Women Worry Oilmen

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON AP—Oil drilling contractors are worrying these days about drilling trends, offshore insurance coverage, and hiring women for drilling crews.

Ed McGhee, executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contractors, says there is no way 1976 domestic drilling activity can improve on 1975 or even match it.

He also reports several Gulf of Mexico offshore contractors have spent the last six weeks scrambling for new insurance coverage in that a major insurance canceled all its workmen's compensation coverage because of recent accidents.

And he says contractors in several areas express alarm about growing pressure from federal and state Offices of Equal Opportunity to hire women for drilling crews.

"The concern goes beyond the usual objections about possible disruption of work and adverse reactions of work and adverse reactions from wives and male workers," McGhee said.

"Part of the worry is the possible increase in the safety hazard for other crew members."

McGhee said some employers also are fearful for the safety of the women themselves while working on the rig floor.

"Several recent studies indicate that, on the average, women possess less strength and stamina," he said. "At least one oil company which has employed them as roustabouts says privately that the ladies are more prone to back injuries."

McGhee said it is the concensus of drilling statisticians that well completions this year will surpass every year since 1962 except 1975.

"The experts point out that the count of active rigs in the United States has fallen behind the year-ago every week since Feb. 1," he said.

"An unrealistically large rebound would be required to make up for the cumulative shortfall this year."

McGhee said the count of well completions the first quarter this year did exceed comparable figures for 1975 but that the totals are somewhat deceiving.

"The reason was the carry over of work from 1975 into January," he said.

"There also are indications that operators are putting their money into shallower, less expensive wells that require fewer rig days to complete."

Fight Postpones US Evacuations

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Authorities today postponed for one day a convoy that was to evacuate several hundred foreigners, including about 140 Americans, from Beirut to Damascus after fighting was reported along the route.

The Palestine Liberation Organization told the British Embassy, which organized the convoy, it would not be able to assure safety during the six-hour motorcade.

The embassy said the PLO reported heavy shelling duels between Syrian and Lebanese leftist forces near Sidon, 25 miles south of Beirut. The leftist-controlled Beirut radio reported Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies exchanged artillery and mortar fire with Syrian forces in the Moslem-held sector of Beirut.

A British-led convoy of about 70 persons that carried the bodies of the murdered U.S. ambassador and his economic adviser to Damascus on Friday was caught in an artillery crossfire, but nobody was hurt.

The Palestinian guerrilla-Moslem leftist command said it had arrested more suspects in its investigation of the deaths of Ambassador Francis E. Meloy Jr., economic counselor Robert O. Waring and their Lebanese driver.

The three were shot to death in the no man's land between Christian and Moslem sectors of Beirut on Wednesday while on their way to a meeting with President-elect Elias Sarkis. The deaths prompted President Ford to order the evacuation of any of the 1,350 Americans in Beirut who want to leave the war-torn city.

The leftist announcement said the arrests were made in the Moslem sector of Beirut but did not say how many had been arrested. The Palestinians said three Lebanese arrested earlier had admitted taking part in the killings.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat told reporters he had urged Ford not to intevene militarily in Lebanon after the diplomats' deaths. Sadat also reversed an earlier position and said he would not object to French troops being sent to police a Lebanese truce if Sarkis requested them.

Syrian President Hafez Assad said in Paris, where he met with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, that negotiations to end the Lebanese civil war should take place solely between warring Lebanese Christians and Moslems and should not include Palestinians. Assad then left for Damascus.

King Gustaf, Commoner Are Wed

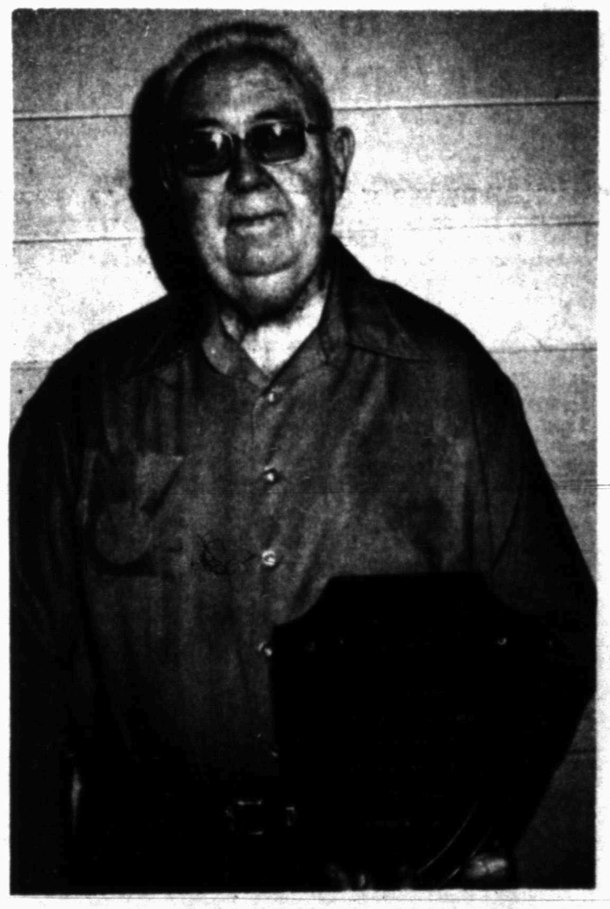

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The young king of Sweden and the commoner who won his heart at first sight were wed today amid storybook splendor in a million-dollar pageant attended by kings and presidents and watched by millions over television.

King Garl XVI Gustaf wearing an admiral's uniform, beamed as he walked down the aisle of 13th century Storkyrkan Cathedral to hear Silvia Sommerlath of West Germany, speak her ancient vows in near-flawless Swedish. She wore an ivory Dior gown.

After they "clicked" at their first meeting in Munich, during the 1972 Olympics, they tried to keep the courtship secret. But it soon came to light and last march the king formally announced the engagement that led to the first wedding of a reigning Swedish monarch in 180 years.

About 150,000 Swedes began lining the streets at dawn to greet Queen Silvia of Sweden — at 32, two years older than her king. They waved blue and yellow Swedish flags and balloons with pictures of the royal couple.

The 1,200 invited wedding guests included three reigning European monarchs — King Olav of Norway, King Baudouin of Belgium and Queen Margarethe of Denmark.

OUTSTANDING CITIZEN—L. L. (Pat) Moore, a former Scurry County Commissioner and an Ira resident since 1909, was presented the Outstanding Citizen Award Friday night at the Ira Community Center. Jimmy Wilson, president of the Ira Centennial Committee, made the presentation.

AT RANCHING HERITAGE CENTER

Dedication Of Cogdell's General Store Set July 2

LUBBOCK—Lye soap, stick candy, a washboard, branding iron, dollhouse furniture or a work of art....they'll all be available with hundreds of other items at Cogdell's General Store at the Ranching Heritage Center.

Some items have been made especially for the ranch store, including the Rocking RH branding iron, a Texas dinner bell, a poker and an unusual doll.

An inventory for the new store is being assembled now for visitors at the July 2-5 formal opening of the Ranching Heritage Center at The Museum of Texas Tech University. Like the rest of the center, there will be authenticity to the store.

The Ranching Heritage Center has a score of original and authentically restored ranching structures depicting the history of America's ranching industry. The store is a replica of the country mercantile, one with a little bit of everything. The dedication of the center, including the store, will take place July 2.

The purpose of the store is to assist, supplement and complement the educational program of the center. Like the historic country store, it is to hold experiences as well as merchandise. Any profit will go to the Ranching Headquarters Association, a volunteer organization which has been largely responsible for acquisition and restoration of buildings at the Ranching Heritage Center. It was organized in 1969 and has assisted with development since that time.

