CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A robot weatherman was hurled into orbit around the earth today and promptly started sending back data that may contribute greatly to forecasting.

The scientific package was put up from this missile test center at 6:40 a.m. EST.

Two hours later in Washington, National Aeronautics and Space Administration said reports were coming back from it.

Radio observations had been sent out so that pictures could be taken of the earth's cloud cover as it swung overhead, and to transmit them back.

Dr. Keith Giffman, NASA director, told a reporter information had been received, but the agency was not yet certain whether it consisted of photographs of the cloud cover.

"We are hopeful that they are pictures," he said, "but whether they are or not we don't know at this point."

He added, "I don't want any nonsense about pictures until we know whether or not we have pictures."

Dr. Hugh Dryden, assistant director of NASA, told a reporter it was hoped that pictures of the cloud cover might be available later in the day at which time they would be released by the White House.

Dr. Abe Silverstein, director of space flight projects for NASA, said the satellite had achieved an orbit fairly close to the one originally planned for it, which would be a circle of about 280 miles from the earth.

Silverstein added that the satellite was injected into its orbit at an angle within three or four degrees of a degree of that planned for it.

The space agency said the orbit actually achieved would take the satellite 4354 miles from the earth at its farthest point.

NASA said all the experiments were "currently working and we expect to obtain data from it."

Asked whether the satellite had obtained any picture information, Silverstein said, "We do not have pictures yet that you could consider to be pictures, but we expect to have them."

He explained that the ground stations have interrogated the satellite but it takes time to interpret the results. He said that "all we have yet are some dots, but there's a good chance we might have pictures today."

The new satellite was officially named Tiros I.

It carried cameras designed to photograph the earth's cloud cover and relay them back, providing data which scientists hope will help in forecasts of such weather phenomena as hurricanes.

Scientists emphasized that the first effort is experimental, mainly to test work out techniques for truly operational launchings later.

But the 270-pound package of instruments is itself equipped to do an operational job in a limited field and the weather bureau's chief scientist said there is a long shot chance its findings might contribute to current forecasts.

The scientist, Dr. Harry Wexler, said the plan is to check weather indications radiated back from Tiros I against what actually develops a day or so later. If such "dry run" work out actually, later findings may be employed in real forecasts in exceptional circumstances such as the development of big storms.

Wexler, one of the first scientists to advocate weather satellites, said they "promise possibility to be the biggest means of improving weather forecasts that have developed for generations."

For experimental purposes, Tiros I was put into an orbit planned to swing only as far north as Montreal, Canada, and south over Santa Cruz, Argentina. Later models, with more instruments, are to be rocketed into polar orbits to survey all earth as the planet spins below.

The satellite itself is a package shaped like an oversized bathtub, 42 inches in diameter and 19 inches high. It bears solar cells to recharge its batteries, and radio antenna to receive orders for taking pictures, and transmitting them back to earth.

The new satellite was carried up by a giant Thor-Able rocket.

THE OLD MAKES WAY FOR THE NEW—Looking mighty pleased with her new license plates is Sharon Jones, 3004 Fortieth Street, as she boldly made the deadline for tag changing Thursday night. There were quite a few people around Snyder squeezing the last penny out of the 1959 tags and there are still cars with old plates running the streets on this day of grace allowed by the state of Texas where the old may meet the new without penalty. WHAT IS YOUR PROBLEM?—That was the question posed Thursday night as representatives of five area schools met here to discuss objectives of the junior high school program. McCallum, left, Snyder superintendent, and Dr. Berlie Fallon of Texas Tech. (Stoff Photo by Gerry Burton).

Junior High School Program Discussed In Session Here

Purposes and objectives of the junior high school composed the topic of discussion at an informal session of administrators and board members from five area schools here Thursday night.

Represented at the session, which was held in the Stanfield Elementary School, were school systems in Big Spring, Sweetwater, Andrews, Colorado City and Snyder.

Various problems in the junior high schools were discussed, while some representatives reported on changes contemplated in their respective systems.

