Report Says Schools Being Overcrowded

In a survey of projected building needs for the Aransas County Independent School District, made by administrative personnel for the information of the school board, three possible solutions to the present overcrowded school system were presented, but, says the report:

"Our enrollment increase has taxed our facilities to the maximum, and it is imperative that definite plans be made as soon as possible if we are to provide adequate facilities."

The statement is based on a five-year projection of enrollment increases in the system, which is already overcrowded.

At present, the survey says, Rockport Elementary School is operating one classroom short of capacity, and with the addition of a teacher this year all class rooms will be in use.

There is also a shortage of auxiliary facilities at the school necessary to meet the need of an effective program. The teacher workroom is too small, there are no aids or room for counseling and testing, or for students when they become ill to be isolated until parents can be contacted and the child taken home. Storage facilities will be inadequate when the last classroom is renovated and used for classes.

The survey compares enrollment for several years and gives a projection of anticipated student load for the next five years. In 1956-57, the student load at the Rockport school amounted to 449; 1957-58, 499; 1958-59, 507; 1959-60, 516; 1960-61, 559; 1961-62, 597; 1962-63, 629; 1963-64, 663 1964-65, 699; 1965-66, 737; and 1966-67, 770.

The average teacher pupil load at the present is 29, which is in violation of accreditation standards. Third and fourth grade teachers average 33 per room, the report says, a condition which will only be partially remedied with addition of another teacher on Nov. 27.

The George Fulton Elementary School can absorb approximately 20 additional pupils with its present staff and facilities, if evenly distributed. One additional class room can be made available by converting the music and audio-visual aids room into a classroom; but this would leave the school without a music room. Auxiliary facilities are sufficient for the present, but will become inadequate if there is a significant enrollment increase at this campus.

Enrollment figures from this school show an annual five percent increase, and the following figures are based in the projection for the next five years, on that percentage.

In 1956-57, there were 115 students, 1957-58, 119; 1958-59, 129; 1959-60, 150; 1960-61, 152; 1961-62, 144; 1962-63, 151; 1963-64, 158; 1964-65, 166; 1965-66, 174 and 1966-67, 182.

In the Aransas County Junior High School, the number of students per teacher is in excess of accreditation standards, and employment of another teacher on a half-day schedule for the rest of year will only partially relieve this situation.

There is a need for counseling and testing facilities in the junior high school, as well as for more cafeteria space. Slightly higher classroom use could be achieved, except for difficulty in scheduling physical education and elective classes. Gymnasium use is far above 100 per cent, and the combination junior-senior high school library is inadequate in size.

Junior high enrollment figures computed on the same basis as the foregoing schools, are as follows: 1956-57, 157; 1957-58, 161; 1958-59, 192; 1959-60, 208; 1960-61, 204; 1961-62, 230; 1962-63, 247; 1963-64, 266; 1964-65, 286; 1965-66, 308; and 1966-67, 321.

In the senior high school, according to the survey, there is an average of 80 percent utilization of all facilities, with the following breakdown by rooms and departments:

Library, 100%; industrial shop, 50%; gymnasium, 200%, with at least two classes being held there each period of the day; band hall, 33%; home economics, 66%; Typing room, 83%, including one bookkeeping class; laboratory, 83%, including one driver training class; Room 2, 83%; Room 3, 83%; Room 3A, 83%; Room 4 (mechanical drawing) 33%; Room 5, 83%; Room 6, 100 %; Room 16, 83%; and Room 17, 100 %.

Classrooms are used at other times for teachers to prepare their

Navigation Commissioners Do Commendable Job on Island

The Navigation Board and the business men who attended Monday's meeting, at which the Board accepted a $65,000 bid on Frandolig Island are to be commended for the stand they have taken, leading, eventually, toward development of an area that has long been waste.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler's suddenly-expressed interest in the land in question would be more impressive if Mr. Sadler was a little surer of his facts, and had not, apparently, depended upon the inspiration given by the few people opposed to the sale.

In the first place, it is not an island, but a peninsula, hence, it would seem, falls outside the state law giving the land commission authority over islands and waterbottoms in the state.

"Secondly, the majority of the land in question has been held, first by the original Frandolig, and later by others, under a deed given by the State, which is probably valid, although made out in the past century before Mr. Sadler came to power. It has passed, by due process of law from one owner to another.

