LEGION CONVENTION ATTENDANCE TO REACH SEVEN HUNDRED

BEST MEET ON RECORD STATES OFFICIALS HERE

POST COWBOY BAND IS GIVEN HEARTY RECEPTION

PROGRAM PLEASURES

MANY TOWNS HAVE A DELEGATION HERE FOR AFFAIR

Registration in the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary convention which opened here Saturday morning had passed 500 Saturday night, and with the additional delegations that are expected here today for the closing program and business session this afternoon, the number is expected to be based to near 700, officials of the Allen Brook Post host organization said.

State officials of the Legion who are here point to the convention as one of the most successful ever attended by them, both in attendance and entertainment, and with no disorder of any nature reported, the convention is making its second day with all sails flying.

Auxiliary Meet

Ladies of the auxiliary, of which there are approximately 100 in attendance, met in informal session last night in the First Baptist church, with Mrs. M. W. Armstrong of Brownwood, former state president of the Auxiliary, Mrs. W. N. Denton, district chairman of Amarillo, and Mrs. J. G. Merritt of Colorado, as honor guests, and the ladies will meet in business session this afternoon in room 305 of the administration building of the convention hall on the Tech campus.

Barbecue and inspection of city included in list

As a climax to the entertainment program of the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary convention in session here, a public barbecue and memorial service is to be held beginning this morning at 11 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church on Avenue N just south of 13th street when a special joint program of the Legion and Auxiliary will be offered.

PLAN FOR PEDDLERS

Justice Here in June Will Be a Sign Occasion of the Grip

Plans are going forward for the sixth annual Peddlers' Jubilee which will be held in Lubbock June 25. Letters have gone out from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to all salaried in the southwest, asking them to attend and be the guest of the citizenship of Lubbock on that date.

Letters have gone to all whole salers in the Southwest asking that they arrange to have their salaried men in Lubbock on that date.

Letters have gone to all hotels in the Southwest, together with invitations to hotel managers to attend. The plan will be to employ in the hotels until after June 25.

A committee of local traveling men have windshield stickers advertising the jubilee which they can put on every peddler's car.

The jubilee has grown from year to year and a large crowd is expected this time. Every "knight of the grip" is expected to avail himself of this opportunity to be Lubbock guest at the jubilee.

The picture shows the wreckage of the consolidated school at Bath, Mich., after two dynamite blasts were set off by Andrew Kehoe, a crazed farmer. Forty-four persons are known to have been killed—37 of them children. Other bodies were buried under the debris and remained undiscovered as night fell. This rescue squad of firemen was the first to penetrate the shambles. Hanging walls and parts of the roof are being pulled down by workers with ropes, while others are seen carrying fallen timbers and searching frantically among the ruins.

Arrest Of Stamford Youth Clears Ovalo Bank Robbery

ARLINGTON, May 21.—The arrest of Aubrey Ray, 29, of Stamford, and his formal confession here today, clears up the robbery of the Ovalo State bank, this county, last March 28th.

Arrested at Stamford after clues had been obtained in a whiskey raid in Callahan county, Ray immediately admitted his part in the bank robbery and named his cohorts, Tom Ray of Cisco, as his companion and fellow participant. Taylor county officers were advised tonight that Tom Ray had been arrested in Durant, Okla., and Sheriff H. T. O'Bar has gone there to claim him.

"Ray said the bank robbery was planned on the spur of the moment as he and Tomgo, in an automobile, were nearing Ovalo. They saw the bank's advertisement on a roadside sign board, and immediately decided to rob it. While 1,000 possession were scouring the hills east of Ovalo, they were peacefully sleeping further up in the hills, beside a sedan which Aubrey says he him self stole in Lampasas.

This afternoon Ray accompanied officers to the mountain country east of Ovalo and showed them where he had hid a part of the loot, a bag containing about $750 in silver was recovered. Aubrey says he spent the rest of his share, about $1,700.

Ray's confession was made in writing to J. R. Black, of Baird, district attorney. He later made a confession to a news reporter.

Charges of robbery have been filed in the case, it was said tonight. A warrant for Tomgo Ray's arrest was forwarded to Durant officers. H. T. O'Bar, sheriff, advised the Reporter-News tonight from Fort Worth, that he had Tomgo Ray in custody and would reach here Sunday morning.

WRECKS OCCUR AS RULES IGNORED BY THE AUTOISTS

Observance of traffic regulations were rather lax yesterday afternoon and last night on the streets and as a result numerous wrecks and collisions were reported. No injuries were reported but several of the cars received damages. Members of the police force and especially the traffic men were kept rather busy until after ten o'clock last night regulating traffic.

SENATORS MAY NOT COMPLETE SESSION WORK

MUCH LEGISLATION IS YET TO BE TAKEN UP BY BODY

HOUSE IS BEHIND

SCHEDULE CALLS FOR MORE BILLS THAN TIME ALLOWS

The Associated Press Washington, May 21.—Despite indications as to whether the special session of the legislature can finish its allotted labors in 30 days and some ideas as to the probable fate of several administration projects, including a law enacting state civil service, are expected next week, third of the session.

The slow way the House has been progressing for several reasons admittedly renders doubtful the possibility of concluding the work cut out for the extra ordinary session. Resuming work Monday morning after a recess over Saturday the house will pick up 200 remaining of the $1,000,000 departmental appropriation bill, third of seven money measures to be considered.

School Bill Next

The senate, which has passed the four major appropriation bills, will dive into the school bills, one carrying $2,000,000 for rural aid and the other $1,400,000 to supplement the available school funds. The house supplemental bill calls for $4,500,000 as agreed upon before a statement from the controllers of the school system showed that the state will receive $1,000,000 in school money that originally was estimated at $1,000,000.

Senate leaders are known to be determinedly opposed to any more than their figure on the supplemental bill, which they claim will provide a $15 per capita appropriation, one of the main goals of this legislature. A hot free conference fight over the carrying of the two bills thus is expected. That will take up some of the limited time of this session.

Many think the house will do well to polish off its money bills during the session. In its economy program, with the appropriations committee and the organization expenditure fact again practically as opposites, the house faces a finish tackle on the $17,000,000 educational appropriation bill.

It is looked for the trimming that will bring the aggregate appropriations within expenditures, a preachment common to Governor Moody, the appropriations committee, the economy bloc and everybody else that has had anything to say about it.

CHAMBERLAIN QUILTS

Holder of Endurance Record May Fly to Honolulu or Some Other Mark

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 21. (AP)—The Paris flight of Clarence Chamberlain was "indefinitely postponed" tonight when friends persuaded him not to make an immediate attempt.

They showed him that while weather was good tonight unfavorable conditions were predicted for tomorrow. Also Capt. Schery, secretary of the contest committee of the National Aeronautical Society, was discovered to have gone to Washington, and it was said that the flight would not be official unless Schery sealed the bagraph.

"All right, it's all off," Chamberlain said at length. "It's off indefinitely, and when we do take off it won't be for Paris in all probability."

MURDER INN BURNED

Place Owned by Slain Proprietor Burned To Ground After Fatal Shooting

BORGER, Tex., May 21. (AP)—Outside Inns near Stamford, whose proprietor, George Norsworthy, was killed Thursday, burned tonight and police believe the fire was incendiary.

The place was padlocked Friday following the killing of Norsworthy. Temple Piper was arrested on a charge of murder in connection with the killing and released today on $10,000 bond. He was in jail at the time the inn burned. According to Piper's version of the killing, he went to the inn with two companions to buy drinks, and that Norsworthy furnished a pistol, which Piper took from him. Norsworthy then hit Piper with a bottle, and Piper, according to the latter's story, shot the proprietor. Norsworthy's body was sent to Joplin, Mo.

TOWN IS BURNED

KINGMAN, Ariz., May 21. (AP)—Virtually the entire business section of Clabrie, 30 miles from here, was destroyed tonight by fire. All but two stores on the business district were burned. The loss was estimated at $100,000.

GIANT CROWD CLAIMS PILOT WHEN HE LANDED

A new epoch in aviation has been inaugurated. Charles Lindbergh, of Little Falls, Minn., landed at Le Bourget, France, at 5:21 p. m. (eastern daylight time) yesterday in one record-smashing jump from Roosevelt field New York.

"Well here we are," was his greeting to the enthusiasm-maddened crowds. Lindbergh drove his plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," over the nearly 4,000 mile air track, clipping about two hours and a half off the most optimistic time allowance.

The world's imagination was fired by his exploit. Many Celebrations. Spontaneous celebrations in scores of cities both here and abroad lasted far into the night. President Coolidge and executives of other nations flashed their congratulations and these were supplemented by the thousands from other individuals publicly prominent.

At Detroit, Charles' mother relaxed her steadily maintained attitude of silent confidence and through tears of joy declared his victory was "all that mattered."

Miss May is this year a student in the Technological college. The faculty of the Levelland schools is to include 22 teachers, according to present elections by the school board.

LUBBOCK IS PROUD OF LINDBERGH'S SUCCESS

Fervid patriotism marked Lubbock's receipt of news that Lindbergh had successfully completed the Trans-Atlantic flight. Numbers called at the Avalanche-Journal to ask information concerning the feat. Glancing through the account of the trip, and his reception in Paris, they would surreptitiously brush aside tears of pride, voice admiration for the aviator's sterling courage, and walk away with shoulders thrown back and military tread.

Loses $1,500 A Little Want-Ad Recovers It

A Lubbock citizen lost a wallet containing $1,500 in notes besides some private papers. His first thought was to insert a small ad in Saturday's morning's Avalanche and Saturday at 4 P. M., the wallet was returned intact. It shows how closely Want-Ads are read, and is positive proof that if you have lost something, have something to sell or rent, that the Avalanche-Journal Classified Page is the "location" in which to advertise it. Horace Lisenbee Is Pitching Way To Dairy Farm NAT'S ROOKIE STAR VISION FLOCK OF HOLSTEINS IF HE MAKE GOOD IN MAJORS

"Bear down on this one, 'Liz'!"
"Sounds like the Gloomer Girls doing their stuff."
On the contrary, it is the Washington club of the American League slipping the rookie pitcher, Horace Lisenbee, some advice.
To the members of the Washington club, Lisenbee is "Liz" or "Liz" for short. He is one of the pitching reasons why Manager Harris hopes his club will get somewhere this year.
Lisenbee is a right-handed hurler of none too husky proportions, who has won his first five games in the major leagues. He is 22 years old, stands 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs 165 pounds, and is a native of Chicago, Ill.

One British Golf Title Safe For Home Talent When Women Tee Off

BY FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Correspondent)
NEWCASTLE, County Down, Ireland May 21.—The one and only major for British golfing prize Americans never have captured, "the ladies' championship," appears safe from an Atlantic voyage for another year at least, for neither Glenn Collett nor other American championship winners, will tee off at the Royal County Down club on May 17.
The only American women entered in the tournament are Miss Jane Brooks, Miss Alice Lee Headstone, Mrs. M. L. R. Spaulding, Miss Virginia Wilson and Mrs. George Newman Lewis.
Continental and British colonial stars will brave the Irish seas for Cecil Leitch's title, but with Joyce Wetherill still determined to avoid the hurly-burly of big tournaments, Miss Leitch again is a favorite.
Of the foreigners the most dangerous threat comes from the stylish and effective little French girl, Mlle. Thion de la Chausse, who fell only before the powerful Leitch thrusts in the semi-finals at Harrogate, Wales, last year. Mlle. de la Chausse won the British girls' championship in 1924.
At Newcastle in 1926 American women fought bravely for the British title. The visit was made memorable by the plucky display by Miss Estomont Sherrwood, who, suffering from a painful injury to her feet, nevertheless struggled to the first tee on crutches, and, although unable to use her wooden club, stayed off defeat from the redoubtable Miss Molly Griffiths until the fourteenth hole.
Ireland hasn't forgotten the American girl's sportsmanship and would have liked to welcome Miss Sherrwood or Miss Collett, who also suffered ill fortune last year when the championship was postponed because of the general strike.
The Royal County Down course has undergone many improvements and the velvet putting greens are claimed among the world's finest. The fourth, fifth and ninth holes have been rebuilt and the course stretches 6,700 yards through sandy fairways skirting the sea. Newcastle is a driver's course, demanding long, confident hitting. Terror stalks the player who strays from the straight and narrow to the green.
Dominant above the course and the surrounding country stands stately Slieve Donald, the highest peak of the Mourne mountain range, lending dignity to the bay, town and fairways alike.

