Busy season begins for stores

By LUIS RIOS

The Colorado City Police department is warning local merchants and residents to be on the lookout for shoplifters and possible break-ins with the Christmas season all ready in swing.

"The crime most definitely goes up during this time of year," Sgt. Steve Collier said. "The crime is up all around the nation."

Colorado City experienced a crime increase for the past four or five months.

Collier said merchants should be weary of any suspicious persons walking into their stores. People wearing long, heavy clothing during the hot weather are prime suspects, he said.

The merchants should walk around the store and try to keep a constant surveillance. He said the store keepers should also be weary of a large group of shoppers coming into the store all at one time.

"It is a good idea to hire extra personnel if they can," Collier said of the merchants. "They could hire them even if it is just to walk the store."

Collier said he would like to advise the merchants to keep some lights on in the store after closing hours so the stores would be easier to patrol. He added that an outside light would curtail late-night break-ins.

"They (businessmen) should double-check the doors before they go home," he said. "Due to the fact that it is Christmas, the crime rate could go up," Collier said. "But we are not expecting it."

Collier said the local residents should notify the police department if they are planning to go out of town, so the PD can do a periodical security check on their home. They should also notify their neighbors, too.

Chief Ed Wheat will try to make sure of an increase patrol, which he is concerned about this time of year," Collier said. It is also the wish of Chief Wheat that the department put a security check on homes if someone is out of town, he added.

The businessmen should be weary of the checks they take for a large amount of money and what credit cards they accept, Collier said.

"They should know the person issuing the check," he said. "If they don't they should check with the bank from where the check is from."

Gins continue to produce bales

The seven Mitchell County gins in operation have ginned 9,733 bales up-to-date from October 14, according to figures released from the gins.

Council approves plat

The Colorado City Council approved lots one through four of the final plat for the Sparks Addition during a called meeting Tuesday night.

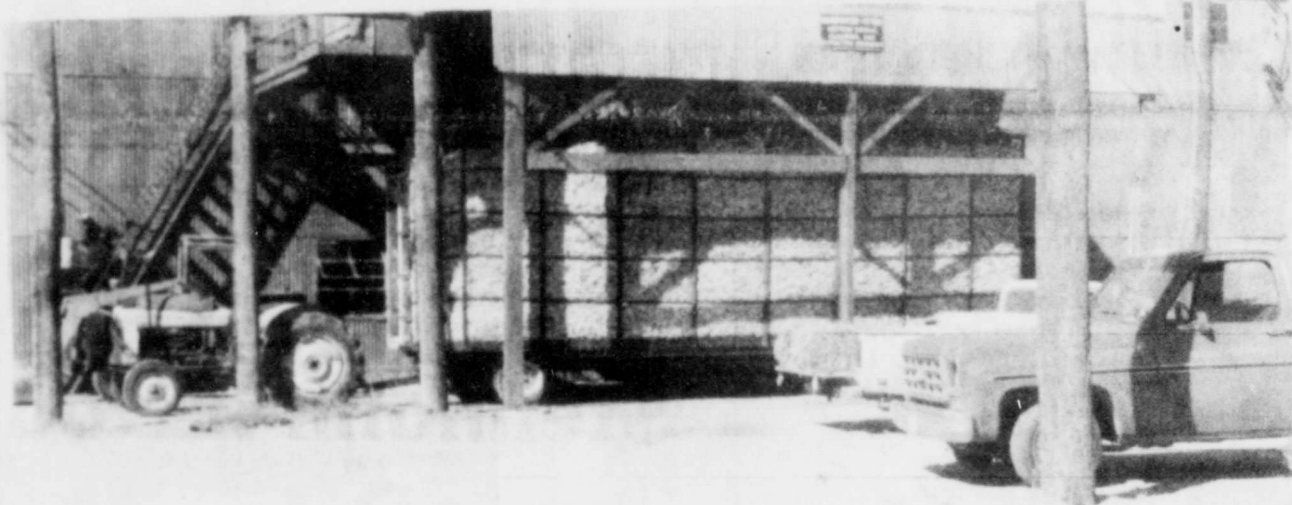

There was some minor discussion over the final plat, Mayor Elmer Martin said. The final plat will be up for approval at a later date.

There was also some discussion over the street dedications, Martin said. Reimer Calhoun, Jr. was also present for any questions on the initial project.

