American Occupation Forces Land At Atsugi; Fleet Active

Great Armada Due Thursday

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, Tuesday, Aug. 28 — The first American occupation forces landed in Japan today at 9 a. m. Tokyo time (7 p. m. Monday central war time).

Forty-eight two and four-engined transport planes and Flying Fortresses began landing at that hour at Atsugi airfield, 18 miles southwest of downtown Tokyo, with 150 technical specialists.

The momentous first arrival of ground personnel, to prepare for mass arrivals two days hence, occurred as powerful fleet units,

JAPS SIGN AT RANGOON

RANGOON, Burma, Tuesday, Aug. 28 (AP)—Japanese surrender envoys signed preliminary peace agreements for Southeast Asia at 1 a. m. today (12 noon Monday, central war time) in the floodlit grand ball room of the government house.

The historic ceremony, climaxing two days of negotiations, paved the way for Allied reoccupation of Singapore, the East Indies and all Southeast Asia.

headed by the 45,000-ton Battleship Missouri, rode at anchor in Sagami bay, nine miles south of Atsugi.

Start On Arrangements

The advance party at Atsugi immediately set about arranging for American signals and landing procedures for the air armada due Thursday.

The Thursday arrivals will include General MacArthur and his staff.

The advance party brought in special equipment for immediate contact with the advanced staging area, Okinawa, from which the party took off.

Atsugi's airfield, like all other Japanese airfields, is barely large enough for American planes. The technicians went to work to render it as ample as possible in a short time.

Halsey Moves Toward Tokyo

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. THIRD FLEET, Tuesday, Aug. 28—American naval units steamed into Tokyo bay today in final preparation for landings of 10,000 sailors and Marines at Yokosuka naval base Thursday (Japan time).

This special task force making this initial entrance into the waters of the Japanese capital left its anchorage in Sagami bay this morning for the 20-mile trip around Miura peninsula into Tokyo bay.

Headed by Rear Adm. Oscar C. Badger's flagship, the cruiser San Diego, 10 ships of the special force rounded the point and went through the narrow Uraga channel, only 2½ miles wide and lined with silent coastal guns.

Guns Inoperative

All indications were that the guns had been made inoperative by removal of breech blocks as ordered in surrender terms.

The Battleship Iowa followed the San Diego through Uraga strait. Then came several destroyers and one troop transport carrying Marines who will occupy three tiny islands in the mouth of Tokyo bay. They are scheduled to go ashore in a few hours to see that Admiral Halsey's orders that the islands be totally neutralized were carried out.

Everyone was alert for the possibility of mines—either Japanese or American—(the latter dropped by B-29s)—although minesweepers had spent hours searching for the underseas explosives in this harbor—once the most heavily mined in the world.

The ships altered course a few times, presumably to avoid danger zones.

Planes Roar Overhead

Carrier planes roared overhead as the ships progressed through the channel.

The three small islands to be occupied guarded Yokosuka naval base, where 10,000 Marines and naval personnel are scheduled to land Thursday.

Although all heavy coastal guns lining the strait presumably were disarmed and unmanned under General MacArthur's orders, they still pointed toward the American ships.

Each American ship was given a Japanese pilot to guide it into the bay.

The first force is scheduled to go ashore on three tiny islands in the mouth of the bay and see that they are completely neutralized before the main body of the fleet moves in.

Winding through the newly swept waters of the strait, which only yesterday were heavily mined, the American ships sailed se-

Wide Path Of Destruction Is Left Along Texas Coast

Staggering Damage Mounts Hourly With Many Towns Reported Leveled

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Aug. 27—The treacherous tropical hurricane that has caused widespread damage along 400 miles of Texas' coastline was slashing late tonight at Bay City, 60 miles southwest of Houston, and moving slowly toward this densely populated area.

Bay City, a town of 6,600 about 20 miles inland, was reported being pounded hard. One account said the town literally was being torn apart. The air was reported filled with sheet metal and debris.

Terrific gusts of winds ranging up to 100 miles an hour were unroofing buildings and leveling trees. Streets were standing two feet in water.

Moves Forward Very Slowly

The latest weather bureau advisory (9:15 p. m. central war time) centered the storm, which blasted numerous communities in its course up the length of the Texas coast with winds up to 135 miles an hour, near Bay City. The advisory noted that it had shown very little movement during the early part of the night.

It said the storm was expected to travel slowly northeastward with the center passing near Houston after midnight.

Damage, already running into millions, mounted hourly as reports trickled in from many stricken communities. Crops suffered tremendously. Only two deaths attributable directly to the storm had been reported.

Houston Boarded Up And Deserted

Houston prepared for the blow as never before. Streets were empty, business establishments were closed and boarded up. Schools and public buildings were thrown open for refugees. A steady stream of automobiles moved out of the city bound for inland havens.

By 10 p. m. the terrific rain had virtually halted traffic in the city and the wind velocity was increasing by the minute.

And from the lower coast came vivid reports of the wrath of the storm.

Palacios, a town of 2,288 about 90 miles southwest of Houston, was hard hit. Heavy squalls flooded the area.

Rockport, population 1,729, reported many houses and buildings unroofed by wind ranging up to 135 miles an hour. The damage there was placed at a half million dollars.

Port Lavaca Almost Leveled

Port Lavaca suffered damage to every house and building, many were destroyed completely. The town of 2,069 is about 100 miles northeast of Corpus Christi. The place was practically inundated.

Seadrift, a community of 437 just below Port Lavaca, suffered greatly from winds up to 135 miles an hour. Mountainous tides nearly swamped the little town.

Thousands left coastal homes for inland refuge.

At Freeport, on the coast about 60 miles directly south of Houston, 20,000 were evacuated. Only a lone store remained open as the storm approached.

Crowded With Industry

Houston, a metropolis of 455,000, is crowded with varied industries, many of them born of wartime. Likewise, the surrounding countryside for miles is mushroomed with industrial plants.

The advisory added:

"Winds of hurricane force will be experienced in the area and strong southeasterly winds and possibly gales east of the Houston-Galveston area to Lake Charles, La.

"Hurricane warnings are displayed north of Port Aransas to Galveston and southeast storm warnings east of Galveston to Lake Charles."

Gales were forecast as far inland as Lufkin, about 300 miles inland in East Texas.

Flooded highways made progress to the coastal towns in the Matagorda area difficult. Tivoli, a village of 30 or 40 homes, was under water. There was heavy damage at Austwell, where the wind hit 120 miles an hour. Sea Drift, in the same section, was struck by 135-mile-an-hour winds.

Last night and early today as the storm hit the Port Aransas area it caused damage at Rockport estimated unofficially at $500,000.

First reported in the gulf Friday, the storm centered last night off Corpus Christi bay, slapped Corpus Christi 90 to 100 mile winds, and buffeted the fishing towns of Port Aransas and Aransas Pass. Then it moved slowly up the coast.

The damage in Corpus Christi appeared light, confined to broken windows, damaged signs, and power line disruption. Only squalls prevailed there today.

At Rockport, 35 miles north of Corpus Christi, numerous buildings were unroofed, and many boats were battered.

Port Lavaca Is Almost In Ruins

PORT LAVACA, Aug. 27. (AP)—Not a building or residence remains intact in this small coastal community today.

A 125-mile an hour wind ripped through Port Lavaca this morning, hurling huge tree trunks and roof tops in its destructive path.

An Episcopal church was completely demolished by the gale, which made this town look like an atom bomb target.

Most of the citizens of Port Lavaca left last night, and only 150 to 200 rode out the storm here. State highway patrolmen, who entered the battered city at the height of the blast, reported no casualties.

Mostly Under Water

At 3 p. m. today the wind subsided to 75 miles per hour, with irregular rainfall.

State Highway 87 from Victoria to Port Lavaca was completely covered by water. Eight miles inland from Port Lavaca, water stood from one to two feet in depth. Pasture land was completely inundated.

For miles around the Port Lavaca countryside, the area resembled a bay, complete with white caps, caused by the wind. Many farm homes in the pasture areas were under two feet of water, and cattle were up to their bellies in the flood.

Miles of telephone and street light wires were tangled on the Port Lavaca streets, as well as other debris. Every street here was deep in water.

Officers Fight Through

Texas Ranger Walter Naylor and Joel Tisdale, photographer for the state department of public safety fought their way through the hurricane winds from Corpus Christi to Aransas Pass, Rockport, Tivoli and Port Lavaca.

Their job is to keep abreast of the hurricane center. They reported no casualties along their coast route. Ranger Naylor said the wind was no respector of persons. At Port Lavaca this morning, a strong gust blew the hood off their car. The two tied it back on with bailing wire and proceeded without much loss of time.

Sino-Russian Treaty Adds Much To U. S.-Soviet Good Feelings

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—Relations between the United States and Russia scored a new high in good feeling today.

This results chiefly from disclosure of terms of the new Russian treaty with China. Diplomatic officials consider it one of the most important and peace-aiding pacts to come out of the chaos of war.

To American leaders it means that widely expressed fears of civil war in China, of Soviet land grabs in northeast Asia, of a Moscow campaign to dominate Asia politically, now appear on the face of the treaty to be without foundation.

Other Developments

Along with this, two other developments have raised the temperature of official friendship for the Soviet Union. These are:

1. Admittance of American newspaper correspondents into eastern Europe with indications that for the first time in many years they will be able to send out pretty free reports. This applied at the outset to Bulgaria and Poland, and Secretary of State Byrnes disclosed today that it had been extended to Hungary.

2. The postponement of the Bulgarian election which both Britain and the United States had assailed as undemocratic because the government provided only one slate of candidates.

In all these events diplomats profess to see Russian willingness to work with the other big powers to an extent which some had feared would not be possible so soon after the war.

Until the treaty's terms came out there was much concern un-

Government Slash In Cloth Prices As High As 20 Per Cent Expected

By JOHN F. CHESTER
Associated Press Business Editor

BOSTON, Aug 27.—A sharp governmental slash in the price cloth makers must pay for American wool — perhaps running as high as 15 to 20 per cent and possibly becoming effective within the next 48 hours — was predicted today in authoritative Boston wool trading circles.

Some of the more conservative sources guessed the cut would not be made for another two or three weeks. But the concensus was that it was coming soon and would be deep in order to keep for American wool growers a market that has fallen largely into foreign hands.

But Here's The Catch

The slash probably would not be reflected in the price Mr. and Mrs. Householder would pay for that new winter skirt or suit. But the size and speed of the government's action may determine whether the new peacetime clothes are made in considerable part with American or foreign wools. American wool generally makes up into better hard worsteds.

Pending federal action the Boston wool market was in a state of partial paralysis. There were no domestic wools reported all of last week or today. Purchasing of foreign wools in the primary markets ceased completely.

Private Report

The stoppage came about when a reliable wool trade association reported privately to handlers that the huge stock of domestic wool held by the Commodity Credit corporation would be placed on sale at a price far lower than the fine wool rate of $1.18 to $1.20 a pound that has been prevailing. Fine Australian wool has been offered here, after the absorption of tariff and shipping cost, at around $1.03 a pound.

If the CCC goes all the way, it would drop its price below the Australian in order to allow for the higher cost of processing American wool.

The CCC had close to 300,000,000 pounds of American wools in its stockpile two months ago. There have been predictions that

Navy Sets Sharp Cut In Personnel

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Secretary of Navy Forrestal said today the Navy hopes to reduce to 500,000 men and 50,000 officers within a year.

This will mean the discharge of 2,839,000 men. The Navy's present strength is 3,389,000.

At the same time, Forrestal disclosed at a news conference, the Navy is revising its discharge point system to provide credit for overseas service, a factor omitted when the discharge plan was announced a few days ago.

Due In Two Months

Forrestal said the plan would be revised within about two months to include the overseas service credit. He emphasized that points needed for discharge will not be increased when the overseas service is established and the point values of other factors will not be decreased.

