PETER MCINTYRE of Texas A&M University explains atom smasher at presentation this morning in Big Spring.

Garden City on eve of atom

Local officials think federal research project a smashing idea

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Texas is among leading contenders for a massive multi-billion dollar superconducting super collider (SSC) that will be used to study atomic particles, a Texas A&M professor told a group of business people today in Big Spring.

Granville Hahn, one of the hosts for the event, said one of the most likely sites in West Texas for the massive device is in an area near Garden City.

Anticipated cost of the atom smasher, also called a particle accelerator, is $3 billion. The project is being funded by the Department of Energy.

Peter McIntyre, A&M professor of nuclear physics, said the apparatus will be used to study the colliding beams of the proton. The unit will generate 40 trillion volts of electricity in an effort to accelerate the material through the circular, tunnel-shaped device. The SSC has a radius of 100 miles.

The facility will have an annual operating cost $250 million a year, and will employ 2,000 people.

Of that number, about 500 people will have Ph.D.'s, another 700 will be engineers and high-grade technicians, and the remainder will be service personnel.

The A&M professor explained that quarks, or particles inside the atom, hold matter together. The makeup of quarks is not readily understood, and devices such as the SSC are being developed to study what holds the atom together.

"We need to resolve what is in this thing (atom)," McIntyre said. The SSC splits the atom and allows an environment with which to study the effects.

"We don't know what we will find," McIntyre said. "The potential technology is enormous."

Scientists someday hope to "manipulate that force" which holds particles together.

McIntyre said the SSC will be "the largest microscope ever built to view the smallest structures."

McIntyre gave a lengthy slide presentation to members of the Big Spring, Odessa and Midland business communities. He was aided by Louis Thompson, another Texas A&M professor who is a former Big Spring resident.

Thompson's brother, Kenny, a Big Spring resident, introduced Thompson to the group. Thompson is working on technology which will keep down the costs of building a tunnel for the SSC and which will allow faster construction of the scientific tool.

The tunnel will be located about 30 feet underground, McIntyre said. It will be encircled by a ring of superconducting magnets.

McIntyre said the magnets will represent "a billion dollars worth of construction in industry."

A number of Texas sites are being studied by a team of scientists from Texas A&M, UT Austin, University of Houston and Rice University. Among other states competing for the research facility is Illinois, which now has the largest such facility in the world.

Illinois has put together a $7 million proposal for the facility.

McIntyre and Thompson said they expected a number of other sites to be studied before the proposal is completed.

The facility's location should be selected in a year, they said, and construction is scheduled to be completed by 1992.

N-dump office at it again

Staff and bureau reports

AUSTIN — The Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority, forced by the Legislature to look at state lands for a low-level nuclear dump site, has hired a Houston environmental engineering firm to conduct the search over the next five months.

The authority's board last Friday selected Dames & Moore.

Authority officials said the firm is expected to look at 1.75 million acres of land owned by the state and the University of Texas System that might be suitable as a disposal site.

The authority has previously eyed sites in Howard, Borden and Garza counties as potential areas to store nuclear waste dump.

Dames & Moore Manager Jonathan Motherwell said Monday that most of those state-owned lands are in West Texas, particularly Hudspeth County near El Paso.

Motherwell noted that he is not certain where all the possible state-owned acreage is. The authority, he said, is working on a map to highlight those areas for Dames & Moore.

Bob Avant, assistant general manager of the authority, said the large amount of acreage in West Texas gives that area prominence in the search, but "it doesn't mean there is any mindset" on picking a site in that part of the state.

In other areas, he said, smaller state-owned tracts exist that will

Probe continues into fire union activity, chief says

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Fire Chief Carl Dorton is continuing to investigate an allegation that members of the firemen's union last week met and conducted union business at a fire station.

Dorton today said he would not make any decision on the case for "a few days," and called an earlier report of the investigation "premature."

"There have been mistakes made in the past when we have rushed into stuff," Dorton said. "I'm not going to rush into anything."

When he does make a decision, however, Dorton said he would not release the results.

"Anything I come up with, under city policy, shall be confidential. If they release anything, whoever they is, that's their business," he said.

The investigation began Friday when Arson Investigator Burr Lea Settles, who is not a member of the union, said he suspected union business was being conducted Friday morning at the 18th and Main Fire Station.

Settles said Saturday he was "collecting evidence" to give to Dorton on his return Monday.

According to John Branham, president of the Big Spring Professional Fire Fighters Association Local No. 2522, several off-duty firemen had stopped by the station for coffee.

Branham, who was on duty at the time, said he, Lt. Don Hodnett, the off-duty firefighters and union international representative Louis Hebert of Beaumont were having "idle conversation" about several subjects, including a candidate's forum the union sponsored Thursday.

Hebert had stopped by to drop off a key and to say goodbye before leaving town, Branham said.

"We've never called a union meeting at a station. We've never passed out literature there. We've got our headquarters for that," he said.

The union meets at one of Branham's used car lots, which was cleared temporarily while firemen campaign for state civil service in city elections.

Branham has said he believes the allegations are harassment because the union is campaigning for state civil service and he is the head of the union.

Dorton today called Branham's remarks "bunk."

"I'll treat this the same as anything else," Dorton said. "I'm not going to treat this any differently."

UTPB closing would affect commuter life

Staff and bureau reports

Closing the University of Texas at Permian Basin would seriously affect older students in Big Spring who must commute to senior level colleges, a Howard County counselor said.

The state House Appropriations Committee on Monday recommended phasing out UTPB in Odessa and Texas A&M University at Galveston by August 1987, selling the campuses and saving an estimated $61.5 million for the state.

In a show of hands, the committee agreed with Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, that the schools are poorly attended and a waste of limited tax dollars.

"There is no reason we should be subsidizing education at these levels," Colbert told committee members.

Harvey Rothell, director of guidance and counseling at Howard College, said a number of students from Big Spring attend UTPB following graduation from Howard College.

"We have quite a few who go to UTPB," Rothell said. "Especially the older students who commute back and forth."

UTPB is about 60 miles from Big Spring.

Rothell said many students chose UTPB because, "It is difficult for them to move off." He said those who have jobs or family commitments in Big Spring don't have the option of moving to another area to attend school.

Should UTPB close, students who commute would have the option of attending schools such as Texas Tech in Lubbock, which is about 100 miles from Big Spring, and Angelo State University in San Angelo, which is a little over 80 miles away.

"They would have just a little farther to go," Rothell said.

By phasing out UTPB, Colbert estimated that about $10.5 million in operating costs would be saved over the next two budget years. Selling the property would bring in about $14 million, he said.

By halting enrollment at the A&M facility in Galveston, Colbert said $709,000 could be saved during the first year and $8 million the following year. Sale of buildings and property would bring an additional $28 million.

The move was necessary to help avoid a tax bill this legislative session, Colbert said. Work was continuing Monday evening on spending proposals for Texas universities.

Colbert recommended the schools begin to wind down their operations in September 1985 by not accepting new students. The school would be closed the following school year, he said.

A University of Texas spokesman said university officials hope to rally enough votes to defeat

Central Texas couple help bring aid to poor Mexican village

LA CALDERA, Mexico (AP) — A Central Texas couple has worked for 2½ years organizing volunteer groups to travel to this border town and teach poverty-stricken residents skills that could make their lives a little easier.

Bob and Mickey Burleson learned of the plight of people in northern Mexico while hiking across that country.

Working through the First Baptist Church of Troy, they persuaded doctors, dentists and other volunteers to donate their services and make the 500-mile trip to La Caldera, across the Rio Grande River from Texas' Big Bend Country.

"We think a Christian life ought to be a life of service to people, and these are a people worthy of help," Burleson, a Temple lawyer, told the Houston Chronicle. "We are concerned with the spiritual side of their lives, but we are also concerned with their physical health."

Their effort is part of the Texas Baptist Convention's River Ministry for residents along Mexico's border. But the church established a special mission fund for the project and volunteers are able to design their own relief program.

In many ways, the 100 residents of La Caldera, a Spanish name meaning the cauldron, live like their forbears a century ago.

And some efforts by other missionary groups have hurt more than helped because they damaged the culture of people, the couple said. Their group tries to work within La Caldera's culture, not transform it.

"We are trying to build bonds with them. Our men work with their men, our women work with their women. If this was a giveaway program, I am sure they would come to despise us. We help them maintain their dignity, and that is all some of them have," Burleson said.

Five years ago the government created the ejido, which covers about 200,000 acres. The current residents make up about 15 households and are members of the Castillo, Flores, Mota and Sanchez families.

They received permission to raise cattle but have not been successful, largely because the drought hampered ranching throughout the border country in the early 1980s, Burleson said.

If inspectors who are evaluating the progress decide the residents have not been diligent in their efforts, the government could replace them with another group of poor people.

The group's work will not affect the Mexican government's decision, but volunteers say they are determined to do as much as they can for as long as they can.

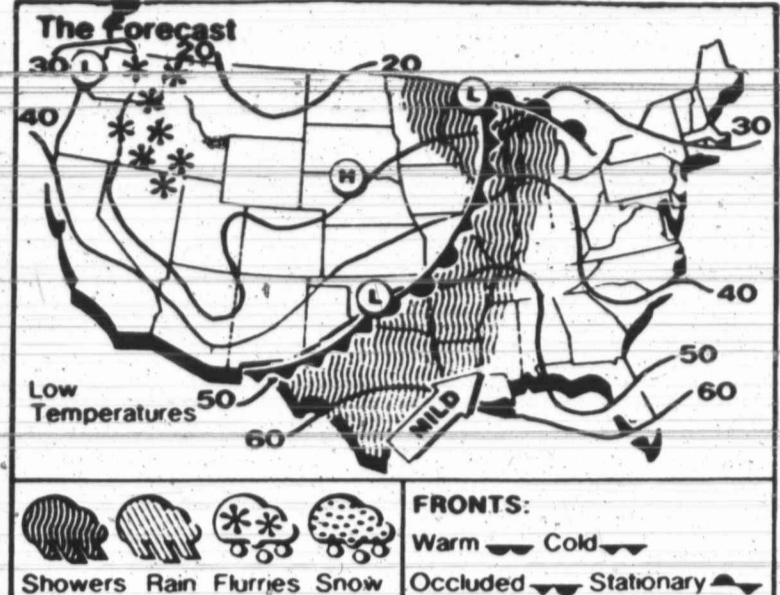

About 20 volunteers, including medical personnel, made the first of three trips during spring break at schools in the Temple area. The men built an adobe house for a young mother abandoned by her husband, while the female volunteers taught the women of La Caldera to sew dresses and backpacks.

The other trips, each lasting about one week, are planned in August and November.

"From knowing these people, our lives will never be the same. We take more out of Mexico than we give," Burleson said.

Business reports $800 theft

Almost $800 in tools were stolen this weekend from the Spring City Do-It Center at 1900 E. FM 700, employee Mark Sheedy told police.

According to police reports, the theft occurred between 8 a.m. Friday and 11 a.m. Monday. Taken were three silver and black jigsaws, a blue jigsaw, a circular saw and another hand tool. The items were valued at $795.

A 19-inch color television set, valued at $370, was stolen between 1 p.m. Saturday and 7:45 a.m. Monday from Gartman Refrigeration at 3206 FM 700, Buster Gartman told police.

A window also was damaged in the burglary, according to the police report.

An aluminum siding panel, valued at $100, and $20 in cash were taken between 7 p.m. Sunday and 7:17 a.m. Monday in a burglary of S&H Floorcovering at 3210 11th Place, Burt Sheppard told police.

