Representative Reid Warns Against Drilling River Beds

SOUTHERN STATE IS ANXIOUS

Protection Against Salt and Oil Requested

AUSTIN, Oct. 1. (UP)—W. M. Reid, representative of Orange, Texas, charged before the house today that drilling in the Sabine river would result in liquidation costing more than the state could make.

He said a part of Louisiana draws water from the river and the war department has jurisdiction as to a navigable boundary of a stream.

He claimed that the most the state could make would be a million barrels.

Mayor J. P. Logan of Port Arthur, Charles Butler, city councilman of Beaumont and A. H. Boyd, president of the American Rice Growers association urged adequate means to protect the county from salt water and oil if the state drills.

WETS AND DRIES WATCH GRAPE BLOCK TRIAL

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 1. (UP)—Prohibition interest of the nation was focused on Kansas City today by the government's efforts to prove in court that sale of grape concentrates is in violation of the 18th amendment.

The case was on docket for trial beginning today at a special sitting of federal court. The specific charge is against the Ukiah Grape Products company.

Admittedly a test case of far-reaching importance, the suit is an outgrowth of a dry agent raid Jan. 17 on the branch office of the Ukiah company. Thrifty salesmen and Manager Albert E. Brunett were arrested on prohibition charges.

Brunett was bonded for trial. The salesmen were released.

Federal agents claimed the sale of the grape concentrates distributed by the company was a violation of the law, because the product was intended solely for use in the manufacture of intoxicating liquor.

The company countered with the contention that its business was legal, and pointed to the fact the unfertilized grape juice it sold was purchased from Fruit Industries, Inc., an organization of California grape growers, which has been given financial backing by the government. The company further claimed the manufacture of light wines in the home is not illegal.

W. L. Vandeventer, U. S. district attorney, and his assistant, T. J. Lawson, have worked long on the case. Vandeventer went to New York and took depositions from company officials there.

Twenty-two other criminal indictments just returned by the grand jury here will not come up for trial before the next term of court.

Four Wells for Ward County Pool

Four new wells are to be drilled by majors in the Stump pool opened three months ago in Ward county between the Grand Falls and T. P. pools. Locations have been made by Barnsdall, Prairie and Shell. Barnsdall will drill 330 feet from the northeast and southeast lines of section 28, block B-29, public school lands, which is an offset to Stump No. 1 Jones, a producer making about 125 barrels. Prairie is making two offset locations and Shell, an offset location. The only other producer is the Stump and Simms well, a half mile northeast of the No. 1 Jones in the same section, which is making about 174 barrels daily.

Sam Jenkins, cotton buyer of Snyder, was in Midland today on a business visit.

TRIAL OF GIRL PENDS RECOVERY OF HER HEALTH

ABILENE, Tex., Oct. 1. (UP)—Trial of Miss Leora Moxley for assault to murder has been postponed until Monday, Oct. 26. The defense motion for postponement was sustained after Dr. Scott Hollis, city and county health officer, had examined the girl and agreed with the defense doctor that she was suffering from a nervous disability which would prevent her appearance in court before the last of this month.

Miss Moxley is charged with the shooting of Buddie Rutherford, a hotel bellboy who was seriously wounded May 13 as he and Miss Moxley conferred with a lawyer in the attorney's office.

Party Is Narrowly Missed by Bottle From the Clouds

Christening of ships is not unknown to Mr. and Mrs. Pou Asperman and their small daughter, Patricia, Newport News, but this dropping of a bottle from the night sky near their automobile was a new experience to them.

They were driving on the Iatan Flats road, they explained, and stopped to change a wheel. Something fell in the road and smashed to pieces. No one was near and the offense could be laid only to a light that whisked across the sky to the accompaniment to a engine's roaring.

Asperman said the bottle missed the party several yards but that a department of commerce law should be passed regarding the throwing of fire-water around in the clouds, just as it did the tossing overboard of lit cigarettes.

LEFTY GROVES BEATS DERRINGER IN A 6-2 WORLD SERIES DUEL

Youthful Pitching Sensation of Red Birds Gives Way to Pinch Hitter; Grove Keeps 12 Hits Scattered

Once more the Mackmen, winners for the last two years of the world series, launched themselves into a series lead this afternoon when Mighty Lefty Grove bested the youthful Paul Derringer at St. Louis, 6-2.

