Accused Man Admits Holding Men in Cells, Blaming Captain's Order

Warden Thomas Grilled With Others as Probe Is Hurried

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 22.—The state of Ohio today pushed forward its investigation into one of the most gruesome prison disasters in history—the death-dealing fire which ripped up through the west cell block of the state penitentiary last night.

While Gov. Myer Y. Cooper's committee of inquisition questioned witnesses today the death list stood definitely at 319, with four of the 231 injured reported as having little chances of life.

Guard Suspended

Focus of the governor's investigating board centered today upon Thomas Watkinson, a guard, who this morning was suspended from duty by order of Warden P. E. Thomas.

Watkinson is accused of having utterly refused to relinquish the keys to the cells of the burning building, even at a time when the screams of the dying men were echoing through the prison yard.

Called before the committee this afternoon, the accused man admitted he had refused to give the keys to two guards, who begged they be allowed to free the convicts during the fire.

Blames Superior

Watkinson said he had been ordered by his superior, Captain Hall, not to surrender the keys.

Testimony before the committee revealed guards Little and Baldwin, enraged by Watkinson's refusal to give them the keys, snatched them away from him and worked feverishly at unlocking cells until both were exhausted.

While the governor's committee conducted its probe in the prison offices, a heavily reinforced guard patrolled the outer walls of the penitentiary.

More than 500 prisoners who escaped unscathed or with only minor hurts were housed in temporary quarters. The entire prison was still in a state of chaos.

Equipped with a special motion picture camera, navy fliers shown at left, Lieut L. E. Cheres (left) and J. M. Haase, will race the shadow of the moon from Honey Lake, Cal. Mrs. Isabel M. Lewis, naval observatory astronomer, will also use a plane in photographing the eclipse.

EASTLAND, Texas, April 22. (AP)—W. B. Collie, assistant county attorney, announced today the state would ask the death penalty for Danny Leach, Cisco youth, who will face trial here tomorrow on charges of murder in the slaying April 2 of an unidentified man near Cisco.

The man, partially identified as R. C. Hill, was found fatally wounded in a gravel pit. Leach, 20, was arrested the next day.

Authorities in Cisco said the man was believed to have been Hill later was identified by scars on his body as Jack Johnson of Golden, Colo., according to information furnished them by a woman claiming she was Johnson's wife, and by police at Golden.

Oklahoma Child Near Death From Burns

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 22. (UP)—Bobby Manary, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Manary, Oklahoma City, was expected to die from burns received in a fire here today.

Two young sisters, in the house when the fire started, ran to safety, carrying another sister, Joyce June, 19-months-old.

The victim, trapped in a pantry by the flames, was carried from the house by a neighbor, O. C. Stone, who later formed a bucket brigade and extinguished the fire before it had destroyed the house.

'Talking' Picture to Be Made Of Total Solar Eclipse Next Monday

Astronomers, Electrical Experts and Aviators Join Forces To Record Speeding Shadow

By SAM ISRAEL

LOS ANGELES, April 22. (US)—Even natural phenomena, it seems, are going "talkie" now.

Today, for instance, brought word from the observatory of Pomona college, near here, that the total solar eclipse on April 28 in northern California is to be made into a "talkie."

That weird matching of man's science against the vast forces of the universe is to occur near Honey Lake on the eastern side of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

There, if the present plan works out, the first sound picture of an eclipse, with the shadow of the moon racing over mother earth at a rate of 30 miles per minute, will be made for the first time in history.

Army to Help

The "talkie" will be made from a minimum altitude of 16,000 feet. To obtain it, astronomers and electrical experts have joined forces and have enrolled in their aid the scientific and material resources of a number of other agencies, including the army.

Instruments hitherto never before used in the study of an eclipse are to be employed in the unique attempt to obtain even more precise determination of the position and motion of the earth and moon with respect to the sun.

A recently developed short wave airplane radio receiver, in a special circuit, will be one of these instruments. Another will be a new portable sound camera and amplifier just developed.

Special high speed lenses, hypersensitized film and an army plane to carry them all will be the other factors in the making of this strange "talkie."

Flash Time Signals

As the plane races high overhead, in the wake of the moon's awesome shadow on the earth below, time signals will be flashed to the plane both from Mare Island, Calif., and from Washington. These time signals will be recorded on the film being used to photograph the shadow, about a half-mile.

Thus, it will be possible to determine the exact position the shadow on the ground below during each flashing moment. In all, about 20 seconds will be consumed in making the entire picture and it is expected that 480 photographs will be made in that brief interval. With the time fixed on the film, it will be possible to obtain the most exact possible data on the eclipse.

To give further accuracy to these tests, accurately surveyed flares are to be placed on each side of the half-mile path over which the shadow of the moon will speed. These, of course, will show in the film and will be used to further correct astronomical computations.

HURLEY SPEAKS AT UNVEILING

40,000 Oklahomans Honor Pioneer Mothers

PONCA CITY, Okla., April 22. (UP)—Oklahomans from all walks of life today paid tribute to the pioneer mother and in doing so heard one of their most illustrous citizens, Secretary of War Hurley, eulogize the motherhood of frontier days.

Hurley's address was broadcast from Washington where he is recovering from a recent illness.

The ceremonies were held in connection with the unveiling of the bronze statue of the pioneer mother. The statue is one of several which will be placed in Oklahoma, the gifts of E. W. Marland, wealthy Ponca City oil man.

More than 40,000 persons attended the ceremonies here. Ceremonies also marked the 41st anniversary of the opening of the Oklahoma territory. It was a holiday throughout the state. Business houses and schools were shut down and the capitol at Oklahoma City was closed.

Governor W. J. Holloway and his official family attended.

"The pioneer woman was to America its character and soul," Secretary Hurley said.

"It was the woman's influence that led the men to establish government and to respect it."

The unveiling was characterized as a "momentous occasion" in the history of Oklahoma by Governor Holloway, who accepted the statue on behalf of the state. Will Rogers, Oklahoma cowboy wit, was a speaker. Rogers has flown here from California.

CENSUS TOTAL FOR JACKSBORO REVEALS GAIN

Jack County Capital First To Report With Figure Of 1,837

PLAINS SHOWS GAIN

White Deer, Slaton and Colorado Climb as Mineral Wells Slumps

Jacksboro, county seat of Jack county, has increased in population a little more than 33 per cent in the 10 years since the last United States census, according to a report released Tuesday by Thomas L. Ball, supervisor for district three, which includes the Wichita Falls area. Population of Jacksboro in 1930 was given as 1,837 and in 1920 as 1,373.

In addition to showing a healthy growth since 1920, Jacksboro was the first town of the area on which census workers were able to complete the preliminary tabulation. The figures are subject to correction, but are believed to be substantially correct, Mr. Ball said.

Plains Towns Climb

Reflecting the rapid growth generally shown by returns thus far received from towns in West Texas, White Deer in Carson county, Slaton in Lubbock county, and Colorado in Mitchell county, reported their totals through the Associated Press Tuesday.

White Deer's total is 936 with no 1920 figure for comparison; Slaton's population is officially 3,869, a gain of 2,344, while Colorado with 4,669 has increased 2,829 in the last 10 years.

Other Texas towns reporting were Marlin, Falls county, 5,333, increase of 1,023; Bracketville, Kinney county, 1,822, no comparative figures; Palacios, Matagorda county, 1,313, no comparative figures; Odem, San Patricio county, 824, no comparative figures; Mineral Wells Palo Pinto county, 6,005, loss of 1,885; Strawn, Palo Pinto county, 1,429, loss of 1,028.

Western Cities

Santa Fe, N. M., with 10,844 gained 7,326; Eugene, Ore., has climbed to 18,639, an increase of 8,046; and Walla Walla, Wash., lost 992 with a total of 14,511.

In releasing the first census figures here, Mr. Ball directed attention of Wichita Falls residents to the fact that less than a week remains for the tabulation of the census of this city. Returns on Wichita Falls' population may be expected about next Tuesday or Wednesday, he said.

Wichitans Aid City

With less than a week remaining for tabulation, chamber of commerce leaders Tuesday were preparing for a last effort to secure the name of every resident for the 1930 total. While efforts of civic leaders here last week resulted in scores of voluntary reports to census headquarters, it was estimated that somewhere between 10 and 25 per cent of the Wichita Falls population is still uncounted. It was particularly urged that employers be sure that every person in any business or industry be listed in order that the figures here may reflect the true population.

As an indication of the new interest which Wichita Falls residents have taken in the census, Mr. Ball said Tuesday that whereas a week ago the population of Wichita Falls tabulated at that time was below the mark of 1920, this week the total was near the 1920 mark, a gain of several thousand through the voluntary efforts of Wichita Falls citizens.

Chamber of commerce leaders pointed out that if residents here continue to report voluntarily, and to properly answer questions of census takers, the final population of the city should be well above the mark set in the last census. Mr. Ball said a census taker is ready to enumerate any person not counted if the central bureau here is notified.

Young Raps 'Prison Politics' in Address

Special to The Record News.

SWEETWATER, Texas, April 22.—Repeating his emphatic opposition to abandonment of the present prison system, Jim Young, gubernatorial candidate, told a Sweetwater audience tonight if the idle Texas convicts are put to work on the fertile state farms raising enough feed for themselves and the eleemosynary institutions their morale would be improved. Tax money would be saved and Texas would have no prison problems, he said. He blamed prison conditions on governmental neglect due to "hair pulling" politics. He speaks Wednesday night in Ballinger.

Telephone 2-5930

Any Wichita Falls resident who has ANY DOUBT as to whether or not he has been counted in the census should get in touch with T. L. Ball, district supervisor, at once. Only a few more days remain for the work of enumerating the city's population. Mr. Ball's telephone number is 2-5930, or you may fill in the coupon on Page 2 and mail.

"In justice to your city, be SURE you're counted in the census."

C.C. Small Announces For Governor With Plea For Business Administration

FORT WORTH, April 22. (AP)—State Senator C. C. Small of Wellington, Collingsworth county, today entered the race for governor. The author of the famous Small land validating bill said he will open state headquaters in Fort Worth soon.

"This decision has not been made in haste, but is the result of a thorough survey of the state and a detailed study of existing conditions. I have been prompted by the conviction that the people demand and should have relief from partisan political strife and that in lieu thereof they should be given a careful business administration," he said.

"Adjourn Politics"

"If I should be elected governer, it will be my aim and ambition to adjourn politics in Texas and to inaugurate a constructive era devoted to building and developing Texas institutions. By thoughtful application of sound business policies it will be possible for the state to make substantial progress without additional cost of government State government should so function as to make Texas an inviting field for new and diversified industries. To accomplish this end taxes must not be increased, but the tax dollar must be judiciously expended and made to yield a greater dividend. The most practical way to aid agriculture in all of its branches is to make Texas an industrial state. This will be impossible unless the same practical methods required for the success of a business institution are applied in our government.

Enforcement Needed

"Very few new laws are needed. The people should not be harassed by constant change of law. The necessity of this time is the proper enforcement of all laws in a manner sanctioned by the state and federal constitutions.

"I am in this race to make a clean vigorous fight. In the near future I shall announce a short but constructive platform and will earnestly ask all forward looking citizens to turn aside from political controversies and to join in a movement to place Texas on a safe business basis."

W. D. Cline To Support C. C. Small

In announcing that he would not be a candidate in the race for governor, Walter D. Cline Tuesday definitely threw his support to Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington who became West Texas' gubernatorial candidate in a formal announcement from Fort Worth Tuesday morning.

Mr. Cline's final retirement from the field of prospective candidates followed a conference with Senator Small here Monday. The senator will pay another visit to Wichita Falls within the next few days, Mr. Cline declared, to complete the campaign organization of his friends here.

After earlier conferences here a week ago, Mr. Cline announced that one of three men, himself, Senator Small and Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock, would probably enter the field, and it was thought at the time that Mr. Cline himself might be the entry. He announced Tuesday, however, that his interest in the race would be centered in supporting Senator Small.

OFFICERS MAKE BIG 'DOPE' HAUL

List of Customers Found for $3,000 Worth of Drugs

Two men were arrested and 1,811 grains of morphine, valued at $3,000 was seized at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when federal and city officers gave chase to the men as they were coming into Wichita Falls on the Henrietta road.

The chase lasted for two miles before the officers were able to overtake the pair. The automobile was confiscated. The officers did not know that the package of narcotics was in their possession until after the arrest. Three boxes of the morphine, placed end to end, were wrapped in a newspaper to give the appearance of a cartoon of cigarets. The package was on the foot board of the car.

Charges will probably be filed against one of the men Wednesday morning, according to a statement made by M. W. Bennett, federal officer, who helped to make the arrest. The other will be held for investigation.

A list of 22 names in a pocket memorandum book taken from the pocket of the driver of the car is thought by police to be a list of customers to whom the narcotics were to be sold. The names are of people in Wichita Falls and San Antonio, many of whom are known to the officers here.

On being questioned, the man said that he was an employe of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company and lived in San Antonio. The morphine is said by police to be the largest amount ever seized at one time in this section of the state.

Officers who made the arrests included Mr. Bennett, narcotics officer, and city police officers F. E. Summers, A. L. Stubblefield, A. H. Brooks and J. H. Pogue.

CHIEF SUBMITS LARGER FIGURE THAN EXPECTED

Congress Asked to Approve $225,000 More Than Was Originally Asked

SUM AVAILABLE SOON

Proposals Include $95,000 For New Structure at Frederick, Okla.

President Hoover Tuesday recommended the allocation of $725,000 for the construction of a post office and federal court building in Wichita Falls in a list of proposed building projects presented for the approval of congress. Appropriations covering all such construction have already been made and congressional approval of the distribution of funds is the only step yet to be taken before the long sought new federal building can be accepted as a certainty here.

The proposed allocation is $225,000 above the amount backers of the project hoped to receive, assuring a full half million for the construction of the building proper after the site has been purchased. News of the recommendation was received here Tuesday afternoon in an Associated Press dispatch.

