The Reporter-Telegram will publish a two-part series beginning Sunday on the Y2K computer bug: what it could mean to you, why it's happening, and what agencies and entities are doing to combat the potential for problems. On Sunday, we'll provide an overview of the problem, as well as how it could affect financial institutions, hospitals, law enforcement agencies and senior citizens.

Papal journey

MEXICO CITY — Pope John Paul II flew into the open arms of an adoring Mexico on Friday, returning to the site of his first papal trip 20 years ago on a mission to recharge the Catholic Church in the Americas for the new millennium. Hundreds of thousands of people lined the streets of this sprawling capital after waiting for hours — and some for days — to catch a glimpse of "el papa." At one point, the crowd surged past the line of volunteers, almost blocking the street before motorcycle police pushed them back.

"I feel a joy that I've never felt before," said Beatriz Jamaica, a 45-year-old housewife.

Terrorist warning

WASHINGTON — Warning that terrorists are seeking new ways to strike, President Clinton said Friday "we must be ready" for attacks against computer networks and using chemical and germ warfare. He urged spending $2.8 billion more to safeguard the nation. "This is not a cause for panic," the president said. "It is a cause for serious, deliberate, disciplined, long-term concern." He said that "we have a better than good chance of success."

New terminal to open today

Continental Airlines has the first scheduled departure out of the new airport terminal building at 5:55 a.m.

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

In the words of a traveler who was exiting the old weathered airport terminal for the last time, Midland is "moving on up."

He then moved on toward Midland International Airport's new $35 million terminal.

By daybreak today, the old building will be a boneyard and soon will be razed.

Today, the expansive new terminal with its domed roof and polished-stone architecture will be awakening to the life of airline travelers gracing the halls for the first time.

Midlander Bear Mills got a sneak preview on Friday night. He strolled through the new, hangar-like terminal en route to the old edifice to board a flight to the Texas Gulf Coast.

"It's fun," Mills, 39, a teacher and motivational speaker, said of the cursory tour of the building. "I think first impressions are lasting impressions. And I think when people fly into Midland-Odessa, they are going to have a completely different impression of this community because of the new airport."

"It is beautiful," he said. "It is very impressive. I had to take a stroll through it."

Midland City Councilman Berry Simpson and Deputy City Manager Glen Hackler, who took on the airport project, "are good friends of mine," Mills said. "And I wanted to see their handiwork."

Friends gather on Carl Zapora Day to say goodbye to United Way executive director

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

Friends and co-workers came together Friday to wish Carl Zapora well as he leaves one windy city for another.

Zapora, who served four years as executive director of the United Way of Midland, will leave next week for Chicago, where he will serve as Mid-America region director for the United Way of America.

At a reception honoring Zapora, United Way of Midland President Jim Henry read a proclamation from Mayor Bobby Burns declaring Friday Carl Zapora Day.

"I've never had a day before," Zapora said, looking over the proclamation, which cited his four years with the United Way of Midland and his 15 years with other United Way agencies before coming to Midland.

Incoming President Mike Conaway presented Zapora with a lamp that has a base made of core taken from the Queen formation in Gaines County.

"I had the pleasure of serving on the search committee responsible for hiring Carl," Conaway said. "He's innovative."

Company to relocate to Denver in June, lay off about 10 employees

From Staff Reports

Tom Brown Inc. has announced, as expected, the relocation of its headquarters and executive offices from Midland to Denver effective June 1.

The company will continue to maintain a district production office and its principal accounting office in Midland. Gas marketing functions will be discontinued in Midland, while the company's Wildhorse Energy Partners, L.L.C. gas marketing joint venture will continue to operate from its Denver offices.

The consolidation of responsibilities in association with this move will result in a staff reduction of approximately 10 employees.

Donald L. Evans, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said, "Our company has been headquartered in Midland for 42 years and there is a deep sense of sadness in this move. Midland and West Texas are among the most desirable places to live, but the future of Tom Brown Inc. is tied to the Rocky Mountain region."

Evans said the move will put Tom Brown personnel at the heart of its operations to most efficiently and effectively guide the company.

Permian Basin rig count down about 75 percent from last year

By John Paul Pitts
Oil Editor

The U.S. rig count, the prime indicator of oil and gas activity, hit a record low Friday, as the number of rigs actively drilling for oil and natural gas in the United States dropped to 588.

The record low drilling activity is the result of record low oil prices, which are at their lowest point in history, when adjusted for inflation.

The national count is down approximately 40 percent from a year ago when the rig count was 996. The rig count in the Permian Basin, however, is off approximately 75 percent, down to 47 working rigs from 165 last year. In Texas Railroad Commission Districts 8, 8a, and 7c the number of working rigs was down to only 27, while the three New Mexico counties of the Permian Basin had only 20 working rigs.

"When the rig count is as low as it is now, we're a pretty anemic industry," said John Bell, owner of a small independent oil

Yugoslav president not deterred by Western threats of airstrikes

By Dusan Stoyojovic
Associated Press

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Still very much in power after a week of openly defying the West, Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic seems unimpressed by threats of NATO airstrikes over the conflict in Kosovo.

Milosevic's challenges to NATO over Kosovo has won him support from nationalists and hard-liners at home — and with divisions among NATO's ranks, he apparently sees no reason to soften his stance.

Western countries say they are determined to stop Milosevic's campaign against ethnic Albanian separatists and reimpose an October cease-fire in Kosovo, a province of Yugoslavia's main republic, Serbia.

But with their experience with Iraq's Saddam Hussein fresh in their minds, they have yet to settle on a way to do it.

This week, Milosevic opened a confrontation with the West by barring U.N. war crimes officials from inspecting the site of a massacre of 45 ethnic Albanians in Kosovo and by ordering the American head of an international team monitoring the cease-fire to leave.

The Yugoslav leader backed down at the last minute and allowed William Walker to remain Friday, but the standoff he created may have taken the steam — at least temporarily — out of NATO efforts to force him to end fighting in Kosovo.

Knut Vollebaek, the head of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, insisted the threat of NATO attacks was still alive to back up demands that Milosevic adhere to the Oct. 12 cease-fire.

"The NATO activation order is still there to threaten, and I think President Milosevic understands that very well," said Vollebaek, whose OSCE runs the cease-fire monitoring team.

But unlike in October — when NATO threats pushed him to accept the cease-fire ending his crack-down on separatists — so far Milosevic is not bending.

Earlier this week, he defiantly told the alliance's two top generals that he intends to continue his offensive in Kosovo.

Serb forces have stepped up fighting in Kosovo in what they say is a response to attacks by ethnic Albanian rebels. The bodies of some 45 ethnic Albanians were found this week outside the village of Racak in what the OSCE calls a revenge massacre by Serb police.

The OSCE cease-fire observers in effect provide an early warning system for Milosevic: NATO airstrikes can come only after they are withdrawn from Kosovo for their protection.

An order for their withdrawal could give Milosevic enough time to possibly avert bombings by ending his crackdown and accepting a new cease-fire.

That is, if NATO goes through with its threats. German Foreign Minister Joschka Fischer on Thursday cautioned NATO allies that using force may only isolate Milosevic and complicate the search for peace in Kosovo.

"It is not just a question of using force but of the political objective," he said. "In light of what has happened in Iraq, that is the main question."

Bratislav Grubacic, publisher of an English-language Yugoslav analytical digest, said Milosevic has absorbed the lessons of Iraq — where Saddam's regime was hit by U.S.-British airstrikes last month but continued to rule.

"Milosevic knows the strikes against Iraq have accomplished nothing: Saddam is as strong as ever, U.N. arms inspection has stopped and the West has remained split over the action," Grubacic said.

Grubacic and others believe Mil

sevic has nothing to lose, even if NATO does attack.

A NATO strike would be seen in Yugoslavia as clear Western support for the ethnic Albanian rebels and would further galvanize the public behind Milosevic.

The nationalist press in Yugoslavia has been flooded with stories accusing the United States and NATO of seeking to weaken Serbia using Kosovo as a pretext.

Yugoslavia — which in the 1990s has lost its former republics of Bosnia, Croatia, Slovenia and Macedonia — is depicted as the victim of a Western campaign to stop a powerful Serbia.

"We are under tough pressure from those who have broken up the former Yugoslavia," said Ivica Dacic, Milosevic's spokesman. "They (the West) want to break up the Balkans into several small states so they could rule over it."

The official line is echoed in the street.

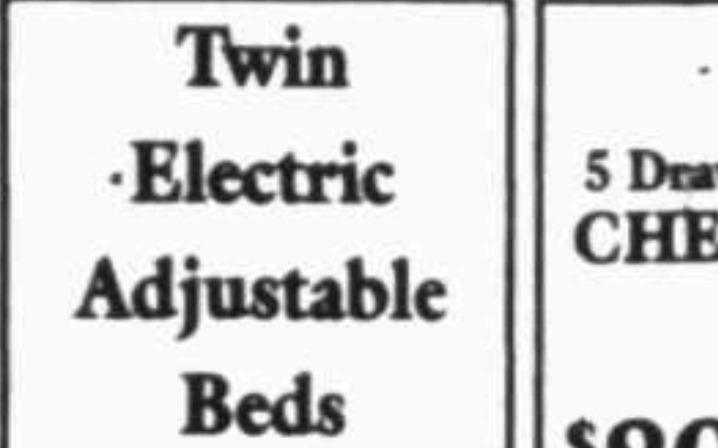

"Why don't the Americans shut up and leave us alone and let us deal with the (Kosovo) Albanians once and for all," asked Belgrade university student Spasa Mitrovic.

Milosevic has also used anti-Western feeling, whipped up by NATO's threats, to clamp down on Serbia's divided opposition, independent media and universities.

National forecast

United States weather

Rain stretched from New England into the Ohio Valley on Friday. Severe weather plagued parts of Indiana, Tennessee and Alabama, while rain dampened the Pacific Northwest.

Strong storms hit along a line from southern Indiana through east-central Tennessee and into western Alabama. Large hail, winds in excess of 70 mph, very heavy rains, and tornadoes have all been associated with these storms.

Up to 3 inches of rain fell Thursday night and Friday morning in central and western Ohio. Streams overflowed their banks because the ground was already saturated with rain and melting snow, leaving several areas with floodwaters up to 4 feet deep.

A 3-year-old girl was found dead Friday morning in a car hours after it was washed away in a rain-swollen creek. Her mother was missing.

Thunderstorms also developed in the Southeast.

Wintery conditions prevailed over much of Wisconsin, portions of Minnesota, and portions of Iowa.

Windy and gray weather persisted over the southern Plains.