Anne Darrow of 609 W. 17th told police someone stole a red lawnmower from her garage between March 3 and 1 p.m. Monday. The mower was valued at $200.

Paul Davis of 811 Ohio told police someone stole two brass lamps, three camouflage suits and 11 pairs of long john bottoms in a burglary between June 1984 and 6:30 p.m. March 15.

Police arrested Artemio Mesta Figueroa, 25, of 1000 W. Fourth at 7:20 p.m. Monday in the 1600 block of E. Fourth on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Police early today arrested two men in the 1200 block of W. Third on suspicion of alcohol-related offenses. Arrested were David Garza, 20, of Route 2 on suspicion of making alcohol available to a minor; and Joseph Garcia, 17, of 1800 Scurry on suspicion of being a minor in possession of alcohol, no driver's license and failure to carry liability insurance.

David Booth of 1217 W. Third told police a man he knows hit him in the face with a fist at 4:55 p.m. Monday at 18th and Goliad. Booth had bruises on his left eye, according to the police report.

Don Estill of One Courtney Place told police someone stole $46 of tools from his 1984 brown Oldsmobile between 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and 4 a.m. Thursday, while the car was parked at 104 Washington.

Ruth Rutledge of 400 E. 15th told police someone damaged the vinyl roof on her white 1984 Oldsmobile between Saturday and 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

County approves retainer fee

Howard County Commissioners voted unanimously to approve $1,000 in retainer fees for consultant engineer Gary Harris of Midland.

Harris appeared at yesterday's commissioners court meeting and said afterward that his duty was two fold.

"We're possibly applying for Texas Community Development money to help offset costs of paving streets in Big Spring and we're looking for availability of grant money to study the arsenic water poisoning in Knott," Harris said.

Commissioners also: Unanimously approved that county employees Darrel Nichols and Robert A. Burgess individually pay additional insurance fees incurred from traffic violations.

Approved that State National Bank hold the county depository contract for one year.

Adopted and signed resolutions that object to House Bill 2231 which excludes the county from voting on centralized collections by tax entities and legislation that requires county offices to collect any additional fees or monies for the state.

Approved motion that $1,350.53 be allocated to the county engineer department for tractor parts.

Approved that March homestead refunds be mailed.

Approved that fuel bids be advertised beginning June 1, 1985 through may 31, 1986.

Blaze guts storage building

A fire Monday night caused $3,000 damage to a storage building in the 1400 block of Runnels, according to a report by the Big Spring fire department.

Firemen arrived at 8:30 p.m. at 1406 Runnels to find Larson Lloyd, owner of the storage building, trying to put out the fire with a garden hose. The seven firefighters extinguished the fire in the 10-foot by 10-foot building and returned to the station by 9:10 p.m.

According to the report, Arson Investigator Burr Lea Settles determined that the fire started in the barbecue pit.

UTPB

A final state budget is expected to be written within the next two months, in a compromise between House and Senate budget proposals.

Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, who heads the House Higher Education budget panel, fought Colbert's plan. He said such closures or university consolidations could be studied before the 1987 legislative session and acted on two years from now.

But Colbert said that because of state financial troubles lawmakers should try to make the best deal possible with scarce state funds.

"We're talking about people," he said referring to Texas A&M at Galveston, "who had the gall to come in here and ask us for $20 million for 400 students." Colbert said the university would further strap state funds if their operations were allowed to continue.

UTPB, with an enrollment of about 1,000, has never been able to draw enough students, he said.

Rep. Dudley Harrison, D-Sanderson, who had been concerned about the possibility of a move to close Sul Ross State University at Alpine, told fellow committee members that it wouldn't be a good idea to close UTPB without more study.

Harrison said that maybe it wasn't a good idea to have two junior colleges — Midland and Odessa — created within 25 miles of one another. But since the schools exist, they need a senior college there for the junior college graduates, he said.

But Colbert said there are several other universities in West Texas that also are having enrollment problems. Also, the school, in the past, has been frivolous with tax dollars, building golf courses and duck ponds with the money, he said.

N-dump

The engineering firm, Motherwell added, has performed other site studies for the authority, including looking at some state-owned land about a year ago. However, in that process, he said, the state agency had some problems.

Avant explained that the University of Texas was reluctant to give up two sites in Hudspeth County after surveys showed they "did not have strong natural integrity" but would require "expensive engineered barriers" to contain the low-level nuclear wastes.

"The University of Texas, at the time, said they wanted us to find a good natural site," he said.

Jurors to hear evidence in beating death case

Howard County grand jurors will convene at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and begin hearing evidence against two men charged in the beating death of an elderly Big Spring woman.

Big Spring Police transferred Jorge Loy Chavana, 21, of 817 W. Eighth and Angel Martinez, 22, of 806 Magnolia to county jail Monday afternoon. They are accused of beating Maurine Terrell, 81, of 1400 Scurry to death during a burglary attempt of her residence on March 5. She died on March 8 in Lubbock General Hospital from head injuries received during the beating.

Justice of the Peace China Long set bonds totaling $85,000 apiece for each suspect.

Both men were arrested on March 15 by police on different charges.

Police then filed murder and burglary of habitation charges against the two on March 19 as the result of evidence gathered from a two-week investigation conducted by detectives.

District Attorney Rick Hamby announced last week that he was calling a special session of the grand jury together to hear only the cases of Martinez and Chavana.

Hamby said during the announcement the grand jury was being called together as the result of an agreement he reached with Attorney Robert V. Garcia Jr. of Odessa.

Garcia had filed a civil suit in district court claiming the defendants were being detained unlawfully.

"It was his (Garcia's) decision. If I would present this soon before a grand jury, he didn't want to have a hearing," Hamby said.

Jobless insurance down

WASHINGTON — The percentage of out-of-work Americans covered by unemployment insurance is sinking to a new low that is about half what it was in the late 1970s, according to a study released today.

The Labor Department, however, disagreed with the study, issued by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities.

The center analyzed the impact of the impending expiration on March 31 of federal supplemental compensation, which provides eight to 14 weeks of jobless benefits to unemployed people after regular state-financed benefits run out. State benefits run up to 26 weeks.

In addition to the 325,000 unemployed receiving the supplemental benefits, "an additional 3.2 million jobless workers could be adversely affected" by the program's expiration, concluded the center, a non-profit organization financed by several foundations and church groups.

Auto sales up; GM dips

DETROIT — Mid-March domestic auto sales figures show the industry maintaining its health, but analysts say a close look at market shares show a below par performance by General Motors Corp.

Figures released Monday by the six major manufacturers put sales for March 11-20 at 5 percent above the rate of the comparable period a year ago, with Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. continuing to grab market share from GM.

Chrysler sales in the March 11-20 period up 39 percent from a year earlier and Ford's up 22.4 percent. GM's were down 7.7 percent.

GM's share of the U.S. market has been generally depressed since it suffered strikes last year.

Archbishop hit with DWI

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Archbishop John Roach, who pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving, says his experience has opened his eyes to the problems created by combining driving with alcohol.

"I feel a special responsibility now, having had to face my own flawedness, to invite everyone — especially young people — to join me in promising God, that with his help, we will never again risk the consequences of drinking and driving," Roach said Monday.

Roach, head of the St. Paul-Minneapolis archdiocese and an immediate past president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, entered the plea Monday in Chisago County court.

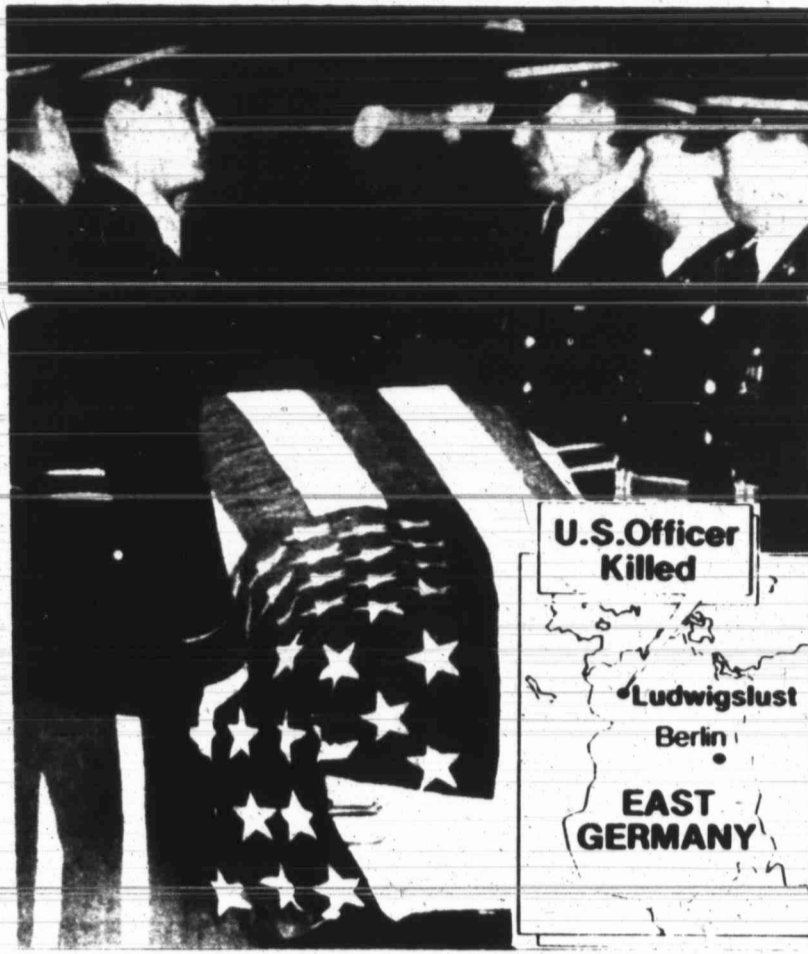

He was ordered to spend 38 hours in jail and pay a $445 fine.

Soviets withheld medical help for slain officer

HEIDELBERG, West Germany (AP) — The Soviet sentry who shot and killed a U.S. Army officer in East Germany prevented the dying man's driver from answering his cries for help, and the Soviets withheld medical help for an hour after the shooting, U.S. officials said.

Soviet and U.S. officials traded accusations and official protests on the incident Monday, a day after the Soviet guard killed Maj. Arthur D. Nicholson Jr. near Ludwigslust, an East German town about 100 miles northwest of Berlin and 30 miles from the West German border.

EAST GERMANY

Army honor guards lower a casket with the body of Maj. Arthur D. Nicholson, Jr. from a small U.S. Army C-12 plane at Frankfurt's Rhein-Main airport Monday night. Nicholson was shot and killed by a Soviet guard in East Germany Sunday.

The State Department charged that the shooting was murder. President Reagan said he was "shocked and saddened" by the incident and added Nicholson was not spying and violence was not justified.

But Reagan said that rather than cooling his desire to meet the new Soviet leader, Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the shooting made him "more anxious" for a summit meeting.

Nicholson, 37, a native of Redding, Conn., is survived by his wife Karyn and a daughter, both living in West Berlin. His body, which had been turned over to U.S. authorities in West Berlin, was flown late Monday to the U.S. Air Base at Rhein-Main, outside Frankfurt. There was no word on when the body will be returned to the United States.

The Soviet Embassy said Nicholson and his driver, Sgt. Jessie G. Schatz, were in a restricted zone and entered it "despite the presence of clearly visible warning signs in Russian and German." The Soviets said their guard fired when Nicholson tried to flee and that other soldiers captured his driver, who was at their vehicle nearby.

The Army said Nicholson spoke fluent Russian.