Calhoun is from Mansfield, Louisiana. City manager Rick Crowley gave the manager's report to end the meeting.

China Grove Gin had 1,889 bales ginned and Mitchell County Gin in Loraine had 700 bales ginned. The gins showing the lowest number baled included Westbrook Gin with 477 and Colorado Gin with 621. No figures were available for Paymaster. The last count for Paymaster was 89 on October 23.

THE COOP GIN ASSOCIATION in Loraine stayed busy during the holiday season. Production in Mitchell County is down from last year.

Budget workshop tops meeting

A Revenue Sharing Budget Workshop for Mitchell County will be part of the agenda for the November 28 called meeting of the County Commissioners, County Judge Bill Carter said.

Carter said anyone interested in making a request to the court, should be present at the budget workshop.

Although, the bill which will allocate money to all the counties nationwide is still tied up in committee hearings, Carter said. The joint houses of Congress, which include the House of Representatives and the Senate, have not approved the bill yet.

However, the proposed bill is calling for over four and one half billion dollars for the counties, Carter said.

Mitchell County received $133,000 last year under entitlement 14. The county will serve under entitlement 15 this year.

"This is the meeting where the initial requests are made," Carter said. "Anyone wanting to come is welcome."

Carter also said the court would appreciate anyone wanting to make a request, notify his office.

Visiting West Germans not surprised by vote

By LUIS RIOS

West Germans Manfred Inkmann and Helmut Potjans who presently are visiting local attorney Frank Ginzel, both talked openly and said "the vote went as they had expected" on the morning after the West German Parliament approved NATO's plan to deploy U.S. nuclear missiles in West Germany.

Inkmann and Potjans, who are both from Rheingens, West Germany, are employed by Solvay Co., a salt mine company based in Belgium. Inkmann is a mining engineer and Potjans is an administrator for the company.

"When we had the elections last fall we expected deployment," said Inkmann, who spoke English fluently and often translated for Potjans. "Chancellor (Helmut) Kohl pointed a lot of things that he wanted. One of them was deployment of nuclear missiles in West Germany. We went ahead and was elected."

Although news clips and stories from West Germany concerning the deployment of missiles mention protestors and demonstrators, the number of them is very low, Inkmann said.

"The demonstrators are a small minority," he said. "they are usually members of the Green Party and other leftist members from the Social Democrat Party. They will demonstrate against anything. They are professional demonstrators," who travel from place to place raising hell."

However, do the German people know that the risk of a confrontation with nuclear arms may be greater with nuclear missiles in their own backyard?

"The people don't talk very much about it," Inkmann said. "The possibility of war and its consequences are things that are aware to the Germans."

"If there was a war, we won't think about it," Potjans said. "We don't think about it because nobody will probably live."

"The issue was discussed for three or four years. It was a bad, bad decision to wait that long."

It is both Potjans' and Inkmann's conclusion that if the Social Democrat party which is opposed to the deployment, would have won the election, they also would have gone on with deployment.

"The Social Democrat Party is in very bad shape right now, politically," Potjans said. "After the war (World War II) they had programs (social) which were good then. But their goals are pretty well reached. Now they want to nationalize the banks and the steel industry; but everyone knows that is not possible."

The Social Democrat Party is no longer the working class party, Inkmann said. The party now has members which are university students and intellectuals.

Inkmann said he and Ginzel went on a hunting trip in the Rockies, and they have been friends ever since.

Ginzel visited Inkmann in Germany last year and said that the tall and lean German owed him a return visit. The trio had a planned hunting trip outside of Menard for the Thanksgiving holidays.

However, Inkmann and Potjans did not make the trip unscathed. Both are married and have a daughter each. Inkmann, who had previously traveled in the United States, said he had to promise his wife a trip to the States next year for his recent trip.

Potjans, has an 11-year-old daughter, made the trip on the sole condition that he take her skiing during the Christmas break.

Barber elected to council

Patrick Barber, Mitchell County Attorney, has been recently elected by the prosecutors of the state of Texas to serve in the County Attorney position on the Prosecutor Council.

The Council is a judicial agency established by the Texas Legislature in order to provide technical assistance, educational services, and professional development training to the prosecutors of Texas.

The Prosecutor Council also accepts and investigates complaints of prosecuting attorney incompetency and misconduct, with the authority to reprimand prosecutors or institute proceedings to remove prosecutors from office.