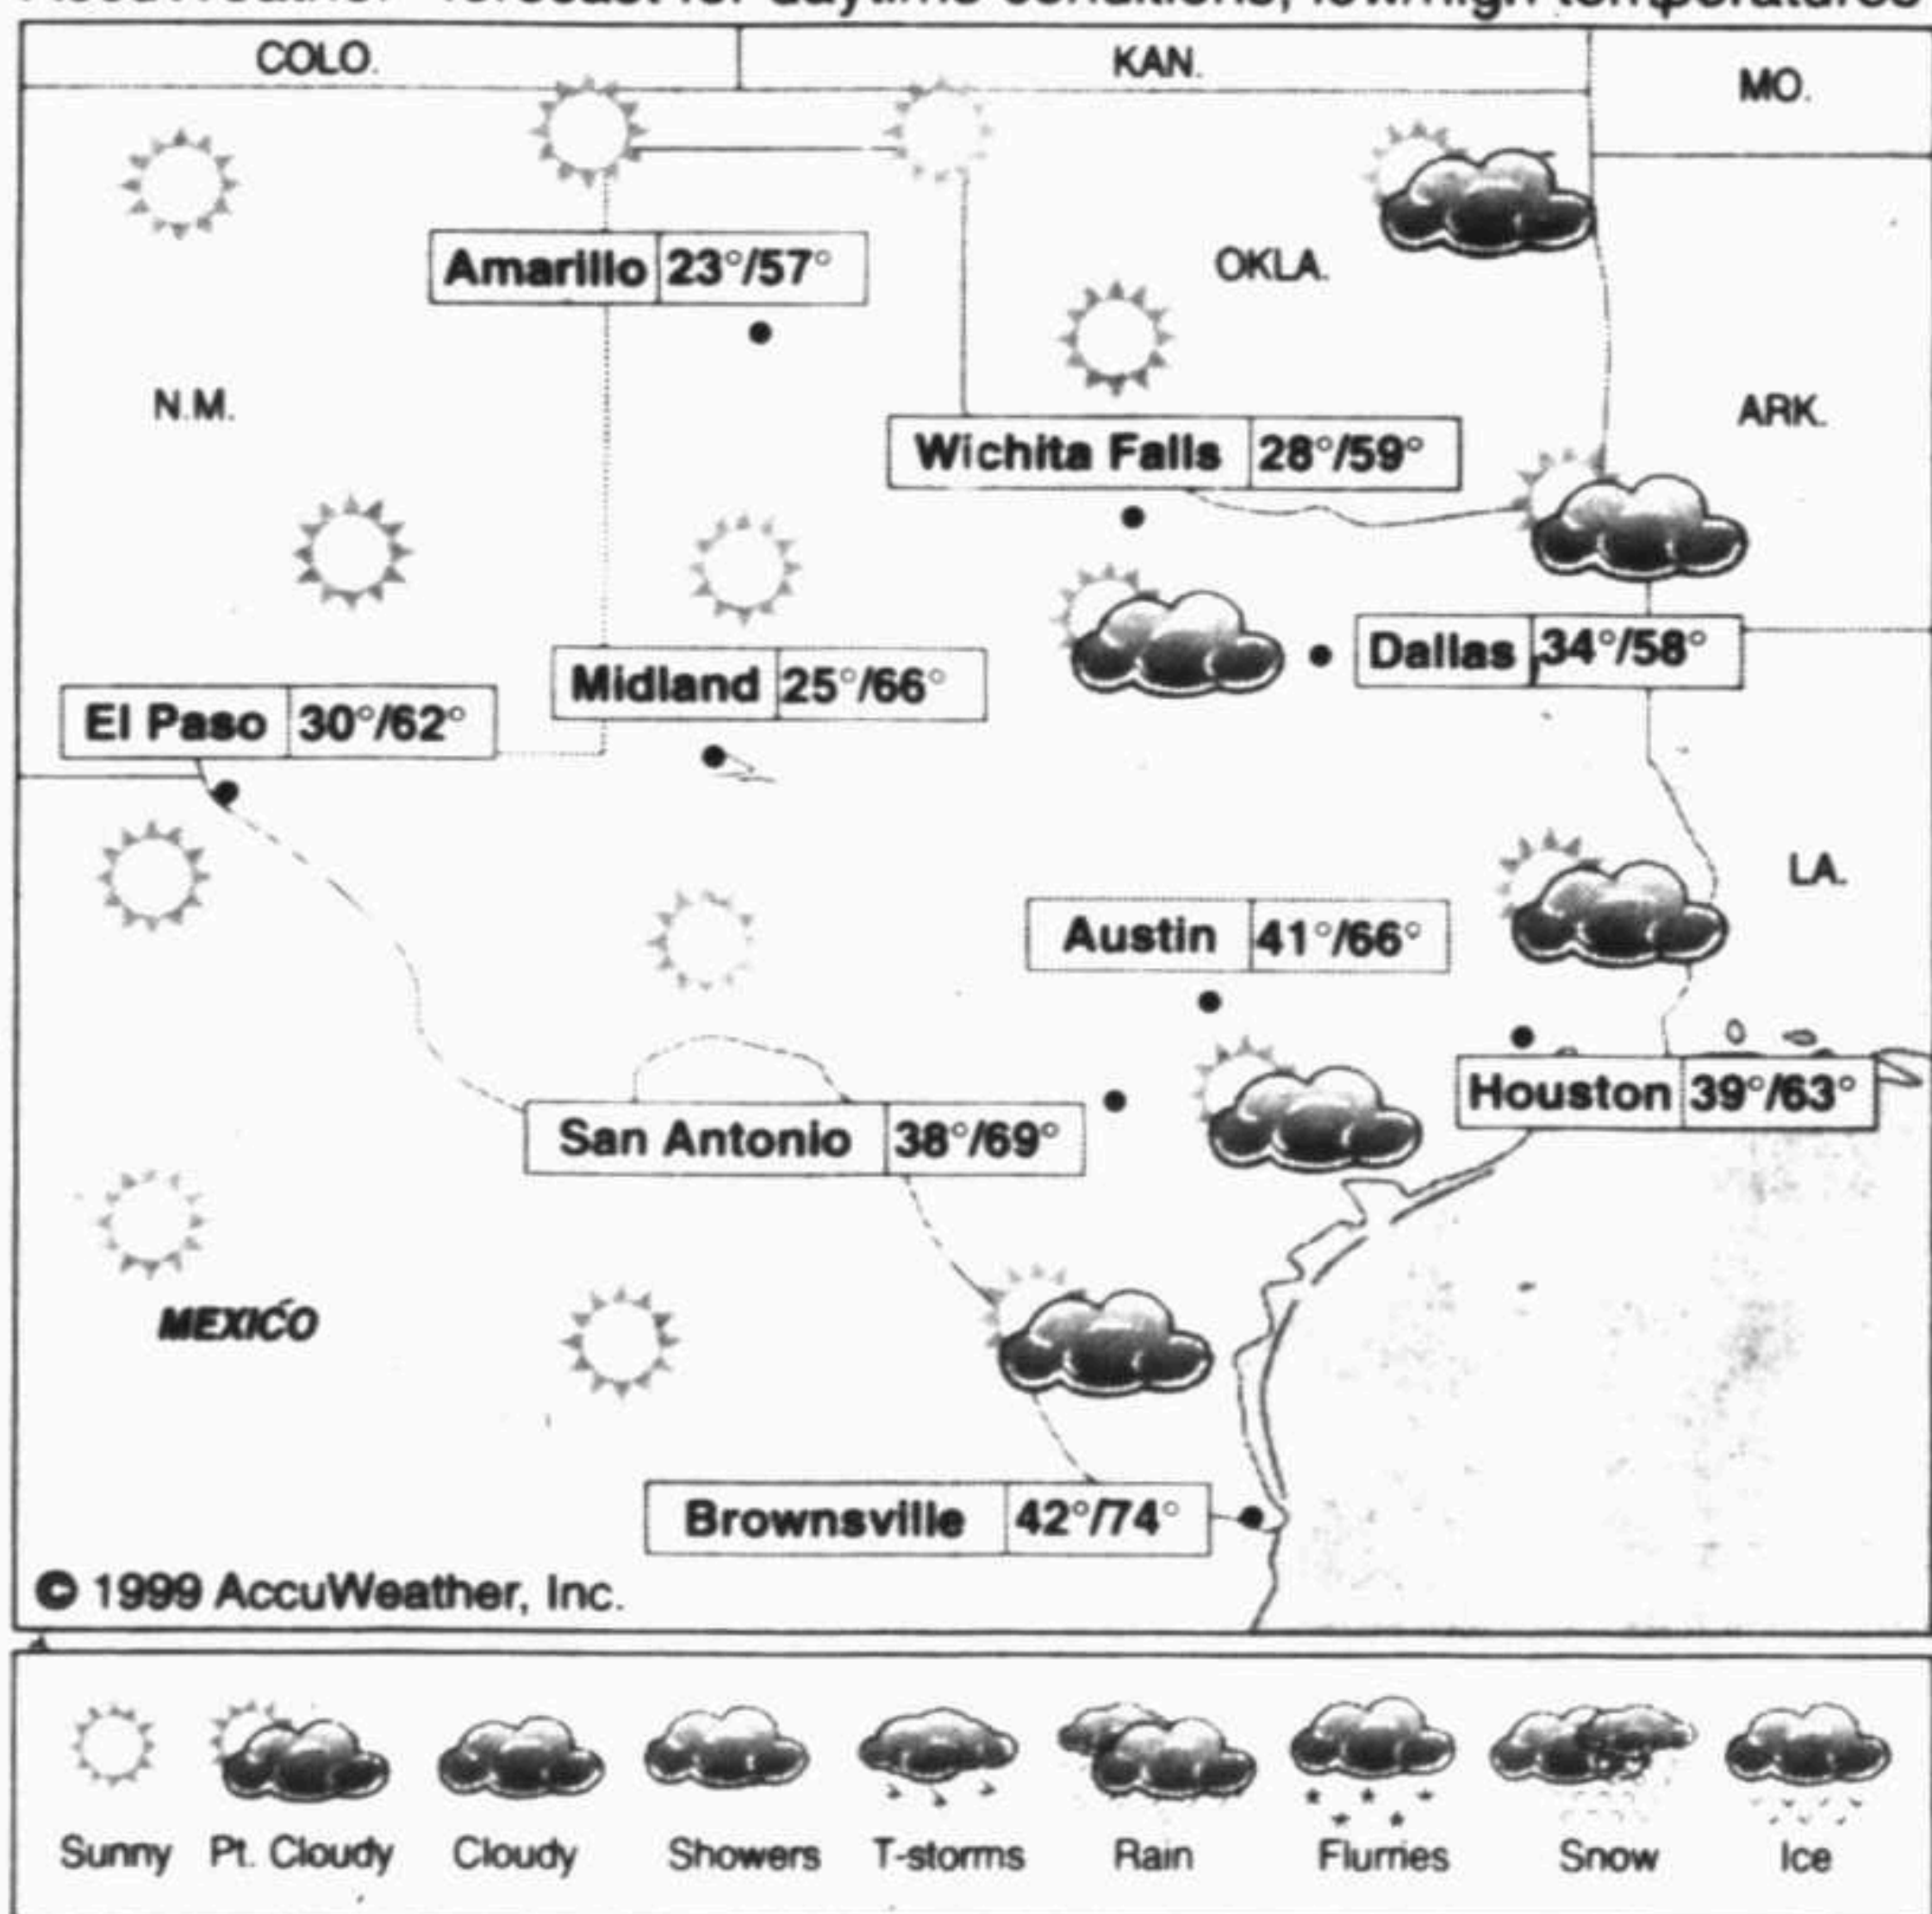

Snow fell on the higher elevations of the Rocky Mountains from Colorado into New Mexico.

A new storm came into the Pacific Northwest, bringing rain and snow to the region.

Temperatures across the Lower 48 ranged from a low of minus 16 in Clayton Lake, Maine, to an afternoon high of 70 in Key West, Fla. With the wind chill, it felt like minus 18 in Big Piney, Wyo.

OPEN: First arrival to be at 7:45 a.m. from El Paso

(From 1A)

"The old (terminal) is a little bit like traveling in a time-machine," Mills said. "It kind of takes you back to the 1950s when you walk through it."

The first scheduled departure from the new terminal was to be Continental Airlines 5:55 a.m. Flight 1014 to Houston. The first scheduled arrival today was to be Southwest Airlines Flight 285 out of El Paso at 7:45 a.m.

Ken Day, the city of Midland's director of airports, figured that the three airlines serving Midland — Southwest, American Eagle, and Continental — would conduct inaugural celebrations today.

Midland Mayor Pro Tem Dale Brown is to be joined by Odessa Mayor Mike Atkins in "buckling a giant seat belt" to signify Southwest Airlines' commitment to the Permian Basin in festivities beginning at 9:15 a.m. today at Gate 3, according to Terri Todd, the airlines' marketing manager.

Those flying Southwest Airlines today out of Midland will be given a $25 gift certificate and double credit on their Rapid Reward mileage, she said.

"Everybody will be celebrating (today)," Ms. Todd said.

For Day, who has been overseeing the transition from the old to the new, the move to the new terminal has "been a lot of fun" and work in "keeping up a dual system" in both terminals.

For example, the new terminal's systems have "maintained the old facility on heating and cooling," Day said. "Our phone systems are dual. Our communications are dual."

"It's been more exciting. It's been a challenge more than anything else."

The old terminal may start coming down within 40 or fewer days after Feb. 1, Day said. Much of the building's old furniture and fixtures already have been claimed by the city's various departments, including the Traffic Department.

Curt Wilcott/Reporter-Telegram
Midland International Airport's new terminal opens today for business.

"The policy is that the other departments have first choice and, boy, we were raided by some of the other departments, traffic and so forth. It's great. We are here to help out," Day cheered. "They got a lot of our chairs and old filing cabinets. We're looking at (conducting an auction). It depends what's left."

Vaughn Donaldson, chief of the airport's Aircraft Rescue Fire Fighting (ARFF) unit of the Midland Fire Department, said the new building is incredible.

"You don't realize how nice this (new) one is and how bad the old one was until you compare the two," he said.

In the new terminal, Avis car-rental manager Jackie Olson declared, "We're ready (for business)."

"We've been ready," echoed Avis rental agent Aimee Hernandez.

Hertz car rental Manager John Fuller was succinct: "By (today), we'll be ready to roll as soon as they (travelers) come down the escalators ... if the security is in place."

Upstairs, the Texas Marketplace gift shop was ready. "We're pretty proud of it," said Dennis O'Donnell, the shop's receiving clerk. "Most everything here carries a Texas theme."

Californian Charles Krebs, who set up a smorgasbord-like eatery, said, "We're really grateful to be here."

Over at the old terminal at a Southwest Airlines ticket counter, customer-service agent Dona Retzlaff, sporting a "Rebel Rock Cafe" shirt, said that the move to the new terminal is "real exciting. It's kind of sad, too, after you've spent a lot of your time" in the old building.

Midland Mayor Bobby Burns suggested that Midlanders made a "very wise decision" in supporting the new airport terminal.

"The people of Midland showed their confidence in themselves by building this new airport terminal. And the confidence they have will carry them through the challenges" in the years to come.

Simpson, who has been a councilman for three years, said that the people's investment in the terminal project "shows some optimism for our area."

"If we didn't believe we had a future, we wouldn't put that time, effort, and money into something that would last that long (for decades)," Simpson said. "It's one of those buildings that's bigger inside than it is outside. It just seemed like West Texas to me. Everything is big and open."

LEAVE: Co-workers praise Zapora, wish him well

(From 1A)

he's changed the campaign, he's changed the structure of the United Way. He inherited a good United Way and made it better. I hired Carl four years ago and if I had the decision to make now, I would hire him again."

Traveling from Odessa was Mike Rush, executive director of the United Way of Odessa, who presented Zapora with a framed United Way poster and an inset that read "You made a difference; your vision of unity made success a reality."

Rush said he was honoring

Zapora not only on behalf of the Odessa agency but "all the United Ways in Texas. Carl has been a leader not only in your community but in the state, and his work will be hard to replace. His vision on how United Ways should work together has inspired us throughout the state."

Sandy Tisdale, executive director of Big Brothers/Big Sisters, presented Zapora with a jar of "West Texas Wind" on behalf of the Council of United Way Executives "so you'll know what real wind is and think of us often."

She noted that "Carl and I came to our respective agencies at about the same time, so we kind of grew up together here."

The agency's board of directors gave him an "Oilman's Desk Set" with a letter opener, pen set and business card holder made of polished core and a scarf to guard against the Chicago cold.

Reflecting on his four years in Midland, Zapora said "this is one fabulous community. When I interviewed four years ago, all the members of the search committee kept telling me how special this community was. I've lived in five other communities and they all said how special they were and I kept thinking, 'It's a nice city and I'll probably live here but it can't be any more special than the others."

"But I found out how special the community is. It has wonderful volunteers and staff and the 16 member agencies are superior, not only in the quality of their programs but in their staff leadership. Midland is fortunate that the member agencies and the United Way work so marvelously together. My wife and I love this community and if I didn't feel the need to work with the United Way of America on a larger scale, I wouldn't leave here."

Grand jury indicts 11 men on drug charges

By Rick López

Staff Writer

PECOS — Eleven men from Ojinaga, Mexico, who are suspected of smuggling more than 400 pounds of marijuana into the country have been indicted on federal drug charges.

The defendants, whose ages range from 22 to 35, were all charged with importation of a controlled substance, possession of a controlled substance, conspiracy to import a controlled substance and conspiracy to possess.

They were indicted earlier this week by a Reeves County grand jury.

All defendants will remain in the Brewster County jail without bond until their trial, officials said.

On Jan. 7, Border Patrol agents found several sets of foot prints on the O-2 Ranch in Brewster County and the tracks all led in a northerly direction, according to the indictment.