Typically, the old country store was a gathering place, providing an opportunity to exchange news, relate troubles and pleasures. It was at the general store that travelers arrived and departed. Customers could buy a postage stamp, a coffin, a wagon, dress material, a can of sardines or a pistol. It smelled of apples, cheese, tobacco, oranges, salted fish, axle grease, soap, kerosene and a pot-bellied stove.

Some of the merchandise will be different, and customers will be spared many of the old-time smells. But the atmosphere will be the same.

It is made possible by a gift from Mrs. Jonisue Cogdell Stiff, in memory of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Cogdell Sr. of Snyder.

Cogdell was born in Mississippi where the pioneer family donated the land for the town of Oxford. Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Cogdell Sr. were married

AMERICANS HONOR FATHERS TODAY

Dads Are Remembered In Myriad Ways

EDITOR'S NOTE — The old story goes that a son at 18 is amazed at how dumb his father is, and at 23 is equally amazed at how much father has learned in five years. Fathers, all shapes, sizes and temperaments, mold our lives far more than we realize. Here, some famous Americans remember the guy Father's Day is all about.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In myriad ways do we remember Dad.

To Sen. Hubert Humphrey, he was more than a father, "he was my best friend."

To playwright Arthur Miller, he was best remembered "for his endurance and affection in hard times."

To Arthur Ashe, he is "one of the greatest success stories."

To actor Robert Young, he was "very remote and distant and aloof," but dedicated to his family nonetheless.

To Sen. John Glenn, "he was a curious man," full of questions, always asking if there was a better way.

To actress Mary Tyler Moore, "he's a very disciplined individual and very true to his principles," and he yielded those lessons in life to her.

So do Americans, this Sunday, celebrate their fathers.

"One father is more than a hundred schoolmasters," an old poet said.

He is the exacting judge of a lawn well-mown, a school paper carefully written, a skirt too short, nights out too late. He is not always right. But he may as well be.

He teaches toughness and tenderness, courage and caution. Mother presides at our birth. Fatherhood is less distinct, a suit of clothes every man wears differently.

In terms of appreciation, Mother's Day came first, proposed in 1872 by Julia Ward Howe, established in 1914. Father's Day was proposed in 1910 by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash., as a tribute to her father who raised six motherless children. Now in a Spokane nursing home, she lived to see it declared a national holiday in 1972.

Sometimes it takes mother to put father in perspective. In Arthur Miller's Pulitzer Prize-winning play, "Death of a Salesman," it is Willy Loman's wife who admonishes his brutish sons, "Attention must be paid to this man."

But Miller's father was no Willy Loman. He was a clothing manufacturer and Miller marvels even now over his "never-ending attempt to uphold the dignity of the family when things were tough in the Depression."

His greatest gift from his father? "I suppose his giving me my own head as to what I wanted to do, even though he couldn't understand it."

Robert Young, whose paternal roles in "Father Knows Best," and "Marcus Welby, M.D.," set a fatherly ideal sometimes impossible to meet, often found himself reacting onstage to the memory of his father.

"I tried, in a sense, to be more open with my own children, having the experience of being cut off from my own father. It was an effort to demonstrate to them my feelings which, I felt, my father had toward me, but, perhaps because of some strong reticence, maybe even embarrassment, he wasn't able to demonstrate."

"Because there was a lot of Dad in me," his role in "Father Knows Best" was affected. "There was a severe military strain in his demeanor, a great forbidding tone in his voice. So I kind of leaned over backward to avoid that. I tried to make my voice kinder."

Life was not easy on the North Carolina farm where Jim (Catfish) Hunter grew up, either. The rules were clear and justice was direct. His father farmed in summer, worked the log woods in winter. But he always found time for his sons.

"When I played baseball, or sports, or anything, he was always there, encouraging us to play hard to win and everything. He always took me to the American Legion ball games, and if it hadn't been for him, I don't guess I'd have been in baseball."

For three years, his father drove 70 miles every other night to take his son to join the American Legion team he played with, and more miles to "away" games. "Then we'd get back home, some mornings 'bout five o'clock, and start to get to bed, and he'd say, 'no, we gotta go to work now. We already done the playin', now we got to work.'"

Work or play. When young Hubert Humphrey was a sub on his high school basketball team and working in his father's Huron, S.D., drugstore, he had to face that conflict too. One night, the store had to be stocked, and there was a game.

"Dad said, 'Well, son, you've got to make a choice sometimes between what your work is and what your pleasures are,'"

His father was everything, from businessman to mayor, from Sunday School teacher to state legislator. "Yet he took time with me when I was a boy and he counseled me when I was older. And he took a great deal of interest in everything I tried to do."

His father loved music and poetry, traveled to hear symphony or opera, even bought local radio time in the town of 10,000 to broadcast poetry and classical music at night.

The Humphrey home was full of books, visitors and lively arguments. "My poor mother," he remembers now. "I've often wondered how she put up with this."

Her special place in the family was defended promptly by father. "Any little expressions of profanity around mother and he would come right over on

Gallan Guilty In Massacre

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — The trial of 13 mercenaries came to a dramatic close today as Tony Callan admitted guilt in the massacre of 14 British mercenaries and the killing of an Angolan soldier and a civilian.

"I am responsible, I gave the order for that execution and no one else. I realize the consequences, OK?" Callan told the five-member Angolan people's tribunal after a sudden change of heart about defending himself.

He had previously refused to answer any questions in court.

Presiding Judge Ernesto da Silva said sentencing of the 10 British and three American mercenaries would take place next week. The prosecution is demanding death by firing squad for all the accused.

One by one, the three American and 10 British mercenaries took the microphone to plead for their lives. The first was "Colonel Callan," a Briton of Greek Cypriot origins whose real name is Costas Georgiou.

"Costas Georgiou, tell the truth," he kept telling himself aloud.

"Did you kill anyone else?" Da Silva asked after Callan took full responsibility for the massacre of the mercenaries. They had wanted to go home after Callan shot one of them for firing a rocket on friendly troops.

"Yes," said Callan. "I have killed a soldier and I have killed the civilian. I am telling you straight. I would not lie."

Dads Remembered

you and say, 'Look, buddy, you're not going to abuse your mother and you're going to respect her. She's my wife and she's my sweetheart. She just happens to be your mother. I insist you apologize and shape up."

Tennis star Arthur Ashe watched his father build a seven-room house with his own hands. Consequently, he was not beholden to banks. "He's always been very self-sufficient."

Hired in the late 1940s as one of the first black policemen in Richmond, Va., the elder Ashe retired last year to hunt and fish.

"He believed in education at all costs for me and my brother," Ashe remembers. "There were always plenty of books around the house, although he could barely read or write. He recognized the value of them. He always believed that hard work would pay off in the end. He was never bitter. He taught us self respect, and respect for our fellow man. And the way he taught us was we saw him doing it."

Actress Mary Tyler Moore lives not far from her mother and father in Studio City, Calif., but in a sense her father is closer than that.

"He was strict," she recalls. "He had very high standards for me. And I think, unfortunately, I have inherited that too. In a negative sense. My standards for myself are too high. Not to the point that it's going to send me to a shrink. But I tend to disappoint myself more often than I am pleased. That's just not as much fun...

"We didn't have an open relationship. Our relationship was rather formal and reserved because he's not demonstrative. There was never a buddy-buddy kind of feeling. But the love was always there."

John Glenn's father was a plumber by trade. But he loved to travel and had a strong interest in education. "He was just curious about how you could do things better," his son recalls. "I think that was probably the biggest legacy he gave me."

