GAO poses safety issue at Pantex

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - The General Accounting Office recommended Tuesday that federal officials review the pace at which nuclear weapons are slated for dismantlement at Pantex.

The Amarillo Globe-News obtained a GAO report that notes concerns about work at the Department of Energy facility 17 miles northeast of Amarillo.

Pantex, a 16,000-acre complex, is the primary site where U.S. nuclear bombs are taken apart.

"DOE's ambitious disassembly schedule, coupled with unresolved safety issues, could lead to a conflict between safety and production goals," the report said.

U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, released the report he called a wake-up call to administrators and Congress.

The report said that when safety problems interfered with Pantex's ability to meet the dismantlement schedule, energy officials revised their plans.

"I feel under no pressure to disassemble a given number of weapons in any year," said Gerald Johnson, manager of the DOE's Amarillo Area Office.

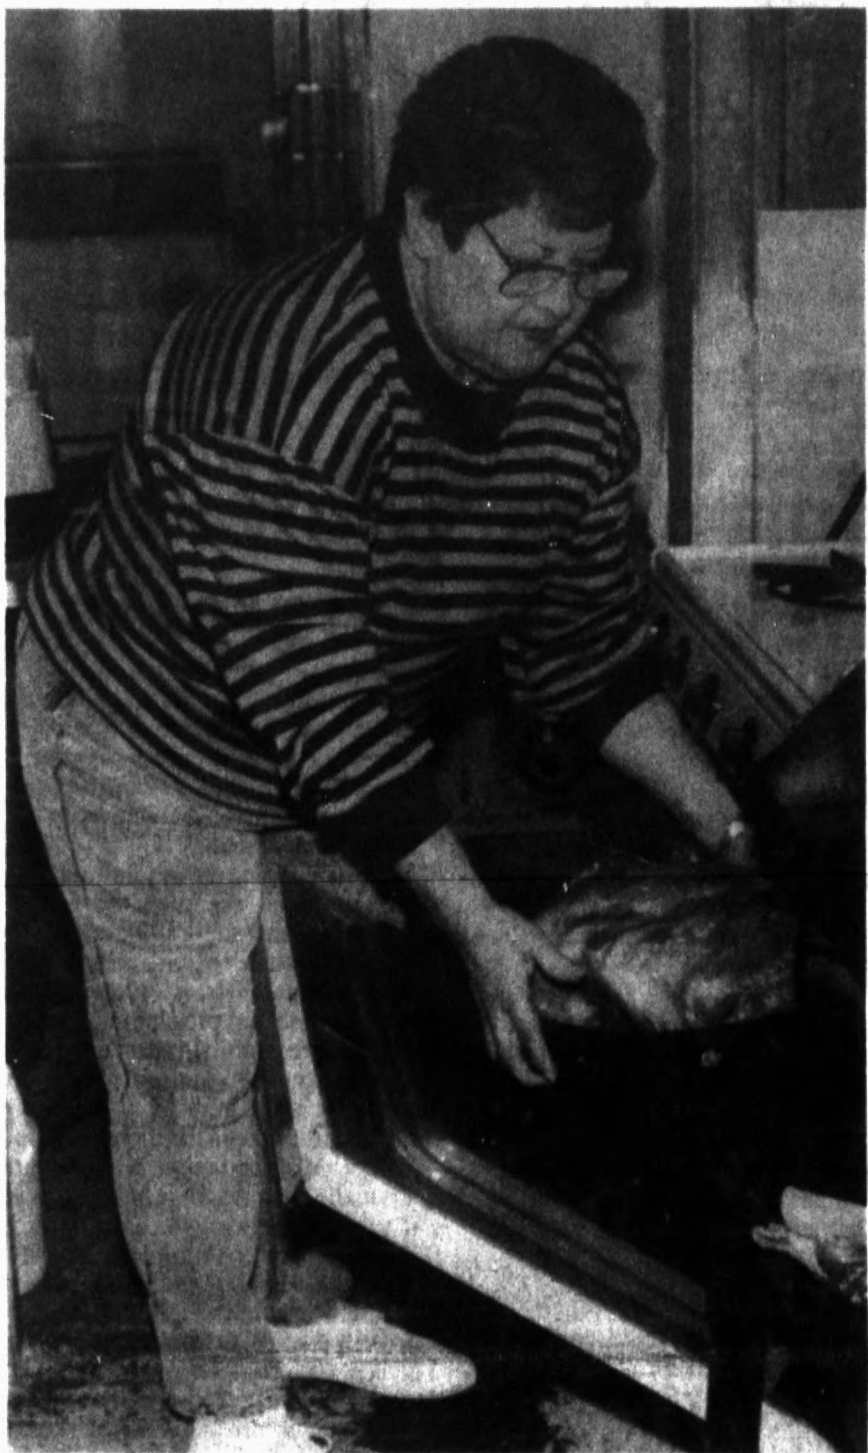

The report shows that during fiscal year 1992, about 63 percent of the weapons scheduled for dismantlement at Pantex were actually dismantled.

GAO cited the following delays: Accident: In May 1992, technicians failed to secure a B-57 nuclear weapon. While they rotated a cased subassembly, it dropped about 20 inches and landed on an assembly stand. Investigators found no contamination and no damage other than a gouge in the weapon's casing. Disassembly of B-57 weapons was halted for 38 days.

Safety problems: DOE uncovered potential hazards that could have resulted in the release of weapons-grade material into worker areas. DOE also found possible exposure to uranium oxide and thorium. Both findings delayed disassembly.

Transportation: In 1991, a trailer designed to carry nuclear weapons broke down, raising concern about the entire fleet. Correcting the problem meant DOE could not transport weapons for almost 60 days.

"In each of these cases, DOE took the proper steps to halt its operations and at no time was the public in any danger," Glenn said. "But it does point to several areas which must be addressed."