While following the tracks, agents found 12 abandoned military-type duffel bags filled with marijuana. The total cache weighed 478 pounds, officials said. Other bags with water and food also were found nearby.

About 100 yards from the duffel bags, agents found nine of the men and followed another set of tracks before finding two others a few yards further.

Each man admitted to Drug Enforcement Administration agents that they were paid $1,000 each to transport the drug to Alpine. Some of them said that as many as 13 men were involved in the operation, according to the indictment.

One man said the group had been walking from Mexico to Alpine for four days.

A trial date for the defendants has not been set, officials said. If convicted on each charge, the men face up to 40 years in prison.

The panel also returned indictments against three Houston men for trying to smuggle a gallon of PCP through the Sierra Blanca checkpoint between El Paso and Pecos.

Records show that the suspects, Alton Brent Williams, 37, Warren Eugene McGuire, 23, and Jermaine Tremond Andrus, 25, were arrested in Hudspeth County after a high-speed chase with federal agents.

DEA officials theorized that the men sped through the checkpoint because they had the PCP in their car and were trying to escape a possible arrest. During the chase, one of the suspects poured the PCP out of the car window before they were stopped by the Border Patrol.

A few agents were splashed with the substance and taken to an El Paso hospital, where they were treated and eventually released.

According to court records, Andrus admitted to pouring out the liquid during the chase. McGuire also told authorities that the PCP was his and that he was taking it to Houston.

The suspects are charged with possession with intent to distribute, conspiracy, fleeing from an INS checkpoint, destruction of property and conspiracy. If convicted of all charges, the suspects face up to 25 years in prison.

DOWN: 'Basin is suffering worse than the rest of the nation'

(From 1A)

company in Kermit. "We're about as unhealthy as we can get."

"The Permian Basin is suffering worse than the rest of the nation," said Ray Peterson, president of Peterson Drilling in Midland and former chairman of International Association of Drilling Contractors. "Going from 996 to 588 is not quite as severe as going from 165 to 47."

The record high for the number of working rigs was Dec. 28, 1981, when the number of working rigs peaked at 4,530.

"The numbers don't tell the human story," Peterson said. "A line on a chart does not tell how painful it is to be unemployed or to have to let good employees go. We have been laying off employees since last summer, because you cannot keep people on the payroll when there is no work."

Peterson said approximately 75 percent of the roughnecks and drillers working in the Permian Basin a year ago have been laid off. "Just 18 months ago we had 200 rigs working in the Basin, today we only have 47."

"Worst of all, there are no other jobs to be had in the oil patch, and we cannot even hold out any promise that laid-off workers will have a job in the near future. That means workers will have to leave the area to make a living."

Peterson said he had eight rigs and only three were working. He is keeping those rigs running by using toolpushers and drillers — who would normally supervise drilling — as crew members. "All three rigs are drilling for natural gas in New Mexico. If it were not for natural gas we may not have a rig count today, because at these prices it is uneconomical to drill any type of oil well."

Peterson said he was shocked to learn that last week the top oil-producing counties in Texas — Yoakum, Gaines, Hockley, Terry, Andrews, Ector and Crane — did not have a single rig running.

Tony McAlon, director of market research at Baker Hughes, said the record low rig count — while not unexpected — signifies that more bad news is on the way for domestic producers and oil service companies.

The Texas Workforce Commission indicates that 2,500 positions in exploration and production were lost in 1998, but in the Permian Basin approximately 1,815 have been lost from the drilling industry alone. And, one well-service company alone estimates that it has laid off 2,100 employees since October 1997. In West Texas towns, such as Big Lake, where oil-field service is the mainstay of the economy, employment is off 50 percent. Unemployment in the Permian Basin of West Texas and New Mexico is expected to far exceed that in Houston.

"The only bit of optimism we can offer is that we know prices will be back, but when? It will be a matter of seeing who can hang on," Peterson said.

Lee High School band students Chris Culley, Brian Jones, Edmundo Montoya, Amanda Orosco and Flint Weed also made All-State Band.

Their names were inadvertently left out of a story in Friday's edition about Midland Independent School District students who made the band.

In the recent UIL Math/Science Practice Meet, Ravi Singh took fourth place in the fifth-grade math competition and Santa Rita Elementary tied with Trinity School in the fifth-grade overall sweepstakes.

Byrd to offer motion to dismiss charges against Clinton

By Larry Margasak
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — After two weeks of merely observing, senators posed their first questions in President Clinton's impeachment trial today and transformed the proceeding into a seesaw debate between prosecutors and presidential lawyers. A key Democratic senator said he would lead an effort to dismiss the impeachment charges next week.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia announced he would introduce a motion to dismiss the charges, but not because he believed the president had done no wrong. "I am convinced that the necessary two-thirds for conviction are not there and that they are not likely to develop," he explained.

"I have also become convinced that lengthening this trial will only prolong and deepen the divisive, bitter and polarizing effect this sorry affair has visited upon our nation."

Byrd's move was particularly significant because he is widely viewed as a fierce defender of the Senate's prerogatives. In this case, he had publicly cautioned the White House not to lobby him to vote for Clinton's acquittal.

Lead prosecutor Henry Hyde urged the Senate to "reject this motion" and "demand a full record" of evidence. "We always knew that there would be a motion to dismiss in this process; now we know who will offer that motion," he said.

The White House reacted with cautious optimism. "Senator Byrd's statement speaks for itself. Our position has been clear. We believe in a fair, bipartisan and expeditious resolution of this whole matter," spokesman James Kennedy said.

A number of Republicans have suggested in recent days that a way be found to end the trial promptly, despite fresh requests from House prosecutors for witnesses to be called. Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott suggested earlier in the day that a bipartisan caucus might be called next week to allow all senators to attempt to fashion guidelines for the remainder of the trial.

Under the current rules, a motion to dismiss the proceedings may be made as soon as a 16-hour period for questioning the lawyers has expired. That could be as soon as Monday.

Byrd disclosed his intention as the senators submitted a series of questions to the two legal teams on the Senate floor. Those questions prompted a lively debate but broke little new ground.

"President Clinton wants all the benefits of a criminal trial without bearing any of its burden," Rep. Charles Canady, R-Fla., declared as he rejected White House claims that the impeachment articles were too broad and vague and would never survive the test of a criminal trial.

"It's clear that President Clinton and his counsel know exactly what he is being charged with," Canady told the senators, who remained silent but submitted their questions to Chief Justice William Rehnquist to be read aloud. "Impeachment is a political and not a criminal proceeding."

White House Counsel Charles Ruff used an early question to differentiate between impeachment of a federal judge and that of a president, arguing the threshold for the latter must be much higher.

"Do you ask the same questions about the trauma the nation suffers when you are removing a judge as when you are removing a president?" Ruff said. "That answer must be stunningly different when you are asked should the president of the United States be removed and the will of the electorate overturned."

Several House managers made a new pitch to call witnesses, but Clinton's private attorney noted Ms. Lewinsky already has given eleven accounts about one key event in the case. "I don't think you going to learn anything from a twelfth account. ... Calling witnesses will add nothing to the record before you," David Kendall argued.

And the presidential lawyer warned that if witnesses are summoned the White House will need "many months to have a fair discovery process."

Far from giving up, Hyde suggested senators invite the president to testify.

The White House has said repeatedly that there are no plans for Clinton to testify.

The question-and-answer debate produced plenty of theater, as House prosecutors dismissed the White House arguments as "legal schizophrenia" and presidential lawyers accused the lawmakers of "straw-man" building. Neither side broke new ground.

One House prosecutor, Rep. George Gekas, conceded today he doesn't believe any Democrats have been swayed by the evidence of perjury and obstruction of justice.

"As of now, no," Gekas, R-Pa., said in an interview with The Associated Press. "Now, that may change and could change by way of the series of questions that need to be asked. And also on the question of witnesses."

A Republican senator suggested she wasn't convinced by the perjury evidence against Clinton.

"The president's grand jury testimony is replete with lies, with half-truths and evasions. I'm considering whether despite that they meet the test under our perjury laws," said Susan Collins of Maine.

Republican senators used the early portion of the question period — set to last two days — to ask broad questions that gave House prosecutors a chance to answer the intense attacks on their evidence that White House lawyers made during a three-day opening argument that ended Thursday.

Democratic senators followed up, using their turn three straight times at the start to ask Clinton's lawyer: "Could you please comment on any of the legal and factual assertions" made by the prosecutors in their last statement. The repetition made Rehnquist smile at one point.

Ruff dismissed suggestions that the White House believed no private conduct by a president could ever rise to the level of an impeachable offense.

"The managers have, in their straw-man building role, tried to suggest that our position somehow is so distant from constitutional reality ... that we could not conceive of a situation in which private conduct, no matter how egregious, would lead to removal. And of course that is not the case," the president's counsel said.

Clinton proposes funding to fight domestic terrorism

By Terence Hunt
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Warning that terrorists are seeking new ways to strike, President Clinton said Friday "we must be ready" for attacks against computer networks and using chemical and germ warfare. He urged spending $2.8 billion more to safeguard the nation.

"This is not a cause for panic," the president said. "It is a cause for serious, deliberate, disciplined, long-term concern." He said that "we have a better than good chance of success."

Clinton spoke of cyber-era threats in a speech before the National Academy of Sciences, dwelling on a subject of deepening concern and anxiety in the White House. Four years ago, the world was shocked by a nerve gas attack in the Tokyo subway; more recently there has been a rash of anthrax hoaxes in the Los Angeles area.

"We do not know of any imminent attack being planned in the United States using chemical or biological weapons or using cyber attack techniques," said Richard Clarke, the president's national coordinator for anti-terrorism programs.

"But we do want to raise consciousness... that such attacks are growing increasingly likely," he said at a White House briefing with Attorney General Janet Reno and Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala.

Clinton said that terrorists, recognizing they cannot defeat the United States with military force, are seeking "new tools of destruction."

"We must be ready — ready if our adversaries try to use computers to disable power grids, banking, communications and transportation networks, police, fire and health services of military assets," the president said.

Likewise, Clinton said, "we have to be ready to detect and address a biological attack promptly, before the disease spreads."

Clinton's $2.8 billion proposal must be approved by Congress. It represents a 40 percent increase for cyber defense over 1997. It would double spending for chemical and biological weapons defense over two years. The $2.8 billion would be in addition to Clinton's $7.2 billion request for conventional counterterrorism security programs.

The president acknowledged that the United States has been too slow to react to new challenges.

"For too long," he said, "the problem has been that not enough has been done to recognize the threat and deal with it. And we in government, frankly, weren't as well-organized as we should have been for too long." He announced a sharp acceleration in the government's effort last May in a graduation speech at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

On Capitol Hill, Clinton's initiative got a better-late-than-never reaction from Rep. Curt Weldon, R-Pa., chairman of the House Armed Services subcommittee on research and development. "We have been grossly underfunding programs to protect our information assets," Weldon said. "While a late step, the president's announcement should help us regain some lost ground."

Most Americans satisfied with Postal Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite all the wisecracks and in this age of cynicism about government, most Americans say they are satisfied with the Postal Service.

Rates increased this month for the first time in four years, raising the cost of sending a first-class letter one penny, to 33 cents.

A third of those questioned in an Associated Press poll said the stamp costs too much. But the remainder said it was about right or a bargain.

Almost three-fourths of Americans believe the Postal Service is doing an excellent or good job, said the AP poll by ICR of Media, Pa.

Scott Howard, a 42-year-old scientist from the San Francisco area, is among those who still considers the cost of sending a letter a pretty good deal.

"The lady who delivers our mail is a wonderful person," he said. But Howard's not always as happy with the service at the post office, where "tellers aren't always the most pleasant people."

The poll of 1,015 adults by ICR was taken Jan. 13-17 and has an error margin of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Attitudes about the Postal Service, long the butt of jokes for delayed deliveries, bureaucratic boggle and disgruntled workers, have improved over the last five years. In 1994, just over six of 10 said they viewed the Postal Service as excellent or good.

The agency has worked hard over the last six years to improve both its businesslike performance and public perception, officials say.

Customers seem to have noticed.

Williams storms off

MELBOURNE, Australia — One moment, Serena Williams jogged to the net, a winner's smile on her face and the Australian Open crowd cheering. The next moment, the smile vanished, victory snatched away by an umpire's overrule on match point.

And a few minutes later, the beaten Williams furiously flung her racket across the court amid boos from the fans for her petulance and lack of sportsmanship.

It was an ugly and dramatic exit
in the third round Saturday for the 17-year-old Williams as she fell 6-2, 2-6, 9-7 to No. 14 Sandrine Testud
of France.

Williams, who lost one match point at 5-4 in the third set on what she thought was a bad call, had another when she was up 7-6 and 30-40 on Testud's serve. Williams thought she won it right there when she drilled a backhand down the line that was signaled good by the linesman.

But as Williams was running to the net in triumph, Testud was pointing to the spot on the court and ges-turing frantically to umpire Laura Ceccarelli of Italy.

"The ball was out. I could see the mark," Testud said.

Ceccarelli reversed the call, indicating it was wide, and the game
went on at deuce. Clearly infuriated, Williams dropped the next two points
as Testud held service.

Testud sympathized with Williams.

"She was a little upset. I would have been upset, too," she said.

Williams then virtually capitulated when she was broken at 15-40 with a double fault on break point, the second serve feebly bouncing in front of the net.

When Testud held once more to close out the match, with Williams slapping a final backhand into the net, the young American hurled her racket about 25 feet toward the net in disgust and left it there as she sulked in her chair and the crowd booed her lustily.

Broncos' Davis promises to take his migraine medicine this year

By John Mossman
AP Sports Writer

DENVER — Terrell Davis makes
this promise:
If, on Super Bowl Sunday, he suddenly sees stars and experiences
blurred vision and searing head pain,
he wants it to be from a hard tackle.

It won't be because he forgot to take his migraine medication. This time, Davis insists he'll do what he's supposed to. Last year, he skipped his dosage and was stricken with a blinding migraine that sidelined him for almost the entire second quarter of the Super Bowl in San Diego.

Thanks to emergency treatment on
the sideline,
the Denver Broncos running back was able to return for the second half and wound up running for 157 yards and three touchdowns to win Super Bowl MVP honors.