The minerals, with which Mr. Sadler is apparently primarily concerned, have not been owned by the state for many years. They have belonged to the Petty interests of San Antonio, and one of the drawbacks to use of the island in the past has been their concern with these mineral rights, now acquired by Carl C. Krueger.

Moreover, except for their nuisance value, these mineral rights have been worthless, for years ago test wells proved the area unproductive for oil. Hence Mr. Sadler's concern for non-existent values is not as impressive as it might be.

Aransas County is overflowing with public parks that pay no taxes either to the city, county, or school district. Among them are the 47,000-acre Aransas Wildlife Refuge, winter home of the whooping cranes, which removes a large slice of the county's best land from taxation, increasing the burden on property owners.

An interesting point, completely overlooked by the opponents of the sale, is that there is no public road leading to Frandolig, nor can there ever be, without the consent of several private individuals, who own the land over which such a road would have to pass, to reach the bridge. This means of ingress and egress would be blocked at a moment's notice, should these individuals property owners so desire. That they haven't done so in the past is a tribute to their civic spirit. But make no mistake, anyone crossing the bridge to Frandolig is trespassing on land belonging to these individuals.

Krueger and his associates have offered a bonafide proposition, development of the so-called island over a period of years, with homes, streets, and utilities that they will pay for and which will eventually become, they hope, part of the city of Rockport, to the benefit of the entire community.

As Chairman Ted R. Little pointed out at the hearing Monday, Frandolig is no longer necessary to the plans of the Navigation District, largely because of the change in the public's boating habits. Hence, as the District can only legally operate as a Navigation District, and because it cannot operate public recreational facilities, the best thing to do was to declare the area surplus, sell it and use the money for other things that the District can legally do.

The other commissioners, Ted Atwood and Raymond Owens, concurred with him in this, as did business people of the town present at the meeting.

work, and for small group work and teacher-pupil conferences.

Present facilities which are inadequate include the library, home economics department, band hall, cafeteria, counseling and testing facilities, and a number of basic classrooms.

Enrollment figures indicate that the high school has an annual increase for the enrollment that follow are based on that.

Comparative enrollment figures, projected for the next five years are:

1956-57, 173; 1957-58, 183; 1958-59, 210; 1959-60, 225; 1960-61, 209; 1961-62, 235; 1962-63, 249; 1963-64, 264; 1964-65, 280; 1965-66, 297; and 1966-67, 315.

Three possible, temporary solutions are offered for the overcrowding, none of them more than expedients until such time as the facilities are completely overhauled and enlarged.

The first calls for re-activation of the old frame Fulton school building, now used partially for storage, and assignment of all 6th grades in the Aransas County Independent School District to this building. This would vacate three classrooms at Rockport Elementary and one at Fulton. This should be accompanied by construction of two more class rooms at the high school. This would alleviate the situation for three years.

The second suggests construction of two additional classrooms at the high school and two at Rockport Elementary. This expedient will offer a temporary two year solution to the problem.

The third proposal suggests construction of a separate junior high school, to house grades six, seven

Congressman Young Talks To Rotary Club

Congressman John Young, here for a Rotary dinner and ladies' night Wednesday, stopped off to visit the newly-formed Area Development Committee at their meeting in the courthouse, and told that group that Hurricane Carla had interrupted negotiations for construction of a missile testing station in South Texas.

Aerojet-General had been discussing establishment of such an installation on King Ranch land, he said.

It has long been known that the National Aeronautics and Space Agency and the U. S. Air Force have been considering facilities for firing multi-million-pound thrust rockets on an eastward trajectory for equatorial type orbits.

The location favored was in the coastal area of Armstrong, a small railroad station approximately midway between Kingsville and Raymondville, about 50 miles south of Corpus Christi.

However, Young said, at present it appears that Florida has the edge on Texas for the landing site.

If it should be built in this area, he said, there would doubtless be a number of support facilities like that of Aero-Jet built in this area.

At the Rotary Club dinner later, where Young was guest of honor and featured speaker, he told the members this nation has a true and enormous strength, emphasizing the great change which we now face and the need for clear thinking and determined leadership.

"Need for confidence in the aims and actions of our leaders is badly needed now," he said.

He talked briefly of the impact and long-range results the actions of these leaders will produce in the coming 10 months.

His brief talk was followed by a long question and answer period.