CITIZENS IGNORING DUTY IN CARING FOR DISABLED SAYS LEGION HEAD, IN CITY FOR AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION

The citizens of the state of Texas, both ex-service men and others, are very direct in duty in connection with the national campaign for $5,000,000 as an endowment fund with which to carry on a nation-wide program of rehabilitation among disabled ex-service men and orphan children of war veterans. Major Walton D. Wood, state chairman of the fund campaign, who is here to attend the Legion convention said Saturday.
Major Hood arrived Saturday shortly before noon accompanied by his pilot, Lieutenant W. C. Goldborough, and will address the business session of the convention this afternoon on plans for his campaign for raising the approximately $100,000 yet due by Texas on her quota of $225,000 toward the fund.
The campaign, in the opinion of Major Hood, is one of the most important ever faced by people of the state, as it involves the future of many disabled veterans who offered their lives during the war, and who are now in a living death fighting the scourges of disease as an outgrowth of the service.
The national quota in the campaign is $5,000,000. Major Hood said, the interest from which is to be used in care of the disabled and orphan children of veterans. Texas as quota was fixed at $225,000, of which about $1300,00 has been raised, and a campaign is to be started in the very near future to collect the balance, he said.
Planes Offered
The army post at San Antonio backed by the government, has offered all airplanes needed to conduct the state-wide campaign. Major Hood said, and the fund is to be raised. He urges that all points in the state take up the campaign at once and finish out the fund.
Texas has the poorest showing of any state in the union on the fund, it was said, yet the endowment has $300,000 invested in Texas securities, and the income from a quarter million dollars is being spent on Texas orphans and disabled. It

A Temple That Will Be Closed

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 21. (P)—Pennsylvania's 150 pound crew defeated the light crews of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard over the Henley distance on the Charles river today. Technology finished second, half a length behind the winner, and Harvard was a length behind Tech. The time was 7 minutes, 49 seconds.
New York taxicabs now have a periscope so that the driver doesn't have to turn and behold couples kissing when he wants to ask a question. By all means, let us subject our tax drivers to moral risks.
Big! Bang!
Portugal has taken up ping pong again. But America is still getting along with murder trials as the most popular sport.

A Promising Youngster

Jesse Lasky says that Louise Brooks (above), who has been appearing in vampire and Spanish roles, is one of the five best junior stars now acting for the screen.

It is urged that all posts conduct poppy sales Memorial Day allowing the proceeds to be used for the fund, and many Legion organizations in this division are understood to be planning such a sale.
Many Disabled
It was explained that there are 10,000 more disabled men and women of veterans in Texas than the total membership of the Legion in the state and that means must be provided to care for them. The Legion membership in Texas is now about 16,450, while there are 26,000 disabled and orphans, many of whom are wholly dependent. The fund is being raised not entirely in the Legion organization, but through the patriotic citizenship as a whole, with the Legion sponsoring the movement.

The amount of cotton on ship-board awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 102,000 bales, against 61,000 last year.

Due to meagre receipts the cattle market here today was a nominal affair. The sheep and hogs divisions, however, were generally steady.

NEW ORLEANS, May 21 (AP)—The drought in West Texas continued to advance in the cotton market today and trading was quite active for a short Saturday session.

Liverpool was hardly up to expectations but the market here opened five points up, mainly on reports of rain in sections where moisture is not needed...

The weather man, however, showed no rain in that section and prices rallied to 14.27 for July and 16.55 for October, 17 to 19 points above the low.

TUMULTUOUS ENTHUSIASM EXPRESSED OVER SUCCESS OF LINDBERGH FLIGHT

Sleep Battered

Paris without changing his seat. To the American it was something merely the achievement of an ambition.

Now Asleep

Tonight he lies in bed in his country's embassy. It was after midnight when he reached there—41 hours after he got out of bed in New York to make the great adventure in which already so many others had failed.

Story Tomorrow

The world must wait until tomorrow to hear from Lindbergh's lips the story of the flight that has made him forever famous.

Here's Welcome

Never has an aviator of any nation, even king or ruler, had a greater or more spontaneous welcome from the hearts of the common people of France.

Congratulations Offered

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—President Doumergue of France, in a message of congratulations to President Coolidge tonight elected the successful trans-Atlantic flight of Captain Lindbergh as the dream of Nungesser and Coll come true.

There He Is

"There he is!" The cry went up as the rays of the searchlights gleamed upon the monoplane gracefully descending from the darkness which had enveloped all and through which only the sound of the motor was heard of his approach.

Embraced By Crowd

He put a leg over the side of the cockpit and it was grasped by a dozen hands. He was his other leg, as soon as he could get it out of the machine, holding him high and cheering him, with cheers that came from the heart, as well as the lungs, the crowd took him to itself.

Carried to Building

For half an hour they pushed one another this way and that, trying to take young Lindbergh from his plane to the administration building on the landing field, where France had long been waiting to welcome him with due formality.

Wanted to See Him

Outside the crowd was howling for a sight of the hero who has won the heart of France as no American probably had before.

Did Not Hinder Flight

Determined to have no share in the publicity that came to the youthful aviator of the air, and to say nothing that would disturb

Philippines Next

ST. LOUIS, May 21 (AP)—Captain Charles Lindbergh's next long flight probably will be the United States to Australia or the Philippines, Major Albert Bond Lambert, a backer of the New York-to-Paris flight of the "Spirit of St. Louis," said here tonight.

New Record Set

PARIS, May 21 (AP)—Captain Charles Lindbergh established a new world's non-stop straight line distance record in his New York to Paris flight.

Mother Is Proud

DETROIT, May 21 (AP)—Through tears of joy, Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, spartan mother of an intrepid son, tonight expressed her belief that her boy, Captain Lindbergh, had arrived safely at the end of his daring flight, from New York to Paris.

Did Not Hinder Flight

Determined to have no share in the publicity that came to the youthful aviator of the air, and to say nothing that would disturb or distract him while he prepared for his great adventure.

Mrs. Lindbergh had observed a rigid silence since he hopped from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. A brief statement that she had ever confidence in his ability to make the flight was all she permitted herself to say.

Done Deliberately

"He has always been cool, calm and collected," she said. "He was not of the dare-devil type. Since he was a boy I have always permitted him to decide things for himself. He was taught to make his own decision and abide by what he decided."

Coming to match her charm with the beauties of the United States.

Mrs. Alice Halleh, has arrived at Los Angeles. The island queen is half Assyrian and half French.

Washington, but the adventuresome solitary attempt to Lindbergh forced the young flyer's personality into the picture and made his flight a test wherein a young sportsman staked everything in the face of the forebodings of experts.

"Pulled" for Lindbergh

Everybody in Washington "pulled" for Lindbergh steadily and hopefully, and as the day wore along, confidently. When the news of his arrival at Paris was flashed over the city, there was a spontaneous, city-wide expression of gratification, and officials led by President Coolidge sent their congratulations and praise speeding over the cables to the daring aviator.

Yesterday, when Lindbergh made

Doran Assumes Charge of Work in United States and Makes Plans

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—

A. Haynes is out of the government service and the duties of prohibition commissioner have been taken over by Dr. James M. Doran, appointed to that post yesterday by Secretary Mellon.

Declaring that it was not necessary for Haynes to resign,

Doran said: "We are going right ahead speeding up enforcement without any noise."

He recommended appointment of Major Herbert H. White, now a special investigator as assistant prohibition commissioner, and made arrangements to confer Monday with Assistant Secretary Andrews, who has resigned effective August 1.

There are between 25,000 and 30,000 deaf children in the United States.

Here's a Lulu From Honolulu

Coming to match her charm with the beauties of the United States, Mrs. Alice Halleh, has arrived at Los Angeles. The island queen is half Assyrian and half French.

Washington, but the adventuresome solitary attempt to Lindbergh forced the young flyer's personality into the picture and made his flight a test wherein a young sportsman staked everything in the face of the forebodings of experts.

"Pulled" for Lindbergh Everybody in Washington "pulled" for Lindbergh steadily and hopefully, and as the day wore along, confidently.

Yesterday, when Lindbergh made his sensational hop-off, the word high and low was "I hope he makes it." Today, as his progress was charted, the admiration and amazement of the city grew in direct ratio to his approach of Paris, and exploded as he landed with the jubilant cry: "He made it!"

News Announced An airplane winged up from Bolling field, bearing streamers which told the people that Lindbergh had made a safe passage. Cries went up from crowds on the streets, automobile horns were honked, and the city's workers went home glowing with pride.

All through the messages of congratulations sent to France there ran however, a note of sorrow over the failure of the Nungesser-Coll flight, and President Coolidge as well as others, made sympathetic reference to the French fliers in their telegrams.

Day of Suspense To Washington the day was one of suspense which recalled the pre-arrivals days. Thousands called newspaper offices for information of Lindbergh's progress. Government departments were abuzz with excitement, army and navy officers threw their whole souls into the job of furnishing the flier with moral support. Not much else was talked about at the capital, and from the attitude of the people on the street, little would have been needed to send the city into one of its infrequent, impromptu celebrations.

Not a great deal of consideration was given to the practical value of Lindbergh's feat in furthering commercial aviation. That will be figured out later. The thing today was that this young man had flown alone from New York to Paris without a stop, and that was a feat never before performed, and one which had been accomplished almost as casually as though the aviator had been flying over his old mail route.

UNIQUE CHURCH PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR LEGION

SPECIAL MUSIC AND ADDRESSES BY DISTINGUISHED MEN ARE TO BE OFFERED VISITING HUNDREDS

ALL EX-SERVICE MEN INVITED TO MEET WITH VISITORS AT HOTEL THEN MARCH OVER TO PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH SERVICES

The program to be offered at the First Presbyterian church today as a part of the American Legion convention which opened Saturday, is to be one of the most unique and best ever offered the public, but all who attend are asked to be service disclosed.

All ex-service men in the city are asked by Legion officials to march to gather at the Lubbock hotel, not later than 10:30 this morning, when a line of march will be formed for a parade to the church.

The service is open to the public, but all who attend are asked to remain outside the church building, leaving sufficient space for the parade to pass into the building, and as the parade nears the steps of the church, a program will be given, the exact nature of which has not been disclosed.

Pharr Heads Program

The program in the auditorium will be in charge of Honor L. Pharr, judge of the 72nd district court here, and will include short addresses by R. C. Winters, state commander of the Legion; Mrs. Wright Armstrong, former state president of the Legion Auxiliary; and Miss Mae Marice, secretary of the Lubbock chapter of the Red Cross.

Special music has been arranged under supervision of Mrs. R. L. McKnight, featuring songs of a patriotic nature. As the parade of ex-service men enters the auditorium, the choir will sing America, and after the congregation has settled into its seats, two verses of the Star Spangled Banner will be sung by the choir and audience.

The balance of the program as announced Saturday follows:

Invocation.

Solo—"Rose Of No Man's Land," R. N. White.

Address.

Solo—"My Buddy," Mrs. R. L. McKnight, attended by a sailor and soldier uniform.

Address.

Male Quartet—"My Dream of the Big Parade," R. N. White, R. G. Shelton, Dr. V. V. Clark and L. M. Brooks.

The choir will be in uniform in keeping with the occasion.

Following the service, all visitors will be taken for an automobile ride over the city and to the Tech pavilion, where a barbecue banquet will be sponsored. At least 100 cars will be needed, and Lubbock people have responded heartily to the call, but plenty of cars are wanted, officials said.

LEGION GROWING LEADERS REPORT

JOHN T. FULCHER PRODUCES FIGURES TO SHOW BIG TEXAS GROWTH

Membership in the Texas Department of the American Legion is now well above the number at the same time last year, and is steadily growing as the organization gains in favor with the public and veterans of the war begin to realize more thoroughly the benefits of the Legion, according to John T. Fulcher, state adjutant of the organization who is here to attend the convention of the Fifth Division.

Membership in the state is now 16,455, including remittances of Friday to the department at Austin, Mr. Fulcher was advised by telegram from state headquarters Saturday.

New Districts Look Good

The three districts of the Fifth Division show considerable increase in membership over the same period last year, with a total of 2,000 in three districts.