"I will make sure it won't happen

again," Davis said Thursday. "I already have a reminder. I will have this big sign and put it on my locker.
That's the first thing I'm going to do."

Davis, plagued by migraines since he was a teen-ager, has experienced relief in recent years, provided he follows
doctors' orders.

During the regular season, the fourth-year pro rushed for 2,008 yards, becoming only the fourth player in NFL history to reach the 2,000-yard plateau, and was named the league's MVP.

He has exceeded 100 yards rushing in six straight postseason games, including 199 and 167 yards this postseason.

NBA BUSINESS GETS UNDERWAY

Spre says he's sorry

NBA reinstates Sprewell after trade to Knicks

By Chris Sheridan
AP Basketball Writer

RYE, N.Y. — Latrell Sprewell apologized to the commissioner, declared himself a changed man and asked to be given another chance.

He got one.
"I'm out to start all over and show people the real me," Sprewell said Friday. "P.J. is not a bad guy, and I'm here to show you guys that I'm not, either."

The newest member of the New York Knicks was reinstated by the NBA after a short meeting with commissioner David Stern. He apologized for choking Golden State coach P.J.
Carlesimo — an action that earned him
one of the longest suspensions in league history — and promised to control his anger in the future.

Then he asked the public for a second chance, especially Knicks fans.

"I'm sorry. We all make mistakes.
I'm not the person I've been portrayed to be," he said.

Sprewell, acquired Thursday in exchange for John Starks, Chris Mills and Terry Cummings, repeatedly used the words "sorry," "apologize," "mistake" and "second chance."

He also repeatedly referred to the attack on Carlesimo by saying, "I had a bad day."

On this day, Sprewell did not come off as the surly, thuggish bad boy the public perceives him to be. He spoke in a relaxed manner, was quick to smile and seemed genuinely ready to get back to basketball.

"What happened in December of '97 will never happen again with me, and hopefully not with any other players

McDyess, Divac sign; Gugliotta doesn't

By Chris Sheridan
AP Basketball Writer

The signing of Antonio McDyess was expected to unleash
a domino effect, but Tom Gugliotta didn't fall into place.
McDyess, the player considered the top free agent on the market, finally made up his mind Friday and signed with the Denver Nuggets despite a last-minute lobbying effort by three members of the Phoenix Suns.

Gugliotta then left Phoenix without signing a contract and headed to Minnesota hoping to meet with Timberwolves owner Glen Taylor. No one was certain what Gugliotta's next move would be, from re-signing with Minnesota to signing with Phoenix to being involved in a sign-and-trade deal that could send him somewhere else.

"We had a lot of positive feedback," Phoenix coach Danny Ainge joked, "but, hey, I had a year of positive feedback from McDyess, too."

■ NBA Signings Roundup

Also, free agent Vlade Divac signed with the Sacramento Kings while Joe Smith agreed to terms with the Timberwolves, and now it looks like the Suns could be the biggest losers of the post-lockout frenzy if they wind up losing Gugliotta, too.

"I'm very nervous, no question about it," Ainge said.
"We're taking a little bit of a gamble."

Rod Strickland remained a no-show Friday as the Washington Wizards started three-day workouts.

The point guard and the Wizards remain far apart on a new contract. Strickland and agent David Falk originally demanded $65 million over five years but reportedly lowered that to $55 million Thursday. The Wizards have offered about $30 million over three years.

Upset defeat to Enqvist costs Rafter his shot at top ranking

By Tony Harper
Associated Press Writer

MELBOURNE, Australia — Pat Rafter missed an opportunity to take over the No. 1 spot from Pete Sampras at the Australian Open.

The Australian, who spent time at No. 2 last year before slipping to No. 4, lost 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4
to Sweden's Thomas Enqvist in a third-round match Friday.

Enqvist stomped on Rafter's second serves and punished him with his own. The two-time U.S. Open champion needed to reach the final to pass Sampras, who is skipping the year's first Grand Slam tournament because of fatigue.

Five players had a chance to take over from Sampras here. Of them, only Andre Agassi remains in the tournament. But to reach No. 1, he would have needed bonus points from beating high seeds already gone.

Rafter said the past year wore him out too, so he plans to play about 19 tournaments this year

instead of the 26 in 1998.

"I'm going to have a lot more breaks than I did last year," Rafter said. "It's too hard to keep playing."

Rafter came into the tourney after going 1-2 in three tuneup matches. He complained that the pressure of playing at home weighed heavily.

"I'm looking forward to this year," Rafter said. "I feel like I want to go back out and train, which is a positive sign for the rest of the year.
Unfortunately, it's not going to happen here."

Rafter has yet to go beyond the fourth round of the Australian Open and he was pinned back from the net Friday as Enqvist reeled off some stunning groundstrokes.

In the crucial seventh game of the fourth set,
Enqvist kept hammering backhand winners off Rafter's serve and got the winning break when the Australian had his second double fault.

Australian Patrick Rafter leaves the center court after his 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 loss to Thomas Enqvist of Sweden Friday at the Australian Open in Melbourne, Australia.

Lady Rebels rout San Angelo Central

Staff Report

SAN ANGELO — In its final tuneup before a fourth meeting with the Midland High Lady Dawgs, the Midland Lee girls basketball team did what a good team is supposed to do — beat up a team that it outclassed.

The Lady Rebels pounded San Angelo Central 66-43 in a District 4-5A game that really wasn't as close as the score would dictate.

The Lee girls (12-10 overall) outscored Central 55-26 in the final three quarters.

The Lee boys dropped another close one, falling to the Central boys 62-60.

At 6 p.m. Tuesday in Chaparral Center, the Lady Rebels get another shot at Midland High, which has beat the Lady Rebels six times in a row.

"Midland High is playing good ball and we have to play smart and level-headed," Lee head coach Elise Kail said. "We have to try to keep the score reasonable the whole game. We have had some ups and downs and we're getting it back together."

Lee (12-10 overall) improves to 4-4 in district play. On this night, KeKe Strambler scored 17 and Katie McLane added 10 to lead the Lady Rebs. Danielle Dickey added nine and Julie Jay eight. Kail said it was a very balanced effort on both ends of the court.

"We had good teamwork and the press was effective. They (Central) had a lot of turnovers," Kail said.

Lee actually trailed after the first quarter (17-11), but came back with no problems to win the game.

In JV action, Lee fell 52-41. Michelle Byrd scored 16 (including four 3-pointers).

The Lee boys have lost each of their last two games by two points. On this night, it was another game where the Rebels gave themselves a chance to win, but fell short.

"We played hard tonight," Lee head coach Jon House said. "We have lost two games by two points each and that is hard to swallow. We are playing hard but making mistakes at the wrong time."

Lee (8-16 overall) had the lead with 36 seconds to play after a tip in by Jeremy Conaway. Central's Adrian Carrasco came right back, penetrated and scored on a layup with 24 seconds to go. On Lee's next possession, Conaway missed a shot from close range, and Central freshman Brian Young pulled down his 11th rebound to seal the game.

Eric Winston had a solid game for Lee, scoring 22. Conaway scored 15 and had a team-high nine rebounds. Lee falls to 1-5 in district.

"We have five losses in district," House said. "We have to go undefeated in the second half. Hopefully we can make something happen."

Lee faces state-ranked Midland

High Tuesday

The Lee JV won 72-51 to improve to 15-4 overall. Calvin White scored 20 and Wendell Smith 12.

Buzzards blast Jacks

Staff Report

EL PASO — The Odessa Jackalopes have still never won in El Paso, and Friday the loss was of the offensive variety. In a game between two of the top defenses in the Western Professional Hockey League, defense was the exception as Odessa fell 11-5.

El Paso's Billy Trow, the MVP of the WPHL All-Star Game, scored four goals for El Paso. He scored the first two goals of the third period which spread the lead to 11-4. It was that kind of night for Odessa (20-19-3 overall). Each time the Jacks came close to evening the game up, El Paso had an answer.

The Buzzards scored with five seconds left in the first period to make the score 5-1 and then scored two goals in the first 2:04 of the second period to widen the advantage to 5-2. Trow's first goal of the game then made it 6-2.

For the Jacks, there were some bright spots. Despite having a five-game winning streak halted, Sami Laine scored one goal and had one assist. In two games back from the injured list, the forward has three goals and one assist. Also, Ryan Edwards scored two goals, the Jacks were 3-for-5 on power play opportunities, and defenseman Jacques Brindley dished out four assists.

Unfortunately he and the rest of the Jacks forgot about defense, at least when they needed it the most.

JACKS NOTES: El Paso and Odessa came into the game averaging around three goals each. Friday's total almost tripled that. The same two teams played at 7 p.m. today at the Jack Shack. The first 13 minutes and the last 5.5 minutes of the game were scoreless. Both Jacks goalies were pulled after the first period only to come back after Billy Trow was pulled later in the game. The Buzzards outshot the Jacks 58-47.

Funk hangs onto lead; Daly, Duval pursue

LA QUINTA, Calif. (AP) — Fred Funk, whose short, accurate game is well-suited to the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic, shot a 6-under-par 66 Friday to stay in front, with some imposing players in hot pursuit.

John Daly and David Duval were among those within striking distance of the lead.

Funk, who began the third round of the five-day tournament with a two-shot lead, went to 17-under.

Steve Pate's 64 put him alone in second, one shot behind.

It was another shot back to Daly, who recently took himself off antidepressant medication he believes was draining his energy. Daly shot his second consecutive 66 to tie Tom Pernice, who also shot 66, in third.

Duval began making a move with a 64 that pulled him within six shots of the lead with 36 holes remaining. He had begun the Hope quietly, shooting 70 and 71 the first two days.

Duval, who won four times in 1998 on his way to setting an earnings record of $2,591,031, began this season with a victory in the Mercedes Championships, then took a break to go skiing before coming back for the Hope.

Also in the mix near the top of the leader board were Bob Estes, with a 65 that put him 12-under, and Scott Verplank, who had a 67 to tie Duval for sixth.

Daly, a long hitter who usually doesn't play well on tight courses like the four layouts being used for the Hope, wasn't surprised that Funk was in front.

"He hits it far enough, he hits it very straight and he is a super, super iron player and has a great short game," Daly said. "You put that combination together, that's why he is so consistent year in and year out."

Daly's last win came in the 1995 British Open, a time when he also had quit taking antidepressants.

"I think I am due," he said of his victory drought. "I really feel that if I keep working this way I am hoping to win this year."

Funk, a late bloomer who didn't make it onto the tour full time until he was 32, is looking for his sixth career title. He won once last year and earned $1,121,988, by far his best money year.

"My expectations are to try to improve each year and so far I have been able to do it," said Funk, 42. "There is no question that I'm a late bloomer. I was 32 before I got out here and I wasn't that good when I was in my 20s. As a college player (at Maryland) and as a junior player, I just wasn't that good."

"The weakness of my game is that I don't hit it that far," the 5-foot-8, 165-pounder added. "But I have to give myself a lot of opportunities and hope my putter is working, and I have been able to do that."

"The big hurdle for me was to realize that when my game is good, it is good enough to win."

SPREWELL: Player gets fresh start

(From 1B)

ever again. I'm looking for a fresh new start, and I'm going to be a positive person."

The proof, of course, won't come until Sprewell starts playing and makes it through some challenges from a new coach, who might set him off by saying something as innocuous as "put a little more mustard on those passes" — as Carlesimo did.

Knicks coach Jeff Van Gundy didn't seem to be the least bit worried, saying he only wants to coach Sprewell, not judge him.

Still uncertain is the reception he'll receive from a skeptical public. New York fans have traditionally been eager to give sports figures a second chance, from Billy Martin and Darryl Strawberry in baseball to Lawrence Taylor in football and Marv Albert in broadcasting.

Few Knicks fans probably remember Sprewell scoring a then career-high 41 points against the Knicks at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 10, 1994, and many of them only know him for his attack on his coach during practice.

"Over the past 14 months I've talked to my mom and have had conversations with numerous people who gave me advice on how to handle situations when I'm frustrated, and I think that was my biggest problem," Sprewell said. "The lesson is that you make mistakes, but you also have to move on."

Sprewell was suspended for 68 games last season. His contract was terminated but later reinstated by an arbitrator.

How You Can Buy A New $1,800 Furnace for $438

(Read Amazing Story Below)

Yes, it's absolutely true, you can actually replace your old (and probably very inefficient) furnace and air conditioner as a package for up to $1,800* less than you would have to pay at any other time.

Let me explain. Every year the months of January, February and March can "Kill" our business. We stand to lose a ton of money during these "Killer" months and it can take us the remaining nine months to make up for them and we're looking for the same thing to happen this year.

Our Problem Is Your Opportunity™

Every year, the big manufacturers of air conditioners have to guess how many to build to meet the demand. Of course, they're never exactly right. So, they always have some inventory they must hold over until the next summer season. We went to one of these companies (Amana) and contracted for the purchase of 50 air conditioners and furnaces in the five most popular sizes used in the Permian Basin. Because of the quantity and time of year, we were able to buy them at incredibly low off-season prices.

They are brand new models. They are NOT seconds or "blem" or standard "builder" models. They are factory fresh premium air conditioners and have full factory warranties.

Here's How You Can Get A Furnace for $438

Here's the great deal for you: If you buy one of these 50 new premium air conditioners (but only if one of the five sizes we have will fit your house, of course) we are including the furnace for an unbelievable low price of $438.

Here's How

Just call us right away at 561-9440. A Home Comfort Advisor will come out, measure your home and show you the substantial savings now. And it will include all labor and installation materials. Nothing is left out. There is absolutely no obligation. If you decide you don't want to take advantage of the spectacular savings—that's okay. We'll give you a surprise gift worth $50 because you are kind enough to give us the chance to solve our problem. We want you to think well of Service Experts* even if you don't buy.

You Can Buy With No Cash

You don't even have to pay us right away because we've set up terrific financing with competitive rates.*

If you decide to make monthly installments instead of paying cash, the entire amount of your payments might be more than offset by the savings on your utility bills. It's like "having your cake and eating it, too!"

Ironclad Guarantee

We are so confident, that if your current system is over ten years old you will save at least 20% on your cooling and heating bills with a new system (We're projecting more like 30% to 50%) that we will pay you Double The Difference for one year if you don't.