COUNTY COUNCIL VFW MEETING TO BE HELD HERE ON DECEMBER 4

On Monday night, Dec. 4, a County Council VFW meeting will be held at the Stewart Wendell Post VFW Hall in Rockport. A ham dinner with all the trimmings will be served, and all VFW members are cordially invited and urged to attend.

At the regular meeting, N. F. Hampton received the obligations of of the post, which were administered by Post Commander Nick Carter and Adjutant Vernon Kleypas.

Cecil Leet missed the attendance prize by not being present. The prize was $35. The next regular meeting will be Dec. 12.

and eight. This could be built in sections, as needed, to release classrooms in the present junior high school to the high school classes as needs in the high school increase. This would also release three extra classrooms at Rockport and one at Fulton. At the same time, consideration should be given to additional cafeteria, band and music facilities.

The last suggestion, the report says, would give a semi-permanent solution to the problem.

In conclusion, the report states: "The administrative staff offers this report as a means of informing the board of building needs. Our enrollment increase has taxed our facilities to the maximum, and it is imperative that definite plans be made as soon as possible if we are to provide adequate facilities."

Wilson, Sadler Ignored

Frandolig Island Offer Is Accepted By Navigation Board

Aransas County Navigation District commissioners Monday ignored requests by Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and State Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler and accepted a $65,000 bid for Frandolig Island.

Carl C. Krueger Jr. and Associates of San Antonio were the only bidders for the 237.17 acre island located along the west shore of Aransas Bay between Rockport and Fulton.

Krueger said he plans to start immediately to develop the island as a summer and retirement home subdivision with a marina and club.

Wilson questioned the sale and Monday asked the district to postpone action until his office and state land department could check out "certain facts which raise questions of legality of the sale."

Petitions purporting to represent some 2,000 people, but bearing less than 75 signatures, few of which were registered Aransas County voters, were read at the Monday meeting. These emanated from Mrs. Teal Adkins, Chairman of the Conservation Committee, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in Beeville, and were spear-headed by Judge John R. Beasley, of Beeville, and asked that the island be kept for public use.

Dr. Clarence Cottam, Director of the Welder Wildlife Foundation also wrote in asking that the area be kept for recreational use, and there were a number of telegrams of protest from bird watchers throughout Texas.

Chairman Ted R. Little, of the Navigation District, pointed out that Frandolig Island had been purchased by the district to be used in conjunction with proposed navigational developments in the Little Bay area, adjoining the island.

Since then, Little said, due to competitive harbor construction, both private and public, and the phenomenal changes in boating practices, the commissioners felt that the island is no longer essential to projected plans of the Navigation District.

The primary purpose and obligations of the Navigation District, Little said, are to promote and provide ample facilities, and aids to, the navigational interests of the area.

"Where it is practical to do so," Little said, "we are not averse to using any of our projects to assist and enhance the recreational assets of the community."

Emory M. Spencer, local oil man and real estate operator, Thomas D. Picton, one of the partners of Picton Lumber Company, Seth H. Steele, local builder, James H. Sorenson Jr., executive vice-president of the First National Bank and other leading business men in the area all spoke in favor of the sale.

Opposing were Judge John R. Beasley, of Beeville, and Dr. J. W. Bauer, of Refugio.

Navigation commissioners voted unanimously to make the sale to Krueger and his associates, and instructed the district's attorney, Ellis Clark, to draw the necessary papers for the transaction.

Krueger said they planned a development of about 500 homes and would improve the island in stages. The first stage would include 100 homes. At that time, Krueger said, "we will either sell lots or build homes, which ever the customer wants."

Approximate time for completion of the project, which would include a marina and club, would be five years and would cost more than $1,000,000.

City streets and utilities are planned for the island by the San Antonio group. These utilities would be needed to the city, Krueger said, and if annexed would add over $1,000,000 to the city's present valuation of $3,000,000.

The island's elevation now varies from sea level to eight or nine feet. Plans are to raise the overall height to between six and nine feet by dredging from Little Bay.

Lots will probably sell for $3,500 to $6,500, according to Krueger.

Miss Frances Ann Blevins Marries Larry J. Lynn

In a candlelight setting at the First Presbyterian Church in Rockport, Texas, on Saturday, Nov. 25, at 5:30 p.m., Miss Frances Blevins, of Midland, became the bride of Larry J. Lynn, also of Midland. The Rev. Rodman P. Kypke, assistant rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Corpus Christi, performed the single-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Blevins of Rockport. Parents of the groom are Dr. and Mrs. R. Matthew Lynn of Midland.

