Strikes In Spain And A Trade War Between Great Britain And France Add To Darkened Picture Of Continent

(By The Associated Press)

CIVIL WAR in Austria with hundreds dead, strikes in Spain, a trade conflict between Great Britain and France were features Tuesday of a dark European picture.

Government forces bombarded socialists' strongholds in Vienna. Estimates of the number dead ranged from 500 to 2,000. In a dozen other Austrian cities civil war raged.

Order Returning

Nine were hurt in street clashes attending a general strike in Bilboa, Spain. Student disorders flared. Premier Alejandro Lerroux said "danger at certain focal points has not been entirely eliminated," but order was returning.

A trade war between France and Britain was in effect with the imposition of an extra 20 per cent duty on most French imports and reduced French quotas on British goods.

Premier Gaston Doumergue's new French cabinet was "silently working" to restore order and economic well-being. A general strike Monday was followed by apparent quiet. Police were withdrawn from public gathering places where they were stationed during last week's bloody strikes.

Conference Discussed

Meanwhile, officers of the world disarmament conference, meeting in London, discussed the project of calling great world powers, including the United States, to send representatives to a special disarmament conference.

The French government notified Germany that Chancellor Hitler's demands for rearmament could not be accepted.

Government Guns Batter At Socialist Sections

BY WADE WERNER

(Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press)

VIENNA, Feb. 13. — Government guns battered workers' sections tonight as unofficial estimates put the number killed in two days of civil war at 500 to 2,000.

A steady bombardment of the huge Karl Marx apartment building wrecked that socialist stronghold and government troops started other relentless offensives to crush the rebellion.

Troops Cross Danube

Loyal artillerymen rained lead upon the enemy camps while troops crossed the Danube in the heart of Vienna under the protection of the barrage into the war zones.

No one could estimate the exact number of dead in the hours of vicious street fighting and bombardments, but police disclosed that 123 civilians were brought, dead, to the Vienna general hospital alone.

Among the victims in that institution were a five-year-old girl and a fourteen-year-old boy who were killed in the bombardment of the Karl Marx apartment.

Byrns And Fish Make Floor Of House An Interesting Place As They Almost Resort To Battle

"I Will Tell The Gentleman This," Declares One; "No, You Will Not Tell The Gentleman Anything," Retorts Another As Hot Words Fly Thick And Fast Among The Members

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — A Lindbergh telegram twisted house procedure today and almost brought an invitation for two of its members to meet outside the chamber in the kind of combat in which gongs instead of gavels are used to mark the passage of time.

It was the telegram that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh sent President Roosevelt protesting against the cancellation of airmail contracts.

Harvard's one-time All America football player, Hamilton Fish, wanted to put it into the Congressional Record. Quite a few Democrats didn't want it there. They objected when Fish asked for unanimous consent to do so.

The house was engaged in passing minor bills under a procedure requiring the consent of all members. Fish objected to them one by one.

Representative Knutson (R-Minn) told Speaker Rainey that since the house was not making any progress, if Majority Leader Byrns did not move to adjourn, he would.

Byrns asked permission to

Oklahoma Man And Wife Shot To Death By Negro

Three Sons Witness Slayings; Posses Seek Murderer

(By The Associated Press)

IDABEL, Okla., Feb. 13. — Dan Stiles, McCurtain county farmer, and his wife were shot to death in a field near their home today by Frank Clark, a negro tenant.

A posse of 200 persons formed immediately and searched carefully through the Red river bottoms for the negro. Officers feared violence should he be captured.

Three Are Witnesses

Three of Stiles' sons witnessed the double slaying from about a quarter of a mile away. One of them, Dedrick Stiles, 21, said he saw the negro talking with the couple in a field and then saw him raise a rifle and shoot his father and then shoot his mother twice.

Stiles, shot through the head, died instantly while his wife lived two hours.

Fires At Sons

The negro started toward the spot where the sons were standing and fired one shot. Suddenly he turned around and started running south toward the Red river thickets.

The sons were unable to shed any light on a motive for the slayings. The farms of Stiles and the negro adjoined.

Texas Urged To Speed Up Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Cully A. Cobb, chief of the administration's cotton section, said today Texas was lagging far behind in the Volunteer acreage reduction program, estimating only 75 per cent of its quota had been reached despite the fact the sign-up campaign closed February 15.

Cobb added there still was opportunity for the state to "get under the wire, provided they will turn on that heat down there."

"If the quota—about 6,500,000 acres—is not reached, the other states are going to say Texas chiseled on them," he added. "It is now up to the county committees and to the individual farmer in Texas. We were very greatly disappointed by the news."

Action Being Brought Against Postmaster General Farley To Restrain Him From Enforcing His Order

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — The administration tonight hurried the preparation of an explanation to the courts and the public of why it cancelled all air contracts.

It was urged to make answer, in the first instance, by court action brought against Postmaster General Farley, intended to restrain him from enforcing the cancellation order against the contract held by Transcontinental and Western Air Inc.

Reply To Protests

In the second case, it sought to reply to protests filed by the air companies themselves, by members of congress and in some newspaper editorials.

Early tonight, word was passed out by the post office department that Postmaster General Farley would make public the text of a letter to Senator Black (D-Ala), chairman of the senate committee investigating airmail contracts.

This word came from Farley immediately after he had attended a regular cabinet meeting presided overby President Roosevelt.

Issues Statement

Three hours later, after the first draft of the six page letter had been completed, Farley changed his mind and issued a formal statement saying:

"I am preparing a letter to forward to Senator Black which is a full statement of the reasons why I

Plan Defeated In Legislature Tuesday Night

Proposal To Legalize Sale Of Whisky And Other Spirits In Advance Of Pro Repeal In State Voted Down

Debate Extended

Opponents Declare It Would Have Made Saloons Out Of Every Drug Store And Result In Increased Crime

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 13—A proposal to legalize the sale of whisky and other intoxicants in Texas in advance of repeal of state prohibition was defeated by the liquor traffic committee of the Texas house tonight.

The committee voted an unfavorable report, 13 to 3, to a bill to authorize the sale of whisky in unlimited quantities by drug stores under state license on prescription of physicians. Notice was given that the bill will be brought before the house on minority report.

Debate Is Extended

The action followed extended debate in which proponents of the bill said it would be a move to stamp out the bootlegger and start the state on the road to temperance. Opponents asserted it was an effort to "make saloons out of every drug store."

The bill was sponsored by Rep. T. H. McGregor of Austin.

"It would take the profit out of the liquor business and destroy the bootlegger," McGregor said. "It would take the glamour out of it and the college boys would forget their pocket flasks and your daughter would come home without liquor on her breath."

Webb Attacks Bill

Atticus Webb, superintendent of the Texas anti-Saloon League, said the bill would be degrading to public morals and result in increased crime.

"To pass this would be placing the stamp of approval on violation of the law and constitution," Webb said. "No self-respecting doctor or druggist would be a party to it or become an agent of the liquor traffic."

DICKENS, Feb. 13. (Special) — Two brothers were sought today for stabbing their brother-in-law, Lon Haney, 30, a rent-farmer, with whom they and their wives lived at Afton, 12 miles northeast of Dickens.

Investigators described the fight as a "family row."

Traveling Evangelist Stoutly Proclaims His Innocence Of Murder; States Victim Was Best Friend He Ever Had

(By The Associated Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 13. —Still stoutly asserting his innocence of the murder of his rather-in-law, W. T. Hudgins, a McLean, Tex., ranchman, in November, 1930, the Rev. Lewis Howard Shockley, 54, traveling evangelist, late today was turned over to Sheriff Seth Tuttle of Stone county, Mo., to be held at Galena.

The sheriff said he wanted to use the preacher as a witness against a farmer charged with aiding Shockley to escape Friday night prior to his arrest at West Plains, Mo., yesterday.

Shockley refused to take seriously his indictment three weeks ago on a charge of poisoning his father-in-law, owner of a 2,700 acre ranch reported by relatives to be valuable as oil land. He said he could throw no light on what he termed the mysterious deaths of four other members of the family.

"I know I'm innocent," he said in his cell here today. "I wouldn't kill no one. Why, I'm the one that wanted the grand jury to meet and investigate Father Hudgin's dying, though I wasn't there until the night after he died. They told me it was pneumonia that killed him, but when Addie — that's his granddaughter, Mrs. Terry Erwin—died the day of his funeral, I got curious. Mr. Hudgins was the best friend I ever had."

Later, he said, Terry Erwin died after several weeks illness. Then Hugh Erwin, father of

USEFUL CHART

HERE is something in which you may be interested. It gives the size of cans of fruits and vegetables, their weights and the average cupfuls contained. There is said to be a slight variation in kinds and in the sort of fruit or vegetable contained. An eight ounce can usually holds one cupful. A No. 1 tall can holds 16 ounces or 2 cupfuls. A No. 2 can holds 20 ounces or 2 1-2 cupfuls. A No. 2 1-2 can holds 28 ounces or 3 1-2 cupfuls. A No. 3 can contains 33 ounces or 4 cupfuls. A No. 10 holds 6 pounds, 10 ounces, or 13 cupfuls.

MANY DO WRITE

YOU would be surprised at the people who write verse or prose in their spare moments. Some of them sell it, too. Since there has been discussion of this scribblers club people have called me to tell me they are interested in joining and that they write that I had never suspected of doing it.

PRESERVE BEAUTY

PEOPLE are getting interested in gardens now that seed catalouges are beginning to arrive and trees and shrubs are showing their new leaves, so it is time for the annual discourse on dogs, chickens and children.

It is hard to have a pretty yard or a good garden if the neighbors' children run pell-mell over the flower beds or if the neighbors' dog decided that the coolest place to take a nap is in the freshly watered garden. And you know what a chicken can do to the pride of a gardener's heart.

Children can't be expected to play sedately on their own front yards all of their lives. They just naturally aren't built that way, but this is a town of wide open spaces and I still think—even though I haven't tried it—that children can be taught a respect for the property of other people. My parents had a method. It might not have been the best one according to the latest books on bringing up children but it was effective.

There have been children of both kinds in our neighborhood for as long as I can remember and those that knew how to respect the gardens and flowers and other property of the neighbors played just as hard and had just as good times as the destructive ones.

Children should have a good time playing but they should not destroy everything in the neighborhood doing it.

As to the dogs and chickens, a yard is for their own good as well as that of the neighbors. It keeps them from being run over in the street and protects the yards and gardens near by.

You might be surprised to know that every spring and summer we receive a number of calls, some from people we know and some anonymous, about the destruction that neighbors' animals and children do. People dont like to cause a neighborhood row and they do want to have pretty homes and productive gardens without putting a high board fence around their property. They appeal to the paper hoping that the offending neighbors will take the hint.