District 18, of which the Post at Lubbock is a part, shows a membership of 1,337, district 17, 1,385, and district 15, 278, a total of 3,000.

Districts in the Legion are bound by the same lines as congressional districts, it was explained, and each division in the state is composed of a certain number of districts. In this instance, division five is composed of districts 14, 17 and 18, nearly half the territorial section of the state.

Mr. Fulcher expressed much satisfaction with the growth of the Legion, and its rapid rise in popularity, both among the public and veterans themselves. The rolls, he said, reveal many new names that have never been on the Legion roster before.

Cooperation is Hearty

He said the organization is cooperating heartily, both as a state body and as individual posts, to the end that the disabled veteran may have better care and attention, and that through the Veterans Bureau, the vision of Legion officials to this end, is gradually being realized.

He expressed himself as greatly surprised at the success of the convention, and the reception of veterans offered by people of this city. Mr. Fulcher is to address the convention in business session at the pavilion at the Tech college this afternoon, when he will discuss the Legion's program in general.

OLD WOUNDS KILL

Diversification In Lockney Territory Is Getting Results

LOCKNEY, May 21.—Local citizens have prided themselves on living in the center of the best diversified section of Texas.

Further proof that diversified farming is in general practice in this section is that 410 gallons of cream has been shipped out of Lockney, by the different produce houses, during the past two weeks. The average price during this period has been about one dollar per gallon—these receipts and this price is about an average for the year and an $5,000 per month income for Lockney is no small item in its retail business.

Besides providing business for the merchant, the cream and poultry business, this year, has enabled the farmer to stay out of debt and has supplied him with spending money during the dull months even though he received very little profit on his last feed and cotton crop.

This section is in need of a large creamery or condensary to take care of the enormous amount of milk that full value for it not received. The general practice among the farmers now is to feed the skim milk to the chickens and hogs and should a creamery or condensary come here this waste of resources would be salvaged and the dairying business would be given added impetus.

ACUFF ANTICIPATES LARGE ATTENDANCE FOR SINGING

Citizens of Acuff are anticipating the attendance of more than 1,000 singers and visitors next Sunday when a regular meeting of the County Singing convention is held here. In addition to folk from communities throughout this county, they expect many from neighboring counties. Those who attend are to bring basket lunches to be spread at noon.

WILD REPORTS CONCERNING TERRY COUNTY OIL TEST RAPPED; WELL IS NOT NEAR DEEP SAND, SHELTON SAYS

By J. E. SHELTON

Brownfield Chamber of Commerce

BROWNFIELD, May 21.—The wildest test which is being drilled on the Brownfield ranch in Terry county, under the direction of the Kingsland Oil company has probably been the cause of more "cock and bull" stories concerning its oil-kushing possibilities, than any other wildcat well in West Texas, when as a matter of fact, it is not anywhere near the producing class.

The estimated depth of the well at present is between twelve and fourteen hundred feet and has penetrated a red bed formation of unknown thickness and has been very difficult to penetrate. Numerous caverns and collapsed casings have occurred and very slow drilling progress has been made. At the present time the company is changing from a standard rig to a combination rotary-standard and drilling operations are expected to be resumed within the next few days.

Two Sands Struck

At a depth estimated to be between six and seven hundred feet an oil sand was encountered which drillers did not consider of sufficient importance to test out. Another oil sand was penetrated at between ten and eleven hundred feet which was also passed up by the drillers.

The first water discovered in the test was below 300 feet and the find was cased off as were all subsequent ones, but when it was decided to use rotary rig it was necessary to drill an additional water well and this was located within five feet of the test. At a depth of about one hundred and twenty feet water was encountered and it is thought that this is supplied by the strata found in the test well which is believed to have risen above its level after being cased off.

A limited amount of oil with some gas also showed in the water well, but this is not known whether it is being supplied by the first or the second oil sand, but is not believed to be in commercial quantities. It is said that officials of the oil company are regretful that each of the oil sands were not tested but this could not now be done easily. It is believed by the oil

COME TELL YOUR FRIENDS

He Is Not Married Legion Chief Here

John T. Fulcher, state adjutant of the Texas Department of the American Legion, who was reported May 16 having arrived here with wife, today very vehemently denied that he was accompanied by wife, with the statement that he was "enjoying life outside the home."

The report arose from a telegram received from Mr. Fulcher earlier this day asking that two reservations be made for him. Fulcher recently took over the state adjutant's job in Austin following resignation of Starling H. Hawkins, who had named State Service Officer for creation of the latter post by the Legislature, and reports that the Legion is growing and gaining ground in Texas by leaps and bounds.

New Books In Library Make Appeal To Many Tastes In Subject Matter

Books added to the library recently are upon a variety of subjects, making an appeal to many classes of readers, according to announcements made by Miss Frances Ford, librarian. She presents the following list of more recent additions:

shots hit outside the bulls-eye. Unusual significance is given this record by reason of the fact that Neff shot a pistol for the first time last March. Neff is first sergeant of D troop, cavalry, the highest cadet corps rank he can hold as a junior. He has made high scholastic record since a student at A. and M. He wears glasses.

NITRO SHOT MAKES HARDING WELL, NEAR BIG SPRING, LOOK BETTER AS PETROLEUM PRODUCTION INCREASES

Big Spring, May 21.—The J. B. Harding well six miles South of Big Spring on Section 19, Block 22, shows much promise since it was given a shot of 200 quarts of nitro-glycerin on last Wednesday. Estimates are being put on the production ranging from 100 to 200 barrels immediately following the shot the oil rose two thousand feet in the well and bubbling and cleaning out is taking place at present.

GASOLINE NOW 11c

A welcome announcement is the fact that gasoline may now cost only 11c. It is estimated that this reduction would effect a saving of many dollars for the American Motorists. This amazing reduction is brought about by a mysterious little device that is easily installed on any car in a few minutes time. E. Oliver, 1041-1123 Winnebago St., Milwaukee, Wis., is so proud of this invention that for a limited time he is offering the device free to auto owners who will help introduce it. He also needs men everywhere and offers profits of $75 to $100 a week to men who will handle local business. Write him at once for his free sample offer and money making proposition. (Adv.)

LONDON—Richard Lovell has invented an all metal tap or faucet without washers which he claims will never leak.

So Speedy

Big tubfuls of clothes are washed in 3 to 7 minutes—a whole washing is done in one short hour.

So Thorough

Even collars, cuffs and wristbands are washed spotlessly clean without hand-rubbing. Greasy spots all are washed clean as new in 10 minutes.

So Handy

Adjustable legs raise or lower washer to suit your height. The lid makes a convenient work table. Clothes can be put in or taken out of tub while washer is running.

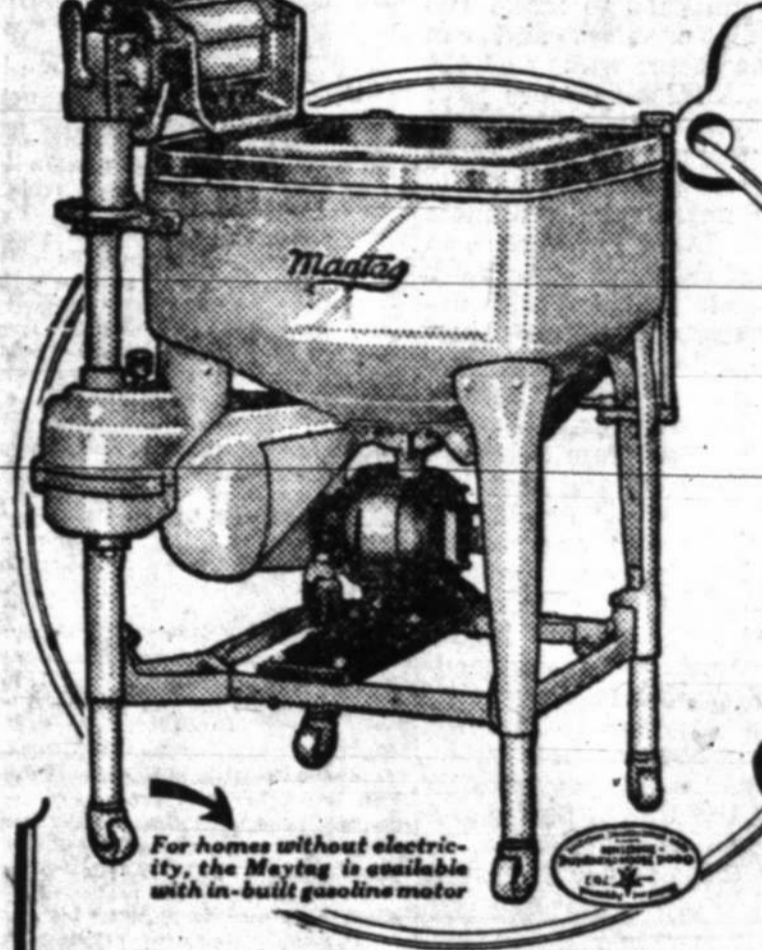

So Clean

No preliminary work to get washer ready. No cleaning up as the Maytag cast-aluminum tub drains and cleans itself in 30 seconds after the washing is done.

So Compact

The Maytag can be used in any space that will accommodate a chair yet the tub has an unusually large capacity—there is no machinery inside to take up clothes space.

their own free, clear will they believe that there is quicker and easier money in crime than in honest work. Although surrounded by other men who remain honest and hard working in exactly the same environment, these confirmed criminals decide that they do not want to toil with hand or brain during 45 hours a week, like the rest of us. They prefer to work one hour a week with a jimmy or an automatic pistol while under the influence of a drug called heroin. The dissipation, pleasures and luxuries which you and I deny ourselves in order either to save money or to remain efficient for business, the confirmed criminal enjoys freely and fully—with your and my earnings and savings.

So the sooner we put the confirmed criminals safely away where he cannot harm us, the better for all of us—the better, indeed, oftentimes for the criminal himself.

AIRPLANES

Just as was said about the automobile, "it never will be practical" was said of the airplane, yet within the past few years the development of airplanes has progressed greatly. American designers and builders are producing types not surpassed in any other land, and soon they will turn out ships doubtless exceeding any now in use. F. Trube Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, who supervises Army aeronautical activities, considers flying in 1927 as different from the 1917 aviation as the handling of a locomotive today is from that of the first engines on pioneer American lines. The arrival in San Antonio of a giant Fokker monoplane, taking the Secretary of War, Dwight F. Davis, to the joint maneuvers there, calls attention to the rapid development of large, multiple-engined types designed for safety, speed and comfort. These planes can keep aloft with only one engine working, and doubtless they will be the prevailing types on passenger lines within a few years. Some designers are paying particular heed to large two-engined monoplanes for long, fast flights. For example, the Santa Maria II, a Savoia seaplane which Commander Francesco de Pinedo piloted from Chicago to Montreal last Tuesday, is equipped with two 500-horsepower Isotta-Fraschini motors. The hop, about eight hundred miles, was taken in 11½ hours. That was an excellent performance, but De Pinedo plans to cross the Atlantic faster. His ship—78.8 feet from tip to tip—is designed to make 100 miles an hour while cruising, and can cover 123 miles an hour with a 4,410 pound useful load. Airplane motors have been so well developed that single-engined types still hold their own. The Loening amphibian, which carries an inverted Liberty motor, was demonstrated valuable during the 20,000-mile Pan-American flight; and only one engine was replaced. The Army Air Corps is provided with up-to-date ships of several types, and planes of wartime design are being replaced rapidly. The 30 swift pursuit ships flown in the maneuvers are attracting much attention. Several were piloted from Selfridge Field, Michigan, to Montreal and back last winter, under virtually Arctic conditions. They are fighting planes pure and simple, and would be the first in contact with a foe. Army Air Corps attack, observation and training planes now used are highly efficient types, but more of them are needed. The Air Corps desires to assist civil aviation in this country, and its offer should be accepted whenever new enterprises are undertaken. It has inaugurated several trails across the United States and abroad, and many civilian flyers follow its model airway over this country from sea to sea.

It is dangerous proceeding to circulate your views as to what the weather is going to be, if a story issuing out of Dallas is to be believed. Last week someone circulated a story that another cyclone was approaching the vicinity of Dallas, and many people in the neighborhood of Nevada and Garland sought refuge in storm cellars. The rumor proved to be false and now police and federal officers are seeking the source of the rumor, declaring that conviction of circulating false weather reports is punishable by fine and imprisonment. It is said to be comparable to circulating rumors which may result in a run on a bank. This new ruling is going to take a lot of joy out of life. If a fellow can't talk about the weather, what can he talk about?