Young Glenn was encouraged to read, take trips on his own, even when fairly young. Patriotism and religion were hallmarks of the Glenn home. Both parents were elders in the Presbyterian Church and the elder Glenn was proud of his service in World War I. All those things rubbed off on young John Glenn.

A father's interest often underscores what his children do. Arthur Miller's father loved the theater. "He always insisted I tell him the story of whatever I was doing. If I saw a gleam in his eye, I knew I had something. And if I didn't, I knew I didn't. If there was any wonder in any of the plays, that's what he loved."

Actor Jimmy Stewart's father was a 6-foot-4, 220-pound Irishman with two conflicting duties on Sunday — tenor at the Presbyterian church in Indian, Pa., and a member of the town's volunteer fire department, a block away. Inevitably, the fire siren would scream during the service and Alexander Stewart would sneak out to answer the call.

His father's ambition was to sing a solo, despite his tendency to lose interest in the words of the hymn. On the Sunday he got his chance, sure enough he was interrupted by the fire siren. Torn, he answered the fire call.

When he returned, the sermon was almost over.

WTC Student Returns From Training School

Kenneth L. Holcomb of Roby, a sophomore student at Western Texas College, has returned from Racine, Wisconsin, where he attended the Jacobsen Special Training School June 7-11 at the expense of the Jacobsen Turf Equipment Distributors.

The school has been offered for the past eight years to selected students who plan to enter park or golf course management as a career. WTC's nominee was selected by Tom Jones, instructor college's Golf and Grounds Operations program, and Clint Deeds, college golf course superintendent. Holcomb was selected on the basis of his performance in last fall's Equipment and Shop class, his ability to operate and maintain equipment and his potential to share the knowledge he would acquire with other students upon his return.

Holcomb and 24 other students from across the country received training on engines, mowers, mowing units, turf tractors, hydraulics, basic management functions and the care and operation of equipment. Ken's main comment about the school was that "It was a once in a lifetime experience."

Robert F. Mitchell of Colonial Motor Co. in Dallas made the necessary arrangements to have an invitation to the training school sent to WTC. Jones said that as long as the invitation remains open the Golf and Grounds Operations department will be looking forward to selecting a student to attend each summer.

AUSTIN—Ned Underwood, a teacher at Snyder High School, is serving a two-year term on the Teacher Personal Services Committee of the Texas Stake Teachers Association.

Underwood, of 3009 Austin Avenue, was appointed to the statewide standing committee by Mrs. Grace Grimes of Marshall, state president of TSTA.

The Teacher Personal Services Committee is responsible for such matters as credit unions, retirement, tenure, insurance, discount programs, and other benefits for TSTA members.

The nine standing committees of the 140,000-member teachers organization will meet at the 28th annual TSTA Leaders Conference July 19-21 in Austin to plan for the coming year.

Boys Group From Mexico Here Tuesday

Approximately 40 boys from Monterrey, Mex. will come to Snyder and present a musical show at the Scurry County Coliseum on Tuesday, June 22, at 8:30 p.m. A mariachi mass will also be presented at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church at 7 p.m., June 22.

The boys, all from 10 to 18 years old, are from the "Cuidad de los Ninos de Monterrey, Mexico," an orphanage in Monterrey.

The group, internationally known for its folk music, is touring the United States presenting interpretative Mexican folk music and dances. Later this year, the group plans to present a program at the summer Olympics in Canada.

Admission for adults is $2.50 and $1 for children under 12. Advance tickets for adults are $2. Tickets may be purchased at the Corrales Music World, the Tiger Barber Shop, Snyder Florsit Shop and Our Lady of Guadalupe Church. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

Rioting In South Africa Subsides

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Black mobs today attacked black looters and hoods they believe were responsible for the destruction and violence of recent days, but otherwise an uneasy calm replaced the worst racial conflict in South Africa's history, police said.

Two looters trapped iniside a shop in Tembisa, outside Johannesburg, were reportedly beaten to death by other blacks and a third man was injured and taken to a hospital.

In Tokoza township, blacks incensed at finding a beer hall burned down stoned a crowd of young gangsters they held responsible.

There have been reports that black criminals took advantage of the riots to burn and loot shops and beer halls. Observers said the attacks against black hoods could be the beginning of a black backlash against the widespread destruction of their neighborhoods.

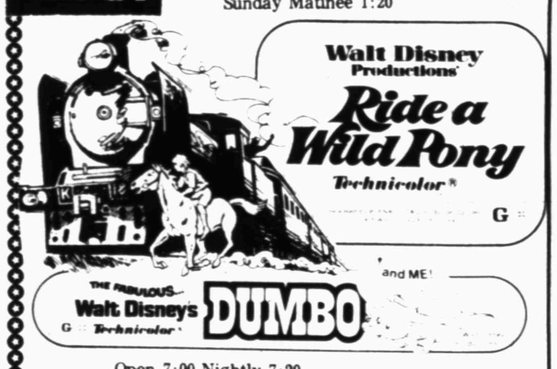

Heavily armed black and white policemen continued to patrol the tense, riot-scarred black townships ringing Johannesburg watching for fresh outbreaks of the violence that has taken at least 100 lives and left 1,000 injured since Wednesday.

The worst-hit townships were scenes of desolation.

Stehley, Wallace United In Double Ring Ceremony

MRS. RICKEY WOODY WALLACE

Jacque Ann Stehley and Rickey Woody Wallace were united in marriage at 8 p.m. June 12 at the Colonial Hill Baptist Church. The Reverend Miller F. Robinson, minister of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James M. Stehley of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wallace of Lubbock.

The altar of the church was decorated with three matching brass arched candlebra holding forty-five tall burning tapers. A pair of white pedestals with urns of apricot gladioli and carnations completed the candlelight setting.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned of candlelight silk organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace veiled over peau de soie. It featured a high cameo collar and bishop sleeves. Lace and miniature tucks enhanced the empire bodice and sleeves. The softly gathered skirt was bordered by a deep flounce ruffle and unpressed pleats swept to a wide chapel length train. Her chapel length veil cascaded from a matching calotte of lace and pearls. The bride carried a traditional colonial bouquet of roses and stephanotis in gentle ivory tones accented with English ivy and candlelight streamers.

In keeping with tradition the bride carried a lace handkerchief borrowed from her aunt. She wore a blue garter, and for something old she wore on her right hand a gold wedding band which belonged to her great grandmother. Her wedding gown was something new. In her shoe she wore coins minted in the years of the couple's births.

Mrs. Richard Hall of Richmond served as her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Allana Patterson of Dallas, Linda Moore, and Randa Wallace, sisters of the groom, both of Lubbock.

The attendants were attired in floor length gowns of apricot matte jersey styled with empire waistlines and butterfly sleeves. The molded, draped bodice was accented by a pseudo-mandarin collar tied with a self-bow. They carried nosegays of white daisies and baby's breath centered with an apricot glamellia and accented with English ivy.

The bride's mother wore a floor length shirtwaist dress of powder blue chiffon. The groom's mother wore a long empire styled mint green dress of jersey knit. Both wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

Steven Wilson of Lubbock served as best man. Groomsmen were Rodney Rayburn of San Antonio, Michael Powell, and Craig Brooks, both of Lubbock. Ushers included Richard Hall, brother-in-law of the bride, of Richmond, Mark Maxey, Steven Ellis, and Brooks West, all of Lubbock.

Mrs. Jack Mitchell, organist, presented wedding music and accompanied Miss Pamela Smith who sang "Annie's Song" and "Follow Me."

Presiding at the bride's book was Miss Lynn Rader of Lubbock. The registry table featured a nosegay of white daisies in a silver goblet.