The session was climaxed when the group agreed to request the West Texas Study Council, a regional research organization, to make a comprehensive survey of junior high schools. Although details will be mapped by a committee, the group Thursday night indicated that information will be sought on composition of the junior high school program as it exists today, plus expressions from school officials as to what they would like to accomplish in the junior high school.

All representatives attending the session here indicated that their respective junior high schools are faced with tremendous scheduling problems. Some expressed belief that if trends continue it will be necessary to inaugurate a seven-period school day at the junior high level, or else limit the curriculum and school-related activities.

Representatives of two schools reported that they planned a departure from previous practices concerning some activities in their junior high schools.

Andrews, for example, plans to eliminate all travel for seventh and eighth grade school groups. This will include such groups as athletic teams, music groups, etc. The Andrews system plans to begin a four-year, high school, with the ninth grade moving into high school, while the junior high will include the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Supt. Floyd Parsons of Big Spring said the school system there plans to eliminate interschool athletics for seventh graders. If there are seventh graders with sufficient interest and ability, they will be permitted to try out for eighth grade teams. Parsons said.

The trend now is toward elimination of enrichment exercises at the junior high level, the group noted. Most of the schools represented at the session already have done so.

It was the consensus of the group that there is a strong possibility that many students are becoming "burned out" on some school activities before they reach high school.

Dr. Berlie Fallon of Texas Tech, who also is secretary of the West Texas Study Council, said "at in the session, the group authorized him to reduce the number of enrichment activities to a minimum, a solution in some of the problems could be developed."

The five schools represented at the meeting here, along with those in Lamesa and Seminole who were unable to send representatives to the session, will each furnish a member of a committee to develop survey instruments for the council.

East Texas City Becomes Armed Camp

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK
MCHALL, AP.—This East Texas city became an armed camp today as hundreds of police officers gathered in the downtown section in anticipation of a march by Negro students.

Three groups of students, some of them trained in personal combat, were brought to the court-house square and were exercised there by handlers. The dogs were restrained by strong leashes.

Students at nearby Wiley and Bivins colleges have not publicly stated their plans. They held meetings which lasted until midnight and word spread the demonstrations would be resumed today.

More officers moved into Marshall and nearby cities. Officers who patrolled the outskirts during the night were brought to the downtown area.

The Woolworth dime store, one of the targets of sit-in demonstrations last week, roped off its lunch counter and posted a sign reading "closed until further notice."

Appearance of the dogs at mid-morning broke the uneasy calm which has prevailed for two days. A man who brought two of the dogs said they were brought to Marshall by the sheriff of Angelina County at the request of the governor's office. The man did not give his name.

The other dog was brought by a Longview man who said he was making it available to police officers.

Texas Ranger Captain Bob Crowder was asked if the dogs would be used against Negro students.

"They are beautiful dogs," Crowder replied. "They belong to the men who brought them."

Reminded that he was the captain in charge of Rangers here for a week-long racial crisis, Crowder laughed and declined further comment.

County officials and law officers conferred in the courthouse. No public announcement was made but it was understood they discussed whether or not to allow the Negro students to leave the college campuses.

Six Persons Die In Fire

LYNNHAVEN, Va. (AP)—Two women and four children died early today in a fire swept from a home on Virginia's coast.

Firemen said the fire burned only slightly, apparently suffocated. The children ran off in age from 18 months to 5 years.

Victims were Mrs. J. C. Bohlander and two of her five children, and Mrs. Daniel Bohlander, a sister-in-law, and her two children. The husbands, both Navy men, were away at the time. The Daniel Bohlander family was visiting.

Mrs. J. C. Bohlander, oldest child, a boy of 5, survived the fire. Authorities said he was sleeping downstairs and discovered the flames.

He ran upstairs and tried unsuccessfully to rouse his sleeping children, who then raced to a neighbor's home to summon help.

White Police Fire On African Crowd

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—White police fired today on an African crowd marching on a big city's jail. First reports said three Negroes were killed and three wounded.