At present, the Navy discharge system allows credit for age, length of service and dependency. One-half point is given for each year of age, one-half point for each month of duty since Sept. 1, 1939, and ten points for dependency regardless of the number of dependents.

Critical Scores

The critical scores for discharge are 44 for enlisted male personnel, 29 for enlisted WAVES, 49 for male officers and 35 for WAVE officers.

Forrestal said the Navy had hoped originally to provide credit for overseas service but lacked the proper records and decided not to delay the establishment of a discharge plan until those records could be compiled. He pointed out that 93 per cent of Navy personnel, exclusive of those in training, have had overseas service and the addition of the overseas credit might not materially alter the order of discharge.

SHREVEPORT, Aug. 27. (U.P.)—An unidentified Barksdale field flight officer today was forced to surrender his civilian license because of "buzzing" participants at the Cross Lake sail boat races Sunday.

Three Amendments Approved In Texas

DALLAS, Aug. 27. (AP) — The final report of the Texas Election bureau shows approval of the Supreme court and welfare amendments on the basis of returns from 230 of 254 counties, 46 complete at 6 p. m. today.

Tabulation for the amendment which would increase the Supreme court from the present three members to nine was 79,775 for approval, 60,595 against.

For the welfare amendment, increasing old age pension allotments from $15 to $20 and providing liberal aid for needy blind and poor, the vote was 82,123 for approval, 61,991 against.

Tabulation on the soldier voting and legislators' pay amendments was discontinued last night when the trend definitely showed approval of allowing soldiers to vote during wartime without paying poll taxes and rejection of a boost in legislators' pay to $3,650 yearly.

Hartford Quoted As Saying FDR Approved His Loan To Elliot

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, was quoted today as saying the late President Roosevelt approved of a $200,000 loan Hartford made to Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, but that the President assumed no financial or moral obligation in connection with the loan.

Several members of the House Ways and Means committee said Hartford's statement, read to the committee today, set forth that he made the loan strictly on a business basis, and expected no favors from the President because of it.

They quoted the grocery chain head as saying Mr. Roosevelt, when reached by telephone at Warm Springs, Ga., expressed the view that a loan, at 6 per cent in connection with young Roosevelt's radio chain developments, would be a sound investment.

Young Roosevelt, recently placed on the Army inactive list at his own request, could not be reached immediately for comment.

A statement by Hartford, and another deposition by Jesse Jones, former commerce secretary, dealing with young Roosevelt's financial affairs, were read to the committee today behind closed doors.

The committee did not formally make public the information in the documents. However, some members discussed them freely with reporters, but asked that their names not be used.

One member said Hartford's statement set forth that the grocery chain president had told young Roosevelt that he did not feel it proper to make such a loan but that Hartford was connected

Navy Ship Brings More Troops Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—The Navy transport General William F. Hase, diverted from the Pacific, arrived here today but without any cheering troops swarming over her superstructure.

The 3,047 troops aboard were ordered below decks to debarking stations before the trim, dark gray hulled transport eased into her berth. This was not explained.

Sgt. Jim Lindsay of Alvin, Tex., a former oil field worker now with the 1266th combat engineer battalion, said his outfit was kept busy replacing bridges on a road toward Austria.

"We had to hustle," he said, "because Patton moves fast and we had to keep the supplies rolling through to him."

New Car Prices To Be About Same As In 1942, OPA Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The new automobile prices will be approximately the same as in 1942, the OPA announced tonight.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles, announcing the long awaited "pricing principle" for new cars soon to roll from the assembly lines, said a price increase was "most unlikely."

Each manufacturer will figure his own ceiling, using a pricing formula laid down by OPA. Some makes may cost more than in 1942, when reports are in, but OPA saw no general increase in prospect, and emphasized that prices on individual cars have not yet been settled.

It is "a fair assumption," said Bowles, that the public is unlikely to pay more for 1945 models than the present price on 1942 models —less the amount tacked on to reimburse dealers for storing the 1942 cars throughout rationing.

It knocks off a 27 per cent increase since 1942.

Bowles said the formula for pricing the new cars was handed to manufacturers in Detroit last week. When the companies come back with their prices, they must still get OPA approval to put them into effect.

Former Wac Stabbed, Husband Is Arrested

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 27 (U.P.)—Mrs. John L. Taylor, 24 year old former WAC, today was in a serious condition at a hospital as a result of a stab wound inflicted with a jungle knife in her abdomen Saturday night.

Mrs. Taylor's mother witnessed the stabbing, which she said followed an argument between Taylor and his wife. The husband was arrested and is now in jail.

Jap Fleet Remnants Ready For Surrender

OKINAWA, Aug. 27. (AP) — Mitchell bomber pilots in reconnaissance flights over Japan reported today that half of Japan's remaining fleet—28 warships — were anchored in the western Kyushu port of Sasebo, awaiting the formal surrender.

Three damaged aircraft carriers still camouflaged were drawn up in formation, they said. Destroyers and destroyer leaders were close together and light cruisers were in line.

A concentration of 18 Japanese P-T boats likewise lay at anchor.

Although not a shot was fired, the bombers took no chances and did not fly directly over the remnants of the fleet, which Tokyo recently acknowledged had been reduced to 55 combatant ships.

Labor Row Hampers San Antonio Papers

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 27 (AP)—The three daily papers here printed four-page engraved editions today as some 125 union printers went off the job in a dispute over a contract.

Managements of the papers announced today they would discontinue further publication afternoon for the time being.

Newspapers affected are the San Antonio Light, and the Express and Evening News.

The printers walked off their jobs yesterday following a strike vote approved in a meeting of the International Typographical union local (AFL).

Quick Removal Of POW From Jap Areas Planned By Allies

MANILA, Aug. 27 (AP)—Evacuation of American and Allied prisoners of war by plane and ship will start "almost simultaneously" with entry of occupation troops into Japan, General MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Many prisoners in China and Manchuria also will be evacuated through Manila, in addition to those from Japan and Korea, headquarters said.

The Red Cross said 5,000 messages from relatives in the United States—most of them including pictures of wives, mothers and children—were received today by special transport for distribution to the prisoners soon to be released and brought to the Manila area.

Recovered prisoners in the China and Manchuria area first will be processed by the Allied recovered personnel units under Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer.

Many of the prisoners, said the headquarters statement, are veterans of Bataan and Wake island.

The prisoner evacuation plans call for more than 70 Allied recovered personnel units moving in with the occupation forces.

Among the first jobs of the recovered personnel units will be notification of the families of the prisoners. At each camp prisoners will be provided with forms on which they will enter their names and next of kin. The forms will be cleared to Manila by air courier where headquarters will radio notifications to the War department for transmission to the next of kin.

In addition, the released prisoners will be allowed to send a 10-word personal message to any designated addressee.

Corpus Escapes Major Damage

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 27. (AP)—Corpus Christi weathered the worst hurricane in 25 years with relatively little damage, according to unofficial reports tonight.

Only in the swank residential section along Ocean Drive did the 135-mile an hour wind cause considerable property loss. Unofficial figures place property loss at $500,000 throughout the city, with approximately 50 per cent occurring among the Ocean Drive apartment units.

Apartments Wrecked

The Caller-Times said tonight 97 Ocean Drive apartment units, built since the war, were almost total wrecks. This was due to a monstrous 30-foot wave which lashed over the protective sea-wall along Ocean Drive, tearing down upon the apartment roofs. The entire Ocean Drive area had previously been cleared of tenants.

North Beach, which trapped hundreds and claimed dozens of lives during the 1919 disaster, suffered only minor damage, as did the downtown business area and other business and residential areas on the hill.

Utilities Operating

Water and electric power facilities were back on late this afternoon, after being shut off for nearly 24 hours.

Damage to the U. S. Naval air station was not reported by Navy authorities. Cliff Maus Municipal airport was not believed damaged extensively.

Hundreds of stately palm trees were uprooted throughout the city, and several fishing and pleasure skiffs were overturned or sunk by the rampaging wind.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

NOW that gasoline is plentiful and week end trips are possible once more, great throngs of visitors are flowing to Carlsbad Caverns National park, that great wonder of nature that is slightly over 200 miles from Lubbock. Sunday's trip through was made by over 2400 persons, which set a record since Pearl Harbor day, according to Col. Thomas Boles, superintendent. He said he expects the largest crowds in the last five years will go through next week end, which is just before Labor day and also the last Sunday for thousands of young people before going back to the school room.

Seeing Carlsbad caverns, just as viewing the Grand Canyon over and again, always presents something awe inspiring and beyond description. Those who have been through time and again and have grown acustomed to and like the schedule may be disappointed to learn that since last December the custom of stopping in the Big Room and listening to a recording or a solo or quartet rendition of "Rock of Ages," as the great chamber was plunged into darkness, has been discontinued by order of an undersecretary of the Department of the Interior who explained he thought it was inappropriate.

Although he did not actually say so, during a conversation with Col. Thomas Boles, superintendent, we gathered he was not in favor of doing away with the beautiful custom. He suggested that those who found the event to be one of the highlights of the trip through the caverns write him and say as much and perhaps enough letters will influence the undersecretary.

DO you suppose many of the thousands and thousands of persons who have made the trip thought the service was inappropriate? Sunday we talked with a young Army couple who had missed a church service to come on the trip but who said since they would have that great emotional experience anyway they did not feel too bad about it. They were keenly disappointed to learn that the trip after lunch is uninterrupted until you return to take the elevator; that there was no service.

A great underground trip made by hundreds of persons may be spoiled by a few who feel inclined to sing or whistle or talk loudly. Whether or not it was the introductory talk made by the head ranger at the beginning of the journey or that the group was exceptional we wouldn't say, but Sunday's group seemed unusually responsive to the great beauties of stalagmites and stalactites; their translucent appearance enhanced by strategically placed lights. The ranger, in tactful and carefully modulated tones, pointed out that it was hardly necessary to suggest that people and good taste do not chip off rocks for souvenirs nor do they find it necessary to give vent to their emotions by loud talk or shouting such as yelling for "Chloe." This last remark brought loud laughter from the hundreds of Air Force officers and men and cadets who were present, courtesy of their Uncle Sam.

THE enthusiasm of Air Force men was contagious. They were respectful and curious about many formations, punctuating their questions with that strange jargon that is so peculiar to men who fly. Watching them swing along the trails in their graceful strides, their caps tucked in their belts which seem to encircle such ridiculously small waists, we were struck anew with the thought that fliers and those who are learning to fly must be the most enthusiastic of Uncle Sam's nephews. What ever they did they put their whole interest in it; whether it be eating that traditional lunch of ham sandwich, white cake, an orange and coffee, asking or answering questions or estimating the manner in which the cavern was readied for the journey.

One young officer, gazing up at the dome high over head, glistening in the soft lights, suddenly gave a soft whistle and to the query of his companion as to what happened said, with a laugh "I don't know but I think I got some stalagmite juice in my eye."

Even Mr. Truman Couldn't Find Out About Atomic Bomb In 1943

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — Harry S. Truman tried hard but he couldn't find out back in 1942 and 1943 what was going on at those three mysterious army plants in Tennessee, New Mexico and Washington.

It is possible now to tell how the President, as a senator from Missouri heading the powerful War Investigating committee, demanded in vain an explanation of what the Army was doing with several millions of dollars which Congress was dishing out for secret experiments.

The experiments, which were kept from even the hard-working beagles of the Truman committee, were the atomic bomb development program.

Mr. Truman Became Alarmed

Late in 1942, Mr. Truman became alarmed at what he considered fantastic expenditures to build and operate the three plants about which the War department had erected a wall of secrecy. He decided that his committee should be told at least some of the story.