All of us enjoy what beauty is cultivated here. Unless there is something wrong with our make-up we like to see a home surrounded by lawns, trees, shrubs and flowers and we can appreciate the people who have vegetable plots at their back doors. Few of us would take much pride in this town if none of this beauty were added, so it is up to all of us to help preserve it.

Let the children play. Most people don't mind having them on the lawn or porch or under the trees even when they have none of their own. But they do like children who know how to respect their property. You may live next door to a crank who doesn't want your children about, but you are one of the few because there are not so very many cranks. The average human just naturally likes children but he likes the well trained ones best.

Texas Legislature Paves Way For Quick Action On Relief Measures

Policy Of Silent Work Is Adopted By French Cabinet

PARIS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Adopting a policy of "silent work," the political truce cabinet of Premier Gaston Doumergue tonight devoted itself to the principal aim of restoring public confidence.

Police were withdrawn from public gathering places, following suppression of riots early today in several provincial cities. Quiet apparently was restored following the end of yesterday's general strike.

Officers were ordered not to open fire unless fired upon.

Expressing belief disorders had finished but remaining in readiness for other possible outbreaks, the government turned to its program of balancing the budget and showing a strong fist in foreign problems, as evidenced by two notes.

Alexander Graham Bell, by inventing the telephone, made it possible to hear the conversation of people whom you cannot see, while his father, Alexander Melville Bell, invented the lip-reading system by which deaf-mutes can see and read conversation they cannot hear.

Bills Will Be Debated Today

Plans To Aid Farmers, Ranchers And Home Owners To Be Discussed; Bond Issue Bill Set For Hearing

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—The Texas legislature paved the way today for quick consideration of unemployment relief legislation, the need of which caused the governor to convene the special session 16-days ago.

Both houses decided to begin consideration tomorrow of bills that would aid farmers, ranchers and home owners whose property is threatened with foreclosure sales to satisfy mortgages. There are only minor differences between the senate and house bills. District judges would be empowered to stay executions for periods of 120 days where the debtor with a reasonable equity showed a disposition to meet his obligation.

Hearing Scheduled

The senate set for hearing tomorrow night a house bill that would provide for the issuance of $4,000,000 in additional unemployment relief bonds and direct the manner in which the proceeds shall be applied.

Included in the bill is a proposal to tax wagers on horse races 12 1-2 per cent, a portion of the revenue to be used in retiring the bonds. Opponents of the levy were planning to petition the senate to remove that proposed tax.

The senate passed a resolution calling on the state treasurer and comptroller to furnish it with a complete statement of the financial status of Texas, the information to reflect the probable condition at the end of the current fiscal year, as well as over a period in the future.

Want Understanding

Senator Will M. Martin, of Hillsboro, sponsor of the resolution, said the legislature should have a thouough understanding of the condition of the treasury before it considered proposals to levy new taxes.

There also was a movement to make the relief bonds more attractive to investors.

The house voted to appropriate $401,912 to meet past due interest on state bonds issued many years ago and in which money of the University of Texas, the permanent school fund and eleemosynary institutions was invested.

Effort Unsuccessful

When an issue of $5,500,000 in relief bonds was authorized by the legislature last fall, it was stipulated that state funds could not be invested in the securities. An unsuccessful effort was made in the house to remove this inhibition from the new bill.

State relief commission officials said they believed Texas' default of interest on bonds previously issued and the legislature's mandate that state funds could not be invested in the relief securities had made their sale difficult.

Authority for independent school districts to borrow funds from the federal government for construction of recreational facilities would be extended for one year under a bill passed by the senate.

Another bill passed by the senate would grant permission to borrow federal funds for construction of dormitories, revenue from them, to retire the debts.

A favorable report was voted by the house appropriations committee to a bill to appropriate $10,000 to pay for a survey and compilation of data on the Brazos river reclamation district to support an application for a public works administration loan.

Favorable action also was taken

Hearing On Application For Injunction Being Postponed

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—A hearing in district court on an application for an injunction to restrain collection of registration fees on trucks used exclusively for road work was postponed today.

M. D. Widtfeldt, New Mexico road contractor, obtained a temporary restraining order January 22 enjoining the state highway patrol and Tom Green county officials from making arrests for the operation of trucks without a license plate on a section of highway 70 on which he held a construction contract. He sought to have the injunction made permanent.

He alleged his trucks were not being operated on public roads and therefore were not subject to the registration fees. He contended the road ceased to be a public thoroughfare when he closed it to traffic to start construction.

Jones Measure Substituted By Committee For Connally's Plan; Has Already Passed Through House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The senate agriculture committee approved again today the Jones bill to make cattle a basic commodity under the agricultural adjustment act.

Chairman Smith (D-S. C.) explained the committee previously had reported the Connally bill on the same subject, but said it now would substitute the Jones bill, since that measure already has passed the house.

Provisions Detailed

The administration said that with passage of the bill the AAA would advise with cattlemen in all sections before finally preparing a program, but he added it likely would include some, if not all, of the following provisions:

The purchase of 1,000,000 head of cows for relief purposes beginning March 1.

A program for the spaying of heifers, and thus halting heavy breeding, and for taking cutter cows off the market.

Efforts to develop a better market abroad.

The "gradual" use of a processing tax, the "shock" to be absorbed by benefit payments to producers under a $200,000,000 appropriation provided in the bill.

The payment of bonuses to cattlemen for holding stock off the market until the breeding curtailment program gets well underway.

HYDRAULIC BRAKES CUT SERVICE COSTS because they stay equalized. Frequent brake service is eliminated. Relining expense is greatly reduced.

No Other Low-Priced Truck Has Hydraulic Brakes . . . Plus These 17 Other Great Features That Save Gas . . . Oil . . . Tires . . . Cut Upkeep Costs

LOW-PRICED Dodge trucks have been winning buyers four times faster than the rest of the industry. Many of the nation's best known business firms are switching to Dodge. These people are buying on the same basis that you should buy your next truck . . . they are checking features, comparing Dodge with other low-priced trucks, learning to judge truck value for themselves.

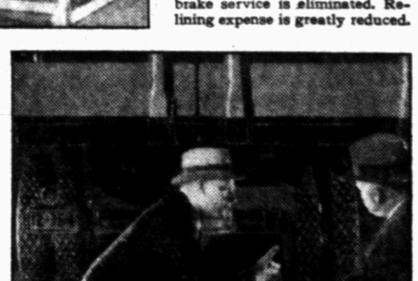

These buyers are finding, just as you will find, that Dodge offers eighteen quality features that actually cost Dodge more money, yet are put there because they will save money for you.

One of these money-saving features is hydraulic brakes that stay equalized, cut tire expense, reduce service costs and cut relining costs. They save in still another way because they are safer, stop smoother and quicker . . . thus reduce chances of accident.

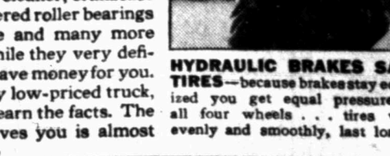

Another expensive Dodge feature is four piston rings instead of the usual three . . . this saves gas and oil. Dodge also gives you four main bearings, they naturally cost Dodge more than the usual three, and save money for you by reducing vibration and prolonging engine life.

Roller bearing universals, oil filter, valve seat inserts, air cleaner, crankcase ventilator, double tapered roller bearings in rear wheels, these and many more cost Dodge money while they very definitely and obviously save money for you.

Before you buy any low-priced truck, Dodge urges you to learn the facts. The extra value Dodge gives you is almost incredible 'til you make your own comparison. See your Dodge dealer at once.

HYDRAULIC BRAKES SAVE TIRES—because brakes stay equalized you get equal pressure on all four wheels . . . tires wear evenly and smoothly, last longer.

Texas Tech Upsets Boosters, 42-41; Wrestling To Claim Spotlight Tonight

Matadors Show Great Form To Defeat Giants

National Favorites Go Down In First Half; Unable To Recover With Flashy Attack Late In Contest

They may be favored to cop the national tournament, they may be a grand and glorious and colorful outfit and they may be kind of dumb animals, but last night they were just another ball club to Coach Dell Morgan's Texas Tech rampaging Red Raiders.

When the smoke of battle had settled along the northern bleacher seats, the scoreboard said: Ogden Boosters 41; Texas Tech 42.

Proving again that the toughest is none too tough for the underdog once the underling gets a taste of blood, or the higher they come the farther they fall, or whatever it proves.

Fifteen hundred yelling townspeople and college students were too dumbfounded to move when the final whistle blew. The Booster coach started yelling "time out" from the bench, when time was "out" for good.

Takes Big Lead

A great basketball club, composed of four All-Americans of years of ex-college experience and four all-Texans barely out of their college gowns, lingered along in the first half because they thought they had a cinch, because they were playing a college team in basketball sticks just another pushover for the all-stars.

And it happened that this team of the sticks, although you'll have trouble finding many sticks around here, took advantage of this lackadaisical attitude on the part of the well-boosted Boosters and ran up a fine lead in the first half. So fine, in fact, that all the experience, all the honor and all the ability behind the Utah team, formerly billed as the thrice national championship Wichita Henry's, served to no avail when it came to winning a ball game.

It was the Boosters' fifth defeat in 55 ball games this season. The other four losses had come at the hands of independent clubs of similar class. Never had it dawned upon these towering Boosters, who later this year will represent the U. S. in Hawaii and Japan, that an ordinary college club would turn the trick.

The Matadors battled like mad bulls on the defense and like the screaming eagle on offense, breaking up plays like dynamite and tearing out for the basket as if a tribe of savages were at their heels.

Crews Leads Field

Alvin Crews, lead horse of the Tech cagers, plopped in nine—count 'em—nine field goals to take scoring honors with 18 points. Alvin seemingly couldn't miss the old hoop last night, whereas on the previous night none of the Matadors could sink shots in the first half.

At the rest period, Tech was leading by the surprising score of 24 to 11.

"Ah, well, the Boosters'll come back and run them ragged," went the murmer of comment along the bleachers.

Not Enough Steam

The Boosters came back, all right, after a rigorous "burning out" by their coach, Gene Johnson, and they waxed right warm. As time fled, the Boosters began to sink the long, tricky shots they were unable to sink in the first half. Five minutes to go and Tech was leading by eight points. A minute to go and Tech was leading by five points. Two quick field goals in that last minute brought the score all but together.

The crazy part of it is that the madder and more anxious the Boosters got — because they most certainly did not intend to lose the game — the faster the Matadors worked, and they got in the hair of the Boosters something awful.

