Media Cross Ownership OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Supreme Court today ruled unanimously that virtually all businesses now owning both a newspaper and a broadcast station in the same community do not have to get rid of one.

The justices, however, ruled that the Federal Communications Commission is authorized to block all such "cross ownerships" in the future.

The high court, in a lengthy opinion written by Justice Thurgood Marshall, upheld the FCC's 1975 regulations on media cross ownership while striking down a federal appeals court's ruling that would have required divestiture of all existing cross ownerships.

That ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington had stunned media groups across the nation by requiring that virtually all existing cross ownerships would have to be broken up.

Although the circuit court had not ordered publishers and broadcast stations directly to divest themselves of some business properties, the court told the FCC to adopt rules bringing about such divestiture.

The lower court's ruling was appealed by the commission, the National Association of Broadcasters and the American Newspaper Publishers Association. Spokesmen for these groups were not immediately available for comment.

Aside from 16 divestiture orders handed down by the FCC, the justices' ruling appears to allow the owners of some 150 newspapers, 65 televisions stations and 130 radio stations in 44 states to continue owning their properties. The FCC had acted in 16 cases where the only newspaper and broadcast properties in a community had the same owner.

The court had been told that the appeals court's ruling would have made necessary the transfer of some $2 billion worth of properties.

Today's ruling involved cross ownership in the same community only.

In other matters today, the Supreme Court:

-Left intact an order that the FBI give to lawyers for the Socialist Workers Party files on 18 agency informers.

-Refused to review a lower-court ruling that imposed more stringent requirements on the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in bringing discrimination suits against private employers.

-Declined to hear an appeal of a decision giving an employer authority to replace all union-represented workers when its operations are sabotaged during contract negotiations. Supreme court agreed today to review a lower-court ruling the Carter administration claims could subject consumers to much higher prices for national gas. The justices said they will hear an appeal by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

Berkowitz Sentenced

NEW YORK (AP) - As a friend of his last victim screamed, "You're gonna burn in hell," "Son of Sam" slayer David Berkowitz was sentenced to a maximum 25 years to life today for the murder of Stacy Moskowitz.

Daniel Carrique, a friend of the Moskowitz family, tried to attack Berkowitz in the heavily guarded courtroom as the 25-year-old former postal clerk appeared for sentencing for the six Son of Sam murders that terrorized this city for a year.

Berkowitz appeared somber and docile as he entered the courtroom manacled and wearing a blue suit and open shirt. He did not break into the wild outbursts that forced postponement of a similar session last month.

Quake Kills 21

TOKYO (AP) - An undersea earthquake stronger than any recorded in the world so far this year rocked central and northern Japan today, killing 21 persons and injuring 340 others, the national police reported.

The quake originated off Japan's Pacific Coast and hit hardest at Miyagi Prefecture, about 180 miles north of Tokyo. All of the deaths occurred there, including two persons killed by falling telephone poles and two crushed in a house under construction in Sendai, the prefectural capital, police said.

Also in Miyagi, the quake destroyed seven houses, started fires in two others, cut roads in seven places and set off seven landslides, the police said.

Seismologists registered the strongest tremor at 7.5 or 8 on the Richter scale - devastating power if it had been centered in a populated area.

Ali In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) - Former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali arrived in Moscow today and said he hoped to meet Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, spar with Russian boxers and possibly even stay a few months to train for his Leon Spinks rematch.

Ali, who lost his title to Spinks last February, said he was "excited and thrilled" to be in the Soviet Union.

"It feels just like landing in America or any other country," he said. "Oxygen is oxygen, trees are trees, grass is grass and humans are humans."

Texas Temps Climb

The only clouds on the Texas weather scene today were expected to be along the coast and in southwestern Texas, where some afternoon thunderstorms are possible.

The forecast called for the mercury to climb once again into the 90s and 100s. Only residents of the Panhandle should be enjoying afternoon temperatures in the 80s.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s except in the panhandle and the southwestern mountain region.

Palestinians Attack

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Four Palestinian guerrillas attacked a Jewish settlement in the occuppied West Bank early today, but the settlers killed one and drove the other three off, the Israeli army announced.

No casualties were reported among the settlers.

The army radio station reported that the Palestinian got through the fence at Mekhola, 2½ miles west of the Jordan River, opened fire with Soviet-made Kalashnikov rifles and threw grenades.

L&N To Change

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, meandering from Chicago through coal country to Florida and New Orleans, drove more people from their homes because of hazardous cargo accidents last year than any other railroad.

Now, in a confidential report, the L&N concedes that its "methods to insure ... safe operation" were wanting. It promises to correct its problems.

The Louisville, Ky.-based railroad, which unlike many other rail lines has generally been profitable, has one of the industry's worst safety records. Its troubles included everything from faulty wheels - $11 million worth - to bad track to locomotives in disrepair.

Allen Sworn In

WASHINGTON (AP) - Maryon Allen was sworn in today as Alabama's junior senator, filling the seat left vacant by the death of her husband, James B. Allen.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale administered the oath of office to Mrs. Allen in a brief ceremony at the start of the Senate session.

ALL-STAR CHEERLEADER CONFERENCE — About 85 cheerleaders from West Texas schools began registering at Western Texas College today for a week of cheerleading training. Pictured above are four of 12 instructors who will be putting the students through the paces. They are cheerleaders themselves at various colleges and universities throughout the United States. In the center is Kim Latham, Eastern Kentucky University; from the left are Dani Ziegler, Penn State University; Fanny Ivanoff, Franklin College, Indianna and Kelly Warren, Penn State.

Drama Students Come To Rescue

A group of Snyder High School drama students drew extra plaudits from the Snyder Chamber of Commerce staff and from members of the Lone Star Chapter of the Family Motor Coach Association for a presentation Saturday night at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Five SHS students wrote and produced the "Family Motor Coach Follies," which helped solve a problem that developed because of a mix-up of dates. The motor coach association had set its rally here the past weekend several months ago. In arranging for entertainment, a "dinner theatre" presentation was assigned to Jerry Worsham, SHS drama instructor.

However, Worsham had the event on his calendar for July instead of June and when the rally date approached it was learned that he would be in Austin on a teaching assignment while the rally was being held here.

Five of his students rallied to solve the problem. Nell Sears, Sherilyn Campbell, Scott Marlar, Donna Browning and Becky Pierce came through with their own version of "The Family Motor Coach Follies," and it drew tremendous applause Saturday night.

LaVerta Lovell, who had arranged for the rally for the chamber, then announced that she was contributing a painting to

Co-Ops Say Lifeline Rates Problem

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)-Rural electric cooperatives told the Texas Public Utility Commission today that the co-ops' special problems should figure in adoption of any statewide electrical rate design.

The co-ops' witnesses led off at the commission's opening session of nine days of hearings on a variety of options for pricing electricity.

Donald Murray, a University of Oklahoma economist retained by the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives, said lifeline rates in particular pose problems for the co-ops.

Lifeline rates involve below-cost pricing of a small initial amount of electricity believed to be essential for a minimum standard of living.

Murray said lifeline rates involve some customers subsidizing others - usually commercial customers picking up part of the cost for low-consumption households.

Cooperatives differ from area to area in the amount of commercial customers they have, he said, meaning "commercial rates would be driven up by very large percentages in some systems and very small percentages in others."

Murray also said that before the commission adopts any general rule on peak load pricing, it should determine how much change in consumption might actually result. This would involve determining how much consumption could be cut to realize savings at peak times of the day.

"You could get quite diverse shifts from one section to another," Murray said.

Another witness for the co-ops, Carl Stover, said co-ops differ from investor-owned utilities because most purchases rather than generate - the electricity they sell to their customers. He said wholesale power purchases account for 64 percent of the co-ops' operating costs. This means, he said, that any rate design that is applied to retail rates also must apply to wholesale costs if the co-ops are to be treated fairly.

The commission also is considering such methods of ratesetting as peak time-of-day pricing and load management.

Three days, June 26-28, including the night of June 27, have been set aside for testimony from the general public.

Hearing Is Slated On WTC Budget

Scurry County Junior College District Trustees will present a proposed 1978-79 budget for Western Texas College for a public hearing at 5:45 p.m. today in the board room of the college administration building.

Following the public hearing the board will consider the new budget for approval and set the college district's tax rate. Also up for consideration will be a policy pertaining to faculty salaries and a request from Greyhound Food Management, Inc., for a price increase at the WTC cafeteria.

Bids will be considered for computer equipment, for a golf course utility cart and for installation of a sewer line to the site selected for an apartment complex on the college campus.