Money Authorized

Money for the nation's building program was provided on March 31 when Congress authorized the expenditure of $388,000,000 during the next ten years. The first funds become available on July 1, and both Orville Bullington, G. O. P. leader, and O. P. Maricle, postmaster, believe Wichita Falls will be among the first to benefit by the appropriations. Both men said Tuesday afternoon that the actual construction will probably be under way before the first of the year.

Selection of the site for the new federal building is the next step to be considered, Mr. Bullington said. A number of propositions are already under governmental consideration, offered more than a year ago after conferences between a chamber of commerce committee and federal representatives. Mr. Bullington believes the government will probably advertise for bids and will make its selection soon after the money becomes available.

Request Made Quietly.

The increase in the appropriation was received with enthusiasm here, Mr. Bullington explaining that he had quietly broached the subject to Washington officials a few weeks ago. He had refrained from mentioning his proposals earlier for fear of a disappointment, he explained.

The long campaign for the new structure here received its first defenite promise of immediate success a few weeks ago when the post office department at Washington asked Miss Jesse Cowan, deputy United States district clerk, for figures showing the volume of federal court business in the district.

The projects which Tuesday received the recommendation of the president included a $95,000 postoffice building at Frederick, Okla.; a $152,000 building at Plainview and a $200,000 appropriation for San Angelo. Other cities in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico which were named in the list include:

Coleman, Texas, postoffice, $100,000; Gallup, N. M., postoffice, $125,000; Houston, Texas, postoffice and courthouse, $615,000; Huntsville, Texas, postoffice $75,000; Sapulpa, Okla., postoffice, $150,000; Sweetwater, Texas, postoffice, $130,000; Fort Worth, postoffice, $1,445,000; Texarkana, Texas, postoffice and courthouse, $790,000. Recommendations for federal buildings included Brownsville, Texas, courthouse, customs house and postoffice, $430,000.

Huge Party Searches for Boy, 6, Lost While Hunting Easter Eggs

REDDING, Calif., April 22. (US)—Six-year-old Asa Lee Lakey, went out in search of Easter eggs, and probably a bunny or two, while his fond parents participated in an Easter outing in Hat Creek valley Sunday.

Today, more than 200 men, with only a few footprints in the snow to guide them, were frantically searching for the youngster.

Little hope is held out that the wanderer will be found alive as the snow-covered slopes of Mount Burney, 60 miles from this city, are covered with thick timber and brush and are the home for many wild animals.

Tracks of the youthful wanderer were found four miles from where he strayed from under the eye of his parents. Here they stopped, and the searchers were forced to deploy over a wide territory.

Last of Three Daredevil Fliers Escapes Death in Parachute Leap

MATHER FIELD, SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 22. (UP)—The sole survivor of the once famous army air daredevils, "the three musketeers," escaped death today when he made a 2,000-foot parachute jump from his airplane here.

The flier was Lieut. Irvin Woodring of the 95th pursuit group Rockwell field, San Diego. He had been "dog fighting" with Captain H. M. Elmendorh, commander of his group, at the conclusion of the field exercises today.

"It's not quite clear in my mind just what happened," Lieutenant Woodring said. "I was straightening out of a dive when suddenly the ship went out of control. I fought it but it seemed impossible and I bailed out."

For several years the Musketeers thrilled air circus crowds. Then Lieut. J. J. Williams was killed while they were stunting at the nation air show in Los Angeles two years ago. A few months later Lieut. W. L. Cornelieus was killed during maneuvers at San Diego when his plane locked wings with another and his parachute caught on a wing fitt[illegible]

QUIZ REVEALS STORY OF FIRE

Death Toll in Columbus Holocaust Is 319

eruited from over the state, worked assiduously throughout the day. The bodies were removed from the prison charnel house after 1 a. m. A large crowd milled all day in front of the building. Many relatives of convicts still were uncertain whether their kin had perished.

Governor Cooper returned to Columbus by plane from a Virginia health resort. He appointed his investigating committee this morning and named Attorney General Gilvert Bettman and Director of Public Welfare Hal H. Griswold to take charge of it.

Warden Called

Warden Thomas was the first witness called before the committee. He was questioned closely regarding his personal part in the disaster.

He said there never had been any fire drills at the penitentiary because "I never wanted to see how quick the prisoners could get out."

"I made every effort to save the trapped men," he said. "I ordered all cells unlocked immediately when I learned of the fire.

"I got the alarm of fire at 5:35 p. m., from a house man. I hurried to the guardroom and learned the fire was in blocks I and K. There was considerable smoke in the yard. Guards Little and Baldwin had the keys to those blocks."

Little and Baldwin, the warden said, were assigned as guards in G and H blocks. When the fire broke out in I and K, they ran to the guardroom and asked Capt. M. C. Coddington for keys to cells in the burning building. Coddington refused to give up the keys, the warden said, and the two guards took them away from him. Then they ran to the burning cell blocks where Watkinson had the keys opening into the corridors and tier ranges. Watkinson likewise forbade the two guards to enter and they took his keys away from him, the warden testified.

Keys Secured Quickly

When Little and Baldwin took the keys away from Watkinson, Warden Thomas said, it was about 5:40 p. m., or five minutes after the warden had been notified of a fire.

"I retired to the interior of the building," Thomas testified, "to organize and direct the work of preventing any prisoners escaping. While inside the building I could hear distinctly the muffled sound of sledge hammers pounding on cell locks."

The actual physical damage to the prison will amount in all to less than $15,000, fire officials said today.

Fire apparatus entered the prison walls several times during the day for the purpose of throwing more water on the ruins, but this was done solely as a preventive measure. Each time a fire wagon entered the prison a new report went out the place was on fire again.

Weird Stories Told

The investigating committee is expected to delve into many weird stories, as yet unauthenticated, that were told today about the disaster.

One story, told by two negro prisoners, had it a guard shot and killed two prisoners in their cell when they cursed him because he would not let them out.

Another unsubstantiated story was to the effect when some of the convicts were being let down by ropes from the upper tiers of the burning block, one of the ropes slipped, tightened about a prisoner's neck and choked him to death.

Prisoner Escapes

The only known escape during the fire was of Michael Dorn, 38-year-old burglar. Dorn was burned slightly and was taken to the prison hospital. During the general confusion apparently he slipped into civilian clothes and made his way out through the main gate.

Prison officials revealed that, with the exception of a half dozen "hard" characters, the dead convicts were first offenders—men who had been segregated because of their good behavior.

Asked why there appeared to be a lack of specific instructions in case of fire, Warden Thomas said: "You cannot make enough rules to cover every detail of emergencies. I cannot, for instance, write rules telling an officer when to shoot. Guard Watkinson did not exhibit good judgment when he hesitated about giving up the keys to Baldwin and Little."

Guard Baldwin, who with Little was one of the outstanding heroes of the disaster, testified he was sitting in the guard room when he heard someone shout, "Fire!"

"Little and I went out and heard someone yell the fire was in I and K. Warden Thomas ran to the door and saw us. He yelled and asked us if we had the keys and we told him we did. Then he told us to go down and let the prisoners out.

"We went down to the cell block and Watkinson refused to let the men out. He said he had orders against it and I said I had orders for it.

Smoke Hampers Work

"I then looked around for something to break the door down with but I couldn't find a thing. So I grabbed the keys out of Watkinson's hands. Little opened the door and I started unlocking cells on the first tier and letting out the men. The smoke got so dense it was all I could do to open all the cells on that tier.

"When I got to the fifth range the locks began sticking. So I grabbed a sledge hammer and started knocking them off."

Baldwin said he had no doubt but that if it had not been for the delay he and Little would have been able to open every cell and save many lives which otherwise were lost.

Watkinson, in his testimony, denied he had answered Baldwin's request for the keys with the statement, "I don't give a damn if they all die."

One of the first dead prisoners to be identified was Albert Holland, who had arrived at the penitentiary only an hour before the blaze broke out. He was sentenced to a six to 30 year term for robbery in Coshocton county.

Safety Council Endorses Uniform Driver's License Law for Texas

Proposal to Be Submitted at Congress in Dallas; Safety Measures for Oil Industry Also on Program

The Wichita Falls Safety council voted unanimously to cooperate with other safety organizations throughout the state in urging the passage by the legislature of a uniform driver's license law for Texas, following a discussion of the proposed measure at the regular monthly meeting of the council Tuesday night in the basement of the First Christian church.

The banquet preceding the meeting Tuesday night was served by Boy Scouts under the direction of Frank Creighton, scout executive and a member of the safety council. The meeting was presided over by J. W. Lyle, president.

Meeting at Dallas

A complete discussion and explanation of the purposes of a driver's license law in Texas, it was announced, will be given by Representative Jack Keller at the Southwestern Safety congress to be held at the Adolphus hotel in Dallas next Friday. Practically every phase of safety work will be studied at the various sessions of the congress, it was said, and all members of the Wichita Falls council were urged by Mr. Lyle to attend the Dallas meeting.

Outstanding safety workers of the nation will give talks on safety in connection with the petroleum industry at a banquet and meeting to be held here Wednesday night at the Kemp hotel, according to the announcement of R. It was also voted to arrange public demonstrations in first aid to drowning persons and the prone pressure method of resuscitation, in order to call the attention of the public to the importance of having such knowledge in case of emergency. NEGRO'S TRIAL TO REACH JURY

Sanity Issue Occupies Day's Testimony

The trial of James Norford, 62-year-old negro, on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of his wife, Ada, here last March 11 was nearing a close when Judge Allan D. Montgomery adjourned the 30th district court Tuesday afternoon after attorneys had spent a large part of the day in presenting expert testimony of examining physicians on the mental condition of the accused man.

Rebuttal testimony of the state was in progress at the close of Tuesday's session. Both sides expect to close Wednesday morning and the case will probably reach the jury before noon, attorneys said. Sharp controversy arose between attorneys Tuesday afternoon when Judge Montgomery overruled a defense objection to testimony concerning the defendant's sanity prior to the day of the slaying. Judge Montgomery pointed out his intention of including the insanity issue in his charge and allowed the prosecution to continue.

Judge Edgar Scurry of defense counsel, who has known the defendant for many years, was called to the stand Tuesday afternoon. The white-haired attorney testified he had noticed a weakening of Norford's physical condition prior to the slaying but none in his mental condition. He said his opinion was that the defendant was "absolutely insane" at the time of the killing.

Physicians Testify

Dr. J. W. West, Wichita Falls physician, testified he examined Norford at the request of Judge Scurry and had found no evidence of insanity, his condition having been apparently normal.

Dr. C. W. Castner, head of the Wichita Falls State hospital, said he had made three separate examinations of the accused man and had found him "sane mentally and sound physically."

Dr. M. A. Beckman, county health officer, also testified he had examined the defendant and had found no symptoms of pelagra or mental derangement, corroborating the testimony of the other doctors.

Detective Pat Allen of the city police department was recalled to the stand to testify to having found three letters, two of them written by Norford, in the room in which the slaying took place. The letters concerned a court controversy involving friends of the defendant and a lodge in Limestone county. Police Chief Frank Burns substantiated the testimony of Detective Allen.

Lodge Connections

Norford's connections with a lodge in which his wife had held an insurance policy was introduced by the state earlier Tuesday, in its attempt to prove that the hope of collecting the insurance led the negro to murder his wife.

The defense Tuesday morning attempted to establish the defendant's reputation as a law-abiding citizen through testimony of such white citizens as W. M. McGregor, Wiley Robertson, Ed Howard, Guy C. Raley and Warren Belcher, all of whom told the jury Norford was of good character and reputation so far as they knew.

For New Skin Beauty Use a Healing Toilet Cream
—Say Scores of Nurses

AMONG the million and a half women who are now using this new kind of toilet cream, there are thousands of trained nurses. They are enthusiastic—they tell their friends to use it. Their training has taught them what the skin needs to keep it healthy and beautiful.

Science now recognizes that many of the common skin faults come from tiny hidden poisons that lurk unseen beneath the skin. Blemishes, roughness, large pores, coarseness and many other beauty-destroying flaws are now traced to these invisible poisons.

Ordinary care is not enough. Soaps and creams that merely cleanse the surface fail to reach these insidious poisons. An antiseptic cream is necessary—a greaseless healing cream that will sink into the skin, combat poisons, keep the skin germ-free, healthy and beautiful.

As snow-white and dainty as the finest beauty cream, yet as powerfully healing as an old-fashioned skin remedy, Noxzema Skin Cream can be used as a powder base or night cream. Under its soothing, healing medication, skin troubles vanish quickly and your skin becomes clearer, smoother, lovelier.

Noxzema Cream is on sale at all drug and department stores.

NEW DEFINITION FOR MARRIAGE

Presbyterian Commission Ends Research

PHILADELPHIA, April 22. (AP)—The special commission on marriage, divorce and remarriage of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., will present to the general assembly of the church in Cincinnati on June 2 a new definition of marriage, based on an exhaustive study on the subject of sex relationships.

The report of the commission, published today in the official blue book of the denomination, recommends elimination from the confession of faith of the objection to the marriage of protestants to Roman Catholics and of all opprobrious references to "papists."

Contraceptives, used under medical advice, the report finds acceptable. The same grounds for divorce now recognized by the denomination—adultery and irremediable desertion—are recommended for retention.

Events in History Tell Woman's Age

She was born in 1828.

LEGALLY 'DEAD' MAN IS ALIVE

Long Missing Texan Found In Old Mexico

EL PASO, April 22. (UP)—After having been declared dead, Frank Richard Penman, 47, of Nacogdoches, grain dealer who disappeared from Houston eight years ago, is alive and living near Chihuahua City, Mexico, Dock Watson, Nacogdoches chief of police, told authorities here today.