First Sen. Truman dispatched Harry Vaughan (now Brig. Gen. Vaughan, his miltary aide) to one of three plants as a Truman committee investigator. But even with the committee's backing Vaughan couldn't force his way through the front gate.

Couldn't Make Progress

Mr. Truman persisted. He sent his old and trusted friend, U. S. Marshal Fred Canfil of Kansas City, to another plant. By dint of considerable talking Canfil got inside for a quick look.

But atomic bomb production, it developed, is so complex and so purposely spread out that Canfil couldn't make any progress. One department didn't know what the next was doing.

Canfil did get enough of an eyeful to report to the Truman committee that some mighty big business was going on in those three plants. Yet the Army could be building rockets to the moon as far as any real information he could discover.

"Bubble Gum" Was Reply

One report said Mr. Truman himself turned up next in the vicinity of the plants and accosted an atomic bomb worker. Mr. Truman asked him what he was working on.

"Bubble gum," was the reply.

By this time Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson had learned of the Missouri Senator's efforts and went to his office on Capitol Hill. He pleaded with Mr. Truman to lay off and to trust the War department's judgment that the probable results would be well worth the expenditure of a couple of billion dollars.

Mr. Truman's high personal regard for Stimson's judgment and honesty caused him to call off the dogs. The Truman committee's efforts to learn the secret of the atomic bomb program were halted.

After becoming President and watching the final development of the amazing weapon Mr. Truman realized the immensity of the secret he had tried to learn as a Senator. When the time came to announce the perfection of the bomb and its first use against Japan, he did so with the feeling that it was a bigger story than even the end of the war would be.

Notified At Potsdam

President Truman was notified of the successful New Mexico test of the atomic bomb while at the Potsdam conference. The day was set for its first use against Japan. It was to happen while the President and his party were aboard the cruiser Augusta returning to this country.

Bad weather and other unsatisfactory technical conditions delayed the first atomic bombing by three days. Mr. Truman admitted later that he was "on pins and needles" until news of the Hiroshima raid reached the Augusta.

Regional Meet Of Jaycees Is Planned

DeWitt Landis, KFYO manager, spoke to Junior Chamber of Commerce members in their weekly luncheon Monday in the Hilton Hotel, and members heard Joyce Halsey and her "drugstore cowboys" entertain with music while they laid final plans for the Region 6 work conference to be held here.

The work conference is set here Saturday and Sunday with Jaycee officers and members attending from Amarillo, Pampa, Borger, Brownfield and Lubbock.

Also attending will be R. Benton Ross of Wichita Falls, state president; U. A. Hyde, state secretary from Wichita Falls; Taylor Cole, national vice-president of Midland; and several national and state officials.

Registration will be Saturday afternoon in the Hilton hotel with a barbecue and dance that night at the Lubbock Country club. Sunday morning in the Hilton a business session will begin at 9 o'clock and the meeting will close at 12:30.

Joyce Halsey's band, on their regular 12:30 broadcast over KFYO, entertained members for 15 minutes.

Landis spoke on freedom of speech, the theme of radio's national Junior chamber of commerec week, which began Monday. He told members to consider this simple phrase and its "implications".

He traced the guarantees of a free press from earliest times, and the assurance given this through the federal and state constitutions. A free press guarantees and protects free speech, the KFYO manager said.

Landis said that free speech is interlaced with good government, and without it no government can succeed. He called attention to statements by famous statesmen and leaders of this and other countries, and pointed Germany and other totalitarian countries as examples of what censorship of press and speech will bring about.

Glenn Woody, president, presided. James Norman was program chairman.

Four Jap Submarines Missing, Tokyo Says

MANILA, Aug. 27 (AP)—Japanese Imperial headquarters notified General MacArthur today that four Japanese submarines are missing and may have been sunk. Repeated efforts to communicate with them have failed, the message said.

The submarines, ordered to return to Ominato, had been instructed to proceed surfaced, with all prescribed markings and using navigation lights at night, Japanese headquarters added.

There were about 900,000 fewer persons employed on farms in the United States on April 1, 1945, than there were on the same date last year. Family help this year accounts for 70,000 less than last year.

Snyder Rites To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Fred Snyder, 63, pioneer Texas rancher who died at 4:20 o'clock Sunday morning in St. Mary's hospital, will be conducted this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Rix Funeral chapel with Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Active pallbearers will be: Newman Boles, Bill Bean, Kirk Dean, W. J. Harris, Ross McWhorter, Walker Stanton, Fenner Tubbs, and W. D. Watkins.

Mr. Snyder had been found shortly before 4 o'clock by his two daughters, Misses Anne and Frances Snyder, in the bathroom of his residence, 1608 Ave. W, a bullet wound in his head. A pistol lay on the floor nearby.

Carried to the hospital, Mr. Snyder lived only a few minutes.

Ill For Several Years

In ill health for several years, Mr. Snyder had suffered intense pain for the past twelve months, members of the family said, and had made repeated visits to various leading physicians throughout the Southwest in attempts to secure relief from his undiagnosed illness.

He had planned to go to Mayo clinic and was only awaiting a reservation scheduled for early in October.

Survivors Are Listed

Besides his wife, who was on the Snyder ranch near Clayton, N. M., Mr. Snyder is survived by three sons, Dick, Clayton, N. M.; Fred, jr., Pampa Army Air field; and Robert L., in the Navy at Pearl Harbor; three daughters, Mrs. Jack McCrary of Dallas, and Misses Anne and Frances Snyder of Lubbock; two brothers, Hiram Snyder of Fort Worth and Marcus Snyder of Billings, Mont.; four sisters, Mrs. C. M. Armstrong of Seagraves, Mrs. Warren M. Moore of Austin, Mrs. E. J. Olive of Dallas and Mrs. W. H. Atwell of Dallas. W. Tom Jones of Lubbock is a nephew.

Mr. Snyder was one of the most widely-known of West Texas ranchers and at one time or another operated "outfits" in practically every ranching area in the state and old Mexico. He came to Lubbock in 1920 to make his home and several years later built a beautiful mansion-type home at 2701 Nineteenth, where the family lived until his health began to fail several years ago.

Operated Slaughter Lease

He ranched near Pecos before coming to Lubbock and before that was in the Colorado City area. He also operated a ranch in the Dalhart area at one time, friends said.

at one time he ranched 300 sections of the Slaughter land in Hockley and Cochran counties, running as high as 10,000 head of cattle on the vast lease which includes such noted Slaughter pastures as the Scrapeout, Gourd Vine, Shoestring, Minnie Veal and Surratts.

At the time of his death he and Dave Reed of Austin were partners in a 57,000-acre ranch 40 miles west of Clayton, N. M., where as much as 5,000 head of cattle are ranged.

Control Of Strategic Islands In Pacific To Be Basic Aim Of U. S.

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

Control of the strategic islands which command the Pacific appears to be basic aim of the United States in the final settlement of the war with Japan.

It will be achieved in harmony with the United Nations charter and will not constitute imperialistic land-grabbing Recent official pronouncements have made it plain that the United States intends to hang on to whatever islands are considered necessary to guard against another war of aggression in the Pacific, or to assure American supremacy if such a war should be attempted.

Definite Policy Stated

President Truman has committed the United States to a definite policy. After he had said at the Potsdam conference that the United States desired not "one inch of territory" out of the war, there was congressional criticism. He clarified his position in his subsequent report to the nation on Potsdam when he said the United States will acquire whatever outlying military bases it deems necessary "for the complete protection of our interests and of world peace." It would be done, he added, by arrangements consistent with the United Nations charter.

How many of these islands will be held outright by the United States, or be occupied solely by the United States as "trustee" under the United Nations charter, may not be determined until the final peace settlement is drafted. The approval of Russia, Britain, China, and other interested powers will be sought.

Okinawa Most Strategic

In that connection, Admiral Admiral Raymond A. Spruance raised an interesting point in an interview aboard his flagship at Manila shortly before sailing to take part in the occupation of Japan.

Admitting that Okinawa is strategically the most important of the former Japanese-held islands, Spruance said he thought it would be better for it to be occupied as a joint base for the United Nations, rather than for the United States alone.

His argument was that there are 100,000 Okinawans on the island and that America has always opposed governing another people against their will. Moreover, he said, Okinawa might become a perpetual sore spot with the Japanese, thus menacing the stable international relations which it is hoped some day to attain.

Might Become Air Center

If Admiral Spruance's view prevails, Okinawa is likely to become an internationalized air center on the route across the Pacific to China, without becoming a military base. The United States, however, most probably will insist on sole control of other strategic islands in the central and southwest Pacific. These might include Saipan and Guam in the Marianas; Palau, Yap, Ulithi and Truk in the Carolines, and perhaps Manus, north of New Guinea. Saipan would be taken from the Japanese, who held it under League of Nations mandate, but Guam would, of course, merely retain its pre-war status as a United States dependency.

These islands would fill in the gap between the Philippines and the island outposts of Hawaii—the gaping hole which made it possible for the Japanese to wedge in and split the American Pacific stronghold in two by the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The new set-up would constitute an American-controlled chain all the way from Pearl Harbor to Manila, extending as far south as may be found necessary. Australia has indicated she would have no objections to American bases even in her jurisdiction. Powerful bases in the Philippines would be retained after those islands attain complete independence—with the willing consent and perhaps the insistence of the Filipinos themselves.

Cleveland Firm Seeks To Purchase Pullman

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27. (U.P.)—Otis and Co., Cleveland investment firm, filed a petition in U. S. district court today seeking permission to submit an offer for buying the sleeping car service of Pullman, Inc.

The concern, which said it would be associated with the Robert Young-Allen P. Kirby group, said it was willing to pay the same price on the same terms that Pullman offered to sell its servicing business to the nation's railroads last March.

At that time, Pullman had listed its sleeping car service for sale at $30,000,000 in cash and $51,000,000 in equipment trust certificates.

Bankers Here Doubt Workability Of GI Home Purchase Loan

Can the GI bill, which was originally intended to aid discharged veterans in obtaining loans for the purchase of businesses, business equipment for use in earning a livelihood and homes, be made to work in Lubbock?

Jack Hall, American Legion service officer, expresses the opinion that the bill can be made to work, but that it needs certain modification. The Legion, he explains, is working to get congressional action necessary to make these changes.

Bankers Are Dubious

Officials of local banks and the building and loan company are more dubious about the effectiveness of the bill in aiding local veterans.

T. E. Buckner, a vice president of the First National bank, said: "I do not know of a single loan being made under the G-I bill for the purchase of an already-built home here."

He explained that some loans were being made to assist veterans in building new homes, but that loan agencies were refusing to let the GI's have money for buying homes that were built prior to the war. This, he explained, was due to inflated prices.

Could Be Improved

Elmer V. East, vice president of the Lubbock National bank in charge of GI loans, said that he believed the GI bill's loan provisions could be improved, and that "few loans have been made here under it."

Despite the inflationary costs of new lumber and labor, some of the loan officials contend that it is still somewhat cheaper to build, provided "you can find a good lot and get lumber that is not too green."

Plans Made For War Chest Meet

Final plans have been made for a regional meet of workers of the United War Chest of Texas at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the post theater at Lubbock Army Air field, officials at the field announced Monday. The meeting was erroneously announced for last Friday.

Plans will be made at the session for the regional War Chest campaign which will get under way in Lubbock and on the South Plains Oct. 1 and will continue through the month to raise funds for the USO and various other agencies which aid the men in uniform over the world as well as giving relief to war torn nations and peoples all over the world.

Representatives From 14 Counties

Representatives of 14 surrounding counties will be on hand for the session which will be climaxed with a tour of the field.

On the program will be two veterans who have played vital roles in the European and Pacific areas of action. Paula Bane, USO singer and entertainer who has appeared before troops in both the European area and the Asiatic-Pacific area, will speak to the meeting of War Chest workers, telling them of the work the USO is doing overseas.