The reception, following the ceremony, was held at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Presided over by Mrs. Leland Herod, Jr. of Fort Worth and Miss Barbara Lacik of Snyder, the bride's table was covered with a white organdy cloth and featured a silver epergne holding four white tapers and apricot carnations with baby's breath. The four-tiered traditional white bride's cake was topped with a decoration of wedding bells and love birds which was used atop the wedding cake of the bride's parents.

The groom's table was draped in brown and held a chocolate cake decorated with candied fruit. Appointments of brass were used. Presiding over the table were Miss Lynn Rader of Lubbock and Mrs. Ronal Gladson of Snyder.

Miss Chere Reneau of El Paso provided piano music during the reception. The houseparty included Mmes. Virgil McConnell, Harold Lacik, Jack Gorman, Billy Bob McMullan, R.E. Patterson, and Mrs. Nelda Reneau.

Wedding festivities included a rehearsal dinner June 11 at the Snyder Country Club hosted by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wallace. A bridesmaid luncheon was held on Saturday, June 12, at the home of Mrs. Nelda Reneau. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hall, Jr. were hosts for a buffet luncheon for the wedding party and out of town guests at their home on Saturday, June 12. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hall of Richmond.

Mrs. Wallace is a 1972 graduate of Snyder High School and graduated from Texas Tech University in May with a B.B.A. degree in accounting. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta social sorority. Her husband is a 1971 graduate of Lubbock High School. He graduated from Texas Tech University in 1975 with a B.B.A. degree in marketing. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity.

Octogenarian Gets Degree

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — By his own account, it took J. Melvin Gessleman 60 years to go through college.

That's not quite accurate.

Gessleman completed a two-year program in physical education at Temple University in 1917. He enlisted then in the U.S. Ambulance Service and served in France during World War I.

After a sabbatical of nearly 60 years — while he was physical education director of a Philadelphia boys' club, sold cars and real estate and worked in private business — Gessleman returned to Temple to finish the four-year course leading to a Bachelor of Science degree in physical education.

Completing his work with a "B" average, Gessleman has become the oldest recipient of a bachelor's degree in Temple's history, according to a check of university records.

He is 82.

"He didn't miss a class," said Dr. Ira Shapiro, assistant dean of Temple's College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

Slimming down? Don't cut out bread - but do switch to whole grain bread, advises Dr. K.W. Heaton in the medical journal Lancet. Whole grain bread is tough and must be chewed. Chewing soothes the appetite and the eating urge - you have less desire to eat. (Chewing is also excellent for teeth and gum health.) The bran and wheat germ in whole grain bread contains roughage and fiber which avoids constipation. But it also fills and distends the stomach, with less digestible and less fattening food.

Although we have spent this whole week campaigning against notrump bidders, we don't want our readers to think that we shy away from notrump bidding. Quite the contrary. We believe in bidding notrump whenever your hand calls for it, just as we believe in apple pie and other good things.

We have also found that notrumpists try to keep their partners out of notrump contracts.

Thus, we would never do anything with the North hand except to raise our partner from one to three notrump.

Playing in three notrump, South will make three notrump against perfect defense and four notrump if the defense doesn't take its three heart tricks.

If North insists on playing diamonds he will either go down at a game contract or make some small part score. All of that is mighty poor when the notrump is a lead-pipe cinch.

A Minnesota reader wants to know the correct opening bid with ♠ A K Q x x x ♥ A K x ♦ 2 ♣ K Q J.

In standard American this hand qualifies as a two-spade opening bid. If you use two clubs as your only forcing opening, it qualifies for two clubs. You expect to make game even if partner has nothing at all.

Paper Needs Soar

NEW YORK (AP) — Paper was first made in America at a Philadelphia mill in 1690.

Today, the paper business is one of the 10 largest industries in America, with 1975 sales exceeding $30 billion. Total world demand for paper, according to Robert S. Hatfield, chairman and chief executive officer of The Continental Group, Inc., has increased at an annual rate of almost 6 percent since 1954 and is now at 130 million tons a year.

Dr. Lamb

Reader needs nutrition data

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I read one of your columns in which you discussed lecithin. You said in order to get results from it lecithin should be injected into the blood stream. You stated people are wasting money taking lecithin tablets as it does not get into the blood stream but is digested in the stomach.

If this is true, why do we take any medicine by mouth if it does not get into the blood stream?

When I went to school I learned that food—which would include pills we eat is converted by the action of the gastric juices into soluble products so that it can be assimilated by the blood and thus give nourishment to the bodily organs.

I can see lecithin does not go immediately into the blood stream when taken by mouth as injections would, but it must get there through our digestive system.

If we get no good from pills and vitamins please tell me what I should do for my high blood pressure.

DEAR READER—I can see you have a few holes in your knowledge about digestion. Foods—and medicines are not food—are broken down into simple building blocks inside the digestive system. Most of this is done in the small intestine.

All the carbohydrates you eat, regardless of what form they are in, lettuce, potatoes, apples, sugar, honey, bread or pears are broken down into three single sugars: glucose, fructose, and galactose (from milk only). You cannot absorb any carbohydrates but single sugars through the wall of the intestine.

Almost all proteins except some very small ones are broken down into 20 to 25 amino acids—their building blocks. Ordinary proteins are too large also to get through the cells that make up the wall of the small intestine. Fats are broken down into glycerol and a variety of fatty acids before they can get through the intestinal wall.

Think of the intestinal wall as a new with a very small mesh. Only the small fish can get through. Nature reduces your food to small fish, small enough to get through that thick tube-like wall. The breakdown is accomplished by enzymes. Most of these are from the pancreas and act in the first part of the small intestine.

Lecithin is a fat. It is broken down into glycerol (glycerine) and the fatty acids. It also contains choline attached to one of the fatty acids and this is broken off so it can be absorbed. If you needed the choline that has been broken off, the choline would then be used by the liver to manufacture your own lecithin. However, you get choline from meat and other foods in a normal well balanced diet.

Some medicines cannot be effective taken by mouth because they are inactivated. These then must be injected. Insulin is a good example and millions of diabetics take insulin by needle for that reason. Other medicines are small molecules, not broken down by enzymes, and can be absorbed. That is true of the medicines one takes for high blood pressure.

Vitamins are not destroyed by digestion because they are not proteins, fats or carbohydrates.

To help you understand what you can do about your blood pressure I am sending you The Health Letter, number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As to what you can take for your high blood pressure, if you can feel any fat under your skin around your waist or excess amounts anywhere, the best thing you can take is less food.

DEAR BR. LAMB—I am being treated for arthritis and have been told that Motrin, a relatively new medicine from England, is a cure. I am wondering if it is a cure of just something to relieve the pain. Can you please tell me something about this?

DEAR READER—Motrin is used to relieve pain. It does not cure arthritis or stop its progress in any way. It is similar to aspirin in its actions for osteoarthritis. In many patients it is no better. Patients often turn up their noses at aspirin because it is so readily available. I guess the old saying that familiarity breeds contempt couple apply here. Nevertheless, it is hard to find another medicine as effective in treating the aches and pains of osteoarthritis.

Many cures have been proposed for osteoarthritis but the only available treatment is still relief of pain and measures to maintain function and mobility. I am sending you a copy of The Health Letter number 4-10, Osteoarthritis: Degenerative or Wear and Tear Arthritis. It will give you some guidelines on activity and measures to relieve pain and prolong useful function. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My husband is about to pay $600 for a hairpiece which is only good for four years. Then he'll have to purchase another one. Just last week I heard on the radio that a doctor in New York had discovered a way to grow hair. Could you please find out if this is true? My husband and I can't afford the money for a hairpiece.