Getting ready for Thanksgiving

Pilar Abalos of Mrs. Abalos' Restaurant places a turkey into the oven as she prepares for Thursday's community Thanksgiving dinner. The restaurant is hosting the free affair for the second year, to thank the community for its support of the restaurant and to offer a Thanksgiving meal to those who may not otherwise have a special meal Thursday. It will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the restaurant, 847 East First. Mrs. Abalos said about 100 people turned out last year and is planning for at least 150 people this year. The meal is open to anyone, especially those less fortunate.

Fisher tabbed as chamber board president for 1994

Wes Fisher will head the 1994 slate of officers for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board, it was announced Tuesday evening as directors formally approved the election of four new directors and elected officers.

Wes Klett will be the new vice president, and John Sherrod was named as treasurer. Lewis McDaniel will remain on the board as past president. Fisher moves up from the vice president's post.

Named as new directors in mail balloting of chamber members were Mark Andrews, Andrews Agency; Mike Foster, Foster Electronics; Raul Mariscal, Mariscal Paint & Body Co.; and Tommie Weemes, Deaf Smith REC.

In other business at the monthly meeting, executive vice president Mike Carr gave progress reports on committee activities and special C of C projects. Linda Daniel, president, gave a brief report on Women's Division activities.

Carr reported the retail merchants' committee had a "very successful" holiday promotion with a number of businesses participating in open houses. The Dec. 2 Fun Breakfast will feature booths and displays at the community center by local merchants.

In a new twist this year, the booths will be displayed on Wednesday evening, Dec. 1. More than 30 booths or displays are expected, including some "snack" booths by local restaurants.

Daniel reported the Women's Division is again sponsoring a Christmas lighting contest for residents and businesses. The group will also be sponsoring a Top of Texas Beauty Pageant here Jan. 15.

Directors attending the board meeting Tuesday were McDaniel, Fisher, Sherrod, Bill Lyles, Charles Greenawalt, Rosendo Gonzales, Donna West, Jimmy Madrigal, Jeff Carlile, and Daniel.

Project contractor asks extension of HS contract

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

The contractor for the Hereford High School heating and air conditioning project has requested another 21 days to complete the project, but school trustees opted Tuesday not to grant the extension at this time.

Don Cumpston, assistant superintendent for support services, told school trustees at their regular meeting on Tuesday that Reynosa Construction had made the request for several reasons.

The project was supposed to have been completed by Nov. 15, with a clause in the contract mandating a $500 per day penalty if that deadline was not met, said Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt.

However, Cumpston told HISD trustees, the company faced several unexpected problems during the work that have delayed them.

First, he said, the owner of the company became ill and died, occupying his sons, who actually operate the firm, for about a month.

Then, air handlers that were to have been delivered to the school by Sept. 6 did not arrive until Sept. 20.

Finally, a Southwestern Public Service Company transformer blew out about a month ago, burning out seven three-phase motors on the air handlers. The new motors have not all been replaced yet, he said.

Cumpston recommended the extension be approved, which approval Greenawalt said would negate the daily penalties.

School board president Ron Weishaar hesitated accepting a motion on the matter because it was not specified in the agenda. However, Greenawalt said it could be addressed because it was listed on the agenda as the maintenance department report.

Still, Weishaar opted to wait on the matter until the trustees have a walk-through of the project, which would be handled as a special meeting, at which time the extension could be discussed.

Cumpston said Reynosa officials have told him they are 95 percent finished, with workers doing the final tuning of the system, to make sure the units run smoothly and quickly, and to make sure all air-flow problems are solved.

The meeting was conducted quickly, with the only business being routine reports.

Greenawalt told board members that there will be a special meeting Monday of the district Reapportionment Committee, which is working to draw new trustee boundaries to stay in line with ethnic population shifts since the 1980 census.

The committee met Nov. 16 and will convene again on Monday at 6 p.m. At 7 p.m., a public hearing will be held regarding the trustee boundaries.

Greenawalt said the committee hopes to present new trustee boundaries to the board at its December meeting.

Although the district voted earlier to stay with a five-district, two-at-large system, the committee, he said, also will present a districting plan that allows for seven districted trustee positions with no at-large seats.

No action was required on the report.

Mal Manchec, head of the district's migrant education program, reported to trustees that the district's migrant recruiting team recently was honored as one of the top recruiting teams in the state.

Manchec said the HISD team placed fifth out of 12 teams in districts with between 1,000 and 2,000 migrant students. The HISD has 1,700 migrant students.

He noted that the addition of the migrant students to the schools adds about $600,000 in state funding and helps lots of children.

Two defendants given probation

Terms of probation of two defendants were subject to action Monday in 22nd District Court.

On a motion from the state to revoke probation, Ruben Diaz Jr., 19, was sentenced by Judge David Wesley Gulley to five years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division. He was convicted of burglary of a building in 1992 and sentenced to six years' probation.

Terms of probation were modified for Christopher Reuterskiold, 22, convicted of sexual assault in 1990. His original sentence was eight years' probation. Judge Gulley extended the probation period one year.

Area to remain cold Thanksgiving Day

By The Associated Press

A cold front began making its presence known across Texas this morning.

In the area behind the front in North Texas, temperatures were in the 30s to lower 40s and northerly winds at 15 to 25 mph were common.

By tonight, North Texas will become much colder. The highs will be 37 degrees to the west to near 70 in the extreme southeast.

In West Texas, temperatures were in the 20s and 30s, with patchy fog and freezing drizzle, in the areas behind the front. Winds were northerly at 10 to 20 mph; occasional higher gusts caused wind chills to drop to 5 to 10 degrees below zero in some locations in the Panhandle.