Next Skylab Move Is Up To Congress

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)-Skylab has a new lease on life, and now it's up to Congress to decide if astronauts should try to save it from a potentially dangerous plunge back to earth.

Ground controllers added several months to the unmanned space station's life Sunday by shifting its position to minimize the atmospheric drag that slowly has been pulling it out of orbit.

"Everything went the way we planned it," said flight controller Bill Peters after Skylab's nose had been tipped down 10 degrees so that the ship now flies parallel to Earth.

Skylab coordinator Robert Aller of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it will take about six weeks of tracking to determine exactly how much time has been added to Skylab's life. Estimates range from six to 12 months.

Without the maneuver, the 85-ton station, the world's largest man-made satellite could have plunged through the atmosphere as early as next spring. Space officials fear that on such an uncontrolled re-entry, there is a remote chance it could shower chunks of debris on inhabited areas.

So they devised a series of maneuvers, climaxed by Sunday's exercise, to try to keep Skylab aloft long enough for a team of space shuttle astronauts to rendezvous with it late next year.

The astronauts would attach a rocket device to the station to either raise it to a safer altitude or propel it harmlessly out of orbit over an open area of the Pacific Ocean.

But as preparations were being made for the manuevers, a House Appropriations subcommittee last month rejected a $20.5 million request for the rocket device, saying it did not think Skylab would stay up long enough for a shuttle crew to reach it in time. However, subcommittee members said they might reconsider if NASA succeeded in extending the spaceship's life.

"We're going back to Congress and tell them we're successful and that they should proceed," Aller said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of a Senate appropriations subcommittee, also has expressed some misgivings about the project.

If it gets the go-ahead, NASA plans to make the attempt on the third flight of the new space suttle in October 1979.

CC Board To Meet Tonight

Reports on plans for the annual July 4th celebration and for the American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals are on the agenda for a meeting of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Board of directors tonight.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Chamber-BCD building.

The board also is due to receive reports on industrial development at tonight's session.

Sr. Center Operations Discussed

Plans for operating the new senior center now nearing completion on the old Travis Junior High School property were under discussion this morning in the county commissioners courtroom at the courthouse.

Meeting with commissioners were Dr. Robert L. Clinton, president of Western Texas College, site of the senior center and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program at present; Dr. Jim Tully of WTC; Gloria Shaw, director of the senior center, and Marsha Krenek, RSVP director.

The group submitted budget requests to the county for $2,500 for the senior center operation and $1,729 for RSVP for the coming calendar year. The county also will be furnishing "in kind" contributions to the senior citizens programs as the organizations move into the new facilities being provided by the county.

The building, which was formerly used as a band and shop building by the Travis Junior High, are being extensively revamped by the county for use by the senior citizens. All of the senior citizen activities now centered on the WTC campus will be moved to the new center.

real inflation villain

Robert Strauss, the personable Texan called to Washington to head up Administration efforts to get the economy under a measure of self-control, repeats what we have heard from time immemorial that public control of wages and and prices do not work. Whether that is strictly factual is open to question. We had controls during our involvement in two world wars. They were not 100 percent effective, but they enabled the nation to get through periods of crisis with a minimum of hardship and no permanent damage to the economy.

As a substitute for controls persuasion is to be used. It is sometimes called jawboning. Mr. Strauss is generally recognized as a top-notch salesman. He has had outstanding success in raising money for the Democratic Party during his service as chairman of the National Committee.

But the task he faces in his present assignment is different in fundamental ways from those he handled so capably in the past. He had inducements to offer in return for cooperation if his candidate succeeded in winning the election. He was not asking anybody to change a way of life or lay aside old habits. There was real gold at the end of the rainbow he pointed out to prospective contributors.

The first hill he must climb in attempting to cool the fires of inflation is persuading his employer, the Government of the United States, to change its ways. President Carter and other high Administration people keep telling us that labor and management in the private sector of the national economy must exercise restraint in increasing wages and prices.

That is not more than a half-truth at best. Until the idiotic policy of assuring everybody against hardship in such matters as pay and cost of living is abandoned, talk about bringing inflation under control is nonsense. The rise in the minimum wage the first of last January, to be followed by two more annual increases under present law, if nothing else happens will mean continued inflation.

There is gouging among all organized segments of our population. Workers in both public and private employment, merchants, professional people and public officials are guilty. But the chief villain in this whole insane situation is a National Government that prints up a new supply of money every time some obligation comes due.

high cost of hew

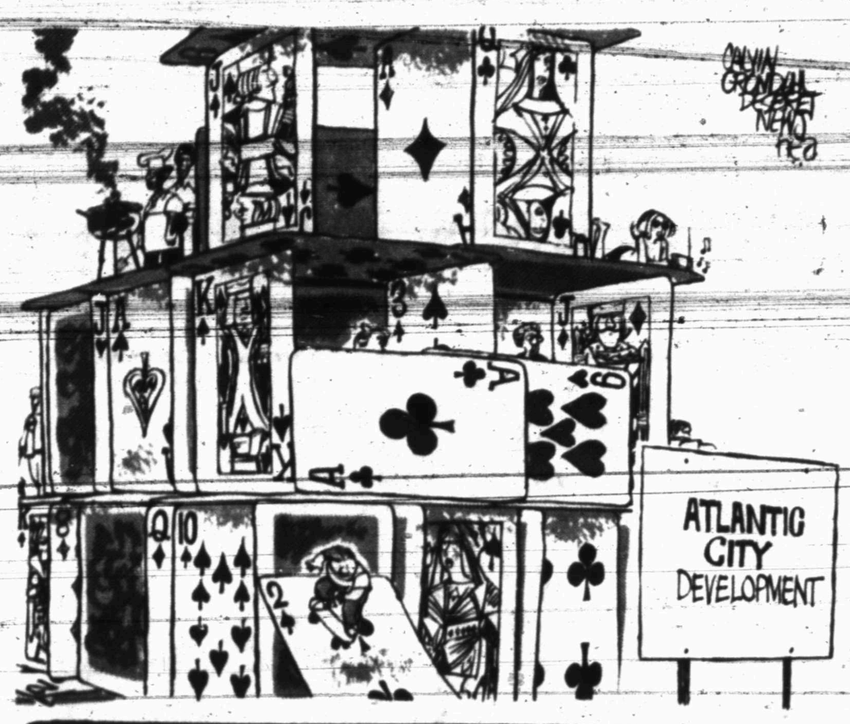

When one thinks of big-time spenders the U.S. government must surely be considered. The reason being that it has the largest budget of anything, anywhere - be it country or company. Ranking in second place comes the Soviet Union. Not much of a surprise.

But, the one that is a surprise is third place. That distinction goes the department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) of the United States. That department has a budget that exceeds $185 billion for 1979.

Let's look at it several ways. First - It is greater than the annual budget of any other country in the world. Second - If you totalled all the state budgets of our United States you would have a figure that is over $50 billion less than the HEW budget. And, third - the HEW budget is over 22 times greater then the annual budget for the state of Texas.

Is it any wonder that the American taxpayer is faced with growing demands for his dollars? And, can you imagine just how many people are taken from the private sector each year and added to the payroll of this growing, practically autocratic governmental agency?

It is a poor commentary indeed for our government that is supposed to be "of the people" to instead be "to the people."

at wits end

by erma bombeck

(Today's column is a portion of the Commencement Address delivered by Erma Bombeck at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio.)

I have no way of knowing how many of you will "climb every mountain, forge every stream," or who will "walk through a storm and hold your head up high and not be afraid of the dark," or who will even "march into hell with a heavenly song."

For some of you, it may be a toughie finding your car after the ceremony.

But whatever it was that brought you to this stage today...hang onto it. Maybe it was ambition. Maybe it was something you had to prove to yourself. Maybe it was peer pressure. Or maybe it was someplace to go while everyone else was working all day long. Whatever it was, it got you involved. It got all your Sagittarians off your cusp and moving. It kept you alert and vital for four years.

The saddest story I know was a woman...a very close friend of mine...who died three years ago of terminal apathy.

I cannot begin to tell you what the heartbreak of apathy is like. First, we noticed the physical paralysis...how she never ran for a bus, a parade, of a white sale. Slowly, insidiously, the disease began to spread to the rest of her body. She'd watch reruns of Gilligan's Island because it was too much trouble to turn the dial. She once listened to Debby Boone sing "You Light Up My Life" for three solid months and didn't even flinch.