Captain On Program

Also on the program is Capt. R. G. Morere, holder of the nation's second highest award, the DSC and the Silver Star, who will tell of his experiences in action against the enemy. Capt. Morere participated in some of the most vicious battles of the war, led his company after being seriously wounded. He is now at McCloskey General Hospital at Temple, recovering from his wounds.

Wayland D. Towner, general manager of the United War Chest campaign in the state, will also speak to the group. J. O. Gillham of Brownfield will be the chairman of the session.

Col. Howell M. Estes, jr., commanding officer, will welcome the workers to the field.

Included on the program will be an invocation by Chaplain Richard G. Moore, chaplain at the post, a welcome to the delegates, an introduction of the various county leaders, the three featured speakers, a movie, luncheon and a tour of the big west base.

35,000 More Japs Captured By Reds

LONDON, Aug. 27 (U.P.) — The Red Army's bag of Japanese prisoners in the Far Eastern war mounted toward the half million mark today.

Capture of an additional 35,000 Japanese officers and men in Manchuria yesterday ran the total to 408,000, and more were streaming into Soviet prison cages every hour. All fighting apparently had ceased.

The Soviet high command also announced that Russian troops had occupied three more islands in the Kurile chain running north from the Japaneses home islands.

In leap-frog operations, the Soviets occupied Onnekotan, Shashikotan and Matsuwa, the latter 250 miles from the southern tip of Kamchatka and 500 miles north of the enemy's home island of Hokkaido.

Injury In Germany Is Fatal To Lubbock Man

SCARBOROUGH

Pvt. Alvin Scarborough, 21, died in Germany Aug. 15 as a result of an injury incurred in a road accident the Secretary of War informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Scarborough of 1924 Seventh. Details of the accident were not given.

Pvt. Scarborough, who had been overseas 20 months with the quartermaster corps of the Army Air Corps, was graduated from Lubbock High school in 1942. He had been in service three years and formerly was employed by Armour and company.

Other survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Lynwood Hughes of Albuquerque, N. M., Doris Evelyn Scarborough of Lubbock; a brother, Charles Duane Scarborough of Lubbock, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Dawkins of Claude.

Small Packers Given Hike In Meat Quotas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The nation's non-federally inspected packing houses are allowed to distribute substantially more meat meat beginning yesterday.

The OPA announcing a new monthly quota increased allowable cattle slaughter by these packers from 100 to 125 per cent of the 1944 base period; calves from 75 to 100 per cent; and hogs from 50 to 110 per cent.

The restrictions on non-federally inspected slaughter were put into effect several weeks ago to channel more meat to larger packinghouses—those which ship across state lines to deficit areas.

Now that the over-all meat supply is improving slaughters which do not have federal inspection can be permitted to handle a greater proportion of the supply OPA said.

South Plains Army Air field's high geared softball machine rolled into the finals of the South Plains invitation softball tournament at Hubber park Monday night, eliminating Edwards Grocery, 5 to 2.

Westerners Limber Up At School Gym

A total of 45 boys answered the initial limbering up call of Coaches Dixie White and George Philbrick Monday afternoon at Lubbock High school gym, and the Lubbock Westerners began to iron out the kinks before the official start of grid practice here Saturday.

Several gridmen were not on hand Monday, choosing to remain with their summertime jobs a little longer, but the full call of 50 men is expected to turn out Saturday.

The boys held two workout sessions at the gym Monday, and will contin: the two a day for the rest of this week. Saturday, the boys will be issued football pads, a football, and there will be two workouts on the opening day of the real thing.

White and Philbrick put the boys through a series of calisthenics, a little basketball and other limbering up games. This will continue to be the program for the rest of the week.

Many other schools over this area also opened the same kind of "camps" Monday, while many took the squads to regular camps for a week session of "roughing it" to get the boys into shape for the start of football practice.

Nicholson Benched As Grimm Shifts Lineup

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Manager Charley Grimm, irked by the sudden slump of his first-place Chicago Cubs under the stretch drive of the rampaging St. Louis Cardinals, today benched outfielder Bill Nicholson, 1944 home-run leader of the National League.

In yanking Nicholas from the line-up for the first time this season, Grimm announce dthat first sacker Phil Cavarretta would switch to righ field and ailing Heinz Becker would play first.

"We have to get some hitting," Grimm declared. "Becker's ankles have been bad, but he has rested for a while and says he's ready to try for a regular job again."

Nicholson's hitting has been a disappointment of the Cub season. The one-time slugger is batting .253 and has only 10 home runs, compared with 44 for 1944.

The shake-up came as the club posed for their World Series group picture and drilled to regain their dulled batting eyes.

ARP SIGNS COACH

ARP, Texas, Aug. 27. (AP)—R. J. Edwards, former East Texas State athlete, has signed a contract as head coach of Arp High school.

Post Looks For Good Grid Year

POST, Aug. 27. (Special).—Post High school's football warriors return to District 6-A this season with hopes high for a much better season than last year, but with no talk being bantered on the street corners and in the barber shops of a championship eleven.

Starting the season without a regular coach, Post will field a team coached by Supt. R. H. Ranson. Post is anxious to find a young man interested in the coaching field to take over this season as assistant coach, subject to taking over in 1946 as head coach.

Lose Three Stars

The eleven was struck a hard blow when three lettermen were lost to the team by failing grades, but will start the new season with six lettermen from last year. There will also be seven squadmen from last season on hand.

Bill Fumagalli, quarterback, will be the only backfield veteran returning this year. Jimmy Bird will furnish experience at one end post, while the tackle and guard slots will be manned by veteran linemen. David Buster and Charles Propst will be at the tackles, with Wayne Hundley and A. C. Thomas at guards.

Eugene Ashley, W. C. Carlton, Paul Duren, Raymond Dougherty, Hugh Ingram, Sonny McCrary and Joe Stokes will be the other returning squadmen reporting for the first workouts.

Other Newcomers

Among the newcomers expected to turn out for positions on the team will include: Junior Malouf, George Hester, Roy Brown, Neal Clary, Foy Bostic, Lynn Ranson, H. T. Carr, Billy Joe Lofton, Surman Hill, Pleasant Hill, Billy Odom, Louis Mills, James Everett, Roy Williams, Billy West, Billy Patty, Herman Jenkins, L. D. Earlck, Ronnie Bouchier, J. G. Cash, Kay Kirkpatrick and Billy McCombs.

Several others are expected to turn out when football camp officially opens after Sept. 1.

Post will face a rugged schedule, mostly conference games, with the only non-conference tilts on a ten game schedule being home and home tilts with the Lubbock Cowhands. The complete schedule is:

Sept. 14.—Lubbock Cowhands at Post.
Sept. 21.—Tahoka at Tahoka.
Sept. 28.—Seagraves at Post.
Oct. 5.—Lubbock Cowhands at Lubbock.
Oct. 12.—O'Donnell at O'Donnell.
Oct. 19.—Slaton at Post.
Oct. 26.—Andrews at Andrews.
Nov. 2.—Sundown at Sundown.

CROCKETT, Aug. 27. (UP)—Funeral services were planned for today for Albert Aldrich, 87, native and life-time resident of Crockett, who died at his home here Saturday afternoon.

Until he suffered a stroke Friday, Aldrich was active in law practice. Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian church at 5 p. m. today.

Grid Officials Set Meet Here Sept. 9

Panhandle and South Plains grid officials will converge on Lubbock Sept. 9 for the sectional meeting of the Southwest Football Officials Association meeting, scheduled at the Hilton hotel.

Abb Curtis, president of SFOA, and Roscoe Minton, well known grid official in the Southwest conference, will be here to discuss the rules, and give tests to all football officials. Rodney Kidd, head of the Texas Interscolastic league, and Dr. E. L. Larson, Border Conference commissioner, have been invited to attend.

Around 200 officials, coaches and superintendents are expected to attend the meeting. The starting time is set for 9:30 a. m., and run until 4 p. m.

The meeting is sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Schedule of events were announced Monday. Discussion of rules will start the meeting, and take up the morning session. The meeting will stop for lunch at 12:30 p. m., and return to session at 2 p. m. The afternoon session will be taken up with tests of officials, with a one hour session at the Hilton, closing with a test on 50 yard dashes at Texas Tech stadium.

This is the first time that Lubbock has been granted one of these sectional meetings. Having a good turnout, officials here are confident this can become an annual event.

Starting Pitchers In All-Star Tilt Named

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—George Fischer of Ogden, Utah, and Bill Glane of Detroit, are the likely starting hurlers for the West and East teams, respectively, in All-America boys' baseball game in the New York Polo Grounds tomorrow night.

Babe Ruth, manager of the East aggregation and who broke into the major leagues as a left-handed pitcher, was enthusiastic about the southpaw slants of the young Michigan hurler. He refused, however, to say definitely today that Glane would start.

Ty Cobb, boss of the Western aggregation, was equally as noncommittal regarding a definite mound choice.

Probable lineups for the game includes Dave Williams, Dallas, second baseman for the West team.

Army Vet Paces Junior Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 26 (AP)—Pfc. Tony Holguin, 19-year-old San Antonio overseas veteran who arrived in San Antonio from Europe just in time to play in the qualifying round of the state junior golf tournament, blazed his way over a wind-swept Brackenridge park layout today in 73 strokes to win medal honors in the 19th annual event. Bill Maxwell of Abilene was runner-up with 74.

Aside from 36 holes of play on an English course early this month, today's competition was the first round of golf Holguin has played since last year's junior tourney here.

Maxwell missed a birdie on the 18th by a fraction of an inch to par the final hole and lose a chance to tie Holguin for low qualifying honors. His tee shot on the 155-yard hole landed on the green, and a 20-foot putt rolled to a halt on the lip of the cup. He had an even par 36 on the front nine and 38 on the back.

Bill's brother, Bob Maxwell, who also made the 32-man championship flight with a five-over-par 76, was credited with an eagle on the long 515-yard par 5 No. 3 hole, which he made in three strokes.

A score of 85 was the highest in the title flight with a swatfest needed to break a five-way tie for the three bottom places.

Buddy Weaver of Victoria, Don January of Dallas and Arthur "Buddy" Jones of El Paso made the championship flight grade by winning the playoff on the 19th hole. Weaver had a birdie and January and Jones pars.

Radio station KFYO will carry the play by play broadcast of the game for listeners in the Lubbock area. The program time has been announced to start at 8 o'clock, Lubbock time.

Cuccinello Slumps, But Holds Hit Lead

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Third baseman Tony Cuccinello of the Chicago White Sox was nearly knocked out of the leadership in the American League batting race last week as he nose-dived 15 percentage points.

The Pale Hose veteran, collecting only one hit in 18 trips, slipping to .319, just three points ahead of idle George Case of Washington.

Tied for third at .307 were two more inactive players, Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland and Bob Estalella of Philadelphia.

First Landings Made On Japan

arations as previously detailed by the document handed the Japanese emissaries in Manila 10 days ago.

Three planes carried parts of a radio station which the personnel was trained to complete within an hour of landing.

Col. Samuel S. Auchioncloss of Tyron, N. C., commanded the communications section which was to take over all necessary Japanese facilities.

Dunn Heads Engineers

The engineers in the group were headed by Col. David M. Dunn of Carlsbad, Calif. His group will coordinate transportation and provide general operation facilities.

Col. C. R. Hutchinson of Washington, D. C., directed the location and preparation of quarters for MacArthur and his staff.

In the advance group was personnel of the Far East Air force led by Col. E. K. Warburton.

All the men wore regular combat equipment.

Fleet Set For Treachery

A great Allied fleet at battle stations, ready to crush any attempt at treachery, waited only for mine sweepers to finish their task before steaming triumphantly into Tokyo bay.