Lows tonight will be in the teens in the Panhandle and South Plains to the 20s and 30s elsewhere, except for 40s along the Rio Grande.

The front hadn't reached South

Texas yet this morning, and temperatures ranged from the lower 50s to near 70 degrees. But as the cold front moves across the region tonight, lows will be in the 30s and 40s across the north and in the 50s and 60s along the coast and south.

In South Texas tonight, lows will be in the 30s and 40s across the north and 50s and 60s along the coast and south.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 21 degrees in Dalhart and Amarillo to 66 degrees in Killeen.

Other early morning temperatures included 28 degrees at Lubbock, 58 at El Paso, 54 at Midland, 63 at San Angelo, Austin and Corpus Christi, 35 at Wichita Falls, 37 at Abilene, 54 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 60 at Waco, 62 at San Antonio and 58 at Houston.

Don't be sad about the things you want and don't get; think how many things you don't want that you don't get!

A reader contributed the above statement to us, and we thought it very appropriate for Thanksgiving.

When we think about Thanksgiving, two words come to mind: family, love. Many of the things that are wrong with this country could be cured by those two factors.

Wealth, intelligence and strength are often noble virtues, but they pale when competing with love. This is how Paul said it: "These three things remain--faith, hope, and love--and the greatest of these is love. Let love be your greatest aim."

We extend Thanksgiving greetings to all our readers. We hope your day is filled with blessings!

oOo

"If you have to pay money to get a free prize, then something is fishy."

writes one of our readers.

She sent us a notification that she received in the mail, guaranteeing that she could receive an award of up to $5,600. The first thing we notice in the wording is "up to," which means it could be $1. This unclaimed sweepstakes award also included possible prizes of $1,870, $750, $175, and some $300 discount certificates.

The quickest way to find out about your award, according to the notice, is to call a "900" number. The directions state that the call is $3.96 per minute and average calls are five minutes. Let's see, that figures up to be $19.80. Better hope you don't get a talkative person on the other end!

In the small print, it is explained that you can mail in your winning number but it will take much longer to distribute the prize. By the way, the odds on getting $5,600, or the other cash awards are also in small print: 1 chance in 4,998,468. The odds on getting a discount certificate are 1 in 1.

Moral of the story: read the fine print!

The National Weather Service is calling for much colder temperatures today and Thursday, with cloudy skies and chances of freezing rain or sleet today and snow on Thursday. For today, look for a high in the 30s with a 30 percent chance of freezing rain or sleet. For Thursday, the high will be 25 to 30 degrees with a chance of snow. Overnight low will be around 15 to 20 degrees.

Appeals court strikes down ban on 'indecent' in TV programs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress and the Federal Communications Commission are finding out how hard it is to regulate "indecent" on the airwaves: Once again, a court says they're treading on the First Amendment.

A federal appeals court ruled Tuesday that regulators went too far when they banned so-called indecent material on radio and TV between 6 a.m. and midnight as part of the government's effort to protect young eyes and ears from objectionable material.

It's the third time since 1988 that the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit has struck down attempts by the FCC, at the behest of Congress, to ban indecent programming on the airwaves.

"The court told the FCC that, in an effort to protect children, the agency had drawn rules so narrowly they infringed the First Amendment rights of adults. The FCC has fought similar battles to regulate the "dial-a-porn" telephone sex industry.

Opponents of the broadcast indecency ban contend it could affect broadcast programming that contained sexual innuendo, such as "Saturday Night Live" or late night talk shows.

Pending the final outcome of the court case, the content of radio and TV programs is not expected to change because the FCC could decide to fall back on older rules restricting indecent programming to after 8 p.m., when children in the audience presumably would be under some parental control.

The ruling does not affect cable TV programs.

The FCC had no immediate comment on Tuesday's ruling.

The appeals court ruled last year that a 24-hour ban was unconstitutional - but it the latest ruling it gave the FCC a failing grade, too, for the 18-hour ban, saying it was an unconstitutionally broad encroachment on free speech.

"We can locate no evidence in the record that the government has taken the First Amendment interests of adults into account in advancing its compelling interest in the protection of children," the court said.

"Occasional exposure to offensive material in scheduled programming is of roughly the same order that confronts the reader browsing in a bookstore," wrote Judge Patricia Wald.

The FCC defines broadcast indecency as language or material that "depicts or describes, in terms patently offensive as measured by contemporary community standards for the broadcast medium, sexual or excretory activities or organs." Obscene material has no constitutional protection and is banned from the airwaves at all times.

The unanimous three-member appeals panel accepted the FCC's rationale that the regulation was necessary to help parents prevent their children from viewing or hearing indecent programming. But it said there was no logic to allowing indecent programming between midnight and 6 a.m.

"There is room for them to adopt some kind of regulation, but the court has made clear that they haven't done it yet," Timothy Dyk, an attorney representing a coalition of broadcasters that challenged the latest regulation, said in an interview.

A new FCC policy banning indecent material when large numbers of unsupervised children are in the audience might survive a court challenge, said Robert Peck, legislative counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union.

The ruling should invalidate $1.2 million in fines against the employer of controversial radio disc jockey Howard Stern, whose coalition includes Stern's company, Infinity Broadcasting Corp., Dyk told The Washington Post.

DPS urges caution on state's highways

During the Thanksgiving period, many people are trying to get home to their loved ones.

It is also a time when hunters are traveling the state's highways.

These both result in an increase of traffic on our streets and highways.

The Texas Department of Public Safety urges everyone to use extreme care this year, so that we can live to have another Thanksgiving.

It is true that many Texans will become a statistic during this holiday period and that many planned gatherings will be ruined by these tragedies.

Keep in mind when scheduling trips and gatherings to plan ahead and allow plenty of travel time and plenty of rest stops.