DEAR READER—There was a story in the New York papers of a doctor using an experimental procedure to grow hair. His experiment consists of rubbing an ointment containing female hormone over the areas where hair is fallling out. According to the report he claims to have had considerable success in stopping the falling of hair and in some instances some improvement in growth of hair. The doctor acknowledges that it is still experimental and there is nothing available now for the public.

Just to put this into perspective, it was not too many years ago that other doctors were experimenting by rubbing an ointment on the scalp which contained male hormone. This caused a flap for a while but has quietly disappeared. Apparently it was only good for a few headlines.

There is not much that can be offered for the treatment of baldness. The only successful revolutionary idea to date has been hair transplants. These are done by taking small punched out areas of hair from the side of the head where hair growth is abundant and transplanting them into the bald areas.

When this is done by individuals trained and well qualified to do it, the procedure provides considerable cosmetic improvement. The reason the follicles are taken from the side of the head is that this is where the follicles appear to have to longest life and are most abundant. That's why you see men and some women with abundant hair on the side of the head but a bald pate on top.

There are a number of advertisements claiming to prevent baldness or restore hair but I'm afraid none of these would really pass close scrutiny for scientific accuracy or reliabilty. I sometimes wonder why they are allowed to advertise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It would be a serious mistake to postpone an important matter you must deal with. Chances of success are better today than they'll be tomorrow.

SCORPIO (oct. 24-Nov. 22) Associate with movers and shakers today. You'll find them inspirational and a piece of their action could be channeled your way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You can make points with co-workers today. You won't ask them to do things you won't tackle yourself. You'll lead by example.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even though it's the early part of the week and you have a full schedule ahead, do allot some time for fun and diversions.

What you don't know about the cost of natural gas can hurt us all.

You know you're paying a lot more for natural gas, but you may not know why. The reason is basically simple:

The average price Lone Star has had to pay its 500 independent suppliers for gas we supply you has risen (about $166,000,000 more in 1975 than in 1974*). So we have to charge more.

If Lone Star were not able to recover these increased costs, we could run into some major problems.

First, we wouldn't be able to buy the gas this area needs. Short supplies of natural gas could handcuff industry.

When industry runs short, jobs begin to disappear. Production falls off. The tax base our cities, counties and school districts depend on begins to shrink.

That's why you need to understand how our industry works, why gas bills have to go up, and what Lone Star is doing to keep the increases as small as humanly possible.

Some important questions.

Here are some important questions and answers about our service.

1. How do our gas bills compare to other cities? Our customers pay less for natural gas than most cities, including other cities in Texas. We feel we're doing a pretty good job of selling natural gas at the most reasonable price possible.

2. Does gas cost adjustment guarantee profits for Lone Star? Not at all. In fact, the company has been forced to initially absorb 15 per cent of higher adjustments. This is a serious loss that must eventually be recovered if our cities are to have adequate gas supplies in the future, and if Lone Star is to have a fair return, to which it is entitled by law.

3. Who checks on Lone Star Gas? The Texas Railroad Commission, after a thorough investigation, sets our base (or wholesale) cost of gas. They set the rate of return on the pipeline system that brings the gas from the well to your city. They also monitor changes in the monthly gas costs of Lone Star, and this monthly gas cost information is filed with each city we serve in Texas.

4. How high will gas bills go? Today, your bill is based on the average cost of gas to Lone Star of a little over one dollar per thousand cubic feet. Gas bills will continue to rise in the years ahead, but probably at a much slower rate than recently. It appears that the field price of gas is leveling out so that increases will be much more gradual.

It's not all bad news.

Basically, all of those answers say that gas costs more than it used to, and it will continue to cost more.

But there is good news: As long as Lone Star is able to recover its costs, and as long as there is sufficient incentive for producers to drill for new gas supplies, we'll have the gas we need to keep this area moving.

All we ask is your understanding, and your cooperation, to make sure that happens.

If you have a question you'd like answered in an advertisement, write Consumer Information, Lone Star Gas, 301 S. Harwood, Dallas, Texas 75201.

Teenager Refuses To Hurt a Fly

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 14, and she loves animals. She is not just your ordinary animal lover, Abby, she is fanatic about it.

She thinks it is wrong to kill an insect, a mouse or any kind of bug or rodent.

When she sees one of us kill a fly or a cockroach, she carries on like a crazy person.

If we try to set traps to catch mice, she goes into hysterics. How can I convince her that flies and mice carry germs, and it is better to get rid of them?

Please help me. Sometimes I wonder if this child is normal.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Your daughter's concern for the "sanctity of life" is admirable. But you can explain to her that unless humans exterminate creatures that carry disease and destruction, there will be no life for HUMANS!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were married two months ago. It was the second marriage for both of us.

Yesterday one of my husband's so-called friends called and told me things about my husband's past that upset me. She said that he had had psychiatric treatment for suicidal tendencies shortly before we met. (I had had psychiatric treatment for the same reason, but I told him about it before we were married. I wonder why he didn't tell me?)

What, if anything, should I do? My primary concern is that my husband should know that this woman is not worthy of his trust. Also, do you think that his secrecy about his past is a sign that our marriage is in trouble? We have gotten along so well, I can't believe it.

There is a possibility, of course, that this woman's stories are untrue. It's hard for me to understand why some people will go out of their way to cause others pain.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Rather than live with doubts, you should tell your husband what this "friend" told you and give him a chance to respond. True or false, it will clear the air. And you'd do well to avoid this woman. She's bad news.

DEAR ABBY: I am an attractive, energetic, fun-loving divorcee who likes a good time, which sometimes gets me into trouble.

While my neighbor was in the hospital having a baby, I sort of lived it up with her husband.

She found out about it, and my life hasn't been the same since. She has called me every name in the book and has even threatened to "get even" with me if it's the last thing she does.

She insists that I talked her husband into it, which is not true. He was as willing as I was. Now her husband is blaming me because his wife is carrying on like a maniac.

I am twice-divorced and know what it's like to have a woman steal her husband. I am no home-wrecker, but what's another slice off a loaf that's already been cut?

How can I get this woman to realize I don't want her husband, I was only having a little fun?

ALL IN FUN

DEAR ALL: Living it up with another woman's husband is hard to live down. Don't try to explain your harmless intentions. And stay out of her way.

RAFTING SITE—Men of the 111th Engineer Battalion built two rafts at this site on Cowhouse Creek at North Ft. Hood during annual training this month. The Abilene-headquartered unit also constructed a Class 60 bridge downstream and transported elements of the division across the obstacle. (49th Armored Division Photo)

111th Utilize Creek In Summer Camp Training

NORTH FT. HOOD—Cowhouse Creek flows across Ft. Hood, quietly and slowly except in times of sudden cloudbursts. Tanks on this sprawling armored post churn some spots in the streambed on their way to and from the field, fishermen cast for bass and the creek provides a welcome watering hole to the gaunt cattle which make the range their home.

But the men of the 111th Engineer Battalion of the 49th Armored Division utilized the creek, at the point below the bridge on East Range Road, as a training vehicle during their summer camp experience this year and viewed it not as a lazy creek but rather as a simulated Rhein River.

Headquarters, 111th Engineers, is located in Abilene. A Company minus is located in Taylor with Detachment 1 in San Marcos. B Company minus is located in Mineral Wells with Detachment 1 in Stephenville. C Company is located in Paris. D Company minus is located in Lufkin with Detachment 1 in Nacogdoches. E Company minus is located in Sweetwater with Detachment 1 in Stamford and Detachment 2 in Snyder.

In years past at annual training the engineers have "done their thing" and then torn it down and moved onto other things for the remainder of camp.

Not so for June 1976.