Under the laws of Texas, Penman legally is dead. His wife has spent the last year attempting to collect more than $100,000 in insurance policies he left to her. As proprietor of the Wilson Grain company at Nacogdoches, Penman was a prominent citizen. His disappearance while on a visit to Houston May 2, 1922, caused a sensation and a search that embraced the entire western hemisphere.

Not satisfied that he was dead, the Lincoln Life Insurance company, with whom Penman had a $40,000 policy, located an American trader near Chihuahua that fitted his description.

Watson was taken to Chihuahua Monday by plane to see the man.

"I recognized him at once as Penman," Watson said today." He insisted that he was not Penman but there isn't any doubt in my mind."

The first of a series of suits brought by Mrs. Penman to collect her husband's insurance will come up for trial in Texarkana within the next few days. Watson probably will be called as a witness to testify that Penman still is alive.

Dorothy Dix Tells Qualities Which Go To Make Happiness

Dear Dorothy Dix—I wonder if most of your letters from discontented and unhappy wives and husbands aren't from rich people who have so much idle time in which to get into mischief? We are poor people, yet we are happy. My husband only makes $4 a day and we have four children to support. We do not have fine clothes or furniture, but we have a second-hand car that takes us on many a picnic. We have no radio, but we have pleasant evenings at home. Sometimes when my husband is sick we have hard times, but I take in a few washings, or go out and do a few days' cleaning and all is right again. Tell me, isn't our home happier than where they have all the clothes they wish, and the children go to shows every night? Mine never go more than three or four times a year.—A HAPPY FAMILY.

Answer—I know why your family is a happy family. It is because at the head of it is a woman who is strong and courageous, and wise and philosophical, and tender and loving. That kind of wife and mother makes a happy family, no matter whether they have millions of dollars or none at all.

But the letters I get from discontented and disgruntled husbands and wives come from every class of society. They come from millionaire husbands and wives who have fought to the doors of the divorce court; from rich fathers and mothers who have wayward sons and daughters they cannot control, and from poor husbands and wives who scrap together all the time, and poor fathers and mothers whose children are running wild.

There is just as much strife in cheap bungalows and two-by-four flats as there is in palaces. Women's hearts break alike under brocade and chiffon and calico over unfaithful husbands. The girls before the counter and the girls behind the counter are just as apt to be wild and go with boys of whom their mothers do not approve, for human nature is just the same uptown and downtown.

And as for happiness, it is one of the things that money does not buy. And beyond having enough to keep the wolf from the door money cuts no figure in our happiness.

That comes from within, and it is a matter of a brave spirit and taking the right attitude toward life. It is a matter of a cheerful acceptance of our fate and making the best of it, it is a matter of finding pleasure in simple things and keeping faith with God and life. And whether one is rich or poor, has nothing to do with it.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Can you tell me what to do to forget a man I love and know I can never have? If I lead a wild and reckless life will that help any? —MARY LOU.

Answer—The only way to forget is to fill your life so full of work and other interests that you will not have time to remember the man that you have lost. Keep your thoughts away from him, and keep busy. And remember that time is the great doctor that heals every such wound.

Certainly it will not help you to lead a wild and reckless life. That will be your undoing, for it will add remorse to your other sorrows. Life brings many strange things to pass and it may be that it will bring your love back to you. Keep yourself worthy of it and, at least, have the consolation of your own self-respect. —DOROTHY DIX.

Answer—Evidently you are a better sport than your husband is, for you are paying the piper with a laugh, while he is grouching over it.

There are a lot of men like your husband. They marry before they are able to support a family, and then, when they find that the price of a wife is doing without all the comforts and luxuries to which they have been accustomed, they begrudge the sacrifice they have to make for her. I believe that about nine-tenths of the domestic unhappiness and the quarreling and fighting between husbands and wives is caused by young married couples being forced to a lower scale of living than that to which they have been used, and their not having the strength and courage to accept it philosophically.

Before they are married a girl and boy think that love is enough and that nothing matters but their being together, and that they will not care how shabby is the house they live in if it is theirs, and that they will look beautiful to each other in any kind of clothes, that bread and cheese and kisses is all they want to eat, and that they will desire no other amusement than just a perpetual petting party.

But after they are married they find out that they crave good food as they did of yore; that cheap, common furniture gets on their nerves; that they are just as much interested in the theater and stepping out as ever, and that they don't even look as good to each other when they lack the smart clothes, the attentions of the beauty and the barber shop, the chiffons and gewgaws that romance comes wrapped up in.

Then, when they look at each other—and if they haven't any money, looking at each other is about the only diversion they have—they are mighty likely to think that they paid too high a price for love and regret the bargain. Especially men. It takes a big man and a great lover to be willing to wear old clothes, and eat cheap lunches and not even have the price of a drug store treat in his pocket and not take it out on his wife in grouchiness and grumpiness.

So there is the reason of your husband's attitude toward you, poor little crushed wife, and your only remedy is to go to work and become a money-earner yourself. What you make will buy amiability on your husband's part and will, at least, keep him from thinking, as he does now, that you are a total loss. It is sad but true that there is a price-tag even on marriage.

Another honor comes to the first district, Texas State Federation of Women's clubs, in the announcement made by Mrs. William Bacon, state chairman of the essay contest, that the essay written by Mrs. E. E. Davis of Arlington, which won first priace in the first district has been declared winner in the state.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Outlooks at life are so different in the day and at night. In the afternoon, when baseball games are going on all over the country, one cannot step into a cafe that has a blackboard report without seeing every stool filled with men drinking coffee and eating ice cream; stools where we usually find plenty of room to sit for our own afternoon coffee.

◇ ◇ ◇

Women begin early in the spring morning planting flower boxes and digging in the earth.

◇ ◇ ◇

It's much more fun this time of the year, to get dirt under the fingernails than to manicure them—necessary as gardening makes the latter.

◇ ◇ ◇

And probably the most excitement that has been seen in the city lately was shown in an upstairs office Tuesday when a frightened partridge flew in.

◇ ◇ ◇

Nearing 10 o'clock at night, there's a difference in life—as much of it as one is able to look upon.

◇ ◇ ◇

One sees darkened houses and wonders casually, if the occupants have already gone to sleep.

◇ ◇ ◇

Pretty shaded lights show in empty rooms. Picture shows, or driving? And now and then, one sees an interested group round a bridge table.

◇ ◇ ◇

Cars are lined up en route home. Be it ever so humble, home is a good place to sleep—if people sleep.

◇ ◇ ◇

Sleep and then rush madly forth next morning to see what happened while they slept. Which speaks for the imperishable interest of man in mankind.

◇ ◇ ◇

Senator Borah has not always been a favorite of ours. But speaking of home, reminds us that Senator Borah and his wife, keep house in a modest apartment in Washington, and live, we hear, within their means.

◇ ◇ ◇

What makes it more astounding is that Senator Borah—so "Time" tells us, accepts only $7,500 a year salary from the U. S., when the senate salaries were raised to $10,000 four years ago.

Outline For Forum Plans Discussed At Luncheon

Mrs. P. P. Langford was hostess Tuesday noon to the Woman's Forum officers and retiring and new chairmen of departments in a delightfully informal luncheon, during and following which plans for the news year's work were discussed.

Mrs. Langford, who was pioneer in the literature department work of the forum, is also the pioneer in the new department created in which she is general chairman. In a graceful speech she impressed on all present, that she has the interest of the forum always at heart and she asked for constructive criticism and urged that each department work with a definite aim in view. She spoke of the work done by the old civic league and of the way members of that organization worked with the city's good their aim.

Department heads and officers were called on and gave short talks on their plans. When the planting of redbud, which has been so much urged, was brought up, Mrs. Langford stressed the fact that though redbud was not a native to this section of the state, the pear makes as beautiful an adornment. The matter of beautifying the entrance and exit highways of the city was a theme much encouraged.

Mrs. J. W. Cantwell, retiring chairman of the literature department, made known some constructive plans for work in departments and interesting plans were suggested by the following members, who were Mrs. Langford's guests at the pretty luncheon: Mesdames T. T. Reese, Claude Woods, W. Newton Maer, T. A. Hicks, H. F. Weldon, W. M. Cason, J. W. Cantwell, Ben G. Oneal, A. G. Holmes, R. G. Scheurer, Carrie Joline, Bert Bean, Fred Barron and C. P. Burton.

Do Women Suffer More Than Men?

Physicians tell us that the nervous system of woman is more highly organized, more delicately poised, and therefore, more sensitive to disturbances and susceptible to pain than that of men.

Women especially appreciate and profit by the use of Capudine, because it quickly relieves high nerve tension and pain by soothing the nerves—not by deadening them. For nervous headache, periodic pains, pains in the back and sides, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, nothing is so quickly effective and satisfactory as Capudine. Being liquid it acts much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore, is the ideal remedy.

Every home should be supplied with Capudine. It brings grateful relief from nerve strain and pain, and affords peaceful relaxation in just a few minutes. At drug stores in 30c and 60c sizes—Adv.

"Nine years ago after my little girl was born dead, I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about four months. The next year I became the mother of a fine 11 pound baby boy. After he was born, I kept on with the medicine to build me up. Four months ago I was nervous and rundown and suffered from other troubles which I knew Lydia E. Old ways seem crude once you know the lasting comfort of Kotex

YOU will never go back to old-fashioned methods once you have tried Kotex. There is really nothing like its safe, soft, lasting protection.

Kotex softness comes from many filmy, thin layers of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. This is the very same absorbent used in 85% of our great hospitals today.

It is a cellulose substance which acts as efficiently as the very softest cotton—but with five times greater absorbency.

Try it. You will see, then, what a difference it makes. It is disposable, you know. Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness that lasts for hours.

2—Disposable, instantly, completely.

3—Deodorizes . . . safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

MURDER PLOT TRIAL MAY 5

Alsup and Boyt Indicted at Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, April 23. (UP)—John Alsup, special bank guard, A. P. Boyt, a Fort Worth barber, probably will be tried May 5 for the murder of two negroes, R. A. Stuart, District Attorney, said today after the two men had been indicted by the Tarrant county grand jury.

The indictments were returned this morning. Alsup and Boyt were held in the county jail without bond after their preliminary hearing which was concluded Saturday.

Alsup shot Will Tate and George Terrell, the negroes, as they emerged from the First State bank of Polytechnic recently after an unsuccessful attempt to rob the institution. Alsup confessed, police said, that he and Alsup framed the robbery and that he drove the two blacks to the bank in a borrowed automobile. Alsup denied the plot.

Stuart claimed the two men killed the negroes in the attempt to collect $10,000 rewards offered by the Texas Bankers' association for dead bank bandits.

FREDERICK, Okla., April 22.—Brick work is now in progress on a 30 by 25 foot addition to the rear of the A. Liebman store building on West Grand avenue, making the structure when completed 25 by 130 feet. The balcony at the rear will also be enlarged making it 40 by 25 feet. This will give 4,250 square feet of floor space or almost double the present size.

Fiery Tom Blanton Again Casts His Eye on Unregenerate House

WASHINGTON, April 22. (US)—Tom Blanton of Abilene, Texas, crusader extraordinary and center of many battles in congress, is coming back to the house to "clean up things," as he declares.

The death here of Representative R. Q. Lee, Blanton's successor in the house, is believed to have cleared the way for "Fighting Tom" to be elected this year.

When he came to congress back in 1917, Blanton served notice that he was going to "reform" that body. Congress idles too much, meets at noon and adjourns before sun down, he growled.

The farmers have to work all day and congress should do likewise, he continued. Blanton served from the 65th to the 70th congress, when he made an unsuccessful bid for the senate. Congress still meets at the usual hour and proceeds as of yore.

Bone Dry

An extreme prohibitionist, Blanton never let a debate on Volstead-ism pass without him jumping into it, with his thunderous voice.

A member of the committee which handles District of Columbia affairs, Blanton kept the welkin ringing with charges of graft, corruption and general maladministration.

During a fiery exchange at a committee hearing, the stormy petrel in a rage hurled a pile of books at another congressman and broke up the meeting in a tumult.

Famous Watch Dog

He turned his guns on Frederick A. Fenning, a former district commissioner, charging him with irregularities in the handling of insane persons at St. Elisabeth's hospital. Fenning eventually resigned.

The district police were a frequent target for Blanton's attacks, and as a "watch dog" of legislation he managed to inject himself into debate on a large proportion of the legislative grist.

"I object," from Blanton caused many a bill to go to the waste-basket.

Blanton will represent a congressional district having 19 counties in the heart of Texas.

Lloyd Fulton, another alleged participant, is under arrest at Midland awaiting trial for another case. He already is under a two-year sentence at Odessa.

HEARNE HOME BURNS

AIR ACCIDENTS FATAL TO 1037

Commerce Department Makes Figures Public

WASHINGTON, April 22. (INS)—Officially reported airplane accidents were responsible for 1,037 fatal injuries from January 1, 1927 to December 31, 1929, the commerce department announced today.

In that period there were 3,098 accidents, 1,698 which occurred in 1929, 1,122 in 1928 and the remainder in 1927. Last year 980 accidents were classified as pleasure flying, and 362 commercial flying.

There were 137 accidents on scheduled flying during 1929, 150 in student instruction and 69 in experiment flying, according to the report.

Fatal injuries in 1929 numbered 227 pilots and 258 passengers. For 1928, 161 pilots were killed with 62 pilot fatalities in 1927. 223 passengers were killed in 1928 and 92 the year before. Ten others classed as "other personnel" and four spectators were killed in 1929.

WASHINGTON, April 22. (UP)—Senator J. Thomas Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, today opened his campaign for re-election with a senate speech charging the Democratic State Committee of Alabama, prompted by the "Raskob-Tammany-Smith regime" had attempted to "retire" him.

Heflin charged some of the committee members were drunk when the committee took action barring him from the Democratic primary because of his opposition to Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 campaign.

"For some time past the public has been holding its breath, but it is now ready to let go," Haake said.

