please."

The week-end air traveler was Mary Jo, daughter of former Mayor J. Austin Barnes of Beaumont. She departed on the afternoon plane. Airport executives said she was their youngest unescorted passenger so far. She had been visiting at Cleburne.

Burkburnett Man Out-Smarts Robber

A. L. Gregg of Burkburnett outsmarted and out-gained a masked bandit Saturday night, firing at the man as he left his filling station near Burkburnett on the Wichita Falls road.

When the masked bandit entered the filling station with gun in hand demanding his money, Mr. Gregg delivered a short oration on what he thought of hijackers in general and one bandit in particular. The man grew visibly nervous and ran to a car parked about two blocks down the road without replying.

Mr. Gregg fired once at the fleeing man and would have fired more but old cartridges in his gun failed him, he told police here in reporting the episode.

The bandit was described as 5 feet, 8 inches tall, about 24 years of age attired in worn clothing and a gray overcoat.

Many Noted Specialists To Attend Dallas Clinic

DALLAS, March 27. (UP)—The latest theories and discoveries in medicine will be on parade here for a week opening Monday at the spring clinical conference of the Dallas Southern Clinical society.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 27.—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray's remark anent the North Dakota primaries, that one swallow does not make a summer, found a quick echo from the Roosevelt ranks.

KIRKE SIMPSON

Supporters of the New Yorker for the Democratic nomination found it advisable to temper their rejoicing over his North Dakota victory with something better tuned to the ears of conservative voters in other sections than the construction put upon the North Dakota results might have been.

Particularly when the National Popular Government league leaped into the pre-convention fray with a declaration that the "power interests" were getting busy about naming the 1932 nominees.

Backed by the signatures of 37 varieties of congressional liberals of both parties—or all three, if you take in the two farmer-laborites—the league affirmed that power would be a prime issue of the coming campaign.

To round that out it reviewed the records on power of both Republican and Democratic figures in the presidential race. Then it rated Roosevelt as in a class by himself on that score.

Dodging a Boomerang

Now that was all well enough for the Roosevelts so long as only power issue states were to be considered.

But that head-of-the-class rating, coupled with the Roosevelt showing in North Dakota with its notable political trend toward extreme views, might easily have a boomerang effect on his candidacy in states just as politically conservative as North Dakota is non-conservative.

Something had to be done about that in the Roosevelt camp. It was.

An observant eye would have noted that in the self-same newspaper issues that reported the league's handout, there was also a handout from Roosevelt headquarters in New York City.

It was in the form of a statement by William H. Woodin, who is president of the American Car and Foundry company, chairman of the board of the American Locomotive company and a federal reserve bank director. Could you ask for a more conservative setting than that?

Here seemed to be a voice from the inner circles of big business itself, where it might be thought North Dakota's endorsement and the league's finding as to his power views would not enhance Roosevelt prestige. What did it say?

Scenting "Propaganda"

Well, Mr. Woodin had scented a "propaganda"...to instill the fear "that the governor's (Roosevelt) attitude and policies are inimical to big business, so called." That, "to one who knows Roosevelt as I know him," Mr. Woodin added, was just absurd unless by big business, you meant bad business.

More than that, Mr. Woodin assured his audience, presumably of big business men, that Roosevelt could be relied upon not to approach the power problem itself with any inclination to "destroy" the work of private industry, but only to safeguard public interest.

Which just goes to show that the Roosevelt set-up is alert and active. It looks too pat to be just coincidence.

Why Poets Starve

A PICK and shovel worker named Pascal D'Angelo died in New York the other day. That wouldn't really be worth commenting on if it weren't for the fact that several years ago he made a name for himself as a poet.

Some of his poems were published in various high-grade magazines; later they were brought out in book form. But he never made much money on them, and at his death his publishers reported that royalties amounting to just $4.60 were due him.

That, of course, is traditional. Poets are supposed to starve in garrets and to die poor; and D'Angelo himself once wrote:

"What was one little starvation more or less in a man's life, especially that of a self-appointed poet? Within a few years we would be gone, so why not sing our songs in the meanwhile?"

That, probably, expresses the philosophy of all poets of all times. And it helps, too, to clear up the mistake we ordinarily make in thinking of poets as light-hearted songsters, who pour out melody like so many birds on a leafy branch.

To be a poet is to be unhappy. If poets weren't painfully discontented with the lives they have to lead they wouldn't be poets. They see the world as a queer, oppressive place—so much so that, like this Italian pick and shovel man, a little thing like going hungry doesn't especially matter. Since everything else is wrong, all that counts is writing verses.

But poets have this advantage: If they can't possibly get along with the world as it is, they can see with great clarity the world that ought to be; and by putting that world in their songs, they can give it a touch of reality—primarily for themselves, but also, at second hand, for the rest of us.

So they go along, writing poems, starving in chilly attics, and generally stubbing their toes over obstacles the rest of us never even see. They make the world brighter for the rest of us—but they pay for it with their hearts' blood.

Gangsters and the "400"

IF YOU haven't a gangster or two on your calling list you simply aren't one of the best people these days.

Writing in the New York World-Telegram, Helen Worden recently pointed out that metropolitan high society has been cultivating underworld leaders in a big way of late.

Men whose names are notorious throughout the United States have entree into some of the nation's most exclusive homes. Rum-runners, murderers, heads of "vice syndicates"—which is probably the world's dirtiest business—gamblers, fixers, rogues of all varieties and degrees, have got on more or less intimate terms with some of the people who are supposed to be the finest flower of American civilization.

Miss Worden remarks that it causes little comment in New York to see a member of the "400" in company with a gangster. Some gangsters, in fact, have their homes on Park avenue, supposedly the toniest street in the country.

All of this casts a pretty revealing light on the standards and values current in high society.

A wealthy leisure class, in any civilization, justifies its existence—like everything else in this world—by its works. It exists by virtue of the fact that a great many people live in poverty and want. If it goves society compensating factors in return, a rough sort of balance is struck; if not, some sort of readjustment is inevitable.

The American leisure class, at best, has never given a return equal to that of leisure classes in European countries. In the arts, in statesmanship, in industrial leadership it has been painfully sterile. A clan like the Adams family is the exception where it ought to be the rule.

This class today seems to be bent on giving a new demonstration of its utter uselessness, its complete lack of a social conscience. Its leaders ought to remember that sooner or later human society has a way of abolishing things which serve no good purpose.

No Kidnaping Films

THE Hays moving picture office in Hollywood, according to the magazine Variety, has warned all producers to steer clear of films with a kidnaping motif. It points out that such films—which might be expected to appear in quantity, following the Lindbergh case—would probably implant wrong ideas in certain heads. Hence we shall get none of them.

Here is one case where the movies' "dictatorship" is acting wisely. Less cheering are reports from New York that we are to get a flock of mystery stories centering about kidnaping.

Apart from any other considerations, such books will simply represent a new way of cashing in on a pitiful tragedy. Good taste alone ought to keep them off the market.

SO THEY SAY!

Because of their increasing efficiency, fewer farmers may be needed to feed the nation. Nevertheless, the basic industry of agriculture will prosper equally with railroads, commerce and manufactured products.—Herbert D. Allman, president, National Farm school.

If the bootleggers and panderers and fixers were abolished they would be missed because they perform a social function for which there is a public demand by the respectable members of our communities.—Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner of Cleveland.

It is my belief that the motion picture industry stands on the threshold of a financial rejuvenation and that the next few months will bring a definite improvement to the industry.—Samuel Goldwyn, movie magnate.

Wanderlust

I saw it in the corner
Of a sweating cobbler's eye,
As he watched a glooming man bird
Streak across the open sky.

I saw it in the rapture
Of a city clerk today;
When an ocean-going liner,
Ploughed a furrow through the bay.

I saw it in the wistful
Glance a crate of chickens drew
From a little chorus lady
Walking Seventh avenue.

—GEORGE OLSON.

Gag

You've probably heard about the blotto motorist who was doing 90 along a road when his car kissed a telegraph pole, embracing it in the affectionate manner. The pole, wires and everything tumbled down about him.

As rescuers tried to lift his semi-conscious form out of the wreckage he feebly plucked at the wires and hiccoughed: "Thank gawd, I'm all right—they've given me a harp!"

Merciless Truth

This seems to be the Suicide Age, and Ruby Zwerling, of the Loew's State orchestra crew, argues that only the rich can afford guns and poison—the poor must starve to death.

Heheheh

And Sid Parry says that things are picking up, now that the cigar stores are again giving away coupons.

He intends saving them until he can get a razor—so he can cut his throat.

In Fewer Words

George M. Cohan, who will shortly appear in the first of his spring plays, "Confidential Service," was running through the manuscript, when a player asked him what he thought was the matter with the country.

"It needs a rehearsal," snapped George.

Add Sillies

Norman Frescott, now clowning at the Hollywood Theatre with Mr. Holtz, offers the silly about the Russian who was being marched to his execution by a firing squad on a rainy dawning.

"What beasts you Bolsheviks are," groaned the condemned one, "to march me through a storm like this!"

"Look who's makin' cracks!" snapped one of the squad. "We gotta march back!"

Ham and Cheese

"Henry Hull, speaking for the actors," says The Times, "assailed the wisecrack."