There are many different kinds of police, but kitchen police are possibly the most disagreeable official duty that has ever been performed. This is the month May Rain and May Snow. And may not has the lead so far. Lubbock school are rounding out one of the most successful terms that it has ever known in the history of the city. The contention of a German scientist that earthquakes are confined through observations on an official of the New York state museum. He, however, believes that they produce a sound by dragging the fine bristles under their bodies over a hard object. The mother of William McKinley is the only mother who ever lived to see her son inaugurated president of the United States.

Little Avalanches

Today you will have an opportunity of seeing the largest graduation class that the Lubbock High School has ever produced. Dan Moody says he is not in the race for United States Senator. That is quite natural that Dan would say that, but a little later in the year he may be prevailed upon to do so. It is time for tourists to come through Lubbock. It is a well known fact that traffic rules are different in many places, and if some of these folks should accidentally violate some of them we think the traffic department should be generous. Tell them about it with a smile, and ask them to come back.

SO THINK WE

Lubbock could possibly improve her public park situation. There are plenty of pretty park grounds on the canyon, and the present plan for the city to make a good park north of town is one that should have the hearty support of every one in this city.

Lubbock is big enough to have a supervised play ground, and we are of the opinion that it will be money well spent when such a thing is entered into by the people of this community.

People who prefer to live in rent-houses do not know that a satisfaction there is in calling the place where you live "ours." It makes the home the more sacred, and if one is really interested in home, there are so many things that enter into making the place "home" that would not be if it was a rent-house, that there is no comparison.

And Europe stands and looks on with awe again as America sends a high flyer over seas on a non-stop trip in a flying machine. Greece in America, most anyone will have to admit.

The people of Lubbock can do no better thing for themselves and the people who live on the farm and milk the cows and raise the chickens and the hogs than to choose the best market to be found anywhere.

There are people who add much to the deplorable divorce conditions every day by gossiping, and continually keeping up a sort of misunderstanding between husband and wife. It is a pity that there would not be something more important in the minds of the people than something of that sort.

America first. It looks like America is first again. This afternoon as we write this paragraph the American airman is making tracks through the air on the French coast, which means that America has accomplished the first non-stop flight ever known in the history, extending across the pond. America first.

If you don't believe that times have changed just check up on the time it took Columbus to cross the Atlantic and the time it took Lindbergh to pilot his ship across.

Some people are still of the opinion that the speed limit means that you must make at least that much speed and many of the accidents are due to the excess in speed. It is a wonder that there are not more accidents than have been recorded up to date. Here is the list for the week ending May 15: Injured 55 and thirteen killed.

Watermelons and vacation are both coming. Both may depend upon the rain however, and according to the pessimist there will be no rain.

The pessimist who did not fix the roof of his house because he was sure it was not going to rain, will have something more to write about when the rain comes and the water leaks all over the wall paper and which makes him the carpenter and the pictures and the piano, etc.

It is now expected that there will be provided in the cities certain streets on which there will be no stops allowed. They will be one-way streets, and it will be a straight drive with no turns or no stops. They will be fine, but there will have to be an end to them somewhere, and there will always be some one who is wanting to be the first one to the end. That will mean more trouble in passing.

It is said to be responsible for the sale of more automobiles than any other one thing, and we are of the opinion that it will sell more homes than most anything else. To say the least of it. Houses that do not have any paint, or on which the paint is allowed to become so bright and shiny and pretty, will not attract as those with nice bright paints and pretty lawns.

The big oil companies will soon overcome the oil slump, but many of the little companies will never recover from it.

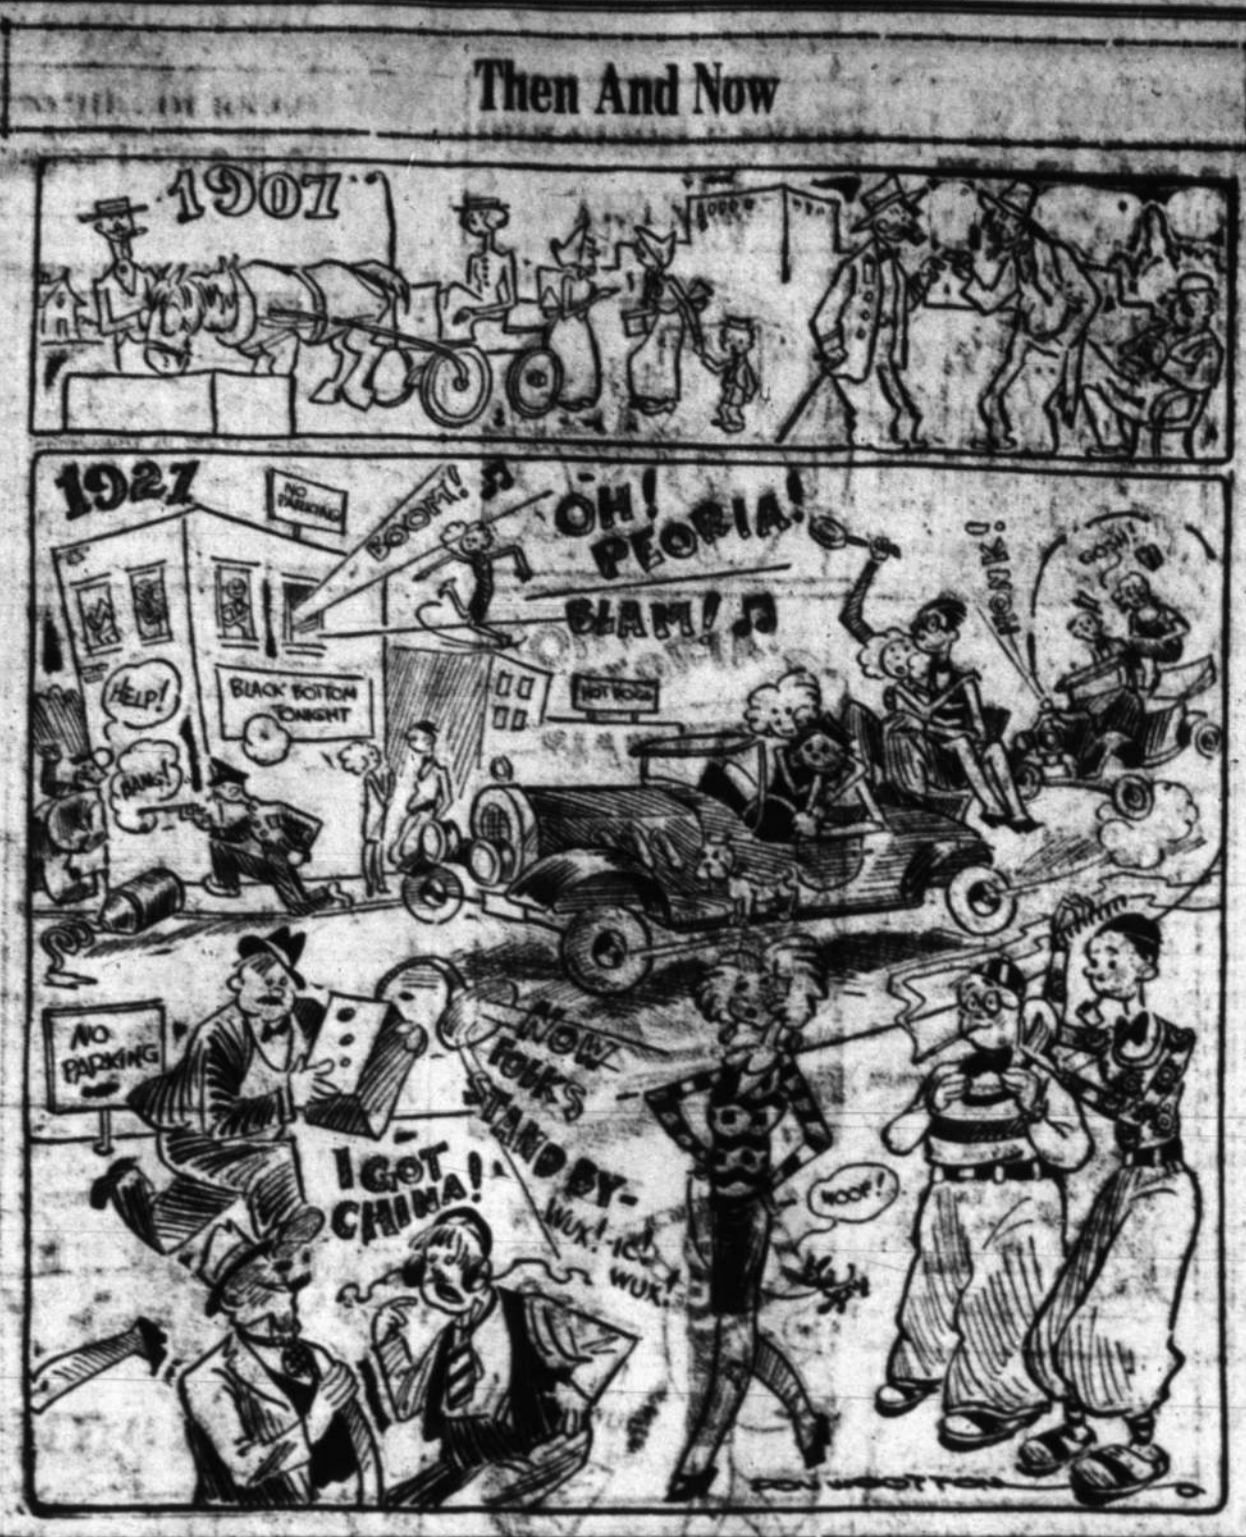

We have heard some people say they never saw it so dry. Some people's memory is very short. This is not dry at all compared with some other times that we have a record of. The worst of the best of the time may be all that they can remember. They can't tell the truth about it any more.

One fellow said yesterday that it would rain this town to have a real house. It would require a lot more big buildings to be erected, and there might be some of the old ones vacated. The pessimist can never see anything but the hole in the doughnut.

There are many different kinds of police, but kitchen police are possibly the most disagreeable official duty that has ever been performed. This is the month May Rain and May Snow. And may not has the lead so far.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that possibly the modern times have something to do with the behavior of the Mississippi. It is possible only one of the characteristics of the modern father. At least it seems to behave about the way that some other fathers have very unconsciously.

It is reported that a man takes a lot of time when he celebrates his birthday and a woman takes a year off. We do not touch for the truthfulness of this report.

It is reported that very few people are pleased with the way publicity is handled regarding themselves, but they are tickled to death the way other folks are written up.

It is reported that London is celebrating the 10th anniversary of the making of matches. From what we have read, the women folks were making matches long before that time.

It is reported that after a person has had a hard thing about some one, that you may take it back, but it always leaves a stain, that will hardly come out.

A SERMON

A STRANGE DECISION
By J. W. Holland

A boy was haled into a Chicago court recently accused of some petty offense against the law. He was not a criminal, but a good boy with nothing to do to keep him good. Most bad boys are good boys, badly handled.

The trial revealed the sad fact that the father was too busy to take enough interest in his boy. His club life was absorbing his boy to destruction. He had never played, talked, or walked with his boy.

No judge pronounced the sentence, in which the father was required to take his boy "a-fishing" once a week until next fall. A father is the natural hero for his son. No arms are quite so strong as "father." No man knows quite so much as a boy's father.

There is no deeper hunger in the heart of a growing boy than that which calls for an inspiring companionship with a grown man. No one can get quite so close to a boy as his father, and no one can exert so powerful an influence over him, if his father is on the job.

I know the line about a mother's apron strings. They are divine tethers. Widow's sons have a way of making good. Great as is the tender solitude of a mother's love, there is a time in every boy's life when a mother's tears do not amount to much. During these years of dancing manhood, the boy who rises his father's counsel and companionship has lost the strongest manhood making force that he can ever know.

CITY PLANNING

The city planning expert can do wonders for a city. San Diego (Calif.) has employed city planners' services, and as a result is going to become more or less of a model for other cities to copy.

A major street plan a harbor and waterfront development and a general park system are now under way.