Drivers are urged to drive defensively and watch out for the other person at all times, since there is no guarantee that the other driver is not under the influence of alcohol or drugs, or is not concentrating on the road.

Some lottery winners get less money than expected

AUSTIN (AP) - Some winners of the Texas Lottery haven't received all they hoped for.

More than 600 players, who thought they had won a lottery prize, saw money confiscated because they were delinquent on student loans, late with child support or owed back taxes to the state.

Since the lottery began in May 1992, the state has collected $461,827 from players who owed money to the state, the new Lottery Commission was told Monday.

Here's how the state can claim your winnings: winners of $600 or more must redeem tickets at one of the state's 24 lottery claim centers. Each claim center has computer lists of Texans who owe on their student loans, child support or taxes.

Using a player's driver's license number, Social Security number or date of birth, the claim centers check to see if the winner is on the delinquent list. So far, 343 players have had $272,096 confiscated to pay for delinquent student loans, 219 have had $132,262 taken to pay for child support, and 105 Texans have lost $57,469 in prize money to pay back taxes.

Thus far, almost $1 billion from the Texas Lottery has been transferred to the state's general revenue fund. This money goes to pay for state services such as schools and health and human services.

Another $1.4 billion has been distributed in prizes. Retailers, who get a nickel for each ticket they sell, have collected $142 million. And $187 million has gone to pay the vendors who provide the tickets and computers for the games, while $24 million has been paid for administration.

Insurance policies go unread, advocate believes

AUSTIN (AP) - The state's advocate for insurance consumers says too many Texans don't know what's in their insurance policies.

"Let's face it, insurance policies will never top any best-seller list. But the fact that so many Texans are in the dark about their own insurance coverage should be a cause for concern," said Amy Johnson, the state's public insurance counsel.

According to a new Texas Poll, only half the respondents had read their automobile or homeowners insurance policies. Sixty percent of college graduates who had read the policies said they were difficult to understand, Ms. Johnson said.

"Almost all of those who didn't read their policy - 85 percent - said they relied on their agents to ensure that their coverage was adequate," she said.

But Ms. Johnson warned that consumers who don't read or understand their policies could learn too late that their coverage isn't adequate. For example, homeowners coverage purchased 20 years ago may not cover the current market value of a house.

She said the poll also indicates that many drivers are unsure whether their insurance company rates are regulated by the state.

While Ms. Johnson estimated that about 15 percent of drivers are insured through county mutual companies, which aren't regulated and often charge much higher rates while serving higher risk drivers, only 3 percent of those polled said they were in county mutuals.

"Finally, the poll indicates that a lot of people still don't shop around for the best insurance rates and coverage," she said. "More than a third of Texans polled said they had talked to only one agent before buying their current policies."

Jerry Johns, an insurance industry spokesman, said the low number of people who read their policies is, something insurers have tried to reverse by making the documents easier to read.

"Insurers have gone to great lengths to simplify policies where everyone can read them," Johns said. "They encourage policyholders to read their policies even before they have a claim."

FSS defines 1994 goals at meeting

Family Support Services/Hereford (also known as Domestic Violence/Rape Crisis Services) met recently to define goals for 1994 and to discuss ways to meet those goals.

The Nov. 18 meeting included Family Support Service administrators and local volunteers. The session was led by Sally Manning, executive director of the Panhandle Center for Non-Profit Management.

The strategic planning session resulted in the formation of four goals for the local organization: to develop a cohesive board and group of volunteers; to increase public awareness; to develop fundraising activities; and to provide as many services locally as possible.

The services which the organization provides are often dependent upon a large group of trained volunteers.

"Those who work with FSS must have a special commitment to the community," said Faye McGee, coordinator for the Hereford FSS. "They must be the special type of caring individual who is able to empathize with others and able to work in areas of great confidentiality."

Family Support Services is currently restructuring its advisory council as well, and is seeking volunteers in several areas.

For more information, call McGee at 364-7822.

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — Ginger Rogers dipped into her past to help a theater survive the future.

The movie star returned to Craterian Theater, a stage she first graced in 1926, when she was a 14-year-old member of a vaudeville troupe. Rogers returned to the theater for a fund-raiser by a group that wants to turn it into a performing arts center.

Rogers, 81, was serenaded by a male chorus and took questions from the invitation-only audience on Sunday night. Shown on the big screen were Rogers' 1942 film, "Roxie Hart," and a clip from the 1938 film, "Carefree."

Language discussed by guest speaker

"Words To Motivate Us" was the program presented by Dr. Robert W. Wylie when members of Bay View Study Club met Nov. 18 in the home of Mrs. Bob Josserand, 333 Centre.

The speaker is professor emeritus and writer at Amarillo College. He said, "Language can influence our actions. Songs, poetry and books can show us truth, nobility, justice, purity and loveliness."

Dr. Wylie also gave examples from great poets. He quoted from the Frenchman Tallegand who in 1825 wrote, "Black as the devil. Hot as hell. Pure as an angel. Sweet as love." This was a recipe for coffee.

Dr. Wylie writes a weekly column in an Amarillo paper titled "Word for Word."

Members present were Mmes. Charlie Bell, J.A. Burran, G.D. Caison, Pete Caviness, Bill Davis, Wes Fisher, Alton Fraser, D.N. Garner, Don Graham, N.C. Safety rules for women topic of recent program

"Women on the Go" was the program presented by Joan Coupe of Hereford Travel Center when members of L'Allegre Study Club met Nov. 18 in the home of Diane Hoelscher with Carmen Flood serving as co-hostess.

Coupe gave some safety rules to be followed when women travel alone. She also described some of the new cruises that are available.

During the business meeting, the club donated to a medical fund which has been established for Kevin Henson.