Nothing excited her. She never complained about income tax, computers, commercials, or one-way streets. She didn't care about the Panama Canal, research rats who lit up, or whether her checkbook balanced. When someone mentioned President Carter's energy bill she shrugged and said, "He'll probably pay it like the rest of us."

She never volunteered, never got involved in health drives, and once when she was approached by the women's movement to contribute to her sex she said, "Honey, my husband gave at the office."

All of you out there today have a winning streak going for you. Whatever you do. BE! Raise your voice. Protest. Get angry. Enter a Pillsbury Bake-off...a Reader's Digest Sweepstakes.

...ban pay restrooms at the airport. March to put dogs in Pampers. Picket motherhood. Stamp out "Have a good day." Spread rumors that ironed sheets are a health hazard or discover a cure for Bibliographies. But BE!

Whatever you're going to do with all your God-given talents--and you all have them--I would feel like this entire ceremony was a waste of time if any one of you came and went through life on this earth... and no one noticed.

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Physicians call it byssionosis; workers in textile mills refer to it as "brown lung." The initial symptoms are barely noticeable - the sensation of chest tightness and a slight cough on the first day of the work week.

Just as coal miners contract "black lung" by breathing air laden with coal dust, mill workers are afflicted by brown lung through inhalation of cotton dust, that becomes embedded in their lungs and air passages.

If the disease is allowed to continue unchecked, the symptoms become severe throughout the work week. Shortness of breath, a wracking cough and production of excess phlegm turn into chronic conditions.

In its final stages, the simple act of breathing becomes a struggle for a respiratory system ravaged by byssinosis. The worker is permanently disabled because of irreversible obstruction of the lungs and bronchial tubes.

Approximately 35,000 active and retired mill workers are totally disabled because of byssinosis, with an additional 20,000 to 30,000 active workers suffering from its acute effects, according to government estimates.

The occupational hazard is little known outside the South, where most of its victims live and work. More than three-fourths of the nation's cotton textile workers are employed in North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Georgia.

But brown lung now is on the verge of becoming the focus of a national controversy because of an increasingly fierce debate at the highest levels of the federal government over whether to impose tough new health standards that would reduce the incidence of cotton dust.

Those standards are long overdue. English health officials identified the cause of byssinosis in the 1930s, and by 1940 the British government added its victims to the list of those qualified for workmen's compensation payments.

There was little medical research on the problem in this country until the 1960s, however, and many of the early efforts were thwarted by mill owners' refusal to allow physicians the access to their plants necessary to examine employees and working conditions.

In another manifestation of industry foot-dragging, many of the nation's largest textile producers either denied the existence of any health problems or insisted that doctors on the company payroll would handle the situation.

Despite that intransigence, medical researchers eventually identified brown lung as an acute respiratory disease that could reduce lung capacity by as much as 75 percent.

In late 1976, the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) proposed new federal standards designed to sharply reduce the amount of cotton dust in textile mills.

Industry leaders responded with claims that the required ventilation, filtration and dust suppression systems would cost $2.7 billion. OSHA drastically modified its proposal to cut the cost to $625 million for initial installation and $195 million for annual operation.

Even that price is too high for senior aides to President Carter, determined to implement a White House anti-inflation program. They have delayed and threaten to kill the new standards because they allegedly lack "cost-effectiveness."

But people like Lonnie Moore, of Spartanburg, S.C., aren't very sympathetic toward a White House approach that places a price tag on human misery.

"I've got a hurting all across my body. I just hurt all over. My last day in there (at a mill) I got so sick I couldn't stand up. The company wouldn't even let me call an ambulance," recalls Moore.

"When I got to the hospital, the doctor told me: 'Your lung is full of fiber. Get out of there or make your funeral arrangements."

hungary favored

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the House already having agreed and the Senate expected to, Hungary soon may enjoy "most favored nation" status in its trade with the United States.

Q - Does that mean Hungary, called by Rep. Richard Schultz, R-Pa., during the House hearings as "the jolliest cell in the Soviet concentration camp," is likely to enjoy unusual trade benefits?

A. Not at all. If the proposal passes, it means Hungary won't be penalized by higher duties that apply to most Communist nations. The United States would, in return, have similar status in Hungary.

But Hungary wouldn't be getting a thing that most nations now enjoy.

Q. Where does the term come from?

A. The current usage evolves from a long history in which diplomatic shadings, bureaucratic vernacular and legalese have enhanced the natural mutations of language.

Americans have used the term at least since 1923, when bilateral treaties were common and nations sought to obtain the best rate existing, that is the rate given to the nation most favored.

Q. What does "most favored nation" or MFN means these days?

A. That when a country is granted that status it has been upgraded from statutory duties, under which its goods pay the highest rates of all.

Q. Are MFN rates much lower?

Yes, very much lower, usually just a fraction of other rates. The MFN tariff on nitrite, for example, is 1.8 cents a pound, but for nation's not granted that status the levy is 4.5 cents.

Q. It is, then, the best tariff status available for an exporter to the United States?

A. No. Not nearly.

Q. What status is better than it?

A. GSP status. GSP stands for Generalyzed System of Preferences, a category so designated in the Trade Act of 1974, and which applies to 99 developing countries and 39 dependencies.

GSP nations pay no duties at all on some products. Assuming they had it to export, for example, their nitrate would come in duty-free.

Q. Which developing countries have that status?

A. Perhaps a more direct answer is to say which do not. Members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and most Communist nations are ineligible. African and Latin American countries, including Brazil, a developing giant, generally are eligible, as are scores of others, including Israel, India, Hong Kong, Cyprus, and South Korea.

4-H Citizenship On The Go

A trip to Washington, D.C. is an exciting adventure for anyone, but for Martha Beavers it is the height of excitement. After more than a full year of working nights and saving nickles and dimes, Martha has reached the time for getting ready to attend the 4-H Citizenship Tour to Washington, D.C.

This trip will begin in Dallas and travel by bus through the Civil War battlegrounds, through the Smokey Mountains, stop for a full day of touring Williamsburg, Virginia, and finally reach Washington. The two buses of Texas 4-Hers will be housed at the National 4-H Center where tours will go into Washington to see the National Cathedral, the Smithsonian Institute, White House and many others. Special meetings on Capitol Hill with the Texas Representatives and State Senators will highlight one day.

Miss Beavers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Beavers, will attend special workshops while at the National 4-H Center to make her more aware of how the United States Government came into being and how the country is presently run. Many youth after attending a similar tour feel a greater sense of responsibility for voting and keeping informed. Martha earned money throughout the year and also appreciates the help given by the local Lion's Club, Rotary Club, Mr. J.W. McCloskey and the KSNY Radio Station.

The tour will be concluded after a trip to the National Country Music Hall of Fame, a trip to Elvis Presley's home, a nuclear and aeronautics plant and much, much more. Upon her return Martha will be eager to answer any questions.

If you think you would be interested in a trip such as this one contact the County Extension Office maybe you will be the next person to go from Scurry County.

Safety Cap Is Choice

COLLEGE STATION - Consumers can buy packages without safety lids, says Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist.

Child-resistant safety caps have proven effective in preventing accidental poisonings among children.

However, some adults - particularly older adults and the handicapped - cannot open these containers due to lack of strength, dexterity or poor eyesight.

Ms. Kerbel is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Manufacturers are permitted to sell one size of a product in ordinary packaging when other sizes are available with child-resistant safety caps, the specialist explains.

For products like furniture polish or aspirin, look for a warning saying that packaging is not recommended for use in households with children.

For prescription drugs, ordinary packaging is only available upon request of the prescribing physician or the customer.

However, when using products without child-resistant safety lids, remember to keep these products in a locked cabinet when children visit, Ms. Kerbel cautions.

Party Buying More French Flags

QUEBEC (AP) - Since the separatist Quebec Party came into power 18 months ago, the Quebec government has spent five times as much money to buy French flags as it has on Canadian flags, officials say.

No figures were released on how many Quebec flags the government has bought. The French flags were bought for visits by French officials to Quebec.

Jumping rope is not just for kids and boxers. It's a great over-all muscle-toner and one of the best exercises for the cardiovascular system.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "One of the most interesting bridge plays is the so-called crocodile coup in which you must open your jaws to pick up partner's queen. The coup is seldom necessary since an alert partner should get rid of the queen early."

Alan: "South's five-no-trump call was made to tell North that their side held all the aces. South was not going to seven on his own hook."

Oswald: "South won the diamond lead in dummy, cashed the ace and jack of spades and led a club to dummy's ace."

