Rivercrest threatened several times in the first half, reaching the Hughes Springs 19-yard line in the first period and to the 11-yard line in the second period.

Social Security Information

The first monthly social security payments for diiability were made just 10 years ago, and since the year 1957 the number of disabled people throughout the country receiving disability payments has risen from 149,850 to more than one million.

According to Vernon Daniel, social security district manager the number of disabled beneficiaries in Titus County has risen from 21 in 1957 to 150 at the close of 1966. The average amount of monthly benefits today for a disabled worker who has a wife and one or more dependent children, the monthly average is $215.

Unlike retirement benefits and medicare, which are for people over 65, disibality benefits can be paid at any age under 65 as long as the worker has worked long under social security to be insured Generally this requires at least five years of work in the 10-year peroid immediately before he becomes disabled.

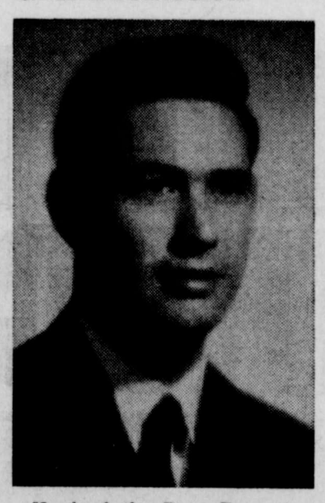

Daniel states that from the beginning of the disiability program under social security, a great deal of emphasis has been placed on the rehabilitation of disabled workers, and social security offices have worked with the state vocational rehabilitation workers as far as possible. This program was stepped up materially in 1965 with the provision of additional funds for rehabilitation purposes. The goal of the program is two-fold: to help replace part of the earnings lost to a family when the wage earner can no longer work, and to encourage and finance the worker's rehabilitation and return to work whenever possible.

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

Austin. — Texans will face a $192,900,000 new tax bill before the 60th Legislature gets through with its work next year, Legislative Budget Board staff predicts.

Gov. John Connally and Speaker Ben Barnes contend the Board's figure is far too high. Barnes says the estimate is "wrong by $90,000,000."

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, on the other hand, feels the staff not only is within the ball park but is actually conservative.

"I would not be surprised to see the new revenue need soar to over $200,000,000 by the middle of next year," says Smith.

Connally made clear he will not call lawmakers into special session to appropriate funds for the second half of the biennium and pass a tax bill until next year. He refused to state what date he has in mind, although speculation persists that there will be no tax session until after June primary elections.

At the first budgit board meeting since the Legislature adjourned last spring, staff members predicted the present general fund spending level will jump from $452,800,000 to $470,300,000 next fiscal year.

Staff projections see need for a $6.000,000 increase in funds for health, hospitals, special schools and youth council facilities; a $5,600,000 cut in executive and administrative agency spending; $15,800,000 for education; and $1,000,000 more for the Legislature.

SMITH ANNOUNCES, CONNALLY MUM — Four days after Governor Connally returned from an African hunting safari, Lieutenant Governor Smith told him of his plans to run for governor. He asked, but did not get 'Connally's pledge of support.

Smith then released his official announcement, which contained a criticism of the Connally fiscal policies and complained of too much power centralized in the governor's office.

Connally said he will decide whether to run again himself or not after swapping talk with Texans in all areas and figuring out "what is in the best interests of the people and the state." As for supporting Smith, he commented: "You are not ever very enthusiastic about supporting anybody who announces against you."

Speaker Barnes told voters in his home district (Brown, Coleman, Comanche and Runnels Counties) that he probably is going to run for lieutenant governor, although he might still be a candidate for governor if Connally retires. The speaker will not make a formal announcement before next month.

OIL OUTPUT CUT —Railroad Commission ordered a big whack in the Texas oil production allowable for September.

Slacking off of Mid-East tensions will mean more oil than Texas can use, Commission found. Its order reduced the 54 per cent of potential allowable factor to 46.7 per cent. Net effect is that production was at old high figure for first week or the month and will be some 44.5 per cent for the remaining 23 days.

Cut is about 180,500 barrels a day or $5,415,000 barrels for September. Scaled-down allowable will amount to 3,133,500 barrels a day.

DRAFT QUOTA CUT —Texas draft boards are being called on to provide 977 men for induction in October. This compares with quotas of 1,180 for September and 1,421 for August, Quotas for July and June were 974 and 975.

The 155 boards are scheduled to send 4,000 for pre-induction mental and physical examinations during October, according to Col-Morris S. Schwartz, state selective service director. The same number was forwarded for the pre-induction exams in September.

Quota is the state's share of a national call of 17,000 men for the Army in October.

STATE JOBS INCREASING— Texas industrial employment growth has been ahead of the nation-wide figure for the last five years, U. S. Department of Labor reports.

Non-farm employment increased 21.7 per cent in Texas while the national increase was 18.2 per cent.

Only Texas and California among the six biggest industrial states remain above the national average. New York, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania have fallen below.

COOPER CONTRACT APPROVED — Water Development Board has approved Cooper Dam and Reservoir contract on Sulphur River after charging federal government attitudes threatened the state's $3,500.000,000 water plan.

Contract as approved does not abide by U. S. Armp Corps of Engineers demand for allocation of 63,000-acre feet of water a year from Lake Texarkana for Red River pollution control.