Plans were discussed for the club's annual plant sale scheduled April 7, 1994. It was also announced that club members will be placing Project Christmas Card canisters throughout town. This annual project gives residents the opportunity to donate to a worthwhile cause and to have their names published in The Hereford Brand's special Christmas edition's full-page holiday greeting.

It was announced that a gazebo, which will be placed on the grounds at the Hereford Regional Medical Center, should arrive within the next couple of weeks. The platform and walkways have been poured and the plaque has been installed. A special dedication is planned in December. The gazebo was purchased from contributions received from last year's Project Christmas Card.

Those attending the meeting were Margaret Carnahan, Carmen Flood, Kitty Gault, Poppy Head, Diane Hoelscher, Sandy Josserand, Barbara Kerr, Sylvia Khuri, Joyce Lomas, Shelly Moss, Micah Noland, Karen Payne, Hilda Perales, Suzanne Smith, Dee Anne Trotter, Judy Wall and Jan Weishaar.

The highest temperature ever recorded in the world was 136 degrees Fahrenheit at El Azizia, Libya, on Sept. 13, 1922. The lowest was minus 129 F at Vostok, Antarctica, on July 21, 1983.

Fruitcakes can be modernized

By The Associated Press

What would the holidays be without fruitcake? Love it or hate it, this traditional dessert is a distinct part of the holiday season.

Even those who aren't fond of fruitcake can enjoy white fruitcake, a lighter, updated fruitcake created by Flo Braker, author of "The Simple Art of Perfect Baking."

"Fruitcake can be modernized for those who prefer a lighter texture and flavor," Braker said. "There's no rule that dictates how much fruit should be in a fruitcake." In her version, Braker uses pitted dates and other dried fruits instead of candied fruit.

White Fruitcake

For the fruit mixture:
8-ounce package pitted dates, halved

1-1/2 cups quartered dried figs, hard stems removed
1/2 cup golden raisins
1/2 cup quartered dried apricots
2 tablespoons cognac (optional)

For the cake batter:
2-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
2-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup (2 sticks) unsalted butter, softened

1-1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
5 egg whites, divided
1 cup milk
3 cups pecan halves
Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. Grease and flour two 9- by 5- by 3-inch loaf pans.

In a large bowl, combine fruits and cognac. Toss to blend. Cover and set aside for at least 1 hour or overnight.

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt; reserve.

Cream together the butter, sugar and vanilla until light and fluffy. Add two of the egg whites; beat until smooth. Add flour mixture alternately with the 1 cup milk, beating after each addition. Fold in fruit and nuts.

In a medium bowl, beat remaining egg whites until soft peaks form. Gently fold into batter. Spoon into prepared loaf pans. Bake in a 325-degree F oven for 1 hour 15 minutes to 1 hour 25 minutes, or until crust is golden brown and cake begins to pull away from the sides of the pan. Cool in pans for 10 minutes. Remove from pans; cool completely on wire racks. Wrap fruitcakes in plastic wrap and then foil. Refrigerate for up to two weeks. Freeze for longer storage. Makes 2 loaves.

Nominations being accepted until Dec. 17

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division is accepting nominations for Woman of the Year.

The Chamber of Commerce office will accept nominations until Dec. 17. For further information call 364-3333.

The song, "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen" is not an Irish ballad and was not written by an Irishman, but a Virginian.

Centuries ago England's King Henry III displayed leopards and a polar bear in the Tower of London, and James I baited his lions with dogs there, according to National Geographic.

QUESTION: Justin White, a fifth-grader at Shirley Intermediate School, asks, "You said that some animals are both male and female. How do they reproduce?"

ANSWER: The fact that some animals are both male and female is not so unusual when one considers that most flowers of plants have both male and female parts.

Hermaphrodite is the term used to describe an animal that has both male and female organs. Though these animals are hermaphroditic, they normally do not fertilize their own eggs. Such inbreeding would cause the species to eventually become weak; the ability to survive would degenerate and it would become extinct.

Examples of some hermaphroditic animals are:

-- The sponge. Yes, it is an animal. It produces its eggs and sperm at different times. The released sperm are carried by water currents to other sponges to fertilize the eggs. The sponge that released the sperm will receive sperm from another sperm at a later time to fertilize its eggs.

The starfish, or seastar, is usually separate sexes. However, a few species are hermaphroditic. They release their eggs, as many as 2,500,000, and sperm into the water where fertilization takes place.

The planarian, a flatworm that lives in streams, exchanges sperm with another planarian. The sperm fertilizes a capsule of about 10 eggs. The capsule is then released by the worm and attaches itself to a twig or other object in the water until the eggs hatch.

The tapeworm, also a flatworm, is a parasite that lives in the intestines of animals such as dogs, cats and humans. It is made up of many body segments called proglottids, which are actually egg factories. Since this worm does not have a digestive system, it absorbs digested food through its skin to nourish these factories. The male organs develop first.

When two or more worms exist in the host, cross-fertilization occurs. When a lone worm exists, self-fertilization can occur by a folding process whereby sperm from a young proglottid in front fertilizes the eggs of a more mature proglottid in the rear. Each proglottid may contain as many as 100,000 eggs.

The earthworm, which is a segmented worm, that we are familiar with, exchanges its sperm with another earthworm and stores it until the eggs are laid. The eggs are then fertilized externally as they are captured in a slime ring that forms around them. This slime ring becomes a capsule from which the new earthworms will emerge.

The hagfish, bottom dwellers in cold ocean water, produce eggs one season and sperm the next. Hence, it cannot self-fertilize. The eggs of one fish and the sperm of another are released into the water and left to their own means to find each other.

Even the protozoan, one-celled organisms which reproduce by cell division (fission), often exchange genetic information with another of its kind. This process, called conjugation, is practiced by the paramecium, a common protozoan found in fresh water. By exchanging DNA, the new generation will be different from its ancestors.