It began June 6 with members of A Company and D Company of the 111th building the M4T6 Fleating Bridge. Supervision of the operation was by E Company, the 49th's bridging company, which provides the technical knowledge to the line companies–A,B,C,D–which do the actual building of the bridge or as it was used in this operation, a five-section raft.

Rain hampered the construction of the rafts–two were built that day but by the next afternoon, elements of the 49th were being ferried across the creek, freeing the bridge on East Range Road for use by regular traffic.

Second Lt. Tom Osborn of Abilene was the officer-in-charge during the construction phase and explained that normal operation would call for power beats of the battalion to propel the raft across a river like the Rhein but with the space constraints imposed by the creek's width, 2½-ton trucks with rope attached to each end of the raft alternated pulling the load across.

While the two rafting operations were going on near the road, farther down the creek a Class 60 floating bridge was also being built by the other elements of the 111th.

The engineers hoped, Lt. Osborn explained, to show to the division's combat elements what the bridge-builders could do for them.

"Normally, we build the bridge and them immediately take it down," he said. 'This year our rafting operations will show what we can do."

Rafting of division elements through June 15 was a daily occurrence with a different unit scheduled to cross daily during three time periods–8-11 a.m., 1-4 p.m. and 7-10 p.m.

The five-section raft can carry tanks, armored personnel carriers and any other equipment of the division.

Osborn said normal construction time for the five-float reinforced raft is about 4½ hours if all personnel and equipment are present. The engineers were operating short of personnel and additional time was required with the heavy rain adding to the realism of the exercise.

Two 1st Cavalry Division evaluators, Capt. Tom Kaliher, commander of D Company, 8th Engineer Battalion and 1st Lt. Ralph Real of A Company, 8th Engineers, watched the construction June 6 to determine how the 49th engineers worked as a team.

Capt. Kaliher was satisfied that the Guardsmen could do the job after watching them only a short time.

"Once they know the job and are familiar with it, they can really work. If they had the opportunity to work more, they would be smoother. They seem to know what they are doing and the equipment looks pretty well maintained."

Capt. Kaliher said the main difference between the method in which the 49th unit attacked its task compared to the active Army was that before such a project would kick off, the full-timers would undergo at least a week of intensive training.

He was impressed that the 49th troopers could hit the bridging operation "cold" and get the equipment assembled and ready to perform its mission.

The engineers had their problems during the rafting operation as pontoons took holes, planking was bent and various other factors went awry. But that is the way it is in combat and the foul-ups tested the mettle of those involved–both the transporters and those being transported.

When all was said and done, the engineers had accomplished their primary mission for the camp–showing the other elements of the 49th what they could do–and everyone who saw the sweat and strain that lined almost every engineer's face knew that the combat arms must rely on its support elements.

EARLY SEASON BOLL WEEVIL CONTROL:

In two meetings Thursday, June 17, Mr. Emory Boring, Entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service outlined early season weevil control. Many producers are considering this practice due to the emergence of an extremely high overwintered weevil population.

During the past two weeks there has been large weevil catches on the boll weevil traps. However the past week we have seen this number decrease which indicates that the cotton plants are competing with traps for the weevils. Each year the weevils show a decline in trap response the second or third week in June, usually the second.

As far as early season boll weevil control is concerned the most successful control is obtained when 1-2 applications of insecticide are applied to cotton between the pin-head size square and the one-third grown square stage. This is between 35 to 45 days after cotton is up.

By timing the spray application at this time, large populations of weevils have emerged, but have not begun reproduction. The boll weevil cannot reproduce until cotton squares are at least one-third grown.

No more than two applications of insecticide should be applied early season due to the possibilities of contributing to a bollworm buildup. By stopping on one or two insecticide applications at this time (35-45 days after cotton emergence) will allow populations of beneficial insects to build back up and help suppress bollworm infestations.

It is most important to apply the insecticide at the proper time to prevent the first egg laying since this will delay the large boll weevil populations until late August or September and hopefully a good crop can be set during this period.

For ground application, the choice of insecticides are limited. Guthion and Sevin can be used. Malathion (ULV) and Methyl Parathion can be applied by air but are too dangerous for ground application. Caution in the use of any insecticide is a must and label directions must be followed closely.

With the prospect of a good price for cotton and high population of boll weevils, producers must consider all management practices this year. Early season control of boll weevil, which will also give control of fleahoppers, is one these practices you must face this year.

Guides for the control of cotton insects are available from my office.

Take the guesswork out of boll weevil management

Using a scientific monitoring system, Pest Management Specialists (PMS) Division of Story Chemical Corporation recommends timely boll weevil management procedures. Participating in the synthesis of Grandlure, the boll weevil pheromone (sex attractant), PMS recognized Grandlure's value in pest management and developed the traps and monitoring system now available to cotton growers. Eliminating the costly guesswork of hit-and-miss monitoring methods, PMS service optimizes pesticide use and maximizes cotton production. Trap surveys provide the grower early detection and accurate measurement of infestations, therefore spraying of insecticides is controlled as to frequency and dosage. You will appreciate the savings PMS methods provide in this era of short supply and soaring costs of fuel and pesticides. Minimum spraying procedures also reduce harmful residues, environmental pollution and beneficial insect damage.

The Grandlure bait on top of the base (A) attracts the boll weevils. The weevils climb through the reverse funnel (B) into the inspection dome (X). The trap holds the weevils for inspection, count and disposal.

Finley Vows Court Fight On Kuhn's Ruling

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's landmark decision, voiding the $3.5 million sale of three Oakland A's players, seems certain to land baseball back into the nation's courtrooms—a playing field where the game has not fared terribly well recently.

"We will be taking it to court Monday," stormed Oakland Owner Charles O. Finley, who called Kuhn's decision "very stupid," and said the commissioner "sounds like the village idiot."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said he also might take legal action.

"We're considering it," he said. "Obviously, we're not going to stand still while the powers that be attempt to ruin the careers of three players."

Kuhn acknowledged that he expected his decision returning pitchers Vida Blue and Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi to the A's would be tested in court.

"There is a clear-cut possibility of litigation," said Kuhn, looking strained after two days of wrestling with the sales of Blue to the New York Yankees and Fangers and Rudi to the Boston Red Sox. "Both New York and Oakland have indicated they would test the decision by litigation."