Return

I left a crowd of lads to go with you,
Before we met I never had a crush,
Of course I played around with one or two
But never really gave a girl a rush.

We took our youth and laughter to the inns.
And purchased magic for our paltry pay,
And sang our songs and boasted of our sins,
But I fell out—when love came down my way.

Small need for tavern wine when I had you,
Small need for song—your voice was ever near.
And you are very tired of me, my dear.

I wonder if a lad who fears the cold
Will find a welcome back within his fold?

—Kid Kazanova.

How Embarrassing

Those of us who know better never vouch for a person on Broadway. That is, we never "okay" anyone who wants to frequent a speakeasy or night club. Texas Guinan, listed as the wisest of the local wiseys, was fooled by friendly revenuers last year and because she vouched for them they closed several illicit places as well as her own. Now it is Belle Livingstone's salon which is under fire, all because a well-known rounder vouched for a "singer" who waited two months to pull his raid.

Incidentally, the most amusing part of the Livingstone raid was that a prominent Broadway man was arrested there as a waiter. He was released, however, when they learned he was Earl Carroll. So you can imagine how he must look in a tuxedo.

Pun at a Time

Moe Krug can make up a sentence containing the word controllable like this: "Can he lie? Say, he controllable like a toreador!" And Howard Dietz builds one with "hiccups" in this manner: "Clap hands, hiccups Charlie!"

The Retort Proper

The scene was in Broadway's only all-night club and a fellow whose wife once named ten chorus-pondents was wining and dining ten other beauties from the various shows. Of course, the notoriety filled columns and columns. One of the girls turned to chat with a newspaper man. "Here, here," growled the host, "don't pay any attention to that reporter. He can't give you anything."

"All I can do, little lady," said the Park Rowgue, "is keep your picture out of the papers and all he can do is put your picture in them."

Anything for a Laugh

It was eavesdropped during a vaudeville program. A newcomer to Broadway stopped the show colder than cold and an actor standing in the rear of the orchestra said to another lay-off: "Gee, that kid's there!"

"Yeah," observed the other, "she'll be a star some day if Belasco doesn't get hold of her."

Sarcastically Speaking

It is Jack Benney's tale of the heavily insured old man who left his young bride in New York while he went on an ocean trip for his health. At sea the ship was wrecked and all hands drowned except the heavily insured old husband, who was picked up by a tramp steamer.

A month later when he was delivered at an English port he cabled a friend this message: "I was the lone survivor of a shipwreck. Please break the news gently to my wife."

A Form of Criticism

Not that it isn't tough enough to get volunteers to appear at the numerous benefit shows given weekly in New York and not that it is any of our business, but Robert Garland of the Eve's Telegram's drama bureau is now criticizing benefit performances. His most recent critique on a benefit show was printed Monday and the victims were some acts who appeared at the Heywood Broun's benefit for the unemployed.

This was indeed startling for we had always been under the impression that Mr. Garland was the benefit promotor's best friend. At least he posed as one a year ago when he scolded Eddie Cantor, whose name was listed on an N. V. A. program, for not making an appearance.

Live and Let Love

Some of us were discussing Willard Mack again last night. Someone was saying that Mack and Pauline Fredericks were divorced because her mother was always with her. However, when Pauline married again, Mack telegraphed the groom: "Congratulations, old man. You've married a pair of fine women."

Metamorphosis

At twenty, if she weds at all,
He must be handsome, rich and tall.
At twenty-five she waives the dough,
But looks and height still thrill her so.
At thirty—"What's an inch or two?
And handsome looking males are few."
She merely asks at thirty-five
One question—"Is he still alive?"

—John.

If Yale did take to the beer garden idea you might expect to hear in the bowl: "A long cheer for the team with three Eli Ales on the end."

With so many men available for service, what ever has become of the famed "General" Coxey?

Yellville, Ark., is run entirely by women but it is only fair to say that the town was named before they were elected to office.

Are We Still Isolated?

SINCE the Atlantic and Pacific oceans are quite wide, and are, on occasion, rather stormy, the United States has boasted of its "splendid isolation" from the rest of the world ever since it made good its independence.

Just now the flag of isolation is being run to the masthead once more. Ruth Hanna McCormick's victory in the Republican senatorial primary in Illinois, where she based her campaign on opposition to the World Court, is helping the cause along. We are being urged, as of old, to tend strictly to our knitting and let the rest of mankind get along as best it can; for all European nations, as everybody knows, are grasping and predatory, conniving for our downfall.

Since the issue evidently is going to be with us for a while, it might pay to examine this isolation of ours and see just how much it amounts to. There are two or three pertinent facts for us to consider.

First of all, American delegates have just finished making agreements with the representatives of other nations, at London, for a general limitation of naval armaments. This was done because all hands agreed that there was altogether too much chance of another war coming to birth in the near future; and while a European war might not seem to concern us much, it is just possible that somebody in Washington remembered that 2,000,000 American soldiers had to go to France a decade ago because a Serbian plotter shot the heir to the Austrian throne.

Then, in New York, we have one Dr. Eckener of Germany making arrangements with American financiers for a transatlantic Zeppelin line, to lop a couple of days off the distance between the new world and the old and cut our isolation down still further.

In addition, a New York business forecasting house remarks that it is useless to expect this country to regain full prosperity until England and other European countries get on their feet again—since our prosperity depends more and more on European purchases of our exports. If Europe remains unable to buy as much as our factories can send abroad, our prosperity will continue to lag. The factory hand in Detroit or Pittsburgh has a direct and intimate concern in the industrial conditions in Manchester and Hamburg.

Those are a few things to consider in connection with our traditional isolation. Think them over and you may begin to wonder if there is any such thing as isolation in this modern world. Much as we might like to let the rest of the world go by, it may be that the day when we could do that has gone—forever.

A Word for the Ambitious

NEW YORK remains the goal, now as always, for thousands of ambitious young people in all parts of the country. But the Welfare Council of New York City has a word of warning for young women who plan to go to the metropolis to seek their fortunes.

"Stay away from New York," says the council's most recent bulletin, "unless you are assured of an income of at least $25 a week." The bulletin adds:

"Young women throughout America apparently are still of the opinion that it is easy for a girl to get work in New York City and that it is possible for her to live on as little here as in her home town. The day to day experience of our room registries show that there is little justification for either of these assumptions.

"We are convinced that it is impossible for a young woman, new to New York, to live comfortably and independently for less than $25 a week."

Youngsters who have the New York notion in their head would do well to heed that warning very attentively.

The Road to Peace

THERE may be a number of very good objections to ratification of the naval treaty recently concluded in London. But in considering them it will be well to bear in mind President Hoover's remark to the D. A. R.

"It is easy," said the president, "to preach the national duty of helping to preserve peace. It is easier still to engage in invective and vindictive phrases and slogans which stir national selfishness and self-righteousness. And certainly the way of peace lies neither in the rattling of the scabbard nor the abandonment of defense."

It is precisely because it is so easy to do those things that so many people, who seem to have forgotten about everything that happened since 1914, continue to do them. But, as President Hoover points out, the road to world peace is not built by such actions. If we want peace we must work for it—even, perhaps, to the extent of throwing away a few battleships.

Cops and Communists

NEW YORK'S police have not shown much intelligence in their handling of Communist demonstrations. But maybe, after all, they are learning.

The other day the Communists held a great mass meeting to protest against police brutality. They drew a big crowd, and took up a large collection to aid their cause. The collection was so large, in fact, that the Communists were afraid they might be robbed. So they asked for—and got—a police guard to look after it.

Thus, while the Communists shouted their abhorrence of the police, a squad of uniformed cops stood by and guarded the Communists' money bags.

There is something rather funny about that story, somehow. If the police had had sense enough to act that way at all the Communists' recent demonstrations, the agitators' guns would have been very effectively spiked.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Did you ever write a letter to Frederic J. Haskin? You can ask him any question of fact and get the answer in a personal letter. Here is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Address Frederic J. Haskin, director, the Record News, Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Q.—How much educational broadcasting is done?—M. A. G.

A.—Of more than six hundred licensed broadcasting stations, seventy-seven are owned and operated by educational institutions. Nearly three hundred commercial stations report a weekly average of approximately sixty hours of broadcasting, including about 13 per cent classed as educational. In addition, several state departments of education employ the radio to some extent, Ohio having a one-hour program for every school day. Lately the first program of the American school of the air was launched, the audience consisting of 1,500,000 school children. Hereafter instruction will be given twice a week in various subjects, supplementing the regular courses.

Q.—When is the union jack flown by a United States ship?—H. T. B.

A.—A merchant vessel flies the union jack when at anchor, when entering port, on Sundays and holidays.

Q.—Was Keats buried at night?

A.—The regulation requiring a night burial for non-Catholics was suspended in the case of Keats'. He was buried at 9 o'clock on a Sunday morning—or 15 o'clock by the former Roman method of reckoning time.

Q.—Are there any figures on the wage loss to workers as a result of present unemployment conditions?—W. R. F.

A.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement to the senate commerce committee estimated that unemployed workers had lost approximately $1,000,000,000 during the first three months of this year.

Q.—At what age can boys and girls be legally married in India?—J. P.

A.—A new marriage law forbidding the marriage of girls under fourteen years of age and boys under eighteen became effective in India this year.

Q.—What president of the United States lived the longest?—L. K. H.

A.—John Adams, who died at 90, holds the longevity record for presidents. Monroe came next, his age at death being 86.

Q.—When was the first ship in the British navy built?—A. Z.

A.—The British battleship called Great Harry is said to be the first ship which strictly speaking, belonged to the Royal navy. It was built in 1488 and had 3 masts and as late as the year 1545 was the only ship of that build in the English fleet. It is stated that she was accidentally burned at Woolwich in 1553. She was built during the reign of Henry VII and was probably called the Great Harry for his nickname which was Harry.

Q.—What caused the pottery and statuary of ancient cities to be buried?—E. B.

A.—The burial of pottery and statuary of ancient cities has resulted from various circumstances. In many cases the city has merely decayed from age and collapsed. Destruction by war has been a frequent cause. Natural events, such as earthquakes and storms, etc., have also played an important part.

Q.—Is the use of gases in warfare a recent development?—F. P. I.

A.—Many efforts have been made in the past to use various gases—chiefly sulphur dioxide—in warfare. As early as 431 B. C. the Spartans, in besieging the cities of Belium and Plates, burned pitch and sulphur under the walls of these cities in order to break down their defense by suffocation of the troops of the cities.

Q.—When were the first short stories written?—U. H. G.

A.—In early literature the parables of the New Testament most closely resemble the short story, according to some authorities.

Q.—Where did the iris grew originally?—V. A. J.

A.—From the study of geographical distribution of the iris, it appears that the two centers of original location are central and southern Europe and the Orient, especially China. For the most part, however, the exotic species are thoroughly at home on the American continent and in certain sections have established themselves as freely as any native plant.

Q.—Who composed Ca Ira—D. Mc. N.

A.—This was a popular song of the French Revolution. The words are of uncertain origin, one version probably being the composition of Ladre, a street singer. The air was a popular carillon by Bucourt, and a favorite of Marie Antoinette's. French writers say that Benjamin Franklin in speaking of the American revolution often used the expression Ca Ira which means it will succeed. The phrase was caught up by the French.

The Girl With The Red Hair by Rob Eden

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Gay Terris agreed to marry her wealthy employer, Frank Patterson, in payment for a loan of five thousand dollars to send her sick mother to Arizona. Later she fell in love with Patterson's nephew, Mark Loring. In order to earn two hundred dollars more for her mother, Gay represented Fania Crandall, (a crook posing as a society woman), at a masquerade where a necklace was stolen. Gay learned through Paul Ladishaw, Fania's accomplice that Fania was the thief. Mark disappeared and Gay concluded Fania was responsible. She told the whole story to her friend, Andy Grant, newspaper reporter. He took her to Captain Bennett, detective, but when Fania and Ladishaw smoothly denied Gay's accusations, she was proclaimed insane and ordered to a psychopathic institution until cured. Certain that she could obtain a confession from Ladishaw, Gay cleverly escaped. At Ladishaw's residence she discovered he was sailing for Europe immediately. Gay boards the Franconia but is unable to locate Paul.

CHAPTER XLII

Many of the passengers still clung to the rails, looking at the fading outlines of Manhattan. Others wandered off to find their staterooms.

Gay, nervous, worried to distraction, did not know what to do. She had no idea how she could find Paul in the straggling crowds on the deck. Finally she went back to his stateroom and sat down on a chair, weary, fighting to keep the tears back from her eyes.

She had seen the pilot boat puffing before the great liner, drawing it out to the open water.

If Paul would only come here—soon, she could go back on it. Otherwise, she shuddered to think of it, she would have to remain on board all the way to Cherbourg.

Sooner or later Paul would come. She saw again his baggage, and rose to look at the initials on the bags. P. L. In small gold letters on each piece. Paul Ladishaw. She was making no mistake.

The porthole onto the deck was open, and a cool, fresh breeze brushed her hair, her face. It felt so good . . . She flung her hat on the white covered bed, her coat beside it, and ran her fingers through her hair. She wanted to be doing something, find Paul, and here she was sitting, waiting for him. Yet it was the best way. So many places Paul might be—she couldn't be every place at once.

She felt the roll of the ship, heard dimly the hum of its engines, and a buzz of conversation outside the porthole on the deck.

The stateroom was a comfortable one, with a real single bed, a dresser and a few good chairs. Because she was thirsty, she poured herself a drink of ice water from the thermos bottle on the wash stand.

What if Paul didn't come, until the pilot left? Going to the door, she opened it and looked down the corridor. A man was going into a stateroom a few doors away. He was the only person in sight.

Fania, of course, had sent Paul away, Gay thought bitterly. Always Fania. This afternoon in court. How smooth, how subtle Mrs. Crandall had been! Charming the judge as she had old Mrs. Patterson, as she had Captain Bennett!