Alan: "Right here is where an alert East would have chucked his queen of clubs to guard against the possibility that West held king-ten-small, or what he actually held. That queen wasn't worth anything."

Oswald: "In any event, East kept a tight hold on that queen. Now South cashed all three hearts and the ace of diamonds before leading a club from his hand. Should West rise with the king? Yes. Would West rise with the king? Maybe."

Alan: "If he did rise he would cash his jack. If he didn't East would have to give a ruff and discard and the slam would make."

Ask the Experts

A California reader wants to know what we think of the so-called weak two bids.

We like them and use them in tournament play, but do not recommend them for ordinary bridge games.

Boy Tells Folks A Bedtime Story

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y.News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went out of town for one night, leaving our 17-year-old son without supervision for the first time. With our approval, he had a friend stay with him. He asked us to trust him and we felt we could.

All went well—as far as we know. The problem? Our 21-year-old son, who attends college near home, showed up unexpectedly with a young lady (a freshman in college), and they spent the night in our guest room!

After learning of this, my husband confronted our 21-year-old son, who apologized with tears in his eyes, saying he realized he shouldn't have done it, but nothing happened. He swears that they both slept on top of the covers with all their clothes on. (This is hard for me to believe.)

My husband believes the boy and tells me that "times have changed," and I am overreacting. I cannot accept this. I am disgusted with our son, and ashamed of the example he has set for his younger brother. Also, I can't imagine a decent girl putting herself in this position.

To top it off, a few days later our son brought this girl over, and I was expected to smile as though nothing had happened.

Must I go along with my husband's "times have changed" attitude? I feel bitter and betrayed.

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's possible that you son was telling the truth when he said "nothing happened." Granted, he showed very poor judgement in bringing his date home for the night, but what will you gain by being bitter, suspicious and unforgiving?

Even "decent" girls have been known to do foolish things, so try not to hold it against her. Whether "times have changed" is not as important as maintaining a good relationship with your son. He obviously regrets the incident. Don't mention it again.

DEAR ABBY: My aunt brings her two kids (ages 5 and 7) over to our house whenever she feels like it, then she and my mom take off, leaving me to baby-sit with the kids for maybe half a day.

I never get paid a penny for this, and believe me, those brats are a handful.

I am sick of it, and I told my mom that I was going to ask my aunt for a dollar an hour for each kid, like I charge everybody else. Mom said if I opened my mouth she'd punch me out.

I am 14. Is this fair? What is your advice?

MAD

DEAR MAD: It isn't fair, but I wouldn't advise you to open your mouth—unless you want to get punched out.

DEAR ABBY: Please print my letter. It might keep some other girl from making the same mistake I made.

I went with a boy all semester. The only place he ever took me was out to park. He told me he "loved" me, and I flipped for him, but when it came time to ask a girl to the prom, he asked someone else. I felt so hurt I wanted to die.

When my girlfriend asked him how come he didn't ask me, he said, "Oh, she's OK for a make-out, but a guy likes to be seen with a girl he respects."

Losers Are Barbecued In Texas 'Dillo Races

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

FREDERICKSBURG (AP)-From the tip of his elongated snout to the end of his rat-like tail, Barbecue Wennichverlieren looked every inch the magnificent thoroughbred, born to run.

On Sunday, at the call to the post-"Gentlemen, start your 'dillos"-he clawed eagerly at the sun-baked track. His humped, hinged, armor-plated shell and stubby legs quivered with anticipation.

The track was fast. All bets were down. Excitement rippled through the crowd jamming the grandstand at the Gillespie County Fairgrounds.

And at the crack of the starter's rifle, Barbecue was off, churning, swaying and hopping in the fashion of a true thoroughbred armadillo.

It takes only a few moments for a good 'dillo to cover the 15 yards or so that make a race-course, and the finishes are often close. Barbecue was in it all the way, but he was second - by a snout - to a speedster by the name of Hill Country Holler No. 7.

And in the Texas Invitational Armadillo Races, second doesn't count for much. Especially in this German-settled part of Texas, where people know the name translates to "Barbecue If I Lose."

Until a few years ago, the armadillo - a docile, burrowing mammal about the size of an overfed house cat and covered with a bony but pliable crescent-shaped shell - was most often seen mashed on the highway.

But the odd-looking creature became the symbol of progressive country music-country influenced by rock - and where the music was popular, suddenly armadillos were popular. For every weekend of this summer, there is an armadillo race in southern or central Texas.

It's all quite informal. Hill Country Holler No. 7's trainers are regulars on the racing circuit, and they had caught the winner - plus Hill Country Holler Nos. 8, 9, 10 and 11 - on Saturday.

"We go out and catch 10 of 11 the day before the race," said Steve Fraunhofer, holding the champion aloft by its tail. "We try to sneak up on them, but that usually doesn't work. So we just chase them down. Then we pick the fice feistiest ones, the ones that try to tear out of the sacks.

"If we get a good one, we keep him for maybe two races. They start and some become too tame after that. If they don't run good, we either let them go or barbecue and eat 'em," he added.

Training methods differ. The champion had been transported in a customized box, while Barbecue Wennichverlieren arrived in the bottom of a burlap sack after being stabled overnight in a large trash-can.

Go-Getter and Sue came in the arms of their trainers, with Lone Star Beer stickers slapped on their shells.

The racing rules take into account that armadillos rarely run in a straight line. The race starts with the 'dillos facing out from a tight circle, each held by the tail. At the start, they are released into the larger circle that surrounds the small one. The winner is the first one out of the large circle.

Dr. Frank Weaker, a San Angonio veterinarian, was on hand to make sure the armadillos were treated humanely and hadn't been drugged.

Water Deliveries Decline Slightly

The Colorado River Municipal Water District, through May, has delivered slightly less water than for the same period last year, but this is wholly due to cutting back oil companies in order to insure ample supply for municipal and domestic customers. Instead of two per cent off, with normal deliveries to oil companies, the deliveries would have been up 8 per cent.

During May, the district delivered 1,680,862,164 gallons, or 207,000,000 gallons less than May 1977, down 11 per cent. But of this, 333,512,364,000 gallons, almost all brackish water, was delivered to oil companies, a decline of 281,462,000 gallons or 45.77 per cent for the month. For the first five months of the year, oil companies have received 1,942,414,314 gallons, a drop of 880,000,000 gallons, of 31.18 per cent.

The cities present a different story. In May they took 1,347,349,800 gallons, or 15.36 per cent more than for May of last year. The first five months saw the cities draw 5,404,872,700 gallons, or 15.36 per cent more.

Through five months of 1978, CRMWD delivered 7,347,287,014 gallons to all customers, a modest decline of 2.63. The 880 million gallons decline in oil company deliveries more than offset gains on other fronts. As of May 1, the district cut oil companies off of surface supplies altogether for secondary recovery, but in May 1977 these customers received 288,900,000 gallons of surface water for this purpose.

During May, Odessa required 569,767,000 gallons, up 11.34 per cent; Big Spring 261,972,000, down 1.54 per cent (which was less than from the loss incurred by closing of Webb AFB), Snyder 88,689,000 gallons, up 7.58 per cent; Stanton 13,028,000 gallons, up 37.40 per cent; Midland 405,022,000 gallons, up .29 of a per cent; and Robert Lee 8,871,800 gallons, where it received none in May 1977.

LITTLE LEAGUE

LITTLE LEAGUE
Yankees 19, Braves 4

Jerry Garza had a home run, a double and two singles as the Yankees downed the Braves, 19-4, in a make-up Little League game Saturday night.

The Yankees had two big innings, scoring seven runs in both the second and fifth frames. Bobby Velasquez had a double and two singles, while Mike McWilliams had two doubles and DeWayne McWilliams had two singles for the winners.

FARM LEAGUE
Braves 11, Yankees 10

The Yankees rallied for five runs in the fourth inning, but it wasn't enough to overtake the Braves, who edged out an 11-10 decision in Farm League play Saturday night.

The Braves scored four in the first inning and were never headed.

GIRL'S LEAGUE
Bears 11, Tigers 0

Becky Natividad put the Tigers down on five hits as the Bears took an 11-0 decision in girls softball league play Saturday night.

Brenda Zajicek had a double and two singles to pace the Bears attack, while Becky Natividad chipped in with a couple of singles to aid her own cause. Dawn Patrick had three singles for the Tigers.

Red Devils 17, Grape Apes 12

The Red Devils romped across for seven runs in the first inning and went on to defeat the Grape Apes, 17-12, Saturday night in girls softball league play. Karen Parmer had three singles to lead the Red Devils in hitting.