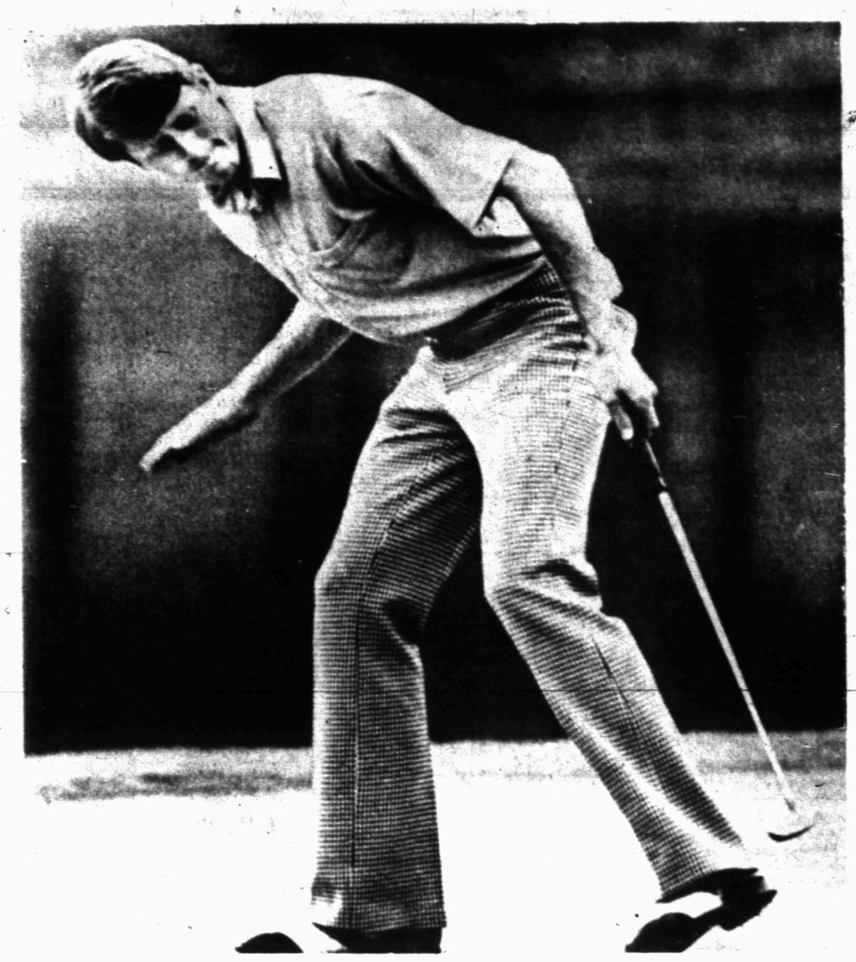

"We went by the baseball rule book," said Dick O'Connell, general manager of the Red Sox. How he can go against it is incomprehensible. In the future, when clubs want to make a player deal, who do you contact?"

Publicly, the Yankees had no official comment on Kuhn's decision which the commissioner made under the broad interpretation of his authority to act in the game's best interests as outlined in Article 1, Section 4 of the Major League Agreement.

But Finley, who has tangled with Kuhn repeatedly, had plenty to say.

Finley said his attorneys were preparing for legal actions against Kuhn.

The commissioner said he decided to void the deals because of his concern for maintaining public confidence in the integrity of baseball.

URGING IT IN—Michael Reid, 21-year-old amateur from Brigham Young University, urges his putt towards the cup on the 16th green of the Atlanta Athletic Club in Duluth, Ga., during the opening round of the US Open. Firing a three-under 67, Reid was the only golfer in the 150-man field to play under par, and thus took the lead. His balloon burst Friday though, as John Mahaffey went ahead. (AP Wirephoto)

AT ROSS HOME—Relatives and friends at the Reuben Ross home near Dublin, Texas. The fourth lady from the left, top row, is Annah Howell Ross, grandmother of Carolyn West.

OLD WHEEL QUILT—Mrs. W.F. (Carolyn) West of the Lubbock Highway spreads out the wheel quilt made by her grandmother over 100 years ago.

A Little About One Or Two Hundred Things

By JEAN EVERETT

When the Centennial Committee first began to think about an antique quilt show over a year ago, no one expected to discover so many lovely and aged ones! How pleased and delighted everyone is to the response made by Scurry Countians in informing the committee about their family treasures.

Being a novice at such things, I imagined that any bed covering of 20 years or so could be considered old. In some cases it certainly is, too, particularly if it has been in constant use. However, much to my surprise, and perhaps to others, there are many 100-year-old quilts in the county. The great part about this is that the owners have generously offered to display them at the Pioneer Skills Festival on July 3 at the Scurry County Coliseum.

One such quilt belongs to Carolyn West. She counts it to be over 100 years old from the fact that her grandmother made it before she married on May 25, 1876. Carolyn doesn't know how many years before then that she made the quilt, but the grandmother was 32 years of age before she married, which gave her a number of years in which she could have done the handwork.

A wheel pattern, the quilt is in excellent condition. Its colors are still bright; but then the covering has never been used as far as Carolyn knows. An aunt passed it on to her, with this explanation: "I put it on the bed one time and got my legs switched for the effort." Everyone in the family agrees that this quilt must have had very special meaning for Nancy Annah Eleanor Howell Ross, Carolyn's grandmother, but no one knows why.

Annah Howell was born in Randolph County, Alabama which was later divided and became Cleburne County. Annah came to Texas with her widowed mother and brothers and sisters in 1872, after the father had been killed at the battle of Vicksburg. An older brother, James Love Howell, brought the family with all the farm equipment and animals by boat from Alabama to Indianola. They then traveled overland by wagon to Erath County in 1873. It was in this new place that Annah, at age 32, met and married the Rev. Reuben Davis Ross, a Baptist minister. Rev. Ross' first wife had died the previous fall. Annah and Rev. Ross had seven children.

One of the family stories that has survived the years is that Annah discussed with her favorite brother, Love, whether or not she should marry the Rev. Ross. Love told her that she didn't have to marry him if she didn't want to. Apparently she wanted to.

A 10-minute call to San Francisco doesn't take a lot of dough.

For just $2.44 or less, you could take down these recipes by Long Distance.

We're printing these recipes to make a point: a Long Distance call lets you say so much, for so little.

In a 10-minute phone call to San Francisco, between 5 p.m. and 11:00 p.m. tonight, you could take down the recipes below. And by dialing 1+, the most you pay is $2.44, plus tax.

So enjoy a pleasant visit tonight by Long Distance. Whether you call to get a couple recipes . . . or just to find out what's cookin'.

1. SOURDOUGH STARTER

1 package active dry yeast
2½ cups warm water (105° to 115°)
1 cup instant nonfat dry milk
2 tablespoons sugar
4 cups all-purpose flour

a. Stir yeast, water, dry milk and sugar in 2-quart crock or non-metallic bowl until yeast is dissolved. Stir in flour gradually until a smooth batter forms. Let stand loosely covered in warm place 3 to 5 days. Stir down batter occasionally. Store loosely covered in refrigerator.

b. Replace exact amount of starter used for each recipe by stirring equal amounts of homogenized milk and flour back into starter. For example, replace 1 cup starter with ___ cup homogenized milk and ___ cup flour. Let stand loosely covered until it bubbles, overnight. Stir down. Each time this process is repeated, the starter becomes more active and develops a more sour flavor. Note: if stored as much as two to three weeks between usings, just pour off the watery layer on top and replace following procedure in b.

2. SOURDOUGH BREAD STICKS

1 cup instant nonfat dry milk
1 cup warm water (105° to 115°)
1 cup Sourdough Starter (see Recipe No. 1)
2 cups all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ to 1 cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

a. Mix dry milk, water, Sourdough Starter and 2 cups flour in non-metallic bowl; cover loosely. Let stand in warm place until mixture is coarse and bubbly, at least 8 hours.

b. Mix oil, salt, sugar and baking soda into sourdough mixture. Stir in enough of the remaining flour to make dough easy to handle. Knead dough lightly on well-floured board, about 2 minutes.

c. Roll dough into rectangle, 15 x 10 inches, on well-floured board. Cut into fifteen 1-inch strips. Roll each strip into even round strand about 14 inches long. Double strand over and twist to form bread stick. Place bread sticks on greased baking sheet; brush with melted butter. Cover with plastic wrap. Let rise in warm place until double, 1 to 1½ hours.

d. Heat oven to 375°. Bake bread sticks until golden brown, 30 to 35 minutes. Makes 15.

ATTENTION CITIZENS OF SCURRY COUNTY:

Golf has become a growing interest to the men, women and children in Scurry County that it is now very difficult, if not impossible, for everyone to participate. The Snyder Country Club has found it necessary to limit golf only to its members.

In recent months there has been wide spread discussion and concern as to why Scurry County does not have its own County golf course. The people of Scurry County who would enjoy participating in this sport and are not members of the Snyder Country Club are forced to drive to surrounding towns to play an afternoon of golf. This does not seem logical when facilities are provided for all other sports. Scurry County has seven baseball fields, two swimming pools, six tennis courts, eight community centers, four football fields, three public parks, a modern coliseum and show barn, and airport, and many other facilities for the youth of this County.