Only elected prosecutors are entitled to vote in the Prosecutor Council's elections.

Patrick Barber has been Mitchell County Attorney since 1976. He attended the University of Texas at Austin for his B.A. Degree and received his law degree from Baylor University in 1976. Mr. Barber has served on the legislative committee for the Texas District and County Attorney's Association and is currently Regional Director for the West Central Region, including Abilene and San Angelo for the TDCAA.

The Council is composed of nine members; four non-lawyers, appointed by the Governor of Texas, with the advice and consent of the Senate, and five incumbent elected prosecuting attorneys, at least one of each of whom must be a County Attorney, a District Attorney, and a Criminal District Attorney, with the remaining two positions to be "at large."

Patrick is married to Sharon Stuver Barber, formerly of Broadus, Montana, and they have two children: Rhonda, age 15, and Austin, age 9.

Barber said, "I appreciate the confidence the prosecutors of this state have indicated by electing me to the Prosecutor Council, and I will endeavor to fulfill the duties of this office to the best of my ability."

Renovations slated for TSTI

Sweetwater may proceed with the renovation of two older buildings on campus, the TSTI Board of Regents said Monday.

Meeting on the TSTI-Waco campus, the board approved Mike Klein as the construction manager on the two buildings, formerly the Security building and the

Correspondence Center. Klein has been the contractor on the Graphic Communication Building and the D. A. Pevehouse Technology Center. The D. A. Pevehouse Technology Center was completed in July, and the Graphic Communication Building is scheduled for completion this month.

The buildings scheduled for renovation are to be used for classroom space for new programs to be added next year, according to Sweetwater er Campus President Herbert C. Robbins.

In his report to the board, Robbins said that TSTI-Sweetwater had a 14 percent increase in fulltime student enrollment in September, 1983. A decrease in part-time student enrollment was reported.

As a result of the increase in fulltime students, student contact hours went up 2.8 percent overall from 192,966 in 1982 to 198,348 in 1983, Robbins said.

Robbins said the total headcount at the Sweetwater campus is 636 with 28 percent of that being women.

Stenholm introduces farm bill

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm (D-Stamford) introduced a bill to make farm programs simpler, more predictable and fairer.

The legislation simplifies and standardizes the way acreage bases and yields are assigned to producers. Stenholm has been working on the farm bills, Stenholm said, which makes them subject to the political winds every four years. If the base and yield formulas were in permanent law, they would stay there unless repealed, and farmers would have a better idea how many acres they can plant.

project almost a year, along with the Texas Agricultural Forum, a coalition of farmers and agribusinessmen in the state.

Stenholm's proposal assigns bases for both overall farm acreage and individual crops. It bases yields on actual records, and gives farmers more flexibility than they now have in deciding for themselves how much of a given crop they will plant.

"Right now, our system of bases and yields is a mess," Stenholm said. "It's not fair to many farmers; it's unpredictable for the rest; and it leaves too much discretion to USDA's bureaucratic whims. It needs to be changed and put into permanent law."

Bases and yields are now set by four-year

"When unpredictable programs keep farmers from planning ahead," Stenholm said, "they often decide not to bother with the programs at all. But this usually means more production and that lowers prices, which drives up taxpayer costs for the farm program."

"My older sister, Betty, always got stuck in the kitchen."

Mrs. Costibile stated that she enjoyed cooking and trying new recipes.

"My family's favorites are spaghetti and cinnamon rolls. Frank could eat spaghetti morning, noon and night."

A booming business in bank credit card fraud means consumers need to be careful about credit purchases during the hectic holiday shopping season. The most common fraud is unauthorized use of a lost or stolen card. Counterfeit cards, the theft of card blanks and card numbers obtained through telephone orders are used in more sophisticated frauds. In most cases, the key to fraudulent use is access to the card or the card number.

To protect credit cards the consumers should take the following steps:

—When shopping, be careful about the carbons on charge slips since they can be used to change amounts on the charge slip. Make sure the sale person removes the carbon after the slip has been signed, or remove it yourself along with the customer's copy.

—Avoid giving your credit card number over the phone if at all possible.

—Keep all charge slips so you can check your statement to make sure each charge is legitimate. If some are fraudulent, call the card issuer immediately.

—Know the law. You are liable only for the first $50 charged to your account by an illegal user. You do not have to pay for any unauthorized charges made after your notify the card company of loss or theft of your card. So if you act quickly enough, you may not have any loss.