"The officer was caught red-handed by a Soviet sentry guarding that equipment," said the statement by embassy spokesman Vladimir Kulagin, issued in response to press inquiries. "He did not comply with his orders and, after a warning shot, while attempting to escape, he was killed."

U.S. officials said Nicholson was 300 to 500 yards away from any restricted area, unarmed, and that he was shot without warning.

Nicholson and his driver were monitoring Soviet military activities, as permitted under a 1947 agreement, Assistant Secretary of State Richard Burt said in Washington.

ABC News and The New York Times quoted unidentified sources as saying Nicholson was observing Soviet tank sheds. The State Department declined comment on those reports.

Burt said Nicholson cried out helplessly to Schatz after being wounded, but Soviet soldiers kept Schatz from providing first aid. A Soviet medic arrived 30 minutes after the shooting, but waited another 30 minutes before treating Nicholson, he said.

Burt said he received that information from Schatz, who was released later to American authorities in West Berlin.

"There is no justification for the murder of Maj. Nicholson," Burt said, calling the Soviet behavior "inexplicable."

Burt said the first shot was fired at Schatz, but missed. Nicholson was hit by a second or third shot, Burt said. He declined to say whether Nicholson carried a camera, but said U.S. officers monitoring Soviet activities usually do.

Nicholson's presence in East Germany was part of a "very visible" U.S. military intelligence gathering operation, reciprocated by the Soviets in West Germany, that evolved from the Allies' post-World War II liaison offices.

Iraq ignores appeal

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Ignoring Iran's appeal for an end to attacks on civilian targets, Iraq said its warplanes blasted two ships in the Persian Gulf today and raided three Iranian cities including the capital Tehran.

Shipping sources in the Persian Gulf island nation of Bahrain reported a 24,000-ton freighter operated by a New York shipping firm had been attacked and set afire off the Saudi Arabian coast, and Saudi and U.S. navy units rescued the crew.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said seven people died and 30 were injured in an attack by an Iraqi jet on two poor Tehran neighborhoods. The news agency, monitored in Cyprus, said several houses, shops and a mosque were damaged in the pre-dawn Iraqi raid.

China offers apology

SEOUL, South Korea — The government said today China had apologized for the intrusion of three naval vessels into South Korean waters in search of a mutinous torpedo boat, and that the torpedo boat and its crew would be returned Wednesday.

The government announcement said China had explained the intrusion, and South Korea accepted the apology and explanation.

The incident had raised fears of a diplomatic fracas between pro-Western South Korea and Communist China, which have no diplomatic ties, but South Korea had repeatedly said there was nothing political about the mutiny and had indicated it would be handled quietly.

The torpedo boat drifted into Korean waters last Friday after a mutiny that left six crewmen dead and two wounded. South Korean authorities said two crewmen, angry at being reprimanded and fearful of punishment when they returned home, had killed six of their superiors.

SAO PAULO, Brazil — Tancredo Neves, the 75-year-old president-elect who has been kept from taking office by abdominal surgery, was transferred today to the coronary unit of Brazil's best-known hospital for treatment of a small hemorrhage, a spokesman said.

The five-doctor team that has been treating Neves moved him from a Brasilia hospital to the Heart Institute of the Clinical Hospital of Sao Paulo, 700 miles southeast, he said.

Presidential spokesman Antonio Brito said Neves would undergo "selective arterial X-rays" for a "small but permanent hemorrhage in recent hours." He said the bleeding was in Neves' abdomen, and that he was transferred as a preventive measure.

President hospitalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan was hospitalized Monday for a "minor" abdominal ailment, a White House spokesman said.

The president was taken to the Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington for a procedure to remove a gallstone, the spokesman said.

Reagan was hospitalized for about 24 hours, the spokesman said. He was discharged Monday afternoon and is expected to return to the White House today.

Reagan wages lobbying effort for MX pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan waged a last-minute lobbying blitz to persuade House members that success at the Geneva arms talks hinges on today's vote on producing more MX missiles.

Reagan and chief negotiator Max Kampelman, a Democrat, repeatedly exhorted House members Monday with the message that the MX system is needed as a bargaining tool in the arms talks now under way in Geneva, Switzerland.

Kampelman went further, saying a congressional decision to kill the MX would represent a serious intrusion in the negotiating process and "would inevitably delay the negotiations."

But an MX opponent, Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., 1/2-criticized Kampelman's mission to Washington on vote's eve was an attempt to give the MX "a sugar coating of arms control, to bathe it in the glow of Geneva." He and other MX foes argue the weapon is too expensive, destabilizing and too vulnerable to a Soviet first-strike attack.

Reagan told an invited group of more than 100 House and Senate members gathered under the gleaming chandeliers of the East Room of the White House that, "If we don't want to see our hopes evaporate, we must continue to demonstrate the resolve to carry the negotiations to a successful conclusion on a sound basis."

"If we fail, we'll be signaling to the world that on this issue we are irresolute and divided," Reagan said. "And the Soviet Union will see that, in dealing with the United States, propaganda and stonewalling are much more profitable than good faith negotiations."

Kampelman was ordered home from Geneva to try to persuade a cluster of some 20 uncommitted House members to support the release of $1.5 billion in impounded funds to build a second installment of 21 MX missiles. He returned to the talks immediately after his emotional speech.

"Because as they enjoy the apple that falls from the tree that they did not have to pay for, they quite understandably wonder what other fruit will fall from the tree that they do not have to pay for," Kampelman said of the Soviets.

Reagan, who wants to build and deploy 100 MXs in all, said an MX defeat would erode the confidence of U.S. allies in Europe, who faced down vocal peace movements to proceed last year with deployment of medium-range U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles.

"We asked them to walk through fire and brave a storm of Soviet propaganda and not-so-veiled threats, and they did," Reagan said. "For us to back down now on Peacekeeper (MX) deployment will deliver a telling blow to our allies' confidence in us."

Several Democratic members emerged from the session saying they remained unconvinced. Both sides predicted a close vote.

"I'm sure the White House appreciates that it's close or they wouldn't be turning out all of the stops they are," said House

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass.

The MX battle in the House is the result of a congressional decision last fall to postpone the final decision on the missile. Today's House vote is on authorizing MX spending, with a second vote on Wednesday or Thursday on appropriating the money.

In identical 55-45 votes last week, the Senate voted to approve money to build the 21 MXs.

The last hurrah; the long goodbye

Raymond Donovan's resignation March 15 as U.S. Secretary of Labor was long overdue.

The clouds of suspicion shrouding the Labor Secretary began to accumulate four years ago during his Senate confirmation hearings. Since then, rumors of illegalities in his checkered business past have been banded about Washington, but no specific evidence was made public linking him with criminal wrongdoing.

Indeed, investigations by a Senate Labor Committee and by a special prosecutor seemed to support Mr. Donovan's protestations of innocence. Still, allegations of past improprieties continued to surface with alarming regularity. The latest, and most damaging, accusation came from a Bronx district attorney who charged the Labor Secretary and seven former business associates with multiple counts of defrauding the New York Transit Authority of $7 million.

When these charges were filed last November, Mr. Donovan asked for and was granted an unpaid leave of absence until the case could be resolved. He resigned after a New York judge refused to dismiss the indictments against him and the construction company he used to run.

He had to go. Not only did his continued presence embarrass the Reagan administration, his performance as labor secretary was singularly unimpressive. He was virtually ignored by the White House during the 1981 air-controllers strike. Instead, the president relied on then Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis to articulate the administration's position.

Thereafter the labor secretary was shunted to the sidelines where he continued to generate news because of his alleged connections with organized crime figures in New Jersey. Following the 1984 indictments, however, his eventual departure became inevitable.

As a private citizen, Raymond Donovan must be presumed innocent until he is proved otherwise. Yet Cabinet officers are — and must be — subjected to more exacting standards. Such individuals justify their appointments by serving both the nation and administration. When that service becomes an embarrassment, the cabinet official has no choice but to resign. Our only regret is that Mr. Donovan was so long in coming to this conclusion.

Gorbachev's style not Russian enough

The Soviet Watchers of Washington met last week in the "Darkness at Noon Russian Tea Room" to be briefed on Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev's rise to the top of the U.S.S.R.

Professor Nicholai Dubokovsky, one of the leading kreninologists in this country, gave us the word. "Gorbachev may be around for at least 30 years, so you have to watch him very closely."

"What should we watch for?" "Since he is only 54 years old you should watch the way he stands when he's on the top of Lenin's Tomb. Remember, he is the first Soviet leader in 10 years who can watch a parade without a Politburo member on each side holding on to his arms so he won't fall down. This has its good and bad implications. The fact that he can stand on his own two feet makes Gorbachev dangerous. At the same time we can expect more credibility from the Kremlin on their leader's health. Now when they announce he has a bad cold, we can all assume he does have a bad cold."

"Why is Gorbachev getting such a good press?" "Because he speaks English and wears nice suits. One of the reasons Americans never trusted the Soviet leaders in the past was that they dressed so tacky. How could you discuss ways of avoiding World War III with people who wore baggy pants and white socks? Gorbachev is a new breed of Russian. His suit coat fits, and his choice of shirts and ties is impeccable. He's the type of person you're not ashamed to be photographed with at a summit conference."

"Does the fact that he's a snappy dresser mean he's a more formidable adversary?" "He could go either way. Khrushchev almost brought us to nuclear destruction by hammering his shoe on the podium at the United Nations. Gorbachev would never do this because he's afraid it would ruin his shine. But you still have to watch him very carefully."