Miller Goes Out

Melvin Miller, three times All-American and the trickiest shot of the visiting bunch, was ousted by Referee Henry when he "pushed" a Matador into the wall as the latter attempted to score after a dash down the court. This push followed on the heels of two others, resulting in free tries for Tech. The ousting of Miller stopped it, however, and the game went along with nothing more serious or unorthodox than a flying tackle now and then, a wrestler's headlock or double toeholds.

George Colvin, former West Texas Teachers star, was second in the scoring with five field goals and three gratis points; McMurney, another all-American, dropped in enough long, wicked shots late in the game to take third place with eleven points.

MATADORS TO ABILENE

Coach Del Morgan's Matadors leave at 8 o'clock this morning for Abilene where tonight they open a two-game engagement with the Simmons university Cowboys, natural rivals in any athletic event.

Tech's games tonight and tomorrow night in Abilene will bring to a total of six the number of contests the Matadors will have played in the last eight nights.

Three Shots — And You're Out!

This Dixie Bird Dog Snubs Poor Shooters; Miss Twice And You Get Another Shot, But Make The Third Time Good

PANAMA CITY, Fla., Feb. 13. (AP)—You've got to be a good shot to hunt with this dog.

If you're not, he'll turn up his nose in contempt and leave you stranded in the middle of the woods.

Two misses are all right, but if you miss three—well, it was your own fault!

Bob Sealy, who runs an inn here between hunts, tells the story. Bob does everything he can for his guests, even loaning them his best bird dog for hunting.

"The first day he went out with some folks from the east. They had been gone about an hour when the dog came back and sat down to rest. He had a plumb disgusted look on his face.

"The next time he went out he was gone not more than 30 minutes before he showed up again to rest.

"When it happened again, I investigated. That dog was showing up my guests. He was taking them out and finding birds. If they missed as many as three times he was leaving them and coming home.

"He wouldn't have anything to do with a poor shot. I sent him out with some good hunters and he stayed all day. But somehow I seemed to have more poor shots than good shots as guests."

ABILENE, Feb. 13. (AP)—Howard Payne college stayed in the ball game until the last five minutes here tonight. Then the crack Indian quintet of McMurry college pulled away and scored its seventh conference victory of the season, 51 to 40.

The teams alternated in the lead throughout the first half, which ended with McMurry ahead by 23 to 19. Howard Payne could never catch up in the final session, although the Jackets repeatedly staged counter rallies to cut larger Indian margins to three, four or five points.

McMurry's veteran Jim McKenzie gave the Jacket guards the slip for many crip shots, and his ten field baskets almost assured him of conference honors for the season. He has 124 points in seven games. "Red" Bragg played sensationally for the Jackets, but was outscored 14 to 12, by Hut Wheeler, his running mate at forward.

If all flies lived their allotted span, from one female in five seasons there would be a family of descendants requiring a string of 37 figures to number them.

ON THE SIDELINES
BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Old Bill Petrolle's retirement removes one of boxing's most picturesque characters from the lists, just at a time when the fight business, struggling to get its head above water, needs all the color and attractiveness it can muster.

The old fellow from Duluth, beaten into the discard by Barney Ross, had a funny way about him. He made no fuss, he said little. He lived normally, naturally. He was careful with his money. He was just a solid sort of a citizen from Duluth, working at the boxing business with the same calm concentration that would have been his if his work had been laying bricks or papering walls.

After you had seen Jack Dempsey in his luxurious mode of living, Maxie Rosenbloom in his spendthrift eccentricities, Max Baer in his best Broadway form, or any young warrior putting on the tall topper and heaving around his first large purse, Petrolle came in on you like a calming breeze straight from your own home town.

Every time he came to New York he and his manager, Jack Hurley, would step down from the train, Hurley, a keen, pleasant, dapper young man, in the lead, Petrolle, in his Sunday blue suit, a cap on his head, quietly bringing up the rear. Bill would pick up both suitcases. No porter in New York ever was able to wrestle them away from him.

Thrifty Bill

Petrolle, the quiet one, saved his money; Hurley, one of the smartest and most popular of the younger managers, did not. This worried Uncle Will.

They had a cigar store together in Duluth, but times got bad and Hurley sold Bill his interest. Bill was always looking to do something for Hurley. He preferred you'd write stories about the manager, rather than about him. Bill was meticulous, of course, in their business dealings, though there hasn't been a contract between them for the past nine years. Hurley got only the share to which he was entitled.

When the time came to quit, Petrolle's chief worry was for Hurley. They stood in the ring after Ross took the final decision at the Bronx Coliseum.

"What do you think, Bill"? Hurley asked.

"What do you think?" countered Petrolle.

"This is the last one," said Hurley.

"All right."

That had been their agreement. When Hurley said it was quits on Petrolle's fighting career, that was to be quits. Bill knew Hurley wouldn't let him go too far. Hurley didn't.

Beau Geste

So they went back to the dressing room and the dapper Hurley could see there was something on Petrolle's mind. Bill's brow was furrowed. He wanted to say something. They stood, silent, in the room that reeked of liniments. It was a bad moment for both, the end of a grand trail, a grand venture together.

Hurley knew Bill wanted to tell him something, because he knew the thoughtfulness of the old guy. That realization brought a mist to the manager's eyes. He looked at Will, and Will gulped. His eyes dropped.

"Jack," he said.

"Yes, Bill."

"There's something I want to tell you."

"Sure, Bill."

"I know you haven't got much money."

"Oh, I'll be all right."

"Well, Jack, I just want you to know . . . . We've been pals. . . I've got dough . . . you haven't. . . Don't ever forget this. . . . THERE'LL ALWAYS BE A JOB FOR YOU IN THAT IRON WORKS I OWN IN DULUTH."

When they brought dapper, jaunty Mr. Hurley, who never did a day's manual labor in his life, back to consciousness, another great moment in the golden book of historic friendships had passed into history.

Otis Clingman And Kanthe In Main Struggle

Jack Van Bebber Returns To Meet Rob Roy; Joe Bauer And Charley Heard Booked In Preliminary Go

Professor Dick Kanthe, the sight of whose scowling countenance always gives Lubbock fans an attack of the booes, meets Otis Clingman, ranking middleweight of this section, in the main event of Promoter Sled Allen's wrestling circus tonight.

The old Detroit dynamiter will be on the mat this evening determined to regain the prestige which he lost last week in dropping a bout to Panther Joe Kopecky and the referee. Kanthe, whose greatest handicap is an almost uncontrollable yen to mix it with the referee, a failing most unfortunate when he is rassling a grappler of Kopecky's calibre, and a failing which will be still more unfortunate tonight.

An Artist Appears

For Otis Clingman, who is considered by a few experts to have the inside track for the honor of meeting Gus Kallio next summer for the middleweight championship of the world, is also considered by a large number of experts to be one of the most lethal mat-workmen in the southwest.

Pokey Joe Bauer, the ourangatang man from Coblenz, Germany, who speaks a poor variety of English, but can rock and sock 'em in the ring with anybody, takes on little Charlie Heard, the stumpy toughie from San Antonio in a thirty-minute prelim. This bout should start the show off with more fireworks than any other past curtain-raiser.

Charley will give the import from Germany some 10 or 15 pounds, but that won't be all he'll be giving him.

Jack Van Bebber, the Wrestling coach with joints in his chest, opposes Rob Roy, of Goodnight, in the thirty-minute time limit semi-final. Rob, tired of being pushed around by divers ear-twisters of this circuit, says he is going to unlimber with all he has this evening.

Tickets are on sale at the J & J sporting goods store.

Title Contest Is Postponed

Carnera To Meet Loughran On February 28 Instead Of Next Week At Miami Garden; Primo Nurses Bad Hand

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13. (AP)—Postponement until February 28 of the world's heavyweight title fight between Champion Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran, originally set for February 22, was announced today by the Miami Boxing commission.

Setting back of the date for the bout was sanctioned because of a number of other sporting events scheduled for February 22.

Match-Maker Jimmy Johnston of the Madison Square Garden corporation, made the formal postponement request to the commission. He was joined by Bill Duffy, Carnera's manager, and Joe Smith, who came here from the challenger's training camp at Palm Beach.

The delay is expected to benefit the champion—if any one is to be favored by the postponement — as reports have come out of the giant Italian's camp that he recently sprained his right hand in training and has been taking his workouts lightly to favor the injured member.

Steve Hamas Wins 12-Round Decision To Spike Max Schmeling's Comeback

Former Footballer Wins Bloody Go Over Teuton

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13—The comeback campaign of dogged Mam Schmeling, once heavyweight champion of the world, crumbled tonight before the sledging fists of Young Steve Hamas, more famous as a football player than a prize fighter, in another stunning ring upset.

Before a crowd of 16,000 that jammed Convention hall as a fight place hasn't been jammed in Philadelphia since Gene Tunney beat Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight title in the Sesquicentennial stadium Hamas battered the stubborn Teuton for the greater part of 12 rounds, slashed his left eyebrow open in the ninth, and easily won the unanimous decision of Referee Spud Murphy and two judges.

A Gory Twelfth

Despite the width of his margin, the seriousness of a gash almost two inches long in Schmeling's left eyebrow, Hamas had to stave off a terrific twelfth round drive of the German to save himself from being battered to the floor.

There were no knockdowns, but the duel wound up in a fever of punching that had the capacity crowd roaring wildly. Beaten so badly that only a knockout could turn the tide, Schmeling rallied near the close of the eleventh, brought a stream of blood from Hamas' nose with the final punch of the round, a righthand smash to the face, and then hammered the former Penn State fullback until he was weak and wobbly in the final session.

Llano Plans Big Welcome For Polo Sons; Williams And Smith Home In March

LLANO, Feb. 13. (AP)—While the international polo stars, Cecil Smith and Rube Williams, are in Los Angeles engaged in a busy season of winter polo, Llano, their home-town, is planning to receive them in a big way when they return to Texas in March.

An invitation has been extended to the famous stars to bring their Austin club to Llano for a game sometime in March, to play against either some outstanding team of the state or against the newly-organized Llano club. Should the stars agree to play here, a much improved field must be provided which is at present the main objective of the local polo enthusiasts.

Interest in polo has increased here during the past few months due largely to the spectacular success of the former Llano cowpunchers, Smith and Williams. A local team has been organized and games are being matched with neighboring clubs. It is thought that this enthusiasm in the sport may have a far-reaching result in the Llano country as ranchmen are beginning to talk polo ponies with a view of raising that type of stock.