Whether an animal is only male or female, or hermaphroditic, nature has found a way for it to reproduce after its own kind. The more man understands about the process, the better we can practice environmental conservation and ensure the survival of more animal species.

Safety program given for club

Mary Lou Aven served as hostess when members of the Family and Community Education Wyche Club met recently in her home.

Club members, Carol Sartain, Clara Trowbridge and Louise Axe, were introduced by Argen Draper to give the program. Sartain talked about "Traveling Healthy"; Trowbridge spoke about a "Parking Lot Survival Guide"; and Axe talked about "New Safety Rules for the 90s." During the business meeting, club members discussed their Christmas party planned Dec. 16 at K-Bob's Steak House. There will be a gift exchange.

Elizabeth Cook and Goldie Griffith were welcomed as visitors.

The next regularly scheduled meeting is Jan. 6, 1994.

Aven gave the opening exercise entitled "Women's First." Roll call was answered by members giving safety tips. The T.E.H.A. prayer was recited and pledges to the United States and Texas flags were said.

Members present were Mary Lou Aven, Thelma Auten, Louise Axe, Vada Batterman, Shirley Brown, Argen Draper, Virgie Duncan, Camelia Jones, Jo Lee, Marie Maxwell, Coreen Odom, Pet Ott, Carol Sartain, Mary Stubblefield, Clara Trowbridge and Moveda Busby.

Seattle Dancer, a son of Nijinsky II, was purchased as a yearling in 1985 for a record $13.1 million.

Pageant is rescheduled

The Miss Top of Texas Pageant, which had been planned this month, has been rescheduled for Jan. 15, 1994.

Applications are still being received for the event and must be turned in by Dec. 2. They are available at Brown Graham and Co., 218 W. Third.

Carving turkey can be easy

By NANCY BYAL, Food Editor
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine
For AP Special Features

Do you avoid carving that spectacular roasted bird because it might look more butchered than carved? Relax. Graceful carving is an art you can easily learn. The key to it all is to begin with a sharp carving knife (or an electric knife for ease and speed). Then follow these step-by-step directions.

Step 1: After removing the bird from the oven, let it stand for 15 to 20 minutes before carving. Cover it with foil to keep warm. This standing time lets the flesh get firm, so the meat is easier to slice and the slices hold together better.

Step 2: Place the bird on a carving board. If the bird is stuffed, remove the stuffing; cover to keep warm. Then, grasp the tip of one drumstick with your fingers and pull the leg away from the body. Cut through the skin and meat between the drumstick-thigh piece and the body. This exposes the joint where the thighbone and backbone connect. With the tip of the knife, disjoint the thighbone from the backbone by cutting through the joint. Repeat on the other side.

Step 3: To separate the thigh and drumstick, cut through the joint where the leg and thigh bones meet.

Repeat on the other piece.

Step 4: Hold the drumstick vertically by the tip with the large end down resting on the cutting board. Slice the leg meat parallel to the bone and under some tendons, turning the leg to get even slices. Next, slice the thigh meat by cutting slices parallel to the bone. Repeat with the remaining drumstick and thigh. This step applies only to large birds. The legs and thighs of small birds may be served whole.

Step 5: Before carving the breast meat, make a deep horizontal cut into the breast above each wing. This cut will be the end point of the breast meat slices.

Step 6: Beginning at the outer edge of one side of the breast, cut slices from the top of the breast down to the horizontal cut. Make the slices thin and even. Final smaller slices can follow the curve of the breastbone. Repeat on the other side of breast.

Step 7: Remove wings by cutting through the joint where the wing bone and backbone meet. Voila, your bird is ready to serve!

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: Today is Thanksgiving, and I have so much to be thankful for. Close to the top of the list are my loyal readers, who don't complain if I coast a little now and then and repeat a letter from the past.

Today's column ran in 1982. I want to wish a happy Thanksgiving to one and all. And now I ask those who have a lot to be thankful for not to forget the less fortunate among us—not only today, but every day.

Here's the re-run:
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a dozen problems I could lay on you right now, but instead of handing you a skull-cracker, I am going to write a different kind of letter and ask you to run it on Thanksgiving Day.

Thank you for having the courage to provide a forum for every kind of human problem in language we can understand.

I have learned so much from you about incest, alcoholism, homosexuality, drug abuse, high blood pressure, early cancer detection, depression, kinky sex, how to handle pushy neighbors, nosy relatives, book borrowers, free-loading relatives and drunk house guests. You even gave me the nerve to tell folks to MYOB when they got too personal.

Thank you for being brave enough to take a stand on issues that most people wouldn't touch with a 40-foot pole.

Thank you for traveling thousands of miles to talk to all kinds of groups and appear on TV shows. It must take a lot of energy, but it is certainly worth it. No one who sees you can doubt that you are sincere and committed to your work and that you really do care about the people who write.

Thank you for your terrific sense of humor. Some days, I walk around with a smile on my face for hours because of something you said. Certain lines from your columns have become part of the language. I hear you quoted in supermarkets, on buses and even from the pulpit. (Our pastor is a regular reader.)

Thank you for the comfort you have given to millions of people who think they are the only ones who have such crazy problems. You have made so many frightened, insecure folks feel "normal" and less alone. You made me see I was too hard on myself. I stopped being a perfectionist, and my migraines disappeared.

You have helped me do a better job of dealing with my husband, my mother-in-law, my neighbors, friends and—most of all—myself.

Have a happy Thanksgiving, dear lady. You deserve it.—A Staunch Supporter

DEAR S.S.: What a day-brightener! And now the next letter is exactly what I needed before my head got too big for the halo. It's from Miami.

DEAR (?) ANN LANDERS: You make me sick. Suck gall! Such conceit! Such arrogance! Such self-righteousness! You are never at a loss for an opinion. How can one person be so smart?