Tracy Hicks had a triple and two singles for the Grape Apes, while Terese Beuerlein and two doubles.

Sparklers 6, Blue Angels 5

The Snyder Sparklers edged the Blue Angels, 6-5, Saturday night in the girls softball league. The Sparklers overcame a 4-1 deficit by scoring two in the third and two in the fourth. The Blue Angels made a bid in the fifth when Angela Williams tripled after Kim Edmondson had walked, but they were unable to get Williams in from third. Rosie Pena, who got credit for the victory, had a double and a single for the Sparklers. Shanda Wiman had two singles for the winners.

Affirmed, Alydar Set Fourth Duel

NEW YORK (AP) - It'll be a tough act to follow after the Belmont Stakes, but it appears that Affirmed and Alydar will duel again in the $100,000-added Travers Stakes at Saratoga Aug. 19.

"I never recall in my life a race like that one was," Laz Barrera, trainer of Triple Crown winner Affirmed, said Sunday, the morning after Steve Cauthen rode his colt to a stirring head victory over Alydar in the 110th running of the Belmont. "Even if I would have lost it, it would have been the greatest race I ever saw."

It's doubtful any of the 65,417 fans at Belmont Park and the millions of national television viewers would disagree with Barrera's observation of the 1½-mile race which amounted to a match race between these two closest of rivals.

The Cuban-born trainer said Affirmed, the 11th Triple Crown winner in history, would rest for a week after the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont grind and then resume training with gallops. But before the Travers, Barrera said Affirmed might run in the Swaps Stakes at Hollywood Park July 2 if he regains the 30 or 40 pounds he has lost since the May 6 Derby.

It was at the Swaps last year that 1977 Triple Crown victor Seattle Slew suffered his only career loss. An incentive for the Swaps is that $150,000 would be added to the purse of $200,000 if a Kentucky Derby winner goes.

Yet, the prospect of another race between these exceptional 3-year-olds, who finished 1-2 in all the Triple Crown races by a total margin of about 1¾ lengths, is what thoroughbred followers would love most to see. Both the Swaps and Travers are 1¼-mile races.

"It looks to me like it will be the Travers at Saratoga," said Barrera. "If Alydar and Affirmed keep on running, I guarantee you John Veitch will have a bigger ulcer than I got. It will be a lot of years before you'll see two horses closer together."

Andy Bean Wins In Sudden Death

MEMPHIS (AP) - Andy Bean holed a 35-40 foot birdie putt on the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff to beat Lee Trevino and claim his second consecutive title, winning the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

They finished regulation play with matching 277 totals, 11 strokes under par. Bean played the last round in 2-under-par 70. Trevino shot the best round of the tournament, a 65.

18-Year-Old Pitcher Big Surprise

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

It was a big surprise last week when Charles O. Finley named high school draft pick Mike Morgan to start a game for the Oakland A's.

It was a bigger surprise Sunday when he finished.

The 18-year-old right-hander, fresh from Tuesday's free agent baseball draft, was thrown right into the major league pool by the Oakland owner and managed to keep his head above water.

Morgan allowed only two earned runs during a complete-game performance, and even though he lost a 3-0 decision to the Baltimore Orioles, was given a standing ovation from many of the 17,157 fans at the Oakland Coliseum and some applause as well from the opposition.

"He did a good job but I really don't agree with what the A's are doing," said Baltimore left-hander Scott McGregor, who beat Morgan with a six-hitter. "It's just too tough to come right out of high school and pitch in the majors."

Morgan displayed a lively fastball, but gave up 10 hits and walked five Orioles. Four of the first three innings.

McGregor recorded his seventh straight victory and improved his record to 7-3.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, the Boston Red Sox beat the Seattle Mariners 5-3; the California Angels outscored the New York Yankees 9-6; the Detroit Tigers stopped the Kansas City Royals 5-2 in 10 innings; the Cleveland Indians edged the Minnesota Twins 2-1 in 10; the Milwaukee Brewers took a doubleheader from the Toronto Blue Jays 2-1 and 5-4, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers 2-1.

Red Sox 5, Mariners 3

Dennis Eckersley ran his winning streak over Seattle to four games with eighth-inning relief help from Bill Campbell, and Rick Burleson and Dwight Evans hit home runs as Boston defeated the Mariners.

Angels 9, Yankees 6

Brian Downing drove in the go-ahead runs with a single in a four-run fifth inning to help California beat New York. Yankee shortstop Fred Stanley booted a grounder by Joe Rudi to open the Angels' fifth. Ron Jackson doubled off loser Ken Clay and Tony Solaita drew a walk to fill the bases.

Tigers 5, Royals 2

Rusty Staub blasted a three-run homer in the 10th to power Detroit over Kansas City. Ron LeFlore began the rally with a one-out double, Steve Kemp walked, then Staub hit a 1-0 Al Hrabosky pitch for his eighth homer.

Indians 2, Twins 1

Ted Cox's single over a drawn-in outfield brought home Buddy Bell with the winning run as Cleveland beat Minnesota. Bell led off the 10th with his third hit of the day, a triple to left.

Brewers 2-5, Blue Jays 1-4

Larry Hisle hit a tie-breaking home run in the eighth inning to back Lary Sorensen's five-hit pitching and lead Milwaukee over Toronto in the first game of their doubleheader.

White Sox 2, Rangers 1

Francisco Barrios and Lerrin LaGrow combined on an eight-hitter and Eric Soderholm knocked in one run and scored another to lead Chicago past Texas.

Peers Think Cowboys Will Win It All Again

DALLAS (AP) - It may be like saying the sun will rise in the east, but nevertheless the Dallas Cowboys' competition in the National Football Conference's Eastern Division predict the Super Bowl Champion Pokes will keep the division title.

A Dallas Times Herald survey of St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York and Washington came up 5-0 for the Pokes to retain their title.

Even Cowboy Coach Tom Landry, who generally avoids such predictions, had to agree.

"The thing is, we're Super Bowl champs until somebody takes us out," said Landry. "We're there until we don't make the Super Bowl. So we ought to be the favorite."

The Pokes' record ought to serve as another reminder of who the front-runner is. Dallas finished on top of the NFC East last year by three games over the second-place Redskins. The club was 12-2 in regular season play, followed by Washington, 9-5; St. Louis, 7-7; Philadelphia and New York, both 5-9.

However, deep in every statistic-lover's mind, lurks the inescapable fact that just six of 11 Super Bowl champions have won their division the following year.

Redskins Coach Jack Pardee said if Dallas can't be beat by NFC East opponents, maybe the odds can get the job done.

"Who's going to do it? What's going to do it? Look at history. It just doesn't happen very often," said Pardee. "Dallas' chances are good, but we're not forfeiting."

Bud Wilkinson has few illusions about his Cardinals. However, he feels four of the five NFC East teams should start the year on equal footing. The exception, of course, is Dallas.

"If the Cowboys keep everyone healthy, they're the class team," said Wilkinson. "Injuries are something you pray won't occur ..."

In Philadelphia, Coach Dick Vermeil figures the Cowboys' toughest competition will be outside their division from bullies like Los Angeles and Minnesota. There's only one thing that really bothers Vermeil about Dallas' schedule: "They play the same one we do."

Vermeil aligned the division - sans Cowboys - thusly: "I think St. Louis is next best, then Washington with the Giants and Eagles challenging both the second and third-place teams.

"I believe the Giants are a coming team. I think we're more competitive.

Summer Recreation At Boys' Club Underway

The summer program at the Scurry County Boys' Club began last week with Coach Bill Boles directing the activities. The program follows a schedule with few variations except those caused by the weather so that each individual can participate every day in the activities of his choice.

On Mondays from 2 to 3 p.m. slow pitch softball is offered; archery and darts from 3 to 4 p.m.; physical fitness program through circuit training from 4 to 5 p.m.; boxing with matches or weight training from 5 to 6 p.m.

On Tuesdays from 2 to 3 p.m. two-below football is offered; basketball games and basketball skills from 3 to 4 p.m.; 4 to 5 p.m. tennis fundamentals and some matches played; 5 to 6 p.m. badminton skills and matches.

On Wednesdays "Make a hitter out of every boy" softball is played; darts from 3 to 4 p.m.; physical fitness and skills testing from 4 to 5 p.m.; boxing and weight training from 5 to 6 p.m.