The harbor port entrance, when finished, will rival that of Rio de Janeiro. Nearly is a three-mile-long aviation field, tidal lands being filled in with the dirt that is dredged from the harbor.

The project alone is costing $1,500,000.

Improvements under way will cost altogether $10,000,000, which is being raised by bonds and assessments. The water front will include space for commerce and recreation; there is to be a harbor drive 200 feet wide, and a street will run over a viaduct to the business district, eliminating a grade crossing.

City planning pays. San Diego is proving it.

Planning a city is a difficult job, especially a West Texas town. It does not always stop growing where some folks might think they would. For instance Lubbock founders would have had a great time planning Lubbock thirty years ago. It is very much like building a business house without knowing just how much your business is going to develop. Usually additions made, but even then we should plan our city as we plan our homes, and make them for the best interests of everyone, and build permanently.

Cities should always plan a number of parks or at least one good one, and they should begin early in the game to improve them. No town is richer than the one that has nice recreational places. Parks are wonderful things. They inspire the people to blither and nobler things. They give an outlet to the pure fresh atmosphere and the pleasant hours each day spent in them is worth much in building citizenship.

Each in his separate place by day stands to his little task. A tenant in a house of clay. A face that wears a mask.

And neither from the smile nor frown Can any mortal tell The dreams of splendor and renown. Which in the house may dwell.

Some deeds there are better than man So varied are his needs. And often, serving someone or man, A man helps his needs.

Within the house of old his dreams And happy fancies dwell. Which, just to be the man he seems, He heavenly puts aside.

"KEEP ON A KEEPIN' ON"

Farmers of Dawson County are planting right now. Their hopes may be a little frayed at this time by reason of the continued dry weather, but their faith is still rampant.

One of these days (we hope) an abundance of rain will be heard and all this talk and suspense about the weather situation turned into actual farm operations—Dawson County Journal.

There are those who will give up at the first resistance. There are those who will fight awhile and the night, and then there are those who will fight to the last ditch and die fighting. It is those that stay in there and fight that win the battles. It is not the fellows that drop when they first start, but the ones that turn to run. It is not

Avoiding Disease

If Baby Isn't Sick or Spoiled, He Won't Cry Very Often. BY DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

When a baby is not sick that is to say when it is gaining steadily in weight and does not have fever, vomiting, or any other symptoms indicating a severe illness, it should cry relatively little.

A certain amount of crying is necessary for the infant in order to develop the lungs and as a form of exercise. Some babies may cry as long as an hour continuously and not be harmed; others may cry a total of an hour during 24 hours. Mothers are usually advised, as pointed out by Dr. S. A. Rose, not to take up the child, except at feeding, not to resist to pacifiers and not to use any sedatives.

The healthy baby that cries may be so because it is hungry, because it is uncomfortable, because it is thirsty, because of bad habits or nervousness.

The capacity of the baby's stomach varies. During the first few months the stomach may contain from two to four ounces. The mother may tell how much food the baby is getting at each nursing by weighing the baby before and after the nursing period, and allowing for such milk as the baby may regurgitate on its clothing. If the amount of food taken is below the amount necessary to satisfy the stomach, it may be necessary to provide additional food.

Today's Poem

MAN

None knows what fires within him burn. Only the stars and the moon For every passer-by to learn His countless bitter tears.

What strange temptations he resists. What dangers thoughts he quits To face the unknown's battle line His conduct seldom tells.

And one to serve another's need Has hid his greater dream away. And kept the greater selfish deed Within his house of clay.

As many a violet comes to bloom On fields and in the garden ground. So there are stars in the loom Whom absence has never found.

HOLD INSURANCE, VETERANS URGED

DALLAS MAN HERE FOR LEGION MEETING, GIVES ADVICE TO EX-SOLDIERS

Outside of superintending care and treatment of disabled veterans of the World War as far as available funds will permit, the United States Veterans Bureau, at Dallas, is now pressing every means known to impress upon war veterans, disabled and others, the importance of reinstatement of their government insurance if such has not been done.

portance to disabled men who are not in physical condition to secure other forms of insurance, and he urged that every veteran take steps at once to reinstate his policy. He derided the argument of some that they are not financially able to renew the policy, saying that under these conditions, the policy can be renewed in full force by notifying proper authorities, preferably through the instrumentality of the Legion, of wishes of the veteran, and that if no money is available with which to pay up the back premiums, this will be taken care of by the government at a nominal rate of interest and charged against the face value of the policy.

Policy in Full Force In short, the policy would be in full force, and premiums, if none were paid, would be charged against the policy, leaving a tidy sum to be at the disposal of the veteran or his dependents at his death.

Mr. Cantwell lauded very highly the co-operation of Legion points over the state in assisting with the Bureau's program, pointing to the (to be) similar organizations with identical objects and purposes—better care for war veterans, especially the disabled and orphaned children of veterans.

Mr. Cantwell said, in closing, that the favor daily with the general public, and through it, great is being accomplished for the disabled man.

SINGERS AND ORCHESTRA MEET TOMORROW

W. R. Washburn, head of the music department of the Tech, is calling a general rehearsal tomorrow of all the chorus, soloist and orchestra who are taking part in the production of the Rose Maiden at the College Gymnasium next Thursday evening. All the singers are very enthusiastic over the beauty of the composition, and the soloists delighted with the very grateful concerted pieces which abound in the work. This, the first appearance of the Choral club in a large work, is being looked forward to with considerable interest. No admission will be charged, the production being a part of the graduation program.

FIRST BILLBOARD BALL WILL BE GIVEN WEDNESDAY

Presenting the final and what has been termed as the climax social of the year, the members of the Student Council are sponsoring the First Annual Billboard Ball which will be held in the Assembly hall, Wednesday night, May 25. The dance is to be the farewell event of the social activities of the student body.

With a possible deficit facing La Ventana, the college yearbook, the council members are devoting their time toward raising a guarantee so that the book might come out before the close of this term. All receipts from the dance will go to the annual fund.

The printers have already begun work on the yearbook and have stated that they will be able to place it in the hands of the students before the close of the spring term.

STUDENT OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED TOMORROW

With the selection of the student officers for the year 1927-28 as their purpose, the students will gather in a special convocation, Monday morning at 11:00 o'clock at the assembly hall to hold the second annual spring election of the student body.

Although politics have been brewing rather lively during the past elections, affairs are more quiet at this time than before any election ever held on the campus. No certain man has been mentioned for the presidency more than any other, although a number have been on the lips of several students.

By a ruling made by the student council, every freshman and Monday night, only upperclassmen are to be eligible for the offices. This means that the freshmen of this year will have to cast their vote only, the rule prohibiting them from announcing a candidate. The election will be held by standing vote and nominations are to be made from the floor.

SUMMER CAMP TO BE CONDUCTED BY TECH COACHES

Many of the Tech Athletes have shown considerable interest in the proposed summer camp that is to be conducted by Coach Higginbotham and Captain Engerton on the Concho river during the last six weeks of the vacation months. This camp will have all the accommodations of high class pleasure resorts, having conveniences for boating, fishing, golfing, hunting, fishing and all of the major sports that are carried on at the college. The camp is for the purpose of training the boys of the college and high school graduates for the major sports and to insure success in the future of Tech's athletes, and to offer them six weeks of outdoor life and vacation enjoyment. The summer camp will terminate in a two weeks football training of the Matador crew immediately preceding the opening of school.

Letters Boost Sunday School Classes 'Twins' Write Urging Good Attendance

This is the season of the year when thorny rose bushes express poignant beauty, and the turbulent hearts of the young reach upward like the dew covered violet sparkling before the morning sun.

The cupidish maiden and the restless young man must have an argus for the expression of thoughts that have lain placid during the winter months. Some express them selves verbally, but those whose saucer moments are when about have chosen the letter.

The student federation of the First Methodist church has inaugurated a "letter writing" campaign for the purpose of increasing Sunday school attendance, with the obvious result that democracy is being promoted. "The Twins," as members of the organization are known, have been given the names of persons to whom they write. Each twin writes a weekly letter to his or her correspondent never revealing the author's name. The letter usually closes with a plea for an hour of "homework" which are the words "Your Twin, Hester." The receiver shudders with perplexity and answers with liberal aplomb.

Many Are Subtle

Many of the letters reveal subtle tactfulness and myriad philosophies. A few of the letters are ambiguous and assume the proportions, while most of them are creditably expressive of sincerity of worthwhile living.

The letters glow with the warmth of friendship, anonymous friendships charming, sparkling and true personalities are admirably woven into words.

Occasionally one oozes to the intellectual ivory towers of the hermit thickets and treats with subjects so abstract that a college professor would turn green with envy. It has been my "homework" which are the "intelligentsia" for the past several hours to determine what is being written to "Twins" this season. So many things are simply not being done, you know. However I have concluded that despite the fact that we must rely upon his own activity, progressivity his judgment must occasionally suffer disillusionment; and yet cynicism and pessimism are two "isms" which shall never be admitted to the select Four Hundred. Even I am trying to qualify by saying outside the pale of these "isms" a certain quality of character, which do not tend to develop the postures of self.

But I tend toward verbosity, redundancy, circumlocution.

Some Quote Poetry

Concluding a voluminous treatise of bores which exudes from the depths of mediocrity to the peaks of the select few in the world of wisdom, a gracious scribe augments the pleasure of the reader with the following words: "The night has grown very snug indeed. The Chantrelles already have resumed activity. The atmosphere is this, restlessness—and the sand is ambitious with the sibilant of wanderlust. It is dark outside—dark. I think I should be solemnly if I were not writing to you—but it is the game that I be impersonal. It seems no different for you. But I did like your note. Bricks are being piled on my eye lashes—I should be studying some more for exam in the morning—Chancer—Days are long aren't they? But I like them. Years are not so long—You will forgive my spelling of your name, last time, won't you? I am not a launderer's son, but it seems I must hang my nose on this line."

Intriguing maidens write, naïveté of flowers, birds, springtime, and other delightful things. Their simplicity is rather charming, as evidenced by responsive notes of the appropriate, sex. As an imprisoned bird, a petite miss sometimes escapes from the bars of commonplace living and upward her imagination flies into the ethereal world of the soul, playing the harp which harmonizes the fibrous chords of the human heart. The instrumentality of words breaks the iron wall of selfishness, and the intrigued feels that he has a purpose in life. So he answers, and thus a friendship is formed.

Of course no friendship is complete without proper formalities. Realizing this, members of the Methodist Student's Federation have planned a picnic for tomorrow night, at which time those to whom the letters were addressed will have the pleasure of meeting the authors. It will be a revealing meeting, a relief from suspense for many, and something to eat, with much chatter and fun for all.

COCA COLA MANAGER THINKS LARGER UNIT MAN BE NEEDED SOON

Another ice unit for Lubbock is highly probable, according to a statement made by F. L. Lindsey, manager of the Coca Cola Bottling and Ice company this week. The company has been handling ice in this city for only a short time, but patronage has been very satisfactory. For this reason a new ice unit of large capacity is being considered.

At this time the company is serving a number of South Plains cities with bottled beverages, and the Lubbock plant is of sufficient size to care for the business here and with a large surplus. While no definite plans have been announced it is thought that in time Lubbock will be a central station for many South Plains towns and ice and bottled drinks manufactured here will be shipped to the smaller towns in preference to operating a number of small plants.

CATTLEMEN AND SHEEP MEN, ONCE BITTER FOES, ORGANIZE TO FIGHT THEIR COMMON ENEMY, THE RUSTLER

FORT WORTH, May 21.—The notion that the ancient warfare between cattle and sheep raisers and rustlers is a thing of the past and exists today only in the works of certain well known magazine and novel writers is a mistaken one, officials of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association, an organization which is constantly battling the rustler, said here.

Autos Are Put Through Exhaustive Tests at "Proving Grounds"

This is the last of a series of articles on "How the Automobile is Made."

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

Engineers aren't through with an automobile after it is produced. In fact, they've just begun thinking with it, finding its faults and its promises. In an effort to improve the next product.

For this purpose some of the large companies have what are called "proving grounds."