As the fleet rode at anchor in Sagani bay just outside Tokyo bay, most strategic of all Japan's waterways, 15 transport planes were scheduled to take off from Okinawa with a light landing force for Atsugi to get that base 18 miles from downtown Tokyo ready for General MacArthur and his airborne forces Thursday.

MacArthur announced that one day after his arrival at Atsugi, the U. S. Eighth Army veterans of the long Philippines campaign will begin swarming ashore at Yokohama, Tokyo's port, and at Tateyamahojo on the peninsula guarding the eastern entrance to Tokyo bay.

Other Landings

Their way will be secured by 10,000 Marines and bluejackets, who will seize control of the bay's huge naval base of Yokosuka and three adjacent island fortresses Thursday while at least 7,500 air borne troops are arriving at Atsugi.

Associated Press correspondent Murlin Spencer reported from aboard a troop transport that ships carrying American and British ocupation forces entered Sagami bay behind the warships and anchored nearby.

The Japanese will affix their signatures to the act of surrender in Tokyo bay aboard the Battleship Missouri Sept. 2 and one day later all the emperor's far-flung armies will have surrendered or will be in the process of capitulation.

Planes Sweep Skies

More than 1,200 carrier planes swept the skies over the Tokyo area yesterday as Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet and units of the British Pacific fleet poked into Sagami bay and anchored two miles off shore near famed Fujiyama.

Immediately mine sweepers were dispatched to clear 400 miles from Uraga strait linking Sagami with Tokyo bay. The shores of the strait bristled with 116 heavy-caliber guns which must be disarmed.

Two hours earlier, Japanese emissaries in a bomb damaged destroyer—symbolic of how the once-mighty enemy fleet had fallen — had made contact with Halsey's fleet and boarded his flagship, the Missouri.

The admiral who had a leading role in breaking Japan's naval power did not condescend to meet the envoys, who got their orders instead from his chief of staff, Rear Adm. Robert B. Carney.

Japs Are Warned

"Any violence or resistance by the Japanese will be held to be a mutinous act against the orders of the emperor and will be dealt with in force," Carney told them.

The first force to enter Tokyo bay was placed under the command of Rear Adm. Oscar C. Badger, who as a young gunnery officer of the Pacific fleet directed American relief for this same area in the Yokohama earthquake of 1923.

Sailors and Marines lined the decks to get their first good view of Japan. Correspondents with the fleet estimated hundreds of Japanese lined the shore, getting an eyeful of such dreadnaughts as the Missouri and the Iowa and the British Battleship Duke of York, flagship of Adm. Sir Bruce Fraser, commander of the British Pacific fleet.

Activity On Okinawa

To the south on Okinawa, there were feverish preparations to get 350 Army transport planes and bombers into the air for Thursday's big overwater hop with the heavily-armed occupation forces.

The job of the first slim band of American troops and experts landing at Atsugi today was complex, said Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Davis at Okinawa.

MarArthur told Japan that an advance air party would land Sept. 3 at Kanoya, on Kyushu, to get that southernmost home island ready for occupation.

Davis said that in the opinion of observers on Okinawa, the occupation of northern Japan would be a gradual process and it probably would take five months for American forces to reach maximum strength which some estimates have placed at 500,000.

An immediate march on Tokyo was unlikely, Davis reported, in view of a request by the imperial government to withhold a crossing of the Tama river, the capital's southern boundary, until all Japanese troops within the city are disarmed.

Japs Disarm Everywhere

All over the Pacific and westward to Burma, the monumental task of disarming the Japanese armies sped forward.

A dispatch from Rangoon said the formal surrender might be signed Sept. 2 at Singapore, the great British naval base overwhelmed by Japan early in the war.

English Girls Stage Mob Scene When U.S. Negro Soldiers Leave

LONDON, Aug. 27. (U.P.)—Young women in Bristol staged a near mob scene when they heard that several companies of American negro troops were leaving Bristol to return to the United States, according to the Sunday Pictorial.

"The scene was Bristol, most English of all English cities," the Pictorial said in a page one story. "The time was 2 a. m. yesterday. The actors were a mob of screaming girls, aged 17 and 25.

"Their hysteria was caused by news that four companies of American negro soldiers in the city were leaving for home. Girls besieged the barracks where the soldiers were and began singing 'Don't Fence Me In.'

"This was too much for the colored men who began to break down barbed wire surrounding their quarters. In a few minutes hundreds of girls and U. S. soldiers were kissing and embracing.

"And later approaches to the railway station from which the troops were leaving echoed with the shouts and sobs of girls who thronged the pavements."

B. H. Howard Dies At His Home Here

B. H. Howard, 88, of 1414 Ave. M, a resident of the South Plains for the last 32 years and former judge in Crosby county, died early this morning at his residence.

Howard, who had been living in Lubbock for seven years, suffered a stroke about a week ago and had been very ill since that time, reports indicated.

Survivors include his widow; seven sons, including Postmaster Amos Howard of Lubbock; six daughters; fifteen grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed at 1:30 o'clock this morning, Rix Funeral home reported.

renely past bristling big guns that stood silent and immobilized in accordance with Halsey's orders to the Japanese.

The 45,000-ton Battleship Missouri, aboard which the formal surrender articles are to be signed Sunday, still rode at anchor in Sagami bay, 20 miles around Mirua peninsula from Tokyo bay and only nine miles south of Atsugi airport where the first troops had landed.

Two U. S. Planes Land At Shanghai

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Tuesday, Aug. 28.—Two U. S. Strategic Air forces planes carrying correspondents and press officers landed at this great Chinese city shortly after 10 a. m. today.

A great cheering throng greeted us. Uncertain of the status of the airfields so lately run by the Japanese military, we landed alongside a paved highway.

Told Reception Awaits

Japanese officers emerged from the quickly-gathered crowd of Chinese and ordered us to take off immediately.

They said we should proceed to a regular airdrome where a reception was awaiting us.

We protested that we preferred to remain where we were rather than risk an additional landing, but we finally flew to the airfield.

First man to land was Capt. Sanford Moats in a Mustang. Our big B-17 followed after Moats had landed safely.

Chinese at the field said the Chinese Army had completed occupation of Shanghai Monday night.

this federal corporation would have had as much as 500,000,000 pounds on hand by the year's end.

Uncle Sam Takes Loss

If the price is cut as anticipated, the government would pocket the loss. Reliable wool sources here said the prices paid to American wool growers would not be dropped this year and probably would prevail through 1946. In effect, this would become a federal subsidy.

Wool traders who have been operating independently have turned to Australia, New Zealand, South African and South American growers rather than pay the higher CCC price of as much as 20 cents a pound.

In the first 20 days of August, however, 3,402 government contracts with an overall value of $253,103,609 were cancelled.

Marshall Minister Is Buried At Mesquite

DALLAS, Aug. 27. (U.P.)—Funeral services for the Rev. W. E. Martin of Marshall were held Sunday at the First Christian church in Mesquite.

Martin died Friday after suffering a heart attack while holding a revival meeting at Como, near Sulphur Springs.

He was ordained a minister at the First Christian church in Mesquite 25 years ago and had held pastorates at New Hope, Garland, Plano, Sulphur Springs and Marshall, and was minister at the First Christian church of Carthage, at the time of his death.

the battle of the Philippines, ordered his troops to cease fighting in the Philippines.

The surrender of Japanese armies in China was scheduled to take place Sept. 3 at the pre-war capital of Nanking, which Chungking sources said their forces already had occupied along with the huge southern port of Canton.

Naval headquarters at Guam reported that Japanese garrisons on six by-passed Pacific islands, including the naval fortress of Truk, had agreed to surrender on word of the Tokyo capitulation.

Gliders Vacated Ahead Of Storm

All gliders of Bergstrom Army Air field at Austin were moved Monday morning as a precaution against high winds heading in the Gulf-hurricane belt, and 25 of them—towed by C-46 and C-47 transports—had landed and been tied down at Lubbock Army Air field by 5 p. m.

Mayor O. W. Ribble of Lubbock was informed in Houston Sunday noon, when Essair Line, Inc., moved its trip 4 Lockheed 10A airliner out two hours ahead of schedule on the north run to Amarillo on the return trip of its inaugural flight with West Texas representatives aboard, that the line had evacuated its other airliners from Houston to San Angelo and that Ellington field, Houston, had sent its planes to Hobbs, N. M. Weather was closing in rapidly at that time.

Others Leave Monday

Two Essair liners flew out of Houston again Monday to get out of the storm's expected path, it war learned.

Other craft, private, commercial and Army, moved out of Houston Sunday, Mayor Ribble and his group were informed.

The West Texans, guests of Essair, had flown to Houston Saturday. They were greeted by officials and airline officials of the various cities en route, were guests of Essair in a reception at the Rice hotel in Houston, and landed on schedule after making up the schedule in San Angelo by a two-hour wait. The flights—both south and north—were smooth and uneventful.

Amarillo, Lubbock, Abilene and Houston representatives were on the return flight.

Sino-Russian Pact

derneath the surface here that the Russians might seek to retain physical possession of all or part of Manchuria or might otherwise seek political penetration of Chinese areas in sharp conflict with American policies and American interest.

United States policy calls for the development of China as a powerful nation and the keystone of peace in the Far East.

The terms of the treaty announced yesterday strongly indicate that this is Russia's policy also.

Byrnes today termed the Russian-Chinese treaty "an important step forward" in relations between the two countries.

Kept Fully Informed

"We were kept informed of the progress of the deliberations in Moscow and we welcome this development as a practical example of the continuing unity and mutual helpfulness which should characterize the acts of members of the United Nations in peace as well as in war," Byrnes said.

Most significant provisions of the treaty are those calling for withdrawal of Russian troops from Manchuria within a short time, and for full support of the Chungking government by the government at Moscow, which knocks the props from under the Communist group in China insofar as any revolutionary activities are concerned.

Undoubtedly this is one of the facts which prompted the Communist leader Mao Tze-Tung to agree to go to Chungking for conferences which are believed here to offer a real hope of Chinese unification.

Japs In Singapore Area To Surrender

RANGOON, Aug. 27. (U.P.) — Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's Southeast Asia command and Japanese officers were expected to sign a "local agreement" tonight that presumably will end all hostilities in the area and clear the way for British occupation of Singapore.

At Melbourne, Maj. Gen. Desmond Harrison, head of the British army mission from the Southeast Asia command, announced that advanced Allied units were expected to enter Singapore on Sept. 1.

The official document contains no surrender terms, but was described merely as an agreement "on behalf of the two theater commanders." It was believed to be a written guarantee for peace until the four-day conference, which was said to be proceeding smoothly, can be completed.

(That such an agreement was needed was evidenced by Radio Singapore's report that defiant Japanese, refusing to bow to their emperor's imperial rescript, were looting and running wild in the former great British naval base.)

Cattle Pouring Into Kansas Stockyards

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 27. (U.P.)—Grass-fat cattle pouring from the grazing lands of Kansas and Oklahoma gave promise today of a return of beef steaks and roasts to the nation's dining tables as cattle receipts at the stockyards here reached an estimated total of 30,000 head.

The run was the largest of the season to date but stockyards officials said that it constituted only a foretaste of shipments which normally do not reach a peak until October.

Approximately 40 per cent of the cattle which jammed into the corrals were stocker and feeder kinds—destined for further fattening in feed lots before the slaughter sends them to the country's butcher shops.

Of today's receipts, some 2,000 head were on direct consignment. The remaining 28,000 up for sale on the open market. Last year's peak in salable cattle receipts on the exchange here came Oct. 30, when almost 35,000 head were brought in for trading.

DEMAND SPURS STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—Investment demand lifted industrial stocks to eight-year peaks in today's market as peacetime prosperity hopes again spurred buyers.