A capacity crowd of 39,500 who jammed the park saw Grove give up an even dozen hits, yet keep them so well bunched that he was never in trouble except in the first inning, when the Cardinals took a two-run lead. He struck out seven men.

Derringer gave up 11 hits in eight innings, giving way in the eighth inning to a pinch hitter, Flowers.

Sylvester Johnson took over the assignment for St. Louis in the ninth. Derringer struck out eight and walked two men in his eighth innings.

Neither club erred during the game, and several electrical stops and catches were made.

The Cardinals scored two runs in the first inning on four singles. The Mackmen did not score until the third, when four hits, and two walks contributed to their scoring four runs.

Two more runs were made by the A's in the seventh when Simmons hit long ball over the left field stand, Cochrane coasting into the plate ahead of him.

The two clubs play again Friday in St. Louis, at 1:30 (c. s. t.).

A good crowd was gathered before the office of The Reporter-Telegram this afternoon while the game was played on the Play-O-Graph board. Each game of the series may be seen on this board. Dr. David M. Ellis, Jess Rogers and Herbert Rountree will assist in relaying the game.

GLORY OF AUTUMN

It is a little bit odd that spring is generally supposed to be more of a hopeful, restless and unsettling sort of season than autumn.

Nobody expects much of fall. It is a collection of melancholy days, it abounds with chilly rains and raw winds, and it has a funeral overtone that sets poets and other sensitive people beating their breasts. Spring, on the other hand—then the young men see visions and the old men dream dreams, and each man wants to leave the place where he is and go places where he has not been.

That, at any rate, is the tradition. But it doesn't jibe with the facts. Autumn has been fruitfully maligned. It is time justice was done. In most parts of the country, autumn provides the nicest weather of the whole year. Furthermore—since our moods depend so greatly on what the sun and wind and sky do to us—it is a time for visions and dreams, for the birth of new hopes and the revival of old ones; a season, in fact, which does most of the things spring is supposed to do much better than spring actually does them.

To be sure, autumn brings death and decay. But it works with greater artistry than spring, for it clothes all in the beauty of flaming woodland and misty field that is breath-taking; it reconciles us to them, it bemuses us and persuades us—as supremely great artists do—that death and decay are only preliminaries to a rebirth.

Its hazy air, too, carries a breath of vagabondage. A morning in May can incite one to truancy; but an October afternoon, when the corn-shocks stand in uneven rows like the teepees of an Indian encampment on a rolling field, is the time when the Red Gods are really astir. For then one perceives that the road to the end of the earth starts wherever one's feet happen to be, and there is apt to be just enough of a nip in the wind to delude a man into thinking he can walk as far as the spirit moves him.

And suppose that we are, too mundane to be stirred by such fanciful things? Well, in the mere matter of material comfort fall offers more than spring. Spring gets you ready for warm weather and then sprinkles snow on you. The "spring cold" is proverbial, and the bright days have an icy sting underneath the sunshine. Autumn is more honest. You expect the worst—and, very often, you get the best.

The old tradition needs revising. Autumn, once you get to understand it, is the best time of all the year.

PROTECTING OUR CRIMINALS

The New York detective who told the legislative investigating committee the other day that the police have been "protecting" a known murderer for five years may have provided a sensational item for the reading public, but his assertion was neither shocking nor incredible to any student of metropolitan affairs.

In all of the great cities of the land the tie-up between the underworld and politics is close. Influence of one kind and another keeps out of jail enough thugs to stock a good-sized penitentiary. The most notorious crook in town may be the man who enjoys the most influence with the law-enforcing machinery.

The dismaying thing, of course, is not this particular story about the protected murderer in New York; it is the fact that the story could not come as a surprise to anyone familiar with American city life.

DEPRESSION AND SPORTS

There is not much use in trying to pretend that the business depression isn't rather severe. Just the same, it is worth pointing out that the sports fans of the nation seem to be about as numerous and as flush as they ever were.