Primo To Meet Campolo Or Godoy In Argentina Soon

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 13. (AP)—Ruggerio Desanctis, Argentine fight promoter who claims to have an exclusive contract covering any appearances of Primo Carnera, world heavyweight champion, in Argentina said today the Italian would be matched against the winner of a bout Feb. 23 between Victorio Campolo, Argentine heavyweight, and Arturo Godoy, the Chilean.

While hunting for rabbis, Charles Seyffert of Lancaster, Cal. encountered a 700-pound bear and shot and killed it with a small calibre pistol.

Frogs Eke Out Win Over Rice

Late Rally By Christians Is Good For Victory After Rice Owls Take Lead; Win Gives Frogs Tight Hold On Lead

HOUSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—A brilliant offensive rally that netted ten points in the closing minutes of play paved the way for the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs to defeat the Rice Owls, 29 to 27, here tonight and grab a strangle hold on the Southwest conference basketball title.

Trailing, 19 to 27, with but a precious few minutes remaining to play, the Toads broke loose with a spectacular exhibition of goal shooting that carried Jimmy Kitts' Owls to defeat.

While the Horned Frogs were scoring ten markets, the Frogs blanked the Owls, holding Rice scoreless.

The victory gave the Frogs a commanding lead in the Southwest conference basketball race. Having won seven out of eight battles, they have only to win two of their remaining four contests, including a return engagement with Rice at Fort Worth, to be assured of at least a tie for the championship.

Failure to "freeze the ball" during the last four minutes cost the second place Owls the game.

In the last 30 minutes, Perkins made a dazzling one-handed shot to score the winning field goal.

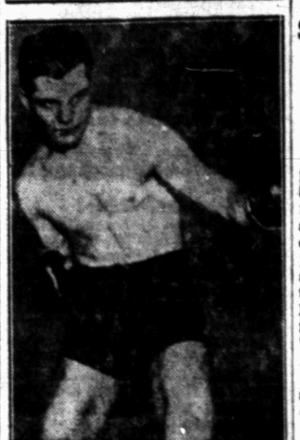

BRAVES BUY SWETONIC

BOSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The Boston Braves management today announced the purchase of Steve Swetonic, right-handed pitcher from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Swetonic has been a member of the Pirates' pitching staff for the past five years.

The five first-stringers of the state champion basketball team of Thornton High, Harvey, Ill., were all born in different foreign countries — France, England, Germany, Poland and Scotland.

Bad For Maxie

Here's the lad who brought to an abrupt halt last night Herr Schmeling's ambitions for another shot at the world's heavy title. He is Steve Hamas, ex-footballer, who won the decision in Philadelphia last night.

Pratt's Panthers To Train At Lake Charles, Louisiana

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13. (AP) — With Lake Charles, La., settled upon as the spring training location for the Fort Worth Cats baseball club, general Manager Del Pratt and Secretary Roy Meehan have gone to work getting together a schedule of exhibition games.

So far only one is on the card and that is with Dallas in Fort Worth Sunday, April 15.

With nearly a dozen clubs training within 200 miles of Lake Charles, bosses of the Cats believe they can get all the games they'll need to put the athletes in condition for the start of the league race.

Bids To Track Meet On March 17 Are Mailed

Southwestern Exposition Meet To Have New Feature; 1,000 Invitations Are Sent From Sponsors Of Event

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13. — Approximately 1,000 invitations to the Southwestern exposition track and field meet here March 17, have been sent, R. D. Evans, superintendent of the Fort Worth recreation department which sponsors the event, announced today. The bids went to universities, colleges, junior colleges, high schools, academies and municipal playground units in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and midwestern points.

This year's event probably will be staged on a new track at Texas Christian university.

As usual, this year's meet is to be staged in six divisions, university, college, junior college, academy and preparatory school, high school and municipal pentathlon.

Frosh Teams Complete

A special feature of this year's meet will be the fact that freshman teams of Southwest conference schools will compete against each other. This new ruling, made largely because of the meet here, will be in force for the first time. Thus, the first year teams of Texas, Baylor, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Rice, Texas A. & M., and Arkansas will compete against each other in the academy division.

Coach Clyde Littlefield, veteran mentor of the University of Texas thinly clads, has already written announcing that he would have a varsity and freshman team here.

In the first seven games this season, all but 11 of Marquette university's basketball team's 223 points were scored by its starting five players—Gorychka, Morstadt, Kukla, Mullen and Rubado.

Mrs. Weston
(The Doctor's Wife)
Says . . .

"I Use Gas For Water Heating"

MRS. WESTON is the wife of Dr. Weston, who engages in a general medical practice. His calls take him into the homes of rich and poor alike, and often he asks for hot water for use in administering to the sick. He recently noticed that, almost without exception, the water is heated with gas. And he had always considered gas a luxury fuel because of its fine qualities! Dr. Weston spoke to his wife about his finding.

She uses gas for heating water but never considered its value. To satisfy her own curiosity, Mrs. Weston checked up to see how much it costs to heat water with the different fuels. She found that gas could sell for as much as $1.25 per 1000 cubic feet and still be the most economical fuel for this purpose. Unfounded political attacks upon gas rates will not receive Mrs. Weston's support because she finds the value of gas far more than any amount she ever has been asked to pay for it.

If others of us were to think of gas in terms of its value as compared to other fuels, like Mrs. Weston, we would assume a fairer attitude in considering its price. Those who know its true value count gas as worth $1.25 per 1000 cubic feet for water heating, $2.50 for cooking and $3.00 for refrigeration. The price asked for gas is far below any of these amounts, and the difference is your savings. That's why it truthfully can be said—"Gas Doesn't Cost . . , It PAYS."

Compulsory Plans For Production Control Get Cool Reception

Wallace Tells Of His Views

Secretary Says He Agreed To Go Along With Bill Because He Was Convinced Majority Of Farmers Wanted It

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP) — Away from the friendly atmosphere of the senate agriculture committee, compulsory proposals for agricultural production control as exemplified in the Bankhead cotton bill got a cool reception on the house side today with Secretary Wallace giving the measure only lukewarm support.

The secretary made it plain to the house agriculture committee that he agreed to go along with the bill only because he was convinced that a great majority of southern cotton growers desired some form of compulsion. In addition, he suggested a series of amendments and a further study which might result in a wide alteration of the measure.

Wallace Questioned

Wallace was questioned by committee members after he had concluded his prepared statement. The queries showed apparently that quite a few of the representatives had little liking of the compulsory idea.

Chairman Jones did not express his attitude toward the Bankhead bill but he suggested it might be possible to keep the present voluntary program through the use of a combination baleage and acreage plan.

The Bankhead bill would limit the amount of cotton marketed in the cotton year 1934-35 through a tax of 75 per cent on the value of all cotton ginned in excess of 9,000,000 bales.

To Cut Plantings

The voluntary plan of the farm administration aims at reducing the cotton surplus by cutting the 1934 plantings to 25,000,000 acres. This campaign is in progress and is scheduled to end on February 15.

One witness, Oscar Johnston, Mississippi cotton planter now attached to the farm administration, said he thought the Bankhead bill "unconstitutional and impractical." He said southern farmers who had replied to a questionnaire sent out by the farm administration on compulsion had not expressed themselves on the Bankhead bill.

Wallace said he did not think compulsory farm legislation should be passed unless there was an overwhelming sentiment among the producers for it.

Asks Direct Answer

"Are you in favor of, or would you recommend, a compulsory plan at this time?" asked Representative Hope (R.-Kas).

Jones intersposed that the secretary "perhaps does not wish to answer the direct question."

After a moment's hesitation, Wallace replied:

"I wouldn't care to answer categorically but, except for the fact that it is likely to cost quite a bit of money, since the south apparently is willing to offer itself as an economic laboratory, it would be interesting to see the reaction and the result."

Texas Relief Is Debate Subject

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The Texas relief situation was injected today into senate debate on the pending civil works appropriations bill.

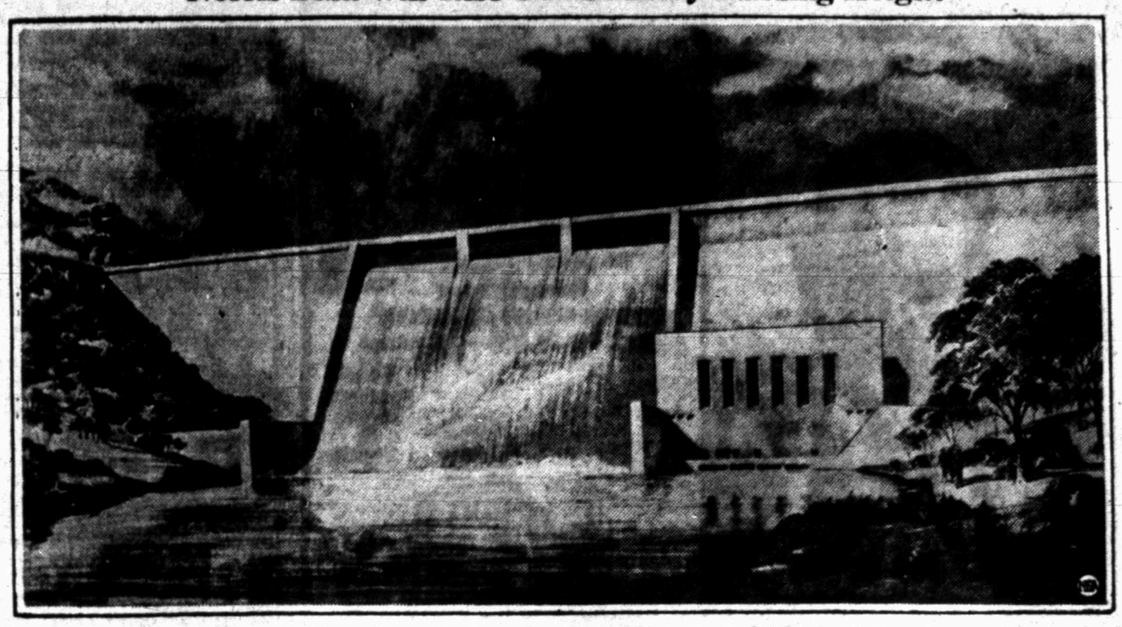

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) asserted a table put in the record showed the state was not contributing money for relief purposes and that local agencies were giving only five and eight-tenths per cent of the total.

"My state has recently, by a constitutional amendment, by a vote of the people, appropriated $20,000,000 for relief purposes," Senator Connally (D-Tex.) answered.

"I do not know how much of that bond issue has yet been made effective; but the people of my state at the ballot box said they wanted to do their part toward relief."