—Keep a credit card register listing all your credit cards, account numbers and the address or telephone number of who to notify in case of loss or theft. Keep this list in a safe place, such as a safety deposit box.

—Carry with you only those cards you need. For example, don't carry a department store credit card unless you intend to shop there. Leave a list of the cards you have with you at home.

Some consumers buy credit card insurance which may be unnecessary if they will take reasonable precautions. With the $50 liability limit, the cost of insurance can be greater than any loss you might have from fraudulent use of your card.

AVOIDING A FALL

Jesus Christ had a recognition of the awful destructive power of sin in the life of a person. Most of us are not aware of that awesome destructiveness. On one occasion when Jesus talked with His disciples He said, "If thy hand offend thee cut it off," or "When thy eye offends thee, pluck it out." That seems drastic to us, but the Master knew how dangerous sin is in our lives.

I read the story of a rich man who was trying to hire a chauffeur and he interviewed three men for the job. He pointed to a high cliff near his home and he said to the three men, "Suppose you were driving me on the edge of that cliff...how close to the side could you safely come?" One man said, "I could easily drive the car within 6 inches of that cliff, and not think anything about it!" Another man said, "I could go within a foot without you having to worry at all!" And the third man applying for the chauffeur's job said, "I wouldn't go anywhere near the edge of that cliff...I'd stay at least 6 feet from the side." It was the third man whom the rich man hired.

I believe that Jesus was saying something like that to His disciples. "Don't even get close to sin! If you are tempted in any way, move away from the temptation." Sin, like a fall off a cliff is damaging. So, Jesus warns us not to get ourselves into the presence of sin, not to let sin sow its seed in our minds or our hearts. It is important to remember, sin destroys people.

Many feel we ought to have spiritual paramedics, spiritual ambulances and spiritual hospitals near the places where people fall in sin. It would be much wiser to avoid the edge of the cliffs!

Stinson, Hanks exchange vows

Mrs. Gene Hanks

Sherry Kay Stinson and William Gene Hanks were united in marriage on Friday, November 4 at 8 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents.

Officiating the double ring ceremony was Rev. Royce Clay.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. William Stinson of Colorado City. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hanks also of Colorado City.

The vows were performed before a brass arch decorated with greenery and purple bows. On each side of the arch were brass plant stands containing ferns. Violet pot plants were placed on the hearth of the fireplace.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin dress. It featured a round neckline and off-the-shoulder puffed sleeves.

The fitted bodice was accented by a dropped waistline which formed a deep V in the front and back. The dress swept into a chapel length train and was adorned with beaded, wedge-wood lace.

The dress was made by the bride's grandmother Marie Feaster.

She wore a wide brimmed hat trimmed in wedgewood lace tied with a satin bow.

For something old and blue, the bride carried a blue handkerchief belonging to the bride's great-grandmother McElroy.

She wore her mother's concho pearl earrings for something borrowed. Something new was her garter given to her by her aunt Welda McHaney.

Her bouquet consisted of purple statice, pink and white roses, stephanotis and English ivy. Serving as matron of honor was Terri Sue Brock, cousin of the bride from Snyder. She wore a purple satin dress with gathers across the shoulder and a heart-shaped neckline. She carried a pink long stemmed rose.

Kim Feaster, cousin of the bride from San Angelo served as maid of honor. Her dress was made of lavender jersey with a square neckline and spaghetti straps. She wore a voile knee length jacket with raglan sleeves and carried a long pink stemmed rose.

Shelia Busch, cousin of the bride, sang "We've Only Just Begun" before the ceremony. As the bride came down the aisle she sang "The Wedding Song."

As the couple lit the unity candle, she sang "Through the Eyes of Love." After the ceremony she sang "Always and Forever."

Candlelighters were Lisa McDowell and Diane Maughon.

Serving as best man was the father of the groom, Gene Hanks. Groomsman was Griff Hanks brother of the groom.

L-p gas heater tips for winter months

As the weather gets colder, Texans who depend on lp-gas for fuel are getting their lp-gas space heaters out of storage and setting them up. According to Hugh F. Keepers, director of the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Division of the Railroad Commission, following a few safety rules can stop fires or accidents involving space heaters.