The Hull you say!

Said Teddy Roosevelt

It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly, who errs and comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; who does actually strive to do the deed; who knows the great enthusiasm, the great devotions, spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement; and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.

Of Course

And Frank Mullahey sums it up this way: Acting is like scratching a critic's back. The critic can't do it himself, but he knows where it itches.

I Know the Show!

Then there's the one (take it from Bing Crosby) about the show which was so bad—that after 15 minutes of it a guy went up to the box office and demanded that his seat be changed to one behind a post!

Betrayal

You will forget my small allures:
Brown shoulders . . . tilted head . . .
My hand in darkness touching yours.
The silly vows we said.

Each in itself a trifling thing,
Like wild grape in the rain—
This fragrance past remembering
Till mad May comes again.

You will forget. And, after all,
Why not? — But grant me this:
On quiet moon-washed nights recall
How tender was my kiss. —M. M.

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Add similes: R. V. Remen's Good-looking as three meals a day . . . Optimistic as a radio listener . . . Sarcastic as a hidden meaning . . . Pliable as heartstrings . . . Downtrodden as the path to hell . . . Empty as desire—and Devoted as a bad habit.

The Hoeywood Manner

According to James Quirk, the Photoplay editor, Don Marquis, a former New York columnist, knows nothing about the Spanish language and comparatively little about Spain. Yet he was selected to write the dialogue for "Marcheta," a flicker about Madrid.

On the other hand, Robert Presnell is at the same studio. He speaks Spanish like a native, has been in Spain and is familiar with the customs of the people. He has never been on a New York newspaper.

But he has been assigned to prepare a scenario about a columnist!

As If We Didn't Know

When Marquis chucked his colyuming career he said that he did it because his column kept reminding him of a grave 23 inches deep.

Observation

Nancy Carroll says that years ago there were all sorts of endings to the shows. The villian was shot, the son returned home and lifted the mortgage, Little Eva kicked the bucket, a bugle sounded and the militia arrived, or the lovely young heroine feel into the arms of the handsome hero.

Now there appears to be but one fitting ending. It is to have the girls in the chorus waving ta-ta—to what's left of the audience.

Quitoo, Quitoo

And Judge Shuttleworth reminds us that the president of today is the postage stamp of tomorrow.

Wisconsin plans a state fire control system for its forests that will have as its bases 103 observation towers.

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

THE MARRYING SPECIALIST—In 1863 Rainilaiarivony, described as a man of great sagacity and ability, was prime minister and commander of the armed forces of Madagascar, a huge island in the Indian ocean. In that year King Radama II was murdered and succeeded by his widow, Queen Rasoaherina, on the throne of the island. Raini, who was already married and the father of many children, promptly married the queen, adding the title of prince consort to the numerous dignitaries he was holding. Eventually the position of prime minister and royal consort must have become quite an obsession with him, for after the death of the queen he lost no time in marrying her successor, Queen Ranavalona II (1868¾). And again, when Ranavalona II died in 1883, he promptly entered into matrimony with her successor, Queen Ranavalona III. The latter was deposed by the French and deported to Algiers in 1897, thus ending the independence of Madagascar.

Raini, the perpetual prince consort, was born three years after the death of his mother's first husband. Throughout its independent existence Madagascar was a matriarchy and its laws made the first husband of a woman the father of all children born to her, regardless of the time of his death and her remarriage.

Wanted—Love! The Story of an Unemployed Girl

By Ethelda Bedford, Author of "Broadway Bride"

READ THIS FIRST

Lillian Abbott, 18-year-old sub-deb, raised in severe New England atmosphere decides she wants a career and answers an ad in a New York paper calling for girls to be trained for the movies. She secures a personal interview with Thomas Blane, head of the movie school company, at her home in Salem, Mass., and arranges to go with him to New York without notifying her parents and after drawing her savings, $2,000, from the bank. They arrive in New York and Blane takes her to an obscure hotel and enters her room with her.

Lillian removes her coat, hat and gloves, and Blane, seeing a diamond on her finger, takes it for safe keeping.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER VIII

"Say—what a girl. You haven't opened up your present, yet," said Blane, reaching for the box of flowers he had thrown on the bed when they first came into the hotel room.

"Oh," said Lillian, "I'm sorry. I—I guess I forgot."

"Forgot about my first present to you! Goodness, what a girl you are!"

She began untying the red cord about the pasteboard box. Then she dug down under the green waxed paper and uncovered a cluster of yellow roses.

There were only six roses, but there was ever so much fern. And the way the florist had arranged the bouquet made it seem quite large.

Lillian said: "And I love yellow roses, too!"

"I thought you would. I always think a brunet girl ought to have yellow roses. That is—a pretty girl."

"Weren't you nice to remember them, though."

She picked them up and looked about the room for a vase. There was none.

But on the little night table there was a large glass water pitcher. She never would have thought of putting flowers in a water pitcher, but Blane did.

"Here," he said, returning, "is just the thing. How 'bout it?"

Lillian thought it was a good idea and she plunged the flowers and fern into the pitcher. It was so filled with water that the stems of the fern and blossoms made it run over. Water spattered over the carpet and on one of Lillian's white gloves which still lay on the floor.

"Aw, well," said Blane, bringing a bath towel from the other room and blotting up the water and then wiping off the bottom of the dripping pitcher. "Don't worry about a little thing like that."

He picked up her spattered glove. "I'll buy you another pair, hear?" he said, flinging the glove on the bureau.

Lillian placed the pitcher of flowers on the bureau. "They are beautiful, Blane. Thank you ever so much."

"You're beautiful. When I first saw your picture I said: 'Blane, there's a girl after your own heart.'"

Lillian smiled.

"And, when I saw you in person, why I said: 'Blane, if you don't be careful you're going to fall in love with that baby.'"

He knew by the way Lillian's eyes sparkled when he said that that it would not be at all unpleasant if he should—

It was the first time he had said anything about falling in love.

What it would be like to have a man of the world in love with you? Lillian could not let her eyes meet Blane just then. He might read her thoughts.

It must be very different, from having a college boy in love with you.

That meant going around to dances and football games and teas. It meant getting corsages. It meant wearing his fraternity pin. And giving him first chance at your dance program. It meant getting letters about three times a week—and having thrilling little things to tell about him to your girl chum.

It also meant having your father and your aunts asking guarded little questions about him—to determine whether there was anything serious in his mind . . . was there any thought of marriage—yet.

And if he were of a sufficiently historical family, and if his family had somehow kept some of the old property, etc. . . . why, you could tell that your father listened more intently to what you said about him.

But, being in love with a man of the world . . . a man like Blane.

What would that be like? Lillian wondered.

She had never kissed a man with a mustache. He would expect to kiss her . . . were he in love with her. She could not imagine what kissing Thomas Blane would be like . . . certainly nothing else that ever had happened to her . . . the thought of that fine light mustache pressed against her lips made her tingle.

"What are you thinking about, lovely thing?" Blane asked, catching her arm just above the elbow and standing near her.

"Oh . . . nothing," she said flushing. She backed away from him, and dropped down on a chair. "Why don't we sit down?"

"All right," he said, and he sat on the side of the bed.

"There's another chair. Here," she said, "take this one." She pulled a chair to the side of the bed.

"No, this is all right. More comfortable. Why don't you sit over here with me?"

Lillian said: "I'd rather sit here, I think."

Did he really think she would sit on the bed beside him? Or, was he just pretending he thought she would. Well, perhaps it was all right, but to Lillian it seemed a breach in etiquette, sitting on the bed with a man when there were chairs right there.

"Let's talk about—about my career," Lillian said, after a little awkward pause.

"Why, yes—but, say, there's time enough for that sort of thing. The most important thing now is—you're here in New York! Isn't that something!"

"It's—it's too wonderful to believe, Blane—I'm terribly thrilled over it!"

"Are you? How thrilled are you, baby? Tell Blane."

"Oh—I can't tell you how delighted I am. To think—I've really left home. At last!"

"You ought to be glad. We ought to do a little celebrating. That's what we ought to do!"

He got up from the bed and took two glasses from the table and filled them half full of water.

"Listen—now, don't you say you don't want a little drink, you hear!"

He poured some liquor from his hip flask into both of the glasses. Then he passed one to her.

"Well, I won't tell you—but I won't drink this, either," she said. But she smiled.

"Gonna keep on being a New England prude, eh?" said Blane, displeasure in his eyes.

"Don't call me that, Blane—why at least I've come away from there—from New England."

"Yeah—but you might as well have stayed. If you are going to keep on being a prude. Won't take a drink . . . not just a little one."

Lillian laughed and smelled the drink he had fixed.

"I don't even like the way it smells. I know it would make me absolutely ill if I tasted it."

"Not game to try it?"

"I'm game, but—please don't insist, Blane."

He didn't say anything, but lifted his glass and emptied half of it before he said: "All right. But—you'll change. See, if you don't."

It was now late afternoon. The electric signs about the narrow street were beginning to flicker in many colors. Lillian went to the window and looked out across roof tops and down into the canyon at the bottom of which was a caravan of automobiles.