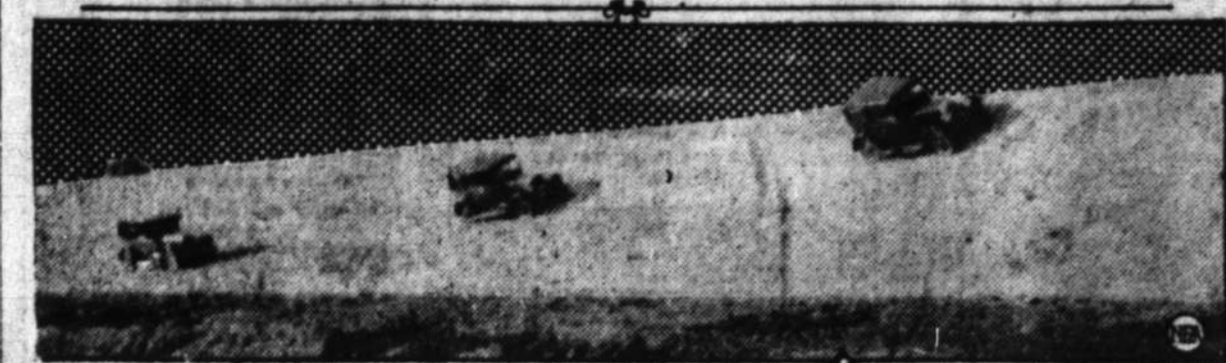

The General Motors "proving ground," at Milford, Mich., for instance has about 20 miles of private highway laid out so as to represent every road condition that the average driver meets. There are hills ranging from 7 per cent grades to as high as 24 per cent. There are concrete and gravel roads.

There is a level concrete stretch without a kink or a twist in it a mile in length, and there is a speed track with embankments at the turns making a 45 degree angle with the level road.

There is a north and south road, and an east and west road, no intersection between them, each to test little idiosyncrasies of driving, the resistance of a north wind or the difference in speed or gasoline usage when driving in opposite of cross directions.

No Law Applies
These are samples of the tiny details that are being examined in the actual driving of automobiles. Everything conceivable can be done here, from trailing along at 2 miles an hour to speeding at the fastest an engine can pull a car.

There are no state laws, no constraints to stop the drivers. No imaginable factor about a car is taken for granted, no beliefs or theories permitted. Everything, even though known for a certainty, is tested to learn the actual facts. Even the instruments placed in the car aren't trusted. Instead of the special gasoline gauges, special speedometers and other apparatus devised in the research laboratories are fitted to the car on test and the readings are taken from these.

tion attached to a car for more accurate readings. This is called a fifth wheel speedometer, and it can be relied on for all speeds.

Gasoline consumption, also, is tested by combination of burnettes, or long tubes, showing the driver how this fuel is being burned.

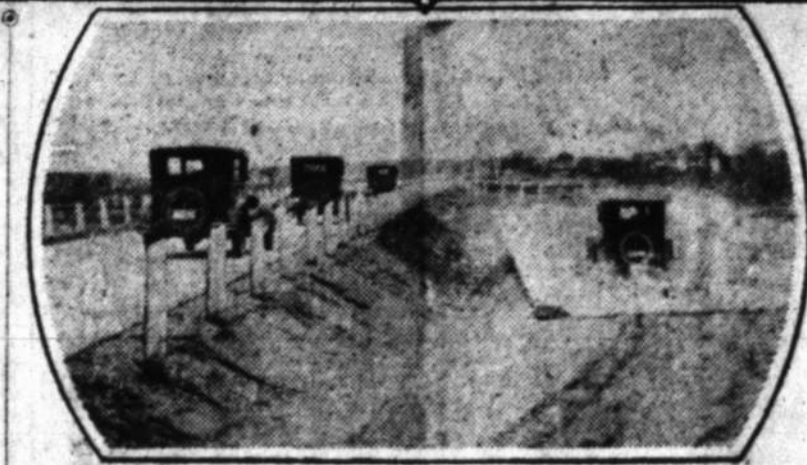

Other tests include acceleration, deceleration, rolling friction, riding qualities, fuel economy at fixed speeds, minimum and maximum speeds, endurance, hill climbing, braking, driver's vision range, reflection from cars behind, head-lighting, steering effort, vibration, noise, brake and clutch pedal pressure, crank case dilation, ventilation, size and appearance.

There's a concrete mile straight-away to test pickup, speed and braking. There's a spiken stretch, called a "bath tub" to learn the effect of water on a car's parts. Special cameras are used to photograph cars from all angles for appearance and vision.

All these and many other tests and measurements are made and tabulated by figures and graphs. Many facts are being gathered apparently with no purpose in view, except that they'll be on record whenever an engineer happens to want them. Then they might form the basis for an improvement long desired in the auto world.

How these facts are used and compared is suggested by O. T. Kreuzer, engineer in charge of the General Motors proving ground.

How Cars Compare
Here are two cars providing the same amount of leg room and seating comfort," he points out. "One car can steer in a circle of ten per cent less diameter than the other. Assuming everything else being positive degree embankments at curves permit drivers to keep their cars going at highest speed, to test their stamina, while the straight-away and "bath-tub," shown in over view, afford other important tests. These are views of the General Motors Proving Ground at Milford, Mich.

equal it can be deducted that the car steering within the shorter radius has the advantage from the customer's point of view.

Here again are two cars, in one of which the driver has a vision through the windshield and past the corner posts that is 20 per cent greater than the other's. Again the one with the greater vision area has the advantage, if everything else is equal.

Unfortunately, out of necessity the automobile must be a compromise involving a great many factors, any one of which may be of major importance to a particular customer.

The car mentioned as having a shorter turning radius, may be less steady to drive on rough roads. The car having greater driving vis-

REHABILITATION AT ROCK SPRINGS IS BEING CARRIED ON; 289 PEOPLE HELPED THROUGH TEXAS GENEROSITY

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, May 21.—Rehabilitation with most people means nothing more than a term used in connection with the relief fund drives which follow outstanding disasters such as the Rock Springs tornado. Very few of these people who contribute to such funds ever see the results of their generosity, but the work of the rehabilitation is a very intricate and complicated task which is planned in the hands of skilled Red Cross workers.

At Rock Springs for instance, rehabilitation has been accomplished in 289 cases. Many of these were families including several members. In each case a complete history of the individual or family a record of the resources, liabilities and losses and an estimate of the economic conditions before and after the storm had been made.

Rebuilding Arranged
In each case where home or store was badly damaged arrangements have been made to supply a new structure or rebuild the old. The new buildings are not large or as valuable as the old in most cases, but they are substantial and enable the owners to carry on.

In all cases where the victims of the tornado will need financial aid for sometime trust funds have been established which will furnish the victims an income until they again become self-sufficient.

One young man with a family who lost an arm and cannot return to his old trade, has been supplied with modest home suitable for a chicken farm, enough capital to start the venture, $35 a month for seven months and funds for a correspondence course in poultry raising. The Red Cross saved the man's life by rushing a serum from New York to combat infection in his wound. The serum came by air mail at a total cost of more than $50.

a month for two years and $36 a month for seven years. By this time it is thought that the children will be able to contribute to the family income.

Allotments Are Made
An orphan girl was allotted $500 to be expended so that it will cover and of the cost of her education and an aged woman has been allotted $20 monthly for the rest of her life, enough with her small income to assure her something to live on for the rest of her days.

The Rock Springs disaster has already dropped into the limbo of yesterday's news and is recalled only now and then. Ten years from now it will be remembered only when tabulations are made of disastrous storms, but many of the victims of the storm will be drawing the benefit of the relief fund. Rehabilitation does not end until every possible effort has been made to restore the economic independence of the individual.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
BERLIN—Saying that Fraulein Mueller in Mackenrode, Saxony, got married is almost synonymous with referring to all the married women in town. According to the local church records, the maiden name of every bride who married in twelve months, with one exception, was Mueller.

In the same year there were twelve times as many births as deaths and eight times as many marriages as funerals.

Today's greatest value in the six-cylinder field

In this new creation of Hupmobile, the Six Brougham, is close-coupled beauty—the verve and dash of a four-passenger coupe—with ample provision for five adult passengers.

Door openings are 36 inches wide and give generous room for entrance or exit. Individual front seats, thickly upholstered and shaped for greatest comfort, are adjustable for legroom.

Special interior features include remote control door handles; upholstery of genuine mohair; attractively patterned hardware and a new instrument panel, with all dials grouped under glass and indirectly lighted.

Not alone in the beauty and equipment that meets the eye, but in the sounder essentials of construction, Hupmobile Six creates a new conception of value at a list price of $1385.

You will be delighted in the quick functioning of the powerful six engine (aided by the new manifold heat control), the ease of steering and parking, the roadability that makes the longest trip both restful and enjoyable.

Providing all that the six-cylinder principle offers at a price several hundreds of dollars less than you would expect to pay, Hupmobile Six is called the closest-priced six on the American market. You will soon know why when you get behind the wheel of this stylish and comfortable Brougham.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

THIS HAS HAPPENED
T. Q. CURTIS takes BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SMELTON, employees from his department store, into his home for a year as his wards, because he wants to help them further their ambitions each has expressed.

Billy, who wants to become a concert violinist, is the only one sincerely ambitious. The other two like to enjoy the old man's generosity.

The girls accidentally learn that he intends adopting one of them when the year is up. A battle ensues for his affections. Billy is unwillingly drawn into the game, and this, together with her infatuation for DAL ROMANINE, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, hostess, causes her to lose interest in her violin.

Dal makes ardent love to Billy but asks her to keep their engagement a secret. Much to her surprise, she learns he is also "playing" Winnie Shelton. One day RALPH TRUMAN takes Billy through his father's automobile factory. There Billy sees again CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor. Billy first meets Clay when he dishevels himself and comes to live with the Wells family in the poor section of the town working in the factory by day and writing music at night. Clay's sensitive face is drawn in nervous agony as he works before a noisy, noisy machine. Billy speaks to him, pointing out the rhythm and cadence in the noise of the big machinery. The idea for Clay's symphony, "The Song of Toil," is born.

During the factory tour, Ralph warns Billy against Dal Romaine. Billy is so hurt she leaves Ralph and finds Clay in the crowd of departing workers, rides to town on the bus with him. He proposes to Billy, but she refuses, saying she could not now marry a laboring man. Clay believes her precipitation into sudden wealth has ruined her and leaves her in despair. Billy goes home to find a note from Dal Romaine.

NDW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXVII

The note from Dal Romaine was printed in tiny, beautiful characters. The sight of his writing gave Billy a queer shock. She had never seen anything from him before, but she had imagined that he would write dashing. The note, on a deckle-edged square of expensive correspondence paper, such as a fastidious woman might use, was dated simply "Friday."

"I'd forgot," Billy whispered to herself. She looked up, caught sight of her own image in the triple mirrors of her dressing table, and was shocked and incredulous at what she saw. Some-where on that mad flight home she had lost her hat.

She passed a hand wearily across her eyes, pushed back the wild tangle of her chestnut curls, tried to see herself clearly, out of the fog of her misery, in the triple mirrors. How pale she was! She shivered, and focused her eyes on the note in her hand.

"Friday—4 p. m. Mignon, darling, I must leave without seeing you. I've waited here for an hour for you, and now I must hurry away to make a train. I—ben called to Chicago on urgent business, and shall not be able to return until Monday. That means, dear heart, that our Saturday and Sunday engagements are off, or at least, postponed. I am terribly sorry, dear, but I know you will understand and forgive. I did so want to see you before I left. Goodbye, darling. I am hoping you fast. You understand. Dal."

She read it three times, painstakingly, like a child who is just learning its letters, then realization rushed in upon her. He was gone. She would not see him for three days in her hand. He loved her! She picked out the words of endearment—"Mignon darling"—"dear heart"—"darling"—"darling!"

Suddenly she crumpled into a heap upon the long, cushioned chair, and sobbed with an abandon which she had never permitted her self before in her life. But as she sobbed she kept the stiff card, with its tiny, beautiful printing, pressed against her grief-twisted lips. He was gone, when she needed him most, but he had left her something of himself—

Viola, the colored maid, found her a little later, a spent, quivering little heap, and gently lifted her into her arms and helped her to undress.

"I'll get your bath ready, Miss Billy. You'll all go to a dinner party tonight, honey. Don't you remember?"

"Toll Miss Shelton I want to see her—right away," Billy roused herself from the lethargy in which her weeping had left her.