First, thoroughly clean space heaters by removing dust and any rust flaking in and around the burners. These can produce incomplete combustion and dangerous yellow flames. When burning safely, an lp-gas flame is blue. Carbon monoxide gas, both odorless and deadly, can be produced if burners or burner parts are clogged.

Check air adjustment settings on the burners to make sure they'll give the proper air-togas mixture.

Never place space heaters near curtains, furniture or facing a wall.

Replace broken or missing radiants.

All unvented type space heaters need a ventilated room to support combustion. Slightly open a window when using unvented type heaters. This gets outside air into the house and prevents carbon monoxide buildup.

Don't use space heaters designed for outside venting without proper venting. All flue gases must be taken out of a home. Inside a home, flue gases can be very dangerous.

Have a licensed lp-gas dealer check heaters if there's the slightest concern about properly connecting or adjusting them.

Check all vents for any obstruction. A birds nest, for example, can prevent the escape of flue gases.

Don't place space heaters in walking areas where someone can trip over the heater or its hose.

Connect all lp-gas heaters with an approved lp-gas hose with proper flare fittings. Slip or hose connections are prohibited and are dangerous.

Cap off cocks or gas stops not in use. This keeps children or pets from accidentally turning on a valve.

Never put your face or clothing near a heater when lighting it.

RITA LATIMER of Gold Key Real Estate and daughter Temple Ann choose the winning number in the drawing for a turkey. Kit Lovell was the lucky person drawn to receive the turkey.

50th annual TFB meeting held

"We must find a way to keep agricultural supplies in line with effective demand," Texas Farm Bureau President S. M. True Jr. told delegates to the TFB's 50th annual meeting in Houston Monday.

"And we must do this without undue burden to the taxpayers and without losing control over our farms and ranches, the Plainview cotton and grain farmer said.

True told the 1,200 delegates representing 216 county Farm Bureaus that the payment-in-kind program and the drought reduced supplies and helped farm prices this year, "but this is obviously not a permanent solution."

He said farmers could not expect profitable prices with unlimited production.

The president of the state's largest farm organization - 313,568 member families-reminded delegates that "our net income is still derived by the same simple formula. It comes from the number of units we produce, multiplied by the price of each unit, less the cost of production."

He said that the Farm Bureau works on increasing net farm income by attacking all three points—volume, price and cost.

Cost factors, he said, include taxes, the state of the economy, transportation, labor laws, government regulations and others.

"Probably the number one thing we work on in Farm Bureau is price," True told delegates. "We know that price is set by the forces of supply and demand, and that the main function of price is to signal whether the market has too much or too little of a given product or service."

We can have better prices, he said, only if we increase consumption or if we decrease the supply.

True said one of the reasons for the present economic slump in agriculture is that farm exports have fallen off for the past two years. Expansion and maintenance of export markets is essential to obtaining a better price, he said.

"We need to remember, also, that no foreign buyer is forced to buy from us," he said. "They do so because we have a reliable supply of quality products at a competitive price."

The farm leader said that although farmers are in the habit of dwelling on their problems—"because we have so many"—they should also consider the "pluses" in the future of commercial agriculture.

"For one thing, people like to eat every day," he said. "Food and natural fibers are not the so-called durable goods. They are consumed, used up. The supplies have to be replenished continually."

The TFB leader told delegates that the population of the world is increasing by some 300,000 persons every day. He said that although most live in developing nations, their incomes are increasing.

Wyeth painting added to exhibit

A bloodied rider in medieval costume is the central figure in an N. C. Wyeth painting recently acquired by the Diamond M Foundation for the collection of the Diamond M Museum in Snyder.

Painted in Wyeth's

dramatic action-filled style the painting shows a powerful black horse bearing the wounded rider at tremendous speed through a romantic mountainous landscape.

Titled "Alley's Ride With a Message For the Prince," the painting was done as an illustration for A. Conan Doyle's The White Company, published by the Cosmopolitan Book Corporation in 1922. Captioned, "He was dizzy, sick, faint, but he must not die, and he must not tarry, for his life meant many lives that day," it illustrates a point in the story at which Alley must get help for his comrades in the wake of a fierce battle.

The painting has been added to the museum's Wyeth exhibit, containing fifteen other paintings by the famed illustrator. The Diamond M's Wyeth collection is an unusual one, both in size and in depth. The museum recently discovered that one of its paintings appeared in the first book illustrated by Wyeth. Others in the collection were used for magazine and book illustration and for advertising. A large landscape was not done for illustration, but was the result of Wyeth's desire to be known as more than "just an illustrator."