She started to pace the small floor. Suppose Fania were on board? Suppose Paul were with her now—and Fania would come into the stateroom with him? She stopped her walking as suddenly as she had begun it, and sank weakly into a chair. She hadn't thought of that before!

Fania here on the Franconia!

Should she go down to the purser again and ask? No—

Why had she been so confident Paul would be alone, and all she had to do was to talk to him? Make him come back with her and tell the truth?

Her plan seemed so futile now, and she felt so lonely. She longed for Mark, longed for him as she never had before. Her escape frightened her, and she was astonished at her bravery, her daring in entering Paul's apartment the way she had. She had been so confident, and now she was so despairing . . .

The handle of the door moved, and she sat bolt upright, holding her breath. Was it Paul? Or Fania?

She could have wept with relief when a steward poked his head in the door and asked her pardon for intruding. Before he managed to close the door she asked him if the pilot had left. He said no—it would be some 15 minutes yet.

Thanking him in a quavering, unsteady voice, she settled back—to wait. She had no idea now of leaving the stateroom. She might run into Fania, and Fania was the last person in the world she wanted to see.

The door opened again, and Paul stood before her, blinking his eyes, his weak mouth open in surprise. A lighted cigaret dropped from his fingers onto the carpet.

"You!" he breathed.

"Yes, Paul—" Now that he was actually here, she didn't know how to say what she wanted to say. "Paul—you've got to help me, you know you do. You lied—"

"I know," he sat down on the bed and put his head in his hands. Gay felt sorry for him. He was so weak . . . "Gay, God knows I didn't want to do it. Fania made me. I had to. You see, don't you?"

"I see—but now you're going to help me, aren't you?" She was talking to him as if he were a child. Well, he was. She went over to him and stroked his hair. A child. A weak child.

He took her hand and kissed it feverishly. "You'll forgive me?"

"I will, Paul, if you go back with me—and tell the truth."

"How can I, now?"

"We can go on the pilot—"

"I'm afraid—"

"Afraid of what?"

"Fania—she's on board!"

Then she was on board. Gay sat down, and looked at Paul blankly. She might have known. Fania wouldn't let Paul travel alone—now.

"Gay—I'm so sorry. You'll never know, but Fania—you understand about her, don't you? I told you the truth that day we had luncheon—you remember? She's a fiend. Then I warned you about a trap. I knew she'd do something. She hates you. You fell for the airplane stunt—you'd have died Gay, if you'd gone. You don't know that, but I do. It would have been easy. The plane wrecked, the passenger killed, but the pilot alive. I wasn't feeling that day when I called you at the field. I had found out just then, and I knew I had to get hold of you. Fania, knew, of course, that I warned you. Shes' been devilish to me ever since. Made me sign the deposition she wrote. Forced me to it. Wouldn't let me see anyone. I couldn't help it, Gay. I'm a rotter—the worst kind. You know that—"

"You'll help me now, though, won't you? You'll come back with me? And tell the truth?"

"I will."

"Is Mrs. Crandall in her stateroom?"

"I left her there. She was dressing for dinner."

"Any chance that she'll be on deck to see the pilot leave?"

"I don't—know."

Taking him by the hand, Gay led him out of the room. He had put on his hat and coat, ready to leave. As they passed a door near the end of the corridor, Paul whispered to her, "Fania's suite."

Then they were on deck. Gay found the captain, and secured his permission for them to leave by the pilot. They only had a few minutes to spare. The ladder seemed flimsy, dangerous to the girl, so she closed her eyes and felt the rungs with her feet. The waves which had looked so calm from the deck, beat against the liner furiously, dashing into white foam. She felt arms helping her into the launch, and finally she was on the tender. Paul beside her, the Franconia steaming away, curious eyes looking at her from its decks.

Anxiously she gazed at the passengers, for a sight of Mrs. Crandall.

"You don't see her, do you?" she asked.

"Fania? No—I don't think so—" Paul was looking for her, too. "She told me to come back for her at eight, for dinner—"

"Paul, this will mean you'll be arrested—have you thought of that?"

"Anything will be better than Fania, Gay. Anything."

Manhattan was a golden city with the flaming, setting sun behind it as they approached it. The buildings towering against the sky, seemed wrought of fairy material—not brick and stone, and steel. Airplanes whirled above the island, their wings of gold, catching the rays of the dying sun.

A magical, beautiful city . . .

"A new life for me Gay—" Paul murmured, tossing his glowing cigaret into the darkening water.

"And a new one for me, too," she answered, thinking of Mark, and the city in the West where he would take her. A city nearer the setting sun. . . .

Mark . . . he would be waiting. She thought of his arms around her, his lips on hers. Safety with him. Always.

"You know I love you, Gay," Paul was saying. "You'll always remember that? I know I can't have you, I'm not asking that. But I'll love you always . . ."

She turned away, because she saw tears gather in his dark eyes, and looked out where the Franconia was ploughing away, now a mere speck in the distance. Fania was on it . . .

Later that evening, when she was with Mark, and her red head was resting on his shoulder, and his lips were kissing her hair, she thought again of Paul, so lonely, standing beside her on the tender, Paul with his new life ahead of him. He was starting it now, for he had told his full story to Bennett and Bennett had wirelessed the Franconia about Fania.

"What are you thinking about?" Mark asked her curiously.

"Paul," she whispered, "but I love you . . ."

"Poor devil . . ."

"No, dear, I think he's happy. . ."

'THIRD PARTY IS BOUND TO POP'

Curran Says Liberal Group To Organize

WASHINGTON, April 22. (INS)—A third or Liberty party will probably "pop out of the grab bag" as a result of the stand of the two major parties of prohibition, Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, told the senate lobby investigating committee today.

A new party already has been formed with Samuel Harden Church, head of the Carnegie foundation of Pittsburgh as the sponsor and Pierre du Pont, Wilmington, Del., capitalist, as one of its backers, it was said.

"If the Republican party of the North becomes the prohibition party and the Democratic party the prohibition party in the South, there is bound to be something pop out of that grab bag," Curran said.

"I don't see how either party can reconcile themselves in 1932 when it comes to their platforms. They might just as well say that the grass is green and water is wet as to write the usual prohibition enforcement planks. There is room for a Liberal party."

The Liberal party was launched in a speech by Church before the directors of Curran's association, he said.

Curran described his campaign against the Severson state prohibition act in Wisconsin and how Dr. J. J. Seelman of Milwaukee was the association's lobbyist and engineered the passage of the repeal act.

When officers went to his apartment seeking evidence they discovered there an altar in a miniature chapel fitted out with candles, prayer books and other sacred articles.

Much of the paraphernalia was found to have been stolen from churches.

ANTI-WAR PLAY GIVEN PRAISE

600 Attend Little Theater Production

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

Six hundred persons obviously were swept into the spirit of Channing Pollock's four-act play, "The Enemy," at the Memorial auditorium when the gripping anti-war drama was given by the Wichita Falls Little Theater as a benefit performance for the Family Relief association and Salvation Army here, and as a dress-rehearsal for its presentation in state competition at Fort Werth next Friday night.

Those who assumed the task of selling tickets admittedly were disappointed in the comparatively small attendance. Twenty-five hundred tickets were provided, with the admission price at 50 cents, as basic items in a plan designed to bring more than $800 to the two beneficiary organizations for their overworked budgets. It was stated Tuesday night that the attendance at the play probably fell considerably short of representing the number of tickets sold.

Treating Tuesday night's performance of "The Enemy" with complete frankness, it may be remarked that the presentation at Fort Worth Friday night should benefit tremendously by this preliminary showing. A cast of which contained four new members, one in a major role, developed a better stage-acquaintance together as the play progressed. Slight lapses in dialog, attributable largely to facing a large audience after many days of arduous rehearsal, are now bridged over, and should be absent from the tournament performance.

Thought-matter of this play is heavy, and the dialog consequently is of great importance. There is need, however, in certain roles, for more animated and sustained action, born of a deeper loss of the actor's local identity in the character he is playing.

Again, Miss Marguerite Fisher rose to histrionic planes seldom attained in amateur productions to gain distinction in a uniformly good performance. Both in and out of her own lines, she was thoroughly in character throughout the play. Climactic opportunities, in the departure of Karl in act two, and the reception of direful tidings as portrayed in act three, were treated with even greater finesse than in Miss Fisher's performances in this play two months ago. Restraint and anguish combined to produce a magnificent impersonation of the bereaved Paull.

James Campbell, appearing for the first time as Karl, endowed the part with unusual spontaneity, and attained commendable dramatic effects in his closing scene. His voice proved a great asset in reflecting the tragedy of the role.

Music was furnished before the play and between acts, by the Paul Seeds band. The play, under the direction of F. C. McClung, will be given in Fort Worth Friday night.

"I Was in a Very Weak and Rundown Condition and Was Hardly Able to Get Around. Argotane Brought Me Out Of It," She Says

"It certainly is remarkable what Argotane does for a person suffering as I did," said Mrs. J. A. Smith, 901 South Wilcox, McKinney, Texas, while with an Argotane representative recently.

"I had stomach trouble and was in a very bad condition. I could not eat anything for gas would press against my lungs causing shortness of breath," she continued. "I was very nervous and was in a very weak and run-down condition and was badly constipated. I sure was getting to be in a serious condition and was really alarmed at my condition.

"I read and heard so much about Argotane I decided to try it and it has proven a life-saver to me. I do not have gas on my stomach any more, feel much better and stronger, and fine every night. I am surely thankful for what Argotane has done for me."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Wichita Falls at Allison Drug store, 716 Indiana avenue.—Adv.

'LAST MAN' AT PAL'S BURIAL

Civil War Veteran Left Alone in Club

NATWATER, Minn., April 22. (AP)—Feeble with the weight of his 87 years, Charles Lockwood of Chamberlain, S. D., stood with bowed head today, the last man of the famous Last Man's club, while the body of Peter Hall, 91-year-old civil war veteran was laid to rest.

Only one ceremony remained to fulfill the pledge which bound the valiant 33 men when they formed the club at Stillwater nearly 45 years ago. That ceremony is a final toast to be drunk to the departed members of the club from a bottle of old Burgundy donated by Louis Hospes, one of the members, when the organization was formed.

Formed to "keep alive the memory of the fallen comrades," the Last Man's club met each year on July 21 the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run. Each year its ranks thinned as the shadow of death closed in until now only Lockwood remains.

On July 21 the club will be no more. Then the aged veteran will stand alone at a banquet table with only 32 black-draped chairs for company for the final toast.

Aged Man Confesses Slaying Daughter

CHICAGO, April 22. (UP).—Five years ago a coroner's jury agreed that Mary Cutler committed suicide.

Today her 70-year-old father, Charles Cutler, was in jail charged with her murder.

He walked into the police station last night and confessed that he had ended her life with gas because of the agony she suffered in continued ill health.

The first all-Spanish talking picture was shown recently in Madrid.

LONDON NAVAL TREATY SIGNED

Conference Closes After Colorful Event

LONDON, April 22. (UP)—At 12:40 p. m. today, Chairman J. Ramsay MacDonald announced solemnly to the five-power naval delegates seated around a horseshoe table in Queen Anne's drawing room of St. James palace, "we have now reached the moment for signing the treaty."

One by one the delegates, led by Secretary of State Stimson, arose, approached a small table in the center of the hollow square, sat in a high-backed, gilt and red armchair and wrote their names on a parchment.

For 14 minutes the pens scratched. When, at 12:52 p. m. Matsuzo Nagai of Japan, placed his signature at the bottom of the list, the London fleets until 1936, officially came into being.

Cameras clicked. Newspaper men took notes. There was an impromtu speech or two. Then, weary with three months of difficult negotiation, MacDonald brought the conference to a close by 1:18 p. m. with the words: "In finally and formally bid you goodbye."

Less than three hours later the chief French delegates were on their way back to Paris. The Italians arranged to leave for Rome at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

The Japanese and Americans prepared a quick departure, the latter going to Southampton tonight to sail on the Leviathan at 6 a. m.

Secretary Stimson, Senator Joseph Robinson and 33 members of the United States delegation left Waterloo station at 8:30 p. m. for Southampton, accompanied by nine marines.

It was understood Stimson and his colleagues would use the Leviathan's new wireless telephone to put the finishing touches on the windup of their affairs here.

The Americans had called at No. 10 Downing street during the afternoon to bid MacDonald farewell. Stimson remarked the Hoover-MacDonald conversations has now been incoporated in a treaty and he expressed his own and the president's thanks. MacDonald complimented the Americans on their energy and resourcefulness.

COOKS INTERESTED IN FLAVOR NOW

The Use of Sugar Encourages Art of Seasoning

Old-time cooks remember when most of the day was spent in cooking and baking. Great pride was taken in the amount and variety of hearty food that was prepared.

Today, however, there is a new departure in cookery. Attention is directed to heightening the flavor of simple, wholesome foods rather than changing them with rich sauces and gravies. Strange as it may appear, sugar is an important ingredient in this new seasoning.

In flavoring many vegetables, sugar shows its worth. This is especially true regarding peas and corn, which lose their original sugar content between the time they are picked and cooked. To restore this flavor a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow.

Sugar also modifies the flavor of sharp fruits and improves the taste of spinach, carrots and tomatoes. And a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt makes a simple meat stew much more palatable and satisfying.

Doctors and dietitians approve the use of sugar as a flavor because it makes foods, which are carriers of vitamins, mineral salts and roughage, more palatable. Good food promotes good health! The Sugar Institute.

A package of Morton's Iodized Salt in your bathroom will prove useful in many ways. Added to the bath, for example, it leaves a delightful after-feeling of stimulation. Used as a gargle, it quickly relieves sore throat. And it makes an inexpensive prophylactic mouth wash. All grocers carry it.