"Ladwy, Miss Billy, Miss Winnie ain't here. She left about four o'clock to go off on a week-end trip to the country. Miss Meadows, she might put out about it, too. Her dinner party all over which way now, with Mr. Dal and Miss Winnie hikin' off in the last minute—"

Billy's hands, which had been rubbing cleansing cream into her wax cheeks, trembled to freeze into immobility. Her heart felt as if it would never beat again. But when she did speak her voice sounded casual to the maid.

"I didn't know Miss Shelton was going away for the week-end. Where did she go, do you know, Viola? Mr. Romaine was called to Chicago on business."

"Ladwy, honey," Viola chuckled, "she say she going to them Ex-keres what she call around with so much, but I dunno. She sure took a lot of glad rags for a quiet week-end in the country," the colored girl added meaningfully.

"My bath must be ready," Billy cried in a choking voice.

As she lay in the violet-scented warm bath, she tried to think coherently. Surely it was just a coincidence that Winnie should suddenly decide to accept a week-end invitation on the very day that Dal was called to Chicago for a week-end. Dal had said that it was Friday evening. He would not arrive in Chicago until Saturday morning. Most business men considered Saturday a holiday. And if he planned to be back on Monday, he would have to leave Chicago Sunday night.

"It's not going to be suspicious little fool," she told herself fiercely. "Ralph was just trying to frighten me. Linking Dal's name with Winnie's. Ralph jealous of Dal. He hates him because he wanted to marry Annie—or did Dal really try to marry that big gawky, pain thing? I don't believe it."

But that reflection did not comfort her for long. Her lips twisted bitterly with a new reflection: "So you think Ralph's in love with you, too, you little idiot!" she apostrophized herself scornfully. "Getting to be like Nyda and Winnie and all the other girls—think every man that looks at you is in love with you. Nobody loves you, Clay hates you, despises you—and who could blame him? Dal's having a wonderful time stringing you along. All that idiotic rot about being a mystic, and putting a spell on you! You're easy, Billy Wells!"

But it would not work. She could not fast herself into a self-respecting, nonchalant, don't care attitude toward Dal Romaine.

The informal dinner party, which had been planned for eight, had shrunk to six. T. Q. Curtis, sitting opposite Mrs. Meadows, was moody and irritable. Nyda, splendidly beautiful in the new dress of lip-stick and diffion and gold chain, coquetted almost absent-mindedly with Bruce Kruger, her dark eyes somber with a sort of angry trouble, while Ralph, Truman, Billy's dinner partner, sat almost silent, his usually merry gray-blue eyes dark with brooding.

"Will you play for us, Billy, my dear?" T. Q. asked, when the somber dinner had slowly dragged itself to an end. "I think we all need cheering up a bit. I'm afraid I've been guilty of bringing my business troubles home with me."

Heiress to Wed Former Senator

The marriage of former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Omaha, Neb., one-time right-hand man of President Wilson, and one of the richest men in Nebraska, and Miss Martha Harris, member of an old and socially prominent Memphis, Tenn., family, has been announced for June 1. Senator Hitchcock, who is 69, met Miss Harris in Washington and again in Europe. The bride-to-be, who is 44, is an heiress in her own name.

but if you'll play, I'll forget them." Billy started to refuse, automatically. It seemed absurd that anyone could expect her to play that night, after all she had been through. But something desperate urged, infinitely pathetic in T. Q. Curtis' eyes brought her up sharply. After all, she told herself cynically, that was the way she would for her board and lodging.

She had dressed without a thought as to what she was putting on, docilely slipping into the dress which Viola had chosen as appropriate for a very small dinner party. Now, as she came back into the drawing room with her violin on her arm, she realized that she was wearing the autumn-laid dress which T. Q. had given her for the first party in his home. The dress brought such poignant memories of the first time she had worn it, to show it off to Clay and her mother, that she heard again in the ripple of notes under Clay's fingers as he improvised a song for her.

She lifted her violin to her chin, and almost without conscious intention began to play that song which Clay had dedicated to her in that dress—"To an Autumn Day-d." It was a gay, lilted, joyous little piece, but as she played it, she infused into a quality of pathos and despair, and a hopeless love-cry, that brought tears into the eyes of old T. Q. Curtis.

When she had finished, she walked straight out of the drawing room, heedless of the spontaneous burst of applause and of Mrs. Meadows' and Bruce Kruger's demands for more.

She was putting her violin away in the music room when T. Q. Curtis' voice startled her to attention. "Thank you, Billy, my dear. There was the roughness of unaccustomed tears in his voice. "Who wrote the piece, child? I've never heard it before—but then I know so little about classical music. He came to her and quite simply, with fatherly affection, put an arm about her shoulders.

"It's not a classic—yet, Mr. Curtis," she answered, her words muffled against his dinner coat. "It was written by your son—to me. It is called, 'To an Autumn Day-d.'"

His arm tightened on her shoulder. "Thank you for telling me, and for not telling me—in there," he said huskily. "Sometimes, Billy, I wish I had not taken you away from your mother—and Clay."

"I'll go home tonight, if you say!" Billy cried out, misunderstanding him. "T. Q.'s brows bushed in the old familiar way, and his sad eyes twinkled with a tiny flicker of amusement. "I didn't mean it as you take it," he said gruffly. "I know you're not happy here, that none of you girls is really as happy as I had hoped you would be. What I meant was that it might have been better for you if I had not taken you away from Clay. You loved him, didn't you, child?"

"Yes," she threw back her head defiantly. "And if he wrote that beautiful little song to you, he must have loved you, too. Listen, Billy, tell Clay to come on home, and you two can get married. What do you say, Billy child?"

She grinned at him then, a twisted little grin that was painful to see. "I did tell him today—and he threw me down. He won't come back—and marry me. He despises me now, because I asked him to come back. Oh, please don't make me tell you all about it, Mr. Curtis."

"I was trying to save myself from—from something dreadful, and I didn't for the minute, care whether I was hurting Clay or not. I—I can't go home now, Mr. Curtis. Oh!" She bowed her head on her hands.

"There, there, honey! Old T. Q. will forget all about it, he soothed her. "We all make mistakes, I do—God knows, I've made my share. Now, come, let's forget about it, and make the most of this year we have. But I'm glad to know the boy can write a grand little song like that. I didn't know—"

"What in the world are you two doing in here so late?" Nyda's languorous voice called from the doorway. "We want to make up a table for bridge and Ralph doesn't want to play. We need you, Daddy Curtis, for a fourth. Ralph says he wants to see you alone, Billy. Oh, how sweet your love is!" she added, in her slow, contralto drawl.

(To be Continued)
Billy's tired nerves collapse and she breaks under the strain. Also she learns something more about Dal Romaine.

WHIST IN HEN HOUSE
GRAY, Me.—John Walker dedicated a new and commodious hen house here with a whist party. The interior was decorated with pine boughs and lighted by candles. Five tables played.

The hens, meanwhile, were roosting in their old quarters, waiting to move in the next day.

HUPMOBILE SIX ADDS FEATURES

ODY AND CHASSIS BETTERMENTS IMPROVE APPEARANCE AND PERFORMANCE

In emphasizing the quality features of their six cylinder car, Hupmobile executives are pointing to numerous improvements which serve in their estimation, to bear out their contention that Hupmobile builds the closest priced six on the market.

Body features recently added include color options, metal ball-back body for closed cars, cushions upholstered in genuine mohair, containing reveals around all windows, and remote control handles in closed cars. Genuine plate glass is used throughout all models, including that in the patented vision entangling windshield. This, with the narrow pillar posts, affords clear vision in every direction.

Features Are Many

Engine and chassis features include manifold heater, thermostat, water control, lessening of the time necessary to bring the engine to its most efficient operating temperature; vibration damper, oil filter, gasoline filter attached to the vacuum tank, and a manifold specially constructed to provide equal gas distribution to all cylinders under high turbulence, during which the heavy particles are thoroughly broken up before reaching the combustion chambers. This manifold, with the heavy crank shaft and light piston and connecting rod assembly, acting in conjunction with the vibration damper, promotes the unusually smooth engine operation throughout the car's entire speed ranges.

Inside the car is noted the grouping of all instruments under one glass, indirectly lighted. Driving lights are controlled from the top of the steering wheel, with extra bulb fitted in the headlights for parking or driving on brightly lighted streets. The manifold heater is operated directly from the dash. In addition to shortening the warming up period it greatly reduces crank case dilution. In grouping all dash gauges under one glass, the ash board is also conveniently arranged for the other controls.

Car Is Praised

"The Hupmobile six is a car that can be driven smoothly all day long practically at top speed," says R. S. Cole, general sales manager. "It does its work right up to maximum without engine labor. That is something engineers have been striving for years to accomplish."

"We believe this six is squarely in line with the public's conception of a high-grade, modern up-to-date motor car. It is economical to purchase and operate. We have achieved in it the feature for which Hupmobile has been widely known—their ability to stay out of service stations." Notwithstanding this attribute, the engine and chassis have been successfully designed for maximum accessibility and ease of adjustment throughout.

Millions Turn To Canada

Ontario Especially Extends Good Roads, Alluring Sports and Entrancing Scenery to Tourists

This is the highway map of Ontario and part of Quebec, with the main roads of the United States leading to Ontario north.

By NEA Service

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21.—The gates of Canada have been opened wider this year and already thousands of tourists from the United States are rushing through them to enjoy the hospitality, as well as the entrancing sports and the marvelous scenery for which the dominion is noted.

Canadian authorities are preparing to receive more than four million tourists from the United States this year. Ontario province it is believed will entertain the greater part of these.

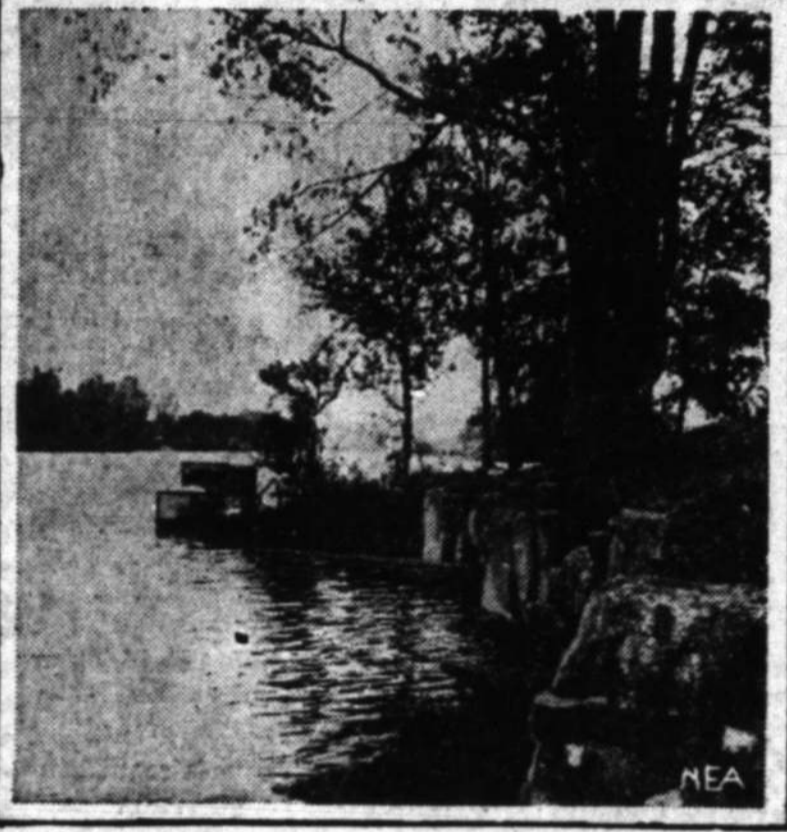

Ontario offers far more than reprieve for parched Americans south of the border line. Its lakes, forests and streams are known the country over for their fish and game, their rugged atmosphere and entrancing scenery. Rolling country interspersed among these finish a picture so completely varied in attractiveness as few other districts can supply.

Into this picture will come tourists by the hundreds of thousands, most of them by auto. The roads, nearly 60,000 miles of them, are ready, a great portion wide and smooth, more than half composed of improved gravel pavement.

Good Roads Prevail

Every part of this province is traversed by good roads, from Sault Ste. Marie at the western portal eastward into the province of Quebec, and especially through the great peninsula that extends between Lakes Erie and Huron to Windsor, across the river from Detroit.