When she turned Blane was close beside her. It was as if he started when she turned. Then he held out his arms—

CHAPTER IX

A radio was playing. The tune was right in that very room. It had been turned on by clicking a little switch on the wall—just as you would the electric light switch.

Blane had turned it on . . . and it played very softly.

It was a familiar tune. A waltz.

Blane held out his arms to Lillian. At first when she turned and saw him beside her with his arms open he frightened her. She had been dreaming out of the window . . . it was the first time she ever had seen the electrics come to life in New York . . . seen twilight become Manhattan sunlight.

At first she backed away from him—then she realized he wanted her to dance.

Blane noticed that there was a sort of melting tenderness in her blue-black eyes.

Lillian felt a thrill run through her body like a lightning bolt when he held her in his arms and swayed to the easy rhythm.

He found her slender waist. His long arm enwrapped it. They swayed together in the twilight of the room.

Lillian was a little maddened with the romantic adventure.

Here she was in the arms of the most fascinating man she ever had known. Well, she really did not know him. She only had seen him for the first time less than 24 hours ago . . .

But now she was in h[illegible] arms . . . gliding to the loveliest tuns . . . He held her close, tenderly. His face was pressed against her hair.

She liked the warmness of him. He was so tall, so big. He was so sophisticated. He was so suave. He was all the things that she thought a man should be. He was a man of the world.

An appealing odor, a blend of tobacco and liquor and of tweed. Always, she thought, when she thought of tobacco, liquor and tweed she would think of Thomas Blane—perhaps long for him.

It was the first time Lillian had thought of life beyond Thomas Blane. Since she had seen him the day before he had become so much a part of her very existence.

She sighed.

His arm closed about her a little more. The radio played a little faster . . . it changed from the slow dreamy waltz to a peppy tune . . . some schreechy girl started singing.

Blane took his arms from around her and said: "My God!"

He swayed a little when he went over to the radio switch and clicked it off.

Lillian's face burned. The thrill of the dance burned her face . . . made her hair a mass of soft wire, which clung about her fingers as she turned to the bureau to pat it in place with her trembling hands.

Her eyes were very bright. They were filled with something Lillian

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Did you ever write a letter to Frederic J. Haskin? You can ask him any question of fact and get the answer in a personal letter. Here is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Address Frederic J. Haskin, Director, the Record News Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What does the word Topeka mean?—V. M. S.

A.—It is an Omaha word for the so-called Indian potato.

Q.—What does the German word, von, mean as in Von Zel?—J. Y.

A.—In German surnames, it means "of."

Q.—What does D. O. M. stand for?—T. D.

A.—It stands for Deo Optimo Maximo, meaning to God, the Best, the Greatest.

Q.—Is the Arc de Triomphe in Paris the largest triumphal arch in the world?—L. L.

A.—It is. This arch is 147 feet high and 149 feet wide.

Q.—How much has the Jewish population of Palestine increased since the world war?—C. A. O.

A.—In 1914 there were 84,000 Jews; in 1920, 57,900; in 1930, 162,000 estimated.

Q.—What metal has the greatest heat capacity per unit volume?—F. M.

A.—In this respect cast iron is the highest of any common metal. Most metals are roughly the same.

Q.—What is the largest fish caught with rod and reel?—L. D. M.

A.—A Mako shark weighing 2,176 pounds holds the record. It was caught by W. W. Selkirk in South Africa in 1928.

Q.—What was the government revenue from tobacco last year?—J. J. J.

A.—The internal revenue from tobacco for the fiscal year 1931 was $444,276,000.

Q.—Where is the Caruso candle placed?—A. B. W.

A.—The memorial candle is in the Church of Our Lady in Pompeii, at Pompeii, Italy, the last church in which Caruso worshipped. It is the largest in the world and cost $3,700.

Q.—What piece of music is most often requested as a concert number?—H. H.

A.—Hans Hanke, concert pianist, says that it has been his experience that the most requests are made for Liszt's Liebestraum.

Q.—How long is a letter held in an effort to deliver it before it is returned to the sender?—F. C. G.

A.—The postoffice department says that it is required to hold a letter 30 days that does not have a specified time stated in which the letter is to be returned.

Q.—What hospital is the largest general hospital in the world?—M. M.

A.—The Cook County hospital of Chicago is the largest general hospital. There are many hospitals for nervous and mental patients which are larger.

Q.—What does the expression, "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen" mean?—E. J. N.

A.—It may be interpreted as meaning that George Washington was victorious in war, was first to head the new government, and was ranked as the most loved by his compatriots.

Q.—What is meant by the slang term, a blurb?—D. R. E.

A.—The term is often applied to a brief summary or a write-up praising a book that has just been issued. Blurbs are often used as announcements, and printed on the jacket of the new publication. The word is also used of a similar editorial summary introducing a magazine story.

Q.—Was the Luger pistol German or Belgian?—J. E. F.

A.—The Luger automatic pistol is one of the standard pistols of the world and is the German military automatic pistol. The original makers were the Deutsche Waffen and Munitions Fabriken. During the world war they were made by many other firms in Germany.

Q.—How can newspapers afford to pay cable tolls on columns of news from China and other far-off places? Are the war stories manufactured at home?—W. A. N.

A.—Single newspapers could not afford to pay the huge sums spent in obtaining news from Shanghai, Paris, London, and other distant places. Press associations, serving hundreds of individual newspapers, gather the news at the source and cable it to New York. There, the press association sends duplicates to each newspaper member. A press association with 1,000 newspaper members can thus supply Shanghai dispatches at one one-thousandth of the cost to each paper.

The Record News Offers Its Readers an Official Road Map

A highway map of the entire United States, large enough so that all its markings are easily read, should be carried on every automobile trip of any length, and there is no other map that fills the bill so well as the one now offered readers of the Record News. This map was prepared by the expert cartographers of the American Automobile association and is both accurate and up-to-date. It is twice the size of the usual map and carries a wealth of touring information equivalent to a 24-page booklet. This includes digests of the motor vehicle laws of all states.

A copy of this valuable map will be sent to any address for 15 cents. Use this coupon.

Mucous Colitis

Are you over 30? Live in the city? Do you sit more than you stand? Are you a brain-worker? Are you constipated? If so, you belong to the class where mucous colitis is most commonly found. And, if you are a woman, you are about three times as likely to develop this as though you were a man. Mucous colitis is found widely in cities and most often develops among those who are nervous and constipated and with those of educated type. It frequently chooses those in the best classes of society for its victims.

The disease takes its name from a discharge of mucus from the mucous membrane lining the colon. Usually the first indication of the trouble is the finding of shreds of soft, white, slimy mucus in the movements. The mucus appears for a time and then occurs a period when the stool is normal. If no treatment is used, the disorder may progress to the point where large casts resembling skin or worms are passed, these casts in some cases being very long.

Other Symptoms

The mucus secretion may remain the only symptom but it is common for other symptoms to be present such as soreness of the colon which is characterized by extreme tenderness, not always present, but noticeable at the height of the attacks. The entire colon may become so sore that the patient will be able to point out a good outline of the large intestine just by running his finger over the parts which hurt. Jarring due to bumpy rides, long walks or hard exercise makes the pain worse. Ordinarily the patient is constipated and has been for years, or he may have diarrhea or these may alternate. Piles are frequent.

Digestive disturbances may be prominent, as gas, nausea, vomiting, poor appetite, etc. In practically every case the patient is severely prolapsed. Weakness and loss in weight may follow.

Mucous colitis is most often found among those who are nervous, high-strung and hyper-sensitive, these patients possessing unstable nervous systems. In some cases the nerves of the whole body are affected, in others the nervous instability is restricted to the nerves governing and regulating the intestines.

Evidence supporting the theory that mucous colitis follows nervous upsets is found in the undoubted fact that any kind of nervous stress or emotional storm will immediately cause the colitis to become worse. One side of the nervous condition shows itself in an intense worry over the finding of mucus in the stools.

The constipation which precedes the colitis is very significant. The toxic wastes which pile up in the colon during such a constipated state are powerful enough to provide the irritating factor which "sets off" the colitis, especially where a tendency to nervous instability already exists. Any enervating factor which further tears down the nerves such as worry, hurry, lack of sleep, strain while working, etc., will aggravate the colitis. So will the taking of powerful purges and cathartics which further irritate the bowel.

In every case you will find where mucous colitis exists, the intestines are irritated more than usual by toxic material. As the condition goes on, a true inflammatory condition of the intestine develops, and the colon exhibits tender, inflamed areas. At this state an organic disease is present and the term colitis, meaning inflammation of the colon, may accurately be used. The next step is ulcerative colitis. At this stage the colon has broken down into ulcers; as these break open and bleed both blood and pus will be found in addition to the mucus.

(Tomorrow's article will be on treatment for colitis.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Shingles or Herpes

Question—Miss Hester F. writes: "Twelve years ago I was troubled with shooting pains along the back of my knee and insteps and the back of the neck. The doctors called it neuritis. About six years ago small lumps containing watery content appeared on the skin where this soreness was. I am told now that the trouble is herpes zoster. I have tried to diet, but don't seem to make much success at it; I use wholewheat bread instead of white and don't eat much meat."