The column of blacks which reached the jail marched down West Street, the main street of Durban, South Africa's third largest city.

As the mob marched, shouting freedom slogans and waving the South African flag, they were fired upon by police. Witnesses said they saw marchers being hit by tear gas and fired upon by police.

It was the most serious scene Durban has experienced in the current racial crisis.

Today's marches started after a riotous day and night in Africa can settlements, straggling from Cape Town through the Atlantic and Indian Ocean port cities of

Britain May Veto Rebuke

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain was reported today to have vetoed members of the U.N. Security Council it planned to veto a resolution taking South Africa to task for its racial policies.

This word came from diplomatic sources at the 11-nation Council, which approached a vote on the proposal submitted late Thursday by Ecuador. The resolution had the backing of the Asian and African nations.

There was no immediate comment from the British delegation.

It was agreed here that a veto probably would result in a quick emergency meeting of the 23-nation General Assembly to deal with the turmoil growing out of the South African segregation policies.

As the showdown in the council neared, violence continued in South Africa. One Negro was shot dead by police Thursday night, three others were wounded and five policemen were injured.

Sporadic clashes broke out around Johannesburg as police charged bands of Negro demonstrators who stoned trains, streets and private automobiles.

The South African government has challenged the right to intervene in its delegate, Bernardus Gerhardus Fourie, was to lead off today's debate in the Security Council. It was expected he would insist again that the race troubles are an internal matter.

Earlier, the council after the resolution, the African bloc demanded the U.N. consider the situation stemming from the slaying of 72 Negro and police demonstrators by South African police May 21.

Ecuador's resolution would have the council "call upon" South Africa to abandon its policies of apartheid, segregation and race discrimination.

New Try Made For Natural Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new push is under way to get action on a natural gas bill in the Senate at Congress. Prospects appear remote.

Even the gas people behind the thrust concede headway will be difficult.

They are going right ahead with their plans, despite lack of much encouragement from oil state congressmen. Many of these legislators have said they see little chance for action this year despite President Eisenhower's recent pledge of support.

These hopes, however, somewhat dimmed by the President's words. Representatives of independent natural gas producers met in Dallas this week and agreed on the main points of a bill to do away with utility-type regulation of independent producers by the federal government.

"We will press forward in order to obtain its consideration and approval in the Congress," said Alvin Hope of San Antonio, president of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America.

The gas people who drafted the bill make up a special committee of the association. The next step, they explained, is to get the industry's approval of the proposed legislation.

Minor Jameson Jr., IPAA vice president and a Washington spokesman, said, "There is every reason to pursue our program vigorously and persistently, despite the difficult problems involved."

Eisenhower's expression of support was given in a letter to Rep. Page Brecher (R-Okla.), in response to a request from Brecher for a presidential message to Congress calling for such legislation.

The President said he saw little point in such a message at this time but added he is "ready and willing to support this legislation in this session with full vigor if there is control of Congress give some indication that they will join in the effort."

The proposed IPAA bill is said to exempt all functions of the independent gas producer, including pipelines and contracts, from utility-type regulation.

PHARR (AP)—The cotton planting deadline in the Lower Rio Grande Valley has been extended a week.

Midnight Thursday previously was the deadline, but Department of Agriculture spokesmen said it had been extended until midnight April 1 for one day.

The time extension includes Cameron County and parts of Hidalgo, Starr and Willacy counties.

Census Taker Calls On Ike

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower met the census taker today for the first time in his life. He reportedly said that he has a bathtub hot and cold water, and doesn't pay rent.

To kick off the big house-to-house head count, two census takers called at the White House shortly after breakfast.

They picked up "long" and "short" executive the required information about the Eisenhower family and the only other regular White House resident, Mrs. Eisenhower.

For a 14-year-old maid, Rose Woods,

When the enumerators entered his office, Eisenhower looked up and said, "I wonder if they've started a pool all over the nation on the number of people in the census?"