Thursdays follow Tuesday's schedule and Friday follows Monday's schedule. On Saturday softball or football is played from 2 to 3 p.m. and archery and basketball alternate from 3 to 4 p.m. From time to time skills tests of some type are administered.

In softball on June 6, the Jacky Anderson team defeated the Jerry Comstock team by a close score of 9-8. Randy Mendez led the winning team with 3 runs while Mike Hernandez scored 3 for the losers. On Wednesday the Danny Butler team defeated the Abel Escobedo team by 21-11. Earl Sneed led the winners with 5 runs while Escobedo got 3 runs for the losers. Friday the Earl Sneed team defeated the Ricky Escobedo team by 14-9. Jacky Anderson got 3 runs for the winners and two runs each were scored by Ricky Escobedo, Larry Rodriquez and Eddie Collins for the losing side.

Eighteen boys took part in darts on Wednesday. The top four scorers were Allen Wallace with a score of 155; Tony Ramirez, 140; Raymond Jeffrey, 130; and Danny Butler, 115. On Friday, 16 boys took part in the dart throw with Eddie Collins scoring 175; Jady Schulze, 150; Bobby Butler, 135; Ricky Escobedo, 115.

In circuit training there are 9 stations where exercises are to be done for 30 seconds with 15 seconds between each station. These include the squat thrust, set-ups, push-ups, bleacher runs, skip rope, bench jump, biscup curls with a weight bar, pull-overs with a weight bar, and line backer shacker with a weight bar. On Wednesday N. Chavez, R. Escobedo, M. McGlouthlin, D. Jeffrey, B. Scott, M. Lawton, R. Mendez, E. Rutkowski, P. Martinez, J. Martinez, and R. Martinez participated.

On Friday the following were on hand: Kevin Schulze, Eddie Rutkowski, Bobby Butler, Stacey Forbes. Tony Ramirez, Rodney Mendez, Terry Rodriquez, Abel Escobedo, and Jeffrey Rose.

In football (two-below) on Thursday the team lead by Mike Ramirez defeated the Danny Butler team, 42-30. Rodney Mendlez scored 24 points for the winners, and Bobby Scott scored 18 points for the losers. Also scoring for the winner team was Mike Ramirez with 6, Rumaldo Martinez with 12. Scoring for the losers were Steven Jeffrey with 12 and Ruben Escobedo with 6 points. On Saturday David Rios' team won over the Wally Rutkowski team 42-18. Sylvester Spells scored 18 points for the winners while Ruben Escobedo scored 12, Marcus McGlouthlin, 6, and David Rios, 6. For the losing team, Bobby Scott scored 12 points and Rodney Harris got 6 points.

On Tuesday in basketball the team headed by Danny Ramos defeated the team headed by Ricky Escobedo, 33-31. Saturday's game saw Ruben Escobedo team defeat Jeffrey Rose's group, 28-18. In Tuesday's game Escobedo led the winners with 14 points and Danny Ramos scored 8 for the losers. On Saturday Marcus McGlouthin scored 4 points; Steve Ramirez, 2; Bobby Scott, 10; Jacky Anderson, 4 for the winning team.

Marcus McGlouthin took on "all-comers" in badminton during the week and ended up undefeated. The tennis trainers have been in lots of use this week, and instructional periods should pick up this week.

Lopez Bids For Super Stardom

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

MASON, Ohio (AP) - "She's Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino rolled into one player," LPGA Commissioner Ray Volpe says of Nancy Lopez, the current range of women's professional golf.

"She has the sex appeal of Palmer, the charisma of Trevino.

"Whether she becomes a Jack Nicklaus remains to be seen."

Whatever sport's newest superstar is, she seems to be too good to be true.

Lopez' latest accomplishment, a victory in the Ladies' Professional Golf Association Championship Sunday, brought her four more records. She tied another one.

Lopez' total of 275 and her 13-under-par display wiped out LPGA Championship standards for total score and strokes under par. She extended her own rookie record of six titles, and she pushed her earnings to more than $100,000 earlier in the season than anyone else.

The one she tied, four consecutive victories by a woman pro, may be the most important to her.

"Now that I've won four in a row, I'd really like to break that record," she said.

JoAnne Carner calls Lopez the greatest putter ever to come on the LPGA tour. The 21-year-old from Roswell, N.M., does not argue the point.

"I owe it to my putter," she said after playing her last 41 holes in one stretch without a bogey in this major championship.

Amy Alcott, the runnerup with 71-281, six shots behind, marvels at Lopez' disposition.

"I've never met a person who accepts what she does with such humility and class. She has excellent timing in her swing, she's a great putter and she's a helluva competitor.

"She's floating on a level of high. Right now she's the one to beat every week."

Lopez' $22,500 check pushed her earnings to more than $62,000 in her last four victories and past the $100,000 plateau, the earliest in history. Judy Rankin had reached the magic mark on July 12 to years ago.

States Set Primary Elections On Tuesday

By ROXINNE ERVASTI
Associated Press Writer

Voters in Maine will nominate candidates to succeed the nation's only independent governor and Arkansas will unofficially pick two congressmen while nominating a Democratic candidate for Senate in primary elections to be held Tuesday.

In other elections, South Carolina Democrats will decide who will oppose veteran Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond and both parties will pick gubernatorial nominees. Virginian Republicans will pick a nominee to face incumbent Rep. Herbert E. Harris, whose district includes the Washington, D.C., suburb of Fairfax County.

In Arkansas, two term Gov. David Pryor, who forced the late Sen. John McClellan into a run-off in 1972, faces Rep. Jim Tucker in the Democratic runoff for the Senate seat held by Kaneaster Hodges Jr. since McClellan died in March. The winner will face newcomer Tom Kelly, who won the May Republican primary.

The race between Pryor, 43, and Tucker, 34, has captured most of the attention in the state. It heated up last week with accusations that Pryor's campaign manager attempted to influence the outcome of a utility rate case. A prosecuting attorney's investigation concluded there was no evidence of wrongdoing on Pryor's part.

Pryor was elected to Congress in 1966 and served one term. Tucker succeeded Wilbur Mills in the House after four years as state Attorney General.

The lack of Republican candidates in Arkansas congressional races will make the November election a formality.

State Reps. Doug Brandon and Cecil Springs are vying for Tucker's 2nd District seat in the Democratic runoff. In the 4th District, which is 31 percent black, Secretary of State Winston Bryant and former prosecutor Beryl Anthony seek to succeed moderate-to-liberal Ray Thornton, who lost to Tucker and Pryor in the May 30 primary.

Maine's popular Gov. James Longley, a registered Democrat who ran as an anti-politician independent, promised during his 1974 campaign to serve only one four-year term, and there are three-way races to succeed him in both the Democratic and Republican parties.

Indian claims to 60 percent of the state's land are a key issue among Democrats in the campaign. State Attorney General Joseph Brennan wants Congress to eliminate all land claims and allow the Indians to sue for money only, with a payment to be made entirely by the federal government. State Sen. Phillip Merrill and state Rep. Richard Carey both favor negotiated settlements of the Indian claims.

the group which could be auctioned off the help defray the expenses of drama students going to New Orleans in August to present "Romeo and Juliet" at the American Theatre Association's annual meeting. The result was $250 for the drama trip fund.

"I don't know what we would have done without these students," said Ms. Lovell. "I tell you I'm not worried about the future of this country when I see youngsters respond to a community situation like this.

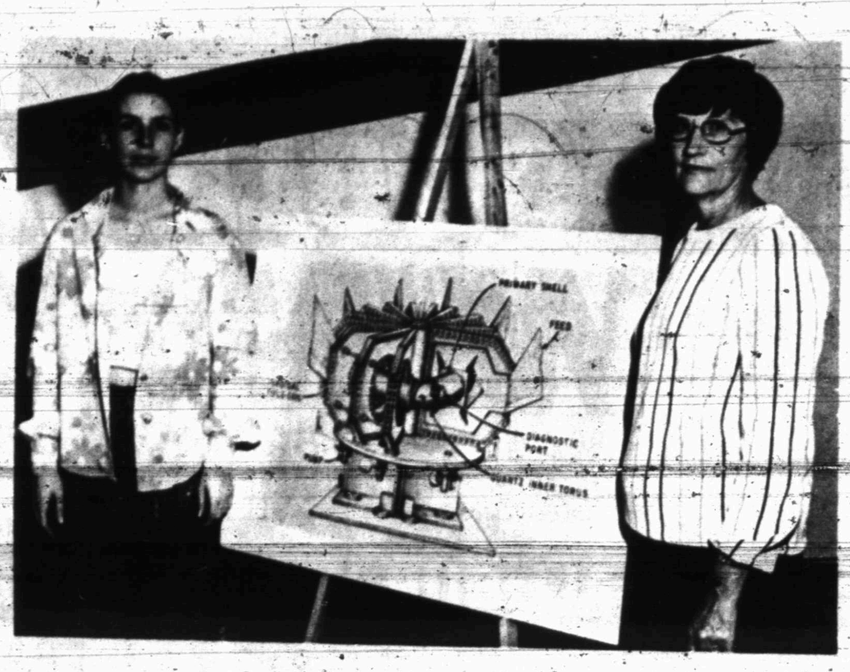

Officials of the Lone Star Chapter of the Family Motor Coach Association were so impressed that they declared they wanted to hold at least one rally per year in Snyder from now on.