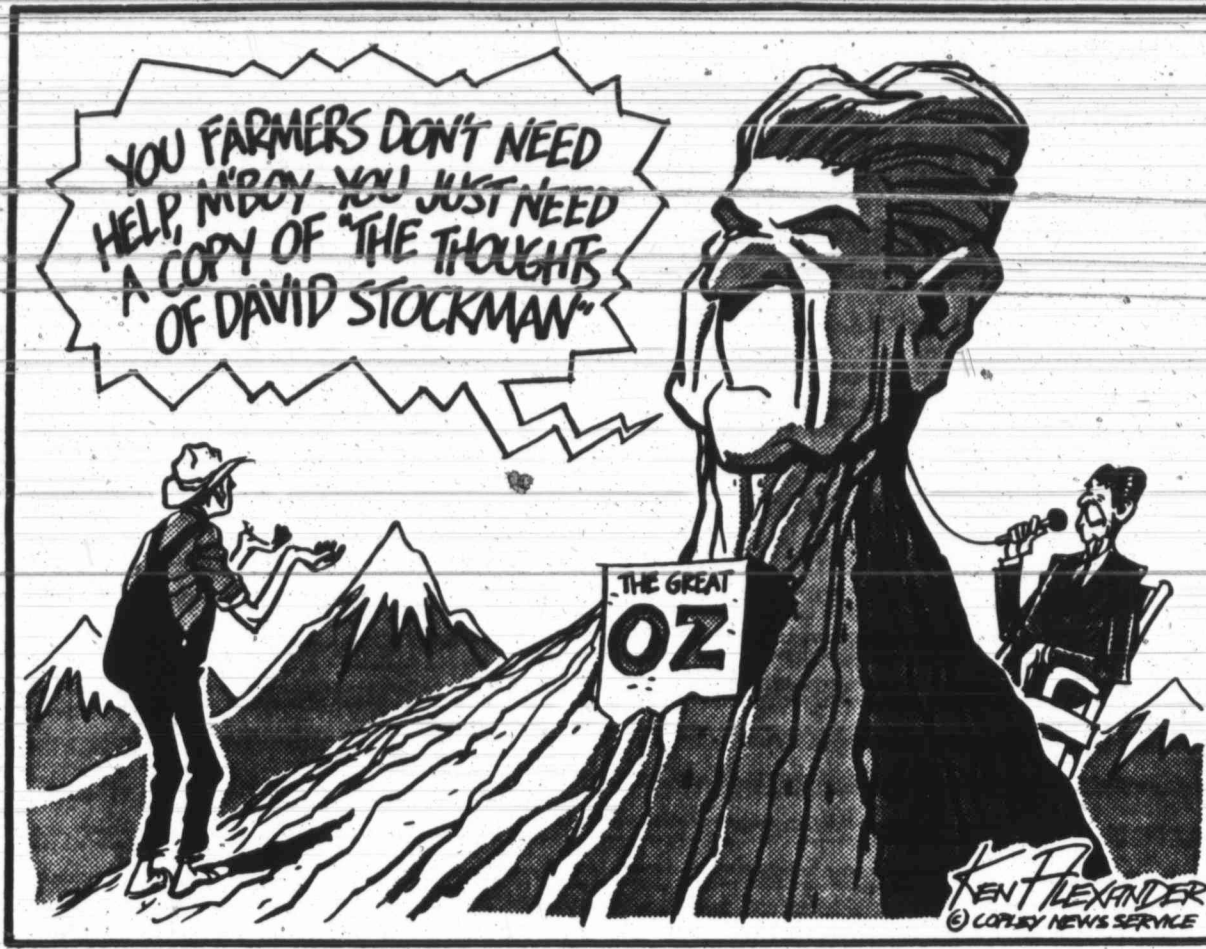

The fact that he doesn't drool all over the medals on his chest could be to NATO's disadvantage. With the others you knew they weren't going to be around very long, so the West was willing to put up with their peccadillos for a year or two. With Gorbachev it will be at least three decades before he winds up in the Kremlin Wall.

"Do you think he will flaunt the fact he is only 54 years old in Reagan's face?" "He has already. In a hand-delivered letter to President Reagan Gorbachev started by addressing it 'Dear Uncle Ronnie.' That threw the president for a loop. He doesn't even like his grandchildren to call him Grandpa."

"Vice President George Bush watched Gorbachev all during Chernenko's funeral. What was his impression of the man?" "As you know, Mr. Bush has become an expert at watching Soviet leaders at Moscow funerals. He came back quite impressed. Mr. Bush thinks Gorbachev has the potential to become the first Soviet Yuppie premier. The leader seems to enjoy the good things in life, and one of his priorities is to provide more of the same for his people. The vice president believes if we can get Gorbachev to import more stereo and buy more BMWs with stereo tape decks in them, the Soviets will lose their appetite for world conquest."

"What about Mrs. Gorbachev? Should we spend much time watching her?" "You have no choice. The press is now referring to her as another Jackie Kennedy. Mrs. Gorbachev could be a big help to the Soviet leader when he travels around the world. The thing to watch is his first trip to France. If he pulls a John Kennedy and says, 'I am the man who accompanied Raisa Gorbachev to Paris,' and it gets a big hand, we're in a lot more trouble than most people think."

Pakistan bombs with 'N' club

WASHINGTON — Reagan administration officials are at their wits' end trying to figure out how to keep Pakistan from breaking into the nuclear club — short of cutting off all U.S. aid to that strategic American ally.

Intelligence experts have warned the White House with some urgency that Pakistan is on the verge of producing and testing a nuclear bomb after years of buying — and stealing — the necessary technology.

The administration's public position is to restate assurances by Pakistan's dictator, Gen. Mohammad Zia ul-Haq, that his country has neither the desire nor the wherewithal to produce a bomb and that its nuclear program is for purely peaceful research.

But privately the administration has done more than just wring its hands at Zia's disingenuous disclaimer. My associate Indy Badwar has learned that there has been a flurry of diplomatic activity — and some not so diplomatic — aimed at cajoling or pressuring Zia not to build a bomb.

High-level presidential aides have visited Islamabad at least a dozen times to bring Zia warnings from President Reagan. The most recent was veteran envoy Vernon Walters, who "told Zia to knock off certain things he was doing," according to one inside source.

There are mixed assessments on the effect of the administration's pressure tactics. But according to one report, Zia has agreed — for the time being, at least — not to operate Pakistan's uranium reprocessing plant or to enrich the fissionable material at any other facility.

Yet the Reagan administration appears to have sent a contradictory signal to Zia in another development. That was its response to the arrest of a Pakistani "businessman," Nazir Vaid, for trying to smuggle a large number of nuclear triggering devices out of the United States. Vaid was tried, found guilty, given a suspended sentence and deported to Pakistan.

Journalist Seymour Hersh gained access to documents confiscated from Vaid after his arrest. They linked Vaid directly to major figures in Pakistan's nuclear project. And though Vaid claimed he was buying the nuclear triggers for industrial use, he had tried to acquire 50 of them — more than half the total number now in use commercially throughout the world.

But instead of trying Vaid as a spy, the Justice Department let him off. Several senior State Department officials reportedly fear that the administration's leniency toward Vaid will encourage Zia to ignore the attempts to keep him from building a bomb. A recent Arms Control and Disarmament Agency working paper on the affair is reportedly critical of the government's treatment of Vaid.

Vaid was not the first Pakistani to be caught trying to smuggle banned nuclear technology. Other "businessmen" have been apprehended with everything from blueprints to hardware in Canada, Turkey, Holland and France. Pakistan's attempts to build a nuclear weapon became so blatant that in 1979 U.S. military aid was cut off as required by law.

But it was resumed a few months later, after the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and Pakistan's sudden emergence as the conduit for U.S. aid to the Afghan rebels. In a loophole drilled specially in the law, Congress stipulated that aid to Pakistan would be cut off only if Zia actually explodes a nuclear weapon.

The White House supports the exemption for Pakistan, arguing that cutting off aid again might make Zia reluctant to continue helping the Afghan rebels, especially in the face of recent threats by the Soviets.

STRICTLY PERSONAL — Several anxious readers have asked if Congress will act to keep their unemployment checks coming when supplemental benefits run out in a few days. My sources on Capitol Hill are pessimistic. The program expires at the end of this month, and more than 300,000 jobless Americans will find no unemployment check in the mailbox next week unless Congress does something in a hurry.

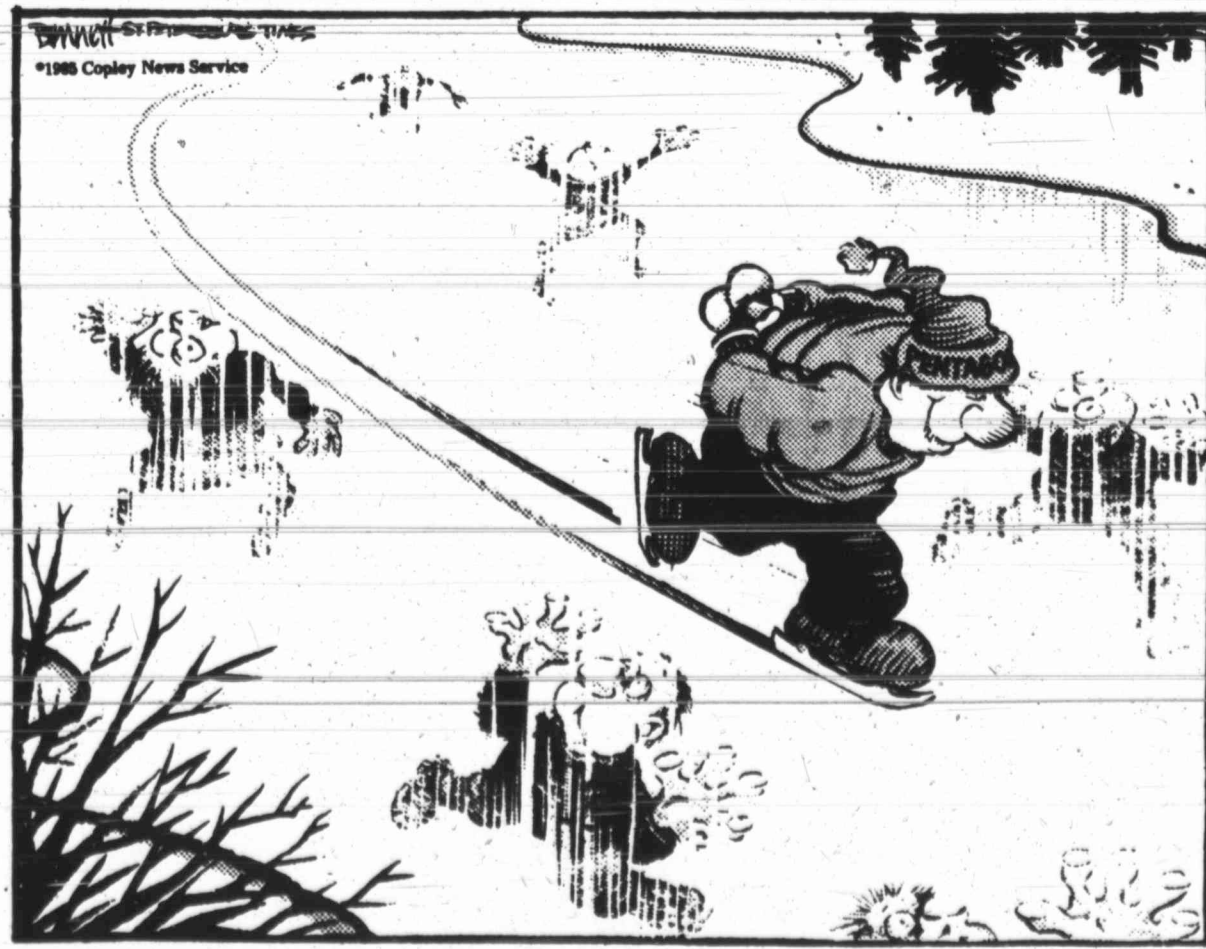

Rep. Don Pease, D-Ohio, has been working frantically to get the benefits reinstated, but time is running out. For one thing, the House decided to take a brief vacation when several of its members, including Majority Leader James Wright, D-Texas, went to the Geneva arms talks. The Senate also took a few days off. That lost some valuable time.

But perhaps the most crucial factor is the opposition of the Reagan administration, which has quietly passed the word that no further extension of benefits should be made and no changes in the unemployment system enacted.

Who suffers when the grand shazams in charge of federal agencies decide to defy congressional budget cuts and just keep on spending. Not the big shots, you can be sure of that. Take the most recent case, when the seven Interstate Commerce Commissioners ignored last year's budget cuts and kept on at the same old level, figuring Congress could be talked into passing a supplemental appropriation. But several members of Congress are determined not to give the ICC more money.

Result? The agency's employees now face a four-day week (with four days' pay) if Congress doesn't relent. That, of course, would make the public losers, as the ICC tries to do 100 percent of its job in 80 percent of the time. Needless to say, the seven commissioners will be unaffected by the pay cuts they will have caused. They're paid on an annual basis — at better than $70,000 each.

BEST OF SHOW — Sheree Moates takes the Howard College Art Show's highest award with her painting, "Life Giver." The show features about 75 works of art in photography and will run until Wednesday at the college library.

Moates' 'Life Giver' wins Best of Show

Sheree Moates' painting, "Life Giver," took the Best of Show award at the Howard College Art Show, which is running through Wednesday in the college library.

Her entry pictures a farmer with an uplifted hand, who looks into the skies as rain falls into his palm.

The show consists of about 75 works of art and photography. Judging the art entries was professional artist Vicky Clark of Seminole. Carla Walker Harrold of Big Spring judged the photography entries.