Answer—If you will send me your full name and address, I will send you by mail my article on shingles or herpes which will outline in detail the causes of this disorder. The most important thing to observe is the proper food combinations and it is well to remember that wholewheat products are almost as starchy as white flour products and should, therefore, not be used with acid fruits and even acid dressings should be avoided on vegetable salads until you overcome this condition. Certain electrical treatments such as diathermy and galvanism are often beneficial for bringing about relief.

Finger Severed

Question—Norman writes: "When I was four years old I had the end of my middle finger cut off slightly above the first joint. Could I have one put on?

Answer—When a finger has been chopped off, it is impossible to graft a new one on. Sometimes it is possible to replace a severed tip immediately after it is cut off and have it grow back on, but this is not the case if the joint is completely severed, or if more than a few seconds of time have elapsed.

Gravel Pit Reveals Prehistoric Fossil

Special to The Record News

ELDORADO, Okla., March 27.—Sections of a large tusk of a prehistoric mammal were found one mile west of Eldorado Thursday, March 26, by workers in a gravel pit. The fossil was in a bad state of decomposition but indications were that it was of immense size originally. It was shattered when struck by a plow.

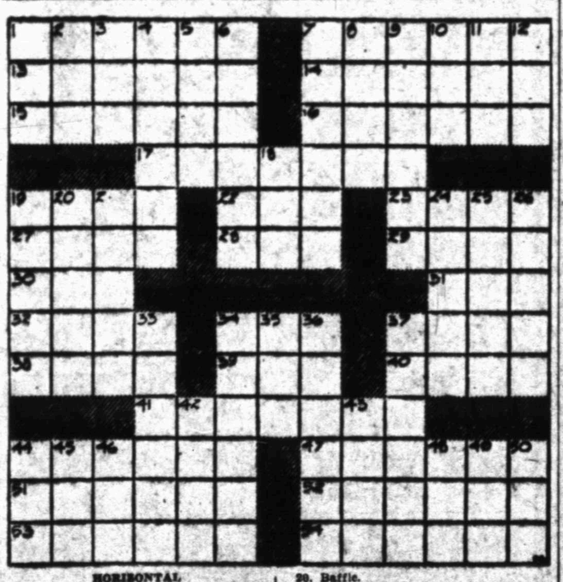

This is the sixth instance of such fossils having been found near Eldorado. About one year ago a tusk nearly nine feet long and about eight inches in diameter at the largest part was unearthed in a gypsum deposit just outside of the corporate limits of Eldorado. Later several large bones including a number of immense teeth were removed from the same deposit by Professor Stovall, geologist of Oklahoma university. He later spent several days here excavating fossil specimens of another huge animal found in a mound four miles northwest of Eldorado.

Prisoners Will Work On Childress Highways

CHILDRESS, Texas, March 27. (AP)—Because of the expressed belief that jail sentences are being sought so the law violators will be fed without having to work, Childress county commissioners have approved working prisoners on the highways.

The commissioners expressed the belief that forcing the prisoners to work would serve as crime deterrent.

SPUDDER ROOKIES DEFEAT SULLIVAN'S GROCERS, 11 TO 0

LOSERS STAGE FIELDING GEM

Anderson's Heave in Second Saves Hoskins

While the regulars who played Texas Christian university here Saturday, took a light workout, a team of Spudder rookies yesterday went into action against the Sullivan's Grocery team of the City league, defeating the local sandlotters 11 to 0.

The game produced some fine pitching by Paul Spencer and John Valsoano of the Spudders and Steve Franklin of the grocers. The Spudders fielded flawlessly, but the grocers, although committing six blunders, staged the fielding sensation of the day in the second inning when Lois Anderson, left fielder, caught Garbark's fly near the boards and with a perfect heave nabbed Sabine, who was on third, at the plate. The double play retired the side, and came at a time when the sacks were thoroughly contaminated, chiefly as the result of the wildness of Flip Hoskins, Sullivan's starting pitcher. Hoskins, after allowing six runs and five hits in three innings, finally had to be shelved in the fourth. Franklin, who went to his rescue, had far better control, and had it not been for the poor support he received he probably would have faired better against his professional enemies.

He had no more than started off the fifth inning than his mates began buttering their fingers. Three errors in succession filled the bases, thus setting the stage for the only four-base wallop of the day, off the bat of Frank Jarvis. After fouling one down to the right field fence, he straightened it out on the next pitch and four runs trotted in.

Spencer and Valsoano of the Spudders allowed the grocers only three hits each. Spencer worked the first five innings and Valsoano finished.

Malcolm Mauldin, local sandlotter recently signed to a Spudder contract, played center field for the grocers, the team he had played on here for several seasons. Mauldin had a pretty good day in the field, and got two hits, a single and a double, in four trips to the plate. Ed Satterwhite, scrappy young Sullivan shortstop, also got a single and double in four trips to share with Mauldin the hitting honors for the losers.

The game, witnessed by about 250 fans, was preceded by a batting practice in which the whole Spudder squad participated.

Skipper Severeid said the squad would resume routine batting and fielding drill today.

Fuller To Fight Kid Berg Friday

NEW YORK, March 27. (AP)—Sammy Fuller of Boston, latest lightweight sensation, and Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, headline the national boxing program this week.

Fuller, who outpointed Ray Miller and knocked out Billy Wallace in his last two New York appearances, tackles Jack (Kid) Berg, speedy British 135-pounder, in the 10-round feature in Madison Square garden Friday night. A bout with Champion Tony Canzoneri may be awarded the winner.

Fields will appear in one of those well-known non-title engagements at the Boston Garden Friday night. His opposition will be Leslie Baker of Watertown, Mass.

Joe Sekyra, Dayton, Ohio, heavyweight, and Fred Lenhart of Elk, Wash., meet in San Francisco Friday night in one of the West coast's more important clashes. Rusty Gill, former University of California football player, will tackle Porter Bugge of Hayward, Calif., in a four-rounder at Oakland Wednesday.

Seymour Wins Baylor County Track Meet

SEYMOUR, Texas, March 26.—Seymour won the Baylor county track and field meet here Saturday with an approximate total of 120 points. Second and third places had not been announced late Saturday, but it is believed Bomarton and Westover took those places.

A strong wind hampered the athletes, 16.5 seconds taking the 100 and 23.1 the 220-yard dash. Seymour mile relay team set the best comparative time with 4.04 minutes. Field events also showed a decline over previous years, with 20 feet, 7 inches taking the broad jump and 9 feet, 3 inches the pole vault.

Ruth Bears Up Over Cut to Mere $75,000—Cambridge Crew Reveals Rowing's Strain

Camera Slants At Sports

Babe Ruth looks happy, doesn't he? And why not? He's just signed a contract callings for as much as the president of the United States receives. For playing not more than 154 games of ball with the New York Yankees this year, Babe is to get $75,000. Picture of the Bam was snapped in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he is in training, with the rest of the Yankees, to get in shape to drive out plenty of homers for that dough.

What's the most strenuous sport? Photo of the Cambridge crew above presents a strong argument for rowing. The boys were in a last workout before their four-mile clash with Oxford, one of the biggest events on the English sports calendar. Note their expression as they get the last ounce of "pull" into the sweeps.

Marion Fitting, 18-year-old hurdling star, wearing the colors of the Los Angeles Athletic club, shows the proper form for clearing the sticks. Marion has been hurdling since her 15th birthday, and her coach, Aileen Allen, famed trainer of girl athletes, thinks her chances are bright to represent Uncle Sam in the coming Olympics. Anyway, Marion is working hard in Los Angeles.

To Ossie Solem has been given the job of restoring the University of Iowa to its once proud niche in the football world. Solem has been given a three-year contract as coach of the Hawkeyes. Ossie built his reputation at Drake, where in 11 years he projected the Bulldogs into the national football picture.

Flashing some of the best tennis of the year, Berkeley Bell, Texas' gift to the big league net wars, downed Jean Borotra, defending champion, 6-2, 6-4, in the quarter final round of the national indoor championships in New York. The victory was sweet as the French Davis cup ace of past years trounced Bell last year in the finals in five hard fought sets. Bell appears set for a big outdoor season.

Training Camp Chatter

BRAVES 3, YANKS 1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 27. (AP)—The Boston Braves closed their annual spring series with the New York Yankees with a 3 to 1 victory today but the Yanks captured the "St. Pete championship" six games to two.

Babe Ruth was kept out of the Yankee line-up by a stiff neck which was so sore he could not swing a bat.

PHILADELPHIA PHILS

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 27. (AP)—Radiating confidence in their ability to give a good accounting in the 1932 campaign, the Phillies broke training camp today and headed for Atlanta and a four-game series with the Crackers of the Southern association.

Manager Burt Shotton found nothing to worry about except a few minor injuries. On the other hand he was able to point to his team's victories over the champion Cardinals, the Athletics and the Yankees in the course of the most successful exhibition game schedule in years.

INDIANAPOLIS 7, A'S 2

SARASOTA, Fla., March 27. (AP)—Joe Bowman, the Athletics' new pitcher from Portland, took a sound shellacking from Indianapolis today and the Macks lost, 7 to 2. Archy Campbell, formerly of the Yankees and Reds, hurled the route for the victors.