With all these fine facilities it is simply common sense to offer the people of Scurry County an opportunity to have their own golf course. This will not necessarily mean additional taxes since a public golf course can be self supporting.

A petition is being circulated for signatures to be presented to the Scurry County Commissioners requesting they build this Public Golf Course.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: Have you ever wondered why Snyder High School's Golf Team is comprised almost entirely of Snyder Country Club members children. Surely in a town as large as Snyder there are boys and girls who would like to participate in golf if given a chance to play and develop some knowledge of the game prior to entering high school. With no back ground or opportunity to learn the fundamentals of golf non-members of the Snyder Country Club have little chance of participating in golf as a sport. Let's give them that chance.

Paid for by Citizens for the Betterment of Scurry County, Chairman Bill Atwood, Jr.

We're Off To See The Wizard!

THE WICKED WITCH of the North, who isn't so wicked after all (played by Jane Ann Womack of Snyder) explains to a Munchkin (Cynthia Taylor of Snyder) that for Dorothy to get back to her home she must visit a forest dark and dreary and follow a yellow brick road to see the Wizard.

ALONG HER PATH, Dorothy (played by LaQuita Reaves of Snyder) meets her first companion, the Scarecrow (Donald Sellars of Snyder). The scarecrow is stuffed with straw and has no brains, and he wants to seek the Wizard to ask him for brains.

THE SCARECROW AND DOROTHY scarcely get started on their journey until they meet a groaning Tin Man (Lee Kirby of Lubbock). The Tin Man must have oil, and Dorothy quickly assists so that he, too, can accompany her to see the Wizard. The Tin Man hopes the Wizard will give him a heart, for he is made of tin and has none.

THE TRIO of Dorothy, the Scarecrow and the Tin Man finally meet with a mean old lion (played by Bill Martin of Snyder). The lion is in reality a coward and would like to seek the Wizard to ask for the gift of courage. He joins the travelers, and as they journey they meet Glinda the Good, the Witch of the South (Denise Clark of Snyder), shown at the center. She seems to have the magic formula for getting Dorothy back home.

THE WIZARD of Oz, played by Pete Tercero of Snyder, is a fearsome sight as he magically appears through a smoke-filled sphere announcing that, "I am Oz, the great and powerful!" The Wizard's home is the Emerald City, which will encompass the entire stage with emerald green and silver glitter.

GLINDA THE GOOD makes it possible for Dorothy to be taken back home by clicking her silver shoes three times. Dorothy literally flies away as part of the spectacle accompanying WTC's production of The Wizard of Oz. Charles Holland, director, says the Wicked Witch who tries to thwart Dorothy's plans was so terrible that he was afraid to photograph her. The Wicked Witch will be played by Cindy Hanson of Fort Worth.

Wizard Of Oz Opens Friday

A lost girl, a lion, a scarecrow, a tin man and a trio of witches are just some of the characters who will make their debut at the WTC Children's Theatre production of The Wizard of Oz set to open Friday in the Fine Arts Theatre.

The show will continue Saturday and Sunday, with matinee performances at 2 p.m. each day. Tickets are $1 each and may be purchased at either bank downtown, at Snyder Drug or at the college business office.

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

In the latest plateau of Neil Diamond's career, the composer-performer will make his Las Vegas debut as the premiere attraction in the Aladdin Hotel's new $10 milion, 7,500-seat Aladdin Theatre which will be officially the start of his summer tour of the United States and Canada – the most extensive he has undertaken in his career – and coincide with the release of his new Columbia album "Beautiful Noise."

MAURICE: I understand that you don't enjoy being interviewed. Why is that?

DIAMOND: I don't like being interviewed because I don't feel I satisfy people's curiosity – I'm just not colorful enough. What I do is write, and, hopefully, that's enough.

MAURICE: What comes first in your career – performing or writing?

DIAMOND: I'm a song writer first, I love concerts, but for every hour that you are performing, you're spending 23 in transit. It's not a real life. The road is not reality. Hundreds of Holiday Inns at the beginning, and then better hotels and better planes and then private jet planes and all that stuff. You start to ask yourself a lot of questions, and that's why I stopped performing for a while. I had to get my head straightened out.

MAURICE: You kind of hid from the public for a number of years.,

DIAMOND: Yes, I guess I did. I always thought I was a good song writer, but I guess I never rated myself too high as a person. Being an awkward adolescent who never was good at sports and who never got the girl can make you into that kind of guy.

MAURICE: Wasn't it during high school, that you made your singing debut?

DIAMOND: Yes, a classmate and I used to sing at high school dances. We were Jack and Neil. We tried to initate the Everly Brothers which is pretty hard to do when you're from Brooklyn. Jack, by the way, went on to become a music teacher.

MAURICE: Some critics have said that you are a phenomenon. Do you agree?

DIAMOND: I don't think I'll be a phenomenon until I'm dead because then someone will turn around and say, 'Just look at what that man wrote.'

MAURICE: Why haven't you been bitten by the acting bug?

DIAMOND: It doesn't excite me as much as singing, because with records you don't have to wait six months to see if it's a flop or not.

MAURICE: You must be beseiged by autograph seekers all the time.

DIAMOND: I used to hate it when people asked for my autograph because I could never believe that they meant it. I used to think they were putting me on, that's how much confidence I had. But it doesn't bother me at all anymore. There are moments in your life, especially in restaurants, when you wish that you could just be left alone. So when I feel that need to be alone, I usually eat in my hotel room.

MAURICE: How would you rate yourself as a song writer?

DIAMOND: I consider myself probably the best song writer in the world today. People don't see it yet, but they will, maybe five years from now. But my music should really be judged over the whole period of my life. People will look back later and say the Beatles did this and Neil Diamond did that, and I don't know who is going to come out ahead. I don't feel there is anybody I have to take my hat off to as far as writing music. I know my way around music.

MAURICE: How would you like the first line in your obituary to read?

DIAMOND: Neil Diamond was truly a man who loved music.

One Western On NBC Fall Lineup

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This was supposed to be a story about the return of the Western to television.

The three commercial networks developed nine Old West pilots as potential series for next fall. They seemed certain to opt for at least one Western each as relief from the police shows.

But the comeback fell far short of what could be considered trend-setting. Only one Western made the fall lineup — "The Quest" on NBC.

That, of course, is one more Western series than was carried this past season, but it hardly compares to a year such as 1959, when there were 32 horse operas on television.

Does television have a peculiar aversion to the genre?

"There's nothing taboo about it but you go at any given moment with what you think your best show is," says Michael Eisner, head of prime time production at ABC-TV.

Programmers at NBC and CBS say they also go with their most promising pilots. But there is more to it than that.

What killed the television Western was demographics. There were too many series and the plots became too familiar — just as with today's cop shows. But the biggest problem for the profit-oriented networks was that the cowboys were discovered to be lacking in appeal to the right audience, the 18-to-49-year old city-dwellers who are the primary target of most TV advertisers.

To make the Western competitive in such a market, the networks and a variety of independent producers are trying to modernize the venerable form and broaden its appeal.

The key to this transformation is realism.

"With 'The Quest,'" says NBC programming executive John J. McMahon, "We are going to do stories that have a contemporary ring to them even though they are set in a period 100 years ago."

Larry White, who will oversee production of "The Quest" at Columbia, says the studio is concentrating on making the series a more accurate representation of the way the Old West really was, not the way it has been fantasized for so many years.

This approach certainly was evident in the two-hour TV movie that served as the pilot for "The Quest," which tells the tale of two young brothers — one educated in the city, the other raised by Indians — who are combing the West in search of their sister.