Norris Dam Will Rise To 20-Story Building Height

A barrier as high as a 20-story building will rear its tremendous bulk across the Clinch river in Tennessee when Norris dam is completed, as shown here in the design adopted by the Tennessee Valley Authority. Right, dwarfed by the mighty mass, is the powerhouse, which will rise to the height of a 12-story structure. Topping the dam is a roadway, which will be the connecting link in the "freeway" which the TVA is building between Knoxville and Coal Creek, Tenn. Work on the dam will be completed in 2 1-2 years.

Capitol Chatter

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—The vote-getting magic of the name "Terrell" will again be put to the test in the coming primary election.

The latest bearer of that name to enter the political lists is Quillen E. Terrell of Lamesa, who has announced he would campaign for governor.

There is something about the name that catches the voters. The Terrells have been prominent in Texas politics for many years. Few campaigns have been conducted without one or more persons of that name participating.

George B. Terrell, Texas congressman-at-large who gained wide notice because he cast the only vote against an appropriation to continue CWA activities, has appeared on the list of candidates many times. He never was defeated for a public office, serving several terms as commissioner of agriculture and in the legislature before his election to congress.

Sam Houston Terrell served several terms as state comptroller.

C. V. Terrell, member of the railroad commission, has been elected to many places of public trust, including state treasurer and state senator.

J. Turney Terrell, son of George B., also has been a member of the legislature, serving in the 42nd session with his father.

Although Congressman Terrell was criticized in certain quarter for being the lone member to ballot against the CWA appropriation, his action as being a man who had the courage of his convictions was commended in a recent speech on the floor of the Texas house of representatives.

Rebuilding Of Bridge Talked

Construction Of Fallen Unit Over Red River To Be Asked And PWA Loan Would Be Used For Financing

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—Replacement of the fallen Bonham-Durant bridge over the Red River should be financed with a public works administration loan, the state highway commission said today. A Fannin county delegation was told that a state engineer would be sent to Oklahoma to seek their cooperation.

Tolls would be charged to liquidate a PWA loan, Commissioner D. K. Martin of San Antonio said. Engineers estimated the bridge, which collapsed January 29 could be repaired for $30,000 or replaced with a modern structure for $100,000.

Request Declined

The commission declined to grant a request for an air line route from Fort Worth to Houston, but tentatively agreed to early construction of a portion of the proposed road, which is now designated, if additional federal funds are granted.

The proposed air line highway would connect highway 2, at Hillsboro, with highway 32, Madisonville, requiring designation of a new road from Cooledge, in Limestone county, to Madisonville, in Madison county. The commission promised construction of the portion from Hillsboro to Cooledge, on highway 171, when funds are available.

Construction Pronounced

Construction of a gap on highway 7 from Elkhart, in Anderson county, to highway 43, was promised. The commission also agreed to locate the highway from Elkhart east to Alto in Cherokee county.

San Saba county was promised cooperation by the commission in construction of highway 81 from San Saba north with civil works administration labor.

Murrel Denies Attack Charge

Former Eastern Grid Star On Stand; Declares He Planned To Take Woman Home Because She Suffered Illness

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 13. (AP)—Lieut. John H. Murrel, strapping former eastern grid star, testified today he was taking Miss Blanch Ralls "home to his mother" at the time an alleged criminal attack occurred for which he now stands trial in federal court here.

The one-time West Point Backfield star told a crowded courtroom that his accuser, a pretty Alabama divorcee, was "in a drunken condition" on the night of October 22, following a party in celebration of a football game.

Served Five Highballs

Testimony was introduced intended to show that Miss Ralls was served five highballs at a bootlegging establishment before the party at a night club, from which Murrel said he was taking her home. The witness was Mrs. Ruth Mealy, who said she served the drinks to Miss Ralls and two other persons.

Forrest Miller, another defense witness, testified that in his opinion Miss Ralls was intoxicated.

Because he did not wish to take her downtown to a hotel, Murrel testified he decided to take her to his home, where he planned to turn her over to his mother. En route home they stopped near a radio tower in Fort Sam Houston, military reservation, where Miss Ralls claims the attack occurred. He planned to proceed to his home after Miss Ralls had recovered from her illness, Murrel testified.

Didn't Know What To Do

"Why did you take her to the military reservation?" E. A. McDaniel, defense attorney asked.

"I did not know what to do with her, sir," Murrel answered. "She was in a drunken condition. If I had taken her to a hotel I didn't know how to register for her. I didn't want to be seen downtown with her. I didn't want to leave her to the jail or to the street. I only knew she was with our party and I had to take care of her."

The lieutenant said that his mother was at his quarters and "I knew she would take care of her."

Explains Actions

Murrel explained he stopped at the radio tower because "if I had been seen by enlisted men with a vomiting woman in my car at that time of day it would not have been so good for an officer. I just thought—why not stop here—let her get through being sick out of doors."

Murrel denied emphatically that he had attacked Miss Ralls and also asserted he did not tell Miss Ralls she would "be afraid of publicity."

The Cotton Reduction Plan

TEXAS cotton farmers must reduce still further their 1934 and 1935 acreages if the government's program designed to bring relief to harrassed agriculture is to succeed.

With the dead-line, for signing the contracts to reduce this year and next, less than 48 hours away—midnight Thursday, the time has come for the Texas cotton farmer to realize the situation. The state has been assigned by Secretary Wallace a reduction goal of 5,600,000 acres.

Last night H. H. Williamson, state agent, in conversation with The Morning Avalanche, said the farmers up to last Saturday had reported leasing 4,500,000 acres. That means a little over a million acres more must be added before Thursday night. From somewhere that million acres must be given to Uncle Sam.

There is no doubt that the plowup campaign of last summer aided farmers in attaining a higher price on the market than they would have received had the campaign not been held. Cold statistics by economists indicated the lion's share of the increased price was traced directly to this reduction program.

In this area, in particular, need of further reduction is evident. Conservative reports to this newspaper indicate 90,000 to 100,000 acres of new cotton land will go into cultivation west of Lubbock. Economic conditions are forcing farmers to plow under sod in order that they may attain economic freedom.

Some interesting figures on the local situation are available. From 14 counties on the South Plains that in 1933 reduced 593,282 acres, only 445,565 acres will be reduced or leased this year. In these counties, 10,563 farmers have so far signed contracts covering 1,167,740 acres. A year ago, in the same counties, 15,800 farmers signed contracts covering 1,420,798 acres.

In other words, 33 per cent fewer farmers signed contracts to reduce; their total acreage was 17.7 per cent les sand the actual reduction 24.88 per cent.

It is a matter of cold, hard cash to the farmer who raises cotton Does he want to raise a big crop on a big acreage that will net him considerably under the present market price in Lubbock of over 12 cents a pound for 15-16 middling, or does he want to cut down his acreage by leasing a part to the government at a fair return and in return get, in addition, probably as much for 60 per cent of the crop as he would for the full crop?

Many landlords are standing behind their tenants on this reduction program, but there are a few, mostly corporations, who are not in sympathy with the program.

A little thought might convince those luke-warm land-owners the advantage of the signing up of the contract.

FUNNY HUMAN NATURE

When the national bureau of municipal research set out to make the American people obedient to every traffic law and rule it cut out for itself a big job—one destined never to be finished. It cannot be done.

Speed, parking and kindred ordinances will be violated because the average person looks upon them as rules to be obeyed by and enforced against all but himself. Motorists and pedestrians are not lawless, they are just human. When they break a traffic rule they do not look upon the act as a violation of the law; it is merely a lawful evasion of the law in their opinion. This is because these laws and rules are based upon expediency rather than upon custom, practice and the will of the people.

The motorist who speeds recklessly through a busy intersection causing pedestrians to jump for their lives will park his car double or in a no-parking area and go jay-walking and berating drivers who obligingly dodge him. Traffic policemen who devote their days to enforcing traffic rules spend their days-off breaking them, unconsciously of course. And the makers of speed laws consider themselves exempt. When speed cops get together they brag about how fast their cycles will go. And the owner of a business place who has his curb line posted against parking will park his own car or that of his customers in front of the store next door.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

BRINGING UNITY AND HARMONY

Philleps Brooks was once asked what he would do if he was sent to a church that could not support a preacher, that had lost its building, and that was torn by internal dissension. He said, "I should get all of the people together, preach the best sermon I could on missions, and take the best offering I could for those who have never heard of Christ." Working and serving together for someone else brings harmony and unity among individuals.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

THAT government plan for loosening credit to the little industrialist is about ready to pop. NRA and RFC officials are putting the polish on it this week. Then all it will need is the final White House okay.

It's being worked out to permit the banks themselves to make the loans under a sort of RFC guarantee. Of course they would take their usual profit in interest.

If the banks don't want to take what little risk remains they'll become the media for the loans—without profit—and the RFC will lap up the eventual gravy.

Squawks from Wall Street and other banking centers that the money-lenders are already as liberal with their depositors' money as is humanly safe haven't deterred the New Dealers a whit.

Pressure is constant from the hustings for easier credit for code-signers. And be it remembered that all practical politicians respect these delicate hints from home.

Jesse Jones' recent speech to the bankers in New York wasn't a casual utterance. It was a carefully prepared opus backed by White House approval.

When Jesse told the boys they'd either have to loosen up or stand aside and salute while Uncle Sam moved in he was speaking from the book. That speech by the RFC chairman was the forerunner of the impending credit announcement.

SALESMAN: Public Works Administrator Ickes used a private bond salesman's methods in advising the public he would give them a shot at some of the state and municipal bonds PWA now holds. He decided some days ago to unload certain blocks of these securities—bought to provide money for non-federal public works projects. But he didn't tip his hand all at once.

Instead he spaced his announcements over a period of days. Each release was more informative than the last. All the announcements were planned before the first was issued.

TOP-NOTCH: Those who know their PWA say Ickes regards the sale as justifying the theory that the government should underwrite construction in times of stress—but in such a way that Uncle Sam needn't carry the load forever.

He aims to show the country his organization has been loaning money on top-notch security. The profit will be infinitesimal against the total of PWA expenditures but Ickes is after the well-known psychological effect.

At present PWA holds only about $10,000,000 of these bonds but is in a position to buy and re-sell about $500,000,000.

SENATORS: Republican Senators LaFollette and Cutting aren't winning administration support by bucking that $950,000,000 for relief. They want a far bigger appropriation and think they'll gain enough unemployed voters to offset the loss of administration support.

Jim Ham Lewis, newly elected chairman of the Democratic Senatorial committee, can't for the life of him see why Cutting should be called a Democrat.

Hiram Johnson, he sits back and votes every little administration measure. No insurgency about him—no, sir, not when he sees the Democratic blessing for reelection ahead of him.