An autumn landscape by Robert Wood, titled "Helotes Creek," is the museum's second new acquisition. The painting depicts brilliant gold and deep red foliage surrounding a tranquil stream in the Texas hill country. This painting joins a Wyoming mountain landscape by Wood, said to be one of C. T. McLaughlin's earliest acquisitions for his collection of art that became the Diamond M Museum.

Visitors are invited to see the two new paintings and to see "The Contemporary Cowboy," an exhibit of paintings, drawings and prints by artists who use imagery of Western art in a contemporary vein. "The Contemporary Cowboy" will be on exhibit through November 27.

The museum at 909 25th Street, will be closed for Thanksgiving on November 24 and 25 but will be open the following weekend. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Wolves girls Varsity and JV lose season opener to Post

By TONY FRANCO
The Colorado City girls varsity and junior varsity basketball teams dropped their season openers to Post here last Tuesday.

Though the final score of 57-43 might indicate otherwise, the varsity played the Antelopes tough throughout the game.

Coach George Martin felt "very pleased with everyone," attributing the loss to "a lack of experience and we just ran out of gas."

What provided the winning margin for Post was their success in getting in under the Wolf defense. Of their 57 points, only 12 of them were from outside of the lane.

While Colorado City was not preventing penetration, the Antelopes were.

The Wolves fell behind early in the game. Though they pressed well in the first and second quarters, poor passing hindered scoring as Post built a 21-14 lead midway through the second period.

The latter part of the second period was all Colorado City though. In a big spurt of offense, and defense providing offense, Laura Baum, Lynn Scott and Denise Jackson combined for 12 foot points as Colorado City took a 26-24 half-time lead.

During the third quarter, the Antelopes continued to have success under the goal, but with Scott, Baum and Jackson still countering, the Wolves matched Post bucket for bucket and ended the third quarter with a 37-36 lead.

In the final period of play, Colorado City was really hurt by a lack of rebounding and too many missed shots. Post, on the other hand, stuck with its patient strategy for an easy shot and went on to collect the victory.

As for the first game of the year, Coach Martin reflected, "Our press hurt them. All the girls got into the game and showed that they can play basketball. They want to be winners, but Post just had a good team."

Billy Gordon, first year coach of the Antelopes felt about the same. "It was a good, physical game with a lot of banging around. I really enjoyed the game."

Scoring totals for the Wolves were Laura Baum with 18 points, Lynn Scott 12, Denise Jackson 11 and Traci Blackwell two.

The junior varsity, led by a determined Jody Huff, played a good game of hustling defense. The offense though suffered from a lack of ball control as Post went on to collect a 49-19 victory.

Throughout the game the Wolves committed costly turnovers and the Antelopes graciously accepted for easy fast breaks.

"They showed desire and drive," commented coach Linda Mathis, adding that "It's going to take two or three games for them to get adjusted from volleyball to basketball. They will be good. I'm really proud of their effort because they didn't give up."

Yolanda Lee led Colorado City scoring with eight points. Also scoring for the Wolves were Huff, Melanie Rees and Janie DeLoera with three points and Shanna Biggs with two.

Loraine JV girls win, boys lose in season opener with Divide

Last Tuesday, the Loraine junior varsity boys and girls basketball teams travelled to Divide and split the two games with their varsity.

In the girls game, Loraine withstood a rough physical game to edge out a 37-36 win.

Coach Jack Petty explained that the girls played a "very exciting game" despite rough-house tactics employed by Divide.

"Some of the young girls are really looking better. Teresa Lopez and others are starting to make some of the girls on the varsity work harder for their positions," added Petty.

Against Divide, Lopez hit for 15 points and collected seven rebounds. Also helping the Bulldog cause were Beverly Griffin with 12 points and seven rebounds, Joann Barrera six points, Adelina Vasquez two points and 13 rebounds and Tonya Troutt two points.

Tracy Rose hit an astonishing 40 points in the junior varsity boy's 66-64 loss to Divide's varsity. Rose, during one quarter of play hit, 75 percent of his shots.

Coach Jack Petty, looking back on the loss, felt "The young ones keep improving. They need more practice and experience because there were places we could have played better despite the way the game went."

Petty added that "I saw weaknesses and strengths."