The vows were pledged before an altar lighted by white cathedral tapers in tree candelabra entwined with greenery, and flanked by twin floor baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and stock, interspersed with smilax. Another tall basket, with similar arrangement, formed the background. The center aisle was marked with wrought iron standards bearing lighted candles and each of the arched windows of the church held a candelabra with gleaming tapers.

Mrs. J. Allen Frye, organist, rendered the traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white peau d'ange in Empire style. Its bodice was designed with a bateau neckline, elbow sleeves, and trimmed with tiny covered buttons at the back. The skirt featured a bow at the back waistline, where its fullness of unpressed pleats swept into a chapel train.

Her headpiece was a white satin pillbox from which fell her veil of handmade Brussels lace, in chapel length. She carried a nose gay of stephanotis.

Miss Mimi Green, of Midland, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sue Blevins of Rockport, sister of the bride; Miss Dorothy Thomas, of Midland, and Miss Rebecca Bailey, of Houston, both cousins of the bride.

The attendants' dresses were of Baltic green peau de soie fashioned in coachman silhouette. The molded bodices, enhanced by Chinese-inspired fastenings, were designed with scoop necklines and elbow length sleeves complimented by short white kid gloves. The bouffant bell-shaped skirts, of unpressed pleat fullness, were street-length. They wore coils of matching Baltic green peau de soie, and carried nosegays of white gardenias.

Miss Kevin Picton and Miss Susan Picton were veil bearers. Their sleeveless frocks were of Baltic green velveteen, with Empire waists. They wore halos of pompon chrysanthemums and short white gloves.

Best man was Roy Kinsey of Midland.

Groomsmen were Bill Eriskine and Bob Davenport, both of Midland, and Lee Caldwell of Dallas. Ushers were Joe Blevins, brother of the bride; and her cousins George and Tack Thomas of Midland, David Blevins of McAllen, and Ed and G. B. Bailey of Houston.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at Palm Village. The entrance way to the house was lighted with hurricane lamps mounted on white lamps mounted on white poles tied with white bows.

The bride's table was U-shaped and laid with a white damask cloth over a white organdy flounced skirt. It held the coffee service and the bride's cake decorated in gardenias and stephanotis. The centerpiece was a silver and crystal epergne filled with white roses and stephanotis. Flanking this were branched silver candelabra holding similar floral arrangements.

The groom's table was laid in brown organdy and centered with a wine cooler filled with stephanotis, flanked by silver candelabra entwined with the same flowers. This table held the groom's cake and punch bowls of champagne punch and kahua punch.

Registering the guests was Miss Mary Dean Lynn, of Midland, sister of the groom.

Members of the house party were: Mrs. E. I. Bailey of Houston, Mrs. Bennie Sue Thomas of Midland, Mrs. Joe Crump of Mission, and Mrs. David Blevins of McAllen, all aunts of the bride;

Also Mrs. Bob Davenport and Mrs. Bill Eriskine of Midland; Mrs. Maurice W. Cochran, Mrs. John H. Sutherland, Mrs. Thomas D. Picton, Mrs. Jack Sanders, Jr., Mrs. T. J. Johnson and Mrs. James R. Jackson, all of Rockport.

After a short wedding trip to Mexico, the couple will be at home at 3000 West Illinois in Midland, where the groom is associated with the law firm of Rucker and Rassman. The bride is employed in the seismograph division of the Gulf Oil Corporation.

For her going-away costume, the bride was a two-piece wool suit of watermelon pink, fastened with self-roses. He hat was a black coil, and accessories of black completed the ensemble.

The bride attended the University of Texas, and was presented as a debutante in 1959 by the Minuet Club of Midland.

The groom was graduated from the University of Texas and the University of Texas School of Law, where he was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

BETTY JOHNSON COMPLETES COURSE

Miss Betty Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Johnson, has completed the secretarial science course at South Texas Commercial College in Corpus Christi. She is a graduate of Aransas County High School, class of 1961.

Miss Johnson completed the course of study in less than six months, a course normally requiring from seven to nine months. According to the officials at the college, Miss Johnson was an excellent student in every respect, her final grades being among the top five per cent of the class.

May we take this method of thanking our neighbors and friends for their kind expressions of sympathy in our bereavement. These expressions have been deeply appreciated.

Mrs. Maedine Kelly