NOTES: Former Pennsylvania Republican congressmen are begging Puddler Jim Davis to resign from the senate, run for governor, and let in Pinchot and Reed. . . . NEW YORK

YOU might think the Fletcher-Pecora bill to regulate security exchanges would knock Wall Street for a roll of ticker tape. It didn't.

Of course the sure-thing boys are pained. The bill cramps their traditional methods of fleecing the lambs and they will out-squeal a frightened pig. But a surprisingly large number of brokers and financiers privately admit the projected new restrictions are justified and less drastic than might have been expected.

This contingent counts on the President to protect them from ruinous congressional amendments. His statement that the exchanges perform a useful function and his failure to endorse the Fletcher bill in detail fit the prediction of local insiders that the bulls and bears will be caged but not slaughtered. Their extinction would hurt recovery too much.

The recent boomlet caused a lot of worry among Wall Street authorities that misguided public enthusiasm would lead to a repetition of last July's fiasco. A veteran broker remarks: "For once it looks as if they're locking the stable door before the horse escapes."

COMEBACK: Ten days ago it appeared that regulatory legislation for the exchanges had been called off for this session. Its snappy comeback isn't as mysterious as it looks. For one thing New York understands that the wave of public demand for action couldn't be ignored. Also several exchange leaders privately agreed with the administration that regulation now was preferable to a setback this summer which would be harmful to all concerned.

Even Mr. Roosevelt's local opponents admit he's still a genius at picking ripe moments.

EFFECTS: New York experts anticipate the Fletcher bill will have the following effects if it goes through substantially as is.

1. The 60 per cent margin requirement will shut out the small-fry speculator who can't afford to get burned but insists on hanging around the flame. At the same time the margin is not so high as to forbid a measure of speculative interest which is needed to keep things moving. A purely investment market would be a puny affair.

2. The ban on speculation by officers, directors and large stockholders of corporations will eliminate the worst form of inside manipulation.

3. Limiting brokers' loans to ten times assets of the borrowing house will apply a useful icepack if speculation's brow gets too feverish.

4. Restrictions are not severe enough to crush a price rise based on authentic business improvement. Reduction in speculative volume will hurt brokers' inbomes but not fatally. Some better class houses hope for a larger number of steady accounts because of increased public confidence.

5 General outlook: a market that will rise with recovery but not miles ahead of it as per last summer.

TAXIS: Operators of local taxi fleets weren't too sorry about the strike. It happened when snow and ice made driving a real hazard. Taxi executives estimate that the five worst days saved them an aggregate of almost $100,000 in damage to equipment, injuries, lawsuits, etc. One large firm saved $1,100 a day on anti-freeze compound alone.

Aged Clergyman Returns From Rome; Says Pope Is Awaiting Developments

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—Monsignor Francisco Orocco Y Jiminez, archbishop of Guadalajara, Mexico, returned on the Conte Di Savoia from Rome today and announced that the pope is "waiting like all people" for developments in Mexico, where the church and state have been in conflict.

He said that he was returning to America with the hope that he would be allowed to go to Mexico, the government of which once sought him dead or alive in connection with a rebellion in Jalisco.

The archbishop left Mexico two years ago "practically but not literally' exiled for the fourth time.

The church situation in Mexico, he said, was "very bad, indeed."

"In time," he said, "the government will relent."

The archbishop denied that he had ever led a rebellion against the government of Mexico.

"It is true," he said, "that for three years I was in the mountains and that the government sought for me. It is also true that my people remained silent."

In token of this the 70-year-old clergyman touched his lips.

Proposal To Tax Natural Gas Is Opposed In Texas

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—Opposition to a reported proposal of the federal recovery administration to levy a tax of five cents per 1,000 cubic feet on natural gas to equalize its competition with coal as a fuel was expressed by the house of representatives today. A resolution condemning a tax of that kind was adopted.

Representative O. F. Chastain of Eastland said it had been reported to him that Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator, would recommend the tax so the coal industry could compete with gas. The tax, he said, would make it impossible for industries to use gas with the result that "bumps" are caused by columns of heated air rising from the earth.

The air frequently is smoother for flying when the sky is overcast than when the sun is shining brightly, due to the fact that "bumps" are caused by columns of heated air rising from the earth.

Husband Held

A weird story of how he found his wife, Mrs. Rose Koontz (above), a suicide from gas, then left home on a drinking bout and returned in 10 days to find her body still seated in a chair, was told police by Clyde V. Koontz, 46-year-old Brooklyn, N. Y., broker, after his dazed wanderings in Ohio. He was held on a charge of homicide under the technical count of aiding his wife to take her life by failing to notify authorities.

No More Applications For PWA Funds To Be Allowed For Texas At Present

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13. (AP)—Clifford B. Jones, regional advisor for the PWA, today received instructions from Washington not to receive any more applications from persons interested in projects until further notified.

The suspension of the applications has been ordered to await action of congress and determine what additional appropriations for this work will be made.

Approximately 1,000 applications have been handled by the offices here. Those approved by the state advisory board for Texas involve $30,703,997.

This figure is exclusive of $24,000,000 granted this state of public highways and an additional grant of $2,670,000 for West Texas highways and for the Rio Grande valley hurricane area.

It also does not include large sums of PWA money granted for federal projects such as improvements at Fort Sam Houston, Fort Bliss, Duncan Field, Kelly Field, Fort Crockett, Fort Brown, Hensley Field, corps of engineers for rivers and harbors, United States-New Mexico boundary commission, department of agriculture, department commerce and for postoffice projects.

LEPERS BEING TREATED

CARVILLE, La. (AP)—There are 354 lepers under treatment at the national leper home here, operated by the public health service. Since 1921, when the service assumed control of the home, 166 persons have been discharged as being no longer a menace to the public.

Tells How Cardui Stopped Cramping

"Several years ago, when I was younger, I was advised to take Cardui for cramping and irregular trouble," writes Mrs. Esther L. Dodson, of Lowry City, Mo. "It helped me and stopped the cramping. I feel that my good health is due to Cardui, and I can certainly recommend it to other women."

When womanly aches and pains and cramps are due to a weak, rundown condition, take Cardui.

THE SON OF TARZAN, No. 15

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The task of lowering the boy's "grandmother" over the ship's side to a waiting canoe was rather difficult. The lad insisted on being always at her side. When at last she was safely settled in the bottom of the craft bearing them shoreward her grandson dropped catlike after her. So interested was he in seeing her comfortably disposed he failed to notice the package that slipped from his pocket into the sea.

It was quite dark when the boy and the old woman entered a rickety shack boasting the name "Hotel" and were given a back room on the second floor. Here a wave of homesickness overcame him, as he explained to his "grandmother." She could remain in Africa if she wished. As for him, his conscience demanded he return by the same steamer to England and his parents. To which "grandma" said nothing much, seeming to prefer sleep.

Having come to a decision, the lad felt a sense of relief from the worry that had haunted him for many sleepless nights, and when he closed his own eyes it was to dream of a happy reunion with those at home. . . . And as he dreamed, Fate, cruel and inexorable, crept stealthily upon him down the dark corridor of the squalid "hotel." Fate in the form of a crook, Condon, who had shadowed the lad's every move since they left the ship.

Cautiously the man approached the door; listened until the regular breathing inside assured him the inmates were asleep. Deftly he inserted a skeleton key, entered and bolted the door quietly behind him. The moon dimly lit the interior as he groped his way toward the bed. In the far corner of the room something moved—moved with such silent stealthiness that even the trained ears of the burglar failed to hear it.

Westand Chosen Code Authority

W. B. Hestand of Lubbock was named president of a code authority of wholesale and retail grocers of counties of the South Plains at a meeting of between 300 and 400 tradesmen here yesterday. The meeting was conducted at Lubbock.

Other members selected were: Allen Pierce, vice president, Olen Swart, Roy Furr and A. G. Hunt. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, was named secretary.

Discussion of the code and its problems preceded election of the officers. W. B. Hestand presided at the meeting. Practically every grocery store in the entire district was represented in the meeting, it was said.

Counties in the district include: Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Gaines, Dawson and Borden.

Wheeling, W. Va., is the only city on Route 40 (National Highway) between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, which permits collection of bridge tolls.

House Battle

speak for five minutes and Fish objected.

"Well, I will tell the gentleman this—," Byrns began.

"No, you will not tell the gentleman anything," Fish interrupted. "You are just an ordinary member of this house."

Shouts went up from all quarters. Speaker Rainey rapped in vain for order.

Pointing a shaking finger at the New Yorker, Byrns said:

"I will tell the gentleman—"

Knutson: "Mr. Speaker, I move that the house adjourn."

Fish: "The gentleman from Tennessee will tell me nothing."

Byrns: "I will tell the gentleman on the floor of the house or on the outside—"

Knutson: "Mr. Speaker, I move that the house adjourn."

Blanton: "Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from New York is out of order."

Fish: "The gentleman from New York is not out of order. The gentleman from New York is demanding the regular order."

Byrns finally got the attention of the house for a minute and, addressing himself to Fish, said:

"The gentleman will never get anything by these tactics."

"Do not lecture me," said Fish. "I have been here 14 years."

"I have been here longer than has the gentleman from New York," Byrns retorted.

Fish stepped out into the center aisle which divides the Democratic and Republican sides. Blanton shouted:

"Mr. Speaker, I ask that the gentleman from New York sit on his own side of the house. We do not want him in no man's land here in the middle aisle."

"Is the gentleman going to object to all bills that are called from now on?" asked Byrns.

"I will answer that question," Fish replied, "by saying that if the gentleman will permit to go into the record the letter written by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to the president, I shall not object."

"I am not going to be held up in that way," Byrns shouted, shaking his fist. "I move we adjourn."

Evangelist

Terry, "died out in New Mexico." Terry Hudgins, son of the dead ranchman, was shot to death in his home at Erick, Okla., about a year after his father's death, Shockley continued.

Shockley readily admitted he had eluded officers at Aurora, Mo., Saturday night, but explained he thought his "wife was just trying to hurt me in my preaching."

"She just wants to get me home," he said. "She's written me that she was going to get the law on me if I didn't come home. But, I tell you I'm scared to go down there to her mother's and go to bed for fear I won't wake up in the morning."

WALL STREETS REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. — Stocks had a quieter and more conventional market today. Some further recovery from last week's shakeout was accomplished despite isolated weakness in liquor and some aircraft issues, although the general run of shares moved narrowly. Volume dropped to 2,150,360 shares. The averages were up sixtenths of a point net.