Winners for each category are: 3-D work — Susan Lewis ("Lamb"), first; Susan Lewis ("Moon Lamp"), second; Doris Vieregge, untitled, third; Sheree Moates, Doris Vieregge and Amy Christensen, honorable mention. Photography — Garry Spence ("Western Kingbird") first; Garry Spence ("Mountain Bluebird"), second; Doris Vieregge ("Reflection"), third; Doris Vieregge ("Poppies"), honorable mention. Watercolor — Sheree Moates ("Spring in Peach"), first; Chris Carter ("A Study of the Back"), second; Jo Anne Hearne ("Iris"), third; Chris Carter ("End of the Day"), honorable mention.

Pastel — Barbara Cooley ("The Peach Dream"), first; Barbara Cooley ("Silence"), second; Joyce Dixon ("Sailboat"), third.

Oils/Acrylic — Chris Carter ("Sunset"), first; Sheree Moates ("Desert Valley") and Susan Lewis ("Star Sticks"), tied for second; Dorbert Ortiz ("Windmill") and Gwen Morton ("Windows Reflection"), tied for third.

Graphics — Marvin Hadley ("Carly"), first; Barbara Cooley ("Lamp"), second; Joyce Dixon ("Football"), third; Andrea Munoz ("Portrait"), Paulette Mason ("Progress") and Sheree Moates ("Alone"), all honorable mentions.

Copy — Doris Vieregge ("Penny Ann Cross"), first; Jean Baker ("Black Girl"), second; Chris Carter ("The Copy"), third; Doris Vieregge ("R.C. Gorman"), honorable mention.

The Richard Hubbell Chapter of the Colonial Dames of the 17th Century celebrated the signing of their charter during a luncheon Saturday at the Big Spring Country Club.

The program consisted of the chapter's history, the signing of the charter, introduction of past and present officers and members and presentation of special guests.

The chapter was organized Dec. 16, 1979, and instituted Jan. 24, 1980, with 11 members. A charter signing was not possible until the group gained 21 members.

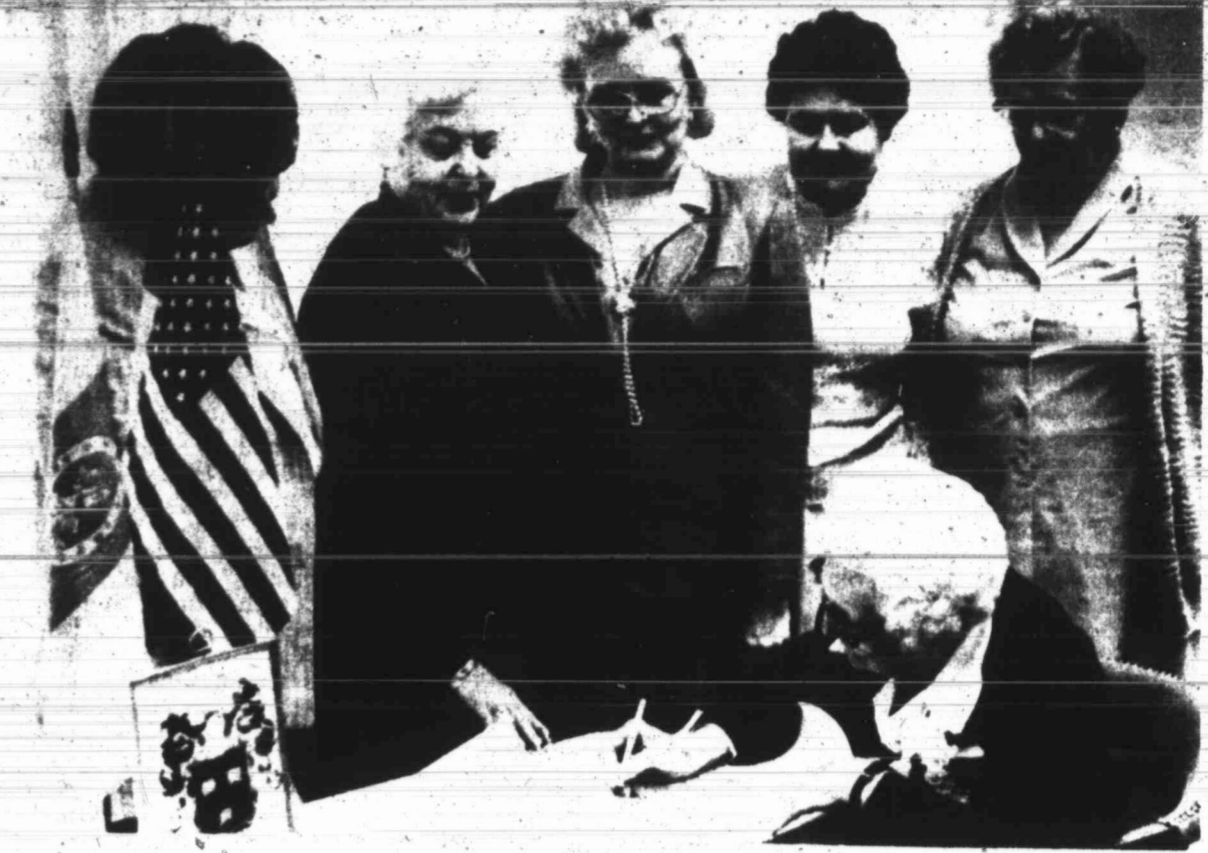

At the December 1979 meeting, the name of the chapter was chosen and officers elected. Mattie Trube, state organizing secretary of Houston, installed the officers and presented the chapter with a set of flags. Margaret Barnett was appointed organizing president.

Organizing officers were re-elected for a two-year term and include: Mrs. Barnett; Mrs. Jack Lipscombe, vice president; Mrs. Beulah Reynolds, chaplain; Mrs. Lou Horton, secretary; Mrs. L.J. Jeter, treasurer; Mrs. Lola Kilman, registrar; Mrs. William Riley, historian/librarian; and Mrs. Mattie Wren, parliamentarian.

In 1983, Mrs. John Cobean was elected president and Mrs. Jack Lipscombe president-elect to take office in May 1985. The 21st member approved by the National Society in January 1985, Celeste Dale, entitled the chapter to receive the charter.

The National Association of Colonial Dames of the 17th Century was organized July 1915 during a meeting of the International Genealogical Congress. To commemorate the heroes of the founding of the republic and to be inspired to follow their courageous example, members must have documented lineage to the British colonies of the United States.

During the luncheon, Mrs. Cobean presented a sketch of Richard CHARTER SIGNING — Members of Richard Hubbell Chapter of the Colonial Dames of the 17th Century signed their charter during a luncheon Saturday at the Big Spring Country Club. Hubbell, for whom the chapter is named. He was born in Reddich, Rebsford Parish, Worcestershire, England, about 1626 and settled in Fairfield County, Conn., prior to March 1647.

He died Oct. 23, 1699, in Fairfield County, where he became one of the leading men. His name is mentioned in the Fairfield Patent, granted in 1685.

After the sketch, members signed the charter. Mrs. Cobean presented a toast to the success, years, stability and growth of the chapter following the signing.

Mrs. Cobean and Mrs. Lipscombe were chairmen for the arrangement of the Charter Party.

Mrs. Cobean is president and Mrs. Lipscombe is president-elect of the chapter.

Special guests at the luncheon were members of the Dr. John Woodson Chapter of Midland; Mrs. Salon P. Crain, vice president for the State of Texas and director of District Eight Daughters of American Revolution; Mrs. R.L. Hughston, president of the chapter; Mrs. Kelly D. Young, president-elect of the chapter and state chairman of the junior membership.

Mrs. Crain reported on the recent state conference in Fort Worth. Mrs. Hughston invited members of the Big Spring and San Angelo chapters to a luncheon her chapter is planning.

Another guest was Johnnie Lou Avery, president of Avery and Associates of Big Spring. Mrs. Avery told of many activities the women's clubs and societies in Big Spring are involved in and the value and satisfaction of knowing one's heritage.

Dear Abby

No biking skills has student spinning wheels

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male college sophomore, reasonably intelligent, with no physical or mental problems — except for the one I'm writing about. I never learned how to ride a bike.

When I was growing up I never owned a bike, and I didn't have the courage to ask any of my friends who had bikes to teach me. I grew up feeling inferior, but the pain of not being able to ride a bike was pushed out of my mind during my teen years when I learned how to drive my father's car.

Now that I'm in college, I really need a bike because I live two miles from school and there's no bus service near me. Driving a car is out of the question because there's no place to park. Is there a place where adults are taught to ride a bike? In private, I mean, because at my age I'd feel like a fool trying to learn in a park or some other public place where people could see me. Please answer soon. This is eating me up. ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Don't be so hard on yourself. It's no crime to be unable to ride a bike.

Ask a friend who bikes to teach you on a country road. Or go to a shop where bicycles are sold; the people there will find a teacher for you. They may even suggest training wheels. You can do it. People have learned to ride a bike in their 60s; you're just a kid. Get going.

Candida germ can hide in dentures

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had candida infection and was taking medicine for it. My doctor told me to be certain I kept my dentures super clean or it might be more stubborn and take longer to cure. I'd never heard this mentioned before. Can you comment? — Ms. E.E.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How about some information on a candida infection of the mouth? What is it and how does one get it? I have been on Mycostatin. Will this powder really help the sores? I was wondering how long it will take to cure the sores. — M.K.V.

Ms. E.E. raises an interesting point. Yes, if you wear dentures you must clean them thoroughly and frequently so that yeasts can't hide there, safe from the medicine. Failure to follow this advice can produce recurrence of infection.

Now about candida in general. Let me call it thrush, even though the medical community will cringe; actually candidiasis is its only true name. The candida yeast organisms normally sit there in our mouths causing no trouble whatever, part of a friendly neighborhood of harmless germs.

It's only when unwanted neighbors move in that trouble mounts. Antibiotics are an example. When they move in they start killing off other normal germs, but leaving the yeast organism intact. Recognizing its opportunity, the candida yeast starts occupying all the vacant property. Its relatives quickly move into the homes and start raising families.

Before long you have a whole neighborhood full of yeast pests. The signs of all this change include creamy white curd-like patches on the tongue, which if scraped leave raw, bleeding, and painful surfaces.

Your medicine is effective as a mouthwash. It takes about 7 to 10 days for it to get rid of the yeast.

Goliad's Boys Choir entertains the Big Spring School Food Club

The Boys Choir of Goliad Middle School entertained members of the Big Spring School Food Club Association during their meeting at Goliad's School Cafeteria, Thursday. The choir was under the direction of Karer Lee. Members are urged to attend the next meeting and to recruit new members. Officer elections will be held at the meeting.

The next meeting will be at 3 p.m. April 11 at Marcy Cafeteria. Pam Mitchell's 4th grade class will perform a skit and dance the "Cotton-eyed Joe."

Transient woman found shot

SWEETWATER — Police say they are still trying to determine the identity of a woman who was discovered dead outside a residence.

Police Chief Jim Kelley said the woman, apparently a transient, died from a single self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head.

A resident told officers he found the woman lying outside his garage shortly after 1 p.m.

Sunday, the police chief said Kelley said a .25-caliber semiautomatic pistol was found by the body.

Kelley said no identification was found on the woman's body or in luggage that officers discovered she had left in the home of a truck driver.

The police chief said he has not been able to talk to the truck driver because the man has been out of town.

Newspaper sales tax nixed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has approved a bill that would remove daily newspaper sales from the state sales tax.

The Senate bill was approved 7-2 Monday and cleared for later debate by the full Senate.