SAINTS 10, CATS 8

FORT WORTH, March 27. (AP)—Three deuces may be a winning hand in many games, but the Fort Worth Panthers haven't found it that way. They picked up their third one today in losing to the St. Paul Saints, 10 to 8. It was the third successive time that the Panthers have lost an exhibition game by two runs.

Six runs in the first inning off George Grant staked the Saints to a lead the Panthers were never able to overcome.

Four young pitchers were given their outright releases today. They were Roy Minta, Thalia; Clarence Collier, Weatherford; Sherman Jones, Trent and Bud Braly, Dallas.

ROCHESTER 10, BUFFS 3

HOUSTON, March 27. (AP)—Rochester Redwings jumped into a three-run lead in the first inning here today and coasted to a 10 to 3 victory over the Houston Buffs. A high wind played havoc with the fielders, and it didn't help the control of the pitchers, either, 15 bases on balls being issued.

Six double plays pepped up the encounter.

BROWNS 8, BUFFALO 4

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 27. (AP)—Rick Ferrell, catcher who was a holdout until a week ago, slammed out three hits, two triples and a single, to take the major part in the St. Louis Browns' 8 to 4 victory over the Buffalo Bisons of the International league in an exhibition game here today.

Ferrell's hits drove in five runs.

REDS 7, DODGERS 6

TAMPA, Fla., March 27. (AP)—Aided by Van Mungo's wildness, the Cincinnati Reds scored four runs in the sixth inning today and defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 6. Mungo walked five men in less than two innings and three of the passes were converted into runs.

TIGERS 10, PIRATES 8

LOS ANGELES, March 27. (AP)—Bunching hits to score three runs in the ninth inning, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 10 to 8.

SHIPPERS 9, BLUES 5

SHREVEPORT, La., March 27.(AP)—Routing Osborn, former Pittsburgh Pirate hurler, the Shreveport Texas leaguers handed Kansas City of the American association its first spring training defeat today, 9 to 5.

Osborn yielded 10 of the 11 Shreveport safeties in five innings before he was relieved by Gabler, a rookie. The Blues also made 11 hits, but failed to bunch them as effectively.

INDIANS 7, PELS 3

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 27. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians pounded three New Orleans Pelicans pitchers today for 12 hits and a 7 to 3 victory in an exhibition baseball game here.

SHIPPERS 13, COLUMBUS 6

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 27. (AP)—Getting to "Sheriff" Blake for nine hits and eight runs in the first inning, the Exporters gave the Columbus Senators a thorough trouncing this afternoon by the score of 13 to 6. Blake was succeeded in the sixth by young Paul Dean while Luke Hamlin and Buck Marrow pitched for the locals.

In the fourth inning Hank Greenberg, giant Beaumont first baseman, drove the ball over deep right center screen, a distance of 410 feet. This had never been done before in the history of Stuart stadium.

BUCS 5, FLOCK 0

GALVESTON, March 27. (AP)—Behind the effective pitching of George Darrow and Hank Thormahlen, both left-handers, the Galveston Buccaneers blanked a division of the Columbus Red Birds 5 to 0 today. Darrow allowed the visitors but two hits in the five innings he worked and Thormahlen allowed but one in the last four.

Potsy Allen, rookie catcher, tripled for the longest hit of the day.

CHISOX 10, STEERS 8

DALLAS, March 27. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox defeated the Dallas Steers, 10 to 8, in an exhibition game here today. Vic Frasier, former Steer, started the contest for the White Sox, yielding four hits and three runs in five innings. He was succeeded by Hadley, who allowed five hits. Murray and Whitehead, pitching for Dallas, were touched for 12 safeties. Radcliff, batting for Murray in the sixth, hit a home run with two on base.

GIANTS 7, OAKLAND 6

OAKLAND, Calif., March 27. (AP)—Taking advantage of the wildness of Fay Thomas, Oakland pitcher, and making every one of their six hits count, the New York Giants won their second straight game from the Pacific Coast League club today, 7 to 6.

SAN ANTONIO INDIANS

SAN ANTONIO, March 27. (AP)—Easter Sunday was no different from any other day for the San Antonio Indians and Manager Claude Robertson put them through their regular work from 1 to 4 p. m. in League park.

Robbie is still awaiting Third Baseman Charles Gooch from the Birmingham Southern association club and a shortstop from the Kansas City Blues to complete the infield with John Brewer at first base and Ray Flaskamper at second.

CUBS 8, SEALS 7

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs wound up their exhibition series with the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast league by winning 8 to 7 today.

Brazos League Meeting Called

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, March 27.—A meeting to discuss plans for the reorganization of the approaching season of the Brazos Valley Baseball league composed of towns in this territory has been called for Tuesday night here, according to information given by Jack Mayes, manager of the Munday team last year. The league is strictly amateur.

Teams comprising the circuit last year were Munday, Goree, Weinert, Knox City, Rhineland and Sunset. Goree won the pennant in a walk and sent a couple of prospects to the Spudder training camp this spring.

Among important proposals to be discussed at the meeting will be one that some of last year's teams be combined and as result that the circuit either be reduced to four teams or that the territory be enlarged and the league continue with six clubs. Munday, Sunset, Rhineland and Weinert are so near together that several satisfactory consolidations are declared to be practicable, while Haskell, Benjamin and Truscott have been suggested for inclusion. Games will be played each Sunday.

The election of a new president will be necessary as L. E. Loveless, president last year, has moved to Seymour.

Battalino Agrees To Canzoneri Bout

NEW YORK, March 27. (UP)—Bat Battalino, former featherweight champion, has agreed to fight Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, 15 rounds for the title at Madison Square garden in May, James J. Johnston, the garden's fight manager, announced tonight.

Johnston said he would confer tomorrow with Sammy Goldman, Canzoneri's manager, and said he was certain Canzoneri would accept.

TOP FLIGHT RACE FAVORITE

Brilliant Three-Year-Olds Out for Title

(This is the first of a series of stories dealing with the outstanding 3-year-olds of the turf).

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK, March 27. (AP)—Once again the bugle of "boots and saddles" has summoned the nation's finest thoroughbreds, and the 3-year-olds are answering the call with the greatest array of evenly balanced talent in recent years.

There may be no Twenty Grand or Gallant Fox in the group, but a dozen colts and fillies, rating consideration on the basis of 2-year-old performances, forecast a brilliant battle in the rich stakes for the 3-year-old title.

C. V. Whitney's Top Flight, with a record of seven successive victories, easily outclassed the juvenile field last year, but Top Flight is a filly and a filly's performance in early spring races never is certain.

On the other hand the brilliant daughter of Dis Donc—Flyatit, which earned $219,000 as a 2-year-old, may be another Regret, the only filly ever to win the Kentucky derby. Regret won the 1915 renewal of the race for the late Harry Payne Whitney, father of the present master of the famous Eton blue and brown capped silks.

The future books for the preakness and derby, which will be run May 7 and May 14, respectively, are quoting Top Flight a slight favorite at 6 to 1.

If Top Flight wins the 3-year-old title she must accomplish the feat in the Kentucky derby, preakness and Arlington classic, for she is not eligible for the 3-year-old events at Belmont Park and Saratoga.

On paper Top Flight's principal rival appears to be Mrs. Louis G. Kaufman's Tick On, the only colt that furnished the Whitney filly any argument last year. The son of One Watch picked up 119 pounds, even weight with Top Flight, and raced the Whitney miss to a neck decision in the Pimlico futurity.

Although winning only three races in 10 starts, Tick On accounted for $77,350, principally because of his unexpected victory in the hopeful at Saratoga. He finished second in three other races.

Tick On was a slow starter last year but Twenty Grand also usually was among the last to leave the barrier.

Berry Heads Committee To Plan Bowling Tourney

Special to The Record News.

Preparations for the state championship bowling tournament to be held at the Spudder alleys April 9-24 were placed in the hands of a committee headed by Jack Berry last week at a meeting of the Wichita Falls Bowling association. Others on the committee to complete arrangements for the event are Harry Katz, Gene Montgomery, Jim Galloway, C. F. Sweeney, C. G. Stokes, John Boswell, William E. Huff and C. V. Reynolds.

One of the principal objectives of the committee will be obtaining at least 16 Wichita Falls team entries. E. F. Fruechte, secretary of the Texas Bowling association, announced that promised entries include at least 12 teams from Dallas, eight from Fort Worth and an undetermined number from Pampa, Shreveport, La., Tulsa, Okla., Oklahoma City, Beaumont, Waco, Houston and San Antonio.

A program of entertainment for visiting bowlers is planned.

Steers Won't Operate Club at Baton Rouge

DALLAS, March 27. (UP)—Officials of the Dallas club, of the Texas Baseball league, have decided not to operate a team at Baton Rouge, La., in the Cotton States league, this season as a baseball farm.

President Sol Dreyfuss and Vice President Bob Tarleton, of the Dallas club, said the Steers had decided not to operate a baseball farm at Baton Rouge. Tarleton had conferred with Baton Rouge baseball authorities, who wanted the Steers to assume an indebtedness against the club.

Major Robert R. Neyland, football coach at Tennessee, says injuries will increase rather than decrease under the recent football rule changes.

Texas high schools belonging to the interscholastic league are prohibited from holding spring football practice.