Rising prices on sizeable volume appeared at the start. There were subsequent let-downs in both activity and trends. Rails, indifferent the greater part of the proceedings, joined the procession in the final half-hour. Closing gains of fractions to two points or so were widespread with a few wider jumps in evidence. Transfers totalled 1,570,000 shares compared with 1,320,000 Friday and were the largest since Aug. 10.

Relaxation of business control all along the line and the expectation of big consumer spending when reconversion is accomplished still worked in favor of bullish forces. Motors, steels, rubbers, chemicals and aviations maintained popularity.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .9 of a point at 66.8 against a year's high of 68.2. The industrial average rose 1.3 points to 89.7, a top since Sept. 4, 1937. It was a broad market, 979 issues registering. Of these, 719 advanced, 118 declined and 143 were unchanged.

Prominent shares in the front ranks included Chrysler, General Motors, Studebaker, Graham-Paige, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Montgomery Ward, Philip Morris, American Telephone, Pullman, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, and Southern Pacific.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—Cotton futures turned reactionary in late dealings today under pressure of hedge selling against more active buying of spt cotton in the primary markets. aFilure of early mill demand to follow through and easiness in grains contributed to the decline and encouraged aggressive selling by New Orleans and locals. Final prices were at the lows of the day to show a range of 15 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower.

Trade buying and short covering rallied prices as much as 75 cents a bale in early dealings. It was reported that Spain had accepted offers of 3,000 bales of cotton for September and October shipment.

Traders followed with interest the hurricane reports in the Texas coastal areas for possible damage to the cotton crop. However, a large amount of the crop has already been harvested in the area so far affected.

Roosevelt Loan

by telephone with the late President at Warm Springs, Ga., and Mr. Roosevelt expressed appreciation that Hartford was considering a loan to his son.

On Aug. 1, Brig. Gen. Roosevelt, second son of the President, issued a statement saying that any implication that his father "promoted or assisted" his son's affairs was a lie."

According to a committee member Jesse Jones deposition related that the President, some months following the loan by Hartford, called Jones in and asked him to straighten out Elliott Roosevelt's affairs.

It was reported that Jones settled the $200,000 Hartford loan for $4,000. The ways and means committee ordered an inquiry when reports were published that Hartsford had listed the alleged $196,000 owed by Roosevelt as a bad debt deduction in his personal income tax return.

Hurricane Moves Toward Houston

Port Lavaca reported that there were tremendous rains and that within eight to ten miles of the town the low coastal plain appeared covered with water.

Brownsville and nearby Port Isabel, at the lower tip of the Texas coast felt strong winds from the storm's fringes Saturday night, but suffered little damage. Two fishermen lost their lives at Port Isabel when their boat capsized.

South Area Undamaged

The 125-mile stretch between Brownsville and Corpus Christi, location of the famous King ranch, likewise suffered little damage, though drenched with torrential rains.

The storm interrupted power facilities at Victoria for a time, and the Victoria Daily Advocate suspended publication for the day because of the interruption.

Joe Fletcher, assistant director of the department of public safety, said at Austin that 20 additional highway patrolmen had been called in from over the state for emergency duty in the hurricane area.

They were reporting to Public Safety Director Homer Garrison at Houston for assignment.

Public buildings at Bay City were filled with refugees, and emergency rescue units were ready for action. Many will sleep in the court house, jail, city hall, and churches tonight. Some residents moved from Bay City further north.

The Hug-the-Coast highway was reported mostly under water.

Rail Service Affected

The Missouri Pacific crack Sunshine Special, arriving at 3:20 p. m. in Houston from St. Louis, was held here this afternoon after reports reached Houston that heavy winds were raging between Houston and Galveston.

Railroad officials said the lines passenger train No. 12 from Corpus Christi was waterbound in the coastal region 100 miles south of here, in the vicinity of Blessing. The train had been due in Houston at 6:40 p. m. and because of disrupted communications had been unable to locate it. The state highway patrol reported the train's plight by radio. All freight equipment at Galveston was being rushed from the island to inland yards.

A report from Brownsville said that only one of six coastal freighters caught along the Mexican coast during the hurricane were still unreported.

H. M. Ferguson, Brownsville port official, said that the Kent County, overdue since noon Friday from Panuco, Mexico, arrived at Brownsville today.

Storm Overtakes One

The steamer Hibou left Brownsville Thursday, hit the storm, turned before it, and made Port Aransas, where the storm again overtook her. The steamers Vera Cruz and Amendra both reached Tampico safely after plowing through the storm fringe. The steamer Kenozha remained in the port of Brownsville, and did not sail as originally reported.

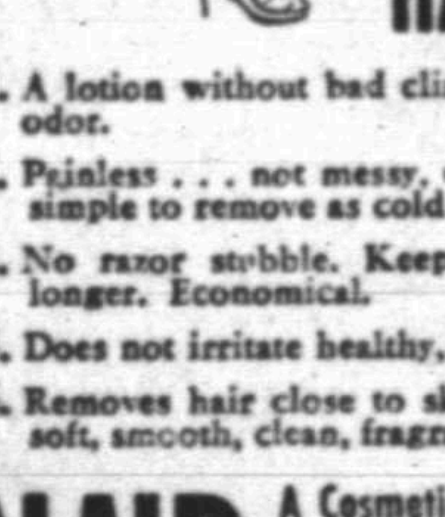

Ferguson said the only missing vessel was the Princess Arlene, which had been reported erroneously as the Prince of New Orleans. No alarm for the vessel's safety was felt.

All are vessels engaged in the coastwise banana trade.

Things Happen Fast When Cars Collide

Things happened when two automobiles collided about 5:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Twenty-sixth and Ave. P.

A cross-arm supporting six wires of two 2300-volt circuits was snapped out of position by impact of one of the cars with the light pole, "rolling them up and snapping off air switches in the plant;"

Light and power service was disrupted from Ave. G to Ave. P, and in the southern and northwestern parts of town;

Approximately 10 water wells in Arnett-Benson addition "went out;"

And all Rural Electricfication administration lines in Lubbock and Hale county were de-energized.

Forty-five minutes of hard work put service back in operation.

The cars were driven by Dorman E. Shaw, 22, of 1916 Fourteenth and by J. A. Roberts, 22, of 1515 Twenty-eighth, said Sgt. Bill Lamb of the police traffic department.

Crosby Jury Probes Lonnie Hillin Death

CROSBYTON, Aug. 27. (Special.)—A 72nd district court grand jury will go into its second day of deliberation here Tuesday, among its work a probe of the recent death of Lonnie Hillin, 30-year-old son of Crosby County Sheriff and Mrs. Roy Hillin.

The jury, of which F. M. Brixey is foreman, is expected to report today, court official said.

Alleged rape of a 16-year-old Lorenzo negro girl by two white youths and a burglary case against Jesse Allen, negro discharged war veteran, comprises other charges being investigated by the body. Allen is accused of breaking into the residence July 28 of Wilbert Ellison in Crosbyton. He is also suspected of having unlawfully entered the same day a Crosbyton hotel and the residence of Annie Mae Burrous.

Young Hillin's body was found in a bar ditch west of Crosbyton about 24 hours after he had been slugged on the head at a poker game in Crosbyton. Ruel Griffin, also of Crosbyton, has been held without bail in the Lubbock county jail under a charge of murder in connection with the death.

The jury was re-assembled out of a May term grand jury panel which had been dismissed by Judge Dan Blair. District Attorney Burton S. Burks is assisting the jury.

Carrier Enterprise Hit By Suicide Plane

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (U.P.)—The Navy revealed today that the aircraft carrier Enterprise, damaged 15 times by enemy hits and near misses, was hit by a Japanese suicide plane last May 14.

The last action forced Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher, then commander of Task Force 58, to move his staff a second time inside a few days.

His first flagship, the Bunker Hill, was damaged just before the Enterprise received the hit that sent her back for repairs.

The attack killed 13 crew members and wounded another 67.

The skipper of the ship, Capt. G. B. H. Hall, of Annapolis, Md., said the ship could have stayed and operated at 80 per cent efficiency, but "We were due for overhaul and the fleet didn't need us, so we came back."

The attack took place during a raid on Kyushu, Japanese home island, the morning of May 14.

France Seeks U. S. Aid

How Far Should We Go For Her?

ONE thing that General Charles De Gaulle is certain to have discussed with President Truman, during his current visit here, is Indo-China.

France is anxious to obtain assurance from the President that the United States will raise no barriers to the restoration of French sovereignty in the Southeast Asia colony. French suspicions are said to have been aroused by rumors that the other great powers might demand a trusteeship status for Indo-China, or that the United States might demand naval bases there.

While it is impossible to predict the policy that the United States may decide to pursue, President Truman has expressed himself as strongly in favor of acquiring world-wide strategic bases—springboards that might at some future time be useful in defending the United States from attack.

Indo-China, which is one-third larger than France herself, is strategically located. It has a population of 25 million—approximately one-third that of the French empire—and its territory is rich in agricultural and mineral resources.

It has been a leading exporter of rice and is a producer of rubber, anthracite coal, iron ore, timber, tin, phosphates, tungsten, manganese, bauxite, and other materials. But these resources have never been fully developed and industry has not been encouraged. Approximately 90 per cent of the people are peasants.

French interests began to penetrate Indo-China 150 years ago, and in between wars, France was accused of oppressing the natives. In fact the natives are reported to have welcomed the Japanese when Jap forces occupied the country in 1940 and 1941.

Trying to woo the natives back to French rule, the French Committee of National Liberation on Dec. 8, 1943 promised Indo-China "a new political status within the French community." France now plans to make the colony a part of the French Federal Union. Indo-China would, under this arrangement, have a representative body and limited legislative powers.

Favorably as the United States may view France's present plans in regard to Indo-China, that colony's easy capitulation to Japanese demands in 1940 and 1941 endangered the United States and Great Britain. These events demonstrated haw vital, Indo-China is to American security.

Therefore, this nation may go slow in giving De Gaulle the assurance he seeks, despite the fact that France has recently authorized the payment of $17 a month in French money to all United States troops on duty in France.

France, which charged us for the use of trenches and equipment used by American troops in fighting the Germans in World War I, is now trying to win friends.

Will De Gaulle get all he seeks from us now?

Support For Our Defenses

RAY TUCKER, in his National Whirligig column today, calls attention to the need of the United States planting "the Stars and Stripes more or less permanently on the Pacific archipelago stretching from Alaska to Australia and bordering on the shores of Japan."

It is a thought that deserves the attention of every American citizen, whose concern for the national security of this country, extends into the future. For there can be no question but what the far-flung islands of the Pacific are destined to be vital to America's defense in the years to come.

Yet, despite the value of these islands to our strategic defense, there will come a time when the political exponents of economy and pacifism will cry out against the expense of maintaining such military bases. They will be as vociferous as were certain Congressmen in opposing the fortification of Guam.

They will argue: "We must not disturb Russia or excite Japan by fortifying these bases. We must do nothing to create suspicion and distrust. We must cultivate goodwill and do nothing to betray the fear that we are preparing a defense against attacks."

Despite the fact that we have witnessed the futility of appeasement in the war just ended, we may listen to these siren-voiced pacifists and advocates of a reduced program of national defense. We may even forget what our failure to fortify Guam cost us, or we may not recall that Allied error, following World War I, when we gave German-owned islands in the Pacific to Japan.

But we must never forget the price our American boys have paid in blood and sweat to regain these strategic islands in the Pacific. If we fail to hold and fortify them for our future national security, we have not learned one of the important lessons of this war—"Be prepared."

One-Minute Sermon

He that saith he is in the light and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now.

He that loveth his brother abideth in the light and there is none occasion of tumbling in him.

But he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.—1. John 2; 9 through 11.

Hearts Bleed Longest

By Doris Hume

(Copyright, 1945, NEA Service, Inc.)

tween Thayer and Brock's mother flares into open antagonism with his return. Mrs. Kittridge has arranged a small sleeping room for Brock on the first floor so that he won't have to climb the stairs.