A similar House measure is in a subcommittee.

The committee vote of approval came after Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, made an unsuccessful attempt to keep the newspaper tax but specify that newspaper publishers would pay sales taxes on newspapers sold by youthful carriers.

Farabee's amendment failed 2-5, with Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, voting with Farabee.

Farabee and Jones also voted against final approval of the bill.

Speakers for Texas newspaper publishers and Comptroller Bob Bullock told the committee the tax was unfair and difficult to administer.

Boat company to close plant

AUSTIN — Glastron Boat Co., one of the early makers of fiberglass, all-purpose runabouts, has announced it will close its Austin plant by the end of July.

Keith Orme, president of Glastron-Conroy Ltd., the parent company, said few if any of the 200 present employees would be transferred to other company plants in New Braunfels and North Carolina.

Glastron began in Austin in 1956 and at its peak in the 1970s employed nearly 1,000 workers in Austin and reported sales of more than $40 million.

Glastron sold its 30.5 acre plant in north Austin early last year during a liquidation of its parent company, Conroy Inc.

Orme said the company shopped for a new plant site near Austin but found it could not afford to buy land in the area because of real estate speculation.

Prison settlement offered

AUSTIN — Texas prison officials have prepared a proposal they hope will end a 12-year-old prison reform lawsuit by next month, but lawyers for inmates remain skeptical.

The proposal, completed by the Texas Department of Corrections board, sets out standards the state considers acceptable for inmate housing, staffing ratios and medical care. It provides a timetable for repairing and renovating facilities.

"This is our perception of what we need to do to solve our problem," said Robert Gunn, prison board chairman, following a six-hour, closed-door session on Monday.

"It deals with upgrading facilities, upstaffing them, and providing for adequate out-of-cell time, and for considering the possibility of new construction," Gunn said.

Proposals for both sides were to be filed today with Vincent Nathan, court-appointed special master for the prisons, who has agreed to act as an arbiter in settling the prison crowding issue.

Cubans held on drug charges

DALLAS — Police say they have arrested three Cuban refugees on federal drug trafficking charges in what officers called a crackdown on the Cuban drug business in Texas.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Searcy Simpson Jr. says more arrests of Cubans on drug charges were expected.

Authorities said the trio are accused of conspiring to sell 13 ounces of cocaine to undercover Drug Enforcement Administration officers Sunday in the Dallas home of one of the suspects. The three were being held today by the U.S. Marshal's office.

The three suspects were a 43-year-old man from Camaguez, Cuba and Miami; a 28-year-old Dallas man and a 32-year-old former resident of Oriente, Cuba.

An affidavit filed with the criminal complaint says the arrests followed "several days of intense undercover negotiations concerning a cocaine delivery."

Badgered student shoots bully at school

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A 14-year-old student who had been harassed by an older classmate brought a gun to school today and shot the boy in the chest on the playground, police said.

The injured boy was taken to Santa Rosa Hospital, where he was in undetermined condition, spokeswoman Molly Gofron said.

A student was taken into custody at Page Middle School with a .22-caliber pistol just minutes after the 7:45 a.m. shooting, said police spokesman Paul Buske.

The shooting occurred when the older student again started harassing the boy, who then pulled out the gun and shot him, Buske said.

A number of students witnessed the shooting, Buske said.

Mostly Mozart

'Amadeus' dominates Academy Awards, scores 8 Oscars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Amadeus," a fictional account of Mozart's tormented final years, dominated the Academy Awards on Monday with eight Oscars, including best picture and best actor for F. Murray Abraham as the jealous, second-rate composer Salieri. Sally Field won best actress for her role as a gritty farm widow in "Places in the Heart."

Haing S. Ngor, a Cambodian refugee making his acting debut as an American reporter's assistant in "The Killing Fields," and the veteran Dame Peggy Ashcroft, as the enigmatic English visitor in "A Passage to India," were named best supporting performers at the 57th Academy Awards.

The Czech-born Milos Forman took the best director prize for "Amadeus," which also captured awards for makeup, sound, art direction, costume design and best adaptation by playwright Peter Shaffer. It was the second Oscar for Forman, who won for the 1975 "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

Runners-up to "Amadeus" were "The Killing Fields" with three Oscars — including cinematography and editing — and "A Passage to India" with two apiece.

Abraham, a 45-year-old veteran of TV commercials and off-Broadway theater won his first starring film role, playing opposite fellow nominee Tom Hulce as Mozart.

"There's only one thing that's missing for me tonight and that is to have Tom Hulce standing by my side," Abraham said in accepting the honor.

Miss Field, 37, who won previously as best actress for 1979's "Norma Rae," thanked writer-director Robert Benton, a winner of this year's best original screenplay Oscar.

"Oh Benton, what you did for me," she said. "You changed my life, truly. This means so much for me this time."

This year's live Oscarcast was slicker and faster-paced than last year's, when the show dragged on a stupefying 3 hours, 45 minutes and plunged in the ratings. Winners seemed ever-conscious of their 45-second limit for speeches, and the result was a fairly crisp show, but one which lacked excitement.

SALLY FIELD, named best actress for her role in "Places in the Heart," is embraced by best actor Murray Abraham, cited for his performance in "Amadeus."

The show ended just after midnight EST on an abrupt note as the best picture presenter, Sir Laurence Olivier, dispensed with reading the nominees and simply announced "Amadeus" as the winner.

Miss Ashcroft, 77, could not attend the ceremonies because she was in England for the funeral of Sir Michael Redgrave. Her award was accepted by Angela Lansbury, who said it was "marvelous that after an illustrious stage career, Peggy can now be seen and appreciated by film audiences everywhere."

"This is unbelievable, but so is my entire life," said Ngor, a 34-year-old doctor, as he exultantly waved his gold statuette above his head and thanked the audience.

Ngor thanked producer David Puttnam, director Roland Joffe as well as the "casting lady who found me" and concluded by saying: "I thank God, Buddha, that I am even here."

'Friday 13th' busts box office

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Friday the 13th - Part V" slashed through a group of competitors including "Beverly Hills Cop" to jump to the No. 1 spot at the box office in its first weekend of release.

The latest episode in the enormously successful horror series, earned a whopping $8 million in its debut weekend. Paramount Pictures, which released the movie, said it was the best opening weekend of any 1985 film.

"Beverly Hills Cop," the Eddie Murphy action comedy and top money maker for more than a dozen weeks, not only slipped in the money ratings, it plummeted to sixth place for the weekend. It was far outdistanced by a group of a new releases while drawing in $3.9 million towards its total gross of $191 million.

"Porky's Revenge," the third offering on the escapades of school chums on the loose in a Florida town, took the No. 2 spot by earning $6.2 million its first weekend.

"Mask," the true story of a disfigured boy named Rocky Dennis which stars Cher as his mom, came in third in its third week of release, garnering $6.1 million in receipts.

Finishing fourth in its debut weekend was "The Last Dragon." The Motown movie about a martial arts expert picked up $5.3 million.

Steve's Stuff

By Steve Belvin

Final Four forecast

Well basketball fans, it's that time again. Everyone's attention is focused on Lexington, Ky., where a bunch of Hoyas, Redmen, Wildcats and Tigers are getting ready to square off.

The NCAA tournament Final Four gets down this weekend and it promises to have an abundance of slam dunking, fast breaking and nasty defense.

Therefore, it's time for the Second Annual Steven Belvin Final Four Forecast.

As you recall last year, I batted .1000 by predicting a Houston-Georgetown final with the boys from D.C. winning. So on with the show: Let the predictions begin.

The first matchup is the Memphis St. Tigers versus the Villanova Wildcats.

The pressure is on the Wildcats to create an All-Big East Final. Unfortunately, Keith Lee and the Tigers aren't going for it.

Regardless of what the critics think, Lee is a good player who does know how to play defense (yes, he moves his feet, the man has over 100 blocked shots). More important, he has a pretty good turn-around jumper, which Villanova will find out.

Lee will score over 20 points, and 7-footer William Bedford will do a decent job of containing Ed Pickney and DeWayne McClain on the inside.

Designated Hero Andre Turner won't have to bail the Tigers out this time as Memphis St. rolls 58-52.

Many say the second matchup, Georgetown-St. John's, is for the title, now that Georgia Tech is out of the picture.

It's round four of the Big Boppers from the East. Georgetown leads two rounds to one. The first one won by St. John's was a close decision. The second and third were knockouts for the Hoyas.

It will be a physical contest. The biggest Hoya of them all, Patrick Ewing, with understudy Ralph Dalton, will work St. John's Bill Wennington and Walter Berry over inside.

Chris Mullin will have his usual 23 point, six-assist outing, but it won't be enough. For the second consecutive meeting the Georgetown guards will hit from the perimeter and the Hoyas defense is as tough as ever.

Georgetown will seize control of the game in the final five minutes. Final score: Georgetown 74, St. John's 68.

Thus setting the stage for a Georgetown-Memphis St. confrontation. Can coach John Thompson lead his troops to the promised land for a second consecutive time? Will Dana Kirk and the Tigers bring national prominence back to the Metro Conference?

In the opening minutes Memphis St. comes out smoking. Turner hits a couple of bombs, Lee hits two turn-arounds and the Hoyas fall behind.

At the 13-minute mark the Tigers' lead is 17-8 and now the announcers are saying how well Keith Lee moves his feet on defense. Big John calls a timeout to get his team regrouped. Slowly they battle their way back into the game using full-court pressure defense. Their shots begin to fall and the score is Memphis St. 32, Georgetown 29 at the half.

The Hoyas keep up the pressure in the second half. Memphis St. ball-handlers begin to wear down, bringing the ball downcourt against constant pressure. Bill Martin and David Wingate ignite the Hoyas shooting and Lee gets into foul trouble.

With Lee gone and Bedford struggling, Ewing and the Hoyas simply dominate. Memphis St. trails 49-42 at the 10-minute mark and for all practical purposes, the game is over.

Ewing closes out his career as a Hoyas with a 15 point, 15 rebound performance. Lee is almost unheard of in the second half. The Hoyas win in matter-of-factly form, 63-56. Here's hoping I keep my forecast record perfect.

Hoyas, Redmen set for round three

NEW YORK (AP) — St. John's basketball coach Lou Carnesecca is happy that he stuck around long enough to reach the NCAA Final Four for the first time.

"Years ago you were allowed to make mistakes," the 60-year-old Carnesecca said Monday. "But not today, because of the hype, TV and the money is tremendous. There is pressure. If you don't make in three or four years, you're on your way."

No. 3 St. John's, one of three Big East Conference teams to reach Saturday's Final Four at Lexington, Ky., faces top-ranked Georgetown, a team which has routed the Redmen in their past two meetings, 85-69, 92-80. The Redmen hung on for a 66-65 win in their first contest.

These were the only teams ranked No. 1 this season. The Redmen knocked the Hoyas off the top perch and stayed there for five weeks until the Hoyas avenged the loss Jan. 26. The Hoyas moved back to No. 1 and have been there ever since.

Villanova, another Big East team, plays Memphis State in the other Final Four meeting Saturday.

Carnesecca gave his team a day off Monday and he was presented with the Kodak National Invitation Tournament Man of the Year Award at a Madison Square Garden news conference.

"We know them (Georgetown) quite well," said Carnesecca, in his 17th season and second tour as the Redmen's head coach. "They're a great team."

"Maybe we concentrated too much on (7-foot All-America Patrick) Ewing. He's going to get his anyway. If you concentrate too much on the big fella, the other guys will chop you up — Michael Jackson, (Ralph) Dalton, (Reggie) Williams ...