Minor League Clubs Expect Better Business This Season, Say Leaders

TULSA, Okla., March 27. (UP)—A program for betterment of smalltime baseball was drawn up here today by the executive committee of the National Association of Minor League Baseball clubs.

A report on the entire minor league situation was made and will be presented to the national association in October, said Judge W. G. Branham, of Durham, N. C., president of the Piedmont league.

Club owners discussed means of increasing attendance at their games and the meeting was held with a keynote of optimism, indicating the financial backers of minor league teams anticipate better business in their parks this summer.

The committee granted permission to minor league nines, owned by major league clubs, to procure young players from sandlot teams when they saw fit.

The committee consists of Branham, Joe Carr, former president of the Columbus American association team; J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league; Warren C. Giles, president of the Rochester International league; Ross C. Harriott, president of the Three-Eye league.

The committee will meet next in Rochester, probably next month.

Munday Track Team Develops Two Stars

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, March 27.—Chancey Hobert, dash man, and Dick Rayburn, half miler, will carry a large share of the hopes of the Munday High school track team at the county meet at Benjamin on April 1.

Both were question marks at the start of practice, but have shown remarkable development since last season, according to Coach L. M. Palmer. Rayburn has shown more promise in the half mile than any member of the team in any other event.

Harry Whitten, 195-pound fullback from LaGrange, Ga., shows promise of the Auburn eleven next fall.

More than half of Wisconsin's population is supplied with drinking water from private wells.

CROWELL GRID WORK STARTS

26 Candidates Turn Out For First Drill

CROWELL, Texas, March 27.—Spring football training was started at Crowell High school last week with 26 boys reporting to Coach Grady Graves for the initial workout. Only three letter men from last year's squad were included in this group, however, there are four other letter men that are now on the track team who will report later.

Coach Graves faces a heavy task in filling the gaps resulting from the loss of regulars by graduation and removal from the city. Three players who were named on the official all-district team of district 3-B are in this group. They are Crews Cooper and John Todd, who will graduate, and Doyle Carter, who has moved with his family to Turkey, Texas. These are the only Crowell players who made all-district. Others of the nine letter men that will be lost are Recie Womack, who was prominently mentioned for all-district; J. M. Crowell, co-captain, Roy Mullins, George Fox, Dan Hines Clark and Gerald Knox.

Those who are now on the track team and who are among the eight letter men returning for next season's squad are Capt. Dick Todd, Lewis Gibson, Hubert Smith and Mitchell Allee.

Those who have reported for practice thus far are Loraine Carter, Lester Patton, Melvin Joy, letter men; and Dan Callaway, Crockett Fox, Lewis Brown, Andrew Calvin, Glenn Rasberry, Bill Dunagen, Fred Spears, George Carter, J. E. Scott, F. L. Rennels, Otis Coffey, John Welch, James Joy, Francis Todd, Rudell Russell, Mark Saunders, Orville Orr, Stanley Womack, Ralph McCoy, Berl Lovelady, Venzy Vecera and Coy Ward. Bill Middleton, another letter man, will report later.

Approximately 430 students took college work by correspondence from the University of North Dakota during 1931.

West Texas Golf Tourney To Be at San Angelo

ABILENE, Texas, March 27. (AP)—The annual tournament of the West Texas Golf association will be held in San Angelo, a committee decided here today. Play will begin June 9 and continue four days.

San Angelo was awarded the tourney over invitations of Abilene and Wichita Falls.

Attending the meeting were Charlie Quail of Post, who won the association title in 1931; Allen Guinn, Mineral Wells; Penrose Metcalf and Dwight Hunter of San Angelo; E. T. Daniels of Idalou and C. R. Pope of Abilene.

Petrolia Man Succumbs To Illness at Home

Special to The Record News
PETROLIA, Texas, March 27.—Joe L. Allen, 60, for 20 years a resident of Petrolia, died at his home here this morning following a four-day illness. Death was attributed to paralysis.
Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home. The Rev. R. J. Fletcher, pastor of the Baptist church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Petrolia cemetery.
Surviving are the widow; three sons, Raymond, V. L. and Doyle Allen of Petrolia; and five daughters, Mrs. Maude Price, Mrs. W. R. Lyon and Mrs. Joe Phillips of Petrolia; Mrs. E. D. Kraner of Los Fresnos, Texas, and Mrs. R. M. Hurst of Wichita Falls.
Mrs. Hurst is the wife of R. M. Hurst, police desk sergeant of Wichita Falls.

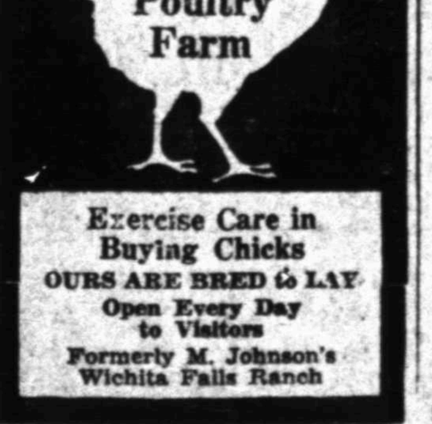

Fingerprints May Free Suspect in Murder Case

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 27. (AP)—Partial fingerprint examination today weakened the conviction of police that the body of a Hoover Dam laborer in the morgue here is that of William L. Tallman, suspected slayer of Mrs. Virginia Patty in Los Angeles three years ago.
Although scars, physical peculiarities, general measurements and handwriting tallied with descriptions of Tallman, Louis Hord, identification expert of the Las Vegas police force, said after the fingerprint comparison that he noted little similarity.

Wanted—Love!
The Story of an Unemployed Girl
By Ethelda Bedford, Author of "Broadway Bride"

His face was pressed against her hair

had not seen in their blue-black depths before.
Maybe this was the spirit of New York. No, she thought, this is a little taste of real life . . . and a taste she never would have known had she stayed home . . .
Blane was there by her side. He was looking down at her, as if he wanted to take her into his arms.
Lillian watched him in the mirror. He turned and met her eyes in the mirror.
He was looking at her with a queer flicker in his eyes. Lillian turned to the window again.
"Blane—let's go out—I want to walk along Broadway. I've never been on Broadway at night . . ."
He followed her to the window.
He caught her hand. He said: "Tell me something—have you ever had a sweetheart?"
Lillian was surprised: "Why, Blane—after what I told you on the train . . . I told you I didn't."
"Oh—I know. I mean, I mean—have you ever been in love?"
"In love? Why—no, I don't think I really have—ever."
He crushed her hand. He lifted it to his lips and he turned the palm to his mouth.
She wanted to touch his hair, as his head bent over her hand. It seemed an obvious gesture, perhaps a little too sentimental. She had seen it done in plays, in the movies. The women always touched the hair of the men who kissed their hands.
That was one thing she must not be with Blane—sentimental. She said: "Blane—you make me feel as if I were on the stage—already."
He lifted his face. He was flushed and his eyes were a little heavy.
There was that queer flicker in his eyes again—it was a sort of mocking amusement.
"Are you making fun of me?" he asked.
"Oh, Blane—"
"Why are you laughing?"
"I'm not—laughing."
"Your are—litsen to you!"
He dropped her hand.
She pushed back against the facing of the window.
"Oh, I didn't mean to be laughing—at you. I—I—meant to tell you that when you did that—you know, when you kissed my hand I felt as if I might be—be Norma Talmadge, sure enough. . . ."
She tried to be light, she smiled, but he didn't.
It seemed that her manner affected him unpleasantly. She was so awed by him she did not know just what to do or say just then.
"Look here, Lillian—" he said. "This—you and I—do you care . . . do you feel you could care—for me?"
She could not believe her ears. Could it be, that so suddenly he thought he cared for her . . . After all, it hadn't been just one-sided, this peculiar feeling she had about him . . . had ever since he sat there by the fire in her house and talked . . . and looked at her so . . . had said he had plans for her . . . plans for her happiness . . .
All the time he had intended plans for their happiness . . . their happiness together!
It was almost too much for Lillian to comprehend. It was too much like a dream . . .
"Oh, Blane—" she gasped his name.
"Don't you know—can't you undertsand . . . what I feel for you . . . ?"
Lillian couldn't speak.
He was coming nearer. She knew he was holding out his arms to her, even though she couldn't look at him, somehow.
It was all so sudden. Why, she didn't know him. He didn't know her. Really. But it seemed that always they had known, always she had known that he would come to her, come and declare his love for her . . .
"Blane . . . you mean . . . you love me . . . ?"
She said that. Why should she ask him whether he loved her? That wasn't the thing she believed a girl would do, when she faced the man . . .
"Aren't you going to kiss me?" he demanded.
Lillian did not answer. She was suddenly afraid. She didn't know why.
"Blane—I—"
He reached for her. But she stepped out of his way. Somehow her hand found the light switch.
In the bright light Lillian saw, to her astonishment, that there was none of the sweetness in his eyes which she confidently had expected to see.