NEW HAY FEVER CURE CLAIMED

Horse Dandruff Injections May Help, Medic Says

By LEONARD BACON
(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service.)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Whether you have hay fever in season or whether it comes upon you unexpectedly at any time of the year caused by horse dandruff, house dust or fish juices, you can be treated and cured in from two to four days instead of weeks as formerly required, says John Freeman, director of the department of clinical bacteriology at St. Mary's hospital, London.

Just now the hay fever season is beginning. Early sneezes and sniffles may be the first evidence of attack by tiny pollen grains from blooming trees. If you are a seasonal hay fever sufferer under treatment by the old method, your injections would have begun long ago at the rate of one shot a week. Preparedness would save you.

'Hair of the Dog'

But if you are a random victim, apt to be attacked at any time by some peculiar irritant, you must simply suffer until the slow injections take effect—unless Mr. Freeman comes to your rescue with his new "rush" treatment. They are given every one and a half hours throughout a 14-hour day. The patient either goes to the hospital for them or has a trained nurse at home.

The first step in hay fever treatment is to determine what kind of pollen or plant or animal protein is causing the trouble. When the offenders are discovered they are injected into the patient in tiny but gradually increasing amounts until finally his system becomes tolerant to them. Then he can tolerate the amounts usually present in the air.

House Dust Cure

Among Mr. Freeman's first patients was a man who suffered from asthma. He was treated several times and each time he returned home his asthma started again as badly as ever. Finally the dirt of his house was suspected and he was successfully inoculated with an extract made from its fine dust.

Another was a little girl who suffered from asthma whenever she rode her pony. After an injection of horse hair dandruff she was able to ride without discomfort, but to insure her pleasure the treatment must be given every 10 days or so.

'Fish Injection'

A young boy was so severely attacked by bronchial asthma from a number of foods that he was undernourished and undersized because of the difficulty in feeding him. He was particularly sensitive to fish, so he was given rush inoculations from juices extracted from cod fish. Now he man enjoy fish—and must eat them regularly or have occasional injections of fish vaccine to maintain his tolerance for the food.

PAGAN

Moral Breakdown Held Responsible For Divorces

CHICAGO, April 22. (UP)—Divorces are constantly increasing because Christian civilization is giving way to pagan morality, according to a Presbyterian report which today gave new explanation to the country's matrimonial problems.

The report was the result of a lengthy survey by a special commission appointed at the last general assembly of the church to study marriage, divorce and re-marriage.

NEW YORK, April 22. (INS)—Three famous members of three famous families forgot their long drawn bitterness toward each other today for a few moments and knelt together at the bier of Mrs. Katherine Duer Blake, once the wife of Clarence Mackay, telegraph magnate.

Mackay came to mourn at the funeral of the woman who had run away from him many years ago in one of the sensational romances of the times.

Dr. Joseph Blake, famous surgeon, the man whom Mrs. Mackay married after leaving her husband, was also at the funeral today.

Irving Berlin, millionaire song writer, who married Ellin Mackay against the wishes of her father, was the third personage present.

Mrs. Blake died last Sunday after an attack of pneumonia. She obtained a divorce from Dr. Blake a year ago. He recently married a nurse.

It was in 1913 that Mrs. Mackay left her home. Dr. Blake obtained a divorce in Connecticut from Mrs. Catherine Ketcham Blake. Then he married Mrs. Mackay.

The three figures in this strange reunion did not speak to each other.

Mackay came to the church accompanied by Mrs. Berlin, the former Ellin Mackay, and another daughter, Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien.

Berlin came alone.

Dr. Blake was accompanied by his three daughters. They sat apart from the Mackay family.

After the service, Mackay left the church alone.

Ellin and her sister drove away with Irving Berlin in his automobile.

She Lost 19 Pounds Of Fat in 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from Allison Drug store or any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.—Adv.

ASTOR FORTUNE WAR RENEWED

Emerick Heirs Move for $100,000,000 Split

ST. LOUIS, April 22. (UP)—An 80-year-old court battle for more than $100,000,000 from the descendants of John Jacob Astor brought the 1,100 American and 249 European heirs of John Nicholas Emerick tonight to an empasse.

They weren't quite sure whether the case had been settled, or whether legal skirmishes loomed for them far into the future.

Calvin I. Hoy, chief counsel here for the American Emericks, said he feared the European heirs had jumped the gun on their American cohorts to such an extent he sought a court injunction to keep them from attempting to make a settlement with the Astors.

Hearing Next Week

The injunction hearing which will be held in federal district court in New York City next week is the culmination of a fight within the ranks of the heirs, according to Hoy.

But the Emericks think they may be too late—for suspicious "goings on" over in Europe have raised doubt in their minds.

The Emerick case dates back to more than a 100 years. Their ancestor, the Emericks contend, was a wealthy partner of John Jacob Astor. Fearing death soon would overtake him, Emerick, his heirs claim, entered a 90-year-trust agreement, whereby the Emerick capital would remain invested in the business of Emerick and Astor.

Find Original Decree

The Emericks took their case to court and lost. But information obtained since from European heirs purports to have found an original court decree granted in 1849 to Lynus Emerick of Eau Claire, Wis., ordering the Astors to pay Emerick descendants, without further order, their share of the Emerick estate.

Heirs claim Lynus Emerick sold his copy of the decree for $50,000 and then he beat them by bribing a court clerk to give him the original decree from court records. The decree and other documents are the ones reported found in Europe.

$100,000,000 Offer

The possessor of the originals is reported to have offered them for sale to the Astors for $100,000,000, according to affidavits in Hoy's possession.

Last month, however, each of the European heirs was requested to meet in Berlin and settlement of the estate for $45,000,000 was promised. The meeting was postponed indefinitely a few days before the settlement was to be made, Hoy claims, without reason.

As the case now stands the Emericks intend to drop suit asking for the share of the Astor estate. Instead they seek enforcement of the court order which they claim was issued in 1849.

Lucky Mother

"My success with Betty Jean isn't just luck," says Mrs. D. H. Keating, 1318 Hays St., San Antonio. "It is due to a plan.

"She has escaped the ill-effects of colds and upsets because, at the first sign of a cold; of bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness, I open her bowels with California Fig Syrup. She loves its taste and I like its gentle, thorough action."

Mothers by thousands praise California Fig Syrup. For fifty years physicians have endorsed this pure vegetable product. It tones and strengthens stomach and bowels; stimulates appetite; encourages digestion and assimilation. Its use helps make sallow, listless children rosy and energetic.

Look for the name California when buying. That marks the genuine; safe for infants, effective for children in their teens.—Adv.

CONOCO

This week's increase in the sale of Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil will still further emphasize its position as the motor lubricant of the hour. Even now, Conoco men are serving customers they never saw before, one time out of three.

Perhaps you are inclined to regard this as incidental. So are we. The real reasons behind this wholesale change from other brands to Germ-Processed are these: Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil meets and satisfies a real need for better lubricants. By utilizing the patented Germ Process, a motor oil is produced which is wholly different in its motor-saving and power-increasing qualities. All of which you will sum up tersely as, "It's good oil, best I ever used."

This oil has been thoroughly de-waxed for year 'round satisfaction, assuring a full four quarts of lubricating value in every gallon. Causes of Flatulence

Flatulence means gas in the intestines or colon. It is sometimes caused by the use of the wrong foods so that digestion is interfered with. For example, when foods, especially starches, are cooked in a heavy layer of grease, the digestive juices may not be able to work upon the starches, and starch fermentation will result, producing a large amount of gas. The combination of sugar and starch is also readily fermentable, and some foods where starch and protein are heavily combined, as in beans.

Some foods seem to be especially likely to cause flatulence in susceptible people. Among these foods may be mentioned beans, cabbage, melons, onions, garlic, radishes, peppers, turnips and peanuts, and where there is an inflammation or obstruction of the intestines, the large quantity of cellulose which is present in some of the fruits and green vegetables, will cause a delay in the passages and bring about flatulence. For instance, corn kernels may seem to pass through the body in practically an unchanged state, but in people suffering from an inflamed colon they will usually cause gas. Where there are pockets or distended areas of the bowel as in many cases of constipation, a portion of the food may remain much longer than it should and undergo putrefaction and fermentation, producing large quantities of gas.

Any interference or disease of the organs producing the digestive secretions may also interfere with digestion and result in food fermentation; cirrhosis of the liver is especially likely to do this. Where there is an interferepce of the circulation of the intestines, which occurs in many cases of heart trouble or arterial sclerosis, flatulence will often result. This condition may also result in anemia or in disease of the lungs.

It must be remembered that flatulence is only a symptom. If it is due to wrong food combinations, it can be overcome quite easily, and if this is not the case, flatulence is a danger signal pointing to some serious disease of the body and one should pay careful attention to discover the cause.

Where the gas accumulates to such an extent that it causes colicky pains, relief can be experienced through using a warm enema and a warm sitz bath. Where inflammation of the bowels is the cause, a milk diet is necessary to permit a rest for the inflamed surfaces. If kinks or pouches are present in the bowels or intestines, they should be corrected by mechanical measures. Often hand manipulations, special exercises, or treatments with the sinusoidal electric current will prove helpful. If you are interested in the exercises, send for my article called Exercise and Digestion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Adhesions to Heart

Question—C. K. L. asks: "Is it possible to have adhesions of the heart to the lungs or chest? If it is possible, doesn't one feel the heart beat against the lungs and chest, or even see it move? Is there a correction for this condition, or does it bring on some other illness? In exercising, after taking a deep breath, I can feel the lungs against something when I swing from side to side—sounding like an escape of air."

Answer—The adhesions are probably attached to the sac covering the lungs and also to the diaphragm. It is virtually impossible for the heart itself, to grow directly against the ribs, although one can often see and feel the heart's action because of the vibration produced upon the chest walls. You should have an examination with the X-ray to determine what is causing your symptoms.

Mushrooms

Question—R. F. asks: "Of what food value are mushrooms? Are they easily digested? How can I cook them without the addition of some knd of fat?"

Answer—Mushrooms have a low caloric value but are readily digested if prepared by boiling in a small amount of water. Butter may be added after the cooking.

Second Cousins

Question—E. B. asks: "Is it advisable for second cousins to marry and would their children be absolutely normal; or is the relationship too close?"

Answer—It is all right for second cousins to marry providing they are both in good health.

New Storage System Planned by Cooperative

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 22. (UP)—M. W. Thatcher, general manager of the Farmers Union Terminal association, today said permits to issue negotiable warehouse receipts for grain stored on farms by producers will be sought in six mid-West states in the next year.

"Such a system would allow the farmer to borrow funds on his crop without paying high storage rates in private elevators," Thatcher said. "It has worked out successfully in Montana and North Dakota."

If the legislation is obtained, Thatcher said, it would offset the reaction which may follow the decision of the federal farm board to discontinue its loans to wheat cooperatives at the present basis of $1.20 a bushel.

DALLAS WINS SECOND STRAIGHT FROM SPUDDERS, 8 TO 2

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Our print shop got a thrill yesterday when a quail flew in one of the office windows and was trapped by Hope Hatcher in the composing room. Of all places to drop in and pay a visit, the quail chose this newspaper shop, which is a hotbed of huntsmen if there ever was one. Hope went hither and yon showing the itinerant Mr. Bob White to everyone, and in three minutes half of the staff was singing a-hunting we will go.

In yesterday's column we devoted several paragraphs to the vagaries of Cy Smith, voicing the hope that he would soon snap out of it and assure himself a permanent berth on our pitching staff. Even as that column was being written the powers that are were closing a deal with the San Antonio club, and today we must speak of Cy as a pitcher who once was with us. Cy will join the Indians the latter part of this week.

It is a change for the better, without doubt. In San Antonio Cy will have more of an opportunity to work, and more chance for development than he had in Wichita Falls, where his opposition was stronger. The fates so decreed that Smith's fast ball should not be as effective as the curves of Wiltse, White, Steengrafe or Caldwell, and consequently Cy took a minor role. In San Antonio he probably will get in a full season on the mound, and so have ample opportunity to study and improve his methods.

We hate to see Cyrus depart hence, because if there ever was a player who had the morale perfect, as we say, it was Smith. Everybody on the club liked him and his going will be marked by genuine regret on the part of his mates.

Our southern colleagues will start the invasion of the north tomorrow, when the Mr. Pratt's humble Cubs from Waco toddle in for a three-game series. Then on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, the greatly-touted Beaumont Exporters, league leaders at this writing, will journey up for three games with the Spudders.

Somehow, though we admit Beaumont has a fairly good team—somehow, we say, a faint snicker grovels around in our sub-conscious as we ponder on just how the Shippers got way up there at the top of the standings. Said snicker being occasioned by the reflection that the Exporters have not really met any first class opposition. Houston Waco and San Antonio certainly had very little to offer. And when we re-read the mournful story that came out of Waco Monday giving the account of the Beaumont-Waco game, the snicker becomes a hah-hah. The scribe who wrote up the game described it as "the most miserable game of Texas league baseball seen in Waco in the last three years." It produced, the story said, 12 errors. A check of the box score revealed that Beaumont made seven of those errors, and that the Cubs, who were defeated 12 to 4, made five.

Might have been an off day for the Shippers. Mebee so. That's just as good an excuse as any in this modern age.

Nevertheless, it looks like the Texas league's history this year is going to be about the same as it has been for years past, with the stronger clubs to the north warring with the weaker sisters to the south.

Which brings to mind the gallant thought
That once upon a time when knighthood was in flower
And the slaves were tending swine
The north and south got sore as well
As peeved and irritated
And started a war that was certainly sitch,
As General Sherman stated.

And so today on Texas sod and part of Louisiana
Th battle lines are taught and drawn
And runners line the bases
While their owners chart the progress
Of their teams by day and night
And generally agree that Mister Sherman was quite right

WILTSE LOSES FIRST GAME

Clash Today to Bring Series To End

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, April 22.—Hal Wiltse, who had won his previous three starts for Wichita Falls, was battered from the mound today as Paul Hensick pitched perfect ball in all but one inning to give the Steers their second victory over the Spudders in the present series. The score was 8 to 2.