THERE IS NO WAY YOU CAN LOSE.

You must act before April 15th. Give Carol a call now at 561-9440. She will set an appointment for your no-obligation survey.

Thank you for reading...we hope you will profit greatly because of it.

Garden City pair honored

GARDEN CITY — Two girls cross country runners from Garden City have earned Class 1A all-state honors.

Tiffany Kujawski, a senior and Michelle Fuchs, a sophomore, were named to the all state team. They finished 11th and 12th respectively at the state meet in November.

Kujawski is also one of 44 athletes who are finalists for the Fina/Dallas Morning News All-State Scholar-Athlete award. Twelve of those athletes will be honored with a $1,000 scholarship.

Bill Malone had a hole-in-one at the 157-yard No. 16 hole at Ranchland Hills Country Club on Friday. Malone used a 3-wood in the 35 mph wind as Pete Fisher and Carlton Daves were there to witness it.

Omission

Midland High defensive back Joey Kindred received the Theresa Klapproth Award at the MHS banquet Thursday night at Midland Center.

The award goes annually to the football player with the highest grade point average. Kindred carries a 4.6 GPA. His name was inadvertently left out of the banquet story. The Reporter-Telegram regrets the omission.

McGinnis leaves Bears red-faced after walkout

Associated Press

LAKE FOREST, Ill. — Oops. The Chicago Bears wanted Dave McGinnis to bring the black and blue back to their defense. What they got instead was a red face on one of the most embarrassing days in their long history.

Instead of meeting the press, McGinnis left the building. And the Bears were left to explain why they announced they had a coach when it wasn't a completed deal.

"The matter has not been resolved," team spokesman Bryan Harlan said. "There will not be an announcement today."

It was a colossal blunder for the Bears, already under fire for bungling their search to replace Dave Wannstedt, who was fired three weeks ago. The Bears refused to say why talks broke down, but McGinnis, the Arizona Cardinals defensive coordinator and a former Bears assistant, reportedly was unhappy in part because the team announced he was the coach before he had a contract.

McGinnis could not be reached for comment. Team president Michael McCaskey refused to comment.

"We had a press conference scheduled. It was agreed on in principle," Harlan said of why the announcement was made. "But there were obviously some parts of the contract talks that weren't resolved and didn't get finalized."

McGinnis and McCaskey plan to talk again, Harlan said. But McGinnis left the Bears' practice facility Friday afternoon with Mark Hatley, the team's vice president of player personnel who conducted the first part of the search process, and Hatley later returned without him.

"We don't have a timetable right now for when it will be resolved," said Ted Phillips, the Bears vice president of operations. "There's just several issues that have to be discussed. That's all I can say."

This was the last thing the Bears expected, especially with McGinnis. He'd spent 10 years as

NFL Coaches

Chicago's linebackers coach, and he was a frontrunner for the job as soon as it opened. He was the last of five candidates interviewed, and he called the job "anyone's dream" after meeting with McCaskey.

McCaskey wanted a coach with ties to the Bears' past and one who could restore the bruising, imposing defense that defined Chicago in the 1980s and early 1990s. McGinnis looked like the perfect fit.

He was the linebackers coach when Mike Singletary, Otis Wilson and Wilber Marshall were in their prime. The Bears were 95-64 when McGinnis was an assistant, and the defense ranked among the top six in fewest yards allowed in seven of those 10 seasons.

Chiefs hire head coach from within, picking Cunningham
KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Gunther Cunningham, who screams at players one minute and hugs them the next but apparently always commands their respect, is Kansas City's choice to replace Marty Schottenheimer as coach.

As the Chiefs' defensive coordinator for four years, the intense, personable Cunningham became popular with everyone in the organization and twice molded a unit that led the NFL in fewest points allowed.

"I am euphoric at finally getting this opportunity," said Cunningham, who was born in Germany and moved to the United States at age 12 when his mother married an American serviceman.

"I have sat through meeting after meeting after meeting to learn and learn and I am ready to put my mark on a football team. I happen to wear my feelings on my sleeve. I will not change," he said.

DAVIS: Denver line shines

(From 1B)

the latter coming in last week's 23-10 victory over the New York Jets in the AFC championship game to advance the Broncos to the Super Bowl in Miami on Jan. 31 against the Atlanta Falcons.

In four postseason games last season, he rushed for 581 yards, and playoff statistics are numbers he cherishes.

"I'm hoping for a lot of postseason numbers because people tend to measure you by that," he said. "Eric (Dickerson) was the greatest back to play the game, but as far as his postseason numbers, they're not really up there. That's one thing I'm trying to do."

"You look at Emmitt Smith, he's really been put in front of a lot of running backs because of the championships he's won."

Denver's small but mobile offensive line received much of the credit for the Broncos' offensive success in 1997, but Davis believes this year's revamped line — with two new starters and a third player moving to a different position — is actually better than last year's.

January 22, 1999

[illegible]

The graph displays the Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) from October 1, 1998, to February 1, 1999. The vertical axis represents the index value, ranging from 7500 to 9300 in increments of 200. The horizontal axis marks time in three-month intervals: 10/1/98, 11/1/98, 12/1/98, 1/1/99, and 2/1/99. The line starts at approximately 8000 in late 1998, rises to about 8400 by November, dips slightly in December, then continues a strong upward climb through January and February 1999, reaching nearly 9300.

Inspiration

A father was reading Bible stories to his young son. He read, "The man named Lot was warned to take his wife and flee out of the city, but his wife looked back and was turned to salt." His young son asked, "What happened to the flea?"

How to start a church ...

Step 1: Pray. Step 2: Sharpen a pencil. Step 3: Pray more.

By Jimmy Patterson
Staff writer

In the old days — during the westward expansion of the 19th century, or maybe as recently as when Barney Fife patrolled the streets of Mayberry — if someone wanted to start a church it was somewhat easier than it is today. A would-be pastor might spend a few Sundays building a physical church, and after telling a few friends, they'd suddenly one day swing open the front doors and begin building the spiritual church.

But those days are gone forever. Rhonda Thornhill knows that all too well. Thornhill, an ordained minister and a 20-year public school educator in Odessa, will officially open the Tall City Community Church of God Sunday. For now, she and her congregation of 10 will meet in the cafeteria of Scharbauer Elementary. But for now, that will do just fine.

Thornhill perhaps wishes for the simplicity of the olden days of start-up churches, especially after what she has gone through to form her new church.

"You have to look into legalities, become incorporated, apply for and receive non-profit status, which is a 29-page document," Thornhill said. "You have to apply for a copyright license so you can put text on an overhead projector or reprint song lyrics in a church bulletin. We can't just throw open the doors and say, 'Let's have church' anymore."

But what's more important in starting a successful church are the aspects of organizing that don't necessarily take a pencil with a sharp point, a bright lamp on a

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE A ...

Hal Crabb, left, and Frank Davis are elders with the Fairview Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses. Tim Fischer/Reporter-Telegram

JEHOVAH'S WITNESS

Editor's Note: As part of our continuing series, "What It Means to Be," Religion Page Editor Jimmy Patterson sat down this week with Jehovah's Witness elders Frank Davis and Hal Crabb. The questions and answers below are a transcript of their conversation. The answers are Davis' except where noted.

Q: What is a Jehovah's Witness?

A: A Jehovah's Witness is a person who has studied the Bible. Jesus said in John 17:3 that "This means everlasting life, taking in knowledge of you, the only true God." That's the elementary step, to take in that knowledge. Then, the person would, as a result of that knowledge, develop faith, which is defined in the Scriptures as the assured expectations of things hoped for. For example, belief in God. Well, you can't see God, so that's a matter of faith. And for a Jehovah's Witness, that's based on the accurate knowledge that they took in from the Bible. Then, after faith there would be the matter of what the Scriptures call repentance and turning around, drawn from Acts 3:19. In other words, once they learn these things and they believe them, then they would begin to practice them, so they would begin to repent. And whereas they were pursuing a certain course in life they would change over to live their lives in accordance of what they had learned in the Bible. Following that they would qualify for Baptism, which is a public ceremony indicating they have dedicated their life to Jehovah. After that it would be a matter of living or practicing what they have learned.

Q: From where is the name Jehovah's Witness derived?

A: It's drawn from the Bible. In Isaiah 43:10-12, Jehovah says, "You are my witnesses and I am God," so, thus, Jehovah's Witnesses, an implication of the Scriptural name is, like in a court case, a witness gives testimony or tells what happens. Being a Jehovah's Witness, that's what we do, we tell people about God and his purpose.

Q: And Jehovah is the Hebrew name for God?

A: Yes. Actually Jehovah is the term widely accepted and recognized in English. In Hebrew, it's a translation into English.

Q: Where does Jesus Christ figure into the picture for Jehovah's Witnesses?

A: From our study of the Bible we have determined that whereas Jehovah is the name of the almighty God, then Christ Jesus is His son. Jesus had a pre-human existence in heaven. Actually, the Scriptures, Colossians 1:15, show that He was the first born of all creation. Psalm 90:2 says, "Jehovah is from everlasting to everlasting, showing that He has always existed." That's not the case with any other creatures like Jesus, being the first born of all creation. Jesus is God's son and he is spoken of in the Scriptures as the Son of God. Jehovah is the almighty God, Jesus is the Son of God. To get back to the question of Christianity, the Scriptures show, for example, Acts 4:12, "There's not another name under heaven that's been given by which we can be saved," so Jesus is vital to the salvation. Christians are followers of Christ who came to teach Jehovah's will. A Christian follows in his footsteps. Yes, it's a Christian religion, we do follow Christ and we recognize his place as the Son of God, and Jehovah as the almighty God.

Q: Are you considered Protestants?

A: No, we aren't. The implication in Protestantism is it is a religion that broke off from the Catholic church in the protest of Martin Luther, and from that came newfound freedoms eventually, and then these religions sprang up, but we don't trace our roots from that, no.

Q: Is your church considered the original church?

A: Well, yes. What we see in Scripture is, in Acts 2, when the 120 were gathered in the upper room. After Jesus had paid the ransom, died and was resurrected, then 10 days later on the day of Pentecost when they were gathered in Jerusalem in the upper room, the Holy Spirit was born out and that was the establishing of the Christian church.

Q: So you consider your faith the one true faith.

A: Well yes, we do. Ephesians 4:5 mentions for Bible readers that there is one faith. Obviously anyone who reads the Bible and draws their own conclusions would make their own decision. We do not have an egotistical approach to that; we do not feel superior to any of our fellow man. The way we feel is we're all under a sentence of death as proven by the fact that we do die. We do believe there is a truth and that Jesus did establish a true religion, one faith. As far as us today, our instructions are in the Bible. We have four gospel accounts of Jesus' life, the things he taught and said. We also have

Pope's visit to St. Louis comes after receiving invitation by old friend

By Ed Shafer
Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS — Pope John Paul II, slowed but far from stopped by illness and his 78 years, apparently didn't have to think twice before accepting Archbishop Justin Rigali's invitation to visit St. Louis.

The fact that the two men are old friends, Rigali acknowledged, may have had something to do with it. Out of the spotlight, Rigali toiled for many years as one of the most influential Americans at the Vatican.

He also accompanied John Paul II on his U.S. trips in 1979 and 1987 and joined him at World Youth Day in Denver in 1993.

"I did work very closely with him from the time he was elected (20 years ago) until I was named archbishop of St. Louis" in 1994, Rigali said. "When I was appointed here, I expressed the hope that he could come to St. Louis. Over the years I renewed the invitation."

Then, Rigali said, when the pope decided to conclude the Americas synod by delivering his report on the debate in Mexico City, it all came together. The pontiff was arriving in the Mexican capital Friday, with his two-day St. Louis visit set to begin Tuesday.

"I renewed the invitation once more, and the pope graciously accepted it," said Rigali, noting that St. Louis has not had a previous papal visit.

And why not the city by the Mississippi River that calls itself the gateway to the West? "The St. Louis area is rich in Catholic history and has had a splendid role to carry in the history of the United States," Rigali said.

John Paul was here in 1969, but at that time he was Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, archbishop of Krakow, Poland.

Rigali was born in Los Angeles, where he was ordained a priest at age 25 after studying at a Los Angeles diocesan seminary.

After graduate studies in Rome, he entered the diplomatic service of the Holy See. While at the Vatican, he worked in the English section of the Secretariat of State, the super-agency that oversees all Vatican departments, under Pope Paul VI. He was appointed head of the section in 1970.

And he held an even more powerful post from 1989 to 1994 as secretary of the Vatican's Congregation for Bishops, which screens bishop nominations for much of the world. He was elevated to archbishop in 1985.

John Paul has praised Rigali's "ready availability, great industriousness (and) unceasing solicitude for the church."

Vatican observers call Rigali a close collaborator of the pope and view him as being on the fast track to become a cardinal. His predecessor in St. Louis, the late John May, was pointedly bypassed for that honor, but the three preceding St. Louis archbishops all received the red hat. The first St. Louis cardinal was John Glennon, elevated in 1946 as the first U.S. cardinal west of the Mississippi.

Those who know him describe Rigali as tight-lipped, hard-working, intelligent and genuinely pious.

Rigali recalls that on previous U.S. visits the pope met with ecumenical and interfaith leaders at nearly every stop. And the same will be true in St. Louis. Leaders of other religions have been invited to an ecumenical prayer service Wednesday at the St. Louis Cathedral Basilica.

"Seeing us is a very important part of what he considers a pastoral visit, having personal contact with the local church and at the same time with the larger community," Rigali said.

The pope's primary message, Rigali believes, will be familiar: "Emphasis on human dignity and life has been the hallmark of his preaching."

John Paul II, history's most traveled pope, typically draws enormous audiences in his trips to many corners of the world. Between 500,000 and 1 million people attended Masses he celebrated in New York's Central Park in 1996.

Estimates of at least 1 million people for the St. Louis visit may be on the mark or even low, said Monsignor Richard Stika, coordinator for the papal visit. A crowd of 104,000 is expected to fill the Trans World Dome for Tuesday's scheduled papal Mass, he said.

"We never realized what a monumental task this would be or how much influence the pope's visit here would have on people in other parts of the country," said Stika, noting that St. Louis' central location may add to the numbers. "I'm guessing the crowd will be very, very large, if the weather is decent."