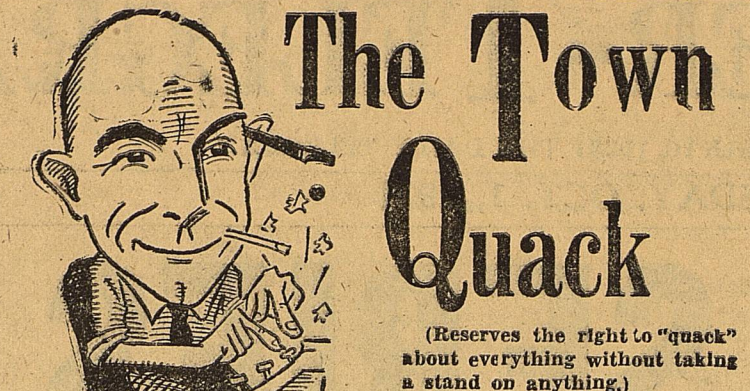

Big league baseball has enjoyed a prosperous summer, and more than 200,000 people have tried to buy seats for the world series. A number of huge college stadia are said to be sold out already for football games that will not be played for several weeks. Golf tournaments have drawn big crowds. Race tracks have prospered in various parts of the country.

Boxing, of course, has not done so well. But that may

Not being acquainted with all of the teachers, the first number I would call for a date would be 1028W or 1753. In the first case I would take a pal with me, and in the second I wouldn't have to bother with it because I think one date would be filled already.

One interesting feature of the list is that Coach Barry and Mrs. Barry live at the same address and have the same telephone number. Upon further investigation I notice that the same rule applies to Mr. and Mrs. Shrader.

Now, boys, if you go to telephone No. 889 you want to look around and see who's listening, because there are some married teachers there and you might get the wrong voice. You'd better watch too at 4551, although there are enough teachers there for you to admit your error and call for another one.

Well, I'd better stop this and get to work. Oh, I forgot. Operator, give me number 122, please. Hello, Bum there?

President Hoover Couldn't Restore Wine and Beer of He Wanted to, but An Executive Order Would Mark the Turning Point Away from Prohibition As It Is.

WASHINGTON.—Lots of people, judging from inquiries, are not sure whether President Hoover could restore beer and wine to the country by a mere executive order.

Of course he can't and only an act of Congress could make beer legal. But the wide attention being directed at the president in connection with the beer speculation is based on the fact that a strong declaration from him at this time would carry tremendous weight in Congress and through the country might definitely mark the turning point away from prohibition.

Neither house of Congress will pass any beer legislation during the next session unless Hoover demands it, and he is not expected to do so. Even if the president did come out for beer and urge Congress to restore it there is some room for doubt whether the House and Senate would fall over themselves in a rush to comply. The point is that White House intervention is the only thing that might cause legislation action in the near future.

The Volstead act could be modified by a majority vote, but each house is still regarded as approximately three-fourths dry. A call for beer from Hoover, because of the presidential influence and the fact that beer is now being demanded as an important step toward relieving depression, would be likely to whittle down the dry majorities considerably, although one can only guess as to how many votes it would affect. Members of Congress will vote for beer when they dare and not before.

The mere intimation that the president would be willing to sign a three per cent bill probably would have little if any effect on Capitol Hill. It would be necessary for Hoover, if he espoused the beer cause, and sought to get anywhere with it this winter, to mobilize sentiment through the country to help him and to announce his conversion in emphatic tones. There is plenty of pro-beer sentiment, but there is also still plenty of anti-beer sentiment and no one has yet been able to tempt Hoover to defy the latter.

Thus the likelihood is that all this beer talk as well as all the efforts to persuade the president will come to nothing.

There has been no similar situation in the history of prohibition, however, and one is bound to suspect a significance in the persistent beer agitation, which has appeared to become gradually stronger. The theory that beer would help bring back prosperity has been widely adopted and because everyone is

Helpful Health Suggestions

By Martha Bredemeier

Nursing Pays for Itself

Forty of Wisconsin's seventy-one counties are supplied with county health nurses. In Wisconsin the public health nurse has saved more than her salary in lives and in prevention of epidemics, reports the Crusader. Among the ways in which the nurses have aided the counties are listed:

The infant death rate has been cut both by prenatal care and by periodic inspection of babies and preschool children.

Epidemics have been prevented and controlled: their serious effects have been allayed. School attendance has been increased, and school expenses have been lowered by reducing the number of "repeaters" after health handicaps which retard the children were discovered and remedied.

The tuberculosis rate was decreased since the spreading of this disease was controlled by early discovery and treatment.

The efficiency of the sanatorium was increased owing to the follow-up work done by the nurses.

Other health agencies received valuable cooperation from the nurses.

PARIS, Oct. 1. (UP)—Would you believe that a bolt of wool crepe and one of silk could have the same parentage? We have blondes and brunettes in one family, though, so why not? It is the texture of the new wool crepes and silks that make them such close and agreeable kin.