The main trans-continental trunk highway system that stretches across southern Canada runs eastward from Sault Ste. Marie, skirts the shore of North Channel, Lake Huron and passes on eastward through Sudbury, along the north shore of Lake Nipissing to Mattawa. From here the road follows the beautiful Ottawa river to Point Fortune, 601 miles from the Sault, and from here proceeds to Montreal.

One of the many scenic drives in Ontario runs along the Rideau river northward to Ottawa. This scene is at Long Island on the Rideau.

At North Bay the tourist can hardly restrain his sporting desire to turn southward from this route and traverse the famous Muskoka lake district, where summer resorts, canoe routes and fishing grounds abound. If he does so, he may continue westward to Lake Simco and on to Toronto, 235 miles from North Bay.

Windsor is perhaps the second

WHIPPET REACHES 100,000 MACHINES

NEW RECORD FOR CAR IN FIRST YEAR OF PRODUCTION ESTABLISHED

Skirting Lake Erie

One passes close along the north shore of Lake Erie to Niagara Falls, for 257 miles, giving access to all lake ports and summer resorts. The other route takes the tourist through London, Woodstock and other cities to Hamilton, whence two other routes may take him to Toronto.

All of this is wonderful driving on fully improved roads, through picturesque country.

Past Toronto to the east the route leads along the shore of Lake Ontario to Kingston and then by the St. Lawrence into the province of Quebec near Beaudette.

Niagara Falls is the most important gateway to Ontario. This brings the motorist into a beautiful stretch of highway northward to Hamilton and on to Toronto.

Proceeding northward through any of many routes into the picturesque lake-district of Ontario the tourist may reach Parry Sound, on the east shore of Georgian bay, after passing again through the picturesque and adventuresome Muskoka lake district.

From Parry Sound there's a steamboat ride that shouldn't be overlooked, for it reveals the many nooks and crannies of one of the most entrancing landscapes in Ontario. This is the "Thirty Thousand and Island" region, a piece chock full of woody reefs and promontories.

Another Way Back

The car can be run onto the steamer for this trip and taken off at Midland. This begins another enjoyable ride around the southern edge of Georgian Bay to Owen Sound, across to Southampton and down the Lake Huron shore to Sarnia.

At Sarnia a ferry may be taken across the St. Clair river to Port Huron, Mich., for a picturesque route known as the Blue Water highway, still in Canada, may be followed southward to Chatham and thence along the south shore of Lake St. Clair to Windsor.

These are only the main highways. Throughout the Ontario peninsula there is a network of roads that crosses entrancing country in all directions.

The earliest mirrors were made from polished metal.

and has been accepted as the indicator of the general trend toward lighter weight and greater mechanical efficiency which has characterized the most recent developments in the motor car industry.

The success of the original Whippet was the forerunner of a demand for the same general type of construction in a light six and this model was added to the Whippet line early in January of this year.

The World's Lowest Priced Cars with Supremely Beautiful FISHER BODIES!

Chevrolet is the only car in its price class offering bodies by Fisher—built as only Fisher can build, and styled as low-priced cars were never styled before!

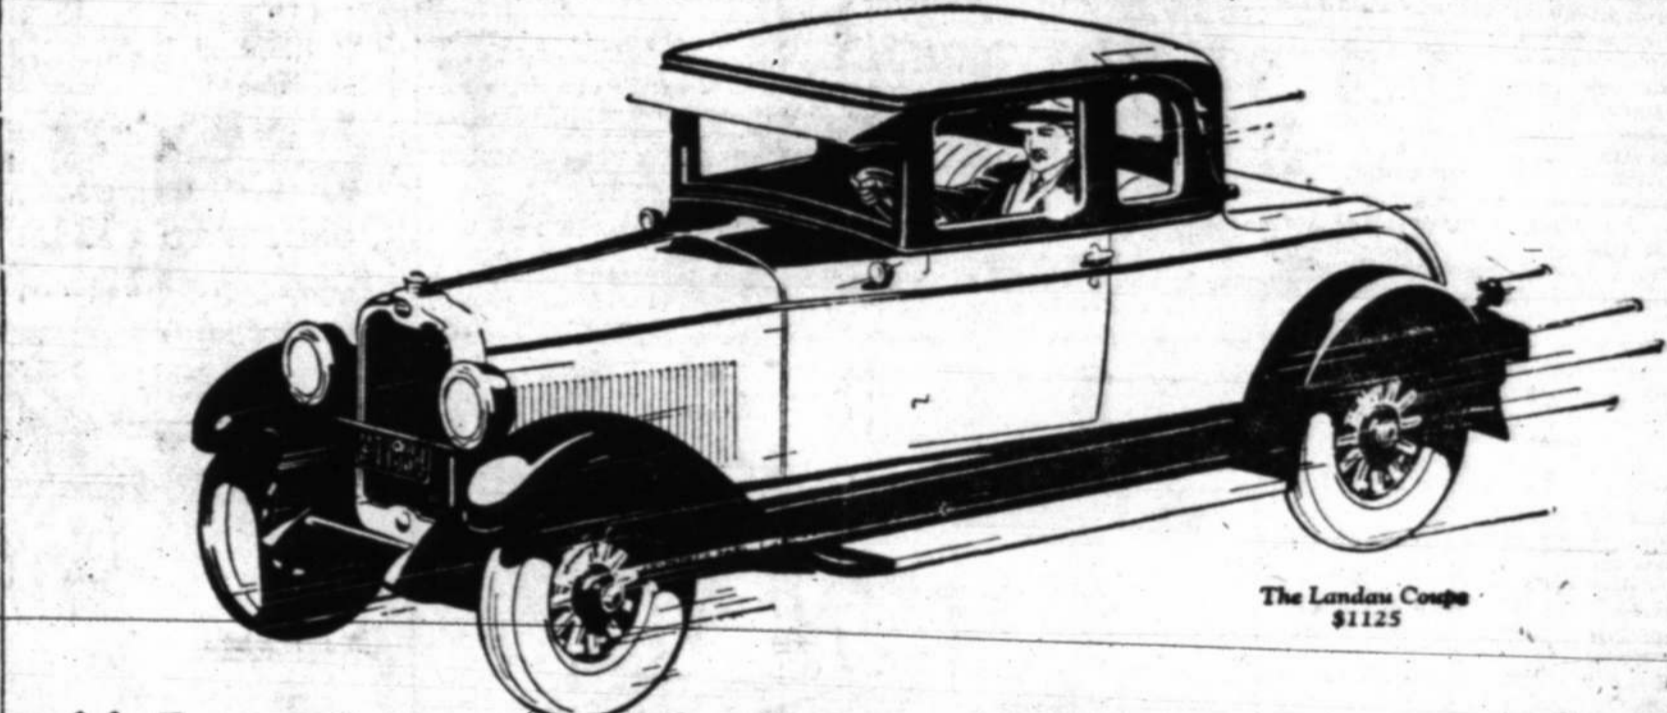

Bodies by Fisher are everywhere acknowledged to represent the highest order of beauty, luxury, and safety—and never was the superiority of Fisher craftsmanship more evident than in the Most Beautiful Chevrolet.

Despite the lowness of Chevrolet prices, there is not the slightest compromise in design, construction or finish. All embody exactly the principles employed on the highest priced cars—a composite construction of selected hardwood and steel. All are finished in beautiful colors of lustrous, lasting Duco.

Enhancing the beauty of the bodies themselves are numerous features of distinction previously considered exclusive to the costliest cars—features typified by heavy full-crown, one-piece fenders and bullet-type headlamps.

Only the economies of Chevrolet's great volume production make possible such quality at Chevrolet prices—value so outstanding that comparisons cease to exist. Ask for a demonstration!

“And on that extra margin of precision in manufacture is based that extra measure of satisfaction which every Oakland owner enjoys”

Probably no other car of equal price is built to such exacting standards as the Greater Oakland Six. Only two American-built automobiles have diamond-bored piston pin bushings—and one is the Greater Oakland Six. In only one other car are all rotating parts balanced from transmission to rear axle—and that is a car selling for twice Oakland prices.

Throughout the entire Oakland chassis you will discover numerous equally impressive examples of not merely the precision of good construction—but the super-precision of fine craftsmanship. And on that extra margin of precision in manufacture is based that extra measure of satisfaction which every Oakland owner enjoys.

Everywhere the Greater Oakland Six is winning good will because it offers such exceptional features as bodies by Fisher in beautiful Duco colors, the Rubber-Silenced Chassis, four-wheel brakes, adjustable full pressure oiling, and the like. And it is holding good will because it has been—and always will be—built with the scrupulous care and exactness, which is always the distinguishing mark of a truly fine car and which always results in better operation over a longer period of time.

Major Hoople Writes About The War The Yanks Won It, He Staunchly Says

MAJOR AMOS HOOPLE
Avalanche-Journal Philosopher

It is a question that should have been settled several years ago for some reason it was not. However, if you will ask one of the Legionnaires he will probably tell you that the doughboys won the war. He will probably tell you that the doughboys won the war. He will probably tell you that the doughboys won the war.

Some folks say that the Knights of Columbus broke down the Kaiser's forces, but it did not. A lot of good Knights went into the trenches under the stars and stripes, and gave the Boches "hell Columbia," but the Knights of Columbus did not win the war. It gave comfort to the fighters, aid to the needy, and pleasure to the boys on furlough or those A. W. O. L. but it didn't win the war any more than the others did.

Stranger to say there are a few fellows right here in Lubbock, who, after consuming a few bottles of home brew have an idea they could win any kind of a war single handed. But of course they can't—they are like a lot of other people—take in too much territory.

Well, then, who did? That is about all the organizations that went over—except the "Yanks," so let's see if by chance these fellows had anything to do with the winning of the war. You seldom hear one of them say, while members of the organizations mentioned above (at least some of them) are willing to admit that "they won the war." The Yanks are not so talkative—they realize that modesty counts. And after all they didn't do much anyway—no more than they would do again if called out.

killed us wis—whe offered their own lives as a sacrifice for freedom and democracy—that same freedom we now so carelessly ignore. Yes, people, the Yanks won the war—there is no doubt about it. They don't "blow" very much about their success—they don't have to blow for everybody with the gunpoint of a road lizard knows who won the war—we have even learned the fact ourselves.

Some of Them Here
And some of those same boys are with us today—that is those of them who managed to come out from that living hell alive. They have returned home, and settled down and contented themselves with the peaceful vocations of life, and are making good at home just as they did abroad.

Upon their arrival they had a right to expect that we would greet them with a smile, maybe hug them and thank them for "saving us." They figured that from the way we had talked during the war that if they got out of the scrap alive that they would have easy sailing for a while once they got home—we promised them everything, you know. Free land, free entertainment, money, honors and all were promised—if they would win the war. Well, they did, but we have fallen down on our promises.

Many Disappointed
What did the find? They found that the millionaire, now that his millions were safe, preferred hoarding his money to lending it to returned soldiers. They found that it was a hard job to collect their compensation because of red tape and inefficiency. They found hospitals inadequate to care for the sick and wounded, and most tickets were as scarce as hen teeth. In plain English many found everything just like they had not expected to find it. But these fellows didn't give up. They did not admit defeat—never. They possibly had a few thoughts that would not look very well in print, and looked for a job so that they could start life anew. They were buddies among themselves in France and Belgium, they were buddies among themselves when they landed on American soil, and they are buddies among themselves today.

chance you, conscience hurts you a little why not try to get among them and show them a good time while they are here? Yes, the Yanks—the Doughboys won the war. They were nobly supported by the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus and others. They were aided by fighters from France, Italy, England, Canada, Belgium and other nations, but had it not been for the doughboys the allies would have lost. The Yanks won the war—of this there is no doubt.

They Formed The Legion
They banded themselves together and organized the American Legion—the greatest of all patriotic organizations, and just as long as one of these brave soldiers has breath this organization will exist. Occasionally they meet for a friendly get-together, and they have it coming. These boys, many of them, are in Lubbock today, and if by

SAN SABA BOOSTING FOR MARBLE INDUSTRY

SAN SABA, Texas, May 21 (AP)—One of the major projects of the San Saba chamber of commerce for 1937 is development of the marble industry in San Saba county. According to authoritative tests, San Saba marble is freer from foreign minerals and has longer life than any other marble known. It can be taken from the quarries and shipped at a cheaper rate per cubic foot than any other marble in any other section, thus it can be mined cheaper and sold higher, and will last longer than the same product which is less adaptable conditions elsewhere.