Helping Rose were Freddie Benitez with seven points and five rebounds, Landy Smith seven points and four rebounds, Lupe Rodriguez four points and seven rebounds, Duane Linam four points and Danny Vasquez with two points.

Freshmen teams split games with Merkel

By TONY FRANCO
Last Tuesday the Colorado City freshmen boys and girls basketball teams split their season openers against Merkel in Wolf gym.

Defense and fast breaking were the keys to the boys 60-23 victory. Throughout the game the Badgers lost the ball to the hustling Wolves.

In first quarter action, steals by Wolves Terry Jackson and Larry Mayes provided easy points. Paul Arellano, doing so throughout the game, turned offensive rebounds in four first quarter points to go along with Jackson's six as Colorado City quickly jumped out for a 14-0 lead.

During the second quarter, Merkel started to have success getting the ball inside against the Wolf defense. Easy baskets under the goal cut Colorado City's lead to 17-8 early in the period.

Though the Wolves' offense had yet to establish any control of the game, pressuring defenses kept Merkel down.

Steals and scores by Mike Swann, David Birmingham and Marty Cleckler headed Colorado City efforts as the Wolves took a 29-13 halftime lead.

Paul Arellano came out ready to play at the start of the second half. Early in the third quarter, Paul, with the help of the thieving defense, dropped in 12 quick points on his way to a game high 18.

The Badgers only managed four points against the Wolf defense during the third quarter and found themselves down by 47-19.

In the last quarter, the Colorado City defense continued to cause turnovers that lead to easy scoring. Reggie Gardner lead Wolf scoring in the fourth period with six points.

On the game, coach Mike Hart commented, "I'm really pleased. They have a way to go but have made great leaps and bounds in a few weeks. There were a lot of assists, good defensive play and the fast break was run well," adding that there was also "good, unselfish play."

Scoring for the Wolves were Arellano with 18 points, Jackson 10, Gardner, 10, Cleckler eight, Birmingham six, Clifford Miles four, Swann three and Mayes one.

Inability to counter Merkel's hot shooting lead to the girls 32-14 loss.

Throughout the game, the Wolves failed to control the ball and look for an open man. Merkel, on the other hand, seemed to be unable to miss the goal. Time after time the Badgers sank shots from way out on the floor.

Colorado City did manage to outscore the Badgers 10-6 in the third quarter, but four points in the first and no points in the second and last quarters proved very costly.

On the first game of the season, coach Linda Mathis saw "good hustle and spirit. It's going to take a few games for them to get into knowing game situations, but we'll have a good team."

Scoring for the Wolves were Leanne Parker with four points, Carmen Reyes two, Kellie Beights two, Holly Tarter two, Amy Bradshaw two and Jennifer Selvera two points.

PAUL ARELLANO puts in a jumper for the Colorado City freshmen during last Tuesday's season opening victory over Merkel. Looking on are teammates Clifford Miles (22) and Terry Jackson (20).

Wildcats split games with Trent

By TONY FRANCO

Westbrook's varsity boys and girls returned with one victory and one loss in basketball action at Trent last Tuesday.

Coach Keith Bundas' girls team experienced an overall good game in their 53-28 win.

On different aspects of the game, Bundas revealed that the offense "worked well against all defenses," adding that "they played a very mental game while both rebounding and breaking well."

The Wildcats scoring spread out to seven different players, with Elena Lopez and Stephany Pierce sharing high point honors with 12 each.

Lopez, Pierce and Gracie Fuentes provided almost all of Westbrook's first half scoring, a half that could have been much better for the Wildcats.

"We played as well as expected in the first half, but we didn't capitalize on everything because these were a lot of missed layups," commented Bundas.

Though Trent had a young team because of losses to graduation, Bundas added that "the teams matched up evenly as far as height."

After racing to a 29-9 halftime lead, Westbrook somewhat slowed down in the second half. Good rebounding kept the Wildcats ahead of Trent. Evon Bradshaw hit the boards for a team high 13 rebounds while receiving help from Elizabeth Burnett and Angela Lentz, who both finished with four rebounds a piece.

Scoring for the Wildcats, who play Divide next Tuesday at Westbrook, were Lopez and Pierce with 12 points, Burnett nine, G. Fuentes and Bradshaw with seven, Lentz four and Lydia Vigil two.

In the boys game, Divide's superior height advantage hampered any hopes of Wildcat scoring as they fell 31-26.