The residents were counted by Louis Alexis, the district census supervisor for Washington, assisted by Census Director Robert H. Burgess.

In the 1950 census, former President Harry S. Truman was counted by a rank-and-file enumerator.

Recalling his long Army career, the President said he assumes his various post commanders must have filed previous census reports on him and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The census takers were in the President's office about five minutes—the length of time which many estimates should be the average for such a call.

Alexis accepted from the President a filled-out advance questionnaire filling the required data but did not transcribe it into the official census records. He will do the transcribing later.

Although information given to the census taker is kept confidential, the law the White House made public Eisenhower's census

It showed there are 132 rooms in the executive mansion, that the building has a flush toilet "for the use of this household only," a bathtub and hot and cold running water.

According to the report, the kitchen equipment is also exclusively for the use of the household. Eisenhower reported that the building is "occupied without payment of cash rent."

The President also reported that as far as he knows, or is aware of, there are no vacant apartments or vacant rooms for rent in the building or elsewhere on the property.

Removal Of Butler Urged By Skelton

TEMPLE, AP — Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler is "inciting open rebellion within the party," a leading Texas Democrat charged Thursday night.

Texas Democratic Committee Chairman Byron Skelton said the only solution is to remove Butler from office.

He spoke at an 11th Congressional District rally of "young" supporters of Sen. Lyndon Johnson for president.

Skelton is a strong supporter of Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

He said Butler has "an attempt to settle the Johnson drive for the Democratic presidential nomination in favor of Sen. John Kennedy."

Skelton said Butler is "inciting open rebellion within the party."

Hints For Easter Egg Dying And Decorating

Coloring eggs at Easter is family fun. Children love it, particularly adding fancy or "funny" designs, and they should be a part of the activity. Doing Easter Eggs together makes for a fine family tradition to carry on for the years. All packaged egg dyes on the market are made according to U. S. Food & Drug Administration standards. The dyes are certified to be pure and are safe and harmless to use on eggs or in food. Neither will the dyes stain washable fabrics or fabrics, so Mother need have no fear if some are spilled. Just a few hints for getting best results:

Always use fresh, white eggs. Eggs that have been in storage or chemically treated to preserve them will not dye well. The eggs should be handwashed, of course, and the colors will be brighter if they are dried while still wet.

To prevent the shell from cracking in the water, pierce the rounded bottom end, not the pointed end, with a needle or pin. This releases pressure from a small air pocket located at the bottom of the egg which otherwise would crack the shell.

Do not let the eggs be unrefrigerated for too long a time, especially if they are to be used in sandwiches, salads or other dishes after the holidays.

For an attractive Easter centerpiece, arrange the colored eggs in a low bowl or basket. Encircle these with cute, animal figures made of colored handblown glass as place favors with names written across the eggs.

Coloring and decorative material for the eggs shown is available in Easter Egg Coloring Kits on sale at super markets, grocery, drug and five and ten cent stores everywhere.

Both boys will be ready to enter the ring here tonight in the County Barn, as Snyder, Lamesa, and Colorado City stage a series of inter-city bouts.

Local Boxers To Mix It Up Here Tonight

It's fight night once again in Snyder, as the Fowler Park County Barn is to be the scene tonight of a series of bouts involving boxers from Lamesa, Colorado City, and the host city of Snyder.

In a previous round of bouts against a group of boys representing both Lamesa and Loveland, Snyder's boxers looked highly impressive in soundly thumping them and losing only a single match in the process.

A copy of top Snyder boxers will be ready for action tonight. The biggest boys include Leon Deere (170), Weldon Duke (161), Abe and Reuben Gonzales (both 137-pounds), David McQuinn (135), Hollis Cox (152), and Adam Romero (112).

The younger warriors include Joe Costello (95), Jesse Costello (88), Martin Ramirez (85), Rudy and Freddie Ramirez (both 84), Bobby (85), Marco (77), Mayfield (85), and Ronnie Thomas (75).

The initial going will sound at 8 o'clock tonight, with admission prices being 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students.