Bandits Use Lilies As Ruse In $29,000 Robbery Of Jewels

CHICAGO, March 27, (UP)—Two bandits carrying potted Easter lillies in their arms rode the elevator to the pent-house of N. E. Bensinger, millionaire billiard and bowling promoter, today, and rode down again with $29,000 worth of Mrs. Bensinger's jewels.
"Won't Norman be surprised when he sees these flowers," exclaimed one, on the ride up. They got off at the roof of the Commonwealth hotel, strolled into the Bensinger home and there presented Mrs. Bensinger with the flowers.
Thereupon they pulled out guns, herded the Bensingers and three servants into a bedroom and forced Mrs. Bensinger to hand over her jewelry. They locked their victims in a closet, rode down the elevator and said so that the operator could hear:
"Norman certainly did appreciate our lillies."

Motley County Farmers In Good Condition

Special to The Record News
MATADOR, Texas, March 27.—Very few farmers in Motley county are making application for federal production loans, according to County Chairman E. C. Stearns. The farmers of the county are in much better shape than last year, having the necessary feed and seed for crop purposes, and the majority have ample family provisions for the year. During 1931 more than $45,000 was loaned by the government in this county but it is thought that not more than $20,000 will be loaned in 1932.

Wheeler Woman Hog Caller Will Demonstrate Ability

WHEELER, Texas, March 27. (AP)—Mrs. J. W. Anglin, champion woman hog caller of the Texas Panhandle, has been invited to demonstrate her ability in three states during April.
She will enter contests in Arkansas, where she received early training in the art, and later in Mississippi and Louisiana.
Mrs. Anglin tied for first place with J. R. Berry of Claude in contests at the Amarillo Fat Stock show and was the only woman to reach the finals.

MANY VIEWED RESURRECTION

Martin Tells Bible Class Of 1,000 Witnesses

"It is the heritage of every Christian man in the world to bear within his heart the consciousness of daily fellowship with this risen Christ," declared Judge P. A. Martin before members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday morning.

Probably more than 1,000 persons were witnesses to the resurrection of Jesus, the speaker said, establishing that event as "one of the best-proven facts in history."

Judge Martin's address in part was as follows:

"When we closed last Sunday's lesson we were keeping vigil with a detachment of Roman soldiers, guarding a lonely tomb, just outside the walls of old Jerusalem. It was Friday night according to modern time and was the day before the Sabbath of the Jews which is our Saturday. It was a strange duty that these soldiers of Rome were called upon to perform. They were doubtless familiar with guard duty beside the body of some great military captain as he lay in state; possibly some of them had guarded the grave of some royal personage buried in robes of state and the jewels and insignia of noble rank; but probably never before had these men ever known or heard of the grave of a crucified criminal, as Jesus was supposed to be.

Matthew's Account

"As the dawn of the third day approached the old earth was again rocked in the throes of an earthquake. Matthew tells us that 'the angel of the Lord came down out of the sky and rolled back the stone from the door and sat upon it. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow, and for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.' Then the Son of Man, clothed in the habiliments of the spirit, as well as the flesh, came forth and met the wondering women who came to deposit tokens of love at the grave and were turned away by the angel who told them that 'He is not here: He is arisen.'

"The women carried the news to Peter and John and they ran to the sepulchre and saw what had happened; and then followed various appearances of Jesus to his disciples, summed up in the terse language of the scholar Paul in the 15th chapter of the First Corinthians as follows:

"That he arose again the third day according to the Scriptures; and that he was seen of Cephas, then of the twelve: After that He was seen of above 500 brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep. After that he was seen of James; then of all the apostles. And last of all He was seen of me also, as of one born out of due time."

"Paul does not mention the women who saw him, but if we estimate that there were as many women as there were men who saw the risen Lord on earth before His ascension to the skies, 40 days later there were more than 1,000 witnesses to the fact of the resurrection, making it, as I have told this class before, the best proven fact in history.

Still Living

"I have said nothing of the millions of witnesses living and dead who have unhesitatingly testified to the fact that Christ is still living, living in the hearts and consciences of men; of the thousands who never miss an opportunity to say 'I know my redeemer liveth' when the saints of God are called upon to testify.

"It is the heritage of every Christian man in the world to bear within his heart the consciousness of daily fellowship with this risen Christ and it should be our proud boast and our proud privilege to testify the fact to the world of men around us who do not know Him as the risen one."

Collingsworth To Open Courthouse

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, March 27.—Following a meeting of the commissioners court of Collingsworth county, Judge Edward Brown announced Saturday that the formal opening of the new courthouse would be held on Saturday, April 9, and that the event would be celebrated with a county-wide program.

An out-of-town speaker will be secured for the occasion and although officials will occupy the building Monday, March 29, the formal opening will be postponed until all of the details have been worked out.

The courthouse was completed Thursday and cost the county $150,000. It is faced with white brick and supported with a background of white marble and sandstone. Figures are carved about the top and corners to represent the pioneers of the county in the struggle during the growth of the county.

Childress Will Sell Refunding Warrants

CHILDRESS, Texas, March 27. (AP)—The city of Childress has $156,630.26 worth of refunding warrants for sale.

The new warrants, which will bear interest at 5½ per cent, will be used to take up warrants maturing this summer. The old warrants were issued to pay paving costs, sewer work and street improvements, among other things. The old issue bears interest at six per cent.

Matador Citizens Lack Interest in Election

Special to The Record News.

MATADOR, Texas, March 27.—Very little interest is being shown in the coming city election to be held April 5. A mayor, two aldermen, city marshall, city secretary and city attorney will be elected. The only office to have two candidates is that of city secretary, that place being sought for by the present secretary, C. B. Groves, and T. B. Harris.

New British Tariff Law Gives England Subtle Threat To Fight Irish Free State

TRADE WAR BIG WEAPON

Loss of Produce Markets Would Stop Irish

By MILTON BRONNER
European Manager, NEA Service

LONDON, March 27.—The Irish Free State's idealism in abolishing the oath of allegiance to the British Empire for members of the dail is due to clash head-on with stern British politics.

A dozen years ago, when De Valera made his first attempt for Ireland's independence, it brought on a bloody war. This time, however, nobody in England is even thinking of actual war with Ireland, for Britain now has a more subtle card to play in her efforts to keep Ireland within the Empire. This "ace-in-the-hole" is the new British tariff, recently restored after 80 years of free trade.

Ireland, an agricultural country, must market her foodstuffs in England to exist. England, on the other, hand, can buy her foodstuffs anywhere because of her extensive shipping facilities.

It follows, therefore, that his majesty's government has an excellent threat of a tariff barrier against Ireland to keep that island under the British crown.

The British parliament's recent protective tariff act levies a 10 per cent import duty on all goods and raw materials with the exception of a small free list. Such tariffs can be increased upon recommendation of the British tariff board.

Tariff Conference

All dominions within the British Empire, of which Ireland is one, are exempted from the tariff until next November. The reason for setting this date is that an imperial conference is to be held at Ottawa this summer, and at that conference Britain expects to do a great deal of trading with her dominions.

The plan is for free trade within the Empire—by which the various dominions will exchange goods free of duty, with some slight modifications.

If and when the Irish Free State breaks the ties of empire, according to the De Valera program, it would not surprise anybody if the new president were informed that the Ottawa conference did not expect any delegates from the Free State.

In icily polite language, the Free State might be told that, having decided to quit the Empire, it had lost its dominion tariff privileges and was, therefore, in the status of any other foreign country.

In the last year for which complete figures are available, Ireland imported from Britain goods to the value of approximately $200,000,000 and sold to Britain about $185,000,000. But there is a big difference. Britain could struggle along without Irish trade, whereas Ireland would be paralyzed by the loss of the British market.

The bulk of Ireland's bacon, butter and eggs is sold in Britain. Ireland would have a very hard time indeed in finding so good a market any place else. Moreover, Denmark is aggressively after the British market and the Danes would be glad to make a preferential treaty with Britain to this end.

Even De Valera, idealist and dreamer, may hesitate in bringing this blight on Ireland's farmers, once Britain starts applying her tariff pressure.

Might Bar Irish

Britain also has another card up her sleeve, one that could cause Ireland a lot more trouble.

Today, Irishmen are free to enter Britain, to move about as freely as Britons and hold British jobs. If the ties of empire were cut, the British authorities might possibly rule the Irishman to be just as much of an alien in Great Britain as an American, a Frenchman or a German.

His stay in Britain might be limited like that of any other alien and if he were holding a job that might be filled by a Briton he might be asked by the home office to go back to his own country—just as French, German and Italian waiters and certain American actors have been asked to do.

Under the new set-up, the British tariff board has wide discretionary powers in recommending increases over the basic 10 per cent duty and, conceivably, this might be employed effectively against Ireland.

This board is already facing many demands by industrialists for tariff increases and elimination of various items from the free list. It greatly resembles the U. S. tariff commission, except that its three members are chosen regardless of their political affiliations, whereas in America effort is made to divide representation between each of the big parties.

Thus, in his newest row with England, De Valera may find his dream's of Ireland's complete independence clashing not with British bayonets but with something far more subtle and perhaps more effective—a trade war in which Britain holds the upper hand.

Above is a typical scene in the Irish Free State, showing a farmer delivering milk to a cooperative creamery. Output of these creameries is largely exported to England and a tariff wall would cut off the sole revenue of thousands of citizens. Inset at right, Sir George May, chairman of the British tariff board, which will wield a powerful weapon over rebellious dail. Sketches show market and street scenes with proverbial Irish potato digger in center.