Westbrook's three man scoring combination of Dewayne Hayes, Donald Burnett and Clay Browne provided all of the Wildcats scoring. Hayes finished with 14 points and Burnett and Browne had six each.

Coach Jim Hill feels good about this team. "The kids are working hard and are willing to learn but it's just going to take a while to get anything established with them," explained Hill.

He added that "They're still making mental mistakes and not rebounding well, and though the offense ran a little better and looked for the inside shot, it still needs a little balance." The Wildcats host Divide next Tuesday before entering the Garden City tournament the following weekend.

Texas Farm Briefs

84 upland cotton program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced on October 28, the major provisions of the 1984 crop of upland cotton. The program sign-up period is scheduled for January 16 to February 24, 1984. Other provisions of the programs as reported are as follows:

To be eligible for price support benefits, producers must agree to limit upland cotton planted acreage to not more than 75 percent of their cotton acreage base. An acreage of cropland equal to 33.33 percent of the cotton planted acreage must be devoted to approved conservation users.

Upland cotton price support provisions include a base loan rate for Strict Low Middling 1-one-sixteenth inch cotton, micronaire 35-49, of 55.00 cents per pound and the minimum target price allowed by law. The current statutory minimum target price for the 1984 crop is 81.00 cents per pound. Other 1984 upland cotton program provisions include:

-The 1984 acreage base will be the average of the acres planted and considered planted to upland cotton in 1982 and 1983.

-Land designated for conservation use must have been devoted to row crops or small grains in two of the last three years, except for a summer fallow farm. In the case of summer fallow, conservation use acreage must be land that would have been planted to small grains or row crops in 1984 in the absence of the 1984 upland cotton program. The land must be protected from wind and water erosion throughout the year.

-Recourse loans will be available for seed cotton in 1984. The loan rate for seed cotton will be the same as the loan rate applicable to lint cotton adjusted to a lint basis. Recourse means that the borrower must repay the full dollar amount of the loan plus accrued interest.

-Contracts signed by program participants will be considered as binding and will provide for liquidated damages in cases of failure to comply with program requirements.

-Offsetting and cross compliance will not apply to the 1984 program.

-No advance deficiency payments.

Cotton ginned

Cotton ginners report 772,637 bales of cotton ginned in the United States through September 30 from the 1983 crop, compared to 1,529,044 bales for 1982.

Texas ginners reported 483,378 bales ginned through September 30, compared to 627,849 bales ginned during the same period in 1982.

Soil conservation

Participants in soil and water conservation programs of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service are now liable in certain circumstances for a refund of their cost-share assistance.

Under a rule change effective July 26, those who sell their land and thus halt ASCS-assisted conservation practices must pay back their cost-share funding. The change applies to participants in the Agricultural Conservation, Emergency Conservation, and Forestry Incentive programs.

Formerly, ASCS could only demand repayment as long as the land remained under the control of the person who had received the assistance.

Human brucellosis

The "Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report" reveals that 152 cases of brucellosis in human beings have been reported during the period of January 1 through October 16, 1983.

During the period of July 1 through October 16, 1983, the report indicates a total of 74 cases, divided as follows: Florida three, Kansas two, Iowa two, Missouri six, South Dakota one, Georgia three, Arkansas four, Texas 36, Minnesota one, Washington two, Oklahoma three, Mississippi one, Pennsylvania one, Virginia three, Alabama one, California two, New Mexico one, Kentucky one and Michigan one.

Folder released for Texas campers

From sandy beach sites fronting the Gulf of Mexico to craggy heights of the Chisos Mountains, Texas campers may choose from among 357 sites to chart back-to-nature excursions. Their options are detailed in a revised, free folder, "Texas Public Campgrounds," just released by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The folder is strictly informational (no pictures), but is replete with details about where to pitch a tent by a dinosaur trail, park an RV by an 18th Century Spanish mission, or bed down in an Indian campground.

Listed information includes precise directions from the nearest town, facilities available, and recreational activities that may range from hiking and biking to fishing, swimming, boating, golf or nature study.

The folder's 357 campgrounds are those administered by federal, state, or local governmental authorities. The state's "public" campgrounds directory is designed to supplement other available guides that list commercial campgrounds.

A free copy of the new Texas Public Campgrounds folder is available at any Texas Tourist Bureau, or by mail from P.O. Box 5064, Austin 78763.