Even that won't be left to chance. Stika said about 150 contemplative nuns in the St. Louis archdiocese have been asked to pray for good weather.

The Good Book: Jeremiah

(Part 23 of 52)

Overview:

Jeremiah was a prophet who began his ministry late in the seventh century B.C. in Jerusalem and the surrounding region of Judah. He criticized Judah for its constant turning to other gods and unfaithfulness to the Lord. Due to the nature of his message, Jeremiah endured persecution and hardship. He laments the people's rejection of his message and of him. Judgment will come as a consequence of the people's disobedience, but so will a new covenant that promises a new and more enduring relationship with God.

Theme Passages:

19:3-4 "Thus says the God of Israel: 'I am going to bring such disaster upon this place that the ears of everyone who hears of it will tingle. Because the people have forsaken me ... 31:31-33 "The days are surely coming, says the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah. It will not be like the covenant that I made with their ancestors when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt—a covenant that they broke, though I was their husband, says the Lord. But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, says the Lord: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people."

God will provide for all needs

What does the Bible verse, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding" mean to you?

I have known or thought I knew the message of this verse until recently when I went to a bicycle repair shop with my two-year old son. In minutes, everyone was being entertained by this boy. However, the experience was not merely entertaining, but was also educational for me.

I became engaged in visiting with the owner while my son, Kithethesyo, was exploring the shop. His adventure took him to a small corner, where he stopped still. This corner had a candy vending machine, the item every parent wishes business owners would keep from children's sight.

Kithethesyo has few words when he wants something. Actually, he does not speak at all. He knows actions speak louder than words. He dragged me by pulling my pants to that corner. I got the message. Unfortunately, I didn't have a single coin in my pockets. What language do you use to explain to an adamant child whose hope in this hour of need rests entirely on you? There are times when talking doesn't work.

I went to my car and literally crawled for hidden treasure until I had collected twenty-five pennies. The shop owner gave us change, and Kithethesyo had his way. A few issues crossed my mind. Why did he leave all the others to come to me? The owner was next to that corner, but my boy left him undisturbed there to search for me. Then I asked myself, isn't this desk, several cups of coffee and late nights filling out government paperwork.

"It takes lots of prayer," Thornhill said. "Prayer, obedience, patience and a good, strong core group. I prayed about Midland for a year."

Thornhill was an associate pastor at a Church of God in Big Spring when she was approached by a handful of people who said they were interested in looking into starting a church in Midland.

"They didn't ask me if I wanted to be the pastor," she said. "They just wanted me to be knowledgeable that they were thinking about starting a church in Midland. I was happy in Big Spring, so I prayed about it. Last summer, I went to our international camp in Anderson, Indiana (home office of the Church of God). When I got back, I told my husband I was looking for a sign from the Lord that this was truly what he wanted me to do. Then, I took some youth to Ohio for an international youth convention. While I was gone, my husband called and said I had received some mail from Anderson. I told him to open it and he said it was a book on church planning. That's a definite sign. I didn't order the book. I have no idea where it came from other than from Anderson, Indiana. I thought it was quite odd, but the Lord has worked with me that way for eight years."

Thornhill is a lifelong Permia Basin resident. Born in Odessa, she grew up in Hobbs and attended a Southern Baptist church. With her upbringing, she understandably has had to overcome some inner turmoil with what she calls "women issues."

Thornhill said a dry run last week will help make easier the inaugural service this Sunday, when the worship service commences at 10:30 a.m. at Scharbauer, 2115 Hereford.

Her biggest concern, the nursery, has been taken care of. The Tall City congregation will number eight adults and two teens when the opening prayer is said Sunday. The first service comes just four months after the core group began discussions on forming the church.

Thornhill said the church will target unchurched Midlanders in the west part of town, predominantly in the 79707 zip code. By the end of the year, she hopes to have reached — either by mail, phone or visitation — 10,000 people who may someday happen into the church. Three months ago, Thornhill and her core group began going door to door distributing door hangers asking people to simply set out the survey the next day if they were interested, a very passive way of gauging interest.

Next was finding a building. Thornhill ruled out Bush and Greathouse elementaries, and Abell Junior High for different reasons, finally settling on Scharbauer.

After approval for building use by the Midland school board, Thornhill began working with the school's administration, and it's custodian, who has offered several helpful hints. Thornhill will pay the district a minimum of $75 for each Sunday service for use of the building and custodial services.

Familiar names of people who attend the Church of God (Anderson, Indiana) include Peanuts creator Charles Schultz, and Christian singers Sandy Patti and Bill and Gloria Gaither.

Those who attend Tall City are not known as "members."

"We're a Protestant church, similar to the Nazarene church," Thornhill said. "People would feel very comfortable coming in to our church. Our order of service resembles that of a Baptist church. We have no written creeds, and go specifically and strictly by the Bible and its teachings. We are not charismatic and we do not speak in tongues. We have no memberships. The way you become a part of our church is to start worshipping and having fellowship with us. "Our main things are unity and holiness. We don't think you have to be a — quote — member of the Church of God to be a member of God's church. If you're a Christian, you are a member of God's church and that's what we are — God's church."

JEHOVAH: Witnesses oppose military service based on Ten Commandments

(From 1C)

the rest of the Christian Greek Scriptures, or what people call the New Testament, 14 letters by the Apostle Paul, and we have all of the Hebrew Scriptures, from Genesis to Malachi. This is where we find what we believe is the truth and that is what we practice.

Q: Did the Apostle Paul specify that the one true religion was that of the Jehovah's Witnesses?

A: The Scripture says, "One body there is, and one spirit, even as you were called one Lord, one faith, one baptism. From that we just draw the fact that there is one true faith. As far as identifying which one that is, our belief is the teachings of any religion claiming to be Christian have to be drawn from the Bible. We can get into all kinds of examples there. For example, if a person were to examine the Bible and read and then take a teaching from the major churches in Christendom that is widely believed like the trinity, the word "trinity" is not in the Bible, the idea of the trinity is not in the Bible. A trinity says that there are three divine persons: the father, son and holy ghost. Each is said to be eternal, each is said to be almighty. None is greater or less than another. Each is said to be God, and yet together being but one God. So, what the trinity is teaching is that they are eternal, co-equal, all the same person, but the Scriptures show that Jehovah has always existed; Jesus had a beginning, so he is not eternal, he is the son of God. The Holy Spirit is not a person, but God's invisible active force.

Q: You believe in the existence of all three, but that God is the central figure?

Crabb: You've heard people say God the father, God the son, God the Holy Spirit. We feel that Jehovah is the one true God, the Almighty God and, as Frank said, Jesus is His son and the Holy Spirit is God's active force.

Q: In what regard do you hold the book of Revelation?

A: We believe it is an inspired part of the Bible, and as far as our view of it, it's expressed in the beginning of the book itself, in the opening: "A revelation by Jesus Christ, which God gave him." It was originated by God and came through Jesus to show his slaves that would be his worshippers on the earth things that must shortly take place. He sent forth his angel and presented it in signs through him to his slave John the Apostle, who was about 100 years old at this time. It was in the year 96, of the Common Era, but it was presented in signs, so it is a symbolic book and that doesn't mean it can't be understood. The way it's understood is by comparing what it says with other parts of the Bible and getting the understanding of it. We do believe it can be understood and that it is vital.

Crabb: We do believe it has meaning for us today and does speak of future prophecies that will be fulfilled. We don't just view it as a story or some allegory, but we believe this.

Q: Your thoughts on the millennium? Any special significance to the Year 2000 on our calendar?

A: No. In Matthew 24, and there are corresponding accounts in two of the other gospel accounts, Jesus was asked what would be the sign of his presence at the end of the world. When you ask a question about 2000, that's where a lot of people's thinking is headed: Could it mean the end of the world? There's no significance outlined in the Bible for that year. In this same discussion down through verse 36, and it's quite a lengthy answer: "Jesus said concerning the day and hour (end of the world), nobody knows, neither the angels in the heavens nor the Son, but only the Father." We can't draw from the Scripture when this end, as spoken of in the Bible, is going to come. There's no particular significance to the year 2000.

Q: With all the talk of the supposed impending systemic breakdown caused by the Y2K Bug, and the thought that there will be a global meltdown and international crises... does this concern you at all?

Crabb: No, I don't think that has any special significance to Jehovah's Witnesses. It's not indicative in and of itself of the coming end. We don't attach any special significance to Y2K. Which is not to say we don't see it as a big problem.

Q: But is it your belief that the end of the world is coming... soon?

A: Yes. We believe that this system will end as Jesus indicated.

Q: What do you believe to be the biggest misconception of your faith by those unfamiliar with it?

A: What we find a lot of times is that people think we don't believe in Jesus, or Christ, which is erroneous. As we talked earlier, we recognize Jesus' place. Acts 4:12 says, "There's not another name from which you can gain salvation." We believe Jesus, as the Bible describes, was born of the Virgin Mary, his life was being transferred by Jehovah there. He was born. He was a perfect man, and as a result, He gave his life as a ransom. Matthew 20:28 said, "He came not to administer to, but to give his life as a ransom in exchange for many." We believe Jesus was the equivalent of the perfect man, Adam. Adam lost everlasting life. Adam had within his loins the potential to produce a perfect human race. Which was God's purpose. When that commission was given, Adam and Eve were perfect, and they would have produced a perfect human family, but as Genesis 3 says, they failed, they disobeyed God.

Q: Would another misconception be that the people who ride around town on bicycles are Jehovah's Witnesses?

A: Yes that is a misconception. Those are Latter-day Saints.

Q: But going door to door is a major part of your religion?

A: Yes, there is a big difference between us and the Church of Latter-day Saints, commonly called Mormons. As a practicing Christian, like Jesus said, Matthew 24:14, "This good news will be preached in all the inhabited earth." He followed up in Matthew 28:19-20. He said, "Go therefore and make disciples of people of all nations, baptizing them." He was indicating those who followed him would go to do this work. Our belief is that all Christians have the responsibility to share their faith by doing this.

Q: Are you both ordained ministers?

A: Yes.

Q: Are you paid for your work?

Crabb: We're both elders but we don't get paid. We're not paid clergyman in that sense. I have a full-time job that I work. Frank is a full-time pioneer, which means he spends the majority of his time going door to door and preaching the word.

Q: Do you take up a collection during your service?

A: No. I was just looking at Matthew 10:8, "When He sent his apostles to do the preaching, He told them, 'You receive free, give free.' So we" never pass the collection plate. Our religion and the work we do are supported by the worldwide home office.

Q: And you let children become preachers, is that correct?

A: We feel the responsibility for every Christian to share the good news of the Kingdom, as Jesus said, and that includes children. In Ephesians 6:4, the admonition is, "Ye fathers, do not be irritating your children but go on bringing them up in the discipline and mental regulation of Jehovah." So that, along with other Scriptures indicates that as fathers our responsibility is to teach our children the Bible and to help them learn about Jehovah God and also to become upstanding members in the community and to reach the Good News.

Q: Do we have any children that preach here in Midland?

Crabb: I have two children, 12 and 7, who go out and preach door to door, under the supervision of an adult.

Q: Tell me about saluting the flag... that's not permitted in your faith, is that correct?

A: I'm not sure that's phrased right. We consider that to be an act of worship, and that's based on one of the Ten Commandments, in Exodus 20. And by the way, we have no objection to what others do. We do not try to prevent them from doing that or what they choose to do. That's not our responsibility. In the Ten Commandments, the second one, it says, "You must not make for yourself a carved image or form like anything that is in the heavens above or that is in the underneath or that is in the water under the earth. You must not bow down to them nor be induced to serve them." Based on that and other Scriptures, too, we consider the saluting of the flag an act of worship. But some have misconstrued our stance on the matter. We have a great respect for the flag, and we have a great respect for what it stands for. We do our very best to obey the laws of any land and any country's flag not just here, but any country where we worship Jehovah. Where we draw the line is we will not perform what we consider to be an act of worship. But we will stand when others do that. We'll be very respectful. We do not try to interfere with anything they do.

Crabb: And that brings up another misconception of Jehovah's Witnesses, and that is that we are not good and loyal citizens. We are exemplary. We obey all the laws, pay our taxes, we're peaceful. It's just when, as Acts 5:29 brings out, when it conflicts with God's law, we must obey God's law rather than men.

Q: Explain your opposition to military service.

A: For the same reason, another of the Ten Commandments: Thou shalt not murder. Taking an objective view of the matter, World War I was fought among the nations of Christendom: Episcopalians, Catholics, other religions. In Germany, those same religions, like in the United States and other countries, they participated in actually killing one another. We think that violates Christian behavior and what the Scriptures teach, and we don't participate in war. What's interesting is that in World War I, there was about 20 million people killed. World War II about 50 million. In this century alone there have been about 100 million people killed in wars. If everyone took a stance similar to that of Jehovah's Witnesses not one of those persons would be dead. In Germany, in Hitler's time, Jehovah's Witnesses who refused military service were put in concentration camps. Over here, many people were put in prison. It's not that they wanted to be in either one of those places, but because of their obedience to God they refused to go kill their fellow man, either of their religion, or of any other religion for that matter.

Q: What sort of exposure do Jehovah's Witnesses have to things secular?

A: Well, like Hal mentioned, he works at his secular job with Enron, and most of all of our people, the men and a lot of the women, all have secular jobs. Our kids attend the public schools. We have TV sets, music in our homes, it's a personal choice. We go to movies, but obviously we are very selective. We're pretty much like other normal people.

Would you like training for ministry service?

The Certificate in Ministry & Lay Leadership Development Program is offered in Midland through the Howard Payne University School of Christian Studies. This exciting new program is specially designed for (1) those who have experienced a call into ministry, are employed full-time and desire to provide ministerial leadership to a church organization; and (2) those who are involved in various roles of lay ministry in a local church and desire to further their knowledge in specific areas of the Bible and ministry.

You may choose from a variety of course topics, including Old and New Testament studies, work of the minister, biblical interpretation, sermon preparation, church history, evangelism, missions and finance. All courses taken in this program are for academic credit and may be applied toward a baccalaureate degree.

This exciting new program is open to just about everyone — those who may have previously attended a college, those who have graduated from high school, and those who have not graduated from high school or achieved a high school equivalency. (If you have not graduated from high school or achieved high school equivalency, you will be required to demonstrate language proficiency in reading and writing to ensure successful study in this program.)