Board voted to notify President Johnson and other appropriate cfficials that Texas "faces potential permanent loss of 192,000-acre feet" of water from the lower Red River below Lake Texoma. Members said the state also may suffer "potential ultimate loss of from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000-acre feet" from all Texas water to federal jurisdiction if a Corps of Engineers interpretation of U. S. statutes is not changed.

SHORT SNORTS

Railroad Commission has set hearing for September 20 on East Texas Salt Water Disposal Company's request for change in salt water injection rules in East Texas field (Gregg, Smith, Rusk and Upshur Counties).

Col. Homer Garrison Jr. director of the Department of Public Safety, says the law now requires that any Texan applying for first driver's license must have a birth certificate or other legal document showing birth date.

Plans Discussed For Improvement Highway 271

The East Texas Gulf Highway Association met recently in Mt. Pleasant for a progress report on the improvement of US Highway 271 from Paris to Gladewater.

The Association's objective is to promote the use of North-South route from northern and eastern United States through Paris to Houston primarily via US 271 to Gladewater, state Highway 135 to Kilgore and US 259 to Houston.

Attending the meeting were Abb Smith, president; Cecil Franklin, Titus County Judge, and Don Taylor. secretary-treasurer of the association.

It was reported that Lamar County would probably have the money for their part of the right-of-way when the time comes for the work to begin since $650,000 bond issue was passed recently.

Titus County will have to call for warrants to be issued or call a bond election since the money is not available at this time.

Camp County has the money in the bank for their part said Taylor, and Upshur County to the south is preparing to raise their money.

Gregg County is behind the program and will have money when it is needed, he reported.

The East Texas Gulf Highway will meet the Indian Nation Turnpike which ends at the Texas-Oklahoma line north of Paris.

The Texas Highway Department proposes to build a four-lane divided highway from Paris to the state line at Red River.

Taylor, manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Mt. Pleasant, said outlook for the project is favorable.

Check Your Ventilation System

More than 1,000,000 boat owners will be affected by the new U.S. Coast Guard regulations on ventilation.

Effective June 1, 1966, all boat compartments containing an engine or a fuel tank must have "at least one exhaust duct installed as to extend from the open atmosphere to the lower portion of the bilge, and at least one intake duct installed so as to extend to a point at least midway to the bilge or at least below the level of the carburetor intake."

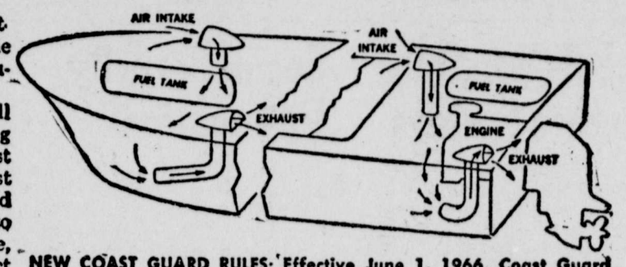

The regulations also specify "cowls or their equivalent... to be located and trimmed from maximum effectiveness and in such manner as to prevent displaced fumes from being recirculated."

Only boats with both engine and fuel compartments open to the atmosphere will not require ventilating ducts and cowls.

Coast Guard officials in Washington, D.C., warn that the new regulations will be rigidly enforced.

"After June 1, Coast Guard boarding officers have orders to issue citations to all boat owners whose equipment does not meet these requirements," they said.

Now is a good time to check out your boat's ventilation system, whether you plan to do the work yourself or have it done. One of the biggest marine hardware manufacturers in the country, Perko, has just introduced a new line of ventilation hardware—ventilators, blower systems and flexible ducts — designed to make it easy to comply with the new regulations on all types of installations. Other manufacturers are planning to introduce similar equipment.

NEW COAST GUARD RULES: Effective June 1, 1966, Coast Guard rules require all boat compartments containing an engine or fuel tank to include at least one ventilating exhaust duct from the open atmosphere to the lower portion of the bilge and at least one intake duct to extend at least midway to the bilge or at least to the level of the carburetor intake. Duct cowls or their equivalent must be located for "maximum effectiveness" and to prevent displaced fumes from being recirculated.

The Coast Guard regulations outline only the minimum ventilation safety requirements. Ventilation requirements recommended by the National Fire Protection Association are even more extensive. Before you start on your modification it's a good idea to check with your marine insurance agent.

A good safety idea for the boatman is the Yacht Doctor first aid kit by Trident Marine which includes 19 different medical items you might need in an emergency at sea. The kit can't rust, will float and can be reused after it has been opened.

Official records for 1964 show that 97% of the boatmen who drowned in mishaps afloat were not wearing life preservers or other life saving devices.

The Coast Guard considers a life jacket for each person aboard a boat the most important item of emergency equipment. They should be readily accessible...and worn at all times by non-swimmers and by everyone when danger lurks.

There is a wide range of Coast Guard-approved life jackets and vests to choose from, depending on the size of your boat and your needs. But the Coast Guard does not approve ski belts...and safety experts frown upon "Mae West" type inflatable life vests which demand inspection, care and maintenance.

U.S. Coast Guard-approved life saving devices made of expanded polyvinyl chloride foam offer many advantages over kapok-filled equipment. Safety jackets and vests, produced by GenTex Corporation and other marine manufacturers are easy to put on in an emergency, comfortable to wear, simple to clean and are designed to turn the wearer face up at the proper floatation angle even if he's stunned or unconscious.

A new line of weatherproof marine furnishings has been introduced by Medallion Marine for boats that are big enough for furniture. Called the Flagship Line, it can be cleaned with a hose and is guaranteed weatherproof for five years.