Governor's Pecan Trees To 'Pay for Their Keep'

AUSTIN, March 27. (INS)—Two large pecan trees on the grounds of the governor's mansion here are going to be made to "pay for their keep."

After years of serving purely an ornamental purpose, the trees will be budded with large pecans, so that the output will be transformed into a good quantity of edible pecans in a few years.

The budding, suggested by Adrian Pool, board of control member, will be done by pecan experts from the department of agriculture. The trees now produce a small nut.

Leaders Of Soviet Extinguishing All Religious Instinct, Says Speaker

Members of the Kay Bible class of the First Methodist church Sunday morning heard a talk on Russia by Frank I. Buckingham, a Kansas City attorney who was designated by the DeMolay organization in this country to study Russia.

The speaker portrayed the magnitude of the revolutionary undertaking of the Russians in liquidating and extinguishing the primitive religious instincts of that people.

Mr. Buckingham spoke as follows:

"When in the vatican at Rome I placed my hand upon the stone idol of an Etruscan god, taken from the sixth stratum of a primitive Etruscan village, and to that very symbol of a god 7,000 years ago the human heart poured forth its yearnings.

Lenin's Teachings

"When in the ruins of the labyrinthian palace at Cnossus on the Isle of Crete they led me from the throne room of King Minos to the altar where in ancient simplicity the court of the earliest recorded civilized monarchy assembled, and the dawn priests performed their ablutions and ministered to the needs of that ancient Phoenician people.

"Russia however has undertaken through the audacity of its leaders the mightiest revolution recorded in human time. I stood before the granite sarcophagus of Lenin the dead creator of Communistic Russia. Dead eight long years and yet he holds all Russia in the steel grip of his mighty power. His political philosophy is easily understood but he has gone farther than mortal man had ever dared to go before. By decree of state he has declared religion must be liquidated and extinguished and destroyed.

"Pursuant to that decree mere tots of 6 and 7 years are seated in the schoolroom or before the bust of Nicholas Lenin and to write for the hundredth time that strange anti-religious atheistic philosophy—"There Is No God." "There Is No God." And everywhere in Russia the vandals are destroying the church structures while mightier revolutionary forces are boring from within and tearing down the ancient fabric—the primitive emotional religious instinct of the Russian race.

"In Russia everywhere the philosophy of hate is taught and its powerful edicts exemplied. In school dialogue the little children rise up and point the awful finger of scorn at the little fellow whom they accuse of being a Kulak (the Kulak was the small farmer who but a few years ago with his few acres of land, his flocks and herds was the very mainspring of Russia). But now the Kulak is an object of supreme hate in Russia because of his resistance to the tyranny of Communism.

"We should be thankful that we are born in America of American stock, where love, good will, and justice are the outer manifestations of a divine plan. We have been given one and all a heavenly benediction, and where hate may never shed its wrath and venum upon a God blessed and a God inspired people."

Florence county, Wisconsin, had not a single divorce case during 1931, nor any cases where husband and wife went to a judge for reconciliation.

HERE'S OATH DAIL SPURNS

The oath of allegiance to King George that Ireland wants to abolish apepars in article 17 of the Irish Free State constitution as follows:

"I do solemnly swear true faith and allegiance to the constitution of the Irish Free State as by law established and that I will be faithful to His Majesty King George V and his heirs and successors by law in virtue of the common citizenship of Ireland and Great Britain, and her adherence to and membership of the group of nations forming the British Commonwealth of Nations."

FARM CLASSES MAKE PROFITS

Wellington High School Boys Net $2,052

Special to The Record News

WELLINGTON, Texas, March 27.—A net profit of $2,052.56 was made by boys taking vocational agriculture in the Wellington High school last year, according to the announcement of H. C. White, instructor.

The profit margin was figured after all rent, labor and incidental expenses had been subtracted from the production cost. The scope of projects included 117 acres of cotton, $1,169.58; 82 acres maize, $143.01; nine dairy cows, $374.93; 13 acres corn, $35.71; 16 fattening pigs $55.50; 10 acres wheat, $27.62; 10 brood sows; $168.98; four baby beeves, minus $28.16; five acres Sudan grass, $29.82; six gilts, $22.04; five turkeys, $53.55.

Customer Deposits Money Preserved in Moth Balls

LEVELLAND, Texas, March 27. (AP)—Employes of the First National bank the other day were almost overcome by a strong odor when a customer opened a parcel he was carrying and deposited between $450 and $500 in bills with the cashier.

Investigation showed that the money was so permeated with moth balls that there was no getting rid of the odor. After the currency was kept in the vault over night and had almost transferred its condition to the rest of the bank's currency, President John Doyle found a way to get rid of it.

"Had a man who needed about that much in bills, so I cashed his check with the moth ball money," he said. "It was just too strong for words."

Last Services Held For J. W. Beasley

Funeral services for J. W. Beasley, 46, were held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Adams Street Methodist church, with the Rev. W. D. Cook, pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. W. D. Cravens and the Rev. Ben Bell. The Hines mortuary directed burial in Riverside.

Mr. Beasley died at his home Saturday morning after a short illness.

Survivors are the widow; a daughter, Arilla Mae, 10; and a brother, F. E. Beasley of Sheffield, Ala.

Officers Here Recover Loot From Devol Store

A typewriter and adding machine stolen from the J. E. Dixon grocery and market at Devol, Okla., March 16, were recovered Sunday afternoon by city police in Wichita Falls. One man is held in the city jail in connection with the case. Police Chief Bill Garland of Burkburnett and Sheriff Hooper of Walters, Okla., accompanied Officer Dowdy here in recovering the missing property.

Rites Said For Victim Of Crash

Funeral services for L. B. Powell, 27, of Oklahoma City, were held from the Merkle Undertaking company chapel at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. Powell, a mechanic, was fatally injured in an automobile accident near Chickasha, Okla., Friday. His mother Mrs. J. B. Powell, was seriously injured in the accident.

Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated and burial was in Rosemont.

Mr. Powell had spent the major portion of his life in Wichita Falls and had only recently moved to Oklahoma City.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Powell; his widow; a son, Ray Thomas, 5; two sisters, Miss Gladys Powell of Overton, Texas, and Mrs. P. R. Chambers of Olney, Texas; a brother, Thomas Powell of Olney; and an aunt, Mrs. Ray Walker of Wichita Falls.

'Reality' Subject of Scientist Sermon

"Reality" was the lesson-sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

Isaiah 64:4 furnished the golden text. "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him."

The lesson-sermon embraced the following verse from the Bible (Genesis 1:31): "And God saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good."

Included in the service were the following citations from pages 207, 505 of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no effect from any other cause, and there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause. . . . Spiritual sense is the discernment of spiritual good."

Yeggs Crack Safe But Fail to Secure Loot

A second visit by burglars at the Moore & Richolt Lumber company office within recent weeks failed to net any gain for knob-knockers Saturday night. The company office was entered by forcing a side window, police said, after an investigation at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Combination dials were knocked from two safes, but the burglars failed to make an entrance and nothing was missed by company officials, police said.

A prowler who entered a vacant residence at 404 Fourth some time Saturday night sustained a cut hand for his pains, police said after an investigation. The house was entered by knocking glass from the front door and blood stains caused police to believe the prowler cut himself in making an entrance.

PIONEER DIES AT AGE OF 72

Mrs. Anna Bolling Succumbs Early Sunday

Mrs. Anna Bolling, 72, died at 9:15 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Elliott, 1612 Garfield. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon from the Hines mortuary chapel. Dr. George P. Horst, First Presbyterian church pastor, will officiate and burial will be in Riverside.

Mrs. Bolling, a native of Meridian, Miss., had resided in Wichita Falls for the past seven years. She resided in Arkansas and Louisiana for a major portion of her life.

Survivors, other than the daughter, are two brothers, W. W. Wingo of Poteau, Okla., and Ed Wingo, of Wilburton, Okla.; three grandchildren, Charleen Elliott, student at Ward Belmont, Nashville, Tenn., who arrived Sunday afternoon; Jane Marie and Jack Elliott, all of Wichita Falls. A sister-in-law, Mrs. Leffie Wingo of Claremore, Okla., arrived Sunday to attend the services.

B. R. BETHUNE

The body of B. R. Bethune, 59, of Electra, was taken overland to that city Sunday afternoon under direction of the Hines mortuary and funeral services will be held Monday. Mr. Bethune died at a local hospital at 9 o'clock Saturday night. His widow and a brother survive. Mr. Bethune was a prominent farmer of the Electra community.

JOYCE ALINE TAYLOR

Funeral services for Joyce Aline Taylor, 4-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Taylor, were held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Hines mortuary chapel. The Rev. J. W. Wright, East Side Presbyterian church pastor, officiated. Interment was in Rosemont.

The infant died at the family home, 121 Tulsa, Saturday afternoon. The parents, a brother and sister, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chaney, all of this city, survive.

Duluth, Minn., police department members voluntarily reduced their wages five per cent for six months, the savings to go into the city's deficit fund.

Iowa plans to build about 200 miles of oil or bituminous-surfaced highways this year.