Metals were strong and rails likewise looked up. Motors pointed a bit higher, retail store representatives continued in favor, rubbers found support in stronger tire prices and earnings. American Can touched the best price since 1931 at 105 3-8 and U. S. Smelting set another record top at 131. Utilities were satisfied with small variations.

Mining issues appeared to have derived their stimulation from official assurances that a program for silver rehabilitation was the administration's "firm policy." Silver metal improved slightly. One the stock exchange, American Smelting, American Metals, International Silver, Kennecott, Anaconda and Howe Sound bettered themselves to the extent of 1 to about 4 points net.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—After reaching new high prices for the movement early today cotton broke over $3.00 per bale under heavy realizing or liquidation. May sold off rapidly from 12.34@12.05, or nearly 1-2 cent from the early high, but met an increased demand at this figure, recovering a part of the loss and closing steady at net declines of 17 to 22 points.

The opening was 7 to 12 points lower under active liquidation influenced by nervousness over the European political situation and uncertainty as to legislative developments in Washington. Houses with European connections were sellers, and there also appeared to be some selling by New Orleans. These initial offerings were readily absorbed, however, and the market firmed up later with March advancing to 12.37 and October to 12.89 or about 5 to 9 points net higher. This advance met heavy realizing and some reactionary sentiment developed following the recent steady advance.

Offerings increased following reports from Washington which seemed to create more uncertainty regarding crop control legislation and prices broke quickly as stop orders were uncovered. March sold off to 11.85 and October to 12.38, or about 50 points from the highs of the morning, but the pressure then subsided and about half the losses were recovered.

Reports from Washington that Secretary Wallace had raised objections to some features of the crop control bill as now drawn, and that one of the agricultural administration officials thought the bill unnecessary, were commented upon in connection with the afternoon decline.

Exports today 14,398 making 5,243,600 so far this season. Port receipts 20,638. U. S. port stocks 3,635,543.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13. (AP)—Moderate activity developed around the midwestern market circuit on most killing classes of cattle today, with prices strengthening to a moderate extent. Bulk of fed steers and yearlings at the various markets ranged from 4.50@6.25, majority of the weighty steers going at 5.50 and down. Choice 881-lb. heifers of New Mexico origin offered at Kansas City brought 6.10. Aggregate receipts at eleven markets were estimated at 32,700 against 36,443 last Tuesday and 30,335 a year ago.

Fed lambs found a fairly active outlet at prices unevenly steady to 25 higher, and at some points, sheep were strong to 25 or more higher.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 13. (AP)—The wheat market chased itself around in a circle today, and finished almost exactly where it began.

A sharp break in cotton prices did much to nullify transient gains scored by wheat. Dealings in wheat were not large, and the market was easily influenced, with general uncertainty prevailing among traders while awaiting a national grain exchange code and the details of proposed measures at Washington to regulate commodity exchanges in general by establishing a system of licenses.

Wheat closed irregular at 1-4 cent decline to 1-8 advance compared with Saturday's finish, corn 1-8 to 3-8 up, oats unchanged to 1-4 higher, and provisions showing a rise of 5 to 10 cents.

Air Mail

ordered the domestic air mail contracts annulled. The letter is lengthy and refers to evidence in possession of the postoffice department and produced by the senate investigating committee.

"I am having the records thoroughly checked before the letter is finally drafted and forwarded to the chairman of the investigating committee of the senate. This may require at least another 24 hours."

Controversy Gaining

The plan to make public the detailed reasons for ordering the contracts annulled became known as a controversy over the action of Colonel Charles A. Lindgergh in protesting the wholesale cancellation to President Roosevelt gathered force.

Lindbergh telegraphed the president the protest Sunday night and it was published, the White House said, before the message had been placed in the hands of the chief executive. Stephen T. Early, a Roosevelt secretary, described this action as having its origin in a desire for publicity.

While the comment of congress members on the Lindbergh action and the White House attitude toward it was both favorable and unfavorable, the strongest condemnation of the administration came in a prepared statement of Senator Hastings (R-Del).

Propaganda Enters In

Hastings said that it was a "strange thing" for the White House to call the Lindbergh protest "propaganda" because the administration "has the most successful propaganda organization the world has ever known."

The Delaware Republican expressed confidence that when the people realized the "real truth" of the air mail contracts and conveyed feelings to the president, Mr. Roosevelt would "restore most of these contracts and blame his postmaster general for any mistake that was made."

The administration, informed that Federal Judge John C. Knox, at New York, had granted the Transcontinental and Western and order requiring the postmaster general to answer on Friday why he should not be enjoined from putting the cancellation order into effect, displayed little concern.

Both Farley and Attorney General Cummings said they were certain they could show ample reasons for the cancellation of the contracts with all twelve airmail concerns. The legal advisor of the postoffice department, Karl A. Crowley, indicated the government might contest the jurisdiction of the federal court at New York to act in the case, arguing that the proper jurisdiction was with the District of Columbia supreme court.

Many In Dire Need

Miss Henderson, case supervisor for Lubbock relief committee, said a large number of local families are in "dire need of furniture." One family, she pointed out, consisted of the parents and one child. They have been offered a free room, but have no furniture, she said.

Boy Scouts of other communities have been urged to conduct similar campaigns, to aid the needy of their towns. All furniture collected will be re-distributed in the community.

Leaders of the local drive will discuss the campaign in radio broadcasts, it was said.

Oil Administration Seeking Quick Way To Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The oil administration will seek the quickest possible route to the supreme court in an effort to overturn a decision of Federal Judge Randolph Bryant of Texas holding invalid the petroleum code.

Secretary Ickes made this known today, telling newspapermen in response to inquiries as to what effect the ruling would have on the code:

"It will raise hell with it. It is a very serious situation."

Suffered Intense Pain

Mr. Busch had suffered intense pain for six weeks from gout, heart disease and dropsy. Unable to obtain medical relief he spent the past week in bed.

Saturday he expressed discouragement and members of the family said he appeared very nervous.

John Busch, of Washington, Mo., a cousin, spent last night in his bed chamber, and said the brewery executive was "up and down all night."

Asks For Breakfast

After awakening today he instructed his cousin to "get some breakfast." John Busch and a maid departed with entrance of Tony Feichtinger, a chauffeur, who arrived in accordance with a daily custom.

Instructed to "get some music on the radio," Feichtinger was twisting the dial when he heard the revolver shot and turned to find his employer, half raised in bed, with hands extended and fingers twitching.

The county coroner found death was caused by the revolver wound. A formal inquest will be held tomorrow.

Family Enters Suicide Pact After Child Dies

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Feb. 13. (AP)—The bodies of Kenneth Larwill, his wife and two daughters were found in their home here this afternoon with a note indicating that the family had entered a suicide pact after the youngest daughter had died of scarlet fever early this morning.

Police who broke into the house at the request of relatives of the Larwills found a note which read: "There is nothing to live for; we have agreed to die together."

Police Called

Dr. Wesley Warren told officers that he was at the home at 3 o'clock this morning when the youngest daughter, Florence, 9, years old, died of scarlet fever.

Relatives became alarmed during the day when they were unable to establish telephonic communication with the house. They went to the home and found it locked.

Police officers sent to the house broke open a door and found the bodies. The house was filled with escaping gas from jets which had been left open on a cook stove.

Estimates Of The Number Dead Range From 500 To 2,000 In Austria; Bitter Fighting Being Reported

women and children were in the Karl Marx when it was shelled, the defenders having sent them to friends and relatives outside before the savage fighting started.

In a dozen other cities the socialists' struggle for "a chance to live" and against "a fascist government threat" waged furiously.

Socialists entrenched themselves in machine gun nests; they put up an unrelenting battle unto death; all available troops were rushed to the zones of greatest fighting.

Police Count Losses

Police admitted they lost 11 dead and 38 seriously wounded in the day-long bombardment.

Soldiers ringed the Sandleiten Hof, another socialist apartment, awaiting the surrender of the occupants. In the populous Floridsdorf area socialists were forced to retreat from their positions, fighting tenaciously, to nearby Stadlau and Jedlisse.

While the government guns boomed tonight, the insurgents were said to be holding the Attakring, Simmering, Favoriten and Hernals sections.

Planes Hover Above

Police airplanes flew over the city this afternoon. They took no part in the fighting.

Prince Ernst Eudiger Von Starhemberg, leader of the fascist heimwehr, or homeguard, marched with detachments of his men as far as Linz, where socialists were reported ousted after long and fierce fighting, in which heavy losses were incurred by both sides.

Richard Schmitz, the newly-installed federal commissioner in Vienna, issued an appeal to the populace to keep order and remain calm. He promised a regime in which no favoritism would be shown.

Desertion Rumored

(A dispatch the Berlinger Tageblatt's Vienna correspondent sent to his paper said he had heard unconfirmed rumors that sections of the fifth Austrian infantry regiment had deserted to the socialists.)

One of those killed in the Vienna working class district was Frau Sever, widow of the former socialist governor of lower Austria.

In Styr, Eggenberg, Bruckandermur, Linz, Judenburg, Woergl, Hearring, and other places the civil war raged today, but tonight reports said the situation outside Vienna was becoming more quiet.

Howitzers reduced the Karl Marx model tenement, the largest in Europe and once the home of 2,000 families, to ruins. Fighting there started at daybreak after desultory fighting during the night between socialists and troops during the night.

Fighting Is Severe

Street fighting nearby was so severe that no one could get near it. While the shelling was reaching its height this afternoon hand-to-hand combats added to the terror.

Hand grenades popped from windows. Corridors became trenches. Machine guns blazed upon the besiegers below. Tear gas permeated the vicinity but it and smaller weapons could not dislodge the defenders.

Big shells then ripped into the concrete structure. Two floors collapsed. A middle arch crumpled. One shell tore off a tower as though it were of kindling wood.

The siege of the Karl Marx had counterpart in tonight's fighting.

Station Destroyed

In a terrific struggle to eject socialists from the Floridsdorf sector army gunners destroyed the north railway station there.

This was necessary, it was explained, for strategic reasons.

In the Simmering district of Vienna in a skirmish between socialists and police the latter were supported by Catholic storm troopers. Five troopers were killed.

Unverified reports from Wiener Neustadt, an industrial city south of here, said heavy fighting broke out there and the situation in Styria was far from quiet.

Prepare For Battle

Graz police prepared to battle gangs of looters tonight.

In the Favoriten section of Vienna police and auxiliary forces stormed two community apartments, capturing great quantities of arms, among them four machine guns.

In Linz shooting from windows was resumed after nightfall.

In Steyr, where Prince Von Starhemberg personally led the heimwehr in action earlier today, several streets tonight were still in the socialists' possession.