You'd never think it to look at them, but one touch and you can tell beyond a doubt. A lovely new Scotchmohair wool comes from the looms of Paul Erlon, and in the dull purplish colors of green and a purplish blue to burgundy it makes perfect two and three piece ensembles.

"Nefriz" is a wool as light as crepe and has a granulated weave. "Diaghair" has a diagonal weave and a fuzzy surface—which account for its descriptive title. Pebbly wools are also smart, and the new wool crepe that confounds even the connoisseurs by its rough appearance and its soft "feel."

Until you make up your mind just what you want in your winter wardrobe choose first a wool suit and then a wool dress and you will be safe and warm and comfortable while you take stock of the appropriateness of other things.

LEADS IN ADULT EDUCATION

BERKELEY, Calif.—The U. S. citizen has a better chance to gain knowledge than natives of any other country in the world, Prof. Leon J. Richardson, director of the University of California's extension division, declares.

After a year's journey through Europe, where he made an extensive study of adult education, Prof. Richardson issues the following statement:

"In contradistinction to the limited adult educational facilities offered abroad, every state in the U. S. now offers extension courses in a variety of subjects. Extension courses are offered by 443 colleges and universities, compared with 75 ten years ago. Instruction by radio, library service, correspondence, visual instruction, class and lectures of various kinds, constitutes a few of the services offered in this country."

SPORTS REPORTS

By R. C. HANKINS

We were standing under the classic portal of the high school and a football man came out on the arm of his girl, singing something about fifty million Frenchmen can't be mistaken but that that many sports writers MUST be. Straightway we went to Coach Lingo and asked to see records on football men, hoping to find one or two of them set down on paper for a mistake or two. And we found them to our satisfaction. Bull McCall had just given his sex as "him."

Back in the dusty archives and closets are papers that date back for years. We'll give you the advantage of what we found, with the names of the responsible birds.

Baughen: The chief occupation of the natives of Perth is dying. . . . Blakeway: The Pyramids are a series of mountains between Spain and France. . . . Bonner: A mountain range is a cook stove in high altitude. . . . Booth: The North sea is called the German ocean, but they really don't think it is. . . . D. Booth: The Mediterranean and Red seas are connected by the Sewerage canal. . . . Loyd Burris (captain): Zanzibar is noted for its monkeys. The British governor lives there. . . . P. Burris: There are two stages in the life of a grasshopper, infancy and adultery. . . . Hallman: The dog was frightened, and bounded away, emitting whelps at every jump. . . . Collins: To pinch a butterfly you pinch its box. . . . Hawkins: Quinine is the bark of a tree, canine the bark of a dog. . . . Heard: Acrimony is another name for marriage. . . . Hill: Spoil the red, bare the child. . . . Hogsett: Tomnyon wrote a poem "In Memorandum". . . . King: Homer wrote "Odyssey". . . . Long, who had been asked to explain the passage, "The child is father to the man," replies: Shakespeare wrote it. He made several mistakes of that kind. . . . Midkiff: Milton wrote Paradise Lost and when his wife died he wrote Paradise Regained. . . . Murphy: Longfellow shot an arrow and several years later found it in the heart of a friend. . . . McCall: Job's troubles continued. Finally he had to live alone with his wife in the desert. . . . Parr: The flood came because there were so many dirty people. . . . Parrott: David played for Saul, but Saul kept his javelin handy. . . . Pinnell: Elisha arrayed himself in camel hair garments and stood before the king, crying out, "Behold, I am Elisha the tit-bit." . . . Prothro: Lions, giraffes, etc., would be animals peculiar to the arctic zone, but the seal, walrus, etc., live there. . . . Roberts: A sure footed animal is one that kicks and doesn't miss. . . . Sherrod: A life is a nest of young puppies. . . . Straughan: To collect fumes of sulphur, hold a deacon over a flame in a test tube. . . . Stanley: Hydrogen is not found in Ireland, as it is not discovered in a free state. . . . Wright: A preventative of typhoid is fascination. . . . Welch: A polygon of seven sides is a hooligan.

Joe Bean, mascot, had this to get off his chest: The Augustan era was a mistake August made.

Visitor Here Pays Penalty for Being Such a Small Man

He made a small fortune dictating to his wife—and virtually at his wife's command that he do so.

D. Domergue, Boston designer of women's clothes, used to bemoan his small stature which forced him to act as model for his wife while she fitted her dresses on his protesting frame.