"We've got to stop beating ourselves. That's what happened in the last two games."

The Redmen, 31-3, beat North Carolina State 69-60 Sunday for the West Regional title. It marked the first time that St. John's made the Final Four since 1952, when it advanced to the final only to lose to Kansas. No. 1 New York City team to make it to the Final Four since NYU in 1960.

"It was a tough day," Carnesecca said of the N.C. State game. "It was so close. Joe Lapchick (Carnesecca's predecessor) always told me, 'The idea is to survive.' But you always want more."

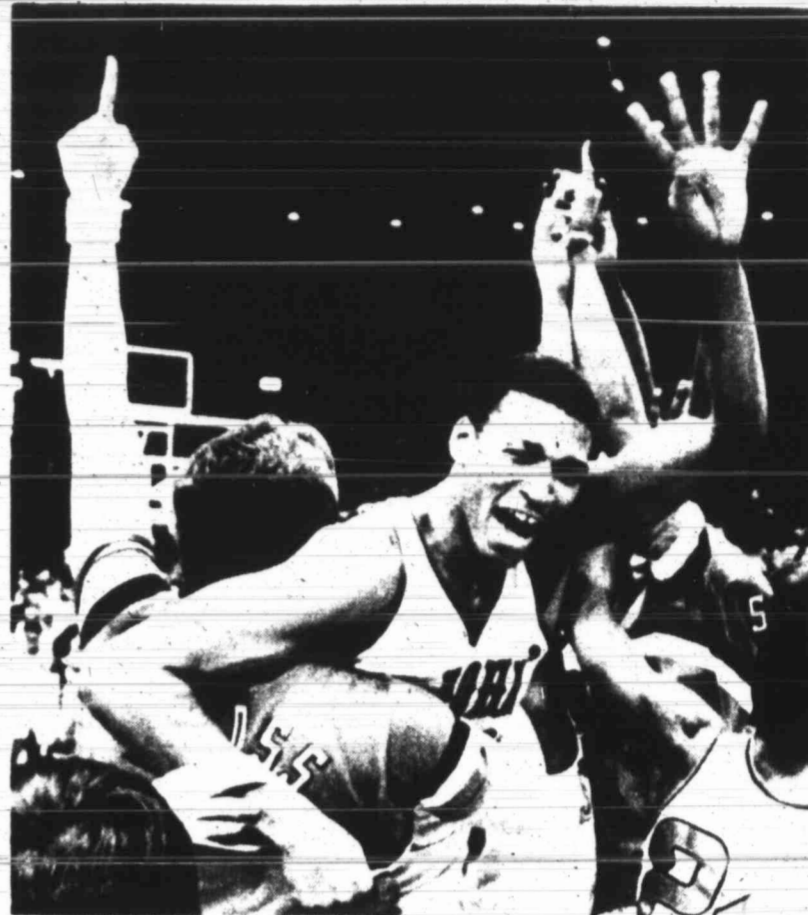

The Hoyas, 34-2, captured the East Regional Saturday with a 60-54 victory over Georgia Tech, gaining the Final Four for the third time in four years. No team since UCLA in 1973 has won consecutive NCAA crowns.

Carnesecca gave his players off from practice Monday and said there would be a light workout Tuesday before heading to Kentucky.

Despite knowing all about Georgetown, he said he would review the films of the previous games against Georgetown for what he calls "La Rivincita," Italian for rubber match. He will also look at the Georgetown-Georgia Tech film.

"To beat Georgetown, you cannot afford to have an off day. In fact, a good day won't do. You need a great day," he said.

St. John's All-American Chris Mullin, who has totaled 102 points in four games, is the leading scorer in the tournament. Walter Berry,

How sweet it is!

St. John's RON STEWART leaps into the arms of a teammate while celebrating after St. John's had defeated North Carolina St. in the West Regional, to advance to the Final Four.

6-8 sophomore, has 81 points. Mullin's ball handling was a major factor in the Redmen beating the Hoyas the first time. In their last game, the Hoyas' box-and-one defense limited Mullin's shooting game in the second half and virtually denied his passing game which has been a major factor in St. John's success.

Villanova coach ROLLIE MASSIMINO hugs his son, ROLLIE JR., after Villanova defeated North Carolina in the Southeast Regionals, advancing them to the Final Four.

Tigers won't change anything for Villanova

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (A) — Relying on an old political adage, Memphis State basketball coach Dana Kirk says there's no use fixing something that's not broke.

Kirk started getting his Tigers in shape Monday for the semifinals of the NCAA Tournament, and he said he planned to work on the plays his squad already knows.

"We'll review and go with the things we've been doing to give us our 31 wins," he said.

"There'll be some adjustments made as to what we're doing, maybe a couple of inbounds plays against pressure defense and this type of thing, the little things. The big things we worked on all year, there won't be that much of a change."

"When you start getting in a tournament like this, you don't want to make any wholesale changes at all. We'll do the things that have been good to us," he said.

Kirk's Tigers, ranked fifth during the regular season, face unranked Villanova in the semifinal opener on Saturday.

No. 1 Georgetown plays No. 3 St. John's in the second game in Lexington, Ky., with the winner facing the victor of the Memphis State-Villanova contest.

Keith Lee, a 6-10 senior forward who holds Memphis State's all-time scoring and rebounding records, has been in foul trouble for much of the tournament, spending a total of 61 minutes on the bench in the past four games.

But Kirk said he can't worry about that.

"I won't anticipate anybody getting into foul trouble. That's not something we look for. If it happens, we'll go with the situation that's in hand," he said.

And Vincent Askew, a 6-5 freshman guard who starts for Memphis State, said the other Tigers just have to play harder when Lee goes to the bench.

"It seems like when Keith goes out, it inspires the rest of the team," Askew said. "Keith is due for a good game, and when he has that good game I feel sorry for the other team. I know what he can do."

Georgetown is rated the team to beat for the championship, but Kirk said he's not worried about Georgetown just yet.

Bucks run by injury-plagued Knicks 126-106

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Bucks Coach Don Nelson says playing his reserves keeps the rest of the team healthy.

The policy worked Monday night when the Bucks routed the New York Knicks 126-106 in National Basketball Association action.

NBA

The injury-plagued Knicks were without the services of Bernard King, the NBA's leading scorer; Bill Cartwright, Marvin Webster, Truck Robinson and Pat Cummings.

"Injuries have made it a very frustrating year," Knicks forward-guard Ernie Grunfeld said, "but we have to go out and play just the same."

"The Bucks were overpowering," New York Coach Hubie Brown said. "It could have been a larger deficit than it was, but Nelson played his second-stringers."

Nelson used reserves to spell his regulars as Milwaukee, having won the Central Division championship, plays out the regular season in anticipation of the NBA playoffs.

Eleswhere on a light night in the NBAS, Portland crushed the Los Angeles Clippers 120-99 and Kansas City whipped Seattle 121-106.

The Knicks fell behind quickly in the first quarter, and Milwaukee center Paul Mokeski said the Bucks even found time to experiment.

"It gave us a chance to do some things we can't against Boston and Philly," he said. "Brown mixes up his defense. Other teams don't use the trap like Hubie."

Sidney Moncrief scored 23 points and rookie Kenny Fields added a career-high 21 as the Bucks improved their record to 51-21. New York fell to 24-48.

The Bucks led 64-52 at intermission and extended their lead to 23 points behind Moncrief's 11 in the third period while Mokeski had 10. Grunfeld led all scorers with 30 points and teammate Trent Tucker added 23.

Cummings scored the first seven points of the game, and had 15 as Milwaukee took a 41-23 lead after the first quarter.

The Bucks hit 82 percent from the floor compared with the Knicks' 23 percent in the opening quarter.

Fields came off the bench in the second period to score 15 points as the Bucks maintained a 64-52 lead. Fields was perfect from the field and the free throw line in the quarter.

He said breaking in with the Bucks has been easy because his teammates are in such good condition.

"I just raise my hand to get the ball," he said.

The Knicks were outrebounded 22-14 in the first half.

"It has been a demoralizing year," Brown said. "We fought hard every night, but you can't win playing second-string guys 30 or 35 minutes a night."

Nelson was asked why Milwaukee, with few exceptions, has been able to avoid the sort of injury situation gripping Brown.

"That is a changing situation every year," he said. "We have been fortunate in avoiding that this year. I think playing everyone for short periods of time helps a lot."

Craig Hodges suggested another reason for the team's good condition.

"I think we have the longest preseason training of any team in the NBA," he said.

Blazers 120, Clippers 99
At Los Angeles, Kiki Vandeweghe scored 27 points and rookie Steve Colter added 25 for Portland. With Los Angeles holding its only lead, 35-34, with 8:09 left in the second quarter, the Trail Blazers ran off a 19-7 spurt and coasted.

Portland extended its lead to as many as 23 midway through the final quarter and finished with seven players in double figures.

Derek Smith led the Clippers with 18 points.

Gold take advantage of Gunslingers mistakes

DENVER (AP) — Quarterback Vince Evans scrambled 5 yards for a touchdown and passed for another as the Denver Gold capitalized on San Antonio turnovers to beat the Gunslingers 16-2 Monday night in United States Football League action.

Only 13,901 fans — a record low attendance for the franchise — witnessed the game in ideal weather conditions.

A second-quarter fumble by San Antonio quarterback Whit Taylor, making his first start of the season, set up the game's first score. Taylor fumbled the snap from center and Denver linebacker John Nevens recovered at the Gunslinger 23-yard line. The Gold scored five plays later on Evans' scrambling run up the middle. His 20-yard screen pass to running back Bill Johnson was the key play on the drive. Brian Speelman's extra-point attempt was blocked.

Denver mounted a third-quarter drive from its own 2-yard line that reached the San Antonio 5, where Johnson fumbled the ball away.

But Denver got the ball back three plays later on fullback Larry Canada's fumble, and Speelman kicked a 47-yard field goal for a 9-0 lead with 11:10 left in the game. Less than two minutes later, Taylor fumbled trying to avoid a sack and Denver's Mike Taliferro recovered at the San Antonio 27. Evans flipped a 1-yard scoring pass to Leonard Harris to cap a six-play drive with 5:39 left.

Denver, seeking the first shutout in its history, lost it with 1:55 remaining when Speelman couldn't handle a high snap on a punt in the end zone. Denver's Tom Kilkenny recovered in the end zone, preventing a possible San Antonio touchdown but giving up the safety.

The victory raised Denver's record to 3-2, while San Antonio, continuing to suffer offensive breakdowns, fell to 1-4.

Boston Red Sox WADE BOGGS sits in the bullpen after a weekend injury sidelined him in the Houston game on Monday. The injury will not keep him out for an extended period.