Morris Trial Begins Today

The trial of Roy Dale Morris was scheduled to begin today in 132nd District Court with the selection of a jury.

The 25-year-old Morris is charged with aggravated assault on a peace officer. He is alleged to have struck Sgt. J.L. Cullar on March 8.

The incident is alleged to have occurred while Morris was being booked in the city jail on an unrelated misdemeanor charge.

They were guests of Texas Electric Service Company at the conference, co-sponsored by the University and the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation of which TESCO is a member.

Bench Of Inspiration Good For 'Stocktaking'

By SAM HARTZ

WASHINGTON (AP) - Tired? In a rut? Uninspired? When next in the nation's capital, walk 11 paces northwesterly from the equestrain statue of Andrew Jackson across from the White House.

Sit, uninspired one.

You are now on the Bernard Baruch Bench of Inspiration, and if any of that park-bench sage's genius and know-how is transmitted to you, you're on the way.

From this sylvan seat, Baruch ran the War Industries Board during World War I and advised presidents from Woodrow Wilson to John F. Kennedy on matters ranging from economics to atomic energy to politics.

In New York City, his "park bench office" was another green-slatted seat in Central Park West near his home.

The Bench of Inspiration isn't the capital's most popular attraction. Few tourists are aware of it or notice the memorial plaque on an adjacent granite base.

When asked during a short time one day, only one of eight who sat there knew the bench's history. Two had heard of Baruch.

But it was different on Aug. 16, 1960 - the elder statesman's 90th birthday.

On that afternoon, the Boy Scouts of America dedicated the bench to the famous financier, philanthropist, consultant and public servant for his "inspiring devotion to country and distinguished service to boyhood."

Baruch, unable to come from New York, sent a tape-recorded message. His old friend Winston Churchill wrote in a letter: "It is fitting that this bench on which he has so often meditated and talked should now be dedicated to him."

There were many tributes in Congress and on the nation's editorial pages.

Does the Bench of Inspiration live up to its name? The National Park Service has no testimonials on file. A park attendant considered a while.

"Yes, sometimes I do see a person get up from it as though they'd suddenly thought of something," he said.

Regardless of inspirational qualities, Baruch's bench, in common with park seats all over the land, provides a soothing mental balm about which he once said:

"In this hectic Age of Distraction, all of us need to pause every now and then in what we are doing to examine where the rush of the world and of our own activities is taking us.

"Even an hour or two spent in such detached contemplation on a park bench will prove rewarding. The importance of such periodic stocktaking was one of the most valuable lessons I learned from my early experiences."

And who's to argue with a man whose investments earned him a million dollars before he was 30?

Theft Cases Under Probe By Police

A tent, a watch, and a pair of water skis were among the items allegedly stolen from Snyderites during the weekend.

The tent was reportedly taken from the 3500 Austin Place residence of Doris Petty. She reported the incident to officers Saturday morning, and estimated the value of the tent to be about $80.

Reporting a larger loss was Rita Thompson who told police that her $500 watch was missing from her 812 32nd St. home. That matter, also, was reported to officers Saturday morning.

Saturday afternoon Carlton Crownover told police that a $150 set of water skis had been taken from his home at 3100 Ave. A.

About $280 was the cash loss reported by James Ray Lafler. The money, he said, was in his wallet which was stolen from a friend's apartment Sunday night. That matter was reported this morning.

Also occurring over the weekend were two traffic accidents.

The first occurred shortly before 9 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of 15th St. and College Ave. Involved in the mishap were a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Robert Boyd and a 1974 Chevrolet driven by William Brown. Only minor damages were reported.

The second mishap took place about 3:35 p.m. Sunday at the Varsity Square Shopping Center. That collision involved a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Elmer Leslie Evans and a 1971 Chevrolet pickup driven by Harley Ray Carmichael.

In 1975, fishing and all that goes with it - licenses, equipment, bait, etc. - cost Americans about $15.2 billion.

Ethics Bill Out Of Trouble

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- Supporters say a sweeping financial disclosure bill is out of trouble - partly because congressmen disclosed their own finances recently without creating new scandal stories.

The supporters predict the bill to require financial disclosure by the president, his chief aides and top federal judges in addition to congressmen now will pass the House within weeks.

Since the Senate already has approved its version, Congress might finally be near completion of the disclosure requirements senators and representatives began writing shortly after the Watergate scandal.

Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., chairman of the House Select Ethics Committee which wrote a large chunk of the bill, said he expects House action late this month or early in July.

Preyer said one reason he pulled the bill off the House calendar two months ago was resentment and concern among some congressmen that financial disclosure statements they were about to file would be sensationalized by reporters.

"We thought that could sink us," Preyer said in an interview.

But he said "there wasn't a lot of sensationalizing on it," and he thinks the resentment is no longer a threat to the bill.

Preyer said, however, that the parliamentary tangle that was the bill's other major problem has not been fully resolved.

Although the details of the bill are complex, the purpose is simple: To require all top federal officials to disclose their financial interests so the public can see if that might influence official decisions.

The maximum criminal penalty for deliberately filing a false report would be a $10,000 fine and a year in jail.

Preyer and other supporters said disagreements between the four House committees that worked on the bill still threaten wholesale rewriting on the House floor that could leave the bill in shambles.

The select ethics committee, the judiciary committee, the armed services committee and the civil service committee wrote either different parts of the bill or competing versions of the same sections.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., chairwoman of the civil service subcommittee and a party to one of the disputes, agrees the differences must be put to the House in an orderly way.

"We could get it so messed up that nobody could put Humpty Dumpty back together again," she said.

Border Death Probed

PROGRESO (AP)-The FBI will take a look at the case of a pregnant woman who died after being questioned at the Progreso border crossing, U.S. Attorney Tony Canales told a group of protesting United Farm Workers at the international bridge here.

Canales said he heard of the demonstrations from a customs official in Houston and decided to speak to the group.

The farm workers gathered at the bridge Saturday and Sunday to protest an Immigration and Naturalization Service investigation that fully exonerated border officials involved in the incident.

He said their demands for further investigation were not unreasonable and said he would call for the FBI probe.

Water retention plateaus

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Why are there plateaus in weight loss even though people are very faithful in sticking to a diet? How long is the longest time that a person has stayed on a plateau? Can you confidently expect that eventually the weight loss will show on the scales?

DEAR READER — The plateaus when a person isn't losing any weight even though he is on a diet are usually caused from water retention. When the foods we eat are completely metabolized by the body they are broken down into carbon dioxide and water. This is true of even such foods as plain table sugar which contains almost no water in its normal state. The body tissues hold on to this water for variable lengths of time.

The body can hold on to the water for several weeks and this is why a person may be having a continual breakdown of fatty tissues but the bathroom scales each day say that a person hasn't lost any weight at all. Eventually there will be a sudden loss of water and a sudden drop in body weight, then a new plateau period before the next sudden release of water and another drop in body weight.

If a person really is taking in less calories than he is using, and sticks to it, eventually the person will lose excess body fat. If he doesn't after five or six weeks of a continual dietary program, he is not using as many calories as he is ingesting and the calorie intake has to be decreased or the level of activity increased to induce body fat loss.

There are other reasons why you might not lose pounds although you lose fat. To help you understand obesity and how to measure it I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-8, Obesity: General Principles of Prevention. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For as long as I can remember I've only been breathing through one nostril. The other one feels as though I should blow it but when I try nothing happens. What is so mysterious about it is that I can lie in bed on the side of the nostril that is cleared and I can breathe through it. Then somehow it changes. The clear nostril becomes closed and the nostril that was plugged opens and I can breathe through it, but I still can't blow it clear.

This isn't a major problem that I should see a doctor about immediately because it really doesn't bother me that much but I would sure appreciate knowing what causes it and perhaps to find a cure so I can breathe freely through both nostrils.