And your foolish face is everywhere! No matter where I travel, you're in the paper. Even in Tokyo. Please take early retirement and give the world a break.—Sick of You.

DEAR SICK: Thanks for the humbler. I needed that.

Make some great turkey recipes from leftovers

By The Associated Press

Leftover turkey simmers along with green chilies, cumin, oregano and cinnamon-scented white beans to make a hearty white chili that sports a holiday-colored garnish of tomato salsa, green cilantro and shredded Monterey Jack cheese.

You can also use leftover turkey as an ingredient in turkey tortilla pizzas. Toasted flour tortillas serve as the base for these delicious and colorful Southwestern-style pizzas.

Serve pumpkin chutney bread as an accompaniment to the white chili. This moist bread, flavored with canned pumpkin, pecans, mango chutney and dried apricots, also makes a delicious host or hostess gift.

The recipes were developed by cookbook author Sarah Leah Chase for the Butterball Turkey Talk-Line, a toll-free hotline (1-800-323-4848) staffed by home economists and nutritionists who answer questions about turkey preparation and food safety tips during the holiday season.

White Chili

1 pound dried small white beans, rinsed and picked over
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 large onion, minced
3 cloves garlic, minced
Two 4-ounce cans chopped green chilies

1 tablespoon ground cumin
1 tablespoon dried oregano
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Pinch cayenne pepper
8 to 10 cups canned chicken broth
4 cups leftover cooked turkey, cut into 1-inch pieces
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

1/2 pound shredded Monterey Jack cheese

Salsa (for garnish)
Sour cream (for garnish)
Minced fresh cilantro (for garnish)

The night before, place beans in a large pot, cover amply with cold water and let soak overnight. Drain the beans the following day.

Heat the oil over medium-high heat in a large pot. Sauté the onion until soft and translucent, about 10 minutes.

Stir in the garlic, chilies, cumin, oregano, cinnamon and cayenne; sauté 3 minutes more.

Add the beans and 8 cups of the chicken broth. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer until the beans are tender, 2 to 3 hours. If the mixture seems too dry at any point, add additional chicken broth.

Stir in the leftover turkey. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Just before serving, stir in 1/2 cups of the shredded cheese. Cook until melted, 1 to 2 minutes.

Ladle the chili into bowls. Garnish with the remaining cheese, salsa, sour cream and cilantro. Serve immediately. Makes 7 servings.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Hollywood's pretty woman is about to become a camel-riding Australian adventuress.

Julia Roberts has the lead in "Tracks," a movie based on the history-making camel ride across Australia's outback by Robyn Davidson.

"Julia is looking forward to playing a woman whose spirit and determination carried her across a continent," Roberts' agent, Elaine Goldsmith, said Monday.

Roberts' other credits include "Pretty Woman," "Steel Magnolias," "Sleeping With the Enemy" and "Dying Young."

Shaq sparks Magic win; Rockets start season 10-0

By The Associated Press

Shaquille O'Neal and Chris Webber, fellow No. 1 picks who could have become teammates, were not supposed to guard each other.

O'Neal, after all, is 7-foot-1 and 300 pounds, while Webber is 6-9 and 250 pounds.

But a foot injury to center Victor Alexander forced Golden State coach Don Nelson to pair Webber with O'Neal in their first meeting since Webber was drafted No. 1 by Orlando last June and then traded to the Warriors.

The result was a mismatch that O'Neal exploited to lead the Magic to a 120-107 victory Tuesday night.

"That's not the way we wanted to play the game," Nelson said. "We wanted to have Alexander play him, but you've got to take whatever you have. Alexander wasn't available. So that's the way it is."

O'Neal scored 28 points and Nick Anderson 24 for the Magic, who used a 15-0 run to take control in the fourth quarter. Webber finished with 13 points and 10 rebounds.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Washington 118, Charlotte 98; Atlanta 103, the Los Angeles Lakers 94; the Los Angeles Clippers 105, Dallas 98; Houston 100, Chicago 93; and Portland 109, Denver 94.

Billy Owens and Latrell Sprewell led the Warriors with 18 points apiece.

Anfernee Hardaway, the Orlando rookie whose rights were traded for Webber's, had 23 for Orlando, which rallied from a 16-point deficit in the second quarter to trail 55-54 at the half. O'Neal started the comeback with a dunk and had six points during a 10-2 burst to close the second period.

Thanksgiving Day game 'big NFL gift' to Cowboys

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Bill Bates believes the Thanksgiving Day game in Texas Stadium is one of the greatest gifts Pete Rozelle ever gave the Dallas Cowboys.

"It gives us a big advantage, there's no doubt about it," said the Cowboys special teams star who has played in a decade of the turkey day games. "The NFL couldn't have done us a bigger favor."

The Miami Dolphins had the difficult chore today of traveling on a short week to Texas Stadium for the 3 p.m. kickoff against the Cowboys, who had extra practice time and more rest.

"It's a definite advantage for the home team," said Miami coach Don Shula, who is 2-0 in Thanksgiving Day games. "It's a short work week and we have to fly to Dallas."

The Cowboys own a 17-7-1 record on Thanksgiving Day and have won the last three years under coach Jimmy Johnson.

"It gives us a little edge," said Johnson. "It would be even a bigger edge if we were coming into this game off a win. We're coming into it off a loss and we don't have time to correct our mistakes. We'd rather have time to put those little seeds of doubt to rest."

Shula's Dolphins beat Tom Landry's Cowboys 14-7 in 1973 on Thanksgiving Day. Miami also downed St. Louis 55-14 on Thanksgiving in 1977.

"I know I'd hate to travel to another stadium to play on such a short week," Bates said. "I think it's real important to be home on a short work week. Teams have a tendency to get tired."