Still Disputed Ground

Bruckandermur was still disputed ground.

Votisberg, an industrial town of about 10,000, was said to be entirely in socialist hands.

Woergl and Kufstein, near the German border, asked military assistance.

Socialist headquarters at Eggenberg were reported blown up by the attackers. The Linz inner city was in the control of the military. Police, repulsed in an attempt to capture socialist headquarters at Woergl in the Tyrol, were forced to ask reinforcements from Innsbruck.

Not Revolutionists

"We are not revolutionists," a socialist leader told an Associated Press representative between skirmishes at the Leopoldaur Strasse barricade, in the factory area.

"We are not trying to overthrow the government. All we want is a chance to live.

"But the government is trying to trample us down. That is the reason we fight.

"We realize our position looks hopeless, but there is only one death ahead of us anyway—it is starvation or a bullet, or a rope.

Fight For Rights

"Some day the world will recognize that we fought for the preservation of the rights of the working class, which Chancellor Dollfuss, with all his talk about the millenium, has utterly disregarded."

Holding the barricade with him were 24 men, none of whom had an overcoat or a whole pair of shoes. They looked worn, not over-nourished, and almost fanatically determined. Some of their weapons seemed to have been used in the world war.

The fighting was the climax of a long struggle between democracy and fascism in which the bourgeois Christian social party of Chancellor Dollfuss was forced to accept the support of the fascist heimwehr as its mainstay.

Socialists Strong

When parliament was dissolved by a Dollfuss decree last year the socialists were numerically the strongest party in Austria—66 per cent of Vienna voters in the last election cast ballots for socialists.

As a result of the fighting some observers anticipated that the government party will next face a heimwehr-nazi front, opposed to Democracy, with the numerically stronger nazis ultimately in control.

Nazis now boast that if general elections were held they would poll 65 per cent of the electorate and that the often-demanded union with Germany would be approved.

Plot Is Disclosed

While years of hatred between socialists and fascists formed the groundwork for the battles, they had their immediate cause in raids last week on socialist headquarters which, officials said, exposed a socialist-bolshevik "criminal plot."

These raids were led by Vice Chancellor Fey, an avowed enemy of socialists, during Dollfuss' absence in Budapest, where he conferred with the Hungarian premier.

As a result, the heimwehr demanded the elimination of all parties.

Fey, a heimwehr leader, personally commanded the Vienna offensive. The young Prince Von Starhemberg, heimwehr chieftain, was reported at the head of troops marching on Linz, where the fighting started yesterday after socialists resisted troopers' attempts to seize socialist headquarters.

Subsequently a general strike was called by the socialists, the government invoked a martial law with civilians carrying weapons subject to the death penalty, and the cabinet outlawed the socialist party.

The Karl Marx and Ebert municipal apartment blocks were centers of street fighting last night, but the bombardment of the huge structures was delayed until daylight.

Snipers continued their rifle and pistol fire on the beseigers, but the latter restricted their early counterfire to shooting at gunners as they showed themselves at windows.

Socialist public officials in Vienna were ousted. Many were imprisoned. Some, including Otto Bauer, veteran socialist leader, and Julius Deutsche, the party's general secretary, were said to have fled. Karl Seitz, Vienna burgomaster, was one of those jailed.

City Council Dissolved

Homeguardsmen occupied the Vienna city hall, stronghold of Austrian socialism. The provincial diet and city council of Vienna were dissolved.

Government buildings in Vienna's "inner city" were not threatened in the fighting this morning and afternoon, but heavy firing resounded steadily within a mile of the exclusive hotels and Chancellor Dollfuss' offices.

An appeal to all Austrian world war veterans to rally behind the government was issued, meanwhile, by Prince Schoenburg Hartenstein, the under secretary for defense.

Courts martial, with death the penalty for insurrection, faced the several hundred socialists who were taken prisoner by the troops and summoned already before the authorities.

With the coming of dusk guns were trained on the St. Marx abattoir, which the socialists held.

Deaths Believed Linked With Cases In Shanghai

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—The bodies of an elderly retired interior decorator and his wife were found in their one-room east side apartment today under circumstances which led police to describe the case as a murder and a suicide.

The man, Emil Phillipson, apparently had fired a bullet into the left temple of his wife, Marie, and then shot himself in the mouth.

Two letters apparently written by Phillipson were found, one of which said "I can stand the pain no longer." The police said this mention of pain might refer to the suicide a month ago in Shanghai China, of Mrs. W. S. Grooch, believed to have been a daughter of the Phillipsons, who jumped off the roof of an eight-story apartment house, carrying her two sons, one under each arm.

Pioneer Tells Of Air Trusts

James V. Martin States That Every Plane Contract Secretly And Collusively Let By Leaders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The assertion that every army and navy airplane contract is "secretly and collusively" let was expressed today before the house military committee by James V. Martin, an aviation pioneer.

He testified in the investigation of airplane contracts just as another house committee decided to call the Aluminum Company of America to explain testimony that one airplane builder was compelled to pay 10 per cent of his manufacturing cost to the Aluminum concern.

Made London Flight

Martin, asserting he made the first flight over London and that he built the first bomber ever contracted for by the government, told the committee that the "Ohio gang under Colonel (E. A.) Deeds have complete control" of aviation.

Asked how the "air trust exercises control," Martin continued:

"Every contract is let secretly, collusively and in violation of the law. They go into a secret meeting and agree who is to get the job."

"Who goes into the secret meeting?" a member asked.

"The Curtiss company agents, (Brigadier) General (H. Conger) Pratt, and the army procurement officers at Dayton, for instance," he answered.

Air Trust In Control

The "air trust," he argued, has "put its own men into key positions and controls the contracts of the army and navy.

"There is not a single man in the army or navy who dares to oppose the control exercised by the air trust.

"The departments are honeycombed with agents and employes of this trust. Today, something like 24 or 25 cents out of every dollar spent for that purpose goes into an airplane. The rest is stolen.

"By whom?" asked Representative Montet (D-La).

Martin named Curtis-Wright, Pratt-Whitney, General Aviation and Boeing companies.

Regional Planning Sessions Are Scheduled During Week

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13. (AP)—Conferences on regional planning will be held in several cities Wednesday, Thursday and Friday by Irvin J. McCrary, federal field supervisor of planning for regions 7 and 8, and Julian Montgomery, Wichita Falls, assistant supervisor of planning.

They will confer Wednesday morning at Abilene with D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and other representatives of that section.

A similar conference will be held Thursday morning in San Antonio and at 2 p. m. Friday in Dallas. McCrary will leave Dallas Friday night for Fort Smith.

Finance Drive To Be Resumed

Leaders Say Council Cannot Continue To Exist Without Funds; Quota For Lubbock Set At $3,000

Lubbock Boy Scout financial campaign, for funds with which to operate this year, will be resumed Tuesday, Feb. 20, the finance committee announced yesterday.

"The council cannot continue to exist without additional funds," said J. A. Raley, jr., chairman of the finance committee.

Budget Is $3,000

The campaign conducted last fall resulted in subscription of $1,534.30. The budget for Lubbock was $3,000.

Cards in the possession of men who received them last year will be called in and the campaign reorganized with a smaller group.

Progress of local scouting was pointed out by Dr. F. B. Malone, chairman of the financial drive. The program here now includes boys 9, 10 and 11 years old, under the scout age. A Cub Scout pack of 21 members has been organized and other packs are planned. The older boy can find a place in the Sea Scout movement, it was said. A Sea Scout ship has been organized here.

A new troop, No. 13, has been organized at First Baptist church.

"But we cannot continue to progress without sufficient funds," Doctor Malone said.

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, zoologist and explorer, is noted as the discoverer of some of the richest fossil fields in the world.

Guard Blocks Prison Break

Four Convicts Armed With An Incendiary Bomb Try Escape In Missouri But Pistol Shot Halts Action

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 13. (AP)—A bullet fired from a guard tower frustrated an attempt by four convicts armed with a crude incendiary bomb, to escape over the wall of the Missouri penitentiary.

The men were attempting to place a plank from a second story window of the chair factory to the top of the prison wall when discovered by Guard P. S. Sears.

Bottle Is Hurled

One of the convicts hurled a bottle containing benzine at the guard tower manned by Sears, but the matches attached to it failed to ignite the liquid. An electric light bulb, also attached to the bottle, burst against the wall with a loud report and Sears, believing at first he had been shot, fired his pistol, driving the men back.

Within fifteen minutes the quartet had been placed in solitary confinement.

Ross Castle, one of the convicts, is under life sentence from Buchanan county for first degree robbery, is an escaped convict from the Joliet, Ill., penitentiary and is also wanted by officials of the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas.

The other three:

Frank Williams, under 15-year sentence from Buchanan county from June 13, 1927 for second degree burglary and larceny.

Harold Anderson, under 15-year sentence from Jackson county for first degree robbery from Dec. 31, 1931.

Robert Rogers, under 12-year sentence from Camden county from Oct. 21, 1930, first degree robbery.

Austrian Socialist Declares That He And His Countrymen Only Fight For Life; Are Not Revolutionists

BY ROBERT L. SCHILDBACH
Associated Press Foreign Staff
(Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press)

BEHIND A SOCIALIST BARRICADE, VIENNA, Feb. 13. (AP)—The Austrian socialists have only begun to fight, one of their leaders told me today.

He talked to me between skirmishes at the barricade in Leopoldaur Strasse where I am writing this. The barricade is in the Floridsdorf district, the factory area, surrounded by a ring of government troops.

Not Revolutionists

The leader told me:

"Tell the Americans that we are not revolutionists.

"We are not trying to overthrow the government. All we want is a chance to live."

He is an officer of the republican guard. He is thin, middle-aged and smooth shaven, wearing an old but serviceable rubber jacket, ragged trousers and broken shoes.

As he talked, he gazed at 24 comrades holding the barricade with him. Not one had an overcoat, none a whole pair of shoes.

Are Being Trampled

"But the government is trying to trample us down," he said. "That is the reason we fight.

"We realize our position looks hopeless, but there is only one death ahead of us anway—it is starvation, or a bullet, or a rope.

"Some day the world will recognize that we fought for the preservation of the rights of the working class, which Chancellor Dollfuss, with all his talk about the millenium, has utterly disregarded."

It is said that at least 2 per cent of human beings associate a particular color with each sound they hear, and sometimes this extends to the names of the days of the week.

JOBS GO BEGGING

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—All the talk about unemployment seems far-fetched to south Florida tomato growers. In urgent need of 2,000 workers to harvest the crop, they broadcast offers of $1.50 a day per man with free lodging, but only 150 negroes responded.