The host community has a record of 25 shutouts in 44 games with the Montana Canadians in the 1924-25 National Hockey League season.

Former Detroit Tiger pitcher Stubby Overmire is managing the Durham Bulls of the Class B Carolina League.

GETS GRAND-SLAMMER

Jones' Bat Leads Tigers To Storm-Tossed Win

The weather wasn't suited to outdoor activity. But there was a wealth of it nevertheless, as the sand-encrusted Snyder Tigers blew over the dust-laden Big Spring Stars here yesterday in a marathonic baseball contest which continued the greater part of three hours.

The score was 15-12, as the Bengals spotted the visitors a big lead, then came back strong via the bat of pitcher Ronnie Jones to take the win. Jones' timely blows made the difference, as he strode to the plate only two times but made the most of it by driving in 8 big runs in breaking the Stars' backs. His first hit was a two-run single, then he capped off his performance by blasting a grand slam home run in a big sixth inning which saw the Tigers run a total of 10 tallies across the plate.

It was a little day, as a sand-infested gale blew out toward left-center throughout the contest, making extra-base hits out of the norm. Normally would have been routine.

The Stars' batsmen—Jimmy Rogers—hit four in marking up his 4-for-5 and drove in a total of 3 runs in the process. Big Spring jumped out to an early lead off the offering of starter Freddy Miller, as an error by Tiger shortstop Spencer Pope gave Big Spring a lead off the bat of Rogers.

A five-run fifth inning pushed Big Spring in a tie lead, as Tiger batsmen took their cuts before the Tigers could quell the uprising.

An error on a grounder to third sacker Bubba Fleming allowed Jimmy Kinman to occupy first after which Rogers left a sand-blown batter run over the left field barrier. Singles by Dunlap and Everett and a couple-bagger by pitcher Jerry Phillips accounted for the remaining three runs of the inning.

Tiger Tigers refused to roll over and they dead, as they rebounded to mark up a pair of runs in their half of the fifth. Moffett and Moore led off with free passes, after which a single by pitcher Bubba Fleming allowed Jimmy Kinman to occupy first.

ten on via a fielders choice. Roger led off the sixth with a triple and scored on a miscue by Free, so that going into the home half of the frame the Stars had chased 8 runs across the plate, one for each inning cavity, while the Tigers had none.

Which set the stage for the wild and woolly Tiger sixth. Dyer singled, Free guided first on an error by Kinman, and Moffett doubled down the first base line to score the initial run. Moore was clipped in the chest by a wayward delivery and Greenfield drew life on another Kinman bobble. Jerry Guthrie singled after which Keith Moffett was hit by a pitched ball, forcing in Moore. Then came Jones' crowning blow, as he pushed the bases-loaded homer over the left field fence to put the Tigers into a 13-10 lead.

advantage, which proved to be sufficient. Dyer's second single of the inning, a triple by Free, and an Everett error produced the final two runs of the inning, as Moore went down swinging to end the game.

Four walks relinquished by Jones coupled with a single by Roger, allowed the Tigers an additional four runs in the seventh, as the lights had to be switched on for the final out of the inning. The game was too much to close, though, and Snyder continued its mastery over the Stars by winning its fifth game in as many attempts.

"I Shall Keep This Lent"

"Lent" means spring. It is an old Latin word which means a fasting period next before Easter . . . a time for the conditioning of our soil and for our souls to become penitent. It means the spading up time, the season for planting seeds and blooming trees.

In the realm of the spirit it is a call to get ready for beauty and goodness.

Who of us is satisfied with what he has been or is? Then let us clear away the rubbish

. . . turn under the old stalks of last year's crop. May we learn from our Lord, to give ourselves during Lent to good meditation.

For the miracle of Lent is repentance leading to newness of life. Saint Mark said, "I shall keep this Lent, and hope to refresh my soul."

Ministers of all faiths and the community-minded firms below persuade you to read this Spiritual Values page and make it a part of your life . . . it is your heritage.