Willingham hit his second homer in as many days for Dallas. Brown also hit a circuit clout for the Steers, while Euller duplicated the feat for the Spudders.

Hillin Relieves Wiltse

The Steers got but one run off Ash Hillin, who was sent in to relieve Wiltse in the fifth, seven of their runs coming in an early inning attack.

The two teams meet tomorrow to close the series.

Dallas scored three runs in the first inning. The action started with Johnson's single to center. Swanson forced Johnson at second. Willingham singled to center, advancing Swanson to second. Blackerby beat out an infield tap to short and the bases were filled. Brown flied to left, Swanson scoring after the catch. Morse walked, and the bases again were full. Windle singled to center, scoring Willingham and Blackerby and advancing Morse to second. Robertson was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases for the third time. Hensick fouled out to Burns to close the inning.

Euller Hits Homer

The Spudders came back in the third to do their scoring. Kloza singled to right. Burns flied to right, Bettencourt rolled out, pitcher to first. Euller hit a home run into the left field bleachers, scoring Kloza and himself. Crouch walked. Wiltse flied to left and the inning was over.

Brown's home run came in Dallas' half of the third inning to account for the Steers' next tally. The riot started in the fifth, when the Steers got three more. Willingham hit a homer with Swanson on the paths to account for two of them, and the third was the result of Euller's error, which allowed Blackerby to reach first, Brown's single, which advanced Blackerby to second, and Windle's infield out which allowed Blackerby to score.

Willingham scored the eighth for Dallas in the seventh. He walked, went to third on Brown's single, and scored on Morse's single.

Schmeling and Sharkey Better Boxers Than Famed Veterans, Runyon Avers

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copy't, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, April 22.—Just before he beat Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight title, Gene Tunney fumbled through 12 rounds with Rubbery Blubbery Jawn Risko, and didn't look so hot.

Just before he beat Jess Willard for the heavyweight title, Jack Dempsey blew a four-round decision to fat Willie Meehan.

Just before he beat John Arthur Johnson for the heavyweight title, Jess Willard was a sad sight in losing a 12-round fight with Tom McMahon.

Just before he beat Tommy Burns for the heavyweight title, John Arthur Johnson was outstumbled by Marvin Hart in twenty heats.

Just before he beat Marvin Hart for the heavyweight title, Tommy Burns blew a 20-round decision to Jack Twin Sullivan.

Just before he beat Bob Fitzsimmons for the heavyweight title, Jim Jeffries looked anything but a champion in beating Bob Armstrong in a 10-rounder.

I print these few salient facts of fistiana by way of enlightening one or two of the younger generation of sports writers who are saying that Herr Max Schmeling and the terrible Sharkey man do not measure up to the standard of the old champions, said standard being mainly a matter of hearsay with the younger generation.

It is a sure thing, in my opinion, that either Schmeling or Sharkey would have easily whipped Fat Willie Meehan, Marvin Hart, Bob Armstrong, McMahon, or Jack Twin Sullivan, the men who gave the old champs their toughest tussels just before they became champs. And Herr Max fanned out the man who gave Gene Tunney a struggle in Tunney's last battle before he became champion, the same being Rubbery Blubbery Jawn.

John L. Sullivan hadn't fought in a long time before he met James J. Corbett in New Orleans and lost the title. James J. Corbett went 61 rounds to a draw with old Peter Jackson in his last important battle before meeting Sullivan for the title, and I have heard old timers say that in many rounds not a blow was struck. Bob Fitzsimmons lost to Tom Sharkey on a foul just before he met Corbett for the title.

I say the records prove that both Sharkey and Schmeling have better marks to qualify them for a championship battle than any contenders before them. In this case they are both contenders. Of his fight with Rubbery Blubbery Jawn Risko, you couldn't by any stretch of the imagination have made Tunney a stout contender, and never a worse looking aspirant for the title ever loomed up on the fistic horizon than old Jess Willard as he appeared in his fight with McMahon.

In nearly every world's heavyweight championship fight back to the time of Sullivan, in which the title changed hands, it has developed that the champion was a hollow shell, as the boys say. One exception, perhaps, was the fight between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Corbett, in which Corbett was knocked out by a punch in the bread basket, more scientifically termed the solar plexus, after slapping Fitz around quite some.

But with that exception, the Sharkey-Schmeling fight brings together the most evenly matched men in the history of the title contention, both at the peak of their athletic form. Bad as it was, Sharkey's fight with the Englishman, Scott, wasn't as poor a showing as Tunney's fight against Risko, or Dempsey's display against Willie Meehan, or John Arthur Johnson's effort against the ponderous Marvin Hart.

I do not know who, or what, gives the younger generation the impression that those old time champions were super-men. Certainly they must fail to consult the records, which would show them that the champs who gave the old champs tough battles were very ordinary fighters, indeed. No contender of the old days ever turned in a more creditable record than Herr Max Schmeling in his few fights in this country, winding up with his shellacking of the formidable Paolino. He had the old Beezark of the Basque all but out at the end of the fifteenth round.

Sport writers dare more finality in their judgment of ability than any other critics in the world. I wonder what the younger generation of today would have said of Jim Jeffries, whose showing against Armstrong in this man's town was so deplorable that he left these parts and returned to the Pacific coast, only to come back in a year to whip the mighty Bob Fitzsimmons, and to be acclaimed one of the greatest fighters of all time?

I heard it said that Gene Tunney could beat Sharkey or Schmeling without any trouble if he took it into his head to do a come-back, and yet before he whipped Dempsey, Tunney was regarded as a joke by some of the very critics who now are deploring the present class of the heavyweight division.

And there is nothing in Tunney's record to argue it a sure thing that he could lick either Sharkey or Schmeling. The latter flattened Risko who went 12 rounds with Tunney, and at the time he fought Tunney, the Rubbery Blubbery one wasn't as good a fighter as when he fought Schmeling.

Outside of Dempsey, and Harry Greb, the class of fighters Tunney met was rather ordinary. Tom Gibbons and Georges Carpenter were washed up when he got them. But that isn't saying Tunney wouldn't have whipped better fighters if better fighters had been around. Sharkey always wanted to fight him but never got the chance. Stribling and Tunney were matched, but the bout fell through. Sharkey later beat Stribling. I think he would have given Tunney a hard fight, because Tunney was not a great puncher, and Sharkey is a wolf against men who can't hit.

As for Schmeling, he might have found that same spot that Dempsey located on Tunney's chin out in Chicago. I believe Schmeling is as good a puncher with his right as Dempsey was with his left, which was Dempsey's best punching hand.

The black Uhlan would certainly have been out-boxed by Tunney, but the puncher always has a chance 'till the final bell.

And if anyone tells you that as contenders, Schmeling and Sharkey are not in the same class with the old timers you hand 'em the record book and ask to be shown why, and where. Ask 'em if Sharkey and Schmeling class, for example, with Tom Heeney, who was in there for 11 rounds with Tunney in the latter's last fight, and wasn't by any means comatose when a halt was called.

Drake Relays To Test Many Marks

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 22. (AP)—Half of the meet records of the Drake university relays will be in danger when more than 2,000 college and university track and field stars gather Friday and Saturday for the 21st annual renewal of the classic.

On the basis of performances turned in at the Kansas relays, the athletes should better at least a half dozen of the best marks ever made in the special events and three or four of the university relay marks.

Cy Leland, the Texas Christian speedster; Claude Bacey, the "Dixie Flier," from Rice Institute, and Tolan, Michigan's negro sprinter, promise a duel in the short race such as no Drake relay has been before. Leland won by a hair at Kansas in the world's record time of 9.4 seconds one-tenth second below the Mark Roland Locke of Nebraska set at Drake.

Johnson's men tied the count in the eighth, and won in the overtime when Buddy Myer singled to center, scoring Rice, who had doubled.

SOUTH WILBARGER WELL TAPS RICH 2400-FOOT OIL SAND

GRAYBACK TEST SWABBING 500

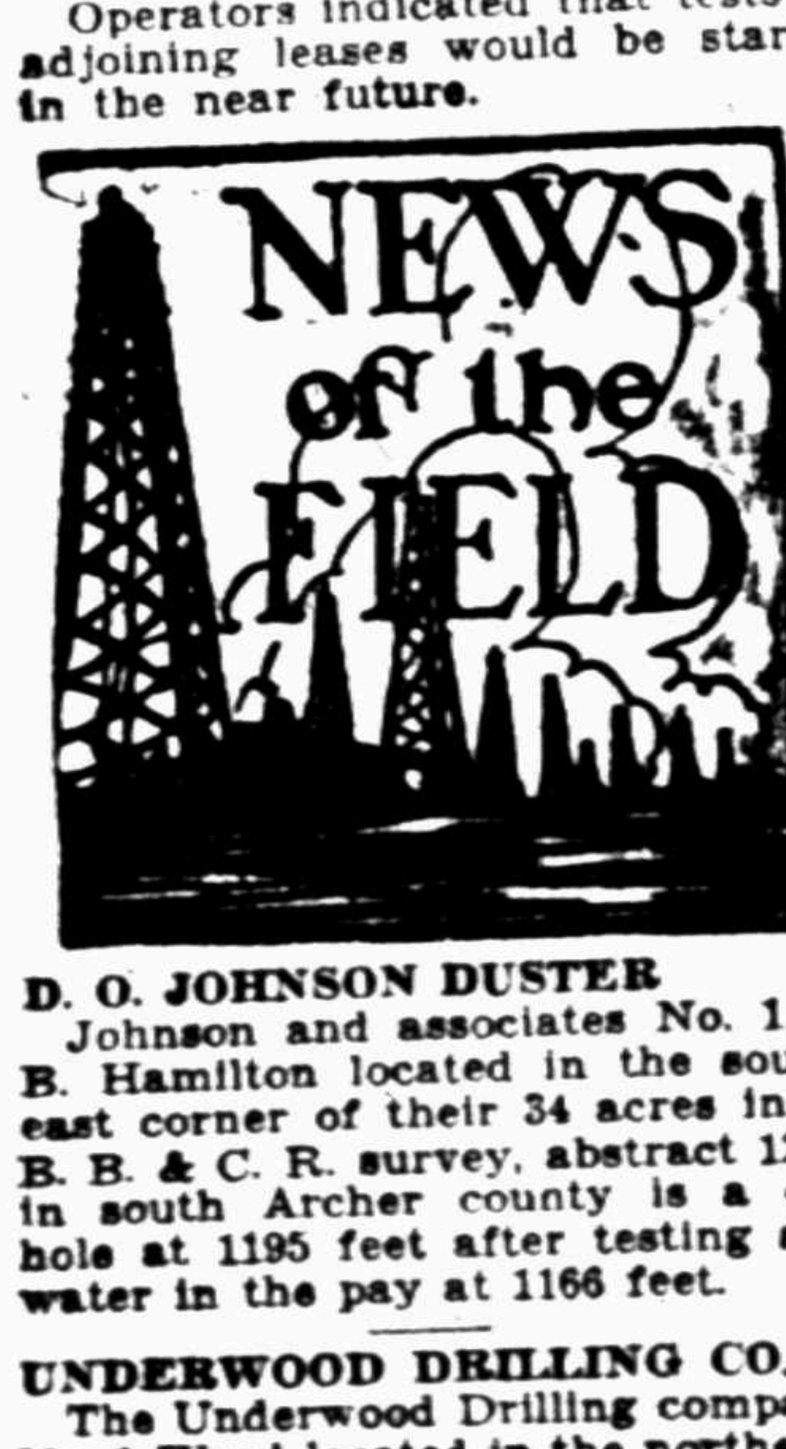

Discovery Expected to Open Campaign

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, Texas, April 22.—Swabbing at the rate of 500 barrels per day, the Grayback Development corporation's No. 1 M. L. V. Smith was brought in last night after drilling five feet into the sand topped at 2,405 feet. The well was completed from an undeveloped level which had not been tapped in the past four years and it is believed that the well will precipitate a drilling campaign for the pay. It is located in the Zacaquiesta field 12 miles south of Vernon in section 50, block 2, H. & T. C. survey.

The 2,400 foot level was tapped four years ago by the Grayback company in a well 600 feet northwest of the new producer, but the original test made only 100 barrels.

Operators indicated that tests on adjoining leases would be started in the near future.

Shaw-Kisinger Pool Takes on New Importance With 20th Completion

Mysterious Old Moran Producer Finally Leads to Development of Rich Field in Young County

By TOM TRULY
The Record News Staff

GRAHAM, Texas, April 22.—Completion of the 20th producer in the Shaw-Kisinger pool in southeast Young county gives that active area many of the aspects of a major oil field.

The latest well brought in there not only brought the total of producers to an even score but widened the pool's known limits almost a quarter of a mile to the north. It is Shell Petroleum corporation's No. 1 Kisinger which began flowing by heads at 2545½ feet, a foot and a half in the sand. Drilled to a total depth of 2561 feet, the well was completed with an initial production of 140 barrels.

Pool Year Old

The Kisinger pool is enjoying its greatest activity just a year after the Shaw Oil corporation brought in the discovery well. The development program marks culmination of 12 years of sprodaic drilling on all sides of the famous No. 1 Moran of Sinclair Oil and Gas company, which has produced $8,000,000 worth of 41 gravity oil since its completion. This remarkable old well, located a mile and a half south of the new field, is now averaging 290 barrels daily, flowing naturally.

The orderly cluster of steel and good derricks is located in a beautiful spot in a range of low mountains which extend northwestward from Mineral Wells. The sector is an isolated one and the only road from it leads to Graham, 11 miles away.

Shaw Leads Field

The T. G. Shaw Oil corporation leads in the amount of production in the pool, having five wells making approximately 750 barrels daily. The 20 wells in the pool are averaging close to 4,000 barrels per day. The nineteenth well was Shaw's No. 1 J. H. McLaren in the John Connor survey which is making 50 barrels. It topped the sand at 2594 feet, drilled to 2630, plugged back to 2619 and was shot with 30 quarts.