WhiteStone to perform at St. Nicholas Episcopal Church

WhiteStone will perform its uplifting brand of music from its newly-released CDs, "In The Sky," and "Proclaim His Name!"

By Jimmy Patterson
Staff writer

The Christian music group WhiteStone from Denver, Colo., will appear with the Rev. Jim Stone and his wife, Joann of Buena Vista, Colo., at 3:30 p.m. Sun., Jan. 31, at St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton in Midland.

WhiteStone will perform its uplifting brand of music from its newly-released CDs, "In The Sky," and "Proclaim His Name!"

"In The Sky" is currently in the Top 10 on Christian music charts in the south. The concert is free and open to the public, and is followed by teaching and prayer by the Stones.

WhiteStone has been traveling nationwide and the members combine story and song to convey their message. All of its music is original and the group's vision is to share its songs and stories of God's love with all people.

All denominations have hosted the group, and its appeal is to people of all ages. Their musical style ranges from country to Southern gospel, Celtic and contemporary Christian.

WhiteStone has previously appeared on Denver Public Television, various other Christian television broadcasts and on nationally syndicated radio stations.

WhiteStone merchandise will be available for sale at the concert, as well.

For further information, please contact Bill Gilmore, 686-7744, or via e-mail, WGilmorej@aol.com

Tuesday, Jan. 26: The Midland Association of Churches' monthly meeting begins at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday at Memorial Rehabilitation Hospital, Loop 250 at Thomason Drive. The meeting includes lunch. The new officers will be installed. They include Fane Downs, president; Jim Rudd, vice president; Lael Cordes-Pitts, secretary; and Jan Arley, treasurer. New board members include Sharae Buskirk, Iris Foster, Steve Wilkins, Jo Gay, Tom Kelly and Pam Smith. The program will be a video, "Home Sweet Home," dealing with how to help people remain in their homes as long as possible and be independent. The Rev. Alan Williams, chaplain at Memorial Hospital, will moderate the program. A response will be provided by an occupational therapist from Memorial rehabilitation Hospital.

Wednesday, Jan. 27: Shekinah Glory Church, 712 Scharbauer Drive, is hosting the Spiritual Empowerment for the 21st century Conference Jan. 27-30.

The theme is "the Return of the Spirit of Holiness." All services begin at 7 p.m. Speakers include the Rev. Ken Redmon, Jan. 27; A.C. Taylor, Jan. 28; the Rev. Donnie Brackens, Jan. 29; and the Rev. Jessie Morris and Brackens, Jan. 30. A special anointing service will be held at 8 a.m. Jan. 30. Registration for the conference is $10.

KITUKU: God will provide for all our needs

(From 1C)
a lesson on how God, our omnipresent Father, waits for us to make our wishes known? While I had to crawl and search for pennies, God owns all riches. All I need to do is to trust and ask. My son's simplicity reminded me of the verses, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths" (Proverbs 3: 5-6). Kithethesyo didn't look for someone else first. He knew who could take care of his need.

God wants us to ask Him first before we start leaning on our presumed understanding that may lead us into trusting the arm of flesh. When asked, God provides according to what He knows is good for our spiritual stability and growth. Sometimes this may not be what we hoped for, but it is what our Heavenly Father provides. He owns everything.

Are you ready to ask?

Vincent Kituku is an author, motivational speaker and seminar leader. He can be reached at vmkmusoo@aol.com, or on his home page, www.kituku.com.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Jan. 23, 1999:
Your manner is unusually appealing this year. Your ability to communicate what you feel makes a big difference. Others are comfortable talking with you and trust you to understand. Intuition helps you financially; you could see your funds reach an all-time high. Put some aside for a rainy day. Socially, you're unpredictable but lively. If you are single, a happy romance may arrive out of the blue. If attached, your relationship becomes more indulgent and caring. Hanging out with ARIES is fun.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Unexpected news piques your imagination. A must appearance proves to be very special. You receive acknowledgment for a job well done. Listen to your inner voice with someone you adore. Reveal a wish; it is likely to be fulfilled. Tonight: As you like it.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Go within for answers. You could be stunned by another's reactions (or your own, for that matter). Communicate what is on your mind. Remain level-headed and even-tempered. Question choices carefully. Your perceptions change as a result. Another clearly appreciates you. Tonight: Do your thing.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Plans could change. Discuss options with a friend. Keep your eye on the long term. Let others know the depth of your caring. Explain your beliefs and perspective. Your feelings manifest in a way that others can understand. Tonight: Happiest with friends.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Imagine and create more of what you want. A partner could jolt you, but you'll bounce back easily. Take responsibility for bringing others together. Key friends will mellow in this setting. Relate with others one-on-one. Your attention is appreciated. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Arrange to take off on a day trip. You enjoy yourself and recharge when you're out of your traditional environment. Listen and honor what is going on with a partner. Usually you find this individual a bit wild; now you see where he is coming from and understand his reactions. Tonight: Caring abounds.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 You could be thrown off by a daily matter. Chaos still runs rampant. Discussions with a partner help you gain insight. Success comes because of a nurturing and understanding attitude. Intimate talks prove rewarding. Don't indulge in defensiveness. Tonight: Togetherness works.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 You feel inspired by another. Sometimes this person jolts you with their unpredictability. Think before you take action. You feel very good and tender with this person. A child is adoring. Realize that right now you might not be seeing the whole picture. Tonight: Naughty works, so does nice.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 You are driven by a fundamental concern. Communications at home are important and could affect your work schedule as well as your daily routine. You might opt to bring more work home. Creativity surges. Allow more playfulness in your life. Tonight: You speak the right words.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 So many options appear on the horizon. Spend some money to enhance the quality of your home life. An expenditure you decide upon feels like a gift for another. Talks are lively and add to the dimension of a relationship. Tonight: Allow the play to begin.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 You are building better domestic rapport. Pampering yourself has the added benefit of improving your image. Another sees what you are doing and appreciates your resolve. Unexpected spending could pinch your wallet but nourish your soul. Walk this fine line carefully. Tonight: Invite a friend over!
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 Your gentleness comes out in dealing with others. Intuition is accurate in a money matter. Establish limits, yet make a plan to get what you want. There is no stopping you. Express your feelings in a talk with another. Sharing opens up new vistas. Tonight: Visit with a friend.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 Absorb information. You are lucky and enjoy yourself dealing with friends. Be open to feedback. Take time for someone who might be feeling under the weather. Your caring means a lot to this person. You get what you want indirectly. Tonight: Take a night off.

Hamilton says Cameron is miserable man

NEW YORK — Being married to James Cameron was a titanically miserable experience.

So says actress Linda Hamilton, who filed for divorce from the director of "Titanic" and "The Terminator" after nearly eight years of marriage.

"I wanted to be the one to do the final destructive act. It's an important thing for me personally not to feel like the victim," Ms. Hamilton said in Friday's USA Today.

Ms. Hamilton said that even at last year's Academy Awards — when Cameron's "Titanic" won 11 trophies and he shouted, "I'm the king of the world!" — he was still "an absolutely miserable, miserable, unhappy man."

She said the two had nothing in common except their 6-year-old daughter.

LOS ANGELES — Orson Welles' daughter is suing Universal Studios over a re-edited, re-released version of the director's 1958 masterpiece "A Touch of Evil."

In a lawsuit filed Wednesday, Beatrice Welles said the project is falsely advertised as being edited the way Welles wanted it done. She said the release damages his reputation.

Welles died in 1985. The thriller about corruption and decadence in a Texas border town flopped in its original release after studio executives made changes while Welles was on another project.

Ms. Welles wants to stop the new version from being released on home video. The lawsuit does not ask for damages.

The newly cut version was given an award in December by The New York Film Critics Circle.

Universal spokeswoman Iris Galt had no comment on the lawsuit.

BELLEVUE, Idaho — Lucky for Jann Wenner, finders-keepers doesn't cut it in court anymore.

A judge ruled this month that 96 gold coins found on the Rolling Stone publisher's property — some of which date to the 1800s — belong to Wenner and not a man who found them while building a driveway there in 1997.

The worker, Gregory Corliss, argued that the coins, worth $25,000, were his under the centuries-old treasure trove principle.

"There seems no logical reason to continue the ancient doctrine of treasure trove in this modern age," Judge James May said.

LONDON — Nicole Kidman, Liam Neeson, Juliette Binoche, Ewan McGregor and Kevin Spacey have done it in the past year. Now, Richard Dreyfuss is coming to the London stage.

Dreyfuss will star in Neil Simon's 1971 play "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" with Marsha Mason, his co-star in the movie "The Goodbye Girl."

The production will open in the West End on March 30 after touring four cities in England, the producers announced Friday.

The Simon play will mark Dreyfuss' theater debut in London.

LOS ANGELES — Jaws dropped when Steven Spielberg announced his retirement.

"I'm quitting while I'm ahead, so tonight I'm announcing my retirement," Spielberg said Wednesday after winning the directing award for "Saving Private Ryan" from the Los Angeles Film Critics Association.

It was all in jest. Bill Murray ("Rushmore") and "Wild Things") shared the prize for best supporting actor with Billy Bob Thornton ("A Simple Plan").

There was also a tie for best actress: Ally Sheedy as a drug addict in "High Art," and Fernanda Montenegro as an elderly woman who meets an orphan boy in "Central Station."

Ian McKellen won for best actor for "Gods and Monsters," and Joan Allen was named best supporting actress for "Pleasantville."

NEW YORK — The Lilith Fair may soon be the stuff of history.