DEAR READER — If you want to do something about it you should see an ear, nose and throat specialist. You're probably describing edema or swelling of the lining of the nasal passage. This may be an allergic reaction or you may have anatomical displacement of the nasal septum area.

That odd alteration in blocking of the sinus passage is because the swelling can occur on either side. When you lie down fluid that causes the swelling gradually accumulates on the side that you're lying on.

If you had a simple anatomical blockage, the nasal passage would be blocked all the time.

You may have a little bit of both and if there is an anatomical change you could have it corrected and it might be useful for the overall health of your sinus and breathing mechanism.

Jordan Doubts ERA Will Be Ratified

NEW YORK (AP)-Retiring Congresswoman Barbara Jordan says she thinks it is "very unlikely" that the proposed Equal Rights Amendment will be ratified by the March 1979 deadline, and that efforts to extend that deadline are splitting the women's movement.

"Some women have been working for the extension, but a lot of women who support ERA are against the extension, which is splitting the women's movement," she told an audience at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Sunday.

The Texas Democrat, one of three black women in the U.S. House of Representatives, received the Utility Club's "Woman of the Year" award.

The Utility Club is a women's charity organization formed in 1917 to help provide clothing for the doughboys of World War I.

The ERA has been approved by 35 states and must be ratified by three more by March 22, 1979, to become part of the Constitution.

Housing Booms In Texas Despite Costs

By The Associated Press

The era of inexpensive housing that was available in the 50s and 60s is gone, according economists.

Phil McClain, chief mortgage officer for Austin Savings and Loan, said the housing picture wouldn't be so rosy for builders if wages weren't also on the rise. But prices seem to be out-stripping income in many cases and concern over moving into that dream home is pushing many families into premature moves.

"Buyers are telling us that 'While I gained equity in the house I was in, the house I wanted to build now costs more. The interest rates are up again and this time I'm afraid the cost of living is going to run off and leave me."

The buyers' panic appears to be well founded. In Tyler, the average cost of a new home is now in the upper 50s, considered one of the highest averages in the state. A year ago, the same home would have cost $50,000. Ten years ago, said realtor Taylor Burns, it would have been in the high 20s.

Working wives, higher wages and a fear of waiting until its too late are being credited with the current house-building boom in Texas.

Housing shortages exist in almost every metropolitan area and several suburban locations, where contractors and realtors say supply simply is not able to keep pace with demand despite skyrocketing prices that would, in another time, deter buyers.

In some areas of Dallas, new home costs are expected to jump upwards of 35 percent this year over last. Houston builders say they would need 24 months just to catch up with today's demand and Odessa contractors claim they would need five years.

Figures from realtors and county offices in Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Longview, Beaumont, Arlington, Tyler and El Paso show similar startling trends.

"Everytime, we've had interest rates this high before, we've had people say, 'Well, I'm going to wait awhile.' Not now," said Burns.

One reason a lot of buyers aren't waiting is because now there are two incomes instead of one. The working wife, says Texas A&M economist Dr. Arthur Wright, is another reason for the boom.

"I think this (combined incomes) is why you see used home prices being bid up nearly to new home prices, and I think it's going to continue at least for the next three years to five years."

Wright also cited national statistics from a study by the U.S. League of Savings Associations that indicate about 55 percent of the home buyers are between 25 and 30 and are either single or married with no children. A second statistic stated that more than a third of all buyers are under 30.

"That really does say a lot," Wright said. "If you can afford to buy a house by the time you're 30, then things really aren't that rough.

Kids Drown Trying To Save Grandad

GARLAND (AP)-Two young children died Sunday afternoon of injuries they sustained Saturday when they apparently tried to save their grandfather from drowning.

The children were identified as Lisa Gossett, 9, and her 7-year-old brother Harold, both of this Dallas suburban community.

Their grandfather, Theodore Lee Fithian, 53, was pronounced dead Saturday night shortly after he and the children were found at the bottom of the swimming pool at a Garland motel.

The children's father, Harold Gossett, said they had been visiting their grandfather, who lived at the motel.

Police said a cook at the motel restaurant found the trio. He said he had been watching the children play at the pool and became worried when he did not see them for several minutes.

Police said the details of the drownings were uncertain but they speculated Fithian struck his head and fell because he had a lesion and a knot on his forehead.

"The speculation is that the kids jumped in to help him," said Garland Police Commander Robert Sherrard.

The youngsters were revived by paramedics after they were pulled from the water but apparently suffered irreversible damage from lack of oxygen, Sherrard said.

Two Die When Ships Collide

GALVESTON (AP)-Two Houston men were killed Sunday afternoon when the anchor cable on their fishing boat apparently snapped and allowed them to drift into the path of a 710-foot tanker in the Houston Ship Channel before they could restart their motor.

The victims were identified as Guadalupe Adams, 68, and Isabel Melchor, 33.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Martinez, 903 30th St., are the parents of 7 lb. 4¾ oz. girl, born at 1:48 a.m. June 11 in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Grant of Cisco are parents of a son weighing 10 lb., 3 oz., born June 7 in Eastland Memorial Hospital. Don and Margaret Grant of Snyder are grandparents.

What's up doc?

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR D[illegible]KER — I always thou[illegible] I would be less tense if I had a woman gynecologist. Last summer, we moved to a new community and I was delighted to find a woman doctor. That's when my troubles began.

I waited three hours for my first appointment. The nurse never even came out to explain the delay.

I was angry by the time I saw the doctor. But she was so nice that I decided to give her the benefit of the doubt. I thought it must have been an unusual occurrence.

Returning two months later, I had to wait more than three hours for my appointment. Talking to other women in the waiting room, I discovered the doctor is always several hours behind schedule.

Now I am in a real dilemma. On one hand, I like the doctor very much. As a housewife, I don't really have anything important to do during the day.

On the other hand, something tells me I shouldn't allow anyone to treat me like this. I just can't decide what to do. What's up with me, anyway?

DEAR READER — What's up with the doctor? It seems you have found a female gynecologist who specializes in taking advantage of women.

Would a doctor who served only men be able to maintain a practice keeping them waiting for three hours? Hardly!

Women often make the mistake of gravitating blindly toward women professionals (dentists, doctors, lawyers, etc.), naively expecting to be automatically treated with compassion and respect.

All women professionals are not alike. Those who are older, for example, sometimes picked up chauvinistic values on their way to the top in a "man's world."

Whether you are looking for a lawyer or your next gynecologist, judge a professional by the services you receive — not by gender.

Even if you don't have more important things to do — though I'm sure you do — why endure the humiliation of waiting those long hours? Take some action.

First, call the doctor and explain the problem. She may not be fully aware of the situation if a secretary or nurse is in charge of the schedule.

If you know any of the doctor's other patients, ask them to do likewise.

Depending on the doctor's response to the information, plan your next move.

If she is aware of the problem but feels there is no solution, inform her of your intention to find another doctor. Send her a letter to that effect with a carbon to your state's chapter of the American Medical Association.

If she says she was unaware of the problem and promises to make changes, stick around for awhile — even if you don't notice an immediate improvement. There is no doubt about it, it is more comfortable to have a woman gynecologist.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday

June 13, 1978

Events may lead you to some important adjustments in your life style this coming year. If you treat these happenings in an unwelcome manner, you could short circuit the potential advantages.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There won't be much harmony around your house today if you set the tone with a cranky disposition. Others will probably respond in a similar vein. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your day will be paved with good intentions that develop chuckholes unless you make a concerted effort to follow through with your ambitious plans.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Avoid people who have the reputation of being takers rather than givers today. One may live up to his advance billing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you challenge persons in authority today you'll only tempt them to show you just how much muscle they really have. Cool it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could have a tendency to look at only the negative side of an issue today. Following such a course will get you no place fast.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be careful today to not be drawn into a situation by some friends that could obligate you in some undesirable manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Teamwork is not your long suit today, yet it is essential to do all you can to be sure harmony is maintained in an important relationship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Too much grumbling will turn coworkers against you, rather than gain their sympathy. Try to stifle your complaints.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conclusions regarding a shared interest are inaccurate because you don't have some of the information you need for a valid appraisal.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're likely to be faced with a number of small domestic crises today. Take things in stride so you can manage them coolly and competently.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Persons trying to be helpful may find you difficult to please today, mainly because you don't know what you really want.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Because of poor judgment today you may easily let your extravagant tendencies gain the upper hand. Be budget-minded and you could cut the losses.