The Cowboys got the Thanksgiving date when former club president Tex Schramm worked a deal with Rozelle. The Cowboys are now the second game of a doubleheader behind the old traditional matchup featuring the Detroit Lions and a visiting team.

"I always thought it helped us," Schramm said. "We took the game when none of the other clubs would go for it. Now, it's a tradition to be in Dallas on Thanksgiving."

Livestock, wildlife suffer in weather's winter blasts

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Fair skies and mild weather will give way to wintry rains Thursday and Friday, creating hardships for livestock and wildlife across the state, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Jon Zeidler, meteorologist at the National Weather Service Agricultural Service Center in College Station, said that a low pressure system will move out of the Rockies Wednesday, bringing widely scattered showers.

"Rain will spread across most of the state Thursday and Friday with snow and possible freezing rain in the northern third of the state," Zeidler said.

Very cold air will blow through some parts of the state Friday, keeping high temperatures below 40 degrees in the northern half of Texas. Lows will drop to single digits in the Panhandle, and hit the 20s and low 30s in the rest of Texas, he said.

Precipitation will be near normal (14 inch to 12 inch) over most of the state, but some locations in the Upper Coast and in East Texas may see more than one inch of rain by Sunday morning, he added.

This system could make conditions miserable for cattle in the Panhandle, said Paul Gross of Amarillo, district Extension director.

A lot of stocker cattle have been moved into the area from the southeastern United States to graze on wheat pastures through the winter. Since they are not acclimated to colder weather, high winds and freezing rain could bring some death losses, he said.

"This (weather) system comes at a very bad time," he said.

Dr. Frank Craddock, Extension sheep and goat specialist in San Angelo, said most of the sheep and Angora goats in that area of the state should weather the cold fairly well.

Dale Rollins, Extension wildlife specialist in San Angelo, said deer in West Central Texas are still in pretty good shape, although they are beginning to lose some weight with the onset of winter and loss of forage.

District Extension directors reported these conditions in the following regions across the state:

PANHANDLE: Soil moisture is adequate to short. Livestock good; supplementation continues. Stockers being placed on wheat fields. Cotton harvest progressing; some wet field delays. Sorghum harvest near complete. Wheat crop providing good grazing.

SOUTH PLAINS: Soil moisture short. Supplementing livestock. Wheat, rangelands stressed for moisture. Cotton 85-90 percent harvested; yields, quality good. Grain sorghum harvest 95 percent complete. Beet harvest continues. Harvesting pecans.

ROLLING PLAINS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Livestock good; supplemental feeding continues. Heavy cotton harvest continues. Wheat planting near complete. Peanut harvest 90 percent complete; yields, quality excellent. Pecan crop damaged by freeze.

NORTH TEXAS: Soil moisture surplus to adequate. Cool season pastures good. Winter grasses progressing slowly. Small grains showing excellent growth. Cotton needs dry weather to harvest. Wheat planting near complete. Pruning fall peaches.

EAST TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Livestock good; hay supplies short. Good progress in winter pastures. Cotton 100 percent harvested. Wheat conditions generally good. Gardening limited to cole crops, greens. Pecan harvest better than expected.

FAR WEST TEXAS: Soil moisture very short to surplus. Livestock good; supplementation continues. Hay supplies short. Cotton fair to good. Cucumber harvest continues; controlling weeds. Sixty-five percent pecan crop lost to spring hail. Homeowners raking leaves.

School awards

Attorney general's effectiveness attacked

AUSTIN (AP) - State District Judge Pat Lykos, a Republican running for attorney general, says she believes the office can do more than try lawsuits.

"The attorney general, more than any other state official, can have an immediate impact and a greater effect on public safety, on education, the illegitimacy rate, government spending and our quality of life," she said.

"Being attorney general of this state is not running a large law firm. It is to defend the people," Ms. Lykos said in launching her campaign Tuesday.

She called Democratic incumbent Dan Morales ineffective, saying that if elected she would immediately seek to lift some terms of the settlement of the long-running Ruiz prison reform lawsuit.

"If we had effective representation, we would not be in the shape that we are today," she said. "The Texas attorney general must take the lead in this fight, and that means no more cutting deals with convicts or their lawyers."

But Ron Dusek, a spokesman for Morales, said the attorney general opposed an initial settlement as proposed by the prison board because it was too lenient.

Dusek said the agreement eventually worked out ended the litigation after 22 years, gave the state control over its prisons again and provided for tents and other alternative housing of inmates in some circumstances.

"The attorney general had to fight very hard for the settlement that we eventually obtained," Dusek said. "Basically, it gives total control back to the state."

Although most of the state attorney general's duties involve civil law, Ms. Lykos said she believes the office can be used in more law enforcement functions.

According to her campaign biography, Ms. Lykos has been a district judge in Houston since 1981.

She joined the Houston police department in 1963, rising to the rank of detective before leaving the department in 1970. She received a bachelor's degree from the University of Houston in 1967 and a law degree from the South Texas College of Law in 1971. She worked for two years as a criminal justice planner for the Houston-Galveston Area Council and also served as a Harris County court-at-law judge.

According to Texas GOP officials, at least two other judges are planning to seek the party's attorney general nomination in the March 1994 primary: John Marshall of Dallas and Don Wittig of Houston.

Ms. Lykos said she would seek to house up to 20,000 prison inmates in tents, an action she said would both save money and time compared with building additional prisons.

She also promised to initiate reforms in the juvenile justice system and to take stronger action to enforce child support payments.

"If we don't do something about the street children of today, they will become the asphalt barbarians of tomorrow," she said.

U.S. Rep. Geraldine A. Ferraro of New York won the 1984 Democratic nomination for vice president by acclamation at the party's convention in San Francisco.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.