They were alone, she and Brock. Her heart beat heavily and her throat felt tight. She found she was trembling and held herself stiffly to conceal it.

Brock let himself down into the chair as if he no longer had the strength to remain standing. Clear to her mind came remembrance of how he used to stand in that lightly-balanced way of his. She remembered—dear Lord what a time to be remembering—the coordinated grace of their dancing together. An agony of feeling swept her. "Brock . . .

"I make a helluva mess of getting around," Brock said harshly, and the tight-lipped grimace of his smile tore at her.

"Brock, anything takes practice." Oh, she shouldn't have said that; he seemed to pounce upon the words.

"Practice! Well, I ought to get good—with the rest of my life to spend at it."

He had placed the crutches so that they stuck out beside him like a barrier, his injured leg was on the other side. She said unsteadily, You're back, Brock; that's everything that matters."

"Is it?" His gaze swept her then dropped to the injured leg. The voice controlled, almost emotionless, did not sound like Brock's at all. "You know what I thought—when I found—what had happened to me?"

"What?" Thayer asked eagerly. If he'd talk to her, if this wall between them would go down. "Tell me, Brock."

He was running nervous fingers up and down the polished wood of one of the crutches. Then he gripped the chair arms hard so that his knuckles stood out. "I thought, 'What a rotten break for Thayer.' He looked at her with the eyes of a stranger. "Yeah, give me credit for it; that's what I thought."

It was a door slamming in her face. Her hands which had moved involutarily toward him dropped back to her sides.

"Brock ,are you trying to hurt me? Is that what I've waited for?"

"A guy with one leg, is that what you've waited for? Don't go noble, Thayer. I know it's a jolt to you. I saw all of you there at the airport looking over the wreckage." He said grimly, "I heard Pete Grimshaw yelling into old Hattie's deaf ear. 'The poor devil' he said. Well, the rest of you were thinking it." He cried savagely, "I don't want pity ,anybody's pity. I don't want yours, Thayer; I couldn't bear it."

"I never thought to pity you, Brock."

He hitched himself around to face her more directly. "Anything about me to remind you of the man you were married to for a week?" Terrible demand in his voice. "Come on ,be honest."

Thayer felt her heart turn over. Between them there must be honesty, now if ever. "No," she said, "that man wouldn't have been sorry for himself."

"So that's the way you feel?"

"Oh, Brock, don't you see"—her voice shook—"it isn't your injury that matters; it's only that you let it matter."

"Sure, I come home half a man and it doesn't matter."

"Brock, I didn't say that. Let's not talk any more now, let's not say—the wrong things . . ."

"Maybe now we'll be speaking the truth; maybe later we won't. I've got to get this said, Thayer." His eyes were dark, suffering. "Look, I put no claim on you, Thayer; I hold you to nothing . . ."

She could bear no more. The words were a cry wrung from her. "Brock, have you forgotten Drumhead Hill?"

His face was a brittle thing that shattered as she watched. His arms went around her waist, his face was pressed hard against her, he was crying, his whole body wrenched with sobs. She cradled his head, stroking back his hair, feeling his forehead damp with sweat. She was tearless. She felt the anguish of pity and a fierce protectiveness that seemed torn from the very core of her being. It rose in her like a fire which would fan at least into the hotter flame of passion.

Through the house without warning sounded the deep summons of a gong. Startled as if by human intrusion Brock and Thayer drew apart. It meant only that dinner was in five minutes, but the thought careened through Thayer's mind that it was signalling Time up on their privacy.

They did not look at each other. Thayer spoke first. It was as if she wanted to shield Brock from having to face her after his breakdown. The moment that might have brought them together lay shattered. Her action was instinctive, beyond her explanation. "That's for dinner. I'll go freshen up; you'll want to, too. Emma will have outdone herself."

Words. Bright ballast to tip things back to normalcy.

"Sure, good old Emma." Brock's voice a little gruff, but steady. Thayer touched his shoulder lightly. "I'll be down in a minute."

Upstairs reaction set in. Three times her shaking fingers smudged the lipstiek. Deep in her mind was a formless anger against Mrs. Kittridge. She shied away from it. She kept saying to herself, "Everything is going to be all right." She told herself. There are others going through this; I'm not the only one. Everywhere men were coming home whom war had changed, home to girls ignorant of the harsh mold that had refashioned their men. If only she'd known Brock a little better, a little longer. . . .

WRECK INJURIES FATAL

AUSTIN, Aug. 27 (U.P.)—Thomas O. Sherrill, 42, Austin's eighth traffic mishap victim of the year, was buried today at Cook's Point, near Caldwell. Sherrill died late yesterday from injuries received when the car in which he was riding overturned after skidding on wet pavement.

Adult moths do not eat—the larvae, or eggs, destroy materials.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

THE last three days have given me an example of what can become of a human being when he becomes too self-centered.

The first afternoon our water supply went out. My wife turned on the faucet in the kitchen, but instead of water she got nothing but a few gurgles, spits and hisses —and then nothing.

Late in the evening we got hold of the fellow who does our all-around-handy-work. He fooled around with the tank in the morning, but nothing happened.

Yesterday our handy man had to go to the annual clambake of the Brookfield Fire department, so we were without any water at all.

BRANDEIS

Since we could not do any cooking we decided to go out for dinner. We got out the car and went about a mile, when, all of a sudden, there was a noise like a gun-shot — a blowout.

I changed tires in the heat of the afternoon sun, and this morning, when I tried to start my car, the battery was dead, and I had to wait two hours before the fellow from the garage came to put his "booster" on it. Then he informed me very calmly that two cells had gone dry and that I needed a new battery.

Naturally I felt that the whole world was against me.

I barked at everybody who came near me, including my wife and Deuce, the dog, and I certainly was about as mean a cuss as you would ever have the misfortune to meet.

When I made some particularly nasty crack at my wife, she very calmly said:

"You have no idea how I sympathize with you. And I just bet you those fellows over in Halloran hospital who lost their eyes and their arms and their legs would feel very sorry for you, too, if they knew about your terrible misfortune."

THAT woke me up with a start. The water pipe busted, a flat tire and a dead battery!

What is that compared with those terrible sufferings thousands and thousands of our boys underwent?

You and I and a lot of us do so much kicking about such insignificant little things.

We ought to be ashamed of ourselves.

My water pipe has been fixed. My new battery is functioning fine. My tire has been vulcanized.

But legs and arms and eyes lost —even though peace has come, can never be replaced.

The trouble with most of us is that "I" is spelled with a capital i instead of a very, very small one.

Our Need For Defenses

"Pacific Territory" Suggested

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE UNPUBLISHED portions of the House Naval Affairs subcommittee's report on retention of island bases in the Pacific constitute one of the most important and long-range documents that has been submitted to the Congress on the subject of a permanent national defense system

Looking far into the future, it proposes a seemingly invulnerable chain of fortifications in this troubled sector of the globe. It appears to recognize that any future threat to international peace and security must arise somewhere in the Far West and Southwestern Pacific. In this respect it coincides with the belief of our High Command, who figure that the wasted nations of Europe will not be able to wage a major war for at least another 50 years.

TUCKER

In suggesting that we plant the Stars and Stripes more or less permanently on a Pacific archipelago stretching from Alaska to Australia, and bordering on the shores of Japan, China and an expanded Russia, the investigating legislators naturally raise the question in their own and other folks' minds of the identity of a prospective enemy in that part of the world.

Why, Washington asks, is it necessary for the United States to undertake such a far-flung and costly policing assignment?

FOES? Here are a few answers to that understandable query:

Despite the spirit of peace now hovering over the world, (?) and despite the noble aspirations of the United Nations Charter, there are four possible foes or combinations of hostile powers against which the United States must safeguard its western coast and possessions.

Realistic and long-range considerations for the nation's permanent safety demand a hard-boiled study of belligerent potentialities to the East, where it took us more than three years to force the island empire of Japan to her knees. World conditions and necessities and alliances can change overnight, as Global War II demonstrated, and the subcommittee's demand for affirmative, aggressive action in this area is based on this realization.

The three potential enemies are (1) Russia, (2) a revived Japan, (3) a powerful, united, modernized and self-conscious China and (4) a holy uprising against continued white domination by the more than a billion people of India, China and what the imperialistic Kipling called "lesser breeds without the law."

These fears may seem fantastic now, but so did Germany's comeback under Hitler, the Japs' swift and almost unopposed seizure of many of the land mentioned in the report and the atomic bomb that ended the conflict. For once, it appears that some men on Capitol Hill are looking a bit beyond their noses in so far as permanent national security is concerned.

Had we possessed these Army-Navy-Air citadels in 1941, or had we fortified the Philippines, Guam, Wake and other islands in accordance with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's program, it is probable that Japan would not have dared to attack us. Thus, from a long-range viewpoint, this as document for the preservation of peace rather than an incitement to make war.

INVESTMENTS: The subcommittee, in the confidential section of its recommendations, minced no words in urging that the United States retain control of potential aerial and naval bases on territory once mandated to Japan or owed by our Anglo-Dutch-French Allies.

Talks with native leaders, foreign businessmen and our occupying forces convinced them that only Uncle Sam has sufficient strength to hold and build a fortified frontier from the North to the South Poles.

The Japs' easy conquest of Malaya, including the supposed bastion of Singapore, of French Indo-China and of the Dutch East Indies furnished proof that European powers neglected their defenses in this area, and may do so again.

London, Amsterdam and Paris viewed these lands merely as good financial investments. They neither colonized nor cultivated the natives. Their commanding officers were elderly, easygoing men who could handle cocktails better than troops or shore defenses.

DIVIDENDS: Native leaders expressed a strong desire for American protection. They contrasted the indifference of the local Burmese, Javanese and Malayans to Japanese invasion with the fierce resistance which the Filipinos offered, and the invaluable aid they gave MacArthur during the siege of Corregidor and upon his return. Our Philippines policy, with its promise of eventual freedom, paid rich dividends.

One subcommittee member, Hawaiian Delegate Joseph R. Farrington, has advanced a novel form of government. He suggests that a new "Territory of the Pacific" be organized, to include the Marianas, the Marshalls and the Carolines, with Guam as the capital.

Iwo Jima and Okinawa, in his opinion, should be turned over to us as trustees. Bases in Dutch, French and British areas could be acquired by long-term lease, as have been the Atlantic bases which Britain gave us in the 50 destroyer swap.

These proposed holdings will have great economic value in the field of international aviation. England controlled world commerce because she possessed coaling stations for her ships around the globe. The U. S. will need faraway landing and fueling fields in the coming struggle for commercial air leadership.

SUCCESS: The lovable John J. Cochran of St. Louis now boasts good-naturedly that the best way for a man on Capitol Hill to go places in politics or government is to take a legislative course under his leadership. Some years ago the Missouri member became chairman of a Joint Congressional Reorganization committee when its original head, the late Sen. Joe Robinson of Arkansas, died. It is quite unusual for a representative to head such a body.

Cochran bossed three up-and-coming youngsters, and, being a man of blunt words, he often told them where to get off or go. Now he is quite proud of his erstwhile pupil's progress. They took his advice and went places. One happens to be Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. Another is Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson. A third is Lindsay C. Warren, Controller-general.

The veteran Missourian is thinking of organizing a school to instruct young men in "How to Make Good in Public Life." But he won't include in his advertising matter the fact that he was once defeated in a senatorial primary by a smart boy named Harry Truman!

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN: Gov. Coke R. Stevenson—"The Pipe"—has many persons puzzled by the rings he blows from that pipe.

Will he run again for governor in 1946. Will he run for the State Supreme court? Will he retire from politics?

He has been asked all these questions in more or less direct fashion and only puffs away at his pipe in response. Nearest he has come to an answer is the statement that he is "not in politics." That does not say he will not be, nor does it eliminate a judgeship, which technically, at the least ,is supposed to have no political angle.