Ryan heats up Astro's pitching

By The Associated Press
 With spring training beyond the halfway mark, some veteran pitchers appear to be rounding into midseason form.
 Houston fireballer Nolan Ryan allowed only one hit and struck out seven in six scoreless innings Monday and the Astros held on for a 6-5 exhibition victory over the Boston Red Sox. Ryan walked four and threw a wild pitch, all in the first three innings, in his most impressive outing of the spring.
 Jerry Mumphrey led Houston's 14-hit attack with his first preseason homer, connecting off Boston relief ace Bob Stanley.
 Ray Burris pitched three-hit ball for six innings and Ben Oglivie went 4-for-5, including a triple and two RBI, as the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the San Francisco Giants 4-0. Giants' starter Mike Krukow also went six innings, allowing his first two outs of the spring.
 Hubie Brooks singled home the tying run and Terry Francona followed with a sacrifice fly in the sixth inning as the Montreal Expos defeated the New York Yankees 5-3. Phil Niekro, the New York starter, allowed only two hits in five innings, including a second-inning home run to Herm Winingham. Bill Gullickson allowed three runs and seven hits in six innings, the longest outing by a Montreal pitcher this spring.
 Luis Aguayo capped a three-run eighth inning with a game-winning single as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-4. With one out and the Phillies trailing 4-2, Juan Samuel doubled and took third on a single by Von Hayes off loser Willie Hernandez. After Mike Schmidt walked, John Wockenuss tied the game with a two-run pinch single and Aguayo drove in Schmidt with the winning run.
 Jack Morris gave up only two runs and four hits for Detroit in the first seven innings. The Tigers scored four times in the fourth against Steve Carlton.
 Otis Nixon singled home the winning run with his fourth hit in the top of the 13th inning and the Cleveland Indians edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3. Earlier, Nixon dropped Brian Dayett's routine fly ball with two outs in the bottom of the 10th, which allowed the Cubs to score the tying run.
 Rick Sutcliffe started for the Cubs and pitched seven strong innings, allowing two runs on three hits and striking out six. Neal Heaton started for the Indians and allowed just one run on three hits over six innings.
 The Cincinnati Reds scored five runs on six hits, including a double by Cesar Cedeno, off Bob Forsch in the third inning and defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4.

 Greg Gagne doubled home what proved to be the decisive run in the fourth inning and Steve Lombardozzi doubled home two more in the ninth to lead the Minnesota Twins over the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1. Mike Smithson, Tom Klawitter and Curt Wardle combined to hold the Dodgers to six hits. Smithson gave up one run on three hits in five innings.
 Doug Frobels' three-run homer helped power Pittsburgh to a 10-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals, ending the Pirates' eight-game losing streak. The Pirates, who jumped on left-hander Larry Gura for four first-inning runs, collected 13 hits while Lee Tunnell pitched six innings, allowing three hits and an unearned run.
 Dave Rozema pitched five scoreless innings and Ned Yost had three hits and drove in both runs off Scott McGregor as the Texas Rangers nipped the Baltimore Orioles 2-1. Wayne Gross homered for Baltimore, which has lost six of its last seven games.
 Lloyd Moseby, Willie Aikens and Ron Shepherd hit solo home runs as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the Chicago White Sox 5-1 and boosted their exhibition record to 13-3.
 A split squad of White Sox lost to the New York Mets 6-1 as left-hander Bill Latham, who is given only an outside chance at making the majors this season, pitched five scoreless innings.

Smoking Joe Frazier headed back to ring

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
 AP Sports Writer
 It's too bad Joe Frazier is not a golfer. He could bask in the sun and in the glow of his reputation on the senior's tour.
 But, of course, 41-year-old Joe Frazier was a fighter, one good enough to win the world heavyweight championship and beat Muhammad Ali.
 Smokin' Joe never has quit wanting to be a fighter, and now he plans to be one again.
 Regis Levesque, a Montreal promoter, who owns a steak house, has announced he has signed Frazier to fight 47-year-old Robert Cleroux, a former Canadian champion June 23. The site would be the Montreal suburb of Laval unless it is blocked by the passage of safety regulations governing contact sports that are now before Jacques Brassard, the minister responsible for sports in Quebec.
 Frazier has fought once in nine years. That was Dec. 3, 1981, at Chicago when he huffed and puffed his way to a draw with Floyd "Jumbo" Cummings in a 10-round match, which, in the eyes of this reporter, Frazier lost by a wide margin.
 Cleroux hasn't fought in 16 years, and was mediocre at best when he did fight. His claim to fame was beating George Chuvalo for the Canadian title in 1960.
 Asked what he would do if approached about licensing a Frazier-Cleroux fight, Jose Torres, the chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission and world light heavyweight champion in 1965-67, said:
 "My first impression would be to fight them (the promoter)."

Wreck victim listed critical

A 22-year-old Big Spring man remains in critical condition in a Lubbock hospital after a one-car rollover Monday night in town.

Derrell Wayne Douglass, 22, of 1607 Donley is on life support systems in the surgical intensive care unit following surgery at Lubbock General Hospital, according to hospital spokesman Sharon Hathaway.

He is suffering from a "cloed head injury" and a fractured left clavicle, she said.

Douglass was admitted at 2 a.m. today to the Lubbock hospital, where he was transferred from Malone-Hogan Hospital, Ms. Hathaway said.

According to a nursing supervisor at Malone-Hogan, Douglass was transferred to Lubbock as soon as he arrived at the hospital from the accident, which occurred at 8:45 p.m. Monday.

According to the police report, Douglass was thrown from his car while it was rolling over and landed 20 feet away from where the car came to a rest.

A passenger in Douglass' car, Anita Ann Green, 20, of 1607 Donley, also was injured in the accident. She remains in satisfactory condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital, according to a hospital spokeswoman, who said staff did not know the extent of her injuries.

According to police reports, Douglass was driving west on the east 11th Place Extension when his white 1974 Ford Pinto collided with a concrete culvert on the north side of the roadway.

The accident report stated that his car "apparently" left 285 feet of skid marks on the asphalt before the car hit the culvert.

After hitting the culvert, the car rolled off the roadway and landed on its top 75 feet from the road, the report stated.

Three persons involved in a two-car accident earlier Monday were treated and released from Malone-Hogan for minor injuries.

Treated and released were: Gregory Ewell Kelley, 25, of Dimmitt, the driver of one of the vehicles; Jerome Rex Willett, 53, of Gail Route, driver of the other car; and Laurel Adair, 46, of Gail Route, a passenger in Willett's car.

According to police reports, both Kelley and Willett were driving south in the 300 block of N. Gregg when the accident occurred at 12:33 p.m.

Willett, who was traveling in front of Kelley, had stopped his 1974 brown Chevrolet Impala for the traffic light at the intersection of N.W. Third and N. Gregg, the report stated.

Two dozen space rats to be sacrificed after next Shuttle mission

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — NASA scientists will kill and autopsy 24 rats within hours after they return from a week in orbit aboard the space shuttle in the first of a series of animal experiments designed to help understand physical changes caused by weightlessness.

The 24 rats are being flown next month to test a new animal cage developed for the space shuttle. A scientist said the cage eventually will enable rats to be sacrificed in orbit to give experts data never before available on the process of adapting to the absence of gravity in space.

Paul X. Callahan, a scientist at NASA's Ames Research Center in California, said the study of the rats is essential for gaining a thorough understanding of the changes organs in the body undergo while adapting to outer space.

The rats, along with three squirrel monkeys that will not be killed, will be housed in special cages in a science module carried into orbit in the cargo bay of the space shuttle Challenger.

NASA announced, in a briefing at the Johnson Space Center near Houston, that the mission carrying the rats and monkeys is to be launched from the Kennedy Space Center, Fla. on April 29 with a

Beer brewing in space: More buzz for U.S. buck

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — Joel Fairbanks says his class experiment — a test of the effects of weightlessness on beer brewing — is bound to be chosen by NASA for a berth on a space shuttle mission because it has a practical application.

The experiment may show that yeast in the beer-making process remains active longer in space, and if that happens, the beer's alcohol content may double, Fairbanks, 17, said.

Fairbanks is a national semifinalist in the Space Shuttle Student Involvement program, a nationwide competition to encourage the study of science.

He and 36 others are traveling to Cleveland this week to meet with engineers of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to discuss their projects.

The high school senior said his project should at least have more appeal than such experiments as the effects of zero gravity on orb-weaving spiders or the nesting of ants.

The experiment, whose costs will be paid by the G. Heileman Brewing Co. of La Crosse, should appeal to business, Fairbanks said.

Yeast tends to settle in earth-bound beer vats because of gravitational pull. But in space, the lack of gravity may produce more fermentation — and more alcohol.

"You get more buzz for your buck," he said.

hormones.

Callahan said the experiment success depends upon sacrificing the rats as quickly as possible after they return to the gravity of Earth. The animals, he said, will start readapting quickly after leaving space and that major data will be lost if the rats live for 12 hours after returning to Earth.

"If we can get them back (in the Kennedy lab) within three hours after landing, we'll be able to get all of the important parameters of the study," said Callahan.

On a flight of the space shuttle next year, he said, plans call for rats to be sacrificed in orbit, before the rodents are able to readapt to the effects of gravity. In this way, said Callahan, scientists can be assured that all bodily changes in the rats can be attributed to weightlessness.

Callahan said the rats enable scientists to study space adaptation in ways that are impossible with astronauts. For instance, he said, since rats have a short life span, scientists can determine if the stresses of space travel will have long-term physical effects that changes longevity. Such results would not be available for decades with human beings.

human crew of seven. The astronauts will operate and monitor 15 experiments, including the rats and monkeys.

Callahan said the rats will be sacrificed within hours after the shuttle lands at the Kennedy Space Center.

Scientists at a special Kennedy lab will take samples of tissue and fluids for 137 different types of tests. The studies will include examinations of muscles, bones, internal organs, body fat and

Silly or serious gifts on Tap at Stagecoach

Need an Easter gift for someone who has everything? Why not surprise that special someone with a gift from Stagecoach Gifts. They put a special emphasis on seasonal gift occasions.

All year long the shop carries a wide selection of gift ideas. Such as "Precious Moments" figurines by Jonathan and David, collectors porcelain figurines, signed and dated. Also popular with collectors are Don James animals, a line of finely detailed figurines.

There's a good selection of greeting cards, humorous and inspirational plaques, foil pictures, Garfield items, a variety of theme calendars, posters, stuffed animals, toys, souvenirs and a big gag gift selection.

Stagecoach Gifts also offers bridal novelties: a pair of embossed champagne glasses, bridal garter, an ostrich feature registry pen, ring bearer's pillow. And of course, printing service on wedding invitations.

"We are a 'medium price' gift shop," says Jason Campbell, co-owner of Stagecoach Gifts. "We don't try to compete with the luxury gift store ... we carry a carefully selected stock of popular items."

Stagecoach Gifts is definitely worth a visit. They're open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday (they are not closed during lunch hours). Take I-20 East, exit at Moss Lake exit. Shop is located at corner of south service road and Moss Lake Road. Jason and his father W.R. (Rick) Campbell are the owners.

C. Ramirez and Sons Boot and Shoe Repair — Three generations of Creative Talent

With 43 years of experience and three generations of creative talent, C. Ramirez and Sons produce beautiful handmade wallets and are able to repair boots and shoes, almost like new. The trade is quickly vanishing.

The skins and hides C. Ramirez and Sons use to produce these beautiful and carefully designed wallets are selected because of their quality and beauty. When selecting the type of wallet to be made, the customer must know if he or she wants a tri-fold or single fold. Tri-fold wallets must be made from a thin skin or hide because of the folds the wallet will have. The single fold wallet can be made of a thicker skin or hide because it has one fold.

C. Ramirez and Sons repair boots and shoes of all kinds, from half soles, full soles and high hill caps for ladies shoes. In the repairing of boots soles many processes are followed which include glueing, hammering, stitching, tracing, sanding and applying wax over the walls of the heel and sole. The equipment used on the repairing of a pair of boots consist of 14 tools.

In the near future C. Ramirez and Sons will offer handmade boots, and a wide selection of skins and hides, including kangaroo, elephant, calf, shark, eel and antelope. C. Ramirez and Sons will provide free hand stitching, choice of design and beautiful array of colors.

C. Ramirez and Sons are located at 310 N.W. 3rd St. (next to Carlos Restaurant) and is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday with experience and talent of a trade that has been passed down through generations.