New operations in the field include Shaw's No. 3-A Kisinger, now at an approximate depth of 1340 feet; Christie Brothers, Wichita Falls, No. 3 Kisinger, drilling at 450 feet; Independent Oil and Gas company's No. 2 Jarnagin which has just spudded; Independent's No. 3 has rig up and locations have been made for Nos. 3 and 4; Atlantic Oil Producing company's 2-B Jarnagin is a location 300 feet southeast of 1-B producer.

River Bed Wells

The second well in the Brazos river bed, which divides the pool, will soon be under way, Long and Wolf having made location for their No. 2 State. Their first river bed well is completed as a 750 barreler.

All of the wells brought in have gassed considerably and the Phillips Petroleum company's gasoline plant at Herron City is taking its capacity of this product. The oil in the pool tests 41 gravity, being of the same character as that flowing from the hoary old Moran producer, oildom's greatest enigma which sits in the midst of a buried fortune—buried by wildcatters seeking the golden stream all of whom went unrewarded until the Shaw discovery came in.

Pure Oil Co. Brings In Van Field Producer

TYLER, Texas, April 22. (AP)—The Pure Oil company's Clark heirs No. 1 well in the Van oil field came in today from a depth of 2876 feet for an estimated daily flow of 7,500 barrels. The producer is located one mile southwest of the discovery well.

EGG PRICES TAKE SLUMP

One-Cent Reduction Listed By Local Buyers

Eggs slipped a few points Tuesday below the mark they have held in local price quotations recently, the price on loose fresh eggs going from 18 to 17 cents during the day, and that on cases from $6.00 to $5.70, including new cases.

No changes in poultry prices were posted during the day, but deliveries continued to improve. One solid carload of dressed poultry left the Armour creameries plant Tuesday morning for New York.

Development of vegetable crops in this community is being materially retarded by lack of adequate moisture, it was reported, except where irrigation is possible. Dry soil is affording but slow growth to early crops, and little encouragement to those now being planted.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 22. (AP)—A continuation of scattering near month liquidation and narrowing of differences between old and new crop months were the chief features in cotton today. Some trade buying was reported in the new crop and there was some buying in these months against sales of old crop positions but it was supplied by moderate offerings which were probably promoted by the unsettled ruling of wheat and a belief that farm work in the South was making favorable progress outside of droughty sections of West Texas. May contracts sold off to 15.35 or 16 points net lower and closed at 15.63 with the general market closing barely steady net unchanged to 13 points lower.

The opening was steady net 6 points lower to 4 points higher. July contracts sold off to 15.77 and the new October to 15.82, with the close a few points up from the lowest on covering. The closing quotation for May was 17 points under July and 79 points over the new October compared with closing differences of 16 to 88 points yesterday.

Further additions to the stock of certificated cotton at designated delivery points were reported during the day bringing the total up to 276,351 bales and making an increase of about 83,000 bales since the middle of March.

Liverpool cables said that liquidation had been absorbed by covering and continental buying in that market.

Exports today 14,566 making 6,203,624 so far this season. Port receipt 13,493. U. S. port stocks 1,678,518.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 22. (AP)—Trading was again of moderate proportions in the cotton market today. The trend was slightly downward, due to continued liquidation of the old crop months. Approach of first notice day restricted trading owing to the natural indisposition to operate until the volume of May notices and their disposition are known.

The market declined from the start. Prices showed losses of 11 to 15 points and closed a point or two above the lowest. July opened at 15.57, down 3 points, declined to 14.45 and closed at 15.47, or 13 points net lower. The general market closed steady at net declines of 8 to 14 points.

Liverpool came in slightly favorable but the market opened easier. Initial transactions showed losses of 2 to 5 points. The market continued to ease after the start on talk of mill curtailment and selling of old crop months. May eventually trading down to 15.30, July to 15.47, and October to 15.82, or 9 to 13 points under yesterday's close.

The rest of the morning the market ruled steady and fluctuated within the early range but near the lows. During the afternoon prices became slightly easier, May trading down to 15.28, July 15.45 and October to 14.80, or 11 to 15 points below the previous close. Final prices were 1 to 2 points above the lowest.

Constructive Operations Strengthen Market Tone After Bear Raids Fail

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 22. (US)—Following further efforts of professional traders to unsettle the stock market early today, the list developed a stronger tone under influence of renewed operations by constructive interests. Failure of the early bear raids to dislodge important holdings of stocks also influenced sentiment. Steel closed ½ higher, Eastman Kodak up 9½, Diamond Match 10, Electric Power & Light 7½ higher, American Water Works up 6, and Standard Oil of New Jersey 1¼. The turnover again approximated 4,500,000 shares. Call money renewed at 4 per cent and subseuently dropped to 3½ per cent.

The further reduction in bankers' acceptances announced by leading dealers confirmed the view that international bankers are proceeding with their plans for an offering of reparation bonds as originally planned. Preliminary preparations for this issue are expected to be worked out within the next four or six weeks. With the initial stage completed, banking leaders should ease the brakes and let the market proceed with greater momentum.

Amusement shares continued under steady accumulation with both Fox Film and Paramount-Famous in special demand. With the Fox situation in more complete control, it is believed that the leading companies in the motion picture industry will proceed with their plans for further expanding their activities. Sponsors of Radio corporation also continued active following the early uncertainty in the general market. Part of the strength in Radio was explained by the existence of an unweildy short interest.

Utility shares continued strong under aggressive buying by interests closely allied with the Electric Bond & Share group. In this list, Electric Power & Light was a feature. Strength in this stock was based on the understanding that directors at the next meeting would inaugurate a small stock dividend in addition to the present cash disbursement. American & Foreign Power was under accumulation on the knowledge that earnings thus far in 1930 are running substantially ahead of those in the corresponding period last year. Incidentally foreign power plans further acquisitions in the near future.

Reports of increased sales in the Copper industry had little effect upon stocks in this category. The general situation in the Copper trade is still more or less uncertain and until a clearer atmosphere prevails Copper shares undoubtedly will remain favorite targets for professional sharpshooters. Foreign sales of Copper today, however, mounted to the second largest day's total reached since last September.

Eastman Kodak and Diamond Match continued to lead the high priced specialties. Important accumulation was undesrtood to be under way in both issues. Case Threshing Machine also was an outstanding feature, strength in this stock being accompanied by reports that the long expected splitup might come shortly.

Oil stocks as a group maintained a strong undertone following the increase of 2 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline on the West coast. Reports of further curtailment by the leading companies in California also influenced sentiment towards this group.

Wheat closed ⅛ to 1¼ cents lower and cotton also was a trifle down on the day. Foreign exchange was featured by strength in sterling which influenced the other European and continental rates.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 22. (AP)—Good demand was reported for wheat, corn and sorghums on the cash grain market here today. But prices were easier except on the sorghums though no showing weakness. Cane seed was still in demand and slightly higher.

Mills were bidding $1.10@1.11½ for No. 1 ordinary hard milling wheat and $1.11½@1.12½ for 12 per cent protein delivered Texas common points, freight paid.

Bids on other grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 94@95c; No. 2 white 96@97c; No. 2 yellow 97@98c.

Oats—No. 2 red 56@57c.

Barley—No. 2, nominally, 74@75c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.57@1.60; No. 2 kaffir $1.57@1.60.

Cane Seed—Bulk country run red top, per 100 pounds according to type, germination, origin and clean-out $4.25@4.60.

Dealers also quoted delivered Texas group one points: No. 2 mixed corn 91@92c; No. 2 white oats 53@53½c. Add one cent to latter for delivery of oats to group three points.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 22. (AP)—Pitching headlong toward the dollar-a-bushel level, wheat today broke through the season's lowprice record. Something of a recovery took place in the late dealings, however, as a result of buying credited to government sponsored agents. Today's drop in wheat values came about largely because of announcement that the Federal Farm Board would discontinue wheat loans after April 30 and an account of further rains in recent drought territory southwest.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous ¾-1⅛c a bushel. Oats ⅛-⅛c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5c.

Final estimates of today's North American export business were 400,000 to 500,000 bushels, chiefly Canadian.

Better shipping demand and smaller receipts helped to lift the corn market. Oats prices sagged owning to favorable crop comments from main sections of the oats belt.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

Wichita Area Towns To Join Display Here

Cities located in the Wichita Falls trade territory are being offered space on the second floor of the old Martin Printing and Stationery company building, 911-913 Eighth street, for display of manufactured goods and agricultural products in conjunction with the manufacturers' and jobbers' display to be shown by local concerns beginning May 1, according to information given by the Junior chamber of commerce officials Tuesday.

Letters are now being sent to chambers of commerce in this territory offering space on the second floor without charge for any exhibition which those organizations may wish to maintain, it was said.

With Will Hays' recently issued code still under general discussion, the talking-pictures enabled by insertions in news reels to keep up a constant ballyho for themselves, the public shouting its various appraisals of modern entertainment, anyone who is seriously interested in the subject will turn willingly to certain pronouncements made recently by Jane Cowl, of and for the theater. Speaking as one of the most successful actresses in modern and Shakesperean roles, Miss Cowl contributed significant and knowing words, in a recent issue of The Century Quarterly, to the moot subject.

◇ ◇ ◇

Miss Cowl differentiates promptly between the theater and "the talking picture, which of course has a place, and which will in the end, I think, compete more with the show business than with the theater." What is her vision? "A theater which will take its place with symphony orchestras, fine museums and rich libraries, adequately endowed. It will not offer to the public the barren fare of a 'long-run hit, or a 'short-run flop.' It must be established so as to defy 'this modern trend toward mechanism and speed. Self-exploitation carelessness, thoughtlessness, and flippancy are in the ascendance'."

◇ ◇ ◇

The lens of Miss Cowl's mental camera seems to have been especially clean in photographing entertainment-shoppers. "Beauty in the theater is helpless in the struggle with those bored and indifferent ones who go to the theater not to find enchantment, but to pass a casual evening until the full swing of night life is on. People who seem afraid to relax their mental attitude of irony and sophistication. Their one ambition, it would seem, is to be wise-cracked into coma."

◇ ◇ ◇

This famed actress' pet aversion is the nightly chorus: "Where is the loudest jazz? What shall we do till the crowd's all there? They say the second act's a shocker—let's drop in for that." Proving at least that not all those who would escape the insensate din are on this side of the footlights.

Shepherd Gives Talk At Ad Club Luncheon

Personal review of advertising experiments, evaluated on the basis of proven returns or failure to obtain returns, was given before members of the Ad club Tuesday noon by R. E. Shepherd as the principal part of the weekly program.

Mr. Shepherd emphasized the fact that possession of a quality product today is not sufficient; it must be "told to the world" through persistent advertising, he said, to sell successfully. The program was arranged by Charles A. Sprag ins Jr.

City Buys Lots to Aid Sibley-Taylor Drainage

Assurance that proper drainage will be afforded residents in the Sibley-Taylor addition, in the vicinity of Twenty-first and Broad streets, was given Tuesday by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, following the purchase by the city of two lots across which a natural creek runs and which afford the city facilities for removing standing water without the necessity of great expense to build a storm sewer for the entire area.

The lots, numbers 12 and 13, in block 9, were purchased at a cost of $600. The deed was filed Tuesday in the office of the county clerk, transferring the property from J. M. Baber to the city. There are no houses on the lots and the land has little use at present for other purposes, it was said. The purchase was made to assure the city permanent rights to the natural drainage, Mr. Fairtrace explained.

WATER DEMAND TAXES PUMPS

Dry Spring Brings Record Consumption Here

The water pumping rate for the city reached the highest peak for this time of the year Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock when 8,000,000 gallons of water had been pumped in 24 hours, according to Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the water department. This figure exceeds the filtering capacity rate by 3,000,000 gallons for the same length of time, Dr. Douglass said.

The water is purified with the use of chlorine gas and the average amount used is three-fourths of a pound of gas to 1,000,000 pounds of water. However the amount of gas is increased to one pound per million pounds of water when the pumping exceeds the filtering capacity, Dr. Douglass explained. The usual pumping is from four to four and one-half million gallons for every 24 hours. Unusually dry spring weather was given as the cause of the heavy consumption of water for this time of the year.

Negro Woman Fined $100 For Shooting at Man

Pleading guilty to a charge of carrying a pistol, a negro woman was fined $100 and costs by Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Tuesday as a result of an affray Monday night in which the negro woman is alleged to have fired a shot at a negro man during a quarrel. The man succeeded in taking the gun away from the woman, according to L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney, and when she would not stop her attack on him, struck her on the head with the pistol. She was taken to the hospital for first aid treatment and then lodged in the city jail. She was placed in the county jail Tuesday in lieu of payment of the fine.

This steamer, which goes into service this month, contains hot and cold water in every cabin, a large covered gymnasium, a sunbathing deck, and an open-air swimming bath. A special hairdressing room is maintained for women passengers.

Former Hubby Jailed On Woman's Complaint

Because of threats made against her life and an assault on one of her woman employes, a woman beauty parlor operator here Tuesday filed an application to place her former husband under peace bond for one year and a complaint against him for aggravated assault in connection with his alleged attack on the employe, according to information given by L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney.

The beauty parlor operator told Mr. Abernathy she had been divorced from her husband for some time and that he was apparently "mad at her because she was making a living and he was not." On one ocasion she said, he struck and abused one of the women employed at her shop and had threatened her own life. The man was in the city jail Tuesday following his arrest by police.

Snake Curse

LONDON—Frank Hives, once a district commissioner in Africa tells of a snake curse put on him by an old Indian woman. Wherever he went he was constantly menaced by snakes, both large and small, and all poisonous. He got her to release him from the curse by taking out his false teeth, snapping them at her, and declaring that if she did not remove the curse, his teeth would haunt and bite her for the rest of her days.