Stevenson was inaugurated Governor of Texas on Aug. 8, 1941, succeeding to the governorship from the lieutenant governor's office when W. Lee O'Daniel became U. S. senator. Even without another term he will have the longest continuous term of any chief executive of the state.

Should he yield to wishes of some of his friends and become a candidate in 1946, the voting would have to change amazingly to prevent his winning for he got about 86 per cent of the total vote in his last race.

Third Army Troops Have Real Discipline

The War's Still On For Patton!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Thomas L. Stokes, one of The Morning Avalanche's top correspondents in Washington, is enjoying a brief vacation. During his absence, his space will be filled by Bill Cunningham, former Texan and lately a nationally known sports writer, commentator, war correspondent and magazine author; and by other outstanding writers.)

By BILL CUNNINGHAM
Special Correspondent

BAD TOLZ, Bavaria — This is the headquarters of Gen. Patton's Third Army, and you don't have to wonder where you are when you reach it. Signs prominently posted on every entering road say, "Third Army Area. Wear Your Helmets. Stay In Uniform." This is strictly a spit-and-polish area.

Not all the GI's like it. Some who wander in from other outfits dressed as fancy, or the warm weather, dictates, and who promptly find themselves tossed in the pokey think it's simply terrible. But the outfit is strictly the projection of the personality of the famed fire-eater who bosses it, Gen. George S. Two-Gun, Hellfire and Brimstone, Patton, jr.

There's still a war on where this gentleman is concerned. There are Germans to impress and the mien of conquerors to maintain. From my observation, it's regrettable that the entire U. S. Army in Germany isn't ordered to adopt the same attitude. This regimented herd we've beaten react to and respond only to hard-fisted discipline.

Patton Quotes Bible

I was complimenting the general on his Army's smartness in his office here on the second floor of what used to be the headquarters building of an SS officers training school. Wearing his full banks of ribbons, tall and trim as a quartermiler, he sat tilted back in his chair, his legs encased in riding boots and jack-knifed against the edge of his desk.

"Yes," he said, "its says somewhere in the Bible something about a man who is diligent in little things being able to take cities, or something like that. I believe in a soldier taking care of little things, keeping his helmet on, maintaining a military attitude, making himself look and act like a soldier. From there he can go on to be a soldier."

OBVIOUSLY for him the war isn't over, for he went on to explain that he'd never been busier. His men are now occupation troops, border-guarding troops, and they're spread all over Bavaria and down into Czechoslovakia and Austria. He said, "Wait a minute," and fished a couple of cards the size of postcards out of his breast pocket and counted the number of units now in his command. I won't repeat the number because it may rate as a security secret, but it's a lot of units and they're scattered over a lot of territory.

"We're holding maneuvers and reviews with every one of them," he said. "I haven't got a free day until well into August. We're holding the maneuvers to crystalize and to unify what we learned in the fighting, and likewise not to forget some of the lessons we learned. And we hold the reviews to show these Germans that they had no monopoly on military might, nor military discipline."

The general attends all these affairs personally.

Doesn't Want Cabinet Post

I asked him, near the end of our visit, about his future plans. His answer was that he'll stay in the Army until there's no chance of any more fighting and then he supposes he'll get out.

There were all sorts of rumors as to what he might do right while I was talking with him. At home, Representative Rankin had just resoundingly proposed General Patton for Secretary of War, it being generally understood that the aged Mr. Stimson is about to resign. Mr. Rankin scarcely rates as an ideal patron, but he's at least a Congressman and therefore he can propose.

"But," said the general flatly, "I do not know anything about the report and I don't want to be Secretary of War."

ASKED what he did want to do, he said, "I want to go sailing. When this is over, I want to go home and I've got a little boat —well she's not so little, either—she's 63 feet long. But Mrs. Patton, myself and one man can handle her. I want to get her out of storage, fix her up . . ."

"No," said the general. "Go sailing nowhere—just sailing. I can get enough provisions on her for a hundred days. I had a picture of her here yesterday. I'm sorry I threw it away. I'd like to show her to you. She's in Pawtucket now in the David shipyards.

The serious part of the general's talk was about the need for compulsory military training in the United States after the war. The fact that we always disarm and talk about peace and then wind up fighting another war is all the argument needed for the compulsory program, he said.

Slapped Two Soldiers

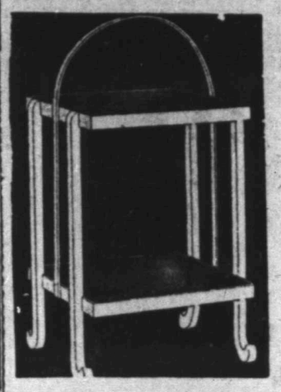

Somehow, we got on the unavoidable subject—the celebrated face-slapping incident —and the general said the true story never had been written right yet, and he gave a few details, including the fact that there were two soldiers instead of one. I asked him if he knew what ever became of them, and he said one went back to the front and made quite a record for himself.

"Some of the guys call Patton 'Our Blood and His Guts,' my jeep driver said, "but I've never seen one who wanted to get out of the outfit. That Fourth Armored was something. I jeeped with 'em. I know, and Patton was right up in there with 'em. Some of 'em crab him for being so strict, but you'll never hear one say that he isn't a soldier."

Funny Business

"I had 'em put on in case we got in close contact with the enemy!"

Resumption Of Trial Of Quisling Delayed

OSLO, Aug. 27 (U.P.) — The court and jury at the treason trial of former puppet premier Vidkun Quisling took a day off from the courtroom today to inspect Quisling's Gimle castle at Olsofjord and his "eagle nest" at Asker.

The prosecution has charged that Quisling bought and furnished the two residences with funds stolen from the public treasury and individual citizens.

Resumption of the trial was postponed to Wednesday after doctors recommended an extra day's rest for Quisling. They examined his brain to determine whether he was suffering from a brain tumor but were understood to have found nothing wrong.

Meantime, all trial testimony and documents were being translated into English for study by Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief American prosecutor of Nazi war criminals, in connection with the forthcoming trials of German war criminals.

War Workers Coming Back Home, Pockets Bulging With Greenbacks

(EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the saddest stories of the threadbare 37's was the straggling exodus of the "Okies" and "Arkies" from their farmlands, devastated by drouth and wind. They came to California in anything that would run on a highway. With the factories now closed by reconversion they are going home. So the United Press sent its Hollywood correspondent to a border inspection station on highway 66 at the California-Arizona line.)

By VIRGINIA MacPHERSON
United Press Correspondent

KINGMAN, Ariz., Aug. 27.—Thousands of migrant workers, who struggled hungry and broke into California a few years ago, are swarming back to Oklahoma and Arkansas—their pockets bulging with greenbacks.

They are part of the army of war workers who have lost their jobs by government cutbacks. But they're not worried. Eighty per cent of them have salted away enough cash to pay off the mortgage on their land in the dust bowl, or buy a farm, or put in new equipment.

Sailing Home in Style

And they're not going home in the same rattletrap flivvers that chugged them over the border and into West Coast war plants. Most of them are sailing home in style—in shiny, streamlined cars.

But they still have the family belongings piled on the top, or strapped on the running board, or jouncing behind in a trailer.

It's no unusual sight to see a fancy car with two or three mattresses on top—the sign of a "wealthy Okie." Usually the kitchen stove, the baby's high chair, and the pots and pans are clanking against the car's deluxe paint job.

The father of the family generally still wears his overalls, but this time there's real folding money in the pockets.

Exodus Has Doubled

"They're the same 'Okies' and 'Arkies' that came through here four years ago," said J. C. Fitzgerald, quarintine inspector at the California-Arizona border. "But they're richer ones now."

The exodus of workers through his station has doubled in the past few days. Before the end of the war and the cutback in workers about 2,328 people returned home daily.

One day I saw 5,760, headed for Oklahoma and Arkansas, pull in at the inspection station. Cars were lined along the highway as many as 48 at a time.

To Grow Bigger Daily

Fitzgerald says he expects the figure to get bigger every day.

I climbed on a couple hundred running boards to find out where they are going, how rich they were, and what they were going to do with all their money.

Ed Rhine, a toothless farmer, was going back to Arkansas and pay off the mortgage on his farm. His car was loaded down with Mrs. Rhine, Granny, five little Rhines, brother Rhine, and all the household belongings.

"We all worked but Granny and the two littlest," he grinned. "We'll be big shots when we get home, what with all this dough we got."

Had $5,000 in Cash

S. P. Bordman, an elderly welder who lost his Kaiser job in Richmond, Calif., was one of the few home-bound "Okies" who drove a truck instead of a shiny automobile.

"All us 'Okies' ain't fools," he said. "Saw this comin', so we didn't splurge on no fancy extras. look."

He opened a burlap bag and scooped out $5,000 in small bills.

A. W. Renfro, Fresno farm worker, was hauling behind his Ford convertible a battered trailer complete with wife, five kids, rocking chair, wash tub and pots and pans. Said yep, he'd saved money.

"But it ain't none of yore danged business what I'm gonna do with it," he snapped.

Can Still Buy Farm

Clyde Summers, jubilant over the savings of his three-year job as a Kaiser welder in Richmond, zoomed into the station, wet diapers flapping from the car windows. He saved enough, he said, to buy a new Buick, get his wife and three children fancy clothes, and still buy a big farm in Oklahoma.

"This California dough's good anywhere," he reckoned. Ma Summers had her feet soaking in a pan of water under the brakes. It was 114 in the shade.

Saved Nearly $100,000

But the record for the fabulous rise to riches goes to the H. V. Shoreman clan. Four years ago, with his wife, three grown sons, and daughter, he coaxed his pick-up truck from Oklahoma to Oakland and five shipyard jobs.

"Lived in an old chicken coop," Shoreman said. "Everybody worked and chipped in for the farm."

"And now looky here," he beamed, pulling out four battered boxes bulging with cash. "Almost $100,000 we got in thar."

I stared at piles of bills, ranging from $1,000 ones down to $100 greenbacks. He kept those "little ones" on top, he said, in case any should blow out. I saw 10 $1,000 bills in a quick flip of one of the boxes.

"And I'm headin' fer home now," he added. "The farm's all bought and just waitin' fer me to get thar and work it."

His new Plymouth was loaded down with beds, mattresses, quilts, pans, bicycles and the ever-present wash tub.

And that's how the "Okies" and "Arkies" are going home, triumphant, rich, and cluttered. The only thing they left behind in California, apparently, was the goats and the chickens they had tied to the running boards when they landed there.

SHIPS WON'T COLLIDE PLANES WON'T CRASH

. . . into unseen hazards when warned by RADAR

SAFE? OR COLLISION IN FOG? No longer need unseen dangers, lurking in fog or darkness, be the cause of a disaster at sea. Today radar sees through the fog, locates other ships, buoys, icebergs, derelicts, shorelines.

MOUNTAINS OR BUILDINGS AHEAD! Fog and bad weather will lose much of their terror with radar-equipped planes. Radar will warn the pilot of mountains, other planes and city skylines, help him to fly a safe course.

NOW, RADAR FOR COMMERCIAL SHIPS. On the bridge of "American Mariner," U. S. Maritime Service training ship, General Electric's new Electronic Navigator shows how radar can be used to help plot a safe course. This, we believe, is the first peacetime application of radar, demonstrated in the photo below.

RADAR SCREEN ON G-E ELECTRONIC NAVIGATOR

ILLUSTRATED ON THE GLASS SCREEN of the G-E Navigator are indications of points of land, ships, buoys, etc., picked up in the darkness by radar. By comparing the bright spots on the dark screen with charts of the area, the pilot knows not only his own position, but what is around him. Safe courses can be charted through fog and night in congested, ship-filled harbors.