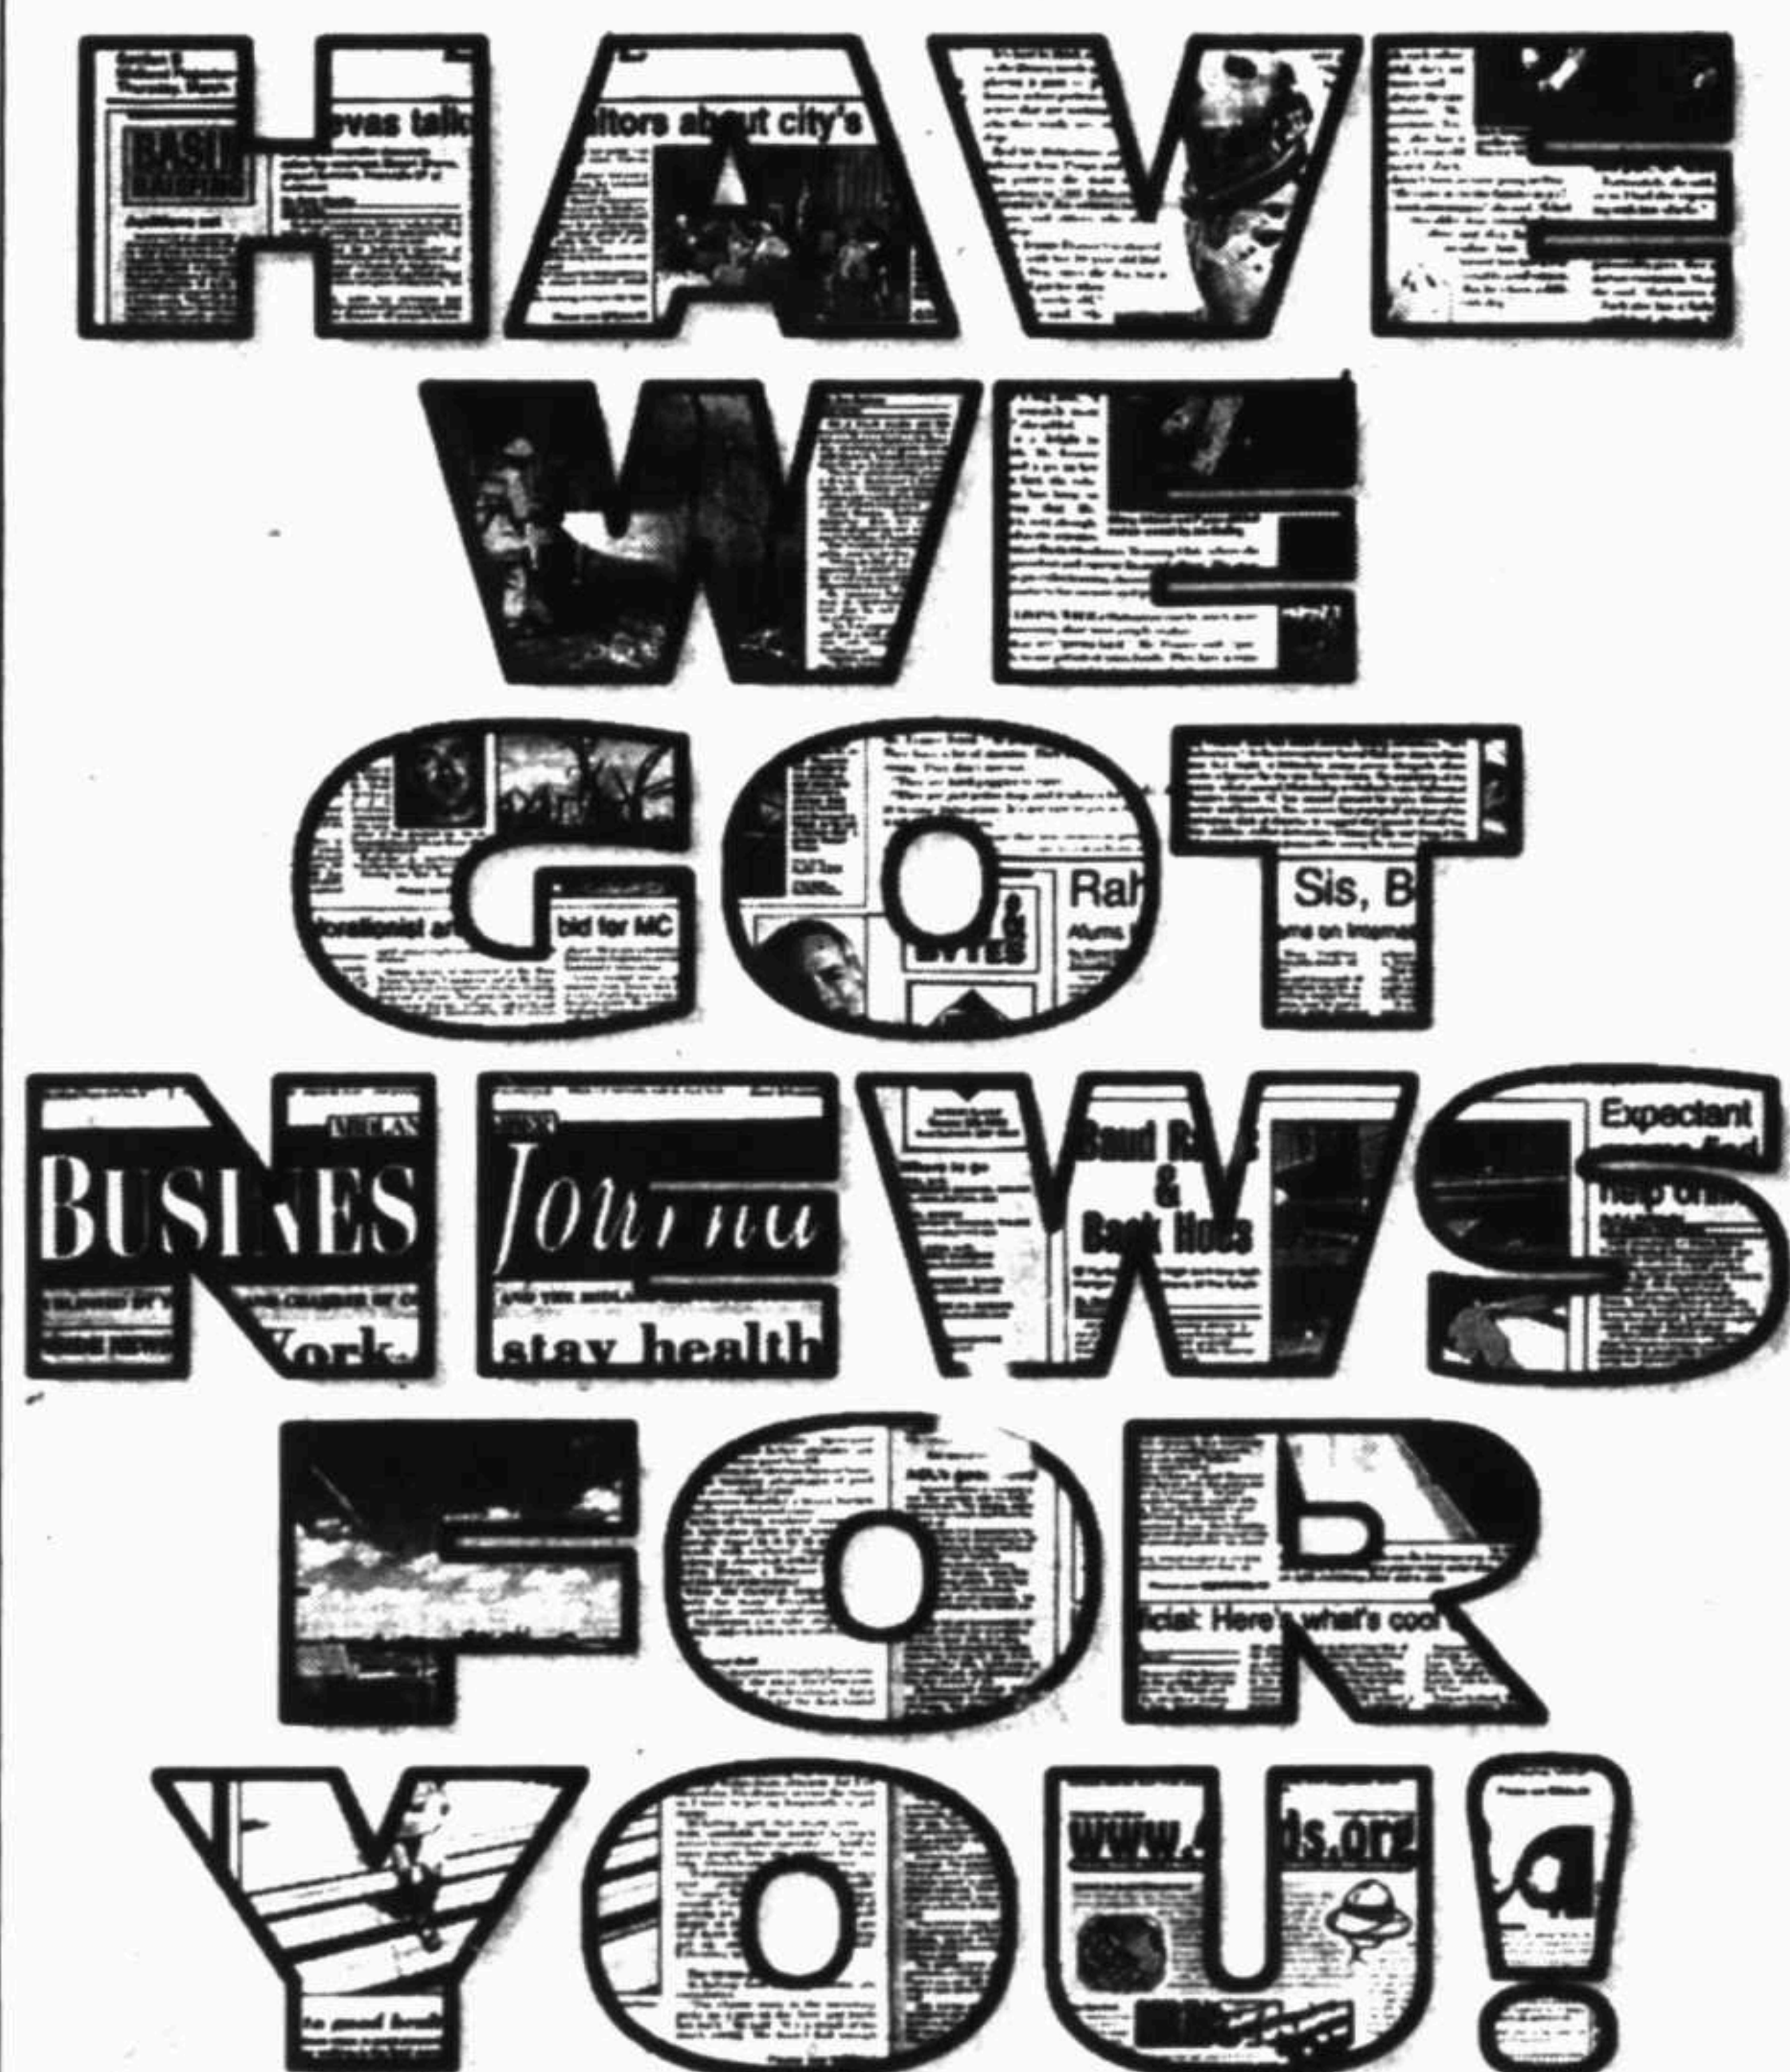

"After this summer, we might take a holiday for a year, or four years, or permanently," said Terry McBride, who co-founded the all-women's musical caravan with singer Sarah McLachlan and is her manager.

Ms. McLachlan will headline at this summer's fair, which begins July 8 in Vancouver, British Columbia. "Lilith Fair is such a big undertaking — you're moving a small village of people every single day. We're managers and artists, not promoters. Putting on a festival shouldn't dominate our lives," Ms. McBride said in Friday's USA Today.

GENERAL INFORMATION:

To ensure the integrity of our newspaper, for the benefit of our readers and advertisers, the Midland Reporter-Telegram reserves the right to revise, reclassify, edit or refuse any advertising. We also reserve the right to convert all advertising into digital and/or audiotext formats within our other products and services.

Please check your ad the first day it appears, and, if you find a mistake, please call our office at 682-6222 so we can correct the error immediately. This will ensure that your ad is exactly what you want readers to see. If an error does occur, you can choose to return your ad at once for free, or we'll gladly refund the cost of the portion of the ad affected by the error. If an ad is inadvertently omitted, we will assume liability up to the cost of the ad itself — consequently, we will publish your ad in our next available edition or refund the price you have paid.

Rate charges are determined at the time of placement. All ads accepted are subject to credit approval. Some classifications require payment in advance. Credit applications are required for business accounts.

We welcome your suggestions or comments. Please call: Ember Hasenlamp, Telephone Sales Supervisor, 687-8813.

PLACING AN AD:

Call 682-6222,
Monday through Friday,
from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m.

A friendly Advertising Consultant will help you word and schedule your ad for best results.

HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD THAT WORKS!

● A Benefit Headline - Answer the buyer's question, "What's in it for me?" Select the main benefit of the item you are selling and write a compelling headline.

● The Body Copy - Make sure your information is clear, concise and complete. Stress benefits. Avoid abbreviations whenever possible.

● The Price - Don't be afraid to quote your price. 52% of readers won't respond to an ad that does not include a price.

● Call to Action - Urge readers to buy now.

Traveling the "Mother Road"

Well, here it is, the final year of the 1990's. It is going to be 365 days of retrospectives and reminiscing, of looking back and looking ahead. For me, it's time for a vacation that does both.

Late last November I seized the opportunity to experience something I'd long looked forward to: driving the length of the United States, largely on the "Mother Road," a road so old that sections of it follow Indian trails and trading routes, and in a car so new that it wasn't even to be offered for sale for another two months.

I'm referring to old Route 66, the Road to the West (although I drove it to the East) and I came away from it with a new understanding of what makes this country so wonderful, and how far, for good or ill, that we have come since this ribbon of asphalt and concrete was commissioned in 1926.

Starting from San Diego, Calif., my partner and I covered over 2,500 miles in a frog green 1999 Volkswagen GTI VR6, courtesy of the good folks in the VW public relations department. A great car, a great road, a great adventure for every driving enthusiast in any vehicle.

The first step to your Route 66 adventure is to purchase a good guide to the old road, as many of the Route 66 signs were removed by state transportation officials following the completion of Interstate 40 about 15 years ago. It is key to remember that Route 66 was not a single highway, but a linking of old "farm-to-market" roads, trails, and local highways. Many of these roads still exist, but they must be sought out, as they now mostly carry state and local designations.

Your quest to find the road will reward you with a driving experience that takes you through intriguing towns that are no more than exit signs on the freeway, past the abandoned roadside attractions that are significant American ruins, and away from the homogenized, fast food, chain-store society that is making modern travel by car a bland ordeal.

"The Route 66 Traveler's Guide and Roadside Companion" by Tom Snyder, founder of the US Route 66 Association, is a colorful and concise tour book that proved valuable far beyond the $12.00 cost. The guide, however, is written in a "East-to-West" manner that had us trying to remember to reverse all the "north-south-east-west" instructions.

Without the Guide, however, we never would have known to stop for the best smoked meat sandwich in the West at Jiggs, near Clinton, Okla. And we certainly would have missed the long-closed and remarkably preserved "66 Super Service Station" in Alameda, Texas.

There is something magical about watching the terrain shift outside your window, from desert to mountain, to the lush farm country of the Midwest. The old road itself varies from gravel to the pink concrete of Oklahoma, from the wide-open straightaways of Texas to the challenging switchbacks of Western Arizona, and sometimes it isn't there at all, replaced in its entirety by fast featureless lines of interstate. It makes one appreciate the spirit of those who came before, perhaps in search of a better life, or maybe just on a 2500-mile vacation jaunt.

This romance for the Open Road may be lost on some, but if you long for a driving vacation that educates, entertains, and is uniquely American, let me suggest that you schedule some time this year getting your kicks on Route 66.

Here's the Volkswagen GTI in front of the abandoned "66 Super Service Center" in Alameda, Texas.

Elegance & Sophistication:

RoadWorthy!

By Ken Chester, Jr.

'99 Toyota Avalon XLS sedan

Introduced to the American motoring public for the 1995 model year, the Avalon has enjoyed four successful years as the Toyota flagship. As the best-equipped and most spacious car sold by the Toyota Division, the front-drive Avalon is designed as a "move-up" vehicle for midsize sedan owners seeking more room, comfort and sophistication.

Built at the automaker's sprawling Georgetown, Ky. assembly plant, the large Toyota sedan is available in XL and XLS trim levels and is powered by a 3.0L four-cam, 24-valve six-cylinder engine. The V-6 produces 200 horsepower @ 5,200 rpm (198 in California) and 214 lb/ft torque (212 in California). The powerplant is bolted to a four-speed ECTi automatic transmission with, intelligence.

On the road, the only sound that enters the cabin from the outside is a strong wind. The velvety smooth powertrain was peppy and responsive, answering my every command without fuss or fanfare.

Avalon's smooth, supple ride is due in part to its 107.1 inch wheelbase, independent MacPherson strut suspension and independent dual-link rear suspension. Bridgestone Potenza P205/65R15 tires work with the suspension pieces to make quick, uneventful work of high speed cornering.

Gas-filled shock absorbers, front and rear stabilizer bars and anti-vibration cradle sub-frames aid in minimizing noise, vibration, and harshness (NVH).

These characteristics are further refined through the use of asphalt resin sheeting on the floor, flush mounted side and front glass, one-piece windshield glass upper moldings, foamed urethane-filled C- and D-pillars, low profile rain gutters and exacting gaps between body panels.

Inside the cabin, the driver enjoys an excellent outward view of the road. World class displays and controls fall easily to the hand and the front center console features a comfortable armrest.

Rear seat passengers receive the royal treatment, with plenty of legroom and comfort. An armrest and wide access make the space very hospitable. A wide opening trunk lid reveals a cavernous trunk with a floor mat — a nice touch.

Underhood fluids are easy to reach but are not consistently marked. The engine hood is self supported without a prop rod. The one gripe that I have is that the rear seat passengers do not have any sort of cupholders.

By the numbers

Standard safety equipment includes dual front airbags, front seat-mounted side airbags, side impact door beams, daytime running lights and four-wheel anti-lock disc brakes. Traction control is a $300 option. EPA fuel economy for the Avalon is 21 city/29 highway.

Retail sticker prices range from $24,568 for the XL to $28,578 for the XLS. Destination charge adds $420. Inventories of this sedan have always been scarce, but are currently improving. There are no rebates.