Naturally he protested his humiliation at being found by his friends in such a guise, but his wife insisted. She was building up a small business making garments for women and he must help.

He became sarcastic. "This ruffie will make a woman look like a stalk of over-stuffed celery," he said on one occasion. But, instead of sticking him with a pin as was her custom when he fidgeted and squirmed, his wife surprised him by agreeing with him.

"I must have been an easy victim to flattery," he said while in Midland today en route to the west coast. "For I was pressed into the firm and now dictate every style that we issue."

But the designer has never been able to get entirely away from his wife's exploitation of him for a model, he said. "She made me try on a dress in Dallas when we spent the night there," he laughed. "She said it would be a penalty for her liking a design of a competitor's better than the frock I designed for her!"

Greatest Trades Day Expected

A large group of Martin county women in a social gathering at the Tom ranch were urged Wednesday by Mrs. Carl Covington, assistant chamber of commerce secretary, to come to Midland Saturday and lay in supplies of all kinds of goods so as to get as many tickets as possible for the last Trades day program of the year, to be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Saturday is expected to see the largest Trades day crowd ever assembled in Midland. Hundreds of people from surrounding towns are expected in great force. One prominent ranch woman who lives in the city was seen Thursday with about 500 tickets. People are stockpiling up on all kinds of supplies for several weeks in advance to get as many tickets as possible.

Player Has to Learn Slang

Learning jargon of the race track and the intricate art of "dealing from the bottom," "stacking the deck" and so forth is almost like going to school all over again.

At least, says Lew Cody, while filming "Sporting Blood," which opens tomorrow at the Ritz.

Lew "came home" to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, where most of his big successes were made, to play his first role there since his recent illness in "Sporting Blood," based on the Saturday Evening Post story "Horseflesh," by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan.

The role was that of Tip Scanlon, the gambling magnate. The script called for plenty of racing slang—not the slang one hears on the grandstand, but the slang of the inner circle of jockeys, trainers, horse owners and bookmakers. Also, he had to know the trickery of cards.

Speed Record Is 415 M.P.H.

LONDON, Oct. 1. (P)—A new world's record of 415 miles an hour Wednesday stamped flight Lieutenant G. H. Stainforth as the fastest man on wings.

He topped his previous mark of 386.7 miles an hour on the second of four laps over a three-kilometer (1 7/8 miles) course at Calshot. His average was 408.8 miles an hour as compared with the figure of 379.05 during the Schneider cup races. The judges officially announced his time for the four laps as calculated by an electric camera as 415.2, 405.1, 409.5 and 405.4. His machine was an S.B. seaplane driven by an especially built Rolls-Royce engine, described as the most powerful ever built. He landed at 100 miles an hour while the spectators gasped.

"I believe I have broken the record," he said quietly as he joined his wife.

Most Daring Rider Has Arm, Leg Gone

Cow punchers saw on Midland streets this morning an exhibition of the most daring rider they ever saw or, for that matter, ever heard of—even though tales of bronc busting and untamed riders are still told.

Jake Wilson, who says he came here to put in a motorcycle repair shop, did not seem to need another leg and arm as he rode sideways down the principal business streets. His brake and clutch are on the same side of his twin-cylinder motor and his throttle is also arranged to his convenience.

His right leg was amputated after gangrene set in following a motorcycle wreck. His right arm was shot off when a trench mortar from a German trench fired a projectile into his sniper's post, he said.

The League of Nations in 1927 estimated the population of Asia at 950,000,000.

Reagan Discovery Well Has Birthday

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Oct. 1. (UP)—Pumping eight barrels of oil daily, two barrels less than a year ago, the No. 1 Santa Rita, discovery well of the Reagan county field and the forerunner of tremendous development in West Texas, recently passed its eighth birthday.

The well was named by Frank Pickrell, organizer of the Texon Oil and Land company, which drilled it, for the patron saint of the Sicilians. No. 1 Santa Rita bears no marker to distinguish it from the 254 other wells in the Reagan county Big Lake field, but it has contributed a part to their total recovery of 55,072,757 barrels.

Fulfilling a wildcat's dream, No. 1 Santa Rita and resultant oil development in Reagan county saved the Orient railroad from threatened abandonment, built thriving towns on the bald prairie and started a rich flood of royalty moneys into the University of Texas coffers, for much of the land is school property.
